JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

STATE OF WASHINGTON
FORTIETH LEGISLATURE

FIRST DAY

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., Monday, January 9, 1967.
At Noon.

The Fortieth Senate of the state of Washington assembled at the Senate Chamber in the State Capitol, pursuant to law at noon.

Lieutenant Governor John A. Cherberg, President of the Senate, called the Senate to order.

The Color Guard consisting of Pages Michael Bailey, Color Bearer, and Barbara King, presented the Colors.

The Reverend Fr. Charles Howard Perry, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Jesus said, 'No servant can be slave to two masters; for either he will hate the first and love the second, or he will be devoted to the first and think nothing of the second. You cannot serve God and money. Therefore, I bid you put away anxious thoughts about food and drink to keep you alive, and clothes to cover your body. Set your mind on God's Kingdom and His justice before everything else, and all the rest will come to you as well. So do not be anxious about tomorrow; tomorrow will look after itself. Each day has troubles enough of its own.'" Matt. 6:24-25, 33-34.

"Let us pray: Most gracious God and our Heavenly Father, look, we pray thee, with favor upon the members of this Senate of the state of Washington and their colleagues in the House of Representatives as this legislature begins a new session. Favorably behold, we pray thee, the Governor of this State, all Constitutional officers including the President of this Senate and all who share in the responsibility of governing the people. May the members of this Senate have the humility and common sense needed to exercise so high an office and to defend the cause of the people of our State.

"In days of temptation and political pressure give them pause to consider that it is your kingdom that is everlasting, not the kingdoms of men. May they be your servants in thought, in heart and in will and may the justice they strive to create, through Law, be so patterned after your justice, with men that it may defend the poor and powerless even as it serves the legitimate needs of the rich and powerful. Grant to them the grace, O Father, to be Senators in more than name only and through their wise counsel one with the other may they bring to the people of this State a high regard for the political promises ordained to be used in this free land.

"Hear our prayer, O God, and let our cry come unto Thee, for we utter it in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

The Acting Secretary called the following roll of holdover members of the Senate and all were present except Senator Gissberg: Robert C. Bailey, Joe Chytil, John L. Cooney, Dewey C. Donohue, Frank W. Foley, Herbert H. Freise, William A. Gissberg, Wilbur G. Hallauer, H. B. Hanna, Al Henry, Karl Herrmann, James Keefe, Reuben A. Knoblauch, George W. Kupka, Ernest W. Lennart, Harry B. Lewis, Mike McCormack, Frances Haddon Morgan, Marshall A. Neill, Lowell Peterson, A. L. Rasmussen, Fred G. Redmon, Gordon Sandison, Don L. Talley.

On motion of Senator Keefe, Senator Gissberg was excused.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President of the Senate appointed a committee of honor to escort the Honorable Justice Frank Hale of the Supreme Court of the state of Washington to the Senate Chamber and a seat upon the rostrum. The committee consisted of Senators Herrmann and Freise.

Justice Hale was thereupon escorted by the Acting Sergeant at Arms and the special committee to a seat upon the rostrum.

The following recapitulation of votes cast at the general election and certificates of election from the Secretary of State were read by the Acting Secretary of the Senate:

MESSAGE TO THE GOVERNOR

January 3, 1967

*The Honorable Daniel J. Evans, Governor
State of Washington
Olympia, Washington.*

Re: Resignation from the State Senate

Your Excellency:

It has been my very great honor to have been appointed by yourself to serve as a member of the Washington State Liquor Control Board and to have accepted that position.

As you know, that position is by force of positive law incompatible with my elected office as Senator from the 48th Legislative District for the term commencing next Monday, January 9, 1967.

It is therefore with great regret at leaving my Senatorial office, but with pride at the appointment to my new office, that I herewith and hereby submit my resignation from the State Senate effective at 12:02 a.m. next Monday, January 9, 1967. Also, in order that it be indisputably clear that my said office is "vacant" as that term is used in the Constitution and the statutes of this State, and to the end that my successor can be duly appointed and orderly take office in my stead on that day, I herewith further state and declare that as of 12:02 a.m., Monday, January 9, 1967, I decline and refuse to take my oath of office as Senator from said district for the reason indicated.

I believe that it is very important to my district that my successor be sworn in at the same time as the six new elected Republican Senators on January 9, 1967, the first day of the Legislative session, in order that he will be their equal in seniority. Accordingly, I would be most hopeful that my successor can be nominated by the State Central Committee and appointed by joint action of the Boards of County Commissioners of King and Snohomish counties effective at 12:03 a.m. on January 9, 1967.

Respectfully submitted,
Albert C. Thompson, Jr.
State Senator
48th Legislative District

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen:

"The President at this time should particularly like to extend a warm and heartfelt welcome to the members of the Senate and to state that it is certainly a privilege and honor to serve once again with the holdover members, and to extend to the newly reelected Senators a warm note of congratulations. It's an honor and one of which I am very proud.

"I should like to greet the newly elected Senators in a little different manner in the sense that we must offer some sympathy to the House in their great loss in the five members who have come over to the Senate: Senators Uhlman, Pritchard, Canfield, Metcalf and Andersen. But the House's loss is only the Senate's gain. We are very happy to have you here.

"The President would like to make one special remark about Senator Pritchard. The Senator was fortunate enough to receive remarkable training and teaching at the Queen Anne High School a number of years ago, and it's only a natural consequence that he should arrive in this august body.

"The President should also like to welcome two colleagues in the teaching profession, Senator Metcalf and Senator Ridder; and then also to greet our newly elected members, Senator Faulk, Senator Twigg, Senator Ridder and Senator Marquardt.

"I should like to make the observation that I hope, Senator Faulk, that you will never make the mistake of wearing a gold jacket to the Senate, for obvious reasons.

"I hope that each and every one of you will consider the office of the President of the Senate wide open to you at any time, and on any and all occasions that I can be of assistance, that you will call upon me.

"I think it no more than fair and appropriate that at this time we welcome back also Chief Leather Lungs, Verne Sawyer, the voice of the Senate; Patricia Martin, Minute Clerk; Howard Voland at the switchboard; and our Docket Clerk, Rose Kneeland. I believe this fine staff deserves a round of applause."

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

Department of State, Office of the Secretary,
Olympia, Washington, January 9, 1967.

*To the Honorable, The President of the Senate,
The Legislature of the State of Washington,
Olympia, Washington.*

Sir:

As of May 31, 1966, John Martinson and T. Evans Wyckoff, being residents of Anacortes and Seattle, respectively, and co-chairmen of the Committee for Full Employment in Washington, for and on behalf of said organization tendered five copies of a proposed measure to be an Initiative to the Legislature of the State of Washington, accompanied by their affidavits and that the name and post office address of the organization proposing this initiative for submission to the 1967 Legislature is:

Committee for Full Employment in Washington
917 White-Henry-Stuart Building
Seattle, Washington 98101

The copies of the proposed measure were filed and the measure was identified as Initiative Measure No. 32 to the Legislature. A copy was transmitted to the Attorney General for ballot title and, on June 8, 1966, the following ballot title was received from the Attorney General:

"LOCAL PROCESSING OF STATE TIMBER

An Act establishing a state agency to be known as the Full Employment Commission; providing for a procedure whereby timber sold by the state to any 'responsible bidder' and removed from state-owned or administered lands will be branded, and will receive primary processing in a facility employing Washington residents located in the state of Washington or within fifteen miles from any boundary thereof in an abutting state, unless permission is granted by the Full Employment Commission for primary processing elsewhere based upon a finding that no reasonable market presently exists for the timber at such a facility; and establishing penalties."

I further certify that on December 28, 1966 and again on December 30, 1966, persons representing the Committee for Full Employment in Washington submitted signature petition sheets alleged to contain 130,000 signatures of registered voters for filing and canvass, and requested that a report of the final canvass and count be certified to the 1967 Legislature.

Accompanying the petitions was a financial statement reporting in detail the contributions received and expenditures made by the Committee for Full Employment in Washington relative to their signature campaign. The total amount of contributions reported was $33,461.00, and the total amount of expenditures reported was $25,812.99 as the cost of printing and circulation of signature petitions. The financial statement was certified under the signature of Charles W. Jordan, Jr., residing in the city of Everett, and serving as Assistant Secretary to the sponsoring committee.

On January 5, 1967, a preliminary count of the signatures of the initiative petition was concluded by the office of the Secretary of State, and the result of which indicated that there were approximately 136,163 names signed to the petition.

The canvass of signatures supporting Initiative Measure No. 32 to the Legislature will be completed as soon as possible. If at the conclusion of our checking we find that at least 100,022 valid signatures of currently registered voters have been submitted, a full report will be given simultaneously to both branches of the Legislature. It is estimated that it will take approximately four weeks' time from this date to complete the checking of the signatures.

Respectfully submitted,
A. Ludlow Kramer
Secretary of State

Message regarding Initiative Measure No. 32 was referred to the Committee on Natural Resources.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Peterson (Lowell) that the rules be suspended, that the Committee on Natural Resources be relieved of Initiative Measure No. 32 and that the measure be referred to the Committee on Commerce, Manufacturing and Licenses.

Debate ensued.

The motion was lost on a rising vote.

The Secretary read:

SENATE RESOLUTION

1967 - 1

By Senators Greive and Neill:

Be It Resolved, That the rules which governed the Senate during the Thirty-ninth Legislative Session of 1965 be adopted by the Senate as temporary rules until permanent rules be adopted, and that the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules be authorized and directed to formulate the permanent rules of the Senate for the present session, and that the Committee on Rules act jointly with a like committee from the House of Representatives to formulate joint rules.

On motion of Senator Greive, the resolution was adopted.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The President declared nominations to be open for the office of President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

Senator Hanna:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I had the extreme pleasure four years ago of placing in nomination for the office of President Pro Tempore of the Washington State Senate, Senator Al Henry. I find myself in that same position today.

"I am sure that you are all acquainted with Senator Al Henry, who has served with distinction in both the House and in the Senate; and I am sure that he would carry on that same tradition of good service as President Pro Tempore of the Senate for this session of the Washington State Legislature.

"We are, I believe, destined for considerable action and a great deal of progress in this fortieth session and I know that Senator Henry in his capacity as President Pro Tempore would lend himself to a distinguished session. There have been suggestions on the part of some that the fortieth session of the legislature and the work of the fortieth session could be done in sixty days. I do not share that same belief necessarily. But I do know that both Senator Henry and I do not want to impede the progress of this session with any lengthy nominating speeches. I hope that you will join with me in seeing to it that Senator Al Henry is elected as President Pro Tempore of the fortieth session of the Washington state legislature and I am proud to place Senator Henry's name in nomination for that office, the Senator from White Salmon."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"It gives me, also, a great pleasure to second the nomination of Al Henry. I've known him for many, many years. I was in the House way back in '41 when he was called upon to preside, and I never saw a man mess things up like he did. But he has gone a long ways since that time. He has already been President Pro Tempore once before and has past experience. He's a fine man, a fine friend of mine. I think he's fair, and it's a privilege to second his nomination.

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I have the extreme pleasure of placing in nomination the name of Senator Marshall Neill for the office of President Pro Tempore. Now, when I make this nomination, I want you to understand that this in no manner detracts from the nomination of Senator Henry, but we also want you to know on this side of the aisle we, likewise, have an outstanding member of the Senate who also served in the House as a Representative, as well as an employee. He's been very active on the Interim Legislative Budget Committee and other interim committees. He's well respected. As you remember last session he did an outstanding job on the redistricting and reappointment bill.

"Therefore, to let all of us know that we have a candidate, also, of whom we can be very proud, I would like to have you sincerely consider the nomination of Marshall Neill to the office of President Pro Tempore."

Senator Atwood:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I rise to second the nomination of Marshall Neill. I am sure all of you are aware that he is a man of unimpeachable integrity and unfailing fairness, and I am sure if you see fit to elect him, he will serve us well. But I will also remind you that he is a cheerful loser.

"Thank you very much."

There being no further nominations, the President declared the nominations closed.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll on the election of President Pro Tempore of the Senate, and Senator Henry was elected by the following vote: Senator Henry, 28; Senator Neil, 20; excused, 1.

Those voting for Senator Henry were: Senators Bailey, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Foley, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Rasmussen, Ridder, Sandison, Talley, Uhlman, Washington—28.

Those voting for Senator Neill were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Canfield, Chytil, Faulk, Freise, Guess, Henry, Lennart, Lewis, Marquardt, Metcalf, Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Redmon, Ryder, Stender, Twigg, Williams, Woodall—20.

Excused: Senator Gissberg—1.

The President declared that Senator Henry, having received the constitutional majority vote of the Senate, was elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

The President appointed Senators Keefe and Woodall to act as a committee of honor to escort Senator Henry to the rostrum.

The Honorable Frank Hale, Justice of the Supreme Court, administered the oath of office to Senator Henry.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen:

"It is always a very gratifying experience to be elected to a position, but when those who are the best suited to judge one's qualifications choose you, that is a true compliment, Al. I know that in choosing our good friend Al Henry for this position, that you are paying him a tribute for the outstanding service that he has rendered in the many years he has served in the Washington State Legislature.

"By this selection of Senator Al Henry as President Pro Tempore, you have guaranteed yourselves a legislative session that will have a most congenial and capable President Pro Tempore. My sincere congratulations also go to you, Senator Neill. Your colleagues paid you a splendid compliment. It's a pleasure to work with you, Al; and now it is my privilege to present you to the members of the Senate."

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President, fellow Senators, ladies and gentlemen:

"This is the second time that I have been so honored by this group, and I sincerely appreciate it. I think you all know that when I am presiding I will do my best to see that everybody receives equal, honest recognition from the floor.

"I might say that Senator McCutcheon, my long and true friend, practically broke all records when I was the President Pro Tempore in 1961. Inasmuch as Lieutenant Governor Vic Meyers had presided for twenty years and only had the decision of the Chair challenged once, you may recall that I had presided only some twenty minutes when Senator McCutcheon had challenged the decision of the Chair and almost broke the record!"

"However, it is a pleasure for me to accept this and to let you know that my only regret is that there couldn't be two President Pro Tempores because Senator Neill is one of the finest fellows I've ever met.

"Thank you very much."

The President declared the nominations were now in order for the office of Vice President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"In the event that the Lieutenant Governor should ever falter and his replacement, the newly elected President Pro Tempore should not be available I think it fitting that we should have ready a very capable replacement to serve in the capacity of Vice President Pro Tempore.

"The man who I am about to nominate is young in age but long in experience. He has served both in the House and Senate for eighteen years, eight in the House and ten in the Senate. He has held many important positions, perhaps the most distinguished of which is chairman of the Committee on Commerce, Manufacturing and Licenses for the past six years. You recently have tried to honor him by trying to send him an additional responsibility which failed by a very narrow margin but in the debate you were extremely flattering to the man I'm about to nominate for this important position, Senator George W. Kupka.

"The position has only recently been vacated. It has been held for some thirty-two years by the gentleman who was known as the dean of this Legislature. I am referring to none other than Senator David Cowen, who is not with us, of course this afternoon; and as a part of his duties, he tells me—my candidate—that he will take over some of the responsibilities of Senator Cowen. You may recall the practice that Senator Cowen had of giving each page and junior members of the delegation watches during the legislative session and he says for the same money he can get a better watch and we know, George, this is true so happy days are here again.

"Also as we all know, and for the benefit of the ladies in the gallery, George is one of the two bachelors that remain in our ranks, and he has traditionally fulfilled the function of chairman of the Wildlife Committee along with Senator Knoblauch.

"If you elect him, and I am sure that all of the Senators on both sides of the aisle will join in voting for our candidate, he is an intelligent, efficient, dedicated Senator and I am sure if you reward him with this position, he will serve with honor for all of us in a fair and impartial manner, except on party bills."

Senator Keefe:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I want to second the nomination of Senator George W. Kupka. I know he has served with dignity and that he will be fair to all. Something Senator Dore did omit is that Senator Kupka is very well to do as well as being a bachelor."

Senator Williams:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I am very pleased to place in nomination for our Vice President Pro Tempore the name of a very able Senator from Lewis and now from part of Grays Harbor county. Senator Joe Chytil.

"As you know, Senator Chytil served four sessions in the House and now is starting his fourth session in the Senate. During this time he served very ably and among his other distinctions I think he is the only member of this body who has served this long a time on major interim committees, both the Legislative Budget Committee and the Legislative Council throughout the period of time he has been in the legislature. He is very highly regarded, I think you know, by members on both sides of the aisle for his ability and his willingness to work with both groups. He has been particularly outstanding in the budgetary field, which is a major problem we all have to contend with. He's an outstanding civic person in his community and would be an excellent person for this position. For all these reasons and many more, I am particularly honored to place in nomination the name of Senator Joe Chytil for this position."

Senator Guess:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I would like to second the nomination of Senator Joe Chytil and I would like to add to the accomplishments of this gentleman that he served on the Facilities Committee during the interim and, as you well know, the work of the Facilities Committee has affected all of us. The progress made during this interim will make this session a good deal easier for all of us. It is for this reason I desire to second the nomination of Senator Joe Chytil."

There being no further nominations, the President declared the nominations closed.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll on the election of Vice President Pro Tempore, and Senator George W. Kupka was elected by the following vote: Senator Kupka, 28; Senator Chytil, 20; excused, 1.

Those voting for Senator Kupka were: Senators Bailey, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Foley, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Peterson (Lowell), Rasmussen, Ridder, Sandison, Talley, Uhlman, Washington—28.

Those voting for Senator Chytil were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Canfield, Faulk, Freise, Guess, Kupka Lennart, Lewis, Marquardt, Metcalf, Neill, Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Redmon, Ryder, Stender, Twigg, Williams, Woodall—20.

Excused: Senator Gissberg—1.

Senator Kupka, having received the constitutional majority vote of the Senate, was elected Vice President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

The President appointed Senators Knoblauch and Williams to act as a committee of honor to escort Senator Kupka to the rostrum.

The Acting Sergeant at Arms and the honor committee escorted Senator Kupka to the rostrum and Justice Hale administered the oath of office.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen:

"Wisdom seems to be abounding within the Senate Chambers when the members nominate two such capable and respected members for this position as Senator Kupka and Senator Chytil. Certainly both of these men are deserving of this honor. Evidently Senator Kupka's distinguished record has guided you to this decision and we want to thank the people of Pierce county who have wisely sent you to Olympia so that you may accept this honor and continue to serve them with distinction.

"Senator Kupka, would you please address the members of the Senate?"

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President, Judge Hale and members of the Senate:

"First of all I want to thank all of you for this complimentary position that you have extended to me. I realize that I am following a person that has filled a large pair of shoes representing this Senate for many years. You all know that this position hasn't been available too often because he had it most of his time here or all the time as a matter of fact.

"Somebody asked me earlier, 'Just what is this position?'

"I had to think a little bit and right quick several people near me were kind enough to offer a few suggestions. It came up something like this. They said:

"When John Cherberg is out signing autographs when the Daffodil Queens and Blossom Queens are here and Al is not available toward the end of session when Senator Henry, like most of the rest of us, gets weary and tired and we nap a little bit, and if you can't wake him up, then you've got to come up here, and that's the extent of the position."

"It's certainly a pleasure to be with you. I have also served with all of you members and the members of the committees that I have served on, and I want to assure you that should the occasion arise when I should take over the gavel, that you will always be treated fairly and equitably.

"Thank you very much."

The President called for nominations for the office of Secretary of the Senate.

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I don't like to monopolize the speaking, at least the first day, but I consider it an extreme honor and privilege to place in nomination the name of our Secretary, Ward Bowden.

"It is most fitting that we have Judge Hale at the head table, so to speak, who said those historic words that the legislature remains perhaps the most democratic form of government with the exception of the public schools; that it expresses the feelings of the people with greater clarity than any other institution, and from the legislative body, he goes on to say, we probably receive the benefit of our greatest presidents and ablest judges and legislators.

"In the state of Washington, unfortunately, at least two years ago and probably today, we don't have the necessary time to meet. We have crowded facilities and limited staffs. We are not able to do the job that is required of the largest business in the state. A billion dollar business in the state is being run by a part time board of directors of 150 people.

"But Ward Bowden decided to try in his way to do something about it last session and became executive secretary of the Facilities and Operations Committee. He worked in a dedicated manner in that regard and gave the benefit of his thirty-two years of experience in this capacity. In fact, he is the dean of all Senate secretaries, I understand. But he gave us the benefit of that wisdom and experience in trying to update our operation and make us more efficient. I think he was successful, and I think a great deal of credit should be given to him for the new offices we enjoy, for the pre-filing of bills, for the additional staff that we now have, which has been brought about by the members and the working of Ward Bowden.

"With this background in mind, it is with a great deal of honor and personal pleasure that I place in nomination the name of Ward Bowden for Secretary of the Senate."

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President and fellow Senators:

"I think it's fitting and proper in this two party adversary system that with our caucus officers and our floor work officers out here, that we each have our own candidates and we each play this game according to the rules. But when it comes to actually getting the work done and organization of the back rooms, there isn't much room for party politics. There's a job to be done and it has to be done in the most efficient and best manner possible. It is with a great deal of pleasure from the minority side, that we join in seconding the nomination of Ward Bowden to continue as Secretary of the Senate. He's done an admirable job. He has done the job without any partisanship whatsoever, and it is with extreme pleasure that I join in asking for the retention of Ward Bowden as Secretary of the Senate."

Senator Knoblauch:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"Some twenty-eight years ago I had the privilege of being a fellow employee here in Olympia with Ward Bowden. I started in 1939 as an employee and became a member in 1941. I can say from my memory that Ward Bowden was an extremely fine man to work with, a fine man to the employees. I think that he has passed the test. He's an extremely fair man to all members of the Senate. He is extremely friendly to all of the members of the third house and most of all he is the type of a boss that any man or woman would like to have.

"What I am saying is that the employees throughout the years have liked and enjoyed the privilege of having as their boss, Ward Bowden, and so it is my privilege then to second the nomination of a very capable and able Secretary of the Senate, Ward Bowden."

There being no further nominations, the President declared the nominations for Secretary of the Senate to be closed.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll on the election of Secretary of the Senate, and Ward Bowden was elected by the following vote: Ward Bowden, 48; excused, 1.

Excused; Senator Gissberg—1.

Ward Bowden, having received the constitutional majority vote of the Senate, was elected Secretary of the Senate.

The President appointed an honor committee consisting of Senators Mardèsich and Peterson (Ted) to escort Ward Bowden to the rostrum.

Justice Hale administered the oath of office of Secretary of the Senate to Ward Bowden.

The President:

"Members of the Senate and the Honorable Secretary of the Senate:

"It was a close election, Ward, but we're happy that you won. For a moment we all thought that Judge Hale was going to steal you away and send you over to the House. We're glad that you made the correction.

"Your virtues and abilities have been described in glowing terms by a number of your friends from the floor. Every word spoken was true. I know that from a personal point of view, I appreciate your help and invaluable assistance a great deal, as do all of the members of the Senate. I am sure that the members of the Senate join with me in congratulating you and wishing you ever continued success in your position. We all know that you will conduct your office with initiative, with intelligence and with integrity. Thank you so much for being with us. Won't you come up and address the Senate, please?"

Mr. Bowden:

"Thank you, Governor Cherberg, Judge Hale and distinguished members of the Senate.

"I never come to this moment—and I think this is probably the sixth time that this honor has come to me—with a prepared speech. All I can say is that I want to thank every one of you for the support you have given me, and I will do my utmost to please you and make this machine work smoothly.

"Thank you very much."

The committees of honor came forward and escorted the President Pro Tempore and Vice President Pro Tempore from the rostrum.

"The President believes only if he is big enough, strong enough and able enough. Yes, Senator, I am sure the Sergeant at Arms can carry out the directions of the President and of the Senate."

"On behalf of the city of Olympia and personally, I want to invite you to be our guests at the Legislative Ball which will be held at the Tyeel Motel on Wednesday, January 11th. Your guest tickets to the inaugural ball have already been delivered to your Sergeant at Arms so you can pick them up from him and we hope that you will come enjoy the evening with us at the Legislative Ball.

The President declared nominations for the office of Sergeant at Arms of the Senate now in order.

Senator Herrmann:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"It is an honor for me to substitute for the President Pro Tempore who was going to make the nomination speech for my friend, Charlie Johnson. I think all of us who have worked with Charlie over the years realize how well he has served us. I think that his work and his record in serving the Senators in honoring every reasonable request that we have made of him or his assistants speaks for itself, and I want to emphasize his record, his record in serving us here, not only while we are in session, but I think any one of you regardless of party regardless of seniority, who have had any matters that required attention here in Olympia and have asked the personal services of Charlie Johnson have found that they have always been honored.

"He has always done his work efficiently and with proper dispatch. I think that the work he has done in the past merits his reelection to the post. At this time, therefore, I want to place in nomination for Sergeant at Arms the name of Charlie Johnson."

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President, lady and gentlemen of the Senate:

"I didn't think my duties were going to come so fast, but I noticed the President Pro Tempore is out of his seat and he was supposed to do the work Senator Herrmann is doing. Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, lady and gentlemen of the Senate:

"I take a great deal of pleasure in nominating Newt Fry whom I have known since early days. He is a man of high integrity, trusted by all. I hope that all of you will support my nomination and I know all of you will be happy except Charlie Johnson. But regardless of this, if you don't support him, I would even suggest that I will lead the winner to the rostrum. I carry no grudges.

"Thank you."

It is accurate to say that the duties of a Sergeant at Arms have no bounds. But I am sure the President and the members of the Senate are in accord that Charlie Johnson fulfills the duties and obligations of this position in a most commendable manner, and Charlie, you have the congratulations and best wishes of every member of the Senate and those of the President. It's a comfort to have you with us."

Mr. Johnson:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"It's a very great pleasure to be here again and serve you gentlemen. I thought there was something going on when you didn't nominate me or elect me before we recessed for lunch, and when I came back and only fifteen Senators were here, I knew there must be something going on. I had a wonderful lunch at dinnertime or dinner at lunchtime. It was ruined by what happened.

"You gentlemen over there, I'm sure I'll serve you well, and you gentlemen over here know I'll serve you well."

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

We protest the method of handling Senate Bill No. 1. The Democrat majority adopted rules governing its procedure in the first session of the 40th legislature, and before adjourning for the day, violated them.

Senate Bill No. 1 covered interim pay raises for certain state employees. Subsection 2 related to non-certificated school employees. To mandate the districts to raise their salaries violates recommendation "i.e." of the legislative budget committee report.

The hearing, if you can call it that, as it related to subsection 2 of this bill, was called so suddenly that the witnesses who did appear were not prepared. The information produced was incomplete, unsupported by factual data, and the hearing prematurely terminated. There was no evidence adduced relating to vacancies, unfillable jobs, abnormal turnover, or the like. There was no evidence of any emergency in this field. What's more the superintendent's budget requests cover these employees.

So, to ramrod this piece of legislation through the Senate on the first day of the session for the sake of making a grandstand play to the several thousands of beneficiaries of this legislation denies the hundreds of thousands of people of this state the kind of deliberative action from this legislative body the people are entitled to expect. The Senate and the people were entitled to know the Governor's recommendations as well. The precipitate action of the Democrat majority denied the Senate and the people the staff work of the office charged with presenting a fiscally responsible accounting for the available funds.

Sam C. Guess, Perry B. Woodall, Marshall A. Neill, R. Frank Atwood, Harry B. Lewis, John N. Ryder, Walter B. Williams, Joel Pritchard, Ernest Lennart, Damon R. Canfield, Ted G. Peterson, Robert W. Twigg, Fred G. Redmon, Jack Metcalf.

REGARDING SENATE BILL NO. 1

Senator McMillan attributed to me the statement that Senator Durkan is engaging in "political chicanery" in rushing through this multi-million dollar measure on the first day of the session.

The word "chicanery" carries a connotation of trickery. I did not use this word nor did my remarks intend to impugn the character of Senator Durkan in any manner whatsoever.

The facts are that Senate Bill No. 1, which increases the wages and salaries of all state employees effective immediately, would necessitate an appropriation of close to fifty million dollars. To study this measure a hearing was in progress beginning at three o'clock this afternoon. Witnesses had been called to testify. Senator Durkan, as chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, conducted the hearing in an entirely proper manner for approximately one-half hour. At that time the members of the committee were summoned to the floor of the Senate by a call of the Senate. At that point the hearing had barely commenced and witnesses were still to be heard. The members of the committee had not as yet had an opportunity to interchange with each other their thoughts on Senate Bill No. 1. Since the matter under consideration involved close to 50 million dollars of taxpayers' money, I, for one, assumed that a full and complete hearing was required and would be had as a matter of course. Neither Senator Durkan nor any other Senator gave any indication of any other course of action.

When the members of the Committee on Ways and Means returned to the floor of the Senate the following events transpired: Under proper order of business for introduction of bills, Senate Bill No. 1 was read in. At this point Senator Durkan arose and moved for the immediate consideration of the bill by the whole Senate. I and several other members of the Senate objected in the strongest possible terms to this procedure. We were convinced that it was most improper for a committee chairman to bypass us on a partially completed hearing of a measure before his own committee.

I repeat, for the record, that Senator Durkan's actions, in my opinion, were politically inspired and designed to further his announced candidacy for higher public office.

I do not believe that my constituents have sent me to Olympia to bring about the millennium during the 1967 legislative session. I refuse to abdicate the legislative response entrusted to me by my constituents. While I recognize that our actions in Olympia are of a political nature, I will continue to insist the Senate act in compliance with its long standing rules and precedents which are designed to protect the public by requiring that Senators carefully scrutinize all facts pertaining to a given piece of legislation in order that they may vote intelligently on any given measure. It is my considered judgment that the events related hereinabove indicate that with reference to the consideration of Senate Bill No. 1 there was violation of legislative propriety.

(Signed) Senator Wilbur G. Hallauer

There being no objection, the Senate returned to the fifth order of business.

The Secretary read:

SECOND DAYMORNING SESSION

Senate Chamber,

Olympia, Wash., Tuesday, January 10, 1967.

The Senate was called to order at eleven a.m. by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senator Uhlman.

On motion of Senator Greive, Senator Uhlman was excused.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Jeffrey Gates, Color Bearer, and Myra Rintamaki, presented the Colors.

Reverend Fr. Charles Howard Perry, rector of the St. John's Episcopal Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Jesus said 'Pass no judgment, and you will not be judged. For as you judge others, so will you yourselves be judged, and whatever measure you deal out to others will be dealt back to you. Why do you look at the speck of sawdust in your brother's eye, with never a thought for the great plank in your own? Or how can you say to your brother, Let me take the speck out of your eye. When all the time there is that plank in your own? You hypocrite! First take the plank out of your own eye, and then you will see clearly to take the speck out of your brother's.'"

Let us pray:

"O Lord, Jesus Christ, help us to ponder the meaning of these words—to keep them ever emblazoned on our memory and to wear them in our hearts. Help us not to look for specks of sawdust in others' eyes but to be those who eagerly remove planks from our own.

"You know the bind we are in when it comes to judgment. Help us always to remember that our judgments are made with limited insight and limited information. Give us courage to seek the truth, 'come whence it may, cost what it will' and wisdom to know the difference between truth and falsehood. May we not cower in front of the difficult and complex problems of our time, but help us to solve these problems as men, who are your servants, not as men who like to play God.

"Save us from self-righteousness by keeping before us always our own frailty, our own faults. May we not use what little power we have to destroy those who have less power than ourselves, or no power at all. Thou, O God, art the one who shakes the mighty from their seats! Thou, O God, art the one who stalks the inner reaches of the human soul and brings the haughty to their knees.

"May we be kind to one another as we observe the specks of sawdust in the eye of our brothers, and may we hope for kindness when the plank in our own eye becomes visible to others. Help us to have the courage to make such judgments in our day that future generations will call us fair, blessed, wise. Give us always such an urgent sense of our humanity that we will never fail to seek your divine guidance in building a fit society for all men of good-will.

"May the members of this Senate take up their corporate duties this day in such a fashion as to bring credit to this Body and benefit to the people of this state. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

THIRD DAY

MORNING SESSION

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., Wednesday, January 11, 1967.

The Senate was called to order at eleven a.m. by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present.

Reverend Fr. Charles Howard Perry, pastor of the St. John's Episcopal Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Jesus said 'You are salt to the world. And if salt becomes tasteless, how is its saltness to be restored? It is now good for nothing but to be thrown away and trodden underfoot.

"'You are light for all the world. A town that stands on a hill cannot be hidden. When a lamp is lit, it is not put under the meal-tub, but on the lamp-stand, where it gives light to everyone in the house. And you, like the lamp, must shed light among your fellows, so that, when they see the good you do, they may give praise to your Father in heaven.'"

A prayer of St. Francis of Assisi—Let us pray:

"O Lord, our Christ, may we have thy mind and thy spirit; make us instruments of thy peace; where there is hatred, let us sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is discord, union; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy.

"O divine Master, grant that we may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood, as to understand; to be loved, as to love; for it is in giving that we receive; it is in pardoning that we are pardoned; and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

The Secretary read:

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., January 9, 1967.

Mr. President:

Your Committee on Claims and Auditing, to whom was referred Senate Bill No. 1, have inspected same, and find it correctly engrossed. Martin J. Durkan, Chairman.

We concur in this report: R. Frank Atwood, W. A. Gissberg, Perry B. Woodall.

The Secretary read:

GUBERNATORIAL APPOINTMENT MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

State of Washington, Office of the Governor,
Olympia, Wash., January 10, 1967.

To the Honorable, The Senate of the State of Washington.

Lady and Gentlemen:

I have the honor to submit the following appointment to the Position of Member, State Liquor Control Board, subject to your confirmation:

Albert C. Thompson, Jr., appointed January 15, 1967, for a term ending January 15, 1976, succeeding Don G. Abel.

Sincerely yours,
Daniel J. Evans, Governor.

It was moved by Senator Greive that the rules be suspended and that the appointment of Albert C. Thompson, Jr. to the position of Member, State Liquor Control Board, be now confirmed.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I feel confident there will be a number of nice things said about our former colleague this morning. I would merely like to lead off by saying that speaking not only for myself, but speaking as a result of the unanimous action of the Democratic Caucus, we took this position, in the first place, that Albert Thompson, over the years, has been a most outstanding critic of the State Liquor Control Board of the state of Washington; second, he has been a very dynamic exponent of change, and I know of no one that we think could do a better job, so it is more than just a matter of courtesy, although we do not intend to establish a precedent. It is the feeling of myself as well as the entire Democratic Caucus that he will make a fine member and we are heartily in favor of the appointment. For that reason, we desire to suspend the rules this morning."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I would like to concur in the remarks of Senator Greive and support his motion to immediately confirm former Senator Albert C. Thompson, Jr. as a member of the Liquor Control Board.

"I have personally known Senator Thompson for about twenty years, I imagine, since he was first on the school board in Bellevue where he served with a great deal of distinction, not only the district of Bellevue but the state school board's organization where he was present and I think now is one of the members of the State School Directors' Association.

"I have a particular soft spot in my heart for Senator Thompson because he now represents a part of the district which I used to represent at one time as part of my district when my district went to the east side of Lake Washington and took in Bellevue, Kirkland and Bothell, which district he has represented with such distinction for two full terms. Senator Thompson was elected when this district was first formed in 1958, and has done a tremendous job here in the legislature representing not only the point of view of sound school administration and sound school financing, but also, as Senator Greive has said, in the area of liquor control and general state government.

"It is with a great deal of pleasure that I add my voice to Senator Thompson's praises and hope that this body will vote unanimously to confirm him to this very, very important position on the Liquor Control Board."

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I would like to second the motion to confirm Senator Thompson, myself, with the reservation that he takes the action I hope he takes. I talked to him the other night and I believe his sentiments go along with mine. I rather resent the fact that Liquor Board members come in here and say they want the power to legislate, but they want the legislature to do their dirty work when they want liquor on Sundays or at 2:00 o'clock, and, 'if you don't do it, we might do something after you leave.'

"Now, from my point of view, I'm not going to do anything, and I am giving Al Thompson my vote because I think that it's about time we have somebody on the Liquor Board who takes some of the responsibility. I'm going along with Al Thompson. I think he'll do it."

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"This is a matter of sinners calling the saints to repentance."

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I rise with mixed emotions in seconding the nomination of Al Thompson. After Monday, I'm not so sure that I want to believe. But knowing that Senator Thompson has dedicated his life to public service and knowing that he is willing to sacrifice his own personal needs and wants to serve the state of Washington, I join with my colleagues in the Senate in seconding the nomination.

"I was quite surprised that the Executive Branch made the mistake they did in showing such good taste when they nominated Al, but nevertheless, I'm sure Al is going to do a wonderful job for the state of Washington.

"We on the Democratic side have disagreed with Senator Thompson before and we expect to disagree with him again but never once have we questioned his integrity or have we ever questioned that his purpose was for the betterment of the state. He brings to the Liquor Board a native born Washingtonian who was born in Tacoma in 1919. Al attended local schools, graduated from the University of Washington as a druggist, and started his business on his own. He worked hard to expand that business on the east side of Lake Washington.

"In 1941, as most of us know, he married the very charming and vivacious Nancy Lear whom we happen to have with us today, and I might add, it was one of the greatest achievements of Al's life.

"Al has a record of public service that dates many years before he came to the state Senate. He served as president of the Bellevue P-TA and, incidentally, he was the first man ever elected to that position. He served both as a school director and holds life membership in the P-TA and School Directors' Association. He has done many other things to contribute to the betterment of life, both in King county and on the east side of Lake Washington where he lives, and in the state of Washington. I only hope that Senator Thompson will be as happy in his new job as I know he was serving here in the Senate. He was a strong adversary but he was always one who cooperated many times when that tax bill was on the floor and we needed the twenty-fifth vote. We never had to ask Al where he stood on positions of education and humanity. He was always there.

"It is with great pleasure and, as I said mixed emotions, that I rise to second the motion to confirm Senator Thompson.

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President and fellow Senators:

"I think it's entirely fitting and proper that the Senate has seen fit to grant the Senatorial courtesy to Al Thompson in moving for his confirmation without the normal procedure of the committee system in view of the fact that since 1959 he has been our colleague in this Chamber. We have worked with him. We have worked against him when we had differences of opinion that had nothing to do with party politics. But we always found one thing about Senator Thompson; he is a dedicated public servant. He is a strong and unyielding advocate for that in which he believes, but we have also found that when he is an opponent, he is extremely formidable.

"I think he is an excellent choice to take this position on our Liquor Board and I, too, have some mixed emotions about this because I hate to lose him on our side of the aisle in the Senate, but Al Thompson has our very best wishes in his new undertaking. Al, we will miss you here, but come back and visit us as you can, but not as a lobbyist!"

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I'd like to say a few words as a friend of Senator Thompson's. I think all the historic background has been covered, but I think Senator Thompson is perhaps better known and has been more conspicuous in the news for his investigation of the Liquor Board, but through the eight years I have known him in the state Senate, I think he has brought a great deal of know-how to a different type of representation and different work, that of chairman of the Interim Committee on Education. Al, of course, was one of our most effective members to come out of that committee, and Senator Thompson of course has been very closely identified with the new community colleges and four year colleges, the new revised state formula and things of that nature. Al, previous to that, served on the Interim Committee on Urban Renewal and he was a very effective member of that particular body.

"He, of course, has been replaced by a very able man, in the person of Senator Andersen. But as a friend we are going to miss him. We salute him and wish him well in his new venture and congratulate the Governor on the appointment. We of course know that this is going to be a unanimous vote for Al Thompson by all of his friends on both sides of the aisle."

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President, lady and gentlemen of the Senate:

"I also want to rise to second the motion to confirm Al Thompson, whom I worked with on the Interim Sub-Committee on Commerce, Trades, Industry and Professions. I also have a high regard and admiration for his understanding of the businessman's problems, he being a businessman himself. To my knowledge, I'd say he is perhaps one of the first people to go on the Liquor Board with an understanding of the consumers' problems. I endorse him wholeheartedly and, while I'm not one that has any problems before this board, I hope I never do.—I certainly want to have the pleasure of putting my feet under the desk and chatting with Al Thompson. While we have not always agreed, we certainly had some very pleasant meetings together and I mean this with all sincerity. We all enjoy a little humor, but I certainly think the Governor in his wisdom has picked one of the finest people to my knowledge ever chosen for this job."

Senator Guess:

"Mr. President, lady and gentlemen of the Senate:

"It gives me a great deal of pleasure to rise and second the nomination of Senator Al Thompson. Al was the one Senator who took me under his wing when I first came over here in 1962. I had the pleasure of sharing an office with Senator Thompson, Senator Williams and Senator Atwood and I developed a very strong feeling of friendship and admiration for Senator Thompson because of the help that he gave me in finding my way around the Capitol.

"During the interim I watched Al Thompson bore into this business of the Liquor Board. I know from having experience trying to help people in my own district obtain liquor licenses that Al is going to bring a different dimension to the Liquor Board and I am sure that he will look at each one of them and he will make his recommendation and take action based upon the fair, honest facts.

"It is with a great deal of pleasure that I second Al Thompson's appointment to the Liquor Board. I'm sure we can look forward to a very solid administration of the Commission on the Board."

APPOINTMENT OF ALBERT C. THOMPSON, JR.

The Secretary called the roll, and the appointment of Albert C. Thompson, Jr., to the Washington State Liquor Control Board was confirmed by the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 49; nays, 0.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, Lewis, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Marde-sich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington, Williams, Woodall—49.

Having received the approval of the Senate, the appointment of Albert C. Thompson, Jr. to the Washington State Liquor Control Board was confirmed.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President announced the presence within the bar of the Senate of Senator Albert C. Thompson, Jr. and appointed a special committee consisting of Senators Durkan, Connor, Faulk and Andersen to act as a committee of honor to escort former Senator Thompson to a place of honor upon the rostrum.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen, Senator Thompson:

"The members of the Senate join with the President in extending you their heartiest congratulations. It's an honor richly deserved and the Senate showed their approval of the Governor's appointment by the unanimous manner in which they have acted. A number of the Senators present this morning have spoken many glowing remarks about you, and they are all sincere. Senator Durkan mentioned the fact, as did Senator Marshall Neill, of their mixed emotions, upon seeing you leave the Senate. The President joins in that sentiment.

"Now the President knows and so do the members of the Senate that we all want to hear from you in different fashions from time to time, but this morning we would like for you to keep it verbal. It is an honor to present you to the members of the Washington State Senate and those ladies and gentlemen present in the gallery today."

Senator Thompson:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"It is a great privilege and with great pride that I appear here at the "bar" of the Senate, and I do sincerely have mixed emotions in leaving you forty-nine fine people that I have had the privilege of serving with for the last eight years.

"I heard your remarks, each and every one of you. I appreciate it. I got worried about a time I remember when I had a bill and I had to talk a long time, and Senator Lennart said, 'Gosh, we've talked too long on this one.'

"I appreciate your remarks. I know each of you would have made remarks, but in your good judgment you have withheld doing so. I particularly appreciated the remarks of Senator Bailey and I do feel, as an ex-Senator, that you can count on my same performance on the Board as I did in 1961 on the subject related thereto.

"I feel that it's going to be a great change for me. I look forward to it with great pleasure and pride, and I look forward to it the more because you gentlemen and lady were so kind to make it unanimous for me.

"Thank you very much."

The committee of honor came forward and escorted Senator Thompson from the rostrum.

SENATE MEMORIAL NO. 1

By Senators Durkan and Dore:

To the House of Representatives of the State of Washington, in Legislative Session Assembled:

We, your Memorialists, the Senate of the State of Washington, in legislative session assembled, respectfully represent and petition as follows:

Whereas, 1966 wage findings of the State Personnel Board have demonstrated a serious inadequacy of salary standards in certain state agencies which has resulted in daily personnel losses to higher wage categories in private employment, resulting in a marked diminution of vital public services such as care and treatment of defective children, the mentally ill and other handicapped persons; and

Whereas, The same inadequacy has threatened the superior staffing of the public schools throughout the state; and

Whereas, The present emergency should be met promptly by this Legislature; and

Whereas, The Senate has passed and sent to the House for action Senate Bill No. 1, which if enacted will provide the means to meet said emergency; and

Whereas, The House has Senate Bill No. 1 under consideration with indications that final passage of the same may be delayed for an indefinite period of time to the serious detriment of the citizenry of this state;

Now, Therefore, Your Memorialists respectfully pray that the House of Representatives immediately schedule Senate Bill No. 1 for final passage, urging upon the said House the desperate public need for prompt affirmative action.

Be It Resolved, That copies of this memorial be immediately transmitted to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and each member of the House of Representatives of the State of Washington.

It was moved by Senator Durkan that the memorial be adopted.

Debate ensued.

Senators Bailey, Dore and Durkan demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

The motion was carried on a rising vote and the memorial was adopted.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I would like to make some remarks under personal privilege on the passage of Senate Memorial No. 1, the passage of which, as far as my memory is concerned and as far as anyone's memory is concerned, sets a precedent for you might say 'needling' the other House. I think it's too bad that in the first week of this session we have had on two separate days, albeit on the same subject, this type of needling. I think we have a very serious job to do during this session and it is my hope and I think the hope of the public and the newspapers, too, who have supported this point of view, that we can go forward in some kind of harmony this session without politics getting into it more than on a superficial basis, as it always does, and accomplish something.

"I don't think there is any question in anyone's mind that the House is going to do a job on this bill which was sent over. They are going to do a proper job on it and pass it in adequate time, and the state employees are going to get the salary increases which they deserve, and we all agree that they deserve. But certainly this type of political needling can do nothing other than to slow down the wheels of our legislative body, even though we come eventually to the right answers and the logical answers. There is no reason at all why we should continue this type of thing and prolong the session."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I merely wanted to thank Senator Ryder for that beautiful lecture that came a little late. I think the worst thing we can do here is to lecture each other. Everybody has his own right to his own opinion, but I never appreciate it when I am lectured, Senator Ryder, and neither do you. We can have some knock-down-drag-out fights here, but please don't lecture me like my wife does after it's over."

MOTION

At noon, on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 1:20 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

At 1:20 p.m., the Senate was called to order by President Cherberg.

I should like to extend best wishes and congratulations also to Senator Andersen and Representative Chapin on their recent appointments.

"This joint session is a symbol of unity among the members of the legislature and to the members of the House of Representatives. The President would like to state that the members of the Senate and the President appreciate and enjoy the very warm and hospitable reception you presented us today. As we meet here today, the determination of the members of the legislature to discharge your responsibilities during the coming weeks is reflected in your eyes and your manner. Now, much has been said of late about the image of state legislatures, but I am sure that you will all agree that if each of us conducts ourselves with initiative, intelligence, and integrity, the image of this legislature will take care of itself.

"The President should like to say also that the office of the Lieutenant Governor will be open to each of you at any and all times and upon all occasions and if he can be of assistance to you, he would appreciate hearing from you.

"Let me preface my formal remarks with the observation that the beginning of this legislative session was indeed auspicious. Mr. President;

Mr. Speaker;

Mr. Chief Justice;

Members of the Legislature; and

My Fellow Washingtonians:

"With a faith in the traditions of this House and with the traditional hope that life, indeed, begins at 40, I welcome you—the 40th session of the Washington Legislature—to the renewed and continuing task of government as the freely elected representatives of a free and responsible people.

"On this occasion, I believe it is both appropriate and wise to recognize that although the state may change, the system remains; that although legislatures change, the work continues; and that, in defining and ordering the path of future progress, we share as one a commitment to the principle and the process of democracy.

"It is now my constitutional responsibility to report to you "the state of the state."

"When this administration took office over 100 weeks ago, Washington stood at a crossroads. We chose not the past, but the future; not the easy path, but the difficult road; not what was politically convenient, but what was necessary for the well-being of the citizens of the state of Washington.

"Beginning with economic stagnation, with chronic unemployment, with the vagueness of purpose and a declining faith in state government, I believe we have made notable strides over the past 24 months.

"By design where possible, and by the force of events where not, we have moved from stagnation to prosperity, from vagueness to clarity of purpose and from suspicion to integrity.

"These, I think, are noteworthy achievements—which can and should be shared by all who serve government and who have contributed so greatly to our progress.

"The statistics of our progress over the past two years are equally impressive. They also are the indicators of the growth we must learn to expect and be prepared to deal with during the months ahead.

"Over the past two years, our population increased by nearly 5%—a gain of 123,000 people. While the civilian work force expanded by some 127,000 people, the number employed rose by 139,000 with a net reduction in unemployment of 15,900.

"Personal income in Washington advanced by over 12 percent—from 8 billion dollars in 1964, to the 9 billion, 700 million estimated for 1966. In individual terms, personal per capita income increased by 428 dollars a year, to a total of $3,101 for every citizen of the state. I might say in passing that this growth in per capita income in 1966 in Washington state led all the other states of the nation.

"Our public schools now enroll 753,000 students in grades 1 through 12 as compared to 712,000 in 1964, and our community college enrollment rose from 25,000 to nearly 33,000.

"On our highways, we drive 270,000 more cars, busses and trucks than two years ago and our retail sales subject to sales tax have increased from 5.8 billion dollars to a record 7.1 billion.

"From these figures, I wish it were now possible to declare that progress had been fully achieved in Washington; that we could now view the accomplishments of government with satisfaction.

"Instead, we have before us an agenda of work unequalled in the history of this legislature.

"For in creating prosperity, we have also created new problems. In the process of acquiring growth, we have acquired for ourselves—and for all concerned—a new magnitude of responsibility.

"It is time, therefore, for this government and this legislature to confront what have become the most compelling questions of our time:

"Can we have our growth and live with it too?

"Can we become urbanized and remain civilized at the same time?"

"Can we achieve continuing economic growth without relentlessly exploiting our resources of natural beauty?"

"Can we devise an educational system which provides both equal opportunity and unlimited individual attainment?"

"Can we preserve an effective structure of local government and at the same time recognize the urgency of regional and metropolitan need?"

"And can we both reorganize and refinance the foundations of state government in a manner which preserves the best of past principle yet prepares us for the changing tasks of the future?"

"We face now the responsibility to deal with the future as well as the present, with the emerging opportunities as well as the emergent problems.

"While the substance of any legislative program rests finally on the merits of each individual proposal, I believe it is necessary that we also view our problems in broad perspective—that we consider the whole as well as the parts. During the next few days, we will submit in excess of sixty executive requests for your consideration.

"In the judgment of this administration, there are five central issues and major policy areas which are now paramount among the concerns of the people of the state of Washington.

"First, a series of steps toward the immediate relief of our mounting urban conflict, and beyond that a long-range plan to assure that urban areas can both prosper in terms of people and at the same time preserve their ability to be self-governing.

"Second, the establishment of a comprehensive program to assure that the citizens of Washington have some control over their environment, that our state remains a place to live as well as a place to work, and that our physical resources are not needlessly wasted, but are brought in full and balanced service to our progress.

"Third, a beginning plan for the progressive reorganization and upgrading of the institutions of state government which will permit the orderly assimilation of growth and the assumption of full state responsibility for a reasonable share of its own destiny.

"Fourth, in recognition of the impact of transportation upon the growth of our economy and the enjoyment of our leisure time, the development of practical and enforceable standards to guarantee safe travel on our highways and the achievement of a single state authority in the complex transportation field.

"Fifth, and finally, and perhaps most important, an intelligent recognition of human needs, ranging from welfare programs and our institutions of care to the requirements of vocational rehabilitation, and from the primary resource of education to the fundamental principle of human rights.

"At this point, as we begin to confront the specific questions, I would like to pay tribute to the legislative interim committees, from whose work this administration has both sought and received invaluable assistance.

"No monument to modern civilization has occurred with such speed or with such overtones of impending chaos as the development of our urban centers. By the year 1990—and perhaps before—9 out of 10 Washingtonians will live in large, sprawling metropolitan centers. The already disintegrating countryside will virtually disappear and we will find ourselves faced with the same problems of urban congestion which New York encountered a century ago and Los Angeles a decade ago.

"Our objective—and there is no greater single priority—must be to assure that in Washington the cure is at least better than the illness, and that as a government we can establish a design for urban living which will permit a maximum of individual freedom within a framework of responsible common action.

"The question is no longer academic; it is real; and the measure of our response will determine not only today's ability to withstand the onward rush of urban growth, but tomorrow's ability to survive it.

"During the course of the next sixty days, this administration will introduce a series of measures designed to deal with both the cause and effect of accelerating urban problems.

"Among the things which you will be asked to consider are the acquisition of open space lands within and immediately adjacent to urban centers; the encouragement of urban "breathing room" through taxation of open space lands on the basis of current use; the comprehensive study of controls on motor vehicles to alleviate pollution of the urban atmosphere;

"And legislation which will both allow and encourage cooperative action between different classes of cities and between cities and counties, where the collective requirement exceeds the individual capacity.

"As a key to the concern with which this administration views the subject of local government, you will be asked to transfer the present community planning functions of the Department of Commerce and Economic Development to the Governor's office. Under a recommended Office of Community Affairs, with a separate administrative officer, we can then directly and effectively coordinate local planning, and do so with full regard for the broader requirements of regional and area-wide needs.

"Beyond our own responsibilities, the cities and the counties must be prepared to share the burden. For in the final analysis neither the state government nor the federal government can provide for all of the requirements of urban growth in Washington.

"The concern of the state for the financial difficulties now confronting many of our cities is real; for the first time, a state administration will budget to the cities an appropriation of 25 million dollars from the General Fund.

"But this is not the final answer; nor is it an adequate one. To succeed, the cities, the counties and the metropolitan areas must look beyond outside help to their own resources. This administration will request enabling legislation to make such action possible.

"The ultimate answer to the urgent questions which face us in the construction of an urban society will not be accomplished in this session. But one thing is clear; we must take the initial steps. We must run the risk of error so that future generations do not run the risk of failure.

"Closely related to the problem of our urban areas is the matter of our environment. If the first concerns how and where we live in future decades, the second concerns the kind of a state we will ultimately live in.

"This is of major concern to those who recognize that progress can and must be measured against a standard of quality as well as quantity.

"Within the next several weeks, I will deal with many of the complex questions of environment in a special message to the legislature on Natural Resources and Recreation, but there is one aspect of our living quality which deserves immediate attention today.

"That is the urgent problem we face in the area of air and water pollution. No single manifestation of our prosperity, no single realization of our growth exacts such a cruel price as the pollution of our air and water. In city after city, and now in state after state, growth and success have blotted out the works of man and the genius of nature.

"We must be committed to the principle that, within our power to legislate, Washington will not suffer the consequences of silted air and poisoned waters. Toward this end, I will submit an executive request bill calling for the establishment of an Environmental Quality Commission which will be empowered to coordinate all efforts to maintain high standards of air and water quality in this state. I will support with the full power of this administration laws dealing with the control of pollution in our air, in our water and on our land.

"Two years ago, prior to similar action by the federal government, this administration asked the legislature to authorize the establishment of a Department of Transportation.

"We will make that request again.

"The impact of transportation is now too great to allow its management to be scattered among separate agencies; the requirements of population, of commerce, of safety on both land and water, of the mass movement of people and goods—each of these argues that transportation in this state be subject to a single agency.

"This agency, once constituted, would assume all present and future responsibilities for highways, toll bridges and ferries, rapid transit and aeronautics. The inclusion of rapid transit within the transportation department framework marks the first time that appropriations from the state's General Fund have been sought for the study and development of this basic ingredient of our future balanced transportation system.

"Within the broad area of transportation, no single issue concerns us more than that of traffic safety. You cannot add 270,000 vehicles to the highways of this state without increasing the accident potential. There cannot be any doubt that we need tougher laws governing vehicles and traffic control, and this administration will introduce legislation aimed at four immediately critical areas.

"First, to minimize the fatal consequences of the drinking driver, we will ask legislative approval for the laws dealing with implied consent, for spot checks on the highway designed to prevent accidents before they occur, and for the lowering of the permissible level of alcohol in the bloodstream from 0.15 to 0.10.

"Second, to exercise greater control over the increasing number of motorcycles and motorbikes on our highways, we will seek specific laws concerned with equipment and driver safety and with special licensing for motorcycle operators.

"Third, to assure that our younger drivers are more adequately trained, we will ask that the minimum licensing age be raised to 18 except where the applicant has completed a driver education course. In addition, we will propose legislation establishing three driver licensing categories: juvenile licenses for those from age 16 to 18; minor licenses for drivers 18 to 21; and the present, regular license for all adult drivers. Each licensing step would be accompanied by a review of driver qualifications.

"Fourth, to improve the manpower resources of our State Patrol, and to maintain standards of enforcement and traffic control consistent with growth, we will ask for authorization to expand the patrol by 200 troopers.

"Finally, within the scope of transportation legislation, but closely related to our requirements in the field of urban affairs, this administration will ask approval for a Metropolitan Public Transportation Act. The bill to be submitted will have the effect of permitting metropolitan governments to assume the complex task of rapid transit.

"In the urgency of constructing our modern society, we cannot fail to take into account the needs of its citizens. We must be concerned with people as well as progress, with neglect as well as success and with human need as well as material gain.

"For the past twenty-four months, no primary need has received greater attention from government than that of education. Yet education, like the society it serves, is a continuing task—and each year brings its own new challenges.

"This administration will ask legislation in three areas of educational need during the weeks ahead.

"First, the necessary appropriations to begin the construction of a new four-year institution of higher learning. The excellent work of the advisory council has provided us direction. It is now time to act.

"Second, the creation of community college districts to provide the administrative framework for our expanding system of two-year colleges.

