

Senate Committee Services Summer Intern Program Questions & Answers

What do interns do for Senate Committee Services?

Interns are generally assigned to one of the 15 standing committees of the State Senate. Interns will conduct legal, fiscal, and policy research for the committees, and may be asked to draft legislation and give presentations before the committees.

What training and education opportunities are available for interns?

- A one-day orientation session will provide information on legislative organization and process.
- Weekly seminars are held with state agency directors, lobbyists, judges, and appointed or elected officials.
- Interns draft and present a bill at a mock hearing modeled on committee hearings held during the legislative session.

How are interns chosen?

Interns are selected based on demonstrated oral and written communication skills, research and analysis skills, interpersonal skills, and interest in public service.

How are interns assigned to committees?

Interns are assigned to committees primarily based on the "needs of the Senate." However, interns' personal interests are considered to some degree if assignments are available with the respective committees. Additionally, interns are typically assigned to one committee for the 10-week period. The committees currently include the following:

- Agriculture & Rural Economic Development
- Early Learning & K-12 Education
- Economic Development, Trade & Innovation
- Environment, Water & Energy
- Financial Institutions, Housing & Insurance
- Government Operations & Elections
- Health & Long-Term Care
- Higher Education & Workforce Development
- Human Services & Corrections
- Judiciary
- Labor, Commerce & Consumer Protection
- Natural Resources, Ocean & Recreation
- Transportation
- Ways & Means
