STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, WASH., January 10, 1905.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House:

I have the honor to report, in conformity with article III, section 11 of the State Constitution, the list of pardons and commutations of sentence granted by me, with reasons therefor, since the last session of the Legislature.

Respectfully,

HENRY McBRIDE, Governor.

PARDONS.

CHARLES GROAMES.—Charles Groames was convicted in Pierce county of murder in the second degree, on the 13th day of February, 1898, and sentenced to a term of twenty years in the penitentiary. The petition asking for his pardon contained a strong appeal from the then prosecuting attorney of Pierce county, who was convinced of the prisoner's innocence—the conviction having been obtained on circumstantial evidence—as well as a request from the prosecuting attorney who conducted the prosecution and other public officials. It was also shown that Groames was in poor health and had been a model prisoner. Pardon was granted November 14, 1903.

WALTER H. ERVING.—Walter H. Erving was convicted in Island county of murder in the second degree, in September, 1897. The evidence was circumstantial, the crime having been committed in 1894, and the arrest not having been made for more than two years thereafter. In the year 1902 an unknown man committed suicide near Seattle. Near where the body was discovered a note was found in which the writer confessed to the murder in question. Considering all the facts in the case as presented at the hearing a pardon was deemed proper. It was granted June 1, 1903.

JAMES EVANS.—James Evans was convicted in King county of murder in the second degree and sentenced February 9, 1892, to a term of nineteen years. Pardon was recommended by the presiding judge and prosecuting attorney who conducted the case. Pardon was signed April 1, 1903.

JOSEPH F. BURKE.—Joseph F. Burke was a young man of previous good character who was, in King county, on the 7th day of March, 1902, sentenced to a term of two years in the penitentiary for the crime of assault with intent to commit robbery. A petition asking for his pardon was signed by the trial judge, the prosecuting attorney who conducted the case, the sheriff and other officials, and a pardon was granted April 1, 1903.

SAMUEL SAMPSON.—Samuel Sampson was, in Skagit county, August 31, 1902, sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of fourteen months for the crime of grand larceny. He was, previous to the commission of this crime, a young man of good character. A pardon was issued April 10, 1903, on petition of the prosecuting attorney who conducted the case, and several officials and prominent citizens of Whatcom and San Juan counties, where he had previously resided and was well known.

BEDFORD SKELTON.—Bedford Skelton was, in Whatcom county, on the 8th day of June, 1901, sentenced to a term of ten years in the penitentiary for the crime of rape. Clemency was recommended by the presiding judge, the prosecuting attorney who conducted the case, and others. The judge and attorney were convinced by developments subsequent to the trial that the prosecuting witness was a degenerate, and unchaste prior to the commission of the crime. A pardon was granted May 6, 1903.

WALTER BROWN.—Walter Brown was, on the 6th day of January, 1902, in Pierce county, sentenced to a term of two years in the penitentiary for the crime of forgery. On July 1, 1904, about four months prior to the expiration of his term of imprisonment a pardon was granted upon recommendation of the superintendent of the prison, it being Brown's first offense and his conduct in the prison having been exemplary.

GEORGE EMANUEL.—George Emanuel was, in King county, February 3, 1903, sentenced to a term of eight years in the penitentiary for the crime of burglary. This was a case where a man, just released from prison, and, who, apparently, desired to reform, was followed by the police and ordered out of both Tacoma and Seattle. Instead of leaving Seattle he secured employment with a responsible firm. A burglary was committed and Emanuel was taken before the woman of the house who identified him as the criminal. After the man was imprisoned evidence was secured that convinced the judge, the prosecuting attorney and eleven of the jurors that Emanuel was innocent. Upon their recommendation a pardon was granted July 3, 1903.

BEN DRISCOLL.—Ben Driscoll was, in Spokane county, June 4, 1903, sentenced to a six months term of imprisonment in the Spokane county jail for the crime of gross lewdness. He was a young man of previous good character. The presiding judge, upon request, ordered an examination by physicians of the young man's physical condition. A unanimous report was made by five physicians that further imprisonment was likely to result in serious impairment of his health and would be dangerous. For this and other reasons the judge recommended a pardon, and it was granted July 20, 1903.

BERT COFER.—Bert Cofer was, in Spokane county, December 19, 1902, sentenced to a term of one year and six months in the penitentiary for the crime of horse stealing. Upon recommendation of the presiding judge and prosecuting attorney who conducted the case a pardon was granted September 19, 1903.

JOHN HEARST and JOHN SNIDER.—John Hearst and John Snider resisted arrest in the city of Dayton and were, August 13, 1903, sentenced under a state law, for the crime of assault and battery, to three months in the Columbia county jail at hard labor. A petition for pardon was signed by the trial judge, prosecuting attorney, sheriff, policeman who was assaulted, justice of the peace, and other officials. It was granted September 19, 1903.

EDWARD MORRIS.—Edward Morris was convicted in Spokane county for the crime of grand larceny and was sentenced April 14, 1902, to two and one-half years in the penitentiary. He was pardoned August 19, 1903.

WILLIAM BULLARD.—William L. Bullard was sentenced June 23, 1903, to eleven months in the Walla Walla county jail for assault and battery. A pardon being recommended by the trial judge, the prosecuting attorney, sheriff, and others, the same was granted October 19, 1903.

J. J. GRANT.—J. J. Grant was, in Jefferson county, February 5, 1900, sentenced to a term of ten years in the penitentiary for the crime of rape. He was an old man, had been a soldier and had always borne a good character. The trial judge was satisfied the case was a weak one; that conviction would have been extremely doubtful; that Grant was led into entering a plea of guilty under the promise (without the knowledge of the court) from persons in authority that he would be given a sentence of not over two years. Owing to Grant's advanced age the sentence was considered equivalent to a life sentence. Numerous petitions were forwarded asking for the pardon of Grant, and the pardon was signed October 26, 1903.

JAMES BOWEN.—James Bowen, was, in Chehalis county, December 3, 1901, sentenced to a term of five years in the penitentiary for the crime of rape. Upon recommendation of the superintendent and the physician of the penitentiary that Bowen, who was suffering from tuberculosis, and should be released, as his continued residence was detrimental to the general health of the institution, as well as for other reasons, a pardon was issued November 3, 1903.

A. M. WITHAM.—A. M. Witham was, in Whatcom county, June 8, 1901, sentenced to a term of fifteen years in the penitentiary for the crime of rape. Witham was convicted jointly with Bedford Skelton, heretofore reported, and the petition for his pardon was signed by the prosecuting attorney of Whatcom county and the trial judge. The prisoner's conduct in the penitentiary having been good, a pardon was issued December 14, 1903.

ALMA I. THOMAS.—Alma I. Thomas was, in Cowlitz county, May 14, 1903, sentenced to a term of one year in the penitentiary for the crime of adultery. The trial judge, prosecuting attorney and numerous citizens being of the opinion that Thomas erred more through ignorance than otherwise—believing he was legally married to the woman,—and that amends could be made by a legal marriage if Thomas was released, a pardon was granted February 2, 1904.

FRANK HOLEDGER.—Frank Holedger was, in Spokane county, October 30, 1895, sentenced to a term of two years in the penitentiary for the crime of publishing obscene literature. The sentence never having been enforced executive clemency was recommended by the presiding judge and a large number of leading citizens. A pardon was granted March 11, 1904.

WOODIE POOLE.—Woodie Poole was sentenced by a justice of the peace to thirty days in the Thurston county jail for indecent exposure. Owing to the physical condition of the prisoner and the great danger of contamination, the justice who sentenced him, the prosecuting attorney, and the sheriff joined in a request for pardon, which was granted April 22, 1904.

R. A. SERVIS.—R. A. Servis was, in Snohomish county, August 26, 1902, sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for the crime of grand larceny. He had been released on parole October 12, 1903, and had, by his conduct, secured the confidence of officials and citizens of Garfield county, where he resided. As Servis had never been in trouble prior to this offense, had always been a good citizen, had committed the crime while intoxicated, and showed by his conduct that he had reformed, a pardon was signed April 30, 1904.

JOHN CLARK.—John Clark was, in Pierce county, March 2, 1901, sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary for burglary. He was a homeless young man who, through associating with older men and desperate criminals, was led into crime. He was given a severe sentence. A pardon was urged by the trial judge and prosecuting attorney of Pierce county, and was granted April 30, 1904.

JOHN CORLEY.—John Corley was, in Douglas county, May 2, 1892, sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary for the crime of murder in the second degree. He had an unusually good record in the institution during his long stay there, having filled many important positions of trust, and, more than once, had been recommended by the superintendent for pardon. As his term would expire in August he was, upon recommendation of the superintendent and a large number of the best residents of Walla Walla, pardoned May 25, 1904.

WM. D. FETTERLY was, in King county, March 13, 1904, sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary for the crime of rape. Fetterly was convicted upon the testimony of his step-daughter after he had quarrelled with his wife. Upon a hearing it was shown that the principal witness against Fetterly was of bad character, and, morally, a degenerate. There being much doubt of the guilt of the prisoner a pardon was granted June 2, 1904.

REINHOLD HARRAS.—Reinhold Harras was, in Walla Walla county, November 1, 1901, sentenced to four years in the penitentiary for the crime of cattle stealing. It having been his first offense, his conduct having been exemplary, and the term of his sentence being nearly at an end, a pardon was requested by the trial judge, the prosecuting attorney, and others. It was granted June 3, 1904.

ERNEST C. CALHOUN.—Ernest C. Calhoun was, in Spokane county, March 12, 1904, sentenced to one year in the Spokane county jail for the crime of assault and battery. After Calhoun had served about seven months of the sentence his health began to fail rapidly. The trial judge, together with two other members of the superior bench of Spokane county, as well as the prosecuting attorney, leading physicians of Spokane, and a large number of officials and citizens, united in a petition for his pardon. The petition was granted October 11, 1904.

H. W. DANHAWER.—H. W. Danhawer was, in King county, May 14, 1904, sentenced to one year in the penitentiary for the crime of robbery. The twelve jurors, the trial judge, and the assistant prosecuting attorney who conducted the prosecution, joined in an appeal for executive clemency, on the grounds that the prisoner was young, of previous good character, and that there was some doubt of complete identification. Pardon was granted October 24, 1904.

H. W. MITCHELL.—H. W. Mitchell was, in Pierce county, April 4, 1903, sentenced to the penitentiary for the term of five years for grand larceny. Upon recommendation of the superintendent of the penitentiary, and letters of previous good character from ex-Governor Stephens, of Missouri, and others, a pardon was issued November 30, 1904.

H. St. JOHN DIX.—H. St. John Dix was, in Whatcom county, August 25, 1902, sentenced to the penitentiary for the term of ten years for the crime of larceny by embezzlement. The crime charged against Dix was that he had wrecked a bank by embezzling the funds, and the case was tried during the excitement following the failure of the bank. After Dix had been convicted an expert accountant examined the books and papers of the bank in the interest of the creditors and reported that Dix was the greatest individual loser by the failure of the bank, the net amount paid by St. John to and for the bank more than borrowed being $8,619.62, besides the loss of $11,700 cash paid for bank stock, now valueless. The expert also reported that "The greater part of the indebtedness of the bank was contracted, and its funds disbursed, before August 27, 1900. In fact the testimony of Alex. W. Atkins, given in the St. John trial, and the admission of the receiver, Robert Muir, as well as the books, show that the bank was insolvent when St. John purchased the stock in the institution." A pardon was granted December 3, 1904.

JOHN W. SHEEHAN.—John W. Sheehan was, in Skagit county, February 24, 1902, sentenced to a term of ten years in the penitentiary for the crime of assault with intent to commit murder. Upon recommendation of the superintendent of the penitentiary a parole was granted Sheehan November 28, 1903. Since that date his conduct has been such that the prosecuting attorney who conducted the case and a large number of officials and citizens of that county petitioned for his pardon. The pardon was issued January 4, 1905.

CHARLES POWERS.—Charles Powers was, in Skagit county, February 24, 1902, sentenced to the state penitentiary for a term of eight years for the crime of robbery. Powers was released on parole January 14, 1904, upon recommendation of the superintendent. Since that date his conduct has merited the recognition of the prosecuting attorney and many citizens who petitioned for his pardon. The prayer of the petitioners was granted January 9, 1905.

COMMUTATION OF SENTENCE.

DOMINGO COVELLO.—Domingo Covello was, in Island county, April 26, 1892, sentenced to eighteen years in the penitentiary for the crime of murder in the second degree. The superintendent of the penitentiary recommended that Covello be released in May, instead of September, 1903—the date of the expiration of his sentence—as it would enable him to secure employment and better care for himself. Commutation of sentence was, therefore, ordered from a term of eighteen years to seventeen years and seven months, the order being issued April 29, 1903.

JOHN REYNOLDS.—John Reynolds was convicted in King county of the crime of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged on Friday, February 12, 1904. The trial judge and prosecuting attorneys who conducted the case joined in a request for commutation of the sentence to imprisonment for life, which, upon hearing, was granted February 10, 1904.

GEORGE GRAY.—George Gray was, in King county, October 3, 1900, sentenced to fourteen years in the state penitentiary. He was employed for about four years as stenographer and clerk in the office of the institution, keeping the office records, etc., and had been a model prisoner. Upon recommendation of the superintendent and all of the prison officials his term was, on December 14, 1904, commuted, and he was released on New Year's day, 1905.

FRED HANSON.—Fred Hanson was, in Spokane county, December 4, 1901, sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary. Since his incarceration he had acted as electrician, had been a model prisoner and, upon recommendation of the superintendent and all of the prison officials, his term was, on December 14, 1904, commuted to enable him to be released on Christmas day.

J. E. CRONEY.—J. E. Croney was, in Stevens county, June 16, 1902, sentenced to seventeen years in the penitentiary for the crime of murder in the second degree. He had not previously been charged with crime and had always been a law-abiding citizen. The jury had recommended him to the mercy of the court, and the sentence pronounced being deemed excessive every juror within reach joined in a petition for Croney's pardon at this time, which petition was also signed by a number of county officials and the deputy prosecuting attorney. Upon a hearing of the case it was deemed proper to commute the sentence to a term of four years in the penitentiary, the papers being signed January 3, 1905.

L. W. SHULTZ.—L. W. Shultz was, in Lewis county, October 21, 1899, sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of ten years for cattle stealing. Upon recommendation of the prosecuting attorney who conducted the case, several county officers, and many citizens of Lewis county, a commutation of the sentence from ten to eight years was signed January 9, 1905.

C. G. RABY.—C. G. Raby was convicted of the crime of grand larceny in Whitman county, and on September 15, 1902, sentenced to a term of eight years imprisonment. Recently two large petitions from the leading business men and officials of Whitman county was presented asking that the term of imprisonment be commuted. Added to this was a petition signed by all of the members of the Whitman county delegation to the legislature requesting that the sentence be commuted from eight to four years imprisonment, and the order commuting the sentence as requested was issued January 10, 1905.

MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR McBRIDE.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, WASH., January 11, 1905.

Gentlemen of the Senate and of the House of Representatives:

Section 6, Article III, of the state constitution, requires the Governor to communicate at every session by message to the Legislature the condition of the affairs of the State, and recommend such measures as he shall deem expedient for their action. While under this section it is clearly the duty of the outgoing Governor to communicate to the Legislature the condition of the affairs of the State, it is generally considered that the recommending of new measures does not fall within his province, except, perhaps, such as may be necessarily connected with or growing out of information that he may have to impart.

The finances of the State are in a healthy condition. For the biennial term ending September 30, 1902, the State indebtedness was reduced $131,222.34, and for the biennial term ending September 30, 1904, $122,610.86, making a total reduction during the four years of $253,833.20.

The reduction of the State indebtedness for the biennial term ending September 30, 1904, in the sum of $122,610.86, is largely due to the fact that, in several instances, it has been found not necessary to expend the entire amounts appropriated at the last session. Of the appropriations made under the head of "For Governor's Office," about $27,000.00 will revert to the treasury. Something over $50,000.00 will remain unexpended out of the appropriations made for the maintenance of the State institutions under the management of the State board of control. The Louisiana Purchase Exposition commission of this State, after returning here such exhibits as may be suitable for use at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, will probably have an unexpended balance of between eight and nine thousand dollars. Out of an appropriation of $3,000.00 to be paid upon certificates of the labor commissioner, "For settlement of differences between employers and employes," only $76.20 has been used. These items I have mentioned as reverting to the treasury will reach a total of between eighty-five and ninety thousand dollars.

