SENATE RESOLUTION
8639

By Senator Braun

WHEREAS, Senator Douglas J. Ericksen was a Whatcom

NINETEENTH DAY, JANUARY 28, 2022

2022 REGULAR SESSION

County native who spent the last 22 years serving his community and the citizens of Washington State in the state legislature; and

WHEREAS, He earned his bachelor's degree from Cornell University, where he played collegiate baseball and football; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen was a 1995 graduate of Western Washington University, where he earned a master's degree in political science and environmental policy; and

WHEREAS, While still in college, Senator Ericksen began his legislative career working in the office of Senator Ann Anderson, whose seat he later held; and

WHEREAS, In 1998, Senator Ericksen ran for the state House of Representatives from Whatcom County's 42nd Legislative District, and held the position for six terms; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen then moved to the Senate where he chaired the Senate Energy, Environment and Telecommunications Committee from 2013 to 2017, and later continued serving as ranking Republican member; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen was a steadfast advocate for preserving jobs, including jobs at manufacturing facilities such as Alcoa's Intalco Works, always taking up the cause of workers and families in his district; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen played an integral role in every legislative debate over energy policy, emphasizing practical cost-effective approaches that would give electricity ratepayers and purchasers of motor fuel the biggest bang for the buck; and

WHEREAS, Fearless in the face of opposition, Senator Ericksen was one of the Legislature's strongest voices for fiscal responsibility, limiting government overreach, supporting agriculture, preservation of Washington's clean and affordable energy advantage, jobs and industrial development outside the Central Puget Sound metropolitan area, and pragmatic and balanced solutions to environmental challenges; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen sponsored legislation to create the state Environmental Legacy Stewardship Account and designated cleanup projects as first priority for funding, preventing a tax increase on fuel and other products, and speeding up cleanup projects across the state, including the revitalization of former industrial properties on the Bellingham Bay waterfront; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen was also instrumental in securing passage of legislation that balanced safety concerns with the practical need to get tanker cars to the refineries of Northwest Washington; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen enjoyed introducing creative bills, proposing the first bill to offer a mechanism to reduce carbon ever to pass either chamber of the Washington State Legislature; and

WHEREAS, When state incentives for home and community solar installations were due to expire, Senator Ericksen successfully extended the program and phased it out smoothly, a move that spurred the installation of thousands of new solar systems and created over a thousand jobs before sunseting, according to legislative auditors; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen worked hard to support public-private partnerships to develop new fish hatcheries on Puget Sound to provide salmon for fishermen and feedstock for Washington's resident orca whales; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen was fond of introducing legislation to make a point, and one such instance was a proposal to restore Seattle waterways and other Seattle water projects to a pristine wilderness state; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen was a champion for protecting the rights of the individual and the freedoms guaranteed by the state and federal Constitutions; and the privilege of representing his constituents in the state legislature; and

WHEREAS, Senator Ericksen passed away on December 17, 2021, at age 52, but his legacy lives on; and

WHEREAS, He is survived by his wife Tasha, and two daughters, Elsa and Addi, his mother Bettelou, brothers David and Donald, and many loving friends and members of his extended family;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Legislature honor Senator Doug Ericksen and further his dedication and service to the citizens of Washington State.

Senators Braun, Sefzik, Carlyle, Fortunato, Billig, Warnick, Mullet, Padden, Saldaña and Wilson, J. spoke in favor of adoption of the resolution.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of Senate Resolution No. 8639.

Senator Braun escorted Senator Ericksen's widow, Mrs. Tasha Ericksen and their daughters Miss Elsa Ericksen and Miss Addie Ericksen to the Chamber.

The President invited the Ericksen Family to join the President at the rostrum and made the following presentation:

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Heck: "Mrs. Ericksen - Tasha, if I may? - I think sometimes it's pretty challenging in contemporary politics to stay in touch with our shared humanity, and unfortunately at times it feels as though tragedy is necessary to do that. And Doug's passing was a tragedy. I have no illusion that any word spoken here today can in any way materially diminish your pain and grief, but I want you to know that this entire chamber, and its entire membership, as so eloquently expressed by so many, extends its deepest condolences and sympathy to you and our collective voice of gratitude to Senator Ericksen for his service. In that spirit, it's my privilege to present with you this American flag which was flown over the state capital on the day of Doug's funeral. And if I may, I have something very similar to this in my living room to remind me of a family member. And all I can say is every single time I look at it, every single day, I'm reminded of my gratitude for their service. And I'm reminded of my appreciation. And so, it is my hope that as you glance at this or see this, you will carry with you the expressions today of our gratitude and condolences to you and the family."

The President presented Mrs. Tasha Ericksen with a U.S. national flag.

Senator Braun escorted the Ericksen Family from the Chamber.

