The President led the Senate in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Sister Mary Pat Murphy of Tacoma of the Dominican Center offered the prayer.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "The President would like to welcome everybody here again for this session and wish you all the best of luck and good work. Every year we are privileged to have the Lake Fair Queen welcome us on the opening day of the Legislative Session and I'm pleased to ask Madison Shelton, this years Lake Fair Queen to say a few words. She is accompanied by her mother, Loni Shelton and her father James Smith. Other family members, who are seated in the visitors gallery, and she's also accompanied by Terry Schamalski, the 2007 Capital Lake Fair President and Jan Myers the Lake Royalty Chair. If you would please come forward and make your presentation. Welcome to the Senate."

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUESTS

The President welcomed and introduced Lakefair Queen, Madison Shelton who was seated at the rostrum.

With permission of the Senate, business was suspended to allow Miss Madison Shelton to address the Senate and welcome the Senators to Olympia.

REMARKS BY MISS MADISON SHELTON

Queen Madison Shelton: "Hello, and welcome to the lovely city of Olympia Washington. I am pleased to be here today to ring in the 2007 Legislative Session and I would like to take this opportunity to discuss an issue that is very dear to my heart. I feel that education needs to be made a major priority in our state. As a student I have both benefitted from the current education system and seen its short comings. I have learned a great deal from my talented teachers and coaches but I have also seen the difficulty that arises when they try to do more for the students but are limited by national standards, WASL requirements and lack of funding. However, the short comings from the school system can't all be blamed on these three things. Time Magazine recently published an article titled "How to bring our schools out of the 20th Century." What it talked about was not smaller class sizes; more teachers; and more funding but, rather, what our children need to be taught in order to function in the global economy. They suggested that our students need to learn more about other countries; learn more foreign languages; be able to solve abstract problems; work in teams; and be able to distinguish good information from bad. The article also stated that our schools focus too much on the basics of reading, writing and arithmetic and they're ignoring all the other very important aspects of a global education like, science, technology, emotional intelligence and speaking ability. None of this ever-important growth, however, can take place without the proper funding. Schools can not be expected to go beyond the basics if they don't have what they need to function, never-the-less thrive. I know that the high expectations of Time Magazine can be accomplished with proper help. The Lincoln School here in Olympia has an optional program for children to learn emotional intelligence. The school can't afford to make the program available to all students, though they would like to. This program could and should be implemented in all schools but they need the funding for it. My cousin in Woodinville attends a bilingual school where half of the class is made up of native English speakers and the other half is made up of native Spanish speakers. The students work together to teach each other the different foreign languages. Teaching them how to work in groups as well as very important foreign language, but unfortunately examples like these schools are few and far between. Programs of this ingenuity and importance could be a part of main stream public schools if only we could afford them and be able to take the focus off tradition and onto the future. You are here today to make momentous decisions for our state and its people about many issues, including education. I wish you the best of luck in your negotiations and discussions and hope that you'll be able to work together to do what is best for our state and it's beautiful people. Thank you."

LETTER OF RESIGNATION

WASHINGTON STATE SENATE
Senator Joyce Mulliken
13th Legislative District

Dear Governor Gregoire,

Please let this serve as my notice of resignation from the Washington State Senate, effective yesterday November 14, 2006 as per my conversation with Marty Brown this morning. I understand my appointment to the Eastern WA Growth Management Hearings Board (EWGMHB) begins today, November 15, and a sitting state legislator cannot assume this position until the resignation is effective.

I have been working with Senate Accounting and Office of Financial Management (OFM) to provide for a seamless transition, and there will be no overlapping of salary or benefits according to them.

I'm looking forward to continuing my service to the people in the state of Washington as a member of the EWGMHB, and have been orienting myself by participating in meetings and teleconference calls with other GMHB members.

I appreciate your confidence in me and appreciate the opportunity.

Sincerely,
JOYCE MULLIKEN, 13th Legislative District

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The President declared nominations to be open for office of President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

REMARKS BY SENATOR HARGROVE

Senator Hargrove: "Thank you Mr. President. I would like to nominate the fair lady from the Twenty-Ninth District, Senator Rosa Hargrove. Well, first of all I'd like to say that Senator Franklin is the complete opposite of me, in many ways that are obvious, some that aren't so obvious. She represents an urban district, I represent a rural district. She's very graceful, she's very wise, she's very smart, she's much better looking than I am. She's very hard working and very competent. Also something that's really important when serving as President Pro Tempore is she has an incredible amount of stamina. In fact, I think she can stand at the rostrum longer than you Mr. President without having to excuse herself, for whatever. And, in fact just like the President, she makes us all look good. The current President of the Senate, Lt. Governor Brad Owen, makes us look very good when we're on TVW and when Senator Franklin get's up there she carries on that tradition. We look very good here in the Senate with her presiding over the Senate. She has one of the fastest gavels, so for all you newcomers if you want a division on an amendment you better be yelling it while the gavel is still in the air. She is such a sweet lady that you always know that she's fair and that she's going to preside over this body with great fairness and justice. So, its with great pleasure and honor that I nominate Senator Rosa Franklin to be our President Pro Tempore.”

FIRST DAY, JANUARY 8, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: “Thank you Mr. President. Well, I would like to second the nomination, sweet, wonderful Senator Franklin as our President Pro Tempore. I’ve known Rosa for well over twenty years and I’ve always been amazed at her wisdom, kindness, gentleness, sweetness. She’s a wonderful, wonderful person but you put a gavel in her hand and she all of a sudden brings all that sweetness and kindness but she puts it in fast, accurate, deliberate motion and she does make us all look good. I am very, very proud and honored to have her as a colleague to put her name forth as President Pro Tempore. She’s a wonderful person, has done a great job and we would just love to have another two years. Thank you.”

MOTION

On motion of Senator Eide, the nominations for office of President Pro Tempore were closed.

When the President of the Senate is away he’s dependable and understands that it really is a team effort between the Vice President Pro Tempore and the President Pro Tempore. He is respectful of the institution. He’s respectful of each one of our colleagues. It gives me an honor and pleasure once again to nominate, place his name in nomination, of Vice President Pro Tempore of the Senate.”

REMARKS BY SENATOR JACOBSEN

He started life as an uneducated kid wandering the streets Seoul during the Korean War. Now, coming to the United States and being elected as State Senator in Olympia, Washington is a story of a dream that can only come true in America. Paull signifies everything everybody dreams about America. The other thing, when the Korean’s celebrated one-hundred years of Korean immigration to the United States, 1905-2005 they picked their ten most outstanding immigrants and Paull was one of those ten. He’s a very exceptional person; well known in our country; well known over seas; well known in Washington D. C., personal friend of the new Secretary General of the United Nations. Rising to not only to the professor in a University serving as state senator and serving in an awesome compacity. ELECTION OF SERGEANT AT ARMS

The President declared nominations to be open for office of Sergeant at Arms.

REMARKS BY SENATOR KASTAMA

Senator Kastama: "Thank you Mr. President. I would like to nominate Jim Ruble for Sergeant at Arms. Jim Ruble has served with dignity as a Sergeant at Arms starting last year. He's known to us as a person of course whose very knowledgeable, someone who is polite or as a member told me 'very kindly'. He's gracious and of course he's the one with the red cape, who come to help us at times in an emergency. There's more to Jim than just that. He's been distinguished career at education, teaching the youth of Washington's state civics. In fact, much of my information on government comes from him as he was my teacher in junior high for civics. He was also my football coach which probably has something to do with the alignment of my nose. His lovely wife, Barbara, is an artist and a former music teacher and we are fortunate to have his service and I ask for his vote. Thank you."

APPOINT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

FIRST DAY, JANUARY 8, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

The President of the Senate appointed a committee of honor consisting of Senators Rockefeller and Honeyford to escort Chief Justice Alexander from the senate chamber.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Brown: "Thank you Mr. President. I just wanted to welcome everyone to our new session-all of the senators on the floor here today as well as the staff who do so much for us during the session and all the family members. I wanted to take just a moment Mr. President, as you did just a moment earlier, to remind us that we take our oath as individuals but we serve here as members of families and communities. As we well know during this one-hundred and five days that requires certain personal sacrifices on behalf of our families. So, let's just take a moment to recognize and think of them in sickness and in health and we have members here with challenges in their families right now, health challenges of parents, of children, of spouses and let's just take a moment to remember that when we are here as individuals and in the heat of debate, we are also here as members of families and as members of communities from around the state of Washington. In that spirit I'd like to close with a quote. We all know that this is a session where everyone here cares passionately about our children, our future. We'll be working hard on education and so I will close with a quote that my son sent me in an email this morning. 'Don't gain the world, but loose your soul, wisdom is better than silver and gold,' that's from Bob Marley. Thank you Mr. President."

A majority of the members present may further limit the number of times a member may speak on any question and may limit the length of time a member may speak but, unless a demand for the previous question has been sustained, a member shall not be denied the right to speak at least once on each question, nor shall a member be limited to less than three minutes on each question. In any event, the senator who presents the motion may open and close debate on the question.

Question of Privilege

Rule 33. Any senator may rise to a question of privilege and explain a personal matter by leave of the president, but shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations, nor shall any question of personal privilege permit any senator to introduce any person or persons in the galleries. A question of privilege shall involve only subject matter which affects the particular senator personally and in a manner unique and peculiar to that senator.

Protests

Rule 34. Any senator or senators may protest against the action of the senate upon any question. Such protest may be

Such motion to reconsider shall be in order only under the order of motions of the day immediately following the day upon which such notice of reconsideration is given, and may be made by any member who voted with the prevailing side.

2. A motion to reconsider shall have precedence over every other motion, except a motion to adjourn; and when the senate adjourns while a motion to reconsider is pending or before passing the order of motions, the right to move a reconsideration shall continue to the next day of sitting. On and after the tenth day prior to adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article 2, Section 12, or concurrent resolution, or in the event that the measure is subject to a senate rule or resolution or a joint rule or concurrent resolution, which would preclude consideration on the next day of sitting a motion to reconsider shall only be in order on the same day upon which notice of reconsideration is given and may be made at any time that day. Motions to reconsider a vote upon amendments to any pending question may be made and decided at once.

Motion to Adjourn

Rule 38. Except when under call of the senate, a motion to adjourn shall always be in order. The name of the senator moving to adjourn and the time when the motion was made shall be entered upon the journal.

Yeas and Nays - When Must be Taken

Rule 39. The yeas and nays shall be taken when called for by one-sixth of all the senators present, and every senator within the bar of the senate shall vote unless excused by the unanimous vote of the members present, and the votes shall be entered upon the journal. (See also Art. 2, Sec. 21, State Constitution.)

When once begun the roll call may not be interrupted for any purpose other than to move a call of the senate. (See also Senate Rules 22 and 24.)

Reed's Parliamentary Rules

Rule 40. The rules of parliamentary practice as contained in Reed's Parliamentary Rules shall govern the senate in all cases to which they are applicable, and in which they are not inconsistent with the rules and orders of this senate and the joint rules of this senate and the house of representatives.

Subcommittees

Rule 42. Committee chairs may create subcommittees of the standing committee and designate subcommittee chairs thereof to study subjects within the jurisdiction of the standing committee. The committee chair shall approve the use of committee staff and equipment assigned to the subcommittee. Subcommittee activities shall further be subject to facilities and operations committee approval to the same extent as are the actions of the standing committee from which they derive their authority.

Subpoena Power

Rule 43. Any of the above referenced committees, including subcommittees thereof, or any special committees created by the senate, may have the powers of subpoena, the power to administer oaths, and the power to issue commissions for the examination of witnesses in accordance with the provisions of chapter 44.16 RCW. The committee chair shall file with the committee on rules, prior to issuance of any process, a statement of purpose setting forth the name or names of those subject to process. The rules committee shall consider every proposed issuance of process at a meeting of the rules committee immediately following the filing of the statement with the committee. The process shall not be issued prior to consideration by the rules committee. The process shall be limited to the named individuals and the committee on rules may overrule the service on an individual so named.

Duties of Committees

Rule 44. The several committees shall fully consider measures referred to them.

The committees shall acquaint themselves with the interest of the state specially represented by the committee, and from time to time present such bills and reports as in their judgment will advance the interests and promote the welfare of the people of the state: PROVIDED, That no executive action on bills may be taken during an interim.

Committee Rules

Rule 45. 1. At least five days notice shall be given of all public hearings held by any committee other than the rules committee. Such notice shall contain the date, time and place of such hearing together with the title and number of each bill, or identification of the subject matter, to be considered at such hearing. By a majority vote of the committee members present at any committee meeting such notice may be dispensed with. The reason for such action shall be set forth in a written statement preserved in the records of the meeting.

2. No committee may hold a public hearing during a regular or extraordinary session on a proposal identified as a draft unless the draft has been made available to the public at least twenty-four hours prior to the hearing. This rule does not apply during the five days prior to any cutoff established by concurrent resolution nor does it apply to any measure exempted from the resolution.

3. During its consideration of or vote on any bill, resolution or memorial, the deliberations of any committee or subcommittee of the senate shall be open to the public. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct at any such deliberations, the chair shall order the sergeant at arms to suppress the same and may order the meeting closed to any person or persons creating such disturbance.

4. No committee shall amend a measure, adopt a substitute bill, or vote upon any measure or appointment absent a quorum. A committee may conduct a hearing absent a quorum. A majority of any committee shall constitute a quorum(=) and committees shall be considered to have a quorum present unless the question is raised. ((No committee shall transact official business absent a quorum except to conduct a hearing.)) Any question as to quorum not raised at the time of the committee action is deemed waived.

5. Bills reported to the senate from a standing committee must have a majority report, which shall be prepared upon a printed standing committee report form; ~~((shall carry one, or more as appropriate, of the following recommendations;))~~ shall be adopted at a regularly or specially called meeting during a legislative session and shall be signed by a majority of the committee; and shall carry only one of the following recommendations:

- a. Do pass(=);
- b. Do pass as amended(=);
- c. That a substitute bill be substituted therefor, and the substitute bill do pass(=);
- ~~d. That the bill be referred to another committee;)~~; or ((=)) d. Without recommendation.

In addition to one of the above-listed recommendations, a report may also recommend that a bill be referred to another committee.

6. A majority report of a committee must carry the signatures of a majority of the members of the committee. In the event a committee has a quorum pursuant to subsection ((3)) 4 of this rule, a majority of the members present may act on a measure, subject to obtaining the signatures of a majority of the members of the committee on the majority report.

7. Any measure, appointment, substitute bill, or amendment still within a committee's possession before it has been reported out to the full senate may be reconsidered to correct an error, change language, or otherwise accurately reflect the will of the committee in its majority and minority reports to the full senate. Any such reconsideration may be made at any time, by any member of the committee, provided that the committee has not yet reported the measure, appointment, substitute bill, or amendment out to the full senate. Any such reconsideration made after a vote has been taken or signatures obtained will require a new vote and signature sheet. Any measure which does not receive a majority vote of the members present may be reconsidered at that meeting and may again be considered upon motion of any committee member if one day's notice of said motion is provided to all committee members. For purposes of this rule, a committee is deemed to have reported a measure, appointment, substitute bill, or amendment out when it has delivered its majority and minority reports to the senate workroom. After such delivery, the committee no longer has possession of the measure, appointment, substitute bill, or amendment and no further committee action, including reconsideration, may be taken.

8. Any member of the committee not concurring in the majority report may sign a minority report containing a recommendation of "do not pass" or "without recommendation," which shall be signed by those members of the committee subscribing thereto, and submitted with the majority report. In every case where a majority report form is circulated for signature, a minority report form shall also be circulated.

9. When a committee reports a substitute for an original bill with the recommendation that the substitute bill do pass, it shall be in order to read the substitute bill the first time and have the same ordered printed.

A motion for the substitution of the substitute bill for the original bill shall not be in order until the committee on rules places the original bill on the second reading calendar.

10. No vote in any committee shall be taken by secret ballot nor shall any committee have a policy of secrecy as to any vote on action taken in such committee.

11. All reports of standing committees must be on the secretary's desk one hour prior to convening of the session in order to be read at said session.

Committee Meetings During Sessions

Rule 46. No committee shall sit during the daily session of the senate unless by special leave.

No committee shall sit during any scheduled caucus.

Reading of Reports

Rule 47. The majority report, and minority report, if there be one, together with the names of the signers thereof, shall be read by the secretary, unless the reading be dispensed with by the senate, and all committee reports shall be spread upon the journal.

Recalling Bills from Committees

Rule 48. Any standing committee of the senate may be relieved of further consideration of any bill, regardless of prior action of the committee, by a majority vote of the senators elected or appointed. The senate may then make such orderly disposition of the bill as they may direct by a majority vote of the members of the senate.

Bills Referred to Rules Committee

Rule 49. All bills reported by a committee to the senate shall then be referred to the committee on rules for second reading without action on the report unless otherwise ordered by the senate. (See also Rules 63 and 64.)

Rules Committee

Rule 50. The lieutenant governor shall be a voting member and the chair of the committee on rules. The committee on rules shall have charge of the daily second and third reading calendar of the senate and shall direct the secretary of the senate the order in which the bills shall be considered by the senate and the committee on rules shall have the authority to directly refer any bill before them to any other standing committee. Such referral shall be reported out to the senate on the next day's business.

The senate may change the order of consideration of bills on the second or third reading calendar.

The calendar, except in emergent situations, as determined by the committee on rules, shall be on the desks and in the offices of the senators each day and shall cover the bills for consideration on the next following day.

Employment Committee

Rule 51. The employment committee for committee staff shall consist of five members, three from the majority party and two from the minority party. The chair shall be appointed by the majority leader. The committee shall, in addition to its other duties, appoint a staff director for committee services with the concurrence of four of its members. All other decisions shall be determined by majority vote. The committee shall operate within staffing, budget levels and guidelines as authorized and adopted by the facilities and operations committee.

Committee of the Whole

Rule 52. At no time shall the senate sit as a committee of the whole.

The senate may at any time, by the vote of the majority of the members present, sit as a body for the purpose of taking testimony on any measure before the senate.

Appropriation Budget Bills

Rule 53. No amendment to the budget, capital budget or supplemental budget, not incorporated in the bill as reported by the ways and means committee, shall be adopted except by the affirmative vote of sixty percent of the senators elected or appointed.

SECTION VI

BILLS, RESOLUTIONS, MEMORIALS AND GUBERNATORIAL APPOINTMENTS

Definitions

Rule 54. "Measure" means a bill, joint memorial, joint resolution, or concurrent resolution.

"Bill" when used alone means bill, joint memorial, joint resolution, or concurrent resolution.

"Majority" shall mean a majority of those members present unless otherwise stated.

Prefiling

Rule 55. Holdover members and members-elect to the senate may prefile bills with the secretary of the senate on any day commencing with the first Monday in December preceding any session year; or twenty days prior to any special session of the legislature. Such bills will be printed, distributed and prepared for introduction on the first legislative day. No bill, joint memorial or joint resolution shall be prefiled by title and/or preamble only. (See also Rule 3, Sub. 3.)

Introduction of Bills

Rule 56. All bills, joint resolutions and joint memorials introduced shall be endorsed with a statement of the title and the name of the member introducing the same. Any member desiring to introduce a bill, joint resolution or joint memorial shall file the same with the secretary of the senate by noon of the day before the convening of the session at which said bill, joint resolution or joint memorial is to be introduced.

After the expiration of deadlines for bill introductions provided for by resolution, no bill shall be introduced, except as the legislature shall direct by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each house, said vote to be taken by yeas and nays and entered upon the journal, or unless the same be at a special session. The time limitation for introduction of bills shall not apply to substitute bills reported by standing committees for bills pending before such committees and general appropriation and revenue bills. (See also Art. 2, Sec. 36, State Constitution.)

Amendatory Bills

Rule 57. Bills introduced in the senate intended to amend existing statutes shall have the words which are amendatory to such existing statutes underlined. Any matter to be deleted from the existing statutes shall be indicated by setting such matter forth in full, enclosed by double parentheses, and such deleted matter shall be lined out with hyphens. No bill shall be printed or acted upon until the provisions of this rule shall have been complied with.

Sections added by amendatory bill to an existing act, or chapter of the official code, need not be underlined but shall be designated "NEW SECTION" in upper case type and such designation shall be underlined. New enactments need not be underlined.

When statutes are being repealed, the Revised Code of Washington section number to be repealed, the section caption and the session law history, from the most current to the original, shall be cited.

Joint Resolutions and Memorials

Rule 58. Joint resolutions and joint memorials, up to the signing thereof by the president of the senate, shall be subject to the rules governing the course of bills.

Senate Concurrent Resolutions

Rule 59. Concurrent resolutions shall be subject to the rules governing the course of bills and may be adopted without a roll call. Concurrent resolutions authorizing investigations and authorizing the expenditure or allocation of any money must be adopted by roll call and the yeas and nays recorded in the journal. Concurrent resolutions are subject to final passage on the day of the first reading without regard to Senate Rules 62, 63, and 64.

Committee Bills

Rule 60. Committee bills introduced by a standing committee during a legislative session may be filed with the secretary of the senate and introduced, and the signature of each member of the committee shall be endorsed upon the cover of the original bill.

Committee bills shall be read the first time by title, ordered printed, and referred to the committee on rules for second reading.

Committee Reference

Rule 61. When a motion is made to refer a subject, and different committees are proposed, the question shall be taken in the following order:

FIRST: A standing committee.

SECOND: A select committee.

Reading of Bills

Rule 62. Every bill shall be read on three separate days unless the senate deems it expedient to suspend this rule. On and after the tenth day preceding adjournment sine die of any session, or three days prior to any cut-off date for consideration of bills, as determined pursuant to Article 2, Section 12 of the Constitution or concurrent resolution, this rule may be suspended by a majority vote. (See also Rule 59).

First Reading

Rule 63. The first reading of a bill shall be by title only, unless a majority of the members present demand a reading in full.

After the first reading, bills shall be referred to an appropriate committee pursuant to Rule 61.

Upon being reported back by committee, all bills shall be referred to the committee on rules for second reading, unless otherwise ordered by the senate. (See Rule 49.)

A bill shall be reported back by the committee chair upon written petition therefor signed by a majority of its members. The petition shall designate the recommendation as provided in Rule 45, Sub. 5.

No committee chair shall exercise a pocket veto of any bill. Should there be a two-thirds majority report of the committee membership against the bill, a vote shall be immediately ordered for the indefinite postponement of the bill.

Second Reading/Amendments

Rule 64. Upon second reading, the bill shall be read section by section, in full, and be subject to amendment.

Any member may, if sustained by three members, remove a bill from the consent calendar as constituted by the committee on rules. A bill removed from the consent calendar shall take its place as the last bill in the order of consideration of bills on the second reading calendar.

No amendment shall be considered by the senate until it shall have been sent to the secretary's desk in writing and read by the secretary.

All amendments adopted on the second reading shall then be securely fastened to the original bill.

All amendments rejected by the senate shall be spread upon the journal, and the journal shall show the disposition of all amendments.

When no further amendments shall be offered, the president shall declare the bill has passed its second reading, and shall be referred to the committee on rules for third reading.

Third Reading

Rule 65. Bills on third reading shall be read in full by sections, and no amendment shall be entertained.

When a bill shall pass, it shall be certified to by the secretary, together with the vote upon final passage, noting the day of its passage thereon.

The vote must be taken by yeas and nays, the names of the senators voting for and against the same to be entered upon the journal and the majority of the members elected to the senate must be recorded thereon as voting in its favor to secure its passage by the senate.

Scope and Object of Bill Not to be Changed

Rule 66. No amendment to any bill shall be allowed which shall change the scope and object of the bill. (See also Art. 2, Sec. 38, State Constitution.) Substitute bills shall be considered amendments for the purposes of this rule. A point of order raising the question of scope and object may be raised at any time during consideration of an amendment prior to voting on the amendment.

Matters Related to Disagreement Between the Senate and House

Rule 67. When there is a disagreement between the senate and house on a measure before the senate, the senate may act upon the measure with the following motions which have priority in the following order:

To concur
To non-concur
To recede
To insist
To adhere

These motions are in order as to any single amendment or to a series of amendments. (See Reed's Rules 247 through 254.)

A senate bill, passed by the house with amendment or amendments which shall change the scope and object of the bill, upon being received in the senate, shall be referred to an appropriate committee and shall take the same course as for original bills, unless a motion to ask the house to recede, to insist or to adhere is made prior to the measure being referred to committee.

Bills Committed for Special Amendment

Rule 68. A bill may be committed with or without special instructions to amend at any time before taking the final vote.

Confirmation of Gubernatorial Appointees

Rule 69. When the names of appointees to state offices are transmitted to the Secretary of the Senate for senate confirmation, the communication from the governor shall be recorded and referred to the appropriate standing committee.

The standing committee, or subcommittee, pursuant to rule 42, shall require each appointee referred to the committee for consideration to complete the standard questionnaire to be used to ascertain the appointee's general background and qualifications. The committee may also require the appointee to complete a supplemental questionnaire related specifically to the qualifications for the position to which he has been appointed.

Any hearing on a gubernatorial appointment, held by the standing committee, or subcommittees, pursuant to rule 42, shall be a public hearing. The appointee may be required to appear before the committee on request. When appearing, the appointee shall be required to testify under oath or affirmation. The chair of the committee or the presiding member shall administer the oath or affirmation in accordance with RCW 44.16. (See also Article 2, Sec. 6 of the State Constitution.)

Nothing in this rule shall be construed to prevent a standing committee, or subcommittee, pursuant to rule 42, upon a two-thirds vote of its members, from holding executive sessions when considering an appointment.

