He was then introduced to the senators and representatives in joint session and delivered the following message:

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, January 13, 1897.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

You are assembled to exercise the highest privilege known to man in a free state, that of making laws to govern your fellow men. Upon your action may depend the lives and welfare of your friends and neighbors; the prosperity and advancement of our cherished commonwealth, and the worth of your future. Remembering the maxim whose truth has been approved by the experience of ages, "That people is best governed which is least governed," you will, I am assured, approach the execution of your delicate duties with caution and prudence, to the end that all good citizens may approve your course.

"In a free country," said that noble spirit, George William Curtis, who devoted a long and lovely life to one of the best of popular reforms, that of civil service, "an election is intended to be, and of right should be, the choice of differing policies of administration by the people at the polls." But government by party does not imply that partisan feelings, party spirit, should enter into government, least of all in our federal republic where its perniciousness has been most felt, for even at the outset of our nation that wise man whose name our state commemorates, said of party spirit, "It exists under different shapes in all government, more or less stifled, controlled or repressed; but in those of popular form it is seen in its greatest rankness, and is truly their worst enemy."

Fortunately for our national welfare the political forces at work have, as a rule, been so evenly balanced that the resultant, especially in legislation, has been to urge us upward and onward in material and social progress between closely converging lines, no matter what party has been in power. The evils of party spirit have been most viciously exercised in states where the balance of power between parties has been least evenly divided. Indeed, it may be said that it is an axiom of practical politics that large legislative majorities are most difficult to harmonize for a wise common purpose.

You, gentlemen, more truly than has been wonted in our legislative assemblies, represent all the people of the state in their political convictions. Every shade of opinion known to our politics is, I believe, represented among you. This, in my judgment, is as it should be; for, to be frank with you, I for one do not believe that political representation should be all one sided, though, as a good republican, I should be pleased to see a few more of my party here, and I must take comfort in the belief that a good sound whipping is sometimes as salutary for a party as for a strong and headstrong boy.

I believe in the sane judgment of the American people. I do not believe that any triumph of principles with which I do not agree will work any lasting injury; for if right they should triumph, and if wrong the people have a speedy remedy and will not fail to apply it.

Gentlemen of the legislature, I will not dwell at length upon the general policy which I think should be pursued in your legislation. To do so at this time is the special prerogative of the governor-elect, whose success as an administrator so largely depends upon your coöperation in his recommendations; but I would be recreant to my constitutional duty and to my own convictions did I not ask your attention to some of the needs of the state as I have seen them in the past four years, and as I feel them now.

TENDENCY TOWARD EXCESSIVE APPROPRIATIONS.

The impulses of a legislature influenced as it always is by a combination of local interests and confidence in state credit are nearly always lavish, so much so that I have vetoed over a quarter of a million dollars appropriated. This lavishness of appropriations had as its excuse the over confidence of the legislators in the resources of our state, perhaps excusable in men so enthusiastic over its future, as nearly all were by reason of "boom times." I venture to repeat my former suggestion that "the present legislature should closely scrutinize all appropriation acts and defend the taxpayers from a repetition of such folly." Under existing laws it is impossible for the government to veto many items of appropriation which in his judgment might be reduced because of the custom of making appropriations in a lump sum. For instance, there was appropriated by the last legislature—

For maintenance Western Washington hospital for the insane.....	$160,000
For maintenance Eastern Washington hospital for the insane.....	100,000
For maintenance state penitentiary.....	135,000
For maintenance state university.....	90,000
	$485,000

Here are four items of appropriation aggregating nearly half a million dollars without a detail. If such items were detailed, doubtless the governor could find several items which might be omitted without seriously crippling the objects of maintenance. At present he cannot do this. Early in the session a law should be passed requiring each appropriation item to be detailed. The legislation I have recommended has been adopted in many states. You should see to it, also, that the state's money is not allowed to remain idle. Under the present system this is unavoidable. A simple remedy, as I have before advised, is to pass an act turning the idle money from all save the bond and interest fund into the general fund for the redemption of warrants in rotation.

STATE DEBT.

From a careful examination of the state auditor's records you will see that the increase of the state debt, if taxes had been paid, under the present administration from January 11, 1893, to November 1, 1896, has been $174,748.37. The debt of the state when this administration began was $1,204,092.58. On November 1, 1896, it was $2,185,038.72. On November 1, 1892, the taxes delinquent and unpaid amounted to $150,000; and on November 1, 1896, the unpaid taxes due the state amounted to $955,905.50.

Under this administration $251,000 deficiencies left over by the last administration have been paid, and nearly $150,000 in interest on obligations then incurred, a total of $400,000. Under this administration there are no deficiencies, the last legislature, on my recommendation, having passed a law rendering them impossible. You will see that it is absolutely imperative that the laws for the collection of taxes should be rigidly enforced no matter upon what basis of expense you may put the state government. It is my opinion that a large amount in interest might be saved to the state by pursuing the policy adopted by several of our counties, irrespective of their politics, in funding the debt by issuing long term, low interest bonds. At present our annual interest account on our outstanding warrants, at 8 per cent. per annum, is approximately $150,000. Fund this debt, which will require a constitutional amendment, and then insist upon keeping the state upon a cash basis, and you will have easy burdens for the taxpayers, and the assurance of a prosperous and well regulated state.

FOREST PRESERVATION.

A measure which seems to me imperatively needed is the creation by law of an adequate forest preservation patrol, for the prevention of forest fires, the preservation of our forests, and the punishment of trespassers on public lands of the state. Now that the federal land grant is practically completed, its preservation is the next need in legislation. The destruction of valuable property annually by fire runs up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars; to say nothing of the destruction by floods, so largely caused by denudation of forests. With the abolition of the state land commission, as at present constituted, recommended both by the board of state land commissioners and the commissioner of public lands, in which recommendation I concur, it might be well to create a new land and forest commission, to serve without pay, except per diem and expenses for stated meetings, who shall cooperate with the commissioner of public lands in formulating regulations for forest preservation.

Some such action as this has been recommended in nearly every western state, and the federal congress has created a forest commission of scientific experts, whose recommendations the state land and forest commission should be authorized to carry into effect. Such a commission as I suggest should have as members scientists and experts, chosen irrespective of politics.

INVESTMENT OF PERMANENT SCHOOL FUND.

On my recommendation, the last legislature authorized the investment of the permanent school fund in state warrants. The result has been gratifying. Under the former system, profitable security was almost impossible to obtain, and the uninvested fund gradually crept up to \$147,347.78 on November 1, 1894. On October 31, 1896, there had been invested in state warrants \$212,803.46, bearing eight per cent. interest per annum. No better security can be had by the state than the state's own paper. The system practically amounts to taking money out of one pocket, putting it into another, and paying the current school fund a high rate of interest for the privilege of doing so. Prior to the adoption of this system practically the best rate of interest on securities obtainable averaged five and one-half per cent. On the transactions of the past two years the current school fund has, therefore, profited, and will continue to profit until the warrants are redeemed, at the rate of $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. on \$212,803.46, or \$5,320 per annum; a showing which should be gratifying to every taxpayer and parent of a school child.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

At the last session of the legislature I recommended a sweeping reform in the government of state institutions. I asked that "management of state institutions should be provided for in one general act, all commissions, directors, boards and administrative officers to be placed under the supervision of an examiner, who shall act under the instructions of the governor in scrutinizing contracts, investigating methods and discipline, and in checking up disbursements." This I considered then and consider now the most needed reform in actual state government. I hope that you can see your way to effect it.

The state institutions, I believe, will be found to have been as well and safely managed as any in the United States, and exceptionally well in most instances. For details I refer you to the reports. It is proper here to say that a judgment has been recovered against the bondsmen of the late warden of the penitentiary, J. H. Coblentz, for the full penal sum of his bond, $10,000.

Without intending any invidious comparisons, but with a desire to call your attention to their changed status, I wish to say that under their present management the state university at Seattle and the agricultural college and school of science at Pullman, the culmination of our system of intellectual and industrial education, have taken giant strides forward and merit your special consideration.

REVENUE LAW REVISION.

Our revenue laws were modified in the direction of reform by the last legislature. Much remains to be done. Assessments should be based on actual worth in money, not on speculative or imaginary values. The cost of assessment, over one hundred thousand dollars, is altogether too high. A collateral inheritance tax should be adopted. The reduction of delinquency penalties has been a mistake. Where penalties are too low taxes will surely become delinquent and revenues will fail to meet estimated and necessary income.

RAILROAD LEGISLATION.

I have nothing to add to my former recommendation that minimum charges for transportation should be secured to shippers in a spirit of exact justice to railroads and their patrons. My views, which were set forth with urgency, did not meet with approval and the legislature failed to grant the relief so long desired in this state. I have only to say that a fair and honest regulation of railroad rates can work no real hardship to corporation interests. What the government at Washington has done, the government in Washington should do. The same principles of law and justice which apply to and govern the Interstate Commerce Commission should apply to and govern in this state.

STATE LANDS.

For a detailed statement of the condition of the state lands I refer you to the report of the commissioner of public lands and the board of state land commissioners, whose statements and suggestions I concur with and endorse. You will see from those reports that the important task of selection of granted lands is completed so far as the board is concerned, and will be complete when the reservations of unsurveyed townships already made by me in accordance with law are surveyed, and the reserved areas selected. The laying of the harbor lines, the platting and survey of the tide lands of the first class in front of cities have been completed, and the hearings of contests over preference rights to purchase have been disposed of so far as the state is concerned. This important and delicate work has been completed without legal objection by any parties. The facts that the commissioner of public lands was so largely occupied by the necessary duties of his office, and the careful exercise of executive and judicial discretion in the selection of lands and the hearing of tide land contests, formed the principal reason for the continuance of the board of state land commissioners. Their special work is now practically complete, therefore I concur in their, and the commissioner's suggestion, that there no longer remains any need for the board's continuance in its present form.

HARBOR AREA LEASES.

An uncertainty in the law, and a praiseworthy desire to obtain the most thorough knowledge of the practice of seaport cities throughout the world, has led the board of state land commissioners to defer the preparation of lease regulations until the legislature should meet. The policy of the constitution-makers in creating harbor line areas was that by the state's aid excessive tolls on commerce should be avoided. You should provide a nominal rate for leases, and at the same time restrict lessees' charges to an equally low rate.

STATE CAPITOL.

For a full account of the transactions of the state capitol commission, I refer you to the detailed report of that body, which will be laid before you. The substance of that report, and the facts are, that the state has the very best possible foundation for the capitol building, constructed under the most rigid and conscientious supervision, as you can all readily see, and at a large cash loss to the contractors, which is unusual in such cases. Further than this, it will be seen: That the work of the commission has been economical; that every effort has been bent toward securing complete construction; and that the effort was unsuccessful owing to the fact that it was found impossible to sell the capitol fund warrants by reason of the unsatisfactory condition of the law and that of the money market. The security itself—the capitol land grant—was and is considered adequate, and the lands already selected are ample in value in a normal market to cover the cost of construction. The capitol should be built. Under the decision of our supreme court, the liability for construction can not fall upon the state itself. The obligations incurred can only be a lien against the land grant. The grant was made by the federal government for the erection of a state capitol, and for no other purpose. It can not be alienated. Those persons who have thought that the capitol was to be built, or could be built, at the state's expense, have been mistaken in their views. The state is virtually a trustee for the federal government in the building of the capitol, and the state should act as soon as conditions will permit. If the federal government had granted money for the building of the capitol, there could have been no possible question as to the liability of the state. Because the federal government granted lands for this purpose instead of money there is not created thereby any state liability.

RELIEF FOR DEBTORS.

The tendency of state legislation in this country has been for the relief of debtors, the principal seeming to be that a conservation of existing forces is of sounder wisdom and greater benefit to the social organization than disintegration and reorganization. But the courts have invariably held to the inviolability of free contract and have tolerated no interference with its operation. As a measure of conservation, I have heretofore recommended that when property is sold under foreclosure or execution proceedings and is redeemed by the debtor or his agent he be allowed to recover the net income or profits of the property during the redemption period from the purchaser or creditor. Such a measure I think is naked justice. A measure of this class of legislation was passed by the last legislature known as the "Deficiency Judgment Bill." I was obliged to veto it because it was clearly intended to be retroactive, and was therefore unconstitutional. Since my veto, the position I took has been sustained by the supreme court of the United States in the case of Barnitz v. Beverly (16 Sup. Ct. Rep. 1043), which went up from Kansas. I am of the opinion that the least harmful measure of the kind that can be enacted is one that shall clearly exclude existing contracts, and which shall allow the mortgagor to renew his present mortgage on its former conditions if he chooses. Otherwise such legislation would be destructive and not conservative. Legislation which will provide for future action in such cases may be wise or unwise, but it can work no prejudice in law to either creditor or debtor. Intended remedial legislation should be the work of the good physician, not of the surgeon. It will not cure a temporary paralysis of a man's right arm to cut off the arm.

NATIONAL GUARD.

An act of the last legislature has worked needed reform in our national guard. Under its operation we have had great reduction of and economy in expense. Seven companies of infantry and two troops of cavalry were disbanded, the remainder of the force has been put on a strictly military basis, the play soldier being eliminated. As it now stands the guard is highly creditable to the state in its soldierly character. For a detailed statement you are referred to the admirable report of the efficient adjutant general.

REDUCTION OF STATE EXPENSES.

An act compelling citizens to act as election officers without pay should be passed. This would save the taxpayers nearly $40,000 on a single state election. No good citizen should expect pay for such services. The last legislature made a partial reclassification of superior court districts in accordance with my recommendation. The result has been satisfactory, but a further reduction would do no harm, provided that court commissioners for probate cases be appointed. Municipal courts can also be abolished with advantage. In criminal cases fees and mileage should be abolished and only actual expenses be allowed witnesses and jurors. The professional juror would soon disappear if this were done. In our civilized society men should act out their part of the social compact in good faith and without expectation of reward for duty done.

CONCLUSION.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives, you will understand that I can have no personal motive when I express the hope that here you may lay aside faction and partisanship. You receive a party nomination, and it is right that you should apply your party principles to government; always remembering that the people, not your party, elect you, and that you represent not a party but all the people. In your deliberations no sectional or class interests should be allowed to mar your devotion to the welfare of the whole public, yet these interests you will find it hardest to resist. I have been a resident among you for over twenty years. I hope to end my days here. I am proud of the people, proud of the state. I shall take as much pride as any among you if when you have concluded your labors the public verdict shall be "well done!" and you shall have strengthened our common aspiration, the welfare of the people of Washington.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Pursuant to adjournment, the House convened at 1:45 o'clock p. m., and was called to order by Speaker Cline.

Roll call showed all members present, except Messrs. Mentzer and Witt.

Mrs. Susie Barr was sworn in by Mr. Speaker as special committee clerk.

The joint session reconvened at 2 o'clock P. M.

Roll was called; all members being present except Messrs. Mentzer and Witt.

A quorum being present, the joint session proceeded to business.

The oath of office was administered to Governor-elect John R. Rogers by Chief Justice Scott, of the supreme court, and his excellency read his inaugural message to the legislature of the State of Washington, as follows:

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, JANUARY 13, 1897.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Washington:

An eminent doctor of the law has told us with great force and clearness that all valid law is based on that instinctive apprehension of justice which finds universal lodgment in the heart of man. On this true foundation are based all right rules of human conduct. Relying upon this and upon my own clearly felt consciousness of right intent, I assume the weighty and most responsible duties imposed as the result of the recent election. I pledge you only this: A strict adherence to law and a firm determination to execute it without fear or favor.

THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

We live in a favored region. Here stretch out before our eyes, in elsewhere unequalled profusion, the bounties of nature. Nowhere among the sisterhood of states comprising the American Union are the natural resources and opportunities here afforded excelled or scarcely equaled. With an area largely in excess of that occupied by the six New England states, the State of Washington presents a wide diversity of opportunity unrivaled in the splendid character of the invitation offered to both capital and labor. It has the best and most productive grain fields in the world, and the largest body of valuable timber yet remaining in the limits of the United States. Its mountains of coal and iron are in close proximity to the deep waters of Puget Sound—the grandest harbor of the Union, with a shore line of 1,800 miles in extent, the future seat of empire on the Pacific coast, through whose ports have already come during the year just passed goods second in value only to those imported by the imperial city of New York. Add to all this a mild climate, where rivers are never frozen and ports never blockaded, a brave and self-reliant people, industrious and energetic, and it would appear that everything necessary to man's prosperity has been provided with a generous hand. And this is indeed the truth. Nature has here lavished her bounties, and nothing is lacking to complete a perfect picture of God's favor to man.

PRESENT DIFFICULTIES.

And yet, that all is not well with us we are agreed. No honest man can say that labor receives the full measure of just return for its performance. Times are hard, we say, and property has depreciated below the value it should justly hold. Men vainly seek employment, which, if found, is not adequately remunerative. Anxious wives and mothers look with fear to the daily diminishing family stores. Mortgages cover much of the real estate, and the hearts of strong, brave men sink within them as they view with moistened eyes the needs of helpless children for whom they are called to provide. No one doubts, no one denies, the existence of want and involuntary poverty among us, poverty, too, not the result of wastefulness or lack of industry, but forced by the constantly appreciating value of money consequent upon the demonetization of silver and the establishment of the gold standard. Nevertheless we are told that money thus cunningly enhanced and enlarged in purchasing power by legislative act is the only honest money! Having by law thus, to all intents and purposes, increased the size of the dollar, our monetary masters demand from the people the number of dollars denominated in the bond. Having in like manner doubled the ounces in the pound with which all the products of human exertion are measured, they call him dishonest who speaks of a return to ounces and pounds having a relation of sixteen to one. Like the drunken fish wife who reviled the eel that would not lie still while she skinned it, these hypocritical purveyors of so-called honest money cover with billingsgate those who point out the transparent trickery of their proceedings. But, blinded by personal and pecuniary interests, men who think themselves honest and who mean to be honest do not see the enormous injustice of the demand thus made upon industry for a steadily increasing share of the products of toil. These are the conditions we are required to face. Because of them debts are increasing, interest is accumulating, taxes are unpaid, our homes are taken from us, our business is destroyed, and labor is deprived of its just remuneration.

APPEAL TO PATRIOTISM.

You are here to make and mend the laws. The people look to you for relief. They have elected you with the hope and the belief that you will be able to remove some of the difficulties under which they are laboring. This is well understood by all, and your presence here is an implied acceptance of a most important trust thus committed to your charge.

Section 6 of article 3 of our state constitution provides that the governor "shall communicate at every session by message to the legislature the condition of the affairs of the state and recommend such measures as he shall deem expedient for their action."

In pursuance of the duty thus imposed, I am led, first, earnestly to warn you against the dangers of factional controversy, for when once this has been aroused earnest endeavor and high patriotic resolve perish in the fierce heat engendered by the struggle for place. That you are thus to be tested is plain to all. In addition to the patent fact that differences of opinion exist among you is the further and, at this critical juncture, deplorable fact that an election is shortly to be held here which shall place in the Senate of the United States a citizen of this state for the ensuing six years. For this coveted position each faction has its candidate or candidates, for whose success some of the factionists may be ready to imperil the future existence of the political compact by means of which their election was secured, and which, if rightly guided and honestly managed, will finally and securely lodge in the hands of the great plain people of this state those rights, powers and privileges with which as American citizens they are inalienably endowed. If, by mischance, disruption and disintegration of hitherto allied forces shall at this time ensue and the ardent hope which has arisen in the hearts of earnest men that there had been formed an organization devoted solely to the advancement of pure politics and just rules of political action, only to be destroyed by the strife of politicians eager for preferment — if this shall be the result, I do not hesitate here and now to place the blame for the vile surrender of a great trust upon the heads of office seekers and their friends. If the hope of the people is thus to perish, greed for office will end it and the quarrels of factionists, each more eager for spoil than for the success of a great cause, will prove the men before me unfit for the grave and weighty responsibilities of free government. Men of Washington, I adjure you by the love you bear the sacred cause of human liberty let not these dismal forebodings become the true history of a wretched past. Repel them; repel any insinuation upon your honor as men and your fidelity to the cause of humanity. That temptation will arise, must indeed come, from the rivalries of candidates, is clear to all. We are here not as the agents of this or that man or this or that political faction, but rather as the representatives of a people united in their demand for relief and earnestly desirous of obtaining it in the only way it can be obtained — by consistent, unselfish and harmonious political action. He who prevents this is a stumbling block in the pathway of reform.

At the battle of the pyramids in Egypt, Nepoleon inspired his soldiers to deeds of heroic valor by shouting to them: "Soldiers! from yonder pyramids forty centuries look down upon you." So, to-day, seventy millions of people are looking anxiously to Washington with hope and fear, — with hope that we may prove equal to the emergency, and that, inspired by the high resolve which ever attends the patriot, we may spurn the promptings of faction and prove to the world that the men of our day are capable of as full and free consecration to a great cause as ever were men in any age of the world.

These are the conditions: The great plain people, the average business man, the farmer, the mechanic and the professional man, are to unite against the organized aggressions of the privileged few, or they are to become the helpless servants of a poorly concealed plutocracy. Men of varied interests and of no interest are to stand together, or, divided, they are to fall a prey to the oncoming forces of despotism. If they are to stand together they must agree, and they can only agree by means of mutual concessions and conciliation. The future is in your hands; you can make it what you will. But if you fail to agree, if by lack of agreement you render the success of the people's cause impossible. Do not forget that the men of this state will call you to account as unworthy and incapable servants and deprive you of future stewardship.

A vast opportunity is before us. We are to prove ourselves worthy the trust imposed upon us; we are to show our ability to construct new policies as well as destroy the old.

THE RULING POWER.

It should, and must be, remembered that law, to be respected and obeyed, must follow and not precede public opinion, in fact, just law is first the product of that instinctive apprehension of justice which finds universal lodgment in the heart of man. It must primarily exist in the heart; afterward, its being placed upon the statute is the mere formal ratification of what had previously existed. Lacking this essential requisite, enactments of the legislative authority will prove but temporary expedients. Public opinion in all civilized countries is the power behind the throne, greater than the throne itself. And public opinion is the product of that general consensus of prevailing thought which must come, and does come, not from the minds even of the educated and the well informed, but rather from the general average judgment of society embracing all classes and conditions of men; because of the fact that in this general average judgment all grades of intelligence and all kinds of people are included, the resulting product is a truer statement of matters affecting all the people than could be the case where only a few or a certain class of minds consulted. This is the true foundation of democratic government among men, and with this understanding, "The voice of the people is the voice of God." But no class, no part of society however intelligent or influential, is qualified or able to speak with this authority. It must needs be a declaration of substantial unanimity coming from that very large majority which includes, practically, all the people. This is public opinion, the ruling power in modern life, against which nothing can continue long to stand. Supported by this, reform can go on. Deserted by this, it will wither and die. Whatever is by you proposed and here enacted, that is supported by this general average judgment of society, is called for and will endure. Whatever is not thus supported is uncalled for and will not be endured. Let us not deceive ourselves, the limit is set beyond which we cannot with safety go. If a reform or a measure is not thus supported by a nearly unanimous opinion, or at least by a very large majority, its time has not come and must be deferred until by agitation and education that unanimity of thought is produced which will then be able to carry it successfully forward. Revolutions have always had more to fear from reaction than from any and all things else. And this comes from the fact that adventurous spirits have in their zeal outstripped public opinion, going beyond the ground considered safe by the general average judgment of the society specially concerned. Advancing but a step beyond this, confidence is lost, fear is engendered, and retreat in ruinous disorder is the inevitable result.

In this state a most successful political revolution has just been effected. Let not the zealot vainly imagine that because of this revolution authority has been given for the enactment into law of all approved by him. This is only the thought of the enthusiast and the dreamer. It is true that the trumpet has sounded an advance, but that advance must be one which all are able to make, for all are concerned in the movement. The advance must not be greater than that approved by that public opinion which comes from the general average judgment of all the people of Washington. We go beyond this at the risk of losing all the advantages gained; of losing the confidence of those who, while with us in this fight, only half endorsed the plans of those among us most advanced, and the moral certainty of arousing fear in the minds of the timid and faint-hearted in our own ranks. Better a thousand times to stop short of an exercise of our whole power than to exceed it by so much as the fractional part of a grain.

THE REVENUE LAWS.

Taxation has ever been an essential, yet annoying, feature of government. In a measure, the collection of revenue involves an exercise of force repugnant to the independent spirit of American character. But the people quickly recognize and appreciate the benefits accruing from a cautious and just expenditure of these revenues—an expenditure for the education of our youth, for the care of the orphan and the infirm, for the improvement of the public highways, for the protection of health and the preservation of social order, and for the proper regulation and control of corporate bodies whose avarice leads them to disregard the interests of the individual and the state. Unequal taxation, however, is a source of constant turmoil, no matter how wisely or fairly such taxes may be expended. The revenue laws now in the statutes are grossly unequal in their operation. They throw the burden of government almost entirely upon property holders of small means, while wealthy corporations escape with nominal contributions to the public treasury. The laxity of the revenue laws in other respects offers a premium for the non-payment of taxes by persons and institutions who profit more largely by speculating on the misfortunes of others, in these times of depression, than they would gain by prompt settlement. The treasurers' books in the larger counties show that as a rule the taxes which remain unpaid are due from corporations and men of wealth who are able to pay. Many of these delinquents are fighting the law in the courts, and others seek to evade penalty and interest through a special law remitting them.