"Third, the ratification of the interstate compact on education, providing authority for school officials in Washington to exchange information and undertake cooperative projects with educators in other states.

"Of continuing concern at this critical time of state growth is the adequate support of primary and secondary education. We have no greater resource than the broadly based educational skills of our young people, and I have every confidence that the legislature, working in close support with state and local agencies, will meet with responsible financial support the imperative demands of our educational future.

"Closely related to the education of our youth is the reeducation of those people whose skills have been made unnecessary by modern technology. We owe an obligation to provide these people with a new opportunity, and this administration strongly supports added emphasis in the area of vocational rehabilitation.

"Of all human needs, none can be more compelling—and none more important than to meet the urgent needs of our unfortunate and unrepresented citizens afflicted with mental illness and retardation. The degree of the problem requires an equal degree of response. To do less is neither fiscally responsible nor humanly defensible.

"I propose a major capital outlay program to allow us to seek out those retarded who need care and to rebuild the outdated facilities in which we care for them. These actions can provide adequate care for all on our waiting lists requiring emergency care by the end of the biennium.

"I propose substantially increased appropriations for professional salaries and for a significantly expanded staff; the institution of a statewide program of testing for P.K.U. which will assist us in early determination of the children who are—or who will be—retarded; and a statewide measles vaccine program which—undertaken in cooperation with the Washington State Medical Association—should see within one year the virtual eradication of measles, a disease which contributes not only to retardation but to blindness and physical disability.

"Over and above state action, this administration will support the expansion of comprehensive community services aimed at creating a network of community mental health and retardation clinics which can deal with these problems at the level of local concern.

"These programs will require additional funds; the alternatives, however, are further anguish, further inadequacy, and the futility of failure in dealing with a demonstrable human need.

"There are four other areas within the context of human needs which deserve the attention of this legislature.

"First, a broader and more flexible range of health care facilities must be made available.

"Second, a more realistic level of support for recipients of unemployment compensation and public assistance. Though our ultimate objective is always—and obviously—to eliminate the conditions which create this need, it is nevertheless necessary to recognize that there are among our citizens those who are both permanently and temporarily displaced. As they are deserving, so do they require adequate compensation—compensation consistent with today's cost of living, based on a formula which can expand—or contract—with the level of wages paid in the general economy. Further, in unemployment compensation, we require a revision of the formula by which employers pay into the program, and this administration—as a part of the legislation directed at this area—will seek this necessary change in our present law.

"Third, in the field of industrial insurance appeals, we require reforms to cut short the unnecessary and often frustrating delay between the time the accident occurs and the time when the injured workman receives his compensation.

"Fourth, and finally, there remains before this legislature, and, indeed, before the entire state, the need for still further progress in achieving equal opportunity for all our citizens. This administration will ask that the present Board Against Discrimination be renamed the Washington State Human Rights Commission, and that it now be charged, not simply with processing complaints, but with exercising positive leadership in the effort to achieve full citizenship for all our citizens.

"To be effective, state government must first of all be responsive. We cannot hope to resolve the problems which now confront us if the machinery of government is inadequate or antiquated, if taxes are levied on the basis of past needs rather than present circumstances, or if we consistently fail to attract and retain superior people in government service.

"There is no benefit to progressive, responsible legislation if the state cannot effectively carry out its mandate, and it falls to this session of the legislature to begin the task of modernizing the structure of state government in Washington.

"It is our responsibility to undertake the question of proper financing; it is our responsibility to see that the departments and agencies of government reflect the needs of the people; and it is our responsibility to recognize that the performance of government is directly related to the abilities of its employees.

"Each of these changes in turn, is related to the basic question of whether state government can survive as a credible force and a full participant in the Federal system.

"State governments are unquestionably on trial today. We have been derelict in the past in meeting our basic obligations, and this has both required and encouraged intervention by the Federal government. I believe it is possible today to reverse this trend; I believe it is possible for state government to reassume its rightful responsibilities—but only if we have the administrative capacity, the laws, the money and the willingness to carry out our share of the governmental process.

"If we are not willing to pay the price, if we cannot change where change is required, if we cannot prepare and carry out the programs so necessary to the conduct of expanding state affairs—if these things are not possible, then we have only one remaining recourse, and that is to prepare for an orderly transfer of our remaining responsibilities to the Federal government.

"I am therefore prepared to introduce a series of executive requests designed to strengthen the hand of state government and at the same time serve the needs of the people more efficiently.

"The question of revenue and expenditure will be taken up in full detail in the budget message to be delivered to the legislature tomorrow. But I will say this now:

"We cannot always increase inadequate but available taxes at the expense of sound fiscal planning; nor can we continue to levy taxes inequitably at the expense of some areas and for the benefit of others.

"We cannot, in short, corrupt our public trust to govern properly because we have failed to face the issue of tax reform, and tax reform will be the subject shortly of still another special message.

"Consistent with a request made 24 months ago, this administration will once again ask the legislature to set in motion the necessary steps leading toward a constitutional convention.

"We are not lacking in precedent for this undertaking—other states have tried and succeeded admirably. And they have demonstrated clearly that necessary changes can be achieved without sacrificing the basic intent or fundamental principles of a state constitution.

"As an interim measure we will seek an enabling amendment which will allow the proposal of comprehensive revisions to the Constitution as a single ballot measure.

"Further, this administration intends to name in the very near future a Constitutional Review Committee composed of public leaders and constitutional authorities. This distinguished group of citizens will be charged with reviewing our state constitution and making recommendations regarding its modernization.

"In addition to the creation of a cabinet level Department of Transportation, I urge you to consider these additional measures, relating directly to the realistic and efficient organization of state government.

"First, the establishment of a Department of Water Resources—again with cabinet rank—to bring under one agency the comprehensive control of this vital resource which has such great impact on our industry, agriculture, power and recreation.

"Second, the replacement of our present Tax Commission with a Department of Revenue which can properly assume greater overall responsibility for the fiscal and monetary policies of the state.

"And, third, the transfer of all professional licensing functions from the Department of Motor Vehicles to the Secretary of State's Office, where they more realistically belong.

"In the area of personnel—and directly related to the efficiency and effectiveness of state government—this administration will seek approval of a new career employees package, of which the principle emphasis will be on a major increase in salaries—amounting to 12% in the first year of the biennium and 5% in the second.

"Related to these long overdue measures affecting state employees is a change in our salary implementation policy. For example, under the present law, salary increases granted to Superior and Supreme Court judges by the last legislature cannot be implemented until a judge is re-elected, or newly elected to office. This provision has the effect of penalizing those judges—some with long experience—who are in mid-term and rewarding those just recently brought to the bench. The inequity which exists can be substantially eliminated by amending the Constitution to permit the immediate implementation of salary increases. This legislation as presently conceived would apply equally to other locally elected officials.

"Finally, in the basic area of government reorganization, this administration will recommend annual sessions of the state legislature, with the additional session limited to 30 days and restricted to matters of budget and appropriation.

"We are now a state spending more than a billion dollars a year in a time when the extent of change is exceeded only by the speed with which change occurs. If we are to budget consistent with need and spend consistent with revenue, then we have reached the point where annual sessions are an absolute requirement.

"Although the central issues are of the highest priority, there are other areas of government in which this administration intends to pursue action by executive request.

"To meet the standards which the public is reasonably entitled to expect in our conduct of government, I will ask again for legislation in the area of campaign contributions and suggest that the legislature work toward the adoption of a stronger code of ethics.

"In the field of labor legislation, I believe it is both realistic and proper that we establish collective bargaining procedures for state and local employees and that we bring our state minimum wage laws into conformity with federal standards.

"To further the steadily improving rapport between labor and management, I will ask the legislature to approve the creation of a Labor-Management Commission to study the future advisability of a state labor relations act.

"To assure the proper public management of our new and exciting frontier in oceanography, I will enthusiastically support the establishment of a Washington State Oceanographic Commission.

"And, lastly, with the objective of fostering increased trade with foreign nations, this administration will seek the establishment of a foreign trade section within the Department of Commerce and Economic Development.

"We come to this 40th session of the Legislature with a long and demanding agenda. It is no ordinary session, just as these are not ordinary times. We have come far, but we have much farther to go.

"We no longer stand alone today; by circumstance and design, Washington has been thrust headlong into an era of unprecedented demands upon the people and their resources. A state of three million, we will soon be four, and the great changes which we contemplate in this decade will be distant history in the next.

"Because change occurs so swiftly, we must choose both wisely and well.

"The challenges of prosperity are more difficult than those of depression, for now we must deal with the unfamiliar rather than the familiar, with the untested rather than the well established.

"Confronted by chance, we have no other choice than to proceed. We must be willing to take the necessary risks, so that the future can be made stable and the process of government made secure.

"I believe these goals are possible, that they are obtainable.

"The Constitution of the State of Washington makes us not rivals for power, but partners in the unfolding tasks of government. I ask no miracles, only common dedication to the future of Washington, and a common commitment to its great needs.

"To accomplish the things that must be done for the future will require vision as well as maturity, courage as well as conviction, leadership as well as understanding.

"I have every confidence that the 40th Legislature possesses these qualities.

"Let us then with respect for tradition but without fear of the future; with confidence in ourselves and with faith in Almighty God, now proceed to the business of the people.

FOURTH DAY

NOON SESSION

Senate Chamber,

Olympia, Washington, Thursday, January 12, 1967.

The Senate was called to order at noon by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators Chytil and Lennart.

On motion of Senator Atwood, Senators Chytil and Lennart were excused.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Michael Bailey, Color Bearer, and Barbara King, presented the Colors.

Reverend Fr. Charles Howard Perry, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

Matthew 7:21-27—"Jesus said 'Not everyone who calls me "Lord, Lord" will enter the kingdom of Heaven, but only those who do the will of my heavenly father. When that day comes, many will say to me, "Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, cast out devils in your name, and in your name perform many miracles?" Then I will tell them to their face, "I never knew you: out of my sight, you and your wicked ways!"

"What then of the man who hears these words of mine and acts upon them? He is like a man who had the sense to build his house on rock. The rain came down, the floods rose, the wind blew, and beat upon that house; but it did not fall, because its foundations were on rock. But what of the man who hears these words of mine and does not act upon them? He is like a man who was foolish enough to build his house on sand. The rain came down, the floods rose, the wind blew, and beat upon that house; down it fell with a great crash."

Let us pray:

"O God, our Heavenly Father, help us to build our lives, our hopes, our ambitions on the foundation of rock and not on sand. We know the futility of attempting to build our personal lives and our social structures on prejudice, greed and self-interest. And yet, O God, we are tempted to try to compromise good with evil, right with wrong, rock with sand. Give us the wisdom to accept the fact that these compromises never work.

"We would pray, Our Father, for the vision of truth which is elusive to us, but known to you; for the vision of mercy which is hard for us to show, but of your very nature; for the vision of justice among men which is difficult for us to create, but so integral a part of your love for us. Grant that as we so weakly struggle to behold things unseen and yet eternal, we may be strengthened in heart and in mind to continue the search. Help us to be those who call you 'Lord', Lord, and whose voices are recognized by you as faithful followers and doers of your will.

"May your blessing rest upon the Members of this Senate as each of them seeks truth, mercy and justice in the affairs of the men and women of this state of Washington. So order their lives that they may be wise in bringing order into the lives of others; so temper their wills that they may exert their energy in working for the reward that fades not away; so direct their minds and hearts that they may desire that which is beautiful, good and wholesome for all the people of this state. And grant them, Oh God, thy peace which passes human understanding, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Greive, the rules were suspended to permit additional sponsors, Senators Faulk and Morgan, to Senate Bill No. 39.

SENATE RESOLUTION
1967-6

By Senators Hallauer, Washington and Neill:

Whereas, On prior years the office and service facilities for the Legislature have been wholly inadequate; and

Whereas, In the exercise of its determination to remedy this situation, the Thirty-ninth Legislature laid extensive plans for improving these facilities and during the ensuing interim many groups and individuals have enthusiastically cooperated in the further development and the swift execution of these splendid plans; and

Whereas, As we commence this fortieth session we are enjoying the benefits of these improvements which will enable us to concentrate more directly upon the substance of the many and complex legislative problems confronting our rapidly growing state;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, That we offer our thanks and express our gratitude to Chairman Fred Dore and all of the members of the Legislative Facilities and Operations Committee and to Charles Horowitz, Esq., Mr. K. The President of the Senate:

"Honorable members of the Legislature, ladies and gentlemen:

"The purpose of this joint session is to receive the budget message from the Governor. At this time, ladies and gentlemen and members of the Washington State Legislature, His Excellency, the Honorable Daniel J. Evans, Governor of the State of Washington."

Governor Evans:

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the Legislature:

"If yesterday was a time when we heard about the programs for the exciting future of our state, today is the day when we are gathered to hear how they can be financed and how, in detail, the state can pay for them.

"As this body convenes for Washington's fortieth legislative session, there is a sense of urgency and excitement in the challenges of the next sixty days that I am certain must be felt by everyone in this chamber.

"We are all acutely aware that our state is riding a surging wave of economic expansion. It has produced dramatic developments since my budget message to the Legislature two years ago. So dramatic, in fact, that none of us could have predicted the magnitude of our economic boom.

"In my 'State of the State' message yesterday I cited statistics which measured our growth, during the past two years, in population, employment, personal income, and school enrollment. What they all add up to is that Washington is growing faster than any other state in the nation—and so are the challenges to its state government.

"As I pointed out yesterday, we must be prepared to cope with continued vigorous growth in the months ahead. Over the next five years, Washington's population will increase by nearly 500,000 people.

"Instead of an unemployment rate which reached as high as 7% a few years ago, we now find less than 4% of our work force unemployed. In the next five years we will be challenged to find enough skilled workers for some 200,000 new jobs. In short, we are facing the most dynamic growth period this state has ever known.

"But with prosperity, our economic advance is bringing problems which will challenge this 1967 Legislature and legislative sessions thereafter.

"The dramatic increase in population is putting intense pressures on our entire educational system, from kindergarten through our universities.

"The concentration of new people and new jobs in urban areas has intensified the already serious plight of our larger cities, many of which lack the financial resources to provide adequate public services.

"Our business expansion has increased wages in the private sector of the economy. The state, operating on a budget fixed two years ago, is unable to match this wage competition in its efforts to attract and retain qualified personnel.

"Our society's growing affluence and leisure time is testing the limits of this state's outdoor recreation facilities. The mobility of our citizens is crowding state highways—and establishing tragic records of traffic accidents and deaths.

"Our population growth will inevitably include persons of marginal employability, who will require public assistance, and those who are destined to spend time in our correctional institutions.

"In addition to these 'new' problems, our 'old' problems are clamoring for attention. This is particularly true in state programs for the mentally retarded, where inadequate salaries and personnel shortages result in a level of care that must be improved. It is also true in our public assistance program, in which grants are based on 1960 price levels and vendor payments are based on 1964 costs.

"Finally, we must now face the full biennial cost of programs implemented only in part during the current biennium.

"Thus, the budget for the biennium ahead will be challenged on the expenditure side by increasing workloads, program deficiencies and rising costs.

"Our expanding economy, however, has generated increased state revenue. At the same time, efficient government operation and the confines of the past biennium's budget have limited state expenditures. The result is that the General Fund will contain an estimated surplus of $81.9 million at the end of the current biennium. It is the first such surplus in Washington since 1949.

"I believe this budget satisfies two critical requirements. First, it provides the 'catch-up' resources necessary to accommodate our population's present needs. Second, it meets the future challenges we can expect from our continuing economic growth. It faces our responsibilities squarely—both present and future—and chooses the demanding road instead of the convenient one.

"Enrollments this fall in our common school system (Grades 1 through 12) exceeded estimates by approximately 15,000 students. Next fall we will have 20,000 more students in Grades 1-12 than were anticipated a year earlier for any time in the forecast period through 1975.

"My budget proposes an increase in General Fund support for the activities under the Superintendent of Public Instruction of $142.5 million.

"This increase will allow us to meet the expected surge in enrollments without sacrificing present quality.

"It will allow us to increase the salaries of all district personnel by 7% in the first year of the biennium and an additional 5% in the second year. This will mean an average increase to the instructional staff of $537 in the first year and $410 in the second, to an average annual salary of $8,617 in the second year. These increases should keep Washington ranking in the top ten states in the nation.

"Approximately $3 million is included in the budget to place reimbursement for transportation on a current level. Since this move will not change costs which the districts are actually incurring, it will improve their cash position or allow them to make minor program improvements.

"The budget recognizes an educational obligation too long overlooked at the state level . . . a special approach for the gifted child. I am requesting $507,000 for programs designed to benefit some 20,000 gifted children.

"The existing program for handicapped children will be expanded to meet an increase in the total number of children served from 81,590 this year to almost 90,000 by the end of the biennium. By improving and expanding our capabilities faster than the rate of increase in total enrollment, we can make substantial improvements in the identification and treatment of handicapped children already in the school system.

"I have not mentioned the increasing problem of special levies. Our growing reliance on these levies constitutes a very real threat to basic programs in too many districts. I feel that such levies should be limited to special programs only, and that a firmer basis must be found for the continuing budget. Unfortunately, that basis is simply not available under our present tax structure. I will make specific proposals on this problem as a part of a special tax reform message early in the session, and I might say here that the problem of special levies is not only a current one, but an immediate one to almost thirty percent of our entire school population. On January 24th, sixteen special school levies in the Puget Sound area will go before the voters. The extent of our present budget crisis, I think, can be measured by the fact that these special levies involve 203,000 students and nearly $32 million. I want to go on record as enthusiastically endorsing and supporting these special levy requests that will go before the voters on January 24th, with the fervent hope that during this legislative session, the legislature will find better and more permanent means of alleviating this special levy problem.

"Community college enrollments grew rapidly prior to the current biennium, when the rate of growth levelled off. This can be explained in some cases, by limited state support, but in the fall of 1966 enrollments at many of the colleges dropped despite increased state funds. Since we expect that the upward trend will resume in the ensuing biennium, this budget provides an increase of $26.1 million, or 62.1 percent to accommodate an increased enrollment. It will also support salary increases of 7% the first year and 5% the second year.

"The common school building program will be supported by prior state bond issues, including a portion of the $16.5 million Referendum 14 measure and the new Common School Construction Fund created under SJR 22, both approved last November. A proposed new appropriation from this fund of $25,845,840 will provide classroom construction for enrollment growth and normal replacement through the fall of 1969. The projected rate of income to the fund gives us reason to hope that we can fund school construction on a current basis through 1971.

"During the next biennium, enrollments in our colleges and universities are expected to increase by 6,033 students or 11.7%.

"The general approach in this budget has been to meet these increased enrollments through uniform application of faculty-staffing ratios agreed upon by the five institutions, to provide for salary increases of 7% and 5%, and to make specific adjustments in individual schools where warranted.

"This budget also provides for the initial costs of a new four-year institution—$552,200 in operating costs and $905,000 in capital to acquire a site and develop plans for initial construction during 1969-71. An orderly timetable for development of the new school would see the first class enrolling in the fall of 1970 or 1971.

"In education, our economic growth has greatly increased workloads. In our institutions it has hampered our ability to compete for workers in a tight labor market. Many are faced with chronic understaffing and rapid turnover. These problems are especially serious in the schools for the retarded.

"Immediate and substantial salary increases are an obvious step toward the improvement of this situation.

"But salary increases are only one phase of a broad attack on mental retardation contained in this budget.

"We must also enlarge staffs. Over the course of the next biennium 235 additional full-time jobs will be authorized as part of a ten-year program to bring staffing levels up to national standards. "A measure will be presented to authorize a fifth school for the retarded to be known as the Medical Lake School. This facility will accommodate 400 retarded when fully occupied toward the latter part of the next biennium.

"As a result of the passage of Referendum 15, a 270-bed addition will soon be under construction at Yakima Valley School.

"Other major construction activity will center on Fircrest School, where the present facilities are largely temporary World War II frame buildings. The capital improvement budget I am proposing provides for a substantial replacement of these temporary buildings, plus construction of a new Care and Therapy treatment center.

"As significant as these state financed additions to the programs for the retarded are, they must be augmented by other programs at the community level.

"The established and successful day care program will be expanded from 27 existing centers to 45 centers in the next biennium.

"Three steps are proposed to encourage local participation in the Federal Mental Retardation construction program. First, I am requesting $346,000 for construction of community mental retardation clinics. Enabling legislation will be proposed to help counties provide their share of the necessary matching funds. Finally, this budget requests $100,000 in planning grants to counties to help assure that the programs developed meet priority community needs and are properly coordinated with existing services.

"When added together, these represent the largest single step forward in our state's history in care for mentally retarded.

"I am recommending a parallel expansion of services in the field of mental health. An increase of $2,233,523 is requested to improve programs in the state institutions, and an increase of $1,561,821 is requested for state participation in community programs. This budget should go far towards improving Washington State's national ranking in community mental health facilities.

"In order to meet the increasing demands in adult correction and juvenile rehabilitation, substantial additional capacity will be required. This is an unfortunate commentary on today's problems, both of the adult and of the juvenile, both in this state and throughout the nation.

"In order to meet the increasing demands in adult correction and juvenile rehabilitation, substantial additional capacity will be required.

"A 270-person expansion is proposed for the adult Correction Center at Shelton, a new 150-inmate prison for women has been authorized under Referendum 15, and expansion in the Honor Camps will provide needed capacity for adult corrections.

"In juvenile rehabilitation, the completion this year of Echo Glen Children's Center near Preston and the acquisition of the former Air Force Station at Naselle are providing immediate relief for space needs. Next biennium will see the completion of additional diagnostic cottages at Cascadia, a fifth Youth Camp at Indian Ridge (near Sultan) and three new group homes.

"While these expansions will provide adequate physical facilities for the next two years, it is apparent that greater efforts must be made in both rehabilitation and prevention.

"The budget for the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles will be increased by $658,120, permitting more intensive work with parolees and improving their chances for success on parole.

"To accomplish the same objective in juvenile rehabilitation, a 68.1% increase of $729,650 is proposed for juvenile parole services. With adequate supervision in the community, a much larger number of youngsters committed to the state could be placed on parole directly out of the diagnostic center at Cascadia.

"Further emphasis is also placed on keeping young people from being committed in the first place. Probation services grants to counties will be increased from $35,000 to $100,000 and the Division of Juvenile Delinquency Prevention and Control will be increased by $275,107 (34.3%) to strengthen the performance of its 22 child guidance centers.

"Dual objectives of this administration in public assistance have been to keep the assistance lists to an absolute minimum, while recognizing the state's obligation to those who genuinely need help.

"During the current biennium we have been able to eliminate the long-standing ratable reduction in grants to ADC families. We must now take the next required step to put all payments on a current basis. This will be a costly move, since we are currently basing grants on 1960 prices. Approximately $12.2 million will allow us to base grants on today's cost of living.

"Another major cost to the department will be updating the prices paid for various services provided to recipients, principally for health care. $13,800,000 will be required for full rates for these vendor groups. In addition, the budget proposes an increase of nearly 50% in dental care to maintain the dental health of children and to provide restorative work to adults.

"In the program of child welfare services, the proposed budget provides for updating payment rates to voluntary agency child-care institutions and maternity homes to allow for full payment of per capita maintenance expenditures.

"In addition, I propose to continue those beneficial programs initiated during 1965-67 and which must now be funded for the entire ensuing biennium. These include the elimination of the ratable reductions, the implementation of higher standards for grants to ADC-employable families, the liberalization of medical care benefits to medical indigents and increases made in this biennium in various vendor payments. These alone will cost nearly $12 million but are essential to the minimal support of recipients.

"The improvements made in caring for underprivileged, neglected or homeless children in the present period will be strengthened in 1967-69. We will continue to improve day care services, and to emphasize protective services to children in danger of being mistreated or abused, as well as homemaker services for families for emergency periods. I am requesting $950,000 for these vital purposes.

"Another service experiencing the pressures of Washington's growing population is outdoor recreation. The need for expansion of our recreational facilities was recognized with the passage in 1964 of Initiative 215 and Referendum 11, and with the passage of the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Act.

"However, these measures are not proving adequate to the need. At an alarming rate, priceless recreational resources are being converted irrevocably to other purposes. The matter is of such urgency that it will be the subject of a special message.

"In the meantime, an increase in funds is available through programs coordinated by the Interagency Committee on Outdoor Recreation, and $4,452,588 will be requested from the General Fund surplus for capital outlay for the Parks and Recreation Commission. This investment will open seven new state parks with 370 campsites and other developments, expand existing parks by 470 additional campsites, and provide urgently needed improvements at many other existing parks.

"As we propose a budget of this size, we must redouble our efforts to insure that the money we request will be spent wisely. During this biennium we have had the benefit of an extensive review of the operations of state government by a dedicated group of men from the management level of private industry, the Council for the Reorganization of Washington State Government. Their report, submitted over a year ago, has already resulted in significant economies and has set the tone for improved operations that will continue to bear fruit for years to come. One of the Council recommendations that will receive priority attention under the new budget is the establishment in Central Budget Agency of a management services unit for the specific purpose of reviewing agency operations to install better methods of accomplishing the tasks of government. I will ask this group to maintain close liaison with the Executive Committee of the Council in the hope that we may continue to benefit from the experience of these business leaders.

"The state is completing an independent review of its data processing operations by an outside consulting firm. The report will be delivered before the end of the month. An appropriation of $2,500,000, to be released only after the detailed planning is completed, will enable us to establish a powerful data processing service center and to establish the organizational and conceptual framework for the long-range development of data processing in the state.

"Last year's record 816 traffic deaths requires that we redouble our efforts to reduce the alarming increase in highway accidents.

"To this end, I am requesting that the State Patrol be appropriated sufficient funds to increase its effective field force by 200 additional troopers over the next two years.

"All programs of driver improvement in the Department of Motor Vehicles must also be intensified. An increase of $1,347,902 (29.9%) is requested for this purpose.

"Finally, participation in the new Federal Highway Safety Program will make $2,879,363 available to the state and local governments for specified programs in traffic safety.

"The impact of economic expansion is not limited to school districts or the agencies of state government. As our society becomes increasingly urbanized, a heavier burden in public safety, transportation, and planning falls upon our city governments.

"You will see in the budget placed before you today $25 million in direct state aid to cities. It is my proposal that this amount be allocated to cities on the basis of a four-part formula: one quarter for all cities; one quarter for cities over 20,000 population; one quarter for cities with full time police departments; and one quarter for cities with full time fire departments. Such a formula will assign this money to cities with the greatest need.

"State aid is not the entire answer to the immediate problems of the cities, nor is it the long range answer to the problems of the future. These answers lie in a coordinated program consisting of state aid, greater local authority in matters of taxation, creation of a better mechanism for intergovernmental cooperation, establishment of an agency in state government that will be particularly responsive to problems of urban areas, and finally, legislation dealing with specific problems such as local organization and mass transit.

"A separate item in the budget, though one that is synonymous with quality throughout, is the matter of salary adjustments. State employees are now paid on a basic compensation plan adopted to reflect prevailing wages in 1964. Even this pay level did not become fully effective until August 1, 1966. To make salary levels competitive, I am proposing increases averaging 12% to be effective February 1 of this year, with a further 5% adjustment effective July 1, 1968. The budget contains a General Fund appropriation of $25,000,000 for this item for the next biennium. Also contemplated in the salary adjustment package for the new biennium are time and one-half for overtime and shift differentials, features of long-standing in competitive pay plans.

"In a time of rapid change and explosive growth, we cannot rely on appropriations fixed at biennial sessions of the Legislature to meet every eventuality. As in this biennium, we can confidently predict that circumstances will arise requiring a shift of state funds beyond the capacity of a reasonable emergency appropriation, but not of sufficient magnitude to warrant a special session of the legislature. This budget recommends an appropriation of $17.5 million for such contingencies. This appropriation will not be against current revenue since its expenditure is uncertain, but rather is counted against the General Fund balance.

"I propose that this appropriation be allocated by joint legislative-executive action, rather than by executive action alone. I will work with you to develop an appropriate mechanism for this purpose.

"The budget I have outlined in this message totals nearly three billion dollars. 44.5% of this amount is funded from earmarked sources, leaving a General Fund budget of $1,631.4 million. This is an increase of 36.7% over the present biennium. Some may call this increase ambitious—and indeed it is. It must be, if our state government is to meet the serious responsibilities created by our dynamic economy and the legitimate needs of our people.

"Of this total, General Fund expenditures which are current and recurring will exceed revenue from existing sources by approximately $49 million. This gap must be bridged by an assured, continuing source of revenue. As the immediate, short-range solution to this need, I recommend to you an increase in the sales tax from 4.2 to 4.5 percent.

"This is not a recommendation I relish. It is, however, the logical answer to balancing the state's budget for the next two years.

"The appropriate long-range answer, I feel, lies in tax reform rather than repeated increases in the sales tax. Only a comprehensive tax reform program will solve the problems of tax equality, responsiveness of revenue yield, needs of urban areas, and the special levy dilemma of school districts. There are several alternatives in such a dynamic tax program that I look forward to exploring with you in this session.

"It is apparent, however, that the budget I have proposed could be balanced—without a tax increase—through one of two deceptively simple methods.

"One alternative would be to use the $81.9 million General Fund surplus I discussed earlier. Even after providing revenues for the proposed $17.5 million contingency appropriation and $12.5 million in aid to cities (one-half the total proposed), a General Fund surplus of $51.6 million would remain. If applied to current expenses, this sum would produce a balanced budget for General Fund operations during the 1967-69 biennium.

"I firmly believe this choice would be totally irresponsible. Instead, I am proposing expenditure of $51.6 million in a capital outlay program devoted primarily to the critical needs of our department of institutions, higher education, and parks and recreation.

"Many of the specific capital improvement projects I have outlined earlier in this address. Briefly, the program includes $19.3 million for the department of institutions, $16.3 million for higher education including community colleges, $6 million for state office buildings, also desperately needed to once again bring state government back together on this campus, $4.5 million for parks and recreation, $2 million for the state patrol for the construction of a new academy and a comprehensive communications center in the Puget Sound basin area, $1.7 million for badly needed improvements in the Department of Fisheries, and $1.5 million for other state agencies. These funds are available now. They would allow us to conduct and complete capital outlay programs now without the wait for a vote of the people two years from now and the additional costs both in construction and in necessary bond interest.

"The second alternative—cutting this budget to equal current revenues—would be equally as tempting but just as shortsighted. Aid to cities, welfare, education, and service related to institutions account for 92% of all General Fund expenditures. The increases proposed in these areas are not only justifiable, they are actually minimum levels in providing the quality of schooling and public services to which we are or ought to be obligated.

"There is also a question of fiscal integrity involved in the choice of a General Fund surplus or a sales tax increase as a method of balancing this budget. If we were to base a future spending level on a non-recurring revenue source, such as this budget surplus, we would be making an extremely unwise decision that would be regretted.

"The budget and revenue program I have proposed to you is not based on expediency. Its major guideline is a demand for excellence. It is the same guideline which motivates Washington citizens. It must be our guideline as together we work to meet the demands of our state's exciting future."

"Do not store up for yourselves treasure on earth, where it grows rusty and moth-eaten, and thieves break in to steal it. Store up treasure in heaven, where there is no moth and no rust to spoil it, no thieves to break in and steal. For where your wealth is, there will your heart be also.

"Father increase my awareness of your presence this day. Be with me as I take up my work. Use me to cast the sunlight of your presence in the small corner of your world in which I work. As the clock measures my labors during the day, so do I pray that you will be with me minute by minute. I need your strength in crises, your guidance in problems, the feeling of your spirit in meetings, and the joy of being in your service, however humble, this day.

"Almighty God, take care of my wife and family while I am away. You have blessed me with such a richness of home life that I can never properly express my gratitude. My work is dedicated to this family; help me to so perform my day's occupation that it will reflect the love and self-giving that graces our marriage. Protect them from harm. Help my wife to bear the childishness of children. Be with our children through their quick joys and quick sorrows. And when the day is ended, let us enfold them with as much love and forgiveness as we constantly receive from you. In Jesus' name. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

EIGHTH DAY

NOON SESSION

Senate Chamber,

Olympia, Washington, Monday, January 16, 1967.

The Senate was called to order at noon, by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senator Gissberg.

On motion of Senator Keefe, Senator Gissberg was excused.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Clarke Whitney, Color Bearer, and Myra Rintamaki, presented the Colors.

Reverend Fr. Charles Albert LaPierre, pastor of the St. Michael's Catholic Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"For I was hungry and you never gave me food, I was thirsty and you never gave me anything to drink, I was a stranger and you never made me welcome, naked and you never clothed me, sick and in prison and you never visited me. Then it will be our turn to ask, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty, a stranger or naked, sick or in prison, and did not come to your help. Then he will answer, I swear to you by God, in so far as you neglected to do this to one of the least of these, you neglected to do it to me.'"

"Lord, in this session open our eyes. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

The Secretary read:

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen:

"Something has occurred this morning that I never expected to live to see. Father LaPierre and I have been friends for many, many years. In fact you might call it a lifetime friendship, at least in Father LePierre's instance, because I have known him and his wonderful parents since the day he was born. We lived right across the street from each other at that time. It is with a great deal of pleasure that the members of the Senate and the President welcome you here this morning."

The Secretary read:

The family of Mary Chytil gratefully acknowledges your kind expression of sympathy.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I have the honor this morning to have in my office visiting our session the Honorable Herbert Bruch, Majority Leader of the Parliament of British Columbia. I also had the pleasure a few years ago of visiting the Honorable Herbert Bruch in Victoria where I had the chance to see some of the workings of their Parliament. I also think that they have a system that is somewhat better than ours in some cases because they have a majority party that makes up their mind what it is going to do and then they go out and do it, and the minority doesn't seem to have too much to say about it. It happens like this here, too, occasionally. I also might say that they have more than one political party up there, and we seem to have enough trouble with just two down here. I would appreciate it very much if the Honorable Herbert Bruch would be accorded the courtesy of the Senate."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed a special committee consisting of Senators Henry, Kupka and Washington to act as a committee of honor to escort the Honorable Herbert Bruch to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen:

"It is a signal honor this morning to be able to present to you the President Pro Tempore of the Washington State Senate, the Honorable Senator Al Henry."

Senator Henry:

"Thank you, Governor Cherberg and Gentlemen and Lady of the Senate:

"As I said in my earlier remarks, I was royally entertained in British Columbia by the Honorable Herbert Bruch and had the occasion to see something that I think probably only happens once in a lifetime, something they called the Silver Drum Ceremony, in which the government and other agencies presents to the Canadian Pacific Fleet the Sterling Silver Drums engraved with the insignia of their station, plus the major battles and so forth that they had engaged in. It was a very impressive ceremony and it was something, as I said, that I think happens only probably once in a lifetime. Certainly it hadn't happened in quite a number of years.

"I also had a chance to visit Herbert Bruch in what he calls his 'riding,' (which is what we call a district) in Esquimalt, which I gather is the Annapolis of the Province. It is the naval training station just outside of Victoria. I was very much impressed with the treatment that we received and I am very happy this morning that the Honorable Herbert Bruch, the Majority Leader of the Social Credit Party, the ruling party I might say of British Columbia, is here with us today."

The Honorable Herbert Bruch:

"Thank you, Al, Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen:

"It is certainly a pleasure to be back here again and to partake of your hospitality. I want to say that at any time that any of you find the time from your duties to come to British Columbia, we will be happy to welcome you and to show you around. We have many things in common and in British Columbia we have found that in particular the meetings we have had on what we call the Alaska, Yukon, British Columbia conferences have worked to our benefit all around with the ferry links and other results of these conferences.

"I am particularly interested at the present time to continue some discussions that we had some six years ago concerning the coast route, the 101 route, because I feel there is still one link missing, and I hope that somehow we can get together and do something about that last link because now the route from California to Alaska is pretty well a reality. We want to look to the future to make it as good and attractive a route as possible.

"I hope that if at any time there is any information that you might want, that if there is any way that we can foster cooperation, after all we have many things in common, and if we can cooperate, it will be to our benefit both in British Columbia and in Washington State as well.

"Thank you again for your kindness."

The Secretary read:

SENATE MEMORIAL

1967 - 2

By Senators Guess and Bailey:

TO THE HONORABLE LYNDON B. JOHNSON, PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, AND TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED, AND TO THE SECRETARY OF THE DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION:

We, your Memorialists, the Senate of the State of Washington, in legislative session assembled, respectfully represent and petition as follows:

Whereas, The Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Transportation in late November, 1966 advised all states of a cut in their authority to obligate federal-aid highway funds for fiscal 1967 as well as a retroactive prohibition on obligating any funds not yet obligated from previous apportionments as of June 30, 1966; and

Whereas, The State of Washington had twenty-six million dollars authorized as of June 30, 1966, and ninety-seven million two hundred thousand dollars was to be allocated to it for fiscal 1967, which amounts were reduced to zero and seventy-two million five hundred thousand dollars, a cut of fifty million dollars; and

Whereas, The State of Washington has geared its highway planning and steadily increasing construction in reliance on the promises, announced policies, budgets, statutes, and urgings of the federal government, resulting in the employment of a heavy proportion of construction engineers and consulting engineers; and

Whereas, The private construction industry has increased its employment and capital investments to meet anticipated highway department programs; and

Whereas, the federal aid cut will create employment difficulties in both state government and private industry as well as losses in capital investments; and

Whereas, The federal aid cut will severely curtail this state's efforts to achieve an adequate state highway transportation system and to fulfill its obligations to complete its portion of the interstate highway system;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Senate of the State of Washington does respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States do at the earliest possible time devise and approve legislation which will restore all federal aid highway funds to the levels in effect and contemplated in November 1966, prior to the cut-back.

Be It Further Resolved, That copies of this Memorial be transmitted by the Secretary of the Senate to the President of the United States, to the Senators and Representatives from the State of Washington, to the Vice President, to the Chairmen of the Committees on Finance and on Commerce of the Senate, to the Speaker and the Chairmen of the Ways and Means and Public Works Committees of the House of Representatives, and to the Secretary of the Department of Transportation.

It was moved by Senator Bailey that the memorial be adopted.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Mardesich:

"Would Senator Guess yield to a question?"

"Senator Guess, first of all I would like to say I am heartily in accord with your memorial but I wonder if you could state whether you expect any quick decision as to what the federal government might do with regard to this matter?"

Senator Guess:

"I believe that the Public Works Committee of the House is going into session in the morning to consider this matter and so in talking with the Congressman from the fourth district, I was urged that it would be the best thing possible to get this legislation through as rapidly as possible and transmitted back to the Congress as soon as we could. They are looking at it now.

"Saturday morning, Congressman Key of Minnesota was here and I spoke to him about the matter and he was very much concerned about it and assured me that the Congressman from West Virginia was too. He said they would do everything possible, but they feel that a move on our part of this type would be helpful."

Senator Mardesich:

"Then we can look to quick action on the part of the Congress; and assuming we don't see any quick action within the next week or so here, and in view of your remarks on the real problem we are having on our highways with respect to safety and so on and the saving of lives, would you see fit to support a gasoline tax if nothing is done within the next week or so?"

Senator Guess:

"Senator, that depends upon the shape the bill takes."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the memorial was adopted.

The Secretary read:

The motion was carried.

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I would like to make a few brief remarks on behalf of our good friend, Dr. Cecil Hannan, who was with us many years representing the legislative lobby here in the halls of Olympia, first as assistant to Dr. Joe Chandler, and then taking over the main job himself. I think today that we can say truthfully that the state of Washington has perhaps one of the finest educational systems in the Union and I think that a great part of that is due to Dr. Cecil Hannan who supplied the knowledge and the leadership to put through many legislative reform bills that we enjoy in the state of Washington. As chairman of the Interim Committee on Education during 1965, I found him to be of immeasurable help to the committee. You may recall that from that Interim Education Committee came eight or nine major pieces of legislation which framed the structure for the operation of our community colleges, the establishment of a four year college, legislation for a long range financing of school construction, modernizing the formula for distribution of school funds, to mention a few.

"Cec has now moved up the education ladder. He is back in Washington D.C. and serves as Executive Secretary of the National Education Association. I recently went back there to a conference and spoke to him, and he is doing the same outstanding job for education at the Nation's Capitol that he did here in Olympia. We wish him well in his new work and we hope that some day he will be elected to the presidency of the National Association. It is fitting that the House members saw fit to introduce this resolution to honor Dr. Hannan, we in the Senate join in its passage, and wish Cec and his family well in his new challenges in our Nation's Capitol."

Senator Ridder:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I would like to say one additional word, being an educator. Cec was quite close to all of us. About ten years ago he appeared here on Capitol Hill and Joe Chandler, at that time Mr. Education, asked Cec to take a bill up to one of the Senators. Before the day was over, Cec had moved that bill all the way through to passage. From that time on, I think that we realized the power Cec had in education.

"We hope that in his new job with the National Education Association, that he does move ahead and he works in the spirit of Pearl Wanamaker and Joe Chandler and others: Mr. Education, Cec Hannan, we knew him well."

Senator McCormack:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I would like to add my words of commendation to Cec Hannan at this time. As a member of the Education Committee last session I know we very much appreciated the different material he provided to us here in the legislature and on the Education Committees. I think it's fair to say that Cec Hannan was one of the moving spirits for bringing about better standards of education and better conditions of employment for the teachers of our state to the high pinnacle that they have now reached.

"Thank you."

The motion by Senator Greive was carried and the resolution was adopted.

House Concurrent Resolution No. 8, by Representatives Gorton and O'Brien:

By Senators Twigg, Keefe, Herrmann, Guess and Cooney:

Whereas, The Athletic Round Table of Spokane, Washington is well known throughout the Northwest and the free world, and

Whereas, The Athletic Round Table in its first adventure beyond its realm of Spokane established a luxurious and lucrative branch of its Club in the neighboring state of Idaho, and as a result of this venture was able to bring great credit and honor on the state of Washington, and

Whereas, We, the members of the Washington State Senate, are proud to have such a unique organization within this state, and

Whereas, An honored and respected member of the Athletic Round Table, Mr. John Schafhausen of Spokane, Washington, is embarking on a trip to the continent of Antarctica on the 20th day of January, 1967, as a guest of the personnel of Operation Deepfreeze, and

Whereas, The appearance of a Washington State Flag and the Banner of the Athletic Round Table of Spokane in a proper location within the continent of Antarctica would bring favorable comment from travelers who will pass through that continent,

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, That John Schafhausen be and he is hereby appointed an emissary to place a flag of the state of Washington together with the Banner of the Athletic Round Table bearing the head of the legendary Esmeralda, in a place of honor and respect in the exact center of the South Pole, continent of Antarctica, so that travelers who pass that point can all see the glorious Washington State Flag and the distinctive Athletic Round Table Banner flying side by side.

"Mr. President, members of the Senate, point of personal privilege:

"I would like to announce an event of great significance to the state of Washington. The Atomic Energy Commission today has announced that it has awarded the contract for the construction of the new fast flux test reactor in the state of Washington to be built at Hanford Nuclear Project and operated by the contractors there. The contract calls for $80 million in construction and will employ about 350 personnel in its operation. This reactor is the first step in the next generation of feasible production of nuclear energy with breeder reactors. It will put Washington clearly ahead of every other state in the nation in the field of nuclear energy.

"I thought you, gentlemen and lady, would like to know about this announcement this morning."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"Mr. President, I would like to speak on a point of personal privilege:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate, you have received in the last few days a can of Washington sockeye salmon. Now it so happens that this salmon is from a new breed, our new run of sockeye that was started in the Cedar river. They were trapped as they came in the lower end of my district, Ballard, or what we call Shilshole or Salmon Bay. Salmon Bay is the entry to the Government Locks and they were trapped there and their roe was removed. If you are not sure, Senator McCutcheon, what that is, that is the egg and milk, which was removed. You call it caviar, but it isn't caviar.

"We want you to enjoy this salmon from Ballard. It is presented to you by the Washington state department of fisheries, the interim committee on fisheries and the employees of the fisheries department. We are proud of our fisheries and proud of the natural resource that has given so much to the state. We just wanted you to enjoy a can of this new breed of salmon that is coming in. This is part of the rehabilitation of our natural resource which has done so much again, as I say, for the state of Washington."

I have the honor to advise that Governor Evans has approved the following Senate Bill, entitled:

Senate Bill No. 198

"An Act relating to expenses and costs of the legislature, including subsistence payments; making appropriations; and declaring an emergency."

Very truly yours,
Raymond W. Haman,
Legal Counsel.

State of Washington, Office of the Governor,
Olympia, January 20, 1967.

To the Honorable, The Senate of the State of Washington,
Lady and Gentlemen:

In the opening days of this 40th Legislature, there has been much concern voiced about the resolution of our serious and accelerating problems of urban growth. There is, however, another consideration which is both equal in importance and opposite in nature. And that is the eventual disposition of Washington's priceless heritage of natural beauty.

We in this state have been fortunate in the many fine programs we have developed for outdoor recreation and to preserve our natural resources. These programs have been implemented by dedicated and capable management over a long period of years. In addition to our important programs under the Parks and Recreation Commission; the Department of Natural Resources, the Game Commission and the Fisheries Department have made and are making exceptional contributions to protect our resources and provide for their use by our citizens.

In this fastest growing state of the nation, government has an essential obligation to assure that the pursuit of economic growth and individual opportunity does not result in a permanent scar upon our unexcelled beauty, that our physical resources are not indiscriminately squandered and that future generations will have the luxury of viewing the works of nature in a place where they should be both visible and natural.

Our natural beauty—from the seashore to the mountain summit and beyond—is more than just a fact of geography; it is an economic asset to our thriving tourist industry, a preserve for the outdoor sportsman, a principal resource of family recreation and a substantial contributor to both our peace of mind and the pleasure of life in Washington. It is in good measure, the equal and opposite of our Urban Society.

Where the latter is complex, the former should be simple. Where urban areas are crowded by circumstance, our open spaces should be free by design. Where the one demands a maximum of effort, the other deserves a minimum of exploitation.

It is for these reasons that I am delivering today a special message to the Legislature on Natural Resources and Outdoor Recreation.

The position of government in assuming a greater protective role over the intangible of natural beauty is bound to be debated. But, in the judgment of this administration, there is no other available means to achieve the ultimate and necessary balance between economic affluence and natural wealth, and no other sure guarantee that the public interest will be represented within our basic structure of private initiative.

As in the case of urban affairs, time is the uncompromising taskmaster. Where in the past we have considered our natural heritage to be one of perpetual abundance, today we must view it as a vanishing asset, subject to the predictable and inevitable population growth which we must expect for the balance of this century. When you consider that Washington will add 500,000 people in the next four years, and perhaps a million more in the ten years after that, the factor of time becomes the foundation of urgency.

As a beginning step in the protection of natural resources and the promotion of recreational opportunity, this administration will offer specific legislation in four principal areas: the acquisition of open space lands; the designation of scenic highways; the establishment of historic markers and the preservation of ocean beaches.

Ten years ago, the principle of acquiring open space lands was understandably remote. We were then both isolated by geography and insulated by disposition from the population pressures being experienced by other states.

Yet today, the same scenic areas so long considered public property by unspoken consent, are now in increasing danger of being removed entirely from the public domain, and their loss, once accomplished, can never be retrieved.

To assure that we have the capacity to acquire and preserve a portion of these areas, this administration will ask that a $50,000,000 bond issue be referred by the Legislature to the people for approval on the 1968 election ballot. The bill will propose that half of the money requested be designated for use by state agencies and half by local agencies in a cooperative and coordinated effort to set aside and secure for the future some of our great natural heritage.

I particularly want to emphasize that these funds should be used for full development of lands presently set aside for recreational use as well as for the acquisition of new sites.

To further define the state-owned lands stretching from the Columbia River to Cape Flattery and along the straits of Juan de Fuca to the mouth of the Elwah River, I will ask through legislation that they be established as a Washington State Seashore Conservation Area. By so doing, we will impose a reasonable restraint on commercial development, yet at the same time preserve a maximum freedom for all legal outdoor recreation activities, including hunting, except in those areas with high concentrations of people.

Too often we consider our expanding highway system only in the context of getting from one place to another with all possible speed and facility. While convenience is certainly a major criteria, so also is pleasure, and I am today asking that the Legislature create a system of Scenic Recreation Highways. These highways will be designed for the enjoyment of Washington's scenic beauty and planned in conjunction with our existing—and expanding—park and open space development program.

The Parks and Recreation Commission, the Highway Commission, the Game Commission, and the Department of Natural Resources will be able to work on a coordinated program to develop scenic viewpoints, campground, picnic and recreation areas, adjacent trails, water access and other programs necessary to provide for recreational use of those areas along our scenic highways.

Washington's past is certainly a measure of its future, and I believe it is now appropriate that we designate certain sites within our borders which have special historical significance, and develop these in a manner befitting the contribution they have made to our heritage.

The extent of this administration's concern in the area of natural resources and outdoor recreation should not be measured solely by the four executive requests to be submitted.

I have directed the Executive Department to continue an investigation into the question of strip mining in potential recreational areas, with the objective of determining if regulatory legislation is required. The intent of this inquiry is not to impose unnecessary hardships on responsible private mining operations, but to assure that the substance of our natural resources are not victimized in the process.

Further, the Parks and Recreation Department and the Department of Game have been working either singly or cooperatively in the development of such programs as the designation of primitive areas, the establishment of a system of recreation trails, the acquisition of free Federal surplus lands and greater year-round utilization of our present state park facilities. In each instance, these programs are both positive and creative, and I think they represent clearly the manifest interest which state agencies are now showing in comprehensive resource protection and utilization.

This administration is prepared to endorse in principle the concept of preserving our "wild rivers" and natural streams through legislation as the best available means of protecting them from pollution and contamination, and at the same time recognizing their important potential contribution to recreational opportunity.

Finally, I believe there must be a study made of the kinds of recreational use to be made of our state lands. This message proposes the establishment of two new kinds of recreational areas—a seashore conservation area and scenic recreation highways. In addition, a number of state agencies are participating, and properly so, in various aspects of outdoor recreation. Beyond this, a number of private citizens and groups are making significant contributions to outdoor recreation by providing necessary facilities for public use. During the ensuing biennium, I believe it is imperative that we carefully assess the recreational potential of our state lands so their use can be responsive to the total outdoor recreational needs of our state and so that both private and public recreational areas can work together to meet the needs of the people.

The pressure of our urban problems should not turn us away from the opportunities which exist beyond. Urban areas and open space are, in more ways than one, inseparable, and the congestion of one should provide us with a key to the value of the second.

No citizen of Washington, nor any visitor to these borders, can fail to recognize the wealth of beauty we possess. Neither then, should they fail to recognize that, in a time of swift development, even a great natural heritage can be placed in jeopardy. The degree of their future appreciation now falls to this Legislature, and it will be dependent in good measure on the success of the actions we take.

We have relatively little time to protect our beauty, and to preserve a portion of our great open spaces. But if there is little time, there is at least enough time; and if we begin now, I am confident that future generations will look upon their luxury of natural beauty as a legacy from this 40th Legislative session.

Sincerely,

DANIEL J. EVANS,
Governor.

Debate ensued.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"It has been moved by Senator Greive that the rules of the 39th Legislative Session be made the permanent rules of the 40th Legislative Session subject to the amendments by the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules.

"The President wishes to advise the members of the Senate that in the event this motion is adopted, that further changes will require one day's notice and a two-thirds majority of the Senate. Are you ready for the question?"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President:

"Point of inquiry, Mr. President. We have other amendments pending. Senator Greive and I have another amendment. If we vote to adopt the permanent rules subject to these two amendments, we will then have adopted the rules and will then have to amend the rules as adopted and would possibly be faced with the two-thirds majority. I feel we should vote on the point—point of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President—that we should vote on the two amendments and all of the other amendments before we vote to adopt the rules."

The President:

"Your remarks are essentially correct, Senator Washington."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"I demand the previous question."

The President:

"The previous question has been demanded. Do three Senators join in the demand for the previous question?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Greive:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"We are operating under temporary rules at the present time and Rule 216 of Reed's. Now, Senator Washington has the floor. He desired to ask a question of someone and until a person yields to his question. I would contend Senator Washington's point of order is well taken and should be ruled upon. We have the amendments there. They should be considered at this time."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President was of the opinion that Senator Washington had concluded his remarks, Senator Greive, and I then recognized Senator Gissberg."

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President:

"What is the motion before the body?"

The President:

"The question before the body is: It has been moved by Senator Greive that the rules of the 39th Legislative Session be made the permanent rules of the 40th Legislative Session subject to amendments by the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules."

Senator Washington:

"I'd like to move an amendment to Senator Greive's motion."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes you are out of order, Senator Washington, Senator Gissberg has demanded the previous question."

Senator Washington:

"I was still on my feet."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Henry:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I would like to point out that Senator Washington made an observation to Senator Greive that he felt perhaps his amendment should be adopted in toto and he then concluded his remarks and was still on his feet, but he was through talking when Senator Gissberg arose."

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Washington rise?"

Senator Washington:

"I have another question of Senator Greive."

The President:

"Do three Senators join in the demand for the previous question? For what purpose does Senator Greive rise?"

Senator Greive:

"To make a motion that's a higher motion than that of Senator Gissberg. Under Rule 17 and Reed's 103, I demand that his particular motion be in writing."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes, Senator Greive, Rule 17 provides that a motion shall be reduced to writing and read by the Secretary, if desired by the President or any Senator, before it shall be debated and by the consent of the Senate may be withdrawn before amendment or action. The demand for the previous question, Senator, is not debatable."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to point out that the rules also state when a demand for the previous question has been made and sustained, the President shall immediately put the main question and as I understand, the demand for the previous question has been sustained and the main question must now be put. If the demand has not been sustained, then I suggest you must immediately raise that question as to whether or not the demand shall be sustained. Then we may proceed with orderly procedure as the rules provide without further debate."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Gissberg, the President, in his comments, indicated the demand for the previous question will be put, but it has not yet been sustained. Do three Senators join in the demand for the previous question? Senators Gissberg, Herrmann and Keefe stood. The question is shall the main question be now put."

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President:

"I demand a roll call."

POINTS OF ORDER

Senator Greive:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I contend under Rule 61, if you first look at Rule 57, that a motion, any Senate motion takes the course of bills. Therefore, under Rule 61, the motion made by Senator Gissberg is not in order; that it should be read section by section and subject to amendment."

Senator Woodall:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I believe it was at the request of Senator Greive that we read the last line, which means it has been read by the Senate section by section."

Senator Greive:

"This has always been a tradition in the Senate that we simply read the last line, but that doesn't cut off amendments. The previous question will not cut off amendments, not under Rule 61."

The President:

"The question before the Senate is, shall the main question be now put. Senator Dore has demanded a roll call."

Senator Greive:

"I demand a ruling on my point of order."

The President:

"Will you restate your point of order, please, Senator Greive?"

Senator Greive:

"My point of order is that a rule change, which is equivalent to a Senate resolution under Rule 56, takes the same course as a bill under Rule 61 and has to be read section by section and is subject to amendment section by section and the demand for the previous question cannot cut off amendment."

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President:

"I'd like to point out that the point by Senator Greive included reading of the last line and encompassed the amendments that he then explained, and I think there was debate and then the previous question is in order, and I think we should now take the vote on the main question."

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President, will the Chair rule that I had an amendment on the table, that it was pending at the time that Senator Gissberg made his motion to call for the previous question?"

"It is my understanding that we in this body have never cut off debate, whether it is on a bill, resolution or motion, without giving the members the opportunity to consider amendments that are pending, before a vote on the final passage of the motion is taken. Is it the ruling of the Chair that we will proceed to vote on the rules at the present time without considering the amendments that are pending?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Washington, the President wishes to remind you that after stating Senator Greive's motion, the President, quite explicitly in his remarks, stated that if this motion were adopted, that the permanent rules would be adopted and that in the future it would take one day's notice and two-thirds majority to change the rules. The President was quite explicit in that explanation and feels that it was quite clear."

Senator Washington:

"But now my question is, Mr. President, after that explanation, is it your ruling then that an amendment pending on the table is cut off by a previous question, which is to adopt the final action of the Senate without considering the amendments?"

The President:

"The President was not aware of any additional amendment on the desk, but if the previous question is sustained and the main question is put and carried, it would do as you say, Senator."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Greive:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I call your attention respectfully to Reed's Rule 201. First, may I point out our Rule 36, of course, does specifically cover this and Rule 201 states that a motion to amend—the previous question of course is not debatable and takes precedence of the motion to amend but does not cut it off. Now I point out respectfully to the President that the motion to amend is there and the right to amend is there and we would be in direct violation of Reed's Rules of Order and it would be a departure from our rules under which we operate and under which we have operated since I have been a member, some twenty years. I think we are taking a drastic action here and doing something we will dearly regret because this means from now on the previous question will cut off all amendments before the amendments are read, and it would also seem to me it would do violence to the Constitution of the state of Washington."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President:

"Would Senator Washington yield to a question?"

Senator Washington:

"I yield."

Senator Dore:

"Senator Washington, as I understand the ruling of the President of the Senate then, if the main question would carry, you would in the future be unable to bring forth before this body for majority approval any amendment, except by a two-thirds vote of the members, is that correct?"

Senator Washington:

"That's my understanding."

