

FIRST DAY

House Chamber, Olympia, Monday, January 11, 2010

The House was called to order at 12:00 p.m. by the Speaker. The Clerk called the roll and a quorum was present.

The flags were escorted to the rostrum by the Washington State Department of Corrections Honor Guard. The Speaker led the Chamber in the Pledge of Allegiance. The National Anthem was performed by Corrections Officer Joel White. The prayer was offered by Chaplain Rick Bulman, Pierce County Sheriff's Office.

Chaplain Rick Bulman: "Most precious and holy Father. We come before you today to thank you for the many blessings you have bestowed upon us. We thank you for the privilege of living in this wonderful state. We thank you for those you have put in authority over us and we ask that you would guide and direct them. We ask that you would give our legislators supernatural wisdom as they face these difficult and challenging times. We ask that you give them extra portions of humility, integrity, conviction and faith and that you would inspire them to make right choices. Father we ask that you would turn the hearts of the people back to you. We ask that you would forgive us for the sins of immorality, wickedness and irresponsibility that we have practiced. We ask that you would shine the light of your holy spirit upon us and cleanse us from unrighteousness. We ask that you would remove evil and wickedness from our society, restore good and prompt us to exercise justice. We ask that you would eliminate famine, disease and poverty. We ask that you would motivate our citizens to get involved in effecting positive change and that you would help us to understand that the politicians can't do it on their own. They need our help, participation and support. Remind us to pray for those in leadership because you have told us that when we agree in prayer that you respond. And Father, we ask that you would put your hedge of safety around those who serve in uniform, our law enforcement officers, fire fighters and military. May they sense your presence and peace. And as they are committed to us to maintain peace and safety for us, may we be committed to support, encourage, honor and bless them as they daily put their lives on the line for us. And Father, as Abe Lincoln said, "May we be committed to helping the widows and orphans of those who have born the battle." You told us this is true and undefiled religion. Father, please bless our nation, our state and our communities. We ask all of this in your precious and holy name. Amen."

SPEAKER'S REMARKS

As we begin this session, I would like to offer a perspective on the work at hand. For weeks now, many people have been saying to me: "What a tough session this will be. What a tough job you must have." I understand this will be a challenging session. I appreciate the hard work each of you will do to represent the people in the people's House.

As legislators, we have many decisions to make, and there are many demands on our time, but let's put our work in perspective. We all understand that our job is not as tough as an emergency room nurse, acting quickly when a life hangs in the balance; a construction worker, tying rebar in the driving rain; a child protective services worker, balancing the needs of too many children; a veteran, returning home with wounds to heal; or a police officer. This became painfully clear when we heard the shocking news on Halloween night, and then again, and again. Soon, this legislature will formally honor our officers, but for now, let us have a moment of silence to remember their sacrifice and the sacrifice of their families.

As we go forward, we need to remember the daily struggles of people across our state. Those who have lost their jobs, spent down their savings, and are relying on unemployment checks and food stamps to make ends meet. The young parents losing sleep, worrying about a sick child, and the bills that will follow. The homeless veteran, coping with a mental illness. To help meet the challenges facing our people, we must make choices that fuel a smart recovery. To do that, we must build on what we have already achieved.

In national, independent surveys, Washington ranks at or near the top as the best state for starting a business and for doing business. We have the best prospects for future growth and we have the most productive workforce in the nation! What can we do in this economy to build upon that record? We can best position our people for the recovery by providing opportunities in education. We will focus on student success, by beginning to restore resources to our classrooms. Despite our difficult budget, we need to bring reality, not just rhetoric, to our constitutional duty! We will re-define basic education to include early learning, the best investment we can make by providing a smart start for our kids. Early learning is the basis for educational success and we should consider it a fundamental part of basic education. Through Opportunity Pathways, we will provide students at our colleges and universities, with the tools to join in the economic recovery. Now is not the time to make cuts in the state need grants or Opportunity Grants or apprenticeships for our students. This economic challenge can be turned into an Opportunity Express by giving unemployed workers the training for good paying jobs in clean energy, nursing, advanced manufacturing, and other jobs in high demand. The doors to a better future must be kept open! We can create tens of thousands of family wage jobs, while making our schools more energy efficient and productive. We can do this by approving the JOBS Act of 2010. Jobs, opportunities, better schools!

All of this will complement the investments we have made in transportation, which are already employing thousands of workers, and boosting our economic recovery, all across the state. As we work to balance the budget, we cannot slash funding for education, health care, and public safety, and then expect a better future for our people. The people of this state have voted, through five initiatives, to mandate more spending for student achievement, the basic health plan, and care for the elderly and persons with disabilities.