How to prevent these abuses is a question of serious concern to all, and should receive your most thoughtful attention. Some of the older states in the Union have perceived the inequalities of the revenue system here employed. In the effort to devise a method more equitable to all alike, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York have recognized the principle that corporations enjoy particular advantages granted by the state, and in justice should make suitable return. Pennsylvania has advanced so far in this line that about two-thirds of its annual revenue is raised by taxing corporation stock, limited partnerships, foreign insurance companies, incomes, collateral inheritances and liquor licenses. In his report for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1894, the auditor of Pennsylvania gives this summary of the state's receipts:

1. State lands sold.....	$2,105 99
2. Tax on corporation stock and partnerships.....	3,633,623 30
3. Tax on gross receipts of corporations and notaries public.....	780,308 61
4. Tax on bank stock and examination of banks.....	535,142 23
5. Tax on net earnings and income of banks.....	78,086 43
6. Foreign insurance companies.....	495,758 50
7. Tax on gross premiums.....	55,515 86
8. Tax on municipal and corporation loans.....	1,381,551 66
9. Tax on personal property.....	2,386,750 99
10. Tax on wills.....	162,518 52
11. Tax on collateral inheritances.....	869,178 91
12. Tax on licenses such as mercantile, liquor, etc.....	1,366,137 26
13. Other incomes, variously distributed, all aggregating.....	12,873,736 82

New York, by recent enactment, has made it possible to defray its enormous expenses without resorting to direct taxation, except for a small portion of its revenues. As a first step, New York enacted a revenue law modeled after that of Pennsylvania. The two differ in detail, but are alike in principle. New Jersey has a modified form of the same system. Illinois and Ohio are fast approaching it.

In view of the examples set by these older and more experienced states, the commonwealth of Washington could not be accused of rash or prejudicial action by setting out to abandon the pernicious scheme of taxation that casts the heaviest burden upon those least able to bear it. It is not class legislation to require remuneration for special privilege. The people of Washington are progressive and liberal. They realize that capital and labor must cooperate in the development of our latent resources. But they object, as true Americans ought, to any system, whether of money or taxation, which gives all the fruit to capital and leaves labor empty handed. Fair and just laws never repelled honest investment, but if they did, it were better, infinitely better, that the population of this state remain a half million free, self-governing, self-respecting Americans forever, than to bring five million immigrants among us only to place them under perpetual bondage to foreign money loaners by yielding concessions which would drain the state of its natural wealth to swell the coffers of the excessively rich, and condemn the wealth producers to a life of penury and want.

I earnestly recommend that the policy of our revenue laws be changed to correspond to the lines laid down by those old and most successfully managed states — Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. It is possible that the immediate enactment of laws necessary to carry this policy into effect may be barred by article VII of the state constitution. If so, an amendment would remove the obstacle. Such a reform need not be delayed longer than two years, if an amendment is submitted by the present legislature.

To a large extent the great properties of the state escape taxation, while the poor home owner is taxed to the limit of endurance. This should cease. Every family should be able to live in a free home, exempt from taxation to a stipulated extent and made free from fear of foreclosure and sale for debt. When once this has been arrived at, the cause of human liberty will have taken a distinct and positive forward step. Whenever our people have been sufficiently educated by hardship and privation to be ready for a really radical measure of reform, they will by constitutional amendment take that first and most indispensable step which shall finally secure to all man's natural and God-given right to a sufficient portion of the earth's surface for self support. When this first and fundamental right of man has been secured, he will be free, and never will be free until this has been gained. Whether men are yet ready for freedom, I do not know.

PUBLIC EDUCATION.

Our state constitution provides: "It is the paramount duty of the state to make ample provision for the education of all children residing within its borders, without distinction or preference on account of race, color, caste or sex. The legislature shall provide for a general and uniform system of public schools." From this it is evident that a state tax for the support of schools for the benefit of all children in the state alike becomes a necessity. The provision is mandatory upon the legislature. Unless a state tax is levied how can there be a general and uniform system of public schools for the equal benefit of all? Two years ago the legislature, by an amendment to the laws, known at the time as "the bare-foot school boy law," established a system of state taxation for the equal benefit of all her children. By means of this, taxes not to exceed four mills on the dollar are levied and collected as other state taxes are collected, sufficient to produce a sum equal to $6 annually for each child of school age. This is simply a state tax for the support of schools. The larger cities and wealthier communities have opposed the law and it is said will make efforts to repeal it. It is claimed that not enough is raised by the law to support the schools, and, doubtless, this is true. But the law does not prevent counties or school districts from raising more. As at first introduced, the bill provided for the raising by taxation of a sum equal to ten dollars for each child of school age, and if taxes were all collected this would afford a sum sufficient for the support of common schools. If, in addition to this, state taxes were levied as in Pennsylvania, our schools might be entirely supported by taxation of property which now largely escapes. Complaint has been made that in some of the counties certain small districts are unfairly treated. An amendment to the law providing for a special apportionment by the county superintendent of each county would very likely remedy this defect.

STATE BOARD OF HIGHER EDUCATION.

In pursuance of an intention to abolish certain boards of control and in this way to unify and systematize the work of our higher institutions of learning, it has been proposed that the state university, the agricultural college and the three normal schools be placed under the control of one central board instead of a separate board for each institution. The secretary of the state board of education might serve as a member of this board and perform the duties of traveling auditor, keeping the central board fully informed regarding the condition and standing of each institution. It is believed that an arrangement of this kind might be made which would save money to the state and secure greater efficiency. The incoming state superintendent of instruction has taken some steps toward formulating a plan of action in this line, to whom further inquiry may be directed.

FREE TEXT BOOKS.

As a matter of principle the state should supply to each scholar in the common schools text books as freely as it now provides school houses and school furniture. At present the state has a contract with a private corporation, which has secured the privilege of furnishing school books at a high cost to the people of the state. By a clause in the contract it is provided that whenever the state shall engage in the manufacture of books the contract is to become inoperative. I am of the opinion that the state can, at comparatively small outlay, establish an experimental plant and manufacture for her citizens good school books at from 25 to 33 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. of the present cost. A first-class printing press and bindery can be bought and set up for about \$5,000. Electrotypes plates of a standard series of school books, with privilege to print from them, can, it is thought, be obtained for a reasonable sum. This plant might be established at the Walla Walla penitentiary. Only two expert workmen need be employed—a pressman and a bookbinder—and even their services might soon be dispensed with. Under instruction from these experts, the inmates of the prison, who, I am told, spend much idle time, will soon be able to make all the books needed for all the children of the state. The books thus manufactured might be sold at cost to the different counties or school districts, or supplied free, as may be provided by statute. In a very short time, in this way, under the supervision of one man as superintendent, the state might be released from an arbitrary tax, amounting in the aggregate to a very large sum, and also make criminals instrumental in elevating and educating the youth of the state. Thus light might be brought out of darkness and good out of evil.

COERCION OF THE VOTER.

It need not be said that the purity of the ballot box is one of the essential requisites in any scheme of free government. Free men must have free votes, and if votes are not beyond the control of selfish outside influences, the voter becomes in time only a machine for recording the edicts of a power greater than that of his own will. Under these circumstances freedom is a sham and self-government an idle word. It is earnestly recommended that a statute be prepared and passed which will prevent the growing evil of coercion and intimidation of the voter.

FREE PASSES.

Section 39 of article 2 of the state constitution stipulates that: "It shall not be lawful for any person holding public office in this state to accept or use a pass, or to purchase transportation from any railroad or other corporation other than as the same may be purchased by the general public, and the legislature shall pass laws to enforce this provision."

Section 20 of article 12 of the constitution provides as follows: "No railroad or other transportation company shall grant free passes or sell tickets or passes at a discount, other than as sold to the public generally, to any member of the legislature, or to any person holding any public office in this state. The legislature shall pass laws to carry this provision into effect."

The legislature has never passed the necessary laws to enforce the provisions of the constitution, and hence they have been practically inoperative. No time should be lost in providing by law that corporations issuing free passes and officials accepting them shall be properly punished.

RAILWAY RATES AND FARES.

The proper regulation and control of common carriers, including railroad and steamship lines, telegraph and telephone companies, is a problem difficult of solution. Government ownership is the only final remedy; but that is yet in the future. Freight rates and passenger fares in this state are exorbitant. They should be reduced. But whether public interest would best be subserved by placing the matter altogether in charge of a commission, or attending to it by direct legislative enactment, those most to be benefited by a reduction are not agreed. It seems to me that the best results could be obtained from a law establishing a maximum scale of rates and fares, and providing for the enforcement of the law through the agency of a commission, giving the commission power further to lower the scale, as time and circumstances may justify. Inasmuch as the governor of the state is responsible for the execution of the laws, I believe that such commission should be appointed by him, any member of it to be removable at the will of the governor. Thus faithfulness to the people would be insured, or the governor justly held to account. The expenses of a transportation commission ought not to be burdensome, and would amount to an infinitesimal part of the direct benefit accruing to the patrons of common carriers within this state as a result of reduced rates and a better regulated service.

ABOLITION OF COMMISSIONS.

The office of arid land commissioner, I am inclined to think, should be abolished, and the duties devolving upon this official be performed by the elected land commissioner. It seems probable that the bill now before congress ceding to the several states outright and without qualification all arid lands within their borders will pass. This will remove any necessity of selecting such lands by the state.

It is the opinion of those best able to judge of these matters that the land commission provided for by a recent statute should likewise be abolished.

I am unable to discover that the dairy commissioner has been able to produce a pound of butter more than would have been the case if his office had not been created. Nor do I believe that he has increased the price or quality of the butter offered in our markets. The sale of oleo as butter is prohibited by penalty, and half the fine is by statute given to the informer. It is probable that this is sufficient to protect our producers, but if the continuation of the office is demanded, might it not be well also to provide for a hen commissioner who shall see that our grocers properly count the eggs as brought in for sale? Said hen commissioner might also, by way of diversion, undertake, at least occasionally, the instruction of our farmers in the highly important art of scientifically setting a hen. Seriously, it seems to me that the regulation of the sale of milk, butter and eggs is a matter entirely for municipal control.

Other and minor commissions might with propriety be abolished or consolidated.

BOARD OF PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

I am of opinion that the boards now controlling the penal, reformatory and eleemosynary institutions of the state, consisting of the state penitentiary, the reform school, the soldiers' home, the two insane asylums and the school for defective youth, might with propriety be abolished, and control of these institutions be vested in one board, to consist of the governor, the lieutenant governor, the secretary of state, the state auditor, and an official whose office is to be created, to be called the commissioner of public institutions, who shall do the work and perform the services usually devolving upon a traveling auditor. The saving in salaries per diem now paid six boards would be large. Goods could be bought at wholesale, and local and retail prices be escaped. More responsibility and greater system could be secured, and in the aggregate, a larger saving effected.

AFFAIRS OF THE PENITENTIARY.

Rumors of an exceedingly bad condition of affairs at the state penitentiary having been afloat for some time, a watch has been kept and some amateur detective work done by citizens of Walla Walla, aided by suggestions received from discharged convicts. Without disclosing the serious and even alarming nature of the revelations made, I request that at the earliest opportunity a legislative committee with full power to act be sent to Walla Walla; that an investigation be had before changes are made in the present management. If statements made by reliable persons are true, all the criminals are not on the inside.

MINE INSPECTION.

The great loss of life by coal mine explosions in this state within the last few years shows clearly the lack of proper mine inspection and ventilation. In the three mine explosions at Roslyn, Franklin and Blue Canyon, more than a hundred men lost their lives, many widows and some two hundred orphans were made. The mining law should be changed.

It is grossly untrue to the interests of the miners. It should not be the policy of the state to hamper or impose onerous conditions upon the coal mining companies, but with the hope of being able by proper regulation to protect the lives of our hardy miners, something ought to be done. The legislature has appropriated at each session $7,000 for coal mine inspection. I believe this sum to be practically wasted as the law now stands.

EXAMINATION OF STATE BANKS AND BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS.

Frequent and most grievous losses have fallen upon the people of this state by reason of the failure of institutions in which deposits of money have been made. For the future this may, to a great extent, be prevented by the appointment of a state bank examiner. In other states, notably in Kansas, this plan has proved most effective, and losses from this source have been reduced to a minimum. Such an official might be paid by a fee charged for each examination, or each institution might be required to pay a certain sum per annum. No expense to the people at large would be involved, and much good done.

THE FISHING INDUSTRY.

From the best sources of information at my command I am clearly of opinion that the law should, within a reasonable limit of time, prohibit utterly all fish traps, wheels and other stationery gear as a means of catching fish in the waters under the control of the State of Washington. As a means of revenue to the state, it is probable that an annual tax imposed upon each boat engaged in fishing should be collected. This would more than offset the amount now collected from traps.

The following extract from the message of Governor Sylvester Penoyer to the legislature of Oregon, for the year 1893, is here included and endorsed:

"Salmon fishing has for years been one of the most prominent industries of Oregon, and the legislature should provide by law against its complete destruction by the greed of those at present engaged in it. When the industry was first established, gill nets were alone employed, with meshes sufficiently large so that the smaller salmon were allowed to pass undisturbed. Within the last few years, however, traps and fish wheels have been brought into quite general use, and salmon of all sizes, and by the ton, have been caught by them. This has seriously interfered with gill-net fishing, which formerly gave employment to a large number of brave men, who plied this calling with their gill nets, manned at the peril of their lives, only to find themselves competing in market with the owners of fish traps and wheels, who in a favored locality, and without danger, caught hundreds of fish to the poor fisherman's one. Against the monopoly of fish traps and fish wheels, and the wholesale destruction of fish, and, as a consequence, the ultimate extinction of this great industry, the attention of the last three legislatures has been directed in vain.

"The protest is again most urgently renewed. To allow any owner of a favored locality the privilege that cannot be exercised by other citizens, of erecting fish traps or fish wheels, thereby securing salmon by the ton, while other citizens cannot, is a monopoly that should no longer be tolerated. We boast of our free government and of our equal laws, and yet we are permitting a monopoly that no monarchical government on the face of the earth allows. In the Magna Charta granted by King John, A. D. 1215, it is stipulated that 'all kyddells (weirs) for the future shall be quite removed out of the Thames and the Medway, and throughout England.' This guarantee was renewed in the first, second and third charters of King Henry the Third and in that of King Edward the First, and was really a fragment of the old common law which prevented any person from appropriating to themselves a fishway on the rivers, which were deemed common property. Every public river Lord Coke declared to be the king's highway, which could not be privately occupied. Kydells were dams having a narrow cut in them and furnished with wheels or traps for catching fish. It will thus be seen that this monopoly, which in England was destroyed nearly seven hundred years ago, is flourishing defiantly in the latter part of the nineteenth century in this country, which boasts of its equal laws. Let all fish traps, fish wheels and seines be abolished, confine the fishing to gill nets alone, and then all citizens have an equal chance, and the wholesale destruction of fish and the speedy extinction of one of our chiefest industries can be avoided."

MISCELLANEOUS RECOMMENDATIONS.

It is hoped that any member becoming possessed of information which would implicate any person in the offense of corrupt solicitation of officials will immediately cause prosecution to be brought against such persons, to the end that bribery may become a thing unknown in Washington. It will afford me pleasure to aid, so far as I may be able, in placing behind prison bars any person within the limits of the state who shall be convicted of this crime. It is probable that if some person highly connected, and of considerable previous social standing, could be thus treated as an example, much good would thereby result.

The statute passed at the last session of the legislature, providing for and allowing actions to be brought against the state in the superior court of Thurston county, should at once be repealed. By means of this law, it will be possible for designing men to loot the state treasury or cumber the records with judgments against the state. The legislature may be relied on to prevent injustice to individuals as the result of peculiar or particular circumstances or conditions.

It is universally recognized as true that whenever large and great accumulations of property are harassed and rendered unproductive and unprofitable by the combined action of men of small means and of no social standing, so called, a state of anarchy and misrule obtains, against which all the powers of the state should be exerted for instant and expeditious repression. Against this view no good citizen will raise his voice. Order is not only the first law of Heaven, but it should be, it must be, and it will be, the first law of the state. But there is another view of this matter, which, while equally true, is not equally obvious to the mass of society as now constituted. We become accustomed to injustice by daily association, and what at first would arouse the deepest indignation becomes in time an apparent necessity and finally seems to the average citizen a natural and unchangeable condition. It should be apparent, however, to the thoughtful and considerate man, that the converse of the proposition stated must also be true. If the property, the business and the occupations of the great mass of common and ordinary citizens of this country, possessed of little or no wealth and social standing, are not only rendered unprofitable and unremunerative, but are actually taken from them by the operation of causes set in motion by the few members of society possessed of wealth and high social position, who appear to be intent only upon pecuniary profit, regardless of loss and suffering imposed upon the many; then, in this event, it ought to be seen that anarchy is as truly fostered and produced as in the first and most obvious instance.

Although it is clearly evident to all thinking men that the people of this country are within the next few years to pass through a most critical period of national existence, I have a firm and abiding confidence in the wisdom, the justice and the ability of the great American people. They will safely surmount all opposition, for against the threatening difficulties which may seem to the timid to bar their advance, they will oppose the steady purpose of an honest intention and an earnest aspiration. The spirit of the fathers animates them; for them there is no such word as fail; they have hitched their wagon to a star, the star of hope; and the hope of humanity in them shall never perish.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, January, 1897.

The Honorable the House of Representatives:

GENTLEMEN—In accordance with section 11, article 3, of the constitution, I hereby transmit a list of pardons, commutations and remissions of fines granted by me, and not heretofore reported.

Very respectfully, J. H. MCGRAW,
Governor of Washington.

PARDONS GRANTED.

A. E. DUNCAN, sentenced from Spokane county, March 19, 1893, to three years for stealing one head of neat cattle. Pardon granted February 13, 1895, upon the recommendation of the prosecuting witness, the board of county commissioners, several jurors, prosecuting attorney and several hundred citizens of Spokane. This was Duncan's first offense; his aged mother needed his help. Duncan was a youth only nineteen years of age.

FRED MATHIES, sentenced March 7, 1895, to one year imprisonment from King county, for assault with intent to commit robbery. Pardon granted March 8, 1895, upon recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, twelve jurors in case, several county and city officials and a large number of citizens. Mathies was a very young man, and main support of his family. He came to Seattle without money in search of employment; failing in this he became reduced to utter destitution and while in this condition committed the crime for which he was convicted.

W. H. H. GRANT, sentenced December 12, 1894, by a justice of the peace from Clallam county to pay a fine of $50 and costs taxed at $86 for illegal voting. Remission of unsatisfied portion of fine and costs granted March 19, 1895, upon recommendation of prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness, six jurors, and several officials and citizens of said county. It appears that Grant, through ignorance of legal requirements, voted at a road election, for which he was in all respects qualified save that he had not resided in the particular road district the required number of days. He was in an impoverished condition, with dependent family who would become county charges. Previously had borne excellent reputation and was an ex-Union soldier.

JOSEPH DOYLE, of Mason county, made application for remission portion of judgment rendered in superior court of Mason county upon appearance bond of one Richard Walsh in which Joe Caldwell and said Doyle were sureties. Said bond was forfeited by non-appearance of defendant Walsh, who escaped through no connivance, knowledge or consent of his bondsmen. Doyle, a man of limited means, spent time and money in an effort to bring Walsh to justice but without success, and thereafter paid $150 to the county, being one-half of said bond. His co-surety is believed to be dead, and no property or funds are available to pay his portion of the bond. Remission granted April 29, 1895, on recommendation of the trial judge, and board of county commissioners.

MEE CHIN, a Chinaman, was on February 12, 1895, fined $100 and sentenced to thirty days in jail for keeping opium joint in Spokane county. Trial judge, prosecuting attorney and special agent of the treasury department recommended pardon and remission of unsatisfied portion of fine upon payment of costs of $45. Granted May 4, 1895.

LOUIS SCHIMINISKI, having been found guilty of the crime of assault, was sentenced January 24, 1895, by the judge of the superior court of Lewis county, to imprisonment in the county jail for the term of six months and fined in the sum of three hundred dollars. Pardon granted March 19, 1895. The judge who sentenced Schiminiski, upon the petition of a very large number of citizens, on the 19th day of March, 1895, remitted the fine imposed by him. The sheriff and other county officers and citizens urged that Schiminiski be pardoned, upon the ground that his further incarceration would result in his family becoming dependent upon charity for sustenance. The crime consisted of a simple assault, committed under the influence of intoxicants.

RICHARD WESLEY was on July 24, 1889, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Pierce county, to eleven years in the state penitentiary for the crime of robbery. Pardon granted on April 16, 1895. During his imprisonment he was an exemplary prisoner, and his name never appeared on the punishment record. The warden certifies that he has been employed in positions of trust and has faithfully and conscientiously carried out the duties assigned to him, and observed the rules of the prison in every respect. His crime consisted in obtaining sixty dollars by means of a card trick. Several reputable citizens and officials recommended pardon, believing that the sentence imposed was excessive; and that by reason of his youth, and previous good character further imprisonment would not subserve the ends of justice.

M. GOODFRIEND was on the 23d day of June, 1894, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of King county for the term of seven years, for the crime of grand larceny. Pardon granted April 19, 1895, upon the recommendation of several hundred reputable citizens of Seattle, and other cities, including the trial prosecuting attorney, sheriff and other officials of King county, who allege in their petition that they believe the conviction of Goodfriend was not warranted by the evidence; that Goodfriend was not a party to the stealing for which he was convicted; that Goodfriend had hitherto borne a good reputation; that he has a poverty-stricken wife and four children dependent upon him for support.

M. GOLDEN was convicted and sentenced at the same time and place for the same crime as M. Goodfriend, supra. Pardon granted May 8, 1895. The petition for pardon is signed by the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, sheriff, chairman of board of county commissioners and other officials of King county, and reputable citizens of that county; and states that Golden had at all times previous to his conviction borne a good reputation, and that he had never previously been charged with crime; that he was but twenty-two years of age, and since the age of thirteen had been the sole support of an aged mother; that by reason of his incarceration his mother has been deprived of her sole means of support, and became a pauper upon the charge of King county. The prosecuting attorney in recommending pardon stated that "the evidence tending to convict Golden with the commission of the alleged crime is exceedingly meager as is apparent from an examination of the record." At a time when a number of prisoners broke out of the King county jail, Golden refused to escape; and gave to the sheriff information which was valuable in capturing the fugitives. The chief of police in Seattle, who had personal knowledge of the facts, also recommends pardon.

Mrs. TAY YUEN, a Chinawoman, who was received at the penitentiary on the 16th day of November, 1894, under sentence of one year for the crime of grand larceny, committed in Clarke county, was pardoned on the 8th day of May, 1895. The physician to the penitentiary made a statement, in part as follows: "This woman is pregnant, and has reached about the eighth month. She has but a short time to serve, and if she could be discharged or pardoned, I believe it would be the proper thing to do. We are poorly situated to care for a lying-in woman."

GEORGE SUFFERIN, having been found guilty of the crime of burglary, was on the 18th day of May, 1891, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Jefferson county, to imprisonment for the term of ten years. Pardon granted May 14, 1895, upon the recommendation of the physician and other officials of the penitentiary. Sufferin had chronic multiple sarcoma and passing of blood, and had been confined to the prison hospital for many months. In the opinion of the penitentiary physician Sufferin could live but a few months. He died within six months after he was pardoned.

U. A. GILE, was on March 2, 1893, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Lewis county, to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of four years, having been found guilty of the crime of manslaughter. Pardon granted May 17, 1895, upon the recommendation of the prosecuting attorney and his assistants at the trial, the county officers and several hundred citizens of Lewis county. Gile was informed against jointly with James D. Minkler and Catherine McCormick, charged with the crime of manslaughter in having caused the death of one Alfred Wright, by means of an operation. Gile was tried first and separately. The prosecuting attorney in recommending a pardon made the following written statement: "At the time of the prosecution, I was convinced that the other two parties, Dr. James D. Minkler and Catherine McCormick, had entered into a conspiracy to obtain through any means, fair or foul, the property of one Alfred Wright, and that the acts for which Dr. Gile was convicted and the other parties tried were the result of the conspiracy. I never did believe and do not now that Dr. Gile was concerned in any such conspiracy; but he was a young surgeon and was called in by other parties. The parties demanded separate trials. Dr. Gile was convicted; Dr. Minkler was acquitted by the jury and Mrs. McCormick was discharged on the recommendation of the prosecuting attorney. I think the opinion that I entertain as above stated is concurred in by the people of the entire community almost unanimously."

One of the associate counsel for the prosecution, in his communication recommending a pardon, said in part: "This case is a peculiar one, unlike any that has ever fallen under my observation, and dissimilar to any case reported within the scope of our text books or decisions. Three persons, to wit: J. D. Minkler, Dr. U. A. Gile and Mrs. McCormick, were charged jointly with the murder of Alfred Wright, of Centralia. The state in the three trials that were had in the superior court, in which I was interested, based its prosecution upon criminal malpractice of the physicians, J. D. Minkler and U. A. Gile, and assisted by Mrs. McCormick. After the operation had been performed and after the death of Mr. Wright, it appeared that a will had been made by Mr. Wright, in which Mrs. McCormick was the sole beneficiary, and Dr. Minkler was to be the executor. When this fact became known, the citizens of Centralia grew suspicious that foul play had been used, and instituted proceedings looking to a thorough investigation. The public mind was greatly inflamed, and the witnesses produced and who were examined on behalf of the state, on the trial in which Dr. Gile was convicted, were evidently deeply impressed with the wild and exaggerated rumors that had been put in circulation and were affecting the community at and just prior to the trial and that were unfavorable to the defendants. It was while this excitement was at its highest that Dr. Gile was tried and convicted. After cooling time and after the community had so changed that it could look impartially at the transaction, grave doubts arose as to the criminal intent of the parties, and as to whether or not they should be convicted, and the result is that Mrs. McCormick was discharged without trial; Dr. Minkler, who sought and obtained a continuance, was tried by a jury of the county, the same witnesses produced as in the case of Dr. Gile, yet Dr. Minkler was acquitted. Nowhere in the whole case was there a line or syllable of evidence showing Dr. Gile to have been in any wise interested from any pecuniary motive in the operation, or in the death of Mr. Wright. Dr. Gile evinced a phenomenal accuracy in the knowledge of surgery, and whether his operation was correct or incorrect the best medical evidence that we could obtain upon the trial was at a great variance, while it appeared to me that those who were not affected by local prejudice almost without exception approved and justified the operation."