Senator Dore:

"So we should not vote to adopt these rules in order to be able to test your next motion which will be to amend?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Woodall:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I believe points of order should be directed to the President of the body and we should not have a colloquy between members of the Senate."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I have already asked for a ruling under Reed's Rule 201, which I have already read, on page 128 of the book, under the words, 'Previous Question,' and I think the ruling there is such that there would be no choice unless you ignore the rule, and I ask you to rule at this time."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President wishes to respectfully remind the members of the Senate that it is a motion before the Senate, not a bill. It is a simple motion, and the President does not believe that a motion should be confused with a bill; that at no time would the President and members of the Senate shut off an amendment or at least consideration of an amendment to a bill."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, may I respectfully again call your attention to the rule. The rule makes no mention of whether it is a bill or not. We are talking now about Reed's Rule 201 which states: 'Previous Question.—Not debatable, not amendable. Takes precedence of the motion to amend, but does not cut it off.' The beginning of the rule is: 'Motions in Their Relation to Debate, to Amendments, and to Each Other.' That's the beginning of the rule. I repeat: 'Motions in Their Relation to Debate, to Amendments, and to Each Other. Consideration.'

"Then you move down to the words, 'Previous Question' and it says, 'Not debatable, not amendable.' Takes precedence of the motion to amend, but does not cut it off.

"This is precisely what is happening here. It doesn't talk about whether it's a bill or not. I said in my remarks that regrettably this could be applied just as easily to a bill, but the point is as far as the motion is concerned, under the rules we operate under and the temporary rules which presently govern this body, I would contend that there isn't any problem. There isn't any other interpretation. It's clear."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes that that portion of Rule 201 is clear but the President should like to respectfully point out, Senator Greive, that there is no motion to amend before the body."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Greive:

"Parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President:

"Then I would suggest that it would take two-thirds of the members of this body to adopt permanent rules in that event."

The President:

"The President would suggest in the interests of orderly procedure that those Senators interested in offering an amendment should do so at this time—and then we will determine whether the previous question is sustained or not."

MOTION

Senator Washington:

"I move the adoption of my amendment, of Senator Greive and myself, that's on the desk."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, I rise to a point of order:

"My point of order is that there is no amendment to the motion of Senator Greive upon which I made the demand for the previous question, and that demand for the previous question should now be put, Mr. President, and that matter of whether Senator Washington wishes to put an amendment at a later time and what rule is affected by that is then debatable, but at this point all we have before us is the motion which the President has explicitly stated on three separate occasions. He invited amendments from the floor. Nobody came forth and I made my demand for the previous question. It would now be improper to entertain another motion to amend, under the very rule that has been cited to you in Reed's."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, with the consent of the Senate, I withdraw my motion."

Senator Woodall:

"I object."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"If you will look at Rule 21, you will find that this is of higher precedence. This is under a different order of motions. This would have to be considered. The specific rule involved is Rule 17 and Rule 189 of Reed's."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Greive and members of the Senate:

"The President is of the opinion that the question of whether or not the previous question is sustained should be decided first. Then if you wish to enter your motion, you may do so. Senator Dore has demanded a roll call. Do one-sixth of the members join in the demand?"

The demand for a roll call was sustained by Senators Dore, Gissberg, Connor, Ridder, Bailey, Greive, McMillan, McCutcheon, McCormack and Metcalf.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President, point of parliamentary inquiry:

"Would the President please state the motion? I've forgotten it."

The President:

"The question before the Senate is shall the previous question be now put."

The President:

"The Secretary will call the roll on the demand for the previous question."

POINT OF INFORMATION

Senator Ridder:

"Point of information:

"If we vote now, if we vote 'no' we don't want to consider the previous question, then we kill it and this amendment can be brought to the floor? If we vote 'yes' and move the previous question, then this amendment cannot be voted on until tomorrow with a two-thirds vote?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"It all depends on whether or not Senator Greive desires to act upon his wish to withdraw the motion. A vote 'aye' will be to sustain the demand. A vote 'no' will be to deny the demand for the previous question. The Secretary will call the roll."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the demand for the previous question and the demand was sustained by the following vote: Yeas, 28; nays, 20; excused, 1.

Those voting yea were: Senators Atwood, Canfield, Chytil, Cooney, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Guess, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Kupka, Lewis, Mardesich, Metcalf, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Rasmussen, Redmon, Ryder, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Williams, Woodall—28.

Those voting nay were: Senators Andersen, Bailey, Connor, Donohue, Dore, Faulk, Greive, Hallauer, Knoblauch, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Marquardt, Morgan, Pritchard, Ridder, Sandison, Uhlman, Washington—20.

Excused: Senator Durkan—1.

MOTION

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:"

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Greive rise?"

Senator Greive:

"I move to withdraw my original motion."

POINTS OF ORDER

Senator Woodall:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"Find that rule for me. I had the section in my hand. My point of order is two-fold. The first point of order is that under the rules, once the previous question is sustained, there can be no further motion until the President puts the question. That's the first point of order.

"The second point is this: Reading from Rule 189, Withdrawal of a Motion:

"'After a motion has been submitted to the assembly by the presiding officer, it is then in the possession of the assembly, and cannot be withdrawn except by its consent. A motion for leave to withdraw by the member introducing it can, however, be made, which must be decided without debate,' so on both counts I submit that he is out of order."

Senator Dore:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"Under the previous question, doesn't that require two-thirds vote? We haven't adopted any rules yet. They are just before us."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes the question requires a simple majority, Senator."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"Nothing Senator Woodall has said is very much in point. Rule 17 and 189 provide that a person can move to withdraw the motion and that is precisely what I have done. It seems to me there isn't much point in arguing any further than that. If he has some reason why the motion shouldn't be put by reason of precedence of motion, I respectfully suggest he examine Rule 21 and he will see that withdrawal of a motion is second and has precedence over the previous question. There's no other way you can do it."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, I rise to speak on the point of order made by my colleague, Senator Woodall. I think he is exactly correct. He has cited to you the specific rule of Reed's which governs the withdrawal of a motion. First of all, however, the President must determine whether or not the motion made by Senator Greive is even in order. It's Senator Woodall's position that that motion to withdraw is not in order at this point because, as he stated, the demand for the previous question having been sustained, the main question must then be put.

"I would suggest, Mr. President, that upon having a vote on the main question, that if it then fails, then of course Senator Greive could put the motion at that point to withdraw his motion from the body, but not otherwise."

Senator Greive:

"All I can say is that is probably the worst twisting of rules I've ever seen since I have been here for twenty years."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, I rise to a point of personal privilege:"

Senator Greive:

"I apologize."

The President:

"The Senator will state his point of personal privilege."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"I don't know about Senator Greive's ability as a lawyer, but I always thought it was very good. I know that he has a propensity for memorizing the rule numbers and can cite them song and verse. But I have found over my years that it paid me to look up the rule that he was citing by number to read and analyze what it said.

"Now I will once again state that Rule 189 has to do with the withdrawal of a motion. I haven't read it all verbatim. It's there for you all to read. But it is expressly written and there is no room for ambiguity or doubt or debate in connection with it. I certainly have never attempted to do anything on this floor except that which logic tells me the rules demand to be done, and I will certainly not ever attack Senator Greive, except for the purpose of honest and legitimate debate, but I will never do so personally and I sincerely regret that he saw fit to make that statement that I was attempting to twist any rule."

Senator Greive:

"May I point out to Your Honor, Mr. President, in some detail Rule 21 covers precedence of motions and this is not a Reed's Rule. It's our own rule and it says when a motion has been made and seconded and stated by the Chair, the following motions are in order in the rank named. Now if you will look; first, you will see privileged motions which deal with adjournment and recess, reconsideration, demand for a Call of the Senate, demand for a roll call, demand for division, question of privilege and orders of the day. Under that you have incidental motions, points of order and appeal, method of consideration, suspension of rule, reading of papers, and then withdrawal of motions, then after that comes division of question.

"Then following that come subsidiary motions, and we come to the question of consideration, motion to lay on the table, and the third rank is motion for the previous question.

"I submit to the President of this Senate that without any matter of interpretation it's as clear as it can possibly be that withdrawal of a motion is one, two, three ranks higher than a motion for the previous question. That certainly doesn't mean to say that there is in any way anything wrong about what Senator Gissberg said or Senator Woodall said. I have the highest respect for both gentlemen and have expressed it many times, but as a practical matter, they just don't happen to be right in this case. It's a black and white situation."

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"Senator Greive reminds me of the man who was arguing a case in court involving damages to a horse. The opposing counsel said that this case was right in point, and he said the case doesn't apply. In that case they were talking about a black horse and this case involves a white horse today.

"When he talks about rules, let's read Rule 17:

"No motion shall be entertained or debated until announced by the President and every motion shall be deemed to have been seconded. It shall be reduced to writing and read by the Secretary, if desired by the President or any Senator,' and that was not desired in this case, 'before it shall be debated, and by consent of the Senate may be withdrawn before amendment or action.'

"Now did we take action on this motion? Yes. There was discussion and then the previous question was demanded. We have taken action on this particular motion, and then under the other rule, our old rule which also takes priority over Reed's Rules where we have a specific rule in point—our rules always take priority and Reed's only applies when we have no particular rule of our own—and our own rule on what you do once the previous question is demanded is clear and implicit, and the mere fact that somewhere along the line in subsidiary motions you have other rules under Reed's has nothing to do with this case. The President has well construed our own, positive, definite rule. What do you do after the previous question is demanded? There is no more debate, no more action, no more motions. The Chair then puts the question. Now that's clear and I would suggest to the good Senator that any other construction than that indicates a flatfootedness upon the mind of the good Senator Greive."

Senator Greive:

"I wouldn't attempt to match word for word or wit for wit with Senator Woodall because he always comes out ahead, but, on the other hand, we are not attempting to show superiority in that particular regard. We are now attempting to debate the rules which are certainly very clear.

"May I point out respectfully that by all rights, my motion should have been put when I put it. I attempted to withdraw my motion prior to the previous question. Since my motion is of a higher order than the previous question, I had a right to have it considered at that time, and the Chair saw fit to put the previous question, probably wrongfully, but nevertheless it has been put.

"Now that does not mean that I should not have a right to have my motion placed because by every rule and rank of motion, my motion takes precedence. There doesn't seem to be any other way to argue. He is trying to say that because there was some action taken, the motion cannot be made. All the previous question did was cut off debate. There was no final action of any kind and I now move to withdraw the motion. The previous question may cut off debate, but this isn't a motion to debate. There can be no other interpretation. We are now considering the rules. I move to withdraw that motion. They cut off debate on the rules, but that doesn't mean to say you don't have a right to withdraw the motion. I move to withdraw the motion, which is in order."

Senator Atwood:

"Mr. President:

"I believe Senator Greive finds himself in difficulty because he failed to appeal the ruling of the Chair. As he has just admitted under our own Rule 30, once the previous question has been put and sustained, it shall preclude all debate and the roll shall be immediately called on the question or questions pending before the Senate, and all incidental question or questions of order arising after the motion is made shall be decided whether on appeal or otherwise without debate. Under our own Rule 30, once that demand for the previous question was sustained, the Chair must put the main question for a vote of the body."

Senator Greive:

"I think the entire thing will be explained satisfactorily to Senator Atwood if he will refer to Reed's which has a little more explanation of the order of motions, Rule 197 which states that even though you have a motion on the floor, if somebody comes up with one of higher rank such as to adjourn or recess or roll call or Call of the Senate or any of these things, that they take precedence even though there is a motion on the floor, and you can't take and raise a motion that is way down at the bottom of the subsidiary motions and raise it up.

"Now, I'd like to read part of Rule 197 in Reed's Rules:

"Subsidiary motions. Subsidiary motions are those which directly concern the main question, and relate to the progress of that particular piece of business. They are of different rank, by which is meant that some have precedence over others. In the enumerations which follow, they are stated in order of precedence. Those of superior rank precede those of inferior rank; those of the same rank have no precedence over each other."

"Then it sets out the same as Rule 21. There can be no debate about this. This is perfectly clear."

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order at 4:05 p.m.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Members of the Senate:

"The Senate, in its judgment, has sustained the demand for the previous question. The President believes he must be guided by Rule 30 which states: 'When the demand for the previous question is sustained, the main question shall be put without further debate.'

"Therefore, the President believes the point of order presented by Senator Woodall is well taken. The question before the Senate is that the rules of the 39th Legislative Session be made the permanent rules of the 40th Legislative Session, subject to the two committee amendments by the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules.

"For what purpose does Senator Greive rise?"

Senator Greive:

"To ask what the ruling was on my motion to withdraw the motion. Is it your ruling that the motion cannot be withdrawn?"

The President:

"The President has checked the Senate Rules, Reed's Rules and the precedents and he believes it is well established that there shall be no intervening action once the demand for the previous question is sustained."

Senator Greive:

"Even though the motion made is of a higher rank?"

The President:

"The President wishes to remind the members of the Senate that in his opinion he was more than fair in explaining the action of the Senate in considering the demand for the previous question. The President believes that there would be interminable difficulties if he were not to rule in this manner."

POINTS OF ORDER

Senator Washington:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"We have before us, I think, when it's reduced down to its essence—what it is—you have is only a report from the Rules Committee as to rules that they wish to have adopted as permanent rules. There are really no amendments pending on the table except the amendment offered by me and by Senator Greive, so really we have a report of the Committee and it has two changes from the rules of 1966, so am I correct—"

Senator Gissberg:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"The point of order I raise is that the President has ruled and under the rules the vote must now be taken and it is highly improper to be arguing further. There is a proper motion to be made at this point if the Senator disagrees with the ruling. He knows what course of action is available to him in terms of appealing the matter if he feels that is proper, but it is highly improper to further argue with the President once the President has made his ruling on the point of order."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes the point of order by Senator Gissberg is well taken. The question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the Rules of the 39th Legislative Session be made the permanent rules of the 40th Legislative Session, subject to two amendments by the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules."

Senator Dore demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Greive, Morgan, Connor, Knoblauch, Ridder, McCutcheon, Stender and McMillan.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Washington:

"Point of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President:

"I do not believe and I will ask this in the form of a question—whether you have correctly stated the question, that this in essence is not that the rules, the temporary rules as amended by the Rules Committee—but this is merely the temporary or permanent rules as reported by the Rules Committee. There are no amendments to it. The amendments have not been adopted. You cannot come out and give a report without—"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Washington, the demand for the previous question is sustained and the demand for the roll call is sustained. The question before the Senate is this, and the President quotes from the minutes: 'It was moved by Senator Greive that the rules of the 39th Legislative Session be made the permanent rules of the 40th Legislative Session subject to two amendments by the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules.'

"Members of the Senate, a vote 'aye' will be to adopt the permanent rules of the 40th Legislative Session. A vote 'no' will be to reject the motion. The Secretary will call the roll."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion to adopt the rules was carried by the following vote: Yeas, 29; nays, 19; excused, 1.

Those voting yea were: Senators Atwood, Canfield, Chytil, Cooney, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Guess, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Kupka, Lewis, Mardesich, Metcalf, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Rasmussen, Redmon, Ryder, Stender, Talley, Twig, Washington, Williams Woodall—29.

Those voting nay were: Senators Andersen, Bailey, Connor, Donohue, Dore, Faulk, Greive, Hallauer, Knoblauch, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Marquardt, Morgan, Pritchard, Ridder, Sandison, Uhlman—19.

Excused: Senator Durkan—1.

MOTION

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 11:00 a.m. tomorrow."

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Washington rise?"

Senator Washington:

"For the purpose of giving notice of reconsideration."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Woodall:

"Point of order. A motion to adjourn is of the highest rank and must be put first."

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President:

"The rules—certainly Rule 31 provides that anyone voting on the prevailing side may give notice of his intent to reconsider the vote which was carried, and I am giving that notice at the present time. I would like to have that opportunity."

Senator Greive:

"Point of order. The statement made by Senator Washington is correct and if you will follow the rule further, the rule states:

"Such motion to reconsider shall be in order only under the order of motions of the day immediately following the day upon which such notice of reconsideration is given, and may be made by any member who voted with the prevailing side."

"Furthermore, it says that if you are unable to put that motion and you have attempted to, it holds over to the next day, so I don't think the boys have accomplished anything by adjourning."

The President:

"The question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the Senate do now adjourn until 11:00 a.m. tomorrow."

Senator Greive demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Washington, Morgan, Uhlman, McCormack, Connor, Dore, Donohue and Ridder.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the motion to adjourn and the motion was carried by the following vote: Yeas, 29; nays, 19; excused, 1.

Those voting yea were: Senators Atwood, Canfield, Chytil, Cooney, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Guess, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Kupka, Lewis, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Rasmussen, Redmon, Ryder, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Williams, Wood—all—29.

Those voting nay were: Senators Andersen, Bailey, Connor, Donohue, Dore, Faulk, Greive, Hallauer, Knoblauch, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Morgan, Pritchard, Ridder, Sandison, Uhlman, Washington—19.

Excused: Senator Durkan—1.

The President:

"The motion is carried."

At 4:30 p.m., the Senate adjourned until 11:00 a.m., Tuesday, January 24, 1967.

Ward Bowden, Secretary of the Senate.

SIXTEENTH DAY

MORNING SESSION

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Washington, Tuesday, January 24, 1967.

The Senate was called to order at 11:00 a.m. by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators Dore and McCormack.

On motion of Senator Donohue, Senator Dore was excused.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Jeffrey Gates, Color Bearer, and Bonnie Campbell, presented the Colors.

Reverend Henry S. Rahn, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"O God, Creator of all stars and suns, source of all life, author of law and order, revealer of beauty. Savior of mankind, we thank Thee that Thou dost come within the bounds of our thinking. Thou art the object of our heart's devotion. Thou art worthy of our will's allegiance.

"The mystery of Thy being overwhelms us. The nearness of Thy presence humbles us. Keep us, O God, from becoming indifferent to the wonder of the world in which we live. Help us to see Thee watching over every crisis in human history. In every truth may we see Thy authorship. In all things beautiful may we see Thy designing.

"As we give ourselves now to the tasks at hand, help us to work with the sense of achievement. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

MOTION

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President:

"Having voted on the prevailing side and pursuant to notice given yesterday, I now move that the vote by which the permanent rules of the Senate were adopted by the Senate be reconsidered."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, I rise to a point of order:

Mr. President, the point of order is that, one, the Senator did not give notice of reconsideration yesterday in view of the fact that I had made a motion to adjourn. The President did not recognize the Senator for the purpose of giving notice, but rather he interjected and gratuitously stated that he was giving notice without having been recognized for that purpose by the President.

"Secondly, and as an additional point of order, I suggest that even though the President construes that notice was properly given by Senator Washington, although it is my contention that it was not, that our rules themselves do not allow a motion to reconsider to be made at this stage; that the Senate rule governing reconsideration is Senate Rule 31, but that rule only goes to a bill or a resolution. As to a bill or resolution, it does allow reconsideration to pass to the next succeeding day's business, notwithstanding that a motion to adjourn has been made. It is my contention, however, that what was before the Senate yesterday was not a bill nor a resolution, but a simple motion. By logic, then, the Senate rules not covering this situation, we must then look to Reed's to determine what Reed's parliamentary rules, which we have adopted by our rules, has to say and I would refer the President to Rule 205 which states in part as follows:

" 'A motion to reconsider must be made on the day on which the action sought to be revised was had, and before any action has been taken by the assembly in consequence of it.'

"The motion not having been made by Senator Washington yesterday, he is precluded by the rules from making the motion to reconsider today. The reason for this rule, although it may be harsh in some isolated situations, is well expressed in Reed's, itself, under the rule, and the reason and logic for the rule is that, and I quote:

" 'The general rule of parliamentary proceedings is that when the assembly has come to a conclusion or decision that result shall be regarded as final.'

"This is Rule 209, and I continue to quote from the rule:

" 'This is necessary for the orderly action of the assembly itself. If what had once been decided could at all times be again opened by each member, there would be no end to confusion.'

"On those grounds, Your Honor, Mr. President, I urge that the motion made by Senator Washington is not well taken and that the point of order should lie."

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President, answering the point of order:

"I think we have to assess what it is we are trying to do here on the floor of the Senate and why we have rules. Now the purpose of rules is to assist in the orderly process of the business of the Legislature, and rules should be interpreted and given liberal interpretation so that we do get a logical, orderly result from them. We should not be bound up in technicalities or parliamentary procedures which, if there is any way out, prevent the body from voting on a very important public issue and one which is important to the Senate, itself.

"Now, at the time of the motion for the previous question, amendments were pending on the table. I think we can also go to Reed's 131 which very clearly states that in all modern assemblies, the right to originate and the right to amend are undisputed. The right to amend is undisputed. Now when you have before the body an important matter, when an important number of the Senators wish to have the amendment, itself, acted upon, now Reed's 166 also provides that the previous question, when adopted, requires a vote on pending amendments first. In other words, after the vote on the previous question was sustained, then at least the amendments which were pending should have been brought up for a vote before the final vote on the main question, and the orderly thing to do at the present time, when we have gotten bound up in technicalities and have not come to grips with the issue which is before us, —the motion for reconsideration is the way to get back on the track, the way to get the Senate moving towards the point at hand, so that there may be a direct vote on the amendment which was on the desk at the time the vote was cut off, so that this body will have a chance to determine whether the Senate is going to continue its policy of secrecy in the Rules Committee or whether we are going to attempt to change the rules which are the tightest secrecy rules of any legislative body in the forty-eight states."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, I rise to a point of order:

"Senator Washington is not speaking to the issue. The question is whether or not his motion should properly lie under the rules, and that's the only thing that's before the Senate at this point, Senator Washington, and I don't believe that you should be involved in debate on the merits of the subject matter at this point. If the President rules against my point of order, then, of course, you would be in a position to do so at that time, but I would think you would allow the President the courtesy of ruling on the matter prior to getting involved in the subject matter."

The President:

"Senator Washington, would you please confine your remarks to the point of order."

Senator Washington:

"I will so do; however, I do feel that in arguing on a point of order as one perhaps does in court or as one does before the presiding officer when he is acting in a quasi judicial capacity at least in this position, that you have the right to set the tone, you have the right to give your basic arguments which actually apply to all legislative bodies, I have now done that and I believe in order to get the vote on reconsideration, I would like you to consider the rules in the light of the general picture that I believe has been laid.

"Now, as to whether or not a motion was made, I call your attention to page 44 of the journal of the previous day. First the President states:

"For what purpose does Senator Washington rise?"

Senator Washington: For the purpose of giving notice of reconsideration.'

"Now, first I should say that at the top of the page, Senator Gissberg's motion—'I move that the Senate do now adjourn until 11:00 a.m. tomorrow.' Then the President asks: 'For what purpose does Senator Washington rise?

"Senator Washington: For the purpose of giving notice of reconsideration.'

"Then there is the point of order by Senator Woodall:

"Point of order. A motion to adjourn is of the highest rank and must be put first.'

"The President recognized Senator Washington:

"Mr. President: The rules, certainly Rule 31 provides that anyone voting on the prevailing side may give notice of his intent to reconsider the vote which was carried, and I am giving that notice at the present time. I would like to have that opportunity.'

"Senator Greive then followed that with a further point of order.

"Now, Rule 31 merely states that notice shall be given. It does not specify any particular form in which that notice must be given, but as in all legal interpretations of notice, contracts, agreements, resolutions, statutes, whatever it may be, if the intent may be easily gathered, it is sufficient for the purpose and it is clear. Although somewhat informal, being hampered and harassed by motions for adjournment, certainly this body and everyone knew that we would have the motion for reconsideration before us at the present time, so I feel that the motion or the notice was properly given.

"I would also like to cite back to Reed's 205 which was also cited by Senator Gissberg where it says, relating to a motion for reconsideration:

"A motion to reconsider may be made on the day on which the action sought to be revised was had, and before any action has been taken by the assembly in consequence of it.'

"Now, there has been no action taken by the assembly in consequence of the vote on the rules, and the next sentence reads:

"It can be entered even while a member has the floor, and can be acted on another day.'

"He had made a motion to adjourn, but the motion to adjourn had not been put. The body was meeting. I was on the floor. I made my notice of reconsideration. It was properly entered in the journal and I feel that proper notice was given. Does the Chair wish to rule on that point first before proceeding as to whether or not this was within the bounds of Rule 31? It might help the President if I did go a little further, but I will rely on your judgment."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President rules that proper notice of reconsideration was given."

Senator Washington:

"Now as to Rule 31, the rule provides that after a final vote on any resolution or bill, before the adjournment of that day's session, and at such time only, any member who voted with the prevailing side may give notice of reconsideration.

"We have the question raised by Senator Gissberg as to whether or not this was a resolution or a motion, a resolution or a bill. Now, true this motion or the action, the main motion before the body was in the form of a motion. However the form again is not important. The important point to be considered is the substance of what is before the body and I would like to point out by precedent in 1965 the permanent rules were adopted by Senate Resolution No. 25 found on page 418 of the Journal for the session of 1965.

"Again, in the special session, the resolution was used as the means of getting the rules before the body and on the basis that such a motion as this, although in the form of a motion, is actually in substance a resolution and the motion to reconsider would be in order."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to add to what Senator Washington has said. In a legislative body there are only certain modes in which we can act. Everything we do has to fall into one of these modes. For instance, we have motions and we have a great number of rules governing motions. We have bills and we have a great body of law governing bills. Now everything else we do has to be by resolution because there is nothing else, no other place for it, and certainly you couldn't adopt a rule by a motion because a motion is under one of three orders, and under Rule 21, it is either a privileged motion, an incidental motion or a subsidiary motion, and there would be no place—certainly we couldn't call a motion to adopt rules a motion to adjourn or recess, to reconsider, a demand for a Call of the Senate, a demand for roll call or division, a question of privilege or orders of the day. Could we say that it is a point of order and appeal, method of consideration, suspension of rules, reading of papers, withdrawal of a motion, division of a question?

"Looking at the subsidiary motions which is the only other place to go, we couldn't say it was a question of consideration, a motion to lay on the table, a motion for the previous question or a motion to postpone to a day certain, a motion to commit or recommit, a motion to postpone indefinitely or a motion to amend; so, obviously then it has to be by resolution because the resolution is the only thing that there is, and this is the proper way in which it can be done. It is the judicious way and the precedented way, so I contend as a practical matter and in conformance with our rules and the rules of Reed it is very clear that what we did yesterday was adopt a resolution, and in adopting that resolution, we adopted our permanent rules; and, therefore, under our rules and because there is no other place—and I would suggest if there is to be a ruling our way, it should be pointed out in some detail that there is no other place for the rule to lie. This is and has to be, by the nature of it, a resolution; and, therefore, a motion to reconsider should lie."

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"I haven't been able to come up with the exact page at the moment, but while this discussion was going on it occurred to me that the President made a ruling on this point a few years ago in the famous Senator McCutcheon cow bill. If you recall at that time he rose and spoke eloquently in defense of the cows up at Steilacoom, and a motion was made or an announcement was made that on the following day he would move to reconsider. The President absented himself and went into the matter thoroughly and I think you ruled at that time that it had to be acted on that immediate day. I would suggest prior to the President's ruling on this matter, perhaps he would wish to refresh his recollection on the ruling he made in the previous case, in re McCutcheon and the cows."

Senator Greive:

"I could be helpful to Senator Woodall. It so happens that when I get an unusual ruling, I always mark it down and put it on a card and I work from flash cards and I happen to be very familiar with that ruling. It happens I was part of Senator McCutcheon's entourage at that particular time and I made a motion—he made the motion and I helped him—to indefinitely postpone, so the motion was to indefinitely postpone a bill which had come over from the House. All right, then we were dealing with motions and it was pointed out that it fit under the category of a motion. As I pointed out, there are only three things we can do, and again looking at Rule 21, if you will look down at subsidiary motions of the third rank, you will find that a motion to postpone to a day certain, a motion to commit or recommit and a motion to postpone indefinitely are all motions of the fourth rank. There we had a fourth rank motion which was made and was successful and that, by the nature of it, couldn't be reconsidered because it wasn't a resolution or a bill, which is true.

"So if you remember the cows, remember that what we were talking about at that time was a motion to reconsider or a motion to indefinitely postpone that was successful, and I think your ruling was valid and the only way you could go. But that's not what the situation is here today. We're talking about a resolution by which we adopted our rules. It has to be a resolution. There's no other way to go."

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President and lady and gentlemen of the Senate:

"If this will help the argument any, that cow bill is back here to haunt you again this year, so if it will help this argument, why, I just wanted to let you know. I think it's in the Institutions Committee now."

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President:

"I'm not an attorney nor am I very good at memorizing numbers, but I think the whole debate this morning is based on the fact that the quarterback yesterday made the wrong motion and now in various twisting, turning, devious manners of using the rules, he is trying to get out. The motion was timely. He made a motion to adopt the rules with the amendments as had been presented. They had been placed on the members' desks. They had been read. There was no other amendment before the Senate as far as we knew at that time.

"Now, the motion prevailed. We adopted the rules and I submit that we also have a rule for further amendments and that is that you give one day's notice and it takes a two-thirds majority to amend the Senate permanent rules and I think that is the orderly procedure and the one that should be followed now."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I think Senator Henry's admitted lack of knowledge of the rules is rather apparent in this case when he—"

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President:"

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Henry rise?"

Senator Henry:

"I don't like the statements made by Senator Greive."

Senator Greive:

"I apologize. I apologize. I'll withdraw the statement and apologize. I'm sorry, Senator Henry."

"The problem yesterday was that when you have a rule, you see what people compare this with is they keep thinking in terms of bills. A bill comes through and it has a certain procedure. It's read the first time. It's referred to committee and it goes through the whole procedure. When we are adopting rules, you're adopting something theoretically that you have no guide lines for, so the only motion you can make is that you adopt the rules and that puts it into play. It's like saying, 'Play ball.' That starts the game. There's no other motion that can be made when you're dealing with a report and when you're dealing with original rules, so the motion was correct. But that doesn't mean you can move the previous question and cut off amendment because if you could do that you could do that on every bill. We would be able to cut off all amendments, even though they were on the desk, simply by saying to the President we demand the previous question; and, as I pointed out yesterday, under Rule 202, it's clearly said, and I'll read it to you again, and it's on page 128 of your book:

"'Previous Question. Not debatable, not amendable. Takes precedence of the motion to amend, but does not cut it off,' and that's the point we're pressing. In other words, otherwise if we didn't have that, there could be no such thing as amendments. At any time, if somebody moved the previous question, all amendments on the desk would be sliced off and that's the very point. So in recap, number one, I made the proper motion because it's the only motion you can make for adoption of the rules. You have to move the adoption of the rules, and then the amendment is in order. I pointed out as we went through these amendments what we were merely amending—so people could understand some of the points of reference.

"Now getting back—this is still the whole discussion—it's not pertinent to talk about motions here today because what we are trying to do is fit what we did yesterday into one of the known modes or categories we have and one of the categories we have is 'motions', one is 'resolutions', and the other is 'bills', and I contend what we are speaking of today is a resolution."

The President:

"Are there any further remarks on the point of order?"

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President:

"I still maintain, Mr. President, that the orderly procedure of the thing would have been for the motion of Senator Greive to have been to adopt the amendments as presented. Then, once those had been adopted, the President would ask: 'Are there further amendments?'"

"Once that had been taken care of, then we would have voted on final passage of that particular bill. I submit that Senator Greive by his own motion was the one that hastened the demise of this particular matter."

Senator Greive:

"I admit that would have been true if we had been dealing with a bill."

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order at 12:40 p.m.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The two points of order raised by Senator Gissberg were:

"1. That proper notice of reconsideration was not given. The President has already ruled that this point of order is not well taken and that notice was properly given.

"2. That a vote on a motion cannot be reconsidered on any day other than the day on which it was acted upon and that this was a motion rather than a bill or resolution.

"The President recalls that on February 19, 1959, he ruled that a motion to indefinitely postpone was a subsidiary motion of the fourth rank and could not be considered a final vote on a resolution or bill.

"The Senate in its wisdom has never adopted any special rule altering or modifying this precedent.

"The President believes the matter before us parallels this situation.

"Reeds rules of parliamentary procedure No. 205 and prior precedent found at page 398 of the 1959 Senate Journal support the ruling of the President that Senator Gissberg's second point of order is well taken.

"The President believes that if it is the wish of the Senate to reconsider the vote by which Senator Greive's motion passed yesterday, a suspension of the rules will be necessary."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President:

"The only thing that's been very pleasing about this whole procedure is that I was the one that made the motion to indefinitely postpone on February, some date, 1959. I caught the bill. It was about to move the Steilacoom herd out of where they are now and disperse them throughout the state. I caught the bill on the fly as it hit, momentarily. As it hit the President's desk, I moved to indefinitely postpone which opened up the entire debate on the merits, and due to a bit of amusing oratory—I had just come back to the Senate as a Democrat after some time—everybody voted with me except Pat Sutherland. But they all thought to themselves, well, tomorrow morning, we'll change that.

"I went down to breakfast and met Pat Sutherland and Pat said they were going to reconsider. I said, 'You can't do that because I've got it wired down. Someone just told me that you have to consider a motion the same day.' So all I'm talking about, and I don't want to reminisce because I've been around this old world too long, and I don't want to be garrulous, but I want to bring this up because the Senator now speaking still knows the law. He knew it then, and it was me this morning that remembered the page and place and date, and it gives me a great deal of pleasure to be sustained in my opinion as to what was right in 1959 is right now."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"Under what order or what rank of motions do you say that it was a motion yesterday?"

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"I know how difficult it is for you. I rise to a point of order now. I know how difficult it is for you, having researched the precedents involved and the subject matter, to engage in colloquy with members from the floor. There is nothing in our procedure which allows this to be done, to address questions to the President of the Senate once a ruling has been made, and I would suggest that it is highly improper to establish this type of a precedent of questioning the Lieutenant Governor, the presiding officer or whomsoever may be presiding, in further amplification of his opinion. The opinion was clearly stated. The grounds were clearly stated. I would suggest that there is nothing now before the Senate and I would suggest it is proper for the Senate to proceed in order and take up the next matter of business which is on the Secretary's desk."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Gissberg, the President appreciates your remarks. However, the President does believe that Senator Greive is entitled to a reply. The President, in replying to Senator Greive, states that you are the person that made the motion and I believe the minutes of yesterday's proceedings will bear that statement out."

Senator Greive:

"But that motion isn't listed under any of the categories under Rule 21. It gets down to amendments, but there is nothing, no listing for that. That isn't a motion that's listed under that precedent of motions."

The President:

"Senator Greive, Rule 21 states when a motion has been made and stated by the President that it is quite in proper order. You made the motion that the temporary rules be made the permanent rules of the 40th Legislative Session subject to amendments by the Senate Rules Committee. The Senate, in its judgment adopted that motion. The Senate chose to adopt the rules in that manner. On other occasions they have chosen to adopt the permanent rules by means of a formal resolution."

Senator Greive:

"May I point out to you that the privileged motions are: adjourn or recess, reconsider, demand for call of the Senate, demand for roll call, demand for division, question of privilege, and orders of the day."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"Is Senator Greive challenging the ruling of the Chair? If so, he should make a proper motion."

Senator Greive:

"If Senator Rasmussen would like me to answer him, I am not challenging the ruling or decision of the Chair. I am simply having parliamentary inquiry so we may determine for future use precisely what we are doing here and I think we are attempting to clarify that ruling. I have made no motion to overrule the decision of the Chair.

"Incidental motions, under Rule 21, are: points of order and appeal, method of consideration, suspend the rules, reading of papers, withdrawal of a motion and division of the question.

"Then we move down under Rule 21 to Subsidiary motions and the first rank is question of consideration; the second rank is a motion to lay on the table; the third rank is a motion for the previous question; the fourth rank includes motions to postpone to a day certain, to commit or recommit, and to postpone indefinitely; then the fifth rank, a motion to amend.

"Now the mere adoption, moving to adopt something, which we do routinely is not considered—it is neither a privileged motion, an incidental motion or a subsidiary motion, so I respectfully point out to the President at this time that you might consider this at this time."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Greive, the President believes the Senate was on the first order of business: the presentation of petitions, memorials, resolutions and motions. Your motion to adopt the permanent rules is the main or principal motion and was quite in order at that time."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I suggest that if you used that interpretation of Rule 12, that what we did was adopt a resolution. I moved to adopt a resolution. I didn't make a motion. A motion to adopt is a far different thing than an incidental motion, a privileged motion or a subsidiary motion. It is to adopt a main position, adopt a resolution, which is a far cry from what we are dealing with here. I would suggest that the motion I made under Rule 12, the first order of business, 'Presentation of Petitions, Memorials, Resolutions and Motions,' was the only thing that could be done there, a motion to adopt a resolution and give us permanent rules."

MOTION

At 1:00 p.m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 2:15 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 2:15 p.m.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Rasmussen that the Secretary be instructed to place a sign reading, "Senate," above that reading, "House," on the Senate office building.

The motion was carried.

The Secretary read:

The Clerk called the roll of the House and all members were present.

The President of the Senate announced that the purpose of the joint session was to receive a message from His Excellency, Governor Daniel J. Evans, and appointed the following committee to escort Governor Evans to the House chamber: Senators Peterson (Lowell), Freise and Keefe and Representatives McGavick, Morrison and Bagnariol.

The committee retired.

The Sergeant at Arms of the House announced the arrival of His Excellency, Governor Daniel J. Evans at the bar of the House and the President instructed the committee to escort Governor Evans to a seat on the rostrum:

The President of the Senate:

"Mr. Speaker, Governor Evans, and Members of the Washington State Legislature, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"As provided under House Concurrent Resolution No. 10, the purpose of this joint session is to receive a message from the Governor. It is with pride and pleasure that I present to you His Excellency the Honorable Daniel J. Evans, Governor of the state of Washington."

Governor Evans:

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Legislature:

"I have asked for the privilege of addressing this Legislature in joint session today because I believe that the subject for consideration is of the highest importance.

"Because it is important, it is therefore fitting that we come together, where we are not only visible to each other, but to the people as well.

"Harry Truman once remarked that 'If you can't stand the heat, stay out of the kitchen.' I am suggesting now that we—as duly constituted executive and legislature—step into the kitchen, acknowledge the heat, and proceed with the long overdue business of tax reform in the State of Washington.

"Our history of taxation, if not unusual among the states, has not been noted for its foundation in wisdom. We have, indeed, taxed as the need arose—or as the budget demanded, for nearly a century.

"Instead of reform based on reason, we have too long and too often chosen addition based on availability.

"For the first sixty years, as the demand for services grew, we responded by creating new taxes; since the 1930's we have balanced our budgets by the simple device of adding new burdens to existing taxes—a practice undertaken with no regard to party—and with very little regard for common sense.

"As each of us has known it would, the day of reckoning has come. Yet it now confronts us not in a time of leisurely consideration, but precisely when the state is in the turmoil of expansion; when the demands of growth are accelerating; when educational needs threaten to exceed educational resources; and when the capacity of state government to meet the requirements of the people is being severely tested.

"I am convinced that if we do not succeed in achieving some basic reform in our tax structure now, the degree of the problem will become too great to respond to the remedy.

"It is not this decade that will suffer, but the next; not ourselves, but those who succeed us. And I would rather institute reform at the risk of defeat, than accomplish victory at the price of disaster.

"In approaching any major reform of Washington's tax structure, our three major considerations must be responsibility, responsiveness and equity. Our present taxes are not responsible in terms of practice; they are not responsive in terms of the economy; and they are not equitable in terms of people.

"We have, in fact, a distinctly jerry-built structure which is neither fair nor effective, which fails increasingly to keep revenues consistent with need, which lacks uniformity with regard to administration, justice with regard to application and integrity with regard to the Constitution.

"In the broad perspective, each citizen and every servant of government should be vitally concerned not only with our present problems of taxation, but with the construction of a sound base to support our future requirements. It is not responsible government to proceed in ignorance of the demands which lie ahead, just as it is not rational government to continue adding to the sales tax, and to the gasoline tax, until we have exceeded the bounds of reason.

"Our problems are not of a limited nature—they run the entire length and breadth of the taxing function. As we seriously examine the tasks of the present—ranging from urban growth to human need; and as we project the responsibilities of state government into the next decade and beyond, it becomes increasingly clear that the present machinery of taxation is inadequate to the demands we will be forced to place upon it.

"It is difficult to single out any specific fault of our present system of taxation and assign to it a priority above all others. Our excessive sales tax is obviously unfair; our lack of property tax uniformity is hardly responsible and our method of supporting education is unrealistic. But certainly, a fundamental weakness is our failure to base taxation on the principal and most responsive source of state wealth.

"In the early years of statehood, and for a good part of this century, property was perhaps the most accurate measurement of an individual's worth—and therefore a measurement of his public revenue obligation. But we have ceased to be a property-oriented people. We have instead become income-oriented, and the fact that we do not tax income—but continue to rely on property, sales and business—accounts for a large share of the increasing "income gap" which faces state government in a time of accelerating demands on its resources. In point of fact, our sales tax revenues increase only eight and one-half percent for every 10 percent increase in the state's economy.

"As our citizens become more affluent, they spend more money on services which are not taxable; as per capita income increases, they save more. These two factors combine to make the sales tax not only unfair to lower income families, but unrealistic as a basis for supporting the state budget.

"We cannot properly and adequately respond to need, if we cannot reach the basic source of the wealth which creates it.

"In order to assure that the State of Washington can obtain revenues consistent with growth, that we can place tax emphasis where it belongs, and that we can both reduce the degree of unfairness and improve the degree of uniformity, this administration is now prepared to make five tax reform recommendations to the Legislature:

"First, that a constitutional amendment be placed on the 1967 election ballot to create a single rate state income tax on net taxable income; and that an enabling statute be written to establish the rate of the tax at 3.5 percent on individuals and corporations.

"Next, that a second constitutional amendment appear on the same ballot to establish the property tax rate at forty mills based on an assessment level of twenty-five percent of true and fair value; but that this amendment be so written that should the income tax fail, then the property tax rate would increase to a constitutional limit of fifty mills.

"Third, that with the passage of the income tax measure, the Legislature reduce the sales tax rate from its present level to 3.5 percent of sales and that food and drugs be specifically exempted from the tax.

"Fourth, that with passage, the basic rate of the business and occupation tax be reduced to two-tenths of one percent.

"Finally, that the Department of Revenue requested by this administration be directed to enforce uniform application of rates and uniform standards of assessment to all property, both real and personal.

"There is no question that these recommendations constitute a major reform of our present tax system. But, in the judgment of this administration, their accomplishment will provide for the first time a sound, reasonable, equitable and responsive tax policy.

"We will have a system in which the demands created by population and urban growth will be equalled by the revenues available to meet them.

"We will have a system where each ten percent increase in total personal income will produce a thirteen percent increase in revenue to the state.

"We will have a system in which property taxes remain at a reasonable level, yet meet the full constitutional requirement.

"And we will have a system which is fully responsive to future need, while at the same time capable of alleviating the critical problem created by special school levies, which far from being special, are in fact a permanent part of our school support.

"All of us, I am sure, are happy that the levies in the Puget Sound area yesterday were voted unanimously by the people and in every case succeeded. I must point out in future weeks, during the end of January and the first part of February, and March of this year, many other school districts will face the same problems. While I am proposing tax reform, it is still important that citizens of those communities understand that no tax reform can meet these immediate needs represented by those special levies, and I certainly support and encourage the passage of those special levies in the communities in which they will be presented.

"No legislator—and certainly no governor—likes to go before the people proposing tax reform, but most assuredly the need exists and time has all but run out. I think the need for a state income tax, if not enthusiastically endorsed, is at least generally accepted by the people, and this administration's principal consideration has not been whether, but what kind. The Tax Advisory Council, in their excellent and comprehensive survey, recommended essentially what I am recommending today—a single rate income tax, which by virtue of being applied to net income has certain graduated features.

"The decision to recommend an income tax of this nature was not arrived at out of political consideration, but because the single rate tax on net income conforms closely to the ability of an individual or family to pay, and because it will produce an adequate amount of revenue for the state.

"Personal exemptions for children and other dependents and deductions for medical expenses, to cite only two examples, would be allowed under the tax as conceived, and as an overall principle basic living costs and minimum incomes are exempted entirely.

"I believe that these provisions substantially meet the objective of placing a less difficult burden on low income families, while not unfairly penalizing the middle and higher income groups with a steeply graduated rate.

"Although the individual's ability to pay was a principal consideration in the decision to recommend a single rate tax on net income, this administration gave thorough study to the amount of revenue to be generated by both the single rate and the graduated rate taxes. It was determined that in order to justify graduated rates as a realistic source of additional income, the graduations would have to start at very low income levels. Even so, from the experience of the Federal government, over 85 percent of revenue will come from families in the lowest tax brackets.

"All things considered—responsiveness to the economy, income to the state and fairness to the taxpayers—I believe that the single rate tax is the only reasonable and responsible income tax for the citizens of Washington.

"Over the years, the property tax has become the most widely criticized of all our taxes. In the judgment of local government, the property tax has failed to produce adequate revenue; in the judgment of state government, the lack of uniformity in assessments and the application of rates has been a major problem in attempting to provide school support with any degree of equity.

"The recommended property tax reform is predicated at least as much on proper administration as it is on constitutional revision. Nevertheless, there is an important change to be requested through the proposed amendment, and that is to establish 25 percent of true and fair value as the basic assessment level. Provided that the people approve an income tax, this administration is satisfied that a properly administered, uniform property tax assessed at a level of 25 percent, will provide the revenues required and necessary without any change in the present tax rate of forty mills.

"In the event, however, that the people turn down the income tax, I believe it is necessary that the tax rate be increased to 50 mills. If full reform is not possible, at least we must deal with the very practical problems of present revenue and special levies.

"The property tax proposal also will make provision for special levies to be voted on for a two year period.

"With the additional revenue available from an income tax and from efficient administration of the property tax, it will then become economically feasible to reduce the present sales tax rate to 3.5 percent. This is a step which should bring universal approval, yet one that cannot be accomplished outside the framework of tax reform. Because it has been an available tax—and because we have chosen the path of least resistance—the sales tax now carries a disproportionate share of the total tax burden. There is no question that it is a regressive tax, penalizing those people who are least able to pay; and it is—as I have pointed out—an unresponsive tax in terms of economic growth.

"The second provision under the sales tax reform is the specific exemption of food purchased for off-premise consumption and drugs used in conjunction with medical treatment. These exemptions are designed to remove a major share of basic living expenses from the taxing power, and to thereby place more emphasis on luxuries and less emphasis on necessities.

"The reduction of the business and occupation tax will be a much needed step in creating an improved business and industrial climate for Washington. By establishing a new rate of two-tenths of one percent, we will make the state more attractive to modern industry and at the same time provide a more equitable tax basis for our present employers.

"If we can accomplish these fundamental reforms in our sales, business and property taxes—and if the people will approve the establishment of a state income tax on the 1967 election ballot—then I believe we will have taken a giant step toward the resolution of our present problems, and toward the establishment of sound revenue base for our future.

"By placing the proposed amendments on the ballot, we are advocating reform but perhaps even more important, we are also providing a choice. It is a time for government to act, but within the democratic context, it also is a time for the people to choose.

"The choices are three in number. If the people reject both amendments, then the state must look forward to steadily increasing taxes on sales, on business and on property.

"If the people reject the income tax, but approve the property tax measure, there will be some relief of excess levies but sales and business taxes will still continue to grow; and while the present may be secured, the future will remain in doubt.

"If the people approve both amendments, they will be lowering the sales tax and exempting food and drugs, lowering the business and occupation tax, placing the property tax in constitutional perspective and adding the one new tax which will make state revenues responsive to state needs.

"This is not a choice between new taxes and no taxes at all; it is a question of how the people of Washington choose to support the growing needs of their government.

"In the history of every state and its people, the truly significant acts of government are few in number and rare in nature. Because they are significant, they are seldom easy, and their accomplishment requires not only wisdom but courage.

"I believe that this is one of those significant times, and I recognize that the tax reform recommendations of this administration constitute an historic and fundamental change. If the legislature sees fit to place the amendments on the ballot—and if the people approve—we will be changing a tradition of taxation which dates back to the early days of statehood.

"Yet, I have every confidence in the people, and I firmly believe that, given the choice, they will respond by doing what is right—for themselves and for those who follow.

"Our obligation is to give them this opportunity of choice, to place before the people a new option to meet new problems, to exercise in their behalf the full responsibility of leadership and to carry with courage the burden which leadership imposes.

"No bill or measure—past or present—is more important to the future of the State of Washington than tax reform. It is the key to the accommodation of our unlimited growth and the cornerstone of our collective efforts to preserve the integrity of state government.

"I ask this legislature to face the issue of tax reform, just as we all must now face the responsibilities of Washington's future.

"Thank you."

On motion of Mr. Gorton, the joint session was dissolved.

SECOND READING OF BILLS

Senate Bill No. 60, by Senators Uhlman, Atwood and Hanna:

Allowing attorneys to appear at grand jury proceedings.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

It was moved by Senator Andersen that the following amendment be adopted:

After "him" insert: "Provided, That at any time a witness appears before a grand jury accompanied by an attorney, a judge shall also be present to rule on such questions of law as may be raised."

Debate ensued.

The President called upon Senator Henry to preside.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Ridder:

"Mr. President, would Senator Andersen yield to a question?"

"Senator Andersen, as I understand it, the courts are pretty well clogged already. Would this have anything to do with slowing progress further by taking a judge out of chambers and moving him into the grand jury situation?"

Senator Andersen:

"No, as a practical matter, Senator Ridder, a judge pretty much has to be assigned to a grand jury anyway. But the grand jury procedure goes back centuries in the Anglo Saxon law and has always been a group of citizens which get together and hear witnesses and so on and a judge isn't permitted to be in the room. He comes in at the outset, gives the oath of secrecy. The stenographer can be there, the bailiff and that's about it. Now, the way it is now, if the grand jury wants to get some information on the law, they send out for the judge who is in his chambers. Then he comes out and goes on the bench, at which time the courtroom opens up and then they can ask him questions and be instructed on the law. But you have the prosecutor in the chambers. This bill would permit the witness to go into the sealed chamber accompanied by a lawyer and this would simply have the judge in the chambers with the two attorneys to rule on questions of law which come up so that some order could be maintained. It wouldn't have any effect on the problem you're referring to and a grand jury is a very rare and unusual thing."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Hallauer, the amendment was laid upon the table.

It was moved by Senator Lewis that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, add a new section following section 1 as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The foreman shall advise the witness of his constitutional rights with special emphasis on his right to decline to answer a question, the answer to which may tend to incriminate him. The foreman shall further advise the witness of his right to have counsel in chambers to be available to render advice with respect to his right to decline to answer questions calling for an answer which may tend to incriminate him.

Debate ensued.

The motion was lost on a rising vote and the amendment was not adopted.

It was moved by Senator Lewis that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, section 1, line 8, after "entitled" strike the balance of the section and insert "be excused for a reasonable length of time to seek legal advice from his attorney who shall be entitled to remain in chambers while the witness is on the stand to be available to advise the witness."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Hallauer, the amendment was laid upon the table.

It was moved by Senator Stender that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, line 5, strike section 1 of the bill and insert: "Section 1. Section 52, page 110, laws of 1854 as last amended by section 14, chapter 28, laws of 1891 and RCW 10.28.070 are each amended to read as follows.

The special [prosecuting] attorney retained by the grand jury shall attend on the grand jury for the purpose of [examining witnesses] informing witnesses of their constitutional rights and giving [them] the grand jury such advice and assistance as they may ask including examining witnesses.

On page 2, section 1, line 3, after "county" strike everything down to and including "schools," on line 5 and insert "elective officials,"

On motion of Senator Gissberg, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 2 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, would Senator Gissberg yield to a question?"

"Is the desire here on the part of this bill and the amendments that it would bring about an orderly manner of determining whether salaries needed to be adjusted among the various officials in this area? Is that what the Commission's purpose is, basically?"

Senator Gissberg:

"Yes, I think basically it is to advise and recommend to the Governor and to the legislature through the Legislative Council the level of salaries that the Governor's Advisory Committee believes is proper insofar as the level of salaries is concerned."

Senator Stender:

"One further question, then:

"Would this commission, if this was broadened, be able to make such recommendations as necessary on all state employees as well, or just these officials?"

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"No, not under the bill as presently drafted. As you know, the State Personnel Board does make those recommendations itself and there is quite an independent body established for that purpose. The Governor's Advisory Committee established by this statute would have and does not have any recommendations to be made for the great mass of the state employees. The law is, Senator, that this commission makes recommendations for instance as to the duties and salaries of the directors of the several departments, boards and commissions who are subject to appointment by the Governor: The Director of Game, the Director of Highways—in other words, we are talking about the salary levels of the top personnel rather than the others of which you spoke."

Senator Stender:

"Well, the question I have, Senator, and I think I understand from your first answer that it does cover that category of employees or state officials, but the question is if this statute were broadened, would this same commission be able to report to this legislature and the Governor as to these salary problems like we just endured here in the early part of this session, so we here would know what needed to be done with regard to all the state employees?"

Senator Gissberg:

"The answer to your question is, no, that there is no such authority granted by this act nor the amendment that has just been adopted."

Senator Stender:

"If it were broadened, Senator. If it were broadened, would that probably be a good function in relation to this same statute?"

Senator Gissberg:

"Well, I wouldn't be prepared to say that it was at this point. I have heard no criticism leveled at the State Personnel Board's method of determining the salary levels. They are charged, of course, by statute with that responsibility of making surveys in private industry for the purpose of taking care of the people you are talking about and making recommendations to us."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Canfield:

"Mr. President, would Senator Gissberg yield to another question?"

"Senator, I have a great admiration for your ability. I would like to inquire about the make-up of this board and if you have ever considered representing the taxpayer on this advisory board, other than just organized labor? It would seem to me that this board is mostly represented by spenders and not by earners."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, Senator:

"I take it your question is as to whether or not I have ever considered amending it in that respect. As a matter of fact, the only suggestion that has been made that has come to my attention is that the Association of Washington Industries should be taken off of it. That suggestion was made by one of the Senators during the time that this bill was introduced, but I do not recall any such discussion about it in the Legislative Council. No, we did not. It was not our purpose at least at the time the bill was considered by the Legislative Council to go behind the existing laws. We were not aware of any abuses. It is advisory to us only, of course, as you know, and we will ultimately make the final judgment in connection with any recommendations that they make."

"I don't know whether we can label the President of the Association of Washington Industries as a spender or not, Senator. Apparently you have chosen to do so. The President of the Pacific Northwest Personnel Managers Association—I don't know who he is and I don't know if he is a spender. The President of the Washington State Bar Association I personally know is not a spender—and one representative from organized labor. I don't know whether all members of organized labor are spenders or not. They spend money if they've got it, but they very seldom have it.

Debate ensued.

Re-number the remaining sections consecutively.

Such comments shall not be binding upon the parties to the proposed agreement but may be used by the parties to determine the advisability of adopting, rejecting or amending the proposed agreement."

On motion of Senator Talley, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 45 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, would Senator Atwood yield to a question?"

"Senator Atwood, with reference to your remarks, understanding that perhaps this is a technical bill and I realize that you have had some amount of experience with this bill and the background, I know I would be very grateful if you could tell me as to whether or not now the security interest of a creditor is protected simply by the certificate of title, or does some other document also have to be filed?"

Senator Atwood:

"It depends. On the inventory financing, it does not have to be filed. They still use the security instrument and the same floor financing principle, but otherwise it does have to be filed and the lienholder has to show on the title. This provides that the transferee is required to have this on it and he is entitled to his title so showing and registration. It is kept in the department of motor vehicles so there is a central place for checking these."

Senator Gissberg:

"Thank you, Senator. Then I assume that your answer is that the only requirement in the case of the sale of an automobile from me to you, for instance, would be for me, if you owed me some money on it, to simply file the certificate of title, itself, showing me as a lienholder, and that would be noted?"

Senator Atwood:

"That's right. That is then noted."

Debate ensued.

Excused: Senators Herr, Lennart, McCormack, Morgan—4.

The Secretary read:

SENATE RESOLUTION

1967 - 11

By Senators Lewis, Atwood, Uhlman and Washington:

Whereas, In view of the recent experiences of the grand juries called in Snohomish, Grant and King counties, there is a wealth of available experience on which to draw to formulate rules having for their purpose zealous protection of the right of privacy of the individuals called before it without hampering the breadth or the depth of the investigation undertaken in the historical application of the citizen inquiry into the public's business; and

Whereas, The system, itself, should be reviewed, overhauled and its direction outlined, in the light of modern experience, in view of the fact that grand juries are called but infrequently; and

Whereas, While the fortieth legislature has before it a number of bills calling for reforms in the grand jury system, it has but little time to consider all the proposals before it;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, By The Senate in legislative session assembled, that the judicial council be urged to study the grand jury system, including particularly, the recommendations of Judge William J. Wilkins and the Grant county grand jury concerning proposed rules for the organization, conduct and carrying out of the grand juries; and that the judicial council further should be urged to call for all such testimony as is available, written or oral, from those participants in the recent Grant, Snohomish and King county grand juries with a view to promoting comprehensive and detailed rules concerning conduct of grand jury hearings so as to preserve the investigational function as distinguished from the accusatory and finally, as part and parcel of the study, if deemed justified, to make recommendations to the forty-first legislature to amend, alter or repeal portions of chapter 10.28 RCW to achieve the desired results.

Be It Further Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate transmit a copy of this resolution to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court as the chairman of the judicial council.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Woodall that the Committee on Highways be relieved of Senate Bill No. 272.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President, would Senator Washington yield to a question?"

"If we leave this bill in the Highway Committee, would you agree then when it comes out of the Highway Committee, if it does, that it then be referred to the Judiciary Committee?"

Senator Washington:

"No, I would not. We might as well decide the issue right now, once and for all."