In the matter of appropriations I feel I would be falling short of my full duty did I not address a word of caution to the Legislature. The needs of the State are many. Many requests will be made, and there are many worthy objects to which it would be pleasing to lend aid by way of appropriations were it possible to do so. To keep the expenditures within the revenues will require a constant struggle. After the adjournment of the last session I felt constrained to disapprove appropriation bills and items of appropriation bills amounting to more than four hundred thousand dollars. Had not this been done, and had it not been found unnecessary to expend the entire amounts authorized by other appropriation bills, the State debt, instead of having been reduced during the last biennial term, would have been increased several hundred thousand dollars. This statement is made not through any desire to revive old controversies, but for the sole purpose of emphasizing the necessity of caution in these matters. It is not a pleasant task for an executive to be compelled, after adjournment, to disapprove numerous measures of the legislative branch of government, or else, as a penalty for not doing so, to accept the responsibility of seeing the State indebtedness very largely increased. In this, the closing act of my administration, I feel my motives will not be misunderstood in suggesting that this burden should not be placed upon the Executive.

The State soldiers' home, Western Washington hospital for insane, Eastern Washington hospital for insane, State penitentiary, State reform school, and State school for defective youth—institutions under the management of the State board of control—are entitled to your first consideration in the matter of appropriations. The increase in the number of the inmates renders necessary increased amounts for the maintenance of all of these institutions except the State reform school. Owing to their present rather crowded condition, and to the certainty that the number of their inmates will continue to increase, new buildings are also needed at all these institutions except the reform school. I invite your attention to the detailed report of the State board of control. Their successful and business-like management of these institutions entitles their recommendations to great weight.

The State educational institutions dependent for support upon appropriations made by the Legislature, namely, the University of Washington, the State agricultural college and school of science, and the normal schools at Ellensburg, Cheney and Bellingham, are all in a flourishing condition. Their several boards of regents and boards of trustees consist of men who take pride in their work. By careful attention to their duties, and through devoting their time to the upbuilding of the institutions with which they are connected, they have rendered valuable services to the State. Not least among their merits is the fact that they have absolutely divorced politics from our educational institutions. These institutions in the past could, no doubt, have used to advantage more money than was at their disposal; and could, no doubt, in the next two years use to advantage more than you will be able to grant them. They should, however, be dealt with as liberally as is consistent with preserving the proper balance between the State's expenditures and revenues. In this connection I wish to call attention to the fact that October 1, 1904, there was on hand in the scientific school fund $27,051.99; in the agricultural college fund $25,859.00; in the charitable, educational, penal and reformatory institutions fund $47,823.76; and in the normal school fund $16,916.04, making a total on hand in these funds of $117,650.79. When the last Legislature convened a test case was pending in the supreme court of this State to determine whether these several funds, like the common school fund, were permanent and irreducible so that only the interest could be expended, or whether the principal could be expended. Before adjournment it was decided that these funds were permanent and irreducible and that only the interest could be expended; but in the hurry of the closing days of the session the matter seems to have been overlooked and no provision was made for their investment. As there is no good reason why this money should remain idle in some bank, provision should be made for the proper investment of these funds to the end that the educational institutions entitled thereto may receive some benefit from the same.

The national guard of the State as now constituted is a very efficient organization. It stands high in the estimation of officers in the regular army. Its present high state of efficiency I attribute very largely to the fact that politics has been entirely barred from the organization. While there is no need of enlarging it beyond the limits now authorized by law, yet within those limits it should be cheerfully supported, for I am satisfied that if its services are ever needed it will give a good account of itself.

The fund for the maintenance of the capitol building became exhausted October 1, 1904, and it became necessary for the capitol commission to make provision for the payment of running expenses for the ensuing months of October, November, and December. At the request of the commission the Capital National bank of Olympia advanced the necessary funds for this purpose, amounting to the sum of $1,804.31, agreeing to look to the Legislature for reimbursement. To reimburse this bank I would recommend the passage of a relief bill for the sum advanced.

December 28, 1904, I received from the supreme court of this State the following communication:

"The Legislature of 1903, in an amendment to the law relating to the admission of attorneys to the bar, enacted, among other things, that the Supreme Court might 'appoint three attorneys at law, members of the bar of said court of not less than five years' standing, as a board of examiners to conduct written examination of applicants for admission to the bar, under the direction of said court, the members of which said board shall hold office for one year from and after their appointment, unless sooner removed by the court;' and also enacted, that the 'members of said board of examiners shall be allowed and paid a per diem not to exceed ten dollars per day during their attendance upon said court in the conduct of said examination, and mileage at the rate of five cents per mile for every mile actually traveled going to and returning from attendance upon the court at such examination.' No appropriation, however, was made to meet the expenses that would be created by the appointment of such board. But, notwithstanding the want of such an appropriation, this court, owing to the pressure upon it of constantly increasing business which could not be delegated, felt compelled to relieve itself of the burden of conducting the examination of applicants in person by the appointment of a board of examiners under the act. To that end, on December 16, 1903, the court named as members of such board, Mr. P. M. Troy of Olympia, Mr. James B. Murphy of Seattle, and Mr. J. B. Bridges of Aberdeen, each of whom is a member of the bar of this court, and otherwise qualified to act as a member of such board according to the terms of the law. These gentlemen accepted their appointments, and have served continuously ever since, each having been reappointed at the expiration of his first year's service.

"By the terms of the statute the several members of the board have become entitled to the following sums from the State, namely:

	Mileage	Per Diem	Total
Mr. P. M. Troy.....		$ 90.00	$ 90.00
Mr. James B. Murphy.....	$19.20	100.00	119.20
Mr. J. B. Bridges.....	12.80	60.00	72.80
Grand total.....			$282.00

"As the members of the board have not only given the time necessary to a faithful and conscientious discharge of the duties imposed by virtue of such appointment, but have also borne their own expenses while in the discharge of such duties, the court feels that it would be no more than just that the coming Legislature make provision for the payment to them of the amounts earned as above stated. The court, therefore, begs to call your attention to the matter, and requests that you, in any way that you may deem most fitting, call it to the attention of the Legislature, so that that body may have an opportunity to take such action concerning such payment as in its wisdom it may deem appropriate."

Fully agreeing with the court, I recommend an appropriation sufficient to cover the claims of the "board of examiners."

A subject of very great importance to the State is that of irrigation. June 17, 1902, what is known as the "Reclamation act" was passed by congress, reserving, setting aside and appropriating as a special fund in the treasury, to be known as the "Reclamation fund," the proceeds derived from the sale of public lands, excepting five per cent. thereof, in thirteen states, including Washington, and three territories, said "Reclamation fund to be used in the examination and survey for, and the construction and maintenance of irrigation works for the storage, diversion, and development of waters for the reclamation of arid and semi-arid lands in the said states and territories." It seems to be the intent of the act that the money derived from the sale of public lands in each of said states is to be expended in that state "subject to the existence of feasible irrigation projects therein," provided the laws of the State are such that the spirit and purpose of the act can be complied with. I understand that this State has contributed in the neighborhood of three and one-half million dollars to the "Reclamation fund." It is certainly of the utmost importance to the State that this money should be expended in the State. Whether this can or will be done seems to hinge, first, upon the existence of feasible irrigation projects in the State, from an engineering standpoint, and, second, upon whether, our laws are such that those in charge of the reclamation service would deem it feasible to attempt to carry out such irrigation projects as may be feasible from an engineering standpoint. No one doubts the existence of feasible irrigation projects in the State from an engineering standpoint, and it seems equally clear that our laws are not such as warrant those in charge of the reclamation service in undertaking to carry out such projects. Therefore, in the final analysis, the question whether the money contributed by this State to the "Reclamation fund" is to be expended in this State depends upon the action of this Legislature. This, in my opinion, is one of the most important subjects which you will be called upon to consider. Some time ago it was suggested to me by officials of the United States reclamation service that under our laws, as they now are, it would not be feasible to undertake any irrigation project in this State. I was also requested by various boards of trade and chambers of commerce, and persons interested in irrigation, to appoint an "irrigation commission" to study the question. There was no law authorizing the appointment of such a commission, and there was nothing it could do that would be binding upon the State. but, after careful consideration, I concluded to appoint an "irrigation commission" for the purpose of investigating the subject of irrigation and recommending such changes in our irrigation laws as might be deemed for the best interests of the State, to the end that I might be able to lay before this Legislature the result of its labors for such action as in your wisdom you may determine. I appointed as members of that commission the following named gentlemen: J. H. Smithson, Austin Mires, Geo. P. Cottrell, John A. Shackelford, Walter H. Granger, Harold Preston, E. A. Bryan, N. G. Blalock, Charles P. Lund, and W. B. Bridgeman. After diligent study and extended research the commission embodied its conclusions in a report which will be submitted to you and to which I wish to invite your most careful attention. The time devoted to the subject and the acknowledged ability of the members of the commission entitle its conclusions to respectful consideration. The members of this commission do not desire and would not accept any compensation for their services, but, with some reluctance, they have consented to me recommending an appropriation sufficient to cover their actual expenses. These expenses, including fees of stenographers and expense of printing report, amount to $1,080.40. A detailed statement of these expenses will be placed before your appropriation committees, and I recommend an appropriation sufficient to cover the same.

I feel like congratulating the people of the State upon the fact that sentiment is now almost unanimous in favor of the passage of a railway commission bill. Many who have been bitterly opposed to it in the past now seem to be clamoring for the enactment of such a measure. Their sincerity will be put to the test during this session. It is needless for me to say that there are commission bills and commission bills. A commission bill that is a commission bill in name only instead of quieting would serve to increase the agitation that has been carried on in this State upon this question. What is needed is a regulative, appointive railway commission clothed with ample power to remedy existing abuses. Any other kind of a commission, in my judgment, would prove to be worse than useless. I trust the wisdom of this Legislature may be sufficient to settle this question properly, for, in my judgment, it will never be settled in this State until it is settled right.

In conclusion, permit me to express the hope that your duties may prove to be pleasant and congenial and that your labors may redound to the honor and to the credit of the State.

The president appointed Senators Hunter and Wilson and Representatives Roth, Sheets and Crane to escort Governor-elect Albert E. Mead to the bar of the House.

Governor-elect Albert E. Mead appeared before the joint session.

Chief Justice Wallace Mount administered the oath of office to Governor-elect Albert E. Mead.

Governor Mead delivered the following inaugural address:

INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

Called by my fellow citizens to fill the most honorable position in the councils of the State and entrusted with the stewardship of the highest interests of an intelligent and hospitable people, I accept the invitation, realizing full well in advance its grave duties, its mighty obligations, its never ending responsibilities, its perplexing, unsolved and almost insoluble problems.

In obedience to your summons, and mindful of the confidence and trust to me extended, I enter upon the prosecution of the exalted duties of the Chief Executive as prescribed by the Constitution and Laws of your State and mine. I do so with the abiding conviction that the united support of the sterling and patriotic citizenship of this State, aided and influenced by the favors of a just, charitable and kind Providence, will point the way and illumine the path of my ambition to have written in our future annals the simple but forceful sentence that the fifth Governor of this commonwealth was a faithful, energetic and courageous servant of the people.

No consideration of political service or personal friendship will permit the appointment of inefficient applicants in the public service, or retain in office a proven incompetent or unfaithful public official. From the highest official to the lowest subordinate, the people are entitled to the very best service obtainable in the State in the management of its affairs and in the conduct of its business.

Our educational institutions and public school system have been invigorated by bountiful contribution from the hand of a generous and farseeing Government in the form of various land grants. We shall continue in the future to supplement the revenues so received by sufficient amount raised by direct taxation to maintain our public school and higher educational facilities upon the highest plane. The national and State Governments long ago assumed the duty and burden of standing for the education of the children, in order to be assured of an intelligent and patriotic citizenship.

The student in the higher educational institutions should receive wholesome advice and instruction in the duties and obligations of good citizenship, and he should be taught to revere the form of government established by our forefathers. Any attempt upon the part of an instructor or the management of any of our higher educational institutions to arouse in the minds of the student body a feeling of prejudice or hostility towards the form of government which has survived for more than a century and has been the mightiest factor known to history in advancing the cause of civilization, or to influence the boys and girls of this State to believe that our system of government is based upon fallacious principles and should, therefore, ultimately be overthrown, will receive immediate attention from the executive department, and the instructor engaged in the exploitation of such un-American ideas will receive immediate dismissal.

Modern methods of treating and caring for the insane confined in our charitable institutions, and the most approved method of sanitation in the arrangement of our hospitals will be encouraged, to the end that those whose minds are temporarily clouded may again see the sunlight of intelligence and be restored to reason, and to their friends, families and homes.

The people of this State regard the support of the Soldier's Home not as a duty which is burdensome, but as a privilege they are happy to exercise in grateful recognition of the services of their country's defenders.

I recognize the principle that penal institutions are established for the purpose of protecting society and not to punish criminals to satisfy any feeling of anger or revenge that might exist in the heart of the injured party. While the inmates of the penal institutions will receive the punishment contemplated by law, yet they should at all times be given the humane treatment man owes to his brother always and everywhere, during the period of their incarceration.

In the exercise of the pardoning power, I acknowledge and record my confidence in the integrity and justice administered by our courts. This extraordinary power ought not, in my judgment, to be exercised except in extreme cases and then only upon the assumption that the courts have pronounced a righteous judgment but that the best interests of society would be subserved by invoking and applying this constitutional prerogative.

We cannot appropriately observe the solemnities of an occasion such as this without instinctively turning back to the early chapters of our splendid history. We glean from those pages that the historic soil upon which this city now stands has been made sacred by associations and memories akin to those which cluster around the imperishable Plymouth Rock or which arise from the ruins and desolation of the unhappy Jamestown, for here was rocked the cradle of a future State; here, on September 11, 1852, a weekly newspaper published its initial number and at once dedicated its columns to the plan of dividing Oregon Territory; here it was that in the year 1852, a Fourth of July orator in the fervency of his eloquence first gave public utterance to the desire of those early pioneers for a division of Oregon Territory and for the creation of a territorial government of their own.

The children of this commonwealth, who love its history and revere the sacrifices of its pioneers, will some day, without the assistance of an appropriation bill, contribute from their individual treasuries to the building of a monument commemorating the sacrifices of those who broke the stillness of this far Northwest, laid the cornerstone of this commonwealth, ushered into existence a possible new State, and planned the addition of another star to their country's banner.

We may advert at this time to the simple story of the rise and upbuilding of American commonwealths, and contrast the splendid opportunities we now enjoy with the conditions which existed early in the history of the territory. We have advanced since then with amazing rapidity. Our progress, however, could not have been so marked had we not been endowed by the God of Creation with a variety of resources and with an industrious, liberty-loving, God-fearing citizenship drawn from the sturdy loins of the descendants of Puritan and Cavalier, invigorated with the industrious immigrant from the crowded centers of Northern Europe who rapidly assimilated with the character of American citizenship. All concentrating in this far Northwest to force from the rugged face of Nature the golden plenty of peace and comfort, and to pursue the highest mission of mankind, that of transforming a wilderness into homes.

When the humble Nazarene walked upon earth among men, our mighty forests were planted upon the ocean side of a precipitous mountain range from which we have furnished material for the construction of homes and habitations of an empire. In the valleys and plains lying upon east slope, "the wheat locks the sunshine in the bearded sheaf," and the husbandman sends the lifeblood pulsating through the veins of a million of human bodies.

I have no foreboding of the future of this State to express; no discordant note to sound; no gloomy picture to paint of the destiny of this fair land now having just passed the half-century mark of its existence as a Territory and State. This period of our State's infancy may well be rehearsed upon occasions such as this, when friends and fellow citizens gather to witness the coming and the departure of those commissioned by the people to transact the public business.

So long as the English language is spoken, the memory of our early pioneers, led on by that intrepid and indefatigable citizen and soldier, Isaac L. Stevens, will be cherished. Splendid examples of typical American citizenship were they. Citizen and soldier upon one day; builders of commonwealths and law makers upon the next. God bless their memory! And prosper the fortunes of their successors in the noble service of improving and extending the edifice of our State government in order that it may fully protect, benefit and comfort its citizens.

GOVERNOR MEAD'S MESSAGE.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
January 11, 1905.