SENATE BILL NO. 5624, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pedersen: "Thank you very much Mr. President. I am going to go a little bit off script and request to rise to a point of personal privilege. Thank you very much Mr. President. January 13, 2014, was a momentous day. That was my first day over here on this side of the rotunda. And that day I got an email from a young lady who had just begun as a session staffer and, for the Senate Democratic Caucus, and was assigned to the Senate Law and Justice Committee to help us out. That young lady was Victoria Cantore who went on to serve several years in that position. She took a break from us for a year to go to the Governor's office and then came back here and in an appropriate bookend, it has been my great pleasure in this new role to have a chance once again to work closely with Victoria. I can't say enough positive really about her and about the good judgement, the professionalism, the sense of humor with which she has approached everything that she has done for us. Just, really, it has been a really great experience. And we are going to miss her profoundly, her wisdom, her hard work, her dedication, her sense of probity and her respect for the institution, and so Mr. President, I hope that you and the other members will join me in thanking Victoria for her outstanding service to the Senate and to the people of the state of Washington."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Lias: "Thank you Mr. President, I rise to a point of personal privilege. Thank you, Mr. President. Now I know our Counsel Cantore is a very stickler for the rules, and the rules say that you are only allowed to rise to a question of privilege if it is a manner unique and peculiar to that particular senator. And I was weighing whether my comments would rise to the Cantore level of unique and particular. And I concluded that since Victoria Cantore has both saved me from losing my mind, and from at times losing life, that that would be unique and particular enough for me to rise and honor her. In addition to what our Floor Leader has said, I would just add that Victoria has brought a humanity and a kindness and a gentleness to what can often be a stressful and very difficult process. Her baked ziti has fed our stomachs. Her stories of her growing up have fed our sense of humor and our souls, and the incredible analysis and legal work that she has brought to her tasks have also helped us make better laws for the people of Washington. When I was growing up, my mom would chide me often and say, 'Don't make a federal case out of everything.' So, it is in particular honor to know that executive assistant U.S. attorney Cantore will be making a federal case out of everything. And to the criminals of western Washington, beware: there is a sharp and diligent cop on the beat who will be enforcing our laws. I could not be more privileged to call her my friend and to thank her for her many years of service, and to wish her all the best in her next adventures."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Padden: "A point of personal privilege Mr. President. Well, I also want to join in the tributes to our attorney up on the dais there, Ms. Cantore. And I got to know her during the same time Senator Pedersen was over here when we were working on the Law and Justice Committee, and she was very much involved. So yes, she has a sense of grace, very competent, wonderful person to have around, and I recall fondly working with Senator Lias when we had the shower for her very unusual situation. Both Senator Lias and his assistant at the time, I believe Louis, did a great job of organizing that. But it is our loss, and certainly your loss, Mr. President, and in addition it's the gain for the U.S. attorney's office of western Washington. So, we will miss her a lot. Thank you, Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Dhingra: "Thank you Mr. President, I rise to a point of personal privilege. Thank you, Mr. President. I am very rarely at a loss for words. But words can not fully convey how much having gotten to know Victoria Cantore has meant to me. I had a challenging transition from the professional life to the political life. I was not engaged in the political life at all prior to getting elected as a senator. And she is someone who really helped make that transition so much more enjoyable. And I learned a lot from her, and I am truly honored to call her my friend. And I look forward to continuing our relationship in her new role as a prosecutor. And I couldn't ask for a better transition to her new work environment as the new role that she has. So, she will be greatly missed, and I know that the Senate has been enriched by her experience and her presence on the floor. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Billig: "Thank you Mr. President, rising to a point of personal privilege. Thank you, Mr. President. Also want to offer words of gratitude and good luck to Victoria and I'll be brief because the speakers before me have been very eloquent and right on the same feelings that I have about Victoria. But I just want to express that when I came in as a rookie majority leader four years ago and had really had no idea what to do. And as it turns out as majority leader, you have to make a lot of big decisions. Like big, constitutional decisions, like are we gonna sue a governor, are we gonna go to battle with the other chamber, there is just all kinds of things, ethics issues involving members that can be very sticky. And it was so comforting to me to have a legal advisor, counsel, attorney, that I completely trusted, and she gave wise advice, she did it with a sense of humor and she helped me, she helped the Senate, and she helped our state to be better because of it. This is a well-deserved career advancement for her, I couldn't be happier for her. Although we are gonna miss you very significantly. Thank you, Mr. President."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

2022 REGULAR SESSION

President Heck: “The President would like to exercise a point of personal privilege. The members of this chamber in varying amounts have been aided considerably by the talents of Ms. Cantore over a long period of time. I dare suggest that no one has benefited more in a short period of time than the roukiest of roukiest and that is your new presiding officer last year. I fear that I sometimes observe to the point of boredom that I have intermittently been privileged to be a part of this institution, now forty-nine years. And I can tell you with all objectivity that when it comes to the caliber, the integrity, the intellectual prowess, the commitment to the institution, it does not get better than these two women. [The President gestures to Senate Counsels Victoria Cantore and Jeannie Gorrell] It does not. Every one of us should appreciate frankly how they have approached this job. Victoria, to suggest you’ll be missed is to engage in unbelievable understatement. I have confidence in your successor to be clear. But I, the President, owes you an eternal debt. This institution’s loss is the U.S. attorney’s office gain. And therefore, all our gain. And accordingly, we are all grateful for your next level of public service, and deeply, deeply so for that which you’ve rendered to this institution. Thank you.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Trudeau: “Thank you Mr. President, rising to request of point of personal privilege. Thank you, Mr. President. I just wanted to offer some perspective here. I know I am a new member, and I haven’t had the chance to work with Victoria much in this new role, but I just thought I’d offer some insight into somebody that I’ve called my friend for a number of years, and frankly grown up alongside which has been amazing. And she’s not just amazing because of she is also a constituent of the Twenty-seventh Legislative District Mr. President. But also because I remember when I was an LA, and she used to come down to our office, she was actually staffing a committee that the member I was working for interacted with quite often, and I just admired how astute she was, how responsive she was, and frankly I just always have a deep and sincere gratitude to smart lady lawyers so she inspired me to then seek a position as caucus staff Mr. President, and has continued to inspire me in my professional career. And especially as a younger professional woman with young children, I just admire her so deeply and look forward to continue watching her grow and just wanted to express that gratitude Mr. President. Thank you.”

MOTION

At 4:01 p.m., on motion of Senator Pedersen, the Senate adjourned until 11:45 a.m. Monday, January 31, 2022.
