Creating a job development fund.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Recognizes the vital importance of economic development to the health and prosperity of Washington state as indicated in RCW 43.160.010, 43.155.070(4)(g), 43.163.005, and 43.168.010.

Finds that current economic development programs and funding, which are primarily low-interest loan programs, can be enhanced by creating a grant program to assist local governments with public infrastructure projects that directly stimulate community and economic development by facilitating the creation of new jobs or the retention of existing jobs.

Provides that, in administering the job development fund, the board shall establish a competitive process to request proposals for and prioritize projects the primary objective of which is to stimulate community and economic development through redevelopment projects as defined in RCW 35.81.015(18) and rehabilitation projects as defined in RCW 35.81.015(19).

Requires the board to conduct a statewide request for project applications from political subdivisions of the state and federally recognized Indian tribes. The board shall develop criteria on which to evaluate and rank applications, and shall develop performance and evaluation criteria to review how well successful applicants met the community and economic development objectives stated in their applications. Among the priorities for ranking projects, the board shall include consideration of: (1) The relative benefits provided to the community by the jobs the project would create, not just the total number of jobs it would create after the project is completed and according to the unemployment rate in the area in which the jobs would be located; and

(2) The rate of return of the state's investment, that includes the expected increase in state and local tax revenues associated with the project.

HB 1903-S by House Committee on Capital Budget (originally sponsored by Representatives Ericks, Haler, Linville, Springer, Kilmer, Morrell, O'Brien, Schual-Berke, P. Sullivan, Simpson, Pettigrew, Jarrett, Wallace, Sells, Strow, Grant, Upthegrove, Kessler, Dunn, Fromhold, Appleton, Chase, Green, Moeller, Hasegawa, and Takko)

Providing funds to stimulate community and economic development.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Finds that current economic development programs and funding, which are primarily low-interest loan programs, can be enhanced by creating a grant program to assist with public infrastructure projects that directly stimulate community and economic development by supporting the creation of new jobs or the retention of existing jobs.

Requires the board to, with the joint legislative audit and review committee, develop performance criteria for each grant and evaluation criteria to be used to evaluate both how well successful applicants met the community and economic development objectives stated in their applications, and how well the job development fund program performed in creating and retaining jobs.

Declares that the maximum grant from the job development fund for any one project is ten million dollars. Grant assistance from the job development fund may not exceed thirty-three percent of the total cost of the project. The nonstate portion of the total project cost may include cash, the value of real property when acquired solely for the purpose of the project, and in-kind contributions.

Establishes the job development fund in the state treasury. Up to fifty million dollars each biennium from the public works assistance account may be transferred into the job development fund. Money in the job development fund may be used solely for job development fund program grants, administrative expenses related to the administration of the job development fund program created in this act, and for the report prepared by the joint legislative audit and review committee pursuant to this act. Moneys in the job development fund may be spent only after appropriation. The board shall prepare a prioritized list of proposed projects of up to fifty million dollars as part of the department's 2007-09 biennial budget request. The board may provide an additional alternate job development fund project list of up to ten million dollars.

Requires the joint legislative audit and review committee to conduct an inventory of all state public infrastructure programs and funds.

Requires the inventory to be delivered to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2006.

Provides that, by September 1, 2010, the joint legislative audit and review committee shall submit a report on the outcomes of the job development fund program to the appropriate committees of the legislature.

Creating the office of the inspector general.
(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Creates the office of inspector general within the office of the governor in order to create an independent unit to: (1) Conduct and supervise investigations relating to allegations of fraud; and

(2) Inform the governor and the legislature about vulnerabilities and deficiencies relating to the detection and prevention of fraud as may be discovered as a result of completed investigations conducted or coordinated by the office.

Designates the office as a criminal justice agency.

Requires the inspector general to submit a report summarizing the activities of the office to the appropriate committees of the senate and house of representatives by November 30, 2005, by November 30, 2006, and by November of every even-numbered year thereafter. The report shall contain only disclosable information, including: (1) A description of significant fraud, and of vulnerabilities or deficiencies relating to the prevention and detection of fraud, discovered as a result of investigations completed during the reporting period;

(2) A description of corrective action taken by government entities regarding fraud discovered as a result of investigations conducted by the office;

(3) Recommendations for improving the activities of the office with respect to the vulnerabilities or deficiencies identified under this act;

(5) A summary of matters referred to prosecution authorities during the reporting period and the charges filed and convictions entered during the reporting period that have resulted from referrals by the office.

Requires the inspector general to forward a draft of the report to any government entity identified in the report not less than twenty days before the date that the report is to be issued.

Directs the governor to make copies of the report available to the public upon request and at a reasonable cost at the same time the report of the inspector general is provided to legislative committees.

Declares that it is an unfair practice for any employer, employment agency, labor union, government agency, government manager, or government supervisor to discharge, expel, discriminate, or otherwise retaliate against an individual assisting with an office of inspector general investigation under this act, unless the individual has made willful disregard for the truth.

HB 1910 by Representatives Morrell, Campbell, Cody, Clibborn, Simpson, Uptegrove, Hasegawa, O'Brien, Chase, and Conway; by request of Insurance Commissioner

Companion Bill: 5861

Stabilizing the health insurance market and reducing the number of uninsured individuals in Washington state.

Recognizes that to stabilize the health insurance market and reduce the number of uninsured people in Washington state, health insurance premiums need to be lower. An uncertain market due to the uncompensated care needs of uninsured individuals and our current method of covering high-cost enrollees contributes to rising health insurance premiums. Our private health insurance market can begin covering some uninsured people and reduce uncompensated care when coverage is pooled for high-cost enrollees.

Declares an intent to reduce premiums, primarily for small employers, by broadly pooling high-cost enrollees and providing reinsurance services to the pool that reduces the cost of coverage. Pooling and reinsurance services for these unpredictable, high health care costs will reduce the uncertainty that raises premiums across the private health insurance market. Lower premiums will reduce the number of uninsured people in Washington state.

Finds that a reduction in the number of people needing health insurance will reduce the cost to providers who treat uninsured people and lower the cost of the uncompensated care borne by the premiums paid by purchasers and consumers. A part of the savings from more predictable premiums and less uncompensated care can be recaptured and targeted to make health insurance affordable for more small employers and others in the private health insurance market.

Creates a nonprofit entity known as the health insurance market stabilization pool. The purpose of the pool is to enroll more uninsured people in the private health insurance market by lowering and stabilizing premiums.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Directs the department of labor and industries to develop and implement an initiative to encourage the reporting of industrial insurance injuries by the worker to his or her employer and by the employer to the department. Under this initiative, the department must take steps to educate workers and employers about the benefits and importance of prompt reporting of injuries.

Provides that, by December 1, 2006, the department of labor and industries shall develop and make statutory recommendations for an alternative system of reporting injuries under which the worker would report to the employer and the employer would report to the department. Upon passage of such legislation, the department shall immediately begin an educational effort to promote this method of reporting.

Requires the department to conduct a study of: (1) Claims that are not reported promptly, including but not limited to a review of the circumstances of such claims, the type of injuries involved in such claims, and the reasons for the failure to report such claims promptly; and

(2) The effect of the educational initiative required under this act on whether the number of claims reported to employers increased, whether there was a reduction in delays in benefit payments, and whether there was an improvement in employer involvement in assisting with claims management and an increase in appropriate return-to-work and better outcomes for injured workers and employers; and

(3) The results of the efforts of the centers of occupational health education in early reporting and early notification of employers, and the general lessons that can be drawn from these results for the larger workers' compensation program.

Provides that, to be eligible for the grant, the county public safety agency shall: (1) By July 1, 2006, be awarded, or prove intent to be awarded, a minimum of five million dollars from the federal government specifically for the purpose of partnering with the state of Washington to implement an interoperable communication system;

Studying insurance fraud.

Requires the insurance commissioner and the attorney general, together, to study the extent of insurance fraud in Washington and the current laws which are in place to combat insurance fraud. Recommendations should address, among other things: What changes in law are necessary to more effectively fight insurance fraud; whether Washington should establish a dedicated insurance fraud bureau; where such a bureau should be located; the resources which would be necessary to establish such a bureau; and the potential sources of funding.

Creating the Washington community learning center program.

Finds that good after-school programs and activities provide safe and effective learning environments for children, including children who might otherwise be alone and unsupervised after school. These programs not only support children's academic efforts, they also build community partnerships that support children and their learning.

Finds that students who participate in good after-school care programs: (1) Miss fewer days of school and have better behavior in school, test scores, grades, and records of homework completion than children who are left alone;

(2) Spend more time actively learning in a variety of settings and less time watching television than their peers who are left alone; and

(3) Have better peer relations, emotional adjustment, and conflict resolution skills than children who are left alone.

Finds that, at the request of the legislature, the Washington after-school network has prepared a statewide after-school plan that would help the state make strategic investments in programs and activities that support children academically while keeping them safe and well-supervised.

Declares an intent to implement the plan by expanding high quality after-school programs, supporting professional development for after-school program staff, increasing public awareness of program benefits, and supporting the after-school organizational infrastructure to ensure economies of scale in support of after-school programs.

Finds that the state's current approach to treating harmful algal blooms in lakes has not proven effective to mitigate the dramatic risks to humans and animals living near or recreating on the state's lakes.

Finds that the state must immediately pursue an aggressive program to prevent or control harmful algal blooms in lakes.

Finds that this program must address the causes of harmful algal blooms in lakes and identify effective treatments and actions to combat the deleterious effects of harmful algal blooms in lakes.

Provides that ten percent of the moneys deposited into the water quality account must be allocated for program activities that control and prevent harmful algal blooms in lakes and to award grants to state agencies, local governments, nonprofit corporations, firms, or any other entity for the control and prevention of harmful algal blooms in lakes. Regarding alternative assessments.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Directs the office of the superintendent of public instruction, in consultation with interested school districts, to design a career and technical assessment alternative that: (1) Is available to students enrolled in comprehensive career and technical education programs that lead to written, widely accepted state or national industry certification when the industry certification requires that the students demonstrate their skills and knowledge through an objective assessment or evaluation and the skills and knowledge included in the program are aligned to the state's high school reading, writing, mathematics, and science essential learnings;

(2) Is available in programs that have previously been approved by the office of the superintendent of public instruction for the purpose of the assessment alternative; and

(3) Is piloted beginning with the 2006-07 school year through the end of the 2011-12 school year, with an evaluation of its effectiveness and biennial reports to the legislature on its implementation. The biennial reports shall include the number of programs offering the alternative, the number of students in each program, and the aggregate results of participating students on the Washington assessment of student learning and the assessment or evaluation used to determine industry certification. Students in the pilot must take the high school assessment of student learning at least once and may be required to take a placement test used by the community and technical colleges to ascertain whether they would be able to transition to postsecondary work if they so chose.

Provides that, by October 2012, the superintendent of public instruction shall provide a final report on the pilots to the house of representatives and senate committees responsible for education policy. The final report shall include a recommendation on whether to eliminate or continue the assessment alternative for career and technical education programs that lead to industry certification.

HB 1987-S by House Committee on Education (originally sponsored by Representatives Priest, Ormsby, Curtis, and Anderson)

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Provides that, by January 15, 2006, the office of the superintendent of public instruction, as part of any feasibility study of options for the alternative assessments under RCW 28A.655.061(11), shall review the course requirements and assessments in one or more representative career and technical programs that lead to industry certification to determine the alignment of the courses and assessments with the essential academic learning requirements measured in the high school Washington assessment of student learning.

Declares that the purpose of the review is to determine if the certifications can be used as evidence that a student has met the standards measured by the Washington assessment of student learning. The review also shall evaluate the statewide availability and use of the certifications. As part of the review, the superintendent shall make a determination of the extent to which the certifications are comparable in rigor to the reading, writing, mathematics, or science Washington assessments of student learning, and whether they should be used as alternative assessments. The superintendent also shall develop a process for reviewing additional industry certification programs after the initial review.

Establishing the goal of increasing funding for bachelor's and graduate degrees in high-demand fields.

Finds that Washington lags behind the country and peer states in production of bachelor's and graduate degrees in the fields needed to invent new technologies, attract new businesses and new industries to the state, and spur economic development and job growth.

Finds that a key contributing factor to Washington's low production of high-demand degrees is the practice of funding student enrollment at universities based on an average cost per student, despite clear evidence that junior and senior-level courses in engineering and the hard sciences cost thirty to forty percent above the average, while junior and senior-level courses in fields such as business and social sciences cost thirty to forty percent below the average at the state's two research universities.

Declares an intent to establish a goal to increase course enrollment in engineering, technology, computer science, hard sciences such as chemistry and physics, and mathematics in order to double the number of degrees awarded in these high-demand fields per one hundred thousand population by the year 2015. The legislature further intends to accomplish this goal by increasing per-student funding for enrollment in high-demand fields by twenty-five percent, while decreasing per-student funding for enrollment in other fields by twenty-five percent.

Clarifying civil liability for traffic infractions when vehicle title is transferred.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Provides that an owner who has made a bona fide sale or transfer of a vehicle, has delivered possession of it to a purchaser, and has fulfilled the requirements of this act is relieved of liability and liability is transferred to the purchaser of the vehicle, for any traffic violation under this title, whether designated as a traffic infraction or classified as a criminal offense, that occurs after the date of the sale or transfer that is based on the vehicle's identification, including, but not limited to, parking infractions, high-occupancy toll lane violations, and violations recorded by automated traffic safety cameras.

Provides that, in the event a traffic infraction is based on a vehicle's identification, and the registered owner of the vehicle is a rental car business, the law enforcement agency shall, before a notice of infraction may be issued, provide a written notice to the rental car business that a notice of infraction may be issued to the rental car business if the rental car business does not, within thirty days of receiving the written notice, provide to the issuing agency by return mail: (1) A statement under oath stating the name and known mailing address of the individual driving or renting the vehicle when the infraction occurred; or

(2) A statement under oath that the business is unable to determine who was driving or renting the vehicle at the time the infraction occurred.

Declares that timely mailing of this statement to the issuing law enforcement agency relieves a rental car business of any liability under this act for the notice of infraction. In lieu of identifying the vehicle operator, the rental car business may pay the applicable penalty.

Authorizing a county real estate excise tax to fund a geographic information system.

Declares an intent to provide funding for counties for planning, implementing, and maintaining digital geographic information systems for use by counties in administering the ad valorem property tax system of the state, and for related purposes as authorized by chapter 82.46 RCW.

Finds that the use of digital geographic information systems provides an efficient means for counties to prepare and possess parcel maps as described under RCW 84.40.160 for lands within the counties of the state, and to continually update these maps to reflect transfers, acquisitions, conveyances, and other events that change the boundary of parcels.

Finds that digital geographic information systems provide efficient and effective means to map and geographically analyze data created and compiled in meeting the requirements of Washington's planning enabling act and growth management act.

Finds that digital geographic information systems provide capabilities to store and analyze information that improves the health, welfare, and security of the citizens of the state of Washington by providing accurate property information, parcel maps, and addresses for emergency services response and other public safety needs.

Finds that due to the numerous users of property information, and the many entities that rely on the accuracy and timeliness of the information provided by geographic information systems, it is in the best interest of the citizens of the state to provide a means for counties to fund these systems.

Authorizes the legislative authority of any county to impose an additional excise tax on each sale of real property in the county at a rate not to exceed one-eighth of one percent of the selling price. The proceeds of the tax shall be used exclusively for planning, implementing, and maintaining geographic information systems for use in administering the ad valorem property tax system of the state, and for related purposes as authorized by this chapter.

Establishing the Washington rental assistance program.

Finds that existing state and federal programs and funding are insufficient to meet the needs of qualifying low-income residents seeking to obtain or to continue residing in safe, decent, and affordable housing. For many low-income persons, this assistance is critical in determining whether a family or individual will inhabit a housing unit satisfying basic needs or whether such persons will be subjected to the uncertainties and limitations of substandard dwellings or homelessness.

Declares an intent to establish the Washington rental assistance program, a new tenant-based emergency and longer-term rental assistance program, without eliminating or reducing existing state or federal housing programs or funds for such programs, whereby qualifying low-income families and individuals may receive such assistance in accordance with legislative directives.

Establishes the Washington rental assistance program to provide tenant-based rental assistance in the form of a payment to the landlord on behalf of low-income single persons, families, or unrelated persons living together: (1) Whose income is at or below forty percent of the median income, adjusted for household size, for the county of residence, as determined by the federal department of housing and urban development; and Instruction may be offered either in a community college or technical college, or in a school district facility through a community college or technical college.

Provides that phase one of the pilot shall occur during the 2005-06 and 2006-07 school years. During phase one, up to fifty students may be selected to participate in the pilot.

Provides that phase two of the pilot shall occur during the 2007-08 and 2008-09 school years. During phase two, up to two hundred fifty students may participate in the first year, and up to a maximum of four hundred students may participate in the second year of the pilot.

HB 2067 by Representatives Hasegawa, Haler, Roberts, Ormsby, Green, Sells, Moeller, Conway, Chase, and Santos

Establishing a legislative/executive task force on health care access, delivery, and financing.

Finds that: (1) Access to necessary and effective health services is an essential need of all human beings, yet almost six hundred thousand people in the state of Washington lack health insurance coverage. Lack of access to health coverage results in increased rates of preventable disease, premature death, and increased cost of publicly funded medical care;

(2) The primary method used to pay for necessary care in Washington state is health insurance, whether financed by private or public funds;

(3) The cost of health insurance is rising substantially faster than the rate of inflation. These costs are making it increasingly difficult for employers to find and provide decent health benefits to their employees, and have a significant impact on the viability of businesses in Washington state. Moreover, increasing health care costs limit employers' ability to provide wage increases to their employees, negatively impacting workers' standard of living. Increasing costs also result in hardship to employees and their families, particularly low-wage workers, who are being forced to bear an increasing portion of this cost burden. State and local governments also are straining under the pressure of rising health care costs;

(4) Despite increases in overall health care spending, health care providers are faced with insufficient compensation from publicly funded programs and the growing complexity of administrative requirements, from both public and private purchasers; and

(5) The state of Washington has a strong interest in ensuring that all of its residents have access to health coverage, improving the health status of its residents, and containing rising health care costs.

Directs the joint task force to report its findings and recommendations to the governor and appropriate committees of the legislature by November 15, 2006.

Companion Bill: 6018

Expanding access to insurance coverage through the small business assist program.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Finds that many small employers struggle with the cost of providing employer-sponsored health insurance coverage to their employees and their employees' families, while others are unable to offer employer-sponsored health insurance due to its high cost. Low-wage workers also struggle with the burden of paying their share of the costs of employer-sponsored health insurance, while others turn down their employer's offer of coverage due to its costs.

Finds that limitations on access to health care services for enrollees in the state, such as in rural and underserved areas, are particularly challenging.

Declares an intent to authorize the administrator to develop alternative purchasing strategies to ensure access to enrollees of the programs administered under this chapter in all areas of the state, including but not limited to: (1) The use of differential rating for managed health care systems based on geographic differences in costs; and

(2) Self-insurance in areas where adequate access cannot be ensured through other options.

Creates the small business assist program under the Washington state health care authority.

Declares an intent that the small business assist program offer affordable health care coverage to small employers, their employees, and dependents if the employer has not provided health care coverage for at least six months as of the time of application. Prior employer-sponsored coverage as a subsidized enrollee in the basic health plan shall not be considered employer group coverage.

HB 2069-S by House Committee on Health Care (originally sponsored by Representatives Morrell, Hankins, Cody, Sells, Green, Kenney, Moeller, Conway, and Chase; by request of Governor Gregoire)

(2) Self-insurance in areas where adequate access cannot be ensured through other options.

Creates the small business assist program under the Washington state health care authority.

Declares an intent that the small business assist program make health care coverage more affordable to small employers, their employees, and dependents. By blending private and public funds through the premium assistance option authorized by this act, the legislature intends to increase the number of low-income workers with health coverage in Washington state. The administrator shall offer two options to small employers: (1) Enrollment as a group in a small business assist plan offered by the administrator under this act; and

(2) Enrollment of low-income employees in the premium assistance option authorized in this act.