Gentlemen of the Senate and of the House of Representatives:

In presenting a message to you in these new and well equipped legislative apartments, I cannot but contrast in my mind's eye your surroundings with those of the first Washington legislative assembly, which gathered in that old building, still standing, hardly a stone's throw from this edifice, close on to fifty-one years ago. The contrast symbolizes and illustrates the progress of Washington in the intervening period. Mentally, if not physically, it is a far cry from the insignificant and simple store room where the pioneer law makers met to this imposing capitol, and yet I trust that in the discharge of our duties we shall not lose sight of the example of sturdy patriotism and sound common sense in legislation set for us by the representatives of that pioneer people. Their problems were different problems; their issues different issues from those with which you have to deal; but now, just as in those formative days, there is a demand and a necessity that the tasks of legislation be approached in a spirit of unswerving devotion to the public weal, and that your efforts be animated solely by a desire to serve the best interests of the entire commonwealth.

Owing to the fact that but two months intervene between the election of a Chief Executive and his inauguration, it is impossible for him to study the needs of the State institutions to any greater extent than a member of this body serving his first term. The injunction of the Constitution to the effect that the Governor "shall communicate at every session to the Legislature the condition of affairs of the State, and recommend such measures as he shall deem expedient for their action," necessarily places the duty upon the retiring Executive.

The present legislative and executive departments certainly have the opportunity to add a splendid chapter to the history of this commonwealth in contributing to the welfare of its people, by bringing about the enactment of wise and wholesome laws and in the faithful performance of the duties resting upon them. We are here but for a moment, as we measure the lives of States and Republics; we are but temporarily clothed with the insignia of power and authority. I express the hope, born of the confidence the people have in your industry, ability and patriotism, that when this Legislature has finally adjourned, some deed or act will have emanated from this body that will receive the commendation of future generations and substantially contribute to the happiness of our people.

We are gathered here under favorable and auspicious circumstances. Our common country is at peace with the world; our people are enjoying a marvellous prosperity; in the Pacific Northwest we are on the threshold of a great trade with the Orient—a commerce which will increase in magnitude year by year; your convening is practically coincident with the entry into the waters of Puget Sound of one of the greatest ocean freight carriers ever constructed by ship builders of this or any other country.

Twice appointed Territorial Governor, serving in that capacity for eight years, called later by his countrymen to honor the Executive chair as the first Governor of the State of Washington when the people were entrusted with full self government, when Elisha P. Ferry was ready to join companionship with the fathers of the Republic he loved so well, he bequeathed us a heritage of faithful performance of duty which his successors in office may well strive to emulate. This Legislature and its successors who may gather here to perform the responsible and exacting duties devolving upon law makers may well recall the wise counsel and practical suggestions made by this distinguished Chief Executive in his message to the Legislature in 1893, when he said:

"No more important duty, nor greater responsibility can devolve upon an American citizen than when he is called upon to exercise those powers and functions which appertain to him as a member of the legislative department of the Government. When the people desire relief from existing wrongs, and demand the adoption of a policy which will promote their welfare and prosperity, their appeal is made to the legislative department, and not to the executive or judicial.

"Within the few years past, consequent upon the unprecedented accumulation of wealth on this continent and the economic changes resultant from invention and enterprise, have arisen problems offering unexplored fields to the practical economist, and demanding the most profound, temperate and patriotic consideration of those upon whom rest the duty of enacting laws. Restrictions on the influence and employment of capital, remedial legislation of a character hitherto unknown in our history, affecting private interests, is demanded by many, and alleged to be imperatively necessary under existing conditions. That our State is not free from evils, which can be minimized or cured by speedy and prudent legislation, must be conceded by all who have investigated the subject; but, in my opinion, it is doubtful whether it would be a sound, wise or beneficent policy to institute the extreme radical measures advocated by many.

"The enactment of unjust or oppressive laws, or the failure to enact just the necessary measures of remedy and relief, engenders in the minds of the people feelings of discontent which may cause them to renounce that veneration and respect for law and government upon which depends the perpetuity of our institutions. When this distrust and its consequent contempt become general among the people, history teaches us that the tendency is to revolutionary and destructive methods. A fundamental principle in all legislation should be that the rights of all should be protected and the rights of none destroyed, infringed or abridged, acting in conformity with it, no Legislature can fail to acquit itself with credit and to do justice to all classes in our commonwealth."

A dual obligation rests upon each legislator to loyally serve his local constituents and at the same time protect the general interests of the entire people of the State.

APPROPRIATION BILLS.

The legislative will, in enacting appropriation bills, should not be defeated unless the aggregate amount appropriated exceeds reasonable limits. The State, like an individual, has an income. If appropriations exceed the maximum limit, the Executive veto must necessarily be exercised. Owing to the healthy prosperity existing in this State, a disposition to be extravagant may follow in writing appropriation bills. This tendency should, however, be restrained in consideration of the fact that, if the demands made by you upon the people are excessive, needed expenditures of the local subdivisions of the State will necessarily be defeated, and to that extent, school districts will be prevented from constructing additional school buildings to satisfy increased school population; school boards will be prevented from increasing salaries of teachers; counties and cities will be unable to extend roads and streets to meet the demands of public travel; cities, counties and school districts will be unable to lessen indebtedness incurred for public improvements and buildings. The conclusion, therefore, is almost irresistible that, unless additional property heretofore released from taxation is placed upon the tax roll, the expense of the State government for the coming two years ought not to be materially increased beyond the expenses of the past two years, except the additional amount absolutely necessary for the State to keep pace with the progress and civilization of the age, and with the general material advancement of the interests of the people.

UNITED STATES SENATOR.

The law of the land, expressed by Constitution and Federal statutes, makes it the duty of this body to select one of the two United States Senators representing this commonwealth in the Senate of the United States for the ensuing term.

Many of you are called upon for the first time in your experiences as citizens of the Republic to exercise this grave duty, the most important, possibly, ever committed to your keeping. The citizen of Washington, commissioned by your voice to sit in the Senate chamber in the Congress of the United States, may be called upon before the expiration of his term to face problems of extraordinary importance to the millions constituting this country of ours. I believe that, in the execution of this duty of paramount importance, you will be actuated by the same impulses, the same high and patriotic resolves that have moved other Legislatures, at other times and under other conditions, to select eminent fellow citizens to adorn this dignified and historic chamber, and one who would faithfully and conscientiously protect and defend the interests of country and commonwealth; the same impulse and measurement of men that gave to the nation the services of Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, Stephen A. Douglas, Thomas H. Benton, William H. Seward and James G. Blaine; the same impulse that prompted the first Legislature of the State of Washington to elect that splendid citizen and patriot, John B. Allen, now contending in that higher Senate than ours that right and justice may prevail in the State he so honored and loved before he paid the debt to Nature and passed from us, will actuate you in your duty of selecting a United States Senator to represent this commonwealth for the ensuing term. When you have performed this duty and during his six years at the capital of the Nation, he should receive from you and the people he represents full measure of support and confidence, giving to his strong right arm the power and influence to battle successfully for the highest and noblest interests of the millions bearing allegiance to the flag of the Republic.

RAILWAY COMMISSION.

I recommend the enactment of a law establishing a railway and transportation commission in this State, to consist of three members, to be appointed by the Executive, to perform the duties and exercise the powers contemplated by the provisions of Section 195, Article 2 of the State Constitution, which is as follows:

“The Legislature shall pass laws establishing reasonable rates of charges for the transportation of passengers and freight, and to correct abuses, and to prevent discrimination and extortion in the rates of freight and passenger tariffs on different railroads and other common carriers in this State, and shall enforce such laws by adequate penalties.

“A railway and transportation commission may be appointed, and its powers and duties fully defined by law.”

Salaries, commensurate with the duties to be performed and ability and fidelity required of the commissioners working under such law, should be provided. Otherwise, its operation will not meet even the expectations of its most conservative advocates.

I am advised that a difference of opinion exists among eminent members of the bar in this State concerning the constitutional right of the Legislature, under the section quoted, to empower such a commission with the authority to establish maximum rates for transportation of passengers and freight, and with power to correct abuses and prevent discrimination in freight and passenger tariffs on the different railroads and other common carriers in this State. Those, challenging the right of the Legislature to delegate these powers, claim that a railway and transportation commission could perform only such duties and exercise only such powers as are not specifically reserved for legislative action. Those, interested in the passage of such a measure and the speedy settlement of any objection that may be urged thereto, will be in accord with me in hoping that you will consider this recommendation early in the session.

If a measure be adopted by this Legislature empowering such a commission with the authority to regulate freight and passenger rates and to perform such other duties specified in the constitutional provision quoted, and if such act contains an emergency clause, a test case might be submitted to the Supreme Court and, if diligently prosecuted before that tribunal, a decision might be rendered before your final adjournment that would prescribe how far such a commission could perform its duties without encroaching upon the powers reserved in the Legislature.

The act, which may finally receive a constitutional majority at your hands, must not only conform to the mandate of the Constitution quoted, but should be so framed that its execution will be in accord with the plainest principles of justice between shipper and carrier. On November 8, 1904, the people of this country gave to the present Chief Executive of this nation an expression of their confidence and good will more pronounced than ever before extended to a Chief Magistrate by the voluntary act of a free people. It is a pleasure to quote, and equally pleasurable for you to hear and endorse in this connection, the sentiment expressed in an extract from the message of President Roosevelt to Congress, given in December, 1901, concerning the amendment of the present Interstate Commerce Act. I quote as follows:

“The railway is a public servant. Its rates should be just to and open to all shippers alike. The Government should see to it that within its jurisdiction this is so, and should provide a speedy, inexpensive and effective remedy to that end. At the same time, it must not be forgotten that our railroads are the arteries through which the commercial lifeblood of the nation flows. Nothing could be more foolish than the enactment of legislation which would unnecessarily interfere with the development and operation of these commercial agencies."

CONSERVATIVE LEGISLATION.

I recognize the fact that in the performance of the duties of a legislator, well meaning friends will urge you to introduce for consideration proposed laws, the enactment of which would be unwise, inopportune and in every way injudicious and inexpedient.

I also recognize that the legislator serves his people best who has the courage to oppose a great portion of the measures introduced. We often hear the complaint from many States as well as our own that the statute books are crowded with incomplete, unsatisfactory statutory provisions. Our laws cannot, in the nature of things, be made perfect, adequate or complete, but if they are sufficient, in a substantial way, for the relief of the people and have received judicial interpretation, we would be following the path of wisdom to let well enough alone.

I would most respectfully urge upon you the necessity of having your bills carefully drawn by competent counsel or advisors with the purpose in view of avoiding constitutional objections and thereby saving the State the confusion and expense of acting for a time under a law of doubtful validity.

I desire also to call your attention to the necessity of having your bills correctly enrolled. An examination of the decisions of our Supreme Court will satisfy you that great confusion has resulted, and rights have been jeopardized, on account of the hasty enrollment of bills during the closing days of the session. I would, therefore, impress upon you the necessity of selecting competent and trustworthy clerks for the performance of this duty, and especially urge upon the committee having charge of this work the necessity of care in the comparison of the enrolled bill with the original or engrossed bill, so it will correctly represent the legislative will.

You will be urged in many instances to invoke the provision of the Constitution requiring an emergency clause to be attached so that the bill may become a law at once. I hope you will withstand these requests so that the provision of the Constitution will be fairly complied with, as it is a matter of common knowledge that the interests of the people are best subserved by the delay of the ninety days intervening between the adjournment of the Legislature and the date on which the acts take effect, thus permitting the people to adjust themselves to the new conditions.

I trust you will confine yourselves to the strengthening of the laws we now have, only extending your field of legislative endeavor to those matters which have been generally discussed among the people, or which have heretofore received attention of the Legislature or commissions appointed by the Executive. Under all circumstances, I believe that the conservative tendency of this Legislature will be to see to it that this young child of the Northwest is not handicapped by any unwise or radical legislation that will retard its growth, or that will return to plague us.

SUBMIT BILLS TO SUPREME COURT.

I am heartily in favor of the system followed in some of our sister States whereby the Legislature, by two-thirds vote, may submit any bill under consideration by that body to the judgment of the Supreme Court, and under the law it is made the duty of the Supreme Court to at once determine its validity and so report to the Legislature. I, therefore, earnestly recommend the enactment of such a statute, or amendment of our Constitution to permit such a practice, if constitutional amendment be necessary.

On account of the absence of any such provision by statute or Constitution of our sister State of Oregon, when a revenue law recently enacted by the Legislature of that State was declared unconstitutional, the Executive was compelled to call an extraordinary session of the Legislature in order to raise funds so that the State government and its various subdivisions could continue in existence. An amendment or practice such as I suggest might in the future save this State the expense of a special session of the Legislature.

The greatest good, in my judgment, which would result from such a requirement would be the fact that, when the Legislature and the Supreme Court have pronounced upon the enactment and validity of a statute, the people and public officers have definite assurance that the law is stable and binding, and can proceed accordingly.

SUPREME COURT.

In order to dispose of the constantly accumulating causes before the Supreme Court, I urgently recommend the enactment of an act, at the earliest possible time, providing for an increase of the membership of that tribunal from five to seven members, and that such increase be permanent. In my judgment, large property interests are necessarily endangered if not injured by reason of the delay in adjudicating legal matters pending before the Supreme Court. The increase of the bench would facilitate the early disposition of criminal cases, and would warrant such cases receiving a preferred place upon the calendar early in the sessions of the court.

Justice Brewer of the Supreme Court of the United States, recently expressed the sentiment that, "Justice delayed is often justice denied." Delay in the trial of criminal cases and postponement of execution of sentence not only impairs the administration of justice, but destroys the deterring influence which ought to follow the prompt and summary enforcement of the criminal statutes.

CRIMINAL CODE AMENDMENT.

I would, therefore, suggest amendment of the statute to require that judgment in criminal cases be entered immediately after the verdict of guilty is returned; that the time be limited in which the person convicted may apply for a new trial; that if his application for a new trial is overruled, the judgment of the Court be immediately executed, unless notice of appeal is given; that immediately after the trial and conviction of a person charged with infraction of the criminal statute, and the denial of a motion for a new trial, the court stenographer prepare a transcript of the testimony, serve a copy upon the defendant or his attorney, and that when the testimony is authenticated by the trial judge it be filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court.

PREFERENCE TO CRIMINAL CAUSES.

I recommend, also, amendments requiring that the Supreme Court shall give preference to criminal causes in its assignment of cases pending before the court; that, if necessary, civil cases give way for the immediate hearing of criminal cases, when transcript and briefs are on file; that the time be lessened for the filing of briefs, and that no extension be permitted by stipulation or order of the Superior Court, and only granted by order of the Supreme Court.

DIVORCE REFORM.

Our courts are often subjected to criticism, but in many instances unjustly, on account of the large number of decrees granted in divorce cases. The fault, in my judgment, is not with the courts but with the law regulating the divorce system. The courts are bound to respect the law even if its administration results in the dissolution of the marriage contract in multitudinous cases.

Rather than inaugurate a radical change in the divorce system, I would recommend that certain provisions be strengthened and given life and vigor by judicious amendments.

A statute, continued from territorial days, requires the presence of the county attorney to resist default divorce cases. In making a bona fide resistance this official is handicapped and his service to the court minimized as no authority or method is prescribed by which he can compel the attendance of witnesses to testify in behalf of the absent defendant. His service, therefore, at the trial is limited to the sole duty of cross examining the applicant and his witnesses. If it was the intention of the Legislature to require the county attorney to resist undefended divorce cases in the manner that a faithful official would represent the best interests of society, he should have an opportunity of conducting an intelligent defense by summoning witnesses to testify to the facts in the case. To bring this about, the applicant should be required to deposit such an amount as the court may direct for the payment of witness fees.

The law should be further amended so as to permit the court to enter an order requiring the attendance of the plaintiff and the defendant at the trial, if both parties are within the jurisdiction of the court.

The law defining the rule of evidence concerning the admission of testimony of the husband or the wife should be so modified as to permit successful criminal prosecution to follow a trial in a divorce case in the event that, from the testimony submitted, the court or the prosecuting attorney is satisfied that one or the other of the parties has been guilty of a misdemeanor or felony.

The marriage relation is a solemn and sacred contract. As the family is the unit of society and the State, if the institution is destroyed or impaired, to that extent our highest standard of civilization suffers.

Fewer applicants for divorce decrees would appear in our courts if this body enacted a law making it a felony or misdemeanor for a parent to desert his child, or for a husband to voluntarily desert and abandon his wife, unless some reasonable ground exists therefor. The one hundred and fifty or more children committed to the State Reform School are there largely by reason of the domestic difficulties of their parents, who no longer continue the marriage relation or who have been separated by decree of divorce and one or the other remarried.

