For the purposes of this chapter:

(1) "Selling price" means the consideration, whether money, credits, rights, or other property except trade-in property of like kind, expressed in the terms of money paid or delivered by a buyer to a seller without any deduction on account of the cost of tangible property sold, the cost of materials used, labor costs, interest, discount, delivery costs, taxes other than taxes imposed under this chapter if the seller advertises the price as including the tax or that the seller is paying the tax, or any other expenses whatsoever paid or accrued and without any deduction on account of losses, but shall not include the amount of cash discount actually taken by a buyer; and shall be subject to modification to the extent modification is provided for in RCW 82.08.080.

When tangible personal property is rented or leased under circumstances that the consideration paid does not represent a reasonable rental for the use of the articles so rented or leased, the "selling price" shall be determined as nearly as possible according to the value of such use at the places of use of similar products of like quality and character under such rules as the department of revenue may prescribe.

(2) "Seller" means every person, including the state and its departments and institutions, making sales at retail or retail sales to a buyer or consumer, whether as agent, broker, or principal, except "seller" does not mean the state and its departments and institutions when making sales to the state and its departments and institutions.

This tax will not apply with respect to the use of any article of tangible personal property purchased, extracted, produced or manufactured outside this state until the transportation of such article has finally ended or until such article has become commingled with the general mass of property in this state. This tax shall apply to the use of every article of tangible personal property, including property acquired at a casual or isolated sale, and including byproducts used by the manufacturer thereof, except as hereinafter provided, irrespective of whether the article or similar articles are manufactured or are available for purchase within this state. Except as provided in RCW 82.12.0252, payment by one purchaser or user of tangible personal property of the tax imposed by chapter 82.08 or 82.12 RCW shall not have the effect of exempting any other purchaser or user of the same property from the taxes imposed by such chapters.

Passed the House May 8, 1989.
Passed the Senate May 7, 1989.
Approved by the Governor May 14, 1989, with the exception of certain items which were vetoed.
Filed in Office of Secretary of State May 14, 1989.

Note: Governor's explanation of partial veto is as follows:

"I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12, Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1737 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to crime victims compensation."

There are areas where government should act with restraint. These areas are delineated by the constitutions of the United States and the State of Washington. Both unequivocally protect freedom of speech and artistic expression as set forth in a long line of state and federal court cases defining First Amendment rights.

The provisions in sections 9, 10, 11 and 12 of this bill are unacceptable intrusions of these rights. These sections impose excise taxes on adult entertainment materials and services significantly higher than the tax already imposed on other similar retail materials, i.e. eighteen percent higher. While I can understand citizens' feelings about pornographic material, there are several major difficulties associated with this revenue source. The first is the intrusion into freedom of speech, which is manifested by these sections. This is dubious public policy, and would almost certainly be challenged in court. Such a challenge must be considered as having a high likelihood of success, if not a certainty, and would entail significant litigation expenses for the state. I believe the Legislature publicly acknowledged these concerns when it decided not to use this tax as a funding source on Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 1793.

Second, administration of this tax would be extremely difficult. Potentially, the Department of Revenue would be required to specifically list all services, magazines, video tapes, etc., which are subject to this tax. Closely related to this will be a taxpayer compliance problem. Given the nature of the materials being taxed, it is reasonable to assume that compliance will be at a much lower level than with other types of retail sales. Additionally, mail order sources may be substituted for in-state sales. In either case, audit expenses associated with this tax are likely to be very high. Given these difficulties plus the high probability of incurring litigation expenses in a defense of these new taxes, I must veto sections 9 through 12.

Section 8 of this bill would require the Office of Financial Management to conduct a study of the Public Safety and Education Account by December 1, 1989. The bill specifies a number of items that are to be included in the study and would require a comprehensive look at a complex area of state government. The bill, however, does not provide an appropriation for the study.
The type of study that is anticipated by this section cannot be conducted within available resources. The Office of Financial Management, along with the Department of Labor and Industries, has been studying this issue on a more limited basis as resources permit, and will continue to do so. For this reason, I have vetoed section 8.

With the exception of sections 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12, Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1737 is approved.
