I would live to depend on a cost if living pension. I've received one raise since 2006. Everything seemed reasonable then but now it's concerning. I don't want to depend on my children to keep me going. I'm grateful for social security and medical from the State. I do have longevity on my mother's side of the family but would struggle if I were widowed. A reliable cost of living added to my plan 1 would allow me more assurance. Thanks for this consideration.