With these amendments and an additional one, requiring the court to enter a decree nisi at the time of the trial and a complete decree of divorce to follow at the expiration of a period of not less than six months from the date of trial so as to prevent absolutely either party from remarrying with a third person within such period after a decree of divorce is granted, I am of the opinion that fewer decrees of divorce will be granted in our State, and you will have performed an inestimable service in protecting the integrity of the marriage relation, and in reducing the number of children suffering from lack of parental care and attention, and in improving generally the welfare of society.

COURT STENOGRAPHERS.

The general demand in the superior courts of this State for the services of court reporters has in practice made them essential adjuncts of the trial courts. The court reporters should be given an official status, and provision made regulating their fees and salaries. Their compensation, however, should be derived from the counties they serve, collected in part from fees paid by the litigants. Under no circumstances, should this expense be borne by the State.

The rules of evidence should be so modified as to permit the stenographer to testify as a witness from his stenographic report concerning the declarations of witnesses reported by him, subject to the right of the opposing party to rebut such evidence.

JUVENILE COURTS.

One of the grave social problems that presents itself in every large center of population concerns dealing with juvenile offenders against the law. Several of our sister States have adopted the plan of creating juvenile courts, a plan which has been commended highly by students of the subject. I am of the opinion that the creation of such courts in cities of the first class in the State, would be beneficial to the commonwealth, and would tend to elevate our future citizenship.

PROBATE LAWS.

The bar and people generally of the State will welcome a readjustment of our probate laws. The present system lacks harmony and simplicity. I recommend a revision of the entire procedure so that the law governing the administration of estates will reduce the expense of settlement of the estate, and lessen the time for the distribution of the property to the beneficiaries.

Superior Judges, sitting in probate cases, should have jurisdiction to settle and adjudicate all matters connected in any way with the estate.

RECOMMENDED LEGISLATION.

The enactment of a law preventing the acquisition and indefinite holding of large tracts of State timber lands to the exclusion and prejudice of small mill owners and consumers; the passage of an anti-pass bill in compliance with the provisions of our State Constitution; the enactment of legislation for the protection of the interests of our laboring classes along the lines urged by the State Federation of Labor; the repeal of the present road law; the enactment of such laws as may be necessary to secure the completion of irrigation projects in Eastern Washington by the United States Government; and the enactment of a law providing for a commission with power to determine, for the purposes of assessment and taxation, the value of all corporate property, both real and personal, to the end that the burden of the government may be borne without prejudice, fear or inequality, are provisions of the platform adopted by the Republican party of this State, in convention assembled in the City of Tacoma, on May 11, 1904, which nominated for office the persons now constituting the executive department of this State.

The verdict of the people rendered at the November polls indicated in no uncertain way that a majority of the people favor the enactment of these platform utterances into laws. Giving expression, therefore, to the will of the people, I recommend early consideration of each and all of these promises and pledges so that the accumulation and congestion of business upon the respective calendars of each branch of the Legislature will not militate against the passage of those measures which constitute a part of the political faith of the dominant party of this State.

TAX COMMISSION.

Many demands will be made upon you during the session for the enactment of measures which will tend to materially increase the State appropriations for the ensuing two years. Those so interested in increased appropriation will not perhaps manifest the same zeal in promoting legislation by which the exchequer of the State may be replenished and increased appropriations met.

I would, therefore, suggest that, preliminary to the adoption of a final decision upon your part to appropriate money from the treasury for purposes other than the usual and necessary running expenses of the State government, you take up for consideration proposed legislation suggested by that plank of the Republican State platform favoring the creation of a State tax commission.

REVENUE AND TAXATION.

In your deliberations it would be well to bear in mind that equally important with the duty of appropriating public moneys is the task of providing the State revenue, though in the one you are apt to receive far more outside aid and counsel than in the other. I look forward hopefully to that day when it will no longer be necessary to levy direct taxes for the support of the State government, and I believe that, with the equal and just taxation of all property, contemplated by the constitution, that day is not far distant. We already receive a revenue from fees and licenses, which properly should be larger than it is. For instance, I am convinced that the present law is lame in the collection of annual license fees from corporations, and that incorporation fees paid to the office of the secretary of state might legitimately be increased. An intelligent tax commission, the creation of which I recommend to you in another portion of this message, has a broad field of labor in determining what tax shall be borne by those valuable but intangible forms of property, hitherto untaxed, in the class with franchises. In the meantime, I see no impropriety in this Legislature proceeding to levy a tax on the gross earnings of express companies, street car companies and sleeping car companies doing business in this State, to the end that those holdings contribute their proportion to the maintenance of the State government. Following out this plan, we should attain that position now occupied by some of the older States where direct taxes are paid only for the support of municipal and county governments. Such a system would abolish the unseemly scramble among the assessors of the different counties to lessen valuations of real and personal property so that each particular assessor's county may not pay more than its proportionate share of State taxation. At the same time, it would make for that equal and just taxation of all property, which is never burdensome.

DELINQUENT REVENUES.

The neglect, which amounts to refusal, on the part of a number of incorporated cities and towns to pay to the State the portion of municipal liquor license fees exacted by the State law, works a serious depletion of the State's legitimate revenues. I learn from the office of the state treasurer that these delinquencies are estimated at from $60,000 to $100,000, although, under the present system, the only way to obtain the accurate figures is by checking up the books of the separate municipalities, a work which has not been provided for in any State appropriation. I recommend to you such legislation as you may deem proper to bring about the collection of these delinquencies, and to prevent further withholding of State funds by municipalities. This latter result might readily be achieved by requiring that all liquor licenses bear the signature and seal of the state treasurer, which signature and seal would be affixed only after the State had received its percentage of the license fee. Another means of attaining the same end would be to make it a misdemeanor on the part of municipal officers to fail to turn over promptly to the State Treasurer the State's proportion of the fee.

Investigation shows that the State is not deriving the revenue it should from the inheritance tax law, many county and judicial officers falling to inform the state treasurer when estates, on which the tax should be collected, come into court.

I recommend the amendment of the inheritance tax law to compel the proper officers to make reports to the state treasurer.

STATE INSPECTION OF BANKS.

Statutory and constitutional provisions concerning criminal and civil liability of bank officials should be supplemented by legislation, so that deposits in the different banks of the State will be safely guarded by the custodians, and paid on demand.

With the purpose in view of protecting bank deposits, a system of State inspection of State, foreign and private banks should be provided to the end that every depositor can rely upon the integrity and honesty of every banking institution subject to regulation by the State, holding itself out as a bank and inviting deposits.

The late Governor John R. Rogers mentioned the subject in his message to the Legislature of 1899, and in part said:

"The State is able to and certainly should throw around such institutions the safeguards now existing with relation to national banks. The business of banking is eminently a public one, depending for its success upon the use of deposits made by the public. The people who do business with the banker, and the general public, thus acquire a right to know the state of affairs prevailing in the institutions upon which business in the several communities is made largely to depend. Honest and prosperous bankers will welcome examinations at frequent intervals, which will give them opportunity to advertise their standing and increase their business, while dishonest and unsuccessful ones should be weeded out, to the great advantage of communities infested by them."

Governor John H. McGraw in his message of 1895, said:

"The Legislature should address itself resolutely to the enactment of such a law as will render the word 'bank' when inscribed on a public depository a positive synonym of security."

IRRIGATION CODE.

I would commend to your earnest and careful consideration the report, which will be presented to you, of the irrigation commission appointed by my predecessor, Governor McBride, to investigate the subject of irrigation and recommend such changes in our system of irrigation as might be deemed for the best interests of the State.

The remarkable progress in recent years in the science of irrigation and the almost miraculous results we have seen in this State following the application of water to hitherto barren and unproductive lands, bring us to a realization that in our vast arid and semi-arid lands of Eastern Washington we have an asset of immense potential value. Under wise and benign enactments by the Congress of the United States the general government now stands ready, under certain conditions, to reclaim for our people and for our prospective population portions of those lands, making them productive and providing homes and means of livelihood for thousands. But, as a condition precedent to applying the benefits of the National reclamation act in this State, the general government requires that our State laws on the subject of water ownership in non-humid regions be not incompatible with the theory of water ownership as set forth in the reclamation law. That theory is succinctly worded in the President's declaration that "in irrigation this right (the right of water) should attach to the land reclaimed and be inseparable therefrom."

To bring about harmony between our State laws and the Federal enactment, is the problem before you, if we are to receive any benefit from the general government. The irrigation commission, with the aid of various distinguished gentlemen learned in irrigation law, has prepared a code which will be submitted to you for your consideration. I urge upon you the necessity of devoting much of your time to the subject for, as the President has stated, in it you are "dealing with a new and momentous question, in the pregnant years while institutions are forming," and what you do will affect not only the present but future generations.

HARBOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Development and improvement of the harbors of the State is a subject which I commend to your attention as one well within the province of the legislative branch of the State government. Experience has demonstrated that those harbors, where the interchange of traffic between land and water conveyances is best facilitated, enjoy the largest measure of prosperity. While we seek Federal appropriations for harbor work, we cannot consistently discourage the State from acting in harmony with the general government in those labors. It is just that the whole State should contribute thereto, since the benefits are to be shared by the inland producers and shippers quite as much as by the seacoast merchants and manufacturers.

I am of the opinion that a board or commission should be authorized, made up of representative citizens, to serve without remuneration except for necessary expenses, to suggest a plan to a succeeding Legislature for legislative action in the interests of harbor improvements.

ROAD LEGISLATION.

No duty of greater importance will engage the attention of this body than the consideration of road legislation. Improved highways constructed for permanent service increase the value of every acre of land near such road. We have demonstrated that the nearer land is to market, church and school, the greater its value and the more profitable is its product.

The platforms of the two great political parties call for the repeal of the present road law. However, I am not convinced that the people of this State desire to return to the old road supervisor system of constructing and improving county highways. All must recognize that we have entered upon an era of scientific road building and have reached a period when the services of practical road makers should be utilized in the construction and improvement of our county highways. We have relegated to the past the system which permitted road supervisors or county commissioners to experiment with the people's money in building a system of roads not in accordance with practical or scientific methods.

TOWNSHIP ORGANIZATION.

An act providing for township organization, approved March 23, 1895, conflicting in its provisions, lacking in the element of simplicity, of doubtful constitutional validity, has been a source of more or less controversy in the different counties of the State, but has not yet been adopted by the voters where it has been submitted to the people. It being the policy of the Legislature to strengthen the present system of administration of affairs by boards of county commissioners, I therefore, recommend that the interests of the State generally would be best subserved by the unconditional repeal of the township organization act.

FISHERIES.

You will be called upon during this session to consider and legislate upon the subject of the fisheries of this commonwealth. The output of the fishing industry in times past has added immeasurably to the productive wealth of this State. The industry involved in catching and preparing salmon as a commercial food product has furnished employment to a large number of our people, and is an industry of which we may well be proud. If any policy of the State will save this industry to the people, or will insure its perpetuation to future generations, or will materially increase the propagation of fish having the greatest commercial value, such action should be speedily taken as its postponement will result in the permanent impairment of one of the greatest industries of the State. We can well afford to use every means within legislative power to promote the industry and to increase the supply of salmon inhabiting the waters of Puget Sound and the Columbia river.

The fishing interests of the State, however, are not alone interested in the preservation of this industry, but it is a matter of vital importance to the people of the entire State.

MINES AND MINING.

The mining interests of this State will in time become an important factor as a wealth producing, labor employing industry. The "wildcat mining" industry, however, should be exterminated, as it has retarded legitimate mining investments and detracted from our good name and fame as a mining State.

LUMBER AND SHINGLES.

The lumber and shingle industry is one of the most important interests in the State, giving support, as it does, to a very large percentage of our citizens, and consequently it is entitled to such protection and encouragement as may properly be within the province of legislation. It is a matter of common knowledge that the industry at present has not that prosperity which is considered normal.

I recommend that you consider carefully the proposed legislation that will be presented to you on the subject, to the end that you may enact laws that, while equitable and just, will tend to restore prosperous conditions to the industry.

NATIONAL GUARD.

Official and unofficial statements by high officers of the United States army, reports of the joint maneuvers which occurred last summer at American Lake, and the testimony of well informed citizens have made it clear to me that in the National Guard of Washington, as at present constituted, we have an intelligent, effective and patriotic body of citizen soldiery of remarkable military efficiency. I believe that condition is due, in no small degree, to the fact that the military laws of the State are wise and just, and their administration in the hands of officers whose superior rank has been attained solely through efficiency rather than through political favor. I advocate the continuance of the system which has brought such gratifying results. The theory of the militia laws in this State differs from that in some States in this that the National Guard of Washington is organized not only as an arm for the State's defense, but primarily to fit the rank and file for immediate service as Federal volunteers at the call of the President, and this theory is one to which I am glad to give my endorsement. To maintain our National Guard at its present high standard I urge upon you the necessity of appropriating public funds with a liberality commensurate with the State revenues.

TUBERCULOSIS.

Our State is entitled to special prominence when compared with any other State in the Union, as a country possessing a health giving climate. Its abundance of fresh water for domestic use, its bracing air, untainted by the poison of malaria, are great factors in lessening the progress of disease. It does not, however, possess the temperature and other conditions needed by those seeking relief from pulmonary troubles that may be found in southern climes. It is estimated by a writer in one of our current magazines that of the 75,000,000 living Americans, 8,000,000 must inevitably die from pulmonary tuberculosis. Necessarily we must share in the terrible levy made annually upon the lives of the people. Can we afford to be dilatory in aligning our State with the progressive States of the Union in declaring war upon this great white plague which is in fact the scourge of the world? I ask you, therefore, to strengthen the powers of our local and State boards of health, arming them with weapons to give battle to this arch enemy of mankind.

Let me fortify this recommendation with an extract from the fifth biennial report of our State board of health, which is as follows:

"Tuberculosis in this State, as in all other States, is the cause of more deaths than any one other disease. It is settled beyond doubt that it is a communicable disease and one which, with reasonable precautions can be avoided, and, in a large measure, prevented. Notwithstanding these facts, little or no precaution towards prevention is taken by the people generally, though boards of health and physicians have for years been endeavoring to educate the public to the dangers and how to avoid them."

LEWIS & CLARK EXPOSITION.

In order that the State of Washington may be properly represented at the Lewis & Clark Exposition to be held in the City of Portland, Oregon, June 1, 1905, this Legislature ought to take up early in its session the question of what amount shall be appropriated for that purpose, how the sum shall be expended, and in what manner this State shall be represented at the exposition. In consideration of the enterprise exhibited by our sister State of Oregon and the City of Portland, its metropolis, and in view of the possible resulting benefit to our own State, I would recommend that this Legislature make a liberal appropriation and do so at once in order that the work contemplated by the appropriation may be entered upon, as but little time remains in which to make adequate preparation for an exhibit.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

I trust that many of you have already visited many of the State institutions, and that you will during this session, under the command of the branch of the Legislature of which you are a member, fairly inspect and investigate the management of the various educational, penal and charitable institutions. I know that if you do you will feel a pride in the spirit which prompted your predecessors when they enacted the law providing for the establishment of our educational and charitable institutions, as well as the Soldier's Home at Orting.

I urge upon you the necessity of making a liberal appropriation for the maintenance of this institution, believing that you will provide a generous amount to supplement the aid received from the general government for the maintenance of this Home.

I also urge your favorable consideration of the recommendations made by those having the active management of the institution in hand, so that the remaining years of the lives of the survivors of the Union army and navy, who have accepted privilege of the institution, may be filled with peace, quiet and comfort.

THE LEGISLATIVE LOBBY.

Unfortunately for the cause of good government, legislative sessions are generally attended by a class of political cormorants, who endeavor to usurp the powers of accredited members. By the exercise of skillful legerdemain and a finesse known to the experienced lobbyist, they frequently succeed in defeating the enactment of wise and beneficial laws. They at times challenge the ability and power of the people's representatives to act as a self governing parliamentary body, and too often wield greater power than the body itself.

You are the sole custodians of your prerogatives, solely responsible to the people for the record you make. These enemies of civic righteousness and good government, bearing no commission from the people, no letters of marque to engage in political privateering, acting under no oath of office, worshipping only the god Mammon, cherishing no high ideals, will haunt the corridors of this capitol building from now until adjournment. They dare not fight in the open for they realize that, like the fatal basilisk, "whose breath was poison and whose look was death," their active, open espousal of any cause would damn it.