Eight jurors recommend pardon. Others were inaccessible.

JOHN BRYAN, having been found guilty of the crime of robbery, was on the 7th day of February, 1890, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of King county to imprisonment for ten years. Pardon granted May 17, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney and several of the jurors. Bryan was convicted of having robbed a man named Cotton of some $40.00. The prosecuting attorney in recommending pardon said in part:

"Bryan and a man named Miller were indicted for the crime of robbery alleged to have been committed October 23, 1889, in Seattle. I prosecuted the men and secured a conviction. Judge Lichtenberg was presiding judge, and appointed some man, whose name I do not now remember, to defend. The defense was very lamely conducted. The testimony of the state consisted mainly of the prosecuting witness Cotton, an old farmer who had come in from Slaughter, a stranger in town, and who had 'fallen among thieves' and the vicious characters in Whitechapel, and had been drinking for two or three hours. Somewhere in Whitechapel, during the course of the evening he lost or was robbed of $40.00, and identified Miller and Bryan as the parties. I remember that the testimony of Cotton was unsupported by any other witness. The defendants both testified in their own behalf, and both denied the robbery, but admitted seeing Cotton in Whitechapel, and admitted having a speaking acquaintance that evening with him, and also drinking with him."

Two convicts, Thomas Walker and John Kelly, have filed an affidavit in which they state that they committed the robbery for which Bryan and Miller were convicted. Conduct of Bryan during imprisonment was good.

JOHN MILLER, co-defendant with John Bryan, and who was sentenced at the same time for the same term, was pardoned on the 12th day of October, 1895, for the foregoing reasons.

HARRY IRWIN, was tried in the superior court of Pierce county and convicted of the crime of robbery and sentenced to a term of imprisonment of eleven years on March 23, 1891. Pardon granted May 17, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, and a large number of reputable citizens of Pierce county. The crime for which Irwin was convicted was the robbery of one Bailey. The testimony in the case consisted only of Bailey and a man who had previously been convicted of committing the robbery. The prosecuting witness, upon the stand, could not positively identify Irwin as the person who assisted in robbing him. Irwin had been in Tacoma but a few days prior to the robbery; had always borne a good reputation prior thereto; was of a good family and well connected in Portland, Oregon, as is shown by letters from leading citizens and officials of that state. The judge in recommending pardon urged that one year's imprisonment would be sufficient; but he was not pardoned until he had served more than four years. Conduct during imprisonment was uniformly good, as appears by the warden's certificate. Upon his release Irwin returned to his home in Oregon.

ELMER HASTINGS and JAMES L. BERRIDGE, having pled guilty of the crime of stealing cattle, were on the 29th day of December, 1892, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Spokane county, to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of four years. Pardon was granted May 17, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness and several officials and many citizens of Spokane county. The prosecuting witness, county commissioner and deputy sheriff of Spokane county, in a communication recommending executive clemency, among other things say: "During the month of August, 1892, said James Berridge and Elmer Hastings, who then were boys under the age of twenty-one, living at the town of Mead in Spokane county, were induced to go to the pastures of F. E. Fender and W. Ziegler in said Spokane county, and drive to the slaughter house of one John Mairhoffer, a butcher, fourteen head of cattle. This was done in the day time without any apparent attempt at concealment, and the cattle delivered to said Mairhoffer at his slaughter house; it is believed that the cattle were butchered at once, as the sheriff and his deputies could find no further trace of them. Said Mairhoffer, who has left for parts unknown, was a man of mature years, and was under the surveillance of the sheriff for some time under suspicion of buying stolen cattle. The said boys were arrested shortly after the commission of the act, and confessed the facts substantially as related above; upon arraignment they both entered the plea of guilty. Both boys were raised at or near Mead, and formerly bore good reputations and this is believed to be their first offense. We believe the boys by reason of their youth and inexperience, were made the tools and dupes of other persons, whose mature minds and experience enabled them to escape the punishment imposed upon these boys."

GEORGE E. BAILEY, was on the 29th day of January, 1895, sentenced by the judge of the municipal court of the city of Seattle, to imprisonment in the King county jail for the term of six months for the crime of open lewdness. Pardon granted on the 21st day of May, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, the board of county commissioners of King county and a large number of respectable citizens. Bailey had a family, consisting of a wife and four small children, dependent solely upon him for support, and who during his confinement were county charges. He had previously borne a good reputation and his conduct during incarceration was good.

FANNIE WILLIAMS was convicted of the crime of petit larceny in the municipal court of the city of Seattle, and sentenced on April 23, 1895, to imprisonment in the King county jail for the term of ninety days. The value of the goods stolen, a lady's cape, was proven to be fifteen dollars. Pardon granted May 26, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and the certificate of two reputable physicians of Seattle that this woman was pregnant and that longer incarceration would jeopardize her health.

SAMUEL B. DUSINBERRE, having pled guilty of embezzlement, was on the 23d day of September, 1893, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Pierce county to imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the term of three years. Pardon granted June 13, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney and a large number of prominent citizens of Pierce county. The attorney for the receiver of the bank from which Dusinberre embezzled funds wrote as follows, in part: "From the time of the closing of the Bank of Puyallup, May 26, 1893, down to the middle of July, 1893, when Mr. Dusinberre was arrested, and after his arrest down to the time he was sent to the penitentiary, he did everything in his power, willingly and without promises of reward or favor, to assist the receiver of the bank and myself in straightening out the affairs of the bank and in producing the best result possible from its assets. Since he has been in the penitentiary he has displayed the same spirit and disposition, and has been of great assistance to me by the information which he has frequently given me, and which many times was an absolute confession of wrong which he himself had done in managing the affairs of the bank. He put the state to no expense or trouble whatever for his trial, but pleaded guilty and took his sentence in all humility, and has been, to the best of my information from the officials of the penitentiary, a model prisoner during his incarceration."

Letters of file in the executive office from the governor of New York, a state senator from that state, a member of congress, a county judge and surrogate, and other officials and prominent citizens of that state attest Dusinberre's previous good character and recommend his pardon.

Dusinberre turned over to the stockholders of the bank all his property, and since his imprisonment his family have been dependent upon others for support. His conduct during imprisonment has been excellent, and he performed valuable services. At the time of his pardon he had but seven months to serve.

W. F. FENMORE was found guilty of embezzlement, and on the 12th day of June, 1894, was sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Jefferson county to imprisonment for the term of one year, which term was fully served. Upon the expiration of his term of sentence his rights of citizenship were restored, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, ten of the trial jurors, and the officials and a large number of citizens of Jefferson county.

ALEXANDER SMITH, having pled guilty to the crime of burglary, was sentenced April 22, 1895, by the superior court of Walla Walla, to four months imprisonment. Smith was a young fellow of about 18 years of age, of a most estimable family, and of previous good character. His crime consisted of entering a house, it not being shown that he had any felonious intent. Nothing of value was abstracted and no injury committed. It was a boyish freak more than anything else. He had but a short time to serve when pardoned.

WILLIAM HOLMES was found guilty of the crime of murder in the first degree, and was on the 25th day of July, A. D. 1894, sentenced to be hanged. Sentence commuted to life imprisonment at hard labor on August 24, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, several of the jurors, many officials and several hundred citizens of King county.

The case was appealed to the supreme court, and from the opinion found, at page 184, volume 12 Washington, I quote the following: "It is earnestly contended by the appellant that the testimony in this case conclusively shows that the defendant should not have been convicted of murder in the first degree, and this is a question which has given the court more trouble than all the technical questions which have been raised in the case. The facts conclusively proven are that the defendant was a colored boy of weak physical structure and possibly of no very great strength of mind, who was engaged as a miner in the coal mines of the Oregon Improvement Company at Franklin, King county, Washington; and William Russell, a large powerful man, of some two hundred pounds weight, roomed with this boy; that the day upon which the killing occurred was pay day in the mines; that these two men in company of most of the miners had congregated at the company's saloon, as was the custom of the miners, to spend their wages and de-throne their reason by drinking whiskey. Russell, as is shown by the testimony, was, in common parlance, a bully, and an overbearing brutal man. On that day he had left his pistol on the table in their room and Holmes had taken it with him to the saloon, and had given it to another boy named Evan John, and told him to take it home. Russell accused the defendant of stealing his pistol, which the defendant denied, telling him that he could search him. Search was made and the pistol was not discovered on the person of defendant. Russell then, in a most brutal and cowardly manner, assaulted the boy, slapping him with his heavy hands, first on one side of the face and then on the other. The testimony shows that he rather gloried in being a ruffian; said that he did not care for death, and that he calculated to have a nigger before the day was over. As soon as he was released from the hands of Russell the defendant immediately started to overtake the boy who had the pistol, then returned to the saloon, and without any warning, deliberately fired at Russell, who evidently did not see him as he approached. The first shot failed to take effect; whereupon Russell turning jumped toward the defendant, who fired again, striking him in the forehead. Russell then fell and immediately expired. This is a hard case and the condition of the defendant is touching; and whether or not if this court had sat as jurors in the case, under the testimony they would have felt justified in returning a verdict of murder in the first degree, is questionable. But that matter having been submitted to the jury upon what we deem proper instructions, and it being a close question, under the facts as shown by the record, we do not feel justified in disturbing the verdict rendered."

In the opinion on petition for rehearing our supreme court said: "As we view the testimony, the circumstances tending to prove and disprove premeditation are conflicting, and notwithstanding the fact that the conclusion reached by the jury might not coincide with our judgment, under the law announced by this court, and by all courts in cases of trial by jury, we are compelled to accept the decision of the jury as conclusive." Another reason alleged for commutation was that Holmes was a consumptive. This proved true as he died five days after commutation was granted.

THOMAS CURTIS, having been found guilty of the crime of burglary, was on the 23d day of March, 1891, sentenced by the superior court of Pierce county to imprisonment for the term of eight years. Pardon granted September 27, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney. The prosecuting attorney in recommending pardon states that at the time of the conviction of Curtis his county was overrun with criminals, and that the judge was very severe in his sentences; that frequently convictions were secured upon slight evidence. He further states that he doubts the guilt of Curtis, and that even if guilty he has suffered enough. The judge concurs in these statements. The penitentiary physician certifies that Curtis was in very bad health and that confinement aggravates his case.

FRED N. CHANDLER was sentenced by the superior court of Pierce county on December 14, 1891, to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of five years, for the crime of grand larceny. Pardon granted September 27, 1895, upon the recommendation of the board of directors of the penitentiary and a large number of citizens. The board of directors passed and transmitted to the governor, a resolution, of which the following is a copy: "Resolved that after careful consideration and thorough investigation into the matter which led to the conviction and incarceration of Fred N. Chandler in the state penitentiary; in view of the exemplary conduct of said Chandler, he being placed in a position of trust, the duties of which take him several times daily into the city of Walla Walla, and he has faithfully, honestly and conscientiously carried out said duties, it is the opinion of the board that the law has been fully vindicated, and the board respectfully recommends that the extension of executive clemency to said prisoner would not defeat the ends of justice."

FRED J. SMITH, having been found guilty of the crime of horse stealing, was on the 7th day of March, 1893, sentenced by the superior court of Spokane county to imprisonment for the term of five years. Pardon granted October 12, 1895, upon the recommendation of the prosecuting attorney in the case, several of the jury, and a large number of responsible citizens of Spokane county. The prosecuting attorney in recommending pardon, among other things, said: "The defendant's motive in committing the crime was at the time and has always been a complete mystery to me, and the only motive that could be attributed to him was possibly to enable him to get means to support his family, as they were in destitute circumstances at the time, and I think that Smith afterwards admitted that he was driven to commit this offense on account of his poverty and the desire to obtain something for his family to subsist upon. Smith has a wife and several children who have been charges upon the county for a part of the time since his conviction. He bore the reputation of being an honest and industrious man, prior to this offense; was kind to his family, and seems to have committed this offense in sheer desperation. His wife has been endeavoring to earn her support and that of her children by doing washing and other work. I am of the opinion that there was no excuse for the defendant in committing this offense but, considering the fact that he has already served more than two years in the penitentiary, I think that the ends of justice have been satisfied, and the defendant sufficiently punished, and for the sake of his family a pardon ought to be granted. The petition for his pardon is signed by the most respectable business men of the city, and several of the jurors who tried him, and the universal opinion seems to be that Smith ought to be pardoned."

After his release Smith immediately secured work, and on December 31, 1895, a prominent citizen of Spokane wrote as follows in part: "Before the liberation of Mr. Smith, his family, consisting of a noble wife and five little children, lived in a shanty affording but a poor protection against the rain and cold, and with very scanty clothing and furniture and insufficient food; while now a happy reunited family live in a good comfortable home surrounded by as great comforts as they were ever accustomed to, far above the average comforts of our working classes, and what completes all a spirit of happiness, peace and contentment in the family."

MAX TRAUTWEIN pled guilty in the superior court of Spokane county to burglary and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, on the 9th day of July, 1892. Pardon granted October 22, 1895, at which time he had but eight months to serve. The crime for which Trautwein was sentenced was the entering of a physician's office. Trautwein was addicted to the use of morphine and cocaine to a very excessive degree, and it appears that he entered this office when suffering from the want of such drugs. The petition for pardon was signed by the prosecuting witness, and a very large number of citizens of Spokane county, including some thirty physicians, and many attorneys, clergymen and other professional men.

During his incarceration Trautwein's conduct was exemplary, a large portion of the time he being engaged in the performance of clerical work in the warden's office. Immediately upon his release he secured remunerative employment.

PETER G. BERGAMAN, having been found guilty of an attempt to commit rape, was on the 3d day of March, 1894, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of King county to imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term of ten years. Pardon granted November 8, 1895, upon recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness, several of the jury, and a large number of reputable citizens of Seattle. The trial judge, in recommending pardon, said in part: "That if as judge who tried the cause I had been in possession of information I am now possessed of, I should certainly have granted a new trial."

The prosecuting attorney in recommending pardon stated that were the facts and circumstances as developed since the trial presented to him as a basis of a criminal prosecution they would be considered insufficient.

ERMINIO GIONINI, having been found guilty of murder, was, on the day of April, 1883, sentenced by the judge of the district court of the Territory of Washington, holding terms at Vancouver, to be hanged on the 29th day of June, 1883.

Governor William A. Newell granted this man several reprieves, and finally upon the 5th day of April, 1884, commuted the death sentence to life imprisonment. Governor Newell in the document commuting the sentence, said, in part, as reasons for his action—

"I have well founded doubts as to his entire sanity for reasons assigned in papers in my possession; and whereas many respectable citizens of the Territory in the locality where he has been imprisoned for nearly one year believe that he did not commit the crime as charged against him, and so represent to me in a petition for commutation of sentence of death to imprisonment for life; and whereas he had no means to secure the services of legal counsel at his trial and the counsel assigned by the court was provided on the same day of the beginning of his trial, which counsel assures me that he had no suitable time to prepare the case and defense at all commensurate with its gravity and consequences to his client, and the prisoner had no means to secure the attendance of his witnesses."

Gionini, at the time of the murder for which he was convicted, had been in America but a short time, and was unable to speak the English language intelligently. He was without friends or means and unable to secure counsel. Upon the day of the trial counsel was assigned by the court; but there was not sufficient time for proper preparation and investigation by such counsel.

The testimony in the case was wholly circumstantial. No motive for the crime was traced to the accused; on the contrary the deceased and he were warm friends. No robbery could have been committed by the defendant, for thereafter he was penniless and unable to raise any money to defend himself, although well aware of the urgent necessity.

The principal witness in the case, in addition to being an unusually ready and willing witness, displayed a vindictive eagerness to secure a conviction, even going to the extent of securing counsel to aid the prosecution, and paying for such services himself. The trial judge in recommending pardon said in part: "But I am led to believe that the bad impression which I had at the trial as to the principal witness against him (Gionini) was probably well founded, and as the testimony of that witness formed an important link in the testimony upon which he was convicted, I have been led to think that it was at least possible that injustice had been done; and this fact, together with those which I have learned as to the exemplary conduct of Gionini during the entire time he has been imprisoned, and his state of health taken in connection with the fact that he has already been in prison about fifteen years, causes me to come to the conclusion that the ends of justice will probably be best subserved if he be relieved from further punishment; and I therefore respectfully join in the application for his pardon."

The prosecuting attorney and several hundred citizens also joined in petition for pardon. After a very exhaustive examination into this case, I have reached the conclusion that Gionini was an innocent man, and therefore pardon him. During all his long imprisonment he was a model prisoner; and for many years as a trusty he performed valuable and faithful service to the state.

W. T. PECK, having been found guilty of the crime of petit larceny, was on the 25th day of October, 1895, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Whitman county to fourteen days imprisonment and costs. Pardon granted and balance of costs remitted, November 13, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, board of county commissioners, and officers of Whitman county, upon the grounds that Peck had been in jail 112 days prior to his trial; that he had been sufficiently punished, and that further imprisonment was an expense to the county, and would serve no good end.

FRANK BROWN was on the 15th day of June, 1894, sentenced by the superior court of Pierce county to imprisonment for two years for the crime of burglary. Pardon granted December 6, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney.

Brown resided on a small farm in Pierce county, and having met with reverses was not able to earn sufficient money with which to buy bread to support his family. He asked for credit at a store, was refused, and as his wife and children were actually crying for bread he drove to a store, broke into the same and took therefrom a barrel of flour and a sack of wheat. Brown had a family of a wife and five small children. It was represented at the time petition for pardon was filed, that if pardoned, he could secure remunerative employment.

A. C. MILLER was sentenced on April 18, 1892, by the superior court of Whitman county to five years imprisonment for the crime of stealing cattle, to which charge he pled guilty. Pardon granted December 19, 1895, to be effective January 1, 1896. The board of directors of the penitentiary, for the following reasons, among others, as set forth in a communication on file in the executive office earnestly recommended pardon:

"He has been a 'trusty' for the past two years; during fifteen months of this time having charge of the horses and stables at this institution, which employment necessitated him sleeping in the barn, to be ready for any emergency. During the summer it is necessary for some trustworthy convict to deliver sacks to the depot and other errands around town, with our team, and to him was assigned this work and no trust imposed in him has ever been betrayed. * * * We understand he pled guilty at his trial, and has made no effort to secure a pardon or commutation of sentence. We know he has three children dependent upon him for support, and taking into consideration his age, fifty years, his previous good character and his most exemplary conduct during his incarceration, we feel justified in presenting these facts for your consideration, and believe him to be a proper subject for executive clemency, even if such clemency is exercised in shortening his term of imprisonment only in a slight degree. * * * We are of the unanimous opinion that some acknowledgment of Miller's faithful services during his incarceration would be justified by the circumstances as laid before you."

When pardoned Miller had but six weeks to serve.

TOM WATSON and JAMES AUSTIN, having been found guilty of the crime of larceny, were sentenced by the superior court on March 23, 1891, to eight years imprisonment. Pardon granted February 6, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney, for the same reasons as given in the case of Thos. Curtis, hereinbefore set forth, and Harry Irwin, all four of whom were tried for the same offense.

OLIVER COURTEMARSH was on the 24th day of October, 1894, sentenced by the superior court of Clarke county for three years imprisonment for the crime of assault with intent to commit rape. Pardon granted February 24, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, sheriff, and more than four hundred citizens and residents of the city of Vancouver, where the offense was committed and tried, comprising federal and county officials, attorneys, merchants, editors, ministers and wives of leading citizens, and seven of the jurors in the case.

Nearly a year before the pardon was granted the trial judge wrote as follows: "While I cannot recommend an immediate pardon, I do think that a much shorter sentence than the one imposed would be ample punishment in view of the facts and circumstances arising since the trial and judgment. Since his incarceration in the county jail some eight months ago his demeanor has been first class. * * *"

During a jail break Courtemarsh left the jail and immediately ran to the jailor's house to inform him of the occurrence; but finding no one there but the jailor's wife, to whom he communicated the fact, he then ran to the judge's house, notified him, and then returned to his cell in jail.

W. G. V. RENWICK, having pled guilty to the crime of embezzlement, was on the 4th day of March, 1895, sentenced by the superior court of Spokane county to imprisonment for the term of two years. Pardon granted March 16, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, attorney general of the state, the prosecuting attorney in the case, the board of county commissioners, and many officials and citizens of Spokane city and county.

Renwick has a wife in delicate health and dependent upon him for support. At the time pardon was granted it was represented that he could secure remunerative employment. When pardoned he had served three-fourths of his term, allowing good conduct credits.

O. H. HARRINGTON was sentenced September 23, 1895, by the judge of the superior court of Walla Walla county to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of two years for the crime of grand larceny. Pardon granted March 26, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney who stated that at the time of his arrest, arraignment, plea and sentence that he was laboring under the effects of a protracted spree, and did not realize the commission of the crime or its consequences. Many leading citizens of Walla Walla join in petition for pardon.

JOHN KANE was sentenced January 4, 1892, by the judge of the superior court of Thurston county to ten years imprisonment for the crime of burglary. Pardon granted April 1, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness and a large number of leading and reputable citizens of Olympia.

The prosecuting attorney who conducted the case, in recommending pardon, says in part: "The offense for which he was convicted was committed early in the evening on January 3, 1892, and the arrest was made a few minutes afterwards. The next day the undersigned filed an information against said Kane charging him with burglary and he was brought before the court where he pleaded guilty and was immediately sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. That the undersigned believed at that time and still believes that said Kane was not a hardened criminal, but was a simple ignorant man without means, and that he committed the offense for which he was charged solely for the purpose of being arrested and committed to jail for a few months, or until the weather got warm."

Conviction was had without the expense of a dollar to the state.

Kane's conduct during imprisonment was good.

THOMAS C. POWELL was tried in the superior court of Cowlitz county on June 8, 1895, found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to imprisonment for one year, which term he served in full. Upon the expiration of his term his civil rights were restored upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney.

VICTOR E. SQUIRES was on the 16th day of January, 1896, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Skagit county to one year's imprisonment in the county jail for the crime of obtaining money by false pretenses. Pardon granted May 5, 1896, upon the recommendation of the board of county commissioners, prosecuting witness and a large number of merchants and business men of Mount Vernon.

It appears that two forged bills of lading were sent to a business man in Portland who advanced money thereon by checks sent to one Harris. The bills of lading were not in the handwriting of Squires, but the drafts or checks received were presented at the bank by him, and he received the money. Squires pled guilty.

The petition for pardon and the trial judge and prosecuting attorney state that in their opinion Squires was simply a tool for the hands of others.

The money fraudulently procured was all returned to the person entitled thereto.

A. L. FULLER was on the day of January, 1896, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Snohomish county to two years imprisonment for the crime of burglary. Pardon granted May 28, 1896, upon the recommendation of some seventy-five reputable officials and citizens of Everett, who allege that "Fuller was convicted on the testimony of two witnesses who were particeps criminis and who escaped prosecution by turning states evidence; one of whom testified that Fuller told him to take the goods and in whose house the goods were found. There was no evidence that Fuller was to get any portion of the goods, or the proceeds therefrom. Fuller has resided here since 1891 and is regarded by our best citizens as being an honorable upright man. He leaves an estimable wife and two small children in destitute circumstances, who must depend upon the charity of the public for support."

FRANK HASSELTINE, was on April 25, 1895, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Walla Walla county to imprisonment for two years upon plea of guilty of stealing neat cattle. Pardon granted June 5, 1895, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and a large number of officials and citizens of Walla Walla county. Hasseltine was a young man of twenty-two years of age; his parents to whose support he contributed much are both over sixty-three years of age. Disaster has dissipated their fortune and broken their health, the father being feeble and the mother totally blind. Hasseltine also has a young wife and an infant child born since his incarceration who are in need of his support. The warden certifies to his "most exemplary conduct" during imprisonment.

CHARLES A. VORHEES was sentenced on February 15, 1895, by the superior court of Whitman county to two years imprisonment for cattle stealing. Pardon granted June 8, 1896, at which time he had but four and one-half months to serve, allowing the legal deduction for good behavior. It appears that the crime for which he was convicted was the stealing of one cow valued at $14, and that the jury recommended him to the mercy of the court. Vorhees had a family of a wife and five small children dependent upon him for support. It was represented that if Vorhees was released he would be able to secure employment in the harvest fields; and that if he served the remaining four months harvest time would be past.