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"Mr. President, I rise to ask if Senator Washington would yield to a question:

"Senator Washington, I'm asking this question because I remember the Highways' meetings when the Highway Department themselves came in and explained this explicitly to us and I want to ask you this two-headed question: Have they ever been in the Judiciary Committee and shown them what they have shown us in Highways? I think this will bring out a point that will help us in keeping the bill in Highways."

Senator Washington:

"Senator Peterson, in the past quite frequently this has gone first to the Highway Committee and then it has been sent back to the Judiciary Committee."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, point of order:

"Senator Washington was not asked to make an additional speech. He was asked to answer a simple yes or no question."

Senator Washington:

"Senator Woodall, I don't know when we have ever had a rule that we had to answer a question with yes or no on this particular floor.

"We have in the Highway Committee, when it has been sent to us, had medical authorities, we have had highway authorities, we have had the State Patrol, we have had the equipment demonstrated to us, we have had pathologists come in, we have taken much testimony and many hearings.

"As a member of the Judiciary Committee, I don't recall—and perhaps someone may correct me if I am wrong—but having served on this committee, I don't know of one instance where the Judiciary Committee has attempted to bring in the actual physical evidence of how a breathalyzer or drunkometer works or has brought in pathologists to testify in regard to this particular problem or give demonstrations as to how it works."

Debate ensued.

Senators Keefe, Bailey and Rasmussen demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

Senator Washington demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Knoblauch, Bailey, Dore, Donohue, Rasmussen, Henry, Peterson (Ted), Marquardt, Faulk and Pritchard.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Senator Woodall:

"Point of information, Mr. President:

"Does it now require a separate motion to send the bill to the Judiciary Committee, or is the bill now referred to the Judiciary Committee?"

Prescribing crime for making obscene or harassing telephone calls.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Bill No. 77:

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., January 20, 1967.

Prescribing crime for making obscene or harassing telephone calls (reported by Judiciary Committee):

MAJORITY recommends that it do pass with the following amendments:

On line 15, after "misdemeanor." insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. Any person who knowingly permits any telephone under his control to be used for any purpose prohibited by section 1 shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

Renumber the old "Sec. 2." to read "Sec. 3."

Renumber the remaining section consecutively.

Wes C. Uhlman, Chairman,
Fred H. Dore, Vice Chairman.

We concur in this report: R. Frank Atwood, Martin J. Durkan, Frank W. Foley, Herbert H. Freise, R. R. Bob Greive, H. B. (Jerry) Hanna, Mike McCormack, John T. McCutcheon, Marshall A. Neill, Robert W. Twigg, Walter B. Williams.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Uhlman, the committee amendment was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Greive that the following amendment be adopted:

On Page 1, section 1, line 15, following subsection (4) add a new subsection as follows:

"(5) Soliciting as an employee or on a fee or commission basis wares, appliances and merchandise of any kind whatsoever on a regular basis to any person who has indicated in the telephone directory that he or she does not desire telephone solicitation."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President, point of order:"

The President:

"The Senator will state his point of order."

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President:

"Referring to Senate Rule 59 and Senate Rule 62, and Article II, Section 19 of the Constitution, Mr. President, I wonder if Senator Greive's proposed amendment does not enlarge the scope and object of this bill, and I would like to speak briefly if I might.

"The original purpose of Senate Bill No. 77 was to cover those telephone calls which were mala in se, so to speak, and actually where the intent was one of a criminal act, where they intend to actually endanger the recipient of the phone call by obscene language or by harassment or by doing things in which the premeditation is there. The intent which the person has before he picks up the phone is a criminal intent to actually endanger the recipient in some manner. Now that was the original scope and object of Senate Bill No. 77.

"As I understand Senator Greive's amendment and Mr. President, I am not speaking on the merits of the amendment at this time, but as I understand his amendment he is saying in effect that we are going to also hang on to this bill any type of solicitation by people who are employees who call an individual, if he or she has indicated in some vague way in the telephone directory she doesn't want to be called. Now, the real problem here is, as I see it, not only does it change the scope and object in that it is no longer mala in se but mala prohibita and in fact we are saying that harassment of an individual is a crime and the manner in which the recipient indicates he doesn't want to be called—by making this a crime, is so vague that I think it would be unenforceable. They indicate that the recipient has to indicate this to the telephone company, but there is no method by which this bill would require the telephone company to put it in the telephone directory so Mr. President, I believe the proposed amendment regardless of its merits does enlarge the scope and object of the bill."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"Obviously I have given some thought to this and this isn't something that I did just offhand. While I can honestly say that I am not pleading for it, I think it is a good thing. As far as the legal aspects of the thing, I took it up with our famous attorney, Max Nikolai, who has some reputation I think as a constitutional expert and Max told me that it could be done. In fact he drew the amendment. He seemed to feel the harassment or harassing nature adequately covered it. If, in the good judgment of the presiding officer, it does not I will accept the ruling. It's just one of those things: He said I could do it, so I did it."

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President:

"Speaking to the point of order raised by Senator Durkan, it seems to me we have before us a bill as has been pointed out that is basically a criminal bill, to give some teeth to a real serious problem that all of us object to, but that this amendment really enlarges the scope and object by bringing in what may be truly a questionable commercial practice, and I would respectfully suggest to the President that in worrying a little about this, I did look back in the journal. I recalled a hassle something like this a few sessions back. I might respectfully call the President's attention to the 1963 Journal, page 890, where the President very aptly described the purpose of Senate Rule 62, which is applicable in this case. This amendment does enlarge the scope and object of this bill."

MOTION

At 12:00 p.m. on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 1:30 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 1:30 p.m.

SECOND READING OF BILLS

Senate Bill No. 77, by Senators Durkan, Gissberg, Woodall, Uhlman, McMillan, Herr, Guss, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Knoblauch, Henry, Kupka, Talley, Hallauer, Greive, Foley, Cooney, Ridder, Morgan and Donohue:

Prescribing penalty for making obscene or harassing telephone calls.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 77 on second reading and the amendment proposed by Senator Greive.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Members of the Senate, the President, ruling upon the point of order rules:

"Senate Bill No. 77 is an act which makes it a crime to place certain types of telephone calls which are deemed to be of an obscene, threatening or harassing nature.

"The amendment proposed by Senator Greive merely adds an additional type of telephone call to the act. The amendment, therefore, does not change the scope and object of the bill and the President rules that the point of order as raised by Senator Durkan is not well taken."

Senators Knoblauch, Greive and Henry demanded a Call of the Senate.
A Call of the Senate was ordered.

CALL OF THE SENATE

The Sergeant at Arms locked the doors of the Senate Chamber.

The Secretary called the roll on the Call of the Senate, all members being present except Senators Gissberg, Guess and Herr, who were excused.

On motion of Senator Greive, the Senate proceeded under the Call of the Senate.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment by Senator Greive.

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Freise, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 1, section 1, line 15, strike "Shall" and insert "shall"

On motion of Senator Greive, the Senate dispensed with the Call of the Senate.

On motion of Senator Durkan, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 77, was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, I wonder if Senator Twigg would yield to a question?

"Senator Twigg, as I understand your explanation, this right of response wouldn't be important under this procedure. In other words, you send it and if you don't get a reply you proceed anyway?"

Senator Twigg:

"That is correct, Senator Stender. It is directed primarily at the out of state motorist who has intentionally or unintentionally given an incorrect address and the summons and complaint is mailed to him nevertheless."

Senator Stender:

"In the event the plaintiff gets a judgment against him, the court then could automatically give the judgment in behalf of the plaintiff?"

Senator Twigg:

"In other words, are you inquiring if the plaintiff, the Washington motorist bringing the action, does not give actual notice could he nonetheless proceed to a judgment against this defendant? Is that your question, Senator? It points up a good question, one that I must confess I have been somewhat concerned about. But I think we are dealing here with essentially the lesser of two evils."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Would the Senator yield to another question?

"Senator Twigg, is the object of this bill to alleviate the hardship on the foreign motorist who is perhaps in Wyoming and you have to have the lawsuit here?"

Senator Twigg:

"I believe you misunderstand me, Senator McCutcheon.

"This is actually directed at aiding the plight of the Washington motorist who happens to get involved in an accident with an out of state motorist whom he can't sue because he can't obtain service."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Who does this help?"

Senator Twigg:

"The citizen of this state in actions against out of state motorists using our highways."

Senator McCutcheon:

"How does it help him?"

Senator Twigg:

"Under the law as it now stands, Senator, it is required that you must mail to this out of state motorist a copy of the summons and complaint by registered mail with return receipt requested. If that piece of mail doesn't physically reach this individual or if the postal authorities come back and indicate that he is not locatable or has refused to sign the receipt, you are dead in the water. You can't proceed any further against this man and your service is incomplete and I believe the cases have so held in our Supreme Court. This would permit an injured Washington motorist to proceed against an out of state motorist whose acts have caused him injury, regardless of that out of state motorist actually having received the piece of mail that is mailed to him."

Senator Ridder:

"Mr. President, would Senator Twigg yield to another question?

"This would then mean that you could bring suit against the insurance company, that the insurance company could then be brought into the suit providing you got your return?"

Senator Twigg:

"This bill will provide that you do perfect your service simply by serving the Secretary of State a copy of the summons and complaint. The Secretary of State, you understand, is appointed the agent of the out of state motorist by his having taken advantage of the use of our highways, plus you must mail to him at the address you have for him, by registered mail with return receipt requested a further copy. His actual receipt of that additional copy by mail is not a prerequisite, however, to perfection of service."

Senator Ridder:

"The suit could proceed immediately just upon sending a letter?"

Senator Uhlman:

"I believe, in answer to Senator Ridder, that suit would be commenced as of the time of filing and service by mailing of the letter, by its being deposited in the mail. One point of clarification here if I might. If, under the present statute, the letter comes back refused then you can't commence a lawsuit at the present time. In other words, as Senator Twigg has said, you have to have physical contact, personal notice. Ordinarily, as you know, when a person leaves the state the statute of limitations ceases to run. However, the passage of this non-resident motorist act has changed that and at the present time the statute of limitations continues to run regardless of whether this person may be in Timbuctoo, and so the problem then is, we have to give Washington residents and plaintiffs an opportunity to obtain jurisdiction and commence lawsuits without penalizing them, and this is the means by which we have attempted to do this."

Senator Lewis:

"I wonder if Senator Uhlman would yield to another question:

"Would this bill permit a judgment against a person who has not appeared in court? Do I understand this to be true?"

Senator Uhlman:

"Yes, it would."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Greive, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 132 was returned to second reading.

On motion of Senator Greive, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 132 was ordered to retain its place at the end of the second reading calendar for today.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators Marquardt, Peterson (Ted), Ridder and Washington.

On motion of Senator Greive, Senators Ridder and Washington were excused.

"O Lord, our Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth! Who hast set Thy glory above the heavens. When I consider Thy heaven, the work of Thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which Thou hast ordained, what is man, that Thou art mindful of him? O Lord our Lord, how excellent is Thy name in all the earth.

"All that we have, and know, O Lord, we have received from Thy hand; and this day we implore Thy guidance, that we may evidence proper sense of stewardship. We pray Thy divine aid that we may properly provide for our needy, be they children or adult, that we may meet the needs of the aged and indigent and appreciating all our freedoms and privileges, pass on our precious heritage to those who shall follow.

"Deliver us from pride and self esteem and rather than satisfaction with past achievements, may we be challenged with the opportunities confronting us in serving our people and thus serving our God.

"This we pray in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen."

SENATE RESOLUTION

1967 - 13

By Senators Durkan, Talley, Kupka, Neill, Sandison, Woodall, Ryder, Keefe, Foley and Rasmussen:

Whereas, At times misfeasance or nonfeasance of duty on the part of an individual police officer or several police officers is prominently and luridly treated so as to give rise to a general unwarranted feeling of public distrust and contempt for all policemen; and

Whereas, A recent instance of four violations of Seattle police regulations covering off duty conduct and of a so-far-unproved accusation of bribe solicitation by one or two members of the Seattle police force has occasioned such notoriety as to throw discredit on the entire police department of that city; and

Whereas, The said police department generally has been staffed and manned by dedicated men, regular in the performance of every duty, willing to sacrifice time, effort and life itself in the preservation of the public peace and the promotion of the public welfare of the Seattle citizenry—with it all, at salary schedules and working conditions far below acceptable national standards; and

Whereas, By and large the officers and men of the several police departments throughout the state are worthy of the confidence and support of the entire citizenry of the state.

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, By the Senate of the State of Washington, In Legislative Session Assembled, That all police organizations of this state, and particularly the police force of the city of Seattle, be commended for those countless ordinary acts of crime and disaster prevention, those many charitable acts of aid to the needy, the handicapped and the underprivileged, and for those frequent acts of outright heroism and self-sacrifice that in time of criticism are so apt to be overlooked.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be mailed by the Secretary of the Senate to the chief of the Washington State Patrol, to the sheriffs of each county of the state, and to the chief of police of each municipality of the state.

On motion of Senator Durkan, the resolution was adopted.

SENATE RESOLUTION

1967 - 14

By Senator Freise:

Whereas, The Walla Walla College concert band, under the baton of H. Lloyd Leno, conductor, performed with great artistic skill and feeling in the rotunda of the state capitol in Olympia, Washington, at noon on January 20, 1967, in honor of Governor Daniel J. Evans and to the pleasure of the legislature, staff and guests:

Now, Therefore, The Senate in legislative session assembled, does hereby resolve that we acknowledge with thanks the concert given by Walla Walla College; that we congratulate the College, its music department, conductor and instrumentalists on their musicianships; that this band having performed before the legislature in 1965 was received again with great enjoyment and we hope to be able to hear another fine concert in the future.

Be It Further Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate transmit a copy of this resolution to the president of Walla Walla College, to the head of the music department and to H. Lloyd Leno, the conductor of the Walla Walla College concert band.

On motion of Senator Ryder, the resolution was adopted.

The Secretary read:

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"It is certainly a thrill and a great pleasure to me to speak a few words concerning Harold Petrie and his qualifications and the fine type of citizen that he is.

"You will notice that the report was unanimous. I have reason to believe that the vote of this body will, in all probability, likewise be unanimous. I think Harold exemplifies a trait in American life which we like to think is one of the finest and best. He is a veteran of World War II and was one of that group who became involved in the Battle of the Bulge. You will recall in the dying days of the Third Reich, they had the Von Ribbentrop push to get to Paris and Harold was one of the men who was with the General who, when asked if he would surrender, sent back the one word message. 'Nuts!' Harold was one of those boys. He was hit in the leg in that battle which later necessitated it being amputated. While he was back in Washington, D. C. being treated for his injury and fitted for a limb, he decided he would go to law school and he went one year to Georgetown. He liked it and continued to go and became admitted to the Bar.

"He came back to Yakima and joined the prosecuting attorney's staff. Later, he entered private practice and ran for the Legislature.

"All of you who have served with him know what a fine, high type man he is. You know what a competent legislator he was. Later on you know he was on the board of appeals for industrial insurance and lately he has been doing one of those things which is above and beyond the call of duty which I think is so fine. He has been calling personally on some of those who are injured in industrial accidents, someone who has lost a limb, and pointing out to them that they do not have to become a permanently disabled person but that they can with proper methods salvage themselves and can take a new course or new vocation and become a productive citizen.

"Because Harold does possess all of those fine traits of integrity, patriotism, courage, devotion to duty and because he is the kind of a man that just does a little bit above and beyond what his job calls for, it is a real pleasure to advocate his confirmation."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I wish to concur in the remarks by Senator Woodall. Representative Petrie, when he was in the House, was a very able member and now that he is in the Department of Labor and Industries, he is doing an excellent job. I hope that you will all vote for his confirmation. I feel certain that you will."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I, too, would like to say a word in behalf of former Representative Petrie. I had the pleasure of serving with him as a member of this body, as a member of the legislature. I also had a working arrangement whereby, simply because I had a considerable amount of work before the Department of Labor and Industries, I had the pleasure of working with him there and also during the interim committee studying industrial insurance. In all of those capacities I found him to be a fine gentleman, a man with whom I frequently disagreed, but I certainly never questioned his motives or reasons as to how he came to his opinions because it was a conflict of a matter of philosophy. I feel a man such as Mr. Petrie exemplifies the highest attributes. He is a man who will well serve the state of Washington in the capacity to which he has been nominated."

Senator Knoblauch:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I would like to say, Mr. President, that Harold Petrie is the type of an administrator who meets you with a smile, who listens to your problems. If you write him a letter, he answers it. He is a very fine person in the position he now holds and I would say a very fine credit to the administration of Governor Evans."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Canfield:

"Mr. President, would Senator Donohue yield to a question?"

"Senator Donohue, I think you have a splendid bill here and I am heartily in favor of it but I have one question which refers to line 10 which prohibits the leaving of any waste in any waters of the state. I am wondering how that affects the use of these cruisers that are going around the state and the waters of the state and dumping sewage in the waters. I am just wondering if that is provided for in this bill? Are all of these people automatically violators of the law and subject to fine and imprisonment?"

Senator Donohue:

"Senator Canfield, not being too accustomed to what goes on here in the Puget Sound area, I would rather have somebody that is more familiar with this particular matter answer that question."

Senator Gissberg:

"Senator, it is now unlawful—and I paraphrase the statute, but I believe Senator Atwood or Senator Uhlman or others who are familiar with the law will confirm that there is now on the books a statute which says it is unlawful to throw any foreign matter or object into any waters of the state, and that is found, as I recall, not in the specific act establishing the Water Pollution Commission, although it might be there, but in some other section of the Code. It is now unlawful. This is not adding anything to that in this particular measure."

Debate ensued.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY

The Senate was called to order at 11:00 a.m. by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators Herr and McMillan.

"Almighty God who are the rock on which we find our stability; help us stand steady in this shaken world. Through the changes that are coming about us and the confusion of people, give us growing faith and trust and deepening confidence in Thee.

"As we face the problems of this great State help us make sense out of what would otherwise be nonsense, help us bring order out of disorder. Inspire the members of this legislature to make compassionate and wise provision for all people in the state of Washington no matter who they may be or in what part of the State they live.

"Give us the wisdom to order our State and Nation upon the principles of justice and brotherhood to the conquest of covetousness and want. As westerners, we do not look to the past as much as we build for the future. Help us to see beyond our noses.

"This day and every day as we make this high effort, may we be aware of Thy providence moving with justice, mercy, and wisdom to bless us and all people of Washington in a thousand ways.

"May the love of God and the courage of God and the strength of God be with you now and forevermore. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

The Secretary read:

SENATE RESOLUTION 1967 - 15

By Senators Dore, Connor, Greive and Ridder:

Whereas, The attraction to Seattle and the greater Puget Sound area of a professional football franchise would enhance the community spirit of the entire state and would result in great economic benefits, estimated at five million dollars annually; and

Whereas, The recently merged NFL-AFL professional football league is currently in a period of expansion and will grant a few new franchises in the near future, after which no new franchises will be available; and

Whereas, Such a franchise cannot be obtained except by building in the area a multi-purpose sports stadium; and

Whereas, Such a stadium, in addition to football, will be available for and will attract a variety of entertainment, business, conventions, and political events; and

Whereas, The planning, financing and construction of such a stadium is a vast project which will require a number of years to complete; and

Whereas, The desirability of attracting such a franchise is so universal that every major city in the United States which does not already have one is bidding fiercely to obtain one; and

Whereas, Representatives of the national football league have expressed great interest in locating a team in Seattle, in preference to all other available cities and have indicated that the use of a suitable interim facility would be acceptable to them, pending construction of a permanent home; and

Whereas, The University of Washington stadium has a seating capacity of fifty-five thousand persons and would admirably serve this purpose; and

Whereas, The University of Washington stadium is only used on the average of five or six Saturday afternoons per year and the rest of the time lies idle, unused and vacant; and

Whereas, The colorful brand of Husky football under the capable leadership of Coach Jim Owens has attracted a loyal following of many more supporters than the stadium can hold and because of this the university is regularly losing a large amount of gate receipts; and

Whereas, The university's plan to increase the seating capacity by building a matching second deck on the student body side of the stadium has been shelved for lack of financing; and

Whereas, The renting of said stadium to a professional franchise holder would contribute substantially to financing of such improvement; and

Whereas, The public already has a financial interest in Husky stadium having contributed to it through popular subscription; and

Whereas, The use of Husky stadium as an interim facility for professional football would in no way interfere with the academic, athletic or social activities of the university nor in any way detract from its standing as one of the great universities of this nation;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, By the Senate, that we do earnestly request the Regents and the President of the University of Washington at such time as the location of professional football franchise in the Seattle area shall be imminent, that they shall consider favorably and shall approve on terms favorable to the university, the use of Husky stadium by the professional football franchise holder for such time, not exceeding five years, as may be required for the construction of a permanent multi-purpose stadium.

"Senator Woodall, I listened to your presentation and have I assurance that this bill does not in any way have any relative responsibility acts in it? Is that correct?"

Senator Woodall:

"That is correct. That is absolutely correct. We went over that in committee and we were one hundred percent in favor of turning down a relative responsibility bill."

Further debate ensued.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3:

Olympia, Wash., January 27, 1967.

Amending Constitution to change voting requirements as to excess levies (reported by Committee on Constitution, Elections and Legislative Processes):

MAJORITY recommends that it do pass as amended.

On page 1, line 3, after "the" and before "general" insert "next" and after "state" strike "on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November, 1968,"

John T. McCutcheon, Chairman.

We concur in this report: Larry Faulk, R. R. Bob Greive, Karl Herrmann, George Kupka, Ernest W. Lennart, Jack Metcalf, Mike McCormack, John H. Stender, Nat Washington.

The resolution was read the second time in full.

On motion of Senator Neill, the committee amendment was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Neill that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 2, beginning on line 2, after "either" strike all the material down to and including "election]" on line 6 and insert "[at a special election or at the regular election of such taxing districts, at which election the number of persons voting on the proposition shall constitute not less than forty per centum of the total number of votes cast in such taxing district at the last preceding general election] at the regular election of such taxing district or at a special election of such taxing district at which special election the number of persons voting on the proposition shall constitute not less than forty percent of the total number of votes cast in such taxing district at the last preceding general election"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President, would Senator Neill yield to a question?"

"Senator, I have no objection to your amendment, but I want to ask you, is there any reason to pass this constitutional amendment if we do this? We have no problem as it relates to the general elections and getting people out to vote. The problem here is getting enough people out to vote in special elections. Wouldn't you think this would actually tamper with the benefit of it if we had to pass this on to the people?"

Senator Neill:

"Senator, I suppose there are times when, because of the timing of the election, this might still be a problem but if you remove the entire quorum at the general election, then you don't have to worry about it. Of course I realize if we adopt this amendment the practical result would be that most, if not all special levies would be put on the ballot at the general election. But I think that is good. Then you don't have to worry about the quorum at all. I recognize the thing you say can happen, but really I think the protection of the property owner is warranted."

Senator Bailey:

"Well, pursuing this further, Senator—"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Uhlman:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"There is on the desk an amendment to the amendment which clarifies all of these problems regarding the primary and general election. Should the amendment to the amendment not be read at this time before this amendment is further considered?"

The Secretary read the following amendment by Senator Uhlman:

On line 7 of the amendment by Senator Neill, after "regular" and before "election" insert "primary or general"

It was moved by Senator Uhlman that the amendment to the amendment be adopted.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President:

"I still want to pursue my question and the question could either go to Senator Uhlman or Senator Neill, but it seems to me that the purpose of this whole matter would be to make it easier to pass special levies. I grant the justice of what Senator Neill says, but can you tell me of any election where you didn't have forty percent out, either a primary or general election? If not, you don't need to pass this resolution at all. The problem has always been in the special election where you couldn't get the forty percent out."

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President:

"I was not on the committee where this bill was discussed and so I don't have the specific information as to what sort of elections were causing the problems on the forty percent requirement. However, in response to your question, Senator Bailey, it seems to me: That for instance recently we had some special elections around the state on special levies to school districts, but then they were tested by the forty percent vote of the last preceding general election in that school district and this is what this calls for. Now certainly your school districts are not heavily voting in elections normally and I certainly think that if they can't get out forty percent of the last general election within the school district, then a very small minority are putting the burden on the majority of the property owners; and, I submit and I agree that the effect of my amendment very probably will be to force the school districts generally to put their special levies on the ballot at the general or primary election, but what is the matter with that? This is the time when people are coming out to vote. It may cause some change in timing, but I think it is meritorious."

Debate ensued.

It was moved by Senator Mardesich that further action on Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 and the proposed amendments be deferred and that the resolution retain its place on the second reading calendar for tomorrow.

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried.

On motion of Senator Greive, the Senate dispensed with the Call of the Senate.

At 12:40 p.m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 2:10 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 2:10 p.m.

"Most happily do we pause to recognize Thy sovereignty O God, and pray that Thy will shall be done in and through Thy servants this day. We accept Thy Kingdom, Thy rule is full of grace and Thine intention concerning us is good only.

"We know Thee not in relation to the other worlds but this little place which is our own, we know Thou hast redeemed it, bought it with blood, the life of Thy Son. May Thy claims upon us be recognized and our loyalty to Thee be entire. Amidst the clamor of many demands, may we hear Thy voice; or surrounded by multiplied pressures, sense Thy peace.

SENATE RESOLUTION 1967 - 16

By Senators Hallauer, Bailey and Guess:

Whereas, It is the right, the responsibility, and the duty of the legislature to ensure that the funds and resources of the state are not misspent or wasted; and

Whereas, Pursuant to the discharge of that duty, the legislature may hold inquiries and conduct investigations; and

Whereas, For many years the Washington state horse racing commission has functioned without legislative appropriation, and consequently has not received the scrutiny normally accorded agencies falling within the purview of the state budget and accounting act; and

Whereas, Grave questions have arisen concerning the manner in which the horse racing commission has disposed of the funds accruing to it, particularly during the period from May, 1965, to the present time; and

Whereas, These questions can be properly resolved only by a legislative inquiry conducted in accordance with the terms of RCW chapter 44.16; and

Whereas, Such an inquiry must be held during the current session of the legislature so that, if required, appropriate legislation may be drafted and passed in order to protect the funds and resources of the state of Washington;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, By the Senate, that there shall be created a committee to investigate the Washington state horse racing commission with special reference to the use of state funds by that agency during the period from May, 1965, to the present time; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the committee shall consist of three members of the Senate, no more than two of whom shall be of the same political party, to be appointed by the president of the Senate, who shall also select the committee chairman; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the committee shall have all the powers granted to committees of legislative inquiry by chapter 44.16 RCW, including but not limited to the power to hold hearings, to call and examine witnesses, and to subpoena such documents, including tax returns, as it may deem necessary to its investigation; and

Be It Further Resolved, That pursuant to the duties assigned to it herein, the committee shall be entitled to make such use of the staff and personnel of the Senate as may be needed; that it shall require that a record be made of its proceedings; that such proceedings shall not be televised, broadcast, or filmed, except by unanimous consent of all committee members; that a quorum shall consist of a majority of the members of the committee, and that such a quorum shall be necessary before any business is transacted or any action taken; and that no witness shall be cited in contempt of the committee except upon a majority vote of the members thereof; and

Be It Further Resolved, That each witness called by the committee shall be served with process in the same manner as is provided by law for service of process in the superior court; that each witness shall be sworn by the chairman of the committee; that each witness shall have the right to counsel, who may advise him of his rights before the committee; that such counsel shall have no power to examine witnesses appearing before the committee, but may demand that a copy of the record of the committee be furnished him at his own expense; and that each witness shall be entitled to a copy of this resolution, to be given him at the time he is served with process; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the committee shall proceed to conduct its inquiry with all possible speed, and shall deliver a report of its findings to the Senate not less than three days before the end of the regular session of the legislature, in order that the Senate may take such action with respect thereto as it may deem appropriate.

It was moved by Senator Hallauer that the resolution be adopted.

Debate ensued.

It was moved by Senator Woodall that the resolution be made a special order of business under the proper order of business for the next working day.

Debate ensued.

"Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, By the Senate, that the Legislative Budget Committee investigate the Washington state horse racing commission with special reference to the use of state funds by that agency during the period from May 1, 1965 to the present time; and"

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried on a rising vote and the amendment was adopted. Senators Greive, Sandison and Bailey demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the resolution as amended.

The motion was carried and the resolution as amended was adopted.

The Secretary read:

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Atwood:

"Would Senator Talley yield to a question, Mr. President:

"Senator Talley, why all the haste on this bill? Is there some reason why we picked it out here for passage?"

Senator Talley:

"No, no, I didn't think there would be any opposition or any questions on it. We have just established a route and it has been advocated on the federal level. There is no immediate haste, Senator Atwood."

Senator Atwood:

"Does this bill have any fiscal impact on the highway fund?"

Senator Talley:

"No."

Senator Atwood:

"There's no appropriation?"

Senator Talley:

"No."

Senator Ridder:

"Senator Talley, has this route been established previously?"

Senator Talley:

"Everything is set up, yes. It just names certain sections where the Lewis and Clark Expedition went through."

Senator Guess:

"Mr. President, would Senator Talley yield?

"Senator Talley, from the rapid description a few minutes ago, it was impossible to tell exactly the route that this is going to take in the vicinity of the Snake River. Could you delineate that? It was my understanding that Lewis and Clark did not go into Pasco, and I just wonder if we are going to put them off the track."

Senator Talley:

"I think they had to go by Pasco. They came down through the Snake River country, didn't they, and down the Columbia to the ocean."

Senator Guess:

"They came to Wallula and turned south at Wallula and stayed on the left bank of the Columbia. Now is this the way this is going to go? There's no highway there."

Senator Talley:

"No, there's no highway there. I think they were on both sides of the river, Senator Guess."

Debate ensued.

MOTION

At 12:30 p.m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 1:30 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 1:30 p.m.

On motion of Senator Greive, Senator Gissberg was excused.

Senators Greive, Morgan, and Metcalf demanded a Call of the Senate.

A Call of the Senate was ordered.

CALL OF THE SENATE

The Sergeant at Arms locked the doors of the Senate Chamber.

The Secretary called the roll on the Call of the Senate, all members being present except Senators Dore, Gissberg, Kupka, McMillan and Twigg who were excused.

On motion of Senator Greive, the Senate proceeded under the Call of the Senate.

SECOND READING OF BILLS

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3, by Senator Uhlman:

Amending Constitution to change voting requirements as to excess levies.

The resolution was read the second time in full.

The Senate resumed consideration of the amendment by Senator Neill and the amendment to the amendment by Senator Uhlman.

On motion of Senator Greive, the amendment to the amendment was laid upon the table.

It was moved by Senator Neill that the following amendment to the amendment be adopted:

On line 7, after "regular" and before "election" insert "state general or primary election or regular"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President, I have another question to ask Senator Neill:

"I'm not a lawyer, Senator, but I wonder, didn't the attorney general recently rule or the court recently rule that a school district election was not a general election unless it was county wide?"

Senator Neill:

"That is the reason that I have changed this wording. There is a confusion and a question as to whether it is or not, so the amendment to the amendment merely spells this out. At a regular school election, even though it is not otherwise a general election, we are perfectly willing that the forty percent be dropped. The very confusion you are talking about is the reason I thought it should be spelled out in the bill so that you have a clear cut proposition before you. Either it is good or bad."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McCormack:

"Mr. President, would Senator Neill yield to another question:

"I thought up until now I understood this, but I am not so sure I do. Can you explain to me when in the future there would be a school election that wouldn't be a special election? As I understand it now, it is all school elections or elections of school board members and so on. When would it be an election and when would it not?"

Senator Neill:

"The intent of the amendment to the amendment, and I believe it says this, is that when a school district holds a specially called election for special levies, that becomes a special election. But when they elect directors a regular school election becomes a general election under the wording here. At that election there would be no forty percent requirement. I'm asking only that the amendment be clarified so that the retention of the forty percent would be limited to specially called special levy elections having nothing to do with the regular election."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment by Senator Neill to the amendment was adopted.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment by Senator Neill as amended.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Washington a question:

"Did you tell me you are not going to consider the twenty-five percent limitation on the property tax?"

Senator Washington:

"I didn't say that. I was talking about the sixty percent limitation and the voting on the levy for two years. We didn't get into a discussion on the twenty-five percent limitation in the meetings of the Committee on Constitution, Elections and Legislative Processes."

Senator Bailey:

"Another question, Senator.

"Do you now tell me that they are not going to consider the two year levy?"

Senator Washington:

"It would be my recommendation that we don't have the two year levy on the same ballot at the same time with the forty percent limitation. I think there is a tendency for people to become confused if there be a group of arguments against the measures designed to liberalize the special levy procedures, and arguments on that could be used against the two year limitation that could be misconstrued as far as those people who might be in favor of the forty mill limitation. I feel there are less valid arguments against the forty mill limitation than against any other. Too many times we attempt to do too much at one session. I think it is better to get one subject passed at an election, rather than trying to get the whole package and then get none of it. Those would be my sentiments."

Debate ensued.

Senators Ridder, Greive and Ryder demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

Senator Neill demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Woodall, Freise, Ryder, Lewis, Greive, McCutcheon, Pritchard, Rasmussen and Knoblauch.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment as amended was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 6; nays, 39; excused, 4.

Those voting yea were: Senators Donohue, Freise, Neill, Twigg, Williams, Woodall—6.

Those voting nay were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Lennart, Lewis, McCormack, McCutcheon, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Uhlman, Washington—39.

Excused: Senators Dore, Gissberg, Kupka, McMillan—4.

It was moved by Senator Williams that the following amendments by Senators Williams, Uhlman, Lewis and Greive be adopted:

On page 1, line 24, after "district" insert ", other than school district"

On page 2, after line 6, add a new subsection as follows:

(a) By any school district when specifically authorized so to do by majority of at least three-fifths of the electors thereof voting on a proposition to levy additional taxes for not in excess of two years for operations submitted not more than twelve months prior to the date from which the proposed levy is to be made and not oftener than twice in such twelve month period, either at a special election or at the regular election of such taxing district. No district shall submit to the electors upon the authority of this subsection a proposition to authorize additional levies for current operations or capital outlays for any year for which such electors have previously approved a levy for the same purpose under the authority of this subsection. A district may, however, at any time submit to the electors a proposition to substitute for a prior authorization under this subsection a new authorization for the same purpose, providing (i) that the amount authorized by the substituted authorization will be adequate to fulfill all contractual obligations of the district incurred by reason of the prior authorization, and (ii) that the substitute proposition shall by its terms supersede the prior authorization and by its terms shall not become effective until the first tax levy year following the date of the election at which such substitute proposition was authorized and then be in lieu of any tax levy authorized by the superseded authorization."

Renumber the remaining subsections consecutively.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Stender:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I think most of us are aware that there are three constitutional amendments submitted and one is on the same subject, by one of the sponsors of the amendment. We have Senate Joint Resolutions No. 1, 2 and 3. Senate Joint Resolution No. 2 dealt with the subject of this amendment. Under the Constitution, Article II, subsection 19 it is provided that the bills can only deal with one subject. I raise the question as to whether or not this amendment is in order. I refer to Article II, section 19: 'No bill shall embrace more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title.'"

Senator Williams:

"Mr. President, speaking on the point of order:

"In the first place, I do believe this does deal with the same subject which is school special levies. More important the limitation refers only to a bill. There is no reference to anything else. The Constitution does say that separate subjects shall be submitted separately. This is done by the attorney general and the attorney general has done this in various cases. It is up to him whether he wants to divide the question or not. As far as this body is concerned, there is no rule to prevent this, particularly since the matters do deal with the question of school special levies."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, on that point I remind you that in the case of the short title here, the constitutional amendment, that title is actually written by the attorney general and submitted to the people, so we are in a little different position than we are on a bill. A bill has a title and the reason is that it can be used traditionally by people in the legislature who just read the title and don't read the entire bill. This was done so they would know what they were voting on. The reason would be different in this case."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Stender, the President's ruling upon the point of order presented by you:

"The President believes that the explanation offered by Senator Williams and Senator Greive is essentially correct. Therefore, I must rule that the point of order is not well taken."

Debate ensued.

Senator Greive demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Bailey, Morgan, Sandison, Uhlman, McCormack, Metcalf, Ridder and Connor.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendments by Senators Williams, Uhlman, Lewis, Ridder and Greive were adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 41; nays, 4; excused, 4.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Lennart, Lewis, McCormack, McCutcheon, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Williams, Woodall—41.

Those voting nay were: Senators Donohue, Guess, Stender, Washington—4.

Excused: Senators Dore, Gissberg, Kupka, McMillan—4.

It was moved by Senator Bailey that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, section 2, line 14, after "shall be" strike "fifty" and insert "[fifty] twenty five"

Debate ensued.

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order at 3:20 p.m.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment by Senator Bailey.

Debate ensued.

Senators Woodall, Neill and Bailey demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

Senator Bailey demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Rasmussen, Metcalf, McCormack, Stender, McCutcheon, Talley, Ryder and Woodall.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll.

The motion was carried and the amendment by Senator Bailey was adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 27; nays, 18; absent or not voting, 0; excused, 4.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Faulk, Freise, Guess, Henry, Herrmann, Lennart, Lewis, Marquardt, Metcalf, Neill, Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Redmon, Ryder, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Woodall—27.

Those voting nay were: Senators Durkan, Foley, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Herr, Keefe, Knoblauch, McCormack, McCutcheon, Mardesich, Morgan, Peterson (Lowell), Rasmussen, Ridder, Sandison, Washington, Williams—18.

Excused: Senators Dore, Gissberg, Kupka, McMillan—4.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Bailey that the rules be suspended, that Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 be advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the resolution was placed on final passage.

Senator Greive demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Bailey, Morgan, Uhlman, Henry, Talley, Neill, Freise, McCutcheon and McCormack.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion by Senator Bailey was lost by the following vote: Yeas, 27; nays, 18; excused, 4.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Faulk, Freise, Guess, Henry, Herrmann, Lennart, Lewis, Marquardt, Metcalf, Neill, Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Redmon, Ryder, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Williams, Woodall—27.

Those voting nay were: Senators Durkan, Foley, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Herr, Keefe, Knoblauch, McCormack, McCutcheon, Mardesich, Morgan, Peterson (Lowell), Rasmussen, Ridder, Sandison, Uhlman, Washington—18.

Excused: Senators Dore, Gissberg, Kupka, McMillan—4.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Woodall that Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 be made a special order of business for noon, tomorrow.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President, point of parliamentary inquiry:

"What is the position of the resolution at the present time?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The position of the resolution is this, Senator Durkan:

"The President was about to announce that Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 was passed to third reading. At present it is still on second reading, but the President believes that the Senate through its action wishes the resolution passed to third reading. However, the resolution is now before you for Senate action."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Washington:

"Parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President:

"Under the rule which is in effect, it moves to the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules. I would like to point out to Senator Woodall that had my proposed rule change doing away with sending it back to Rules for third reading gone into effect, your motion would be in order. But the rules still provide that it goes to the Rules Committee before coming out on third reading."

Senator Woodall:

"What Senator Washington says has nothing to do with the case. The resolution had not been passed to third reading by pronouncement of the President. It is still before the body and my motion is in order."

Senator Bailey:

"Speaking on the point that Senator Woodall has raised, it seems to me that you did not rap the gavel and that has always been the tradition that I know of. You rap the gavel before it actually goes to the Rules Committee. He got up before in anticipation of what might have happened, not what happened."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator McCormack:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"It is my understanding that a motion cannot interrupt a roll call, and the President had not pronounced the results of the roll call. That still constitutes the roll call and a motion cannot interrupt it until the President has announced the results of the roll call."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes the minutes will show that the result of the roll call was announced."

Senator McCormack:

"Mr. President, then it seems to me that Senator Woodall's motion should have been to relieve the Rules Committee of the resolution because it automatically goes to Rules."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator McCormack, the President believes that inasmuch as Senator Bailey's motion to advance the bill failed, that the bill would still remain on second reading for further action by the members of the body."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to have your ruling on Rule 61 and its application in this situation:

"When no further amendments shall be offered the President shall declare the bill has passed its second reading, and shall be referred to the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules for third reading."

"There is nothing said in here about any announcement at any time on your part. I believe that the action of the body automatically refers the bill back to the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules."

Senator Bailey:

"I hate to reveal anything that happened in that secret, secret Rules Committee, but Senator Hallauer wasn't it your idea that every bill this body ordered back to the floor would be reported without any hindrance from any committee and wasn't that the proposition we went through?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"If I may take this opportunity to respond to Senator Bailey, the wisdom that I offered to the Rules Committee did not prevail. The wisdom of the other members overpowered me by numbers and we are abiding by the rules that they have placed before us and I am reciting their own chapter and verse to them. I think Rule 61, as I read it, is appropriate to this situation."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"If we put Senator Hallauer's interpretation on Rule 61, then no motion would be in order after all amendments had been considered and the title had been read. It would automatically go into the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules. We could not have a motion to advance the bill, so it would seem to me that until the President has announced that the bill has passed to third reading, any motion that any member of this body wishes to make is in order."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Hallauer, the President believes that essentially your position is correct. However, when Senator Bailey's motion failed, the bill technically is still in the possession of the Senate. The President delayed pronouncement because there might have been someone that wished to enter another amendment. The President believes Senator Ryder's comments are correct and that Senator Woodall in his nimbleness caught the bill on the fly and his motion is in order."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President:

"Is it then necessary that prior to any bill moving back from second reading into Committee on Rules and Joint Rules that there be some utterance from the Chair?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President intended to pass Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 to third reading or at least make that announcement, if there were no further actions on it by this body."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Bailey:

"Point of inquiry, Mr. President:

"If this motion of Senator Woodall prevails tomorrow, is it on second reading or third reading?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes that it would be on second reading in the possession of the Senate."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Ridder:

"Mr. President, then may we speak to the bill?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"You may speak to the motion if you so desire."

Senator Ridder:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I'm a little sad and disillusioned. We brought up initially an issue to alleviate the situation in the schools. Last night some fifteen hundred people gathered here to ask for your —"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Woodall:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"This gentleman's remarks must be referred to the motion to keep it on the calendar tomorrow rather than to speak on 'personal disappointments' or about what happened last night."

Senator Ridder:

"I think I'll get around to that."

Senator Greive:

"I would like to support Senator Ridder's position. Whatever his feelings are as a member of this body it seems to me pertain to whether we should consider the matter today or tomorrow. It is very pertinent and he has a right to speak."

Senator Ridder:

"Anyway these people, some fifteen hundred, appeared here last night to voice their opinion that they are very unhappy that $132 million is riding on special levies. I think the people have spoken. They want some help. We brought this on the floor yesterday. We brought it on the floor today. We added to it. We had a good bill going for the schools. Then somebody wanted to play games and they are still playing games. It seems to me there is an issue here of forty percent removal and the two year situation to extend levies. I think this is the issue. The school people do want the twenty-five percent issue brought in here. We will be able to discuss this at a future point. I suggest that we handle this thing today, Senator Woodall, without any further mismanagement."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Bailey:

"Point of personal privilege, Mr. President:

"I intend to carry this bill further, but I intend to say this:

"Since I have been in the legislature since 1951 no one here has a better labor record than I, and labor is opposed to this amendment. I say labor. I say the executive council of the American Federation of Labor of which I am a dues paying member.

I don't think the average labor member is opposed to this. They want a reduction in taxes. They want to keep them from going any higher.

"There has never been a better friend of schools than I have been since 1951 and I don't yield to anybody on that. Now I'm not playing any games, Senator Ridder, and I am going to see this thing through to the end. This is a challenge I accept."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"There is one thing I wanted Senator Ridder to know: You never bring a challenge to Senator Woodall because it is very, very bad."

Senator Woodall:

"I'm in a mellow mood today. I would just like to inform Senator Ridder that he seems to confuse his own actions as to what he just did a few moments ago. The good Senator now says, 'Let's work on it today,' and a moment ago when Senator Bailey moved to advance it so we could complete work on it today, I find that the good Senator Ridder voted no, I don't want to consider it today, so when I make a motion to keep the thing alive until tomorrow, he now suddenly says he wants to work on it today. Now I suggest that through the years, Senator, you should try to recall whenever you speak how you voted at least ten minutes ago."

Senator Greive:

"My word to Senator Ridder is: Whenever you speak, remember to whom you are speaking."

Senator Ridder:

"As a freshman Senator, I thank you very much, Senator, for your kind words. This is true that in the heat of the moment I did. However, I feel very deeply about this issue and it hurts tremendously to see some parliamentary finagling kill an issue and I hope that when you good people do bring it up tomorrow that you look it over thoroughly tonight and analyze just what you are doing to this bill. I have had my say. Thank you very much."

The motion by Senator Woodall was carried and Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 on second reading was made a special order of business for noon, February 3, 1967.

Senate Bill No. 253, by Senators Washington, Marquardt and Stender (by Departmental request):

Clarifying rules of the road for driving on divided highways.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Lewis a question:

"Senator Lewis, you were the one who requested that the bill be held over. Are you satisfied with the bill in its present state?"

Senator Lewis:

"Mr. President, Senator Washington, in answer to your question:

"Yes, I am satisfied now. I talked to Mr. Prahl and he agreed that we did have a severe problem in the Lacey area and he also agreed to cooperate and work with us to provide accesses through the double lines to the merchants who are aggrieved out there. He suggested to me that he would write a letter to me to that effect and I reminded him we did have a device in the Senate to put this sort of thing on record. He has agreed to cooperate and he was very generous and nice about it and I am satisfied with the bill now on this basis and I do urge its passage."

On motion of Senator Washington, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 253 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Greive, the Senate dispensed with the Call of the Senate.

House Bill No. 57, by Representatives Adams, May and Richardson (by Departmental request):

Increasing per diem for members of apprenticeship council.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

It was moved by Senator Guess that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 2, Line 9, add a new section to bill to be known as Section 2.

Sec. 2. Section 1, Chapter 172, Laws of 1963 and RCW 49.04.080 are each amended to read as follows:

Under the supervision of the director of labor and industries and with the advice and guidance of the apprenticeship council the supervisor of apprenticeship shall encourage and promote the making [of such] other types of on-the-job training agreements and projects, in addition to apprenticeship agreements. [as he in his discretion shall find meritorious.]

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Mardesich, the amendment was laid upon the table.

On motion of Senator Rasmussen, the rules were suspended, House Bill No. 57 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

House Joint Memorial No. 1, by Representatives Holman, Mahaffey and DeJarnatt:

Memorializing Congress to amend section 11 of the Enabling Act.

The memorial was read the second time in full.

On motion of Senator Ridder, the rules were suspended, House Joint Memorial No. 1 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the memorial was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

"Great is the Lord and greatly to be praised in the city of our God, in the mountain of His holiness. According to Thy name, O God, so is Thy praise unto the ends of the earth; Thy right hand is full of righteousness. For this God is our God forever and ever, He will be our guide even unto death.

"We come unto Thee, O God, in prayer, knowing that all our resources are in Thee. We are but children of yesterday and know nothing of today nor tomorrow. Thou art the God of eternity, full of wisdom and power. Look upon us as little children and take our hand, that we might be led in the paths of Thy choosing.

"Thou hast given each of us work to do and strength with which to do it. Help each of us to know his exact duty and to do it, not with one hand, but with both hands earnestly. Help us while using the earth not to abuse it, but that through us Thy will shall be done in earth as it is in heaven.

"Deliver us from the custody of misunderstanding and criticism when we know we have done our duty to Thee. Continue Thy goodness to us for the few miles more of life's journey and may Thy smile of approval rest upon our efforts done for the good of our fellow man.

"We commend ourselves into Thy hands for this day, in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen."

Senator McCutcheon:

"They can contract with the developer?"

Senator Gissberg:

"They can contract with the developer who would then put in the improvement. That is correct. This has to do with reimbursing the developer and the sewer districts would then accept the improvements having been constructed by the developer and turn the sewer facility over to the district, and then the sewer district could make a charge to all people who hooked onto that facility and pay pro rata to the proportion paid back to the developer."

Debate ensued.

Senate Bill No. 133, by Senators Talley, Ryder and Foley:

Implementing constitutional authority for promotional activities by port districts.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Bill No. 133:

Senate Chamber,

Olympia, Wash., February 1, 1967.

Implementing constitutional authority for promotional activities by port districts (reported by Committee on Cities, Towns and Counties):

MAJORITY recommends that it do pass as amended.

In line 10, after "Sec. 2.", strike all of the material down to and including "districts." on line 15, and insert: "Funds for promotional hosting expenditures shall be expended only from gross operating receipts, and promotional hosting expenditures shall not exceed 1% of such gross operating receipts: Provided, That in any case a district may expend not more than $2,500 per year for promotional hosting purposes from any source available to such districts."

....., Chairman.

We concur in this report: R. Frank Atwood, Joe Chytil, Frank Connor, Fred H. Dore, Al Henry, George Kupka, Joel M. Pritchard, Don L. Talley, Wes C. Uhlman, Walter B. Williams.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Talley, the committee amendment was laid upon the table.

It was moved by Senator Talley that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, section 2, line 11, after "receipts," insert "and shall not exceed one percent thereof,"

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Donohue:

"Mr. President, would Senator Talley yield to a question:

"Senator Talley, am I right in my understanding that any expenditure would have to come from gross operating receipts?"

Senator Talley:

"Only those ports that do have gross operating receipts. The ports that do not have any industries as yet, would use $2,500 of tax money."

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President, would Senator Talley yield?

"Senator Talley, first those districts having gross receipts less than $2500 a year may use any sources, isn't that the way it reads?"

Senator Talley:

"The only source they would have, if there are no gross receipts, would be tax revenues."

Senator Dore:

"It says, 'except —' In other words, you put a limitation of one percent on all of the port districts except those who have, as I understand it, gross operating revenues of less than $2,500 a year and then you give them the right as I understand it to expend not more than $2,500 per year for promotional hosting purposes from any source available to such districts. So it seems to me that's what you are trying to do, but it seems you are letting a lot of people out from under the hood of this amendment."

Senator Talley:

"From any source. These ports that we are talking about in this $2,500 are newly established and trying to get going and are supported by revenue and tax levies, so the thought is that they can spend $2,500 of these tax levies for the attraction of industries or promotion of the port district."

Senator Bailey:

"I'd like to ask Senator Talley a question:

"Senator, I know what you are trying to do, but I am worried now about the small port districts that have some revenues coming in that may not equal $2,500. Are we saying here that maybe they can only expend $100 or how many port districts will get into this? The way I read the amendment, if they have any gross operating receipts, they can't exceed one percent of those. If they don't have any receipts, they can spend $2,500. What happens to the small ports that have very small gross receipts perhaps from the rental of a few small boats, they might only be allowed ten dollars a year?"

Senator Talley:

"The way I read it is that those port districts having gross operating receipts less than $2,500 a year, may spend not more than $2,500 a year for this purpose from any source available. I would say they could use whatever they had in the way of gross receipts and up to $2,500 of tax money. That is the intent of the bill, Senator Bailey."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment by Senator Talley was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Durkan that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, following section 4, add a new section as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The authority granted to port districts by virtue of this act shall terminate July 1, 1969."

Debate ensued.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

The time having arrived, Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 on second reading was considered.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Greive, the special order of business for noon, Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 on second reading, was deferred until consideration of Senate Bill No. 133 was completed.

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Greive, the amendment was laid upon the table.

It was moved by Senator Dore that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, section 3, line 24, add a new sentence: "Provided, no funds may be used for political contributions or for purchasing political dinners or lunches."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Dore:

"Would Senator Talley yield to a question?"

"Senator Talley, as the vice chairman of the Committee on Cities, Towns and Counties, and also as primary sponsor of this bill, is it your intention that none of these funds be used for political purposes whereby these funds would be used to buy political dinner tickets for various candidates?"

Senator Talley:

"You're making a very broad statement Senator Dore. I don't think any of these funds should be used for political contributions. When you are talking about political dinners, what do you mean by a political dinner? We go to dinners with the county commissioners and things like that. Say we have a legal problem we would like to present to you, now do you consider that a political dinner?"

Senator Dore:

"Perhaps if you would express yourself in two categories: One in terms of dinners purchased which reflect the value received, as distinguished from political dinners where the cost of the dinner is relatively small compared to the amount received for the ticket. I am talking about the one hundred dollar and fifty dollar a plate dinners that are popular among all of us to raise funds. I would like to support this legislation, but I don't feel personally that funds of the port should be used for that purpose, even though indirectly you might say they are for the port district because the port has legislative business and it might go to see that a legislator favorable to ports was elected."

Senator Talley:

"Senator Dore, I cannot see any port commissioners making a contribution to the candidacy of any man or woman running for a legislative office. I just don't think you are correct in your assumptions at all. They are not all out for that purpose. They are out for the good of the people. Port commissioners are elected by the people and they are responsible to the people, for every expenditure they make is audited. Now do you think that if they made a hundred dollar contribution or bought a ticket and the auditor revealed this expenditure that it would look good in the papers? It wouldn't. I don't think any commissioner would be that silly."

Senator Dore:

"Then it is not the intent of the sponsors of the bill for example if I had a one hundred dollar dinner for the purposes of getting re-elected, that these funds can be used by port commissioners to buy one of my tickets?"

Senator Talley:

"You mean particularly for your dinner, Senator Dore?"

Senator Dore:

"No, any candidate running for public office—even Senator Talley's dinner. I am just trying to get it clarified."

Senator Talley:

"I don't think you have any danger and I know what you are trying to pull me into."

Senator Dore:

"No, I am trying to get your intent on that example I gave you. Could or could not a port commissioner purchase such a ticket?"

Senator Talley:

"They say, to say, 'no.'"

Senator Dore:

"How about the sponsors of the bill? That's what I want to know. That is important in law when they examine the journal to know what the sponsors and the chairman of the committee think so the auditor will have some guidelines."

Senator Talley:

"It is not the intent of this bill to make money available for political purposes. This is for the promotion of port business and industry of the state. That's all this bill is; not for the promotion of any political power or political candidate, be he Democrat or Republican."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President, point of parliamentary inquiry:

"Are those last remarks in the journal? If they are, then I am satisfied."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"They are in the journal, Senator Dore."

Senator Talley:

"What remarks? What did I say? Can you read it back?"

The President:

"The record will show that you made the following remarks:

"It is not the intent of this bill to make money available for political purposes. This is for the promotion of port business and industry of the state. That's all this bill is, not for the promotion of any political power or political candidate, be he Democrat or Republican."

"Is that essentially correct, Senator Talley?"

Senator Talley:

"Yes."

There being no objection, Senator Dore was permitted to withdraw his amendment.

On motion of Senator Greive, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 133 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"I would like some attorney familiar with the constitutional provision to answer this question. I do not have the provision before me. If the constitutional provision is self-implementing and there is no restraint, I would be for this bill on the grounds it puts some restraint on. If the constitutional amendment is not self-implementing, then I think there is something to the argument of Senator Durkan that this bill does not adequately protect. Perhaps Senator Gissberg could answer that."

Senator Gissberg:

"Although I do not hold myself out in the manner that has been suggested by having arisen as being a constitutional expert as such, it would be my opinion from sitting here listening to the argument that the constitutional provision is not self-implementing, that this legislation is necessary if anything is to be expended at all. It is not a limiting factor, contrary to what Senator Ryder has said. It gets a little confusing, but it is not self-implementing in any way, shape or form. The posture of the law would remain the same. In other words, if this legislation is not adopted, I have no doubt the port authorities would have no legal authority whatsoever to expend funds for promotional purposes. They would have no authority unless and until the legislature itself gave to its political subdivisions the authority.

"Senator Ryder mentioned the fact that these public hearings on the budget will apprise the public, but I think that is there in theory, but unfortunately it just doesn't work out that way in practice. I know that Senator Ryder will be the first to join with me and has in the past decried with myself that there is a tremendous lack of public interest on the local level in attending the budget hearings of not only port districts and port authorities, but cities and school districts at the time they adopt their budgets. You just don't find people in attendance at these local budgetary hearings.

"Further, I think that the auditor's office, itself, the state auditor first brought this matter to light and if this legislation is not passed, then there will be no authority on the part of the ports to expend anything for promotion until such time as the legislature has enacted such legislation, and any expenditures made in the interim would be subjected to the same criticism by the state auditor's office."

MOTION

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President:

"I rise only to seek information. Can any member of this body tell me what the gross revenues of the Port of Seattle are? Would that be $25 million or $30 million or $35 million so that this would be a $300,000 or $350,000 possible expenditure? If no one can answer that question, then I would like to move, out of order perhaps but with the leave of the body, that Senate Bill No. 133 hold its place on the calendar for tomorrow."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Mardesich that Engrossed Senate Bill No. 133 hold its place on the third reading calendar for tomorrow.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Senator Uhlman moved that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the amendment by Senator Bailey to Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 was adopted.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Mardesich:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"Is it not the rule on an ordinary amendment that the question of reconsideration should have been raised after the original vote, rather than on the next succeeding day?"

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"What Senator Mardesich has said is true, except that 'immediately considered' means while the bill is still before us. 'Immediate' can extend over several days, but Rule 31 provides that if the matter is in the same stage of proceeding as it was yesterday, then that should be considered. It seems to me that the only logical ruling, if Senator Uhlman voted on the prevailing side, is that he should have the privilege of making such a motion. Furthermore, the scale of the motion under Rule 21 is that a motion to reconsider is second."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Mardesich, ruling upon the point of order that you presented, the explanation as given by Senator Greive is correct. The measure is at the same stage of consideration. Senator Uhlman has moved that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the amendment proposed by Senator Bailey was adopted."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President, would Senator Ryder yield to a question:

"Senator, this sets up an advisory council. They have no authority other than to advise the present investors of the fund. In other words, they study and advise our present board as to the wisdom of their investments but they have no power to override the present board?"