Allow me to quote the denunciation of this class of legislative lobbyists by Governor Cummings in his message to the Iowa Legislature of 1902:

"The professional lobbyist has, I regret to say, become one of the features of legislative assemblies. Do not understand me to suggest that the halls of legislation should be inaccessible to either the individual or the corporation. The lobbyist, however, who is for anything or against anything for hire, whose mission is to promote one measure or defeat another, who haunts the chambers of legislation and taints its atmosphere with his corrupt designs, who sends for members for interviews in the cloakroom, who carries a tally sheet and watches the roll call, who shadows the members at their homes and hotels, injecting at all hours and all places his poison into the public service, is a criminal whose approach is an insult, and to whom the doors of the Capitol should never swing inward."

In conclusion, I trust that your deliberations will be characterized by that spirit of fairness and justice that is an attribute of statesmanship, and that the business of the State in your hands will be transacted with harmony and expedition.

On motion of Senator Hammer, joint session was dissolved at 3:30 p. m.

Senate was called to order at 3:30 p. m. by President Smith, who introduced Lieutenant Governor Charles E. Coon, as president of the Senate.

Lieutenant Governor Coon took the chair and addressed the Senate as follows:

GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE: In assuming the chair as your presiding officer, I thank you for your cordial greeting, and desire to assure you that I shall endeavor to act with fairness towards each and every Senator in conducting the business of the Senate. I hope for the same hearty support which was given my distinguished predecessor, for, without that my efforts would be of no avail.

To the majority I would say, that with practically a unanimous representation in this chamber of the dominant party in the State, your responsibilities are very great. But your opportunity for the achievement of lasting fame is also great. Questions of vital importance to the people are to come before you, and it cannot be doubted that these will receive the most careful examination, and that the result of your deliberate conclusions will prove of permanent value to our great and rapidly growing commonwealth.

The following concurrent resolution No. 7, introduced by Senator Kinnear, was adopted:

WHEREAS, An all wise Providence has removed from our midst the Hon. Thomas J. Humes, and

WHEREAS, The citizens of King county having elected him successively member of the Legislature, judge of the superior court, and mayor of the city of Seattle, and the citizens of this State on numerous occasions having recognized and honored him, thereby showing their appreciation of his services of the commonwealth he loved so well, therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate, the House concurring, That in his death the State has lost an able, upright and incorruptible official, and be it further

Resolved. That as evidence of the esteem in which Judge Humes was held by the people of this State a committee of two members of the Senate and three members of the House of Representatives be appointed to attend the funeral of the late Judge Humes to be held in Seattle on Friday, January 13, 1905, and that this resolution be spread on the minutes of both Houses and an enrolled copy of the same be sent to the bereaved widow.

J. C. Burns and Than. Kelly were sworn in as employes of the Senate by the president.

On motion of Senator Baker, Senate adjourned until 2 o'clock p. m., January 12, 1905.

RULE 40. The previous question shall not be put unless demanded by three senators, whose names shall be entered upon the journal, and it shall then be in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" No senator shall impeach the motives of any other member, nor speak more than twice (except for explanation) during the consideration of any one question, on the same day, nor a second time without leave, when others who have not spoken desire the floor; but incidental and subsidiary questions arising during the debate shall not be considered the same question.

RULE 48. If any senator in speaking, or otherwise, transgress the rules of the Senate, the president shall, or any senator may call him to order, and when a senator shall be so called to order he shall resume his seat and not proceed without leave of the Senate, which leave, if granted, shall be upon motion "that he be allowed to proceed in order," when, if carried, he shall confine himself to the question under consideration.

RULE 49. Every decision of points of order by the president shall be subject to appeal, and no discussion of a question of order shall be allowed except on appeal of three senators, and in all cases of appeal the question shall be "Shall the decision of the chair stand as the judgment of the Senate?"

RULE 55. No senator shall absent himself from the service of the Senate without leave, except in case of accident or sickness, and if any senator or officer shall absent himself, his per diem shall not be allowed or paid him, and no senator, officer or attache shall obtain leave of absence or be excused from attendance without consent of two-thirds of the members present.

RULE 56. A call of the Senate may be moved by three senators, whose names shall be entered upon the journals, and if carried by a majority of all present the secretary shall call the roll and note the absentees, after which the names of the absentees shall again be called. The doors shall then be closed and the sergeant-at-arms directed to take into custody all who may be absent without leave, and all the senators so taken into custody shall be presented at the bar of the Senate for such action as the Senate may deem proper.

RULE 57. A senator having been absent during roll call may ask to have his name called.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

Senate bill No. 38, by Senator Veness: An act providing for the laying out and construction of a State wagon road, and declaring an emergency, etc.

The bill was read the first time, and on motion of Senator Veness the rules were suspended, the bill was read the second time by title, ordered printed and referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Senate bill No. 39, by Senator Bratt: An act to establish an institution for the defective and feeble-minded youth of the State of Washington and declaring an emergency, etc.

The bill was read the first time, and on motion of Senator Bratt the rules were suspended, the bill was read the second time by title, ordered printed and referred to the Committee on State Charitable Institutions.

Senate concurrent resolution No. 8 was adopted on motion of Senator Rands, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate, the House concurring, That the secretary of the Senate and the chief clerk of the House be instructed to prepare and have printed three hundred cards containing the names of the Senate and House standing committees and six hundred Legislative Manuals, similar to the manuals published by the Eighth State Legislature.

The hour having arrived, 11 o'clock a. m., eulogies were delivered in honor of the late Senator Edward S. Hamilton.

Senator Clapp said :

MR. PRESIDENT:

We have assembled here today, not for the purpose of erecting a monument, but to pay a loving and well-merited tribute to the memory of our departed friend and brother colleague, Edward S. Hamilton.

We need no marble or granite shaft to perpetuate that memory in our hearts; we who knew Senator Hamilton best realize most the great and irreparable loss which we, the State and this Chamber have sustained. We also know and realize, too, that his precociousness as a child, his adaptability as a youth and his many capabilities as a man almost preclude the possibility of eulogizing his many merits. Yet I feel that I would indeed be most recreant in my duty, and absolutely false to my own desires, if I did not raise my feeble voice in an effort at praise of the life, deeds and accomplishments of our departed friend.

Mr. President, for more than seventeen years it was my happy privilege to call Senator Hamilton friend, and during six years of that time we were closely associated in legislative work; and I am free to unhesitatingly state here today that I never knew a stronger or bolder champion and advocate of what he conceived to be right, just and honorable.

Senator Hamilton was an indefatigable worker, both in committee and upon the floor, no matter how hard and arduous was his committee work, which often extended into the late hours of night, and not infrequently into the early hours of morning; yet Ed Hamilton was always in his place upon the floor of the Senate, ready, willing and anxious to perform every duty devolving upon him. And while a strong, fearless and resolute antagonist, ready at all times to enter into any just and equitable contest, yet no one will say that Ed Hamilton was not always honorable, just, fair open and above-board. He was kind, he was generous, he was benevolent and philanthropic in the highest degree, and only those who received favors and assistance at his hands will ever know the extent to which he gave the poor, the needy, the distressed and the unfortunate.

May we endeavor to emulate his good deeds and noble character, may we all profit by his example, so that it may some time be said of us that we were not here in vain, but that the world was benefited by our having lived.

The early demise, the sudden taking away of one so young, of one so full of hope, of one so full of ambition, of one so capable of doing good, seems to verify and emphasize the truthfulness of that old-time adage that "None but the good die young."

Senator Bronson said :

MR. PRESIDENT:

I deem it a great privilege that I may speak a few words in memory of Hon. Edward S. Hamilton.

At 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning, November 11, 1903, at his beautiful home in Tacoma, surrounded by his family and a few friends, in the prime of his vigorous and intellectual manhood, and with the name of his beloved little daughter upon his lips, Edward Hamilton passed away.

Edward Hamilton was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., on July 15, 1865. Graduating from the Westchester county institute, of Poughkeepsie, at the age of 17, he began an active career. Ever a close observer and a tireless worker his success early in life demonstrated that his attention to detail amounted almost to a gift of genius. Although of late years his business interests were confined almost entirely to marine affairs yet he had acquired such a vast amount of general information that he could give his associates detailed statements concerning agricultural, mining, railroading and other subjects, much to the astonishment of well-informed men with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Hamilton was a born leader of men and he had the cheerful manner of making and holding friends who were ever loyal to him, and his nature was rich in those qualities which make up the administrative faculty. Although he had attained the age of but thirty-eight years he was recognized as one of our great men; he enjoyed a wide personal acquaintance and few political leaders in the State have ever been tendered greater devotion than Senator Hamilton received from his friends. Speaking as one of his neighbors, who enjoyed his confidence, it was always a pleasure to join him with his friends in a conference at his beautiful home, on matters of either a business or political nature, and a more hospitable and genial host it has never been my privilege to meet.

In his death our city lost a most valuable and honored citizen; our county a most loyal worker, and our State a most fearless, conscientious and masterly statesman.

Better than words which I may speak at this time his record and his memory remain to his friends as acts of a great man and an enduring history in the memory of the people of the State of Washington.

Senator Rands said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

I hesitate to attempt any expression of my thoughts upon this occasion, yet my association with Senator Hamilton was so intimate that I cannot refrain, inadequate as any words of mine must be, from expressing the deeper sentiments of the heart that incessantly well to the surface each time that we gather here, where we miss so much his smiling face and ever-cheerful greeting.

There was a man of keen intellect and stable character.

There was a man of sterling worth and manly attributes.

There was a man whom we all admired and loved.

His friends knew that they could rely upon his ready assistance, while those who were opposed to him knew that he would be in the arena stripped for the fray, neither asking nor giving quarter.

Senator Hamilton was a man of forceful character and an assertive nature, yet his good sense caused him to confer with his associates and heed their counsels whenever his clear judgment approved their suggestion.

Quick to grasp an idea, a leader of men by nature, we of this body and I doubt not his associates in every walk of life, learned to look to him for leadership, and we never looked in vain.

His assistance and advice were sought unceasingly, and no harder working member of this body ever served his constituents or the State at large.

One of the most robust of our number in appearance, he has answered to the last roll call, while others of us, much slighter in appearance and with less ability to carry on the work entrusted to our hands, are left to mourn his departure and our loss. No more will we hear his voice raised in advocacy of, or opposition to, measures under consideration. No more will we feel and respond to the hearty handshake and cheerful greeting. No more can we seek his wise counsel and friendly advice.

The place and friends that knew him so well will know him no more forever, but while the breath of life shall remain in our bodies and the light of reason continue in our souls those of us who were his friends, and who was not, will treasure his memory in our hearts, where lie engraved the remembrance of his virtues and lovable qualities.

The tides of time have long since erased from the sands of memory the few, if any there were, objectionable attributes of his noble character.

Alas, poor Hamilton, we knew you well. Others will greet us. Others will carry on the work, but there is one niche in the heart of each man who knew you well that will never be filled till we, too, respond to the last roll call and cross to the spirit world, where, perchance, your spirit, now viewing us with kindly eye, will once more commune with ours and reinhabit the chamber left vacant when you preceded us to the great unknown.

Senator Tucker said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Hon. Edward S. Hamilton, as he was known to the people of Pierce county and to the State at large, was to the older members "Ed Hamilton." While elected state senator from Pierce county, he was really senator from the State of Washington, from every city and town and county. He was above petty sectionalism and petty jealousies. He but lived to attain the ambition of his political career, that of being elected to the United States senate. He would have been senator for the whole State and for every part thereof. He was a leader of men, a leader of whom there was no jealousy, one we were glad to follow. It is an old saying not to save all the bouquets for the funeral. In Hamilton's case we did not save them. In his lifetime his abilities were recognized, especially in the legislative halls, and his leadership was willingly admitted and accepted.

Senator Hammer said :

MR. PRESIDENT:

I feel that I had not done my full duty should I fail to embrace this opportunity to add at least a few words in tribute to the memory of our deceased friend and member, Senator Ed S. Hamilton. 'Tis most timely and fitting that this body of which he was for three sessions a most distinguished member, should at his time publicly pay its respects to the memory of our late brother and show to his family and to the people of the State in what high regard we held him as a man, a senator and a citizen, and to recount a few, at least, of his kindly acts and unselfish deeds and to recall his devotion to his friends and to his official duties.

He was indeed a "manly man," a true and constant friend and an honorable adversary. No member had to employ a detective to find where he stood on any matter of legislation. He always fought in the open and used only fair and honorable means to accomplish his ends.

I learned to know and love him under other circumstances than most of you in being directly opposed to him on many measures on which he had set his heart that they should pass or that they should be defeated. Our friendship grew in spite of opposition and rivalry and many are the favors I have asked of him which, as an adversary, he had no reason to grant, and never did I come away empty-handed. He, as a senator, was honest, honorable and incorruptible, for none but honest men possess such qualities of heart and mind and exercise such loyalty and fidelity to friends.

It grieves me much that his untimely taking off prevents my repaying at least some of the many favors shown me. He possessed to a marked degree the quality or power of personal magnetism necessary to leadership. And had he lived the usual allotted time there is no doubt that he would have made his mark, not in the State of Washington alone, but in the councils of the nation as well.

Senator Welsh said :

MR. PRESIDENT:

Since the adjournment of the eighth session of the Legislature Hon. Ed S. Hamilton, an honored and respected member of this body has been taken from us by the hand of death.

In life he was my friend; and it is but fit and proper that now, when his tongue is silenced by the stillness of the tomb, that I speak for him, who, during his life, so often, earnestly and eloquently spoke in my behalf.

When death embraced him, he was in the prime of life, on the highway of success, a useful citizen, a faithful and incorruptible public servant, following a bright and brilliant star in the political firmament, which gave promise of a glorious future.

Why he should be thus early cut down and his eyelids closed in death, we do not know. But we do know that man is surrounded by limitations.

To the human mind there is the unknown and the unknowable. There are heights we cannot reach; there are mysteries we cannot solve; there is a future we cannot see; there are things the human mind cannot comprehend.

It may appear to us that life is too brief, compared with the period required in obtaining an education, and in fitting one's self to successfully obtain a subsistence, in this world where the struggle for maintenance is strenuous, and the contest for supremacy is keen. For upon the arrival of the time, when a man has well fitted himself by study, observation and experience to successfully combat the elements, and his environments, and compete with his fellow man, for subsistence, place or power, he has reached the meridian of life, and the sun of his life's day is swiftly and inevitably traveling towards the western horizon to forever set.

Yet while death is pronounced cruel, it is impartial. It is no respecter of age, nor of persons, nor of place, nor of power. Alike it treats the plebian and the patrician, and side by side in death they sleep.

So when the husband and father, upon whom depends for support a wife and child, the public servant whose services the State needs and demands, is removed from the sphere of human action, it is not for us fallible beings to question the wisdom of an infallible Providence.

Ed. S. Hamilton was an American by birth. His ancestors on his paternal side were Scotch-Irish, blood which has given seven presidents to the greatest and grandest nation on earth, our own beloved country.

Who can estimate the heritage that Scotland has bequeathed to mankind, for in every art, in every science, in every field of literature her sons have won renown, and ascended the highest peaks of the intellectual world.

To the Emerald Isle, he was indebted for the blood that gave us a Burke in statesmanship, a Grattan and an O'Connell in oratory, and a Moore in poetry and song; a land of whose sons it has been said:

"They have fought successfully all battles of the world, save their own, and whose eloquence has enriched the pages of literature of every nation in christendom."

On his maternal side he was of English stock, such stock as produced a Chatham, a Milton, and a Shakespearé.

Hamilton was proud of his ancestry and who would not be?

He began life as a poor boy, but possessing the brilliancy of the Irishman, the perseverance of the Scotchman, the solidity of the Englishman, and the character and opportunity of the American, he bravely met and conquered all obstacles, and success in all his undertakings crowned his brief career.

His word was good, a promise once given was never broken.

As a legislator in this Senate, there was none more vigilant of the interests of the people of the great State whom he had the honor to represent.

He fearlessly and boldly advocated those principles and measures, which he believed to be right and just. Those who differed with him never questioned his honesty of heart, nor his sincerity of purpose.

While to his friends he was ever constant, generous and true, yet with his opponents he was eminently fair; and from the lofty heights of honesty and fairness, where he always and ever stood, he never stooped to take a dishonorable advantage of a foe.

He may have had some faults. What man is free from them? Perfection is rarely, if ever, found. The fairest flower is not without its imperfection. The microscope will reveal in a most brilliant jewel, some flaw.

So in the life and career of every man whether he be a Wellington in war, a Hugo in literature, a Bismarck in statesmanship, a Plato in philosophy, a Homer in song, or the humblest citizen, there will appear some fault or some error, or some imperfection, without which, he would cease to be a man and become a god.

Hamilton's mind was broad and his judgment clear. Consequently there was no malice in his nature. This he left to smaller minds and to meaner beings.