Provides that, no later than January 1, 2007, the administrator may accept applications from employers on behalf of themselves and their employees, spouses, and dependent children, as small business assist plan enrollees. Small employers who have not provided employer-sponsored health care coverage for at least six months prior to the date of application may apply for enrollment in the plan.

Requires that, on or before December 15, 2006, the administrator shall provide a report to the governor and relevant policy and fiscal committees of the senate and the house of representatives. The report shall present options for providing a subsidy to small business assist plan enrollees or their employers to help pay the cost of their coverage. The options shall limit subsidies to enrollees with household income up to two hundred percent of the federal poverty level as adjusted for family size and determined annually by the federal department of health and human services.

Provides that, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2006, the sum of two million dollars from the health services account - state is provided solely for premium assistance payments under this act. This funding is provided in lieu of enrollment of one thousand persons in the basic health plan subsidized program during state fiscal year 2007.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Provides that, from July 1, 2005, until June 30, 2015, the board may authorize the department to deduct up to thirty percent of the moneys received by the department in connection with any one transaction pertaining to state lands.

Requires that any deductions authorized by the board under this act must be reviewed and reauthorized by the board each biennium.

Declares that deductions authorized by this act shall replace the deductions authorized by RCW 79.64.040(2), and shall be deposited into the resource management cost account created in RCW 79.64.020.

Provides that a portion of any revenue generated by a deduction authorized under this act in excess of twenty-five percent must be used by the department for variable density thinnings, silvicultural operations designed to address forest health issues, and other activities designed to develop complex forest stands.

Provides that, if the board authorizes a deduction under this act in excess of twenty-five percent in connection with any one transaction pertaining to state lands, then the state auditor shall conduct two audits, one following the second biennium after the triggering action by the board, and a second following the third biennium after the triggering action by the board.

Directs the joint legislative audit and review committee to, consistent with chapter 44.28 RCW, conduct a performance audit focusing on the success of the department in meeting the ecological and economic outcomes outlines in the sustainable yield harvest level adopted by the board pursuant to RCW 79.10.320 in 2004.

Provides that, by November 1, 2007, the department of natural resources shall prepare a report to the appropriate committees of the legislature that provides the following: (1) A review of opportunities for the department of natural resources to increase revenue to the trust beneficiaries without increasing the harvest of trees, including a comparison of the opportunities and the identification of any barriers in place that restrict the department's implementation of the opportunity. The opportunities to be studied should include, but not be limited to: (a) Long-term leases for recreation, ecological conservation, carbon sequestration, development mitigation, and watershed protection; (b) creation of a state-operated log yard; (c) marketing of niche products such as red cedar, red alder, and nontimber forest products; (d) pursuing third-party certification for state-produced timber; (e) producing and selling value-added forest products; (f) leasing land for wind power and communication sites; (g) loosening the timber substitution rules to allow additional bidders on state sales; (h) increasing the profitability of variable density thinning projects.

(2) A review on the status of the forest development account, including information on expenditures, revenues, and year-end fund balances beginning with fiscal year 2001, as well as projected expenditures, revenues, and fund balances for fiscal years 2008 through 2011.

HB 2084-S by House Committee on Natural Resources, Ecology & Parks (originally sponsored by Representative B. Sullivan)

(DIGEST OF PROPOSED 1ST SUBSTITUTE)

Finds that the board of natural resources has set expectations as to how the department of natural resources will implement the sustainable yield harvest plan adopted in 2004 pursuant to RCW 79.10.320. These expectations include the following: (1) Completion of evaluations of the cumulative effects on the harvest plan on a landscape basis;

(2) Completion of actions to address forest health issues;

(3) Aggressive implementation of scientific research and monitoring related to the habitat conservation program, including the rapid implementation of the long-term recovery plan for the marbled murrelet;

(4) The development of management strategies that include consideration of additional ecosystem issues, such as water quality, through the identification and protection of unstable slopes;

(5) Active conversion of riparian areas from predominantly hardwood composition to a mixture of conifer and hardwood species, which is intended to result in enhanced habitat for wildlife and fish.

Requires the department of natural resources to submit a report to the appropriate committees of the legislature outlining the success of the department in meeting the expectations of the board of natural resources outlined in this act.

Provides that as part of the report required by this act, the department of natural resources must detail any barriers to Authorizing extension or expansion of sewage treatment systems in rural areas when necessary to address Hood Canal concerns.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Provides that sewer systems may be extended to or expanded in rural areas within aquatic rehabilitation zone one according to the requirements of this act.

Authorizes municipal sewer systems and community sewage collection and treatment facilities to be constructed in or extended to areas in which: (1) Clusters of high-density development are present;

(2) Water quality problems associated with discharge of nutrients from on-site sewage treatment systems have been documented; and

(3) The treatment efficiency of existing on-site sewage treatment systems is poor.

Requires systems and facilities constructed in or extended into rural areas to include nitrogen removal treatment capability when practicable.

Provides that consistent with the requirements of RCW 36.70A.110(4), any system or facility constructed or expanded to serve residences in rural areas of aquatic rehabilitation zone one shall be: (1) Financially supportable at rural densities; and

(2) Conditioned to prohibit service of urban development.

Requires the Puget Sound action team to assess the effectiveness of nitrogen treatment provided by currently approved and alternative on-site sewage treatment technologies. The Puget Sound action team may consult with other federal, state, tribal, and local agencies in conducting this assessment. The Puget Sound action team shall submit a report documenting the findings of this assessment to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2005.

Requires the Puget Sound action team, in consultation with local and state health agencies, to conduct an inventory of on-site sewage systems operating in the Hood Canal watershed. HB 2086-S by House Committee on Select Committee on Hood Canal (originally sponsored by Representatives McCoy, Eickmeyer, Chase, Wallace, Blake, Linville, Morrell, Uptegrove, Appleton, and Hunt)

(AS OF HOUSE 2ND READING 3/11/05)

Recognizes the state's growth management act specifies in RCW 36.70A.110(4) that generally it is not appropriate to extend or expand urban governmental services, such as sewer systems, into rural areas.

Recognizes that RCW 36.70A.110(4) contains an exception to this general rule in those limited circumstances shown to be necessary to protect basic public health and safety and the environment when the facilities are financially supportable at rural densities and do not permit urban development.

Declares an intent to provide for an assessment of the efficacy of nitrogen reduction capabilities in existing and alternative on-site sewage treatment systems and an inventory of existing on-site sewage treatment systems in the Hood Canal vicinity to support development of sewage treatment solutions for this area.

Requires the Puget Sound action team to assess the effectiveness of nitrogen treatment provided by currently approved and alternative on-site sewage treatment technologies. The Puget Sound action team may consult with other federal, state, tribal, and local agencies in conducting this assessment. The Puget Sound action team shall submit a report documenting the findings of this assessment to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2005.

Requires the Puget Sound action team, in consultation with local and state health agencies, to conduct an inventory of on-site sewage systems operating in the Hood Canal watershed. HB 2095 by Representatives Roach, Ahern, Serben, Holmquist, and McCune

Authorizing the use of pharmaceutical birth control or tubal ligation in cases of children born alcohol or drug-affected.

Finds that the state has a compelling interest in protecting unborn children from the harmful effects of alcohol abuse and illegal drug use during pregnancy and that requiring pharmaceutical birth control or tubal ligation for women who are incapable for whatever reason of making long-term decisions in controlling their abuse of alcohol or use of illegal drugs is in the best interest of the mothers and their children.

Provides that a physician licensed under chapter 18.71 RCW primarily responsible for the supervision of the birth of an infant or care of the mother of the infant, or a hospital administrator, who has reasonable cause to believe an infant is alcohol or drug-affected or has been exposed to alcohol abuse or the use of illegal drugs shall: (1) Conduct appropriate tests to determine whether the infant is alcohol or drug-affected;

(2) Notify the department of the name and address of the parents of an infant who is alcohol or drug-affected; and

(3) Retain the infant in the birthing facility for medical treatment or place the infant in an appropriate pediatric care facility with the concurrence of the department for sufficient time for the infant to undergo withdrawal from the effects of the alcohol or drug.

Authorizes the department, upon receipt of a report under this act, to investigate and, in cases where a physician has determined the infant is alcohol or drug-affected, to file a petition in the superior court requesting the court to issue an order requiring the mother to abstain from alcohol or the nonprescription use of controlled substances, to submit to random testing by the department for such substances, and to attend alcohol or drug dependency treatment programs and counseling as determined appropriate by the department. If the evidence supports the physician's determination that the infant is alcohol or drug-affected and that the infant is alcohol or drug-affected as a result of the ingestion of alcohol or drugs by the mother, the court shall issue the order.

Provides that the department shall pay for pharmaceutical birth control or tubal ligation administered under this act if the mother's income is less than two hundred percent of the federal poverty level. The department shall report by December 1st of each year to the governor and legislature: (1) The number of physician reports under section 2 of this act received by the department;

(2) The number of cases where a physician has determined an infant is alcohol or drug-affected;

(3) The number of cases where involuntary or voluntary use of pharmaceutical birth control measures or tubal ligation was implemented and whether pharmaceutical birth control or tubal ligation was utilized; and

(4) The recidivism rate of subsequent births of alcohol or drug-affected infants.

Privatizing child support enforcement.

Finds that: (1) With increasing demands for public services and limited resources for additional state personnel, the state needs to be more effective and responsive in ensuring that parents meet their child support obligations; and

(2) Private and nonprofit entities are able to provide high quality services more cost-effectively than the state because of management flexibility and better access to technology.

Declares that the purpose of this act is to improve customer service, increase collection of child support owed to custodial parents, and improve the lives of affected children.

Requires that, by July 1, 2005, the secretary shall initiate a process under RCW 41.06.142 (1), (4), and (5) for the purpose of contracting with one or more private or nonprofit entities or employee business units, as defined in RCW 41.06.142, for services in administering all aspects of child support enforcement functions under this chapter and chapter 74.20A RCW. However, the requirement in RCW 41.06.142(1)(e) for determining savings or efficiency improvements shall be deemed to be satisfied if the successful bidder or bidders for the contract reasonably demonstrate the methods by which savings or efficiency improvements, or both, will be achieved.

Provides that, beginning December 1, 2007, and each December 1st thereafter, the secretary must report to the governor and the appropriate committees of the legislature on the operation and performance of the program contracted under this act. The report must include an assessment of the effectiveness and success of the contracted program in enhancing child support collection and provide any plans or recommendations for improving the effectiveness and success of the contracted program in achieving the purposes of this act.

Finds that the state has an interest in making it possible for courts to adequately and fairly conduct cases involving dependent persons who are victims of crimes.

Declares an intent, by means of this act, to insure that all dependent persons who are victims and witnesses of crime are treated with sensitivity, courtesy, and special care and that their rights be protected by law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, and judges in a manner no less vigorous than the protection afforded to other victims, witnesses, and criminal defendants.

Regarding dependency and termination of parental rights.
(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Finds that if the parent continues to demonstrate an inability or unwillingness to correct the deficiencies which led to the removal of the child, the child must not be placed in a situation in which he or she must live with uncertainty in his or her future.
Finds that there must be limitations upon the time a parent may be given to correct his or her parental deficiencies and that a parent must not be given repeated opportunities to have the child returned home when it is at the expense of the safety and stability of the child.

Authorizing the creation of a regional transportation improvement authority.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Finds that: (1) The capacity of many of Washington state's transportation facilities have failed to keep up with the state's growth, particularly in major urban regions;

(2) The state cannot by itself fund, in a timely way, many of the major capacity and other improvements required on highways of statewide significance in the state's largest urbanized area;

(3) Providing a transportation system that provides efficient mobility for persons and freight requires a shared partnership and responsibility between the state, local, and regional governments and the private sector;

(4) Timely construction and development of significant transportation improvement projects can best be achieved through enhanced funding options for governments at the county and regional levels, using already existing tax authority together with innovative funding approaches to address critical transportation needs and to provide authority for regions and counties to address transportation projects of regional and statewide significance; and Establishing a homeless housing program.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Finds that the fiscal and societal costs of homelessness are high for both the public and private sectors, and that ending homelessness is both morally and economically imperative.

Finds that there are many causes of homelessness, including a shortage of affordable housing; a shortage of family-wage jobs which undermines housing affordability; a lack of an accessible and affordable health care system available to all who suffer from physical and mental illnesses and chemical and alcohol dependency; domestic violence; and a lack of education and job skills necessary to acquire adequate wage jobs in the economy of the twenty-first century.

Finds that the support and commitment of all sectors of the statewide community is critical to the chances of success in ending homelessness in Washington. While the provision of housing and housing-related services to the homeless should be administered at the local level to best address specific community needs, the legislature also recognizes the need for the state to play a primary coordinating, supporting, and monitoring role.

Declares that the systematic collection and rigorous evaluation of homeless data, a search for and implementation through adequate resource allocation of best practices, and the systematic measurement of progress toward interim goals and the ultimate goal of ending homelessness are all necessary components of a statewide effort to end homelessness in Washington by July 1, 2015.

VETO MESSAGE ON HB 2163-S2

May 16, 2005

To the Honorable Speaker and Members,
The House of Representatives of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval as to Section 4, Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2163 entitled:

Section 4 requires the Governor to create a cabinet level interagency council to include at least seven state agencies. The section specifies that membership is to consist of the directors of those agencies, and does not offer latitude for those directors to delegate membership to staff. Unfortunately, the interagency council is just one of many work groups the Legislature has proposed this year requiring cabinet directors to participate in certain activities. Agency directors cannot do everything themselves and must be allowed to appropriately delegate certain tasks to staff.

Although I am vetoing this section, I am directing the directors of each of the seven agencies named in Section 4 of this bill to ensure that a senior staff member from their agency is clearly designated as that agency's lead on homelessness issues and designated to coordinate with the staff at the Department of Community Trade and Economic Development who will be developing the state's homeless housing plan.

For these reasons, I have vetoed sections 4 of Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2163.

With the exception of sections 4, Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2163 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Christine O. Gregoire
Governor

HB 2164 by Representatives Kagi and Dickerson

Regarding liability arising from acts or omissions of department of social and health services' workers.

Declares that, in an effort to protect the public health, safety, and welfare, the legislature has authorized and funded programs addressing child and elderly abuse and neglect and criminal offenders. The work undertaken by state employees and agents to deliver these important services requires them to make decisions based upon circumstantial evidence and measurable risk of harm associated with the available competing choices.

Declares that the legislature is obligated for policy reasons and fiscal responsibility to assure the state is accountable under fair and reasonable standards of negligence. The state cannot guarantee the safety of its citizens, particularly in cases of harm involving the criminal conduct of others. The legislature expects state workers to perform this difficult work nonnegligently, and does not intend to immunize the state for negligence.

Finds that the citizens of this state should not be liable when the state worker exercises reasonable care.

Concerning proceeds from the real estate excise tax.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Declares that, over the past decade, traditional school construction funding sources, such as timber revenues, have been declining, while the demand for school facility construction and improvements have been increasing. Washington's youth deserve safe, healthy, and supportive learning environments to help meet their educational needs.

Declares that, to increase state assistance for local school construction projects, the legislature expects to rely more on state bonding authority. The purpose of this act is to expand the constitutional definition of general state revenues by removing the dedication of a portion of the real estate excise tax for common schools. Nothing in this act is intended to affect the state's current efforts to support common schools in the state's omnibus appropriations act.

Allowing counties and cities one additional year to comply with the requirements of RCW 36.70A.130. (REVISED FOR ENGROSSED: Allowing counties and cities one additional year to comply with certain specified requirements of RCW 36.70A.130.)

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Acknowledges that only those jurisdictions in compliance with the review and revision schedules of the growth management act are eligible to receive funds from the public works assistance and water quality accounts in the state treasury. The legislature further recognizes that some jurisdictions that are not yet in compliance with these review and revision schedules have demonstrated substantial progress towards compliance.

Declares an intent to grant jurisdictions that are not in compliance with requirements for development regulations that protect critical areas, but are demonstrating substantial progress towards compliance with these requirements, twelve months of additional eligibility to receive grants, loans, pledges, or financial guarantees from the public works assistance and water quality accounts in the state treasury. The legislature intends to specify, however, that only counties and cities in compliance with the review and revision schedules of the growth management act may receive preference for financial assistance from these accounts.

HB 2255 by Representatives Conway, Simpson, and Wood

Making adjustments to improve benefit equity in the unemployment insurance system.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Finds that the unemployment insurance system, created to set aside unemployment reserves to be used for the benefit of persons who are unemployed through no fault of their own and to maintain purchasing power and limit the social consequences of unemployment, is falling short of its goals by failing to recognize the importance of applying liberal construction for the purpose of reducing involuntary unemployment, and the suffering caused by it, to the minimum, and by failing to provide equitable benefits to unemployed workers.

Recognizes the desirability of managing the system to take into account the goal of reducing costs to foster a competitive business climate.

Declares an intent to adjust the balance between these goals by reinstating the requirement for liberal construction and making other adjustments in the system that will allow reasonable improvements in benefit equity, including reinstating a weekly benefit calculation based on the wages in the two quarters of the claimant's base year in which wages were the highest.

Finds that these adjustments are critical to the health and welfare of unemployed workers, and to the purchasing power essential to the economic health and welfare of communities and the state, and should be implemented as soon as feasible.

Provides that, by October 1, 2006, and October 1, 2007, the employment security department must report to the appropriate committees of the legislature on the impact, or projected impact, of sections 2 and 3, chapter ..., Laws of 2005 (sections 2 and 3 of this act) on the unemployment trust fund in the three consecutive fiscal years beginning with the year before the report date.

Establishes the joint legislative task force on unemployment insurance benefit equity.

Requires the task force to review the unemployment insurance system, including, but not limited to, whether the benefit structure provides for equitable benefits, whether the structure fairly accounts for changes in the work force and industry work patterns, including seasonality, and for claimants' annual work patterns, whether the tax structure provides for an equitable distribution of taxes, and whether the trust fund is adequate in the long term.

Requires the task force to report its findings and recommendations to the legislature by January 1, 2006.

- HB 2260 by Representatives Skinner and Williams Establishing a moratorium on boarding home and adult family home licenses in Yakima county.
Finds that some areas of the state have a significantly higher capacity of licensed boarding home, adult family home, and nursing home beds than they have occupancy. In Yakima county, in addition to having significantly higher capacity than occupancy in boarding homes, adult family homes, and nursing homes, approximately seventy-eight percent of those receiving care in adult family homes, boarding homes, and nursing home beds are on medicaid. High vacancy rates, coupled with a high medicaid population in these care settings, can lead to quality of care issues and cost shifting to the private pay sector.
Declares that it is for this reason that a moratorium on licensing of new boarding homes and adult family homes should occur until a comprehensive study can be completed on occupancy rates and projected future need in boarding homes, nursing homes, and adult family homes.
Provides that, effective July 1, 2005, and for any application received after July 1, 2005, a moratorium exists on all new boarding home and adult family home licenses in Yakima county until June 30, 2007. The department of social and health services may issue a license to an applicant for operation of a boarding home or adult family home if the schematic plans or construction drawings for a proposed facility were submitted prior to July 1,

HB 2286 by Representatives Upthegrove, B. Sullivan, and Dunshee

Providing for a fair allocation of Dungeness crab resources.

Finds that Dungeness crab fishing is a major component of the recreational fishing experience in Puget Sound and the opportunity for quality recreational fisheries has steadily declined partially due to the continued inaccuracy of harvest estimates and a lack of timely receipt of harvest estimate data.

Finds that the department of fish and wildlife has chosen to impose restrictions on the recreational crab fishery in Puget Sound rather than to focus on the problem of improving data accuracy and timeliness of obtaining that data.

Finds that a reduction in the endorsement fee collected by the department of fish and wildlife is necessary to maintain a reasonable fee amount for the level of opportunity provided.

Declares that a license to take and possess Dungeness crab is only valid in Puget Sound east of the Bonilla-Tatoosh line if the fisher has in possession a valid catch record card officially endorsed for Dungeness crab. The endorsement costs one dollar and fifty cents, including any fees authorized under RCW 77.32.050, and deposited into the recreational Dungeness crab endorsement account created in this act.

Creates the recreational Dungeness crab endorsement account in the state treasury.

