Open letter From Rep. Matt Shea

Received this via email.

Open letter From Rep. Matt Shea

All,

Today we are not Republicans or Democrats, Washingtonians or Nevadans... we are Americans who believe in Freedom and Liberty and that human life is more important than a tortoise. It has become obvious to all of us that Federal overreach will not stop and is dramatically harming every citizen.

Yesterday, we dispatched a group of patriots from Washington State to Nevada to report directly what is happening on the ground and to begin a vigil of prayer for peace and freedom at the Bundy ranch. Enough is enough. A sniper rifle is not due process and I agree with the Nevada Governor this is pure intimidation especially since the court case has not even run its course. NOW IS THE TIME TO STAND. TAKE ACTION 4 WAYS:

First, join me in prayer and fasting to Almighty God for a peaceful resolution to the situation and for the safety of those traveling to and already on the ground in Nevada.

Second, after prayerful consideration and much counsel I have put out the call to legislators in 5 states to join Rep David Taylor and me in traveling to Nevada in support of State Assemblywoman Michele Fiore and the Bundy family. This is in conjunction with the call put out across the country to Sheriff's by C.S.P.O.A.'a Sheriff Richard Mack and veterans by Oath Keepers of America. If you know a legislator, share this with them.

Third, if you are a patriot in Washington or Idaho please join us in traveling to Nevada to love our neighbors and peacefully stand against this tyranny on the range.

Fourth, please join me in calling and emailing the Gov. Brian Sandoval to immediately step in and end this dangerous and violent escalation by the Bureau of Land Management. <http://gov.nv.gov/contact/>

Despite property rights being unalienable, as many in the ranching, farming, logging, mining, and manufacturing industries know this is not an isolated incident. Government seizure or denying use of property without just compensation through nonsensical environmental regulations based on non-peer reviewed science is destroying rural America. This has happened in Idaho and here in eastern Washington with rapidly occurring frequency. After several phone calls with attorneys from all over the country, including Nevada, it is clear that the Federal government's actions WILL NOT STOP IN NEVADA. This war by the Obama administration on rural America and hardworking Americans will go no further.

This involves all of us. It will take all of us to restore a God Honoring Herschel's Dictum.

"There aren't too many human interaction problems that can't be fixed with a .45 ACP 230-grain fat-boy." -- Herschel Smith.

What Does It Mean To Be A "Three Percenter"?

Three Percent Catechism.

These four principles -- moral strength, physical readiness, no first use of force and no targeting of innocents -- are the hallmarks of the Three Percent ideal. Anyone who cannot accept them as a self-imposed discipline in the fight to restore the Founders' Republic should find something else to do and cease calling themselves a "Three Percenter."

Edmund Burke reconsidered in the light of 20th Century funeral pyres.

"Remember: Evil exists because good men don't kill the government officials committing it." -- Kurt Hofmann.

Constitutional Republic. I want to thank all of you for your prayers and support. It is an honor to serve you. May we stand now so that our children and grandchildren can live in peace and prosperity and freedom.

May God pour out His grace and mercy on us and may this endeavor glorify, honor, and praise Him.

In Freedom,

Matt Shea

"Government seizure or denying use of property without just compensation through nonsensical environmental regulations based on non-peer reviewed science is destroying rural America."

Actually the FEDERAL government has NO lawful property seizure authority from the US Constitution. Yep, none!

They were constitutionally allowed to be given 10 square miles of land. They are allowed to BUY land on which to put bases, etc.

All state land was to be held in trust UNTIL the state got its republican form of government up and then turned over to the state.

The federal government is NOT allowed to own any other land except as listed above. PERIOD!

Yes, the BLM is a unlawful agency committing treason against the USA by EVERY person within that agency.

Under the Founders design, the states were to control their own land, unless, and until, the federal government purchased a particular piece of land, with the consent of the state legislature, for a fort, magazine, arsenal, dock-yard, etc.

Article One, Section 8, Clause 17 states, Congress has the power:

To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of the Government of the United States, and to exercise like Authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the State in which the Same shall be, for the Erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other needful Buildings.

Article I, Section 8, Clause 17, doctrine of equal footing, whereby new states admitted to the Union were to enter it on an equal footing with the original states.

Is Absolved the Most Dangerous Book in America?

by The Grand Inquisitor | Published November 3, 2011

On Tuesday of this week Federal Bureau of Investigation agents arrested four Georgia men in connection with a plot to unleash a terrorist attack on residents of Atlanta and several other US cities. The four men, all from Toccoa, Ga. and all over the age of 65, planned to unleash the biotoxin Ricin as part of a larger campaign to strike out at the federal government. The four men were fringe players in the right-wing militia movement.