We should also take note, that for many years now, when actions taken by this legislature were referred to the voters, the people sustained us. Whether it was a revenue increase for the Education Legacy Trust Fund, or the largest investment in transportation in state history, or a civil rights law for domestic partners, the people agreed. This session will challenge us to identify priorities and efficiencies. We need a priorities of government process that applies not just to spending, but to our revenue as well. A basic question should always be asked: Is this particular tax incentive, exemption, or loophole more important than funding for schools, health care, and public safety for our people? Our challenge is to balance the budget in a balanced way. Responding to the immediate needs of our people but also investing in the long-term success of the economy and our future. Through Apple Health for Kids, the best children's health program in the nation, we are keeping our promise to make sure that all our children have health care by the end of this year. In order to do well in school, students need to be healthy and ready to learn, every day.

Through a partnership with the federal government, we hope to have the opportunity for new health care remedies, to expand coverage to those without insurance, and prevent economic ruin for thousands of people facing bankruptcy from a health care catastrophe. We will transform a strong thread of our safety net into the Disability Lifeline, to provide just that: a lifeline for tens of thousands of people with disabilities. A majority are battling mental illness, many are homeless, and a large share are veterans who have served our country. These reforms will save lives, save money, and make "general assistance" more understandable to the general public.

Many of the actions we will take in the next two months, will not receive much attention as the story of the budget is told. But the budget is much more than a table of numbers, it is a moral statement of our concern for those who are struggling and our commitment to giving a fair shake to all people. Despite the challenges before us, I am optimistic about the future, and I am honored to serve with you. When I began my remarks, I mentioned those who have jobs much more difficult than ours, and we remembered those who have given their full measure for the people of our state. The best way to honor them and the people we represent, is to give full measure to our duties. Our job is to serve the people and to lead the way, and we will do so. Let's get to work!

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative DeBolt: "Thank you Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House. Welcome back. A special thanks goes out to the color guard today, they did a phenomenal job, to the prayer, to all the officers of the state that keep us safe. It reminds me that one thing so important is that we live in the greatest country, and we live in the greatest state in the greatest country in the world. We take on challenges everyday in the United States and make it work. We do it without bloodshed and we do it with hard work and with words and compassion that make our country great. As we head into this next couple months, Washington State has some challenges ahead of us. You know last year we heard about Dave, a friend of mine who had to go to work and take a part time job to keep his business afloat. He is still struggling, it's not getting any cheaper for him to do business in Washington State. Our job is to make sure that we can help in the creation of jobs that we can be there as a tool and an advocate for the businesses in Washington State to be better employers. We need to understand that our budget is predicated on people working. I want to repeat that because that seems to be the key for us. Our budget is predicated on people working. What seems to be to me is that we need a plan to put the 170,000 people back to work that have changed our caseload forecast. We need to put the 170,000 people back to work to create what we need in the State of Washington to help our budget. That's what we need. If we keep going down the road of taxes, it's going to make it harder and harder for those businesses to compete. We are not in a global competition anymore. I heard the Governor say in her speech at the AP forum, that Washington State will lag behind the rest of the United States in its recovery and in its taxes. We can't do that, we've got to step up to the plate to make sure that we stay in front. Our competition is Idaho, our competition is Oregon, our competition is South Carolina. We have got to do what we can to make sure the citizens of Washington State have an opportunity to work their way through the crisis that they are in. You know, we have to have three things to be successful, and Mr. Speaker we've heard you say these, but we agree that we have to have a strong education system. We have to have a healthy environment and thirdly we have to have a strong business climate to pay for those first two things. We have lost sight of that I think in Olympia and so as we move forward this year I ask everybody to talk to yourself about when you're running a bill, what does this do to bring those 170,000 jobs back? What does it do to help put Dave back to work? What's it do to help our neighbors to get through the crisis that they are facing. We've got to help them be successful and only then can they help us to be successful in Olympia. You know, I mean, I know you hear it, I hear it and it's a little disheartening when people talk about the politicians coming back to Olympia, it's not with kindness that they say this. You know, we always hear people fear the fact that we're in town right now and that they don't trust us to make the right decisions, so we've got to be transparent and we've got to be open and we've got to show them what we're doing to solve their problems at their kitchen table. You know, as we do this, I want to remember that we all have families at home, we're all stressed, this is going to be a hard session. I think this is going to be one of the toughest ones we've faced. It's a sizable deficit, we know that the decisions that we make this year will have an impact on what we face coming into the next session. That budget deficit is getting bigger, talk about 9 billion dollars in the next biennium. That is daunting, so remember as we go through this that you have to look to your family and you have to look to your compatriots to give you the support you need to get through the heavy task that we have before us. I guess for me as I watch, Washington State has a proud history, in natural resource management and manufacturing and that is gone. You see all of the communities that are suffering that had natural resource based economies. We see our timber leaving as raw material, we're not manufacturing anymore. Made in Washington used to mean something, and I think with this legislature and all of us working together we can make Made in Washington mean something again. I believe if you take a pro active approach we can give you a plan in 18 months that will put those people back to work. We need to start today and we have an opportunity, we have put together a plan we would love to share with you Mr. Speaker, we've shared with the Governor that we think we have some bills that will help change it, and that we can do the right things and we can help guide your budget process and make good decisions for the people of the State of Washington. We're looking forward to this session, we look forward to the challenges, and we thank you for your time.