Senator Ryder:

"This is correct, and actually it is not an investment board. It is actually an investment counsel whom the pension system would hire, who are experts in this field and who would merely advise the pension system of the progress of these funds."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Guess:

"Mr. President, would Senator Herrmann yield:

"I'd like to ask one question. Is this going to increase the cost of the counties doing business without a return by the state and the legislature for the increased cost of operating the judicial system?"

Senator Herrmann:

"I don't think, Senator Guess, there will be any great impact on the budgets of the counties because I think there are only some forty-eight in the entire state and the amount that we are increasing it, especially in the smaller counties where there would be only one person involved, is very small. The amount we have here, $1,900, we discussed in the committee and felt that it would not work any hardship on the counties, especially the smaller counties."

Senator Guess:

"Is this increase in proportion to the increase that we have given to the state employees in House Bill No. 186?"

Senator Herrmann:

"I don't think it would be disproportionate. I would say their salaries are entirely out of proportion to the increases that we have given the judges in the courts, in the superior courts and the supreme court. I feel that we have really failed with these people in getting their salaries up to a professional level."

Senator Guess:

"Senator Herrmann, am I correct that we raised the salaries of these people last session?"

Senator Herrmann:

"That is correct, and I think it was totally inadequate for the work that they are doing. I think that they should really receive more than ordinary laborers. We are having a difficult time getting competent people in this field and I think the reason is that the salaries are set by statute and in dealing with the classes of this bill it is inadequate for the type of highly specialized professional service that these people render."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President, would Senator Ryder yield to a question:

"Senator Ryder, I notice that we still have quite a few bills on the calendar, that the hour approaches nine, that the Senate has been in session some ten hours already this day, and I am led to believe that the House adjourned around 1:30 or 2:00 this afternoon for the weekend. What is the problem over there? Is the pay scale slowing them down a little bit, or what is the trouble in the House?"

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"Senator, they have gotten so far ahead and have passed so many bills that they have to wait until we catch up. This is one of the reasons why we have been in session today, to try to help us catch up a little bit to what the House is doing. Now, I think perhaps that we have worked long enough today and we are all tired. I certainly will give permission from the minority to the majority to take the Call of the Senate off and adjourn."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf:

"Mr. President, would Senator Uhlman yield to a question:

"Senator Uhlman, ten days ago this body committed the implied consent bill to your committee. Many of us would certainly appreciate a progress report on this bill at this time. Have you set a date for hearing and other action on the implied consent bill?"

Senator Uhlman:

"Mr. President, Senator Metcalf:

"In answer to your question, I have been in almost daily contact with Mr. Best of the legislative council. Mr. Best is now working up a rather comprehensive report for our committee. The Judiciary Committee over the years has been reputed, under the very able leadership of Senator Jack Petrich, of wanting to study all of the legislation carefully. This is what we are doing with this legislation and I certainly wouldn't think that this body would like to have a hasty or premature decision made on this bill. When it is appropriately prepared for study, it will be considered by the committee and if it is meritorious legislation it will be referred to the Senate for action."

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

State of Washington, Office of the Governor,
Olympia, February 6, 1967.

To the Honorable, The Senate of the State of Washington

Lady and Gentlemen:

I have the honor to submit the following reappointment to the position of member, State Highway Commission, subject to your confirmation:

George D. Zahn, appointed August 1, 1966 for a term ending July 1, 1972, succeeding himself.

GOVERNATORIAL APPOINTMENT

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., February 6, 1967.

George D. Zahn, to the position of member of the State Highway Commission, appointed by the Governor August 1, 1966 for the term ending July 1, 1972, succeeding himself (reported by Committee on Highways):

MAJORITY recommends that said appointment be confirmed.

Nat Washington, Chairman.

Ridder, Gordon Sandison, John H. Stender, Don L. Talley, Walter B. Williams.

It was moved by Senator Woodall that the rules be suspended and that the appointment of George D. Zahn to the position of member of the State Highway Commission be now confirmed.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to second the confirmation of George D. Zahn to the State Highway Commission. George Zahn was first appointed to the State Highway Commission by Governor Rosellini some years ago. It was my privilege at that time to intercede with the Governor in suggesting that appointment and former Senator Zahn is the gentleman whom I, myself, succeeded in this body. He has been both an effective legislator and commissioner. You all know him. He has done a wonderful job as both a Commissioner and as Chairman of the Highway Commission, and in the course of his activity on highways, he devotes a lot of his time to the effort of improving the highways of this state, which has been a very tender subject in that we have had some very delicate matters in the way of a conflict between the rural interests of the state and the urban interests of the state.

"Commissioner Zahn comes from primarily a rural area of the state and yet during the time of his stewardship as commissioner and as chairman of the commission there has been more progress made in the improving of the urban highways of the state than any other previous time. I think that his job with the Commission speaks for itself. I know that he is a devoted public servant and I know that you have all had an opportunity to talk individually to him because he is the sort of chap who does get around and talk about the problems that those of us who represent the public here have and I hope you will all support him in this confirmation."

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I have always felt that except in rare instances the Senate should take very seriously its prerogative of approving the appointments of the Governor to important positions.

"The Highway Committee met and discussed former Senator Zahn's qualifications and his background, he was before the Committee for a considerable period of time and answered a number of questions. Those here in the body do know Senator Zahn as a former Senator. We are acquainted with his activities as a former chairman of the Commission. The Highway Committee did submit a report which was read in. Ordinarily it would have gone to the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules and been referred back to the floor, but all members present unanimously voted to submit the appointment to the floor with the recommendation that George Zahn be confirmed.

"I feel that he has been a conscientious member of the Commission. I know from personal experience he spent many hours over and above the duties required. I know that in our area of the state he is well versed with our highway problems. We feel that we do have an ear on the Highway Commission for our problems. Also, I feel that observing him operate he does have a good statewide point of view and has been one of the more energetic members on the board. I urge your vote for his confirmation."

Senator McMillan:

"Mr. President:

"I would just like to say a word regarding former Senator Zahn. I regard him as one of the outstanding members of the Highway Commission, a man whom I have known for a number of years, a dedicated public servant, and a real credit to the Highway Commission and to the people of the state of Washington."

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President: -

"I want to second the nomination of former Senator Zahn but I want to make a few comments and I don't want it misconstrued that we don't want to approve of his confirmation. We do disapprove of the way that this is being handled and I don't contend that anybody who is a former Senator necessarily has to have a shotgun approval out on the floor. I think there is a procedure to be followed and this puts us in the position of looking like we are opposing George Zahn which I am not. But hereafter we are going to take a close look and there is going to be a pretty solid vote against some of these if the action of the committees is going to determine that something is not going to go to the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules when they pass on a bill. I think the committee is setting a very bad example and I hope I misunderstood you, Senator Washington."

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President:

"I wanted to make a little remark on behalf of George Zahn. I hope his job will last for a long time, but if I understand some of the proposals correctly on this new Department of Transportation, we may not need these fellows. Maybe we ought to wait a while. Maybe we are going to confirm somebody who isn't going to be working very long. I would like to get a remark from Senator Ryder as to how long we are going to need the Highway Commission."

Senator Talley:

"Mr. President:

"I would just like to say one word on behalf of George Zahn. We come from an area we consider a cow county, and sometimes we think Puget Sound doesn't know we exist, but George Zahn in the matter of highway matters has been fair and honest. I don't think anything more or better can be said of any man."

Senator Redmon:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"Being a past member of the state Highway Commission and having known George Zahn for a good many years, I am thoroughly in accord with his appointment and I hope this body will approve it."

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I would like to join with the other Senators in saying just a word on behalf of Mr. Zahn. I think that out in the south part of King County we have the most acute problems in recent years with respect to our highways. I think that it should be said that George Zahn, although he lives in the northeastern part of Washington State, has taken a very strong interest in seeing that our problems are relieved and I think his efforts are showing some improvement in the last two or three years. For that reason and others, I would like to second the nomination of George Zahn."

Senator Guess:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I would also like to add my words of commendation to Senator Zahn for the job that he has done while he was the chairman of the Commission and as a member of the Commission. George has a ready wit and a sense of humor which have brought him through many very tough periods of trial. I have watched him operate presently in the area of Spokane in the metropolitan study that is going on over there and there are many factions to be considered. The feelings of many people have to be expressed in this. George sits as one of the members of the board that is making that study. He has had a great deal of experience watching the metropolitan study in the Puget Sound area and he has brought to our area a great deal of adeptness and wisdom in making these studies. It is a real pleasure to be able to second the recommendation that Senator Zahn be confirmed as a member of the State Highway Commission."

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President:

"The Highway Commission and Highway Department is on trial. Don't anyone tell it differently. The appointment and confirmation of George Zahn will strengthen our belief because I have implicit confidence in the man. I served with him here. It was a good appointment, even though it was made by Governor Rosellini, and this confirmation is something I can feel real good about."

The motion was carried.

APPOINTMENT OF GEORGE D. ZAHN

The Secretary called the roll and the appointment of George D. Zahn to the position of member of the State Highway Commission was confirmed by the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 46; nays, 0; absent or not voting, 3.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington, Williams, Woodall—46.

Absent or not voting: Senators Bailey, Lewis, Marquardt—3.

Having received the approval of the Senate, the appointment of George D. Zahn to the position of member of the State Highway Commission was confirmed.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate, a point of personal privilege:

"It has been brought to my attention this morning that the Governor in his morning press conference stated that he felt that two hearings in Spokane that were just two days apart was a misuse of public funds and was a waste of time. I just wanted to point out that I agree with the Governor and I would like to further point out that I have been negotiating with the Republicans and talking to the minority leader and the caucus chairman in hopes that we could work something out so that we could facilitate the operation of the Senate and at the same time cooperate with the House.

"I personally went over and asked Representative McCaffree if she would hold a joint hearing and she said no. She turned me down. She said, 'If the Senators want to come to our hearing, they are welcome to come. They can come as guests.'

"Now I am still looking for a way to facilitate our joint hearing. I think, too, for two bodies to travel to Spokane, the House Revenue Committee and the Senate Revenue Committee on two different days one day apart is a waste of time and perhaps public funds. But we think Representative McCaffree should hold joint hearings. We are willing to go over there. We are willing to travel with her. But we think we as members of the Senate should have equal opportunity to question and interrogate on the podium. That is all we ask, and I might remind anybody who is in earshot that I did talk to Senator Ryder and Senator Neill in trying to work this out. As a matter of fact I have not even announced any public hearings on this matter because I was in the process of discussing this with the minority side. It is still my hope that Representative McCaffree will see fit to hold joint hearings. We will cooperate in any manner that we can. We, too, think that one hearing in one area of the state is sufficient. But I do feel and I intend to see that the Senate view is represented. If Representative McCaffree doesn't want to hold joint hearings in Spokane, we on this side of the aisle feel we have a proper right to go anywhere in the state with the consent of the Senate and hold hearings. Now I am hopeful and I say this with sincerity—I hope that we can work out any kind of a joint hearing that Representative McCaffree and the Senate can resolve. We are wide open for any suggestion. I would agree with the Governor that it would be a waste of funds and I suggest that he talk to the chairman of his House Republicans and ask her to cooperate with the Senate.

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"Senator Durkan has talked with me. He has talked with Senator Neill. Senator Durkan, is there any reason for you to believe that if you went to Spokane you and your committee would not be given an opportunity to make any representations which you wished to make or to ask any questions that you would like to ask or to answer any if you went to Spokane on Wednesday?"

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President, may I reply:

"In reply to your question, Senator, as I understand it for us to travel to Spokane as guests, first we would have to be excused from the Senate. We wouldn't be on official business and it would be highly improper I'm sure—and I feel certain Senator McCormack would agree with me and you would agree—to use Senate funds to travel to Spokane as guests. For a joint hearing, yes. We could ask the Senate for funds to travel to a joint hearing. I don't believe we would get the proper representation we want at any hearing Representative McCaffree holds without being members of a joint hearing. I might add I am willing and I am sure Senator McCormack is willing to take any reasonable steps that you might suggest."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, one more question of Senator Durkan:

"Are you prepared to go on Wednesday night if you had a joint hearing over there?"

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President:

"No, Senator Ryder, at this time I would have to say no because after I talked to Representative McCaffree last week and she turned us down on a joint hearing, in the meantime and before that time Senator Dore had scheduled a hearing which is going to entail bringing in all of the mayors of the state on the problems of cities and which he had set far in advance of Representative McCaffree's hearing and in addition to that one of the most important hearings of this session is going to be held on Wednesday evening, which I pointed out to Representative McCaffree. That is on the problem of community colleges. I have written to the presidents of the community colleges and school boards and school districts asking them to attend. I pointed this out to Representative McCaffree and asked her if she couldn't postpone it to a date mutually advantageous to us all and told her she could pick any date. She turned us down."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"Then I would assume, Senator Durkan, that even though she had asked for a joint hearing on Wednesday night, you would not have attended because of these other things which were coming up over here and you would not want to be out of Olympia?"

Senator Durkan:

"At the present time your assumption is wrong, Senator Ryder, because you are assuming now on Monday before the Wednesday hearing and this was last week, nearly a week ago, when I asked her this, so your assumption is wrong as of now. If she can agree to a date on a joint hearing, we will be happy to go along with her and we are still willing to go along with her. But I think you will agree we should be here for the community college hearings."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, I think a little more clarification is in order. First of all, it is basic that if we are going to get any kind of tax reform program, which requires a two-thirds vote, we can't afford to have any tempest in a teapot that might make it difficult for any of us to vote for it or any accusations going back and forth which might make it difficult for any of us to vote for it when the time comes. Second, Senator Durkan's hearings were set first, not Representative McCaffree's, so there was this attempt to beat him to the punch which a lot of us didn't appreciate. I might say we felt very strongly about it, but it is one of those things. If she wanted to do that, that's fine. The third matter is that we had this very extensive hearing set on that very date. Now it may be pure coincidence, but the House set theirs a couple of days after they knew when ours was to be set. Maybe it is mere coincidence that they picked a day when we had extensive public hearings, one of the largest to be held during this session of the legislature on a bill of utmost importance sponsored by Senator McCormack, and there were hearings to be conducted also on the budget by Senator Doré. But we had these two hearings that people were interested in and were coming to this chamber to testify on, so it places all of us in a very difficult position. It seems to me the intelligent thing to do and the reasonable thing to do is for representations to be made to Representative McCaffree, because she might conduct a very successful hearing and lose the bill."

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, would Senator Guess yield:

"Senator Guess, do you anticipate that the proponents of this bill are going to pick up a lot of support in the Spokane area?"

Senator Guess:

"Senator Woodall, to the contrary."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I think, Senator Guess, the people in Spokane are about as intelligent as they are in the rest of the state. Senator Greive, the reasons for my questions and the point I was making is that apparently Representative McCaffree set her date without knowledge of the hearings which you had already set but it would have been futile to even have asked for a joint hearing because you would not have gone anyway."

MOTION

At 1:15 p.m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 2:15 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 2:15 p.m.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Hallauer that Senate Bill No. 38 be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Ridder:

"Mr. President, would Senator Woodall yield to a question:

"Senator Woodall, would there be a financial impact, either to increase or decrease the appropriation for the salaries of these retired judges?"

Senator Woodall:

"As of the moment, no, Senator. It would only be as these people elected to retire hereafter that there would be any impact. This does not change it as to anyone who has already retired and any of these people who are presently out. For example we have over in my county a very capable gentleman who quit at age fifty-two. He gets half pay for life. He is over there practicing law. It would be very wonderful at this moment if we could call him back into service as this bill envisions being able to make him do, to serve as a judge pro tempore because we do have a judge in the hospital. To answer your question, immediately there is no impact upon the budget with this particular bill."

Senator Ridder:

"Would Senator Woodall yield to another question:

"You say there is no 'immediate' impact, but would there be an eventual impact?"

Senator Woodall:

"To a degree, to the extent that a judge might outlive beyond the age of sixty the number of years that he drew under sixty. To that extent there would be an impact. But for that we would be using the man half time, which will delay the necessity of certain additional judgeships being created, and if you construe the two concepts together, I feel actually this is a bargain for the taxpayer because under the present law you pay them one-half and get nothing out of them. Under this law for adding forty-three percent more, you get half use from them."

Further debate ensued.

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Woodall a question:

"Senator Woodall, what impact would this have in the counties involved where they have to pay one-half of the judge's salary?"

Senator Woodall:

"None, because they do not pay any of his pension, so the county will have a lightened impact because during the time that they are using these retired judges, there would be no burden on the county; whereas, if you had to create another judgeship to take care of the business and use a current judge, then the county would pay their share so actually you are reducing the load on the county."

Senator Bailey:

"Wouldn't this create an immediate problem though of the county paying half wages? I am not looking at the long range picture. I am talking about what they would have to pay now."

Senator Woodall:

"No, it couldn't possibly affect the county immediately in any way, shape or form unless there was a man at this moment sixty years of age and had eighteen years in and couldn't quit. It has no impact on anyone already retired and the county does not share in the part that goes toward his retirement, so there could be no impact on the county."

Debate ensued.

Senator Bailey:

"Would Senator Woodall yield:

"Senator Woodall, if we put this bill back in the Committee on Ways and Means, will we do the same thing as we did with the implied consent bill when we put it in the Judiciary Committee?"

Senator Woodall:

"I don't think there is any correlary whatsoever. The other bill had to do with trying law cases and of course the way you try law cases is a judiciary matter and quite properly comes under the purview of Senator Uhlman's committee."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, speaking on a point of personal privilege:

"Senator Woodall will recall when I opened my remarks I suggested that a better cross section of the Senate should be had for the consideration of this bill in committee. Let's all be realistic in considering this. The bill has been in the Judiciary Committee. Everyone there is a lawyer and has his professional problems in connection with the Judiciary. Somehow this bill came out of the Judiciary Committee in great haste and is now before us. I wanted some of us who are not lawyers to see the bill and have it considered by those of us who are not attorneys."

Senator Uhlman:

"Mr. President, I rise on a point of personal privilege:

"Mr. President, I feel that the motives of the Judiciary Committee have been impugned. I don't feel that anyone here on this floor seriously suggests that the lawyers are being intimidated by the judges."

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"Senator Uhlman is suggesting that I wouldn't so indicate. I say to Senator Uhlman I feel that they have been intimidated. I want to get that in the record, Mr. President."

Senator Greive demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Uhlman, Kupka, Ridder, Bailey, Peterson (Ted), Guess, Faulk, Woodall and Stender.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

State of Washington, Office of the Governor,
Olympia, Wash., February 7, 1967.

To the Honorable, The Senate of the State of Washington
Lady and Gentlemen:

I have the honor to submit the following appointment to the Position of Member, State Highway Commission, subject to your confirmation:

Robert L. Mikalson, appointed July 15, 1965, for a term ending July 1, 1971, succeeding himself.

Sincerely yours,

DANIEL J. EVANS, Governor.

Referred to Committee on Highways.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

House of Representatives,
Olympia, Wash., February 7, 1967.

Mr. President:

The House has passed: Engrossed House Bill No. 8,
Reengrossed House Bill No. 25,
Engrossed House Bill No. 67,
Engrossed House Bill No. 116,
Engrossed House Bill No. 183,
House Bill No. 229,
Engrossed House Bill No. 350,
Engrossed House Bill No. 355,
House Bill No. 405, and the same are herewith transmitted.

Malcolm McBeath, Chief Clerk.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf:

"Mr. President, would Senator Uhlman yield to a question:

"Senator Uhlman, it has been twelve days or one-fifth of the legislative session since the implied consent bill was committed to the tender mercies of your Judiciary Committee."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, I rise to a point of order:

"What order of business are we on? What is before the Senate?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The Senate has just completed the second order of business, Senator Gissberg, and before recognizing Senator Metcalf, the President proposed that the Senate should proceed to the third order of business, reports of select committees."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"I simply raise the point of order with respect to what I can see is going to be the beginning of a series of questions and answers being proposed on various bills. I don't think we should get into that type of procedure, questioning the chairman of the various committees. He certainly has the privilege of making inquiry at any time off the floor or if he cares to make a motion, then he can properly speak to the motion. But I think it is not in the best interests of orderly procedure to have a question and answer period between members of the Senate when nothing is before the Senate for consideration."

The President:

"Senator Metcalf, did you wish to speak upon the point of order raised by Senator Gissberg?"

Senator Metcalf:

"As the chairman of a standing committee, I thought it would be in order to ask if a date for hearing or any committee action on the implied consent bill had been set. This was the question I was asking Senator Uhlman."

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"I think that any member can quietly talk to any chairman of any committee, and if the chairman refuses to answer, then they might bring him before the whole body, but I think it is very obvious that this is just a waste of the time of the body and if the good Senator Uhlman will not talk to the other Senator privately, then of course he would be entitled to demand an answer on the floor. I think he should exhaust every reasonable effort. He can talk to him just as easily in private and quietly across the aisle."

Senator Uhlman:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to go on record if the President so rules that I would be happy to discuss this on the floor, or privately, or in the cloakroom or at the Jacaranda or wherever Senator Metcalf might like to discuss this."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President, ruling upon the point of order raised by Senator Gissberg:

"The President believes that the point raised by Senator Gissberg has merit. However, up to this point the President does not believe that Senator Metcalf's query has impeded the progress of the Senate and will permit the question on this occasion."

Senator Uhlman:

"Mr. President, as I understand the question, the question was what is the status of this bill. The status of the bill is as follows:

"There are eighteen states in the United States that now have this legislation. I don't think that it would be wise for us to rush headlong into adopting this kind of legislation until we find out what the history in these other states has been. Mr. Best of the Legislative Council is conducting an exhaustive inquiry into the merits of the legislation, the background of the legislation and in point of fact I spent some half hour yesterday just discussing this legislation with Mr. Best, our counsel. Now Mr. Best is in contact with Mr. Lee Hawley of the Alcohol Problems Association. These gentlemen had a discussion. I understand Mr. Best contacted him yesterday and Mr. Hawley, of course, has an extensive file on this particular legislation. I believe he is very well qualified to give our committee his counsel and I certainly don't think we ought to rush headlong into adopting this kind of legislation or moving out precipitously without checking in with people like Mr. Hawley who have advice to give us. I certainly hope that Senator Metcalf wouldn't want this body to become something other than the deliberative body which it is. We are deliberating on this bill and we are going to pass it out at the proper time."

Senator Metcalf:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to get an answer to my question specifically. I asked specifically if any date had been set and I certainly don't want to interrupt the orderly procedure of the body but I wanted to ask if a date had been set for a public hearing."

Senator Uhlman:

"The answer to Senator Metcalf's question is no."

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Henry, the Senate returned to the first order of business.

On motion of Senator Henry, the Committee on State Government was relieved of further consideration of Senate Bill No. 389.

On motion of Senator Henry, Senate Bill No. 389 was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"Mr. President, I rise to a point of personal privilege:

"The President made the Senate available the other night for a mock session of the pages. I meant to make some mention of this earlier. They had their crying jag last night and separated and dispersed to the various ends of the state. I received a little note that says, 'We wish to thank you very much for participating in our mock session,' and the name was Myra Rintamaki, alias Senator Harryfather. The pages had a lot of fun and I just mention this because the new pages are here and I know the Senators that participated had a wonderful time. They ran us ragged. It got to the point where you were running messages from under the gallery here to boyfriends up above and they all wanted ice cream which we didn't afford them. But they had a wonderful time and I wanted to say to you, Mr. President, I know the pages appreciate what you did for them and the Senators who did work I think should stand and be recognized for what they did here. I know they had children participating and I wish they would stand and be recognized by the body if this is in order, Mr. President."

The Senators who participated as pages in the mock session stood to receive recognition.

The President:

"The President wishes to comment that those Senators who participated are admirably well suited for the position."

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, would Senator McCormack yield to a question:

"I didn't hear all of the resolution while it was being read. Is there any limit on the number of meetings to be held? I happen to be a member of the committee and I don't want to be dragged away from here and have somebody look at the record and find I was gone and have the record show me absent. Do you plan to hold these around the state and what time of day or night or how much time is going to be involved?"

Senator McCormack:

"Mr. President, Senator Woodall:

"The meetings will be held as agreed to between Representative McCaffree and myself consistent with the schedules of the House and the Senate to avoid conflicts. We will probably hold a minimum number of hearings on two weekends at the most, probably on a Friday night and Saturday."

Senator Dore:

"Would Senator McCormack yield to a question:

"I heard you, Senator McCormack, on television last night and you said you had reached an agreement with Representative McCaffree, the chairman of the House Taxation Committee, and you had agreed to a plan whereby you would chair one meeting and she would chair another, and right after you terminated your remarks, the television people went over to the House and got Mrs. McCaffree's view of the hearing and they said that Senator McCormack had stated you had reached an agreement whereby the Senate would have an equal opportunity to have these hearings and you would alternate the chair at the recess of these meetings and she said, 'No, Senator McCormack misunderstood me. I'm going to conduct all of the meetings and Senator McCormack is going to help me line up the agenda.'

"I wonder what the situation is and I wonder if you had better check back with Mrs. McCaffree before you recklessly put this resolution through."

Senator McCormack:

"Mr. President, Senator Dore:

"I obviously cannot speak for Mrs. McCaffree. I am sure there will not be any meetings unless we can come to an agreement on these points."

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President, would Senator McCormack yield:

"Senator McCormack, I would like you to spell out a little more clearly:

"Is this for the entire Ways and Means Committee and the chairman, Senator Durkan, also?"

Senator McCormack:

"The resolution is for the Revenue and Taxation Committee to attend. Senator Durkan, of course, as the committee chairman, sits in."

Senator Morgan:

"Would Senator Dore yield?

"Senator Dore, are you going to travel with this group as chairman of the Appropriations Committee?"

Senator Dore:

"Well, as I understand the resolution, if I do, I am going to have to pay my own way. I might ask Senator McCormack: Senator, could I possibly come to you to analyze the hearings in terms of the impact under the Revenue and Taxation Committee, or would I have to pay my own way, or would I be able to hand in a voucher and go too?"

Senator McCormack:

"Mr. President, Senator Dore:

"I think Senator Dore could make arrangements to attend if he saw fit."

Senator Dore:

"At my own expense, though? Senator McCaffree offered me that. I just wondered what you are offering."

Senator McCormack:

"I don't intend to try to outbid her, Senator Dore."

Debate ensued.

MOTION

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I would move that this resolution be amended to include the chairman of the Appropriations Committee and such other members as might be designated by the chairman of the Revenue and Taxation committee of the full Ways and Means Committee."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, I have a point of order:

"This particular measure is now on third reading and if we are going to include Senator Greive's motion, it would have to be reverted back. We are now on third reading."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Woodall's point is well taken. The President wishes to point out that Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 5 is now on third reading and final passage. Senator Greive's motion was not in order. It would be necessary to suspend the rules and return the resolution to second reading to make an amendment."

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Kupka that the rules be suspended and that Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 5 be returned to second reading.

The motion was lost on a rising vote.

On motion of Senator Ryder, Senator Neill was excused.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Greive that the rules be suspended and the following amendment to Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 5 be now considered by the Senate:

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Guess:

"Mr. President, would Senator Henry yield:

"Senator Henry, I was not on the committee and I haven't read the bill, but I would like to ask you in section 2, line 13 and line 14, it says that the fire marshal shall provide the appliances necessary for carrying out this work. Can you explain that? Is there any cost to us?"

Senator Henry:

"No, in fact about ninety percent of the standard threads designated as standard by the American Insurance Association that needed changing have been changed and the fire marshal's office as I understand it had a piece of equipment that they had at their disposal for some time and I think Senator Talley is familiar with it and I will let him explain it."

Senator Talley:

"Senator Guess:

"I was concerned about this same point so I went down and asked and the fire marshal says they have the equipment to rethread the hoses and they will furnish it free of charge."

On motion of Senator Henry, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 324 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Washington yield to a question:

"Senator Washington, suppose I am driving down the beach on my Honda. I have my bathing suit on. It's a warm day. It's a hot helmet. I'm not wearing it and the state patrolman sees me. Could you tell me to what penalties I would be subjected?"

Senator Washington:

"You could be subject to a misdemeanor."

Senator Rasmussen:

"What would the penalty be under misdemeanor?"

Senator Washington:

"I can't recall. There is an amount established, but right at this moment I can't give you the answer."

Senator Rasmussen:

"By law, the only piece of equipment I would be required to wear, would be my helmet? I couldn't have it hanging on my handlebars?"

Senator Washington:

"No, you couldn't. It has to be on and has to be used."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Another question:

"I was in another hearing and couldn't attend yours. I did want to. At the hearing was it indicated that most of the accidents involved broken necks below the helmet line?"

Senator Washington:

"This is a very common accident but also the head injuries are perhaps the most common serious injuries and injuries to the head, itself. Many of the fatalities include a broken neck, and this is one of the common injuries. But many of the deaths; I think the majority, are from the injury to the head and not the broken neck."

Debate ensued.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"Senate Bill No. 407 was introduced two days ago on February 6. It went through the Committee on Labor and Social Security signed by a majority of that committee and was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means this morning. There was no hearing that I know of in either committee. The director of the department of labor and industries testified very briefly that he hadn't had a chance to study the bill, that he did not know what was in it.

"Now I don't know what is in the bill either. It may be a good bill. It may be a bill that many on this side of the aisle can support. However we object very strenuously to this type of railroading of a bill through this house of the legislature. In the Committee on Ways and Means, a meeting was called at 3:00 this afternoon and a list of the bills to be considered was given to each of the members of the Committee on Ways and Means. This bill was not listed on it. We looked over the list of bills and because we had some other important meetings, some of us were unable to attend.

"However, there was a sudden caucus action taken on the other side of the aisle and all members were there. Unbeknown to us, the bill was called up. Two or three members from our side of the aisle were there. It was passed out of the Committee on Ways and Means without adequate hearing, without adequate analysis of the bill by either the department of labor and industries or from any other body or any other authority as far as we know.

"The information which we have says it will cost approximately $2.7 million for the coming biennium. Now this may be a reasonable thing to expect in the industrial insurance area. However, I think that we should have a chance not only to analyze the bill for ourselves but to get some information from the department of labor and industries and from the administration on what effect this bill will have and what the necessity for the bill is.

"Certainly we want to help in this area of state government, but we believe that we should have an opportunity to study the bill, to analyze it, to know what we are doing before we are asked to vote upon it.

"I think that we should put this bill back in the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules for third reading and give us at least a chance to study it over the weekend before it comes up for final passage."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"In answering Senator Ryder, I would like to point out to him that unfortunately he was not at the Ways and Means hearing because there was a full explanation and the director of the department of labor and industries did testify.

"Fortunately this is a very simple bill. It involves bringing up those who are on total permanent disability and the widows of injured workmen over the years to what a present widow or person presently going on total permanent disability receives by the act that we passed two years ago. When we acted in 1965, if you will recall, we did not pick up the old timers. We only brought them as far as the 1961 figure.

"We have a sheet that was handed out and if Senator Ryder would like to merely have us delay the bill for a very short time, we can have this reproduced and put on the members' desks. This is prepared by the department of labor and industries, in which Mr. Petrie, the director of the department said that fatal pensions, in other words, 3,174 widows would be increased from $125.00 to $140.00 per month.

"Total permanent disability pensions, there are 654 total permanently disabled workmen, unmarried at the time of injury, who would increase from $165.00 to $185.00 per month.

"Two, there are 2,126 total permanently disabled workmen married with wife or invalid husband who would be increased from $190.00 to $215 per month.

"Three, there are 112 total permanently disabled women married with able bodied husbands. This would be increased from $155.00 to $175.00 per month. I might say parenthetically that these last in the third category are women who were total permanently disabled.

"Then there are sixty-five attendant cases. These would increase from $100 to $115. These are the ones who are so hopelessly disabled they must have attendants or somebody in attendance. They would increase to $115.00.

"In summary the widows would get a monthly increase of $15.00 a month and the number of pensioners is 3,174. The biennial cost for widows would be $1,142,640.

"The total permanently disabled single workmen would get a monthly increase of $30.00 and the number of pensioners is 654, which would increase the cost $330,920.

"Total permanently disabled female workers with able bodied husbands, the number of pensioners is 112. The total cost per biennium is $53,760 for an increase of $20.00 per month.

"Attendants, $15.00 per month increase and the number of persons is sixty-five. The biennial cost is $23,400.

"The total biennial cost for all of the people involved which includes the attendants comes to 6,131 including the sixty-five attendants and it would be $2,809,320.

"They say that they know over a period of time that some of these people actually die and then some others who didn't receive it before, even though they were total permanent disabilities because they, for one reason or another, were not on the rolls, so they would be added, so actually they have reduced this $2,809,320 to $1,726,520 for the 1967-1969 biennium.

"Now I can't say that Mr. Petrie testified in favor of this particular measure. I can say that he was most fair and I got the impression that he was very definitely for it when he testified. He didn't say he endorsed it but he explained the figures. He was very clear on them. I don't think there is any surprise about this. This is not a matter where we are entering into a new field of economy or a new field of business or any complicated problem. In the first place, it went to the proper committee which was Labor. The Committee on Labor considered it. It came out. It did not really need to go to the Committee on Ways and Means. It went to Ways and Means only because Senator Durkan felt that if it had a financial impact it should go there, and when he made his point, we felt in caucus that it was only proper that it should go there. We are sorry that we couldn't give you an extra day's notice, but we didn't realize he wanted it there until today, so it went there. He considered it. There were no questions. There could have been questions there. It is a very simple bill and the director of the department of labor and industries has explained the situation. Senator Durkan has reported it out so that he realizes that when the budget does come over, he can fit in the amount of the increase, provided it passes.

"Joe Davis got up and made a very short speech. He pointed out the policy of increasing out of the general fund injured workmen's compensation. This is a matter that goes back to 1947 when the policy was first established and continuously over the years others have been increased. This also has been increased. It doesn't seem to me that it is complicated enough to require a great deal of study. If there is any desire on the part of our Republican colleagues to study this, I would be very happy to reproduce the sheet that I have read from and put it on everyone's desk."

At the request of Senator Rasmussen the report of the Committee on Labor and Social Security on Senate Bill No. 407 was read by the Secretary.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"We did have a full meeting on this particular piece of legislation. Notices were sent out. The secretary read the notice. We endeavored to have everybody that was interested at that particular meeting. The various people from the department of labor and industries were there. People from the department of employment security were there. There were spectators in the room. I have no knowledge whom they represented, but we had nobody that appeared in opposition to this bill.

"The director of the department of labor and industries, Mr. Petrie, gave us information that we asked. He did not indicate personally what his position was or the Governor's position. I am sure, however, as I know the rest of you are that the Governor, as humane as he is, would not object to legislation of this type where you are giving 3,174 widows a $15.00 a month increase. That does not equal what the cost of living increase has been since the time we gave them their last increase, and I might say that in the 1965 session when we passed legislation that increased some of the back pensioners, there were a large number of these widows who thought that they were getting increases on this and they did not. I received many telephone calls right after the last session and I have received them just before this session. They have asked us to please take some action to help them meet the cost of living and I urge you gentlemen and lady not to delay this bill. It is of great interest, maybe not to the whole state, but to the people affected and I think it should be discussed tonight."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"In answer to Senator Rasmussen, a couple of days delay is not going to cost the widows and pensioners one penny. It would merely let us have an opportunity to take a look at the bill and study it from our own angle. I have seen the sheet Senator Greive spoke about. I saw it for the first time in the Committee on Ways and Means this afternoon after I went to the meeting and the bill was passed out. The bill was not even in my bill book when it was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means this morning.

"I do not believe that it is fair to the members of this body that a bill should be railroaded through, regardless of how good it might be, in this fashion. I think that we all should have an opportunity to take a look at it, that we all should have an opportunity to use our own methods and our standards of analyzing it and our own authorities for asking questions as to exactly what it does, not only in the area of workmen's compensation, but the impact on the general fund.

"Now I want to reiterate that this does not mean that I am against this bill. Given an opportunity to study it, I may very well be for it. It sounds on the surface as if it is a very good bill and one that should be passed. However, I am making a very strong protest against railroading this bill or any other bill through the Senate in this fashion."

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Greive that the rules be suspended, that Senate Bill No. 407 be advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the bill placed on final passage.

Thereupon, if petitioner gives proof of his ability to respond in damages for any liability thereafter incurred as provided for in RCW 46.29.090, the director may issue an occupational driver's license to such person. Such occupational driver's license shall be subject to the same restrictions and conditions as those set forth under the provisions of RCW 46.20.390."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Greive that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 3, following section 2, add:

"NEW SECTION: Sec. 3. The director of licenses may not suspend or revoke the license of a driver involved in an accident who has not been adjudged guilty in connection with such accident or who has not forfeited bail after being charged with a traffic offense as the result of such accident."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Atwood:

"Mr. President, would Senator Greive yield to a question:

"Senator Greive, I notice you are using the term, 'guilty.' That connotes a criminal charge. Do you mean guilty of negligence or guilty of a traffic violation?"

Senator Greive:

"I might state these exact words were taken from the law as it is, 'adjudged guilty in such accidents or has forfeited bail after being charged with a traffic offense as a result of such accidents.'

"Obviously the law points out that if you go to court in a negligence case, obviously it would revoke your license anyway and you don't have your right to drive. That is clear in the law. This adds another requirement. Normally a justice court case comes up many months before a personal injury action or negligence claim. They usually come up within thirty days and they have to be either found guilty or have forfeited bail. Then they have no right to drive. They might be totally innocent and be deprived of the right to drive."

Debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Uhlman, Senate Bill No. 67 was ordered to retain its place on the second reading calendar for Monday, February 13, 1967.

Senate Bill No. 70, by Senators Ryder, Sandison and Foley (by Public Pension Commission request):

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Rasmussen, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 2, section 4, line 27, after "up to" strike "forty-five" and insert "seventy-five"

On motion of Senator Ryder, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 70 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator McCormack:

"Mr. President, would Senator Ryder yield to a question?

"Senator Ryder, acknowledging that this is permissive, would a new faculty member in a community college coming in from the common school system, from a high school, carry his present pension system, not PIWA? Would he be able to keep his present retirement system under this bill?"

Senator Ryder:

"Yes, if he is a member of a teachers' retirement system, he would be able to continue."

Senator McCormack:

"So the only persons who would be required to take PIWA would be new hires in the system who were not carrying any state retirement program at the present time?"

Senator Ryder:

"That is correct."

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Ryder to yield to some questions for the record:

"In order that we may know what the intent is, Senator Ryder, as a prime sponsor of Senate Bill No. 70, is it your intention that the faculties of community colleges be hereby made eligible for the retirement system under the Teachers' Insurance and Annuity Association?"

Senator Ryder:

"As of right now, Senator Neill?"

Senator Neill:

"Yes."

Senator Ryder:

"No, it is not. We have as you know several bills introduced governing the organization of community colleges. I would envision that there is going to be quite a difference of opinion and we may be right down to the dying days of the session before this is finally decided as to just what the organization would be. My plan is this: If we pass this in the Senate today, that it would be held ready for passage in the House as soon as the community college organization is settled and that bill is passed. I would not intend that this bill should be finally passed and signed by the Governor until the community college organization is worked out."

Senator Neill:

"The second question, Senator Ryder:

"When this bill leaves the Senate as far as we are concerned it is passed. We can't control the House. Therefore, should this bill be passed, is it your intention as a prime sponsor that you are trying to permit the faculties of the community colleges to come under the Teachers' Insurance and Annuity Association enjoyed by the senior institutions?"

Senator Ryder:

"Yes, as soon as the organization of the community colleges is worked out."

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President, will Senator Ryder yield:

"Senator Ryder, is it also not your intention that not only should they come under the retirement system of the institutions of higher education, but should have a uniform system; that each college should not establish a system of its own separate from the other junior colleges? It appears to be possible under this bill."

Senator Ryder:

"Senator Mardesich, it is of course possible, but very, very improbable because there is only one system that takes this in on a national basis and this bill is worded after the bill which was passed to allow the faculties of our colleges to take advantage of PIWA, and they all went into the PIWA. At least most of them did. There was only just a handful that remained under the teachers' retirement system. It would be very improbable that there would be any other system that they could join. But I would think it highly improper that we pass a measure which named a certain system in the bill."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President, would Senator Ryder yield:

"Is there a prohibition in the bill that it shall not take effect until the community colleges are set up under a statewide system and the present seventeen control boards or whatever the number is, are abolished? In other words, it anticipates the consolidation of the community colleges under a different system than we now have? The specific question is: Is there a provision that it shall not take effect?"

Senator Ryder:

"No, Senator McCutcheon, there is not. As I explained in answer to Senator Neill's question, it would be our intention to hold the bill in the House until the reorganization is done. Now the reason for this is that we feel the reorganization bill may not be passed until very late in the session, at which time there would probably not be time to pass this bill through both houses."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Ryder a question:

"Senator Ryder, I would like to have faith and confidence in this pension commission because I think it can do the state and the employees a lot of good. Now you proposed this bill and you say your intent is if something else happens this will take effect. What is wrong with putting it in the bill, the options we have on pensions systems?"

Senator Ryder:

"In effect, Senator Rasmussen, it is in there."

Senator Rasmussen:

"In effect, but nobody can see it there."

Senator Ryder:

"Senator Rasmussen, I think that it would be improper to name any type of private insurance company or type of private insurance agency in a bill, to say here you either have to join this one or stay with teachers' retirement."

Senator Rasmussen:

"What would be wrong with wording an amendment saying you may join the same retirement system that the rest of the colleges in the state have, or remain a member of the teachers' retirement system?"

Senator Ryder:

"In effect this is what it says. It says the board of directors of each community college district are authorized and empowered to assist the faculties of their respective institutions in the purchase of old age annuities or retirement income plans under such rules and regulations as the board of directors of said institution may prescribe."

Senator Rasmussen:

"You would be able to make it very clear that it would have to be the same system that the rest of the colleges and universities are now on or they would have to remain part of the teachers' retirement system. You are leaving this wide open in the wording that is in the bill at the present time."

Senator Sandison:

"Mr. President, if I could answer Senator Rasmussen:

"It is very clear here—the board of directors of each community college district — There are no community college districts as such now. They will only come into existence if the proposed legislation which is still in the Senate passes. Other than that I don't see that this would have any force and effect."

Debate ensued.

Senator Lewis:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate, we have just discussed at great length a problem of community colleges and I thought that you might like to know that Saturday evening, February 11, at 7:00 o'clock on Channel 4, the program 'Viewpoint,' Senator Sandison and Representative Lynch will be discussing some of the problems of community colleges and four year colleges as they relate to this session. I thought particularly Senator Mardesich might like to look in on this and hear the various viewpoints as they are expressed."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, I raise a point of order on the consideration of this bill.

"Under Rule 61, reading of bills, it says that every bill shall be read on three separate days unless the Senate deems it expedient to suspend this rule. Now this bill was read on second reading this morning. It was passed into the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules for third reading. The Committee on Rules and Joint Rules brought it out again but it is still the same day. We did not adjourn. We merely recessed until 8:00 p.m. tonight, and my point of order is that this bill cannot be considered until the next working day."

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY

NOON SESSION

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., Monday, February 13, 1967.

The Senate was called to order at noon by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Tom Connelly, Color Bearer, and Polly Peterson, presented the Colors.

Reverend Charles Loyer, pastor of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the Sabbath rest and the promise of a new week. Grant to each of us that inner serenity which makes for orderliness of mind and objectivity of decision. Help us so to employ our talents that we shall merit Thy commendation. Thou hast created us social beings and ordained that we should live together in mutual enrichment; guide then the Senators as they continue to wrestle with the complex problems of this relationship. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

The Secretary read:

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Uhlman that the Committee on State Government be relieved of further consideration of Senate Bill No. 411.

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried.

On motion of Senator Uhlman, Senate Bill No. 411 was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order at 12:30 p.m.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Washington State Senate from both sides of the aisle have called to the attention of those of us on the rostrum that this is February 13, and that Lincoln Day observances are being held in many parts of the country and the state. These Senators and the President believe that it is especially appropriate and proper that inasmuch as one honored member of the Senate is one of the best informed and most qualified persons in the country to talk upon the subject, that at this time we should hear from our own good friend, the Honorable Ernest W. Lennart."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed a special committee consisting of Senators Neill, Ryder, Bailey and Greive to act as a committee of honor to escort Senator Lennart to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen:

"You are all very much aware and sometimes painfully so that a great many introductions emanate from this particular position. But I should like to say that over the many years it has never been my privilege to introduce anyone that I am sure is more welcome than our own Ernie Lennart. It is with great pride and tremendous pleasure that I present to you the Honorable Ernest Lennart, Senator from Whatcom county."

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, my Honored Senators:

"There are subjects upon which nothing new can be said and still retain the fervor awakened upon their first enunciation. If the song was true when it started on its journey it would be sung as long as hearts vibrate and tongues retain the gift of speech. If the product was genuine when it left the Creator's hand it would neither be dimmed by age nor cheapened by familiarity, for honor is not decreased by contact and truth is never out of tune. If none of the old stories are ever to be retold many a noble inspiration would be lost and many a beautiful tale remain untold.

"This is an age in which science and inventions have done the great and the marvelous. But in the rush of modern enterprise a few minutes contemplation can do no harm. We must not only learn, we must remember. We must not only acquire but we must retain. The newest is not always the best. Modern literature is ablaze with beauty and yet millions upon millions turn to one, thumb-worn text for their final consolation.

"Remembering these examples it would be profitable sometimes to turn one side to rugged lasting qualities of whatever age or garb they have appeared. The hero of an hour will pass as swiftly as he came. The flashlight will dazzle and blind but when the eyes are rubbed the impression has all passed away but the landscape coming into view slowly with the beginning of dawn becoming more resplendent and distinct with the ascending power of the sun and fading gently away from the vision at the approach of night will stay with the mind a long time to brighten and to share.

"And men are like impressions. There are more men of the flashlight type than there are fireflies in a summer's night in the midwest. But there is no nobler example of the enduring and the immortal than Abraham Lincoln. Whoever tells a new story of him must tell it to the new born to whom all things are new for to the aged and experienced his virtues have long been familiar.

"His was the power that commanded admiration and the humanity that invited love. Mild but inflexible, great but simple, just but merciful, he had a head that commanded men and a heart that attracted babes. His conscience was with him for continual use. It was not behind him but with him for he knew that a pursuing conscience is an accuser, not a guide, and brings remorse instead of comfort. He wore a crown of power with justice, reason and mercy and faced defeat with humility and courage.

"His greatness did not depend upon his title, for greatness was his when the title was bestowed. He leaned upon no fiction of nobility and kissed no hands to obtain his rank but the crown of nobility and power was bestowed upon him in the log hut in Kentucky in 1809 when he and Nancy Hanks first met, by a power which unlike earthly potentates never confers a title without a character to adorn it. When we observe the tremendous advantages of his humble birth, when we realize that the privations of youth are the pillars of strength in maturer years then we shall cease to wonder that out of such obscure surroundings as watched the coming of Abraham Lincoln should spring forth the colossal and supreme figure of modern history.

"Groves are better than temples, fields are better than gorgeous carpeting, rail fences are better than the lines of kneeling slaves, if you are raising heroes and founding governments.

"Those who understand these things and have felt the heart of nature beat will not wonder that this man could stand the shock and fury of war and yet retain that calm serenity which enabled him to hear above the storm that developed him, the low, smothered cry which demanded the freedom of a race.

"As you look for attributes that dazzle and bewilder you will have to look for them elsewhere than in the character of Lincoln. It was not by show or by glitter or by sound that the great moments of history were marked or the great deeds of mankind were wrought. The precept will be forgotten unless the deed is remembered. The strongest sound of martial music will fade away on the wind but the grim and deadly courage of the soldier waiting and watching without a word will mark the spot where pilgrims of every age will stop and worship forever.

"No character in the world more clearly saw the substance of worth and the mockery of show and no career ever set in such everlasting light that although vanity and pretence may flourish for a day there can be no lasting virtue not founded on the truth.

"The life of Lincoln moved upon that high plain which the surroundings of his youth inspired. If fortune denies the luxuries of wealth she makes generous compensation to those two who have faced privations together. It is not wealth alone that makes the world but character and character is best formed amid those surroundings where every waking hour is filled with struggle, where no flag of truce is ever set and only darkness stays the conflict. Give me the hut that is small enough, poverty that is deep enough and a love that is great enough and I will give you from them the best there is in a human character.

"This lad, uncouth and poor without aid or accidental circumstances blazed a path across the sky so luminous and so clear that there is not one to match it to be discovered in the heavens and throughout its whole majestic length there is no spot or blemish on it.

"The love of justice and fair play and that respect for order and the law which underlie every nation which would long endure were deeply imbedded in his nature. These are qualities destitute of show and whose names are never set to music, but unless there is in the human breast a deep sense of their everlasting value that nation will neither command respect in the hour of its prosperity nor sympathy in the hour of its decay. These are the qualities which will stand the test when the hurricanes sweep by. These are the joints of oak that will ride the storm and when the clouds move by and the waves are still, ride on serenely in their course. Times will come when nothing but the best can save a nation: There are dangers at such times. The hurricane will come like the rushing of the sea, then it is time to decide whether a nation can stand any such perilous surroundings.

"The American character has nearly always proven superior to any test. No danger can be so great and no calamity so sudden as to put it entirely off its guard. There is now rooted in the American breast a faith that no matter how dark the night there will somehow appear at the appointed hour, a light, which shall reveal the upright form of justice and the law, still working hand in hand, still supreme of chaos and despair, the image and the substance of the world's sublime reliance.

"I should not try, if all the time were mine to depict Lincoln as an orator, a politician, a lawyer or a statesman. His virtues and his accomplishments in the services which he performed have long been familiar.

"But it is not by the grandeur of his power that he has most appealed to me but rather by the softer homelier trait which brings him down to a closer and more intimate view.

"The mountain whose summit reaches up to the clouds is never more magnificent to the observer on the plain below than when, by some clear and kindly light, its smaller outlines are revealed.

"Lincoln is never more imposing than when the milder attributes of his nature were exposed. He was genuine, he was affectionate, and after all is said and the end is reached, what is there without these two? You may measure the height, you may sound the depth, you may gain great rewards and reknown, you may quiver at the electric current of applause, the time will come when these will fall from you like the rags that cover your body. The robes of power and the husks of pretense will alike be stripped from you and you will stand there in the end as you stood in the beginning—revealed. Under such a test Abraham Lincoln stands erect for no one loved the milder, nobler qualities more earnestly than he. Whatever he pretended to be, he was. He needed no embellishment.

"None have less to fear from such a test than Abraham Lincoln and his strength in this regard arose, it seems to me, from the preservation through all his life of that fondness for his early home, of the tender recollections of his family and their struggles which always kept his sympathy so warm and young. He was never so great but that the ties of his youth still bound him. He was never so far away but that he could still hear the note of the evening birds in the groves of his nativity.

"They say that the tides of the ocean ebb and flow by a force which though remote always retains its source. And so it was with this man. Whether he rose or fell, whether he stood in the giant-like repose which distinguished him among his fellow men or whether he exercised those unusual qualities which to my mind made him the foremost statesman of the world yet he always retained those tender recollections of his early home. In whatever field he stood he felt the benign influence of those early recollections. They were the rock to which he clung in time of storm, the anchor which held his head to the wind, the balm which sustained him in defeat and ennobled him in the hour of triumph.

"I shall not say he had his faults for is there any chance that man can walk through this vale of tears without them? Is there hope that his fellow man would have failed to detect and proclaim them? He was not small in anything, he was carved in deep lines like all heroic figures for dangerous altitudes and great purposes and as we move away from him and years and events come between us his form will still be visible and distinct for such characters based upon faith and virtue and that affection which is the seed of both are not the servants but the masters of time.

"How long names will remain in history no human mind can discover but this we know that even against the havoc and confusion of time the name of Lincoln will remain immovable. And when the drifting winds and the shifting sands of Egypt shall have crumbled the pyramids into dust the immortal name of Lincoln will stand there as a beacon light to oppressed peoples through countless civilizations that will come and that will vanish through the ages.

"In his life he was a great American. He is no longer so. He is one of those great men of whom there are few in history who lose their identity in death. Lincoln belongs to the people in every land. He is of their race and their kindred. The common people in every land love that haggard, careworn, furrowed face with the sad but tender eyes looking upon you. This the common people worship. In this worship there is faith and hope. A great people who could produce and bring forth in time of emergencies such men as Lincoln and Lee are sound to the core. Such leaders are needed more now than ever before. May I earnestly but respectfully say one departing word from this platform:

"This torn and bleeding world is calling today for the help of the America of Abraham Lincoln."

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Senator Lennart:

"Throughout the world many wonderful and inspirational orations will be given to observe the memory of Abraham Lincoln. But everyone I am sure, through their standing ovation and spontaneous reception of your brilliant remarks are of the opinion that none will quite possess the warmth and sincerity and background of knowledge that yours does. Thank you ever so much."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President, Senator Lennart:

"The sands of time coupled with the acceleration of redistricting dictate that this may be the last time that, as one of our colleagues, you appear before us on Lincoln's birthday in the Senate. I want to say to you, Senator Lennart, that when the sands of time catch up with me and I leave these halls as we all must do, that the memory which I will cherish most is the association I have had with you and the memory I have had of these wonderful addresses that you have given us over the years on Lincoln's Day. God bless you, Ernie."

Senator Knoblauch:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to also say a word about Senator Ernest Lennart. I don't know of a man in this Senate that is as well respected as our good friend Senator Lennart. The good Lord surely did the world a favor when he placed Senator Lennart on earth. I know everyone who has had contact with him must have a strong affection for this man who I would say is a great example of a human being. He is most sincere. He is friendly. He is honest. Best of all, he is a great friend."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President, Senator Morgan and members of the Senate:

"Senator Lennart and I have been personal friends since 1941 when we were both members of the Washington State House of Representatives, both of us with a background of experience in World War I. I have been associated with Senator Lennart ever since and he never ceases to amaze me in his ability to introduce new thoughts that are thought arresting. I cannot say very much more, Senators, except, Senator Neill, I must rise to disagree with what you said that this may be his last term because I do not think so. I think he can be elected in any district in the state and I am going to prod him and urge him to try to come back. I notice by the little book I have in my hand here that it records his age as seventy-two and I think he is truthful. He is twice as good now as he was. You know certain liquids and beverages get better with age, and he is one of them. He is in far better health than he was two years ago. He is like Senator Raugust and myself. He is just beginning to live. Upstairs is where you look to see whether a man's got his brains with him yet or whether he is getting senile, and I will say to Senator Lennart he will be worth more than half of us here on the floor five years from now."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I would merely like to say on behalf of Senator Lennart that as I have served in these halls there are some things that make me jealous: I would like to claim Senator Lennart and President Lincoln for our Party."

Senator Washington:

"Senator Greive, in answer to your statement, I think we can all take pride. I feel at this point like speaking to the members rather than to Senator Lennart because in his speech of course he points out how universal the greatness of Lincoln is and Lincoln was. He brings to us the viewpoint of one who was not born on these shores. Many times those who are from far away see things much more clearly than we do. I think he has pointed out to us perhaps one of the genius marks of America, that the two heroes that we do honor, Lincoln and Washington, are much more honored for what they did for humanity in the form of government, rather than the heroes of any other countries like Napoleon or Caesar, those who we think of mainly just as warriors.

"But we on the Democratic side need not take a back seat on this universal day because Abraham Lincoln was first elected as a Republican, but let us remember our history, that in 1864, the last election I believe, the country united. There was no Republican Party. As I recall he was nominated on the National Union ticket as a method of showing the uniform and great backing of the entire north. He was not nominated on a Republican ticket. He was nominated on a fusion ticket. He had been a Republican and was a Republican, and Vice President Johnson was a Democrat. But he recognized there needed to be a universal action to win the Civil War. Republicans, Democrats and everyone alike backed him, so I think although the Republicans certainly have the great honor of having him as first President and mainly a founder of the party, since he was in the final term elected on a fusion ticket and nominated on a fusion ticket of Democrats and Republicans. We should remember that he is a universal man, a man of all parties, and particularly the way you bring it to us, Senator Lennart, he is one that fills us all with pride, and it fills us with pride that this is the type of country that could bring you from the shores of Sweden to tell us and make us have a greater love and respect for the great American, Abraham Lincoln."

Senator McMillan:

"Mr. President, lady and gentlemen of the Senate:

"I wish to congratulate Senator Lennart on his fund of knowledge of Abraham Lincoln and the depth of feeling that he does impart to the remarks that he made on Lincoln's Birthday. I have heard the remarks of Senator Lennart over the years on several occasions and each time that I hear them, I find something new that the Senator brings out in his remarks. Particularly today as I listened to his remarks, the depth of feeling, the inflection, the tone, the manner of delivery indicates to me that this is no sham or staged exhibition, but the Senator has a depth of feeling regarding Abraham Lincoln that few people today have. I wish to say again that I congratulate Senator Lennart on his fund of knowledge and his ability to bring out the greatness of Abraham Lincoln."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, point of inquiry:

"Did the reporter take this speech as given?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Yes, Senator Woodall."

MOTION

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to move that the rules be suspended and that this particular address be spread upon the Journal of the Senate and copies be made and furnished to each member."

The motion was carried.

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"I just want to say further that I am sorry Senator Nat Washington is trying to steal Lincoln away from us. I think he is in our Party and rightly belongs there and you should not disturb his rest, Senator, by trying to tie him in with your Party.