JACKSON MORGAN was sentenced by the superior court of King county to imprisonment for five years upon plea of guilty of burglary entered June 17, 1893. Pardon granted June 30, 1896. From papers on file it appears that Morgan, along with two men, was arrested on a charge of breaking into a dwelling house in the day time with intent to commit a misdemeanor. Entrance to the house was effected through a window covered only by a piece of mosquito netting, which was torn aside. It appears by the affidavit of the prosecuting witness "that the property taken from the house consisted of a clock and other small articles, the whole not exceeding $20.00 in value. There was no eye witness to the breaking into the house, but the goods were afterwards found in the possession of the defendants above named." Frank Snow, one of the men indicted with Morgan, makes affidavit that Morgan did not assist in the actual breaking and entering into the house and did not take any part in said breaking and entering. The prosecuting witness and the prosecuting attorney at the trial recommended pardon. Morgan's family is a respectable one living in Washington city, and they sent him money to return home, which he did immediately upon his release.

THOMAS E. SHOEMAKER, having pled guilty to the crime of arson, was on the 11th day of May, 1895, sentenced by the superior court of King county to imprisonment in the county jail for five months and fined $1,000. He served his term of five months and on July 20, 1896, the balance of the fine remaining unserved was remitted upon the recommendation of the board of county commissioners of King county, and several citizens and officials of said county. It appears that Shoemaker had a wife and child in Los Angeles, California. Immediately prior to his release he was offered a position in California, and upon his release I believe he left for California.

DOUGLAS MCCOMBIE was sentenced September 7, 1895, by the judge of the superior court of King county to one year's imprisonment for larceny, which sentence he fully served, and was released July 28, 1896, receiving the legal deduction of two months for good behavior. His civil rights were restored August 1, 1896, upon recommendation of the prosecuting witness and several citizens of King county. McCombie was a young man of less than twenty-one years.

WILLIAM VAN WATERS was sentenced on the 4th day of October, 1895, to pay a fine of $100 for the crime of larceny. Affidavits and representations made by reputable citizens of facts arising subsequent to the trial and after motion for new trial had been denied, induce a grave doubt of the guilt of Van Waters. His wife, as appears by the certificates of physicians was in a very dangerous condition, and being without means to secure attendants the presence of Van Waters was not only desirable but necessary to save the woman's life. Upon the recommendation of a very large number of citizens including some of the jurymen, a pardon was granted August 12, 1896, at which time he had but one day more to serve.

N. S. BARR, having been found guilty of the crime of murder in the second degree, was on the 28th day of March, 1894, sentenced by the superior court of Whatcom county to ten years imprisonment. Pardon granted August 21, 1896, upon the recommendation of several hundred citizens of Whatcom, including the prosecuting attorney and other county officials and nine jurors.

Barr's crime consisted in setting a trap gun in a cabin which he had occupied, just previous to his going into the mountains on a protracted hunting trip. During his absence four persons effecting an entrance to the house discharged the gun, killing one of them. The prosecuting attorney in recommending pardon said, in part: "While the conviction in the trial court and its affirmance in the supreme court in this case is in our opinion fully sustained and warranted by the law and the evidence, however we are free to say that this case for the first time to our knowledge presented for adjudication to an American court of last resort in a criminal case, the question of responsibility for taking human life by setting spring guns in the habitation. Wide spread erroneous impression undoubtedly existed among the people and no little misconception on the part of some courts of last resort, as to the right to defend one's property and therefore one's habitation considered as property by deadly means."

EDMUND GRASSET was sentenced in December, 1893, by the superior court of Whatcom county to one year's imprisonment for the crime of forgery, which term he fully served. His civil rights were restored August 31, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney and several hundred citizens of Whatcom county.

H. M. COSS was sentenced December 5, 1894, by the superior court of Lincoln county to two years' imprisonment for grand larceny, which consisted in the taking of some four thousand feet of lumber. Pardon granted September 3, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness, nine jurors, and several citizens. Coss was a young man with a wife and children dependent upon him for support.

MARTIN MURPHY was sentenced from King county March 30, 1894, to ten years' imprisonment for robbery. Pardon granted September 4, 1896, upon recommendation of the warden and physician of the penitentiary for the reason that Murphy was dying of consumption, and that his death was not far off. It was represented that arrangements were effected for his care by friends, if released, better than could be afforded at the penitentiary. Murphy died in a San Francisco hospital during the early part of November, 1896.

WILLIAM A. NOLEN was sentenced January 15, 1893, by the superior court of King county to three years' imprisonment for larceny, which sentence he fully served. Civil rights were restored September 28, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney.

JOHN E. SPLAYFORD was sentenced March 23, 1895, to ten years' imprisonment by the superior court of Snohomish county for the crime of assault with attempt to commit rape. Pardon granted November 6, 1896, upon recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, seven jurors. It appears by the certificate of the penitentiary physician that Splayford was infected with consumption and was not likely to live but a few weeks. The trial judge recommended pardon by reason of his dying condition and also because of his belief from facts arising after conviction that Splayford's sentence was too severe. Splayford died about a month after he was pardoned.

THOMAS HINCHEY was sentenced December 14, 1891, to twenty years' imprisonment by the superior court of Pierce county for the crime of murder. Pardon granted November 7, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, the prosecuting attorney, seven jurors and a large number of citizens. It appears from papers on file that Hinchey was a bricklayer working at his trade in Tacoma and Seattle and on July 14, 1891, came to Tacoma from Seattle and went to a saloon and began drinking. Thereafter he purchased a revolver, wrote a couple of letters, one to his mother telling her he was about to commit suicide, and another to a friend as to the disposition of a watch, and telling him he was going to kill himself, and gave them to a person to mail. He then returned to the saloon, and as soon as he entered, without any provocation or previous talk he started shooting and wounded the proprietor, and shot one George Martin who was a total stranger and unknown to the defendant, from the effects of which Martin died a few hours later. The testimony on the trial showed that Hinchey was laboring under a delusion that every one was conspiring against him, and calling him foul names, and believing Martin called him these names and was one of the men he thought were pursuing him, he shot and killed him. The jury recommended the mercy of the court to the defendant. The board of penitentiary directors in a communication said as follows, in part: "When improvements were commenced some time since, he was placed in charge of a gang of men engaged in bricklaying, he being in fact the competent man here in that line of work. He was thus engaged during all the time the improvements were being made, was painstaking in his work, and evinced as much interest throughout as though he were receiving wages. During the present summer he rendered valuable services of great value to the state. While not presuming to indicate your action, we feel that his conduct and valuable service entitles his case to great consideration at your hands."

Hinchey's case was appealed to the supreme court, but the appeal was dismissed, because the statement of facts was not filed according to law. A second appeal was attempted, under the act of 1893, but the superior judge, before whom the case was tried, and whose term had expired, declined to settle and certify statement of facts. An application was made to the supreme court for a writ of mandate compelling the trial judge to settle and certify the statement, which was denied. In neither could the supreme court consider the case on its merits, nor pass upon alleged errors.

JOHN W. GIDDINGS was sentenced on the 29th day of September, 1894, to serve a term of one year in the state penitentiary for the crime of assault with a deadly weapon, committed in Snohomish county, which term he fully served, save the deduction allowed by law for good behavior. It appearing that Giddings had conducted himself as a good citizen since his release his civil rights were restored November 18, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney.

GEORGE F. SMITH was sentenced in the superior court of Okanogon county on May 16, 1896, to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of one and one-half years for the crime of stealing cattle. Pardon granted November 18, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, two jurors and several citizens. The trial judge in recommending pardon under date of May 27, 1896, said in part: "He insisted upon the trial and still insists that he thought the animal was his own, and some evidence was given upon this point, and further insisted that he did not intend to steal an animal which he claimed as his own. However, although he has been declared guilty of the crime, I think that a pardon in this particular case would do him more good and be of more benefit to him and society than his having to serve a term in the penitentiary. In passing sentence upon Mr. Smith I had in mind your rule not to consider an application for a pardon where the sentence is for one year or less, and in order that the matter might be called to your attention, so that you might investigate the case, I made the sentence eighteen months. I regard this a case for executive clemency rather than for the harsh rules of law, and would therefore recommend a pardon."

A member of the Everett Cattle and Dressed Meat Company in recommending pardon said, in part: "Amongst the band of cattle purchased from the receiver of the Okanogon Live Stock Company by the Everett Company, was a "three bars" brand. These cattle formerly belonged to Mr. George Smith and his brother. * * * I am satisfied that the "three bars" brand of cattle always belonged to the Everett Cattle Company by its purchase from the receiver of the Okanogon Cattle Company, and in the change of management from Everett Cattle Company this Mr. Smith was interested with a Mrs., and I am satisfied that in the particular instance whereby Mr. Smith was convicted the "three bar" brand cattle belonged to the Everett Cattle Company, and took them supposing he had a perfect right to do so; he was simply careless and his own worst enemy in not being sure."

A. J. KROENERT, having been found guilty of the crime of permitting and allowing sawdust to be thrown into the Chehalis river, was on May 28, 1896, sentenced by the superior court of Chehalis county to pay a fine of $100 and costs amounting to about $75. Fine, but not costs, remitted November 23, 1896, upon recommendation of trial judge and prosecuting attorney. From the statement of these officials it appears that the shingle mill from whence the dust came into the river was in litigation and was owned by a brother of the defendant and that the defendant was running the mill for his brother, who was a non-resident; it appears that defendant paid but little attention to the mill, and was not aware of the violation of the law by his employes. The trial judge is of the opinion that the foreman might have been more properly indicted.

FRED LA POINT was on June 8, 1889, sentenced by the United States district judge to imprisonment for fourteen years for robbery committed in King county. Pardon granted November 23, 1896, upon recommendation of trial judge, who in a communication to the governor wrote as follows:

"About one year ago I forwarded to you the application of Fred La Point, for a pardon, and in that connection I wrote as follows: 'As I remember this man's case it was proven that a robbery had been committed and La Point was identified by the victim and the police officer as the robber. The witnesses did not impress me as being first class. Were I a witness without a better opportunity for observing the robber than they had, I would not have given positive testimony as they did, identifying La Point as the man. I considered, however, that he failed to give a proper account of himself, and therefore deferred to the verdict of the jury and gave him a heavy sentence. His letter indicates that he has a manly spirit, and that his future conduct will probably justify you in the exercise of executive clemency in his case.'

"I now add that at the time of passing sentence upon Mr. La Point I felt obliged to deal severely with all cases of personal violence for the reason that at that particular time this community seemed to be infested with footpads, burglars and robbers, and it seemed necessary to enforce the law with a strong hand in order to suppress their operations, and accordingly Mr. La Point being convicted by the verdict of a jury, and there appearing to be no sufficient ground upon which I could set aside the verdict, I sentenced him to the penitentiary for fourteen years. Since writing the letter above quoted, it has been represented to me by the officers of the penitentiary that Mr. La Point has, during the time of his incarceration, behaved in an exemplary manner and that he does not appear to be a professional criminal. In the light of his subsequent conduct, I believe that even if guilty of the crime for which he was convicted, he has been sufficiently punished, having been in the penitentiary now more than seven years. I have no hesitation therefore in saying that I consider this a proper case in which to exercise your power to pardon."

OSCAR H. SPRINGER was sentenced on the 20th day of June, 1896, by a judge of the superior court of King county to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of one year for the crime of assault with intent to commit murder. The prosecuting witness in this case, one Watson, had had trouble with his wife and they had separated. On returning one day from a shooting park, Springer was asked by a child of the prosecuting witness to come immediately to her home as her father had returned home and there was likely to be trouble between him and his wife. Aware of the previous trouble, Springer went, and then ensued words, leading to Watson striking Springer and endeavoring to eject him from the house. It is claimed that in being pushed through the door Springer's foot caught, and in swinging around to prevent falling his pistol was accidentally discharged, the bullet going through the door and striking Watson, without doing any harm however. Watson testified at the preliminary examination, but left the county before the trial in superior court. In a communication to his wife some time after the conviction, which letter is in the files of the case, Watson said: "I left Everett because I did not want to go to court and give evidence against him, for I do not believe he expected to hurt me at the time and I am still of the same opinion. I think the whole thing was accidental."

Upon the recommendation of eleven of the jurors and several citizens the sentence was commuted to imprisonment in the county jail for King county, ending April 20, 1897, which is equivalent to the sentence to the penitentiary allowing the usual deductions for good behavior.

WILLIAM VON GOBLENTZ was on July 20, 1893, sentenced to five years imprisonment in the penitentiary for the crime of embezzlement, committed in Spokane county. The crime consisted of embezzling some $80 entrusted to him for the purpose of purchasing a railway ticket but which while in an intoxicated condition he spent. Pardon granted November 27, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness and many citizens of Spokane.

WILLIAM LLOYD was sentenced on the ... day of October, 1894, to imprisonment in the penitentiary for three years for the crime of stealing cattle, committed in Columbia county. Pardon granted November 27, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, the prosecuting attorney and several citizens of Columbia county. From the statements of the judge and prosecuting attorney, Lloyd, who was a very young man, fell in with a gang of cattle thieves. Lloyd gave testimony resulting in the breaking up and conviction of this gang, which convictions could not have been had without his testimony. The warden certifies to Lloyd's good conduct during incarceration, and that for the last year he has been a trusty, having had charge of the stables and carrying mail between the postoffice and penitentiary. Allowing usual deductions given by law for good behavior. Lloyd had but four months to serve when pardoned.

ED. OWENS was, on April 23, 1896, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Yakima county to two years' imprisonment for the crime of assault with intent to commit murder. Pardon granted November 27, 1896, upon recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, seven jurors, the county commissioners and other officials and many citizens of Yakima county. It appears that the prosecuting witness and his wife were seeking to withhold from the defendant certain warrants to the amount of several hundred dollars, which he had deposited with them, and it was in an endeavor to secure these that the offense was committed. The warrants were secured by replevin after this occurrence. The prosecuting attorney, in recommending pardon, says in part: "I have no hesitation in saying that, while Owens was technically guilty of the crime with which he was charged, he has been punished sufficiently, and the ends of justice would be best subserved if he were pardoned. The man whom Owens assaulted is notorious as a man who takes advantage of every one he has dealings with. Owens has always been a hard working man, and the people in the community in which he lived speak in the highest terms of him. It seems that while frenzied at the prospect of having his last dollar wrongfully taken from him, he forgot himself and committed the crime."

BURFORD C. JOHNSON pled guilty August 5, 1895, to the crime of cattle stealing, and was sentenced by the superior court of Spokane on August 5, 1895, to six years' imprisonment. Pardon granted February 11, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney and many officials and citizens of Spokane city and county. Johnson gave valuable information to the prosecuting attorney whereby several gangs of cattle thieves were broken up, either by prosecution or flight to avoid prosecution, without which information the prosecuting attorney states these gangs could not have been broken up. Johnson was a young man, and had previously borne a most excellent reputation. He fell in with these cattle thieves, who obtained such control over him that in order to get out of their clutches he was compelled to assist them.

JOHN SLAVIN was sentenced May 13, 1892, by the judge of the superior court in and for the county of Jefferson to ten years' imprisonment for the crime of robbery. Pardon granted December 23, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney. The trial judge in recommending pardon said, in part, as follows: "The sentence imposed by me of ten years is seemingly a long one, and a few words in explanation thereof from me would not be out of place. At the time of the commission of this crime, and for some time prior thereto, this city was infested with a number of criminals of all kinds and the sentence was imposed upon Slavin as a punishment for his crime, as well as a warning to others. The effect of the sentence was felt here and we were soon rid of a dangerous lot of criminals. If Slavin frankly admits the enormity of his crime and justice of penalty, and his expressions of regret are manly and sincere, and is penitent, and has resolved to try to lead an honorable life in the future, I am satisfied that he has been punished enough. To my mind then the objects of such a severe sentence has been fully accomplished and I feel no hesitancy in joining in asking a pardon for him."

Salvin's crime was robbery and the amount involved was $65. During his incarceration in the penitentiary he has been an exemplary prisoner and a trusty a large portion of the time.

BENTON WILSON, having been found guilty of the crime of murder, was on the 5th day of March, 1895, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Spokane county to imprisonment in the state penitentiary for a term of ten years. Pardon granted December 23, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, the prosecuting attorney, many of the county officials of Spokane county, several of the jury, and more than one hundred citizens of Spokane county.

The letter of the trial judge dated November 17, 1895, recommending pardon, is as follows: "Benton Wilson is now confined in the state prison at Walla Walla having been convicted of murder in the second degree for killing J. W. Johnson in this county.

"I presided at a trial of Benton Wilson, Charles Wilson, his father, and Mrs. Johnson, wife of J. W. Johnson and sister to Benton Wilson, who were tried together on the charge of murder in the first degree. The trial was sensational and in important particulars very unusual. When there was very slight evidence connecting Benton Wilson with it, but evidence pointing to his father, Benton acknowledged that he had committed the deed, and sought to justify it as the only means of protecting his sister from the insane rage of J. W. Johnson, her husband.

"To my mind, it was only a question whether the jury would believe the testimony of Benton Wilson as to the circumstances leading to and when immediately the fatal blow was struck; death following instantly a crushing blow delivered on the back of the head. The jury should have acquitted if it believed Benton Wilson's story of the killing, for although Johnson and Benton Wilson were then about a mile from the Wilson country home house, where Mrs. Johnson was, if the deceased was raging like a wild beast, armed with a loaded revolver and threatening to return and kill his wife, who had just told Johnson that she would never again live with him, and was in the act of returning to execute his threat, Benton Wilson was justified in striking to prevent this result, notwithstanding death instead of disability followed the blow.

"The evidence showed that the Wilson home was six miles from the village of Chattaroy, in a thinly settled region and no near neighbors, and that the father, Charles Wilson, was away at Chattaroy, and Mrs. Johnson, her mother, Mrs. Wilson, her eighteen year-old sister and a five or six-year old brother only, were at the house.

"Benton Wilson was without weapons, and if Johnson got out of reach of his arm, not only the defenseless women and children, but Benton Wilson himself would have been at the mercy of Johnson's revolver.

"The very best that Benton Wilson then could have done would have been to have entered a race with the enraged man for the house, to have barricaded it against him, with the chances that if he outran Johnson, he could not outrun the bullets from Johnson's revolver.

"It is the law that under such circumstances, the son and brother might defend, and to my mind it was his duty not to wait till the murder of those he should protect was imminent, but to let his acts respond to the energy infused into him by his desperate surroundings.

"My view of this subject at the trial will better appear to you by the instructions I gave the jury, which I enclose as a part hereof.

"A cloud of doubt and suspicion hung over the trial and especially affected the weight of Benton Wilson's testimony with the jury. That was, the calamitous circumstance, that immediately on delivering the fatal blow, Benton Wilson took the body in his arms, carried it to a secluded spot near the public road, where the killing occurred, left it there till night and then buried it there, where it remained for about one year, when it was accidentally discovered.

"Had Benton Wilson gone to his nearest neighbor, or to Chattaroy, and published the killing immediately, I do not doubt his acquittal, but this unfortunate mistake and his subsequent efforts to conceal the identity of the remains, must have caused the jury to disbelieve that part of his testimony which tended to justify himself.

"What has been said is upon the assumption that Benton Wilson's testimony was true. Now, was it true? I can say that it was natural, logical and harmonious with all the other evidence.

"The separation of Johnson and wife, and her refusal longer to live with him, was to be expected from the breeding and raising of the two. Johnson's frenzy at being deprived of Mrs. Johnson was the natural outcome of the mad passion which had made him a slave before marrying, and when his suit did not progress favorably had made him threaten his own life and seriously contemplate self destruction.

"His mad attempts to get possession of his wife in Helena, at one time chasing her with a loaded revolver through the house and into the kitchen where she resided, because she would not submit to him, all prepare one for the desperate madness which Benton Wilson says seized him when, as must have appeared to Johnson, he had parted with his wife for the last time, with foaming mouth and frenzied eye he broke from him, swearing he would return and kill his wife, and that she should never live with any other man.

"Benton Wilson and all of the family knew of Johnson's frantic conduct during his courtship, and of his treatment of Mrs. Johnson after marriage. Benton Wilson and they knew of Mrs. Johnson's dread of Johnson's presence, and after the interview between Mr. and Mrs. Johnson at the yard gate, Mrs. Johnson told Benton of Johnson's being armed with a pistol and warned him of the danger.

"Under the circumstances the story told by Benton Wilson of the killing is natural.

"If Benton Wilson has not told the truth, then J. W. Johnson was brutally assassinated, and somebody ought to have been hung. But this theory of the killing is unnatural, improbable and motiveless. Benton Wilson's parents are native Americans, have borne a good reputation in all places where they have lived and at all times. His father was a Union soldier in 1861, and the family is intelligent, law-abiding and obedient to all duties which society has placed upon them; while they are not rich, it has not transpired that they are not and were not well to do and independent. Johnson had nothing and they knew it. There was positively no money in it, and it is inconceivable that this old soldier with an honorable record behind him, and the dutiful and affectionate and wholesome mother of a family and Mrs. Johnson and this boy, Benton Wilson, without years or experience could have entered into a conspiracy that must lead to murder and then execute it, when it must have been known to a school girl and a child of five or six.

"Benton Wilson is not a born criminal, nor is there anything that does not contradict the suggestion that there is any criminal blood or tendency or record in the family, but the reverse. It is a good, honest, wholesome American family, where the members love each other, and abnormal criminals do not often come out of such families.

"Benton Wilson is a farmer's son, about twenty-six or twenty-eight years of age, intelligent and courageous, and who, up to the time of this killing had worn "the white roe of a blameless life."

"You may wonder why I did not give him a new trial. There was nothing the matter with the trial from a professional standpoint—the trial was fair and flawless.

"The court could have lifted the court out of their trouble had it not been forbidden by the constitution, and when the jury found the facts the court could only pronounce the penalty.

"Besides, since the trial much has been produced which supports Benton Wilson as to character, which could not have been admitted under rules of evidence, if offered, much as to his truthfulness, and much as to the probabilities and of a corroborative nature.

"I have assumed that you are familiar with the testimony and the whole record.

"For the foregoing reasons, I am of the opinion Benton Wilson is a proper subject for executive clemency, and if now extended I believe Benton Wilson's will be a useful and honorable life."

This case was before the supreme court and was affirmed by a bare majority. An able dissenting opinion was written by Chief Justice Dunbar and concurred in by Judge Stiles, found in the 10th Washington on page 410, to which your attention is respectfully invited.

WILLIAM ROBERTSON on the 30th day of January, 1895, entered a plea of guilty to the information charging him with the crime of burglary, committed on the 21st day of January, 1895, and was thereupon sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Whatcom county to imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the term of five years. Pardon granted December 23, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney, the prosecuting witness and a large number of reputable citizens of Whatcom county, including several county officials. The trial judge and prosecuting attorney in a joint communication recommending pardon stated in part as follows:

"A number of burglaries had been committed in said city during the two weeks preceding said 21st day of January, 1895, and various articles stolen from the buildings broken into. The defendant, Robinson, was arrested by the police officers when about to enter a shack on the outskirts of the town, at about the hour of midnight, in which he and another man had been staying for a short time. At the time of his arrest Robinson had in his possession certain stolen property, to wit, a goose. In the shack were found the articles which had been stolen from the outhouse of the said Latta, consisting for the most part of canned goods, wines, meats, etc. In the possession of the said Robinson and his comrade in crime was also found a quantity of meat which had been stolen from a smoke house which had been burglarized a few nights previous to the burglary with which Robinson was charged. Robinson was advised of the nature of the crime with which he was charged and also of the penalty, and was informed that the state could not consistently charge him with the trivial offense of petit larceny. Robinson was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. He refused to divulge to the court any of his antecedents when called upon to do so before sentence. The person who was in the company of Robinson when the latter was arrested escaped the police. From the description of the police officers given of such person, the inference is warranted that he was a thorough crook. It has subsequently appeared that said Robinson has for a number of years been a resident of Mt. Vernon, Skagit county, in this state, and that his mother resides there at the present time. It further appears from the written statements of many reputable citizens of the town of Mt. Vernon, that said Robinson, during all the years he has resided there, has borne a good character; that he was never before accused of crime; that he had theretofore been an industrious man. Inasmuch as an application is about to be made to your excellency for the pardon of said Robinson at the expiration of one year from the date of his incarceration in the penitentiary, in view of the circumstances herein detailed concerning the former history of said Robinson, and which were unknown at the time of his plea and sentence, and in view of the further fact that the property stolen from said smoke house and out house consisted in the main of articles of food, we desire to concur and do hereby concur in recommending that the said Robinson be pardoned at the expiration of one year from the date of his incarceration in the penitentiary. We believe that justice will be satisfied and the law vindicated by such a course upon your part in the exercise of executive clemency."

In accordance with this recommendation, pardon was granted December 28, 1896, at which time, allowing legal credits for good behavior, Robinson had served more than one year. His conduct during incarceration has been good, as appears by the certificate of the warden on file.

EDWARD RYAN, having been found guilty of the crime of robbery, was on the 5th day of March, 1891, sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Pierce county, to imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the term of eight years. Pardon granted December 28, 1896, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney under date of February 11, 1896. In the petition filed for pardon among other things it is stated that "The sentence imposed upon the said Edward Ryan was severe for the reason that he is not an habitual criminal, never before having been charged with any crime, but was led into this trouble by associates with whom he had formed a chance acquaintance while working in a railroad camp. The entire party were under the influence of liquor when the asserted robbery was committed. The amount involved was less than $6. At the time of his pardon Ryan had but eight days to serve. His conduct during incarceration was good, as appears by the certificate of the warden.

