POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative Santos: "Yesterday I was stunned to learn, and perhaps you were as well, that we, the state of Washington, lost an extraordinary public servant. A talented and generous native son.

Mike Lowry would serve as our governor, as a member of Congress, and in my neck of the woods, as a council member for Martin Luther King County.

Mike Lowry was one of the first persons I ever met who really embodied the philosophy and the vision of One Washington, having been born in eastern Washington and raised there from a little town of St. John, graduating from Endicott High School and was a very proud W.S.U. graduate.

In his adult life he moved to Western Washington where he made and forged a career of public service. Of believing in that notion of one nation indivisible with liberty and justice for all. His career trajectory encompassed many things and I can only hit on some of the highlights of his legacy.

We have debated many times on this House floor of the need to serve our homeless population, and Mike Lowry, as a member of Congress, was the author of the McKinney Vento act. He stood for immigrant rights in the early and late seventies and early eighties.

He was a champion of not only environmental protection and conservation, serving in his later years after he became governor, with former governor Dan Evans as founders of the Washington Wildlife and Recreation Coalition.

But I think the thing that most made him tick was his absolute commitment to civil rights and human rights, and for me, his role as being the brave soul who stood up in Congress and introduced the very first civil liberties reparations act to redress the wrongs and injustices of World War II towards Japanese Americans is seared in my memory and in the memories of many in my community.

On a personal level Madam Speaker you may not know that I worked for Mr Lowry. I was very proud to have worked for Mr Lowry. I consider him a mentor and a friend, and my heart is filled with great sorrow for his wife Mary, his devoted beloved Mary; his daughter Dianne, whom he doted on, and her husband and children; and his surviving sister Sue Ellen.

Madam Speaker they say that the moral test of government is how they treat people at the dawn of life - the children; people in the twilight of life - the aged; the people who are in the shadows of life - those who are sick and needy; those who are handicapped, those who are marginalized. I stand here asking you to help remember a man who was not only a consummate public servant but who was a moral compass for government in the state of Washington. Who always pointed true north for all of our citizens.

I ask you to remember him with me and send our collective thoughts and prayers to his family and all of the people of the state of Washington at this very sad moment. Thank you Madam Speaker."

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative Johnson: "I too stand to eulogize the good Governor we lost yesterday. He was kind of a unique individual. Many of the things that he favored and he pushed as a member of Congress in the decade in which he served, are now things that have come to pass. They didn't necessarily always come when Governor Lowry was a member of Congress, but they came later as the good lady from the thirty-seventh had to say.

You know I believe the last time I had an opportunity to visit with Governor Lowry was in Grandview, Washington. Like so many of us here in the chamber we kind of had our start over in Eastern Washington which means we sent good stock to Olympia.

You will remember Chairman Appleton, Representative Santos, that we were with him at the dedication of a housing project in Grandview. I think that one of the shining stars in his crown was what he did after he left public office. He pushed and pulled for housing for moderate income people and for low income people. That's what we were in Grandview for that day, the dedication of a housing project- apartments and single family homes, that were built by the diocese of Yakima. He made the trip on his own to be there and take part of that.

He was unique in a way that many of us wish we could say we were, he knew everybody. He knew something about you. He knew your name.

Although maybe we don't always agree on either side of the aisle, sometimes we can put that aside when we think of the kindness and consideration he showed to each and every one of us that he had the chance to meet in his long life of political service. So I too would like to join the good lady from the thirty-seventh and request that we remember Governor Lowry as one of the fine men who served not just the politicians that we all are, but who also served the people of the state of Washington as well as any Governor that we've had in my time. Thank you Madam Speaker.”

The Speaker assumed the chair.