When the committee on rules presents the report of the standing committee before the senate, the question shall be the confirmation of the name proposed, and the roll shall then be called and the yeas and nays entered upon the journal. In the event a message is received from the governor requesting return of an appointment or appointments to the office of the governor prior to confirmation, the senate shall vote upon the governor's request and the appointment or appointments shall be returned to the governor if the request is approved by a majority of the members elected or appointed. (Article 13 of the State Constitution.)

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of Senate Resolution No. 8601.

The motion by Senator Eide carried and the resolution was adopted by voice vote.

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

The Honorable Brad Owen
President of the Senate
Legislature of the State of Washington
Olympia, Washington 98504

MR. PRESIDENT OWEN:

We respectfully transmit for your consideration the following bills which were partially vetoed by the Governor, together with the official veto message setting forth her objections to the sections or items of the bills, as required by Article III, section 12, of the Washington State Constitution:

Substitute Senate Bill No. 6234
Substitute Senate Bill No. 6241
Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 6384
Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 6386
Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 6428
Substitute Senate Bill No. 6555

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Seal of the state of Washington, this 8th day of March, 2006.

(Seal) SAM REED, Secretary of State

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

March 29, 2006

To the Honorable President and Members,
The Senate of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 6411 entitled:

“AN ACT Relating to collective bargaining agreements.”

This bill allows bargaining a contract of up to six years for public employees who are covered by the Public Employees’ Collective Bargaining Act (PECBA). The intent of the legislation is to provide stability and lower costs for smaller local governmental entities. However, current law restricts contracts under PECBA to a three-year duration.

PECBA covers mainly city, county and local government employees. It also includes several state employee groups, including state troopers, the University of Washington Print Shop, and several other higher education classified units. At least one of the state employee groups covered by the PECBA has binding interest arbitration-state troopers. In addition, home health care workers, and family childcare providers, who are also covered by PECBA, have binding interest arbitration. This dispute resolution mechanism could lead to settlements that violate the principle that the state cannot obligate future legislatures beyond the current biennium.

If an imposed settlement violated this principle, court challenges could ensue. While I understand that current law allows for contracts to exceed the two-year budget cycle, this was not an issue of concern for the state until last year when changes in the state troopers’ bargaining law allowed for bargaining over wages and benefits. In the last several years, the addition of collective bargaining rights for home care workers and family child care workers also increases the likelihood of legal challenges over contract duration.

If legislation were introduced in the next session with provisions to address the above concerns regarding state employee groups, I would certainly look much more favorably on the bill.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Senate Bill No. 6411 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
CHRISTINE O. GRÉGOIRE, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

March 29, 2006

To the Honorable President and Members,
The Senate of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6781 entitled:

“AN ACT Relating to environmental remediation.”

This bill would provide sales and business tax incentives for environmental remediation actions.

Cleaning up historic contamination is usually a key step in the redevelopment of our urban lands. However, past tax incentives for environmental remediation did not measurably increase the number of cleanup actions. And for cleanup actions conducted by state agencies and local governments, this bill would inappropriately shift the cost burden from the dedicated toxics cleanup accounts to the state general fund.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Substitute Senate Bill No. 6781 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
CHRISTINE O. GRÉGOIRE, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

March 29, 2006

To the Honorable President and Members,
The Senate of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6369 entitled:

“AN ACT Relating to excise tax exemptions for water services provided by small water systems.”

This Substitute Senate Bill No. 6369 exempts water-sewer, irrigation, and public utility districts that provide water services to small customer bases from the public utility tax and business and occupation tax as long as at least 90 percent of the value of the tax exemptions would be used to repair, equip, upgrade, or maintain the system.

This bill provides inadequate accountability to the state’s taxpayers. The tax exemptions are not limited by sunsets. Only one study of the effectiveness of the tax exemptions, due in 2010, will be made. After that, the tax exemptions will continue on in perpetuity without scrutiny.

In addition, the legislation’s self-stated goal, of providing assistance to small public water systems that are in most need, would be more efficiently met through a grant program. Through a grant program, pressing needs can be met first and all needs can actually be assessed. A grant program could also help those small water systems that are already exempt from the state’s business and occupation tax and public utility tax as well. As Governor, I think part of my duty is to meet the needs in the most efficient way possible.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Substitute Senate Bill No. 6369 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
CHRISTINE O. GREGOIRE, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

March 29, 2006

To the Honorable President and Members,
The Senate of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 6412 entitled:

“AN ACT Relating to superior court judges.”

The substance of this bill was already accomplished through House Bill No. 2344, which I signed into law on March 9, 2006. Therefore, I am vetoing Senate Bill No. 6412 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
CHRISTINE O. GREGOIRE, Governor

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

March 31, 2006

To the Honorable President and Members,
The Senate of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6330 entitled:

“AN ACT Relating to the establishment of the Washington trade corps fellowship program.”

This bill is being vetoed for two reasons. First, given the limited resources and high demands of our international trade office, this program would not be a priority. I commend the Legislature for adding resources to trade and to trade offices. However, the specific purpose proposed in this bill is not the most effective approach. Second, the budget for this project is exceptionally large given the task that is proposed. These are funds that simply should not be allocated for studying funding opportunities.

For these reasons, I have vetoed Substitute Senate Bill No. 6330 in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
CHRISTINE O. GREGOIRE, Governor

MOTION

On motion of Senator Eide, the partial vetoes and vetoes were held at the desk.

2007 REGULAR SESSION

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUESTS

The President introduced the members of the Consular Corps: H. Ronald Masnik, Consul of Belgium and President of the Consular Association of Washington; Michael Virr, Consul General of Canada; Jorge Gilbert, Consul of Chile; Frank Brozovich, Consul of Croatia; Kazuo Tanaka, Consul General of Japan; Kwon, Chanho, Consul General of The Republic of Korea; Roberto Caldera, Acting Consul of Mexico; Kim Nesselquist, Consul of Norway; Alexander Doronin, Consul General of the Russian Federation; Philippe Goetschel, Consul of Switzerland; and Robert Chen, Director General, Taipei Economic and Cultural Office.

Governor Christine Gregoire and her husband Mike Gregoire and daughter Michelle Gregoire arrived, were escorted to the Rostrum and were introduced.

The flags were escorted to the rostrum by the Washington State Patrol Color Guard. Heidi Fredericks sang the National Anthem. The President led the Chamber in the Pledge of Allegiance. Prayer was offered by Rabbi Dan Bridge, Rabbi Emeritus, Hillel, Foundation for Jewish Life at the University of Washington.

Rabbi Bridge: "This week all across the world, Jews begins reading the Book of Exodus. In Hebrew, the Book is called 'Shemot/Names' because it begins with a list of the names of the tribal leaders.

The Book of Proverbs also emphasizes the importance of names, claiming that "A good name is preferable to great riches" (Proverbs 22:1). Our name – it's how others call us – it is what defines us – and, based on the actions associated with it, our name will be the label of a positive legacy or not.

In a famous passage from the Mishnah, a third century legal code, we learn that 'there are three crowns – the Crown of Torah, the crown of the Priesthood, and the crown of Governance. But the verse concludes "the Crown of a Good Name surpasses them all."

The late political scientist, Daniel Elazar, interprets this saying – allow me to paraphrase – the Crown of Priest is worn by our spiritual leaders. The Crown of Torah is worn by our jurists those who interpret and teach the law to members of our society. And the Crown of good Governance is worn by the legislators who ensure acts of mercy in Society.

Finally we come to the conclusion of the saying, according to which ketershem tov, the Crown of a Good Name, stands above the other three – a reminder to all types of leaders to wear one crown above all others – the crown of character, the crown of a good name.

Governor, legislators, jurists and honored guests – it is my prayer that what begins here today – in this new year, this new session – that it will give honor to your names and will speak eloquently of your character to this and future generations. May your words lead to actions that will be a worthy legacy – not each for his or her own constituency, but rather for sake of this honorable State and for our common future.

Ken yih ratzon – may it be so."

The President introduced Governor Christine Gregoire.

STATE OF THE STATE

Governor Gregoire: "Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chief Justice, distinguished justices of the court, honored officials, members of the Washington State Legislature, Governor Rosellini, Governor Gardner, Governor Lowry, King County Executive Sims, Snohomish County Executive Reardon, the Honorable Brian Cladoosby, the Honorable Fawn Sharp, and the Honorable Lee Adolph, members of the Consular Association of Washington, my fellow citizens:

Good evening. It is an honor once again to stand before you and talk about the state of this great state.

Thank you, Rabbi Bridge, for starting us off this evening with the opening prayer.

Joining me at the rostrum is my husband Mike – or First Mike as he has become known. He is a Vietnam combat veteran and has spent the last two years working on veterans issues, a subject which he is passionate about. He is a great dad to our two daughters, and a great husband, who, to borrow a line, knows me best and loves me anyway.

Also joining me is my daughter, Michelle, who will graduate from college in May. She not only has gotten darn good grades, she has provided us with four great years of college soccer which we will dearly miss. Michelle, along with her older sister, Courtney, who can't be with us today, can always be counted on to keep me grounded.

I would also like to introduce Mike's mother, Mary Gregoire, and his brother, Denny, and Denny's wife, Barb Tennis.

Not joining us is our dog, Trooper. It has been a long time since Mike and I had a puppy – if you know what I mean.

Like you, my family is the center of my life, and making life better for our families is the real measure of our work here in Olympia. It has been a hard year for many Washington families as wind, fires, and floods plagued the state in an unprecedented series of natural disasters. Sadly, some families suffered the ultimate loss in 2006 when family members in the armed services, law enforcement, and firefighting lost their lives. Still others perished from natural disasters in our state. Would you please join me in a moment of silence for these individuals and their families?

Thank you.

Despite the damage from storms and fires and the terrible toll of lives lost, Washington families have a bright future. They have a bright future because we have adopted a basic principle: the status quo in Washington is not good enough. We have fought for change – responsible change. We have demanded accountability. And the results are clear. Thousands of children will have a better shot at life thanks to our new emphasis on early learning. We have kept our promise to cut class sizes in our K-12 schools. We honored the wishes of voters and approved teacher pay raises. We opened the doors to colleges and universities to more students. We promised to provide health care to more children than ever before – and we delivered. More people are working – 155,000 new jobs were created in the last two years. Exports from our trade-dependent state are up 40 percent – headed to a record $45 billion year, and based on successes from my trade missions, I look forward to more growth in the future.

Together, we have taken steps to help forest land owners and farmers. We cut taxes on diesel fuel, farm equipment, and the timber B&O tax. Last year we promised to set aside money for the future, and we delivered. Let's deliver again this session. It is the responsible thing to do.

New 21st century industries – like a biodiesel plant in Grays Harbor – are forming. Reducing our dependence on foreign oil must be a priority.

We did what some thought was impossible – we negotiated medical malpractice reform, and patient safety has been enhanced as a result.

Together we have fought discrimination.

We passed tough new crime-fighting bills. One has helped reduce the number of meth labs by 50 percent.

We protected our children and communities by increasing sentences for sex offenders and prohibiting sex offenders from entering areas frequented by children, such as schools, parks and playgrounds.

And when law enforcement said they needed help locating sex offenders who have been released from prison, we passed tough new sex offender registration laws.

We broke a decades-long stalemate with an agreement that will provide farms, fish and communities water they desperately need from the Columbia River.

We increased access to state parks and began preparing for the centennial celebration of our parks system in 2013.

We promoted investments in renewable energy and green buildings, and we curbed auto emissions.

SECOND DAY, JANUARY 9, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

We've taken on these challenges, solved real problems for real people, demanded accountability and made the kinds of changes the state needs to continue moving families forward.

We have made real progress and we are changing the way we do business.

In the past we saw a state without a clear vision for the future. Today we see hope, opportunity and steady progress toward a secure future. In the past, we've seen partisanship, bureaucratic inertia, political caution and business as usual in Olympia. Today, together, we are fighting for change that is responsible, demands accountability, and is providing the solutions Washington needs. This is the Washington we all want.

But just in case anyone here thinks we can rest on our laurels, I have one message for you. You ain't seen nothin' yet!

We have turned the corner, but we have work to do. In too many cases we are using 20th century tools to solve 21st century problems, and nothing short of change will allow us to produce a better future for Washington families. I have traveled the state and listened to our citizens from Spokane to Everett and Vancouver to Tacoma. We all want the same things for our families – quality education, reliable health insurance, and a good job. Our challenge is to stand in the shoes of our citizens, see the future through their eyes, and find common ground that provides the change needed for a future Washington families can count on. Today I want to talk about a vision for change and an agenda that provides:

- An education system families can rely on;
- An economy that offers opportunity for family-wage jobs;
- Health insurance families can afford;
- An environment where families can thrive;
- Communities where families feel safe;

And a state government that is performance-driven and accountable to Washington's families.

I still vividly remember going to work with my mom on Saturdays at the Rainbow Café in Auburn. She was a single parent and a short order cook who never let me forget how much she loved me and taught me a lot about hard work. Mom also taught me about the importance of education, and as I think back on it, I guess she never let there be a doubt that with hard work I would be the first person in our family to get a college degree. Mom, as usual, was right, and the power of a good education is even truer today. We need an education system families can rely on to prepare their kids for the globally competitive job market of the 21st century.

That's why my number one priority this session is education. I ask that you join me in addressing this priority. The best way to grow our economy and secure a bright future for our children is to make significant investments in a renewed education system now. There is no better example of where we have held on to a 20th century system while we face 21st century problems.

We need change when about a third of our students don't complete high school and about half of our kids aren't ready to learn when they enter kindergarten. Even parents of kids who are graduating are worried. They want to know that our education system is preparing their children to compete for good jobs with students from countries like China, India, and Ireland. We have students, teachers and school administrators with the right stuff, but we have saddled them with an education system built for yesterday's needs. We must change our education system and invest in it now. For far too long our early childhood education system has fallen behind the rest of the country. Last session we began the necessary change by recognizing that our children are born ready to learn. We invested in early learning so more kids in the first five years of life have a chance to succeed in school and life.

Now let's take the next step. Let's give more kids a chance to get quality early learning opportunities so they enter kindergarten ready to learn. I am proposing we add more early learning slots for kids than we have in almost two decades. The research is clear. For every dollar we invest in early childhood education we get $8 in return with children who are more likely to graduate from high school and college, get a good job and raise their families and less likely to get stuck in our social service net or the criminal justice system. But perhaps the power of early learning is better expressed by a mom.

Here's what Shanta Hibbit of Seattle wrote to the Tiny Tots Development Center.

"Today is a wonderful day. My son Avery is on the pathway to Kindergarten next year. Do you know that Avery can write his full name? He is so excited about that. He shows me every chance he gets. He recognizes colors, shapes, and even speaks some Spanish. Being a single mother can be stressful and difficult. I work very hard daily in the office and at home for the purpose of creating a future for my children. Raising my children in a community where opportunity for education at times is limited, is extremely challenging. Avery's self-esteem and excitement about learning is beyond belief at times. The early learning programs at Tiny Tots are wonderful opportunities for families like mine."

Parents are the first and best teachers, but as Shanta says, we can all use some help. I am proposing we invest in a voluntary five-star rating system for child care facilities to raise the quality of early learning. We rate restaurants, hotels, and music, don't you think we should rate the places we entrust with our children?

And let's lead the rest of the nation and give our five-year-olds the early boost they may need by phasing in voluntary all-day kindergarten. I propose we focus first on schools with high poverty levels where students can benefit the most. We all know teachers teach and students learn better in smaller classrooms, particularly in the early grades of Kindergarten through 3rd. Let's continue to lower those class sizes and ensure our children are truly ready for the 4th grade with a solid foundation in reading, math, science, arts and music, a foreign language and the skills needed to be good citizens.

This nation met the challenge of President Kennedy in the 1960's to be the first to put a man on the moon. Our modern day moon challenge is to meet the math and science crisis facing our state and nation. Three-quarters of Americans believe that if our next generation fails to improve skills in math, science, and engineering, it risks becoming the first generation of Americans who are worse off economically than their parents. They have good reason to be concerned when about half our students failed the 10th grade math WASL last year. But I will contend that our students didn't fail, our math education system failed them. So let's attack this challenge with the same zeal and success that we did the moon challenge. I propose that for the first time we reduce math and science class sizes to the nationally recognized standard of 25 students to 1 teacher.

But it doesn't help to have small class sizes without skilled teachers. In Washington, only about half of our math teachers have a degree in math. We need to help our teachers teach by providing them the training and coaching they deserve. My goal is to recruit 750 new math and science teachers by offering college scholarships, loan forgiveness, and recruiting those in the private sector who want to contribute to our children's future.

And we must change the hodge-podge of math curricula we have in our state and even within the same school districts. For many students, math and science are tough enough. When a family moves, let's help our kids succeed. If a child starts school in Aberdeen and finishes in Ritzville, she should be learning the same material. We should have no more than three curricula options in the state and we need to tie our math and science education to international standards so we know our kids can compete with anyone.

The good news is that if we continue to press for responsible change, we will get results. I have seen it happen at Eisenhower Middle School in Everett where teacher Shannon Depew has started a new, more personalized program for students who failed the math WASL. Shannon's once-struggling students are excelling at math, and it just shows that with talented teachers and our increased investment in an education system for the 21st century, we can make a difference. We have the vision to succeed and the opportunity to invest in that vision. But we also need to make sure schools are accountable to our families. I am proposing new performance standards so we invest in programs that work and show that tax dollars are being used wisely. A high school education in the future may not be enough to find a good job. That's why we need to continue our investment in running start for the trades, our school-to-work partnerships and mentoring programs to provide the kinds of specialized skills our economy needs. In the past few years we have done a good job of opening the doors to our colleges and universities. We created unprecedented new access to college degrees at campuses in Vancouver, Tri-Cities, Bothell and Tacoma. Students now can enroll in a B.A. degree program at community colleges in South Seattle, Port Angeles, Bellevue and Bremerton. But we need to do more. We need to provide graduates in high-demand fields.

A survey of Washington businesses shows that we are not keeping pace with employer needs – especially in fields like computer science, engineering and construction. We're importing workers for good-paying jobs. Don't you think our sons and daughters should get a shot at those jobs? I am proposing we expand college and university enrollment by 8,300 students, including an unprecedented 3,300 slots in high-demand fields ranging from nurse's aides to doctors, and engineers to construction workers.

Our University of Washington schools of Medicine and Dentistry and Washington State University's School of Nursing are top-notch. Let's expand these programs in Spokane to train doctors, dentists and nurses that will serve our health care needs in more rural areas. It is long overdue for our state to have a tuition policy. For example, in 1994 tuition was raised by over 12 percent and the next year by almost 15 percent. We must make the costs predictable and affordable for students and families.

So let's cap tuition increases at all our colleges and universities. To encourage more students to enroll at our community and technical colleges, I am proposing we freeze tuition. The single greatest investment we can make in our economic security is education. But if we are to make these changes real, we must do it together.

I was proud of a Yakima Herald-Republic editorial last summer that said I was shredding the Cascade Curtain and creating one Washington. I'd like to invite you to join me at the shredder and help us expand our economy to make sure all regions of our state have a chance to attract good family-wage jobs. In the last few years we have invested in 21st century opportunities that tie our state's economy together.

One example is our initiative to launch a new biodiesel industry which will help us be energy-independent, lead the nation, if not the world in alternative energy, provide new markets for Washington agricultural products, and stimulate new businesses. In Grays Harbor, Imperium Renewables is building the largest biodiesel refinery in North America. The plant will provide 50 family-wage jobs and buy from Washington farmers, so we will support those families, too.

Another example is our 2005 initiative creating the Life Sciences Discovery Fund. Our state is among the leaders in global health research. The promise is real in our laboratories today where we are discovering cures to the world's most dreaded diseases, driving up health care quality and driving down costs. This card is one example of the future. It is a lab on a card where at a cost of maybe $5 to make one of these you can get results within an hour, where today it can cost $200 and take 5 to 7 days. It is being developed right here in our state. This holds the promise of changing the cost and quality of our health care. It can also create good Washington jobs. At the center of these 21st century jobs are our two internationally recognized research institutions. Let's continue to support global health research at the University of Washington and alternative energy at Washington State University.

Now picture yourself in the Tri-Cities, Seattle, Spokane or Vancouver. Within a five-minute walk, you pass by cutting edge research facilities and offices of four or five of the world's leading companies in health care technology, silicon chip production, or alternative fuels. This vision is not far-fetched. I have personally seen its beginnings around the world. We have much of the foundation in place, now all we have to do is help regions create Innovation Zones which can serve as a powerful magnet attracting investment money, new businesses, creative people and good 21st century jobs.

Economically, we really are more like a small nation than a state. We export more than twice as much per worker as any other state in the country and the sky is the limit. With our container ports initiative, we will continue to be the gateway to America for goods from Asia, and a leading exporter of high quality products whether it's airplanes, software, wine, potatoes or cherries. While we need a new economic vision, some things don't change. We have to take care of our traditional business base. Forbes recently ranked us the 12th best state for business. But there is intense competition and we need to stay competitive. We need a new partnership, investments and support for our local economic development councils. I propose opening new small business development centers in Pullman, Grays Harbor and Kelso, and we need to improve broadband service to rural communities.

And let's not forget that small business remains the backbone of our economy.

This year we will keep more dollars in the pockets of workers and businesses by reducing their payments to unemployment and workers' compensation by more than $400 million. That's the kind of economic incentive we need to keep creating good family-wage jobs. And in my dictionary, good family-wage jobs are those that pay well and provide affordable health insurance. For many people in Washington, they fear they are a diagnosis away from bankruptcy. I know that many of the solutions to the health care crisis facing our nation must involve the federal government. But we have to step forward and find innovative solutions for Washingtonians. Join me again this session and invest in kids' health care so we can continue our steady progress toward our goal of all children having access to health care by 2010. I propose covering an additional 32,000 children.

Children's health insurance without access to a doctor is unacceptable. Raising the reimbursement rates for pediatricians can make health care real for our children. And we will protect kids in our state from preventable diseases by spending $26 million to increase childhood immunizations, making our state one of the few in the nation providing vaccines to all children.

Changes in Medicare have been a real challenge to many of our senior citizens who found themselves having to split, skip, or go without life-saving medications. We need to make sure Washington's seniors have access to their medications. Over the last two years we have saved $46 million by bulk purchasing drugs for state health care systems. We can save an additional $21 million next year.

We are blessed in Washington to have wonderful agricultural and farm forestry communities. How many of you know where Windust, Washington is? Not many. Let me help you. It is near Kahlotus. I'm still getting a lot of blank stares. Windust is a wide spot in the road in Southeast Washington. It is in the heart of wheat growing country. As a young girl, I spent summers in Windust helping on the farm while my uncle harvested wheat. It was hot, hard work, but what really made an impression on me was the wonderful culture and values in our farming communities. Hard work. Independence. Strong families. Love of the land. A sense of stewardship and an intense desire to keep the land in the family and in farming for generations. Together farming and forestry are an economic powerhouse for this state, with forestry providing 50,000 jobs and the food and agricultural industry generating a $29 billion economy.

Thanks to our Columbia River initiative, farmers like Clark Kagele have real hope for the future. He and his neighbors above the Odessa aquifer have watched in desperation for years as their wells, livelihoods and lifetime investments in their farms go dry. But now work has begun to bring Columbia River water to the Odessa.

We need more change if we want to preserve our forest and farm lands from pressure to convert to housing developments or shopping malls. We need new tools to help owners of working farms and forests capture some of the higher economic value, and preserve the working farm for generations to come. I urge you to create an office within the Conservation Commission to put these tools to use, allowing families to do what they love and do best, farm.

In Washington we have an environment that is good for our economy and allows our families to thrive. Our quality of life is why most of us live here and it keeps and draws businesses to our state. We began the cleanup in Hood Canal. But we have more work to do to protect the jewel of the Northwest, Puget Sound. Today, it looks beautiful on its surface but beneath that surface, it is sick and in some places dying. I think the goals for Puget Sound cleanup are pretty simple. I want families to be able to swim in it, fish in it, and dig shellfish from its beaches. If all the contaminated sites in Puget Sound were put together, they would cover nine square miles, an area the size of Edmonds. Mercury, lead, arsenic and other poisons in the sediments can pass up the food chain to fish. That won't meet my measure of fishable. You can think of the marine waters of Puget Sound like a bathtub – they swirl and circulate around instead of being flushed out to the Pacific Ocean. Every time it rains or snows, millions of gallons of stormwater pick up pollution as it runs off roofs, streets, parking lots and highways and flows into our bathtub. You wouldn't put your child in this bathtub. So we must stop this flow of stormwater, or the Sound won't meet my test for swimmable. Every day, we flush more than 175 million gallons of water and human waste into septic systems – the equivalent of filling 265 Olympic size swimming pools every 24 hours. Many septic systems are aging and in disrepair, allowing waste to reach the Sound. If we don't solve this septic problem, we can't depend on the Sound being diggable.

Thanks to the work of the Puget Sound Partnership, we can reach a healthy Puget Sound by 2020. It will take all of us recognizing we are part of the problem, and working together, we are all part of the solution. I am proposing we make an aggressive start to clean up the mess before it's too late. And by the way, I am calling for real on-the-ground work that will bring results all of us can see and the life under the surface can feel. A Washington that families can count on requires that the state do what it can to ensure the safety and security of families in their communities.