It may be truthfully said of him that in all his dealings with his fellow man, he was scrupulously honest; that he was an able and faithful public servant, ever true to the best interests of his State; that he was ambitious but he never pressed nor flaunted his own ambition to the detriment of a friend.

Of such a record and such a career, those who were near and dear to him and who survive him, may well be proud.

Senator Ruth said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

Only two short years ago he who is the occasion of our grief and sorrow today was a leader among us. He stood on an eminence and glory covered him. From that eminence he has fallen, suddenly and forever. His intercourse with the living world is now ended, and those who would hereafter find him must seek him in the grave. There, cold and lifeless, is the heart that a short time ago throbbed with friendship of the truest kind. There, dim and sightless, is the eye whose radiant orb beamed with intelligence and good will, and there, closed forever, are those lips upon whose utterance we could always depend.

Ed Hamilton was an ambitious man. He aspired to the highest office in the gift of this State. But in this, as in everything, there was no concealment of his nature.

Ambition is never a weakness unless disproportionate to capacity. With him it was a noble passion, because it rested on noble powers. The height to which men may rise is in proportion to the upward force in their genius, and they will never be calm until they have attained their predestined elevation. Lord Bacon says: "As in nature things move violently to their place and calmly in their place, so virtue in ambition is violent; in authority, settled and calm."

Ed Hamilton had a giant's brain and a giant's work. He found repose in those strong conflicts and great duties which crush the weak and madden the sensitive. Those of us who encouraged him in his ambition, and stood ready to do all in our power to elevate him to that high position to which he aspired, knew, as did those of you who were less fortunately situated, that he would have yielded his body to the flames before he would have sought to grasp the highest prize on earth by any means, by any tactics, by any speech that violated the sacred book of friendship.

Big-hearted, broad-minded, open-handed, of intellect, a manly man, prince of good fellows, he ever treated a friend like a brother and an enemy with courtesy. Called from our midst at a time when his future looked so bright, many of us have felt that his loss was almost a tragedy, but as there is no appeal from the bar of that final court, we humbly bow the head and say, "Thy will be done."

Senator Wilson said:

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN:

No feeble words of mine can ever do justice to the memory or character of such a man as was Edward Hamilton.

Through his untimely death the State of Washington sustained a loss, but the blow fell with greater force upon the citizens of Pierce county.

They knew him best and were well acquainted with his many virtues. To them his loss will be irreparable.

During the many weary hours I was associated with him on the appropriations committee last session I learned to respect and admire him.

His was a personality that none could resist and of the kind found only in men of the largest calibre.

With a heart that is full of sadness, I say, God's will be done; may he rest in peace.

Senator Graves said:

The finite mind comprehends naught of the universal scheme. Man comes into consciousness from oblivion, and, having played his brief role on life's stage, he passes into the unknown. Yet, unless man be the plaything of a malignant spirit, unless his every higher thought and hope are but Tantalus' torments, he is placed upon this earth with an active work to do. Here he does his mite toward the elevation or degradation of mankind, and here, as I ardently hope and firmly believe, he determines the place he shall fill in a higher and better future life.

All men are fallible. But he who has lived a kindly, frank and honest life has played his part worthily and well, and may pass from this world without regret and without fear. My acquaintance with Edward Hamilton was not long; but I sat with him as a member of this body through a session of the legislature when partisan and economic contests were bitter. We were of different political faiths, and we differed widely in our views on many policies. Through it all he was a man, genial, kind-hearted, frank and honest, who fought always in the open, and whose word could be trusted implicitly. His honesty was never doubted, and the contest left nothing of bitterness behind.

I believe that Edward Hamilton's life was like that of the session we sat together. And I believe that, so living, he did his appointed work upon this earth, and has passed to a future life in the ripe fruition of his portion in the universal life. May so much be said of all when it comes their time to pass into the unknown.

Senator Sharp said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

I, too, desire to say a word as a passing tribute to the memory of Senator Edward S. Hamilton. Mr. President, it would be useless for me to attempt to add to what has been said upon this floor in eulogy of the character of the departed senator. For six years I was intimately associated with Senator Hamilton in legislative work. It was only as co-laborer in such work that I ever knew him, but I ever found in him a true and faithful friend, a just and honorable foe. He was stricken down in the discharge of his duties; his work was unfinished, yet his column was broken and the State of Washington is left to mourn.

Senator Moore said:

It was my misfortune not to know Senator Hamilton; our departed friend and colleague, until after my election to this body in 1902. My personal acquaintance with him was of one year's duration, yet in that time I learned to love and respect him as I did few men.

He was genial and happy in nature and disposition. He was strong in mind and body. He was faithful, indefatigable and vigorous in the discharge of every duty that fell to his lot to perform.

Ed Hamilton never knowingly wronged a human being in his life, if during my acquaintance with him I read him rightly.

Of all these characteristics and attributes of which I have spoken he was possessed, and in them is found greatness, to which Ed Hamilton was destined in a marked degree. Yet with all of his strength and vigor and aggressiveness, he was kind, true and considerate.

We learned as children of the story of one who fell by the wayside, wounded, sore and sick; that one came along and observing that he was not of his people, refused him succor and aid; that the second that came along declined to give him succor and aid for fear he would soil his priestly robe. The third who came along, though not of his people nor priestly robe, dressed his wounds and gave him aid and succor. Of such as this last was Ed Hamilton. He never failed to give aid and relief and a kindly word to anyone who was in need or distress, no matter whether he was of his people or whether he might soil his robes by so doing.

He always did his duty, whether to his fellow man, to his State, or to his country. I know that his memory will ever be fresh and dear in the minds and the hearts of those of us who knew him. All that has been said of him here is true, and we honor ourselves in thus honoring his memory.

Senator Stansell said:

Born at Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1865, of poor parents who were unable to be of the assistance they had hoped to be in educating their children, Edward S. Hamilton started to make for himself a name in this world to be proud of and that his friends and colleagues admire.

Because of his sterling integrity and untiring zeal in his persistent endeavors to serve his country he gradually climbed the ladder of fame until, in the prime of life, when stricken by the grim hand that tears us from those we love and admire, he had reached the rung where the mention of his name was to remind us of one whose ideals were honesty, independence and equality.

In his sixteen years residence in this State, Senator Hamilton gained an enviable reputation in social, business and political life. By his faithful public service he stood as an unchallenged leader of the highest legislative body in this our noble State of Washington.

His sudden taking off while holding the position of State Senator, representing one of the fairest and most progressive cities of our State, is an irreparable loss to the city of Tacoma and to our commonwealth.

In paying this our tribute to the one we admired and loved, we most feelingly sympathize with his bereaved family and extend to the widowed mother and orphan child our token of sorrow and expression of esteem for him who was our invaluable colleague and co-laborer.

On motion of Senator Rands the Senate at 11:45 a. m. adjourned until 2 o'clock p. m. Monday, January 16, 1905, as a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Senator Edward S. Hamilton, deceased.

MESSAGE TO THE SENATE.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
OLYMPIA, WASH., February 17, 1905.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The House has declined to recede from its amendments to Senate bill No. 50, entitled "An act making it unlawful for a husband to abandon his wife or child," etc.

The House has passed Senate bill No. 124, providing for submitting to the people the question of changing the permanent location of the seat of government from Olympia to Tacoma, and the same is herewith transmitted.

STOREY BUCK, Clerk of the House.

The following petition was read by the secretary and on motion of Senator Tucker referred to the Committee on Appropriations:

To the Senate and House of Representatives, Olympia, Washington.

GENTLEMEN—Your petitioners respectfully recommend to your favorable consideration House bill No. 232, being an act providing for the location, establishment and equipment, at the University of Washington, of a structural materials testing station, and making an appropriation therefor.

The State of Washington, through recent legislative enactments, is entering upon an era of scientific construction of public highways. Before expending the public funds in such work the materials used in construction, such as stone, gravels, cements, clay, timbers, etc., should be submitted to a thorough test and scientific analysis to determine the adaptability of the materials to the proposed use. Selection of materials under such tests would result in lasting benefits, which, from the standpoint of economy, would soon offset the cost to the State in establishing such a plant.

Your petitioners therefore give the measure their earnest endorsement, and hope for its enactment into law.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 16.

WHEREAS, The Christian Endeavorers of Washington are anxious to have the twenty-third international convention of the United Society of Christian Endeavor held in Seattle in July, 1907, and,

WHEREAS, The organization numbers about six million members, and from twenty to thirty thousand members usually attend an international convention, and,

WHEREAS, They have met but once upon the Pacific coast, and never in the Northwest; and,

WHEREAS, A great international convention would be of inestimable good to Seattle and to the whole State; and,

WHEREAS, We believe that Seattle could ably entertain all who might visit our State at that time; therefore be it

Resolved by the State Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, That we extend to the United Society of Christian Endeavorers a most cordial invitation to hold their next convention in the city of Seattle in 1907.

The following communication was read by the secretary:

To the Honorable, the Senate and the House of Representatives of the State of Washington, now Assembled:

WHEREAS, There is pending before your honorable bodies a bill amending and revising chapter 133 of the Session Laws of 1903, and

WHEREAS, We recognize that some amendments to said law, being commonly known as the horticultural law, are seemingly necessary and have been favored and advised by the State Horticultural Association, and

WHEREAS, The bill now pending before your bodies is not in accord with the amendments favored by said State Horticultural Society, but contain many provisions repugnant to the views of such society, and

WHEREAS, The varied horticultural interests of the State would be seriously injured by the passage of such bill, and

WHEREAS, Such interests have never had any fitting opportunity to consider said proposed amendments and said proposed amendments in many instances represent special interests, and

WHEREAS, We believe that the present law is more satisfactory than the pending bill, and that before any amendments to said law should be made the various horticultural interests of the State should be afforded just and ample opportunity to consider and advise upon all necessary amendments so as to make the law when amended equitable and just to all interests, and to have the law as amended contain the completest powers for the protection and furtherance of horticulture in the State at large; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the Snohomish Horticultural Association, an auxiliary of the State Horticultural Association, respectfully petition your honorable bodies to make no amendments to the present law at this session, but defer making any amendments therein, until such time as all the horticultural interests in the State are afforded an opportunity to consider and pass upon the same. We further represent that amendments of this law at each session of the Legislature tend to disorganize and confuse the people interested, and thus become harmful through their frequency; also, be it further

Resolved, That we earnestly petition your honorable bodies to make an appropriation to continue the agricultural experiment station at Puyallup for the reason that we feel that this work should not be intermittently disturbed, especially in view of the fact that climatic conditions on this side of the mountains differing so greatly from those at the agricultural college, that experiments there are of comparatively little value to the people living here, and that the result of such experiments are greatly needed for the promotion of agriculture in the western part of this State where the conditions are so favorable as to ultimately support a very large population engaged in agricultural and horticultural pursuits.

(Signed)

D. F. SEXTON, President.

C. L. CLEMANS, Secretary.

On motion of Senator Stewart, referred to the Committee on Horticulture and Forestry.

MESSAGE TO THE SENATE.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
OLYMPIA, WASH., February 27, 1905.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The speaker has signed House bill No. 100, an act creating the office of chaplain of the penitentiary.

Also House bill No. 44, providing for the incorporation of live stock insurance associations.

Also House bill No. 71, an act relating to elections.

And the same are herewith transmitted.

STOREY BUCK, Clerk of the House.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

To the President and Members of the Senate of the Ninth Legislature of the State of Washington:

GENTLEMEN—I return herewith Senate bill No. 124, entitled "An act to provide for submitting the question of changing the permanent location of the seat of government from Olympia, Thurston county, Washington, to Tacoma, Pierce county, Washington, to the vote of the people," having disapproved the same.

In my judgment, there is no urgent demand or necessity for the passage of an act of this character, entailing, as it necessarily must, if the election it provides for results in the removal of the capitol, an added burden of debt and expense to the State at a time when the people are barely able to provide, at the present rate of taxation, sufficient funds for the proper and necessary expenditures in maintaining the State government and its institutions.

I am profoundly impressed with the idea that when a question is submitted to the people, of such paramount importance as the one involved in the bill herewith returned, the electors should have the benefit of a clear-cut, concise, businesslike proposition accompanying the question submitted, so that they can vote intelligently thereon.

Preliminary to the submission of any question touching the change of location of the state capital, the Legislature ought, in my judgment, to adopt a measure accepting any proposition that may be made by any community of this State, contingent, of course, upon the approval of such change of location by the vote of the people.

Notwithstanding the generous offer of the tract of land known as Wright park, made by the accredited authorities of the city of Tacoma, the fact is, nevertheless, that this proposed grant cannot be used for any other purpose than a site for a capitol building. It matters but little in the cost of capitol construction and maintenance thereof whether the value of the site be great or small; the land granted can only be used for that purpose.

If this question is submitted to the people, notwithstanding the executive veto, and the people resolve the question in the affirmative, then we at once enter upon a period of capitol construction with all its attendant evils. The prospect presented by such a condition is not inviting. Where, may I ask, are the funds for the construction of such an edifice? Notwithstanding our marvelous prosperity, all will agree that it will be impossible for this Legislature, or its successor, to provide adequately for the wants and needs of the various educational, charitable and penal institutions of the State owing to the rapid growth of our population and the demands upon these various institutions. Burdens of state cannot be augmented without working a serious injury to the different counties, municipalities and school districts in their efforts to provide for their actual needs.

The question involved in the subject matter of the bill herewith returned is of higher importance and greater magnitude than that of an ordinary act of the Legislature. As the constitution requires a two-thirds vote of the people when changing the location of the seat of government, I am not doing violence to our fundamental law when I say that it is possible to read between the lines of that document the requirement that the Legislature shall not submit the question to the people, for their ratification or rejection, unless the proposition to so submit shall have received at least a two-thirds vote of the members of each branch of the Legislature. In this connection I am inclined to be in harmony with the suggestion made by an eminent member of the Pierce county bar, in a discussion before the Executive, when he stated that the subject matter of the attached bill was in legal effect a proposed amendment to the state constitution. If so, then to comply with the letter and spirit of our organic law, this measure should receive before its submission to the people the necessary two-thirds vote of each branch of the Legislature.

I believe that the best interests of the State would be subserved by postponing the consideration of this question until such time as the Legislature can submit therewith a statute that will set forth a line of policy that will commend itself to the judgment of the people and give them an intelligent comprehension of the probable expense involved in ordering such a change, the benefits they are to receive and the sources from which funds are to be provided for the construction of the building.

One objection that I urge requires no further argument than a simple recital of capitol building and capitol location in this territory and State. Under the organic act creating the territory, Governor Isaac I. Stevens designated Olympia as the capital and ordered the first Legislature to convene here on January 30, 1854. The territorial Legislature subsequently confirmed the act of the first Executive by locating the capitol upon a tract now included in the city limits of this city.

A capital removal attempt followed in 1860 and 1861, but was ineffectual, and at an election held July 8, 1861, Olympia was chosen over twelve competitors. The state constitution, adopted in 1889, submitted the question of a permanent location of the seat of government to the electors. At an election held to ratify the constitution, a provision thereof required that a majority of all the votes cast should be necessary to determine the location. The result was in favor of Olympia, as against North Yakima, Ellensburg and other cities and towns.

The first state Legislature again submitted the question to the people, and Olympia received 37,382 votes; Ellensburg 7,757 votes, and North Yakima 6,258 votes. In this election, under the act of the first state Legislature, the successful capital city had to receive a two-thirds vote of all the votes cast. Even according to this rule Olympia had 3,121 votes more than were necessary. In four different sessions of the Legislature since then, laws have been enacted and appropriations made looking to the erection and maintenance of the capital in this city; the net result of these efforts being the building now occupied.

We have incurred a warrant indebtedness in the construction, and attempted construction, of capitol buildings in the sum of $676,153.79. Of this amount, $24,390.88 has been redeemed. There remains a net indebtedness in the sum of $651,762.91, on which there is an annual interest charge of $26,974.48, to be paid from the common treasury under the stipulation, however, that the aggregate interest charge shall ultimately be replaced from the proceeds of the sale of public lands donated by the United States government for state capitol purposes.

Before further capitol building is prosecuted, the people ought to know what proportion of the cost can be derived from land sales and what amount, approximately, is to be raised by general taxation.