EUGENE HELM was sentenced on the 5th day of May, 1896, by the judge of the superior court of Douglas county for a term of one year in the county jail for the crime of horse stealing. Pardon granted December 28, 1896, upon the recommendation of the sheriff, prosecuting attorney and several other officials of Douglas county. One of the county officials in recommending pardon stated, in part:

"Helm was sentenced, as the petition states, last April to one year's imprisonment in the county jail. He has conducted himself in such a manner as to entitle him to a rebate upon his term. But there are other and more potent reasons why the hand of mercy should be extended to him at this time. He is in very poor health, and what is far more deplorable has a wife living at Ellensburg, recently confined, who is in abject want. We all believe that his recent experience has been a salutary lesson, and that upon his return to liberty he will be careful to keep to the straight and narrow path."

W. A. HALL was sentenced on February 13, 1894, to one year's imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the crime of assault, which term he served in full. On February 15, 1895, his civil rights were restored upon the recommendation of the prosecuting attorney, it appearing that Hall since his release has conducted himself in a proper manner.

JOHN MCCRELLIS was sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Spokane county, on the day of September, 1892, to imprisonment in the penitentiary for the term of ten years for the crime of burglary. Pardon granted January 6, 1897, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting witness. The following is an excerpt from the statement made by the prosecuting witness and concurred in by the trial judge:

"McCrellis is a tinner and occupied a frame shop just west and adjoining the large mercantile establishment of W. J. Dunstan, in this city. He cut through the division wall and thus entered Dunstan's wareroom and from time to time took out articles of small value which he sold for sums sufficient to supply his daily wants. He was unmarried and alone, and had fallen into habits of excessive drink, and this was the cause of his offense.

"At the time of the trial McCrellis was believed to be one of a gang of burglars and that he was a confirmed criminal. It has since been learned that this was his first offense, and that he was a well raised man of previous good habits and good character and that no one was with him in the breaking into the wareroom in question."

GEORGE WILLIAMS, an Indian, was sentenced by the judge of the superior court of Thurston county on the 5th day of June, 1893, to imprisonment in the state penitentiary for a term of ten years for the crime of manslaughter. Pardon granted January 6, 1897, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney and citizens. The trial judge, in recommending pardon, stated as follows:

"While I have never doubted that the evidence was legally sufficient to sustain the verdict and the judgment entered thereon, it is nevertheless true that the defendant, by reason of his inability to speak or understand the English language, was greatly handicapped and his counsel correspondingly embarrassed upon the trial. The defendant was without means to employ counsel, and counsel was appointed to defend him, who ably performed that service without compensation. The quarrelsome disposition of the deceased was not shown upon the trial. This is not surprising when we consider that the defendant was without means and also unable to speak or understand our language. It now appears that the deceased was of a very violent and quarrelsome disposition and had himself been guilty of numerous assaults and also of felonious homicide. Had this been shown upon the trial it might have resulted in a different verdict, inasmuch as there was evidence tending to show that the deceased was himself the aggressor in the fatal encounter, and the jury, aided by the knowledge of deceased's quarrelsome disposition, might have reached a different conclusion.

"In view of these circumstances and considering further that the defendant is an untutored Indian, hereditarily inclined to revenge his own wrongs, it seems to me that executive clemency might properly be extended in his behalf."

GEORGE R. A. FARRIS was sentenced September 21, 1892, by the judge of the superior court of Klickitat county to imprisonment for ten years for the crime of horse stealing. Pardon granted January 6, 1897, upon the recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney and a large number of citizens. The crime for which Farris was sentenced was the stealing of eight horses, the value of which is alleged in the information to be $400. The prosecuting attorney strenuously insists that the sentence of ten years was very excessive. Farris had previously borne a good reputation, and has a large family dependent upon him for support. Allowing the legal deductions for good behavior, which he has earned, he has served the equivalent of a six years' sentence.

WILLIAM STEVENS was on the 5th day of September, 1894, sentenced by the superior judge of Jefferson county to three years' imprisonment in the penitentiary for the crime of burglary. Pardon granted January 9, 1897, upon the recommendation of the trial judge and prosecuting attorney. Stevens is a young man just twenty-one. This was his first offense; his conduct during incarceration was good; and it is represented to me that if pardoned he can at once secure remunerative employment. At the time pardon was granted he had only about one month to serve, having earned legal deductions for good behavior.

FRANK O'BRIEN was sentenced on the 18th day of October, 1889, by the judge of the district court of King county to imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the term of fourteen years for the crime of robbery. His crime consisted in taking from the person of another man the sum of forty dollars; both persons were drinking, and the evidence against O'Brien was purely circumstantial. His pardon was recommended by a large number of citizens, including the prosecuting attorney, upon the grounds of the excessiveness of the sentence. The time served was the equivalent of a ten-year sentence.

The civil rights of the following named persons were restored in the orders of discharge releasing them from the penitentiary after having fully served their respective terms of imprisonment, upon the recommendation of the prison officials, it being certified that during imprisonment their conduct had been especially good:

Name.	Date of discharge.
J. Daley.....	August 11, 1895.

EDWARD ALBERTSON was sentenced December 14, 1891, by the superior judge of Pierce county to imprisonment in the state penitentiary for the term of ten years for the crime of grand larceny. Commutation of sentence for the term ending February 14, 1897, on recommendation of the trial judge, prosecuting attorney and a number of prominent citizens.

The reason for granting this commutation is the exceedingly valuable services rendered by Albertson in connection with the ascertainment of the defalcation of the late warden of the penitentiary, and the assistance rendered upon the trial of the case, which resulted in obtaining a judgment of $10,000 on the warden's bond. The prosecuting attorney of Walla Walla county in recommending pardon gave it as his opinion that without Albertson's assistance no judgment could have been obtained, and the assistant attorney general, who also recommended pardon, stated in part as follows:

"In the course of that trial I had occasion to note the service of Albertson to the state in the preparation and trial of its case, and I am of the opinion that Albertson's expert services to the state in disentangling the threads of that exceedingly difficult case amounted to what would have cost the state several hundred dollars if it had been obliged to pay for similar expert services. I might add that but for Albertson's fidelity and zeal, the case of the state would, in my opinion, have been seriously crippled and I doubt whether other expert evidence in lieu of his would have been of any value."

Taking into consideration the regular deductions for good behavior earned by Albertson the term was shortened exactly one year.

By general consent, Mr. Couch introduced House joint resolution No. 6, relating to senatorial election, and moved its adoption.

It was moved by Mr. Couch that the rules be suspended, and that the resolution be passed.

The motion was lost.

Thereupon the resolution was referred to the Committee on Public Morals.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON CONTESTED ELECTIONS.

The report of the special committee on contested elections presented its minority and majority reports in the matter of the contest of John Hargrave vs. L. M. Sims, for Representative of the Twenty-third District of the State of Washington, which were read as follows:

MINORITY REPORT

IN THE MATTER OF THE CONTEST OF JOHN HARGRAVE VS. L. M. SIMS, FOR REPRESENTATIVE OF THE TWENTY-THIRD DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

To the Honorable Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives of the State of Washington:

The undersigned members of your special committee on privileges and election beg leave to submit the following report:

That the record in this matter shows that the canvassing board at the general election held in the Twenty-third District on the 3d day of November, 1896, found that the vote on candidates for representative of said district was a tie, and duly reported the same to the governor and called a special election, which election was held on the 1st day of December, 1896, at which election L. M. Sims received a majority of the votes cast for representative for said Twenty-third Representative District. That at the trial of this matter before the committee numerous affidavits were presented by contestant, attempting to show fraudulent voting on behalf of said L. M. Sims at the general election held on the 3d day of November. That said affidavits were contradicted by affidavits filed by contestee, and that said contestee offered in evidence several affidavits showing that persons who had been taken from outside precincts to the county poor farm in Monticello precinct cast a vote at said election for John Hargrave and that said voters were not residents of the precinct where they voted; that said committee refused to receive said affidavits or have same read. That from the affidavits presented by the contestant and contestee it was impossible to determine that John Hargrave had received a majority of the votes, but, on the other hand, it appeared that said election had resulted in a tie vote. That thereupon the committee, by unanimous vote, decided to send to Cowlitz county and procure all the ballots cast in said county at said general election. That said ballots were received by the committee at its meeting held on the 17th day of January, 1897. That on opening one of the packages containing ballots from Lancaster precinct in said county it appeared that there was a ballot which contained the following endorsement: "This ballot was rejected because the person had not resided in Cowlitz county ninety days. Signed by H. H. Bozarth, Frank Claeger, and H. L. Higgins," who were members of the election board in said precinct. That said committee thereupon placed J. M. Percy, attorney for contestant, on the stand, who swore that at said trial in the superior court in Cowlitz county, Washington, involving certain county offices then in contest, said ballot had been counted by the judge of the superior court of said county in said contest proceedings. Whereupon a motion was carried in which motion it was decided to admit said ballot and count the same for John Hargrave, thereby giving him 945 votes, or a majority of the votes cast at said general election, and your committee thereupon refused to count any of the other ballots at said general election, the same being then before the committee.

It then appeared by the admission of counsel and an examination of the ballot that none of the officers involved in said proceedings in the superior court had been voted for on said ballot, and that the same could not, therefore, have been counted by the superior court. That said ballot contained the original number in the corner thereof, the same never having been detached, and that the poll book of said precinct contained the name of the voter and the number of said ballot opposite his name.

From said facts, it appears to a minority of your committee that said ballot had been decided to have been illegal by the election board in said precinct, and that there is no evidence before this committee that the person offering same at said election was a legal voter.

The minority of your committee therefore find that at the general election held in said Twenty-third Representative District on the 3d day of November, 1896, L. M. Sims and John Hargrave received the same number of votes and that said election resulted in a tie. That a second election was thereupon called, and that at said election the said L. M. Sims received a majority of the votes cast, and that said L. M. Sims is entitled to retain his seat in this body. The minority of your committee are satisfied from the appearance of said ballot, together with the poll book, that the same was rejected by the election board of said precinct and that the same should not be counted.

Wherefore the minority of your committee recommend that said L. M. Sims retain his seat in this body.

Respectfully submitted.

GEORGE B. KITTINGER,
Member of Committee.

MAJORITY REPORT

IN THE MATTER OF THE CONTEST OF JOHN HARGRAVE VS. L. M. SIMS,
FOR REPRESENTATIVE OF THE TWENTY-THIRD DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

*To the Honorable Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives of
the State of Washington:*

Your committee in the above-entitled cause beg leave to submit the following report: That said cause came on regularly to be heard before them as such committee, the contestant being present in person and by his counsel, J. N. Percy and H. L. Forrest; and the contestee being present in person and by his counsel, T. P. Fisk and E. W. Ross, and said committee hearing all the evidence adduced in said cause, and the argument of counsel and having duly considered the same, and the law applicable in said cause, finds as follows: That at said election held in and for said district November the 3d, 1896, the canvassing board upon the face of the returns thereof declared a tie between the contestant and the contestee, and that each received on the face of the returns 944 votes, which tie was certified to the governor of said state, who ordered a special election thereon. That this contestant did not participate in said election, and that this contestee was the only candidate participating in the same; that upon such subsequent election the canvassing board declared contestee elected to said office, and that a certificate of election was issued in accordance therewith. That this contestant elected to stand upon the previous election, and to contest the same, and gave due notice thereof, specifying the irregularities hereinafter found, and that by reason thereof the said contestant was not bound by said subsequent election. Said contestee elected to stand upon said tie and subsequent election and answered said contest, alleging said tie and setting up said subsequent election as a defense. That upon the hearing of said contest before your committee the following irregularities were proven:

First: That in Ostrander precinct, in said representative district, one ballot, marked only with a cross opposite the republican presidential electors, was counted by the election board of said precinct for the straight republican ticket and for L. M. Sims, the contestee for representative, when the same should have been counted for said electors only.

Second: That in Martin's Bluff precinct, in said district, one ballot, marked only with a cross opposite the republican presidential electors, was counted by the election board of said precinct for the straight republican ticket and for L. M. Sims, the contestee for representative, which ballot should have been counted for said presidential electors only.

Third: That in Lancaster precinct, in said district, one ballot, properly marked with a cross in the space and at the right of the name of John Hargrave and properly voted and deposited in the ballot box, was unlawfully taken therefrom and rejected.

Fourth: That in Owl Creek precinct, in said district, one ballot, marked only with a cross opposite the republican presidential electors, was counted for the straight republican ticket and for L. M. Sims, the contestee for representative, which should have been counted for said electors only. That in the same precinct, three ballots, marked with a cross in the space at the right of and opposite the words democratic ticket, at the head of the official ballot, were counted for the straight republican ticket and for L. M. Sims, the contestee for representative.

Fifth: That on numerous other ballots the only mark was a cross on the line between the spaces at the right of and opposite the words, "Republican Ticket" and "Democratic Ticket," at the head of the official ballot; that said cross was so placed that it was impossible to determine whether the voter intended to vote for the republican ticket or democratic ticket, but said ballots were improperly counted for the straight republican ticket and for L. M. Sims, the contestee for representative.

Sixth: That in said Owl Creek precinct, two ballots, otherwise properly marked for the straight republican ticket, bore distinguishing marks, one of them having the word "Straight" written opposite the word republican ticket, the other having the word "McKinley" written at the top of the ticket, and both said ballots were counted for the straight republican ticket and for the contestee, L. M. Sims, for representative, and that the same should have been rejected by reason of said distinguishing marks.

Wherefore, by reason of the above findings, your committee concludes that the contestant, John Hargrave, received a legal majority of all the votes cast at said election for said office of representative, and that he was duly elected to said office on said 3d day of November, 1896; that said subsequent election was illegal, and that said John Hargrave is entitled to his seat in this body as such representative from the Twenty-third District.

CLEVELAND SMITH,
F. I. PHELPS,
GEO. M. WITT,
S. W. BAKER,
C. A. MENTZER,
Committee.

Mr. Marshall moved to adopt the minority report.

Mr. Witt moved to substitute the majority report for the minority report.

Mr. Struve moved as a substitute to re-refer the entire matter back to the committee for further consideration.

Mr. H. D. Smith moved the previous question, which was sustained.

On call of the roll, the motion to re-refer was lost. Ayes 29, noes 48, absent or not voting 1.

Ayes: Messrs. Ames, Baker G. H., Barlow, Bush A. S., Carr, Clapp, Conine, Day, de Mattos, Edwards J. O., Forbes, Guie, Gerry, Johnston, Kittinger, Levin, Libby, Likins, Marshall, Mathiot, Mitchell, Powell, Scott, Smith J. B., Sims, Struve, Thacker, Williams, and Mr. Speaker — 29.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, March 23, 1895.

Hon. J. H. Price, Secretary of State:

SIR—I transmit herewith, for filing in your office, House bill No. 2, "An act appropriating two thousand five hundred dollars for the purpose of sinking an artesian well in Walla Walla county upon condition that the county commissioners of said county appropriate two thousand five hundred dollars, and providing for the disbursement thereof, and declaring an emergency," without my approval.

The experience of the territory and state in the matter of assisting in sinking artesian wells has been expensive and fruitless. In 1888 an appropriation of $1,000 was made and expended without result, and in 1891 an appropriation of $2,500 was made, of which $1,400 was expended without any result, and the price paid was over $4 a foot sunk. The average expense per foot of artesian wells sunk by private parties in this state, according to the United States Census Bulletin on the subject, has been but $2.45 per foot, showing that such work may be more economically conducted by private than by public means.

The present act provides that the money appropriated, $2,500, shall be expended in that portion of Walla Walla county known as Eureka Flat, and that the money is to be expended even if flowing water is not obtained.

Eureka Flat is a high plateau in the western end of Walla Walla county, between the Snake and the Touchet rivers. Efforts have been made heretofore in that locality to obtain water by drilling, but, as reported by Special Agent Newell to the United States Census Bureau, "it has been found very difficult to penetrate the hard basaltic rock; small pieces are easily dislodged by the drill and wedge it firmly, so that it becomes a matter of great difficulty, and even in some cases impossible, to withdraw the drilling tools. Wells have been put down to depths of from 300 to 400 feet without obtaining water, the drill having finally stuck fast."

In view of the great and apparently almost insurmountable difficulty before the work, and the strong probability that the expenditure of so much public money within a limited area will result fruitlessly, and in view of the further fact that such an enterprise can at all times best be done by private means, I am constrained to withhold my approval.

Very respectfully yours, J. H. MCGRAW, Governor.

Mr. Marshall moved to postpone further action on the bills until two weeks from to-morrow, at 2 o'clock P. M.

On vote, the motion was lost.

Mr. Guie objected to the consideration of the bills.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, March 23, 1895.

Hon. J. H. Price, Secretary of State:

SIR—Herewith I transmit House bill No. 97, entitled "An act to aid the Washington State Historical Society," without my approval, for the following reasons:

The State Historical Society is an organization of praiseworthy and patriotic purpose, which might deserve state assistance to a moderate extent if the treasury were full and times were good; but the appropriation which this bill carries, $4,000 in all, is, in my opinion, excessive, and should not be allowed for this purpose at this time.

Very respectfully yours, J. H. MCGRAW, Governor.

The roll call was ordered on passage of House bill No. 97 over the veto, and resulted as follows: Ayes 9, noes 63, absent or not voting 6.

Ayes: Messrs. Baker F. R., Bush A. S., Geraghty, Kittinger, Merrifield, Ross, Scott, Smith P. M., and Mr. Speaker—9.

Noes: Messrs. Ames, Baker G. H., Baker S. W., Barlow, Bush C. P., Canutt, Carr, Caywood, Clapp, Conine, Couch, Day, de Mattos, Edwards J. O., Freeman, Fritz, Forbes, Guie, Gerry, Hagadorn, Hansen, Hargrave, Hicks, Hooper, Irvin, Johnston, Jory, Kincaid, Koehler, Levin, Libby, Likins, Lindstrom, Lusher, Marshall, Mathiot, Mentzer, Mitchell, Mohundro, Moore, McAtee, Nelson, Parker, Phelps, Pierson, Powell, Richmond, Roberts, Smith C., Smith H. D., Smith J. B., Stafford, Stuhrman, Struve, Thacker, Tobiassen, Warner, Winsor, Wilkeson, Way, Witt, Wolf, and Windust—63.

Absent or not voting: Messrs. Edwards J. M., Gilkey, Hodgdon, Land, Seymore, and Williams—6.

The bill has, therefore, failed to pass over the governor's veto.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, March 26, 1895.

Hon. J. H. Price, Secretary of State:

SIR—Herewith I transmit House bill No. 504, "An act to provide Huntley's Code to justices of the peace, and making appropriation therefor," without my approval, for the following reasons:

By this bill the sum of three thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated to supply one set of Huntley's Code to each justice of the peace in the State of Washington "who has not been supplied with the same."

Under the act of February 18, 1890, relating to the code commissioner, it is provided that one copy of Hill's Code shall be supplied to each justice of the peace; that each of the copies so supplied shall be indelibly marked with the name of the county and the office for which it is intended, and "said volumes must be by the officers so receiving them turned over to his successor in office."

If this law has been properly observed, and it must be presumed to have been, the majority of the justices of the peace in the state are now provided with the state code as state property, and the approval of the present act would have the effect of presenting each of the justices with an extra and free copy of the code, as the act before me in no way provides that the copies supplied shall belong to the offices and not to the officers. If it had been declared that copies of the code should be supplied to the offices of such justices of the peace as were not already supplied with Hill's Code, the present bill would be worthy of approval, but I cannot believe that it would be wise or economical virtually to make a present of $3,000 worth of codes to the existing justices of the peace, who number some one thousand persons; therefore, I withhold my approval.

Very respectfully yours, J. H. MCGRAW, Governor.

Mr. C. Smith moved that the rules be suspended, and the veto be sustained by the full vote of the House.

The motion was carried.

The clerk was instructed to call the roll.

The governor's veto was sustained: Ayes 75, noes 0, absent or not voting 3.

Ayes: Messrs. Ames, Baker F. R., Baker G. H., Baker S. W., Barlow, Bush A. S., Bush C. P., Canutt, Carr, Caywood, Clapp, Conine, Couch, Day, de Mattos, Edwards J. M., Edwards J. O., Freeman, Fritz, Forbes, Guie, Geraghty, Gerry, Hagadorn, Hansen, Hargrave, Hicks, Hodgdon, Hooper, Irvin, Johnston, Jory, Kincaid, Kittinger, Koehler, Land, Levin, Libby, Likins, Lindstrom, Lusher, Marshall, Mathiot, Mentzer, Merrifield, Mitchell, Mohundro, Moore, McAtee, Nelson, Parker, Phelps, Pierson, Powell, Richmond, Roberts, Ross, Scott, Smith C., Smith H. D., Smith J. B., Smith P. M., Stafford, Stuhrman, Struve, Thacker, Tobiasse, Warner, Winsor, Wilkeson, Way, Witt, Wolf, Windust, and Mr. Speaker—75.

Absent or not voting: Messrs. Gilkey, Seymore, and Williams—3.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, March 26, 1895.

Hon. J. H. Price, Secretary of State:

SIR—Herewith I transmit House bill No. 656, entitled "An act relating to justices of the peace and constables in cities of over 5,000 inhabitants, fixing their number and salaries," for filing in your office, without my approval.

Section 1468, Hill's Statutes and Codes of Washington, reads as follows:

"If, previous to the commencement of any trial before a justice of the peace, the defendant, his attorney or agent, shall make and file with the justice an affidavit that the deponent believes that the defendant cannot have an impartial trial before such justice, it shall be the duty of the justice to forthwith transmit all the papers and documents belonging to the case to the next nearest justice of the peace in the same county, who is not of kin to either party, sick, absent from the county, or interested in the result of the action, either as counsel or otherwise. The justice to whom such papers and documents are so transmitted shall proceed as if the suit had been instituted before him. Distance, as contemplated by this section, shall be computed upon the shortest traveled route. The costs of such change of venue shall abide the result of the suit."

Should this bill become a law, in every case, whether civil or criminal, before a justice of the peace in cities of the first class, a change of venue would of necessity send parties litigant to a justice of the peace in the nearest country precinct, thereby greatly increasing the cost of litigation to such parties as well as to the taxpayers.

The courts of justices of the peace have been aptly styled "the poor man's courts," and to subject poor litigants to the increased cost and inconvenience of going into the country precincts for trial would be to deprive them of rights that should be sacred.

Moreover, I am convinced that in fairly busy times one justice of the peace would be unable to transact the business that would arise in any of our cities of the first class.

For the foregoing reasons I withhold my approval of said bill.

Very respectfully, J. H. MCGRAW, Governor.

The roll call was ordered on the passage of the bill (H. B. No. 656) over the veto, and resulted as follows: Ayes 5, noes 64, absent or not voting 9.

Ayes: Messrs. Baker F. R., Forbes, Hargrave, Wolf, and Mr. Speaker—5.

Noes: Messrs. Ames, Baker G. H., Baker S. W., Barlow, Bush A. S., Bush C. P., Canutt, Carr, Caywood, Clapp, Conine, Couch, Day, de Mattos, Edwards J. M., Freeman, Fritz, Guie, Geraghty, Gerry, Hansen, Hicks, Hodgdon, Hooper, Irvin, Johnston, Jory, Kincaid, Kittinger, Koehler, Levin, Libby, Likins, Lusher, Marshall, Mathiot, Mentzer, Merrifield, Mitchell, Mohundro, Moore, McAtee, Nelson, Parker, Phelps, Pierson, Powell, Richmond, Roberts, Ross, Scott, Smith C., Smith H. D., Smith J. B., Stafford, Stuhrman, Struve, Thacker, Tobiassen, Warner, Winsor, Way, Witt, and Windust—64.

Absent or not voting: Messrs. Edwards J. O., Gilkey, Hagadorn, Land, Lindstrom, Seymore, Smith P. M., Williams, and Wilkeson—9.

The governor's veto was sustained.

Mr. F. R. Baker moved to suspend the rules and pass the resolution to second reading.

The motion was carried.

The resolution was read the second and third times, and placed on its final passage.

Mr. Warner moved to suspend the rules, and that the resolution be referred back to the author for its correction; and that the resolution be returned to its second reading.

The motion was carried.

Rule 6. The speaker shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

Rule 7. If the speaker doubt, or if division is called for, the House shall divide. Those in the affirmative on the question shall rise in their seats, and the number being announced, those in the negative shall rise.

Rule 13. When any member is about to speak in debate or deliver any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to Mr. Speaker, and shall confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personalities; and no member shall impeach the motive of any other member's vote or argument.

Rule 14. If any member in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules of the House, the speaker shall, or any member may, call to order, in which case the member so called to order, shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the House shall, if appealed to, decide the case without debate; if there be no appeal, then the decision of the chair shall be submitted to. Rule 16. When two or more members rise at once, the speaker shall name who is first to speak.

Rule 17. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the House, except the chairman of the committee, or the mover of the question, who may close the debate: Provided, That no member shall speak longer than fifteen minutes without unanimous consent.

Rule 18. When a motion is made and seconded it shall be stated by the speaker, or, being in writing, it shall be handed to the chair and read aloud before debate.

Rule 19. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the speaker or a member desire it.

Rule 20. After a motion is stated by the speaker, or bill, memorial, resolution, petition or remonstrance is read by the clerk, it shall be deemed to be in possession, but may be withdrawn at any time by consent of the House, before decision or amendment.

Rule 21. When a question is under debate no motion shall be received but the following, in the order named:

First. To fix the time to which to adjourn.

Second. To adjourn.

Third. To lay on the table.

Fourth. For the previous question.

Fifth. To postpone to a certain day.

Sixth. To recommit.

Seventh. To amend.

Eighth. To postpone indefinitely.