Despite inflation from the costs of foreign oil and materials demand around the world, I am asking that we continue to fund all the transportation projects we promised the public over the last few years with safety projects coming first. I am requesting that we take action before it is too late on our mega-projects like the Viaduct in Seattle, the 520 bridge, the bridge connection from Vancouver to Portland and the north-south freeway in Spokane. And when we think transportation, let's think 21st century in terms of need, funding, safety and design. When disaster strikes in most communities across this country, we have found that first responders have different communications systems so they can't talk to each other. We are no different. For a $13 million investment we can take the steps toward solving this problem in Washington. While we can't prevent a natural disaster, we can be prepared. I won't accept the status quo in state government, so we are changing the culture of state government and holding it accountable for results. Early in my career I prosecuted cases of child abuse and neglect, so I know how important quick response to complaints can be. That's why I required a response to cases of child abuse and neglect within 24 hours, seven days a week. DSHS is meeting those deadlines and we now know the quick response is reducing child abuse and neglect. The vision, agenda, and budget I propose to you today is guided clearly and distinctly by the principle of responsibility. We have a responsibility to change the status quo, to fight for innovation, and to make changes that will mean a better life for Washington families. We have a responsibility to invest wisely in education, health care, our economy, and the environment. We have a responsibility to provide a helping hand to those in need. And we have a responsibility to save for the future and plan ahead for tough times.

We advise families to save for a rainy day and government should be no different. A year ago, we delivered on our promise to keep surplus dollars in the bank. We need to do it again. And also create a permanent Rainy Day Fund as part of our Constitution. Today, I am asking you to join me with an initial investment of $262 million in that Rainy Day Fund. Nothing can be a more important lesson in responsibility than showing future generations that we know how to save. We can save money and still invest in a future families can count on – a future with an education system families can rely on, an economy that offers opportunity for family-wage jobs, health insurance families can afford, an environment where families can thrive, and communities where families feel safe. I want to thank those of you who are returning this session for your work and cooperation the last two years.

And I'd like to take a moment to thank those legislators who are not back this year. It is a big sacrifice to be away from your families, jobs and communities, and I want to recognize their great contributions to this state. Many, like Senators Alex Deccio and Pat Thibaudeau, served years in Olympia and we will miss them.

For returning members and our new members this year, I promise you I will have an open door. I will be honest with you and you will know where I stand. I will listen to and respect you and your ideas. All I ask in return is a willingness to put aside differences, find common ground and do the work of the people of our great state. I suspect I don't have to remind anyone here, but during this 105-day session I will be downstairs helping you, nudging you, pushing you to take action.

When this session ends let's have people say we got things done, we made change – responsible change – and we continued providing families a future they can count on.

In closing, let me read a few lines from Aujzha Taylor-Shaw, a graduate of Madrona Elementary School in Seattle.

"I believe people are the world and we can make it a better place. I believe that all people should have joy and hope that is unbreakable, that no one can shatter.

Let's go forward with Aujzha's sense of optimism. Together, let's leave her the inheritance she and future generations deserve. And most important, let's not forget that her optimism, and the optimism of all our families, will happen if we remain committed to the principle that the status quo is not good enough and we will provide the kind of change families can count on.

May God bless all of you and God bless the great state of Washington."

STATE OF THE JUDICIARY

Chief Justice Alexander: "President Owen, Speaker Chopp, Governor Gregoire, elected officials, members of the House and Senate, fellow justices and judges, ladies and gentlemen. Good afternoon.

TENTH DAY, JANUARY 17, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

Let me first extend thanks to the members of the legislature for the warm welcome you have accorded me and my fellow justices. We are very honored to be here for the purpose of allowing me to present, on behalf of our court and the judiciary of this state, the biennial State of the Judiciary address, the fourth I have had the privilege of delivering since I first became chief justice.

My colleagues and I are aware that time is precious to legislators during legislative sessions, and we are grateful for the opportunity to speak to you as well as to our state's elected officials and the people of Washington.

While the halls of this legislature are in close proximity to the offices of our state elected officials and the Temple of Justice, our respective branches of government have very different functions and we do not have many opportunities like this to gather together. While some may feel that this is as it should be under the doctrine of separation of powers, it is my view that occasions like this and the governor's State of the State message, can lead us all to better appreciate the important role that each branch performs in our democracy.

As you know, our state's justice system is present in every county in our state as well as in most of our cities and towns. It functions in courthouses and municipal court buildings, and is presided over by nine justices of the Supreme Court, 23 judges of our court of appeals, 182 superior court judges and 204 full and part-time judges of our district and municipal courts. These justices and judges can't, of course, manage the system alone and, fortunately, they have the assistance of dedicated court commissioners, county clerks, and staff that work hard managing caseloads that collectively total more than two million filings each year—more than one filing for every three citizens of our state.

I wish I could have every judicial officer in the state here today, but as you will be able to tell from my remarks they have plenty to do at home. I did, though, ask a few judges to be here to represent the judiciary of our state. Representing our hardworking court of appeals is its presiding chief judge, Steve Brown of Yakima. Judge Brown, would you please stand. Also present are the presidents of our two excellent trial court associations, Kittitas County Superior Court Judge Michael Cooper, president of the Superior Court Judges' Association of Washington and Grant County District Court Judge Richard Fitterer, president of the District and Municipal Court Judges' Association. I would like them to stand as well and be recognized. Sitting with these judges are members of the Board for Judicial Administration, the policy setting board for the entire judiciary, which had its monthly meeting here in Olympia earlier today. Would they please stand.

I am immensely proud of these judges and the judicial officers that they represent at the four levels of our court system. I have been fortunate to serve at three of those levels during my judicial career—the superior court, the Court of Appeals, and for the last 12 years at the Supreme Court—and I can tell you from my almost 34 years of experience in our justice system, that we have one of the hardest working and innovative collection of judges in the nation. In my view, the quality of Washington's judiciary has never been better than it is at this moment.

At every level, our courts have a direct affect on the lives of individuals. This is particularly true of our trial courts. At the superior court, judges determine child custody issues, protect victims of domestic violence from harm, preside over felony criminal cases and all manner of significant civil disputes. At the limited jurisdiction level, judges handle misdemeanor and gross misdemeanor cases, traffic infractions, and a myriad of other matters, including, at the district court, small claims cases and civil actions where $50,000 or less is sought. Our limited jurisdiction trial court judges see huge numbers of persons in their courts each year and these courts can truly be called our "people's courts."

When reflecting upon the important work of each level of court in our state, and the challenges they face, I am reminded of the old saying that, "If we do not maintain justice, justice will not maintain us." These words go to the very essence of our great republic and contribute to the pride we feel about our nation, our state, and our system of government. As Americans and Washingtonians, we revere justice, and we show that by periodically facing our nation's flag and reciting these words: "liberty and justice for all." Maintaining a strong and fair justice system is, I believe, of great concern to all of our citizens.

Unfortunately, we have not done the best job as a state government in maintaining our justice system at the trial level. Allow me to elaborate. Since we first became a state in 1889, our trial courts have been funded almost entirely by local governments—our counties and cities. This means of funding our trial courts was not problematic in earlier times because our court system was relatively small and local governments did not have huge demands placed on their resources. But as the years have gone by the number of cases flowing into our courts rose dramatically as our population increased and a variety of new laws and regulations were enacted at the state and local level. At the same time local governments have assumed financial obligations that were unknown to their predecessors. As a consequence of all of this, our trial courts have been severely challenged as they have endeavored to keep up with increasing caseloads. In some jurisdictions, particularly in our metropolitan areas, we have seen delays in getting cases to trial due to crowded court calendars, difficulties in obtaining qualified interpreters for non-English speakers, criminal defense attorneys with caseloads that are too large, and large numbers of persons going without representation in civil cases, particularly in family court matters.

Faced with all of this, the state's Board for Judicial Administration addressed, what it concluded was the crisis facing our trial courts, in the "Justice in Jeopardy Initiative," first presented to you in 2005.

This initiative flowed out of the hard work of the Court Funding Task Force and its workgroups, a body that was formed in 2002. It was comprised of more than 100 persons from across the state and from all backgrounds, including members of the legislature: Representatives Ruth Kagi and Pat Lantz and Senators Adam Kline, Mike Hewitt and Jim Kastama.

You may recall that when we first spoke to you about the Justice in Jeopardy initiative, we relayed a startling statistic from the task force's report—that Washington State ranked last among the state's of the union, in terms of state government participation in the funding of trial courts, indigent defense and prosecution.

Today, despite the advent of additional state funding in the last two years, budget-strapped local governments still bear more than 80 percent of the costs of maintaining our trial courts. Although state government funds the rest, less than 1 percent of the state budget goes to maintain our justice system and the courts, which compose the key component of that system, courts that are provided for in our state constitution—a constitution that says that justice is to be administered "without unnecessary delay."

The report of the Court Funding Task Force and the other studies that have been done over the years have recommended that eventually, the State should pay 50 percent of the cost of trial court operations and indigent criminal defense, and assume a substantially greater role in funding civil legal aid services for Washington's low-income residents. We think that this partnership approach between state and local government makes more sense than a complete state takeover of the cost of our trial courts, the path that California and Oregon have followed. We say this because we believe that local jurisdictions should have a stake in how the courts operate in their jurisdictions.

We recognized, however, that obtaining an increase in state funding of the magnitude we envision is a major change, and, thus, we have opted for recommending to you an incremental approach. The more we reflect on the Task Force recommendations, the more we are convinced that we have developed the best approach in the nation, a shared responsibility between state and local government.

The judiciary has been immensely gratified by the support that the legislature has given since we first approached you with the Justice in Jeopardy initiative. In the sessions of 2005 and 2006 you recognized that state government had a responsibility to pay a higher proportion of the costs of the state's justice system. In those sessions, you appropriated significant funds, much of which was derived from higher user fees, and applied it to the support of our trial courts, public defense and civil legal aid.

More specifically, in 2005, in Senate Bill 5454, the Office of Civil Legal Aid bill, and House Bill 1542, you provided for state funding of a portion of district and municipal court judges' salaries, and for trial court improvement accounts, as well as for legal representation for indigent parents in termination and dependency cases; civil legal aid programs; and indigent criminal defense.

In 2006, you appropriated additional funds for a pilot jury project, expansion of the parents' representation program and provided additional funds for civil legal aid programs.

While much more remains to be done, I am pleased to highlight the positive changes that have been made as a consequence of what this legislature has done in the two previous sessions.

CIVIL EQUAL JUSTICE

Let me first talk about civil equal justice. In 2005, the new Office of Civil Legal Aid, OCLA for short, got underway and began to administer state-funded legal aid services to the poor, monitor the use of state funds, and report on the status of access to the civil justice system for low-income people.

OCLA, headed by Jim Bamberger, a long-time legal aid attorney, and watched over by the Civil Legal Aid Oversight Committee has worked with the Supreme Court's Access to Justice Board to establish delivery objectives and accountability systems to close the gap documented in the landmark 2003 Civil Legal Needs Study.

The civil legal needs of Washington's low income people run the gamut from employment and housing issues to problems such as those faced by Dawn Seljestad, a low income mother of two children from Shelton, who endured years of controlling and abusive behavior by her husband. With the assistance of a lawyer from the Northwest Justice Project Dawn was able to get a protective order, a decree of dissolution, and an order requiring her abuser to enter into treatment to deal with his conduct. I am pleased to say that Dawn Seljestad is with us—would you please join me in recognizing this courageous woman.

Despite recent gains, biennial funding for civil legal aid still falls $33 million short of the level necessary to fully address the needs chronicled in the landmark 2003 Civil Legal Needs Study. One gaping hole is the lack of any meaningful legal aid services in the rural areas of our state. We encourage the legislature to provide additional funding so that legal services offices can be re-established to serve low income citizens in Colville, Pullman, Port Angeles, Aberdeen, Omak, Moses Lake, Longview, and Pasco.

TRIAL COURT OPERATIONS

Regarding trial court operations, important steps forward were taken in 2005 and 2006 when this legislature recognized the state's duty to partner with local jurisdictions in funding our trial courts.

As a result of your actions, local governments across the state have obtained funds that have enabled them to pay a portion of the salaries of district court judges and elected municipal court judges. Thanks to you, Trial Court Improvement Accounts have also been established, which have enabled jurisdictions to improve and enhance a range of trial court operations.

Although the money was just beginning to flow into these accounts by mid-2006, let me give you a few examples of what is going on in jurisdictions across the state as a consequence of the creation of Trial Court Improvement Accounts:

- Benton County is upgrading the recording system in its district court courtrooms.
- Clallam County is adding a court security office position.
- The City of Everett is installing new video equipment that will connect its municipal court with the Snohomish County Jail so that arraignments can be conducted while the defendant remains in jail, thereby making it unnecessary to transport the defendant to the municipal court.
- Lewis County is partially funding an assistant court administrator for its district court.
- Yakima County is using the funds to operate a district court satellite facility in Grandview to better serve the southeast part of that county.

Your creation of trial court improvement accounts recognized that each jurisdiction has different needs. These accounts allow trial courts to tailor improvements to best serve the citizens of their judicial district. We anticipate that these accounts will have a very beneficial effect in coming years, and we will continue to update you on how the funds are being utilized.

Next year, we will also provide you with the results of the study you authorized on the effect of increasing the daily attendance fee for jurors in three jurisdictions: Des Moines Municipal Court, Franklin County Superior Court, and Clark County Superior Court. We believe that is the first time a project like this has been undertaken anywhere in the United States and we look forward to sharing the results of the study with you.

COURT INTERPRETERS

Let me now direct my comments to what we are proposing to you this year as a part of our continuing Justice in Jeopardy Initiative. In the area of trial court improvements we are asking for an additional $8 million dollars in the biennium to carry out the promise of a statute that was enacted by this legislature in 1989. I refer to RCW 2.43.010, which says that it is the policy of this state to secure the constitutional rights of persons who are unable to readily understand or communicate in English and cannot be fully protected in legal proceedings unless qualified interpreters are available to assist them.

When I was a superior court judge years ago, we rarely needed interpreters in court. But our society has changed and has become more diverse. Indeed, you passed the statute that I just referred to after you took note of an audit that showed that thousands of non-English speakers were routinely unable to understand what was being said in court. Unfortunately, although we have probably the best system in the nation for certifying court interpreters, many jurisdictions are not able to follow the letter or the spirit of the law because of a lack of funds. The result is that far too often uncertified court interpreters are being utilized because of low pay and/or an inability to obtain a certified interpreter. This, of course, can result in testimony and evidence not being accurately presented to the trier of fact, thereby increasing the possibility that a wrong decision may result.

Although this is not a cost that the State has heretofore underwritten, we fear that the problems I have just described will not be eliminated unless there is an investment of dollars from state government to assist our hard pressed local jurisdictions meet their statutory obligations.

PUBLIC DEFENSE

Let me next talk about public defense in criminal cases. A vital element of our Justice in Jeopardy Initiative relates to the necessity of meeting the constitutional mandate that in all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have the assistance of effective counsel for his or her defense. We can be proud that Washington recognized this right long before the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1963 in the famous case of Gideon v. Wainwright that states must provide such legal assistance. Indeed, Washington's then attorney general, John J. O'Connell, rejected a request from Florida's attorney general to present a friend of the court brief in support of Florida's position that Gideon, although indigent, was not entitled to a publicly funded defense. Instead, our attorney general presented an amicus curiae brief on behalf of Gideon.

Despite this history, it is fair to say that we have not fully heeded Gideon's trumpet. I say that because too often in our state, indigent defendants are represented in criminal cases by lawyers who lack the training and experience to be considered effective or who are overburdened with caseloads that are so large that they are unable to devote adequate time to the defense. This is not, of course, true in every case. We have many dedicated public defenders in this state who do a fine job, often for inadequate compensation. But the systems we have in the state for providing public defense vary greatly and, consequently, we have a "crazy quilt" of public defender systems with no two systems being exactly the same.

They all have some problems, though, and I believe this has been borne out by the investigative series that ran in the Seattle Times in 2004, the recent litigation in Grant County, and the report of the Blue Ribbon Task Force on Public Defense of the Washington State Bar Association.

While state law dictates that counties adopt standards for administering public defense systems, using Washington State Bar Association standards as guidelines, I am told by our state's director of the Office of Public Defense, Joanne Moore, that presently no county public defense system is compliant.

Fortunately, positive steps are being taken to reverse this trend. As I have already observed, in 2005 this legislature adopted HB 1542, which provides that state funding will be progressively distributed to counties for the purpose of improving public defense.

We believe that with additional state funding our state's defender systems can become compliant with WSBA standards. Last year, $3 million was distributed to counties pursuant to HB 1542 and I can report to you that 38 of the state's 39 counties are now participating in the application process, administered by the Office of Public Defense. We need, though, to make a substantial leap forward in 2007-2009 toward closing what the Spokesman Review called an "embarrassing funding gap" so that our systems of public defense can deliver on our constitutional duty to provide adequate representation to all indigent criminal defendants.

The Office of Public Defense has also made incredible strides since I last addressed you in expanding to 18 counties the program that provides representation of indigent parents in dependency and termination actions. Studies show that with better representation, parents are better able to access court services and work through their problems, thus increasing their ability to be reunited with their children. We are asking that you expand the Parents Representation Program to every county.

CASA

Let me say a word about CASA, Court Appointed Special Advocates. This is a terrific program that trains volunteers to be advocates in dependency cases for abused and neglected children. As a part of our Justice in Jeopardy Initiative we are requesting additional funding for CASA to accomplish essentially two things: first, to provide stability for CASA programs in rural areas and, second, to allow CASA to serve a minimum of 10,000 children statewide each year, up from the approximately 7,000 who are benefiting now. CASA is a huge bargain to the State because the public money only goes to provide supervision and training. The service to the children is provided by unpaid volunteers like Patricia Scott of Jefferson County who has contributed over 2,200 hours of service as a CASA volunteer. Ms. Scott, who was recently named CASA Volunteer of the Year, is here with a group of CASA volunteers, and I would like them to stand and be recognized for their service.

TECHNOLOGY IN THE COURTS

Allow me to take a brief moment to discuss positive developments in technology in the judicial branch. We have decided to pursue purchase of a case management system for statewide implementation to replace our 20-plus year old systems. This approach will greatly mitigate risks and accelerate the time to full implementation.

We will be seeking your authorization to expend funds from the dedicated JIS account toward this end and are developing a court rule change to increase revenues generated from traffic infraction penalties to pay for this project.

Although I am not a technical whiz, it is my vision that by the time my service on the Supreme Court comes to an end, the foundation will have been laid so that the work of all of the courts of this state will find support in a common case management system.

JUDICIAL ELECTIONS

Before I close, I would like to say something about the subject of judicial elections, a subject that was of considerable interest to me in 2006. I recognize that a number of proposals are now before the legislature that are aimed at reforming the process by which we elect judges. Some of these relate to the public financing of judicial campaigns and others endeavor to reign in the influence of independent expenditures by special interests. You may even be presented with proposals to amend the constitution to provide for an entirely different way to select judges. At this point, the judiciary as a whole has not taken a position in response to any of these specific proposals but I can assure you that we are intensely interested in the subject and we may take a position on all or some of these proposals, provided we can do so without compromising our ethical obligations. I do feel comfortable, though, in restating the long-standing position of the judiciary favoring a publicly financed voters' pamphlet in the primary election. As you know, many judicial elections are decided in the primary so we support the proposals for creation of a statewide primary voters' pamphlet that would be mailed to every household. The judiciary is also of the view that as long as we continue to elect judges in the manner set forth in our state constitution, we should elect all judges including municipal court judges. We believe that this is necessary to assure independence of the judicial branch.

Let me close by saying that we know that this legislature will be presented with a myriad of requests to increase funding for a variety of governmental functions—for common schools and universities, for public employee salaries, for projects to improve the physical environment, and for corrections, and so on. All of these proponents, I am sure, will have a legitimate case to make. I don't mean to tell you how to sort out all of these competing requests, other than to say that the provision of justice, on both the criminal and civil side, is a core function of government that should be adequately supported by all taxpayers, not just users of the system. The first building that was placed on this campus, courtesy of a long ago appropriation from the legislature, was called the Temple of Justice and the first building that every county built after this state came into being was a county courthouse. This reflects the fact that provision of justice has always been a priority for Washingtonians. In order for our state's judiciary to continue to provide the quality of justice that our citizens expect us to provide, we must make the recommendations I have outlined. We hope that you will give these reasonable requests favorable consideration. Thank you for listening to me so courteously and for inviting me to present this address."

I appreciate her acknowledgment of that and I appreciate her letting the public know that as well. Thank you."

REMARKS BY SENATOR MCCASLIN

Senator McCaslin: "Thank you Mr. President. If the President would allow I could speak for an hour on Alex Deccio but he won't allow it and you don't want to hear me talk for an hour and I can't talk for an hour. I'm a short speaker, not only in stature but in speaking time. Probably the most important 'Whereas' in this; Whereas, Senator Deccio's work on nursing home legislation and Medicare resulted in laws that now enable a person to get to get needed nursing home care without impoverishing their spouse.' Alex Deccio was probably one of the hardest working Senators I've ever known. Did we get along? Absolutely not. We argued constantly, in fact when I'd see him in the morning I'd say, 'Am I mad at you or you mad at me?' because we couldn't keep track. We'd go to movies at night and the first thing he'd do was fall asleep. About half an hour or forty-five minutes later he'd wake up and I'll say 'Let's go' and your sticking it out Alex. You're sticking it out.' Actually, I called him 'Dec.' One of the interesting things about Alex Deccio, in 1981 when Sam Guess, Senator Sam Guess from the 6th District was President Pro Tempore, he could not pronounce Deccio. I would go to Sam, -he was an engineer and he should have been able to say, -I'd say, Listen to me Sam, say 'Dec.' He'd say 'D.' I'd say 'eccio.' I can't even do it now. Anyway, the point of my story is he would always call on Senator 'De-ccio' and we could never, never straighten Sam out on that but anyway he got recognized anyway. I said to him one day, 'Alex, -he was screaming at me, -I said, You've got to learn to control your temper.' He said, 'I don't have a temper, I'm Italian.' Of course some of you know me, you can see why he got mad at me but Alex was a worker and a schemer in getting things done. How things would show up in the capital budget or the operating budget with his name on it I will never know. He never taught me. I don't know how to do it and if you learned from him you learned an awful lot. I'm certainly going to miss him and I hope you miss him too because he was truly, truly one of the most dedicated senators I've ever met. You know he owned a gas station at one time. He was in World War II. He came out a Major which surprised me, I came out a Second Class Radio Operator. How he beat me out with all that money I don't know but he probably weaseled that some way. Anyway, Alex if you get a film of this, I miss you. I wish you the best in health and retirement. Alex has the most wonderful wife, Lucille, that has been with him for over sixty years. They have eight children. There's just not enough good things to say about him. So, all I can say is, end with saying. 'God Bless you Alex and God Bless you Lucille.'"

REMARKS BY SENATOR BRANDLAND

Senator Brandland: "I actually had the, I didn't know Alex really, really well but I worked with him on Health Care for four years. In private I called him a crotchety old bugger. I called him 'the old guy' to his face but the reality is, Senator McCaslin is exactly right. I mean I don't know where he's at in his eighties but I hope I am as with it as Alex is because he had such an institutional history in the health care business and for those of us that were kind of new to that committee, he really could tell us about all the things that happened in the past and he was right on the money. A hard working guy. Alex Deccio was a truly one of the hardest working Senators I think I've ever seen. He just never seemed to give up. I saw him struggle that year last that he was here was really a painful experience, I think for all of us, because I think we saw that Alex was slipping. It was a painful thing to kind of watch and I think that we kind of knew that this era was going to be coming to an end as far as his presence in this body. He certainly will be missed. He's a classy, classy guy."

REMARKS BY SENATOR FRANKLIN

Senator Franklin: "Thank you Mr. President, and ladies and gentlemen of the Senate. I certainly rise to support the resolution that's brought forth by the good Senator. Between Senator McCaslin and Senator Deccio, I knew if one spoke the other one would be speaking afterwards. It was really a pleasure to have served on the Health Care committee with the Senator. I said to him once, 'Senator, how did you happen to get your name all over everything in Yakima. Tell me how you did it.' He actually, I said, 'Then you are Mister Yakima.' For the past thirteen years we served together on the Health Care committee. Alex, you were so tenacious. I had the opportunity to see the action between you and the great Senator from the Twenty-Seventh District who preceded Senator Regala. As a new Senator on the committee and sitting there and seeing the action between the two, sometimes I would cringe. Two tenacious senators, senator you did a great job. You have left a legacy and I respect you for that. There were moments with your temperament but who does not have that and, of course, as you are now in retirement I don't think retirement is for the Senator at all. I am sure he will be working. He did a great job. I hope all goes well with you and your wife as you continue to do what you like to do best and I think to be involved in your community. Was a pleasure to be able to serve with the Senator."

REMARKS BY SENATOR PARLETTE

Senator Parlette: "Thank you Mr. President. I too rise in support of this resolution. I had the privilege to know about Senator Deccio from my predecessor, Senator George Sellar. He always told me about the three musketeers which were: Senator Deccio, Senator Sellar and Senator McCaslin. So, I heard these stories before I even knew Senator Deccio. Then I had the privilege to serve in the House of Representatives and be on the Health Care committee and Senator Deccio was over here. Well, I will never forget the first year we passed a major piece of legislation out of the House of Representatives on nursing home funding. Working closely with colleagues on both sides of the aisle and it passed one-hundred percent out of the House of Representatives. However, testifying in front of the Senate Health Care committee with one of my colleagues, actually three from the House, it was obvious that we had done something wrong. Senator Deccio with his questions and his mannerisms obviously made us understand whatever we did it wasn't quite up to the standards that we were suppose to do. So, long story short, we later worked that out. Bottom line, I have learned so much from Senator Deccio. He had the ability to zero in on the bottom line at the beginning of a health care hearing. He also had the ability to get you totally off the subject and some how a bill would die and I think he planned that. So, Alex, we've all learned a lot and we miss you and we do wish you good health to you and Lucille. Thank you very much."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you Mr. President. I too would like to support this resolution. Senator Deccio is one of the sweetest, nicest people I know and I'm sorry that the good Senator from the Fourth District. He really tops you. He served kind of a role model, but I remember when I came over to the Senate there was a Senator 'Slim' Rasmussen and he said, 'You be careful.' He said, 'You watch Senator McCaslin, Senator Deccio and Senator Sellar; and he said, 'You watch them because those are three really wonderful, powerful people that really care.' Senator Deccio and I became friends because well, we share a lot of the same things. We share a lot of the same faith and he's just a fine, good man and I want tell him 'thank you' for his service to the Senate and to his service to all the people to the State of Washington. He's a really a wonderful, sweet person and I love him dearly."