"I also want to say that I was one of those who in 1941 first knew Senator Lennart when he was elected to the House of Representatives. Anything I would say would be merely repetitious for the other fine things that have already been said concerning him."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"I was not going to rise and say anything in support of Senator Lennart because I think that through the years Senator Lennart has made a record that is the equal of President Lincoln's and in many Republican caucuses I know that he has led the Republicans in support of the common man and this is what Lincoln was known for: his support and fighting for the common man. This is what Senator Lennart has done through all the years of service that I have served with him, and many of the rest of you have, also. I would surely hope that Senator Lennart comes back so that his wisdom and counsel and guidance can be extended to the Republicans in their caucus and on the floor so they think more of the common man. I urge Senator Lennart to come back again and keep up the fight."

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President:

"I have listened to Senator Washington's relation of the history of Lincoln and the book I read didn't relate that part of it at all. I wonder, Senator Washington, if you got him confused with either Eisenhower or somebody else."

Senator Washington:

"Senator, if you will check, I believe you will find that in 1864 Lincoln and Johnson ran on what was known as the National Union ticket."

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I am greatly privileged to have been so honored. I believe I have come out of it better than I am in real life and it is a tremendous tribute.

"Where do we go from here? We have in this great state the means for great material prosperity and we have in this Senate many problems. We have among us many races of which I am one from which we can extract the best that each can give. We have peace-loving people among us and we have those adventurous souls who like to follow the strange trails over the hill into the unknown. But common to all of us is the enduring courage and kindness and patience of the American people. In spite of war, in spite of misunderstanding, the spirit of the Immortal Lincoln is marching on with the years. It is marching on with the conviction that in the preservation of the Union, there is our strength and eventual peace with its trend of good will for all.

"Thank you."

MOTION

At 1:05 p.m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 2:05 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 2:05 p.m.
The Secretary read:

SENATE RESOLUTION 1967 - 18

By Senators Uhlman and Ridder:

Whereas, There has been no major revision of the school code since 1909; and

Whereas, Reflecting the general social and technological advancements of our society, contemporary concepts of education bear little resemblance to those in vogue in the first decade of this century, the intervening period having evolved comprehensive changes in the fields of curricula, school administration, transportation of pupils, district organization, teachers' certification, teaching methodology, fiscal support, and many other facets of the educational process; and

Whereas, The laws relating to education have not kept pace with these changes in an orderly fashion, with the result that Title 28 RCW is replete with obsolete, obscure and conflicting provisions which vastly complicate the administration and operation of our education system; and

Whereas, In examining and recompiling Title 28 during the 1961-1963 biennium, the statute law committee noted the need for a substantive or quasi-substantive revision of such laws pursuant to the recommendations of a policy making body; and

Whereas, the Joint Committee on Education created by chapter 130, Laws of 1965 extraordinary session (Chapter 44.33 RCW) is so composed and has been granted by such statute the necessary powers to convene advisory committees and other adjuncts so as to effect such revision to Title 28 as may be necessary to afford this state an up-to-date, comprehensive, and comprehensible school code;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, By the Senate, that the joint committee on education, with such technical assistance as may be provided by the statute law committee, and in cooperation with such other public and private agencies concerned with the administration of the common schools and higher education as it may deem proper, shall prepare a bill for submission to the forty-first legislature to accomplish a revision of Title 28 RCW.

It was moved by Senator Uhlman that the resolution be adopted.

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator McCormack, Senate Resolution No. 18 was made a special order of business under the first order of business for tomorrow.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Ryder, the rules were suspended to permit members to file a protest on the motion to advance Senate Bill No. 407 to third reading.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

We, the undersigned, protest the processing of Senate Bill 407. Introduced February 8, 1967, S.B. 407 was rushed through the Labor and Ways and Means Committees and brought to the floor on second reading on a supplemental calendar on the evening of February 10, 1967, apparently as a result of Democrat caucus action.

Little time was given or available for notice to interested persons, or to study the need for the bill or whether coordination or supplementation with social security benefits was feasible or advisable or to verify the claimed financial impact of the bill.

We, who resisted suspension of the rules, to advance the bill to third reading and final passage did so, to buy time to consider the above questions, not because we were any less concerned for the welfare of the recipients of industrial insurance pension awards. We did so in the realization that not one person would or could lose one cent in increased benefits by following the Senate's regular rules of procedure.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY

MORNING SESSION

Senate Chamber,

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Craig Thomas, Color Bearer, and Jean Kirkpatrick, presented the Colors.

Reverend Charles Loyer, pastor of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Our God and Father before whom we all stand equal; we thank Thee for our democratic institutions and for those who represent us here. Bless the Senators now as they turn anew to their task. Make them bold to act in accordance with their own best insights and in every way function as a truly representative government, despite the ripples of alarm we constituents may raise. Harden them against the abrasive wear of our bi-partisan system and the continual picking away of constituents who will not consider views different from their own.

"Grant, O God, that the promise of this week may be amply fulfilled through a happy mating of the knowledge of what is possible and the vision of what must be. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

Olympia, Wash., February 14, 1967.

Mr. President:

The Speaker has signed: Senate Bill No. 8,
Senate Bill No. 436, and the same are herewith transmitted.

Sidney Snyder, Assistant Chief Clerk.

SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT

The President signed House Bill No. 215.

SECOND READING OF BILLS

It was moved by Senator Greive that the Senate immediately consider Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4, Senate Bill No. 199, Senate Bill No. 197, Senate Bill No. 205, Senate Bill No. 206, Senate Bill No. 282, Senate Bill No. 330 and Senate Bill No. 346 on second reading in that order.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4, by Senators Herrmann, Freise, Redmon, Connor, Peterson (Ted), Kupka, Lennart, Ridder, Herr, Peterson (Lowell) and Andersen:

Providing for joint interim committee on insurance.

The resolution was read the second time in full.

It was moved by Senator Stender that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 2, after line 9, and before line 10 insert: "Be It Further Resolved, That none of the matters coming to the attention of the committee for study shall be used so as to promote or induce 'indictment and trial by newspaper'. The purpose of the committee study on insurance practices shall be to develop facts with respect to this industry and its business practices. News media shall be allowed at open committee hearings where statements and rebuttals and other explanations are exchanged by witnesses and no other committee matters be released unless by approval of the entire committee."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President, would Senator Stender yield to a question:

"As I understand the amendment it would require that the full committee, every member of that committee approve every release that comes out of that committee, is that correct?"

Senator Stender:

"The amendment provides for the approval of the entire committee. In other words they have to decide how the news will be disseminated. The committee would have control over what was released so far as the news media is concerned."

Debate ensued.

Senator Stender demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Pritchard, Metcalf, Uhlman, Greive, Dore, Peterson (Ted), Guess, Lewis and Redmon.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion was lost by the following vote: Yeas, 14; nays, 35.

Those voting yea were: Senators Atwood, Chytil, Guess, Lennart, Marquardt, Metcalf, Neill, Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Redmon, Stender, Twigg, Williams, Woodall—14.

Those voting nay were: Senators Andersen, Bailey, Canfield, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lewis, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Peterson (Lowell), Rasmussen, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Talley, Uhlman, Washington—35.

It was moved by Senator Williams that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, line 14 after "that" and before the period on page 2, line 25, strike all matter and insert "the legislative council shall make a study of how the public's interest is being furthered, as well as protected, under the present insurance code and the rules and regulations promulgated incident thereto, and shall report their findings to the forty-first session of the state's legislature"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Williams:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"The amendment proposed by Senator Atwood and myself does not change the scope of the examination at all. It only questions which agency should do it, and I think a discussion of whether or not we should have an investigation is not pertinent."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President, would Senator Herrmann yield to a question:

"Senator Herrmann, under the proposed amendment, do you think that the Council would be able to carry out the mandate that was instructed to you in the last session of the legislature? I would like to have a full explanation. The thing that concerns me about the proposed amendment, Senator Herrmann: Is it too restrictive from your standpoint? Would the Council be able to do the job as compared with the committee that the resolution would create?"

Senator Herrmann:

"I think that the job can best be done by a special committee designed for that purpose, and I feel that the legislative council now is top-heavy and overburdened in many instances. They are not able to do the job because of the work load which is extremely great. They certainly are attempting to do a thorough job, but I believe that a special committee is designed to zero in on the problems that are confronting the public and I think we are best equipped to do the job for the public. I think that the same is true in highways and many of the other matters of vital importance to the public. I feel this question of insurance is a matter that is extremely vital. I don't believe that any of us can disagree with the fact that our insurance is extremely important to us in our everyday living. It is an absolute public need and necessity.

"I believe it can best be handled by a committee that is designed to study this particular industry alone and believe me, it is complicated enough so that we really have to have technical help, technical advice to get in and really do the job and get to the bottom of these things like credit life insurance, where it is shown that there has been an overcharge of $1 billion nationally, the matter of assigned risk, the matter of school insurance—there are so many bases in the insurance industry that have never been looked at and I say that we have pioneered the field. We have gained a lot of information and experience in this field and if you adopt this proposed amendment, the people of the state are going to suffer."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Williams, the President believes that Senator Herrmann confined his remarks to the motion."

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Atwood:

"Mr. President, would Senator Herrmann yield to a question:

"Senator Herrmann, I take it from your argument then that the Legislative Council is inadequate for this task and would whitewash any proceedings that they might undertake, is that the gist of what you are trying to say?"

Senator Herrmann:

"Not at all, Senator. I think they would do the second best job, but I think the best tool is the tool that we have at the present time that has come up with the first major reform in twenty years. I think we are well on the road to improving the insurance industry. I think we have gotten some cooperation from them. Surely we are getting opposition, but I feel that this is the best device that we have at the present time. I say it is superior to a subcommittee under the legislative council."

Senator Atwood:

"I just wanted to make this clear. I thought that the Council was being impugned or the inference was that it was owned by the insurance industry or something, and I wanted to make that clear so that I completely understand your remarks. I take it then, Senator Herrmann, the legislative council is not owned by or managed by the insurance industry?"

Senator Herrmann:

"Mr. President:

"I have not attempted, Senator, to impugn the motives of any individual Senator or the legislative council. I think they have done an overall job that is commendable. But I do differ with you in saying a subcommittee of the legislative council can do a better job than an independent committee to zero in on the subject at hand."

Debate ensued.

The President stated the question to be the adoption of the amendment by Senator Williams.

The motion was lost on a rising vote and the amendment was not adopted.

On motion of Senator Herrmann, the rules were suspended, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the resolution was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Herrmann yield to a question:

"Senator Herrmann, I have been very interested in the remarks. Is there any way that we can get this $100,000 out of the insurance industry to help with the investigation?"

Senator Herrmann:

"Senator, we do have a tax now, a premium tax of one percent and also two percent in some instances that is bringing in $25 million. We are only spending $1,300,000 of that in the Insurance Commissioner's office. It was the purpose of the tax to take care of matters of this kind. There is over $20 million a year going into the general fund from the industry at the present time or from the premium tax."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Doesn't some of that go to the firemen?"

Senator Herrmann:

"I think from fire insurance, yes."

Debate ensued.

Senator Atwood:

"Mr. President, would Senator Herrmann yield?"

"Senator Herrmann, I didn't quite understand your remarks about the appropriation. The resolution reads, 'not to exceed $100,000.' Are you asking the Ways and Means for $100,000?"

Senator Herrmann:

"We asked for $50,000 last time, Senator, and the Committee on Ways and Means gave us $35,000. We would be asking for $100,000. All we are asking is the opportunity to present our case and it will be up to the judgment of the Committee how much they want to give us."

Senator Atwood:

"Fine, that is what I wanted to make clear. This bill itself does not carry an appropriation?"

Senator Herrmann:

"It does not. It only sets the ceiling."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4 and the resolution was adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 43; nays, 6.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Dore, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Hal-lauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, Lewis, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington, Woodall—43.

Those voting nay were: Senators Atwood, Donohue, Guess, Peterson (Ted), Stender, Williams—6.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 4, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

Senate Bill No. 199, by Senators Herrmann, Connor, Freise, Redmon and Andersen (by Joint Legislative Interim Committee on Insurance request) (by Insurance Commissioner request):

Supplementing insurance code.

On motion of Senator Herrmann, Substitute Senate Bill No. 199 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 199 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time by sections.

It was moved by Senator Stender that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 5, section 4, subsection (8), lines 15 and 16, after "who are" strike "incompetent or".

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, would Senator Herrmann yield?"

"Senator Herrmann, in section four, all of the various reasons for refusal or denial of an insurance certificate are set out. In section 4, subsections (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (6), (7) and (8) all deal with the matter of qualifications by which an insurer could receive a certificate or not receive one, is that correct?"

Senator Herrmann:

"Yes, that is correct."

Senator Stender:

"If he meets all of these requirements, is it necessary then to determine that he is competent or incompetent? Would he not be issued a certificate in the first place? Doesn't that just leave a word that could be a matter of personal feeling or something else that could create a problem between the insurance commissioner and the industry that has no relationship at all to an insured."

Senator Herrmann:

"Senator, I don't think that it would be necessary to make an issue out of this particular word. If the amendment was adopted, I cannot see where it would improve the bill. I think the way it is set up now it is properly worded and I don't see anything but an assist to the insurance commissioner in leaving the wording as it is now. On the other hand if your amendment should carry, I don't think it would do any serious damage to the bill."

Debate ensued.

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, I direct this question to anyone that might be familiar with the present posture of the Administrative Procedures Act as to whether or not the insurance commissioner's office is covered by that act."

Senator Dore:

"It is exempt."

Senator Gissberg:

"The question I raise and I will direct this then to Senator Herrmann, is the section that we are dealing with, the subject of Senator Stender's proposed amendment, the entire section 4 gives authority to the insurance commissioner to revoke a certificate of authority of an insurer if the commissioner himself finds apparently upon hearsay evidence which would be reliable information—presumably hearsay evidence could be 'reliable information'—that one of the officers or directors is incompetent or untrustworthy. Now that seems to be rather sweeping power and I have no quarrel with it so long as there is some form by which the insurer can contest the findings of the insurance commissioner who does act on the hearsay evidence and does find one of the officers to be incompetent or untrustworthy. Is there a quorum that is available to the insurer under the terms of the present Insurance Code or do we fall back on the Administrative Procedures Act? Can anyone answer the question?"

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President:

"As I understand it, we discussed this problem Saturday I believe and the insurance commissioner is specifically exempt."

Senator Herrmann:

"I believe the recourse would be to the courts and you will note that there is one provision on page 26 of the bill that sets up the procedure there on show cause. I doubt if there is any appellate procedure in the Insurance Code. To my knowledge there is not. I think the recourse, Senator, would be to the courts.

"You might have been familiar with what took place in this situation. A domestic company we knew had violated insurance investments and in our hearing we heard many, many people who have children in school say there had been no payments. It seems this company about twenty years ago wrote a lot of educational policies. We had people like firemen and policemen and day laborers come in that had put their life savings into these companies and when the time came to pay off, the money was not there and as some of the witnesses testified, they were informed that they could go to the bank and get the money. One said he went to the bank and they laughed at him. I think you know the company to which I refer. The insurance commissioner has attempted to set up tools whereby he wouldn't have to go through this long, continuous court battle that has taken years to bring to a head and finally take over the management of this company and rehabilitate it. I don't think that we have to fear that these powers will be abused. I think the abuse was on the other side. I think that the company here abused its privilege of being immune, and this will put some very badly needed teeth in the law that the insurance commissioner is attempting to enforce."

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President:

"I just checked with Fred Bruhn, deputy insurance commissioner, and he said that under RCW 48.04 they are subject to review and also subject to review by the superior court and the supreme court on the denials of these certificates of authority."

Debate ensued.

The President stated the question to be the adoption of the amendment by Senator Stender.

The motion was lost on a rising vote and the amendment was not adopted.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Herrmann, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 199 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 199, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 49; nays, 0.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, Lewis, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Marde-sich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington, Williams, Woodall—49.

Substitute Senate Bill No. 199, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

Senate Bill No. 205, by Senators Herrmann, Freise and Connor:

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Bill No. 205:

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., February 7, 1967.

Requiring certain records of insurance companies to be kept for inspection of insurance commissioner (reported by Committee on Banks, Financial Institutions and Insurance):

Recommends that it do pass as amended.

On line 11, after "least" and before "years" strike "five" and insert "two"

Karl Herrmann, Chairman,
August P. Mardesich, Vice Chairman.

We concur in this report: Frank Connor, John L. Cooney, Fred H. Dore, Frank W. Foley, Herbert H. Freise, Gordon Herr, George W. Kupka, Richard G. (Dick) Marquardt, Frances Haddon Morgan, Marshall A. Neill, Lowell Peterson, Joel M. Pritchard, John N. Ryder, Robert W. Twigg.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Herrmann, the committee amendment was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Stender that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, add a new section following section 1 as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. Insurers may not cancel any contract on account of any incident, happening or liability of any nature for which the insured was not directly responsible."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Herrmann:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I believe that this amendment would change the scope and object of the bill."

The President:

"Do you wish to speak on the point, Senator Herrmann?"

Senator Herrmann:

"No, I submit it to you."

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President:

"Speaking on the point of order raised by Senator Herrmann, I would like to point out the bill itself has to do with the requirements of keeping records and recording. Of course the amendment has to do with the very question in the bill in that the matters that are kept, insofar as the insurance company is concerned, would be matters that were directly attributable to the particular insured under these contracts so that when we are talking about these matters of insurance cancellations, that records are actually kept at the place and for the time established in this bill. The amendment is therefore germane to the particular bill."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Herrmann, members of the Senate, the President ruling upon the point of order presented by Senator Herrmann:

"The President believes that the amendment proposed by Senator Stender relates to the same subject and merely adds a provision which prohibits cancellation of insurance policies when the insured is not at fault. Therefore the President rules that the point of order as presented by Senator Herrmann is not well taken."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talley:

"Mr. President, I wonder if Senator Herrmann would yield to a question:

"Senator Herrmann, it is my understanding this is just a bill to handle the matter of how long the insurance companies shall keep records. You have some bills drafted that would take care of the subject that Senator Stender is trying to amend into the bill, don't you?"

Senator Herrmann:

"Yes, Senator Talley and Mr. President, we have Senate Bill No. 429 under study that will be patterned after the North Carolina statute which will set forth the statutory requirements under which companies may cancel policies, and under Senate Bill No. 429 which we hope to have out of the committee on Friday, there are specific grounds set forth making it mandatory that policies can only be cancelled for the reasons set forth. We have also made it mandatory under this proposed legislation that the notice contain the exact grounds for cancellation. The bill provides that it must be sent by registered mail with return receipt with fifteen days' notice to the insured in every instance so that he may obtain other coverage. I don't know whether Senator Stender's particular provision would be covered in the act but I do think that this amendment would be more properly incorporated in Senate Bill No. 429 than it would in this bill which only requires the keeping of records."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

The President called upon President Pro Tempore Al Henry to preside.

On motion of Senator Talley, Senate Bill No. 205 was ordered to retain its place on the second reading calendar for tomorrow.

Senate Bill No. 206, by Senators Herrmann, Freise and Connor:

Requiring standardization and prescribing requisites of certain forms, clauses and binders of insurance contracts.

On motion of Senator Herrmann, Substitute Senate Bill No. 206 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 206 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Herrmann, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 206 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Herrmann yield:

"Senator Herrmann, these do not relate to insurance policy forms, do they?"

Senator Herrmann:

"No, only to these matters of finder receipts and loss payable clauses under the contract, but not to the policy."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Could you inform me if your committee has given any consideration to the standardization of insurance forms as such, the size and type of print that they have and the way they are made up?"

Senator Herrmann:

"Yes, we have given considerable consideration and it is mentioned in our report. We went into some detail on it, quoting court decisions on the particular subject, Senator Rasmussen."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Have you prepared bills to implement your report?"

Senator Herrmann:

"We have made requests to the insurance commissioner that he attempt to do this by regulation. We felt that we were getting into a field that would be very, very difficult to establish by legislation. As an administrative officer, the insurance commissioner has very broad authority and we have attempted to suggest the exercise of rule-making authority, rather than trying to work out these highly complicated, highly sensitive matters by statute. I think if we are going to go into that field, we would have to make a depth study on the matter and it would take more time and resources than we have in this interim. If the insurance commissioner does not act on this matter to our satisfaction, I think that future legislation would then be warranted."

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 206 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 44; nays, 0; absent or not voting, 1; excused, 4.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Herrmann, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 282 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued:

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, would Senator Herrmann yield to a question:

"Senator Herrmann, many banks have insured customers where they borrow and I have seen these things where I have been engaged. Sometimes the insurance is a lot larger than the loan. Would this bill affect this?"

Senator Herrmann:

"No, Senator, it would not change the present law on that. The law would remain the same. Under the group protection we do not change the law as to the amount of the loan."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I would like to have the minute clerk report to you if I said that the court was corrupt in any manner, and if she finds or you find that that is in the record, then Senator McCutcheon can carry on. But if it is not in the record, I ask him to apologize. I have not said that the court was corrupt in any way. I ask to have the record read. This is a false statement and requires an apology."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President, may I answer?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President should like to advise the Senators that no record is made of remarks by any Senator on final passage."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President and to the Senator from the 28th District, I was merely repeating statements that you have made off the floor. I don't know whether you have ever made them on the floor or not, but this morning you broached the matter—"

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, point of order:

"Senator McCutcheon is impugning my motives. He is indicating that I have made statements off of the floor. He has no supporting evidence whatsoever. I make my statements in public on this floor for the purpose of being on the record. Now if Senator McCutcheon can substantiate his statements, let him do so on the floor. But he is indicating to the body that I have indicated members of the court are corrupt. I have never given any such indication. I deny it categorically and I ask Senator McCutcheon to produce his proof."

Senator McCutcheon:

"I am very glad he is apologizing to the court because what he said this morning was that lawyers are reluctant to talk about the operation of the court for fear of retaliation. Now this is a free and open debate here. No one is impugning anybody's motives. I think Senator Rasmussen believes what he says. I believe that he honestly believes that the court is influenced. He says that he is not impugning motives. He believes that this court is influenced by salary increases. I get the distinct impression that in view of being influenced, they are deviating in their opinions. Now I don't think that is true at all. I have engaged in the practice of law in the state of Washington for thirty years or more. I have never known a judge to hold it against a lawyer in writing his opinions. Maybe there have been one or two. They are all human. But as a group and as a court, it is an insulting thing to say—it is almost slanderous, if you want to have it right straight between the eyes, Senator Rasmussen. You have slandered the Supreme Court on this floor. You have inferred that they were influenced in their decisions—"

Senator Rasmussen:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I think the Senator is exceeding the bounds of senatorial courtesy. He is now accusing me of slandering the court. I submit that I have never made any statements here that would slander the court in any manner whatsoever. I would ask the President to ask Senator McCutcheon to confine his remarks to the bill in question, Senate Joint Resolution No. 6."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Rasmussen, would you please confine your remarks to the bill in question, Senate Joint Resolution No. 6."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President:

"Are you addressing me? You called me, 'Senator Rasmussen.' Now I demand an apology. Some members as you know can dish it out but can't take it!"

Debate ensued.

Senator Keefe demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

"Mr. President, would Senator Guess yield to a question:

"Senator, due to the fact that this bill appears to be quite broad in the field of water resources, was there any reason why the activities of the Water Pollution Control Commission were not included?"

Senator Guess:

"Yes, Senator, very definitely the Water Pollution Control Commission was not put under this bill because this bill has to do with the administration of the Water Pollution Control Commission and it is a regulatory commission and has a different function in government. We thought that it would be much better to maintain a separation of authority in this bill and we didn't want to get the Water Pollution Commission into an area of administration. Senator Hallauer may wish to enlarge upon that but this was considered several times and it was the considered judgment of the committee to leave the Pollution Control Commission out."

Debate ensued.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege:

"I think every one of us here has noted a series of newspaper articles by the Seattle Post Intelligencer and I would like to address my remarks to Senator Herrmann's pen pals, Mr. President. I notice over a short period of time there has been a big play in this particular newspaper about this great army of insurance lobbyists and what not and they have a picture of lobbyists sticking out of everywhere and even one looking through the state flag. I think that the matter deserves a little comment."

Senator Talley:

"Mr. President:"

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Talley rise?"

Senator Talley:

"I would like to make a request. This involves Senator Herrmann, too. I think he should be on the floor while the remarks are being made."

Senator Stender:

"I wasn't talking about Senator Herrmann. I was talking about his pen pals. Now yesterday morning on the front page of the Seattle P.I., there was an article about some amendments that were headlined as 'crippling amendments' to the insurance package. These were the amendments by Senator Atwood, Senator Williams and myself. None of them were crippling. Today there is another one of those articles which says: 'We applaud Senate extension of the interim committee's life this week and urge the house to ratify it swiftly. In passing, we also congratulate the majority of the Senate for batting down a foolish proposal by Senator John Stender that would have restricted news of committee activities.'"

"Now yesterday it was a 'crippling' amendment. Today it is a 'foolish' amendment. I would like to have it known here that so far as I am concerned I think it is about time that this particular legislative matter was put in context and not be just as a newspaper stunt for the interests of somebody that wants to write stories. There is nothing in this Senate that comes through here as being foolish. There is nothing in here that is trying to cripple anybody as far as I can find out. Yesterday I proposed an amendment to protect the consumer and I see not one single word of mention in these news articles about that amendment, and that was the only amendment that had anything to do with protecting the consumer. I think it is about time this thing was put in context."

On motion of Senator Dore, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 330 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Redmon:

"Mr. President, would Senator Dore yield to a question:

"Senator, would this bill allow the state of Washington or any of its subdivisions to shop around for insurance?"

Senator Dore:

"I believe it would apply to any person. Of course the state of Washington is, 'a person,' so I would say yes."

Debate ensued.

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Sandison a question:

"Senator, the one thing that interests me most in this bill is the question of up-rating the state of Washington. I think the citizens of the state are prejudiced in that there is only one rating bureau and a very good example of that occurred the other day in the Committee on Ways and Means, where we were talking about a local assessment bill for fire districts. It was pointed out that a fire station was built within I think half a block of Senator McMillan's house and it had absolutely nothing to do with lowering the rates, and we tried to discuss this with the rating bureau and got nowhere. Now I wonder if you would care to address yourself to this problem of the monopoly of the rating bureau in the state of Washington and if this bill is going to help?"

Senator Sandison:

"Senator Durkan, this is a little beyond what we were discussing but on the other hand it probably should be answered.

"Number one, I am not here to defend the rating bureau. I have my troubles with them, too, and I think at times it is a very high-handed organization. The only problem is in insurance and it seems that almost every state of the union, at least forty, do have some sort of rating organization very similar to the rating bureau. If the Interim Committee on Insurance in the next interim period wants to go into the activities of the rating bureau, I certainly would have no objections."

Debate ensued.

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Sandison yield to a question:

"You speak of the rating bureau. What is it called?"

Senator Sandison:

"Washington State Survey and Rating Bureau."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Now when they make their rates, are all companies required to follow this rate?"

Senator Sandison:

"Yes, they are set up under the law and the companies, to the best of my knowledge—and there may be some exceptions, and I think Senator Greive is more knowledgeable on the exceptions than I—yes, they would be. Speaking for the vast majority of the companies as subscribers to the bureau, they would be obligated to follow that particular rate."

Senator Rasmussen:

"The subscribers to the rating bureau?"

Senator Sandison:

"Correct."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Now you say they are set up under the law?"

Senator Sandison:

"Yes, that is my understanding."

Senator Rasmussen:

"We passed a law saying that this one rating bureau establishes a rate for the whole state?"

Senator Sandison:

"Well, yes, as a matter of fact it is set up under the insurance code in recognition of the rating bureau. As I recall you were a member of the legislature when it passed."

Senator Rasmussen:

POINT OF INQUIRY

"Mr. President, would Senator Knoblauch yield to a question:

"Senator, you have mentioned the particular concern in the 30th District. I think you are acquainted with the problem at 260th and the freeway where the freeway was built after the wrecking yard had been established and the department of highways built a high fill on one side. Under this act I would like for the record at least to show that under the circumstances that particular operator wouldn't be penalized to the end that he will be put out of business unless he has a high fence built."

Senator Knoblauch:

"I will be happy to put a statement in the record. It is our intent that this would permit the director of highways to specify that some fence should be erected and in those cases where some fence would be required, that 'some fence' could be a barbed wire fence."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Ryder, the rules were suspended, Senate Joint Resolution No. 5 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the resolution was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"Mr. President, would Senator Ryder yield:

"Senator Ryder, is there a limitation percentagewise as to how much of the funds could be invested and, number two, with the drop in the market in November on common stocks, there were some decidedly heavy drops and this would affect your fund materially, would it not? Some of the stocks have never come back since then and if you are investing in common stocks, you have to roll with the market."

Senator Ryder:

"In answer to your first question, any limitation which would be adopted would be up to the next session of the legislature, Senator Peterson. This is merely amending the Constitution so that the legislature would have control in what they want the pension system to invest, so the next legislature could put a limitation on it. The implementing legislation undoubtedly would be passed next session. Now insofar as the ups and downs of the stock market are concerned, yes, this is true, it does go up and down, but what we are talking about here are long range income markets from stocks which are what will help in paying the benefits afterwards and I think if you take a look at the bond market which was dropping last fall also, that has not come back either. Short term bonds have come back some but the long term bonds haven't and certainly not the corporate bonds."

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Joint Resolution No. 5 and the Resolution passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 40; nays, 8; excused 1.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lewis, McCormack, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Twigg, Washington, Williams, Woodall—40.

On motion of Senator Neill, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Joint Resolution No. 17 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the resolution was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President, would Senator Neill yield to a question:

"Senator Neill, I agree with everything you have said except there is one thing about this resolution I don't understand. What we are trying to do is to circumvent the Constitution in a sense. We want to change it so we can do the things you told us about. Why don't we take off the debt limit and tell the people this is what we want to do and handle it in a straightforward manner?"

Senator Neill:

"Two reasons, Senator: First, we are not circumventing the Constitution. This would be the Constitution. Second, this would be allowing the bonded indebtedness to be increased for this specific purpose only. If we take off the debt limit, we would be taking it off every other operation of state government. I think we need to restrict this to capitol items of a long time life, not everyday operation of government."

Further debate ensued.

MOTION

At 12:35 p.m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 1:30 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 1:30 p.m.

SECOND READING OF BILLS

Substitute Senate Bill No. 63, by Senators Woodall, Dore and Durkan (by Legislative Council request):

Regulating retail installment sales.

The Senate resumed consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 63 on second reading.

It was moved by Senator Kupka that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 10, section 8, beginning on line 21, strike all of subsection (1) and insert:

"(1) The seller may not in a retail installment contract charge, receive or collect a service charge in excess of twelve dollars per annum per one hundred dollars of the principal balance on any sale not in excess of five hundred dollars; and not in excess of ten dollars per annum per one hundred dollars of the principal balance on any sale in excess of five hundred dollars; or a minimum of fifteen dollars."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, would Senator Kupka yield to a question:

"Do I understand from the reading of the amendment that in a contract sale that has to do with amounts up to $500 that there would be a $50 service charge to write the contract?"

Senator Kupka:

"It is an improvement over what is already in the bill. It is quite self explanatory. It will could be."

Senator Stender:

"Well, is the answer yes or no?"

Senator Kupka:

"It just depends on how you read it."

Debate ensued.

The motion was lost and the amendment was not adopted.

On motion of Senator Woodall, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 63 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Uhlman yield:

"Senator Uhlman, what size is ten point type?"

Senator Uhlman:

"Ten point type is the next size larger than eight point type and the next size smaller than twelve point type."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, Senator Uhlman is excused for that. That is the kind of answer you get from judiciary. Would Senator Bailey yield? Would you compare ten point type in relation to what we have in our bill book? What size is that?"

Senator Bailey:

"The bill book is fairly close to ten point type. Most of the contracts I think are written in six or even smaller types. Eight point type you can read in the newspapers and ten point type would be about the size of the editorials in the newspapers."

Debate ensued.

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Uhlman yield:

"This is related to judiciary. On page 10, line 9, as I gather this particular section of the bill is related to the suede shoe artist that Senator Kupka was speaking about that comes to the house and sells either the woman or the man of the house something that they possibly don't want on reflection of what is in the contract. Now there is a proviso in here, 'Provided, That the time of sending notice of rescission you have not received and accepted a substantial part of the goods or services which you agreed to purchase.'

"Now my question is assume I am out on the road or at legislature for a week and some suede shoe artist comes by the house and sells my wife a vacuum cleaner, and this particular vacuum cleaner that she purchases is a $350 vacuum cleaner that I can ordinarily buy down at George's store for a hundred dollars. But he at that time delivers the vacuum cleaner to my wife. Under this proviso then I could not, after talking it over with my wife, get out of this contract, is that right?"

Senator Woodall:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"My point of order is that Senator Rasmussen said, if he stayed down at Olympia without seeing his wife for a week. He goes home every night and he can check within twenty-four hours."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Speaking to the point of order, Mr. President:

"I don't know if Senator Woodall knows if his wife is home every night. I am not sure either. She may be busy on other business. This is a serious question, Senator Uhlman."

Senator Uhlman:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"In direct answer to Senator Rasmussen's question, the bill provides for twenty-four hours as a perfectly adequate cooling off period under this law. There are various times in other states. Massachusetts I believe is forty-eight hours. I was not a member of the legislative council nor a member of the committee that considered this bill. I am speaking from perhaps less knowledge in this area than Senator Woodall, but I believe the testimony before the committee was the longest period of time in the country out of the three or four states that have statutes on similar off premises sales such as we are now discussing was forty-eight hours. Now forty-eight hours is perhaps the longest. The committee felt it should be twenty-four hours or no change from the original proposal in the legislation we have here. NEW SECTION 12, (c) provides you may return the goods or hold them at the seller's disposal. You don't have to return them yourself. You may hold the vacuum cleaner and tell the person who sold it to you to come pick it up and he either gets it or leaves it there."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Woodall yield:

"Senator Woodall, I do want to compliment you on this. It is a tremendous job. It isn't all we would like to have in the bill, but this is an improvement. This proviso bothers me and I think that it takes that portion out from under the twenty-four hour period where you can return the goods, is this correct?"

Senator Woodall:

"Partly correct. Would you like me to explain the reason for the proviso?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"Yes."

Senator Woodall:

"This was a compromise provision to take care of what we would call ethical car dealers who state that there are many, many instances where the husband and wife, one or both work, actually prefer to have you come to their home for the purpose of finalizing the deal, so we wrote that in the proviso and the car dealers pointed out that if you happen to have a certain car that someone wants now, it is worth one price if you can immediately make it available. It might be worth a lesser price if you had to wait. The idea was for instance the case of a school teacher, she teaches during the daytime and might actually prefer to have this particular sale consummated in the evening at her home so that if she took the car and made the deal and then the car dealer took her car in exchange, the dealer would not be subject to having the person change their mind twenty-four hours later. Now that was the purpose of the proviso. It does leave a loophole if a man physically or manually carries the vacuum cleaner from door to door and sells it, it is true he would not have this particular escape clause. I might state what we are doing here is an innovation in the law. Very few states have it, only about two. The concept originated in Australia. It has been adopted in parts of Canada and only a few states here. We are adopting the cooling off concept in a very limited way, but to the extent that we have, it is an improvement over the previous law."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Would Senator Woodall yield:

"Supposing I am one of these sharp salesman that happens to sell a roofing job to the lady of the house in the absence of the man, or it could be vice versa. I come and unload the roofing right on the ground. In effect this would be a consummation of a contract and I could not refuse it under this proviso?"

Senator Woodall:

"In the first place of course on an item that large the wife alone could not bind the community. It would take the concurrence of the husband and the husband has a basic right to disavow. Also it has not been consummated in that case because it has not been irrevocably committed to the use. In other words, the salesman has not put the roofing on the house. Again it would have to be within a twenty-four hour period. Normally if you are staying at home you would be aware and normally within twenty-four hours they would not have all of the items there. The area where it really gives some relief is the area of your encyclopedia vendors and some people who call on the phone and advise you that you have been the lucky one. You have been chosen as one of the homes in which they would like to leave this set of encyclopedias, coming to you absolutely free and would you like them to drop them by your home and learn of it. Then of course when they go away you find you have signed a contract for some three hundred dollars. There you get a definite relief for this matter. It does not go as far. It does not give a complete protection, Senator Rasmussen, and you have very correctly pointed out the gaps in it. But the question was one of balancing equities in this matter and the committee came to this opinion."

Senator Rasmussen:

"I object."

The President:

"Senator Rasmussen has objected."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, has Senator Herrmann answered any of the roll calls this evening?"

The President:

"No, Senator."

MOTION

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I move that the rules be suspended and Senator Herrmann be excused."

The President:

"Senator Greive has moved that the rules be suspended and that Senator Herrmann be excused.

"For what purpose does Senator Rasmussen rise?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"Our rules provide a roll call may not be interrupted even for a suspension of the rules."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"Senator Rasmussen doesn't know our rules. Our rules have no such provision."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would you check the rules? I think the President ruled on that last session and he has ruled on it this session. It is serious business when you put a Call of the Senate and it should be observed."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, to make a long story short, I would like anybody to show me what rule you can't suspend. I moved to suspend the rules and I ask the motion be put."

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order.

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"I withdraw my objection."

On motion of Senator Greive, Senator Herrmann was excused.

Amending the occupational driver's license law.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 67 on second reading and the amendment by Senator Greive.

With leave of the Senate, Senator Greive was permitted to withdraw his amendment.

It was moved by Senator Greive that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 3, following Senator Gissberg's amendment to page 3, section 2, add a new section as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. There is added to chapter 169, Laws of 1963 and to chapter 46.29 RCW a new section to read as follows:

The department may stay any suspension of a driver's license under RCW 46.29.110 for a period of one year following the date of suspension if

(1) The driver files proof of financial responsibility for the future as provided in this chapter,

(2) The driver's attorney files with the department an affidavit showing that he has examined and reviewed the facts and circumstances surrounding the accident and that, based upon his knowledge and belief, the driver would not be liable for damages in an action at law arising out of the accident, and

(3) It appears that the driver has not been previously involved in an accident while not covered under an automobile liability policy.

The department may extend the stay of suspension pending any litigation arising out of the accident if the driver is unable to file an affidavit under RCW 46.29.170.

The driver or his attorney shall advise the department of any settlement negotiations and the filing of any action at law for damages arising out of the accident, and shall advise the department of the outcome of any such action or negotiations.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Freise yield:

"As I read this amendment, it is not clear to me. 'The Department may stay any suspension.' Then it goes on:

"If the driver files proof of financial responsibility or the driver's attorney files with the department an affidavit showing that he has examined and reviewed the facts and circumstances surrounding the accident and that, based upon his knowledge and belief, the driver would not be liable for damages in an action at law arising out of the accident."

"Now, Senator, my question is this: If you as an attorney took this case and you were going to defend the man in court against these charges, would you file an affidavit with the department saying that the man in your opinion was guilty when it had not been determined by the court? You would be inclined to file the affidavit the other way and hope the court would determine in favor of your client, wouldn't this be true?"

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"In the first place, Senator Rasmussen, you slipped in an 'or' between subparagraphs (1) and (2) which is not there. In other words you can only get this suspension if you (1) show proof of financial responsibility in the future, and, (2) the driver's attorney files with the department an affidavit. I honestly do not believe that if an attorney reviews the facts and is satisfied to his own knowledge for instance that the driver would be liable, that he would file an affidavit to that effect. If the attorney reviewed the case and he was satisfied in his own mind that his client was not liable, he might file the affidavit, but if he honestly believes he was liable, he wouldn't file the affidavit."

Further debate ensued.

It was moved by Senator Lewis that the following amendment to the amendment be adopted:

On page 3 in Senator Greive's amendment, strike all of subsection (2) down to and including "accident," and renumber the remaining subsection (3) to read "(2)"

Senate Bill No. 181, by Senators Peterson (Ted), Talley, Knoblauch and Mardesich:

Amending the electrical installations law.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEESenate Bill No. 181:

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., February 6, 1967.

Amending the electrical installations law (reported by Committee on Commerce, Manufacturing and Licenses):

Recommends that it do pass as amended.

On page 6, section 3, line 13, after "dollars." strike all the material down to and including "standards." on line 17 and insert "[The inspection fee shall be one dollar which inspection by the electrical inspection division shall consist of an examination of electrical plans and periodic inspection in the field to ascertain compliance with minimum electrical-standards.]"

George W. Kupka, Chairman.

We concur in this report: Frank Connor, Sam C. Guess, Gordon Herr, James E. Keefe, Reuben A. Knoblauch, Richard G. (Dick) Marquardt, Ted G. Peterson.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

It was moved by Senator Peterson (Ted) that the committee amendments be adopted.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Peterson yield to a question:

"Senator Peterson, it seems like we just raised the fees last session. Why is it necessary to raise them again in two years."

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"Senator, we just adjusted them last session when more inspectors were hired. Now with the explosion of population in the state and particularly in the Seattle area, we have to have more inspectors. If you will look over the fees, you will find it is only a ten dollar inspection fee for a home and the rest of the fees are based on the amperage down from 250 and so on. This is for apartment house installations and larger plants and things like that, so this is just in keeping with what it takes along with the salary increase that we just voted in the other day of seventeen percent. These adjustments will take care of them, Senator."

The motion was carried and the committee amendments were adopted.

On motion of Senator Peterson (Ted), the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 181 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, would Senator Peterson yield:

"Senator, under this bill it wouldn't be possible for a home owner to even fix his own light switch."

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"You are wrong, Senator. That is not the case at all."

Senator Lennart:

"That is not my interpretation of it. Look at the bill."

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"You can still do anything you want. You can replace light switches. You can pull the socket on the wall and put in other switches. There is nothing in this at all that changes the law on that whatsoever."

Debate ensued.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Neill, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 61 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President, would Senator Neill yield?"

"Senator Neill, I can appreciate what you are trying to do but I can see where it could open the gate for tourism. Assume I have relatives in another area and it looked like there was a possibility of a job in Washington State, I could get them a free trip, if I could get someone in one of the departments to write a letter and ask them to come and be interviewed regarding a job. I am a little bit disturbed about opening the gate this way. I can see where if I was a friend of a friend that I might work myself a nice trip to the West if I was in the East to discuss a job. Does it say I have to take the job? Does it mention something about the person participating being responsible in accepting the job? I just wonder if you might explain some of the loopholes that might accumulate."

Senator Neill:

"Senator Kupka, we are not opening any gates at all. As a matter of fact we are trying to close a few. You will notice in the bill this can only be done by direction of the head of the department or head of the state agency. It also applies only to professional and administrative officers and employees. Further it is provided that the rules and regulations are to be made by the Central Budget Agency to prescribe some sort of controls over exercising the practice and I think what we are doing is actually trying to close some doors."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Neill yield:

"Senator Neill, you have indicated that this practice is going on and apparently is fairly widespread. This would quite possibly be an illegal expenditure of state funds. I don't know. This is why I am asking. Is there any authority for paying subsistence and travel to anybody outside of state employees and if there isn't, I would presume the state auditor in his examinations would certainly get the recommendations of the attorney general."

Senator Neill:

"Is that the question?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"Yes."

Senator Neill:

"No, there are no illegal expenditures going on to my knowledge and I certainly assume if there were the state auditor would have given some reports to us on that matter and I know of none. Actually what happens is this: Take for example in our own interim committees as we had to do when we hired the staff on the Interim Budget Committee, there is no authority for us to bring a man in to interview him for a job. What we do then, we very legally and properly at the present time can hire a man as a consultant for example and we enter into a contract to have him come to the state of Washington to consult with us on this, that or the other. It is a proper expenditure of state money, true. I happen to think that it is a subterfuge. I think the thing for us to do is enact this type of legislation so we know what it is. It is not an illegal expenditure. It is being done perfectly correctly. I think it ought to be done directly so we know where we are on this."

Senator Rasmussen:

"It is a little difficult for me to understand what you can find out about a man and his background with an eyeball to eyeball confrontation that you couldn't find out from correspondence and recommendations from former employers. I know there was a bad mistake made in the Governor's office when he hired the Budget Director, but he did consult with him personally. Now what is it you can find out from having a personal interview that you can't find out as many, many companies do by looking at the reference sheets and recommendations that he has?"

Senator Neill:

"Senator, I think that anyone that has had any experience with hiring top level administrators and executives knows that you do not hire these people without personal interviews. Second, this is a two way street. We can't attract top people into the state of Washington until they have had a chance to come here and look our situation over and look the job situation over. I think that is probably the most important aspect of the whole legislation."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President, would Senator Lewis yield:

"Senator Lewis, you run a business. How many fares have you bought for people to come interview with you?"

Senator Lewis:

"Senator Kupka, I paid the plane fare from Los Angeles and two days food and board for a prospective employee just to interview him personally. I subsequently hired him and have been very pleased with the result. On the other hand, I did hire an interior designer from an area in the middle west who sent me an application and who spent quite a bit of money on phone calls talking to me about his abilities and so forth. I did end up hiring him and three months later I found out that his credit was no good. He had gone through bankruptcy and we were having some other difficulties in the store. This perhaps is not typical, but I do find from my own experience in a small business—even in a small business where I don't require the kind of technical people Senator Henry is talking about and I don't require a man of the caliber of Dr. Odegaard or a man to replace Dr. French, I don't require an expert in the institutions area or an expert in I.B.M. machine operation and so on—I just feel very strongly that Senator Neill's bill is meritorious and it would benefit the state very much in the long pull. The costs to hire somebody are quite high. Certainly we are going to make mistakes in hiring even under the best conditions. But I think if we can reduce the problem of hiring the wrong people in any way, it will benefit the state in the long run, Senator."

Debate ensued.

Senators Uhlman, Talley and Atwood demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

GUBERNATORIAL APPOINTMENT REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., January 30, 1967.

James F. Ryan, to the position of director of the Central Budget Agency, appointed by the Governor May 1, 1966, for the term ending at the Governor's pleasure, succeeding George Stastny (reported by Committee on Ways and Means):

MAJORITY recommends that said appointment be confirmed.

Martin J. Durkan, Chairman.

We concur in this report: R. Frank Atwood, Damon R. Canfield, Joe Chytil, John L. Cooney, Dewey C. Donohue, Fred H. Dore, Frank W. Foley, R. R. Bob Greive, Sam C. Guess, Wilbur G. Hallauer, Ernest W. Uhlman, Perry B. Woodall.

It was moved by Senator Greive that the rules be suspended and that the appointment of James F. Ryan to the position of director of the Central Budget Agency be now confirmed.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"It is indeed a pleasure to speak on behalf of the confirmation of James Ryan as director of the Central Budget Agency. I first became acquainted with him back some eight years ago during the course of the activities of the then Tax Advisory Council that was chaired by Harold Shefelman. It was a very hard working committee and Jim was the good right arm as the counsel and man of all work for the entire advisory group. As a result of his efforts we put together a proposal that the legislature in large part did accept.

"Subsequent to that time Jim has been involved in various tax assignments with state government in every capacity. He has comported himself at the ultimate definition of what good civil service is. He is truly a nonpartisan. He has been appointed under the Democratic administration and again under the Republican administration. Those of us who have had close contact with him know him as a dedicated public servant without any political connotations to his activities whatsoever.

"I think this is a very fine appointment and Governor Evans is to be congratulated in making it. I hope that you will unanimously give your support to this confirmation of James Ryan as director of Central Budget Agency."

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I would like to both personally and in my position as a member of this body urge the support of the confirmation of the appointment of James Ryan to director of the Central Budget Agency. Those of us who have worked in budget areas of the legislature for these years know the importance of having someone in that very important area of state government to advise on a bipartisan basis in getting the job done and putting together a state budget. As Senator Hallauer has pointed out, Mr. Ryan started out working on various tax assignments. He moved over to Central Budget Agency and was extremely well trained under Warren Bishop and has succeeded to the work Warren has done in a most admirable fashion. If we didn't have a man of his caliber sitting over there working on budget matters, our job in these halls would be ten times what it is at the present time.

"Jim is not only extremely personable and extremely competent, but I think the best thing that could happen to us in these halls, is that Jim Ryan has seen fit to come down here and take on this very important job in state government."

Senator McCormack:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I would also like to concur in the remarks made by Senator Hallauer and Senator Neill in recommending the confirmation of James Ryan. I have worked with him a number of years in the field of taxation. I have worked with him this session and I very much appreciate his competence and integrity. I feel he is a great asset to state government and I am certainly very happy to join in recommending his confirmation."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I have one peculiar reason for joining in the recommendation for the confirmation of Jim Ryan. His wife has been my secretary at the legislature during some eight years now and she is just as competent as her husband. Speaking to his qualifications, I have had many occasions over the years to call upon Mr. Ryan for statistics, figures and background, and I always felt confident he was giving me the truth and was just as impartial as he could be. He would give you facts and figures. He excluded editorial comment. Many times I felt he might be giving exactly the same statistics and facts to the other side, but I always felt confident I didn't have to worry about him slanting the backup work or figures in any way."

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I have no fear of being redundant because I think a man of this caliber deserves a comment from each and every one of us. During the last fourteen years, six years of that in Appropriations Committee, I have seen Jim work long and hard whether he was asked to come in in the mornings or evenings and he always was warm, helpful, courteous and extremely instructive. Without him we just wouldn't do the job we have done, as Senator Neill has said. We have had many budget directors and I think he compares favorably with all of them and I know we will all unanimously approve his confirmation. I think the Governor should be complimented for this excellent appointment."

APPOINTMENT OF JAMES F. RYAN

The Secretary called the roll and the appointment of James F. Ryan to the position of director of the Central Budget Agency was confirmed by the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 45; nays, 0; absent, 1; excused, 3.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, Lewis, McCormack, McMillan, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington, Williams, Woodall—45.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President announced the presence within the bar of the Senate of Donald F. Koch, Executive Director of the Division of Nuclear Energy, and appointed a special committee consisting of Senators McCormack, Henry, Gissberg and Ryder to escort Mr. Koch to a place of honor on the rostrum.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen:

"The President should like to take the pleasure of presenting to you at this time one of our honored members, Senator Mike McCormack. It is with great pleasure that the President presents Senator McCormack, chairman of the Senate Committee on Revenue and Taxation."

Senator McCormack:

"Governor Cherberg, members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen:

"I would like to present to you this morning Mr. Donald F. Koch, Executive Director of the Division of Nuclear Energy. You are all aware of the fact that two years ago we passed several important pieces of legislation dealing with the development of nuclear energy in the state of Washington. Since that time there has been a great deal of progress in this area and Mr. Koch is here this morning as director of the Division of Nuclear Energy to make a presentation to Lieutenant Governor Cherberg of a gavel that has been prepared in cooperation with the Division of Nuclear Energy of this state. I would like to present to you at this time Mr. Donald F. Koch."

Mr. Koch:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate and ladies and gentlemen:

"Last June I attempted to interest the timber companies of the state in a new technique that used soft wood plastic and nuclear energy to make a brand new product for Washington and from this simple little project evolved gavels, five gavels; one for the Governor, one for the President of the Senate, one for the Speaker of the House, one for the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court who, incidentally, said he was delighted because they have never had a gavel, and one for the chairman of the Governor's Advisory Council on Nuclear Energy and Radiation.

"These gavels are made with a new technique and I hope that you will handle the gavel so that you can say you handled nuclear energy. These gavels repose on a base made with nuclear energy that has many Washington products set in the clear plastic which has been hardened with nuclear energy. It includes a solid gold replica of a Boeing 727 and runs through agricultural products, even including Olympia oyster shells. The base rests on a high density radiation proof lead glass such as one sees in the windows at nuclear installations.

"This is offered to you as a token of the impact that nuclear energy is starting to have on the state as we accelerate into the nuclear age and do indeed become the nuclear progress state. It is with great pride and pleasure, sir, that I would like to present this gavel to you on this basis. This is the nuclear gavel, a soft wood which is now a hard wood and the base with all of the Washington products in it."

The President:

"Mr. Koch and members of the Senate:

"I appreciate this very interesting gift. After listening to the remarks as to what is included, I am truly amazed. Certainly it is a symbol of all the good things or at least most of the good things in our state. I would like to invite everyone in the Senate at a later time to visit the Lieutenant Governor's office to view this splendid gift. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President:

"When I listened to Mr. Koch's remarks just a moment ago, I couldn't help but recollect the fine visit that was extended to the entire legislature at Hanford a year or so ago. It was probably the most interesting trip of which I can think outside of a trip to outer space. It is so interesting to have an explanation as to what this project really is doing and what the project means to the future of this country, particularly the steam that you are capturing at Hanford and diverting to the turbines and when you told us that those two turbines generate half the amount of electricity of Grand Coulee Dam, it was really astounding. We are really proud to have this industry in the state of Washington and I am sure we are the envy of every other state in the Union. We are certainly looking to all of you to really bring attention to this part of the country. We are very curious and hope that maybe we might have another visit some time."

The President:

"Thank you, Senator Kupka.

"Members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen, Senator McCormack has a great deal of background and experience in this nuclear program and certainly at this time it seems quite appropriate that we should hear from Senator McCormack."

Senator McCormack:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I won't take but a minute. There are only two things I want to say. This gavel really is symbolic of a very dynamic new industry coming into this state. It is coming in quickly and it is going to have a very tremendous impact. For instance, I wonder, Governor, if you would mind bringing that gavel to me. When this gavel was made, it was machined as soft wood, either fir or hemlock. Now everything has been irradiated. It was impregnated with resin and irradiated and it is now a completely hard wood. This now puts Washington State and all of the soft wood industry in Washington State into the competition for all hardwood products made in the United States. They can be formed soft and turned into hardwood after they are milled and formed. This is typical of one of the industries coming into the state.

"Another industry is the industry of food irradiation. By this fall we will have a mobile food irradiator in the state of Washington provided by the Atomic Energy Commission. It will be traveling about the state doing demonstrations and experimentations in the irradiation of all kinds of agricultural and food products; and as soon as these are released for human consumption, a new industry is going to spring up in the state.

"A great deal of this is due to the work and efforts of Don Koch who has been working here and I know you have all met him. I know you have all heard him talk and know how dynamic he is. I could read many accolades that have been given to him. The Atomic Energy Commission recently pointed out that Washington State is leading every other state in nuclear energy and this accolade by the Atomic Energy Commission stated specifically that much of this was the result of the work of one man, Don Koch.

"The other day the director of Nuclear Energy in the state of Idaho stated, 'We must set our star according to the standards set by Washington State. They are the leader. If we are wise, we will follow them.'

"These are some of the things I wanted to bring to your attention: This new, budding industry in this field and the leadership of it."

The committee of honor escorted Mr. Koch from the rostrum to a place of honor in the Senate Chamber.

The Secretary read:

SENATE RESOLUTION

1967 - 19

By Senators McCormack, Bailey, Canfield, Neill, Ryder, Greive and Henry:

Whereas, Nuclear science and technology have advanced, producing new demands on federal and state governmental units to promote orderly development of new resources within a framework assuring maximum protection of public health and safety; and

Whereas, The federal government has pursued a program for several years encouraging state and regional participation and responsibility with regard to nuclear development, licensing and regulation; and

Whereas, Effective and timely response by state action to responsibilities imposed by the nuclear age requires coordinated action, a willingness and ability to share information and ideas, and a governmental structure enabling unified action by the states involved; and

Whereas, Other regions of the nation have already found that those needs and responsibilities may be best met and discharged through creation and operation of an interstate board or commission functioning in unison by compact; and

Whereas, The Western Governors' Conference has by unanimous resolution created a committee on western interstate nuclear cooperation; and

Whereas, The committee on western interstate nuclear cooperation has studied, met, and declared;

(1) Time is of the essence.

(2) It is in the best interests of the western states and its business community to accelerate the nuclear industry in the western states by the formation of a formal organization dedicated to advancing programs, projects, and activities which individual state programs could not expect to produce. And further, that interim arrangement be made whereby western interstate nuclear cooperation could be made effective immediately until such time as formal compact agreements are reached.

(3) The goal of western interstate nuclear cooperation is the maximum utilization of human and technological resources to catalyze the western region's vast potential for the peaceful application of nuclear energy for economic development.

(4) A formal western interstate nuclear compact, recognized and supported by the federal government is the preferable vehicle for interstate nuclear cooperation.

(5) The two major objectives which can best be achieved through a formal western interstate nuclear compact, and are of sufficient importance to justify the formation of such a compact, are:

(a) To provide a unified governmental voice at the federal level which has federal recognition and support.

(b) To provide a vehicle through which uniform state regulation pertaining to interstate commerce in the nuclear field may be handled.

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved (1) That the Senate hereby declares its position as favoring a continuing study of western interstate nuclear cooperation leading to the maximum utilization of human and technological resources for the peaceful application of nuclear energy; and

(2) That recognizing that the legislative process among the several states is not concurrent enjoins the governor to cooperate in western interstate nuclear cooperation arrangements until enactment of state and federal legislation; and

(3) That the question of western interstate nuclear cooperation be referred to the most appropriate legislative interim committee for study and that this committee be authorized to cooperate with the various interested groups and make a report and recommendations to the 1969 Washington legislature.

On motion of Senator McCormack, the resolution was adopted.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed a special committee consisting of Senators Kupka and Faulk to escort Senator Knoblauch to the rostrum.

With leave of the Senate, business was suspended to permit Senator Knoblauch to present a large bouquet of wine rhubarb to the President and to address the Senate.

SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

The time having arrived, the Senate resumed consideration of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 181 on third reading.

Engrossed Senate Bill No. 181, by Senators Peterson (Ted), Talley, Knoblauch and Mardesich:

Amending the electrical installations law.

On motion of Senator Peterson (Ted), the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 181 was returned to second reading and read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Metcalf, the following amendment was adopted:

Beginning on page 2, section 2, line 33, strike the underlined material through "equipment," on page 3, line 1.

On motion of Senator Peterson (Ted), the following amendment was adopted:

On page 5, section 3, line 24, after "duties" strike "or" and insert "[or]" and on line 25 after "of" insert "new construction or altered"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, would Senator Peterson yield to a question:

"Senator Peterson, Senator Henry during the debate on the bill the other day had some objections arising out of his public utilities districts in connection with the installation of poles and lights in the more remote counties. Do the amendments you have offered take care of Senator Henry's problem?"

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"Mr. President:

"In answer to Senator Hallauer's question, yes, Senator Henry was satisfied. There was some question as to whether a public utility could go into the area of setting a pole on a playfield. He received a letter, and I believe every member of the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules received the same letter. Mr. Billington has contacted Senator Henry and he has received a letter telling him that it is necessary to have an extension of 150 feet for lighting on any property such as a farm for night light. Senator Henry was satisfied and this cleared the PUD's on this matter."

On motion of Senator Peterson (Ted), the rules were suspended, Reengrossed Senate Bill No. 181 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Canfield:

"Mr. President, would Senator Peterson yield to a question:

"Senator Peterson, you were courteous in granting the request made for these amendments which were attached just a moment ago and I do appreciate that. I wanted to call your attention to this letter from the Benton County PUD opposing the basis of the rate increase which they claimed was not justified and I wonder if you would care to comment on that and whether or not that difference of opinion has been removed."

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"Yes, I explained that originally in my comments on the bill. With the population explosion and the additional building that is going on, particularly in multiple unit dwellings as well as building in general and the large buildings, it has been necessary to add additional inspectors and the one thing that is difficult now for them to meet in their budget is the fact that we allowed a twelve to seventeen percent salary increase and this increase will take care of that matter, Senator."

Debate ensued.

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, would Senator Peterson further yield:

"Senator Peterson, we do have existing ground crews of various utility companies, public and private. I am not worried about PUD's, but we have private power companies. Now would the crews that have, up to the present time, been making these installations where they will go into a farmer's place and hook on to his water pump or his irrigation pump or one of these lights like you mentioned at 150 feet, in the event that it takes more than 150 feet to get to the particular farm installation, for example a water pump—is there anything in this bill that the crews that have been doing this for lo these many years must now suddenly get this additional electrical license to keep doing what they have always been doing?"

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"Senator Woodall, I would say there is no change in that whatsoever. The 150 feet we speak of was as far as you can spread an adequate string of wires from one pole to another. They can't go beyond that. What you do beyond that, yourself, is not included in the bill. You can do anything you want. There is no change."

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Reengrossed Senate Bill No. 181, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 35; nays, 10; excused, 4.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Bailey, Connor, Cooney, Doré, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lewis, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington—35.

Those voting nay were: Senators Atwood, Canfield, Chytil, Donohue, Hallauer, Lennart, McCormack, McMillan, Redmon, Woodall—10.

Excused: Senators Durkan, McCutcheon, Stender, Williams—4.

Reengrossed Senate Bill No. 181, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

Senate Bill No. 94, by Senators Mardesich, Peterson (Ted) and Rasmussen:

Requiring state licenses for plumbers.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 94 on second reading and the committee amendments to page 11.

It was moved by Senator Peterson (Ted) that the committee amendments to page 11 be adopted.

On motion of Senator Uhlman, the following amendment to the committee amendment was adopted:

On line 3 of the committee amendment to page 11, new section 28, strike "thirty-five" and insert "twenty-five"

On motion of Senator Peterson (Ted), the committee amendment as amended was adopted.

On motion of Senator Lewis, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 1, section 2, line 9, after "person" strike "who is indentured by the state apprenticeship council to learn" and insert "learning", and on line 11 after "and" insert "/or"

It was moved by Senator Kupka that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 5, section 9, line 22, after "council" and before the period insert: "Provided, That the applicant, upon submission of competent proof that he has completed the requirements for an associate degree from a community college (in mechanical trades), shall be given priority in assignment and processing"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Atwood:

"Mr. President, would Senator Kupka yield:

"I assume this amendment is exclusive only to junior colleges. It would have no effect on those people who graduated from vocational-technical schools?"

Senator Kupka:

"No, it would not have any effect on any other school. It is applied only to junior colleges so the student would get credit for time which went into their field of study or even practice of it."

Senator Atwood:

"Why would it not apply to a graduate of a vocational-technical school? Why wouldn't a graduate of a vocational-technical school get as much credit as a junior college student?"

Senator Kupka:

"I think they do. They do get credit for time and we wanted to make sure the students who are in junior colleges, who are going to attempt to pattern their vocational training after the vocational schools, have an equal chance to get credit for their time within the time that is required to become a journeyman in their field."

Debate ensued.

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, may I ask one more reading of this amendment?"

The amendment was read by the Secretary.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, would Senator Guess yield:

"Senator Guess, as I now read this amendment, it seems to me you are exalting a junior college graduate over a graduate of a recognized trade school. This is the way it reads to me. Now I cannot see on what premise you exalt someone who went to a junior college over someone who went to a recognized trade school."

Senator Guess:

"Senator Woodall, if it would help, we can send to the Secretary of the Senate an amendment to the amendment which would apply to graduates of vocational schools. Of course the community colleges and junior colleges are something new and it was not clear during the hearings whether or not these students were getting the processing they should have, so we felt this should be put in there."

Debate ensued.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

House of Representatives,
Olympia, Wash., February 20, 1967.

Mr. President:

The House has adopted: Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 9, and the same is herewith transmitted. Malcolm McBeath, Chief Clerk.

SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT

The President signed: Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 9.

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

The President Pro Tempore called the Senate to order at 10:50 a.m.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, a matter of personal privilege:

"On February second I presented to the Senate, along with Senators Bailey and Guess, a resolution requesting the investigation of a number of strange proceedings by the Washington State Horse Racing Commission and by the horse track operators whom this commission is supposed to regulate. The allegations included connivance between the Commission and the track operators at an expense of $125,000 annually to the state, payroll padding and conflict of interest on the part of state employees.

"The Senate chose to amend the resolution to substitute investigation of this distressing set of facts by changing the proposed select committee of three senators to be chosen by the President to the requirement that this matter be investigated by the Legislative Budget Committee. There were promises given on this floor of prompt and decisive action by members of that committee.

"It has now been nineteen days since the Senate approved this resolution calling for this investigation by the Legislative Budget Committee, with a report to be rendered by the fifty-seventh day of the session. Only thirteen days of the original thirty-two remain. Now let's take a look at where this subject now stands:

"I have talked with Chairman Backstrom of the Legislative Budget Committee at least ten times to urge action and I have also talked to Senator Neill at least as many times for the same purpose. Action has always been promised and I have been told to be patient and I have been told that special counsel must be retained and care must be taken to make certain that such counsel is completely free of any connection with horse racing or gambling or with individuals who desire to bring competitive greyhound racing to this state.

"Gentlemen, these are the very points that I raised with the Legislative Budget Committee myself on February third, the day following the passage of the Senate resolution. It was obvious from the beginning that the busy staff of the Legislative Budget Committee was otherwise occupied and it would be difficult for them to find time to devote to this enterprise. The only way to have established an orderly and productive investigation was necessarily by appointment of honest, effective counsel to review the mass of evidence, financial reports and other testimony and data and then to submit to the budget committee a precise plan for a public hearing whereby the maximum of information could be obtained by the committee for its dedicated aim of improvement of law and the processes of state government. Up to this point I have been deeply disappointed with my colleagues of the legislature who are on the budget committee. I really expected better of them. The many assurances I had from them are beginning to have quite a hollow ring when so much of the allotted time has gone by with very little done. To me the slow smothering by kindness of a Senate inquiry into the horse racing operations of the state exhibits once again the political power of those who are connected with this business. The curious inability of a committee of the legislature to devote itself to a simple Senate resolution on the investigation of horse racing activities tends to confirm the attitudes of those who would place the legislature, itself, under suspicion. I also ask at this time on the public record that the scope of this inquiry be broadened to investigate the possible obligations to the horse tracks on the part of individual legislators. It is rumored that such obligations do exist.

"I had intended to make this statement even stronger. However, at long last yesterday Chairman Backstrom of the Legislative Budget Committee advised me of some degree of belated action. Richard Johnson, an attorney from Everett, has been retained and is to report today for duty. He has quite a job facing him in the next thirteen days to study the scope of the inquiry and subpoena witnesses. Perhaps it is best now to state my reservations about this particular appointment. Everyone knows that this is a politically sensitive issue. Mr. Johnson has been said to have been one of the 1964 Evans' campaign managers for Snohomish county. He is reputed as having had a falling out with the state administration.

"The sponsors of this resolution intended the inquiry to be a non-political one. This leaves a very muddled situation right now when there should be clarity of purpose. We need full investigation without political overtones, without whitewashing and without any trace of political enmity. I urge that the Legislative Budget Committee immediately review the qualifications of its retained counsel. If these truly are satisfactory then action should be had at once. The people of the state of Washington have a right to see the truth unshielded by any legislative curtain."

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President:

"I can very readily join with Senator Hallauer in his remonstrance as to the somewhat dilatory tactics of the chairman of the Legislative Budget Committee and I am very unhappy about this myself. As to his remarks concerning any political overtones, this was the very purpose why I stood on the floor of this Senate and asked that the Legislative Budget Committee be given the task of taking on this investigation because of its extremely equal bi-partisan nature and I stand ready to stand behind the Budget Committee that this will be conducted in that manner.

"Now we have held either three or four meetings of the committee to lay ground rules and get into this investigation. It is most regrettable that our chairman saw fit not to include and invite Senator Hallauer to our last and most productive meeting of the committee. This was done despite our instructions to the committee to the contrary, and for this I apologize to Senator Hallauer.

"We will get the job done. Time is running short but if it appears at any time that the Legislative Budget Committee of which I happen to be the Vice Chairman is not able to handle the job, I am going to be the first one to come back on the floor of this Senate and ask the committee to be relieved of its responsibility and I will join in with Senator Hallauer in his original resolution.

"I apologize to the Senator for not having been notified of the one meeting where we did have the members of the Racing Commission in before us and dug into many of these factors but I assure you, Senator, the committee is going to get this job done."

SECOND READING OF BILLS

Senate Bill No. 94, by Senators Mardesich, Peterson (Ted) and Rasmussen:
Requiring state licenses for plumbers.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 94 on second reading and the amendment proposed by Senator Kupka.

With the consent of the Senate, Senator Kupka was permitted to withdraw the amendment.

On motion of Senator Woodall, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 10, section 23, line 29, after "residence" strike all the material down to and including "Further" on line 31 and insert "or farm: Provided, however"

On motion of Senator Hallauer, the following amendment was adopted:

Beginning on page 11, strike all of section 30 and renumber the remaining sections consecutively.

On motion of Senator Guess, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 5, section 9, line 22, after "council" and before the period insert " : Provided, That the applicant, upon submission of competent proof that he has graduated from an accredited vocational technical trade school or that he has completed the requirements for an associate degree from a community college (in mechanical trades), shall be given priority in processing and assignment"

On motion of Senator Peterson (Ted), the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 94 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, will Senator Peterson (Ted) yield:

"Senator, if I read this bill correctly, should a man want to become a plumber, unless some man who is now a plumber will let him work with him, this man—regardless of how much training he has—can never get a job as a plumber. Do you read the bill that way?"

Senator Peterson (Ted):

"This is not true, Senator. I believe that is why Senator Guess put his amendment in the bill because they can come in various ways before the apprenticeship council. They can go through actual training with a plumber, an individual plumber, a journeyman plumber or a master plumber. They can come through the criteria of the community college. They can come through vocational training, as long as they can meet the requirement on the apprenticeship training and before the council there is no problem at all, Senator."

Debate ensued.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege:

"I would like to state that Senators Gissberg, Lowell Peterson, Rasmussen and several others who were absent on the last vote are with the State Capitol Committee meeting with the Governor at this time on a bill that is pending before the legislature and I want the record to show the reason they are absent on the last roll call. There are several others and I really don't have the full list, but I wanted the record to show that the members of the Natural Resources Committee are meeting with the State Capitol Committee at this time."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Guess:

"Mr. President, would Senator Ryder yield to a question:

"Senator Ryder, can you tell us the total impact or cost of doubling this feature?"

Senator Ryder:

"No, Senator Guess, I have not checked that out, but it is considerably less than the way the bill now reads which takes the limit off entirely."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Ryder, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 2, section 2, line 9, after "dependents" insert "whenever funds shall be available for that purpose, the regents, trustees or board of directors of any of the state's educational institutions or school districts may contribute toward the cost of such life, health and accident insurance, including hospitalization and medical aid for the employees of their respective institutions or school districts in an amount not to exceed fifty percent of the premiums therefor, or ten dollars per month per employee covered, whichever is the lesser" and on line 9, after "dependents." strike all the material down to and including "district." on line 10 and insert "[The premiums due on such liability insurance shall be borne by the university, college or school district.]"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, would Senator McCormack yield:

"Senator McCormack, do you have other amendments to this bill?"

Senator McCormack:

"Yes."

Senator Gissberg:

"How many amendments do you have?"

Senator McCormack:

"I have a total of five amendments on the bill."

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Gissberg that Senate Bill No. 275 be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Debate ensued.

It was moved by Senator Foley that the motion by Senator Gissberg be laid upon the table.

The motion was carried on a rising vote and the motion by Senator Gissberg was laid upon the table.

The President Pro Tempore declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment by Senator McCormack.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator McCormack, the following amendments were adopted:

On page 6, section 14, beginning on line 25, strike all of subsection (2) and renumber the remaining subsection consecutively.

On page 6, section 14, line 32, strike "section" and insert "Act"

On motion of Senator Atwood, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 7, section 17, line 12, after "located" strike all the material down to and including "location" on line 14 and insert "wherever within the county in the judgment of the county auditor"

On motion of Senator McCormack, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 11, beginning on line 29, strike all of the material down to and including "act." on page 12, line 3.

It was moved by Senator Gissberg that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 4, section 9, line 16 after "unless it" strike remainder of section 9 and insert "fulfills the requirements of subsections (1) to (9), inclusive, and subsection (14) of RCW 29.33.090."

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, would Senator Gissberg yield to a question:

"Senator Gissberg, does this amendment put this requirement in, in addition to the requirements which are in the bill now so far as secrecy and this sort of thing is concerned, or does it strike these and put in the present law?"

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, Senator Ryder:

"I wish I could specifically answer that, Senator Ryder, but I cannot, I would believe however that the entire section is stricken and substituted for it is the requirement that the device must fulfill the requirement of subsections (1) to (9) and subsection (14) of one of our existing statutes and I wish that I could give you a specific answer but I don't know in the absence of having the code before me. In other words, I do not know whether subsections (1) to (9) and subsection (14) of the existing statute incorporates all of these plus the two things that I mentioned. It may be you would want to hold this on the calendar so we can make that determination, Senator, but I cannot honestly answer you. I believe that it would incorporate everything that is now here in addition making certain that the other two, the other portions of the existing code are incorporated in the law so that there is a provision with respect to over-voting and retention of the party rows or columns on the little sheet that you punch."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, one further question:

"This amendment does not put back into the law the straight party voting?"

Senator Gissberg:

"No, it simply puts back into this bill the existing requirements of the law and of course we don't have that in the existing law, Senator."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Gissberg yield:

"I think you cleared it up with the answer to Senator Ryder. This does not do away with the blanket primary then?"

Senator Gissberg:

"No."

Senator Rasmussen:

"You are just striking the new section out of this law and the old law still stands?"

Senator Gissberg:

"Yes."

Senator Atwood:

"Mr. President, would Senator Gissberg yield:

"Senator Gissberg, you are substituting one additional requirement in the statute which is the requirement of subsection (9) RCW 29.33.090, 'It shall correctly register or record all votes cast for any and all persons and for or against any and all measures.'

"You cannot do that on cards. Is that the intent of the amendment?"

Senator Gissberg:

"You mean the cards will not register or record when you punch the hole—of course that should record whether you are for or against the matter, should it not?"

Senator Atwood:

"That's right, but the machine carries the total all the time and of course you are voting on separate cards. Each voter votes on a card. You wouldn't have the total until it was run through the computer."

Debate ensued.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Gissberg that Senate Bill No. 275 be ordered to retain its place on the second reading calendar for tomorrow:

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lewis, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington, Williams, Woodall—44.

NOTICE OF RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Senator Guess served notice that he would on the next working day move to reconsider the vote by which Substitute Senate Bill No. 42 passed the Senate.

Senate Bill No. 76, by Senators Uhlman, Neill, Hanna, Andersen and Foley:

Enacting a model nonprofit corporation code.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 76 on second reading.

On motion of Senator Uhlman, the committee amendment to page 49, line 31 was adopted.

On motion of Senator Uhlman, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 7, section 11, line 33, after "fice." add "The resident agent and registered office shall be designated by duly adopted resolution of the board of directors; and a verified statement of such designation, executed by the president or a vice president of the corporation, together with a copy of the board of directors' designating resolution certified as true by the secretary of the corporation, shall be filed with the secretary of state."

It was moved by Senator Uhlman that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 46, section 87, line 33, after "act." add "The provisions of this section shall not apply to a domestic or foreign corporation which, by declaration, order or ruling of the Internal Revenue Service of the United States government is exempt from the obligation to file income tax return."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President, would Senator Uhlman yield to a question:

"Senator, is this limited only to those corporations organized under the laws of the state of Washington?"

Senator Uhlman:

"Yes, nonprofit corporations organized under the laws of the state of Washington also file of course as nonprofit corporations and as such are subjected to fairly major disclosure on the part of the federal government under the internal revenue service regulations."

Senator Dore:

"Senator, the point I am getting at is a number of religious organizations such as the Sisters of Jesus and Mary, I think they are organized in Oregon. They are an Oregon corporation and they had houses up here in Washington. You are not exempting them out of the act as I understand."

Senator Uhlman:

"They are not exempt from the disclosure portions. Senator McCutcheon has an amendment which he is going to propose which I do not feel is a good one, and he will be attempting to exempt them from the disclosure portions. I don't agree. I think they and all other organizations should file a return. It would not be onerous to file a return. All my amendment does is simply aim at the interrogatories in section 87."

Senator Dore:

"What purpose would they have in filing a return? What benefit would that possibly be? It is an extra burden on them to file with the Secretary of State. What is your purpose? What evil are you trying to correct?"

Senator Uhlman:

"I wouldn't state them in terms of evils. I would state them in terms of attempting to determine how legitimate corporations are. There have been corporations which may call themselves by the grandest name possible. I suspect they might even steal the Good Sisters' name on occasion or something sounding very close to it, unless we ask these organizations to file. Now I am suggesting that if they have had the exemption under the internal revenue service regulations and haven't filed there, that they need not be subjected to the harrassment, if they can be called that, of interrogatories. But I believe very firmly all should file."

Senator Andersen:

"Mr. President, will Senator Uhlman yield to a question:

"Senator Uhlman, would you explain again just briefly so the matter can be clear to all of us including the sponsors exactly what people does this exemption exempt?"

Senator Uhlman:

"Senator, if you will turn to Section 87, you will notice that it deals only with propounding interrogatories by the Secretary of State. This simply exempts the corporation, domestic or foreign, which by declaration, order or ruling of the internal revenue service of the United States government is exempt from obligation to file income tax return. There is nothing further than that."

Senator Andersen:

"I understand that, Senator Uhlman, but I mean who are we talking about? What corporations would this be? I am not asking for a legal definition of corporations. What specific kind of corporation is being exempted? Are these churches, hospitals, what exactly are they?"

Senator Uhlman:

"Just nonprofit corporations. Is your question, Senator, what corporations come within the internal revenue service exemption? It is my understanding that it is those corporations which have convinced the federal government that they are truly eleemosynary corporations and truly nonprofit corporations."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

It was moved by Senator McCutcheon that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 43, section 80, line 10, after "state," and before "shall" insert "except a domestic or foreign corporation which by declaration, order or ruling of the internal revenue service of the United States government is exempt from the obligation to file income tax return,"

Debate ensued.

Senator Greive demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Kupka, Washington, Cooney, Dore, Connor, McMillan, McCutcheon, Metcalf, Uhlman, and Keefe.

The Secretary called the roll. The motion was lost and the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 19; nays, 28; absent or not voting, 1; excused, 1.

Absent or not voting: Senator Morgan—1.

Excused: Senator Stender—1.

On motion of Senator McCutcheon, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 50, section 100, line 16, after "parts of acts" insert ", except in so far as may be applicable to the rights, powers and duties of persons and corporations not subject to the provisions of this act."

MOTIONS

It was moved by Senator Durkan that consideration of Senate Bill No. 76 be indefinitely postponed.

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Uhlman, the motion to indefinitely postpone Senate Bill No. 76 was made a special order of business immediately following consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 79.

"Senator Williams, I thought there was an agreement there would be a different amendment on line 27. This is a new one to me."

Senator Williams:

"Senator Canfield, the draftsman said this is the place the amendment should go."

Senator Canfield:

"I think that is a substantial change over the agreed upon amendment which was cost of production."

Senator Williams:

"The draftsman said this is correct. This is the same language as the processor."

Debate ensued.

Senator Uhlman:

"Mr. President, would Senator Williams yield:

"Senator Williams, I haven't heard much said about the consumer on this amendment. If we guarantee a reasonable return on capital investment to the dairy farmer and we guarantee a reasonable return on capital to the producer or middle man, then I have two questions: Have any other states taken this attack and second what is going to happen to the milk price if we guarantee everybody a reasonable return irrespective of market conditions all the way up the line?"

Senator Williams:

"My answer to those questions is simply this concern about consumer doesn't seem to be the concern of this bill. I am saying if we are going to pass the bill, we might at least be equitable and give the dairy farmer the same break we give the processor."

Debate ensued.

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, would Senator Williams yield:

"Senator Williams, is it your position that the bill as now written gives no guarantee of a minimum price to the man who actually milks the cows?"

Senator Williams:

"The bill as now written does set a minimum price for dairy farmers also, but in listing the factors to be considered, it did not list the matter of return on investment which is listed as factors to be considered in setting the price for processors."

Senator Woodall:

"So your amendment then would give to the farmer the same element in computing a fair price that the processor uses when he determines when he is getting a fair price?"

Senator Williams:

"Yes."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Williams that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 18, subsection (2), line 17, after "bution," strike "and reasonable return on necessary capital investment,"

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Talley, the amendment was laid upon the table.

The Secretary read the following amendment by Senator Williams:

On page 18, subsection (2), line 18, after "representative" insert "producers,"

There being no objection, Senator Williams was permitted to withdraw the amendment.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, I have a parliamentary inquiry:

"I have a request from my secretary to advise her what to do about our three o'clock meeting of the Committee on Labor and Social Security. Could I be informed how long we are going to be in session today, or shall I instruct the state employees to go home or stay on overtime waiting to testify? We have other visitors at the committee meeting, also."

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President, would Senator Rasmussen yield:

"How many amendments do you have on the desk, Senator Rasmussen?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"That is confidential information, Senator."

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President, we are going to see this through and get this bill over with and either vote it up or down. I think we have to take care of the action on the floor. We had planned to have committee meetings, but the action on the floor, I feel, takes priority today."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Rasmussen, it is practically impossible for the President to answer your question at this time."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, could I then announce that the Committee on Labor and Social Security meeting for today is cancelled?"

The President:

"You have my permission."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Thank you. It's cancelled!"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGES

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, personal privilege:

"Senator Greive is off the floor but I have intended to make a protest some time when he was on the floor and I hope that he comes before I finish speaking.

"We have had a very lax running of the Senate the last week or so in which there has been delay after delay after delay which has been avoidable. We have waited here for an hour for Senator Hallauer a few minutes ago when we are under Call of the Senate. This could have been ascertained before the Call was put on that Senator Hallauer was not available and he could have been excused. But this was not done. We have been very lax and very dilatory in the way things have been run here on the Senate floor. I am not pointing the finger at any one person particularly, but it seems to me that the leaders on the majority side could tighten up the efficiency of our floor operations so that we get some of these things done. On Friday night we had the same problem when a couple of Senators were absent when the Call was put on. It could easily have been ascertained before the Call was put on that the Senators were absent and they could have been excused. It seems to me in many areas we have been unduly and unnecessarily delayed in the consideration of these bills. Again, Mr. President, I would like to register a protest. We have tried to run a tight ship on this side and tried to keep track of our Senators when a Call was put on or there were things where it was necessary to have them on the floor. At least we knew that they were not available so that we could excuse them or we knew where we could find them. Now I am not pointing the finger at any particular Senators. Perhaps they should keep a little closer contact with the leaders and let them know where they are. Nevertheless it is still up to the leaders to check before this sort of thing happens and I think we can save a lot of time and we can get on with the business of the house much more expeditiously if a little more attention is paid to what is going on on the floor."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"Politics being what it is, I certainly would expect that some fine day toward the end of the session when the television cameras are in full swing and the gallery press is present that Senator Ryder would make such an attack. It is to be expected. I don't think there is anything very unusual about it. It happens every session and every session you have to explain rather patiently something which I am sure the good Senator is very much aware of:

"One, committees have to meet. If we don't permit our committees to function, we will have ill-considered bills and we will have a great many problems. I don't know how many bills have lost on the floor of the Senate. If I recollect correctly, we haven't lost a bill yet on the floor of the Senate of the state of Washington. Maybe one or two have slipped by but my recollection is there have been few if any. Obviously once a bill gets to the floor, it has an excellent chance of passage. In many instances that is perfunctory.

"The real service and the real job that is done is accomplished in the sorting and screening process which is one of the committee functions, not one of floor action. As a result we have taken a position that it was absolutely necessary that we permit the committees to function. To choke the committees is but to give us ill-considered legislation and we would be doing committee work on the floor of the Senate.

"Now as far as the Senators not being on the floor, true, some of the Senators have been off the floor and I make no apology for them. They will have to shoulder the burden themselves, although I recall Friday evening we attempted to speed up the processes. We attempted to somehow keep going and it was the Republicans that would not suspend the rules and would not let us go ahead, even though the vote was not crucial. They said they wanted to teach the particular Senator under the circumstances a lesson. Maybe I have the wrong man, but if I recall, Senator Ryder made that statement. Certainly it was from the Republican side.

"It certainly seems to me like one hundred percent politics is being played. I can also remember just as many requests of Senator Bailey and myself for delays. Even this evening I understand we can't have an evening session because a Republican member requested the use of this particular auditorium—and that is what it is going to be tonight—so some local folks can hear a choir sing. But this particular Republican felt that it was necessary and he had already requested this as a stadium so we would have to forego the necessity of having a night session since we had given a prior commitment.

"All I can say is this is a two way street as to delays. These are not delays caused by Democrats. These are delays caused by individual Senators. If we are guilty, I think the Republicans are also guilty. I think it is about time we did speed things up. We are doing our level best and I don't think this is the place or time for accusations when your hands aren't clean either."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, speaking on personal privilege:

"After inquiring I did call my secretary and asked her to cancel the meeting. We did have the room full of people. Some of them have come from long distances to testify on bills that they were notified were going to be on our list. I do wish—and I am not saying anything about the argument going on here between Senator Ryder and Senator Greive—that there was some way when we have scheduled our committee meetings and people have come from long distances that the Senate would chop off for committee meetings and come back and work all night if necessary.

"We are inconveniencing a lot of people that put themselves out to make a personal effort and come here to give us their views on bills. That is my only argument, that we should establish a definite cutoff time. This bill, as far as I am concerned and I know the majority of the members of the Senate are concerned, could be worked on all night and all day some other time when we do not have committee meetings scheduled. I have apologized to those people through my secretary for the inconvenience we have caused them. But it means a lot to them. It may mean nothing to us. I do wish we could establish a firm schedule for committees."

Senator McMillan:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege:

"I have an apology to make to the body here. It was myself that caused this trouble Friday night here. I see that it is reacting unfavorably to Senator Greive. I am very sorry for that. I want to assure you that absolutely no blame should be attached to the Senator. The blame should be attached squarely where it belongs and that is strictly on my shoulders."

Senator Guess:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"The Eastern Washington State Collegians are coming to Olympia. This was an invitation that I issued in October at the time that they sang for the Chamber of Commerce in Spokane. The Chamber of Commerce members are here in the north gallery, fifty strong, and they are looking forward to hearing the Collegians, but I am sure we could listen to them in the rotunda just as easily as we could in the Senate Chamber if it would please Senator Greive and we would be happy to change the arrangements and make the adjustment to the singing in the rotunda."

(Applause.)

The President:

"Gentlemen, the rules of the Senate do not provide for applause from the galleries. The President will have to ask you to remain quiet and conduct yourselves in an orderly manner. If there are any more demonstrations, the Sergeant at Arms will be requested to clear the galleries."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"Senator Bailey and I have conferred and there will be a night meeting tonight."

Senator Woodall:

"Now that we have the choir in the rotunda, Senator Greive is finally singing the right tune in the right key."

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President, gentlemen of the Senate:

"I have been criticized. I want to speak on personal privilege. Some of us have been criticized because our committee work doesn't move as fast as some people would like it to move. I think a great deal of committee work has been going on here this afternoon with all of these amendments from the other side of the aisle. I for one resent it. I have had to cancel two or three committee meetings this afternoon."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to tell Senator Woodall once I got the craw out of my throat I could sing."

Senator Mardesich:

"Very definitely the answer to that is 'yes.' If you want some elaboration I can give it to you, but there was agreement. As a matter of fact the substitute bill is the result of the work done by the attorneys for both sides who did appear before the committee and so state that the utilities generally had no objection to the bill. On motion of Senator Freise, the following amendment to the committee amendment was adopted:

On page 1, line 12 of the committee amendment to line 17, after "address," and before "return" insert "by certified mail,"

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the committee amendment to page 1 as amended.

The motion was carried and the amendment as amended was adopted.

On motion of Senator Uhlman, the committee amendment to page 2 was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Hallauer that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, after section 1, insert a new section to read as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. No lien shall attach against a motor vehicle picked up without the owner's knowledge or consent until the registered owner shall first have been notified by registered mail by the towing or wrecking company where he may obtain his motor vehicle and what charges are due and owing for moving and storage of his motor vehicle." Renumber the remaining sections consecutively.

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President, would Senator Hallauer yield to a question:

"Senator Hallauer, some of us have hoped that this bill would correct the situation where for instance in Cowlitz county I believe there were something like sixty or more abandoned vehicles last year that presented quite an eyesore to the general public. The service station operators are asked to pick them up and bring them in and put them on their lots by the authorities and yet there is no way to dispose of these particular vehicles. If your amendment prevails, we would have to notify this party who abandoned it. Now what is the status of the bill regarding that point?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Senator Henry, the amendment would provide that the bill for the towing charges would apply after the registered mail was sent to the registered owner. It seems to me the individual who is the owner has a right to such notice before his vehicle is summarily taken away from him, just as you in ordering any kind of merchandise expect to know what you bought and how much you paid for it."

Senator Henry:

"As I understand the bill, the twenty days was adopted. As has happened many times, if a party becomes thoroughly disgusted with some old clunker and leaves it along the road, you have no notice of where to find him or anything else. This would prevent sale or wrecking of the vehicle until such time as you could locate the registered owner."

Senator Hallauer:

"Senator Henry, it says here, 'no lien shall attach until notice is given.' This is the problem."

Debate ensued.

It was moved by Senator Freise that the amendment be laid upon the table.

The motion was carried on a rising vote.

On motion of Senator Uhlman, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 184 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, would Senator Washington yield to a question:

"Senator, I know that you haven't been participating in the debate, but isn't it so that last session we passed some sort of regulation with regard to the state patrol marking or ticketing cars on highways when they were standing off the road? Don't they now under our present law tag these cars?"

Senator Washington:

"I'm sorry, Senator. I can't answer that question."

Senator Stender:

"Then I would ask Senator Woodall under the provisions that you talk of where the car is blocking the road, I think that is the extreme thing, but I am wondering in the event the car is setting alongside of the road off the highway, on the shoulder, and the state patrolman came along and put a tag on it, under this bill would there be any time limit or could the patrolman just order a wrecker to haul it away?"

Senator Woodall:

"Senator, the contemplation of the act of course does not extend to the situation of a car that is parked off the highway. Now technically under the bill if the patrolman was utterly stupid, and just wanted to do it, conceivably he could call a wrecker and say that there was a car that had been off the highway for ten minutes and tow it in. I think you certainly would have a cause of action against the highway patrolman who would do such a silly thing, and certainly if the state patrolman abused it and said any car that was off the main portion of the highway that is merely parked out on the side or jacked up waiting for a change of tire or out of gas, I just don't believe that situation that you mention is going to occur. Conceivably it could, if the patrolman said the car had been there for ten minutes and he wanted it towed away. As a practical matter I can't conceive of it happening."

Debate ensued.

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President, would Senator Uhlman or Senator Woodall yield to a question:

"This debate brings to mind that the state patrol has talked to me about some abuses on the part of wrecking operators by having different charges, that they will find a vehicle that has had an accident or is blocking the way and they do need a wrecker and they report some of the charges are reasonable and some are unreasonable. As I recall the patrol has thought of trying to set up a schedule of fees which could be used not only in this case but even in the case where there isn't a lien and try to keep the charges proper. I wonder if this could be held over a day. I am sure the state patrol has some ideas and this might be just the way to help this particular bill out. I am not going to insist, but I am asking the question and will abide by your wishes."

Senator Uhlman:

"Senator Washington, in answer to your question, I would oppose a motion to hold it over. Chief Bachofner appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee in favor of this bill, even though we extended the notice and made it more stringent as far as the operators were concerned. As far as the state patrol and the control of the fees, that is totally within the control of the state patrol to set these fees. In point of fact, I understand that at the present time the patrol is considering providing for contracts with various operators throughout the various jurisdictions. It is entirely within their ability and purview to take care of this and really it is an irrelevant question to this bill and this problem. The state patrol wants this bill and they are for it and they can go ahead and grant contracts and control the prices however they want to."

Debate ensued.

Senators Keefe, Knoblauch and Freise demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 184 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 34; nays, 13; excused, 2.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Connor, Cooney, Dore, Durkan, Faulk, Freise, Gissberg, Guess, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Lewis, McCutcheon, McMillan, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Redmon, Ryder, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington, Williams, Woodall—34.

Those voting nay were: Senators Chytil, Donohue, Foley, Hallauer, Hanna, Kupka, Lennart, McCormack, Mardesich, Neill, Rasmussen, Sandison, Stender—13.

Excused: Senators Greive, Ridder—2.

Engrossed Senate Bill No. 184, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

Senate Bill No. 275, by Senators McCormack, Ryder, Foley, Gissberg, Peterson (Lowell), Chytil and Washington (by Departmental request):

Providing for electronic voting and vote counting machines.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 275 on second reading, and the amendment proposed by Senator Gissberg.

With leave of the Senate, Senator Gissberg was permitted to withdraw his amendment.

It was moved by Senator McCormack that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 4, section 9, line 31, following subsection (6) add a new subsection as follows:

"(7) Voting devices shall be so prepared for use to provide party column voting in separate party columns at partisan general elections."

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President, would Senator McCormack yield:

"Senator McCormack, does this have anything to do with blanket primaries? Did you repeal it or change it in any way?"

Senator McCormack:

"The answer to your question, Senator McCutcheon, is that this legislation has absolutely nothing to do with blanket primaries or straight party voting. It does not affect these laws in any way."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Durkan that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 12, add a new section following section 23 as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 24. It being clearly understood that no state funds will be used to implement the printing of any manual to implement this act other than funds directly appropriated for this purpose."

Debate ensued.

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President, would Senator Durkan yield:

"Senator Durkan, I am a member of the Committee on Ways and Means and I try to attend the meetings. Have we gone through every bit of this budget concerning the Secretary of State's office or have we begun to get started as yet?"

Senator Durkan:

"No, we haven't, Senator Morgan. We still have a lot of work to do on the Secretary of State's budget."

Senator Morgan:

"Senator Durkan, I just had some bills up in my committee and I have no doubt we are going to pursue financial needs for these bills. In other words, we have not considered the Secretary of State's budget as yet."

Senator Durkan:

"Not thoroughly, but the Secretary of State is the innocent victim here today. He isn't the one that has the problem. The problem simply is regardless of how much additional it costs, even if it is two pages, it is going to cost more money to print. That is what I am talking about. There is additional money involved. Now within his budget he may be able to find a little money. That goes against the best policies of fiscal management. If he has any funds left over from appropriated funds for certain things, they should be returned to the general fund and I am sure that you agree with me on that. Now I am talking about anything other than where there is an appropriation involved, there is an amount of money that is going to be needed and all I said yesterday was that we should know how much so we can take care of it. Representations were made on the floor that there weren't going to be any funds needed. I think it is very clear now that there are going to be funds used. Senator Washington has said that unless an appropriation comes out of the Committee on Ways and Means, it is his understanding that the bill will not be implemented and I would think that probably is right."

Debate ensued.

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, would Senator Atwood yield:

"Senator Atwood, the other day we had a bill on judges' retirement. You heard Senator Ryder state that it had no impact in this immediate biennium on the budget and yet you were among those who voted to send it to the Committee on Ways and Means, to explore the possible future impacts. I am wondering on what theory you are now voting against sending this measure to Ways and Means which will have some immediate impact? You are voting no, yet you voted to send to Ways and Means the bill on the judges' retirement."

Senator Atwood:

"Thank you for pointing out my vote. We are not voting on sending bills to Ways and Means. We are voting on an amendment that we do not spend state funds, Senator, and that is the difference."

Debate ensued.

The motion was lost on a rising vote and the amendment was not adopted.

On motion of Senator McCormack, the following amendment was adopted:

In line 17 of the title, after "RCW 29.85.160;" strike "making an appropriation;"

On motion of Senator McCormack, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 275 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 275 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 35; nays, 13; absent or not voting, 1.

On motion of Senator Peterson (Lowell), the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 74 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 74 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 46; nays, 0; absent or not voting, 3.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, Lewis, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington, Williams, Woodall—46.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, would Senator Herrmann yield:

"Senator, it states that it shall be irrevocably pledged. Is there any doubt heretofore that they were not so pledged?"

Senator Herrmann:

"What page are you referring to, Senator?"

Senator Lennart:

"The underlined material on page four, subsection (b) on line 28."

Senator Herrmann:

"I have been assured that there is no substantive change as far as the underscored matter is concerned and I think that is just the regular wording on the situation here. To directly answer your question, Senator, I don't know of any given factual situation that this particular wording is trying to correct."

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 89 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 45; nays, 1; absent or not voting, 3.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herr, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, Lewis, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ryder, Sandison, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Williams, Woodall—45.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Freise, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 113 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talley:

"Mr. President, would Senator Freise yield to a question:

"Senator Freise, the only concern I have on this type of legislation is we may have someone out of our county at home who would normally be committed to Western State Hospital which is closer to home, but if the facility didn't want him there, they could bring him up to Medical Lake Hospital and it would be difficult for the family to take time to visit him and see that he is getting the proper treatment and care. What is your comment on that point?"

Senator Freise:

"Senator Talley, generally speaking the people will still be committed to the hospital nearest their home. But because of the decrease in population, it has been too costly to maintain all of the expert services at all of the hospitals, so in certain areas they may have a specific specialty in Eastern State Hospital that they do not have at Western State Hospital. But generally somebody from your area would still be sent to Western State unless there would be an extreme advantage in having the person go to Eastern State Hospital, and then they would only go there for the time necessary to obtain the specialized treatment. The Director of Institutions certainly recognizes the public relations in this and he doesn't want to aggravate anyone. This has been discussed with him and I really think it will work out to the patients' advantage to go for the necessary time for the specialized treatment."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 113 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 47; nays, 0; absent or not voting, 2.

MEMORIAL TRIBUTE

Representative Veroske

While anticipating this service of love and memory, I found myself wishing that it might follow the pattern set by our Quaker friends. If it did, we would gather quietly with no one person appointed to speak. All would sit in silence, each busy with his own thoughts.

It is not hard to imagine what thoughts would engage our minds in such moments of meditation. In varying sequence, they would run somewhat as follows:

A few at least would think first of the great glad gift of life.

Never do we appreciate life as much as when we linger in memory of those who no longer live with us.

Others, especially those who are older, would dwell on the brevity of life. They would recall that as children the years seemed endlessly long. They are but as yesterday, now they have passed, a little more than "a watch in the night."

This day, this place and the occasion fills us with hallowed memories. It is altogether proper and fitting that a day should be devoted in respectfully remembering the compatriots who have served during the passing of the years and now lay down their burdens. It is indeed worth our while to devote our thoughts for the momentous and weighty life principles of service that they have given to their fellow men. And, as surely as there is a time to sow, there will come a time to gather the harvest. For them, as for us, the life of man like the sun, rises out of darkness in the morning and sinks back into darkness at night. For them, as for us, are the same questions of mortal life and human destinies which prompted the troubled patriarch of old to ask the momentous question for which centuries have sought an answer, if a man dies, shall he live again?

Surely there is an after-life for all who have been loyal and true, a life to which light and peace shall come, where the love, the hope and the fulfillment that escape us here shall be given us, to be ours forever. As Whittier says:

"I only know I cannot drift
Beyond his love and care."

Senate Bill No. 376, by Senators Dore, Ryder, Durkan and Foley (by Departmental request):

Supplements constitutional amendment changing what constitutes common school fund and providing for common school construction fund.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Bill No. 376:

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., February 13, 1967.

Supplements constitutional amendment changing what constitutes common school fund and providing for common school construction fund (reported by Committee on Education):

MAJORITY recommends that it do pass as amended.

On page 1, section 1, line 25, before "stone" strike "timber," and insert "[timber,]"
Robert C. Ridder, Chairman.

We concur in this report: Reuben A. Knoblauch, Jack Metcalf, John T. McCutcheon, Ted G. Peterson, John H. Stender, Don L. Talley, Nat Washington.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Ridder, the committee amendment was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Ridder that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, section 1, line 25, after "minerals" strike "and other" and insert "[and other] or" and after "property" and before "from" insert "other than timber and other crops"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, would Senator Ridder yield to a question:

"I think this bill was quite carefully considered and drawn. Does this wording which you are proposing now bring it into conformity with Senate Joint Resolution No. 22?"

Senator Ridder:

"The idea here is to remove the idea of replaceable crops. Timber and other crops makes this replaceable crops. In both instances we were after, 'replaceable crops.' Now apparently during the committee meeting we felt that just striking, 'timber,' would be sufficient. Maybe I am guiding the lily here a little bit, Senator Ryder, but I felt we should bring the whole thing into conformance with the statement above so we made no mistake that it is replaceable crops."

Senator Ryder:

"Then you have checked this out with the attorneys to make sure that it does comply with Senate Joint Resolution No. 22?"

Senator Ridder:

"You catch me in a default there. I did not."

On motion of Senator Ryder, Senate Bill No. 376 was ordered to retain its place on the second reading calendar immediately following consideration of Senate Bill No. 457.

Senate Bill No. 401, by Senators Atwood, Neill and Hallauer:

Revising certain provisions of the excise tax on real estate sales.

On motion of Senator Atwood, Senate Bill No. 401 was ordered to retain its place at the end of the second reading calendar for today.

Senate Bill No. 412, by Senators Greive, Dore and Ryder:

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Bill No. 412:

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., February 16, 1967.

Regulating sale of kosher products and prescribing penalties (reported by Committee on Agriculture and Horticulture):

Recommends that it do pass as amended.

On page 1, section 1, line 15, after "sold" strike " , offered for sale or advertised for sale" and insert "or offered for sale"

Dewey C. Donohue, Chairman.

We concur in this report: Damon R. Canfield, Joe Chytil, Herbert H. Freise, H. B. (Jerry) Hanna, Reuben A. Knoblauch, David E. McMillan.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Ryder, the committee amendment was adopted.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Greive yield to a question:

"Senator Greive, as I understand this bill, anything that is labelled, 'Kosher,' you will not be able to purchase?"

Senator Greive:

"No, that is not correct. It would be incorrect, as I understand it, to label things as, 'Kosher.' Now, 'Kosher-like,' or 'Kosher-type,' or, 'Kosher-nature,' or using the word, 'Kosher,' in connection with something else would be perfectly legal. But, 'Kosher,' in the Jewish religion apparently has a sacred significance. It means food prepared in a certain manner and done under certain conditions and it satisfies certain religious requirements, and the Jewish people do not want others, for instance people who come from out of town, to be misled into buying, 'Kosher,' products which in reality are not. There is no objection to using any combination of words to indicate that the product has a Kosher-like flavor or qualities."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Would Senator Greive yield to a further question:

"Isn't this a rather unusual piece of legislation? Don't we have trademarks and copyrights and things like that? This is the first time I have seen legislation of this type where we are designating certain foods as being against the law to sell them if they have a name on them."

Senator Greive:

"I think we do this in a number of areas. I think you have mentioned trademarks and certain other types of products that fall into this category and I agree with this analysis, but I don't think there is anything untoward or unfair in permitting a group of people who have certain religious principles a protection. A few years ago we made the Greek Orthodox religion the third official religion of the state for various purposes. From time to time we have passed things to protect the Seventh Day Adventists because they had peculiar problems. I can remember one time we had some problems with the bonus and we had to have a special session because certain religions couldn't quite qualify. This is a peculiar problem to this religious body and I don't see anything harmful in attempting to accommodate them."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Senator Greive, could you tell me as an attorney:

"I am quite partial to buying Nalley's Kosher dill pickles. Now if somebody sells a product and they say it is Kosher, under this law, they would then have to remove that label from all the pickles they have on the market, which probably—they don't label each pickle, but it is on the bottle, I think it says, 'Kosher.' Now would they have to remove all the labels from their product for it to be sold in the stores?"

Senator Canfield:

"Mr. President, replying to Senator Rasmussen's question:

"If you will look in lines 8 and 9, this does not include the words, 'Kosher-style.' I think if you will look at Nalley's pickles, which are incidentally a very fine product, I think you will find they are called, 'Kosher-style,' and that is not included in this act."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Rasmussen the following amendments were adopted:

On page 2, section 3, line 1, strike all of section 3.

On page 1, line 1 of the title, after "products" strike "; and prescribing penalties"

On motion of Senator Greive, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 412 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf:

"Mr. President, would Senator Greive yield to a serious question:

"Senator Greive, I would just like to know if you are familiar with how many other states have provisions such as this? Do you know what other law has been passed in other states on this?"

Senator Greive:

"No, and I am not even very familiar with the bill. It seems that some Jewish people came to Olympia and some Rabbis talked to me and Senator Ryder and asked us to put in the bill. It was prepared and seemed to me like it was good legislation. That is the most I can say about it. I think it is good legislation. If somebody feels against it, let them vote against it."

Debate ensued.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

I voted 'no' on SB 412 because I believe the Legislature must be very careful about legislating in the area of religious liberty. I can visualize a great many future requests for legislative recognition or authorization of religious beliefs or ceremony. I believe due to the constitutional separation of church and state that this is not a proper area for legislative activity.

Senator Marquardt:

"This bill I don't believe provides for that."

Senator Mardesich:

"Why do we make this distinction then between those people who are committed as against those people who are not committed?"

Senator Marquardt:

"Apparently this bill does not embrace that large a field, Senator."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Ridder:

"Mr. President, would Senator Marquardt yield:

(3) "Entrusting" includes any delivery and any acquiescence in retention of possession regardless of any condition expressed between the parties to the delivery or acquiescence and regardless of whether the procurement of the entrusting or the possessor's disposition of the goods have been such as to be larcenous under the criminal law.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Uhlman:

"Mr. President, would Senator Ryder yield to a question:

"Senator Ryder, as a friendly banker and being familiar with banking matters, could you tell me how many people normally are on a credit committee?"

Senator Ryder:

"I don't remember exactly the credit union law, but I think at least five and sometimes as high as nine are on a credit committee, depending upon the size of the credit union."

Senator Uhlman:

"Could there be some problems, when you reduce the number as far as two, of collusion where they might make loans that were not to the best interest of the credit union?"

Senator Ryder:

"Well, of course you always have that problem regardless of how many people are approving loans. I think in this case there would not be because one of the members of course would be the branch manager who was in charge of taking the loan application in the first place and then one of the credit union members from the main office."

Senator Uhlman:

"Is it a practice in the banking mutuals and a regular banking practice that the entire committee not approve a loan?"

Senator Ryder:

"It is a quite common practice within the banking fraternity that they authorize certain officers to approve loans. Sometimes if the loan is for a very small amount, sometimes only one need approve, or two approve up to certain amounts."

Debate ensued.

It was moved by Senator Henry that Engrossed House Bill No. 179 on second reading and the amendment proposed by Senator Gissberg hold their places on the second reading calendar for tomorrow.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, would Senator Hallauer yield:
"Has this bill been through the Committee on Ways and Means?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:
"If this bill has any financial impact or implications other than the need for more people on the staff of the Pollution Control Commission, I don't know of them and the Governor has already projected the people in connection with the bill."

Senator Woodall:

"Don't you think that it might possibly have some future impact that might necessitate the Committee on Ways and Means looking at it as they did the judges' bill or something of that nature?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, Senator Woodall:
"We might need more judges if this bill passes and we will have to call more judges back from retirement and they would be on per diem pay."

Senator Woodall:

"And at that time you would let it come to the floor without going through the Committee on Ways and Means?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Yes, sir."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President, would Senator Gissberg yield to a question:
"Do you believe, Senator, that in a hearing on pollution where there was a group of expert witnesses called and each one under cross examination is asked: 'Can you positively state whether this material will cause a pollution or a nuisance?' and the witness will admit that he can't be positive, then you have a record which would prove that the substance will cause a pollution?"

Senator Gissberg:

"I can't answer that question, Senator. In the first place I don't think in most instances any expert witness is going to testify about any positive opinions when it is under opinion, because that is all it would be—under his opinion; but he having testified under direct examination that the substance would create a nuisance or render waters harmful that would be sufficient evidence in the record to support the finding of the Pollution Control Commission."

Debate ensued.

The motion was lost and the amendment was not adopted.

On motion of Senator Hallauer, the rules were suspended, Engrossed House Bill No. 179 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, matter of personal privilege:
"I do feel apologetic to Senator Henry because I did want to insist on the bill remaining on the floor tonight. I did think he was adequately protected with regard to the bill because, as he said, a member of his district from the legislature was a member of the interim committee. We did hear from people in the industry he was discussing and we felt we had clearance. There was a unanimous vote in the House. I am sorry I did not consult with him. Perhaps it would have been better to have held the bill."

Absent or not voting: Senator Lennart—1.

Excused: Senators Herr, Lewis, McCormack—3.

Engrossed House Bill No. 179, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

"Senator Mardesich, by your amendment inserting the word, 'and,' on line 13, what is your intent in that amendment?"

Senator Mardesich:

"The intent of the amendment, Mr. President and Senator Dore, is that the one hundred twenty day requirement will now apply in terms of prior notice and also for distribution of copies of notice."

Senator Dore:

"In other words, you want the notices to go out at least one hundred twenty days prior to sale, is that correct?"

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President, would Senator Hallauer yield to a question:

"Senator Hallauer, would this also include the counties who are seeking to participate in the pollution program such as sewers and water and so on?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Senator Kupka, the answer is yes, any agency that deals in the treatment of sewer effluence would be eligible."

Debate ensued.

It was moved by Senator Hallauer that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 7, section 14, line 1, after "within" and before "years" strike "ten" and insert "fifteen"

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, would Senator Hallauer yield to a question:

"In transferring title to property, in the consummation of a sale, would this be recorded in the deed as to expiration of these water rights, if such property were transferred?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Senator Lennart, I am not sure I understand the question."

Senator Lennart:

"In the sale or in the transfer of property to another owner, would this expiration of the water rights be part of the deed or would it be recorded in the deed?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Senator Lennart, the bill is concerned with those water rights that antedate the statutory enactment of the surface water code of 1917 and the ground water code of 1945, and these are on record at the various county seats and some of them are under question as to their validity. In any property exchange such as you have indicated the water rights go along with the property, itself, when you purchase the property, so I don't see any problem."

Senator Lennart:

"I should like to have it recorded in the Journal that the intent was when a policy of private title or insurance of title to the property is given, that this should be part of the policy when the water right expires so that no one goes under the illusion that these water rights are perpetual because this could be left out of the policy."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Hallauer, the following amendments were adopted:

On page 8, line 14, after "thereof." add: "The court, reviewing any order of the supervisor may award reasonable attorney's fees to any party injured by an arbitrary, capricious or erroneous order of the supervisor. Such attorney's fees shall be paid by the department of conservation from any funds available therefor."

On page 8, section 19, line 10, after "superior" and before "of" insert "court"

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Hallauer, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 175 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Hallauer a question:

"Senator Hallauer, reading section 16 and 17, this could really work a hardship in our area under certain circumstances. Take for instance a man who might go into alfalfa seed production and during the period of five, six, seven years or so, while he has alfalfa growing on his land, he would need this water. But then to vary the type of use of the soil and replenish the soil, he might go into the growing of wheat on that land and he might want to grow summer wheat, for instance, so that every other year he might have—if he has six hundred acres, three hundred in wheat one year and three hundred the next year and this situation could exist for six or eight years. During that period of time, he wouldn't be using his water rights, but he still intends to use the water rights after that six year period. Now under this law he would be forfeiting that water right. Is that your understanding of it?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, in answer to Senator Freise:

"This is an area that the Committee on Water Resources did explore during its rather lengthy hearings on the bill and the point was made in connection with this act on what you are saying, that perhaps five years was too short a time. There was also another approach indicated on long run demands on state waters becoming greater and greater in time and we might well shorten the period to three years. The committee had to make some sort of choice and five years happened to be a compromise position. I am not sure if the compromise was necessary. We did the best we could."

Senator Freise:

"It certainly seems to me if you intend to use the water again, you would not intend to forfeit your water rights. In other words, if you are not interested in using the water again, and if you are going to sell the property to a housing developer and the situation changes eight years later and you want to use the water again, this would be a different matter. But here you have no intent to forfeit the water right. You still want to use the water, except in your plan of rotation of crops, you are not going to be able to use it in a five year period. It seems to me to be extremely harsh."

Senator Guess:

"If I might make a comment on Senator Freise's question," the language of the bill says, "anyone who voluntarily fails without sufficient cause—"

"If a person could give sufficient cause for failing to use the water, then this would be taken into account."

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President, I wonder if Senator Guess would yield to a question then:

"What are the various 'causes' that you could mention that would not make a person forfeit his water right and what were some of the things you discussed?"

Senator Guess:

"Primarily, Senator Freise, I think that if the rancher had adopted a plan of cultivation on this land in which it was either detrimental or necessary to use the water and it gave him a better yield not to use the water part of the time then he would have sufficient cause and this would not preempt him from going back and adopting a different type of cultivation, and use of the land. He could then pick his water right again. He would not be foreclosed on his water right if his cropping schedule or his use of it was a legitimate profit type of use."

Debate ensued.

Senator Donohue:

"Mr. President, would Senator Hallauer yield:

"Following up the question of Senator Freise, assume I had a water right for so many acres of wheat and I elected not to use a portion or elected to use only a small portion in a particular time of the amount of water allocated to me. Would that then sustain my water right or, by not using what I was supposed to on a certain number of acres, would I be denied the use of the water right?"

Senator Hallauer:

"This would depend on how much water was available in the ground water we are discussing. If there were adequate waters, there would be no problem. But if other people stepped in and applied for water that you weren't using, you would have this period of time in which to put your water right to use or else lose it. It comes back to what Senator Canfield was talking about: Ultimately this bill is headed toward the principle of using or losing."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Bailey, Senator McCormack was excused.

The real estate sales tax provided for herein shall be levied upon each sale of real property located within the county: Provided, That if a sale of a single family dwelling occurs within nine months of a previous sale of the same dwelling, a credit in the amount of the tax paid on such previous sale or sales shall be allowed to apply against the tax which becomes due on such sale of said property."

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Ryder yield:

Senator Ryder, I am not just exactly clear. You said this amendment will exempt people from paying the one percent tax. Does this amendment also carry to the sale of a used car where the purchaser pays a four percent tax? Maybe I could put it in context, if it is a ten thousand dollar house that's sold and there is a one percent tax, that's one hundred dollars. If a four thousand dollar car is sold and there is a 4.2 tax on it, that is about $165.00. Now assume the house is returned to the seller. Then the seller would be exempted from paying this tax on the next sale. Then would a used car that was returned, on the car dealer's next sale be exempt from the sales tax of 4.2 percent?"

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, Senator Rasmussen:

"This has nothing to do with sales tax at all. This is on the property transactions. This is the one percent excise tax on the sale of property."

Senator Rasmussen:

"This is the one percent excise tax that was put on rather than having a 4.2 sales tax, is this correct?"

Senator Ryder:

"I don't remember the justification of including it in the original bill. It was put on some sessions ago as you will remember and at that time it was included for the benefit of the schools and it still goes into the school equalization fund."

Senator Rasmussen:

"The one percent is for schools?"

Senator Ryder:

"That's right. It has nothing to do with the sales tax."

Senator Rasmussen:

"No relationship?"