Rule 22. When a reading of a paper is called for, it shall be decided by a vote of the House.

Rule 23. All questions, whether in committee or in the House, shall be propounded in the order in which they are named, except that in filling blanks the largest sum and the longest time shall be first put.

INDEFINITE POSTPONEMENT.

Rule 24. No motion to postpone indefinitely being decided, shall again be allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill or proposition. When a question is postponed indefinitely the same shall not be acted upon again during the session.

PREVIOUS QUESTION AND RECONSIDERATION.

Rule 25. The previous question shall be put in this form: "Mr. demands the previous question. As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say aye; as many as are opposed will say no." This question is not debatable and cannot be amended. The results of the motion are as follows: If determined in the negative, the consideration goes on as if the motion had never been made; if decided in the affirmative, then the presiding officer at once and without debate proceeds to put, first, the amendments pending and then the main question as amended. If an adjournment is had after the previous question is ordered, the subject comes up the first thing after the reading of the journal the next day, and the previous question still operates, making the main question privileged over all other business, whether new or unfinished. It shall only be admitted when demanded by two-thirds of the members present, and until it is decided shall preclude all amendments and further debate on the main question. On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the seconding of the same, a call of the House shall be in order, but after a majority shall have seconded such motion, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

Rule 26. When a motion has once been made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member of the prevailing side to move for reconsideration thereof, on the same day or next working day thereafter.

DIVISION OF QUESTIONS.

Rule 27. A division cannot be demanded as of right by any member. It must be made pursuant to a motion stating precisely the division asked for, which motion can be amended. The presiding officer can decide, subject to an appeal to the House, that the division proposed cannot be made. Otherwise it is submitted to the House and decided by it.

AMENDMENTS.

Rule 28. No motion or proposition on a subject shall be admitted under color of amendment, if different from that under consideration. No bill or resolution shall at any time be amended by annexing thereto or incorporating any bill or resolution pending before the House.

Rule 29. No amendment shall be received to a bill on its third reading, but it may be referred or recommitted for the purpose of amendment. A bill may be recommitted at any time before its passage.

PETITIONS, MEMORIALS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Rule 30. Petitions, memorials and other papers addressed to the House may be presented by the speaker or any member, and shall not be debated or decided on the day of their being first read unless the House shall direct otherwise, but they may be referred to the committee having the subject matter thereof under consideration, or may lie on the table, to be taken up in the order in which they are presented.

BILLS, JOINT AND CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS.

Rule 31. Any member desiring to introduce a bill shall first obtain the floor and state that he desires to introduce a bill, and if entitled to do so, the bill shall be sent to the clerk's desk to be numbered, and all bills shall be read in the order in which they are numbered by the clerk, but no bill shall be read a first time until every member present entitled to introduce a bill has had an opportunity to do so, unless otherwise ordered by the House.

Rule 32. Every bill shall be read on three several days unless the House shall deem it expedient to suspend this rule. The first reading shall be by title only, unless a majority of the members present demand a reading in full. All bills shall be printed, unless otherwise ordered by the House, and be referred to committee after first reading. Bills shall pass to second reading when reported back by the committee. Each amendment made by a committee to a bill shall be in writing on a separate slip of paper, and shall be securely attached to the original bill by a paper fastener. The report of the committee shall also contain a statement of all amendments agreed to by the committee. Any committee report on a bill not conforming with this rule shall be returned by the chief clerk of the House to the committee for a compliance with this rule without further order by the house. Upon second reading, bills shall be read section by section, in full, and be subject to amendment. No amendment shall be considered by the House until it shall have been sent to the desk in writing and have been read by the clerk. All amendments adopted on second reading shall be securely attached to the original bill by a paper fastener. Amendments rejected by the House shall be passed to the journal clerk, and the journal shall show the disposition of such amendments. When no further amendments shall be offered, the speaker shall declare that the bill has passed its second reading. The bill, with the amendments, if there be any attached thereto, shall be sent to the committee on engrossed and enrolled bills, which committee shall see that all amendments are properly engrossed upon the original bill, and the bill returned to the chief clerk before the opening of the House on the next succeeding day, and the bill shall then come up in its regular order for a third reading. Bills on third reading shall be read in full by sections. The only question on the third reading of a bill shall be upon its passage, and no amendment shall be entertained.

Rule 33. A bill may be advanced on the calendar by a vote of three-fifths of all members present voting in the affirmative; and the question shall be: "Shall the bill be advanced on the calendar?"

Rule 34. All joint or concurrent resolutions shall be acted upon the same as bills, unless otherwise ordered by a majority of the House.

Rule 35. When a bill shall pass, it shall be certified to by the clerk, together with the vote upon final passage, noting the day of its passage at the foot thereof.

Rule 36. On the final passage of every bill the ayes and noes shall be taken and entered upon the journal.

Rule 37. No engrossed bill, memorial or joint resolution shall be sent to the Senate until one day after its passage, without special instructions by the House.

AYES AND NOES.

Rule 38. Upon the passage of any question the vote shall be taken by ayes and noes and shall be entered upon the journal of the House, when demanded by one-sixth of the members present. The speaker shall vote when the ayes and noes are called for, his name being called last, and in case of an equal division the question shall be lost.

VOTING.

Rule 39. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is immediately or particularly interested, or in any case when he was not within the bar of the House before the last name was called, unless by unanimous consent; and when any member shall ask leave to vote, the speaker shall propound to him the question: "Were you within the bar when the last name was called?"

Rule 40. Upon a division and a count of the House on any question, no member without the bar shall be counted.

DUTIES OF MEMBERS.

Rule 41. While the speaker is putting the question no member shall walk across or out of the House; nor when a member is speaking shall any entertain private discourse or pass between him and the chair.

Rule 42. Every member who shall be in the House when the question was put shall give his vote unless the House for special reasons shall excuse him. All motions to excuse a member shall be made before the House divides or before the call for ayes and noes is commenced; and any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief and verbal statement of the reasons for making such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

Rule 43. No member shall absent himself from the service of the House unless he shall have leave or be sick and unable to attend.

Rule 44. No person shall be allowed to smoke in the hall or lobby thereof during the session or recess.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE.

Rule 45. In forming a committee of the whole House the speaker having the chair shall call upon some member to preside, who shall be addressed as "Mr. Chairman."

Rule 46. Upon a bill committed to a committee of the whole House, the bill shall be read and debated by clauses, leaving the preamble to be last considered. The body of the bill shall not be defaced or interlined, but all amendments (noting the page and line) shall be duly entered by the clerk on a separate paper, as the same shall be agreed to by the committee and so reported to the House. After a report, the bill shall again be subject to be debated and amended by clauses before a question to engross it be taken.

Rule 47. The rules of proceeding in the House shall be observed in a committee of the whole House so far as they may be applicable, but no member shall be recognized a second time until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.

VETOES.

Rule 48. The veto message of the governor accompanying any bill passed by the House of Representatives, other than as provided in joint rule No. 9, shall be immediately read, together with the bill vetoed. It shall then be in order to proceed to the reconsideration of the bill, or to postpone its consideration to a day certain.

A veto message and a bill, or the message alone, may be referred and the bill may be laid on the table.

The main question in the consideration of a vetoed bill is: "Shall the bill pass notwithstanding the veto of the governor?" If two-thirds of the members present vote aye the bill shall be sent to the Senate, together with the message of the governor, for its action.

The merits of the bill may be debated before the vote is taken, but the vote on a vetoed bill cannot be reconsidered.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.
OLYMPIA, January 23, 1897.

Messrs. Pierson, Wilkeson and Kincaid, Committee of the House of Representatives, Olympia, Wash.:

GENTLEMEN—In reply to your oral inquiry whether the state treasurer had requested the opinion of my office as to the validity of the act of the 22d of January, 1897, entitled "An act directing the state treasurer to invest certain moneys in the tide land fund in general warrants, and declaring an emergency," and inquiring also whether I had furnished said opinion, I have the honor to say that the state treasurer, under date of January 22d, 1897, requested my opinion and that I furnished him the same, a copy of which opinion I take pleasure in handing you herewith, together with a copy of the state treasurer's letter.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

PATRICK H. WINSTON, Attorney General.

COMMUNICATION TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL FROM THE HON. C. W. YOUNG (SUBMITTED).

OLYMPIA, WASH., January 22, 1897.

Hon. P. H. Winston, Attorney General of the State of Washington:

DEAR SIR—The legislature has passed and the governor has approved an act instructing the state treasurer to invest all the money in the tide land fund, and all which may be paid into that fund prior to the first day of January, 1899, in state warrants hereafter drawn on the general fund.

On March 10, 1891, an act was approved providing: "That seventy-five per cent. of the proceeds derived from the sale of tide lands within the limits of any incorporated city or town in the State of Washington, or within one mile on either side thereof, shall be and the same is hereby appropriated and set apart as a special fund by the state treasurer for the construction and maintenance of a system of permanent and substantial improvements in aid of commerce and navigation in and for the harbor of such city or town wherein such tide lands may be sold, and the remaining twenty-five per cent. shall be paid into the general tide land fund of the state."

This appropriation was further confirmed by the reference to it in the act of 1893, page 389 of the Session Laws of 1893. Most of the money now in the tide land fund has been derived from the sale of lands involved under the terms of the aforesaid act of 1891.

Can money paid into the treasury under the terms of the act of 1891 be alienated for the purchase of general fund warrants without violating article 1 of section 10 of the Constitution of the United States?

Is there any legal objection to my compliance with the law just passed by investing in general fund state warrants, first, money now in the tide land fund, and, second, that which may hereafter be paid into that fund?

Respectfully submitted,

C. W. YOUNG, State Treasurer.

COMMUNICATION OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL TO HON. C. W. YOUNG (SUBMITTED).

OLYMPIA, WASH., January 23, 1897.

Hon. C. W. Young, State Treasurer:

SIR—In reply to your letter of January 22d, wherein you inquire whether "money paid into the treasury under the terms of the act of 1891 can be alienated for the purchase of general fund warrants without violating article 1, section 10 of the Constitution of the United States, and whether there is any legal objection to your compliance with the act just passed by the legislature instructing you to invest all the money of the tide land fund and all which may be paid into that fund prior to the first day of January, 1899, in state warrants hereafter drawn on the general fund?"

I have the honor to say if you refer to an act approved the 22d day of January, 1897, entitled "An act directing the state treasurer to invest certain moneys in the tide land fund in general warrants, and declaring an emergency," there is no question of alienation involved in that act, nor does it violate article 1, section 10 of the Constitution of the United States or any article or section of the Constitution of the United States. It simply directs you to invest certain moneys known as the tide land funds in certain securities, to wit, in general fund warrants of the State of Washington.

When you have performed the duty imposed upon you by this act, the warrants will be impressed with the same trust that the moneys were impressed with with which you bought the warrants.

I take the liberty of suggesting that the investments be credited to the several special funds, as provided by the act of March 10, 1891, to which you refer.

Respectfully, PATRICK H. WINSTON, Attorney General.

To the Honorable Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned, members of your special committee on contests, to whom was referred the election contest of Rader vs. Seymore, from the Thirtieth Representative District, beg leave to respectfully report:

I.

That we find contestant's charges of fraud and intimidation of voters in the precincts of Port Blakeley and Port Gamble, at the last election, to have wholly failed. Contestant has failed to show a single instance wherein any threats or intimidation were used, or in which contestant sustained the loss of a single vote. On the contrary, it appears from the evidence, that the election in those precincts was in every respect lawfully and fairly held.

II.

That contestant's cause of action, as to the three pauper votes, alleged to have been illegal and to have been cast for contestee, has utterly and wholly failed; that said paupers had an undoubted right to change their place of residence while paupers, and to claim and adopt as their residence the precinct where they voted, which they evidently did, as shown by the fact that they registered in said precinct and swore that it was their actual residence. The correct decision and doctrine upon this point is shown to have been promulgated by the supreme courts of Illinois, Ohio, Oregon and California, and by a committee of the congress of the United States. The California decision is under a constitutional provision in the exact wording of that of the State of Washington. But even if there were doubt upon this point, contestant has signally failed to prove that these persons voted for Contestee Seymore. Witness Anderson swore that he was a member of the precinct election board where these persons voted; that they procured the assistance of one A. F. Baird to make out their ballots, which ballots were as by law required marked on the backs thereof; that he watched the ballots when the vote was counted, and noticed that they were in favor of contestee, and that he therefore knew how they voted. Baird's affidavit was put in evidence, and not disputed, showing that he assisted six persons to make out their ballots in that precinct on election day, all of the same being marked on the outside before being deposited in the ballot box. Contestant made no attempt to account for more than three of those marked ballots; it is therefore utterly impossible that Witness Anderson could have identified out of those six ballots any three as the ballots voted by these persons:

III.

That A. E. Lundeen's vote was properly rejected by the election board, it having been shown that according to his own answers under oath when his vote was challenged, he had a homestead in another county, that he had been upon said homestead within ninety days of the election, that he still claimed it and intended to claim it as his residence from the date of the beginning of his improvements thereon. That Wm. Barber's vote was properly rejected, it appearing that he had removed with his family to another state, that he had informed several persons at the time of leaving (notably ex-Senator E. L. Brown, who is a reputable and disinterested witness) that he did not intend to return to this state to reside, and that he had not acquired a residence in Kitsap county after having so lost it, prior to election. That the vote of Gare Van Vranken was properly rejected, it appearing by competent disinterested testimony that said Van Vranken had removed from Kitsap county to another county about two years prior to the election, that he had continuously resided outside of Kitsap county during those two years, and that he did not return until about two weeks before the election. That S. J. Dahl's vote was properly rejected, it being shown that he was foreign born, and that under challenge he was unable to produce any naturalization papers or any proof of naturalization. That it has not been shown that T. Brady either voted illegally or that he voted for contestee—this being the claim of contestant. Brady was not put on the witness stand, neither was any affidavit by him put in evidence. The letter purporting to have come from him was not even identified. All the evidence regarding his vote was hearsay, and it would seem that if the facts had been as stated his affidavit to that effect could have been easily procured.

IV.

That contestant wholly failed to prove either that Johnson, Forbes, Lund, Haley, McClintock and Anderson, or any one of them, voted for contestee, or that they or any one of them was not entitled to vote. On the contrary, Witness Blackwell (the only witness who testified about them) swore positively under cross-examination that he did not know for whom they voted.

Other matters of minor importance appear in this case, but inasmuch as the foregoing cover all the material facts in the contest, and as they show conclusively not only that contestant has not proven himself to be entitled to a net gain of at least three votes over the official result (the returns showing contestee to have been elected by two majority) but that they show affirmatively that contestant has wholly and utterly failed to establish any claim whatever to a seat in this body, therefore, we respectfully recommend that W. B. Seymore, contestee herein, be declared to be entitled to retain his seat in this House.

GEORGE B. KITTINGER.

C. A. MENTZER.

CONTESTEE'S BRIEF.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ELECTION CONTEST, L. E. RADER, CONTESTANT, vs. W. B. SEYMORE, CONTESTEE.

Contestant avers in his petition that in the Port Orchard precinct he was unlawfully deprived of the votes of one Gare Van Vranken and William Barber; also, that in said precinct three illegal votes were cast for contestee, by J. Edwards, J. Kowen and J. Cushing; that in the Olalla precinct contestant was unlawfully deprived of the vote of one J. J. Dahl; that in the Port Washington precinct one T. Brady illegally voted for contestee; that in the Charleston precinct contestant was illegally deprived of the vote of one A. E. Lundeen.

Other charges of fraud were made, all indefinite in character, tending to show intimidation or undue influence upon voters at Port Blakeley and Port Gamble precincts, but were not sustained, and were amply and fully rebutted. The committee sustained contestee's objection to admitting amending the petition so as to bring Port Gamble precinct into the case, and afterwards admitted evidence referring to said precinct, over contestee's objection. However, contestee produced ample evidence that the election was in all respects legal and free from fraud, intimidation or coercion — particularly at Port Blakeley precinct, which contestant tried specially to attack upon the ground of coercion or intimidation by the mill company there. Neither contestant's pleadings nor any part of his testimony shows a single specific act of intimidation or coercion, or that any threat was made by which contestant lost any vote, in any part of the county; therefore, contestant's brief and authorities cited upon this point are not applicable to the case.

The merits of this contest are wholly involved in the law and the evidence, as applied to the above named persons.

The burden of proof rests upon contestant; and unless he shows by a clear preponderance of evidence that among the persons named above he is fairly entitled to a net gain of at least three votes over the result of the election as shown by the official returns, then his contest must fail—the returns having shown a majority of two votes for contestee.

It is true that in contestant's brief, paragraph 3, a claim is made that "six votes residing on the military reservation, in Charleston precinct, one of which voting for L. E. Rader and the other five for Seymore, were illegal votes and should have been rejected." There is no allegation in the petition referring to these votes, and no issue was raised as to them, and the evidence as to them was inadmissible. Nevertheless, the only reference to them in contestant's testimony was in that of Witness Blackwell, who swore positively that he did not know how they voted. He could only surmise. Contestant wholly failed to show that any one of them voted for either party in this contest. Contestant contends that they were not legal voters, under article 6, section 4, State Constitution, yet it was shown by the testimony of Seymore and Yakey, for contestee, that not one of said men were enlisted in the service of the United States, but were merely common laborers temporarily employed. Contestant did not show that the actual residence of any one of them was elsewhere than in the precinct.

As to T. Brady: It is alleged that he voted illegally, and for contestee, afterwards admitting the same. While two witnesses for contestant testified that Brady made such admission to them, still, no such evidence coming direct from him was offered. What purported to be a letter from him to this effect was put in evidence, but the signature to the same was not identified, nor was the letter or any part thereof identified; it was not sworn to by him, and it is wholly inadmissible as evidence. The fact was brought out (see Williams' testimony), that Brady's vote was challenged, and that he answered the questions of the board satisfactorily under oath and was permitted to vote. Either one of two things must be a fact, viz.: That he perjured himself when he swore his vote in, or else that he has been constrained from some cause to lend himself to aid this contest. If he did perjure himself, then his subsequent testimony would have no value, as he might readily swear falsely as to the person for whom he voted. But no competent evidence upon this subject was offered. Had the testimony herein been taken as by law required, Brady could have been subpoenaed, put under oath, cross examined, and the facts obtained in a legal and conclusive manner. His vote should not be disturbed.

As to A. E. Lundeen: Contestant alleges, and supports by affidavit of Lundeen, that said Lundeen was entitled to vote, but was not permitted to vote, and would have voted for contestant. The original record of the challenge of Lundeen was put in evidence by contestee, was identified by Blackwell, one of contestant's witnesses, who was judge of the election board of Charleston precinct, where Lundeen offered to vote, and who had signed the record. This record of questions and answers of Lundeen under oath clearly shows that he claimed a homestead elsewhere, in another county, had been on same within ninety days, and intended to claim same as his residence from the beginning of his improvements thereon, and that upon his own testimony upon this point he was not allowed to vote. It also appears from the affidavit of W. McDonough, a witness for contestee, that upon his own knowledge said Lundeen had removed to another county, and had taken up a homestead claim therein, and did not return to Kitsap county until the latter part of September, 1896. Lundeen's vote should not be admitted, nor taken account of in this contest.

As to Wm. Barber: Contestant alleges, and supports by Barber's affidavit, that said Barber was entitled to vote, but was refused by the election board on the ground of non-residence. The facts show that he had removed from the state with his family, and had not been residing within the state since said removal long enough to gain a residence. He swears that he had not intended to remain in Michigan permanently, but it is conclusively proven (notably in the affidavit of E. L. Brown), that Barber did intend to change his residence when he removed from the state, and that he so informed witness. The election board properly decided that he had lost his former residence and had not gained it anew. No account should be taken of his vote.

As to Van Vranken: Contestant claims, and supports by this man's affidavit, that he was entitled to vote in Port Orchard precinct, but was refused the right, and would have voted for contestant. It is shown in evidence (see particularly affidavit of E. L. Brown), that Van Vranken went to Skagit county to reside about two years ago, that he owned property there, and steadily resided there until about two weeks before the last election. His right to vote in Kitsap county was properly denied. His vote should not be taken into account.

As to Dahl: Contestant alleges, and supports by Dahl's affidavit, that he was illegally deprived of that person's vote. The fact is shown (notably by affidavits of A. E. Gunderson, J. O. Gunderson and J. Luxon), that Dahl offered to vote at the Olalla precinct, was challenged, and that he was foreign born, and that he could neither produce his naturalization papers nor furnish any proof of naturalization, and that for these reasons he was not permitted to vote. The election board properly rejected his vote, and it should not be taken into account herein.

As to Edwards, Kowen and Cushing: Contestant alleges, and offered evidence to prove, that these persons voted for contestee; that they were not entitled to vote, being county paupers, and being residents of precincts other than where they voted. It is admitted that they were paupers. The only evidence offered to show that they voted for contestee is the affidavit and testimony of witness Anderson, who has sworn that he served on the election board in Port Orchard precinct where these persons voted; that they were unable to make out their ballots and were assisted by one A. F. Baird, who marked the ballots on the outside; that he, Anderson, watched those ballots when they were counted and noticed that they were in favor of contestee, and that he therefore swears that these persons so voted. It will be observed that said Anderson, as an election officer, sworn to obey the laws, on his own admission violated our statutes for protecting the secrecy of the ballot, and laid himself liable for criminal prosecution under section 124, Penal Code, volume 2, Hill's Code, by using a distinguishing mark on a ballot for the purpose of finding out the names thereon. However, the particular point of interest herein is the fact as shown by the affidavit of Baird, and not contradicted, that during said election day, in that precinct, he assisted six persons to prepare their ballots, all of these ballots, of course, being so endorsed on the backs thereof. Contestant has not attempted to account for all of those six ballots, nor more than three of them. It is plain that if there were six ballots so marked, no person could possibly pick out any three of them afterward and identifying those three as the ballots voted by Edwards, Kowen and Cushing. The case of contestant, therefore utterly fails as to these votes. It is not possible for him to prove the necessary facts. The testimony of the voters themselves, and nothing short of such testimony, can establish the fact as to how they voted. Certainly Anderson's testimony proves nothing on this point. But referring to the question raised as to the right of such persons to vote: Contestant has cited in his brief section 4, article 6, state constitution, which provides that no person shall be deemed to have gained a residence by his presence, nor lost it by his absence, while maintained at public expense in a poor house.

This provision of our state constitution is designed especially for the protection of such persons, so that their residence shall not be changed arbitrarily. It in no wise abridges their right of voluntary choice as to residence; nor does it prevent them from changing their residence, and acquiring a new residence while so maintained. It is regretted that counsel for contestant, while quoting in his brief from McCrary on Elections, a well known and reliable text-book writer on this subject, did not give this honorable body the benefit of what McCrary says on this point. That writer fully sustains the views of Paine on Elections, quoted hereinafter. Paine is another standard authority on the law of elections and election rights. He says, par. 100: "Paupers are sometimes excluded by constitutions or laws from the enjoyment of the right of suffrage. Paupers, in the sense of the statutes relating to elections, are persons who receive aid from the public under provisions made by law for the support and maintenance of the poor. Their votes are to be counted, unless they are disfranchised by state law." Same authority, par. 66 and 67: "There are authorities for the doctrine that, in the absence of statutory regulations upon the subject, a pauper, abiding in a public almshouse, locally situated in a different district from that in which he dwelt when he became a pauper, and by which he is supported away from his original home, does not thereby change his residence, but is held constructively to remain at his old home. There are strong reasons for this opinion. The pauper is under a species of confinement. He must submit to regulations imposed by others, and the place of his abode may be changed without his consent. Few of the other elements which ordinarily make up a domicile being present, the element of choice also in his case almost wholly disappears. * * * On the other hand, the pauper's right to vote is recognized by law. Practically, it can very seldom be exercised, except in the immediate neighborhood of the almshouse. In case of a person so poor and helpless as to be a lifelong inmate of the poorhouse, it is in every sense in which the word can be used, really and truly his residence, and it is important that these constitutional provisions, respecting suffrage, should be carried out in their simplest and most natural sense, without recourse to artificial or technical construction." (State vs. Irwin, 78 Ill. 170.)

Same authority: "An inmate of an infirmary, in Ohio, having his residence, when received into the infirmary, in a township other than the one in which the infirmary is situated, is not incapacitated from forming a purpose, or intent, to change his residence to the latter township, and, if he adopt the township in which the infirmary is situated, as his place of residence, having no family elsewhere, and also possess the other qualifications required by law, he will be entitled to vote in such township." (Sturgeon vs. Kortz, 34 Ohio, 525.)

The committee on elections in the 44th congress of the United States, expressed the following opinion on the question of the legal residence of paupers: "The law of Illinois requires the relatives of poor persons to support them if able to do so. * * * Will it be contended that these poor persons, living in the families of their relatives, are unable to acquire a residence, a home, there, because they are placed there in obedience to the law? Surely not! If so, we should witness the painful spectacle of disabled soldiers and some of the most intelligent citizens, disfranchised because of their poverty. * * * This new place of residence is as much their poorhouse, under the law, as is the county building the poorhouse of those who have no relatives obliged by law to support them. If the home of a family, in which such a man lives, is not his home, he has no home. So with the pauper at the poorhouse. That is his home, his residence, and he has no other. It is idle to say that his is a restrained residence. It is not. He can leave when he pleases. He is there for no offense. His only crime is his poverty. It is necessity that compels him to go there, but not the necessity of that duress that deprives him of his volition or his intent. Unlike the lunatic and the infant, and the femme convertte, he is a free agent, to think and act for himself, except as constrained by poverty. The citizen, in his little hut, living on one meal a day, is restrained by poverty, and yet he remains a free man and a voter. That necessity which compelled a poor man to go to the poorhouse, will compel him to remain. If there be one class whose homes and residences are fixed it is this class whose homes and residences are thus fixed. In the opinion of the committee the home of these people, their residence, their permanent abiding place, is at the poorhouse; and they have a right to vote at the precinct in which the poorhouse is situated." (Lemoyne vs. Farwell, Smith, 406.)

