INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUESTS

The President welcomed and introduced Senator Slade Gorton who was seated at the rostrum.

With permission of the Senate, business was suspended to allow Senator Slade Gorton to address the Senate.

REMARKS BY SENATOR SLADE GORTON

: "Thank you Mr. President and thank you members of the Senate for this distinct honor. Particularly for the highly personal remarks by so many of you on both sides of the aisle. Especially impressive, I think, because my only experience in this building was on the other side of that great gulf, not in this body at all.

For some reason or another, much of the talk has been about redistricting. And I have been on both sides of that great gulf in that respect. The last time I was in the Legislature, and the Legislature did it's redistricting it took four years, and they were four rather brutal years, before a successful and valid set of lines were drawn. The legislators who lived right after that were extremely wise in taking that highly personal system out of the legislature itself and putting it in the hands of a four member voting commission. It is my view, having done redistricting, both inside the legislature and outside the legislature, that Washington State now has the single best system in the United States of America for redrawing both Congressional and Legislative district lines. And what makes it, for all practical purposes, unique, is that there are two republicans and two democrats who must work together to make the venture a success. Almost every other state that does it by commission, the republican members and the democratic members join together to elect a tie-breaker, and one party always guesses wrong. It ends up still being a partisan enterprise. In the state of Washington it is not, it is truly bipartisan. The net result of which has been we have never had a significant challenge to the way in which redistricting was done in this state. And today you read about all kinds of states that are still worried about the redistricting taking place after the year 2010. So you can congratulate yourselves, I think, in being in the best state for that normally highly partisan, but now by reason of our system, bipartisan system of working.

One other thing I would like to say is I look on you as men and women of great privilege. In serving a state that is as dramatic and as rapidly growing as the state of Washington, you face all kinds of challenges as a result. For many, our economic success has been a tremendous bonanza, but many parts of the state haven't shared in it and many people in our metropolitan areas have not shared in it either. As a result of which you spend, you face a very very difficult complex challenges. The penalty for not meeting those challenges is you keep on facing the same challenges all over again. The reward of meeting them successfully is that each successful venture creates two more challenges in its place. You have that opportunity, you have it here today and with your wisdom we will continue to have it as a state for many years to come.

So, I envy you. You are doing wonderful work. You are doing fascinating work. You are doing work that individually frustrates you from time to time but you are doing the work of a free society and I believe I can say you are doing it well.

Thank you for this honor."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Wagoner: "Well, I think it is traditional to make some remarks and I want to thank some people. First, I would like to thank my mentor on the Republican side, Senator Honeyford, for teaching me the ropes and the rules. However, he neglected to remind me to wear body armor tonight. I guess I am a little slow on the uptake because I should have learned a lesson. I see my esteemed colleague from the 45th is still wearing her red sweater which I think covers up the blood from what you did to her the other night. So I think the next bill I would like to introduce would provide for another protected class and anti-bullying, and that would be freshmen senators. But in all seriousness, I'd also like to thank the Chairs of the two committees I sit on for giving me some mentorship and some opportunities to learn, and I stole from the gentleman from the 36th this morning when he was addressing Senator Slade Gorton, and he talked about grace and kindness, and you have all treated me with grace and kindness here. I deeply appreciate that.

The gift on your desk tonight, I was going to bring water but we didn't have any in Skagit County. But that is a good thing because I think you are going to like this a lot better. This is an apple wine that comes from Eagle Haven Winery, which is just to the east of Sedro Wooley. Those of you visiting the area, maybe to do the Cascade loop, should stop in. It is a wonderful venue with a tasting room. The origins of the Eagle Haven Winery are in the Perkins Orchard which was established in 1968. So they have about twenty acres of apples and I will leave you to be the judge of whether their product is as good as I think it is. Thank you very much Mr. President."

SENATE BILL NO. 5108, by Senators Billig, Miloscia, Hunt, Palumbo, Lias, Fain, Saldaña, Pedersen, Carlyle, Keiser, Cleveland, Mullet, Conway and Kuderer

Concerning contributions from political committees to other political committees.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Billig, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5108 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5108 and the substitute bill was placed on the second reading and read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Billig moved that the following striking floor amendment no. 512 by Senator Billig be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. The legislature finds that the public has the right to know who is contributing to election campaigns in Washington state and that campaign finance disclosure deters corruption, increases public confidence in Washington state elections, raises the level of debate, and strengthens our representative democracy.

The legislature finds that campaign finance disclosure is overwhelmingly supported by the citizens of Washington state as evidenced by the two initiatives that largely established Washington's current system. Both passed with more than seventy-two percent of the popular vote, as well as winning margins in every county in the state.

One of the cornerstones of Washington state's campaign finance disclosure laws is the requirement that political advertisements disclose the sponsor and the sponsor's top five donors. Many political action committees have avoided this important transparency requirement by funneling money from political action committee to political action committee so the top five donors listed are deceptive political action committee names rather than the real donors. The legislature finds that this practice, sometimes called "gray money" or "donor washing," undermines the intent of Washington state's campaign finance laws and impairs the transparency required for fair elections and a healthy democracy.