REMARKS BY SENATOR KEISER

Senator Keiser: "Mr. President, it gives me real pleasure to stand and speak in support of this resolution to honor my colleague and my dear friend, Senator Alex Deccio. You know, I'm still a newbie here in the Senate and when I joined the Senate Health and Long Term Care committee, Alex was the Chair and did my jaw drop. What an awesome chair. He had that committee in his control and he was passionate about the issues. He taught me so much. I learned the ropes at his right arm and it has been a real transition for that committee, the Health and Long Term Care committee in the Senate to not have the institutional memory and the experience of either Senator Pat Thibaudeau or Senator Alex Deccio this year. I often look back in fond remembrance and one of the things, in the twenty-eight years he worked in this body he achieved so much. Its sets forth such a standard for all of us to try and match. I'm not sure about the twenty-eight years but consider what, he was advocate for the developmentally disabled and made sure that they were treated the whole community with respect and fairness and consideration. He was passionate about the people of his own district and made sure that his district got the attention that it deserved. He was also one of the very first champions for school nurses and for funding for school nurses, a vital, vital part of our school system and of our health system. He shepherded the Omnibus Aids bill through the Legislature two decades ago. Two decades, we were a leader in the entire nation and it was because of his passion, his legislative acumen and his wonderful ability to work across the aisle that this happened. He was one of the fathers of the Basic Health Plan. He helped give birth to this fundamental program of health services for the citizens of our state. His accomplishments are just legion and I am in awe. Finally, I just have to say, one of the best things about Alex he reminded me of my dad. My dad was an insurance agent, my dad was a small business owner, my dad was a World War II

Vet. Alex and my dad had a lot in common. I learned a lot from both of them. Thank you very much for this resolution.”

REMARKS BY SENATOR PRENTICE

Senator Prentice: “Thank you Mr. President. Just knowing Senator Deccio isn’t going to be back does bring a lot of heart ache. He and I worked together on the issue of farm worker housing and I’d been, I’m sure he considered meddling in his district. He said, ‘You people from Seattle just mind your own business; and I said ‘If you’d ever show any interest maybe I’d butt out! and he said ‘Well, I’m interested.’ I said ‘Good I’m butting out.’ He said, ‘Oh no you’re not’. From then on he and I worked farm worker housing. The way we looked at it was, if this is such a terrible problem why haven’t we solved it? We kept peeling away the layers, the barriers in the way. I would hope that we always work that way because we would understand and listen to the same thing. We didn’t attack it from different points of view. We wanted to solve the problem. I think we worked on it about five years and it took that long because it was a difficult problem but to work with somebody like that. He and I always said, ‘When you had a couple of hot-headed Latins working on something we were going to see that it got done,’ and eventually we did. It was one of the most important things I think the two of us did here. Certainly meant a lot to both of us. We learned how to work together and I’ll tell you, he was a hot-headed Latin, not nearly as calm as I am. Thanks.”

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLEMENTS

Senator Clements: “Thank you Mr. President and to the body. As you well know I probably have to try to fill shoes that I’ll never fill. Senator McCaslin, I want to thank you for this. An update, I talked to Alex on Saturday. He’s recovering from back surgery very well. There’s going to be a celebration in our community, Mr. President, on February 10. I’m going to go home. I also want you to know that I, not knowing all my friends on the other side of the aisle, I said, ‘Alex, you know, you always reached across the other side and I have no idea how a lot of these members how effective they are and what they do. So he ranked them for me. So if you don’t mind. The truth is he loved this whole body and mentored me from 1994. At times he was better to me than my own father. I like to tell stories and the one story where I really got to know Alex, he has the charm and the ability here to get things in the capital budget in three weeks. Then he’d march over to the House where my good seat, Mary Skinner and I served for twelve years and say, ‘Well, Jim, here’s what I got in the Senate, now just get this in the House.’ It was, the first year that I served, I didn’t know anything about capital budget. I didn’t know any way to run the trap line. So Mary and I were put in the spot. We were trying to get through the Chair of the capital budget. Trying to explain to him that the hotel-motel tax, the expansion of our conversion center was absolute necessity and some of you understand the dynamics of that issue. Well, we weren’t making any progress. Alex was outside the caucus room. We were going to take a major vote on this particular issue the capital budget and I didn’t quite know what to do but a Representative said that he knew very well that the Chair of that budget could be persuaded. I said, ‘What do we need to do?’ He said, ‘You have Representative Skinner go back into the caucus and start bawling her eyes out and you stand up and say, ‘Mr. Chairman, we just always eat our own.’ At the end of the day we got it and we’d walked out. And I learned one thing. Real brief you don’t, you never tease Alex Deccio. I walked out and Alex said, ‘How’d it go.’ I said, ‘Alex I lost the fish, I had it right up to the boat and it ran away.’ He went straight in the air. The Italian temper, you what! I said ‘Alex I’m teasing you, we got it.’ Pats me on the cheek, ‘Good boy, took off, but for me a man that mentored me, a great man for the district that served, I don’t know how he served so long. Mr. President, it is a great privilege today to honor a man that I respect, a great Senator from the Fourteenth District and some of my constituents, this probably isn’t proper from a college where my kids went to school are here and I couldn’t be more pleased. I’ll end on this, I was suppose to have gifts for the whole body before I spoke. I have them and they’ll be distributed in the most proper way the next time. I want you to know, Senator Franklin, he specially told me how gracious and kind a Senator you were and I say this to make the other people insanely jealous.”

REMARKS BY SENATOR BROWN

Senator Brown: “Thank you Mr. President. I’ll try to do this very briefly but very supportive of this resolution. I’ve just got to say, I will miss the comradery of Senator Deccio and Senator McCaslin and the humor that they brought to the floor. I’d also like to add that the good lady, Senator Franklin, called him ‘tenacious’ but Alex you’re stubborn. That means when you’re on the same side you love and when you’re on the other side, it’s frustrating. You will be very missed by the Senate.”

REMARKS BY SENATOR HONEYFORD

Senator Honeyford: “Thank you Mr. President. I too rise in support of this resolution. Alex and I shared the same district or boundaries for twelve years and no, ten years I guess, ya twelve, and we shared a lot of common causes and so that’s when I really got to know him. I think that he serves as a great example for us, his thoughtfulness, his determination and pursuing the legislation that was good for his district and for the state. The other thing that I really appreciated about him was that when he gave me his word I could take that to the bank and I knew that there wasn’t any change in Alex. He was a very loyal man and so I really appreciate that. I am going to miss him, I feel very honored that I count him as a friend. So Alex, God Bless you and your retirement and you and Lucille have a great time.”

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of Senate Resolution No. 8608.

The motion by Senator McCaslin carried and the resolution was adopted by voice vote.

REMARKS BY GOVERNOR GREGOIRE

Governor Gregoire: "Thank you, Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Secretary Reed and Chief Justice Alexander, members of our Washington State Legislature, ladies and gentlemen. We gather today to honor several of our fellow Washingtonians who have made great contributions to not only the State of Washington but to our Nation as well.

Our awardees of the Medal of Valor have shown tremendous bravery of moments of grave danger. In a time when many people feel isolated within their communities, when some would feel it was just easier to look the other way, these individuals looked directly into the face of danger. They saw strangers facing great harm and they were willing to put their lives at risk – the ultimate act of selflessness.

Our awardees of the Medal of Merit have made very valuable contributions to our State and to our Nation scientific, cultural and political landscapes. They have pursued careers that not only captured their hearts and their minds, but they have yielded tremendous benefits to our State and to the country. They have been trailblazers in their fields and they have been fine examples of the entrepreneurial spirit that is essential as a part of our State's cultural.

So, Mike and I want to congratulate each of the individuals here. To offer them a heartfelt thank you on behalf of all of the citizens of our State – for their bravery and for their service to others. You have shown us true heroism. You have shown us what real public service is all about. You have made our State very proud. We are proud of you but more importantly everyone in our State – every one of the six and half million people are very proud of you and are very proud to call you a fellow Washingtonian.

I am deeply honored today to present these medals to such deserving Washingtonians. They are true examples of the Washington way – going above and beyond to serve and help our neighbors and our fellow citizens.

Congratulations to each of you!"

REMARKS BY SECRETARY OF STATE

Secretary of State Sam Reed: "It is indeed an honor and privilege that the Legislature has placed the Medals of Merit and Valor programs into the Office of Secretary of State. I am grateful to all of you attending today, and to the families and friends of the recipients.

The medals are awarded by a committee consisting of the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Chief Justice of the Washington State Supreme Court. The Speaker Pro Tempore represented the Speaker and did an outstanding job. I want to thank the four of them because they took very strong personal interest in this and helped make this happen.

Along with choosing the recipients, the committee also chose the design and layout of both medals and the accompanying certificates. Both the Medal of Valor and the Medal of Merit were produced and designed by the Washington State-based Territorial Mint in Auburn using guidelines laid out in the Revised Code of Washington. They are of the highest quality and are a testament to the professionalism and attention, the detail of the people who made them.

The Medal of Valor is pure silver and displays the seal of the state of Washington, surrounded by a raised laurel wreath and suspended from a silver bar device inscribed "For Valor". The reverse of the decoration within the raised laurel wreath is inscribed with the recipient's name and the words: "For exceptionally valorous service, given in the act of saving the life of another."

The Medal of Merit is solid bronze displaying the seal of the state of Washington, surrounded by a raised laurel wreath and suspended from a ring attached by a dark green ribbon. The reverse of the decoration within the raised laurel wreath is inscribed with the recipient's name and the words: "For exceptionally meritorious conduct in performing outstanding services to the people and state of Washington."

The certificate accompanying the medals were signed by each committee member representing three branches of our government: Executive, Judicial and Legislative. It is my honor as the Keeper of the State Seal to affix the Seal of the State of Washington along with my signature to each of the certificates. Life the medals, each certificate bears the name of the recipient and why they have been awarded this prestige honor.

I thank all of those who made this auspicious occasion possible. The staff of the Secretary of State's Office particularly Laurel Juergens and Patrick McDonald; the Legislative staff particularly Patty Moore and to get the staff of the House and Senate to cooperate – I really appreciate the efforts that were made. And a special thanks to all of those who had a hand in making the event a success from the Washington State Patrol and the State Capitol Tours Office.

I especially want to thank and congratulate each recipient being nominated and chosen for this honor.

Finally I thank their family and their friends who traveled to Olympia to be here today for their support and consideration.

Thank you very much."

MEDAL OF VALOR

Mr. President: "The Medal of Valor is awarded to any person who has saved, or attempted to save, the life of another at the risk of serious injury or death to himself or herself."

ALANA SCHUTT

Speaker Pro Tempore Lovick: "On a sunny day in May, Alana Schutt looked out the window of her Lynnwood home and saw three men in trouble on a sinking paddleboat on Martha Lake. She jumped into action before emergency services arrived, launching her family's paddleboat and making her way to the fishermen. One man who couldn't swim was on top of the boat. The other men were in the water. Schutt pulled two men aboard her paddleboat. While encouraging the third man to swim with her, she push the boat to shore. The quick action of the 22 year old Schutt is credited with saving the lives of the three men."

The Governor presented Ms. Schutt with the Medal of Valor and certificate.

Alana Schutt: "Thank you. I am honored to receive this medal on behalf of all the other Washingtonians who have saved the lives of others.

Today I want to share with you the story of a man I met at the Snohomish County Chapter of the American Red Cross's "real heroes" breakfast in December. During a routine at work on November 6, 2006, John Hickman of Granite Falls received a call from his wife regarding the rising flood waters near their home. John responded immediately by driving home to help out his friends and neighbors. By the time he arrived home, many people were wading through water up to five feet deep trying to get to dry land. John began driving his big red dump truck through the water picking up people who were stranded. On his first trip, he picked up 47 people. As the water continued to rise, John made a second and a third trip. On the third trip, the water had risen above the truck's wheels and had reached the gas tank. The truck stalled completely. At that point a search and rescue team had to pick up John and the others who were stranded. In all John rescued somewhere between seventy and ninety people.

My reason for sharing John's story with you today is that the most important thing to make is the decision to react in a crisis situation. John's decision to take action in his big red truck saved the lives of many. If I hadn't have made the decision to help the men whose boat was sinking, a man would have drowned. John and I are just two ordinary people who have made the most important decision.

I want to thank Battalion Chief Gary Kestle, Sheriff Rick Bart, Representative John Lovick and Representative Hans Dunshee for nominating me for this award. I would also like to thank the Medal of Valor committee, Governor Christine Gregoire, Lieutenant Governor Brad Owen, Speaker of the House Frank Chopp, and Supreme Court Chief Justice Gerry Alexander for presenting me with this award. In addition, I would like to thank my parents who raised me to be responsible and sensible, and my family and friends who support me and mean so much to me.

I leave you today with one last thought. When you least expect it, you may be caught in the middle of a crisis situation. I urge you to make the right decision, the decision to take action. People's lives are at stake and every second counts.

Thank you."

TIMOTHY BOURASAW & RICK BOWERS

Chief Justice Alexander: "Timothy Bourasaw ran from his house when he heard the sound of a head-on collision involving a van and a sports utility vehicle on State Route 530 near Arlington. Both vehicles were in flames. Bourasaw and another volunteer arrived at the scene in February before the emergency services did, and pulled one of the drivers from his vehicle and rolling the man in the grass to put out the flames. Bourasaw played a critical role in saving the lives of Tony Scappini and Marchello Galvez.

Rick Bowers was the other Good Samaritan who joined Timothy Bourasaw in aiding the victims of a head-on collision and care fire in February on State Route 530 near Arlington. Bowers was driving on SR 530 and stopped to render aid before fire and emergency services arrived. Bowers helped pull one of the drivers from his vehicle, the driver's hair and clothing burning, and cut a seat belt to free an unconscious passenger from a car that was quickly engulfed in flames seconds later. His quick action is credited with saving the lives of Tony Scappini and Marchello Galvez."

The Governor presented Mr. Bourasaw and Mr. Bowers with the Medal of Valor and certificate.

Mr. Bourasaw: "All I can say is thank you. I'm not much on speeches. It is deeply appreciated and it is quite an honor. Thank you."

Mr. Bowers: "I want to thank you for having me here. I am really honored to be here. I want to accept this medal in honor of the Lord, Jesus Christ my Savior for having me there at that time to save these individuals. Also, there was a half dozen other civilians that helped us out. Once we got the victims out of the vehicle, there was a nurse who helped one of the individuals who was having seizures. There were other people who were comforting everyone.

I want to thank the Washington State Patrol, the Arlington Police Department and the Arlington Fire Department. I want them to be involved also. Thank you."

EDWARD D. MARSETTE

Mr. President: "On March 15, the first day of his spring break from the University of Washington, Edward D. Marsette was awakened at 1 a.m. by the sound of a car crash outside his home on the Muckleshoot reservation near Auburn. Wearing only his night clothes, Marsette rushed down an embankment to the automobile, which had flipped over, smashed into a utility pole and burst into flames. He pulled four of the six people in the vehicle to safety. Marsette ignored his own burn injuries in the effort to save the 18 year old driver and three 15 year old passengers. When medical personnel arrived on the scene,

SEVENTEENTH DAY, JANUARY 24, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

Marsette asked them to treat the crash victims before his own burn wounds. Although Marsette could not save two of the victims in the car, the lives of the four that Marsette pulled to safety are credited to his quick thinking and bravery."

The Governor presented Mr. Marsette with the Medal of Valor and certificate.

Edward Marsette: "Thank you very much on behalf of my family and all my relatives that stand beside us. This has been a very trying year. For me to get over something like this has been a tough chore but I'm dealing with it. And on behalf of all these great honors, it is really astounding that people go out of their way and do things like this and receive awards and get recognition. There are other people out there like our service men. I would really like to recognize those men and women that are overseas and have to put their lives on the line each and every day. Just doing one thing like this, it's just one day that I've done, and they have to count many days over there. I have had several relatives who have spent years in the service – there are not very happy stories when they come back.

On behalf of this great honor, I would like to thank everyone of you once again, the House and Senate and the Governor Gregoire. I would also like to thank Senator Pam Roach, Representative Dan Roach and Peter B. Lewis for giving me this nomination and serving this Medal of Valor.

Thank you for much folks."

Mr. President: "Thank you all for your courage and for your example. We are proud to honor you today."

MEDAL OF MERIT

Mr. President: "The Medal of Merit is to honor those who have been distinguished by exceptionally meritorious conduct in performing outstanding service to the people and State of Washington."

DR. LINDA B. BUCK

Mr. President: "Nobel Prize Laureate and Seattle native, Dr. Linda Buck began her love for the sciences at the University of Washington, studying psychology. She postponed her graduation in the field, however, to study immunology, and graduated in 1975 with degrees in both psychology and immunology.

Dr. Buck has been studying the olfactory system – the neural system that relays signals to the brain, triggering the brain to identify, discriminate between thousands of odors, perceive and remember the smell. Buck's work earned her the 2004 Nobel Prize in Medicine. Her work is foundational to the understanding of relaying sensory signals from the receptor to the central nervous system.

After 11 years teaching at Harvard Medical School, Dr. Buck joined the research team at Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center in Seattle in 2002. She is also an affiliate professor at the University of Washington and an associate at the Neurosciences Research Program at the Neurosciences Institute.

In addition to her Nobel Prize, Buck has also been commended by more than twenty-one professional organizations, including the National Academy of Sciences, Washington University School of Medicine, the University of Washington, Johns Hopkins University, and the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center."

The Governor presented Dr. Horowicz, on behalf of Dr. Buck, with the Medal of Merit and certificate.

Dr. Linda Horowicz (on behalf of Dr. Linda Buck): "It is my honor to be here today representing Dr. Linda Buck. I've had the pleasure to conduct research with her for a number of years. As you know, her travel schedule prevents her from accepting this personally and on her behalf I would like to thank you for the State's Medal of Merit.

Dr. Buck has prepared a few words and I would like to now share them with all of you.

Good morning. First of all, I want to apologize for being unable to be with you today. I thank my colleague Dr. Lisa Horowicz for accepting this honor on my behalf and I thank all of you for extending this remarkable award to me. I am humbled to be recognized by the State of Washington and to stand in the company of Dale Chihuly, Dan Evans and Bonnie Dunbar.

In 2002, I returned to my home state of Washington from Harvard to conduct my research at Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center. I love doing science and feel very fortunate to be able to conduct my research at the Hutchinson Center in Washington State - both entities that understand the importance of biomedical research and that work to support and promote its future. Through my research I was able to identify a family of genes that are central to the olfactory system – a complex network that governs our sense of smell. The genes are blueprints for a family of odor receptor proteins in the nose. These proteins work in different combinations so that the brain can identify a nearly infinite array of odors much like the letters of the alphabet are combined to form different words.

Each odor sensing cell in the nose possesses only one type of odor receptor and each receptor can detect a limited number of odor substances. Using this knowledge, we have determined how the identities of different odors are perceived by the brain to allow us to sense distinct odors. We have been able to uncover sensory maps in parts of the brain known as the olfactory bulb and the olfactory cortex that are virtually identical in all individuals; providing an explanation for similarities and odor perception in different individuals. This work has also shed light on way chemicals with similar structures have different smells and why mixing chemicals together can create novel odor perceptions.

The Hutchinson Center is a very unusual place to conduct scientific research. There is a desire and a devotion to doing excellent science and a commitment to understanding basic biology. It is from the fundamental mechanisms of how life works that we make the greatest advances in treating disease. However, we can't work in isolation. All of us at the Hutchinson Center benefit from the fact that our State recognizes the importance of biomedical research and undertakes efforts to promote and strengthen our endeavors.

Thank you again for the State's Medal of Merit. I appreciate the personal recognition but also that in recognizing me, that other scientists know that Washington values biomedical research and the contributions it makes to our world."

DALE CHIHULY

Speaker Pro Tempore: "Lauded for revolutionizing the studio glass movement in the 1970s, Dale Chihuly's glass art is internationally renowned. His artistic inspiration continues to come from the Pacific Northwest, notably the natural surroundings of his hometown, Tacoma, Washington.

A student of interior and architectural design at the University of Washington, Chihuly left Washington to pursue graduate study at the University of Wisconsin's hot glass program, the first of its kind in the United States. He went on to study in the ceramics program at the Rhode Island School of Design where he later established its well-known glass art program. Returning to his roots in 1983, Chihuly came back to the Northwest and began the Pilchuck Glass School in Stanwood, Washington, now the premier international school for glass artists.

In 1984, he was awarded the Visual Arts Award from the American Council for the Arts and received the first three Governor Arts Awards. Three years later, in 1987, Chihuly finished Puget Sound forms for the Seattle Aquarium, and donated a permanent exhibit collection at the Tacoma Art Museum in memory of his father and brother. Because Chihuly's inspiration comes from the Northwest, he is committed to promoting the arts in this area.

In 1993, the University of Washington awarded him the institution's most prestigious honor, Alumnus Summa Laude Dignatus. That same year, Chihuly partnered with the Tacoma Public School District to create an arts program for at-risk youths, a program he still continues to support and mentor today."

The Governor presented Mr. Chihuly with the Medal of Merit and certificate.

Dale Chihuly: "Thank you for this honor."

DR. BONNIE DUNBAR

Chief Justice Alexander: "A Washington native and graduate of the University of Washington, astronaut Dr. Bonnie Dunbar pursued a career in engineering and science during a time when women in the field were few and far between. Dunbar has worked for over 30 years in the aerospace industry. During her undergraduate studies at the University of Washington, Dr. Dunbar helped develop ceramic tiles used to coat space shuttles, equipping the shuttle for re-entry into the atmosphere. From there, her illustrious career in the aerospace industry flourished.

Dr. Dunbar has flown in five space flights, logging more than 50 days in space. She also has thirty years as a licensed private pilot, flying more than 1,000 hours in NASA's T-38 jets. In addition to her flight time, Dr. Dunbar has served as an adjunct professor at the University of Houston. She is also an accomplished and inspirational public speaker.

Currently, Dr. Dunbar is the president and CEO of the Museum of Flight in Seattle, where she is developing youth education programs to inspire youth to enter the science industry. Dunbar uses her own experience and determination as an example for youth. Prior to her appointment at the Museum of Flight in 2005, Dunbar served as the Assistant Director for University Research and Affairs at the Johnson Space center.

Dunbar has been commended by several professional agencies including NASA, the Museum of Flight, the University of Washington, American Ceramic Society, and the National Academy of Engineers."

The Governor presented Dr. Dunbar with the Medal of Merit and certificate.

Dr. Bonnie J. Dunbar: "I am deeply honored and deeply humbled by this recognition. I am standing up here with an invisible team around me starting from a grandfather who immigrated from Scotland and believed anything was attainable by coming to this country. Continuing with two parents who after World War II homesteaded in Washington State in the Yakima Valley and impressed upon me as the oldest of four kids that anything was attainable if you are willing to work for it and study hard. I'm grateful to my first principal, Mr. Stan Snow, for Mr. Eidd, for Sally Sarise, Mr. Jacobsen, my trig teacher, for Mr. Anderson, physics and chemistry teacher, for Doc Muller, my first professor at the University of Washington and a host of other people who enabled this to happen.

I've had a wonderful career in aerospace and research and I'm delighted to be back in the State of Washington and be back home for the next chapter. That chapter is something else my parents instilled in me – at some point in your life it is important to give back. And so at the Museum of Flight we are investing in our youth through our education programs and hopefully will produce a few more engineers and scientists, and promote our Washington Aerospace Scholars Program across the State.

For this, I thank you, Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Speaker, legislators and the wonderful people who have been award the Medal of Valor and my colleagues here for the Medal of Merit. Thank you very much."

DANIEL J. EVANS

Mr. President: "A graduate of University of Washington, former Governor and U.S. Senator Daniel J. Evans is a long-time public servant. Evans is recognized as one of the most distinguished leaders in the history of Washington State, and a study at the University of Michigan named him one of the ten most outstanding governors of the 20th century.

His public leadership began as a State Representative in 1956, and after serving eight years in the State House of Representatives, Evans was elected governor in 1964. The youngest governor in the history of Washington State, Evans focused on higher education. His leadership led to the creation of the community college system and The Evergreen State College.

Evans also charted new waters during a special session on environmental issues, when he led Washington State to create the nation's first Department of Ecology. Along with this, Evans broke new legislative frontiers, passing the Washington State Environmental Policy Act in 1971, the first framework enabling state government to address how the environment is impacted by decision making.

Serving three terms as governor, Evans declined to run for a fourth term and became President of the Evergreen State College in 1977, where he provided critical leadership for the institution's "alternative curriculum."

Evans was appointed to the U.S. Senate when Henry "Scoop" Jackson died in 1983, and won a special election to serve the remainder of Senator Jackson's term. Evans retired from politics in 1989, and returned to the Northwest.

Following Evans' distinguished political career, he created his own consulting firm, Daniel J. Evans Associates. He served from 1993 to 2005 on the University of Washington's Board of Regents, acting as Vice-President (1995-1996) and President (1996-1997).

Evans has been active on several corporate and civic boards, including COSTCO, Initiative for Global Development and the Nature Conservancy."

The Governor presented the Honorable Daniel J. Evans with the Medal of Merit and certificate.

Daniel J. Evans: "What an honor it is to be on this platform with the winners of the Medal of Valor and my colleagues, the Medal of Merit. I might note in passing that all four of the Medal of Merit winners are University of Washington Huskies.