Paine on Elections, par. 70: "Under a constitution declaring that 'the residence of a student, at any seminary of learning, shall not entitle him to the right of suffrage, in the town where such seminary is situated,' while such residence will not entitle him to the right, it will not prevent its acquisition."

Same, par. 71: "A constitutional provision that 'no person shall be deemed to have gained, or lost, a residence, by reason of his presence or absence, while employed in the service of the United States,' does not prevent a person who removes to a county, while in the service of the United States, from acquiring a residence in that county, while in such service, if it is his intention so to do." (People vs. Holden, 28 Cal. 123.)

"Although residence cannot be gained or lost, by reason of the presence or absence of a person, while employed in the military service of the United States, such person may change his residence while so employed." (Darragh vs. Bird, 3 Oregon, 229.)

Applying the rules of law so clearly laid down in the foregoing eminent authorities and decisions of our courts, to the cases of the three paupers involved herein, please note the fact that the certified copy of the registration rolls and oaths of these persons, offered in evidence herein by contestee, show that they each qualified under oath that the place where they voted and registered was their actual residence. No evidence was offered that they or any one of them, had a family or families, at any other point, or that any one of them was situated in any respect so that his claim of actual residence in the precinct where he voted was inconsistent.

The law always respects the intent of the individual as to his residence. The oaths of these people are the best evidence of their intent as to their place of residence.

The fact that a person offers to swear his vote in and "take the chances of perjury," does not entitle him to vote. If the board of judges are satisfied from his answers to their questions that he is not entitled to vote they shall reject his vote. (See sec. 405, vol. 1, Hill's Code.)

For the foregoing facts and reasons, we submit that contestant herein has not made out a good cause of action against this contestee, and we therefore demand that his contest herein be dismissed.

ALLEN WEIR, Attorney for Contestee.

COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CONTEST OF L. E. RADER VS. W. B. SEYMORE
TO THE OFFICE OF REPRESENTATIVE TO THE STATE LEGISLATURE OF THE THIRTIETH DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

To the Honorable House of Representatives of the State of Washington:

Your committee appointed to investigate the contest in the above case duly met, and the contestant and the contestee being present, the contestant in person and by his attorneys, H. L. Forrest and Byron Millett, and the contestee in person and by his attorney, Allen Weir, and the committee hearing the evidence and argument of counsel and having duly considered the same, make the following report:

I.

We find that on the face of the returns the contestant was shown to have 713 votes and the contestee 715 votes, or a majority of two votes over the contestant. That they were the only persons running for such office in such district at the election held therein November 3, 1896. That the contestant was a candidate at such election on the people's party ticket and this contestee was a candidate on the republican ticket.

II.

That this contestant as such candidate received the highest number of legal votes at said election, and was duly elected to said office.

III.

That by reason of certain irregular and unlawful and fraudulent proceedings and fraudulent voting at said election this contestant was unlawfully counted out and this contestee unlawfully counted in. That the result of said election as counted in favor of the contestee is not the real result, and is erroneous and false and fraudulent, in that it was made to appear that the contestee received a majority over this contestant of two votes in said returns, whereas the contestant received a majority of said votes, but was deprived of the same in the manner following, to wit:

IV.

That in Port Orchard precinct in said district and county of Kitsap he was unlawfully deprived of the vote of one Gare Van Vranken by the election board of said precinct.

V.

That in said precinct he was unlawfully and fraudulently deprived of the vote of one William Barber by the election board of said precinct.

VI.

That in said Port Orchard precinct the said election board did fraudulently and unlawfully and knowingly permit and procure three fraudulent votes to be deposited in the ballot box and counted against this contestant and in favor of this contestee by the following named persons, to wit, Josephus Edwards, John Kowen and James Cushing, all of whom voted fraudulently and unlawfully for the contestee and against the contestant, and neither of whom were entitled to vote at said election. That said parties were assisted in said fraudulent voting by one J. B. Yaakey, candidate for prosecuting attorney of said county on the republican ticket, and that said judges did otherwise conduct said election at said place in a fraudulent and unlawful manner, whereby the contestant failed to receive votes to which he was entitled and the contestee was permitted to receive and did receive votes to which he was not entitled.

VII.

That in the Port Blakeley voting precinct at said election this contestant was deprived of divers and sundry votes by the fraudulent and unlawful proceedings of the election board of said precinct, and by divers and sundry persons who did then and there assemble and in a fraudulent and unlawful manner did intimidate certain voters and prevent the same from casting their ballots for this contestant, and for the purpose of having the same cast their votes for the contestee and the republican ticket. That among those who did so fraudulently and unlawfully intimidate said voters was the Port Blakeley Mill Company, the employer of many of said voters.

VIII.

That in Olalla voting precinct, in said district and county of Kitsap, at said election, this contestant was fraudulently and unlawfully deprived of the vote of one Johannes J. Dahl by the election board of said precinct, which said board did refuse to allow said voter to cast his vote for this contestant, which act by said board was done knowingly and fraudulently against this contestant.

IX.

That at said election, and at the Port Washington precinct, held in said district and in said Kitsap county, which said voting place was at Tracyton, one T. Brady did fraudulently and unlawfully vote for this contestee, and against this contestant; that said Brady has subsequently made a written statement to this effect over his own signature that justice might be done this contestant, and alleges that he did not know at the time of voting that he was not a qualified elector.

X.

That at Charleston precinct, during said election, the election board of said precinct did fraudulently deprive this contestant of the vote of one A. E. Lundeen, a duly qualified elector, at said time and place. That said Lundeen was challenged and offered to take the oath required and to be examined, but said board refused his request, contrary to law. That said board did knowingly and fraudulently permit gross irregularities and unlawful acts as such board of election in permitting divers and sundry persons, too numerous to mention, to cast their ballots against this contestant and for this contestee who were not duly qualified electors and who were not entitled to vote at said election.

XI.

That by reason of the gross frauds and irregularities perpetrated as aforesaid at the Port Blakeley and Port Gamble voting precincts that the said vote should be ignored and thrown out, and the fraudulent and pretended and false majority counted therein for contestee should be canceled and the true majority of votes for this contestant of over one hundred in said representative district in Kitsap county should be so counted for him and made to correctly appear in his behalf, and that the contestant, L. E. Rader, be permitted to take his seat in this House as the duly elected member thereof. The attached sections of law are respectfully cited and applied.

CLEVELAND SMITH,
F. I. PHELPS,
GEO. M. WITT,
S. W. BAKER,
Committee.

POINTS FOR CONTESTANT.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CONTEST OF L. E. RADER VS. W. B. SEYMORE,
FOR THE OFFICE OF REPRESENTATIVE FROM THE THIRTIETH REPRESENTATIVE DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

I.

The fraud practiced and intimidation in the precincts of Port Gamble and Port Blakeley were and are sufficient to vitiate the election in those precincts, and requires their rejection from the official count.

II.

McCrary on Elections, page 362, section 540: Fraud in the conduct of an election may be shown by circumstantial evidence. It is sometimes a difficult matter to decide whether misconduct on the part of election officers is to be regarded as constituting fraud, or as only the result of carelessness, ignorance or negligence. If, however, such misconduct has the effect to destroy the integrity of the returns, and avoid the prima facie character which they ought to bear, such returns will be rejected, and other proof demanded of each vote relied on. And this is the rule concerning such misconduct whether it be shown to have been fraudulent, that is to say, prompted by a corrupt purpose, or whether it arise from a reckless disregard of the law, or from ignorance of its requirements. In either case the effect may be to destroy the integrity of the returns.

I.

As to intimidation, American and English Encyclopedia of Law, volume 6, page 362. Threats of loss of occupation: It is not necessary that the intimidation should proceed from a fear of personal injury, but a combination on the part of employers of laboring men to discharge their workmen, or an agreement not to employ persons unless they vote in accordance with their demands, will be deemed sufficient to avoid the election if the intimidation is so general as to affect the result.

It is an old adage of the common law that elections should be free; and anything which prevents the free exercise of the right of suffrage by the qualified elector would be a sufficient ground for setting aside the election in any country or state where the rules of common law prevail. (Same, p. 358.)

II.

Those three paupers were not entitled to vote in Port Orchard precinct, because such precinct was not the residence of either of them.

Constitution of the State of Washington, article 6, section 4, is as follows: Residence not affected by military service, etc.: For the purpose of voting and eligibility to office no person shall be deemed to have gained a residence by reason of his presence, or lost it by reason of his absence, while in the civil or military service of the state or of the United States, nor while a student at any institution of learning, nor while kept at public expense at any poorhouse or other asylum, nor while confined in public prison, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of this state or of the United States, or of the high seas.

III.

Those six votes residing on the military reservation voting in Charleston precinct, one of which voting for L. E. Rader, and the other five for the contestee, W. B. Seymore, were illegal votes, and should have been rejected by the election board under the above constitutional provision of this state.

IV.

The votes of the following named persons, A. E. Lundeen, Johannes J. Dahl, Gare Van Vranken and William Barber, should have been received and counted for the contestant, L. E. Rader.

McCrary on Elections, page 328, section 492, is as follows: The fact that the right to register or to vote has been denied to any person or persons duly qualified to vote, may always be shown in a case of contested election, whether such denial was fraudulent or not. The effect upon the rights of electors and upon the result of the election is the same whether such denial be the result of intentional wrong on the part of the officers of the election, or of accident, or an honest mistake as to the law. And if the number of voters whose rights have thus been denied is large enough to materially affect the result, such denial will vitiate the election.

V.

The vote of T. Brady must be rejected on his own admission, and no counter evidence to impeach him.

In conclusion, we submit that Mr. Rader was duly elected and is entitled to a seat in your honorable body. We have not gone into the authorities extensively, but believe that the citations above are sufficient, because the merits of this contest should be decided according to the provisions of our state constitution, and a fair interpretation in view of the facts disclosed by the evidence entitles Mr. Rader to his seat.

Respectfully submitted.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislature:

One of the morning dailies, the Post-Intelligencer, of Seattle, contains an article in which I, among others, am charged with gross misconduct in office. I simply desire to say that this imputation and charge is, as to myself, as false as hell—unqualifiedly false.

Now, sir, I want to say here that I court and demand the fullest immediate investigation of this matter.

I also desire to add, that a member of this House stated in a public meeting of at least thirty members of this House, last night, that he had been made an offer to support and vote for a gentleman other than the one he was voting for for the United States senate.

I further desire to state that it is open and notoriously stated and charged on the streets, that the patronage of this state is being used for the purpose of influencing, prejudicing and biasing the minds of this legislature, and electing a particular candidate for United States senator.

If this last charge is true, it is more base, vile and criminal than any other, and it ought and must be investigated.

I therefore move you, sir, that a committee of five be appointed at once to investigate these charges in the Post-Intelligencer of even date, and all matters pertaining to the election of a United States senator, and that it be endowed with full power and authority to send for persons and papers, subpoena witnesses and enforce their attendance, and make a report to this House as soon as practicable.

Mr. Powell introduced a similar resolution, which was withdrawn.

On vote, the motion to appoint an investigation committee was carried, and the speaker appointed the following representatives, to wit: Messrs. Powell, Freeman, de Mattos, Gerry and Couch, as a committee to investigate charges made against Mr. Warner by the Post-Intelligencer, of Seattle, Wash.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

The special investigating committee reported as follows:

To the Honorable Speaker and Members of the House of Representatives:

GENTLEMEN—We, your committee, appointed by resolution of this honorable body on the 28th day of January, 1897, to investigate certain charges appearing in the Post Intelligencer of that date, purporting to be made by Dr. G. V. Calhoun, and to investigate matters pertaining to the election of United States senator, beg leave to make the following partial report, the same being a full report upon all matters pertaining to charges made in said Post Intelligencer upon said date, in regard to the Hon. A. D. Warner, one of the members of this House, and transmit herewith the testimony adduced in relation thereto:

I.

Your committee finds that at some time prior to the interview between Senator Squire and Mr. Warner, as hereinafter stated, several members of the legislature had attempted to agree to act in concert to prevent a deadlock in the senatorial contest and to secure the election of a suitable man for that position; that this attempt upon the part of these members was honorable and legitimate; that the mere fact that any member of this House or of the Senate may have been connected with that attempt, imputes to him no wrongdoing nor any knowledge of any wrongdoing nor of any attempt at wrongdoing; that it is entirely unwarranted to stigmatize the list of names of these gentlemen as "the list of corruptibles," as appeared in the Post Intelligencer of date of February 5th, 1897.

II.

Your committee further finds that upon the evening of the 24th day of January, 1897, a conversation took place in the room of Senator Squire, being room No. 10 in the Olympia hotel, between Senator Squire and Mr. Warner, and between Dr. G. V. Calhoun and Mr. Warner; that at that conversation a plan for obtaining control of the aforesaid contemplated organization was discussed.

III.

That this plan contemplated the use of money for some purpose.

IV.

Your committee finds that the real question in dispute is whether Senator Squire made a proposition to Mr. Warner or whether Mr. Warner made a proposition to Senator Squire.

V.

Mr. Warner's testimony before the committee was in substance that Senator Squire proposed to him that if he, Mr. Warner, could procure the re-election of Senator Squire, that Senator Squire would give him a thousand dollars in cash with which to entertain members of the legislature who were expected to form this organization referred to, and five thousand dollars when he was re-elected.

VI.

Dr. G. V. Calhoun and Senator Squire gave testimony before the committee in substance to the effect that Mr. Warner proposed to Senator Squire that he, Mr. Warner, would attempt to get control of this contemplated organization, provided Senator Squire would pay him one thousand dollars down and five thousand dollars contingent upon Senator Squire's re-election.

VII.

Your committee has felt itself oppressed with the responsibility of finding facts upon contradictory testimony but feels constrained to find, from all the evidence that although it may not be beyond a reasonable doubt, the preponderance of evidence shows that the proposition, as claimed by Dr. G. V. Calhoun and Senator Squire, came from Mr. Warner, but your committee further finds that the preponderance of the evidence shows also that Mr. Warner stated that he wanted this thousand dollars for the purpose of entertaining the members of the legislature who were expected to form this contemplated organization.

Your committee is not fully satisfied from the evidence, for what purpose the five thousand dollars was proposed to be used.

VIII.

Your committee further finds that upon this proposition being made by Mr. Warner to Senator Squire, that the senator, in the language of Dr. Calhoun, demurred to a thousand dollars, stating that he had very little money, and that if he was re-elected he might be able to raise some money; but your committee further finds that although the proposition was discussed, that no agreement was consummated between the parties, and no money or any other consideration passed between them.

IX.

Your committee further finds that there is no evidence tending to show that any other members who were expected to take part in this contemplated organization had any knowledge whatever of what occurred between Senator Squire and Mr. Warner, or that any such proposition was to be made.

X.

Your committee further states that in the investigation of other matters relating to the election of a United States senator, several persons have appeared before your committee and given testimony tending to show corrupt solicitation of members of this House, but the testimony thereon has not yet been closed, and your committee is, therefore, not yet prepared to find upon the truth of the same.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, February 16, 1897.

The Honorable, the House of Representatives of the State of Washington, House Chamber, Olympia, Washington:

GENTLEMEN—In my message to the legislature, January 13, 1897, I called the attention of your honorable body to the urgent importance of a thorough investigation into the condition of affairs at the state penitentiary. Since that time additional facts have come into my possession which convince me more strongly than ever that this investigation should be prosecuted in a manner that will reveal the full truth as to the methods that have prevailed there. The volume of evidence which I have collected convinces me that such an investigation cannot be completed within a few days. Therefore, considering the brief time yet remaining for the legislative session, and the great amount of important legislation yet to be enacted and demanding the presence of every member, I am of the opinion that an investigation of the penitentiary should not now interfere with legislative duties, but should be postponed until after the close of the session. The investigation should be by a legislative committee, or in such manner as the legislature may direct, such committee to be clothed with full power to summon witnesses, and have ample time to do its work thoroughly.

Very respectfully, JOHN R. ROGERS, Governor.

Moved, that the communication of the governor be made a special order for to-morrow at 10:30 o'clock A. M.

Moved, that House bills Nos. 434 and 2 be withdrawn from the Committee on Judiciary and that they be referred to the Committee on State Buildings, Public Grounds and Libraries, and that the vote by which they were made a special order for 2:30 o'clock P. M. be canceled.

The motion was carried.

Moved by Mr. ———, that we do now adjourn.

The motion was lost.

Moved by Mr. Witt, that House bills Nos. 294 and 417 be made a special order for Friday, February 19, at 10:30 o'clock A. M.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, February 27, 1897.

The Honorable, the House of Representatives of the State of Washington:

GENTLEMEN— I beg leave to call the attention of your honorable body to a matter of great interest to the people of the State of Washington. This matter is doubtless as well known to your honorable body as to myself, and yet the near approach of the end of the session without action upon it causes me to remind you of the assurances given to the people during the late campaign that relief should be afforded them from unjust railroad charges. In this matter promises most specific were made. These promises must be fulfilled, or this legislature will go down in future records as having failed to carry out most solemn ante-election asseverations. In view of these facts I desire that responsibility be placed where it unquestionably rests, to wit: on the members of this legislature.

It is true that any one can criticise existing conditions, but it is also true that wise and constructive statesmanship is required to propose practical measures which will bring about desired improvements. In the matter of railroad legislation this is most eminently true. Realizing that those who never have given especial attention to railroad matters are unfitted to grapple offhand with problems which have for years staggered the minds of able men, I am led to quote from the work of ex-Governor Larrabee, of Iowa, which he has just sent me. Governor Larrabee was no small part of the movement in his state which led to the repression of previous railroad abuses. I believe we shall do well to listen to his wise and sagacious counsel.

In his chapter on railroads and railroad legislation in Iowa, after tracing the efforts of the legislature of that state to correct long standing abuses through the enactment of maximum rate laws, he tells us that the general assembly, or the greater number of the members, finally realized that the failure of the law to bring the expected relief was not due so much to the imperfections of the law as to the absence of a power to enforce it. He says:

"The writer, with others, was convinced that a strong and conscientious commission would be a much more potent agency to secure reasonable rates for the shipper than a maximum tariff law without proper provisions for its efficient enforcement; they, in short, preferred a commission without a tariff law to a tariff law without a commission. The question became the subject of many animated debates in both houses of the general assembly, but the commissioner system at last prevailed. The act establishing a board of railroad commissioners and defining their duties was approved on the 23d of March, 1878, and went into force a few days later. The act empowered the commission to exercise a general supervision over all railroads operated in the state, to inquire into any neglect or violation of the laws of the state by any railroad corporation or its officers or employes, to examine the books and documents of any corporation, to investigate complaints of shippers that unreasonable charges had been made by railroad companies, and to modify any charge which they might deem unreasonable. It was also made the commissioners' duty to make an annual report to the governor disclosing the working of the railroad system in the state, the officers of each company being required to make annual returns to the board for this purpose.

"Though the enactment of this law was a surprise to the people, they accepted it in good cheer, and determined to give it an honest trial. The law was extensive in its scope and stringent for that time, and, if strictly enforced in letter and in spirit, promised to be, and would have been, entirely sufficient for the thorough control of railroad corporations.

"Nevertheless, in the course of time it became apparent that either the law had not lodged sufficient authority in the commission or the commission did not make use of the authority which the law had given them. In spite of the commission, the railroad companies maintained pools and charged extortionate and discriminating rates, in direct violation of the law. It is true, the commissioners righted many a wrong. In investigating the complaints of shippers against railroad companies they often rendered valuable services to those who had neither the means nor the inclination to prosecute their rights in the courts of law; but as they held that they could only pass upon individual charges, and did not have the power to revise the companies' tariffs, the companies were virtually in a position to become guilty of more extortions in one day than the commission could investigate in a year."

Governor Larrabee then traces the steps taken by the people of Iowa in remedying the defects of the law then in force, and further says:

"The demand of the people for more equitable rates and a more thorough control of the railroad business increased from year to year. Repeated attempts were made in the general assembly to secure the passage of an act looking to that end, but, owing to shrewd manipulations on the part of the railroad lobby, every attempt was defeated. There always was, of course, a large number of members who represented districts not well supplied with railroad facilities. These, as a rule, honestly opposed restrictive legislation, believing that such legislation would check building, and that, on the other hand competition could be relied upon to correct abuses. Of those members who had less positive convictions many were retained as railroad attorneys, and were thus made serviceable to the companies. Other members with political ambition were flattered or intimidated into subjection, and bribes in disguise, such as passes and special rates, were not infrequently resorted to to strengthen the railroad following in both houses of the general assembly.

"Railroad corruption did not pause here. It is a notorious fact that large sums of money were paid to venal papers of both parties in consideration of an agreement on their part to defend transportation abuses and exert their influence against progressive railroad legislation. The vilest means were often resorted to by these sheets to obtain their end. Public men who had the courage to avow their opposition to existing railroad abuses or to favor a more perfect system of state control of railways were misrepresented, ridiculed, traduced and denounced as demagogues and socialists by hypocritical editors, who prostituted their political influence as long as they enjoyed railroad stipends, and who at intervals became converts to the cause of the people for the purpose of extorting from the railroad companies a new and increased subsidy. But truth cannot long be suppressed. The masses of the people may be imposed upon for a time, but even the shrewdest rogue will eventually be compelled to surrender. In time even rather unsophisticated voters learned to place a true estimate upon the motives of the editors, whose policy, as one of them expressed it in the author's presence, was 'controlled by the counting room.'

"Railroad politicians gradually lost their influence, and the symptoms of public discontent greatly increased. In the political campaign of 1887 state control of railroads became one of the main issues. Both of the great political parties in their platforms had declared themselves very emphatically in favor of such legislation as would bring railroad corporations under complete state control, and with very few exceptions the various legislative districts had nominated only such men as candidates for legislative offices as were known to be in thorough accord with the masses of the people upon the railroad question.

"The election resulted in an even more complete defeat of the railroad forces than had been generally anticipated. Yet no hasty step was taken when the general assembly convened. A large number of bills contemplating railroad reforms in various ways were introduced, but the material presented was carefully sifted by the railroad committees and a committee bill was framed which incorporated the best features of them all. The committees listened patiently for weeks to the arguments of the representatives of both the railroads and the shippers.

"Never before had so formidable a railroad lobby assembled at the state capitol. The danger signal had been raised, and not only were the great political manipulators of the state called into requisition, but experts from adjoining states joined them in besieging the legislature. The dogs of war were let loose from all quarters. A legion of hirelings were zealous to show their servility and loyalty to their lords. The daily and weekly papers of the state, in the service of the railroad companies, teamed with arguments from the pens of railroad attorneys, and their columns were profusely supplemented with editorials copied from prominent corporation papers like the New York Tribune, New York Times, New York World, Albany Evening Argus, Boston Advertiser, and others from various parts of the country.

"These papers, attempting to disguise the motives that prompted them to come to the defense of the Wall Street interests, affected the position of disinterested and impartial observers. They condemned the proposed measures as wild and socialistic, and they painted in dark colors the disasters to railroad property, the injustice to its owners, and misfortunes to the people of Iowa, that would follow their adoption. Especially did they bewail the losses that would fall upon the widows and orphans who had confidently invested all of their hard earnings in this property.

"They never uttered a word of condemnation, but entirely ignored or defended the abuses by which the stockholders were robbed at one end of the line and the patrons were imposed on at the other.

"Many of these papers were notified that their statements were altogether erroneous, but they would not admit a line to their columns in relation to the matter that indicated any other disposition than complete subservency to the interests of Wall Street.

"There were, however, an unusual number of strong men in this general assembly, and this extraordinary display of railroad forces only tended to impress more strongly upon them the necessity of curbing the railroad power, and their best energies were concentrated upon the subject, with a firm determination to deal with it in a manner dictated by reason and experience.

"So well did the bill which was finally adopted by the committee reflect the general sentiment of the members of the general assembly that not a single vote was cast against it in either house upon its final passage. Since the adjustment of business under this law, there has been less friction between the people and the railroads than before for thirty years, and so satisfactory has it proved to all, that no one, not even a railroad man, has to this day asked the legislature to repeal the law or any part of it. The act contains no new principle of railroad control. By far the greater part of its provisions were taken from the old law. Nearly every one of its features may be found either in the interstate commerce act or upon the statute books of other states. It provides that charges must be reasonable and just, that no undue preference or advantage shall be given to any railroad patron, and that equal facilities for interchange of traffic shall be given to all roads; it prohibits pooling, a greater charge for a shorter than longer haul, the shorter or any portion of it being included in the longer, and discrimination against any shipping point. It requires that schedules of rates and fares shall be printed and kept for public inspection, and that no advance shall be made in rates or fares once established except after ten days' public notice; and it empowers the board of railroad commissioners to make and revise schedules for railroads, the rates contained in such schedules to be received and held in all suits as prima facie reasonable maximum rates. The act further provides penalties and means of enforcement.

"It must not be supposed that by the passage of this act the legislature disclaimed the right to fix absolute rates; it simply chose this expedient because in the present tentative stage of rate regulations it seemed most efficient.