Senator Ryder:

"No connection whatever."

Debate ensued.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Gissberg that the amendment be laid upon the table.

The President called for a voice vote on the motion by Senator Gissberg. Senator Gissberg demanded a division.

The President:

"There are sixteen yeas, eighteen nays. The motion is lost."

Senator Gissberg:

"I demand a roll call."

The President:

"A roll call has been demanded. Do one-sixth of the members present demand a roll call?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Ryder:

"Point of order, Mr. President. You had already announced the vote and rapped the gavel. I do not think a roll call is now in order."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President ruling upon the point of order:

"The vote was announced but the gavel was not struck."

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President:

"I suggest somebody on the rostrum quit stomping their feet, then. I distinctly heard a rap of the gavel."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The gavel was cocked, Senator Henry, but not fired."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President:

"How do you record the sound of the gavel? Do you have a recording device up there?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"You possibly heard some Senator striking his pipe on the wastepaper basket, Senator."

Senator Gissberg's demand for a roll call was sustained by Senators Atwood, Redmon, Rasmussen, Knoblauch, Mardesich, Hanna, Bailey and Uhlman.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary commenced the roll call. During the roll call the following proceedings were had:

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to inquire whether Senator Dore is recorded as voting?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Dore is recorded as voting aye."

Senator Henry:

"I respectfully submit Senator Dore was not in evidence at the time his vote was cast."

Senator Dore:

"I was just about to vote."

The President:

"You are recorded as voting aye."

Senator Dore:

"Senator Dore votes nay."

Senator Henry:

"That's what I thought. We're getting echoes in here. We don't hear gavels but we hear ayes. I was curious to know what is going on."

The roll call was completed. The motion by Senator Gissberg was lost and the amendment was not laid upon the table by the following vote: Yeas, 20; nays, 24; absent or not voting, 2; excused, 3.

Those voting yea were: Senators Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Donohue, Durkan, Gissberg, Greive, Hanna, Herrmann, Knoblauch, Lennart, McCutcheon, Mardesich, Morgan, Peterson (Lowell), Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Sandison, Woodall—20.

Absent or not voting: Senators Freise, Hallauer—2.

Excused: Senators Chytil, Herr, McCormack—3.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, would Senator Williams yield to a question:

"Senator Williams, do you have an amendment to this bill at this time, or is this the only one you propose?"

Senator Williams:

"This is the only one I propose."

Senator Woodall:

"When I came from the Judiciary Committee this morning I found a note on a phone call I had received from the Yakima Board of Realtors. The call at ten o'clock urged me to support Senate Bill No. 401, as amended by Senator Williams. I just wondered. I know things move rapidly around here but for me to learn at ten o'clock that I should support an amendment that Senator Williams had already placed on this bill is really sort of jumping the gun."

Senator Williams:

"I agree."

Debate ensued.

Senators Keefe, Gissberg and Lennart demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

Senator Gissberg demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Hallauer, Kupka, Durkan, Mardesich, Greive, McCutcheon, Metcalf, Atwood and Ridder.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll. The motion was lost and the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 22; nays, 24; excused, 3.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Connor, Cooney, Dore, Faulk, Greive, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Keefe, Kupka, Lewis, Marquardt, Metcalf, Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Ryder, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Williams—22.

Those voting nay were: Senators Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Donohue,

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Donohue:

"Mr. President, would Senator Washington yield to a question:

"Senator Washington, could you give me an answer to this question:

"We have these driver license examinations once a week down in our area and in order for a truck driver to get this license I understand there will be a different status for different size equipment. Where is the Department of Licenses going to get the examiners to have them available in every one of these little communities around the country or to buy the four or five different big trucks to take this applicant out and see if he is qualified to get the truck driver's license?"

Senator Washington:

"It was recognized that in the farm area where a great deal of trucking will be done that it would be difficult. That is the reason why there is a proviso on page 1, : Provided, That this requirement shall not apply to any person hauling farm commodities from the farm to the processing plant or shipping point.' Now you objected because we tied it down to: 'to exceed a twenty-five mile radius of the farm.' We have taken that out so this does not apply to the trucking of farm commodities because the very point you have brought up was recognized that with number of people who might be applying for the farm trucking license, the department of licenses might not be able to give the examinations within a proper time and with the finances that would be available. It is also pointed out that this licensing will be done by regulation of the Department of Motor Vehicles and the examiners will be able to move into the areas as they are able to obtain the finances and are able to have the necessary equipment. This is why it is provided that it is done according to the regulations of the Department of Motor Vehicles."

Debate ensued.

Senator Rasmussen:

"Would Senator Washington yield to further questions, Mr. President?"

"Senator Washington, as I read this bill, the operator of the farm vehicle will not have to take this examination."

Senator Washington:

"This is correct if he is hauling a commodity from the farm to the processing plant or shipping point. That is correct."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Regardless of the size of the equipment?"

Senator Washington:

"That is correct."

Senator Rasmussen:

"He can drive an 80,000 pound truck and would have to have no examination and it might be a sixteen year old boy?"

Senator Washington:

"Yes, at the present time. As long as you have asked me the question, I think I should also be able to give the explanation."

Senator Rasmussen:

"I have a further question and you can probably answer it all at once:

"Is it true that the majority of all fatal accidents happen within close vicinity of towns or cities and then, further, so I won't interrupt you when you are making your answers, if I should want to rent a truck and take my household furniture from place to place in the city or to another city, would I be required to have this special license and pay an additional ten dollar charge in order to get this license?"

Senator Washington:

"In answer to your last question, this only covers driving for hire. It does not cover the fact that you are renting or borrowing somebody else's truck. This involves a commercial operation in driving for hire. In other words, you are getting your wages paid for doing the driving so it clearly does not cover your question of the 'you haul', renting or borrowing somebody else's truck."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Could you point out where that section is in the bill?"

Senator Washington:

"It just isn't covered. It is covered by saying it must be for hire or compensation. In other words, it isn't covered at all, so there is no need to have an exemption."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Did you want to answer my question regarding the sixteen year old driver without an examination driving on the highways with an 80,000 pound vehicle?"

Senator Washington:

"Yes, this is an attempt to get into the field where we haven't been before. There is going to be a difficulty in the Department of Motor Vehicles and we checked these figures with them and most of the commercial drivers are in the populated areas. This is the area where the examiners will be going first. This is the area where they could set up the examinations so that if a person wanted to get the license he could get it with the least inconvenience. As you get out of the more populated centers it is going to be more difficult in the beginning for the Department of Motor Vehicle to get into those areas and it was pointed out that there could be a great delay and in many cases your farm commodities are perishable. There is the problem of people moving into the state. They come in and work in an area in one state and move out into another state. I would support such a provision in the future when we have the proper facilities to include farm trucks and farm drivers. This bill is merely a practical means of covering most of the problem because your maximum trucking is in the centers of greatest population where the facilities for testing would be. This is not the final answer and perhaps there is a weakness in the bill, but I think as experience goes ahead we will solve these problems in the years ahead. This is a first start and we are trying not to go too deeply into it at first."

Debate ensued.

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, I'd like to ask Senator Woodall to yield to a question:

"Senator Woodall, on page 1, line 12, of the bill, it says it shall be unlawful for a person to operate for compensation upon the public highways any motor-truck and so on. Now would that be and could that be interpreted to mean that a person who owns a truck and is driving it himself, presumably without compensation, would then be exempt under this act from coverage? Is that intended?"

Senator Woodall:

"Yes, he is clearly exempt and anyone who has been doing that and everyone who has been driving any kind of vehicle as of today is automatically covered under the grandfather clause. They have no problems and that answers some of Senator Donohue's queries as to examinations that have to be given. The man who has been driving heavy equipment through the years merely proves he has and is in this category. We are talking about the future for the person who is just beginning. He will have to take this examination and it isn't going to be too much of a burden. All you are going to say is when a man is driving one of these big semi-trucks and trailers down the highway, someone should examine him and determine if he knows enough about the equipment to operate it."

Senator Stender:

"One further question on this matter:

"This isn't just a grandfather-type of clause here. This could be anyone as of now or tomorrow or the next year who was an owner would be exempt from the coverage of this act."

Senator Woodall:

"If he is not in the business of doing it for hire, yes."

Debate ensued.

Senator Mardesich demanded the previous question.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege:

"I have been trying to get the floor for an hour and not getting it I guess I will have to speak under personal privilege:

"Mr. President and lady and gentlemen of the Senate:

"I would like to think that those folks over in the farm area are citizens of the state of Washington, also. Now it is amazing how you can develop fine legislation for the people over on the west side or the crowded area and it doesn't fit your pattern. It's all right for an individual to drive equipment along the freeways and not come under the act, but you think we ought to have examinations in the crowded areas or in the municipal areas. I think this is a bit of class legislation. I don't think it's good. I can see what Senator Woodall is proposing is going to create one of those fly-by-night schools to teach these fellows how to run forty yard dump trucks right out here on Martin Way in Olympia until they get a special license so that they can drive them. The bill doesn't say anything about the heavy equipment around the f.a.m areas and it's just as dangerous as any other kind of equipment. I personally think this is a bad bill and I wanted to press my point on it. When you include everybody, I can go along with it. But I am not going to vote for this class legislation. When you say it's good for everybody else but it doesn't fit the pattern at Moses Lake or Pasco or someplace in the wide open spaces, then I can't support it."

The President:

"Senator Mardesich:

"Do you wish to withdraw your request for the previous question?"

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President:

"No, it's lunch time."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President, would Senator Freise yield to a question:

"It says here the real estate commission is authorized to spend all of the funds for inspections. I understand what this is. The real estate brokers used to be bonded and the bond has been done away with and now they have this fund that has built up and the commission can use half of it for a general fund. I would like to hear more about it. I will take your word for it. I haven't read the bill."

Senator Freise:

"Senator McCutcheon:

"This money is paid in by the real estate brokers. The money was to be used for auditing. They could not expend sufficient funds. It doesn't take that much money to audit the realtors. They have different auditing methods than they had ten or fifteen years ago. They have more efficient methods through the use of computers and so on, so this fund is being built up and the statute says, 'You shall use it for auditing.' We are just saying to them to throw the money down the drain. Now this says it may be used; up to one-half may be used for education, making better real estate brokers, so that it upgrades their society, and I think this is good legislation. We are all for this type of legislation and I know the Bar Association had this continuing legal education program and this is how this will be used."

Senator McCutcheon:

"One more question:

"How are you going to educate the sales people? What is the method? Who is the teacher and how are they educated?"

Senator Freise:

"Senator McCutcheon, they have a real estate board and they hire teachers from the University of Washington department of economics and the law school. They have professional courses."

Debate ensued.

Senate Bill No. 46, by Senators Greive, Andersen, Keefe, Kupka, Peterson (Ted), Talley, Metcalf, Uhlman, Sandison and Connor (by Legislative Council request):

Enacting the "Washington clean air act."

On motion of Senator Greive, Substitute Senate Bill No. 46 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 46 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Greive, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 46 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

The President called upon President Pro Tempore Al Henry to preside.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, would Senator Greive yield to a question:

"My question is just to make certain for the record that there is no reference in the bill to any tax abatement in order to facilitate this type of air pollution control?"

Senator Greive:

"No, there is a second bill which is in the Committee on Ways and Means and since it is primarily a tax relief bill, it doesn't have any shackles on it as far as time is concerned, so we haven't pushed it, although the subcommittee on revenue and taxation I understand, has given it favorable consideration. It is the fervent hope of the industry, the Legislative Council, Senators Keefe, Kupka and many of us who have served together on the Legislative Council that we will pass not only this bill but two others. One which provides for a study on the problem of automobile exhausts because this bill only deals with stationary sources. Then the other one is the tax relief bill, but the tax relief bill is not before us at this time."

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, would Senator Greive yield:

"Senator Greive, I am heartily in favor of the bill and I am just wondering what you see in the future with regard to the problems we have on the state line and I guess on the international boundary to the north where we have a great industrial area? Where do you think we can go with this sort of bill where we have industrial areas right around us?"

Senator Greive:

"In 1965 we passed the National Clean Air Act which provides for abatement of nuisances or air pollution between states. It provides that governors of the various states can, on behalf of their states, take action if there is pollution coming from a neighboring state. There is nothing so far as the federal government and Canada is concerned and that would require a treaty as far as I know. I might add that Governor Evans as far as I know has already made a request regarding air pollutions coming into Dewey Donohue's and Senator Freise's district at the present time from Clarkston, across the Snake River, and so there have been some actions under this provision, I might add to their credit that the one county, Clark county, which borders Oregon, now has a better law than we have and have adopted procedures under the old law, a voluntary procedure. It is the only county that has done so, although Cowlitz and Skagit counties at the present time are proceeding to adopt such procedures."

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President, will Senator Greive yield?

"Senator Greive, I haven't had a chance to read the bill, but I don't happen to live in Pierce county or King county air. I live in the twenty-first district in Kitsap county, and I journey regularly to Port Townsend and Whidbey Island and hope to get out into God's Country. Many times the ferry boat I travel on from Port Townsend to Whidbey Island has been almost in collisions because of this severe air pollution and the many, many smoke stacks. Now I wonder, before I vote for this bill, Senator Greive, if there is any provision for the Olympic Peninsula, the Olympic Mountains and the Puget Sound waters and around Port Townsend and Kitsap county and the rest of God's Country?"

Senator Greive:

"I might inform the members of the Senate this isn't the first time I have heard this speech. In fact I heard the speech at several hearings and so did the industry people. I think Senator Morgan is the most feared legislator in the state of Washington as far as industry is concerned because every time she came around, they all shook like a bunch of leaves. All I can say, Senator, is we have set up a procedure for the creation of districts in your area. It is hoped that Kitsap county will voluntarily join the other three counties, namely Pierce, King and Snohomish to be in the first district. There is provision for joining voluntarily by county in your particular area. However, that won't solve the problem of Senator Sandison's district, namely, Clallam and Jefferson counties. Of course they are going to, within thirty days, begin hearings and within ninety days set up a district pursuant to state standards, and I suspect that will take care of the matter very nicely. Conceivably we could get a variance if it is too expensive or if equipment wasn't available or some other logical reason. But certainly within a year they must take action."

Senator Morgan:

"Thank you for answering that question. I have a little more here. I served on the water pollution campaign in our district back in 1948 and we did bring about some pollution plans and King county was ready to do it immediately but that county is still lagging behind. I hope that since we may join you, that our experience will be that when I come back here two years from now we haven't been left out and that we still can see the Olympic Mountains in Senator Sandison's district."

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 46 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 46; nays, 0; excused, 3.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Atwood, Bailey, Canfield, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Faulk, Foley, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, Lewis McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Marquardt, Metcalf, Morgan, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ridder, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Twigg, Uhlman, Washington, Williams, Woodall—46.

Excused: Senators Chytil, Herr, McCormack—3.

Substitute Senate Bill No. 46, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Lewis:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I would like to personally compliment Senator Greive and his legislative council interim subcommittee on the study over the years on this piece of legislation that just passed. I think it has been apparent to all of us many times in the Senate that major pieces of legislation and matters of importance to the state of Washington, with so many of the political considerations that come up during a legislative session, that it is very difficult for us to work on measures of legislation such as this, but that during an interim, with interim committee work, with careful consideration of the facts, with adequate studies, with consultants and staff, with qualified lay people and so on, we are able to make careful determinations and come to a successful and worthwhile conclusion. I do support the idea of interim committee studies. I do submit that these studies result many times in more accurate information for the legislature and I would like to again compliment the Legislative Council and the chairman of its subcommittee, Senator Greive, for the fine piece of work which they have completed."

Senate Bill No. 152, by Senators Herrmann, Greive and Woodall:

Raising auto financial responsibility limits.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Greive, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 152 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Talley:

"Mr. President, would Senator Greive yield:

"With the state raising the amount of financial responsibility, how much are the insurance companies going to increase the cost for insurance? Do you have any idea?"

Senator Greive:

"It won't increase the cost generally for insurance. I suppose if you buy five thousand dollars more insurance, it would increase whatever the cost of that additional insurance would be. In any event, you want to remember that the upper limits of insurance are always lower than the lower limits."

Senator Talley:

"If we increase this too much and there are already a lot of uninsured drivers, it will probably increase the cost because we will just have more uninsured drivers, won't we?"

Senator Greive:

"Senator Talley, I am afraid we have a difference of philosophy. If we are going to clear uninsured drivers off the road, we are going to have to take some other action. I have finally swung around to where I believe I would if a proper bill were presented, vote for spot checks to see if people have the proper insurance policies. But I don't think increasing the amount of insurance is going to have a material effect on the number who are driving without insurance."

Debate ensued.

By Senators Greive, Henry, Foley, Mardesich, Donohue, Peterson (Lowell), Pritchard, Canfield, Neill, Woodall, Connor, Lennart, Ryder, Stender, Peterson (Ted), Williams, McCutcheon, Sandison, Guess, Talley, Washington, Knoblauch, Kupka, Redmon and Atwood:

Whereas, Lacey V. Murrow had a distinguished career as an engineer, military officer and legislative consultant; and,

Whereas, His work as consultant to the architects of the Highway Act of 1956 capped his professional efforts and his military service in the China-Burma-India Theater during World War II from which he emerged a General was an outstanding achievement, his work as Director of Highways of the State of Washington is certainly best remembered by the citizens of this state; and

Whereas, The Mercer Island Floating Bridge, provided a unique, ingenious and resourceful solution to a difficult engineering problem at the time it was designed and built and more than twenty-five years later continues to serve the public well by providing access to move people from city to suburbs, and stands as a monument to Lacey Murrow's successful tour of duty as State Director of Highways; and

Now Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Senate honor the memory of Lacey V. Murrow by requesting the State Highway Commission to designate the Mercer Island Floating Bridge as the Lacey V. Murrow Memorial Bridge; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Commission for its action.

With the permission of the Senate, Senator Mardesich was permitted to withdraw his amendment.

It was moved by Senator Dore that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 3, section 1, restore all of subsection (7).

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President, would Senator Gissberg yield to a question:

"Senator, being a housewife and a woman Senator is sometimes a little complex. In our area, Senator, in the last year I have been told by attorneys and some women, too, who found themselves in a peculiar position when their payments became delinquent and their contract was sold and the interest was raised in the process. They were forced with the demand previous to this, too, for the full payment otherwise the seller was going to take the property. The widow found herself unable to carry on with the new contract as she couldn't raise the money. There have been several cases in the Kitsap county area and I am really concerned. I am not an attorney and I don't understand all of this except as you gentlemen explain it, but I have a very strong desire to prevent this from happening again to women. Now you tell me that a deed of trust would stop this. In other words there would be this period of time when the amount of payments lapsed, and she could pick it up and pay the back payments that were in default?"

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"Yes, that is what I have been trying to say, Senator Morgan. Let us take a concrete example. If the widow becomes late in her monthly payments and the banker then gives a notice to her that she is in default and she can't raise the money the second month or the third month but she raises it the fourth month, she can come in at any time up to six months after the date of the notice or the date of default and tender the amount of her delinquency and thereby reinstate the mortgage. She is not faced with raising the entire amount of the debt of some fourteen or fifteen thousand dollars and that is the advantage of this legislation."

Senator Morgan:

"It would not increase the amount of interest either?"

Senator Gissberg:

"No, there would not be any change in the contract or the rate of interest. There cannot be."

Debate ensued.

Senator Dore demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Connor, Cooney, Ryder, Uhlman, McCutcheon, Stender and Greive.

It was moved by Senator Gissberg that the amendment by Senator Dore be laid upon the table.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Dore:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I thought you put the main motion and I asked for a roll call and the request was sustained. I thought we would now be in the process of a roll call and you couldn't interrupt a roll call."

Senator Greive:

"I think the real answer to this is a demand for a roll call is a privileged motion and a motion to lay on the table is a subsidiary motion under Rule 21."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"It is perfectly proper to move at any time prior to the taking of the roll that a motion be laid upon the table. It would be a novel concept if somebody jumped to their feet any time during debate and said, 'I demand a roll call,' which is exactly what happened and then if a sufficient number of Senators sustained the demand for the roll call, the demand would cut off somebody else from making a motion. That is exactly the sequence of events that occurred. I was on my feet to make the motion to lay the amendment on the table and I thought Senator Dore wanted to make some further debate comments about the amendment and he simply said, 'I demand a roll call.' Under those circumstances I don't know how the demand for the roll call can act as a demand for the previous question. Had he made that kind of demand then there would have been some logic to what he is saying."

MOTION

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President:

"I move by unanimous consent of the body that we have a roll call on Senator Gissberg's motion to table the amendment. Is that agreeable, Senator?"

Senator Gissberg:

"Yes."

The motion was carried.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the motion by Senator Gissberg that the amendment by Senator Dore be laid upon the table. The motion was carried and the amendment was laid upon the table by the following vote: Yeas, 27; nays, 14; absent or not voting, 5; excused, 3.

Those voting yea were: Senators Andersen, Canfield, Cooney, Donohue, Faulk, Foley, Gissberg, Guess, Hallauer, Henry, Herrmann, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lewis, Mardesich, Metcalf, Neill, Peterson (Lowell), Peterson (Ted), Pritchard, Rasmussen, Redmon, Ryder, Talley, Twigg, Williams, Woodall—27.

Those voting nay were: Senators Atwood, Connor, Dore, Greive, Hanna, Keefe, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Ridder, Sandison, Stender, Uhlman, Washington—14.

Absent or not voting: Senators Bailey, Durkan, Lennart, Marquardt, Morgan—5.

Excused: Senators Chytil, Freise, Herr—3.

It was moved by Senator Dore that Senate Bill No. 259 retain its place on the second reading calendar for Monday, February 27, 1967.

Debate ensued.

With leave of the Senate, Senator Dore was permitted to withdraw the motion.

On motion of Senator Williams, the following amendment by Senator Freise was adopted:

On page 1, section 1, line 15, after "certified" strike "or registered" and insert "[or registered]" and on line 16 after "mail" insert ", return receipt requested."

On motion of Senator Gissberg, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 259 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President, would Senator Dore yield, please:

"Senator, I would like to comment first that we should have some lay people on the Judiciary Committee. Senator Dore, if the purchaser had this deed of trust when they started to buy a home and had a considerable equity then the Homestead Act would be completely useless? They could not use the Homestead Act?"

Senator Dore:

"Under a conventional mortgage you have a right of homestead, and then you have a right to remain in the home eight months after foreclosure so that means then it takes a while to bring the matter to a judgment. It takes six months to bring it to a judgment. If you file your homestead you get an additional six months and then eight months after that. If this replaces the conventional mortgage, this has no homestead provision in it."

Senator Morgan:

"You couldn't use it?"

Senator Dore:

"You could still use the homestead if you had a conventional mortgage, but this has no provision for homestead. They could pick up your house like your car. That's the way the bill reads and that's the way it works in California."

Debate ensued.

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, I'd like to ask Senator Ryder to yield to a question:

"Senator Ryder, being our leading banker, could you tell me about this deed of trust. I have had some conversations with people that deal in the real estate area and the version they have given me on the deed of trust is that money would be more readily available to finance homes. Now Senator Williams talks about the Federal Housing Administration. Is that basically what this will bring about?"

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"Yes, I think there is no doubt but what additional money will be available in the state of Washington from the East or other sources for making mortgages, particularly to the small home owner, if this passes. The state of Washington has one of the most stringent ejection laws in the Union. Actually a fairly minimum time to foreclose on one of our present mortgages is about eighteen months from the time of foreclosure and sale of the property and then there is a year of redemption. A great deal of money from the East will not come into the state of Washington because of this. They can go to California where the deed of trust is being used or to other states which have less stringent redemption laws. I think that this will be quite extensively used in the state of Washington if this bill is passed, and I think it will benefit not only the mortgage market here but also the small home owner who will be able to have a wider range of competition in getting mortgages.

"Now it was stated here on the floor that the deed of trust is being used already. I don't have the exact count but it seems to me the first one was filed a couple of months ago and there have been only two or three. Obviously the reason is because it is practically impossible to forestall a really protracted time for the lender gaining possession of the property. For instance we have this six month provision that Senator Dore attempted to put back in which would allow a borrower to start just a frivolous lawsuit, any kind of a lawsuit, which would again start another six months running and prevent the lender from foreclosing on the property, and this could go on and on. This is the main reason why this particular piece of legislation has not been used."

Senator Stender:

"On more question if I may, Senator:

"Taking the deed of trust, assume the home owner has paid five thousand dollars on a home and has found himself in financial trouble. If it was repossessed under the deed of trust, upon resale, would his equity be returned to the home owner?"

Senator Ryder:

"He would have as much right on that as he would have under a conventional mortgage. If it was sold for more than what he owed, this is true."

Debate ensued.

Senator Stender:

"One further question: Can the borrower or the home owner sell his equity on his own if he finds himself in trouble financially? Could he sell his equity to another person without the approval of the trustee?"

Senator Ryder:

"He would have the same rights. If he can sell it before the sale of the property by the trustee, certainly he can. You have the same right on a mortgage."

Senator Stender:

"With the approval of the trustee, I suppose."

Senator Ryder:

"No, he wouldn't have to get the approval of the trustee to sell his home as long as the actual sale had not taken place, which would be about two hundred days."

Debate ensued.

Senator Washington:

"Senator Williams, would you yield to a question:

"You mentioned under a deed of trust there is no right of acceleration. What if the note itself provided for a right of accelerating payment, even though it was a deed of trust."

Senator Williams:

"By the act it cannot."

Senators Gissberg, Talley and Henry demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

On page 9, section 11, line 22, after "Sec. 11." insert "Section 2-706, chapter 157, Laws of 1965 extraordinary session and RCW 62A, 2-706, are each amended to read as follows: Seller's Resale Including Contract for Resale. (1) Under the conditions stated in Section 2-703 on seller's remedies, the seller may resell the goods concerned or the undelivered balance thereof. Where the resale is made in good faith and in a commercially reasonable manner the seller may recover the difference between the resale price and the contract price together with any incidental damages allowed under the provisions of this Article (Section 2-710), but less expenses saved in consequence of the buyer's breach.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (3) or unless otherwise agreed resale may be at public or private sale including sale by way of one or more contracts to sell or of identification to an existing contract of the seller. Sale may be as a unit or in parcels and at any time and place and on any terms but every aspect of the sale including the method, manner, time, place and terms must be commercially reasonable. The resale must be reasonably identified as referring to the broken contract, but it is not necessary that the goods be in existence or that any or all of them have been identified to the contract before the breach.

(3) Where the resale is at private sale the seller must give the buyer reasonable notification of his intention to resell.

(4) Where the resale is at public sale

(a) only identified goods can be sold except where there is a recognized market for a public sale of futures in goods of the kind; and

(b) it must be made at a usual place or market for public sale if one is reasonably available and except in the case of goods which are perishable or threaten to decline in value speedily the seller must give the buyer reasonable notice of the time and place of the resale; and

(c) if the goods are not to be within the view of those attending the sale the notification of sale must state the place where the goods are located and provide for their reasonable inspection by prospective bidders; and

(d) the seller may buy.

(5) A purchaser who buys in good faith at a resale takes goods free of any rights of the original buyer even though the seller fails to comply with one or more of the requirements of this section.

(6) The seller is not accountable to the buyer for any profit made on any resale. A person in the position of a seller (Section 2-707) or a buyer who has rightfully rejected or justifiably revoked acceptance must account for any excess over the amount of his security interest, as hereinafter defined (subsection (3) of Section 2-711)

[(7) Any sale made hereunder, if a loss has been sustained, in order to charge the purchaser for the loss, the seller must have exerted a reasonable effort to obtain the fair market price of the said goods sold.]"

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

It was moved by Senator Woodall that the Senate reconsider the vote by which Senator Herrmann's amendment to page 9, line 22 was adopted.

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried on a rising vote.

It was moved by Senator Woodall that the amendment by Senator Herrmann be laid upon the table.

The motion was carried and the amendment was laid upon the table.

The Secretary read the following amendment by Senator Freise:

"Bailment contracts for the increase of agricultural seeds shall be in writing and shall be filed with the county auditor of the county in which the seeds are to be grown in the same manner as seed liens are filed under the provisions of RCW 60.12.190, except that the bailment contract shall be filed within 20 days after delivering the seed to the bailee and said contract need not contain an affidavit of good faith. The mortgagee under a crop chattel mortgage which is executed and filed in the manner and form required by law given by a bailee who has executed a bailment contract for the increase of agricultural seeds is entitled to enforce against the bailor the said crop chattel mortgage as an assignment of the bailee's proceeds of the bailment contract. By entering into the bailment contract the bailee is conclusively presumed to have consented to have assigned to the said crop chattel mortgagee under a valid and subsisting crop chattel mortgage any proceeds of said bailment contract to which the said bailee may be, and is, entitled under the said bailment contract to the extent of the unpaid balance of the said crop chattel mortgage. After the crop chattel mortgagee receives sufficient funds to pay off the crop chattel mortgage in full he shall release the crop chattel mortgage within the time and manner as is provided by law as it pertains to the release of crop chattel mortgages."

On page 2, section 3, line 2 after "trict" insert " : Provided, That the district from which the noncertificated employee transfers transmit the accrued leave pay of such transferring employee to the district to which such employee transfers."

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, would Senator Guess yield to a question:

"Senator Guess, this amendment would in essence give an employee a vested right to the contributions made to his credit? He would have a vested right under this amendment?"

Senator Guess:

"He still has a vested right under this amendment."

Senator Lennart:

"If this is what it means, I think it is a good amendment."

Debate ensued.

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President, would Senator Guess yield to another question:

"Senator Guess, I'm trying to understand this whole process. Assuming that a noncertificated employee acquires twenty-five days in one district and he does transfer to another district, would the original district pick up the obligation so far as funding this vacation, or does the new district have to make the contribution?"

Senator Guess:

"Under the bill the new district would have to pay. Under the amendment, the man takes it with him and it is the responsibility of the original district to fund him."

Debate ensued.

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Greive that Senate Bill No. 263 and the amendment proposed by Senator Guess be made a special order of business immediately following recess.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lewis:

"Mr. President, would Senator Durkan yield to a question:

"Senator Durkan, I am not clear on this bill as far as the financial impact on the school budget. Do you have any comments on this?"

Senator Durkan:

"Yes, we had the Legislative Auditor check this matter this morning, and his answer is that it will be minimal in most instances. He explains it this way: That in the large school districts the problem wouldn't be any problem at all because where you have two, three or more secretaries or two, three or more janitors, when a janitor leaves on vacation, the others are able to assume the position he had. In other words, they would double up. He said if there was going to be any expense it would come in later years where the individual has a length of vacation available and if he is the only janitor or if it is the only secretary, that it could be that they would have to hire another janitor or secretary to take the place. But the overall opinion of the Legislative Auditor is that the expense of this as far as fiscal impact is nil."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

The Secretary read the following amendment by Senator Guess:

On page 1, section 1, line 11, after "quarter" strike "additional"

There being no objection, Senator Guess was permitted to withdraw his amendment.

On motion of Senator Rasmussen, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 263 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Metcalf:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege:

"Mr. President, I would ask to be excused from voting on Senate Bill No. 263 in that my wife is a noncertificated employee and I have a direct personal interest in the bill."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I don't believe that the Senator should be permitted either under Article II, Section 30 of the Constitution or under Rule 3 to refrain from voting. The rule is that he must have a direct private interest. Otherwise, every attorney would fail to vote on anything involving attorneys and every teacher would fail to vote on anything involving education. It is one thing if a lawyer represents a certain client and he has a direct interest. That is a private interest. But if a person represents a broad, general class of which he is simply a member and it is something that is known and people are conscious of when he runs for office, I don't think he has a right to be excused. I think it would be a dangerous precedent and only cast a bad light on all the other Senators and members of the legislature to let this precedent start. It would simply mean that every time a bill came up which affected a broad, general class—for instance we have several mayors and from time to time they have served here. Should they refuse to vote on anything involving mayors or cities? I don't think it would be a proper precedent. I think it is a dangerous one and I strongly protest. I suggest to the Senator if he has a problem that he step off the floor and just not vote."

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President:

"This problem has come up before and I think Senator Metcalf has met every test maybe of his own conscience in letting the members know at least there is an incidental interest which he has. But this is a matter of public importance. It is one conceivably where his vote either could cause the bill to win or cause it to be lost. He has been elected to handle large matters, matters of public importance, and I would think in this particular case that he has certainly done the honorable thing in letting everyone know what his situation is, but that he should be required to vote on a matter that covers every school district in the state, every noncertificated employee; and, the mere fact that his wife happens to be a member of this broad class should not disqualify him nor should he be allowed to disqualify himself."

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President:

"If this prevails, then I don't see how we are going to vote on the budget if some of that money is going to trickle down into our little paycheck and you will find yourself in a serious predicament."

Senator Metcalf:

"I just raised the point to get a ruling. Either way you rule is fine with me, but I did feel I should raise the point."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"I would certainly think that Senator Metcalf should be complimented and I would also think that in some other instances probably it would be warranted. However, I am sure that if he has as little control over his wife as some of the rest of us have over our wives, he's not sure that she will be working for the school districts when he gets out of the session, so actually he would be doing a detrimental service to a large number of employees who may need his vote and are not related to him. Again, I think he should be complimented but I also think he should consider it his duty to vote on this measure."

Senator Andersen:

"Mr. President and gentlemen:

"This ethical proposition is a very difficult one. I think a man in the first place is to be commended for stating his position before the body. I think in the second place this body should not see fit to overrule a man's own judgment as to whether or not he has a conflict or potential conflict. I believe statements of the kind Senator Metcalf has made are to be encouraged, not discouraged. Now each of us has his own standards as far as this type of thing is concerned and I know that as far as this type of thing and campaign contributions are concerned, each of them some place draw his own lines and set his own standards. Who are we to say? We are not a committee of the whole. We are not as familiar with this as Senator Metcalf is. I believe when a Senator stands up and takes the floor of the Senate and states his position, he ought to be encouraged and I am certainly going to vote to support Senator Metcalf's view and encourage any other Senator at any time he feels he might have a conflict to disqualify himself from voting on a measure. We shouldn't rub him into it or push his face into it, no matter how politely we do it. We should respect his views on it and encourage others to do the same. We don't have a committee on ethics. If we had a committee we could submit the matter to them beforehand. That would be fine. Then we could abide by their decision. But until we have that, each man must be his own judge and certainly his judgment should be respected by this body."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I certainly respect Senator Andersen's analysis. He has a right to whatever position he desires to take. There is no one on this floor who is ever going to be forced to vote on a matter he feels, in good conscience he can't vote on. However, I submit that this could be a wonderful device for all of us to be on two sides of a great number of questions. I am thinking of innumerable instances where, for example, certain highways are going through your area and you might own a piece of property and so you could refuse to vote and all it takes is a certain number of votes on this floor to pass a bill. It takes a constitutional majority. If enough of us disqualify ourselves, and if we fail to vote, it has the effect of voting against the bill. That is why the rule must be interpreted strictly. Now if a man has a good and legitimate reason, he should be permitted to get off the floor and not vote. But I don't think he should use it as a guise to defeat legislation, which is precisely what could be done. Remember, gentlemen, if you don't vote, it has the same effect as voting no, as far as the record is concerned, because it is a constitutional majority that you must have and once this is started, I could see a marvelous opportunity for all of us to duck many things. Now it isn't true in Senator Metcalf's case. I am sure this bill has ample votes and I am sure that he is sincere but I think it would be a very dangerous precedent and could seriously jeopardize the work of this particular body."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"A casual observation, Senator, would be that this means of course that when the budget is presented here on the floor, to be consistent, you are going to have to decline to vote because the appropriations that are being made will go directly to the care, comfort and support not only of yourself, but your wife and children as well. I would think that you would not wish to get yourself into that position, Senator, where if there are any financial implications, that will accrue to you and your family, that you would wish to decline to vote on it. Now the very same thing is true in your instance as well as your wife's. We are talking about community property now, not separate property of yours or your spouse's. I would suggest that you could be placing yourself in a very embarrassing position, Senator, if you insist that the President rule and if the President rules in your behalf, that you, to be consistent, not be able to vote. That could put many of the school teachers in a very embarrassing position here in the Senate and the House. It is my understanding that most of the school teachers are here, in addition to other things, to see that school programs get adequate appropriations. Now it may be that if that is the case, then the school teachers may be able to do sufficient lobbying in committee to get the budget up to the point where you feel it is adequate and takes care of the needs of schools and the teachers. I would suggest that you would not be nearly as effective in accomplishing that total good for educational processes if you disenfranchise yourself here on the floor on that subject."

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"This rule has a real meaning and it should only be used for that very purpose. It is to be used to prevent a member of a legislative body from voting on something on which he has a definite and pecuniary interest. Now it is to prevent him from voting on something that is generally designed to particularly assist him as an individual or perhaps a corporation or a client which he is representing. I have had occasion to disqualify myself on a vote but it was a bill that directly affected a client I represented and for whom I was directly involved in the subject matter of the legislation. It was a clear case where I would have had to disqualify myself. But this is a rule which should have real, specific meaning and if we use it on situations such as this, it is going to be a rule with no meaning. It will jeopardize the rule, itself. The rule will become diluted and I think it is a matter upon which the Chair should rule. I could go back a number of years ago when I was challenged as to whether or not I could vote on a matter relating to public utility districts. I had anticipated such a problem and had written a letter to the great arbiter of matters relating to conflict of interest, Drew Pearson, and he sent back a telegram which I thought was well worded, and he stated that having been elected in an area which had a very definite interest, people knew about it, that I would not be doing properly if I didn't vote. I think the same applies here. This is a broad, general subject. You are known for having an interest in education and if you start disqualifying yourself on matters such as this, the people who voted for you will not be getting the benefit of the services that they contracted for when they elected you. I think this is a salutary rule and if the President would allow you not to vote in this particular case, we now would then have a rule with no real meaning and as Senator Greive has said it would be one which we could use as an escape hatch, rather than one to point out to the members of the Senate where you have a direct, pecuniary interest in a bill."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"If my memory is correct, we did have an attorney general's opinion some years back in regard to this matter and his opinion was if the interest was so widespread as to be of benefit to the general public and, as Senator Washington has said, it was not narrowed down to the individual, himself, and some particular legislation he was sponsoring for his own gain, that then the widespread interest relieved him from excluding himself from voting. Now I think that Senator Metcalf has made it known where he thinks he might have an interest because of his wife's work. I also think this is something that we should discourage, as Senator Andersen has said. But the individual can make it known to the body and then it is up to the body to object to his voting, rather than the body or the President to say he should vote or shouldn't vote. I think once he has made this known before the body, and that's all the rule provides, then some member can object to his voting if he feels he has knowledge of some deeper interest. That would be my opinion on the way the rule should be interpreted once a member makes that known to the body."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President, would Senator Metcalf yield, please:

"Senator Metcalf, would this prevent your voting for the school budget since you are a teacher?"

Senator Metcalf:

"Specifically I raised this question on a small, minor matter for which I am in favor and for which I will vote if the President so rules. I raise it now and I disagree with Senator Gissberg that you shouldn't raise it because it might be embarrassing later. I will be very happy with whatever ruling the President makes on it."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Andersen:

"Mr. President:

"What is the Chair's ruling? I am not familiar with past rulings on this matter. Is this for the body at large to determine whether in accordance with Rule 3 the Senator has an interest directly related to the passage of this measure, or is it the Chair's ruling upon the facts presented to the Chair?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes in this particular situation that Rule 3 does not necessarily apply inasmuch as the Senate has not challenged the right of Senator Metcalf to vote. The President believes that the situation is such that at the present time Article II, Section 30 applies to Senator Metcalf's case. Article II, Section 30 states:

"A member who has a private interest in any bill or measure proposed or pending before the legislature, shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon."

"The President believes that this is a matter private to Senator Metcalf and therefore as the situation now stands it is up to Senator Metcalf to decide whether or not he shall vote. After his decision, then the Senate may take what action it chooses."

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President:

"I believe the matter has been presented to you and you have to determine now whether this is a matter private to him. He disclosed the facts which I think the President and all have indicated are private to him."

The President:

"Senator Metcalf has not directed that request to the President. The President believes the minutes will show simply that Senator Metcalf stood and asked to be excused."

Senator Washington:

"If he is asking to be excused on the basis that this is a matter private to him, then as a member of this body I object to his not voting because I feel that it is not a matter private to him and that we should preserve this rule for the times when it is absolutely essential and necessary that it be used and that it not be diluted."

The President:

"Senator Washington, are your remarks in the form of a motion?"

Senator Washington:

"If it is necessary, I will put those in the form of a motion."

The President:

"Senator Washington has moved that Senator Metcalf not be excused from voting."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"I was going to move in a little different direction. Perhaps Senator Washington would withdraw his motion and permit me to make a motion."

Senator Washington:

"I feel my motion does what I want it to do and I would just as soon leave it."

Senator Rasmussen:

"I was going to suggest, Mr. President, that the motion be amended to state that the Senate suggests that Senator Metcalf vote and it is our opinion that the question involved is not a conflict of interest."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"I must apologize for having been off the floor at the time Senator Metcalf raised the question, but as I understand it, he is asking the Senate to take a position on it, and he raises Rule 3, as I understand it, and if he does, then of course a literal reading of that rule:

"'No Senator shall be allowed to vote except within the bar of the Senate . . . ' and that means, as Senator Rasmussen has indicated, that members are to vote on these matters unless and until they are challenged and no one has challenged Senator Metcalf's right to vote on this issue. It would be a rather ridiculous situation if in each instance the Senate were called upon to judge whether or not a man is entitled to vote on a matter pending before the Senate. From the reading of the rule, it seems to me to be very clear. It is stated negatively: 'No Senator should be allowed to vote except . . . ' and so on and it therefore seems to me that you have the duty to vote, Senator, unless you can assert the provisions of the Constitution, and we are obviously not involved in that situation in this instance and unless and until such time as the Senate itself or some member objects to your voting, then I think you have the duty and responsibility to vote."

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order at 1:45 p.m.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President, ruling upon the situation existing before the Senate:

"The President rules that Senator Metcalf, having made the disclosure and no Senator objecting to his voting, the President rules that Senator Metcalf shall be required to vote when within the bar of the Senate and not under the Call of the Senate."

MOTION

At 2:00 p.m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate adjourned until 10:00 a.m., Monday, February 27, 1967.

SENATE RESOLUTION

1967 - 22

By Senator Andersen:

Whereas, High moral and ethical standards among public officials are essential to the conduct of a free government; and

Whereas, Compliance with such standards promotes and strengthens the faith and confidence of the people of the state of Washington in their public officials; and

Whereas, Members of the Senate normally and necessarily have a diversity of interests and it is often difficult to determine whether a Senator is in any way personally or directly interested in any bill or measure proposed or pending before the Senate;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, By the Senate, that there is created the Select Senate Committee on Legislative Ethics to be composed of five members as follows: The President of the Senate; the chairman of each party caucus of the Senate; and two additional members, one to be selected by the majority party caucus and one to be selected by the minority party caucus.

Members shall be selected as soon as reasonably practicable after the adoption of this resolution and shall adopt rules of procedure for the disposition of any matters brought before it. Hereafter members shall be selected within five days after the convening of any session of the legislature.

Upon the request of any member of the Senate as to whether such member or another member should or should not disqualify himself from voting upon any question, bill or measure proposed or pending before the Senate, the committee shall render an advisory opinion thereon. Any member feeling himself aggrieved by any action of the board may appeal to the Senate for a decision of that body at the time the question, bill or measure is to be voted upon.

POINT OF INQUIRY

"Mr. President, will Senator Ryder yield to a question:

"As I understood the resolution, it does not direct the study to include any question of reciprocity. Is that the thinking behind this?"

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, Senator Mardesich:

"I would say certainly that would be part of the study of the Pension Commission as to whether or not reciprocity would enter into it."

Providing for the disposition of certain fees and receipts of the horseracing commission (reported by Committee on Ways and Means):

MAJORITY recommends that it do pass with the following amendment:

On page 2 strike lines 17 and 18.

Martin J. Durkan, Chairman.

We concur in this report: James A. Andersen, R. Frank Atwood, Robert C. Bailey, Joe Chytil, John L. Cooney, Dewey C. Donohue, Frank W. Foley, William A. Gissberg, Sam C. Guess, Wilbur G. Hallauer, Ernest W. Lennart, August P. Mardesich, A. L. Rasmussen, Robert C. Ridder, John N. Ryder, Gordon Sandison, Wes C. Uhlman, Walter B. Williams.

It was moved by Senator Neill that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 2, line 19 add 3 sections to the bill to be known as sections 2, 3 and 4 as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. There is added to chapter 55, Laws of 1933 and to chapter 67.16 RCW a new section to read as follows:

(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of law or chapter 67.16 RGW, the commission shall license race meets which are nonprofit in nature, of six days or less, and which have a total annual handle of two hundred thousand dollars or less, at a daily licensing fee of ten dollars and a payment to the commission of one percent of the gross receipts of all parimutuel machines during such race meet, and the sponsoring nonprofit association shall be exempt from any other fees as provided for in chapter 67.16 RCW or by rule or regulation of the commission.

(2) As a condition to the reduction in fees as provided for in subsection (1) hereof, all fees charged to horse owners, trainers or jockeys or any other fee charged for a permit incident to the running of such race meet shall be retained by the commission as reimbursement for its expenses incurred in connection with the particular race meet.

Sec. 3. Sec. 1, chapter 55, laws of 1933 as last amended by section 1, chapter 236, laws of 1949 and RCW 67.16.010 are each amended to read as follows:

Unless the context otherwise requires, words and phrases as used herein shall mean:

"Commission" shall mean the Washington Horse Racing Commission, hereinafter created.

"Person" shall mean and include individuals, firms, corporations and associations.

"Race meet" shall mean and include any exhibition of thoroughbred [or], standard bred [and], harness or quarter horse racing where the parimutuel system is used.

Singular shall include the plural, and the plural shall include the singular; and words importing one gender shall be regarded as including all other genders.

Sec. 4. Section 1 of this act shall take effect July 1, 1967."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Canfield:

"Mr. President, would Senator Neill yield to a question:

"Is it your thinking that the larger members should pay a larger rate than the little ones?"

Senator Neill:

"This has nothing to do with the gambler, Senator. This has to do with the expenses of running these meets and this will eliminate small county fairs and meets from the state's five percent."

Senator Canfield:

"This has nothing to do with pari-mutuel?"

Senator Neill:

"Oh, yes. The pari-mutuel is the same at big tracks and little tracks and the gambler has the same odds."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President, would Senator Neill yield:

"Senator Neill, if I listened to the amendment correctly, you referred to a 'handle.' Could you describe that for us?"

Senator Neill:

"This language I understand refers to money paid through the pari-mutuel window, and this limits it to a $200,000 gross volume in an entire racing year."

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President:

"Senator Neill, I wonder if you have considered amending the greyhound bill onto this bill so that you could take care of the whole matter in one operation?"

Senator Neill:

"No."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Neill, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 1, line 2 of the title, after "receipts" strike the remainder of the title and insert "; amending section 9, chapter 55, Laws of 1933 and RCW 67.16.090; amending section 1, chapter 236, Laws of 1949, and RCW 67.16.010; adding a new section to chapter 67.16 RCW; and establishing an effective date."

On motion of Senator Hallauer, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 306 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Hallauer yield:

"Senator, did I understand you to say that this breakage would be funneled through the State treasurer's office so we have a record of it?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"This does not affect breakage. It affects the state tax and the five percent of the gross handle that the state gathers and how this is to be divided and apportioned."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Do you have any suggestion on how we can funnel that breakage through the State treasurer's office?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"I think that should be in the abandoned property statute but we tried it once and it wasn't successful."

Senator Rasmussen:

"That was under Governor Langlie. We have a new Governor. He might not be against it."

Debate ensued.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Andersen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Freise yield to a question:

"This disturbs me considerably, Senator Freise. I had no idea that this sort of thing could actually occur in this state. Are you saying that the department of institutions is putting children in institutions simply because there is no other place for them or is it the easy way to handle them; and if so shouldn't an amendment perhaps be offered to this to make certain that if there are any such commitments, that those commitments be declared illegal to the end that something can be done about it? In other words, this statute seems to be prospective in nature, rather than going back to any such commitments which may have occurred in the past. If what you say is true, shouldn't this be made null and void as far as past commitments are concerned?"

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"In answer to Senator Andersen's question, now this has happened in the past and this is not through any fault of the department of institutions. It is the fault of our courts. The courts in many cases didn't know what to do with a child whose parents were irresponsible. Maybe they were complete alcoholics and there were no other relatives. Maybe they were transients. So what do they do? They committed a child to one of our institutions which was absolutely wrong. They have uncovered one or more cases about which I told you. All I can say is for the last several years we have had one of the finest directors of institutions under Dr. Garrett Heyns and I think Dr. Conte is a very able and worthy successor and I am sure the department is going through all of their records to discover these cases. This legislation was at Dr. Conte's suggestion so that it cannot happen in the future in the state of Washington. But it has happened in the past. I told you of the one case where a woman committed to a mental institution gave birth to an illegitimate child and the child lived for seven or eight years in Lakeland Village because it had no other place to go, and I just hope that it won't happen again. This provides that the courts will not send these children to an institution unless a dependent child is delinquent and so on."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Andersen, the rules were suspended and Substitute Senate Bill No. 103 was returned to second reading for the purpose of amendment.

On motion of Senator Bailey, Substitute Senate Bill No. 103 was ordered to retain its place at the end of the second reading calendar for today.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, would Senator Washington yield:

"Senator Washington, I notice that you empower the board of regents to sell, but you then direct the board of regents to buy. Why do you direct that they have to buy land?"

Senator Washington:

"At the present time according to the highway attorneys there is a question of whether or not the board of regents has a right to convey a portion of the campus for the use of the expressway This merely makes it possible to do so."

Senator Rasmussen:

"You mean there is a question whether or not this is constitutional?"

Senator Washington:

"No, it is not a question of constitutionality, but there is a question whether the board of regents has the statutory right."

Senator Rasmussen:

"This is all right, empowering the board of regents to sell. But why does the highway commission want the portion in the bill about buying? The bill says that they 'shall' buy. It doesn't say they 'may' buy."

Senator Washington:

"The highway is going through a particular area and will take a portion of the campus. There is no question about it."

Senator Rasmussen:

"You have not answered my question. Why does it say they shall buy? Boards of regents usually operate on their own."

Senator Washington:

"I believe this also would probably involve a constitutional question. In other words the fact that this is university property and the money they receive shall be used to enlarge the campus. I believe there is a constitutional question there."

Senator Rasmussen:

"That is what I had in mind. Wouldn't it have been just as well if the highway department had bought the land and then exchanged it?"

Senator Washington:

"Oh, there may be other ways of doing it, Senator. This is the way it was proposed and I don't know of any reason for doing it another way."

Debate ensued.

Senator Uhlman:

"Mr. President, would Senator Washington yield to a question:

"Senator Washington, this directly affects my district. It takes out eight of my most Republican precincts as the expressway goes through the eastern section of my district and I, therefore, would like to ask for the record: Is this bill in any way designed to permit the University of Washington to receive compensation prior to any of the individual home owners in the proposed path of the expressway?"

Senator Washington:

"It is anticipated that the money which the highway department would pay the University of Washington would be paid as construction starts and at the same time they would also make payment to other homes and private property in the area."

Senator Uhlman:

"Senator Washington, could I have a yes or no answer to the question for the record?"

Senator Washington:

"Would you repeat the question?"

Senator Uhlman:

"Senator Washington, is it within the legislative intent of this bill to permit the University of Washington to be compensated at any time prior to any of the individual home owners within the path of the R. H. Thomson expressway?"

Senator Washington:

"No."

"Senator Henry, that was the original motion. The Senator does have the privilege to move at any time during the day."

Senator Uhlman:

"As I understand, the question now before us is the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 307?"

The President:

"It has not been moved to reconsider as yet, Senator Uhlman."

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

Senator Uhlman:

"Mr. President:

"I so move."

The President:

"Senator Uhlman has moved that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 307 failed to pass."

Debate ensued.

Senator Rasmussen demanded a roll call.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"Point of order, I think the previous question is the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 307. We have already voted to reconsider."

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, point of order:

"I think Senator Uhlman's motion was to bring the matter immediately before the body and it was originally to be considered at the end of the second reading calendar."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Hallauer is correct. A roll call has been demanded. Do one-sixth of the members join in the demand?"

The demand for the roll call was sustained by Senators Rasmussen, Uhlman, Greive, Connor, Ryder, Peterson (Ted), Guess, Stender, Redmon and Freise.

The President:

"The question is: It has been moved that the Senate reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 307 failed to pass."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Ryder:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I believe that it has been moved by Senator Uhlman that we immediately consider Engrossed Senate Bill No. 307, is that right?"

The President:

"That is correct."

Senator Ryder:

"It was moved that the Senate do immediately consider the matter."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President:

"Does not the motion raise the question of whether we desire to reconsider and then after we decide whether we shall reconsider, then the question is open?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The minutes show that Senator Uhlman made the motion that having voted on the prevailing side, he now moves that the Senate reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 307 failed to pass. That motion is in order."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"He made that motion this morning and it carried, as you stated earlier, on a standing vote, twenty to eighteen, I believe."

The President:

"The motion this morning was to place the consideration of the matter at the end of the second reading calendar for today."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"I think Senator Uhlman's motion this morning was that we reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 307 failed to pass and place it at the end of the calendar."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Uhlman gave notice this morning, Senator, and wished the matter to be considered on the second reading calendar this evening. The President respectfully hopes that this clarifies the situation. This morning, Senator Uhlman moved that the Senate reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 307 failed to pass at the end of the second reading calendar for today. That motion carried. Now earlier this evening Senator Uhlman moved that the Senate reconsider the vote."

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"I move that the motion by Senator Uhlman be laid upon the table."

The President:

"It has been moved by Senator Hallauer that the motion by Senator Uhlman be laid upon the table. As many as are in favor will say aye."

Senator Rasmussen demanded a division.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, point of order:

"You cannot table a motion to reconsider. It is the second highest in rank and a motion to table is far down under subsidiary motions. Rule 21 and Reed's 204."

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"I withdraw the motion to table."

The President:

"If there are no objections, Senator Hallauer withdraws the motion to table."

MOTION

It was moved by Senator Hallauer that Engrossed Senate Bill No. 307 and the motion by Senator Uhlman be made a special order of business at the end of the second reading calendar for tomorrow.

The motion was carried.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"To clarify my thinking has the bill been reconsidered and can it be placed on the second reading calendar?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The Senate has not acted upon the motion to reconsider."

Senator Ryder:

"How can it be placed on the second reading calendar as if it had been reconsidered?"

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I suggest we record Senator Hallauer's motion as a motion to suspend the rules and place it at the end of the second reading calendar as a special order of business."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Uhlman:

"Point of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President:

"My concern is Rule 31 which reads that we be placed in the position of not being able to consider this tomorrow. Does this motion to suspend that rule cover that portion of Rule 31 putting us in the position of not being beyond the fiftieth day and having to reconsider on the same day?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The Senate by its unanimous approval has made this a special order of business for tomorrow, Senator, by suspension of the rules."

Senate Bill No. 484, by Senators Mardesich, Sandison, and Stender:

On motion of Senator Bailey, Senate Bill No. 484 was ordered to retain its place at the end of the second reading calendar for today.

Providing liability of insurance companies on certain real property in that amount specified in policy.

On motion of Senator Freise, Substitute Senate Bill No. 524 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 524 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Freise, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 524 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINTS OF INQUIRY

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President, would Senator Freise yield:

"Senator Freise, I am wondering why this was restricted to real property and/or buildings in connection therewith? Why doesn't it apply to all classes of property, rather than having it restricted?"

Senator Freise:

"Senator Mardesich, I think maybe in future years we might want to expand this. But this already is a substantial expansion of the existing law and the factual situations you get into on a matter of personal property would take a considerably longer study and I think, Senator Mardesich, if you can allow this to go through this time and have the interim committee on insurance reestablished, we can study it a little further and then next session we may want to expand it."

Further debate ensued.

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President, would Senator Freise yield:

"Senator, one thing bothers me as I read this bill. Does this take care of the situation where you expressly buy—I think it is called the co-insurance? Maybe Senator Sandison could answer this. You talk about full value or you buy a certain amount of insurance and then this becomes the full value and the measure of damages, but what about when I know I am buying eighty percent co-insurance or sixty percent? Does this bill prohibit that type of insurance?"

Senator Freise:

"I doubt if it would if you know in advance that it has an eighty percent co-insurance clause. I don't think it would affect that. But if you do, however, buy an ordinary fire insurance policy on your house, there is no co-insurance, and I have that type of policy. There is no co-insurance clause on mine. Most of those clauses are on industrial and commercial buildings. On your dwellings and so on, it is a straight fire policy in a certain amount."

Debate ensued.

Senator Sandison:

"Mr. President, I might ask this one question:

"Assume I own a house and it is insured for $15,000 and I decide to remodel and do away with part of the house because it is too large, then I have a house that does not now have enough square footage to merit the insurance. It wouldn't be worth $15,000. What happens in a situation such as that?"

Senator Herrmann:

"I think in a situation of that kind you would have to go back to the contracts and I don't think this interferes with the right of the parties to contract and if there was any provision in the contract that would show a violation. Certainly this is not a cure-all for all possible litigation that may come up under the policy."

Senator Freise:

"I might say the reason we have a substitute bill is that this was worked out with the insurance industry and I don't think they are going to allow any gimmicks to come in on this bill."

Further debate ensued.