Provides that expenditures from the account may be used only for costs associated with the sampling, monitoring, and management of catch associated with the Dungeness crab recreational fisheries. Moneys appropriated under this act must supplement and not supplant other federal, state, and local funds used for Dungeness crab recreational fisheries management. Under no circumstances may moneys from the account be used to backfill shortfalls in other state funding sources.

Authorizes the legislative authority of a city or town in which a minor league baseball team plays in a community stadium to impose a tax of up to one cent on twenty cents or fraction thereof to be paid by the person who pays an admission charge to the events in the minor league baseball stadium. The tax authorized in this act may also be imposed on any parking charges or fees imposed in parking facilities associated with the community stadium.

Requires the revenue generated by the tax imposed in this act to be used solely for the purpose of paying for the operation, maintenance, repair, rehabilitation, financing, equipping, and reequipping of a community stadium and associated parking facilities. Companion Bill: 6087

Addressing health care liability reform.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Finds that access to safe, affordable health care is one of the most important issues facing the citizens of Washington state.

Finds that the rising cost of medical malpractice insurance has caused some physicians, particularly those in high-risk specialties such as obstetrics and emergency room practice, to be unavailable when and where the citizens need them the most. The answers to these problems are varied and complex, requiring comprehensive solutions that encourage patient safety practices, increase oversight of medical malpractice insurance, and making the civil justice system more understandable, fair, and efficient for all the participants.

Finds that neither of the initiatives, Initiative 330 or Initiative 336, contain comprehensive, real solutions to the problems they are attempting to solve, and for this reason, offers the following single alternative to both of these initiatives to the citizens of this state.

Declares an intent to prioritize patient safety and the prevention of medical errors above all other considerations as legal changes are made to address the problem of high malpractice insurance premiums. Thousands of patients are injured each year as a result of medical errors, many of which can be avoided by supporting health care providers, facilities, and carriers in their efforts to reduce the incidence of those mistakes.

Declares an intent to provide incentives to settle cases before resorting to court, and to provide the option of a more fair, efficient, and streamlined alternative to trials for those for whom settlement negotiations do not work.

Declares an intent to provide the insurance commissioner with the tools and information necessary to regulate medical malpractice insurance rates and policies so that they are fair to both the insurers and the insured.

Declares that this act constitutes an alternative to Initiative 330. The secretary of state shall place this act on the ballot in conjunction with Initiative 330 at the next regular general election.

Making comprehensive changes to health care liability laws.

Finds that the advances in medical technology, diagnosis, and treatment have resulted in great strides in maintaining and improving the health of Washingtonians. Yet those advances substantially increase the complexity of our health care delivery system and increase the risk that medical errors will occur.

Finds that our health care and medical liability systems are not structured to promote disclosure and analysis of medical errors, whether they result in patient harm or not. Each medical error provides an opportunity to learn how to avoid future errors.

Declares an intent to promote full disclosure of medical errors and adverse health events, and to use the experience and knowledge gained from analysis of those events to advance patient safety in a nonpunitive manner.

Intends to promote full disclosure of medical errors to patients by substantially reducing the risk of liability exposure associated with such disclosure.

Generating revenues to fund Initiative No. 728.

Recognizes that on February 3, 2005, the Washington state supreme court decided in Estate of Hemphill v. Dep't of Rev., Docket No. 74974-4, that Washington's estate tax is tied to the current federal Internal Revenue Code.

Studying the prospect of increasing affordable rental housing through accessory dwelling units.

(DIGEST OF PROPOSED 1ST SUBSTITUTE)

Establishes the joint select committee on accessory dwelling units.

Requires the committee to examine ways of increasing affordable rental housing through accessory dwelling units by: (1) Reviewing accessory dwelling unit ordinances adopted by jurisdictions planning under RCW 36.70A.040;

(2) Considering policies pertaining to the siting of accessory dwelling units, including policies permitting the units to be sited on all parcels where single-family residences are allowed; and

(3) Considering policies pertaining to occupant requirements, allowable floor areas, off-street parking, processing related permits, unit registration, and applicable state and local codes.

Directs the committee to report its findings and recommendations to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2007.

 Providing incentives to encourage affordable housing.

Finds that incentives offered to private developers are useful in creating public benefit amenities, including affordable housing, within private developments.

Declares that it is the purpose of this act to: (1) Increase the supply of affordable housing within jurisdictions subject to the growth management act;

(2) Promote infill development and diversity of housing within urban growth areas; and

(3) Rely on voluntary participation by private property owners through optional incentives rather than mandatory inclusion standards.

Requires all cities, towns, and counties planning under RCW 36.70A.040 to adopt or amend by ordinance and incorporate into their development regulations, zoning regulation, or other official control an authorization for density bonus incentives for the provision of affordable housing that apply to urban growth areas as designated under RCW 36.70A.110 and that are consistent with this chapter. Any other city, town, or county may adopt an ordinance authorizing density bonus incentives for the provision of affordable housing.

Declares that this act does not require or limit the provision of direct financial aid by the city, town, or county, the provision of publicly owned land, or the waiver or reduction of fees, including impact fees, or of dedication or exaction requirements required under the city, town, or county codes to assist the development of affordable housing.

Provides that the department of community, trade, and economic development shall within one year after the effective date of this act prepare and distribute to cities, towns, and counties that are subject to this chapter a model affordable housing density bonus incentives ordinance that is consistent with this chapter. The department may also prepare and distribute guidelines that are consistent with this chapter to assist cities, towns, and counties in complying with this chapter.

(AS OF HOUSE 2ND READING 2/13/06)

Encourages the development of affordable housing.

Finds that there is a large, unmet need for affordable housing in the cities and counties of Washington that is increasing every year.

Finds that many single-family residential neighborhoods were developed at an earlier time at densities less than the maximum allowable under current zoning regulations.

Finds that the growth management act requires increased densities in single-family areas, and that the rising costs of public facilities to accommodate growth coupled with insufficient revenues available for such facilities make infill housing within existing developed areas an economic necessity. The legislature concludes that allowing reasonable development of underutilized parcels of land within urban growth areas has significant potential to provide much-needed affordable ownership housing while also providing resources to existing property owners and their communities.

Declares that it is the purpose of this act to: (1) Increase the supply of affordable housing without government subsidies or the provision of additional public facilities;

(2) Encourage moderately priced for-sale housing in single-family neighborhoods and increase housing opportunities for people in a variety of life cycle stages; and

(3) Provide homeowners with an additional option for the portion of their property that is not required for the use of the existing residential unit.

Creating the public health improvement account.

Finds that the public health system as defined in RCW 43.70.575 is essential to fulfilling the state's responsibility to protect the health and safety of its citizens. The legislature further finds that local public health departments lack adequate resources even as their duties increase. Rather than risk catastrophic loss of life, the legislature further finds that local public health departments must immediately be given the resources to effectively implement the specific public health improvement standards concerning threats to our drinking water and food supplies, communicable disease, and other first-responder duties unique to local public health departments, pursuant to the requirements in RCW 43.70.520.

Declares that it is the intent of the legislature to clarify that the state auditor and the joint legislative audit and review committee are included within the exception to the provisions prohibiting disclosure of department of social and health services information.

Establishing a health care declarations registry.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Declares an intent to establish an electronic registry to improve access to health care decision-making documents. The registry would support, not supplant, the current systems for advance directives and mental health advance directives by improving access to these documents.

Declares an intent that the registry would be consulted by health care providers in every instance where there may be a question about the patient's wishes for periods of incapacity and the existence of a document that may clarify a patient's intentions.

Directs the department of health to establish and maintain a statewide health care declarations registry containing the health care declarations identified in this act as submitted by residents of Washington. The department shall digitally reproduce and store health care declarations in the registry. The department may establish standards for individuals to submit digitally reproduced health care declarations directly to the registry, but is not required to review the health care declarations that it receives to ensure they comply with the particular statutory requirements applicable to the document.

Provides that any physician, advanced registered nurse practitioner, health care provider acting under the direction of a physician or an advanced registered nurse practitioner, or health care facility, as defined in chapter 70.122 RCW or in chapter 71.32 RCW, and its personnel who make a good faith health care decision in reliance on the provisions of an apparently genuine and valid health care declaration received from the registry shall be immune from legal liability, including civil, criminal, or professional conduct sanctions, unless the physician, health care provider, or health care facility and its personnel have actual knowledge that the declaration has been changed, revoked, or is legally invalid or is otherwise negligent.

Provides that, except for acts of gross negligence, willful misconduct, or intentional wrongdoing, the department of health is not subject to civil liability for any claims or demands arising out of the administration or operation of the health care declarations registry established in this act.

HB 2343 by Representatives Moeller, Appleton, Hasegawa, and Roberts

Modifying juvenile waiver of rights.

Declares that parents have a fundamental interest in knowing if their child has been taken into police custody for questioning and where their child is being held. Because a parent or guardian is most often in a position to provide a juvenile with guidance in matters of great importance to a juvenile, it is the intent of the legislature to assist parents in their ability to aid and guide their children when making important legal decisions, including the decision to waive legal rights during custodial interrogations.

Declares an intent to provide children in police custody the opportunity to seek and receive consultation with his or her parents.

Requires that, when a law enforcement officer takes a juvenile into custody, the officer must make reasonable attempts to notify a parent, guardian, or custodian that the juvenile is in custody and where the juvenile is being held.

Provides that when a parent, guardian, or custodian requests to consult with a juvenile in custody and makes himself or herself immediately available, he or she shall be permitted to consult with the juvenile immediately upon his or her request, unless: (1) The juvenile objects to the consultation while in the presence of the parent, guardian, or custodian; or

(2) The parent, guardian, or custodian is a codefendant or victim of the juvenile.

HB 2351 by Representatives Morris, Hudgins, Murray, Takko, B. Sullivan, Morrell, Ericks, Sells, O'Brien, and Green Concerning energy resource planning and renewable energy standards.

Declares an intent to establish a goal of encouraging the construction and development of renewable energy in the state of Washington to meet increasing demands for affordable and reliable electricity. Since electricity supply may lag behind electricity demand, the result may be a sharp increase in electricity prices.

Finds that it is desirable to shorten the time it takes to bring new electricity generation to market. Washington is a leader in the development of renewable energy technologies and the legislature acknowledges that encouraging the development of renewable technologies in meeting increased electricity demand will create jobs for Washington's citizens.

Providing collective bargaining for family child care providers.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Declares that the purpose of this act is to improve access to and the quality of family child care services. Thousands of Washington families depend upon family child care providers to care for their children while the parents are at work or school.

Finds that to ensure that children receive the highest quality services from these providers, it is necessary to achieve and maintain a stable, well-trained work force. To accomplish these goals, it is the policy of this state to encourage family child care providers and licensees to have a voice in the development of child care assistance and other programs through collective bargaining and other joint activities.

HB 2353-S by House Committee on Commerce & Labor (originally sponsored by Representatives Pettigrew, Shabro, Kessler, Priest, Cox, Conway, Haler, P. Sullivan, Appleton, Walsh, Kenney, Green, Armstrong, Hasegawa, Kagi, Hunt, McCoy, Buri, Fromhold, Strow, Curtis, McDermott, Williams, Hudgins, Moeller, Sells, Lantz, Kilmer, Chase, McDonald, Morrell, Murray, Linville, Santos, Springer, Wallace, Dickerson, Roberts, Cody, B. (SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Provides that, in addition to the entities listed in RCW 41.56.020, this act applies to the governor with respect to family child care providers. Solely for the purposes of collective bargaining and as expressly limited under this act, the governor is the public employer of family child care providers who, solely for the purposes of collective bargaining, are public employees. The public employer shall be represented for bargaining purposes by the governor or the governor's designee appointed under chapter 41.80 RCW.

Declares that this act does not create or modify: (1) The parents' or legal guardians' right to choose and terminate the services of any family child care provider that provides care for their child or children;

(2) The secretary of the department of social and health services' right to adopt requirements under RCW 74.15.030, except for requirements related to grievance procedures and collective negotiations on personnel matters as specified in this act;

(3) Chapter 26.44 RCW, RCW 43.43.832, 43.20A.205, and 74.15.130; and

(4) The legislature's right to make programmatic modifications to the delivery of state services through child care subsidy programs, including standards of eligibility of parents, legal guardians, and family child care providers participating in child care subsidy programs, and the nature of services provided.

Provides that, upon meeting the requirements of this act, the governor must submit, as a part of the proposed biennial or supplemental operating budget submitted to the legislature under RCW 43.88.030, a request for funds necessary to implement the compensation and benefit provisions of a collective bargaining agreement entered into under this act or for legislation necessary to implement such agreement.

Declares that solely for the purposes of negotiated rule making pursuant to RCW 34.05.310(2)(a) and 74.15.030, a statewide unit of all family child care licensees is appropriate. As of the effective date of this act, the exclusive representative of family child care licensees in the statewide unit shall be the representative selected as the majority representative in the election held under the directive of the governor to the secretary of the department of social and health services, dated September 16, 2005. If family child care licensees seek to select a different representative thereafter, the family child care licensees may request that the American arbitration association conduct an election and certify the results of the election.

Declares that, in enacting this act, the legislature intends to provide state action immunity under federal and state antitrust laws for the joint activities of family child care licensees and their exclusive representative to the extent such activities are authorized by this act.

Solely for the purposes of collective bargaining and as expressly limited under this act, the governor is the public employer of family child care providers who, solely for the purposes of collective bargaining, are public employees. The public employer shall be represented for bargaining purposes by the governor or the governor's designee appointed under chapter 41.80 RCW.

Declares that this act governs the collective bargaining relationship between the governor and family child care providers, except as follows: (1) A statewide unit of all family child care providers is the only unit appropriate for purposes of collective bargaining under RCW 41.56.060.

(2) The exclusive bargaining representative of family child care providers in the unit specified in (a) of this subsection shall be the representative chosen in an election conducted pursuant to RCW 41.56.070.

(3) "Collective bargaining" means the performance of the mutual obligations of the public employer and the exclusive bargaining representative to meet at reasonable times, to confer and negotiate in good faith, and to execute a written agreement with respect to grievance procedures and collective negotiations on personnel matters, including but not limited to: (a) Economic compensation, such as manner and rate of subsidy and reimbursement, including tiered reimbursements; (b) health and welfare benefits; (c) professional development and training; and (d) labor-management committees. By such obligation neither party shall be compelled to agree to a proposal or be required to make a concession unless otherwise provided in this act.

Declares that this act does not create or modify: (1) The parents' or legal guardians' right to choose and terminate the services of any family child care provider that provides care for their child or children;

(2) The secretary of the department of social and health services' right to adopt requirements under RCW 74.15.030, except for requirements related to grievance procedures and

HB 2368 by Representatives B. Sullivan, Jarrett, Morris, and Springer

Authorizing development rights demonstration projects.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Finds that it is in the best interest of the state to find innovative and economically sustainable ways to protect the state's dwindling natural resource lands from development or other conversion from working lands or wildlife habitat.

Finds that working natural resource and wildlife habitat lands can be conserved through properly functioning transfer of development rights programs. However, to be successful, a transfer of development rights program must be established in a fashion that facilitates an economically robust market in which development credits from natural resource lands are in demand and can be traded openly in a market.

Finds that a number of geographically limited demonstration projects should be established to create a template for the protection of natural resources that can be emulated by other areas within the state.

Provides that the act shall be null and void if appropriations are not approved.

Authorizing a beaver relocation permit.

(DIGEST AS PASSED LEGISLATURE)

Finds that beavers have historically played a significant role in maintaining the health of watersheds in the Pacific Northwest and act as key agents in riparian ecology. The live trapping and relocating of beavers has long been recognized as a beneficial wildlife management practice, and has been successfully utilized to restore and maintain stream ecosystems for over fifty years.

Declares that the benefits of active beaver populations include reduced stream sedimentation, stream temperature moderation, higher dissolved oxygen levels, overall improved water quality, increased natural water storage capabilities within watersheds, and reduced stream velocities.

Finds that relocating beavers into their historic habitat provides a natural mechanism for improving the environmental conditions in Washington's riparian ecosystems without having to resort to governmental regulation or expensive publicly funded engineering projects.

Provides that, whenever the department undertakes the trapping of nuisance or problem-causing beavers, the department must, if the option is available, capture the beavers with a live trap and work with the holders of beaver relocation permits issued under this act to relocate the beavers onto properties that have requested their placement.

VETO MESSAGE ON HB 2381

March 28, 2006

To the Honorable Speaker and Members,
 The House of Representatives of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval, House Bill No. 2381 entitled:

House Bill 2381 would require Washington State's Department of Fish and Wildlife (WDFW) to issue a permit to individuals for the capture of live beavers in areas of the state where beaver populations are considered a nuisance. The permit also allows the transport and release of beavers within the state on property owned by the permit holder.

I understand that some landowners wish to have beavers released on their property, and that beavers can contribute positively to stream restoration and wildlife habitat. Certainly, in circumstances where relocation can be achieved without causing harm to adjacent properties, WDFW should be responsive, and should exercise its existing authority to trap beavers in problem areas and relocate them. The issue that House Bill 2381 addresses is not about the need for legislative authority so much as it is about receiving priority attention within WDFW.

While I am vetoing this bill, I have secured a commitment from WDFW to take three steps to be more responsive to landowner requests for beaver relocation.

WDFW has committed in writing to:

1. Instruct WDFW field staff to work more aggressively with interested landowners to relocate beavers on appropriate private properties where the benefits clearly outweigh the potential risks associated with future beaver-related damage;

2. The WDFW's Director will work with senior WDFW enforcement staff to identify a point person responsible for development and implementation of an effective beaver relocation process, and;

3. The WDFW will deliver to the Office of the Governor and all relevant legislative committees of the Washington State House and Senate, a report on beaver relocation activity conducted during 2006. The report will be delivered by January 1, 2007, and shall include information on the number of landowner requests for beavers, the number of requests that were filled, and the number of beavers actually relocated.

I believe these steps will address the underlying frustration behind House Bill No. 2381. I look forward to tracking WDFW's performance according to above-noted measures.

For these reasons, I have vetoed House Bill No. 2381 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
 Christine O. Gregoire
 Governor

Concerning the state geological survey.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

(3) Document, regulate, and maintain records on the state's geological resources;

(4) Promote general knowledge and awareness of the state's geology for educational and recreational purposes.

Requires the survey to prepare printed and published reports, pamphlets, charts, and maps embracing the matters addressed in this act. Addressing the impact of domestic violence on children.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Finds that there is a lack of common understanding among victim advocates, child welfare authorities, law enforcement, and the courts in dealing with the effects of domestic violence on families. Problems raised by domestic violence are compounded by differing perspectives about how to address its impact on families.

Finds that discussion and resolution of these perspectives is essential to the common goal of protecting children. Efforts to enhance the safety and support of nonoffending parents lead to increased safety and well-being for children.

Finds that in cases of child abuse or neglect, reasonable intervention should include routine screening for domestic violence and, in cases where domestic violence is indicated, reasonable intervention should also include a comprehensive assessment regarding the risk posed by the offender, and referrals to appropriate services and relevant intervention for every family member.

Acknowledges the efforts of the Washington state gender and justice commission in its work on the Washington state coordinated response protocol project and the template for coordinated response to child maltreatment and domestic violence.

HB 2395-S by House Committee on Juvenile Justice & Family Law (originally sponsored by Representatives Dickerson, Williams, Hasegawa, Darneille, Morrell, Roberts, Kagi, Flannigan, B. Sullivan, and Miloscia)

(AS OF HOUSE 2ND READING 2/09/06)

Finds that there is a lack of common understanding among victim advocates, child welfare authorities, law enforcement, and the courts in dealing with the effects of domestic violence on families. Problems raised by domestic violence are compounded by differing perspectives about how to address its impact on families.

Finds that discussion and resolution of these perspectives is essential to the common goal of protecting children. Efforts to enhance the safety and support of nonoffending parents lead to increased safety and well-being for children.

Finds that in cases of child abuse or neglect, reasonable intervention should include appropriate training for individuals in agencies involved with domestic violence, routine screening for domestic violence, and referrals to appropriate services and relevant intervention for every family member. The legislature acknowledges the efforts of the Washington state gender and justice commission in its work on the Washington state coordinated response protocol project and developing a template for regional and local protocols for coordinated response to child maltreatment and domestic violence.