"There has been much misunderstanding concerning the Iowa law. Many suppose that the Iowa commissioners have power to make confiscatory rates for the railroads, while, in fact, they can only name maximum rates which shall be deemed and taken in all courts of the state as prima facie evidence that they are reasonable and just maximum rates until the railroads show that they are not. They are at liberty to go into court any day and show this, if they are able. They are, however, careful not to undertake it, for no one knows better than they do that the rates fixed by the commissioners are liberal for the railroads.

"There are nine states, besides Iowa, in which the power to fix rates has been conferred upon railroad commissioners. This feature of the law was therefore far from being a novel one, yet no provision of the act was, previous to its passage, so furiously opposed, or subsequent to it so stubbornly resisted as this. Railroad managers realized that a surrender of the right to make their own rates was virtually a surrender of the power to practice abuses."

Governor Larrabee continues:

"It is seen that the fears, or rather the pretended fears, of the railroad managers, that the legislature of Iowa would bankrupt her railroads, were entirely groundless. As a result of the law railroads have been able to increase their gross earnings as well as their profits. They have been enabled to give employment to a larger number of men, and there has been no occasion for them to carry out the dishonest threat to decrease the wages of their employes. Had it not been for their increased earnings in Iowa, the losses recently sustained in other states by several of the through lines would have made it impossible for them to declare the dividends which they did.

"Under her beneficial railroad policy Iowa has prospered wonderfully, and her railroads have been more prosperous than when they were allowed to have their own way. The commissioners' tariff has made jobbing and manufacturing profitable where it was unprofitable before. It has added to our industries and our commerce, and has made new business for the people as well as the railroads. It has contributed to the increase in the value of our farms and factories and their products, and the time will come when wise railroad managers, like the majority of former slaveholders of the south, would not resurrect the past if they could."

These extracts from the work of Governor Larrabee are given as having peculiar value at this time. We, of Washington, cannot do better than to follow the wise, conservative and cautious policy here outlined. A railroad commission holding office during the pleasure of the governor and removable at his will, having power to regulate railroad charges, is in line with the best thought upon this most important matter, and I am fully convinced will gradually and wisely remove the difficulties under which our shippers now labor. In this way responsibility is fixed and immediately brought home to the governor, who in this event would be held responsible for failure. In this connection I desire to say that if given the power to appoint, I shall exercise it with the sole purpose of doing justice to all parties. If the commission appointed by me does not do its duty a new one will at once be named, and this policy will be maintained to the end. In this connection I desire also to say that I cannot be coerced into the appointment of unfit and irresponsible men to the office of railroad commissioner, even though members should thereby refuse to vote for the enactment of a wise, just and conservative measure of relief urgently demanded by their constituents. The State of Washington has able, conscientious and honest men who can be induced to serve. It is entitled to the services of her best men at this critical juncture. Anything less than this is folly which I do not wish to commit. I will add that these men have as yet not been named, nor has there been made any promise to appoint any man to the position here mentioned. Whoever says that these men are named utters a falsehood and renders himself liable to be charged with the crime of conspiring against the true interests of the people of this state.

I have spoken thus strongly because the situation has seemed to demand it, for I believe that honest men in your body are being betrayed to their hurt and to the defeat of the people's cause. I most earnestly hope that it will not be necessary for me to call an extra session of the legislature because of failure upon your part to do your duty.

Very respectfully, JOHN R. ROGERS,
Governor.

The following petition was read:

ELEVATED RAILWAYS.

To the Honorable, the Legislature of Washington:

The undersigned, your memorialists, being citizens, and voters of this commonwealth, and feeling deeply interested in the subject matter herewith presented, venture to ask your honorable body to at least investigate the matter fully, with a view, that if found satisfactory, you memorialize the congress of the United States to also scrutinize the whole matter, and if deemed proper, to issue low interest-bearing bonds in sufficient amount to construct an electric, elevated six tracks railway, from the most eligible point on Puget sound, via Spokane, Chicago, etc., on the shortest and most practicable route to New York, at an early day as possible—specially as a government highway—from ocean to ocean, for the safe and rapid transmission of the mails, munitions, and other federal service, as well as for general public commodity and personal traffic, at such rates as may pay all operating expenses, interest on the cost, and establish a sinking fund to extinguish the principal in a few years; after which to establish such low rates as will pay operating expenses, with a small annual reserve, for extensions, or improvements—leaving the government use free, in consideration of advancing its credit. Your memorialists, as briefly as compatible with the magnitude of the subject, will give the reasons that support their request:

1. As to defects and dangers of the present systems.
2. The manifest benefits of the proposed system, over the present mode, as to comfort, and greater security of life and property.
3. The greater ratio of cost, relative to capacity of service—being some six to one—and equal ratio of costs of operation—over the present system.
4. The greater speed, and less cost of operating the proposed system.
5. The public, who pay the immensely greater charges of the present system, possess no affective means to verify the actual basis of cost of construction and operation, nor the aggregate bulk of traffic—on which, by equity of the common law, could "reasonable charges" only, be founded.
6. Under a system to be created, full, ample means may be provided, by which the people, through their public agents, shall have the means to know, and knowing—have power to scale charges to an equilibrium of "meum et tuum!"

Such are the features of facts, economic principles, and equitable adjustments, between capital and manual service, which your memorialists deem but equitable justice between common carrier, shipper and consumer, all of which will be more fully amplified in the following:

1. As to construction and operation of the present system.

The state of the arts, as applied to up-to-date construction and operation, of railways, is necessarily faulty, and cannot be remedied without totally discarding the single track, surface, for the elevated, multiple track system—especially for better security of life and property, for speed and reduction of cost, etc. It is unnecessary to name every advantage of one, and disadvantage of the other system—a general reference to the more salient features of each, will conclusively settle a verdict in favor of the innovation suggested.

Being fixed on the earth's surface, the cross ties being wood—in some cases soft wood, that shortly decays—the best having a period of safe usefulness, estimated at from eight to ten years—must be constantly examined, and an average replacement of one-tenth every year, being some 100,000,000, at an annual expense of $50,000,000. During rain storms, recession of frosts, etc., the ground softens, the ties sink, and the rails sag, causing the engine and cars to lurch, and if the ties are decayed, or are of soft wood, the spikes may not hold, and the rails may spread, causing derailment, if not serious, costly and fatal wrecks—and then, domestic animals, or other obstructions, may menace the safety of life and commercial values. These are not all dangers that beset the surface tracks—snow drifts, washouts—crossing other tracks at grade—rolling through congested streets of large towns, and then, the devastating dynamite planted by malefactors, vastly more destructive, with the ground as a fulcrum, than elevated, with only volatile air as a fulcrum! Even in the case of hold-ups, the miscreant would have no “platform” to stand on, in the elevated system! In the whole catalogue of surface roads casualties, it can hardly be imagined how like causes could occur, to produce like results. Indeed, it would seem, that the new system would prove almost a complete embargo against any casualties, except from possible latent defects in the structural material, and this could be minimized, as in the structural steel buildings, by prior tests—not in a single instance has a structural defect been discovered.

Protection of life is our first concern, nor is that of property to be overlooked, since the people have come to understand that the money damages of every wreck, are sandwiched into subsequent way bills. The use of but one main track necessitates frequent sidetrackings, where low grade trains must list until higher grade trains may pass, or wait till the high grade has lost the right-of-way, and then, without either train knowing the exact whereabouts of the other (as they would know by Carpenter's discovery for the elevated system), and the main track is taken, when, as it often occurs, the telegraph announces that “some one has blundered,”—in the shocking details of an “awful smash-up!” Such an accident could not occur on the system suggested by your memorialists, for two trains would never meet on the same track.

Block, and other signals have been erected, and while they may limit, do not wholly prevent disasters. The elevated system needs no signals, and hence, need not care to employ any one incapable of blundering. Many trains on the same track, headed in different directions, are the evil genii of transportation! A mile per minute, is a quarter of a mile in fifteen seconds. Probably thirty seconds variation in time pieces often occurs. It is usually the case when the "other train" comes thundering around the curve, just in time not to prevent a collision! The humane sentiment of the whole country is often shocked in spasms of profound grief, at many of the fatal disasters; and yet, from the nature of the causes, the wonder is, we have not more disasters. It shows great care and diligence on the part of the managers and employes. The best men may become dazed under the pressure of great responsibilities. The law in most states requires the engineer to sound the whistle just before reaching a highway crossing, and to come to a dead stand when nearing another railroad at grade, but this is often neglected, from necessity of fogs, or other cause, without fault of any one, except a faulty system.

All these, and many other annoyances and drawbacks, are incident to, and inseparable from, the present system, and constitute unanswerable arguments in favor of a system, in which, if these, or other causes of delay and disaster are not wholly avoided, they will be so minimized as to scarcely be worth tabulating as a factor of negation in the scale of comparison.

The time consumed in taking fuel and water, and the dead weight of forty or fifty tons of a "tender" truck, would be useless in the new system. The ties and tracks of the present system are laid as well as human skill can do it, but human skill is not a formidable closure to frosts, fires and floods, as nature's modes of decay and spoliation. These and other causes of human discomfiture and suffering, cannot be annihilated, but may be avoided — by keeping out of their way. The tabulation of the inter-state commerce commission furnish better reasons for adopting the elevated system than whole tomes of adverse criticism could overthrow. It shows that over 13,000 railway accidents have occurred, and that in the six years from 1890 to 1895, inclusive, 40,440 lives were lost, and 205,590 were injured; while at the same time over 228,000 trackmen, watchmen, etc., were employed, annually, in combatting the causes that led to these disasters, costing the people, who finally pay all expenses, the enormous sum of $112,226,000, to say nothing of the hundreds of millions lost by the wreckages, omitting the untabulable value of lives and limbs. All of this loss of life, suffering and wealth, was attributable by officials and laymen to the following causes: Collisions, derailments, coupling cars, falling from cars, at highway crossings, obstructions on the tracks, etc., every one of such causes being absolutely avoided by the elevated system. Your memorialists would not be over-impudent, yet they feel fully justified in urging the representatives of the people to fully and freely investigate the facts and reasons herein elaborately set forth, to the end that the commonweal may finally be more humanely, economically and sufficiently subserved.

A reasonable estimate of the annual difference in cost of maintenance, damages, by wrecks, cost of operation, etc., of the present system, over the elevated may be summarized for the entire federal system, as follows:

Renewals of cross ties, per annum.....	$50,000,000
Trackmen, watchmen, etc., excess over elevated.....	111,843,151
Excess of rolling stock.....	200,000,000
Damages by 1487 wrecks, in 1895, estimated.....	44,510,000
Annual difference in operative expenses.....	1,458,333,333
Total difference.....	$1,864,686,484

Even the half—yea, the eighth of this vast sum is more than the government of a free people ought to permit, in addition to onerous rates, that are largely in excess of the above. Your memorialists believe that these estimates are as near correct in fact, as the average annual reports of the cost and receipts of the railway traffic. There can be but little doubt that the extra cost for rolling stock and operating expenses of the present system, over the elevated, electric system, would, in a few years, be ample to displace much of the former, and finally, the whole, with the latter system, and would save the people vast sums for transportation, if economically and honestly managed—enough in good time to replace the whole inferior, with the superior system, which would be ample for all time to distribute the tonnage of this continent, and additions from beyond the seas. The saving of human lives, and writhing pains of thousands from mangling wrecks, to say nothing of vast property values, is a theme worthy the sublimest aspirations of the inventor, the mechanic and the capitalist, and worthy the profoundest admiration of Gods and men!

The cause of the 13,602 collisions and other death-dealing accidents, all have their origin in the single track, surface system. To elevate the tracks is to avoid all casual disasters. The six tracks are necessary for speed, and dispatch of business, without friction. The four lower tracks separates the through from the local traffic. The local passenger and freight traffic, on the two upper tracks, each independent of the other—all provided with means to prevent any possible derailment, except by a shock of sufficient force to wreck the adjacent structure. According to the plans exhibited, no tornado could displace any car from the track. Leaving out the question of monetary loss, a higher grade of human impulse calls for reforms in the structure and operation of our land transportation facilities. In the new system the “deadly stove” will neither disperse noxious gases, nor menace life in case of accidents—the necessary heat and light, as well as motive force will all come from one source. All of these effects, from one source, are, as herein suggested, in practical use in numerous places in our own state, and throughout the country, to-day—and thus, we are confronted with no new, vague, nor untried theory. The Baltimore contest between the 100 ton motor and the most powerful mogul engine, in which the former snaked the latter backwards, against its best adverse efforts, settles the question of superiority of electric, over steam power.

And then, the best average speed of the present system is not up-to-date with that progress which the march of civilization demands, in nearly all the departments of practical progress. The desire for saving by new methods over old, is commendable and amounts to not only a necessity, but a virtue.

The spirit of progressivity, is all that makes one nation equal, or superior to another. With periodical evolutions in the arts, science and industrial pursuits, is the only road to the goal of human perfection, but the legitimate results are frustrated when the favored few are permitted to absorb most of the resulting benefits, without equivalents. The railway traffic charges of the entire world, for 1890, according to Mulhall, amounted to $2,515,000,000, and at this date, no doubt to three thousand millions; nearly one-half of this vast sum is chargeable to our people, and if even one-half the sum could be saved to the needy consumers who pay it, much of the problem of fast increasing cost of our eleemosynary institutions would be solved, besides a prodigious saving of human lives and limbs—saving in time and commercial facilities. The undoubted affect of the new system would be an almost complete divorce from the long catalogue of ills that always have, and always will, afflict the surface, single track system. Whether these ills are directly chargeable to incapacity, carelessness, negligence, misunderstanding of orders, or signals, to stopped, or disordered watches, or, as sometimes said, to "the act of God," it is quite evident that they are inseparable from the present system of single track, surface roads; and then, in this age of rapid transit demand, of thought and message, of telegraphs, cables, and telephones; and the quickened evolutions of trade and commerce, and the transitions of the world's exchanges—the six days of travel, and therefor to fifteen days transit of freights from ocean to ocean, ought, and may, be improved, not only as to time, but to cost, safety and convenience.

In the full blaze of the search-light of progress, your memorialists can see no reason why, on a good, solid, elevated structure, as already suggested, a trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific may not be made with unparalleled ease and comfort in twenty-four hours. Even 112½ miles per hour have been covered on a steam surface road. It is neither claimed nor hinted that all possible danger including criminal mischief, can be wholly avoided on any system, but with tracks elevated, some twelve feet above surface railways, common highways—spanning all canals, streams, ditches, fences, etc., and sparing no outlay that future, continuous benefits might warrant—the general course to be as level and straight as possible, consistent with good engineering—no acute curves, tressels over all ground depressions, rather than "fills," or dirt embankments, that may obstruct permanent or casual water flushes—thus prevent wash-outs by having no embankments to wash out! In short, remove, or avoid every cause of danger, possible, and shun all causes for delay and derangement that engineering skill and prudent outlay may affect. Such a structure would require but little, if any repairs for long years, from stress of use, or the vicissitudes of meteorological attacks—the whole system constantly supervised by competent track-watchers, one to every five miles specially to detect criminal mischief—for such a structure as herein named, may be said to have few elements of decay, and few, if any, functional defects. The main purpose should be to escape all and every cause of danger or annoyance that skill or art can avoid.

Your memorialists, while reserving their private opinions as to the actual cost of the 179,162 miles of railways in this country, as officially set forth, see no reason here for discussing the actual cost of constructing said roads, which, when prorated, average nearly $67,000 per mile for the whole system, and yet nearly all are single tracks. If these roads did cost all they are said to be worth, then your memorialists are prepared to believe that the elevated, six tracks system—mile for mile—is the cheapest system to construct; (for which consult accompanying tables.) The structure, wholly of structural steel; with all appliances of a first class equipment, having a cognate, co-acting telegraph system, usable at fastest runs; having thirty or more power plants; terminal and other stations; inclines, stock and switch yards, etc., including four first class steamships on each ocean, all as expertly estimated at a cost not exceeding $67,000 per mile of road. It is also evident, from the itemized tables herewith, that the cost of rolling stock would be only about one-sixth of the present system, for equal amount of service; and that the annual cost of operating the six tracks, with interest computed as by the said tables, would be nearly four to one in favor of the proposed system. Such, at least, appears to be the relation between the two systems, as by the itemized tables herewith, that the cost of rolling stock and operating expenses—especially the latter—would be nearly four to one in favor of the six elevated tracks, with the factor of interest in the expenses, as tabulated.

If the ratios of the whole system of roads in 1896, as to the named proportion should hold good, it would leave to this route, 12,810,000 tons of freight annually. Your memorialists have depended on the general averages and ratios of all portions of the general traffic on the 179,000 miles of the American system and lest this, our only criteria, might be misleading, have, in some most important instances, cut the ratio in halves and quarters, that no misleading errors might occur. These totals and fractional ratios, clearly show—that could managers be found, who would, under the eye of government supervision and charter limit, as to charges, report all the earnings, with carte blanc to authorize public officers to examine all books and papers, as a basis for publication, of all receipts, from whatsoever source; thus showing to “all concerned” that they had built up a carrier system of continental extent, that would continue to be a blessing, without being a charge of one sou to any one, but highly benefited patrons.

The men who conceive and carry such a system into effect, against the power that would rather perpetuate “the old way,” of Helotic bondage should be entitled to a crown of glorious memory, more dazzling to their posterity, than a dozen promotions to the presidency of this republic. He that mitigates the stress of toil, and saves to consumers the quantum valebant of justice, wins a title more priceless than that of kings or emperors!

There are other questions involved in the premises presented, of both national and state importance. There can be but little doubt in the minds of those who turn their attention to the future, that the electric elevated system is on the eve of general adoption, not only on economic grounds, but as a matter of the broadest public policy. Hints, in news items have lately announced that our Canadian cousins are about to adopt some new measures for more rapid transit between the oceans; the exact nature of which has not transpired, but, if the plan herein discussed, should be first put to use by our neighbors, half an eye could at once see that greater speed and safety, less cost in operation, and inevitably cheaper rates, would not only attract immigration to that field of greatly stimulated activity, but a large share of our travel and through freights would follow the stronger current.

And again, should we not have an eye on our ex-Russian possessions, and if this initial, commercial conduit should be first consummated by us, it would insure a junction with the Pacific coast some 1,000 miles nearer Sitka than with San Francisco as the western terminus—an argument worth many millions of dollars in the prospective struggles to secure the Asiatic and some of the European trade by all-rail service to New York, by ferriage across Behring straits—which point the czar of Russia will soon reach, with his great eastern system through Siberia, etc. There can be little or no doubt that ere long a line will be constructed from Spokane or the Sound to Juneau, Sitka and Behring straits. The construction of the elevated road here would hasten the northwestern extension, though for some time yet it cannot be expected to press public attention; still, it is a strong factor in the “main chance,” since no one can foresee the exact moment when commercial involutions, having a national tinge, or that political evolutions may turn up.

Your memorialists are not disposed to horoscope future political events, nor to overrate future commercial advantages, nor would they overlook manifest advantages, to be had almost for the asking.

Finally, should congress, from any cause, decline to act in this behalf, your memorialists esteem it a pleasure and a duty, to call the attention of the people's representatives to a matter which seems may be of some importance and which may lead to great advantage to our commonwealth, and that of others as well. The following excerpt from a letter by a New York capitalist, to a gentleman of Spokane, explains itself. With a knowledge of the receiver and the nature of all the circumstances it would seem to token a good omen, which may answer us well as an alternative. The excerpt is under date of January 5, 1897, and is as follows:

* * * “You ask me ‘if you (I) and your (my) friends would invest in such an elevated road as I (you) have from time to time explained, provided congress should fail to act, and would you (I) and others be willing to be charter bound to charge no greater rates from the date of completion than would meet operating expenses, six per cent. on the outlay, including five millions annually for a sinking fund, to extinguish the cost debt, and when that is liquidated, to scale all rates to meet only running expenses and 3 per cent. on the original cost and ~~to~~ all the while give, by charter right to agents of the people, full right to examine monthly all books and vouchers, and receipts and disbursements, that the public might know the very facts? I (you) would work and write against any repetition of the present system, over which has poured a Niagara of wealth for more than forty years, as fabulous largesses to the fiction of water, representing nothing but greed.' * * * To all of which I reply that I have no right to speak for any one but myself. I think I have in some of my letters told you that I knew many gentlemen in this country and Europe — some 150, perhaps more — who, like myself, hold large blocks of American railway securities, that pay no dividends, perhaps in the aggregate amounting to ten or twelve hundred millions, par dollars; it may be even much more. I may have told you, in my loose way of talking, that these men would be only to glad to sell all their holdings for what they would bring. I am now of the full belief they would, and the proceeds with more cash added, but this is only my opinion. I have no right to pledge them to anything. You know how sensitive men are in our situation, with large values that might rot on our hands if our names were associated with a measure calculated to upset such a rich thing as a few who control the railway ring, leaving not a vestige to the masses who have invested the great bulk of the funds. My confidence in you became fixed during your gallant fight in —, in which you scored a victory over some of the wealthiest railway magnates in the land. I felt as though you could be trusted not to give me away. I am willing to do all I can to serve your good work. I could leave no better legacy to my children than to put all my railway stock holdings, and much more, on the whole plan you propose, with some change in minor details, and some additions, which you no doubt have overlooked, and to which I dare presume neither you nor your friends would object. I will write you more in detail hereafter. At your request, I will grant you permission to use any excerpt from my letters you may desire that will not disclose to any one who the writer may be." * * *

From what has preceded it may be well to consider what might be done in case congress declined to act, and the alternative should materialize. The mode of public supervision would protect the public from even a suspicion of injustice. The cunningly devised classification would be abolished, and business on business principles assured. Fair rates at the initial would be estimated and tested by a six or twelve months' business, to be increased or diminished to tally as near as may be, in the aggregate, to meet the conditions as suggested hereinbefore as to interest, operating expenses, for sinking fund, etc. All charges should be by 100 pounds, by ton or car load. To show what would be the effect of assuming the national ratio for this latitudinal route to be correct in proportion to the whole 179,161 miles, the freight would be 12,810,000 tons, reduced to pounds, 256,200,000. Passengers per mile of road 1,462 (4,386,000); miscellaneous, including mails, express, telegraph, etc. (ratio), $3, 375,000. All these furnish a basis for legitimate charges, as above noted, for

Six per cent. interest on (say utmost cost) $250,000,000.....	$15,000,000
Operating expenses (see ac. table).....	4,382,324
For sinking fund.....	5,000,000
Total initial limit of charges.....	$24,382,324

Having thus got the highest limit of charges, let us enquire how they are to be met. An average charge of ten cents per 100 pounds for the—
Whole tonnage, all distances would amount to..... $25,625,000
As we can see, this one item is more than the required sum, we must re-cast.

Take but one half the ratio of tonnage for this system, say at ten cents average per 100 pounds, and we have.....	$12,810,000
Just half the ratio of passengers, at average of $4.....	8,772,000
Miscellaneous, as above.....	3,375,000
Total, with half a million to spare.....	$24,957,324
After the debt should have been paid, the whole base for charges would be, for operating expenses, as above.....	$4,382,324
Three per cent., on say $250,000,000.....	7,500,000
Say add annually for extensions.....	2,000,000
Total charges with "padding".....	$13,882,324

So that, eventually the above low rates, would need pruning one-half. All of which is most respectfully submitted.

MINORITY REPORT.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

OLYMPIA, WASH., February 25, 1897.

MR. SPEAKER:

We, a minority of your Committee on Banks and Banking, to whom was referred House bill No. 151, entitled "An act providing for the organization and regulation of banks, and prescribing penalty for violations of this act, and declaring an emergency," have had the same under consideration, and we respectfully report the same back to the House of Representatives, with the recommendation that it be indefinitely postponed for the following reasons:

1. To enforce the provisions of this act would not only work a great hardship and unnecessary expense to individuals and corporations doing a banking business within this state.

2. That we are already struggling under great and almost insurmountable difficulties, and that should this bill become a law it would force a large number of our banking institutions into liquidation, thereby causing a tightness in our already contracted money market. Banks would be compelled to call in all loans which would cause great distress to our people. The borrowers would be compelled to sacrifice their property, both personal and real, to satisfy the demand for settlement.

3. That the salaries, fees and mileage of the bank commissioners and assistants would add another large sum to the already unjust claims against the state. We have an example of bank commissioners in the national bank system. These banks are daily being reported in trouble.

4. For the best interest of the people at large, and business in general, we sincerely trust that the minority report will prevail.

Respectfully submitted.

J. H. MARSHALL.

D. LEVIN.

W. B. ROBERTS.

Amendment by Mr. Warner: To section 16½, add the following: "Any officer or stockholder of any bank in this state, organized under the laws of this state, who shall borrow money from such bank, or shall appropriate any of the funds of said bank to his own use, with or without the knowledge of any of the other officers of said bank, shall be guilty of a felony, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary, at hard labor, not less than one nor more than five years."

The amendment was adopted.

Amendment by Mr. Gerry: In section 19, line 1, after the word "shall," insert the following: "Also show the total amount of all liabilities to such banking association on the part of the directors thereof, and such report shall."

The amendment was adopted.

Amendment by Mr. Gilkey: At the end of section 14, add the following proviso: "Provided, That the investments of any bank, doing business under this act, shall at no time exceed three times the capital and surplus actually paid in."

The amendment was adopted.

Amendment by Mr. Day: Strike out the word "charter" wherever it appears and insert the words "articles of incorporation."