The plot was well into the development stage by the time federal authorities stepped in after being tipped off by an informant in March. Lab equipment seized from one of the defendant's homes tested positive for Ricin. The four men also had discussed assassinating government officials and blowing up government buildings. According to government affidavits defendant Frederick

Thomas was recorded saying, "There's no way for us, as militiamen, to save this country, to save Georgia, without doing something that's highly illegal — murder. (...) When it comes to saving the Constitution, that means some people gotta die."

Chilling stuff, but perhaps one of the most troubling aspects of the alleged plot is that the defendants' claim to have been inspired by a novel they had read on the internet. Absolved is the story of how gun owners rebel against government regulation and declining social mores and start a civil war. It's written by Mike Vanderboegh, a militia blogger and gun rights activist from Alabama. Vanderboegh's website The Sipsy Street Irregulars (caution, link leads to militia website) claims to represent the "Three Percenters;" people who are "gun owners who will not disarm, will not compromise and will no longer back up at the passage of the next gun control act. Three Percenters say quite explicitly that we will not obey any futher (sic) circumscription of our traditional liberties and will defend ourselves if attacked." Vanderboegh has received media attention before when he called on readers to break windows at Democratic official's offices during the health care debate and several of them did. He has also been featured on Fox News as an expert on gun control issues.

So what exactly does this book say that motivated these four elderly men to plan terrorist attacks? I have read the chapters of Absolved that are available online, and it is a pretty stunning. Part technical manual and part childish fantasy, Absolved takes place in a extremist's dystopia where out of control government agents victimize America's gun owners. Gun owners are harassed, arrested, and killed by an out of control liberal society. It is a extremely violent work. Here is a taste from the opening scene:

Behind his sandbags and steel, Phil continued to launch the grenades. By the time he got to ten, all three vehicles were afire and the intersection was littered with bodies while sparks fell on them from a mortally wounded transformer high up a power pole. Eleven, twelve, thirteen. The roof was being eroded above him, around him, swept away by a leaden storm. Fourteen. Fifteen. From down the street, a thug fired the heaviest weapon that the gang owned, an M203 grenade launcher. He had not been trained to use it, so the first round passed over the house and detonated far down on the next street, killing a cop directing traffic. Because the house was not hit, Phil didn't notice it. Sixteen. He noticed the second round though. In fact, it killed him. But Phil Gordon didn't mind. He'd done his duty. He was home with Claire and he got to meet his Maker, his Savior. Absolving, he was absolved.

You can read the rest of the chapters here (caution, link leads to militia website). The story isn't particularly well-written; it's confusing and uneven, but that isn't the point to Vanderboegh's readers. The work has both the emotional appeal and the technical detail they seek. The story is packed with information about weapons and terrorism tactics. The author defends this inclusion in the introduction to the story:

In this, I am frankly writing as much a cautionary tale for the out-of-control gun cops of the ATF as anyone. For that warning to be credible, I must also present what amounts to a combination field manual, technical manual and call to arms for my beloved gunnies of the armed citizenry. They need to know how powerful they could truly be if they were pushed into a corner.

Vanderboegh has denied that his work was meant to inspire the kind of violence allegedly planned in Georgia, and asserts his work is intended as a warning to prevent violence. However his statement that, "It is what it is ... it's a terrible description of what might happen if people continue to be victimized in this country," is hardly comforting. Here is an interview he did give during the broken windows incident outlining his view on using violence.

Works like Absolved bring up tough questions for both civil libertarians and law enforcement. While his work is certainly constitutionally protected, it is a manual for those who wish to engage in political violence. This isn't new in Patriot Movement circles, in 1978 Andrew McDonald published The Turner Diaries, a story of white revolution that ends with a civil war and the United States destroying Israel with nuclear weapons. A group of extremists inspired by the book formed a group called The Order, which robbed banks, killed police officers, and assassinated radio host Alan Berg. Another fan of the book was Timothy McVeigh, who killed 168 people in the Oklahoma City bombing of 1995.

Vanderboegh seems to be enjoying the spotlight; gloating about the attention he received in this post to his blog (link leads to militia website) yesterday, while at the same time playing himself as a victim of media elites. Vanerboegh seems to want to have it both ways, calling for violent insurrection and then complaining about being seen as an instigator when people take his calls seriously is a dubious position. However, for law enforcement and those who may be targets of the extremists using Absolved as a manual, this issue goes beyond mere semantics and raises real issues about both civil liberties and about the mechanics of terrorism.