First let me introduce my family, the former First Lady of the State of Washington, my first lady always, my wife, Nancy Evans. My brother Roger Evans, who has been a bulwork of strength during my campaigns and my time in office. My son, Dan who was four and a half when we moved into the Mansion and my three grandchildren, Eloise, Isobelle and Jackson.

Fifty years ago this month, I stood in this Chamber way back in that corner, and took the oath of office for my first term as a member of this House of Representatives. It was a great thrill and my time here was interesting, provocative and rewarding. I remember with greater clarity many of the things that happened in this Chamber their in my other responsibilities in politics. It was an interesting time. Half a dozen of my colleagues were born before Washington reached statehood. It was that long ago. Spittoons still stood by each of the desks in this Chamber and some of them were still used. We had no staff. Our office was our desk here in the Chambers. Pay was $100 a month. We met every other year. And the high tech method of communications – the urgent method – from citizen to their legislator was by telegram. Through that system, a modern Washington was built.

There were great times. I remember some of the incidents with great clarity particularly one time when we then in the minority, were harassing the majority – that's what the minority is supposed to do – and the majority was trying to carry on a bill for the Governor. They weren't very happy about pushing it but were inclined to do it. We were debating this bill with great energy. Finally Speaker O'Brien slammed his gavel down and said "It is time we kept the debate on this bill on a high plain." I jumped up from that seat right down there where the Gentleman from the 20th District sits now and said, "Mr. Speaker, how can we conduct the bill such a high plain when it is such a low bill?"

With that John O'Brien slammed his gavel down, the head came off the gavel and spun clear down into the audience almost at my feet. As you might guess, that broke the tension and as he walked off the podium, there was that rye little smile on his face. He showed who was still boss.

It is interesting that that legislature, meeting every other year with little in the way of support and staff, really did build modern Washington. The Washington we all enjoy today. I guess the only real message of importance I want to leave with all of you, my former colleagues, is that you too will build not just a Washington for today. The budget you pass and the bills you pass, won't affect us just this year but you are building the Washington that we will enjoy a generation for now. I hope you keep that in mind because you have a great responsibility not just for us and our generation but for our children's and certainly for my own grandchildren and your grandchildren's generation.

It is a great privilege for me to stand in front of you one more time. I was tempted originally to give another keynote State of the State address but I decided to leave that to Governor Gregoire.

Thank you."

Mr. President: "The State of Washington is truly blessed by its people and exceptionally so by the ones we have had an opportunity to recognize here today. We truly appreciate what you have done for the State of Washington.

It is my pleasure to invite everyone to the state reception room after session to greet the honorees and their guests."

The Sergeant at Arms escorted the Medal of Valor and Medal of Honor recipients from the Chambers.

The Sergeant at Arms escorted the Governor and Mr. Gregoire from the Chambers.

The Sergeant at Arms escorted the Statewide Elected Officials from the Chambers.

NINETEENTH DAY, JANUARY 26, 2007
POINT OF ORDER

Senator Delvin: "I don't know if this is a point of personal privilege or maybe a point of order on something that occurred just recent past on this floor. Well, the good gentleman from the Forty-Fourth District, I understand he's new to the body. He stood up and was reading from what looked like a prepared script. I want to applaud his service in the National Guard and I'm not sure what he did, stature, that's kind of... but I won't question that but I think he needs to be reminded about reading from materials without permission from the good Mr. President of the Senate.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "I appreciate pointing that point of order out to us."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pridemore: "Well, Mr. President I think that this body should be thrilled to welcome the new member from the forty-fourth. It's going to be wonderful to have a member who can read join us. It's also extremely rare that we have welcomed somebody of his stature, his renown and his ability to this body. It's certainly somebody who has been so successful in business as he has been. As many of us know he was born and raised in San Francisco and attended lectures at Hewitt Packard and Palo Alto where he met somebody who would become vital life long friend in Steve Wozniak. He attended Wozniak bu dropped out after only one semester, returned to California and began working with Mr. Wozniak on Atari computers, eventually leading to the development of what would be become known as the Apple computer."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rockefeller: "Thank you Mr. President. I believe the good gentleman from the forty-ninth district is actually referring to Steve Jobs not Steve Hubbs, however, I am told that our good Senator Hubbs has actually invented the internet."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pridemore: "I'm sorry, it's Hobbs. I thought it was Jobs. What computer did Hobbs ever invent? Mr. President, never mind."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Brandland: "That is a rough act to follow Mr. President but I did want to make a couple of observations. It's really kind of sad to be very honest with you that Senator McCaslin is not here because as much we attempt to make light of our new members, no one can do that like Senator McCaslin. He did make a couple of statements I thought were pretty interesting and that is that what he was talking about the National Guard, and he thought you can not tell us apart. Well, I beg to differ because when I walked in that room back in here his knees were quivering. He was absolutely quivering, was so nervous he could barely talk. I knew what was about to happen but he also kind of distinguished himself I think already in the Senate in a committee that I was in. He took the liberty of introducing himself as a simple person. I gave him more credit than that. I thought you were a little bit better than that.

2007 REGULAR SESSION

Especially somebody that would refer to himself as 'the Hobbinator.' You may not have known that, he is officially referred to as 'the Hobbinator' and I think I've heard, I haven't been there yet, but I understand that if you go to his office it looks like a museum. He's got stuff all over the walls. I think that if you go to anybody else's office it looks pretty bare, not with Senator Hobbs. He's been three weeks, he's already filled the walls with everything imaginable. Every picture of anybody that he's ever known. I don't know if they knew him but he's got their picture on his wall. All kidding aside, I think he did a great job on your speech and we welcome you. We certainly welcome the gifts you're about to give to us. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Prentice: "Thank you Mr. President. I've know Senator Hobbs for about a year and half and I thought that I knew him well but he did say one thing in his speech this morning. He said, 'You can always tell a National Guardsman.' I guess what I've discovered is that you can't tell them much."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Stevens: "Thank you Mr. President. I have perhaps known our new Senator for more years than the rest of you in this chamber. As I had the opportunity to teach him a few things about campaigning and how to run for office and how to take defeat. He took it very well. I would like to say that he has, as it turns out, fine-tuned his skills of speaking since those early, early day when he was but a young, young boy. I would like to also say that certainly the rhetoric that he is using today is much more profound and certainly has more content and more value to this body than it did back then. Mostly I would like to say that it is indeed amazing, if you've been here long enough you will see your opponents sitting in the seat next to you. So, at this time I would just like to say, Welcome Senator Hobbs and we will learn to tolerate further speeches from you I am sure. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Jacobsen: "Mr. President, I can see that the good Senator was a little bit nervous earlier so I tried to calm him down. I said 'You know most Americans would rather be shot at than to have to give a speech in public' and he exclaimed to me, 'I'd rather be in Bagdad than have to do this'. I said 'Well, it's not that desperate, you're going to survive this one,' and you did a really good job."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "The President appreciates Senator Brandlands comments and clarifying for me that he's known as 'the Hobbinator' by his fellow soldiers. I was told that it was the Hobbit.' Whichever, did you wish to respond at all Senator Hobbs?"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you. Well ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, today is Dairy Day in the Legislature. Today's the day we honor the men and women of the Dairy industry and their families. This is a marvelous day for all of us in the Legislature because we have the opportunity to honor our dairy families and the dairy producers across the state. Also, you will get to enjoy the twenty-five hundred ice cream bars that are going to be handed out by the men and women of the Dairy Federation and by Dairy Ambassadors. I'm very, very privileged as a former dairy farmer to say welcome to the dairy industry, the producers, the men and women who make this wonderful product called milk. I hope you'll all share with me and you'll toast a glass of milk the next time you sit down for lunch and dinner and don't forget to go out and meet our Dairy Ambassadors and men and women of our dairy industry and have an ice cream bar. Thank you very much."

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUESTS

The President welcomed and introduced the 2006-2007 Dairy Ambassadors Trista Van Berkim, Debbie Branch and Melisa Lancaster who were seated at the rostrum and Dairy Ambassadors who were seated in the Gallery.

With permission of the Senate, business was suspended to allow Trista Van Berkim, Dairy Ambassador, to address the Senate.

REMARKS BY MS. TRISTA VAN BERKIM

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY, JANUARY 31, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

Trista Van Berkim: “Honorable Lieutenant Governor Owen, members of the Senate and guests. Three point five billion dollars. That is the estimated annual economic impact of the dairy industry in Washington State. After apples, milk is the second largest agriculture commodity produced in Washington. Washington Dairy farmers take pride in producing some of the highest quality milk in the nation. We also take pride in helping the people of our state prosper. For every one million dollars in finished dairy products twenty jobs are supported in farming, processing, distribution and marketing. Dairy farms also improve the environment. Land conservation efforts by dairy farmers has supported thousands of acres of open habitat used by the many different migratory birds believed that live in our fields. Our state has long been blessed with the thriving dairy industry. But what about if that were not the case, stop and imagine that for a moment. No dairy industry, the very landscape of our evergreen state would be dramatically altered not to mention our daily diets. Cereal with no milk in the morning? No thank you. And lasagna with Wisconsin cheese? Not my preference and we could just say goodbye to those creamy mochas and lattes that we all have come to rely on in the mornings. I want to thank you for what you have done to protect the dairy industry and dairy farmers like my dad. Your pen is a powerful tool and my challenge for you today is to continue to protect the family dairy farmer so that our imagined dairy-less state does not become a reality. Washington, have you got milk?”

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: “Trista, thank you very much and to all the Ambassadors, thank you all for what you do.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Delvin: “Well, several, actually Mr. President. One, milk does a body good as the former speaker didn’t certainly restrict the height growth there. Also, Mr. President, we have a new person on the dais to recognize that because I know the gentleman from the fourteenth with his hearing implements couldn’t hear those vote counts and that brings me to him. He stood up earlier for that gubernatorial appointment. He disclosed some of his dealing with the gentleman but he didn’t disclose them all. I first came to Olympia back in ’94 with the good gentleman from the fourteenth district. We both entered the House of Representatives and he disclose everything when he was the nomination and he forgot to disclose some things. One, because he says he knows horse racing, I think he owned some ponies at one time or he at least he gave some money on some ponies sometimes that I don’t think that he disclosed that little known fact so he does have an interest in that sport. Also, you know yesterday I think we were delivered some apples to our offices from the Apple Commission and he use to be the president of the Apple Commission. He didn’t disclose that fact either. I gave my apples away knowing, to a good friend, knowing that they could better use them me because I thought we’d probably have a lot of apples this session knowing that the gentleman from the fourteenth district. He use to grow them. Maybe he still has an apple tree or two that we’d have all the apples we would need here. That’s one thing else he didn’t disclose about his past that he does grow apples and he has a relationship there with those apples too. The other thing, he resigned from the House before coming to the Senate and when I think a less than honorable way got an appointment. Now, my appointment two years ago I think was an honorable appointment but I think, in his case, he came here under less honorable method. I think he, well, I just don’t think the voters had a chance to really vote who they wanted as their Senator from the fourteenth and hopefully they’ll be given that opportunity in the next year to do that. So, this was his first speech today on the floor of the Senate. Hopefully, it won’t be his last, I know we’ll probably regret that that we allowed him to speak the first time because he certainly has a reputation in the House for some of his speeches. You know some sayings like ‘This dog don’t hunt or This old porch dog isn’t whatever that porch dog does’ but so I’d just like to congratulate the gentleman from the fourteenth district for his first and look forward to a nice gift that doesn’t include apples - does not include apples. Thank you.”

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Keiser: “Well, it seems to me that the gentleman from the fourteenth district has spoken before today. I recall last week a fine resolution brought forward to the floor about our colleague Senator Deccio and it seems to me that I recall the gentleman from the fourteenth district standing up and speaking out and here he’s done it again. So, how do we allow in our rules on this August bodies floor to recognize and acknowledge someone’s first speech when it is his second?”

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: “That was a point of order that you raised that you raised. You know, the President raises the same question and Senator Clements did approach me the other day and he implied, - I add a strong emphasis- implied that the President said that that would not count as first speech. That would imply that the President made a mistake which of course is a very bad mistake on his part. The point is well taken.”

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Honeyford: “This gentleman made promises after that first speech and the tribute has not been received and so I’m inquiring as to can his microphone be turned off until that tribute is paid?”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McCaslin: “I have an answer for the question raised about his second speech. It means he has to give us two gifts.”

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Schoesler: “Would the gentleman from the fourteenth district yield to a question?”

Senator Clements: “No.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Schoesler: “Thank you Mr. President. If the gentleman were to have yielded to a question, I think the body would of liked to have known what gifts he comes bearing. Now, think about this. In the spirit of his predecessor, it should almost certainly include the other white meat, pork. Because no one was more successful at procurement of the other white meat than his predecessor. He has apparently learned one thing from his predecessor. He’s already cut a deal with the chairman from the Yakima County Democrats. Already, not even one month and he’s cut a deal across the aisle. I think he did learn a few things except the bearing of gifts that should come with this lofty position he has inherited. I can't help but believe that without a gift, they'll never be a street or a building named after the new Senator from the fourteenth district, but he did explain his background with horse racing. And that background in horse racing runs deep, in fact, my uncle worked with the gentleman's father-in-law a generation ago in that industry so I think we should congratulate him on his maiden, as the term is known in horse racing, and wish him the very best of luck in this body."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rockefeller: "Well, to judge from the remarks of the good gentleman from the eighth district, I'd like to refer to the gentleman from the fourteenth as the almost-honorable Senator Clements. But laying that aside Mr. President, I do have a concern that the real Jim Clements has not yet appeared before us. After all, I served in the House as many of us here today in that other body and I must say that his performance so far in speaking to a gubernatorial appointment is remarkably subdued compared to the style that he has exhibited so well when he was a member of the other chamber so, I remember for example, his famous, 'I see a train wreck coming' speech when he spoke about WASL and it left an indelible impression on all of us who heard it. I do hope the real Senator Clements will soon appear here in the Senate. Thank you Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Kohl-Welles: "Thank you Mr. President. Well, I have to take exception with what term was used by the good Senator from the ninth legislative district. Maiden speech, now, I revere the good gentleman from the fourteenth district very much and because he is so known for the political correctness of his speech at all times. I don't know that maiden is the right term to use for his first speech. I mean, we could say, inaugural speech or initial speech on the senate floor, introductory, pioneering. We could even get to cleansing or purifying, debutante maybe untouched and if we could be really down to earth here perhaps spring chicken or jail bait or undeflowered but maiden is something I just don't think is appropriate to use for the first remarks or second on the senate floor of the good Senator from the fourteenth district."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, the good gentleman from the fourteenth district I've known for a long time is a fellow agriculture producer but I want you to know as Chair of Agriculture this fellow is high maintenance. He is really high maintenance. He smiles a lot. He talks a lot but he's really high maintenance so watch out all of you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Clements: "Thank you Mr. President and the rest of the body. The accolades were absolutely different. As far as somebody coming from the other body when I went back to my district, Mr. President, to get gifts because the first day I was here I asked the good friend from the ninth district some of the protocols. He said, 'The first protocol is, the first time you speak you come bringing gifts' and I had to have that explained. Then my friend from the seventh I asked if Krugerrands, chocolate of course, would be appropriate and he didn't think so. In the course of time I know I approached the good President on my opportunity to follow the Senators from the fourteenth district appreciation. Well, you're the fourth, oh, I'm the fourteenth. There was some mis-communication but I can assure you that I went back to the fourteenth district and I went to an organization that represents the Growers Co-Op and that's Tree Top and it signifies for me part of my home town that has brought great prosperity and many, many jobs, dealing with a multiple and, I'm sorry to say it, of apple products but I'm happy to say. When I got back to the fourteenth district some of my friends said to me 'Senator Clements, how have you adjusted your first two weeks?' and from the fine lady of the forty-seventh who I have a couple of committees, I said 'It's been charming, a number of the members are very gracious and very kind,' and I, being an alpha male, I've had to have some adjustments in some in some of the committees that I'm on but I'm not collard but I'm well-house-broken. And being the second speech and I think remiss about that a great philosopher from Eastern Washington shared this with his caucus and today it is the second mouse that get's the cheese and I have brought gifts from my district and I hope they can be shared and I hope you look at them because they do signify who we are in the fourteenth district even with the Senator that doesn't hear well. He doesn't have to worry about combing his hair and in time we will take an opportunity to debate with great earnestness with some of the issues my friends on the other side will bring forth but until that time, please enjoy what I brought to this body in a tradition that I think is wonderful. Thank you very much."

On motion of Senator Rockefeller, the rules were suspended, the Senate, with a single vote, considered the confirmations of Gubernatorial Appointment No. 9072, James Tiffany; Gubernatorial Appointment No. 9055, Kris Pomianek; Gubernatorial Appointment No. 9038, William McDowell; and Gubernatorial Appointment No. 9079, Darlene Wilder as members of the Board of Trustees, Wenatchee Valley Community College District No. 15 and the vote of the Senate was recorded as a separate vote for each appointment.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you Mr. President. This morning in Education we heard Senate Bill No. 5450 and what it concerns was our developmental delayed disability to students could not walk in graduation because the school refused to allow them to walk at graduation. Maybe because they were going to be in school another two years because we have the right, we have the obligation, to educate them until their age 21. There was a young man that had worked and saved to purchase his school ring and wanted and was looking forward to his graduation with his peers. He was not allowed to do that. The Kent School District finally overturned that and did allow him to walk in graduation only because there was a lot of pressure put on the school district and certainly his friends and a young woman by the name of Allison who was a student body president that befriended him. His parents went through a long struggle in order to have him walk in graduation which he was allowed to do so. These students have a long journey in life and particularly their school year and not to be able to walk in graduation that really is wrong. Ethically wrong and we wanted to overturn that so Senate Bill No. 5450 said it's mandatory that all students and students with disabilities can walk in graduation. So, we were very honored today to have this young man and his family before our committee and I wanted to be able to express in this body that this was a tremendous morning for this family and particularly for this young man and I wanted you, Mr. President, to be able to have the opportunity to hear his story. Thank you."

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY, FEBRUARY 1, 2007

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUESTS

The President welcomed and introduced Mr. Kevin Britt and his family and Ms. Allison Lewis who were seated in the gallery.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pridemore: "Thank you Mr. President. I just wanted, to rise, Mr. President, to welcome the esteemed Senator from the twenty-sixth district. Maybe tell the Senators a few things about him. As you may know he refers himself as Doctor Senator, Senator Doctor that's because he has a quite an educational pedigree having attended Princeton University and Oxford University. I got to tell you all he is not that kind of a doctor, he's a PhD. That's why, should I ever fall on a massive coronary on the floor of this body, that's the second reason why I don't want him to give me CPR. This is, of course, the first reputable public office that this young man has held and he worked very hard to get it. He door belled on one-hundred, thirty-seven thousand homes. He hadn't intended to door bell that many but he wasn't really sure what the district boundaries were so he just kept going. He put up a lot of yard signs. He studied the issued late at night. He arrives in the Senate and the first thing that happens is he's assigned to the committee chaired by the esteemed Senator from Mercer Island. Hopefully, the next four years will go better for him and perhaps it can begin with an appropriate gift to the members of this body right now."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Schoesler: "Mr. President, sometimes when someone makes their first address, we're told to keep things clean and within decorum. I really think we're pushing it when we talk about pedigrees. That's usually a little bit about race horses or other stock and I won't go there. I think what we want to examine is what this young man will bring to the body. I particularly hoping that there'll be something related to pheasants and pheasant hunting in the not too distant future. I also have a great hope that since I venture into that area every fall during a silver season that they'll be a token for each one of us to cross a new bridge in that vicinity. So, I hope when the appropriate gift is made it will include that token for that particular bridge. Thank you."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "The President and others of us at the rostrum are confused about which of the two Senators who made their first speeches we're speaking of."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hargrove: "Thank you Mr. President. I will clear that up, I think it's Senator Kilmer from the Twenty-sixth district, correct? Actually I have known him from-I think he was about this tall when I first met him. His parents were good friends of the late Dick Fish who was my seat mate in the House before he passed away. So I met Derek when he was very small and even though he's gone on to all of these educational accolades, I don't think he's learned a thing."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Roach: "Thank you Mr. President and the Senate. You know for those that haven't opened their bags yet and as is tradition, people who speak for the first time on the floor then give a gift to the members. It usually comes from their district. That's kind of how that goes. So here we have some Bremerton Ferry Dust Tea, that's to help you sleep at night and that comes from his district and then you have a can of Tuna Guys tuna. A little advertising for your district. And then you had this little item. The Senator from the Ninth district was suggesting maybe there be pheasants from this district. Actually, in the Twenty-sixth district they have seagulls. And to honor that fact there's a candy shop out there that makes seagull dropping chocolate. I want you to take it out and look. And those of you who are not of the Twenty-sixth district you probably have never investigated what in the world a seagull dropping looks like. Here they have codified it in chocolate. Thank you very much, we're happy to have you here."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rockefeller: "Mr. President, I know the gentleman from the Twenty-sixth district and I have thought that he has indeed a very impressive pedigree. A Princeton Tiger, Oxford degree on top of that, but not withstanding the fact that Tigers are the mascot of the Princeton University, he doesn't strike me as a tiger kind of temperament. He, in fact, comes across as a very humble, self-effacing indeed, modest individual. Perhaps it's because as Winston Churchill once observed about a member of parliament he has so much to be modest about."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Kilmer: "Thank you Mr. President. I guess first a question. Is it too late to go back to the House?"

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "The senators do have the legal authority to seat any member. They can unseat a member, too, I suppose."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Kilmer: "Well, thank you for those kind comments. As the good gentleman indicated, I did actually knock on quite a number of doors to get here and it was a constant reminder to be humble. On the first that I went knocking on door in the city of Bremerton in my district. I knocked on the door of an elderly gentleman, and he came to the door and yelled through the door,

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY, FEBRUARY 2, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

'I already have a religion,' and I said, 'No sir, I'm Derek Kilmer. I'm your State Representative,' and He said, 'I don't care who the heck you are, I already have a religion.' That's how my campaign to come here began and I can see from today that we're off on the same trajectory. I have come bearing gifts and apologies. As Senator Roach indicated, first is a bag of tea called Bremerton Ferry Tea. That has nothing to do with the rumors about people being asleep over here, though it is highly caffeinated. I brought gourmet tuna fish from the city of Gig Harbor, the Maritime City. Some one asked me whether gourmet tuna fish was like gourmet squeeze cheese but it's actually really good tuna fish, so I hope you enjoy it. And then finally actually talked to the mayor of Port Orchard and said, 'what would you like me to bring from Port Orchard?' and she reminded me of the annual seagull calling competition that takes place each year in the city of Port Orchard and as part of that annual effort, The Candy Shoppe, in Port Orchard makes, in fact, Seagull Plop candy and I want to say that that gift has absolutely nothing to do with my feelings about the speeches made previously. Thank you."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Prentice: "Would Senator Kilmer yield to a question? What is your definition of elderly?"

Senator Kilmer: "I'll get back to you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McCaslin: "I used to do this for years. Obviously I did a terrific job because I've been replaced by six people. It's astounding to me really. Anyway, you keep digging these guys. You're welcome to go back to the other body if we can get up to eighteen. If we're going to stay at seventeen, you might as well stay you know."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pridemore: "Mr. President, thank you. We have another distinguished Senator, new member who has spoken this morning, from the Sixth district. I wanted to introduce him to this body. He is a man who got his San Francisco values the old fashion way. He grew up and went to college there. History is going to show that he was a car salesman who joined the Legislature and actually lowered the ethical standards of both bodies. While he mostly sold new cars, he never sold near so many used cars as the Attorney General alledges. There have been allegations, there have been investigations and, yes, there have been court cases, but there have been no convictions. Remember this, the Senator from the Sixth district has no convictions. He is going to be a giant in our elementary schools and our day care centers but he may come up a little short in our universities."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "Your treading on awful thin ice."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pridemore: "Mr. President, I remember my first speech in this body and I was nervous and all that. I can imagine if I were as young a man as our new Senator is, just how terrified I would be but one thing I didn't do in my first speech was refer to my first bill by the wrong number. Let history show that the esteemed Senator from the Sixth district referred to his own bill as Senate Bill No. 5055, not Senate Bill No. 5058 earlier today. Mr. President, I want to welcome the Senator to the Washington State Senate. Even the Lieutenant Governor can stand a little taller today."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "You're getting harder to see all the time."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Schoesler: "Mr. President, it appears after the passage of that bill there's a young man risen, in some ways, to the stature of myself or the Lieutenant Governor. We had an intelligence report prepared. Came from a car dealership in north Idaho about the competition little opposition research. In the spirit of the institution, we're not going to bring up that op research from Kellogg, Idaho. We'll leave that lay, but it has been a proven fact that, after being a regent a WSU, the San Francisco education and values were improved as a regent at a land grant university and now we have some nice shoes to fill, it not particularly large, at WSU. Welcome to the institution."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Poulsen: "Thank you Mr. President. Well, cars have come up quite a bit and I think it's worth noting that Senator Marr gets and gives himself quite a bit of credit for breaking ranks with the car dealers and helping to pass the clean car legislation two years ago. The truth, ladies and gentlemen, the truth, car dealer, is that we started out with twenty-three votes on that bill and after his so called 'lobbying,' he had whittled it down to sixteen, fifteen and we blame that solely on your self confidence. He is so self-confident, nay, arrogant, that he has become affectionately known in our caucus as 'Little Lord Fauntleroy.' Now, I didn't really know that reference when I first heard it so I looked it up Wikipedia and Mr. President may I read something? I'll spare you the plot introduction but something that jumped out at me is Little Lord Fauntleroy's impact on fashion. The Fauntleroy suit, so well described by the books author created a major fad for formal dress for American middle class children.' What the Earl saw was a graceful, childless figure in a black velvet suit, with a lace collar and with love locks waving about the handsome, manly little face, whose eyes met his with a look of innocent good-fellowship. Mr. President, I rest my case."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Brown: "Thank you. Well, I'm happy to have Senator Marr joining us in the body but I have to point out a few things. He no doubt would quickly point out, where he's standing up and speaking right now, that he is, in fact, the tallest senator from Spokane and if we're going to go down that road I think I might just add a few other criteria, just so you know. He's not only the tallest senator; he's the oldest senator from the city of Spokane. In fact, he has a lovely wife, Kristine, and children. He and Kristine have been married for thirty years and Senator Holmquist and I calculated that she would have been in diapers when you married your wife. He is, as Senator Poulsen indicated, the most confident senator from Spokane and he is the most affluent senator from Spokane. How many Senators are able to purchase a brand new residence before their first speech in the Senate in the lovely city of Olympia? Except for Senator

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY, FEBRUARY 2, 2007

Fraser, although I know, I think it might becoming a trend with some of my new members. Anyway, Senator Marr, you did a pretty good job of bumping the bill and all your hard work on it has paid off with its passage. Welcome to the Senate.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Marr: “Well, the bill that I had the honor to introduce today had to do with Veterans issues so it’s really not surprising that someone confused me with my shorter Japanese American colleague from the Forty-fourth district. He is a soldier of great distinction but has been pointed out has quite a few faults. However, once you see that I’m capable of making a very brief speech, you’ll understand I’m no Steve Hobbs. My humble beginning’s as a car salesman have been mentioned and it is hard to believe that just a year ago I was leaning against a gently used 1975 Chrysler Cordoba on East Sprague with a toothpick in my mouth contemplating how I might be able to make it even greater contribution to society. Since that was not possible, I chose to run for the Washington State Senate. Now, Mr. President, like you, when I think about the high honor that’s been bestowed upon me to sit in this chamber I feel six feet tall. The comments I’ve heard from a lot of you here make me yearn for the day when I become a committee chair and I can get even. In the meanwhile, I look forward to Senator McCaslins bill to divide the state in half again. Until then I offer as my tribute several small gifts that reflect my district in Spokane County. Since I do live in an apple maggot quarantine area. I won’t be able to bring the apples that many of you asked me to bring and I was unable to find any two-year old promotional tee shirts to hand out. However, I do offer a small sample of Spokane’s own Spokcandy, a coin commemorating our one-hundred twenty-fifth anniversary as a city and a key chain from Whitworth College which whose Division III football team had an undefeated season and made it to the second round of the NCA tournament. Thank you Mr. President.”