Acknowledges the efforts of the Washington state gender and justice commission in its work on the Washington state coordinated response protocol project and the template for coordinated response to child maltreatment and domestic violence.

Provides that the department shall, in collaboration with experts in the field of domestic violence and advocates for victims of domestic violence, review its current policies and procedures for intake, risk assessment, referrals, and investigation to determine whether they provide an adequate and appropriate means of screening cases to determine the presence, extent, and impact of domestic violence on the health, safety, and welfare of the children who are the subjects of the reports of alleged abuse and neglect. The review shall include, but is not limited to, methods and tools for: (1) Identifying indicators of domestic violence;

(2) Interviewing techniques that do not increase the risk of danger to the adult victim of domestic violence or child;

(3) Identifying protective factors and behaviors that may reduce the risk of harm to the child;

(4) Appropriate interventions and referrals for members of the family.

Requires the department to report to the Washington state coordinated response protocol project by June 1, 2007, regarding the results of its review and what changes the department made or will be making to improve its screening and investigation of cases, to determine if domestic violence is a contributing factor to child abuse or neglect and any training needed to implement the changes. The Washington state coordinated response protocol project shall report the information received from the department to the legislature by July 1, 2007.

Regarding Washington's academic assessment system.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Requires the superintendent of public instruction to revise the Washington state accountability plan required under section 1111 of P.L. 107-110, the no child left behind act of 2001, to incorporate the following changes to the state academic assessment system: (1) Assessments administered in grades three, five, six, and eight shall assess students learning in reading, mathematics, and science as required by P.L. 107-110 without relying on subjective, open-ended extended responses to test questions; and

(2) The assessment system shall incorporate a combination of statewide and locally selected assessments, as permitted by P.L. 107-110, to provide options other than the Washington assessment of student learning for school district boards of directors to use in grades three, five, six, and eight.

Requires the superintendent to submit the proposed revised plan to the education committees of the legislature for review no later than the 2007 legislative session. After the legislature formally approves the plan through legislation or concurrent resolution, the superintendent shall submit the revised plan to the appropriate federal authorities in time to ensure locally selected assessments for use during the 2007-08 school year.

HB 2414-S by House Committee on Education (originally sponsored by Representatives Haler, Talcott, and McCune)

Regarding local control and flexibility in the state assessment system.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Requires that, before the beginning of the 2006-07 school year, the superintendent of public instruction shall request flexibility from the United States department of education to conduct a pilot project with a limited number of local school districts regarding the academic assessments administered for the purpose of complying with P.L. 107-110, the no child left behind act of 2001. The superintendent shall request the flexibility to pilot, with no more than six school districts and for a specified length of time, an assessment other than the Washington assessment of student learning in grades three, five, six, and eight for reading and mathematics. The purpose of the pilot project is to determine whether a different assessment provides greater local control and flexibility while maintaining the testing standards and continuity of student performance measurement expected by the federal law.

Provides that, if the request for flexibility is granted, the superintendent shall revise the Washington state accountability plan required under section 1111 of P.L. 107-110 to incorporate the pilot project into the plan, and school districts participating in the pilot project shall not be required to administer the Washington assessment of student learning in grades three, five, six, and eight in reading and mathematics during the pilot project. At the end of the pilot project, the superintendent shall evaluate whether the assessment under the pilot project can be used on a statewide basis to comply with P.L. 107-110 and shall forward findings and recommendations to the legislature and to the United States department of education.

Finds that while the rapid increase in housing values has exacerbated the affordable housing crisis, the phenomena has also dramatically benefited the state's general fund, the growth of which is directly attributable to increased proceeds from the real estate excise tax.

Declares that a portion of the increased revenue generated from the real estate excise tax must be used to support affordable housing programs that assist low-income households obtain and retain housing. It is the intent of the legislature to appropriate funds as follows: (1) For the energy matchmaker program, the amount appropriated in section 5(3) of this act in the fiscal year ending June 30, 2007;

(2) For the backlog of housing trust fund projects identified by the department as eligible under this chapter or chapter 43.185A RCW, the amount appropriated in section 5(1) of this act in the fiscal year ending June 30, 2007, and the amounts appropriated in section 5 (1) and (3) of this act in the fiscal years ending June 30, 2008, June 30, 2009, and June 30, 2010; and

(3) For the purposes and amounts identified in section 5 (2) and (4) through (9) of this act, the amounts appropriated in section 5 (2) and (4) through (9) of this act in the fiscal years ending June 30, 2007, June 30, 2008, June 30, 2009, and June 30, 2010.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Finds that Washington is experiencing an affordable housing crisis and that this crisis is growing exponentially every year as the population of the state expands and housing values increase at a rate that far exceeds most households' proportionate increase in income.

Finds that the fiscal and societal costs of the lack of adequate affordable housing are high for both the public and private sectors. Current levels of funding for affordable housing programs are inadequate to meet the housing needs of many low-income Washington households.

Requires the legislature to authorize a transfer of up to twenty-five million dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2006, into the Washington housing trust fund created in RCW 43.185.030.

Provides that the department must report to the appropriate committees of the legislature how appropriated funds were utilized on a county or city specific basis no later than December 31, 2007.

Provides that the interagency council on homelessness, as defined in RCW 43.185C.010, shall be convened not later than August 31, 2006, and shall meet at least two times each year and report to the appropriate committees of the legislature annually by December 31st on its activities.

Provides that the Washington homeless client management information system shall serve as an online information and referral system to enable local governments and providers to connect homeless persons in the data base with available housing and other support services. Local governments shall develop a capacity for continuous case management, including independent living plans, when appropriate, to assist homeless persons.

Requires the department, the housing finance commission, the affordable housing advisory board, and all local governments, housing authorities, and other nonprofits receiving state housing funds or financing through the housing finance commission to, by December 31, 2006, and annually thereafter, review current housing reporting requirements related to housing programs and services and give recommendations to streamline and simplify all planning and reporting requirements to the department of community, trade, and economic development, which will compile and present the recommendations annually to the legislature.

VETO MESSAGE ON E2SHB 2418

March 30, 2006

To the Honorable Speaker and Members,
The House of Representatives of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval as to Sections 9, 10 and 14, Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2418 entitled:

The Department of Community, Trade, and Economic Development (CTED) is required in Section 9 of the bill to conduct a study to evaluate the potential development of a voluntary statewide, low-income housing waiting list database. The database would include information on all low-income households requesting housing assistance, for the purpose of connecting such households with appropriate housing opportunities. CTED is also required in Section 10 to create or purchase, and implement by December 31, 2009, a master affordable housing database that includes specific information about existing affordable rental housing stock in the state of Washington. The activities outlined in Sections 9 and 10 of the bill are likely to create funding pressures for future biennial budgets.

Section 14 requires specific funding to be transferred from the General Fund to the Washington Housing Trust Fund by June 30, 2006, or the Act will be null and void. However, the transfer authorized by the Legislature in the Operating Budget bill occurs after June 30, 2006.

As funding provided in the Operating Budget related to this bill is insufficient, CTED will not be able to implement all of the activities contemplated. Notwithstanding this, CTED should do all that it can with the funding available to achieve the objectives of this bill.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Sections 9, 10 and 14 of Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2418.

With the exception of Sections 9, 10 and 14, Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2418 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Christine O. Gregoire
Governor

Companion Bill: 6245

Raising funds for hosting a national conference of statewide elected officials.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Finds that due to the massive devastation inflicted on the city of New Orleans by hurricane Katrina on August 29, 2005, the city of New Orleans will not be able to meet its obligation to host the national lieutenant governors' association's annual conference scheduled for July 17 through July 19, 2006.

Finds that, in recognition of the unprecedented situation created by this natural disaster, the high national visibility of this important event, and due to the limited amount of time remaining for planning and fund-raising, it is necessary to initiate fundraising activities for this national conference as soon as possible and with the assurance that all statewide elected officials, legislators, and authorized executive and legislative staff are allowed to solicit the necessary donations to effectively host this event.

of New Orleans will not be able to meet its obligation to host the national lieutenant governors' association's annual conference

Provides that, when soliciting gifts, grants, or donations solely for the purpose of hosting the 2006 official conference of the national lieutenant governors' association to be held in Seattle, Washington, as approved by the lieutenant governor of the state of Washington, the lieutenant governor, and his or her staff designated by the lieutenant governor for this purpose, are presumed not to be in violation of the solicitation, receipt of gift, and conflict of interests with official duties provisions in chapter 42.52 RCW. For the purposes of this section, the national lieutenant governors' association must include among its membership the Washington state lieutenant governor. The Finds that as the duties and responsibilities of the office of Finds that by consolidating the duties and responsibilities of sponsored by Representatives Kessler and Haigh; by request of Lieutenant Governor)

(AS OF HOUSE 2ND READING 2/09/06)

Finds that as the duties and responsibilities of the office of lieutenant governor have continued to incrementally increase, they have been distributed among various noncorresponding chapters in statute.

Finds that by consolidating the duties and responsibilities of the office of lieutenant governor under one chapter it keeps our statutes consistent among the different statewide elected offices and greater facilitates the understanding of the role of the office of lieutenant governor and its many statutorily defined duties and responsibilities.

 Providing funding for state and local parks.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Finds that the state parks and recreation commission has identified over three hundred million dollars in projects to eliminate the backlog of deferred maintenance projects, improve state park facilities, and provide new investments to implement the state park's centennial 2013 plan.

Finds that significant investments in state parks facilities are necessary to protect public health and safety, reduce current operating and maintenance costs, improve basic park services, and protect valuable cultural and natural resources.

Finds that revenues to the youth athletic facilities account to fund local parks projects have not materialized. Therefore, the legislature finds that new revenue sources are needed to support state and local parks for the benefit of all Washington citizens.

Provides that, in addition to the vehicle license fees required under RCW 46.16.0621, there shall be paid and collected at the time of initial or renewal registration for each motor vehicle an additional fee of five dollars. The fee shall be deposited as described in this act in the state parks renewal and stewardship account established in RCW 79A.05.215 and the state parks centennial account created in this act to be used for the operation and maintenance of state parks.

HB 2429 by Representatives Halder, Hasegawa, Talcott, Santos, and McCune

Regarding Washington's academic assessment system.

Declares that, since the passage of the federal no child left behind act in 2001, there has been rapid implementation of additional components to the state assessment system. As a result, a comprehensive analysis of Washington's assessment system following the implementation of the no child left behind act of 2001 has not been conducted. There has also not been adequate attention paid to how the system affects the authority and control of locally elected school directors. Therefore, the legislature intends to commission a comprehensive review of Washington's academic assessment system and ensure additional local flexibility within that system.

Requires the joint legislative audit and review committee and its contractor to submit a report containing the results of the review of the alternative assessment tools to the Washington assessment of student learning by September 30, 2006, and a final report covering the other subjects reviewed under this section to the education committees of the legislature by December 1, 2007.

Extending the moratorium on specialty hospitals.

Finds that, in recognition of the complex issues that are raised by the addition of specialty hospitals in communities throughout the nation, the federal government established an eighteen-month moratorium that effectively prevented the establishment of any new physician-owned specialty hospitals reimbursed under medicare and other federal health programs. During the moratorium several federal agencies and private research organizations reviewed the potential impacts of these types of hospitals on the health care system. Among the recommendations, the medicare payment advisory commission urged the continuation of the federal moratorium through January 1, 2007.

Finds that in Washington state a task force has been convened to review the certificate of need program and report to the legislature by November 2006. This task force will be providing recommendations on several topics specific to Washington state's certificate of need program including the appropriate coverage of specialty hospitals under the program. The legislature finds that it would be premature to take any action with respect to the regulation of specialty hospitals before the issuance of the task force report.

One pilot program shall be located in eastern Washington and the other in western Washington. The department shall administer the pilot project in coordination with blood bank resources currently operating in the state.

Reforming regional transportation governance.

Finds that increased demands on transportation resources require increased integration of decision making within urbanized regions. The number of agencies involved in transportation planning and delivery of services has significantly added to the complexity of transportation programs.

Finds that coordinated planning, investment in, and operation of transportation systems by the state and by local governments, can help ensure an efficient, effective transportation system that ensures mobility and addresses community needs. Improved planning, investment, and operation can also enhance local and state objectives for effective regional transportation strategies and effective coordination between land use and transportation.

Finds that it is the will of the citizens of Washington to have a single regional government council to assume responsibility for the metropolitan planning function and be the designated regional transportation planning organization for its area.

Declares that it is therefore the policy of the state of Washington to provide the authority for the citizens of the central Puget Sound counties to create a single regional government council, more directly accountable to the public, with adequate resources to develop and encourage implementation of a comprehensive transportation plan within the state's largest urbanized region.

Companion Bill: 6356
Establishing minimum labor standards for certain large employers as related to health care services expenditures.
(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)
Declares an intent to set minimum labor standards for some large employers in Washington state with respect to health benefit expenditures, and to further the state's interest in ensuring that its residents have access to appropriate health care services. Ensuring that employers do not eliminate employer-paid health care is important for minimizing the burden on taxpayers and the public health system, and protecting the health, safety, and well-being of the residents of Washington state.

Declares it is not the intent of the legislature to influence the establishment, content, or administration of employee benefit plans. The legislature is neutral as to whether employers covered under this chapter choose to meet the minimum expenditure standard by providing or reimbursing the costs of health care services for their employees or paying to the state the difference between the minimum expenditure and their actual expenditures.

Expanding the guidelines for identification documents.

Finds that: (1) The right to privacy is a personal and fundamental right protected by Article 1, section 7 of the Washington state Constitution and by the United States Constitution. All individuals have a right of privacy in information pertaining to them.

(2) Easy access to the information found on drivers' licenses and other similar identification documents facilitates the crime of identity theft, a crime that is a major concern in Washington.

(3) Washington has previously recognized the importance of protecting the confidentiality and privacy of an individual's personal information contained in identification documents such as drivers' licenses.

(4) The inclusion in identification documents of contactless integrated circuits or other devices that broadcast data or enable data to be scanned secretly and remotely will greatly magnify the potential risk to individual privacy, safety, and economic well-being that can occur from unauthorized interception and use of personal information. The inclusion of those devices will also make it possible for any person or entity with access to a reader to engage in the secret tracking of Washingtonians on an unprecedented scale.

Provides that a member of a disaster medical assistance team called into state service shall be afforded all the protections as an employee of the state and shall be considered an employee of the state for purposes of workers' compensation and death benefits, if the member: (1) Registers with and receives approval to serve on a disaster medical assistance team from the military department; and

(2) Provides direct medical care to a victim of a disaster or provides other support services during a disaster.

HB 2539-S by House Committee on Appropriations (originally sponsored by Representatives Schual-Berke, Morrell, Simpson, Roberts, Moeller, and Hudgins)

(AS OF HOUSE 2ND READING 2/14/06)

Declares that a "disaster medical assistance team" means any volunteer team designed to provide medical care during a disaster or other event and who have formed a response team under the guidance of the national disaster medical system which consists of professional and paraprofessional medical personnel and logistical and administration personnel who have been certified by the federal government to serve on such a team.

Provides that, in the event of an emergency or disaster or if there is reasonable cause to believe that an emergency or disaster is imminent, the governor may call a Washington disaster medical assistance team into state service.

Declares that a member of a disaster medical assistance team called into state service shall be afforded all the protections of this act, including the right to workers' compensation and death benefits, if the member provides direct medical care to a victim of an emergency or disaster or provides other support services during an emergency or disaster.

Directs the department to pursue an agreement with the federal government to allow the disaster medical assistance team to use the equipment and supplies available for federal service to be used in response to a call to service by the governor. If an agreement is executed under this provision and there is any use of the federal equipment and supplies, the governor shall include a request for funds necessary to reimburse the federal government in the next budget submission to the legislature. In the event that reimbursement to the federal government is necessary prior to the adoption of the next budget, the governor may reimburse the federal government in the manner described in RCW 38.24.010.

HB 2541 by Representative Schual-Berke

Regarding the release of student information.

Declares an intent that a school district, in adopting a policy pursuant to this act, not purposefully exclude any military recruiter from access to information. It is further the intent of the legislature, in the interest of student confidentiality, that school districts minimize the release of student telephone numbers and other directory information in the absence of express parental consent. The legislature finds that the nondisclosure of student telephone numbers and other directory information reduces the possibility of harassment of students and their families by organizations that receive student directory information.

Requiring the development of performance measures for emergency preparedness.

Requires the secretary to: (1) By December 1, 2006, develop a limited set of key performance measures for emergency preparedness and protection from communicable disease. The performance measures must provide a means to assess operations of the department and each local health jurisdiction with respect to providing an adequate and consistent level of statewide protection for the residents of the state in the event of an emergency that threatens public health or an outbreak of communicable disease.

(2) Develop a process for assessing the compliance of the department and each local health jurisdiction with the performance measures developed under this act at least biannually;

(3) Determine timely and appropriate remedial measures as provided in this act for any local health jurisdiction found not to be in substantial compliance with the performance measures developed under this act;

(4) Review spending plans submitted by local health jurisdictions under this act for meeting performance measures developed under this act; and

(5) Notify the governor immediately when funds for local health jurisdictions are inadequate for jurisdictions to maintain substantial compliance with the performance measures developed under this act.

Appropriates the sum of twenty million dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2007, from the general fund to the department of health for the purposes of this act.

Establishing an energy freedom program.

(DIGEST OF PROPOSED 1ST SUBSTITUTE)

Finds that: (1) Relying on foreign oil hurts our state's economy, citizens, and businesses;

(2) Experts tell us that the global oil shortage will only worsen, making the three dollars per gallon gasoline of summer 2005 seem affordable;

(3) Instead of leaving our economy at the mercy of global events, and the policies of foreign nations, Washington state should adopt a policy of energy independence;

(4) Each year, citizens and businesses in Washington state spend nine billion dollars on gasoline and diesel, with those funds drained from the state economy;

(5) The energy freedom program is meant to lead Washington state toward energy independence;

(6) The biofuels industry is a new and developing industry now limited by the availability of capital for construction of facilities for converting farm products into energy and fuels; and

(7) For biofuels to be economically viable in Washington, it will be necessary to grow dedicated crops, construct crushers near Washington farms, and build refineries to create fuel.

Declares an intent to reduce Washington's dependence on imported oil, expand renewable fuel production and use in Washington, help citizens and business conserve energy, and promote sustainable rural economic development by creating new jobs and stimulating business and economic activity in local communities across Washington.

Provides that, to accomplish this, the energy freedom program is established to stimulate strategic investment in facilities, infrastructure, and technologies that will advance Washington's move toward energy independence.

Makes an appropriation to carry out the purposes of the act.

HB 2556 by Representatives Hinkle, Condotta, Talcott, Serben, Rodne, and Shabro

Directing the department of social and health services to request a waiver to create a consumer-directed medicaid coverage plan.

Finds that there is a significant disconnect in the state's medicaid program between recipients and those delivering and paying for their care. Medicaid recipients are not empowered to make decisions regarding their own health care needs. Nor are there incentives for medicaid recipients to be prudent purchasers of health care. The legislature further finds that eight hundred fifty-four thousand individuals or fourteen percent of the state population are enrolled in the state's medical assistance program.
State spending for health care within the state's medical assistance program has grown by one hundred thirty-nine percent in the past ten years, and has risen from 6.5 percent of state spending in 1994 to 13.4 percent in 2007. This rate of growth is unsustainable and jeopardizes the state's ability to meet funding needs in such areas of budget priority as K-12 education, higher education, public safety, and employee compensation.

Finds that significant reforms must be made to the medical assistance program to control the program's growth in order to ensure its preservation as a vital safety net for the needy and vulnerable in our state. Marketplace principles and marketplace mechanisms must be introduced to the medical assistance program to encourage recipients to be active participants in their health care.

Directs the department of social and health services to submit a waiver request to the center for medicaid and medicare services under section 1115 of the social security act to initiate a waiver research and demonstration project. The waiver request shall create a consumer-directed medicaid coverage plan that includes personal health accounts and personal health incentives and provides for consumer choice.