Therefore, the legislature intends to close this disclosure loophole, increase transparency and accountability, raise the level of discourse, deter corruption, and strengthen confidence in the election process by prohibiting political committees from receiving an overwhelming majority of their funds from one or a combination of political committees.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. A new section is added to chapter 42.17A RCW to read as follows:

(1) For any requirement of including "top five contributors" information under RCW 42.17A.320 or any other provision of this chapter, the persons or entities making the largest contributions shall be determined solely as follows:

(a) The sponsor must first identify the five persons or entities making the largest contributions in excess of seven hundred dollars reportable under this chapter during the twelve-month period preceding the date on which the advertisement is initially to be published or otherwise presented to the public;

(b) For any political committee that qualifies as one of the top five contributors identified under (a) of this subsection, the top five contributors to that political committee during the same period must then be identified, and so on, until the individuals or entities other than political committees that have contributed the most to all political committees involved with the advertisement have been identified; and

(c) The sponsor's advertisement must then list the top five individuals or entities other than political committees contributing in excess of seven hundred dollars and making the largest aggregate contributions among all those identified under (a) and (b) of this subsection.

(2) Contributions to the sponsor that are earmarked, tracked, and used for purposes other than the advertisement in question should not be counted in identifying the top five contributors under subsection (1) of this section.

(3) The sponsor shall not be liable for a violation of this section where the persons or entities making the largest contributions to the advertisement fail to report to the commission contributions to the sponsor.

(4) The commission is authorized to adopt rules, as needed, to prevent circumvention and effectuate the purposes of top five contributors information requirements, which are intended to inform voters about the individuals and entities sponsoring political advertisements.

Sec. 9. RCW 42.17A.320 and 2013 c 138 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) All written political advertising, whether relating to candidates or ballot propositions, shall include the sponsor's name and address. All radio and television political advertising, whether relating to candidates or ballot propositions, shall include the sponsor's name. The use of an assumed name for the sponsor of electioneering communications, independent expenditures, or political advertising shall be unlawful. For partisan office, if a candidate has expressed a party or independent preference on the declaration of candidacy, that party or independent designation shall be clearly identified in electioneering communications, independent expenditures, or political advertising.

(2) In addition to the information required by subsection (1) of this section, except as specifically addressed in subsections (4) and (5) of this section, all political advertising undertaken as an independent expenditure or an electioneering communication by a person or entity other than a bona fide political party must include as part of the communication:

(a) The statement: "No candidate authorized this ad. It is paid for by (name, address, city, state)";

(b) If the sponsor is a political committee, the statement: "Top Five Contributors," followed by a listing of the names of the five persons or entities making the largest contributions in excess of seven hundred dollars reportable under this chapter during the twelve-month period before the date of the advertisement or communication; and

(c) If the sponsor is a political committee established, maintained, or controlled directly, or indirectly through the formation of one or more political committees, by an individual, corporation, union, association, or other entity, the full name of that individual or entity.

(3) The information required by subsections (1) and (2) of this section shall:

(a) Appear on the first page or fold of the written advertisement or communication in at least ten-point type, or in type at least ten percent of the largest size type used in a written advertisement or communication directed at more than one voter, such as a billboard or poster, whichever is larger;

(b) Not be subject to the half-tone or screening process; and

(c) Be set apart from any other printed matter.

(4) In an independent expenditure or electioneering communication transmitted via television or other medium that includes a visual image, the following statement must either be clearly spoken, or appear in print and be visible for at least four seconds, appear in letters greater than four percent of the visual screen height on a solid black background on the entire bottom one-third of the television or visual display screen, or bottom one-fourth of the screen if the sponsor does not have or is otherwise not required to list its top five contributors, and have a reasonable color contrast with the background: "No candidate authorized this ad. Paid for by (name, city, state)." If the advertisement or communication is undertaken by a nonindividual other than a party organization, then the following notation must also be included: "Top Five Contributors" followed by a listing of the names of the five persons or entities making the largest contributions in excess of seven hundred dollars reportable under this chapter during the twelve-month period preceding the date on which the advertisement is initially published or otherwise presented to the public. Abbreviations may be used to describe contributing entities if the full name of the entity has been clearly spoken previously during the broadcast advertisement.

(5) The following statement shall be clearly spoken in an independent expenditure or electioneering communication transmitted by a method that does not include a visual image: "No candidate authorized this ad. Paid for by (name, city, state)." If the independent expenditure or electioneering communication is undertaken by a nonindividual other than a party organization, then the following statement must also be included: "Top Five Contributors" followed by a listing of the names of the five persons or entities making the largest contributions in excess of seven hundred dollars reportable under this chapter during the twelve-month period preceding the date on which the advertisement is initially published or otherwise presented to the public. Abbreviations may be used to describe contributing entities if the full name of the entity has been clearly spoken previously during the broadcast advertisement.

(6) Political advertising costing one thousand dollars or more supporting or opposing ballot measures sponsored by a political committee must include the information on the "Top Five Contributors" consistent with subsections (2), (4), and (5) of this section. A series of political advertising sponsored by the same political committee, each of which is under one thousand dollars, must include the "Top Five Contributors" information required by this section once their cumulative value reaches one thousand dollars or more.

(7) Political yard signs are exempt from the requirements of this section that the sponsor's name and address, and "Top Five Contributor" information, be listed on the advertising. In addition, the public disclosure commission shall, by rule, exempt from the identification requirements of this section forms of political advertising such as campaign buttons, balloons, pens, pencils, sky-writing, inscriptions, and other forms of advertising where identification is impractical.

(8) For the purposes of this section, "yard sign" means any outdoor sign with dimensions no greater than eight feet by four feet."

On page 1, line 1 of the title, after "Relating to" strike the remainder of the title and insert "disclosure of contributions from political committees to other political committees; amending RCW 42.17A.320; adding a new section to chapter 42.17A RCW; and creating a new section."