THIRTY-FIRST DAY, FEBRUARY 7, 2007

departed former members of the Legislature. On behalf of the Senate and the House of Representatives, President Pro Tempore Franklin extend a welcome to all the family members who were present. President Pro Tempore Franklin turned the gavel over to Speaker Pro Tempore Lovick to conduct the service.

Father Benedict Auer, St. Martin's University gave the Invocation: "The other morning, Mount Rainier had a shadow against the clouds in the sky, which is unique and happens only on certain rare mornings. The ability to see this shadow is even rarer because the shadow is often covered by gray cloudiness, and you miss it. But this year, it was visible in a pink and salmon colored sky. Today we invoke the Creator of the beauty of this state and our country as we memorialize those individuals who have served our State so well.

Creator of all that is seen and unseen, we come together to remember, for as Joseph Campbell wrote, "To live in the hearts we leave behind is not to die." We know we carry with us all those who shaped our lives either directly or indirectly. We are all on a quest or search for truth, while some of us recognize this better than others. This morning, we honor those who saw this pilgrimage clearer than any of us, and committed themselves to changing and caring for our state in all its needs.

Our State stands as a monument to those who have represented us and dedicated themselves to our service. Together as community we uplift and care for each other. In some people this service is greater than others. The British poet, Christina Rossetti, reminded us in the nineteenth century:

"Remember me when I am gone away,
Gone far away into the silent land;
When you can no more hold my hand,
Nor I half turn to go yet turning stay."

This day we remember. We recall. We see with our ears and hear with our hearts. We see through a glass darkly, but we recognize their departure and mourn their leaving, but as the author of The Little Prince, Antoine de Saint-Exupery wrote, "Higher Education & Workforce Education or she who has gone, so we cherish their memory. They abide in us, more potent, nay, more present than the living person."

It is with deep gratitude that we remember and honor departed members of this Legislature who have made their transition, passing from this earthly life. We grieve, but as Shakespeare wrote in Macbeth: "Give sorrow words; the grief that does not speak whispers the fraught hearts and bids it break." At this time, we give sorrow words. We are thankful for each of these persons, their dedication speaks to everyone. Their example of leadership and commitment spurs us on to imitate their examples.

A native American explanation captures our purpose today:

"You shall ask
What good are dead leaves
And I will tell you
They nourish the sore earth.
You shall ask
What reason is there for winter
And I will tell you
To bring about new leaves.

You shall ask
Why are the leaves so green
And I will tell you
Because they are rich with life.
You shall ask
Why must summer end

And I will tell you
So that the leaves will die."

The cycle of life is a gift from you, O Great Creator of all things. Hebrew Scriptures tells us:

"For everything there is a season
A time to be born and a time to die;
A time to plant and a time to pluck what is planted;
A time to break down and a time to build up;
A time to weep and a time to laugh;
A time to mourn and a time to dance;
For everything there is a season,
And a time for every matter under heaven."

Today we remember and thank the Creator of all those sent to us who served and cared for us. We offer gratitude for the uniqueness of all who you created, O Divine Creator, and knowing our lives will never be the same because of these people. As the Medieval Mystic, Meister Eckhart wrote: "The greatest prayer you can say is thank you."

Thank you and Amen."

The Olympia High School Concert Choir under the direction of Dan Schwartz sang "Song of Triumph."

Mr. Speaker (Representative Lovick presiding): "We are assembled today to pay tribute to the lives and services of the distinguished former members of the Washington State Senate and House of Representatives who have passed from among us. The people of our State are grateful for their service. The Sixtieth Legislature of the State of Washington conveys its respects to those deceased legislators.

They once sat in the hallowed chambers of the House and Senate; answered roll calls on sometimes critical perplexing bills, attended committee meetings, above all else, served to the best of their abilities to make our State a better and more enjoyable place to live. While their journey in this life is completed, their achievements, records and valued services have been recorded in the journals of the Senate and House, and are now and forevermore a permanent part of the history of the State of Washington.

We express our sympathies to the bereaved families and their friends and also share with them on this memorable occasion the fond and happy memories of these legislators, who served well beyond their call of duty and responsibilities and truly loved this great State. They have indeed left a legacy of dedicated service that will remain forever etched in our hearts, our memories and our Legislative records."

Speaker Pro Tempore Lovick and President Pro Tempore Franklin called the roll of the deceased former members of the Senate and House of Representatives assisted by Candlelight pages, Brittany Warner and Aiden Borer.

Rabbi Dan Bridge, Rabbi Emeritus, Hillel, Foundation for Jewish Life, University of Washington gave the Memorial Prayer: "In speaking of people of greatness, Sir Isaac Newton quoted Bernard of Chartes claiming that we stand on the shoulders of giants. Today we call out the names of Washington State legislators and we light these candles to remind ourselves that we are here only because we are able to stand on their shoulders. Today we are in this hall of great promise to remember first, the emptiness, the sadness left in the spaces they occupied in our lives, and in the life of this great State. And secondly we stand here to remember their legacies. Rabbi Bernard Raskas describes the impact of a person's life. "What is this immortality in which I believe. I believe that a person lives in his or her family. I believe in the immortality of friends and helpfulness. And I believe that there is a form of immortality in the institutions we build and the causes we espouse."

And thirdly, we light these candles so that we can be inspired – we the people who stand on the shoulders of these legislators – those who came before us. They have certainly lifted us up. I pray we will remember to be inspired by their lives. And that we will be moved – moved enough to act as their hands in a world to which they no longer belong – a world that needs so much fixing.

A prayer the Jewish Reform Movement reads "May the nobility in lives and the high ideals they cherish endure in our thoughts and live on in our deeds." Zichronam livracha - May we make the memories a blessing

The Olympia High School Chamber Choir, directed by Dan Schwartz sang "Set me as a Seal".

The Olympia Marine Corps League Detachment Color Guard presented of Flag. Sergeant Michelle Wheeler, 133rd Army National Guard Band played "Taps".

Pastor Phil Rue, Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, Olympia gave the closing prayer: "Oh mighty and most gracious God, it is in Your heart to love and to seek the wholeness of all of the creation. We give You thanks for those whom You have worked in and through, and who have reflected that grace and whom we honor this day.

We are grateful for their contributions. We are grateful for their legacy. As You have called us to love justice, to love kindness and to walk humbly before You, we thank You for that reflection, and what they have given to us. We ask and we pray that Your spirit would be infused within us. Look over us that we might know Your justice, that we might act with compassion and care, that we might know the wisdom of walking humbly before You and each other. Continue to place within the leaders of this great State the conviction of those things that are dear and precious, and the wisdom to know our fallibilities. And the ability to work together.

Let your blessing be upon those who have loved those we honor this day. Let your blessing be here in this place where decisions are made, where there is service and concern for the people who are represented. Help us always to remember the calling that is ours as we continue to serve in this place. Grant us your grace to love, to serve, to care.

We pray this in your great name. Amen."

"Amazing Grace" was played on the bagpipes by Lieutenant Keith Huntley of the Washington State Patrol.

Speaker Pro Tempore Lovick returned the gavel to President Pro Tempore Franklin who thanked the members of the Memorial Committee and everyone who participated in the day's ceremony.

President Pro Tempore Franklin turned the gavel over to Speaker Pro Tempore Lovick who asked the Sergeant at Arms of the House and Senate to escort President Pro Tempore Franklin, Majority Caucus Chair Harriet Spanel, Vice President Pro Tempore Paull Shin and Minority Floor Leader Mark Schoesler from the Rostrum and the senators from the Chamber.

SENATE RESOLUTION 8615

By Senators Keiser, Pridemore, Berkey, Parlette, Kauffman, Delvin, Carrell, Fairley, Kohl-Welles, Franklin, Fraser and Pflug

WHEREAS, Diabetes is a chronic disease for which there is currently no known cure and is the sixth leading cause of death in the United States; and

WHEREAS, Individuals with Type 1 diabetes cannot produce any of their own insulin needed to help regulate sugar and food stores in the body; and

WHEREAS, Individuals with Type 2 or adult onset diabetes cannot produce enough of their own insulin and often do not exhibit symptoms in the early stages of the disease; and

WHEREAS, The serious long-term complications of high blood sugar levels may include blindness, lower-extremity amputation, heart disease, kidney failure, and premature death; and

WHEREAS, In recent years, the number of individuals diagnosed with diabetes has increased forty-one percent; and

WHEREAS, Nine out of ten individuals who are newly diagnosed with adult onset diabetes also suffer from obesity; and

WHEREAS, America is facing a diabetes epidemic, as an estimated 20,800,000 Americans are living with the disease nationwide; and

WHEREAS, Diabetes is a leading health problem in Washington with an estimated 427,000 adult residents currently living with the disease; and

THIRTY-SECOND DAY, FEBRUARY 8, 2007

WHEREAS, The keys to reducing the incidence of, and complications associated with, diabetes are education, early detection, control, and proper treatment; and

WHEREAS, The earlier a person is diagnosed with diabetes and receives treatment, the better the person's chances are for avoiding diabetes complications; and

WHEREAS, The first line of treatment recommended by all treatment standards is diet and exercise, and a healthy diet and the loss of excess weight can have a positive impact on the body's ability to fight off disease; and

WHEREAS, It has been shown that modest weight loss may help to lower blood sugar and blood pressure and improve the level of fats in the bloodstream, which is beneficial to the treatment of diabetes and other metabolic diseases; and

WHEREAS, Traditionally those at highest risk include older citizens who have a family history of the disease and who are overweight. However, in recent years there has been an alarming increase in the growing number of younger people who are being diagnosed with diabetes, which is attributed to lifestyle and excessive body mass;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That, in recognition of Diabetes Day at the Capitol, the Senate encourage individuals to seek early screening and early treatment and encourage health care providers to improve care for the control of diabetes and the treatment of major complications, to reduce the rate of diabetes and its complications among high-risk populations; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That health care providers be encouraged to adopt generally recognized clinical practice guidelines such as the American Diabetes Association goals, recommendations, and standards that identify the reduction of body mass index, cardiovascular risk issues, and glycemic control as key factors to managing diabetes; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That health care providers be encouraged, as they detect and treat the emerging diabetes epidemic, to engage in an aggressive program with their patients, including dietary counseling and exercise, measurements of body weight, and other associated risk factors; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the Senate transmit copies of this resolution to the Washington State Medical Association, the Washington Department of Social and Health Services, and the Washington Department of Health.

Senator Keiser spoke in favor of adoption of the resolution.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of Senate Resolution No. 8615.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Keiser: "I believe that we had a first speech from the gentle lady from the Forty-Seventh District this morning and I want to pay special note to that fact. My point of personal privilege has to do with what I understand to be the first public utterance on this August institution's floor by the gentle lady of the Forty-Seventh District. I would like to just acknowledge that Senator Kauffman is a neighbor of mine. The Forty-Seventh District is right next door and we share a very long border and now we're sharing the neighborhood here on the Senate floor and it's a terrific honor for me to have her next door her as well. You know, Senator Kauffman may come across as a very quiet and gentle, maybe even shy, person. Don't be fooled folks. Heads up. This is one tough lady and she has a will of iron, a backbone of steel and since she walked every foot of that very long border that we share, I think her feet are probably made of concrete by now because it was a lot of work for her to get here. She is a neighbor that I am very proud to welcome and I think her utterances on this floor were interesting because in this case, as you know, she was talking about someone near and dear to her - her very own sister. That's an honor but also I have to wonder if there's a little conflict of interest? Just a question."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Swecker: "Well, Mr. President, I was quite impressed with the inaugural speech of the good lady from the Forty-Seventh District. I was very much impressed with the qualifications of the person that she was recommending so much that I voted for approval of that nomination but I do have one question. Did we get the right Kauffman?"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Kauffman: "Thank you Mr. President. Yes, it's true, there are a lot of Kauffman's out there I'm actually the youngest of seven and so and we all grew up in Seattle area. I'm very happy and proud of my family and their accomplishments that they have made throughout their lives. They were all here, I don't remember if you remember, the day that we had the swearing in, and how and boistress they were but they were all here providing a tremendous amount of support for me and I truly appreciate that. I appreciate all the support that I've received here in the Senate as well and the support that the wonderful Senator from the Thirty-Third District has provided to me for a long time. I'm very, very happy to be here. It was a long road and I'm loving every single minute of it and I've heard it said that, 'You're extremely quiet, Claudia; but once you get to know me you'll know I'm not quiet at all. I love to speak and I love to talk and so thank you very much. I'd like to provide you with a small gift from me. I was told gifts needed to come from your district and I have to tell you I come from the Forty-Seventh and so these gifts are from me. Thank you very much for the opportunity."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Eide: "Well, thank you. I understand we have one more member that has....I have to tell you this is his second speech and don't you let him fool you because I happened to be standing on this floor the other day along with Senator Schoesler and Mr. President. I often thought-here with the Senator from the Fourteenth District, along with the good senator that just spoke today-both came from, I'm supposed to say 'the other body.' I'm wondering if they were taught how to count. There is a one before the two and the other thing is you have to learn to count to forty-nine. This is the reason I am saying this; This is your second speech you're being recognized on, so what I thought I would do is tell the good senator if you need help counting there is a sheet here that you don't need any numbers but there are names on it. You need to go through every single one of them and before a bill comes onto to the floor Senator, make sure that you have everyone of them check marked and preferably in the 'A' column. The other one is that I found it interesting he did an absolutely wonderful first speech on his resolution regarding the gentleman from his district. It was excellent. The only thing is is when Mr. President asked all those who are in favor say 'Aye,' I believe there was only one person that said 'Aye' Mr. President and I believe it was myself. So, the other thing is that the good senator from the Nineteenth, you must vote on your bill and it's either-I would hope an 'Aye.' It is a pleasure to have you on the Senate floor but I must tell you that you must vote at the end of every time the good President asks us to. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Brown: "Mr. President, long, long ago in 1994 the political winds were blowing in a different direction and our colleagues across the aisle had a banner year and Republicans were elected from Washington, D.C. to Washington State. I was over in the other body and walked into my first meeting of the House Democratic caucus and we had gone from sixty some members to thirty some members. It was a rather demoralizing experience. In the hushed environment of the day the only bright note was that a couple of new Representatives were elected on our side of the aisle. They were talented and easy on the eyes, Representatives from the Nineteenth and Thirty-Fourth District. One was a little bit country, the other was a little bit rock and roll because they spent so much time together and because to some of the folks around here-especially the lobbyists. We all look alike anyway, they were often confused. Which one was, Hatfield? Which one was Poulsen? Who did that? who said that? Hatfield or Poulsen. Well, someone came to me and asked me which one I prefer? Thinking, of course, of our political orientations and not our personal chemistry and being a country girl myself raised on the Beverly Hill Billies I said, 'Hatfield, he's a little bit Jethro for me.' Well, today Senator Hatfield, you've been vindicated, with that incredible speech on the Senate floor. I have two things to say to you. Number one, I was wrong. I made the wrong choice and we all prefer you to Senator Poulsen but we were young and foolish then, it was 1994 and my second question is, 'What took you so long to get to the Senate?' Really, that was twelve years ago. What have you been doing with your time? I decided to look into it a little bit and Mr. President, if I may, I'm having pages distribute some amazing information that I located that actually solves the mystery of what took the good senator so long to get to the senate floor. We all thought he was frittering away his time in the House or in other pursuits but in fact, he has built an amazing career as a legendary NASCAR racer and the proof is right here on this poster. That's right, along with Richard Petty, Darrell Waltrip and Greg Biffle, did you know that Brian Hatfield, the Raymond Racer, is also a NASCAR legend.? Welcome to the Senate, we are honored Senator Hatfield."

And who else is going arrange for volunteer Pastors to come and give a prayer and Lord knows this place needs a prayer, so let's hope that those job skills can be replaced in the market place as we welcome the new senator from the Nineteenth."

President Pro Tempore assumed the chair.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pridemore: "Mr. President, it's true, Jethro's first speech was on Wednesday. Unfortunately the word got out and their weren't any senators here to hear it and I think he now wishes that there that the word had gotten out again today. Of course, Jethro comes from a close family, in fact from that part of the state, all three families are very close, very, very close. I was pleased to see this announcement today on this reception because one of the things I was going to point out is that, as we know he's championing the NASCAR bill and the reason he is doing that not only because he's such a prolific driver himself but he's also one of the few senators who can go to the NASCAR races and not need a program. He's got all of those memorized but it's been a hard transition from him. He misses home. He sits in his office late at night. Of course we all know about his guitar skills but that's not the first instrument he learned how to play. Sometimes when you go his office late at night, the lights are turning off and everybody is going home, in the still of Olympia you can hear 'ddddding. Dd d ddd dddd. Thank you Mr. President."

Senator Regala: "Madam President, I was also a member of that freshman class of 1994-95 which was earlier referred to and so I have known the senator from the Nineteenth District for a very long time. Madam President, you know my mother always told me, 'If you can't say something nice about someone don't say anything,' so never mind."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Jacobsen: "I remember well serving with Brian for many years. One day in the House he was a little bit glum and I said, 'What's the matter?' and he said, 'Well, my senator just had a double hip replacement and I'm worried. He's feeling so well he's going to run again.' It took him a while longer because that double hip replacement costs him about eight years of experience. The other thing I remember about Brian, I think he's really adapted to this place. When I first met him he was the kind that would use fish bait. It's been here seventeen sessions, now it's sushi and nobody at home knows what he's talking about."

POINT OF ORDER

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Poulsen: "Mr. President, I object to this character assassination. While senator, now Senator Hatfield may bear a striking resemblance to Jethro Bodine of Hillbillies fame, what with his very ill-fitting suits and his marginal grooming, they're actually quite different. Jethro spent twelve years in grade school before getting, before graduating from sixth grade that is. We all know Brian only took eight. Before coming to Hollywood, Jethro never ventured away from his home in the hills of West Virginia. Brian went to Ritzville once, before he was loading up the truck and heading to Oly, Capital Hill that is. Speaking of Olympia some of you may not know that this is actually Senator Hatfield's seventeenth session in Olympia. In other words, he's never had a real job and in fact up until someone in this chamber, Mr. President, showed pity on him and hired him. He had no marketable job skills and after that experience with you he still has none. Thank you."

Senator Hatfield: "Are you through? Thank you, I guess I enjoyed that roasting Madam President and I do have tribute to pay to the senators for putting you through my first speech and my flawed bump that I will debate with Lt. Governor with. What we have, and I think, are the pages delivering it now, ok thank you. They are bringing out to you products from the Nineteenth District so you know it is going to be good and it is going to live up to the standards of my predecessors. We have crab, oysters and sturgeon, I think there would have been more seafood for you but we had to cut it off somewhere. All fine and delicious products from the Nineteenth Legislative District. I do have to warn you, you might want to eat the crab fairly soon. Don't let it set on your desk or your office for a year and then think that's going to be a good snack because you might be sick. You may also want to trade oysters. We've got a variety. I think some of you have smoked, some of you have the hot and spicy variety that they have and you'll note on some of the cans, in keeping in the tradition of Senator Hobbs, they might mention 2005. Don't worry about that. In fact, some of the cans actually say 2003 on them because that's the year I thought I was going to be giving this speech. Enjoy and thank you."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

MOTION

President Owen: "And your point?"

At 11:55 a.m., on motion of Senator Eide, the Senate adjourned until 12:00 noon, Monday, February 12, 2007.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

BRAD OWEN, President of the Senate

Senator Schoesler: "Well, I was here in the body when that first speech counted and it seems to me that the President's hearing may be diminishing because I don't know if I heard two voices on the floor to constitute a majority to pass that resolution. We may have an illegitimately passed resolution here. The other thing, we went back through the etiquette where we should be and we will have to, of course, question the gifts to see if they meet up to standards of the Nineteenth District predecessors. The other question that has come to us is the critical job skills that he left behind. Who else is going to be able to carry the gavel for the President to lunch and back again?"

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "Ladies and Gentlemen of the Senate, we all reach milestones in our life, today is one of those auspicious days where we can recognize and honor Senator Schoesler on his 50th birthday. Happy Birthday."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Roach: "Well, I wanted to bring to the attention of the Senate that we have four committee members who are on the Transportation Committee in Portland today for a committee meeting. They're not here because of that committee hearing-on the Senate Floor-and that would be Senator Haugen, Senator Swecker, Senator Benton, one other. I wanted to object to this. I realize that you may rule that it's ok to have a committee hearing during session. It would take a ruling I suppose to reiterate that but we do have a situation here in Olympia where we are being paid seven days a week, not just five and if we need to meet with our colleagues in Oregon that can be done on a Saturday or Sunday and not then requiring in some way or another that our members be absent from their floor votes so my point of order is to object to the fact that we are having a standing committee meeting then."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Brown: "I'd like to clarify whether this is a point of personal privilege or a point of order and have it be addressed appropriately."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "I was just asking the attorney whether you had approached that as a point of order or...."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Roach: "Mr. President, a point of order."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

FORTIETH DAY, FEBRUARY 16, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

President Owen: "That was a point of order, ok. The President understands that this is not a committee hearing, that they are meeting with some people in Portland on some important issues. Therefore, it's not necessary. It would be necessary, if it was a hearing, to suspend the rules to allow them to meet during the session. This is not a hearing, therefore it is not necessary. Excuse me, its not a suspension of the rules it's to invoke which only takes twenty-five votes but it's not a committee hearing therefore it would not be necessary to invoke the rule."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Parlette: "This will just take a second because I know we have a lot to do today but as you can see the white coats are up there and for those of you who did not have the opportunity to participate with Accounting for health when Harry Jasper was here, you may want to go down there and have your blood pressure checked and all those other good things that pharmacists are trained to do. They are in the Columbia Room and thank you for being here today."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "Have your blood pressure checked before and after the vote."

The legislature finds that gender-neutral terms must be used in accordance with RCW 44.04.210. This act is technical in nature and no substantive legal changes are intended or implied.

Two members of such commission shall constitute a quorum and the votes of any two members of such commission concurring shall be sufficient for the decision of all matters and the transaction of all business to be decided or transacted by the commission under or by virtue of the provisions of this chapter. No person in the classified civil service who shall have been permanently appointed or inducted into civil service under provisions of this chapter, shall be removed, suspended, demoted or discharged except for cause, and only upon the written accusation of the appointing power, or any citizen or taxpayer, a written statement of which accusation, in general terms, shall be served upon the accused, and a duplicate filed with the commission. Any person so removed, suspended, demoted or discharged may within ten days from the time of his or her removal, suspension, demotion or discharge, file with the commission a written demand for an investigation, whereupon the commission shall conduct such investigation. The investigation shall be confined to the determination of the question of whether such removal, suspension, demotion or discharge was or was not made for political or religious reasons and was or was not made in good faith (~~(for)~~) for cause. After such investigation the commission may affirm the removal, or if it shall find that the removal, suspension, or demotion was made for political or religious reasons, or was not made in good faith for cause, shall order the immediate reinstatement or reemployment of such person in the office, place, position or employment from which such person was removed, suspended, demoted or discharged, which reinstatement shall, if the commission so provides in its discretion, be retroactive, and entitle such person to pay or compensation from the time of such removal, suspension, demotion or discharge. The commission upon such investigation, in lieu of affirming the removal, suspension, demotion or discharge may modify the order of removal, suspension, demotion or discharge by directing a suspension, without pay, for a given period, and subsequent restoration to duty, or demotion in classification, grade, or pay; the findings of the commission shall be certified, in writing to the appointing power, and shall be forthwith enforced by such officer.