It would seem from this summary review that this question has been amply submitted to the people already, and it is also apparent that it has been so thoroughly settled and adjudicated by the people and different legislative bodies that a rehearing is now absolutely unjustifiable. In the face of the record set forth, is it not a pertinent inquiry to ask why has this Legislature attempted to bring about a reversal of the policy and acts of its predecessors? What is the reason for this sudden and precipitate change of front? The various measures that have heretofore been enacted by the predecessors of this Legislature received the ratification and approval of the people. Why have not the advocates of the capital removal project come out in the open and favored us with some good and substantial reason for this sudden reversal of attitude and policy? Why are the people not given a good and sufficient reason for the necessity of again incurring an enormous expenditure in the construction of the capitol building? What is the reason for the sudden impulse that has apparently taken possession of the legislative mind to lay plans for another capitol building coincident, practically, with the completion and acceptance of the building we now occupy? The people are entitled to know why those who have heretofore favored the city of Olympia as the capital have suddenly changed their minds. Is it not true that the present building now occupied by the state officials and the chambers used by the different branches of the Legislature afford comfortable and convenient quarters for the transaction of public business? Ordinarily no one ought to question the wisdom of submitting any question to the people who constitute the court of last resort on all questions of public policy. A legislator or Executive who favors the submission of a question of such importance as the one involved in this bill ought to be willing to stand up and say that he is in favor of capital removal. The two propositions of removal and submission are inseparable and cannot by subtle distinctions be divorced.

I am not convinced that the passage of the bill herewith returned was the result of calm meditation and deliberation of each and all the members who voted for it. From the inception of the consideration of this measure, evidence has been constantly accumulating that this bill was forced through the Legislature by a practice bordering close to the line of intimidation and coercion. Members have freely stated that they dared not oppose this measure and expect to receive favorable consideration of meritorious bills in which their constituents were vitally interested. The highest and best interests of good government can be best subserved by interposing the executive veto to a measure where there exists in the mind of the Executive a doubt as to whether or not the bill receiving an affirmative vote was the result of voluntary deliberation on the part of the lawmakers, even though it be a question to be referred to the electors for their decision. The people are at all times entitled to express their candid, voluntary and honest judgment upon public questions and in the selection of public servants.

I ask that the Legislature be accorded at all times the same privilege and prerogative.

I cannot, therefore, for the reasons herein assigned, approve the bill.
Respectfully submitted.

ALBERT E. MEAD, Governor.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

STATE OF WASHINGTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
OLYMPIA, March 1, 1905.

To the Honorable the Senate of the State of Washington.

GENTLEMEN: In accordance with section 11, article 3, of the Constitution of this State, I herewith transmit a list of the pardons, commutations and remissions of fines granted during my term of office.

Respectfully yours,

CARMINO PETTINATO—Pardoned February 17, 1905. Pettinato is a young Italian, convicted in Spokane county of rape and sentenced December 27, 1902, to serve three years in the penitentiary. His term would have expired April 28 next. On February 8, 1904, he was paroled, and shortly after receiving his liberty he married the girl upon whom ne had been charged with committing the crime, and it is represented to me that they are now living happily together. The evidence showed that the crime at the worst was a constructive offense.

SIDNEY HULL—Parole granted February 18, 1905, on the recommendation of the superintendent of the penitentiary. Hull was convicted of grand larceny in Cowlitz county and sentenced May 14, 1903, to serve five years. The superintendent reports that he has been an exemplary prisoner. Hull is a negro. He is now working as a porter in a barber shop in Walla Walla.

ALLEN BURR—Parole granted February 18, 1905, on the recommendation of the superintendent of the penitentiary. Burr was convicted of rape in Lewis county and was sentenced on June 23, 1903, to serve four years. The superintendent reports that his conduct in prison has been good and that his health conditions are such that it would be better for him and for the institution if he were paroled. Burr is now working on a farm at Waitsburg, Walla Walla county.

GENERAL FILE.

Senate bill No. 130: An act to amend section 5 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the enrollment of the militia, etc., was read third time.

At the request of Senator Henry the following communication was read by the secretary:

STATE OF WASHINGTON, MILITARY DEPARTMENT,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE.

OLYMPIA, February 28, 1905.

Senator Walker A. Henry, Senate Chamber, Olympia, Washington

Sir—In response to your request for information upon the present law relating to the method prescribed for the appointment of an adjutant general, I have the honor to submit the following:

The present law upon that subject is as follows: "The adjutant general shall be appointed by the commander-in-chief with the advice and consent of the Senate. No person shall be eligible as adjutant general who has not served as an officer at least three years in the aggregate in either the national guard of this State or the regular army of the United States, and who is not at the time of his appointment a field, line or regimental staff officer not below the rank of captain in the national guard of this State: Provided, That any adjutant general may be re-appointed from time to time at the expiration of his term in the discretion of the commander-in-chief."

This provision of the law was adopted by the Legislature of 1903, among other amendments offered by myself. Under it twenty-two officers of the national guard of Washington are now eligible for appointment to be adjutant general. An increase of the force to the maximum would add at least four more to this list. Some of the reasons for the adoption of this method of selection of an adjutant general are as follows:

The militia of the United States as organized in the states is admitted to be a necessary and valuable part of the government. If it is worth while to maintain a militia at all, it is worth while to make it as good as it can be made. The militia service in this as well as other states rests upon the principle of voluntary service. The officers and men are not paid except when ordered out for camp or other duties, although they usually devote from one to three nights a week and many Sundays to their work. This of necessity entails considerable sacrifice upon the part of every individual who serves in the militia. In the national guard of Washington you have one officer who is paid and on duty all of the time—your adjutant general. Around him must revolve, as the spokes around the hub of a wheel, your whole military system. He is the only man who devotes all of his time to the work. If he is thoroughly competent from every standpoint, you will have a good national guard; if he is anything less than thoroughly competent, you will have a less satisfactory force. When I say "competent," I mean in the sense that he should be comparatively young, active, alert, thoroughly in touch with the things which have been and are being done in the militia, acquainted with modern methods of handling militia, modern drill and other requirements, modern arms and methods generally.

A great deal of the success which has attended the efforts of the officers and men in the national guard of Washington in the last four years is the direct result of the elimination of politics from that body. The service being a voluntary one, resting upon the principle of loyalty of officers and men to their immediate commanders, it cannot be raised to a point of satisfactory military efficiency if political considerations cut any figure in the appointment of an adjutant general or the conduct of his office. The officers and men of the militia who have served, many of them for a great number of years in that service and in the regular and volunteer armies, on account of the sacrifices which they make, and the work they have to do, are entitled to some consideration. The safeguards thrown around the appointment of field staff and line officers are such that it is not probable that a man who is not competent will secure an appointment. I sincerely believe that the best guarantee which a state can have of a satisfactory adjutant general is to be had by restricting the number of eligibles to the officers of the active list of the militia not below the grade of captain. We have been trying in this State to make an organization second to none in the United States.

The war department records will show that in point of efficiency there is no better state organization. In rifle shooting in 1904 our standing was superior to that of any other state. Do you want to run any chance of lowering the high standard which has been reached?

Should we not rather so safeguard every feature of the present system, particularly the appointment of an adjutant general, that we may be reasonably sure of increasing the efficiency instead of decreasing it? I do hope, Senator, that the Senate will not attempt to amend the present law in any respect at this session.

Respectfully,

(Signed)

JAMES A. DRAIN, Adjutant General.

"An act appropriating the sum of ten thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, for the expenses of the ninth Legislature."

A. N. BROWN, Private Secretary.

Senator Christian moved that the rules be suspended, that the reading of House bill No. 36 had in the committee of the whole be considered the third reading and the bill placed on final passage.

Senator Ruth moved as a substitute that the rules be suspended, that the reading had in the committee of the whole of Senate bill No. 42 be considered the third reading and that Senate bill No. 42 be placed on final passage.

The following Senators demanded a roll call on the substitute motion: Senators Watson, Condon, Ruth, Graves, Moore, Davis, Boone, Potts.

The president (Senator Baker, president pro tem, in the chair), ruled that the substitute motion of Senator Ruth was out of order for the reason that Senate bill No. 42 had not been reported back from the committee of the whole.

The following Senators demanded a roll call on the appeal: Senators Boone, Ruth, Moore, Potts, Condon, Earles, Rasher, Graves.

Those voting yea were: Senators Bronson, Christian, Clapp, Davis, Hammer, Hemrich, Hunter, Hutson, Kennedy, Kinnear, Le Crone, Palmer, Pauly, Pogue, Rands, Reed, Smith (Dr. J. J.), Smith (S. T.), Stansell, Stewart, Sumner, Tucker, Welsh, Wilson—24.

A roll call on the motion of Senator Graves was demanded by the following Senators: Moore, Graves, Ruth, Earles, Bratt, Boone, Gunn.

The roll was called and the motion was lost by the following vote:

Those voting yea were: Senators Boone, Bratt, Brown, Condon, Earles, Graves, Gunn, Henry, Le Crone, Moore, Rasher, Ruth, Veness, Watson—14.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Russell, Van de Vanter—2.

By unanimous consent, Senator Christian withdrew his motion that the rules be suspended, and the reading of House bill No. 36 in the committee of the whole be considered the third reading of the bill and the bill placed on final passage.

On motion of Senator Smith (Dr. J. J.) the rules were suspended and the reading of House bill No. 36 had in the committee of the whole was considered the third reading of the bill, and the bill was considered open for amendment.

The roll was called on final passage and House bill No. 36 passed by the following vote:

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Russell, Van de Vanter—2.

When Senator Ruth's name was called on the roll he made the following statement:

"The State platform of the Republican party pledged its faith for the creation of a State tax commission. I regard the bill now being voted on as a weak and insufficient measure. By the action of this body, just taken, a strong and effective tax commission bill was put out of the running, leaving no tax commission bill to be voted upon but the one now before us. Because there is no other measure which can pass, and because the platform pledges me to vote for a State tax commission bill, I shall vote yea."

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

On motion of Senator Christian the rules were suspended and House bill No. 36 ordered transmitted to the House immediately.

On motion of Senator Palmer the Senate reconsidered the vote by which it concurred in the House amendments to Senate bill No. 185.

President of the Senate.

MEMORIAL SERVICES IN HONOR OF THE LATE SENATOR J. P. SHARP.

Pursuant to Senate concurrent resolution No. 17, a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives was held in the House chamber on Sunday, March 5. The joint session was called to order at 2 o'clock p. m., by Lieutenant Governor Charles E. Coon, president of the Senate, who said:

We have assembled to pay tribute to our departed colleague, John P. Sharp, whose memory will ever be kept bright in our hearts.

He was a man of most kindly and lovable nature; a good and steadfast friend; a man actuated by lofty aims; a faithful and intelligent servant of the people, and he possessed those noble traits which must ever appeal to all that is best in human nature.

These ceremonies, simple and unpretentious as they are, enable us to say to the world that virtue and patriotism, and devotion to the best interests of the people are not soon forgotten, and, while we renew our faith in mankind, we desire also to commemorate those kindly qualities which our friend possessed in such large measure; qualities of mind and heart which must ever strengthen the bonds of sympathy between men and thus make the world better and brighter.

Rev. H. G. Sawin, pastor of the First Baptist church of Olympia, then delivered the following invocation:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, to whom belongeth wisdom and mercy, we beseech Thee to be gracious unto thy servants who are gathered for this memorial service in recognition of one who shared with them the responsibilities of an exalted public station. At that command which all must hear and obey, a senator has put off the harness of battle, and laid down the implements of labor and gone to meet Thee, O! God, in the quiet of this hour—the noise and strife of our human conflicts hushed in the peace of the Sabbath—as we confront the frailty of human life, may there be earnest resolve to emulate the fidelity to duty of him whom we today honor, that when death comes to us, we too may have a work done, a mission finished. We thank Thee for this life, so strong and true; to have known him, to have felt the influence of his personality, to have been a co-laborer with him in the affairs of state was a privilege; to enter into his labors is to enter into whatever things are just, and pure, and praiseworthy. O! God, let not the work of thy servant fall to the ground, but bear it up to full completion, that "He that soweth and he that reapeth may rejoice together."

Merciful God, who giveth power to the faint and bindeth up the broken hearted, be with that group of mourners at the old home in the valley, who mourn the loss of husband, and father, and friend. Mercifully sustain them by thy grace and give them peace. Guide Thou our feet in paths of righteousness; lead our hearts into all the truth; and when life's pathway goes down into the valley and shadow of death may we fear no evil, for Thou art with us, and at its thither end—where the surges roll, where we leave this and go out to meet that world—"may we meet our Captain face to face," "and may there be no mourning at bar when we put out to sea"; may our going be a home-coming to the Father's house, where we shall dwell forevermore. Amen.

Senator Welsh said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

Death, that which takes from the perfumed flower its fragrance, from the star its brilliancy, from the emperor his crown, and from man his spirit, has taken from Senator Sharp all that was mortal, and from us his counsel and assistance in our labors. The ship in which he sailed on the voyage of life has reached its port, and delivered him, its passenger to the Father of the universe, who at last shall receive us, each and all.

We miss him. Behind the veil through which we cannot see, he answers the roll call of Him who caused this terrestrial sphere to revolve on its axis in its revolutions around the sun, of Him who gave us birth.

We meet today to pay our respects to the memory and to give our version of the character of our departed colleague; and if today all who knew him could come here, save only those who, in life, he intentionally wronged, then there are none but who could come here to pay a tribute to his virtues.

There are many of us who think not of life or death, only as we are reminded thereof, by the death of a relative or a friend. So, this day awakens, or should awaken, latent thoughts, and cause us to contemplate on life and death.

To think on life, its brevity, its uncertainty, is well for us. For then only do we realize our own weakness and insignificance, and that there is a power greater above and beyond weak, frail man, and that perhaps, after all, that while here is brief, it may exist beyond the tomb.

Then only do we realize that we are here for a purpose and should act well the part assigned to us.

Then only does the emperor appreciate that his crown is unstable, the scholar that his time and capacity for knowledge is limited, the rich that his power is fleeting and but of today, and the poor that his toil is not forever, but rest will come.

Such thoughts take from the malicious his hate, from the vain his pride, from the bigot his prejudice, from the atheist his positiveness and from the tyrant his cruelty.

For all men, irrespective of what be the scale of their intelligence, or the depth of their learning, or what be their creed, desire that life on this sphere be not all.

The simple red man of the forest, the Carthaginian slave, the haughty Roman emperor, the Greek philosopher and the pious monk, each and all wished and hoped for life beyond the grave, and that their conduct here would there merit everlasting reward.

No matter what our station or position in life may be, and no matter in what degree of latitude or longitude we were born, we are children of the same Father, and have the same hopes, the same desires as did they.

If this occasion causes us to fully appreciate that we are human, that the same fate awaits us which awaited our departed brother, our lives will thereby be bettered.

I served all of the eighth session of the Legislature, as a member of the Senate, with Senator Sharp; as a member of that legislative body, I served with him during the ninth session, until the time of his death.

We were friends; I knew him well, I respected him.

Were I to name the chief characteristics of his nature, I would denominate them as integrity, courage, knowledge of his own abilities, caution and firmness.

He was not hasty in reaching a conclusion, he proceeded with calmness and deliberation in the consideration of questions as they arose and upon which he was called to act.

In reaching a conclusion, the natural honesty of his mind first put on wings and soared slowly but surely out into the atmosphere of justice, where the clear sunlight of unbiased reason cast a halo of candor and fairness about him, and dispelled the foul mists of prejudice.

He was courageous. The courageous man is always firm, and is not intimidated by threats nor beguiled by sophistry.

The admiring applause of the multitude did not lead him astray, and the unjust censure of the unrighteous never swayed him from principles which he believed to be just.

Neither the silver tongue of the orator nor the corrupt influence of those having only private interests to subserve, were persuasive enough or powerful enough to lead him from the path of right into the highway of error.

He informed himself on the subjects which concerned his official life, and then he honestly and faithfully gave the state the best service which he knew.

Senator Sharp was free from vanity.

He correctly estimated his own ability.

He was ambitious, but his ambition never led him to seek any place beyond his fitness and qualifications, consequently he was capable of filling any official position which he ever held, or to which he aspired.

In the legislative body of which he was a member at the time of his death, there were men more learned, men more eloquent than he, but, in that body, there were none more vigilant for the people's rights, nor more incorruptible than was he.

Senator Sharp was not a great man, in the sense in which that term is commonly applied, but if greatness consists in honestly and punctually performing the work undertaken, then he was a great man to an eminent degree.

When a man quits the scene of human action, much as he may be missed, his place is soon filled by others equally skilled, to perform the unfinished work which he leaves behind him.

But the man who performs well and faithfully the task assigned him, leaves, when death his eyelids close, an influence for good, as great and as permanent as though he had written an epic or won on the bloody battlefield the laurels of victory.