VETO MESSAGE ON E2SHB 2575

March 29, 2006

To the Honorable Speaker and Members,
The House of Representatives of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval as to Section 6, Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2575 entitled:

I strongly support ESSHB No. 2575 and particularly its inclusion of language that protects an individual's right to appeal. Section 5(4) of the bill states that "nothing in this act diminishes an individual's right under existing law to appeal an action or decision of a participating agency regarding a state purchased health care program. Appeals shall be governed by state and federal law applicable to participating agency decisions." This is an important provision and one that I support whole-heartedly.

I am, however, vetoing Section 6 of this bill, which establishes an additional appeals process for patients, providers, and other stakeholders who disagree with the coverage determinations of the Health Technology Clinical Committee. The health care provider expertise on the clinical committee and the use of an evidence-based practice center should lend sufficient confidence in the quality of decisions made. Where issues may arise, I believe the individual appeal process highlighted above is sufficient to address them, without creating a duplicative and more costly process.

In the implementation of this bill, I expect the Health Care Authority, with the cooperation of participating agencies, to facilitate a timely and transparent process, to prioritize and manage the review of technologies within appropriated funds, and to meaningfully consider stakeholder feedback regarding the program and appeals processes. I further expect that the implementation of the Health Technology Assessment Program will be consistent with sound methods of assessment and the principles of evidence-based medicine.

I appreciate the Legislature's passage of this bill and have full confidence that it will help ensure that Washingtonians receive health care services that are safe and effective.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Section 6 of ESSHB No. 2575.

With the exception of Section 6, ESSHB No. 2575 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Christine O. Gregoire
Governor

Requiring classroom-based civics assessments.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Finds that instruction in social studies, arts, health, and fitness is important to ensure a well-rounded and complete education. In particular, the civic mission of schools is strengthened and enhanced by comprehensive civics education and assessments. Provides that, beginning with the 2008-09 school year, school districts shall require students in the fourth or fifth grades, the seventh or eighth grades, and the eleventh or twelfth grades to each complete at least one classroom-based assessment in civics. The civics assessment shall be selected from a list of classroom-based assessments approved by the office of the superintendent of public instruction. Beginning with the 2008-09 school year, school districts shall annually submit implementation verification reports to the office of the superintendent of public instruction documenting the use of the classroom-based assessments in civics.

To this end, the legislature intends to establish an additional eligibility status to average academic workload over an academic year, rather than in each quarter. This is not intended to alter the continued eligibility of those who continue to maintain half-time or more in each quarter.

Providing counties the ability to vacate county road rights of way.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Finds that the purpose of RCW 36.87.130 is to preserve for the public, for recreational or other purposes, existing access to bodies of salt or fresh water. Counties have no discretion regarding vacating all or part of a dedicated right of way regardless of whether it provides public access to a body of water. Therefore, certain rights of way encumber private property while not providing any existing public access to a body of water.

Declares an intent to enhance the ability of counties to balance the need to protect and preserve existing public access to bodies of water while providing counties the ability to vacate rights of way so long as doing so does not undermine or eliminate such access.

(DIGEST OF PROPOSED 1ST SUBSTITUTE)

Declares an intent to enhance the ability of counties to balance the need to protect and preserve existing public access to bodies of water while providing counties the ability to vacate rights of way so long as doing so does not undermine or eliminate such access.

Declares that no county shall vacate a county road or part thereof which abuts on a body of salt or fresh water unless the purpose of the vacation is to enable a county to implement a plan, adopted by resolution or ordinance, that provides no less than comparable public access to the same shoreline area to which the streets or alleys sought to be vacated abut, had the properties included in the plan not been vacated.

Applying the best available science under the growth management act.

Provides that, where a proposed critical area ordinance is based upon science that has yet to be replicated in a physical context similar to the one at issue, but is theoretically sound and otherwise meets the test for best available science, that science constitutes the best available science.

Declares that the requirement to consider the best available science under this act does not obligate a county or city to use science from a different physical context if the county or city determines that the science is not applicable to a specific local situation or physical context, even if it is the only available science.

Declares that the requirement to consider the best available science is a procedural, not substantive, requirement.

HB 2636 by Representatives Anderson, Rodne, and Dunn

Consolidating regional transportation agencies for efficiency and emergency evacuation planning purposes.

Recognizes that the scientific evidence and geologic record of the central Puget Sound region of the state is at high risk for catastrophic seismic events and that King, Snohomish, and Pierce counties represent over sixty percent of the state's economic activity.

Recognizes that destruction or significant disruption of the state's center of economic activity would have a long-term crippling effect on the economic and social welfare of all citizens of the state.

Finds that it is in the state's best interest for the safety and welfare of its citizens that regional transit authorities be organized and act as dual purpose entities serving both public transit needs and emergency evacuation and disaster response support in case of catastrophic natural and terrorism events.

Prioritizing basic education expenditures within the state appropriations process.

Declares that, under Article IX, section 1 of the state Constitution, it is the paramount duty of the state to make ample provision for the education of all of Washington's children. According to the state supreme court, this constitutional provision requires that the legislature define and fully fund a program of K-12 basic education before the legislature funds any other statutory programs. For these reasons, it is the intent of the legislature to require that all appropriations for K-12 basic education, together with appropriations for other K-12 education programs, be enacted into law before the legislature takes executive action on other omnibus appropriations legislation.

Modifying the valuation of motor vehicles for use taxation.

Finds that motor vehicle sales between private parties often involve transactions of motor vehicles where sales or use tax has already been paid.

Finds that requiring the payment of use tax whenever a transfer of ownership for a motor vehicle occurs is multiple taxation on the same product. This act is intended to reduce the use tax burden on sales of motor vehicles between private parties by requiring that the purchase price be used for measure of use tax liability.

Companion Bill: 6462

Providing biotechnology product and medical device manufacturing tax incentives.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Finds that the state's economy is increasingly dependent on the expansion of knowledge-based sectors, including the life sciences.

Finds that commercial enterprises in the life sciences create high-wage, high-skilled jobs that are part of the state's effort to encourage economic diversification and stability. However, the legislature also finds that commercial life sciences businesses, particularly in biotechnology product and medical device manufacturing, incur significant costs associated with capital infrastructure and job training often years before a product is licensed for marketing or a facility is licensed for manufacturing by governmental agencies in the United States and abroad.

Finds that current state tax policy discourages the growth of these companies in two ways: (1) Washington state's higher rate of taxation compared with other states and nations encourages the export of intellectual property and commercial operations out of Washington; and

(2) Taxing these businesses before facilities, or products produced therein, are licensed for marketing by regulatory agencies.

Finds that targeted tax incentives may encourage the formation, expansion, and retention of commercial operations within the life sciences sector. The legislature also finds that tax incentives should be subject to the same rigorous requirements for efficiency and accountability as are other expenditure programs, and that tax incentives should therefore be focused to provide the greatest possible return on the state's investment.

Establishes a program of business and occupation tax credits for qualified biotechnology product and medical device commercial expenditures.

Establishes a tax deferral program for commercial manufacturing facilities in this sector.

Provides preferential tax rates for retailing, wholesaling, and manufacturing activities related to biotechnology products and medical devices.

Declares that these limited programs serve the vital public purposes of incenting expenditures in commercial life science operations and the development of employment opportunities in this state.

Declares an intent to create a contract within the meaning of Article I, section 23 of the state Constitution as to those businesses that make capital investments in consideration of the tax deferral program established in this act.

HB 2641 by Representatives B. Sullivan and Upthegrove Concerning the trapping of wildlife.

Declares that the commission has the authority to manage the trapping of wild animals in Washington. This authority includes the ability to establish trapping seasons, prohibit the use of any trap type, establish prerequisites for the receipt of a trapping license, establish requirements for commerce in raw fur, establish required timelines for checking set traps, establish requirements for the handling, holding, transport, dispatch, and release of captured wildlife, and adopt any other rules deemed necessary by the commission for the management of wild animal trapping consistent with this act.

Requires a person to possess a department-issued Washington trapping license in order to lawfully trap wild animals throughout the state. Prior to being issued a trapping license, the person must satisfy the requirements of this act.

Declares that it is unlawful to knowingly buy, sell, barter, or otherwise exchange, or offer to buy, sell, barter, or otherwise exchange a wild animal, or the raw fur of a wild animal, that has been trapped in this state with a prohibited trap, unless the wild animal was trapped lawfully under this act. Raw fur from other sources may be bought, sold, or bartered consistent with any rules adopted by the commission.

Provides that the carcass of any animal captured in a prohibited trap may be donated to a public health or research institution.

Declares that a violation of this section is a gross misdemeanor.

Managing the health of the state's forest.

Declares that, to maximize the potential benefit to the educational system, the forests of the state must be actively managed and maintained, using modern silvicultural techniques and sound forest stewardship. When land managers fail at this mission, or have their efforts hamstrung by third party litigation roadblocks, the group that bears the cost is the state's children.

Finds that the state should make deeper investments in the health of its forests, provide local mechanisms to aid the state in its management duties, and require third parties that influence forest health management to reimburse the state's children for the costs inflicted upon the children.

Creating an affordable housing for all program.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Finds that there is a large, unmet need for affordable housing in the state of Washington.

Declares that a decent, appropriate, and affordable home in a healthy, safe environment for every low-income household by 2020 is a goal for state and local governments and all housing organizations and related vendors. Furthermore, this goal includes increasing the percentage of low-income households who are able to obtain and retain housing without government subsidies or other public support.

Finds that the continual systematic collection and rigorous evaluation of comprehensive data regarding the state's affordable housing stock and persons requiring affordable housing is critical to planning for and achieving the state's affordable housing goal.

Finds that there are many root causes of the affordable housing shortage and declares that it is critical that such causes be analyzed, effective solutions be developed, implemented, monitored, and evaluated, and that these causal factors be eliminated.

Finds that there is a taxpayer and societal cost associated with a lack of living wage jobs and affordable housing and that state and local governments must identify and quantify that cost.

Finds that the support and commitment of all sectors of the statewide community is critical to accomplishing the state's affordable housing for all goal.

Finds that the provision of housing and housing-related services should be administered at the local level. However, the state should play a primary role in: Researching, evaluating, benchmarking, and implementing best practices; continually updating and evaluating statewide housing data; developing a statewide plan to achieve the affordable housing for all goal; coordinating and supporting local government plans and activities; and providing quality management by monitoring both state and local government performance towards achieving interim and ultimate goals.

Declares that the systematic and comprehensive performance measurement and evaluation of progress toward interim goals and the ultimate state affordable housing goal of a decent, appropriate, and affordable home in a healthy, safe environment for every low-income household in the state by 2020 is a necessary component of the statewide effort to end the lack of affordable housing crisis.

Appropriates the sum of two million dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2007, from the general fund to the department of community, trade, and economic development, for the purposes of accomplishing the planning, data system creation, data collection, and program implementation activities of this act. Of the two million dollars appropriated, the department of community, trade, and economic development shall distribute one million dollars to the participating local governments using a formula to be determined by the department and be used for local planning, data system creation, data collection, and program implementation purposes.

HB 2673 by Representatives Linville, Ericksen, P. Sullivan, Buck, Ericks, Kilmer, Kessler, Grant, Walsh, B. Sullivan, Lantz, Morris, O'Brien, Conway, Morrell, and Wallace

Providing tools for local infrastructure financing.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Recognizes that the state as a whole benefits from investment in public infrastructure because it promotes community and economic development. Public investment stimulates business activity and helps create jobs; stimulates the redevelopment of brownfields and blighted areas in the inner city; lowers the cost of housing; and promotes efficient land use.

Finds that these activities generate revenue for the state and that it is in the public interest to invest in these projects through a credit against the state sales and use tax and an allocation of property tax revenue to those local governments that can demonstrate the expected returns to the state.

Provides that, beginning September 1, 2013, and continuing every five years thereafter, the joint legislative audit and review committee shall submit a report to the appropriate committees of the legislature. The report shall, at a minimum, evaluate the effectiveness of the local infrastructure financing tool program, including a project by project review. The report that is due September 1, 2028, should also include any recommendations regarding whether or not the program should be expanded statewide and what impact the expansion would have on economic development in Washington.

HB 2673-S by House Committee on Economic Development, Agriculture & Trade (originally sponsored by Representatives Linville, Ericksen, P. Sullivan, Buck, Ericks, Kilmer, Kessler, Grant, Walsh, B. Sullivan, Lantz, Morris, O'Brien, Conway, Morrell, and Wallace)

Requires a local government to provide a report to the department by March 1st of each year. The report shall contain the following information: (1) The amount of tax allocation revenues, taxes under section 401 of this act, and local infrastructure financing received by the local government during the preceding calendar year, and a summary of how these revenues were expended;

(2) The names of any businesses locating within the revenue development area as a result of the public improvements undertaken by the local government and financed in whole or in part with local infrastructure financing;

(5) That the local government is in compliance with section 203 of this act.

Directs the department to make a report available to the public and the legislature by June 1st of each year. VETO MESSAGE ON E2SHB 2673

March 23, 2006

To the Honorable Speaker and Members,
The House of Representatives of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval as to Section 702, Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2673 entitled:

The Office of Financial Management (OFM) is required in Section 702 to conduct a study of governance and selection criteria for the Local Infrastructure Financing Tool (LIFT) program. Section 702 reflects discussions that were underway before the Legislature passed the final version of the bill. In earlier discussions, before the Community Economic Revitalization Board (CERB) was identified as the lead agency, legislators considered having a study of governance issues underway while the projects in the LIFT program's project list were being developed. In the final version of the bill, however, governance and project selection criteria are identified, making the OFM study moot. In addition, the budget does not provide funding for the OFM study and OFM is not the lead agency on the LIFT program.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Section 702 of Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2673.

With the exception of Section 702, Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2673 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Christine O. Gregoire
Governor

VETO MESSAGE ON SHB 2688

March 30, 2006

To the Honorable Speaker and Members,
The House of Representatives of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval as to Section 2, Substitute House Bill No. 2688 entitled:

Local governments face challenges in providing health care benefits for retired members of the Law Enforcement Officers' and Firefighters' Retirement System Plan 1 (LEOFF 1). The cost of these benefits can be significant, especially for smaller jurisdictions. It is sensible for the state to assist local governments in their search for ways to address this obligation in the most efficient way possible. However, a thorough and careful review of options will take longer than provided in the bill, and will need to include a broader range of possibilities. The bill also charges a task force to study the use of excess pension assets to provide health care coverage. Notwithstanding potential legal barriers to this use of pension assets, the current financial situation of the LEOFF 1 pension plan clearly does not support this option.

While I am vetoing Section 2, I am directing the Department of Retirement Systems and the Health Care Authority to lay the groundwork for study of this issue, and to consult plan members and representatives of local governments in their work.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Section 2 Substitute House Bill No. 2688

With the exception of Section 2, Substitute House Bill No. 2688 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Christine O. Gregoire
Governor

Regarding a more rigorous curriculum for high school graduation.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Finds that, although students are being expected to meet higher academic standards as defined by the essential academic learning requirements, there is still a gap between what is required for high school graduation and the knowledge and skills students need to be successful in college or work. This gap has been confirmed by independent analysis by such organizations as Achieve.

Provides that, to assure that a high school diploma reflects adequate preparation for the intellectual demands of adult life, the legislature intends to create the expectation that all students enroll in a recommended high school program that includes a rigorous curriculum of study in English, mathematics, science, social studies, and an academic or career and technical concentration.

Directs the higher education coordinating board to review minimum admissions standards for four-year institutions of higher education and make recommendations to the legislature by December 1, 2006, regarding when the minimum admissions standards should include completion of the recommended high school program under this act.

(AS OF HOUSE 2ND READING 2/13/06)

Finds that, although students are being expected to meet higher academic standards as defined by the essential academic learning requirements, there is still a gap between what is required for high school graduation and the knowledge and skills students need to be successful in college or work. This gap is particularly noticeable in mathematics. To make progress in assuring that a high school diploma reflects adequate preparation for the intellectual demands of adult life, the legislature intends to phase in a more rigorous mathematics requirement for high school graduation.

Provides that, beginning with the class of students entering ninth grade in the 2008-09 school year, minimum high school graduation requirements shall include the equivalent of three credits of mathematics, including at least algebra I and geometry or their equivalents. Beginning with the class of students entering ninth grade in the 2012-13 school year, minimum high school graduation requirements shall include the equivalent of four credits of mathematics, including at least algebra II and geometry or their equivalents plus a higher-level mathematics course designed to prepare students for postsecondary studies so they can avoid remedial college mathematics.

Changing provisions relating to sex offenders.

Finds that: (1) Rape is one of the most terrifying and demeaning criminal acts an individual can perpetrate against another human being and the personal trauma and anguish suffered by the victims of rape and by their families can create devastating difficulties that often take a lifetime to overcome;

(2) The pain and complications caused by rape are even more severe where deadly weapons are involved, where the victim is kidnapped or receives serious physical injuries, where the perpetrator has wrongfully entered the building or vehicle where the victim is situated, or where the victim is under the age of twelve; and

(3) The severity of punishment for those who commit rape should be commensurate with the crime the perpetrators have forced upon their victims and strict penalties for such cruel and humiliating violations of a person's dignity and honor are both appropriate and just.

Declares an intent to ensure that the penalty imposed for rape in the first degree and rape of a child in the first degree is life in prison without the possibility of release so that the victims of such rape will be better able to lead lives free of fear knowing that the perpetrators of such crimes against them will never be able to harm them again.

Regarding the state interoperability executive committee.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Finds that local governments need to have interoperable communications to ensure the public safety and welfare of all citizens in the state of Washington. In light of recent catastrophic events around the world, including in the United States, it is now more important than ever that all responders be able to communicate clearly and without interference or malfunction.

Finds that the legislature has learned that numerous states, the federal government, and some international governments have adopted the project-25 standard for interoperable communications. Local governments in Washington have started to purchase the project-25 interoperable communication standard equipment. In order to ensure that local governments continue to make smart purchasing decisions, they need certainty that the purchases will be interoperable with state equipment and that the state will adopt the national project-25 standards. It is the intent of this act to provide certainty to local governments that a statewide project-25 interoperable communications system will be in place throughout Washington in the near future, and the investments they are making are advantageous to the original intent of interoperable communications, thus ensuring the safety and welfare of Washington's citizens.

HB 2726-S by House Committee on Appropriations (originally sponsored by Representatives Chase, Skinner, Kessler, Haler, Kilmer, Grant, Chandler, Blake, Clements, Linville, Newhouse, McCoy, Kristiansen, Kenney, and Wallace)

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Declares an intent that the state increase its support for delivery of modernization services to small and midsize manufacturers and leverage federal and private resources devoted to such efforts. It is the further intent of the legislature that the state facilitate the delivery of modernization services and: (1) Encourage small and midsize firms to aggregate their demand for training and other modernization services, thus driving down the cost to the individual firm and securing more effective services; and

(2) Encourage large firms to support training consortia among their suppliers and validate the importance of high performance work organization and workplace learning as desirable supplier practices.

Providing a salary bonus for teachers who have professional certification.

Finds that the professional certification process required of new teachers and experienced teachers from out-of-state is intended to advance their teaching skills and demonstrate their ability to improve student learning.

Finds that professional certification is a rigorous and demanding process, yet the state salary schedule does not recognize these advanced skill levels. Furthermore, teachers often pay substantial costs to complete the programs, but are not reimbursed for their expenses.

Declares an intent to address these inequities by providing a bonus for all teachers who have achieved professional certification.

HB 2731 by Representatives O'Brien, Strow, and Ericks

Regarding advanced certification and education for teachers.

Finds that advanced certification and education for teachers should focus on deepening teachers' knowledge in the academic content area in which they instruct.

Finds that current professional certification programs fail to provide adequate focus on academic content, instead offering general and often repetitive coursework in classroom management, learning theory, personal growth, and other topics. Moreover, professional certification programs vary widely depending on the college or university offering them. Professional certification does not provide sufficient additional value to a teacher's knowledge and skills to warrant being required of all teachers.

Declares an intent to remove the mandate of professional certification for teachers and replace it with an incentive for teachers to obtain advanced education in a specific content area.