All investigations made by the commission pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be by public hearing, after reasonable notice to the accused of the time and place of such hearing, at which hearing the accused shall be afforded an opportunity of appearing in person and by counsel, and presenting his or her defense. If such judgment or order be concurred in by the commission or a majority thereof, the accused may appeal therefrom to the court of original and unlimited jurisdiction in civil suits of the county wherein he or she resides. Such appeal shall be taken by serving the commission, within thirty days after the entry of such judgment or order, a written notice of appeal, stating the grounds thereof, and demanding that a certified transcript of the record and of all papers on file in the office of the commission affecting or relating to such judgment or order, be filed by the commission with such court. The commission shall, within ten days after the filing of such notice, make, certify and file such transcript with such court. The court of original and unlimited jurisdiction in civil suits shall thereupon proceed to hear and determine such appeal in a summary manner: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That such hearing shall be confined to the determination of whether the judgment or order of removal, discharge, demotion or suspension made by the commission, was or was not made in good faith for cause, and no appeal to such court shall be taken except upon such ground or grounds.

If there is no appropriate eligible list for the class, the commission shall certify the name of the person standing highest on said list held appropriate for such class. If more than one vacancy is to be filled an additional name shall be certified for each additional vacancy. The appointing power shall forthwith appoint such person to such vacant position.

No person so certified shall be laid off, suspended, or given leave of absence from duty, transferred or reduced in pay or grade, except for reasons which will promote the good of the service, specified in writing, and after an opportunity to be heard by the commission and then only with its consent and approval.

To enable the appointing power to exercise a choice in the filling of positions, no appointment, employment or promotion in any position in the classified service shall be deemed complete until after the expiration of a period of three to six months' probationary service, as may be provided in the rules of the civil service commission during which the appointing power may terminate the employment of the person certified to him or her, or it, if during the performance test thus afforded, upon observation or consideration of the performance of duty, the appointing power deems him or her unfit or unsatisfactory for service in the department. Whereupon the appointing power shall designate the person certified as standing next highest on any such list and such person shall likewise enter upon said duties until some person is found who is deemed fit for appointment, employment or promotion for the probationary period provided therefor, whereupon the appointment, employment or promotion shall be deemed to be complete.

(1) The governor is hereby authorized to enter on behalf of the state into an agreement with the secretary of health, education, and welfare consistent with the terms and provisions of this chapter, for the purpose of extending the benefits of the federal old-age and survivors insurance system to employees of the state or any political subdivision not members of an existing retirement system, or to members of a retirement system established by the state or by a political subdivision thereof or by an institution of higher learning with respect to services specified in such agreement which constitute "employment" as defined in RCW 41.48.020. Such agreement may contain such provisions relating to coverage, benefits, contributions, effective date, modification and termination of the agreement, administration, and other appropriate provisions as the governor and secretary of health, education, and welfare shall agree upon, but, except as may be otherwise required by or under the social security act as to the services to be covered, such agreement shall provide in effect that--

(a) Benefits will be provided for employees whose services are covered by the agreement (and their dependents and survivors) on the same basis as though such services constituted employment within the meaning of title II of the social security act;

(b) The state will pay to the secretary of the treasury, at such time or times as may be prescribed under the social security act, contributions with respect to wages (as defined in RCW 41.48.020), equal to the sum of the taxes which would be imposed by the federal insurance contributions act if the services covered by the agreement constituted employment within the meaning of that act;

(c) Such agreement shall be effective with respect to services in employment covered by the agreement or modification thereof performed after a date specified therein but in no event may it be effective with respect to any such services performed prior to the first day of the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which such agreement or modification of the agreement is accepted by the secretary of health, education and welfare.

(d) All services which constitute employment as defined in RCW 41.48.020 and are performed in the employ of the state by employees of the state, shall be covered by the agreement;

(e) All services which (i) constitute employment as defined in RCW 41.48.020, (ii) are performed in the employ of a political subdivision of the state, and (iii) are covered by a plan which is in conformity with the terms of the agreement and has been approved by the governor under RCW 41.48.050, shall be covered by the agreement; and

(f) As modified, the agreement shall include all services described in either paragraph (d) or paragraph (e) of this subsection and performed by individuals to whom section 218(c)(3)(C) of the social security act is applicable, and shall provide that the service of any such individual shall continue to be covered by the agreement in case he thereafter becomes eligible to be a member of a retirement system; and

(g) As modified, the agreement shall include all services described in either paragraph (d) or paragraph (e) of this subsection and performed by individuals in positions covered by a retirement system with respect to which the governor has issued a certificate to the secretary of health, education, and welfare pursuant to subsection (5) of this section.

(h) Law enforcement officers and (~~fire~~) firefighters of each political subdivision of this state who are covered by the Washington Law Enforcement Officers' and Fire Fighters' Retirement System Act (chapter 209, Laws of 1969 ex. sess.) as now in existence or hereafter amended shall constitute a separate "coverage group" for purposes of the agreement entered into under this section and for purposes of section 218 of the social security act. (2) Any instrumentality jointly created by this state and any other state or states is hereby authorized, upon the granting of like authority by such other state or states, (a) to enter into an agreement with the secretary of health, education, and welfare whereby the benefits of the federal old-age and survivors insurance system shall be extended to employees of such instrumentality, (b) to require its employees to pay (and for that purpose to deduct from their wages) contributions equal to the amounts which they would be required to pay under RCW 41.48.040(1) if they were covered by an agreement made pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, and (c) to make payments to the secretary of the treasury in accordance with such agreement, including payments from its own funds, and otherwise to comply with such agreements. If a retirement system covers positions of employees of the state of Washington, of the institutions of higher learning, and positions of employees of one or more of the political subdivisions of the state, then for the purpose of the referendum as provided herein, there may be deemed to be a separate retirement system with respect to employees of the state, or any one or more of the political subdivisions, or institutions of higher learning and the governor shall authorize a referendum upon request of the subdivisions' or institutions' of higher learning governing body: PROVIDED HOWEVER, That if a referendum of state employees generally fails to produce a favorable majority vote then the governor may authorize a referendum covering positions of employees in any state department who are compensated in whole or in part from grants made to this state under title III of the federal social security act: PROVIDED, That any city or town affiliated with the statewide city employees retirement system organized under chapter 41.44 RCW may at its option agree to a plan submitted by the board of trustees of said statewide city employees retirement system for inclusion under an agreement under this chapter if the referendum to be held as provided herein indicates a favorable result: PROVIDED FURTHER, That the teachers' retirement system be considered one system for the purpose of the referendum except as applied to the several colleges of

(4) The governor, before authorizing a referendum, shall require the following conditions to be met:

(a) The referendum shall be by secret written ballot on the question of whether service in positions covered by such retirement system shall be excluded from or included under the agreement between the governor and the secretary of health, education, and welfare provided for in RCW 41.48.030(1);

(b) An opportunity to vote in such referendum shall be given and shall be limited to eligible employees;

(c) Not less than ninety days' notice of such referendum shall be given to all such employees;

(5) Upon receiving satisfactory evidence that with respect to any such referendum the conditions specified in subsection (4) of this section and section 218(d)(3) of the social security act have been met, the governor shall so certify to the secretary of health, education, and welfare.

There shall also be published a notice of the hearing on said petition in a newspaper published at Olympia, Washington, to be designated by the director of ecology from year to year, which said notice shall be published for at least two weeks (three issues) prior to the date of said meeting and shall contain the name of the county or counties and the number of each township and range in which the lands embraced within the boundaries of the proposed district are situated, also the time, place and purpose for said meeting, which said notice shall be signed by the petitioner whose name first appears upon the said petition. If any portion of the lands within said proposed district lie within another county or counties, then the said petition and notice shall be published for the time above provided in one newspaper printed and published in each of said counties. The said notice, together with a map of the district, shall also be served by registered mail at least thirty days before the said hearing upon the state director of ecology at Olympia, Washington, who shall, at the expense of the district in case it is later organized, otherwise at the expense of the petitioners' (~~bondsmen~~) bondspersons, make such investigation of the sufficiency of the source and supply of water for the purposes of the proposed district, as he or she may deem necessary, and file a report of his or her findings, together with a statement of his or her costs, with the board of county commissioners at or prior to the time set for said hearing. When the petition is presented, the board of county commissioners shall hear the same, shall receive such evidence as it may deem material, and may adjourn such hearing from time to time, not exceeding four weeks in all, and on the final hearing shall establish and define the boundaries of the district along such lines as in the judgment of the board will best reclaim the lands involved and enter an order to that effect: PROVIDED, That said board shall not modify the boundaries so as to except from the operation of the district any territory within the boundaries outlined in the petition, which is susceptible of irrigation by the same system of works applicable to other lands in such proposed district and for which a water supply is available; nor shall any lands which, in the judgment of said board, will not be benefited, be included within such district; any lands included within any district, which have a partial or full water right shall be given equitable credit therefor in the apportionment of the assessments in this act provided for: AND PROVIDED FURTHER, That any owner, whose lands are susceptible of irrigation from the same source, and in the judgment of the board it is practicable to irrigate the same by the proposed district system, shall, upon application to the board at the time of the hearing, be entitled to have such lands included in the district.

At said hearing the board shall also give the district a name and shall order that an election be held therein for the purpose of determining whether or not the district shall be organized under the provisions of this act and for the purpose of electing directors.

The clerk of the board of county commissioners shall then give notice of the election ordered to be held as aforesaid, which notice shall describe the district boundaries as established, and shall give the name by which said proposed district has been designated, and shall state the purposes and objects of said election, and shall be published once a week, for at least two weeks (three issues) prior to said election, in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the petition aforesaid was presented; and if any portion of said proposed district lies within another county or counties, then said notice shall be published in like manner in a newspaper within each of said counties. Said election notice shall also require the electors to cast ballots which shall contain the words "Irrigation District--Yes," and "Irrigation District--No," and also the names of persons to be voted for as directors of the district:

PROVIDED, That where in this act publication is required to be made in a newspaper of any county, the same may be made in a newspaper of general circulation in such county, selected by the person or body charged with making the publication and such newspaper shall be the official paper for such purpose.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Roach: "I have passed for members of the Senate an invitation or a committee meeting announcement from the Oregon State Legislature. In Oregon, Senate Committee on Business, Transportation and Workforce Development. Where there, according to this, there's going to be a joint meeting of the Washington State Transportation Committee, excuse me, Washington Senate Transportation Committee and the Oregon Senate Business, Transportation, Workforce Committee today at 11:30. Of course, it's not 11:30 now but it's impossible for our members to be at this meeting at 11:30 and be here on the floor. Mr. President, my point of order would be that I believe that there should be a simple majority vote to suspend the rules and allow this standing committee to in fact meet with the standing committee in the State of Oregon today during our session when our members should and could have been here voting."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Eide: "I'm very sympathetic and I understand what the good Senator is saying but we will be off the floor by 11:30 today."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Roach: "My point of order would be that we are not finished voting. There's still one bill left. I brought this issue up several bills ago and took the opportunity to get this before the members. I think that it is unreasonable to think that an individual can be here to 11:20 a.m. and yet still be in Portland at 11:30 a.m. So, in fact, this is out of order that these two meetings are overlapping by anyone's understanding of transportation, although there are those in this state that would claim that we have none."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "Senator Roach, in responding to your point of order the President has two thoughts on this matter. First off, the practice has been that the issue is not taken up until there is a time when in fact there is a conflict between the senate being on the floor and the committee actually taking place so, the President believes, that the timeliness of it would be at that point when there would be a conflict between the committee meeting and the senate. But, even at that, the President would note that this notice that you provided is from the Senate Committee on Business Transportation Workforce Development of the Oregon State Legislature not Washington State. The Washington State Senate Transportation Committee as a whole is not in Oregon at this time. There are approximately three or four members that have gone down there. They have notified us that this is not a committee meeting but rather a participation in their meeting and therefore information gathering. The President does not believe that this constitutes an official meeting of the Senate Transportation Committee therefore your point of order is not well taken."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5267.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5267 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 42; Nays, 0; Absent, 0; Excused, 7.

Senator Zarelli, if the scenario that the previous speaker referred to, if we had an issue down the line or that had a fiscal impact like 695, took about a billion dollars out of the budget. Would that constitute an emergency and then we'd be able to go into the reserve?"

Senator Zarelli: "The emergency, there's two ways to get to the money without a sup majority in this constitutional amendment. One, is when employment growth falls below one percent which indicative if you go back in time. It's clearly when we have significant down turns in which we'd need a reserve like this and the other is in the event of catastrophic event such as a Katrina like event in which an emergency is declared and then we would pass legislation via simple majority to access that fund. Those are the two ways in which the fund as established could be accessed."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

President Pro Tempore: "Speaking of marriages and speaking of births, today we would like to recognize the Senator who has her thirty-first anniversary and she was remembered by those beautiful roses from her husband. Let's wish Senator Eide a happy anniversary."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Eide: "Well, thank you Madam President for recognizing my thirty-first wedding anniversary and yes I did marry my high school sweetheart, looking forward to having the evening with him. We are going out for dinner and I just wanted to say once again how much I love him. He has put up with a whole lot being married to me and, you know, I have been very fortunate by marrying the right man. But I also would like to recognize a couple of birthdays. Today is Senator Swecker's sixtieth birthday. Do you mind me telling everybody how old you are? You look wonderful, it's too late and also it is Lucas' birthday, Senator Brown's son birthday today. So, happy birthday to him."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

President Pro Tempore: "And I would like to just add to those birthdays and which we have more than one birthday today. Senator Pflug and, of course, Senator Swecker who was already stated. We wish you a happy birthday."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Swecker: "Thank you Madam chair. I just wanted to thank the chair or the President and the other members who acknowledged my birthday but there is a historic fact that we should all be aware of. Our birthday and anniversary also fall on the date of the historic earthquake that occurred here. What, 2001? I think it was. I feel that anybody that, any marriage or party individual can could survive that earthquake has great longevity and great hope for the future. So I congratulate my fellow members on this historic date."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Kohl-Welles: "Well, I was going to speak about the same thing that the good Senator spoke about but add another little personal anecdote about that. White, I love looking at Senator, the Senator's beautiful flowers over there, I was the only one on the Senate floor that day and I was with her beautiful flowers when the earthquake struck. No staff was present in the Senate chambers as well. That was one of the most terrifying moments in my life to be right here under this dome all alone and later on in the day when we were able to come back up I grabbed Senator Eide's beautiful bouquet of anniversary flowers and took them down, rescued them and I hope I never have to do that again."

MOTION

Senator Jacobsen moved that all remarks be spread upon the Journal.

REMARKS BY SENATOR POULSEN

Senator Poulsen: "Thank you Madam President, well, the loss of Deputy Cox was really one of the most painful and senseless tragedies that White Center has ever experienced. For those of you who don't know, White Center is located about half way between Burien and Seattle. It's a small community. It's ethnically diverse. There's always been lots of poverty, crime, violence, lots of drug activity, and frankly, no small amount of fear and hopelessness. All that really started to turn around a couple years ago and I think that Steve Cox was a huge reason for that. More than any other individual that community has ever seen. He was a passionate community organizer and activist. He knew everyone and everyone knew him and I think that's what made him such a great cop. At his memorial service his fellow officers said that sometimes he literally knew when and where crime was about to happen and he would step in and keep it from happening. He had the sixth sense about criminals. Maybe that came from all the 'Adam 12' and 'Dragnet' he watched as a kid, but for whatever the reason he made more arrest than anyone else. He worked harder than you can imagine and even the people he arrested after his death expressed respect and sympathy for him because he would go to the homes of people he arrested and follow up with them and make sure there were taking their medications, they were going to their AA meetings, that they were seeing their parole officers. He really cared about even the people he arrested. He was really living his childhood dream as the resolution said. He was a very successful deputy prosecutor. He could have made a lot of money doing that. He would have been a lot safer, but since he was a little kid he just wanted to be a cop. He wanted to come back to the community where he grew up and make it a better place and that's exactly what he did and I was just so moved after his memorial service to, on my way home, driving back to West Seattle, to see the streets literally lined for miles with ordinary citizens who had come out to pay tribute to Deputy Cox. I would like to give the body just a sense of that, the King County Sheriff's Office maintains a fallen officers page so people can post messages about those who've lost their lives in the line of duty. Madam President, with your permission I would like to read a few of the entries? Thank you.

From Mrs. Lawson's fourth grade Mount View Elementary class in White Center: 'We are so sad he is gone but we will use his life as an example of how one person can make a tremendous difference in the world.'

From a retired Sergeant from California: 'I'm confident that although no one can fill your void your brothers and sisters within the King County Sheriff's Office will do everything they can for your family.'

From a White Center resident: 'Steve gave us hope that White Center could brave the storm of our neighborhood problems. He inspired to reach out and get to know my neighbors.'

From another local resident: 'Office Cox was far more than just someone doing his job having growing up in White Center. He was deeply involved in efforts to improve our area. He was always there community meetings and events involving White Center.'

And from someone born and raised in White Center: 'What makes his death although more heartbreaking is that in all the years I lived there I cannot think of even one individual who stood out as an inspiration and a protector to White Center the way Officer Cox has.'

So in closing, I'd like to extend sympathy to Officer Cox's family, his mom and dad, brothers, his wife Maria, his son Bronson and daughter Nicole and to the King County Sheriff's Office and the families of all the others who lost their lives that awful night. And Madam President, with your permission I request a moment of silence to remember Deputy Cox."

MOMENT OF SILENCE

The Senate observed a moment of silence in memory of Officer Steve Cox, who passed away December 2, 2006.

REMARKS BY SENATOR DELVIN

Senator Delvin: "Thank you Madam President. It is an honor and a privilege to stand and honor a fallen brother, Deputy Steve Cox. Madam President, I only met him once. He served the Tri Cities as a Deputy Prosecutor back in the nineties and it was my honor to meet him at one time but he could do more but coming a Deputy and I count my blessings I was able to serve for 20-30 years and go home every night to my wife. Most times, we all do but sometimes some of us sacrifice our lives so our communities can be safe. All the Deputies that I've talked to just had the utmost respect for Deputy Cox and the law enforcement officers. They're the ones that work holidays while we're with our families. They're the ones that work night while we're sleeping and it's just, again it's, an honor and privilege to stand before you and offer my condolences to the families for the loss and thank you Madam President."

REMARKS BY SENATOR EIDE

FIFTY-SECOND DAY, FEBRUARY 28, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

Senator Eide: "Thank you Madam President, I, too, stand in respect of this resolution. It's interesting how our lives intertwine one another. My husband attended Willamette University Law School at the same time. Also, my husband knew Steve Cox very well. Knew him when he was a prosecuting attorney. Knew him when he became a police officer. He's one of the men that I can honestly say that my husband, his death just shook him to hear him that Steve had died doing the job that he truly, truly loved. That's the one saving grace that we have. That Steve did love his job and he was so very good at it, so very good. Please Maria, know that my husband and I send our love and our condolences to you and your family but please keep in mind of all the wonderful things that he has done for our community."

REMARKS BY SENATOR KEISER

Senator Keiser: "Thank you Madam President. It was just three months ago we suffered a loss, the North Highline community or White Center is a community that doesn't get much respect but Deputy Cox brought it a lot of respect and his commitment and his love for the people of that community, of our community, was unbounded. It was the kind of commitment that had no limit. He had a heart. He just had a heart as big as all outdoors, as big as Mount Rainier and the community loved him. They revered him and we miss him. I know the family misses him too. We all miss him, we all think of him."

Providing for economic development project permitting.

MOTION

Senator Kilmer moved that the following striking amendment by Senator Kilmer be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 88. (1) The legislature finds that permit programs have been legislatively established to protect the health, welfare, economy, and environment of Washington's citizens and to provide a fair, competitive opportunity for business innovation and consumer confidence. The legislature also finds that uncertainty in government processes to permit an activity by a citizen of Washington state is undesirable and erodes confidence in government. The legislature further finds that in the case of projects that would further economic development in the state, information about the permitting process is critical for an applicant's planning and financial assessment of the proposed project. The legislature also finds that applicants have a responsibility to provide complete and accurate information.

(2) The legislature recommends that applicants be provided with the following information when applying for a development permit from a city, county, or state agency:

(a) The minimum and maximum time an agency will need to make a decision on a permit, including public comment requirements;

(b) The minimum amount of information required for an agency to make a decision on a permit;

(c) When an agency considers an application complete for processing;

(d) The minimum and maximum costs in agency fees that will be incurred by the permit applicant; and

(e) The reasons for a denial of a permit in writing.

(3) In providing this information to applicants, an agency should base estimates on the best information available about the permitting program and prior applications for similar permits, as well as on the information provided by the applicant. New information provided by the applicant subsequent to the agency estimates may change the information provided by an agency per subsection (2) of this section. Project modifications by an applicant may result in more time, more information, or higher fees being required for permit processing.

(4) This section does not create an independent cause of action, affect any existing cause of action, or establish time limits for purposes of RCW 64.40.020.

(5) City, county, and state agencies issuing development permits are encouraged to track the progress in providing the information to applicants per subsection (2) of this section by preparing an annual report of its performance for the preceding fiscal year. The report should be posted on its web site made available and provided to the appropriate standing committees of the senate and house of representatives.

Sec. 89. RCW 43.155.070 and 2001 c 131 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) To qualify for loans or pledges under this chapter the board must determine that a local government meets all of the following conditions:

(a) The city or county must be imposing a tax under chapter 82.46 RCW at a rate of at least one-quarter of one percent;

(b) The local government must have developed a capital facility plan; and

(c) The local government must be using all local revenue sources which are reasonably available for funding public works, taking into consideration local employment and economic factors.

(2) Except where necessary to address a public health need or substantial environmental degradation, a county, city, or town planning under RCW 36.70A.040 must have adopted a comprehensive plan, including a capital facilities plan element, and development regulations as required by RCW 36.70A.040. This subsection does not require any county, city, or town planning under RCW 36.70A.040 to adopt a comprehensive plan or development regulations before requesting or receiving a loan or loan guarantee under this chapter if such request is made before the expiration of the time periods specified in RCW 36.70A.040. A county, city, or town planning under RCW 36.70A.040 which has not adopted a comprehensive plan and development regulations within the time periods specified in RCW 36.70A.040 is not prohibited from receiving a loan or loan guarantee under this chapter if the comprehensive plan and development regulations are adopted as required by RCW 36.70A.040 before submitting a request for a loan or loan guarantee.

(3) In considering awarding loans for public facilities to special districts requesting funding for a proposed facility located in a county, city, or town planning under RCW 36.70A.040, the board shall consider whether the county, city, or town planning under RCW 36.70A.040 in whose planning jurisdiction the proposed facility is located has adopted a comprehensive plan and development regulations as required by RCW 36.70A.040.

(4) The board shall develop a priority process for public works projects as provided in this section. The intent of the priority process is to maximize the value of public works projects accomplished with assistance under this chapter. The board shall attempt to assure a geographical balance in assigning priorities to projects. The board shall consider at least the following factors in assigning a priority to a project:

(a) Whether the local government receiving assistance has experienced severe fiscal distress resulting from natural disaster or emergency public works needs;

(b) Whether the project is critical in nature and would affect the health and safety of a great number of citizens;

(c) Whether the applicant has a good record of providing information to those applying for development permits consistent with section 1(2) of this act;

(d) The cost of the project compared to the size of the local government and amount of loan money available;

~~((d))~~ (e) The number of communities served by or funding the project;

FIFTY-THIRD DAY, MARCH 1, 2007

2007 REGULAR SESSION

~~((f))~~ ~~(f)~~ Whether the project is located in an area of high unemployment, compared to the average state unemployment;

~~((ff))~~ ~~(g)~~ Whether the project is the acquisition, expansion, improvement, or renovation by a local government of a public water system that is in violation of health and safety standards, including the cost of extending existing service to such a system;

~~((fg))~~ ~~(h)~~ The relative benefit of the project to the community, considering the present level of economic activity in the community and the existing local capacity to increase local economic activity in communities that have low economic growth; and

~~((fh))~~ ~~(i)~~ Other criteria that the board considers advisable.

(5) Existing debt or financial obligations of local governments shall not be refinanced under this chapter. Each local government applicant shall provide documentation of attempts to secure additional local or other sources of funding for each public works project for which financial assistance is sought under this chapter.

(6) Before November 1 of each year, the board shall develop and submit to the appropriate fiscal committees of the senate and house of representatives a description of the loans made under RCW 43.155.065, 43.155.068, and subsection (9) of this section during the preceding fiscal year and a prioritized list of projects which are recommended for funding by the legislature, including one copy to the staff of each of the committees. The list shall include, but not be limited to, a description of each project and recommended financing, the terms and conditions of the loan or financial guarantee, the local government jurisdiction and unemployment rate, demonstration of the jurisdiction's critical need for the project and documentation of local funds being used to finance the public works project. The list shall also include measures of fiscal capacity for each jurisdiction recommended for financial assistance, compared to authorized limits and state averages, including local government sales taxes; real estate excise taxes; property taxes; and charges for or taxes on sewerage, water, garbage, and other utilities.

(7) The board shall not sign contracts or otherwise financially obligate funds from the public works assistance account before the legislature has appropriated funds for a specific list of public works projects. The legislature may remove projects from the list recommended by the board. The legislature shall not change the order of the priorities recommended for funding by the board.

(8) Subsection (7) of this section does not apply to loans made under RCW 43.155.065, 43.155.068, and subsection (9) of this section.