As long as honesty and faithfulness to a public trust are jewels in the crown of the republic, the career of Senator Sharp, as a public servant will command the admiration, and retain the respect of the people of the State of Washington.

To his wife and children, who survive him, he left the rich legacy of a good name.

The precious jewel of a good name is more valuable than green fields and much gold, more enduring than monuments of marble or bronze, for the elements cannot destroy and time cannot efface it.

Senator Rands said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

He who passes from the realm of mortality through the portal, death, into the great infinity of which we know nothing, without pausing upon the threshold till the body containing the vital spark has worn itself out and wasted away by some of the many ills to which flesh is heir, could not, were he himself permitted to choose, select a more appropriate end to a well-spent life.

Such apparently was the close of the career and end of the man, whose memory we would honor here today. Yet not so is the actual record in the great book wherein are contained facts and not appearances. J. P. Sharp seemingly worked in the portion of the vineyard allotted to him till almost the hour, when the recording angel said, "Come thou faithful servant, I will give thee rest." His indomitable will caused him to stand at his post long after the physical frame had indicated its inability to remain on duty, and none of us fully realized while Senator Sharp was here attending faithfully to his duties that it was only by reason of the exercise of mind over matter that he remained among us as long as he did.

Senator Sharp was a man of the people, by whom he was universally esteemed and beloved. Those who knew him best liked him best, and no more touching tribute to his memory can be instanced than the mute testimony tendered when three weeks ago on that bleak wintry day his neighbors, one and all gathered with the delegation sent from this body upon the Kittitas Hill, where lies the mortal frame of our lamented friend, in token of their appreciation of his sterling worth.

His "column is broken" and the "sprig of accacia" marks his last resting place, but his record remains and his deeds live and will be remembered long after the mortal frame which we termed the man shall have crumbled to dust.

There was no more familiar figure about these legislative halls than that of Senator Sharp. He was looked upon as a fixture, and so far as his constituents had a say in the matter, he was, but the fleeting sands of his life were well nigh at the bottom of his hour-glass, when sickness compelled him to yield, at least for a time, to the demand of the body for a rest, and seek home and friends, where he hoped that time and care would restore him to his usual health. But it was written otherwise in the great book, and so within two short weeks from the date of his leaving these halls, he cheerfully answered the last roll-call and so passed to the great beyond.

Senator Sharp was esteemed as a Legislator for faithful service rendered. He had the courage to vote his convictions upon all questions, and was on no occasion controlled by prejudice or spite. His word once given to his associates was always kept inviolate.

True to himself, he could not be otherwise than true to his friends and associates in this body.

A man of good attainments, possessed of cool and discriminating judgment, with a willingness to work, he investigated carefully matters requiring action upon his part and thus left his impress for good upon the laws enacted by this body.

We shall miss him in our counsels. We shall often think of the happy hours of work and of pleasure in and about these halls, but above and beyond this we shall always remember our association with a good man, of pure impulses, kind words, strict integrity and of upright character.

When the time comes for us to depart hence to join his spirit in the great unknown, let us hope that our record will entitle us to the same commendation that is his meed today.

In him we knew an honest man, a good citizen, a faithful legislator and a true friend. More than this cannot be said of any man.

Senator Reed said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

We have assembled here today to pay the last tribute of respect to the late Senator John P. Sharp. I have personally known Senator Sharp for more than twenty-seven years, a great portion of that time as my friend and neighbor. He was one of the pioneers of the territory and State of Washington, coming from a pioneer stock which made the Ohio Valley one of the bright spots of our country; emigrating across the Mississippi valley, across the Dakotas, to the Pacific Northwest; settling in the Yakima and Kittitas valleys over thirty years ago, when that country was almost a barren waste.

By his untiring energy, with others has lived to see those valleys the most productive in this State.

He was respected in the community in which he lived and the people elected him, at different periods, as a commissioner, as a member of the Legislature, and twice to the Senate of the State of Washington. There he was an honored member, at the time of his demise.

His acts of charity to the people who came to the territory and State, to those seeking homes here, are well known to everyone in the Kittitas valley. We all knew him as a good citizen and a faithful public servant. And what is greater, he had been tried and trusted, and we knew him to be an honest man.

Senator Gunn said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

I can add nothing to the testimony of the older members of this body, as to the affectionate veneration with which Senator Sharp was esteemed. Many members have known him longer, and have been associated with him more closely. But I am glad of the opportunity to speak of his character and the love of his people for him.

Especially fitting was the close of his noble life. Peaceful it was, as a summer evening in this the land he loved. And like yonder great mountain, his character stands out, pure and honest, stable and unyielding. The winds have blown away the clouds of misunderstanding. Faint in the distance arises the hum of commercial life. Darkness hides the waters. But far above stands that great peak, and upon it rests the last faint ray of sunshine, like a benediction.

Senator Graves said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

The mysteries of life and death go on around us ceaselessly, unchangingly. Man feebly resents the destiny of death which is inexorably foreordained for him from the moment of his birth.

He struggles to fathom the mystery of his existence; to discover why he was brought into the world, and to what fate he goes when his life's work is done. But he struggles in vain, for it is not given to the finite mind to penetrate the secrets of infinity. Man may hope and believe, but he can never know.

This much, however, we may claim to know: Man is not a freak of Nature. He is a part of the universal plan, and was placed upon the earth to fulfill a purpose. To every normal being is given a knowledge of right and of wrong. He who carries out the promptings of his better nature, steadily and unswervingly, has helped his fellow man to be better and happier, and by so much has elevated the whole human race. Such a man, surely, has fulfilled the purpose for which he was created.

I knew Senator Sharp intimately for a number of years. I knew him in his private and in his public life. Of his public life I need not speak, for it is known to every citizen of this State—incorruptible, unchangeable in his adherence to the right whatever argument of interest or policy was brought to bear upon him, quick to detect wrong however artfully concealed, he was an ideal public servant—his private life, the character of the man as it was known to his friends, is summed up in the statement that to them he was known as "Dad"—a homely sobriquet, but how much it speaks of the affectionate regard and esteem! Happy is the man who can win that affectionate nickname from his sons, for it means that between them is perfect love and confidence. Much happier is he who wins it from his friends, for it betokens so much the greater lovableness of character that he had extorted such measures of regard from those who are not of his blood. And if ever man deserved that regard, Senator Sharp did, for never was there a more cheerful, unassuming, kindly and generous nature than his.

We grieve deeply for our departed friend—we grieve that the State has been deprived of his faithful services. We grieve that his lovable individuality has gone forever from our lives. But our grief is wholly selfish. It springs alone from our feeling of personal loss. For surely death does not end all. Surely the soul is not of a piece with the corruptible body. Surely he who has done his part in this life passes to a higher, happier life beyond. We cannot know this, but our faith approaches conviction. For us, then, is grief for the loss from our lives; for him for whom we mourn, certain and eternal happiness.

Mr. Megler, speaker of the House, said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

I served with Senator Sharp in the first House, and after that in the Senate. I knew him as a true and conscientious friend, one of whom the State may well be proud. Kittitas county and the State of Washington will miss him, as he always had a hand in honest legislation.

I hope that in the future, we may get as honest and good men in the Legislature as he.

Mr. Dickson said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

I believe the highest praise we can bestow upon any man is to say, that the story of his life, of what he said, what he did, and of what he was, and how he took part in the life of his time, is his best eulogy.

From other lips than mine, eloquent and able eulogies of the estimate of the character and career of my warm and lamented friend and neighbor of twenty-three years, have been given.

About twenty-three years ago, upon locating in the Kittitas valley, I first met John P. Sharp, he being one of the first settlers and a pioneer in that section.

My acquaintance gradually ripened into a friendship which became more in the nature of the respect and feeling existing between father and son.

His counsel and advice was sought and received by me on many occasions and was always such as a son should receive from a father.

It was not the fortune of the late Senator John P. Sharp to receive more than a common school education, but like many men he became proficient in agricultural and business matters which was his chosen vocation in life. He was a great leader and his memory was obedient to his will. I can say he was a man of fixed opinions, and when conclusions were reached and believed by him to be founded on principles of justice and truth it was useless to try to change his course.

He was conscientious and untiring in the discharge of public duty and during many years' service, he enjoyed the confidence of his friends and the respect of his opponents, and leaves a record of distinguished public service nobly rendered.

His work in every relation of life was nobly done. He brought to the discharge of official duties, high aims, conspicuous ability, pure motives and an honesty of purpose which never was criticised or questioned.

He was a loving and devoted husband, an indulgent father, a good neighbor and a staunch and loyal friend.

Peace be to his memory.

Mr. Hare said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

Again we are called upon to mourn the loss of a friend and member of this legislative body.

A few days ago, Senator J. P. Sharp was laid away in the cold, silent grave; but his many charitable acts and noble deeds will live forever.

It was my privilege to be intimately acquainted with Senator Sharp in his lifetime. I knew him in his domestic life, in his plain country a picture of contentment and happiness. In business, his word was his bond. In the legislative hall, he was a good counsellor and advisor, and members following his advice and judgment could not go astray.

He was charitable to those who opposed him and as true as steel to his friends.

Mr. President, I could pay no greater tribute to the memory of our friend, the late Senator J. P. Sharp, than to say he was a true friend and an honest man.

Mr. Maloney said:

MR. PRESIDENT:

The great archer, Mr. President, has indeed been busy in our midst. Choosing, as ever, the most illustrious and most lovable characters, He has called from out the ranks that distinguished member of the Legislature and my warm, personal and loved friend—Senator Sharp of Kittitas. While I have appreciated, and do now appreciate, the honor and opportunity to add my slight tribute to his worth and memory, I trust that my broken utterances will be pardoned in consideration of the long and intimate friendship that I enjoyed with our dead friend.

I desire to ask pardon for the use of the blunt Saxon words that I use, because it has never seemed satisfactory to me to describe the condition of those who leave us full of years and honors as "dead." The Latins were happier and more true, their form of expression was not "he is dead," but "Vixit"—he has lived. No layman can draw the curtain, and speculation as to the mystery is idle. Our friend, however, was not one who sicklied o'er the pale cast of thought by speculation. He builded his faith, as his life, upon the doctrine and practice of Christianity and yielded at the last his better part in absolute assurance that the Great Architect having builded well would not leave human fate incomplete and reasonless.

The personal and public life of our distinguished friend was an open book, which he who ran might read, and no one of those pages was soiled by an unkind deed or unkind thought. He was a model in his family, as in his public life. His fondness for children was a byword in his county, in which I had the honor to dwell for many years, and from the time of his modest standing as the foreman of a farm until the hour of his death as one of our cleanest and most upright members, this kindness of nature was preserved.

This is not the proper occasion, and, if it were, it might be impertinent for me to dwell upon his virtues as a husband and a father, but my intimate acquaintance with him has been such that I have known him in all capacities and wanting in none. With his public record you and the public generally are as well acquainted as am I, but in the course of his public life we all have known of the many insidious opportunities thrust upon him and that he never varied from the straight path in all his official conduct. Had I the silver tongue of the traditional eulogist, and were my heart sufficiently unaffected to permit me to use it, it would be my pleasure to make this a eulogy that would live, but I cannot do that nor have I the inclination. If I felt his death less strongly, my poor abilities would be readier to my call to embalm his memory in the fluent amber of golden speech, but, feeling it as I do, I cannot attempt eulogy. Indeed it would be an idle and useless thing for me to attempt to enumerate his civic virtues to you who have known his long and honorable public career. For me to lift the pall from his bier to describe in detail his domestic virtues, would be prying into the sanctity of his life and intruding myself upon the grief of his stricken family and friends.

I hope to add not a touch to his memory, but wish simply to record myself as among those who admired his virtues. I epitomize my belief when I say that he lived the life of an honest, upright, Christian gentleman, and he of whom that can be truthfully and honestly said needs no words of eulogy, as he needs no advocate at the Bar at which he has appeared. He rested content during his life, with the calm assurance that one who lives the upright life need not disturb himself about the forms of tenet he embraces, but, having kept the faith, may enter the presence of his Maker unafraid and unabashed.

Rev. H. G. Sawin then pronounced the following benediction :

Almighty God, Thou that givest light, Thou that satisfieth the hungry soul, to Thee we come, Thou hast the words of eternal life. In the presence of death we stand questioning. We look into the open grave and question. We think of our own dying and ask—"If a man die shall he live again?" Without Thee "we are children crying in the dark." Merciful God, Thou hast caused the light of thy gospel to shine upon us. The further span of the bridge mysterious does not break down in clouds and darkness. By the light of thy gospel we see its further end resting upon the celestial floor, and thy servants passing over and entering into rest and peace forevermore. May Thy grace, mercy and peace be with us all, now and forevermore. Amen.

JOINT RULES OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

REGULAR SESSION OF 1905.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE AND FREE CONFERENCE.

RULE 1. In every case of an amendment of a bill, or joint or concurrent resolution, agreed to in one house, dissented from in the other and not receded from by the one making the same, such house shall appoint a committee to confer with a like committee to be appointed by the other, and the committee so appointed shall meet at a convenient hour, to be agreed upon by their respective chairmen, and shall confer upon the differences between the two houses as indicated by the amendment made in one and rejected in the other, and report as early as convenient the result of their conference to their respective houses. If after such a report the two houses shall disagree upon the recommendations of the reporting committees as to their differences between the two houses, a committee of free conference shall be appointed to whom the whole subject matter embraced in the bill or resolution shall be committed, and the committee of free conference may report by new bill or resolution, or otherwise, and bills or resolutions so reported shall be treated as amendments, unless such bills or resolutions are comprised entirely of original matter, in which case they shall receive the treatment required in the respective houses for original bills or resolutions, as the case may be.

MESSAGES.

RULE 2. Messages from the Senate to the House of Representatives shall be delivered by the secretary or assistant secretary, and messages from the House of Representatives to the Senate shall be delivered by the chief clerk or assistant clerk who shall be announced by the door-keeper, enter within the bar, announce or deliver his message.

BILLS.

RULE 3. Each house shall communicate its final action on any bill, or resolution, or matter in which the other may be entrusted, in writing, signed by the secretary or clerk of the house from which such notice is sent.

RULE 4. After a bill shall have passed both houses, it shall be duly enrolled by the enrolling clerk of the house in which it originated, and shall be examined by the enrolling committee of such house, who shall carefully compare the enrollment with the engrossed bill, as passed, correcting any errors that may be discovered in the enrolled bill, procure in open session the signature thereto of the necessary officers of the two houses, present the same to the Governor, and forthwith report to such house the time when such presentation to the Governor was made. The enrolling clerk shall endorse upon the back of each bill the house in which said bill originated.

RULE 5. All joint resolutions to be presented to the Governor, excepting such as may be addressed to him, shall take the usual course of bills.

RULE 6. Each house shall transmit to the other papers on which any bill or resolution may be founded.

PRINTING.

RULE 7. The standing committees on printing of the two houses shall be a joint standing committee, who shall examine all matters proposed to be printed by concurrent order, and shall report what part of such matter is needful to print. Each house may order the printing of bills introduced, reports of its own committees, and other matters pertaining to such house only; but no other printing shall be ordered except by a concurrent resolution passed by both houses. It shall be the duty of the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House to compare the bills introduced in each house and such bills as are introduced in both houses and are of the same wording shall only be printed in one house.

RESOLUTIONS.

RULE 8. Joint resolutions and memorials addressed to congress, or either house thereof, or to the president of the United States, or the head of any of the national departments, or proposing amendments to the State constitution, shall be treated in all respects as bills.

VETOES.

RULE 9. Bills which have passed a previous Legislature, and which are transmitted to the Legislature next sitting, accompanied by a message or statement of the Governor's disapproval, or veto of the same, shall become the subject of a special order; and when the special order for their consideration is reached and called, the said message or statement shall be read, together with the bill or bills so disapproved or vetoed, and the message and bill shall be read by the clerk without interruption, consecutively, one following the other, and not upon separate occasions; and no such bill or message shall be referred to any committee, or otherwise acted upon, save as provided by law and custom; that is to say, that immediately following such reading the only question (except as hereinafter stated) which shall be put by the speaker is, "Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?" It shall not be in order, any time, to vote upon such vetoed bill without the same shall have first been read, from the first word of its title to and including the last word of its final section; and no motion shall be entertained after the chair has stated the question save a motion for the "previous question," but the merits of the bill itself may be debated.

RULE 10. That the Senate bills in the House, and House bills in the Senate be the special order on Wednesday of each week during the session.