Concerning applications for forest practices. (REVISED FOR ENGROSSED: Concerning forest practices.)

(AS OF HOUSE 2ND READING 2/13/06)

Finds that: (1) Local governments are the appropriate place for land use changes to be considered and for ordinances to be implemented that relate to the clearing and grading of land, local services, and critical areas;

(2) The department of natural resources implements the forest practices act and the forest practices rules;

(3) The department of ecology is responsible for protection of water quality;

(4) It is in the best interests of the state that forest landowners keep their land in forestry;

(5) Working forests are vital to the economic and environmental health of the state;

(6) Processes are in place which allow a landowner to convert forest land to another use or maintain the option to convert forest land at a later date;

(7) Laws governing conversion of forest land to other uses and regulatory jurisdiction over such forest practices have been in place for more than eight years; and

(8) It is clear that at times in some places in the state these laws, and associated administrative processes, have unnecessarily complicated landowners' ability to carry out forest practices.

Requires the department of natural resources to provide a report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by October 31, 2006, including recommendations for changes to laws and administrative processes.

(2) Many soldiers returning to their families and communities face transition problems in areas such as family reunification, employment, education, and health;

(3) While the Washington state department of veterans affairs has provided services to many returning soldiers, a significant number have returned to families and communities without continuing ties to the military department or veterans' administration, but still in need of help; and

(4) Our state needs to honor and serve those who have protected our security and safety.

Creates in the department a veterans innovations program, which consists of the defenders' fund and the competitive grant program. The purpose of the veterans innovations program is to provide crisis and emergency relief and education, training, and employment assistance to veterans and their families in their communities.

Creates the defenders' fund to provide assistance to members of the Washington national guard and reservists who served in Operation Enduring Freedom, Operation Iraqi Freedom, or Operation Noble Eagle, and who are experiencing financial hardships in employment, education, housing, and health care due to the significant period of time away from home serving our country. The program shall be administered by the department. Eligibility determinations shall be made by the department. Eligible veterans may receive a one-time grant of no more than five hundred dollars.

Creates the competitive grant program to fund innovative initiatives to provide crisis and emergency relief, education, training, and employment assistance to veterans and their families in their communities.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Finds that protecting the public health, safety, and welfare by providing services to needy or vulnerable persons is a fundamental purpose of government. The legislature further finds that private nonprofit corporations fill an important public purpose in providing these types of health, safety, and welfare services to our state's residents. Acting through partnerships with governmental entities, these private sector providers are able to increase the amount and quality of these services available to state residents.

Finds that ensuring continued provision of these services in the private sector confers a valuable benefit on the public that constitutes consideration for transfer of certain public property and facilities to eligible private nonprofit corporations, subject to restrictions that provide continued protection of the public interest.

Provides that public bodies, as defined in RCW 43.99C.020, may transfer real property and facilities acquired, constructed, or otherwise improved under chapter 43.99C RCW to nonprofit corporations organized to provide services for individuals with sensory, physical, or mental handicaps. Companion Bill: 6764

Streamlining the administration of tax incentive programs.

Finds that the state's retail sales tax on construction discourages capital investment by new and existing Washington businesses. Without relief from the state's retail sales tax on construction, Washington businesses in certain sectors and areas will be adversely impacted. The legislature recognizes the importance of such businesses for employment and economic development in Washington state.

Reaffirms that policies providing tax incentives for manufacturing and research and development businesses in these distressed areas are essential to promote economic stimulation, economic growth, and new employment opportunities in these distressed areas.

Reaffirms that high-technology businesses are a vital and growing source of high-wage, high-skilled jobs in this state, and that the high-technology sector is a key component of the state's effort to encourage economic diversification. The legislature found that many high-technology businesses incur significant costs associated with research and development and pilot scale manufacturing many years before a marketable product can be produced, and that current state tax policy discourages the growth of these companies by taxing them long before they become profitable. The legislature reaffirms that stimulating growth of high-technology businesses early in their development cycle, when they are turning ideas into marketable products, will build upon the state's established high-technology base, creating additional research and development jobs and subsequent manufacturing facilities.

Reaffirms that state policies providing tax incentives for economic growth in the fruit and vegetable processing industry are essential.

Declares that tax incentives should be subject to the same rigorous requirements for efficiency and accountability as are other expenditure programs, and that tax incentives should therefore be focused to provide the greatest possible return on the state's investment.

Repeals various provisions.

Companion Bill: 6501

Creating the Washington bioenergy loan program.

Finds that: (1) Washington's dependence on energy supplied from outside the state and volatile global energy markets makes its economy and citizens vulnerable to unpredictable and high energy prices;

(2) Washington's dependence on petroleum-based fuels increases energy costs for citizens and businesses;

(3) Diesel soot from diesel engines ranks as the highest toxic air pollutant in Washington, leading to hundreds of premature deaths and increasing rates of asthma and other lung diseases;

(4) The use of biodiesel results in significantly less air pollution than traditional diesel fuels;

(5) Improper disposal and treatment of organic waste from farms and livestock operations can have a significant negative impact on water quality;

(6) Washington has abundant supplies of organic wastes from farms that can be used for energy production and abundant farmland where crops could be grown to supplement or supplant petroleum-based fuels;

(7) The use of energy and fuel derived from these sources can help citizens and business conserve energy and reduce the use of petroleum-based fuels, would improve air and water quality in Washington, reduce environmental risks from farm wastes, create new markets for farm products, and provide new industries and jobs for Washington citizens; and

(8) The bioenergy industry is a new and developing industry that is, in part, limited by the availability of capital for the construction of facilities for converting farm and forest products into energy and fuels.

Finds that it is in the public interest to encourage the rapid adoption and use of bioenergy, to develop a viable bioenergy industry within Washington state, and to support a viable agriculture industry to grow bioenergy crops. To accomplish this, the Washington bioenergy loan program is established to stimulate the construction of facilities in Washington to generate energy from farm sources or convert organic matter into fuels.

Companion Bill: 6475

Authorizing alternative methods of assessment and appeal processes for the certificate of academic achievement.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Requires that, under RCW 28A.655.061, beginning in the 2006-07 school year, the superintendent of public instruction shall implement two objective alternative assessment methods for students to demonstrate achievement of the state standards in content areas in which the student did not meet the standard on the high school Washington assessment of student learning.

Provides that the alternative methods shall include: (1) A combination of a student's grades in applicable courses and the student's highest score on the high school Washington assessment of student learning; and

(2) An evaluation of a collection of work samples. The evaluation of the work samples shall be conducted at the state level or regionally under the supervision of the office of the superintendent of public instruction using uniform scoring criteria.

Directs the superintendent of public instruction to implement:

(1) By June 1, 2006, a process for students to appeal the score they received on the high school assessment; and

(2) By January 1, 2007, guidelines and appeal processes for waiving specific requirements in RCW 28A.655.061 pertaining to the certificate of academic achievement and to the certificate of individual achievement for students who: (a) Transfer to a Washington public school in their junior or senior year with the intent of obtaining a public high school diploma, or (b) have special, unavoidable circumstances.

HB 2785-S by House Committee on Education (originally sponsored by Representatives Quall, Tom, P. Sullivan, Hunter, Morrell, Nixon, Rodne, Roberts, Schual-Berke, Simpson, Springer, Sells, Lantz, Linville, Dunshee, and Kagi; by request of Superintendent of Public Instruction)

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Requires that, under RCW 28A.655.061, beginning in the 2006-07 school year, the superintendent of public instruction shall implement three objective alternative assessment methods for students to demonstrate achievement of the state standards in content areas in which the student did not meet the standard on the high school Washington assessment of student learning. A student may access an alternative if the student meets applicable eligibility criteria in RCW 28A.655.061 and other eligibility criteria established by the superintendent of public instruction, including but not limited to a ninety-five percent minimum attendance criterion and required participation in remediation programs or instruction.

Declares that the primary alternative assessment method shall be a combination of the applicant's grades in applicable courses and the applicant's highest score on the high school Washington assessment of student learning, as provided in this act.

Requires the superintendent of public instruction to also develop an alternative assessment method that shall be an evaluation of a collection of work samples prepared and submitted by the applicant, as provided in this act.

Provides that, for students enrolled in a career and technical education program approved under this act, the superintendent of public instruction shall develop a collection of work samples that:

(1) Is relevant to the student's particular career and technical program;

(2) Focuses on the application of academic knowledge and skills within the program;

(3) Includes completed activities or projects where demonstration of academic knowledge is inferred; and

(4) Is related to the essential academic learning requirements and state standards that students must meet to earn a certificate of academic achievement or certificate of individual achievement, but also represents the knowledge and skills that successful individuals in the career and technical field of the approved program are expected to possess.

Directs the superintendent of public instruction to implement:

(1) By June 1, 2006, a process for students to appeal the score they received on the high school assessment; and

(2) By January 1, 2007, guidelines and appeal processes for waiving specific requirements in RCW 28A.655.061 pertaining to the certificate of academic achievement and to the certificate of individual achievement for students who: (a) Transfer to a Washington public school in their junior or senior year with the intent of obtaining a public high school diploma, or (b) have special, unavoidable circumstances.

Requires that, by September 2006, the superintendent of public instruction shall report the following, in detail, to the education committees of the legislature: (1) Results of the pilot testing of the alternative assessments authorized under this act;

(2) The proposed guidelines, protocols, and procedures to be used by the superintendent in implementing the alternative assessments, particularly the collection of evidence;

(3) A description of the training to be provided for school districts, educators serving on scoring panels, and teachers assisting students with collections of evidence; and

(4) Updated estimates of the number of students likely to be eligible or apply for either alternative assessment method.

HB 2785-S2 by House Committee on Appropriations (originally sponsored by Representatives Quall, Tom, P. Sullivan, Hunter, Morrell, Nixon, Rodne, Roberts, Schual-Berke, Simpson, Springer, Sells, Lantz, Linville, Dunshee, and Kagi; by request of Superintendent of Public Instruction)

(AS OF HOUSE 2ND READING 2/09/06)

Provides that a student may access an alternative if the student meets applicable eligibility criteria in RCW 28A.655.061 and other eligibility criteria established by the superintendent of public instruction, including but not limited to a ninety-five percent minimum attendance criterion and required participation in remediation programs or instruction.

Requires the superintendent of public instruction to develop a list of approved career and technical education programs that qualify for the objective alternative assessment for career and technical students developed under this act. Programs on the list must meet the following minimum criteria: (1) Lead to a certificate or credential that is state or nationally recognized by trades, industries, or other professional associations as necessary for employment or advancement in that field;

(2) Require a sequenced progression of multiple courses, both exploratory and preparatory, that are vocationally intensive and rigorous; and

(3) Have a high potential for providing the program completer with gainful employment or entry into a postsecondary work force training program.

Provides that, by September 2006, the superintendent of public instruction shall report the following, in detail, to the education committees of the legislature: (1) Results of the pilot testing of the alternative assessments authorized under this act;

(2) The proposed guidelines, protocols, and procedures to be used by the superintendent in implementing the alternative assessments, particularly the collection of evidence;

(3) A description of the training to be provided for school districts, educators serving on scoring panels, and teachers assisting students with collections of evidence; and

(4) Updated estimates of the number of students likely to be eligible or apply for either alternative assessment method.

Provides that, if specific funding for the purposes of section 5 of this act, referencing this act by bill or chapter number is not provided by June 30, 2006, in the omnibus appropriations act, section 5 of this act is null and void.

Adding new restrictions in reading and handling identification documents.

Declares that Washington state recognizes the importance of protecting the confidentiality and privacy of an individual's personal information contained in identification documents such as driver's licenses.

Declares that machine-readable features found on driver's licenses and other similar identification documents are intended to facilitate verification of identity, not to facilitate collection of personal information about individuals, nor to facilitate the creation of private data bases of transactional information associated with those individuals.

Declares that easy access to the information found on driver's licenses and other similar identification documents facilitates the crime of identity theft, a crime that is a major concern in Washington.

Provides that use of machine-readable features on identification documents for purposes other than verification of identity constitutes an unreasonable infringement of privacy and is an unfair business practice.

Creating a putative father registry.

Recognizes the importance of having both a child's mother and father be a part of decisions made about a child's future.

Recognizes that many children are born out of wedlock, which demonstrates a need for an effective process to keep track of claims of paternity for these children.

Finds that the uniform parentage act of 2002 includes the creation of a paternity registry for men who wish to be notified of proceedings involving young children that they may have fathered.

Finds that the creation of a paternity registry will assist in both protecting a putative father's rights in a termination of parental rights proceeding and in facilitating infant adoptions in the state.

Declares an intent to restore the ability to impose an aggravated sentence lost by the superior court as a result of the decision of the United States supreme court in Blakely v. State of Washington, 542 U.S. 296 (2004). The legislature finds that as the seriousness level of the crime and the criminal history of the offender increase, the need for an individualized and informed assessment of the circumstances of the crime, the offender, and the victim, by the judiciary, is necessary for justice to be obtained. The legislature further finds that the exercise of the judiciary's sentencing discretion over a broader range based upon the assessment of these circumstances is consistent with the policies supporting Washington's sentencing reform act.

Expanding provisions relating to missing persons.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Declares an intent to build upon the research and findings of the Washington state missing persons task force, assembled by the state attorney general in 2003, the United States department of justice, and others to aid in recovery of missing persons and the identification of human remains.

Requires the Washington association of sheriffs and police chiefs, in consultation with the Washington association of county officials, the Washington association of coroners and medical examiners, the forensic investigations council, the Washington state patrol, and other interested agencies and individuals, to convene a committee to coordinate the use of the latest technology and available science to improve reporting of missing persons, to improve the communication within the state and with national data bases, to enhance the dissemination of information to other agencies and the public, and to improve reporting for missing persons and the collection and preservation of evidence.

Provides that protocols for the investigation of reported missing persons, identification of human remains, and recommended protocols for the reporting and identification of persons missing as the result of major events not limited to tsunami, earthquake, or acts of terrorism shall be endorsed by the groups named in this act who shall then seek the voluntary adoption of the same by all local law enforcement agencies, coroners, medical examiners, and others charged with locating missing persons or identifying human remains.

Provides that any biological sample taken from a known missing person under RCW 68.50.320 shall be forwarded to the federal bureau of investigation within seventy-two hours upon receipt of the DNA samples. The crime laboratory of the state patrol will conduct nuclear DNA testing of the biological sample and, in the event additional testing is required, the mitochondrial DNA testing will be conducted through the federal bureau of investigation, as long as it is available on a timely basis and delays do not further endanger the missing person involved. If substantial delays in testing occur or federal testing is no longer available, the legislature should provide funding to implement mitochondrial technology in the state of Washington.

Requires the department of health to maintain PKU tests of infants for DNA testing in the event the infant requires identification at a later date. There shall be a repository in every county where voluntary DNA swabs are maintained.

Directs the department to establish rules governing disclosure of test materials solely for the purpose of identification of a missing person or identification of human remains and to prohibit their use for any other purpose.

Provides that the act shall be null and void if appropriations are not approved.

Companion Bill: 6419

Creating pilot projects for dental hygienists.

Declares an intent to address the problem of access to preventive oral health care services by providing five pilot projects that allow dental hygienists to practice within the current scope of practice without the supervision of a dentist.

Establishes the access to preventive care pilot projects. The secretary of health is authorized to create five pilot projects in dentally underserved areas of the state whereby dental hygienists are authorized to practice within the current scope of practice in RCW 18.29.050, without the supervision of a dentist. These pilot projects are effective for three years after the effective date of this section. The secretary of health, in consultation with the dental hygiene examining committee, shall adopt rules to implement this act.

Declares that the goals of the pilot projects are to: (1) Open access to preventive oral health care services delivered by dental hygienists;

(2) Collect data of patients treated by dental hygienists, including age, treatments rendered, insurance coverage, if any, and patient referral to dentists;

(3) Evaluate independently managed dental hygiene practices in increasing the patient flow to dentists, thereby improving dental care; and

(4) Examine the ways in which the pilot projects affect access to preventive oral health care for underserved persons.

Directs the secretary of health, in consultation with the Washington state dental hygienists' association, to provide a report to the legislature by December 1, 2009, evaluating the outcome of the pilot projects.

HB 2860-S by House Committee on Economic Development, Agriculture & Trade (originally sponsored by Representatives Grant, Newhouse, Hankins, Haler, Walsh, and McCune)

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Declares that a Columbia river basin water supply development program is needed, and directs the department of ecology to aggressively pursue the development of cost-effective water supplies to benefit both instream and out-of-stream uses.

Provides that, to support the development of new water supplies in the Columbia river, the department of ecology shall work with all interested parties, including but not limited to, interested watershed planning groups working adjacent to the Columbia river and tribal governments, to develop a Columbia river water supply inventory. The inventory must include: (1) A list of potential conservation and storage projects in the Columbia river basin;

HB 2871 by Representatives Murray, Dickerson, Appleton, and Simpson

Creating a regional transportation commission.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Creates a regional transportation commission.

Repeals provisions of chapter 36.120 RCW.

HB 2871-S by House Committee on Transportation (originally sponsored by Representatives Murray, Dickerson, Appleton, and Simpson)

Creating a regional transportation commission. (REVISED FOR ENGROSSED: Modifying regional transportation governance provisions.)

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Finds that effective transportation planning in urbanized regions requires stronger and clearer lines of responsibility and accountability.

Finds that integrated, multimodal transportation planning will help reduce transportation congestion and improve safety, and that streamlined decision making will help reduce political congestion.

Finds that coordinated planning of, investment in, and operation of transportation systems will have significant benefit to the citizens of Washington, and that it is the will of the people to fund regional transportation solutions, including improving transit service in urbanized areas and among existing, fragmented transit agencies in the region. Although equity considerations must be respected, transportation problems are broader and deeper than the sum of geographic subareas.

Declares that it is therefore the policy of the state of Washington to create a regional transportation commission to develop a proposal for a regional transportation governing entity more directly accountable to the public, and to develop a comprehensive regional transportation finance plan for the citizens of the Puget Sound metropolitan region.

Declares that the commission has the following duties: (1) Evaluate transportation governance in the central Puget Sound area within the jurisdiction of the Puget Sound regional council. The commission shall assess and develop recommendations for what steps should be taken to: (a) Consolidate governance among agencies, including changes in institutional powers, structures, and relationships and governance needed to improve accountability for transportation decisions, while enhancing the regional focus for transportation decisions and maintaining equity among citizens in the region; (b) improve coordination in the planning of transportation investments and services; (c) improve investment strategies; (d) coordinate transportation planning and investments with adopted land use policies within the region; (e) enhance efficiency and coordination in the delivery of services provided; (f) adjust boundaries for agencies or functions within the region to address existing and future transportation and land use issues; and (g) improve coordination between regional investments and federal funds, and state funding, including those administered by the transportation improvement board, the county road administration board, and the freight mobility strategic investment board;

(2) Develop a regional transportation governance proposal that includes, at a minimum, the formation of a regional transportation governing entity, of which all or a majority of its members must be directly elected, the revenue sources that will be available to such entity, and the scope of planning authority of such entity;

(3) Publicize the commission's proposal referenced in this act by November 15, 2006, and provide at least fifteen days for public comment;

(4) Adopt the proposal referenced in this act and submit it to the legislature by January 1, 2007;

(5) Develop a comprehensive, integrated transportation finance plan for the metropolitan Puget Sound region to be submitted to the affected voters by the regional transportation governing entity;

(6) Conduct public meetings to assure active public participation in the development of the proposal referenced in this act and the regional transportation finance plan referenced in this act.

Provides that, prior to a regional transportation public vote, the department of transportation must complete all of the following requirements for both the Alaskan Way viaduct and Seattle Seawall replacement project, and the state route number 520 bridge replacement and HOV project: (1) In accordance with the national environmental policy act, the department must designate the preferred alternative, prepare a substantial project mitigation plan, and complete a comprehensive cost estimate review using the department's cost estimate validation process, for each project;

(2) In accordance with all applicable federal highway administration planning and project management requirements, the department must prepare a project finance plan for each project that clearly identifies secured and anticipated fund sources, cash flow timing requirements, and project staging and phasing plans if applicable; and

(3) The department must report these results for each project to the joint transportation committee.

Making reforms necessary to improve student academic achievement.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Finds that, in its effort to comply with the academic assessment schedules established under P.L. 107-110, the no child left behind act of 2001, Washington has had inadequate opportunity to examine options that may include creating an assessment system based on both statewide and local assessments, rather than exclusively on statewide assessments. Therefore, the legislature intends to cease further implementation of a statewide assessment system and request a temporary waiver from statutory requirements of P.L. 107-110 until these options can be fully considered and approved by the legislature.

Provides that, as of the effective date of this act, the superintendent of public instruction shall cease all further development, implementation, or administration of the Washington assessment of student learning in grades three, five, six, and eight.

Provides that, as authorized under section 9401 of P.L. 107-110, the superintendent shall seek a temporary waiver from federal statutory and regulatory requirements regarding implementation of yearly student academic assessments in mathematics and reading in each of grades three through eight beginning in the 2005-06 school year.

Directs the superintendent to examine a range of assessment options that could satisfy the assessment requirements of P.L. 107-110. In particular, the superintendent shall consider locally selected or administered diagnostic assessments that could serve the dual purpose of accountability and providing educators with information to assist individual students. In conducting the examination, the superintendent shall convene and seek input from a review panel that includes school district administrators, local assessment coordinators, teachers, and parents. The superintendent shall submit a report of the findings of the examination along with recommendations for a revised assessment system to the education committees of the legislature by December 1, 2006.

Provides that any further implementation of the assessment system after the effective date of this section to comply with P.L. 107-110 must be formally authorized by the legislature through legislation or concurrent resolution.

(DIGEST OF PROPOSED 1ST SUBSTITUTE)

Provides that, beginning September 1, 2007, the office of the superintendent of public instruction shall make available to school districts diagnostic assessments that help improve student learning.

Provides that beginning with the 2006-07 school year, the superintendent of public instruction shall reimburse school districts, from funds appropriated for this purpose, for administration of diagnostic assessments in grades nine and ten for the purpose of identifying academic weaknesses and developing targeted instructional strategies to assist students

It honors a well-rounded, rigorous, and challenging educational experience that prepares our students for a changing and complex twenty-first century. It recognizes that while all students can learn at high levels, many demonstrate competencies through various strengths, learning styles, and different formats, and academically develop at different rates over time. It upholds all of the state's four learning goals throughout a student's high school tenure. It provides the opportunity to students to develop, grasp, and demonstrate many learning objectives, including those beyond the tenth grade. It will give students hope and reason to complete high school.

Allowing single-family residential development outside urban growth areas in areas where housing is not affordable for first-time buyers.
Declares an intent to make housing more affordable for first-time home buyers in counties where housing is currently not affordable for first-time home buyers. The legislature intends to do this by allowing single-family detached residential development to be placed outside of urban growth boundaries at density levels currently prohibited under the prevailing interpretation of the growth management act. These single-family detached homes could be placed outside of urban growth boundaries in counties where the first-time buyer housing affordability index demonstrates that housing is not affordable for first-time home buyers.

Addressing credit card applications and rates.
Finds that the number of unrequested solicitations to residents for credit cards is a cause for concern and consider them to be a violation of the consumer protection laws of Washington state.
Finds that rising interest rates on credit cards regularly far exceed the state usury limit. The legislature finds many of the credit card industry's practices and interest rates to be unethical. The legislature intends to tax the amounts raised by interest rates that exceed the usury rate at a higher tax rate. The additional tax revenues shall be deposited into the vocational education enhancement account.

Establishing the energy freedom program.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 3RD SUB)

Declares an intent to reduce Washington's dependence on imported oil, expand renewable fuel production and use in Washington, improve use of renewable energy and energy efficiency measures, and promote sustainable rural economic development by creating new jobs and stimulating business and economic activity in local communities across Washington.

Provides that to accomplish this, the energy freedom program is established to stimulate strategic investment in facilities, infrastructure, technologies, and research and development that will advance Washington's move toward energy independence.

Appropriates the sum of one hundred million dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, for the biennium ending June 30, 2007, from the energy freedom loan account to the department of community, trade, and economic development for the purposes of this act.

HB 2939-S by House Committee on Technology, Energy & Communications (originally sponsored by Representatives Grant, Dunshee, Linville, Kessler, Upthegrove, Kilmer, Ericks, Hasegawa, P. Sullivan, Santos, Green, Springer, Conway, Simpson, and Hudgins)

Declares an intent to reduce Washington's dependence on imported oil, expand renewable fuel production and use in Washington, improve use of renewable energy and energy efficiency measures, and promote sustainable rural economic development by creating new jobs and stimulating business and economic activity in local communities across Washington.

Provides that to accomplish this, the energy freedom program is established to stimulate strategic investment in facilities, infrastructure, technologies, and research and development that will advance Washington's move toward energy independence.

Provides that, beginning July 1, 2006, for four fiscal years through June 30, 2010, the state treasurer shall transfer the sum of twenty-five million dollars each fiscal year from the general fund--state to the energy freedom account established in this act, for a total of one hundred million dollars.

Provides that, beginning July 1, 2006, and for four fiscal years through June 30, 2010, the sum of twenty-five million dollars for each fiscal year is appropriated from the energy freedom account to the department of community, trade, and economic development for the purposes of this act.

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Finds that: (1) Washington's dependence on energy supplied from outside the state and volatile global energy markets makes its economy and citizens vulnerable to unpredictable and high energy prices;

(2) Washington's dependence on petroleum-based fuels increases energy costs for citizens and businesses;

(3) Diesel soot from diesel engines ranks as the highest toxic air pollutant in Washington, leading to hundreds of premature deaths and increasing rates of asthma and other lung diseases;

(4) The use of biodiesel results in significantly less air pollution than traditional diesel fuels;

(5) Improper disposal and treatment of organic waste from farms and livestock operations can have a significant negative impact on water quality;

(6) Washington has abundant supplies of organic wastes from farms that can be used for energy production and abundant farmland where crops could be grown to supplement or supplant petroleum-based fuels;

(7) The use of energy and fuel derived from these sources can help citizens and businesses conserve energy and reduce the use of petroleum-based fuels, would improve air and water quality in Washington, reduce environmental risks from farm wastes, create new markets for farm products, and provide new industries and jobs for Washington citizens;

(8) The bioenergy industry is a new and developing industry that is, in part, limited by the availability of capital for the construction of facilities for converting farm and forest products into energy and fuels;

(9) Instead of leaving our economy at the mercy of global events, and the policies of foreign nations, Washington state should adopt a policy of energy independence; and

(10) The energy freedom program is meant to lead Washington state towards energy independence.

Finds that it is in the public interest to encourage the rapid adoption and use of bioenergy, to develop a viable bioenergy industry within Washington state, to promote public research and development in bioenergy sources and markets, and to support a viable agriculture industry to grow bioenergy crops. To accomplish this, the energy freedom program is established to promote public research and development in bioenergy, and to stimulate the construction of facilities in Washington to generate energy from farm sources or convert organic matter into fuels.

Requires the director to report to the legislature and governor on the status of the energy freedom program created under this act, on or before December 1, 2006, and annually thereafter. This report must include information on the projects that have been funded, the status of these projects, and their environmental, energy savings, and job creation benefits.

Increasing transportation permit efficiency.

Declares that streamlining the permit approval process is essential for reducing project delays and for making the most efficient use of every transportation dollar. To this end, the legislature directs that substantive standards and best management practices governing the construction of transportation projects be jointly agreed upon by both the department and Washington's natural resource agencies. After these substantive standards have been agreed upon, the legislature finds that the greatest efficiency and effectiveness in both protecting our environmental resources and in constructing the transportation infrastructure required to serve Washington's growing population will come from the implementation of these standards by the department itself, with appropriate oversight, as defined in this act, by both natural resource agencies and local governments.

HB 2969 by Representatives Hinkle and Anderson

Increasing access to evidence-based medicine.

Finds that individuals in state purchased health care programs need assurance that they will have access to the medically necessary care ordered by their physician. The best available clinical evidence should be used by the state to give patients access to medically necessary care in a cost-effective manner. Decisions for broad patient populations made by the state must not jeopardize the ability of the physician and patient to choose the medical items and services that best meet the needs of the individual. The state must use open, transparent decision-making processes to ensure individuals in state purchased health care programs have access to medically necessary care.

Declares that quality improvement is a prerequisite for achieving more efficient utilization of health care and control of state health expenditures; improving patient access to medically necessary care in a cost-effective manner is an important priority for the state. The state should use available, valid evidence to improve access to needed medicines and other health care items and services and improve the quality of care received by individuals in state purchased health care programs.

Creating a career and technical high school graduation option for students meeting state standards in fundamental academic content areas.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Declares an intent to create a rigorous, high quality career and technical high school graduation option that assures students meet state standards in fundamental academic content areas, but also reflects nationally recognized standards for the knowledge and skills needed to pursue employment and careers in technical fields.

Directs the superintendent of public instruction to develop a list of approved career and technical education programs that qualify for the high school graduation option under RCW 28A.230.090. Programs on the list must meet the following minimum criteria: (1) Lead to a certificate or credential that is nationally recognized by trades, industries, or other professional associations as necessary for employment or advancement in that field;

(2) Require a vocationally intensive and rigorous course of study with the equivalent of one thousand eighty hours of study; and

(3) Have a high potential for providing the program completer with gainful employment or entry into a postsecondary work force training program.

HB 2973-S by House Committee on Education (originally sponsored by Representatives Priest, Ormsby, Kenney, Kagi, Hasegawa, P. Sullivan, Moeller, Santos, and Springer)

(DIGEST AS ENACTED)

Declares an intent to create a rigorous and high quality career and technical high school alternative assessment that assures students meet state standards, and also reflects nationally recognized standards for the knowledge and skills needed to pursue employment and careers in technical fields.

Requires each high school or school district board of directors to adopt course equivalencies for career and technical high school courses offered to students at the high school. A career and technical course equivalency may be for whole or partial credit. Each school district board of directors shall develop a course equivalency approval procedure.

Provides that career and technical courses determined to be equivalent to academic core courses, in full or in part, by the high school or school district shall be accepted as meeting core requirements, including graduation requirements, if the courses are recorded on the student's transcript using the equivalent academic high school department designation and title. Full or partial credit shall be recorded as appropriate.

Requires the state board to reevaluate the graduation requirements for students enrolled in vocationally intensive and rigorous career and technical education programs, particularly those programs that lead to a certificate or credential that is state or nationally recognized. The purpose of the evaluation is to ensure that students enrolled in these programs have sufficient opportunity to earn a certificate of academic achievement, complete the program and earn the program's certificate or credential, and complete other state and local graduation requirements. The board shall report its findings and recommendations for additional flexibility in graduation requirements, if necessary, to the legislature by December 1, 2007.

VETO MESSAGE ON SHB 2973

March 20, 2006

To the Honorable Speaker and Members,
The House of Representatives of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval as to Section 5, Substitute House Bill No. 2973 entitled:

This bill authorizes local school boards to develop approval processes for high school course equivalencies. Requirements are established for students in career and technical education programs who may earn whole or partial academic credits. Further, the State Board of Education is directed to reevaluate the graduation requirements for students enrolled in vocational and technical education courses. Topics of the evaluation are enumerated. Findings and any recommendations are to be reported by December 1, 2007.

I have vetoed Section 5, which provides for the development of objective alternative assessments for career and technical education programs. The provisions and language of this Section are duplicative of provisions for alternative assessments for career and technical education programs found in SB 6475.

For this reason, I have vetoed Section 5 of Substitute House Bill 2973.

With the exception of Section 5, Substitute House Bill No. 2973 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
Christine O. Gregoire
Governor

Requires that, when developing its biennial budget request for appropriation of the health professions account created in RCW 43.70.320, beginning in the 2007-2009 budget and continuing in subsequent biennia, the department shall specify the number of full-time employees designated as investigators and attorneys and the costs associated with supporting their activities. Provides that when the state patrol receives information that a person has pled guilty to or been convicted of one of the felony crimes under this act, the state patrol shall transmit that information to the department of health. It is the duty of the department of health to identify whether the person holds a credential issued by a disciplining authority listed under RCW 18.130.040, and provide this information to the disciplining authority that issued the credential to the person who pled guilty or was convicted of the crimes committed in this act.

Requires that, when developing its biennial budget request for appropriation of the health professions account created in RCW 43.70.320, beginning in the 2007-2009 budget and continuing in subsequent biennia, the department shall specify the number of full-time employees designated as investigators and attorneys and the costs associated with supporting their activities. The department shall also specify the additional full-time employees designated as investigators and attorneys that are required to achieve a staffing level that is able to respond promptly, competently, and appropriately to the workload associated with health professions disciplinary activities and the costs associated with supporting disciplinary activities.

Requires the joint legislative audit and review committee, in consultation with the department, to report to the legislature by December 1, 2010, with recommendations for formulas for determining appropriate staffing levels for investigators and attorneys at the department of health involved in the health professions disciplinary process to achieve prompt, competent, and appropriate responses to complaints of unprofessional conduct. The report must be based upon the department's prior experience with staff levels compared to the number of providers, complaints, investigations, and other criteria that the department finds are relevant to determining appropriate staffing levels.

Repeals RCW 18.57.174 and 18.71.0193.

 Appleton, and Williams
 Companion Bill: 6746
 Imposing monetary penalties on windfall profits of petroleum corporations.
 Finds that Washington citizens and businesses are paying historically high prices for gasoline while the major oil companies are reaping windfall profits. As a result, tens of millions of dollars are being taken from the budgets of families and businesses. The legislature intends to reverse this economic injustice by developing a state windfall profits tax. This tax will create an incentive for major oil companies to keep retail gasoline prices at historically reasonable levels and a disincentive to increase prices to gain windfall profits.
 Declares that, if the major oil companies are unresponsive to this incentive, the tax will generate substantial revenue which can be used to partially offset the adverse effects of high gasoline prices by providing additional funding for public goods and services that are linked to the current costs of energy and/or the development of renewable in-state energy resources.
 Provides that any person who knowingly attempts to evade the tax imposed under this act or payment thereof is guilty of a class C felony as provided in chapter 9A.20 RCW.
 Provides that any person required to collect tax imposed under this act who knowingly fails to collect, truthfully account for, or pay over the tax is guilty of a class C felony as provided in chapter 9A.20 RCW.
 Provides that any person who knowingly fails to pay tax, pay estimated tax, make returns, keep records, or supply information, as required under this act, is guilty of a gross misdemeanor as provided in chapter 9A.20 RCW.

Companion Bill: 6610

Promoting underwater viewing.

Finds that Puget Sound and the other waters of Washington state contain an abundance of varied and unique marine life and other natural attractions that are of interest to divers and other recreationalists from all over the world.

Finds that in addition to the usual benefits from tourism, the promotion of underwater viewing tourism in the waters of Washington state will enhance efforts to protect Puget Sound by assisting in educating residents and nonresidents as to the value of the marine environment.

Finds that Washington state's efforts to promote nature-based tourism should include the natural wonder of underwater Washington.

Directs the department of community, trade, and economic development; the department of fish and wildlife; the department of natural resources; the state parks and recreation commission; and the interagency committee for outdoor recreation to host a working conference on promoting underwater viewing tourism.

Declares that the objective of the conference shall be to adopt a strategic plan and specific implementing actions to promote underwater viewing tourism in Washington in a manner that provides sustainable economic development in the state's rural and urban areas, enhances underwater recreational opportunity, and supports maintaining the state's underwater diversity and health of the natural marine environment.

Finds that, in several locations throughout the world, the use of ships as artificial reefs has helped promote underwater viewing tourism. The department of community, trade, and economic development; the department of fish and wildlife; the department of natural resources; the state parks and recreation commission; and the department of ecology shall establish a work group on the use of ships as artificial reefs. To the extent funds are made available, the department of community, trade, and economic development may commission an independent study to assist the agencies' work group in its deliberations.

Requires the agencies to prepare a summary of the work group findings to be submitted to the appropriate committees of the legislature no later than December 15, 2007.

HB 2992 by Representatives Moeller, Darneille, Hasegawa, and Dunn

Notifying parents, guardians, and custodians when a juvenile is taken into custody.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Declares that parents have a fundamental interest in knowing if their child has been taken into police custody for questioning and where their child is being held. Because a parent or guardian is most often in a position to provide a juvenile with guidance in matters of great importance to a juvenile, it is the intent of the legislature to assist parents in their ability to aid and guide their children when making important legal decisions, including the decision to waive legal rights during custodial interrogations. It is also the intent of the legislature to provide children in police custody the opportunity to seek and receive consultation with his or her parents.

Provides that, when a law enforcement officer takes a juvenile into custody, the officer must make reasonable attempts to notify a parent, guardian, or custodian that the juvenile is in custody and where the juvenile is being held.

Modifying provisions concerning at-risk youth proceedings.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Provides that if the basis of the at-risk youth order is a finding that the child is at risk due to a possible substance abuse or mental health problem, the court may only impose confinement for up to two days as a sanction for the first contempt of court violation. If the child commits a further violation after having been confined for up to two days, the court may impose up to an additional seven days of confinement if the basis of the new contempt of court finding is that the youth committed the same violation as found by the court in the first contempt of court order. The court may not find a youth in contempt of court for failing to obtain an evaluation or services, if the evaluation or services were not available to the youth.

Requires the Washington state institute for public policy to conduct a study of the juvenile court system to evaluate the use of confinement for youth who are found in contempt of court in nonoffender proceedings under RCW 13.32A.250 or 28A.225.090. The evaluation shall include information on: (1) How often youth are found in contempt;

- (2) What the violations are for when a youth is found in contempt;
 (3) What the underlying basis was for the petition;
 (4) How often confinement is ordered; and
 (5) What the rate is of subsequent compliance with the orders following a finding of contempt.

Requiring a priorities of government approach to developing the state's operating budget.

Finds that in 2002 the governor initiated a new process for development of the operating budget that brought significant benefits to the people of Washington and that, if maintained as an integral part of the state's ongoing budget process, will bring greater benefits in the future. That process, called priorities of government, replaces the traditional, incremental budgeting approach that focuses on changes from existing spending levels with a new, performance-based approach that measures and evaluates the performance of state programs and services, at the activity level, in achieving a selected set of priority results for state government.

Finds that implementation of the priorities of government approach in the 2003-05 biennium improved the quality of decision making by both the executive and legislative branches, increased the public's understanding of the state budget and its engagement in the annual budget debate, and contributed heavily to the enactment of a budget that enabled the state to weather a major recession without tax increases while maintaining essential services and making targeted investments for progress toward statewide results.

Finds that failure to maintain, extend, and refine the priorities of government approach to state budgeting, and rather to fall back to the failed, incremental approach of the past, would result in harm to the citizens of Washington and the competitiveness of its economy.

Declares that the priorities of government process or a related, performance-based process shall be incorporated in the operating budget document submitted under RCW 43.88.030 with accompanying documentation that such a process was implemented.

HB 3010 by Representatives Moeller, Newhouse, and Flannigan

Relating to ensuring the safety of milk and dairy products.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Finds that the protection of the public from the sale or distribution of hazardous milk and dairy products requires strong enforcement mechanisms available to regulatory agencies.

Requires the legislature to ensure that the agencies charged with protecting the public are able to respond to unsafe practices rapidly, comprehensively, and conclusively.

HB 3010-S by House Committee on Economic Development, Agriculture & Trade (originally sponsored by Representatives Moeller, Newhouse, and Flannigan)

Regarding the safety of milk and dairy products.

(DIGEST OF PROPOSED 1ST SUBSTITUTE)

Finds that chapter 15.36 RCW includes the regulation of raw milk and raw milk products including arrangements known as "cow shares" in which one or more individuals purchase one or more shares in a milk-producing animal in return for a portion of the milk that is produced.

Finds that the agencies charged with protecting public health and safety need to have strong enforcement mechanisms and be able to respond rapidly, comprehensively, and effectively. It is not the intent of this act to prohibit either the sale of raw milk or cow share or similar arrangements by producers and processors who are properly licensed under chapter 15.36 RCW.

Declares that it is unlawful for any person to sell raw milk from a dairy farm that is not licensed as a milk producer or a milk processing plant under chapter 15.36 RCW.

Declares that the sale of raw milk from a dairy farm that is not licensed as a milk producer and a milk processing plant under this act constitutes: (1) For the first offense, a gross misdemeanor; and

(2) For the second and subsequent offenses, a class C felony punishable according to chapter 9A.20 RCW.

Declares that neither the issuance of a cease and desist order nor payment of a civil penalty relieves the person so selling raw milk from criminal prosecution, but the remedy of a cease and desist order or civil penalty is in addition to any criminal liability.

Requires the department of agriculture to convene a work group to research, discuss, and make recommendations for establishment of a "microdairy" licensing category.

Requires the department and members of the work group to report their findings and recommendations to the appropriate house of representatives and senate standing committees by September 2006.

Requiring an inventory of kindergarten readiness assessments.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Finds that the first-ever state survey of student readiness for kindergarten in Washington state in 2004 revealed a significant gap in children's readiness for school. Teachers reported that only forty-four percent of incoming kindergarten students were adequately prepared. Student preparedness tended to be much lower in classes with high rates of poverty.

Declares that, as the legislature adopts policies and increases investments to support early learning, it is critical to be able to measure over time whether kindergarten readiness increases in response to these efforts. The legislature needs to be accurately apprised of whether children are ready to succeed in school when they first enter kindergarten.

Requires the office of the superintendent of public instruction to: (1) Conduct an inventory of the kindergarten readiness assessments used by school districts with incoming kindergarten students;

(2) Conduct an inventory of kindergarten readiness assessments used in other states or recommended by research; and

(3) Recommend to the legislature, for statewide adoption, a single culturally appropriate and inclusive kindergarten readiness assessment and a method for statewide data collection that will allow for data analysis and measurement of trends over time in kindergarten readiness. The assessment must measure prereading and premathematics skills.

Directs the office to report its findings and recommendations to the education committees of the legislature by December 1, 2006.

Companion Bill: 6701

Reaffirming Washington state's eminent domain laws with a right of first refusal.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 2ND SUB)

Recognizes, reaffirms, and supports the restrictions on the use of eminent domain to take private property for private use, as set forth in chapters 8.04, 8.08, 8.12, 8.16, and 8.20 RCW and in the Washington state supreme court's decisions of Hogue v. Seattle, 54 Wn.2d 799, 341 P.2d 171 (1959); Miller v. Tacoma, 61 Wn.2d 374, 378 P.2d 464 (1963); In re Petition of Seattle, 96 Wn.2d 616, 638 P.2d 549 (1981); and State ex rel. Washington State Convention & Trade Center v. Evans, 136 Wn.2d 811, 966 P.2d 1252 (1998).

Provides that if a state or local government determines that private property condemned for a public purpose no longer is necessary for a public purpose and should be sold, the owner of the property at the time it was condemned shall have a right of first refusal to purchase the property at fair market value as of the date the government announces its decision to sell the property. This right of first refusal shall expire ninety days from the date the state or local government notifies the owner of the government's decision to sell the property, or at any later date agreed to by the government. A right of refusal shall exist under this act for ten years after the completion of eminent domain proceedings.

HB 3017-S by House Committee on Judiciary (originally sponsored by Representatives Springer, P. Sullivan, Upthegrove, Chase, Morrell, Simpson, Sells, Schual-Berke, Green, Kilmer, B. Sullivan, Linville, and Hasegawa; by request of Governor Gregoire and Commissioner of Public Lands)

Placing restrictions on condemnation and sale of condemned property by state and local governments.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 2ND SUB)

Finds that members of the public have expressed concern regarding a recent United States supreme court decision, Kelo v. New London (No. 04-108 (June 23, 2005)), which upheld, under the United States Constitution, a Connecticut city's exercise of eminent domain. It is the intent of the legislature to recognize, reaffirm, and support existing Washington case law under Article I, section 16 of the state Constitution, that prohibits the condemnation of private property other than for certain public purposes pursuant to law.

Recognizes, reaffirms, and supports the restrictions on the use of eminent domain to take private property for private use, as set forth in chapters 8.04, 8.08, 8.12, 8.16, and 8.20 RCW and in the Washington state supreme court's decisions such as Hogue v. Seattle, 54 Wn.2d 799, 341 P.2d 171 (1959); Miller v. Tacoma, 61 Wn.2d 374, 378 P.2d 464 (1963); In re Petition of Seattle, 96 Wn.2d 616, 638 P.2d 549 (1981); and State ex rel. Washington State Convention & Trade Center v. Evans, 136 Wn.2d 811, 966 P.2d 1252 (1998). Consistent with these decisions, it is the intent of the legislature that state and local governments shall not appropriate or acquire any real property for the primary purpose of economic development without the consent of the property owner.

Provides that, if a county determines, within seven years after the date the property is transferred to the county, that all or a portion of real property or an interest in real property that was acquired through condemnation or the threat of condemnation is no longer necessary for a public purpose and should be sold, the former owner shall have a repurchase right as provided in this act. "Former owner" means the person or entity from whom the county acquired title and that person's or entity's successors or assigns to the property or property interest subject to the repurchase right.

Directs the office of financial management, working in consultation with state and local governments and private utilities and corporations that acquire property through eminent domain, to develop and provide recommendations to the legislature by December 1, 2006, regarding the definition of "economic development" as set forth in RCW 8.04.070, 8.08.020, and 8.12.030 and regarding the appropriate statutory provisions for providing a repurchase right to the former owner of land that has been condemned by a state or local government or a private utility or corporation, where the condemning entity has decided to sell the condemned land.

Certifying on-site sewage disposal system maintenance service providers.

Finds that on-going competent operation, monitoring, and maintenance of an on-site sewage disposal system is necessary for the protection of the consumers' health and the environment, and therefore it is of vital interest to the public.

Finds that to protect the public health and conserve and protect the water resources of the state, it is necessary to require the examination and certification of the persons responsible for providing technical maintenance of such systems and to provide for the adoption of rules to carry out this act.

Requires the director to adopt rules as necessary for the administration of a system to certify persons who provide, for a fee, operation, monitoring, and maintenance services for on-site sewage disposal systems. Protecting Washington businesses and consumers from rising oil costs.

Recognizes that there is a need to assure that motor fuel and other petroleum products are available at fair prices to all consumers in Washington. Although oil companies are entitled to receive a fair return on their investments, they should be discouraged from using natural disasters, emergencies, or other events to dramatically increase profitability by raising prices to Washington consumers.

Recognizes that prices and availability of petroleum impact the economy of the state and the quality of life for Washington residents. It is the intent of the legislature to require oil companies to disclose certain materially significant information in order to protect consumers and businesses from rising costs.

Provides that no change shall be made in any price for petroleum products contained in a schedule filed by an oil company in compliance with this act without filing prior notice to the commission, in the form the commission prescribes, stating the changes to be made to the schedule then in force.

Requires the commission to provide oil companies with the ability to file notices at any point in time throughout the year.

Provides that any oil company that violates or fails to comply with the provisions of this act is subject to a civil penalty of not less than two thousand dollars for each violation or failure to comply.

Authorizes the attorney general to bring an action in the name of the state against any oil company to restrain and prevent the doing of any act prohibited or declared unlawful in this act. The attorney general may, in the discretion of the court, recover the costs of an action, including reasonable attorneys' fees. The court may make such additional orders or judgments as may be necessary to restore to any person in interest any moneys or property, real or personal, which may have been acquired by means of an act prohibited or declared to be unlawful in this act.

Declares that nothing in this act limits the power of the state to punish any oil company for any conduct that constitutes a crime by statute or at common law.

Requires every oil company subject to regulation by the commission to, by April 1st of each year, file with the commission a statement on oath showing its gross operating revenue from intrastate operations for the preceding calendar year.

HB 3054 by Representatives Priest, Chase, and Anderson

Requiring a revised definition of the purpose and expectations for high school diplomas.

Finds that, in 1993, Washington state embarked on an ambitious path to establish statewide standards for the knowledge, skills, and abilities that all students should know and be able to do before graduating from high school. The intent of Washington's education reform was to focus on the competencies desired of students at graduation. Since that time, a great deal of effort has gone into developing and implementing the state's essential academic learning requirements, grade level expectations, and statewide assessment system.

Finds that high school graduation requirements remain focused on accumulation of credits, taking a set of required courses, and achieving a particular score on a single assessment of learning. Furthermore, there is not a consensus within the state as to the overall purpose of the high school diploma and what accomplishment it is intended to signify. Therefore, the legislature intends to direct a critical reevaluation and redefinition of the high school diploma in Washington.

Requires the state board of education to submit the proposed revised definition of the high school diploma, along with any necessary revisions to state statutes and rules, to the education committees of the legislature by December 1, 2007.

Updating public records provisions.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Establishes the division of archives and records management in the office of the secretary of state to ensure the proper management and safeguarding of public records. All public records remain the property of the state of Washington. Public records must be delivered by outgoing officials and employees to their successors and must be retained, preserved, stored, transferred, destroyed, or disposed of in accordance with chapter 40.14 RCW. The state archivist will administer the division and must have reasonable access to all public records, wherever kept, for the purposes of information, surveying, or cataloging.

Provides that public records shall not be disposed of or destroyed until the expiration of applicable retention periods on records retention schedules approved by the state or local records committee. Unless otherwise provided by state or federal law, rule, or regulation, retention periods approved for records series that serve as primary documentation of official actions, transactions, contracts, or agreements must be at least six years.

Declares that nothing in chapter 40.14 RCW prohibits a legislator or legislative employee from contributing his or her personal papers to any private library, public library, or the state archives. The state archivist is authorized to receive papers of legislators and legislative employees and is directed to encourage the donation of such personal papers to the state. The state archivist is authorized to establish such guidelines and procedures for the collection of personal papers and correspondence relating to the legislature as the archivist sees fit. Companion Bill: 6709

Resolving manufactured/mobile home landlord and tenant disputes.

(SEE ALSO PROPOSED 1ST SUB)

Finds that there are factors unique to the relationship between a manufactured/mobile homeowner and a manufactured/mobile home park owner. Once occupancy has commenced, the difficulty and expense in moving and relocating a manufactured/mobile home can affect the operation of market forces, and lead to an inequality of the bargaining position of the parties. Once occupancy has commenced, a homeowner may be subject to violations of the manufactured/mobile home landlord-tenant act or unfair practices without an adequate remedy at law. This act is created for the purpose of protecting the public, fostering fair and honest competition, and regulating the factors unique to the relationship between the manufactured/mobile homeowner and park owner.

Finds that taking legal action against a park owner for violations of the manufactured/mobile home landlord-tenant act can be a costly and lengthy process, and that many people cannot afford to pursue a court process to vindicate statutory rights. Park owners similarly are benefited by having access to a process that resolves disputes quickly and efficiently.

Declares an intent to provide a less costly and more efficient way for manufactured/mobile homeowners and park owners to resolve disputes, and to provide a mechanism for state authorities to quickly locate owners of manufactured housing communities. The legislature further intends to authorize the department of community, trade, and economic development to: (1) Register mobile home parks or manufactured housing communities, take complaints, conduct investigations, and administratively resolve disputes, when there are violations of the manufactured/mobile home landlord-tenant act;

(2) Maintain, update, and expand its current complaint program by retaining the necessary staffing level of hired or contracted persons used to operate and implement the program under chapter 429, Laws of 2005; and

(3) Collect data related to conflicts and violations.

VETO MESSAGE ON ESHB 3079

March 27, 2006

To the Honorable Speaker and Members,
 The House of Representatives of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval as to Section 3, Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 3079 entitled:

I support ESHB 3079, an act providing information about our Basic Health Plan and Medical Assistance programs. I am, however, vetoing section 3 of this act, which includes an unnecessary null and void clause.

In signing ESHB 3079, I express a cautionary note as to the interpretation of the reports that it requires to be developed. The employer information to be provided by the Health Care Authority (HCA) and the Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) is not a requirement for enrollment or eligibility. Consequently, data contained in the reports will have been provided on a voluntary basis, and will be unverified. The two reports - an employer-specific report and an aggregated report - will originate from separate sources. Therefore, they will not be comparable. The reports will also be based on a point-in-time data collection and will therefore not reflect changes in employment status. These data limitations must be considered when interpreting the reports.

It is equally important to note that the Joint Legislative Audit and Review Committee (JLARC) study due in July 2006 will report Basic Health employment status and employer information in more detail than the aggregated report required by this bill.

It is my hope that the information collected and provided to the Legislature in accordance with ESHB 3079 will not be misconstrued to portray beneficiaries of our Basic Health and Medicaid programs in a negative light. These programs are designed to provide health care services to eligible, often working, enrollees. I am confident that they are meeting that intent.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Section 3 of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 3079.

With the exception of Section 3, Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 3079 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
 Christine O. Gregoire
 Governor

Declares an intent to ensure that the state's investment in public safety radio communications facilities are managed in a way to promote to the maximum extent possible the health and safety of the state's citizens and the economic efficiencies of coordinated planning, development, management, maintenance, accountability, and performance.

Finds that an interoperable and operational public safety communications system is essential for disaster preparedness, emergency management, and public safety, and that coordination for the purpose of development, procurement, and deployment of a public safety communications system will result in a more effective use of state resources and improvement to government services.

Requires that, by June 30, 2012, a statewide public safety communications system must be built to achieve the highest level of interoperability possible. This system must consist of the following: (1) A centrally managed system of systems architectures that facilitates the sharing of assets between state and local governments;

(2) A radio over internet protocol-based interoperability system that enables nonstate agencies to interconnect their radio systems with the state system;

(3) A statewide digital transport backbone system that provides connectivity to all transmitter locations;

(4) A mutual-aid communications system deployed across the state to enable interoperability at and across the commonly used public safety frequency bands;

(5) A statewide, project 25 standards-based, frequency independent system of systems that uses equipment common to all agency-focused systems providing full interoperability; and

(6) A statewide mobile data system that provides low and medium speed data communications capabilities for participating agency subscribers.

Requires the state interoperability executive committee to provide an annual report to the legislature and the office of financial management that documents the design, accomplishments, remaining tasks, and recommendations by September 1, 2006, and annually by September 1st thereafter.

Directs the governor's interagency council on health disparities to consider in its deliberations an action plan for eliminating health disparities by 2012.

Requires the council to meet as often as necessary but not less than six times per calendar year. The council shall report its progress with the action plan to the governor and the legislature no later than January 15, 2008. Protecting aquifer levels.
Finds that the department of ecology adopted ground water management subarea rules to manage aquifer depletions in the Odessa subarea, which includes undeveloped portions of the federal Columbia basin project.
Finds that deep well agricultural irrigation was permitted within the Odessa subarea under the expectation that federal Columbia basin project water would be delivered to replace the temporary ground water withdrawals in time to stabilize aquifer levels.
Finds that because federal project water has not been delivered as anticipated, aquifer levels have continued to decline despite department of ecology and community efforts to manage ground water withdrawals in a sustainable manner.
Finds that, because substantial project expansion and aquifer recharge is a long-term effort, the continued availability of ground water for domestic, municipal, industrial, and agricultural uses in the region is in great jeopardy.
Declares that immediate relief is needed to encourage more efficient use of water and to protect the region's citizens from economic hardships and public health and safety risks that can result from declining aquifer levels.

Authorizing state employees to express their professional opinions.

(3) Many professional licenses require license holders to express their professional opinions and make independent professional judgments in their work.

Addressing noise problems from off-road and all-terrain vehicles.

Based upon its findings, the department shall revise the rules establishing maximum noise levels permissible in identified environments and related use standards relating to the reception of noise within those environments. The revisions must: (1) Strengthen the decibel standards as applied to off-road and all-terrain vehicles so that the standards are stringent enough to protect health, safety, and welfare in residential neighborhoods; and

(2) Identify enforcement alternatives such as measurable buffers or a narrative standard such as a "plainly audible at the property line" standard that can be easily measured by law enforcement in the field instead of requiring expensive and burdensome protocols for decibel measurement.

Provides that any person who violates any rule adopted by the department under chapter 70.107 RCW is subject to a civil penalty imposed by local government pursuant to this act. Such penalties shall be as follows: One hundred dollars for the first violation; two hundred fifty dollars for the second violation; and one thousand dollars for the third and every subsequent violation.

Expanding access to higher education using the university center model.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 1ST SUB)

Finds that RCW 28B.50.901 assigns responsibility for the north Snohomish, Island, and Skagit counties higher education consortium to Everett Community College. Everett Community College submitted a report titled "Higher Education Opportunity in the NSIS Region" on December 1, 2005, to the appropriate committees of the legislature. The legislature accepts this report as representative of the needs for higher education in the North Snohomish, Island, and Skagit counties (NSIS) region. It is the intent of the legislature to support enrollment growth in the NSIS county regions of the state as represented in the report.

Finds that recent research by the state board for community and technical colleges indicates that the immediate needs of at least five hundred students are not being met in the NSIS region at the upper-division level.

Finds that long-term unmet need in the Snohomish, Island, and Skagit county region is projected to reach four thousand one hundred forty-one upper-division full-time equivalents by the year 2025.

Declares an intent to provide funding for a minimum of two hundred fifty full-time equivalents at the upper-division and graduate levels for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2007. This funding shall be used to meet the higher education needs of the NSIS region.

Requires Everett Community College, with the assistance of Edmonds Community College, Skagit Valley College, and the universities participating in offering the enrollment subject to this act to submit a report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by July 1, 2007. The report shall describe the number of enrollments and degrees produced as a result of the funding provided in this act, as well as the effect of those enrollments and degrees on local communities.

Appropriates the sum of one million five hundred seventy-five thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2007, from the general fund to the state board for community and technical colleges for the purposes of this act.

Companion Bill: 6749

Establishing a foster parent critical support and retention program.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Finds that: (1) Foster parents have little means to cope with children who are sexually reactive, are physically assaultive, or have other high-risk behaviors. There is little support for them in the foster home setting. This lack of support contributes to the fact that most of these very high-risk children will have multiple foster home placements;

(2) Two-thirds of the work of child protective services in Washington state is linked with families that it sees repeatedly. The families have cumulative risks such as drug abuse, domestic violence, and mental illness. Abuse of children in these families frequently occurs;

(3) Many of our next generation's sexual predators and violent offenders are in foster care today. These children have had severe and repeated early abuse, are under age twelve, and move freely in schools and child care. In 1992, the division of children and family services reported that children who were sexually reactive molested an average of five children while in foster care; and

(4) In our state, hundreds of these children are now in foster care. This pressures an already stressed foster care system. It also sets the stage for these children to enter into a lifetime of deviant behavior.

Establishes a foster parent critical support and retention program to retain foster parents who care for children who act out sexually, are physically assaultive, or have other high-risk behaviors. The foster parent critical support and retention program is to be implemented under the division of children and family services' contract and supervision. A contractor must demonstrate experience providing in-home case management to foster homes that are licensed through the division of children and family services.

Provides that, under the foster parent critical support and retention program, foster parents who care for children who act out sexually and/or physically or have other high-risk behaviors shall receive: (1) Twenty-four/seven emergency assistance;

(2) Assessment of risk and development of a safety and supervision plan;

(3) Home-based foster parent training utilizing evidence-based models;

(4) Ongoing support groups; and

(5) Referral to community services.

Appropriates the sum of two hundred seventy-five thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2007, from the general fund to the division of children and family services for direct services for the purposes of this act.

(SUBSTITUTED FOR - SEE 2ND SUB)

Finds that: (1) Foster parents are able to successfully maintain placements of children who are sexually reactive, physically assaultive, or who have other high-risk behaviors when they are provided with proper training and support. Lack of support contributes to placement disruptions and multiple moves between foster homes.

(2) Young children who have experienced repeated early abuse and trauma are at high risk for behavior later in life that is sexually deviant, if left untreated. Placement with a well-trained, prepared, and supported foster family can break this cycle.

At a minimum, the report shall include recommendations for improvement of the department's current practice to: (1) Define terms relating to referrals and investigative findings;

(2) Provide guidelines for determining whether a referral is to be assigned and investigated;

(3) Manage records of calls which are received but not investigated;