(9) Loans made for the purpose of capital facilities plans shall be exempted from subsection (7) of this section.

(10) To qualify for loans or pledges for solid waste or recycling facilities under this chapter, a city or county must demonstrate that the solid waste or recycling facility is consistent with and necessary to implement the comprehensive solid waste management plan adopted by the city or county under chapter 70.95 RCW.

Sec. 90. RCW 43.160.060 and 2004 c 252 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

The board is authorized to make direct loans to political subdivisions of the state and to federally recognized Indian tribes for the purposes of assisting the political subdivisions and federally recognized Indian tribes in financing the cost of public facilities, including development of land and improvements for public facilities, project-specific environmental, capital facilities, land use, permitting, feasibility, and marketing studies and plans; project design, site planning, and analysis; project debt and revenue impact analysis; as well as the construction, rehabilitation, alteration, expansion, or improvement of the facilities. A grant may also be authorized for purposes designated in this chapter, but only when, and to the extent that, a loan is not reasonably possible, given the limited resources of the political subdivision or the federally recognized Indian tribe and the finding by the board that financial circumstances require grant assistance to enable the project to move forward. However, at least ten percent of all financial assistance provided by the board in any biennium shall consist of grants to political subdivisions and federally recognized Indian tribes.

Application for funds shall be made in the form and manner as the board may prescribe. In making grants or loans the board shall conform to the following requirements:

(1) The board shall not provide financial assistance:

(a) For a project the primary purpose of which is to facilitate or promote a retail shopping development or expansion.

(b) For any project that evidence exists would result in a development or expansion that would displace existing jobs in any other community in the state.

(c) For the acquisition of real property, including buildings and other fixtures which are a part of real property.

(d) For a project the primary purpose of which is to facilitate or promote gambling.

(2) The board shall only provide financial assistance:

(a) For those projects which would result in specific private developments or expansions (i) in manufacturing, production, food processing, assembly, warehousing, advanced technology, research and development, and industrial distribution; (ii) for processing recyclable materials or for facilities that support recycling, including processes not currently provided in the state, including but not limited to, de-inking facilities, mixed waste paper, plastics, yard waste, and problem-waste processing; (iii) for manufacturing facilities that rely significantly on recyclable materials, including but not limited to waste tires and mixed waste paper; (iv) which support the relocation of businesses from nondistressed urban areas to rural counties or rural natural resources impact areas; or (v) which substantially support the trading of goods or services outside of the state's borders.

(b) For projects which it finds will improve the opportunities for the successful maintenance, establishment, or expansion of industrial or commercial plants or will otherwise assist in the creation or retention of long-term economic opportunities.

(c) When the application includes convincing evidence that a specific private development or expansion is ready to occur and will occur only if the public facility improvement is made.

(3) The board shall prioritize each proposed project according to:

(a) The relative benefits provided to the community by the jobs the project would create, not just the total number of jobs it would create after the project is completed and according to the unemployment rate in the area in which the jobs would be located; ~~(and)~~

(b) The rate of return of the state's investment, that includes the expected increase in state and local tax revenues associated with the project; ~~and~~

(c) Whether the applicant has a good record of providing information to those applying for development permits consistent with section 1(2) of this act.

(4) A responsible official of the political subdivision or the federally recognized Indian tribe shall be present during board deliberations and provide information that the board requests.

Before any financial assistance application is approved, the political subdivision or the federally recognized Indian tribe seeking the assistance must demonstrate to the community economic revitalization board that no other timely source of funding is available to it at costs reasonably similar to financing available from the community economic revitalization board.

Sec. 91. RCW 39.102.040 and 2006 c 181 s 202 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Prior to applying to the board to use local infrastructure financing, a sponsoring local government shall:

(b) Certify that the conditions in RCW 39.102.070 are met;

(c) Complete the process in RCW 39.102.080;

(d) Provide public notice as required in RCW 39.102.100; and

(e) Pass an ordinance adopting the revenue development area as required in RCW 39.102.090.

(2) Any local government that has created an increment area under chapter 39.89 RCW that has not issued bonds to finance any public improvement shall be considered a revenue development area under this chapter without creating a new increment area under RCW 39.102.090 and 39.102.100 if it amends its ordinance to comply with RCW 39.102.090(1) and otherwise meets the conditions and limitations under this chapter.

(3) As a condition to imposing a sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.475, a sponsoring local government, including any cosponsoring local government seeking authority to impose a sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.475, must apply to the board and be approved for a project award amount. The application shall be in a form and manner prescribed by the board and include but not be limited to information establishing that the applicant is an eligible candidate to impose the local sales and use tax under RCW 82.14.475, the anticipated effective date for imposing the tax, the estimated number of years that the tax will be imposed, and the estimated amount of tax revenue to be received in each fiscal year that the tax will be imposed. The board shall make available forms to be used for this purpose. As part of the application, each applicant must provide to the board a copy of the ordinance or ordinances creating the revenue development area as required in RCW 39.102.090. A notice of approval to use local infrastructure financing shall contain a project award that represents the maximum amount of state contribution that the applicant, including any cosponsoring local governments, can earn each year that local infrastructure financing is used. The total of all project awards shall not exceed the annual state contribution limit. The determination of a project award shall be made based on information contained in the application and the remaining amount of annual state contribution limit to be awarded. Determination of a project award by the board is final.

(4) Sponsoring local governments, and any cosponsoring local governments, must submit completed applications to the board no later than July 1, 2007. By September 15, 2007, in consultation with the department of revenue and the department of community, trade, and economic development, the board shall approve qualified projects, up to the annual state contribution limit. Except as provided in RCW 39.102.050, approvals shall be based on the following criteria:

(a) The project potential to enhance the sponsoring local government's regional and/or international competitiveness;

(b) The project's ability to encourage mixed use development and the redevelopment of a geographic area;

(c) Whether the applicant has a good record of providing information to those applying for development permits consistent with section 1(2) of this act;

(d) Achieving an overall distribution of projects statewide that reflect geographic diversity;

~~((d))~~ (e) The estimated wages and benefits for the project is greater than the average labor market area;

~~((e))~~ (f) The estimated state and local net employment change over the life of the project;

~~((f))~~ (g) The estimated state and local net property tax change over the life of the project; and

~~((g))~~ (h) The estimated state and local sales and use tax increase over the life of the project.

(5) A revenue development area is considered created when the sponsoring local government, including any cosponsoring local government, has adopted an ordinance creating the revenue development area and the board has approved the sponsoring local government to use local infrastructure financing. If a sponsoring local government receives approval from the board after the fifteenth day of October to use local infrastructure financing, the revenue development area is considered created in the calendar year following the approval. Once the board has approved the sponsoring local government, and any cosponsoring local governments, to use local infrastructure financing, notification shall be sent to the sponsoring local government, and any cosponsoring local governments, authorizing the sponsoring local government, and any cosponsoring local governments, to impose the local sales and use tax authorized under RCW 82.14.475, subject to the conditions in RCW 82.14.475.

Sec. 92. RCW 43.160.230 and 2005 c 425 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The job development fund program is created to provide grants for public infrastructure projects that will stimulate job creation or assist in job retention. The program is to be administered by the board. The board shall establish a competitive process to request and prioritize proposals and make grant awards.

(2) For the purposes of chapter 425, Laws of 2005, "public infrastructure projects" has the same meaning as "public facilities" as defined in RCW 43.160.020(11).

(3) The board shall conduct a statewide request for project applications. The board shall apply the following criteria for evaluation and ranking of applications:

(a) The relative benefits provided to the community by the jobs the project would create, including, but not limited to: (i) The total number of jobs; (ii) the total number of full-time, family wage jobs; (iii) the unemployment rate in the area; and (iv) the increase in employment in comparison to total community population;

(b) The present level of economic activity in the community and the existing local financial capacity to increase economic activity in the community;

(c) Whether the applicant has a good record of providing information to those applying for development permits consistent with section 1(2) of this act;

~~((d))~~ (d) The rate of return of the state's investment, that includes the expected increase in state and local tax revenues associated with the project;

~~((d))~~ (e) The lack of another timely source of funding available to finance the project which would likely prevent the proposed community or economic development, absent the financing available under chapter 425, Laws of 2005;

~~((e))~~ (f) The ability of the project to improve the viability of existing business entities in the project area;

~~((f))~~ (g) Whether or not the project is a partnership of multiple jurisdictions;

~~((g))~~ (h) Demonstration that the requested assistance will directly stimulate community and economic development by facilitating the creation of new jobs or the retention of existing jobs; and

~~((h))~~ (i) The availability of existing assets that applicants may apply to projects.

(4) Job development fund program grants may only be awarded to those applicants that have entered into or expect to enter into a contract with a private developer relating to private investment that will result in the creation or retention of jobs upon completion of the project. Job development fund program grants shall not be provided for any project where:

(a) The funds will not be used within the jurisdiction or jurisdictions of the applicants; or

(b) Evidence exists that the project would result in a development or expansion that would displace existing jobs in any other community in the state.

(5) The board shall, with the joint legislative audit and review committee, develop performance criteria for each grant and evaluation criteria to be used to evaluate both how well successful applicants met the community and economic development objectives stated in their applications, and how well the job development fund program performed in creating and retaining jobs.

FIFTY-THIRD DAY, MARCH 1, 2007

only seventy-four percent of the class of 2005 graduated on time. Students of color, students living in poverty, students in foster care, students in the juvenile justice system, students who are homeless, students for whom English is not their primary language, and students with disabilities have lower graduation rates than the average. The legislature further finds that students who drop out experience more frequent occurrences of early pregnancy, delinquency, substance abuse, and mental health issues, and have greater need of publicly funded health and social services. The legislature further finds that helping all students be successful in school requires active participation in coordinating services from schools, parents, and other stakeholders and agencies in the local community. The legislature finds that existing resources to vulnerable youth are used more efficiently and effectively when there is significant coordination across local and state entities. The legislature further finds that efficiency and accountability of the K-12 system would be improved by creating a dropout prevention and intervention grant program that implements research-based and emerging best practices and evaluates results.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. Subject to the availability of funds appropriated for this purpose, the office of the superintendent of public instruction shall create a grant program to local partnerships of schools, families, and communities to begin the phase in of a statewide comprehensive dropout prevention, intervention, and retrieval system. This program shall be known as the building bridges program. For purposes of sections 2 through 7 of this act, a "building bridges program" means a local partnership of schools, families, and communities that provides all of the following programs or activities:

(1) A system that identifies individual students at risk of dropping out from middle through high school based on local predictive data, including state assessment data starting in the fourth grade, and provides timely interventions for such students and for dropouts, including a plan for educational success as already required by the student learning plan as defined under RCW 28A.655.061. Students identified shall include students in special education, foster care youth, and youth involved in the juvenile justice system;

(2) Coaches or mentors for students as necessary;

(3) Staff responsible for coordination of community partners that provide a seamless continuum of academic and nonacademic support in schools and communities;

(4) Retrieval or reentry activities; and

(5) Alternative educational programming, including, but not limited to, career and technical education preparatory programs and online learning opportunities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The office of the superintendent of public instruction shall:

(1) Identify criteria for grants and evaluate proposals for funding in consultation with the workforce training and education coordinating board;

(2) Develop and monitor requirements for grant recipients to:

(a) Identify eligible students, including students who both fail the Washington assessment of student learning and drop out of school;

(b) Identify their own strengths and gaps in services provided to youth;

(c) Set their own local goals for program outcomes;

(d) Use research-based and emerging best practices that lead to positive outcomes in implementing the building bridges program; and

(e) Coordinate an outreach campaign to bring public and private organizations together and to provide information about the building bridges program to the local community;

(3) In setting the requirements under subsection (2) of this section, encourage creativity and provide for flexibility in implementing the local building bridges program;

(4) Identify and disseminate successful practices;

(5) Develop requirements for grant recipients to collect and report data, including, but not limited to:

(a) The number of and demographics of students served including, but not limited to, information regarding a student's race and ethnicity, a student's household income, a student's housing status, whether a student is a foster or youth involved in the juvenile justice system, whether a student is disabled, and the primary language spoken at a student's home;

(b) Washington assessment of student learning scores;

(c) Dropout rates;

(d) On-time graduation rates;

(e) Extended graduation rates;

(f) Credentials obtained;

(g) Absenteeism rates;

(h) Truancy rates; and

(i) Credit retrieval;

(6) Contract with a third party to evaluate the infrastructure and implementation of the partnership including the leveraging of outside resources that relate to the goal of the partnership; and

(7) Report to the legislature by December 1, 2008.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. In awarding the grants under section 3 of this act, the office of the superintendent of public instruction shall prioritize schools or districts with dropout rates and truancy rates above the statewide average and shall attempt to award building bridges program grants to different geographic regions of the state. Eligible recipients shall be one of the following entities acting as a lead agency for the local partnership: A school district, a tribal school, an area workforce development council, an educational service district, an accredited institution of higher education, a vocational skills center, a federally recognized tribe, a community organization, or a nonprofit 501(c)(3) corporation. If the recipient is not a school district, at least one school district must be identified within the partnership.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. To be eligible for a grant under section 3 of this act, grant applicants shall:

(1) Build or demonstrate a commitment to building a broad-based partnership of schools, families, and community members to provide an effective and efficient building bridges program. The partnership shall consider an effective model for school-community partnerships and include local membership from, but not limited to, school districts, tribal schools, secondary career and technical education programs, skill centers that serve the local community, an educational service district, the area workforce development council, accredited institutions of higher education, tribes or other cultural organizations, the parent teacher association, the juvenile court, prosecutors and defenders, the local health department, health care agencies, public transportation agencies, local division representatives of the department of social and health services, businesses, city or county government agencies, civic organizations, and appropriate youth-serving community-based organizations. Interested parents and students shall be actively included whenever possible;

(2) Demonstrate how the grant will enhance any dropout prevention and intervention programs and services already in place in the district;

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. Educational service districts, in collaboration with area workforce development councils, shall:

(1) Provide training to local partnerships established under a grant awarded under section 3 of this act on subjects such as cultural competency, identifying diverse learning styles, and collecting and using performance data;

(2) Assist school districts and their partners in identifying effective intervention strategies for students at risk for dropping out; and

(3) Provide training to assist in the design of functional sustainability plans including the identification of potential funding sources for future operation.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. (1) The office of the superintendent of public instruction shall establish a state-level work group that includes K-12 and state agencies that work with youth who have dropped out or are at risk of dropping out of Senator Weinstein: "Thank you Mr. President. Mr. President, I think its all together fitting and proper that flush with success from his most recent election campaign and victory, Senator Oemig has introduced a bill regarding solid waste and toilets because, I tell you what, after the press he's received after his most recent escapade yesterday trying to impeach the President, that's exactly where his career's going. Right down the toilet."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pridemore: "I am going to have a difficult time topping the spontaneous wit of Senator Weinstein. I guess I want to say a few things about Senator Oemig. You know he's an intelligent person. He's learned a lot. He learned about computers at the University of Wisconsin. He learned about business at Microsoft. He learned about performance measurements from his wife. We, a few weeks ago, we had the Dairy Court here and the princess were asked 'Which Senator do they consider most attractive?' They said, 'It was Senator Oemig,' and that offended Senator Hobbs because he thought he was the cutest and that kind of offended Senator Hatfield because he thought he was the cutest and that offended Senator Poulsen which made the rest of us laugh. Senator Oemig is the former host of a public access show that analyzed politics and that's further proof that you really can learn more about watching FOX than public access. I want to point out to everybody, I want to be extremely clear that this is the guy who sits to my left, ok. Finally, I don't want to make too many more jokes less he tries to impeach me."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Oemig: "Thank you Mr. President. Oh, I want to thank those of you who reconsidered your position on this last bill. I know that a lot of times when more information is learned, positions can change and there was a lot of political heat on that last bill and it was very contiguous but I'm glad that you all came along and supported me strongly. It meant a lot to me and to show my appreciation I have brought some gifts. I brought three things that I think that represent the character and flavor of the people who elected me to represent them. First, I bring some organic apple preserves from a farm in the district, Remington Farms because in a community we want sustainable healthy farms to enrich the community and keep our nutrition healthy. I also bring something, a Kirkland brand, which is Costco, started in my home city, Kirkland and I think that represents what happens a company can deliver great share holder value while paying a family wage with excellent benefits delivering value to the community and still running a great business. Finally, a symbolic token of the company that I use to work for, Microsoft who opened their most recent campus in my district who one mayor came to me and said, 'We have just fifty percent of our households are employed by someone working at Microsoft.' I think Microsoft represents we need to invest in education that when we create high powered jobs, when we make these investments in education we have dividend payments that bring value throughout the community and that's what our economic plan should look like. So, I hope you enjoy the gifts, the tokens and the representation of the rural and suburban character of my district.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Pridemore: “Well, Mr. President, left the important duties of the Senate be eclipsed by recognition of Senator Oemig’s first speech, we would be remiss not to point out that Senator Holmquist, Senator Murray and Senator Tom have also spoken this week for the first time and I thought it would be appropriate, since all three of these members had come over from the House of Representatives if somebody would point out some things, some differences between the House and the Senate so that they would know how to properly behave. First off, the House likes to start meetings early in the morning, caucus extremely often and work late into the night. The Senate doesn’t drink as much as the House. In the House, no member has any experience. A Senator, in the Senate, no member will admit to have an experience of being a Representative. In the House there’s a speaker. In the Senate, particularly on some bills, there are way too many speakers. In the House, the most common thing said on the floor is, ‘Hey, don’t forget to vote for me, I got to take a leak.’ In the Senate, the most common thing heard on the floor is ‘hey, tell Hargrove to wake up Kline.’ In the House, the guy with the gavel can totally ignore you, can choose to hear more nays than ayes just because he wants too and can generally mess up the smallest bill you have just because he doesn’t like you. In the Senate, the guy with the gavel is the best-looking, the most intelligent, the fairest-minded and the most dedicated guy in the room. I hope that compliment didn’t go over his head. The House has a new Chair of the Transportation Committee. The Senate has a new Vice Chair of Transportation and new senators get the smallest offices, get over it. Thank you Mr. President.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Clements: “Having the honor of being the oldest freshman with the youngest freshman and having the honor of being in so many committees with her and sitting on committees. I am a high-maintenance Senator and she is a detailed Senator so you sit in committee with her you get things, ‘did you see this Senator Clements’. ‘Have you read this? Have you looked at this’. ‘I said ‘Well no I haven’t’ and ‘I can’t vote for your bill because on this line and that line this is wrong.’ I said ‘Oh, that’s nice, you’re going to kill’ ya, I’m going to kill it. The most amazing thing that happened that I think I need to share with this body is the endeavor she and I had in the Freshman Follies and she was slightly concerned about what her role might be. I told her without smiling or very serious, I said ‘Well, leadership’s asked me to decide and I thought maybe Goldie Locks and the Bear would be appropriate and she didn’t like that idea. I know she had been a Madonna in a school play or something like that and I thought that was old hat but I did love Marilyn Monroe. So, she got real nervous about all of this so at the end of the day, I thought, ‘Boy this is going to be great’ but she was Batman and I was Robin and her lines were rather putting, I got the worst of it, I think, and with that though I can tell you it’s a great pleasure to be in the smallest room next to hers and she is a great partner in battle and endeavors that we do as two Senators with adjoining districts and I want you to know, and I told her when I go to my grave be sure to be there and read a few lines from our freshman follies. Thank you.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Shin: “Thank you again, I’m not a comedian, I usually, when I speak people cry but I want to thank you for allowing me to go to my birth place, Korea. Senator George Allen from Virginia accompanied me. Went to talk about important topic that is, in light of North Korea, is some concession to do away with nuclear research. We want to testify to them that they make sure that they do that because it’s been a long time since 1974 and we haven’t received a commitment agreement from them but until that is realized, I can not believe, and for the sake of world peace and for the sake of United States and relations in Asia, that North Korea will come along with a nuclear weapons so that the peace will avail and I thank you my leadership allow me to go to Korea. In my absence a lot of things happened. I send my apology for missing the votes but I be looking forward to working with you. Thank you.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Schoesler: “Due to the close time to lunch hour I will keep the remarks brief. I’ve learned a lot this morning about the gentleman from the Forty-Fifth District. I now know what insomniacs do in the Forty-Fifth District. I’ve also got a story or two about the members that I knew as House members and I served with the gentleman from the Forty-Third District on the Capital Budget Committee. We came to a real good understanding. He wouldn’t endorse me. I wouldn’t endorse him. I also served with the good lady from the Thirteenth District and a lot of you’ve heard about her bio from people here but she has another passion in Transportation that most of you don’t know about. She is an official crash tester for cable barriers in the state of Washington. Thank you.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hatfield: “Thank you Mr. President. Also rising to welcome the new members who I also served with in the House. What took you so long getting here? A few observations to Senator Holmquist, many of you noticed that she introduced a bill that would limit legislators to introducing only fifteen measures per session. It was her sixteenth measure. To Senator Tom, I knew it was a new day in the Senate-as part of the poor caucus, we’re a little envious-but I knew it was a new day when I sat at the Governor’s welcoming dinner with the freshman Senators at the same table with Senator Tom and Senator Oemig. Senator Oemig leaned over, Senator Oemig’s wife leaned over to Senator Tom’s wife and asked, ‘Where does Rodney have his shirts made?’ I found this shirt actually. It was in Poulsen’s closet and to the good Senator from Speaker Chopp’s district, we welcome you to the Senate. I didn’t realize office space was a problem but your certainly welcome to use my office any time and your little dog too.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Poulsen: “Thank you Mr. President. I too would like to welcome the new Senator from Speaker Frank Chopp’s district. I’ve worked with Speaker Chopp’s seat mate now for about twelve years so I know him very well but it was the first time that I’ve met his Irish Cavalier King Charles Spaniel, Flannigan. Now, I presume that Flannigan was named after a fellow legislator of Speaker Frank Chopp’s and I just wanted to tell the body that I am really proud of this historic moment in Senate history because Flannigan is the first openly gaelic dog to reside in a Senator’s office. Senator Murray, I just have one favor. You're on our team now. You're one of us. You're a Senator. You're democrat. So when you take Flannigan out to do his business would you please stroll him over to the Newhouse Building to the lawn and do his business there. Thank you."

FIFTY-FOURTH DAY, MARCH 2, 2007

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Brown: "I want to welcome our new Senators as well. Just a brief comment, I've had the opportunity, many of you know, that some of us once a week will go out and dance a little and blow off a little steam. It's a bipartisan endeavor and I've had the opportunity to do that with a couple of our new Senators. Senator Holmquist and Senator Murray and dancing to some great numbers by Village People and Gloria Gaynor and Abba and I just want to say if anybody has any doubt about it, it would either be Senator Holmquist or possibly me, certainly not Senator Murray who would get the title 'Dancing Queen.'"

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "Lest the Senate think the President has a short memory he would like to invite Senator Pridemore to his office for a short meeting. If Senator Pridemore thinks he could stagger down there."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Murray: "Well, you know to quote Bill Clinton, 'I love you people' I think. As you know, I represent an area of diverse district so a gift I couldn't really figure out what would be appropriate. In Fremont, there's a statue of Lenin that I know Senator Schoesler had some interest in so I decided maybe some of you wouldn't appreciate a little Lenin pen so I didn't do that. There is throughout the district, particularly downtown, a lot of body piercing places and I thought about maybe a little body piercing kit but maybe that wouldn't be appropriate. Maybe some leather from Capital Hill, decided that wouldn't be appropriate. But despite the stereotype of my district, there is a Hooters and I thought maybe a tee shirt from Hooters but I decided against that too. So, let me tell you what's in this little bag, what's in the little bag. First of all, there's Kels an Irish Pub in my district and the people who opened up Kels came from Belfast and that is where my family came from. There is some Irish soda bread mix. If you don't use it, send it down to the kitchen and maybe they can make it the week of St. Patrick's Day. Starbucks started in my district so there is some Starbucks coffee. Seattle has a new slogan called, 'Seattle Metro Natural' so you all have that. The best chocolate in the state is made in Capital Hill on Broadway and that's Dilettantes so there's some Dilettantes chocolate. Pikes Place Market is in the district so there's a centennial cup from Pikes Place Market. Finally, UW is in the district and Seattle U is in the district and so there's gifts from both of those great institutions of higher education. Thank you for the privilege of being able to serve with you all and my staff person is so happy that he got something he didn't get in the House, his own office. It just happens to be about the same size as mine."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Holmquist: "Well, I would first off like to thank you for the kind and interesting comments. I humble myself before you as a lowly freshman with my freshman offering to my senior colleagues and that's in both sense of the words since I'm the youngest. I'm but, from my district, the first gift is a can of smoked rainbow trout and this is from Trout Lodge Incorporated. Trout Lodge is actually the world's largest producer and supplier of live fish eggs in the world and we have it right here in Washington State. Their live embryos supply fish farms in forty-two foreign countries and twenty-five states of the Union. I'm lucky enough to have three of their hatcheries in my district. They employ at least fifty families in the rural counties and they also contract with the Department Fish and Wildlife to put in some very good size rainbow trout for fishing enthusiasts to catch and eat. I do want to mention that it's a family-owned business. It's founded by Edward and Lois McCleary and they started it at 1945 in the head waters of the Rocky Ford Creek and this year, and I think Ed may be joining us via TVW right now, but this year in September he will be ninety years young. I'd like to thank personally Ed and Lois for all their support and these wonderful gifts for my colleagues and I. The second gift is a bottle of wine from my district. This is Jones of Washington. We'll mention just quickly that I went to school with the Jones kids so I have a good tie to the Jones family but they're involved in the production of Washington State fruit and vegetables as well as wine grapes now. They started out as a potato farmer and he decided to create a diverse operation and he now grows apple varieties, cherries, pears, onions and currently has six-hundred and eighty acres of grapes in the state of Washington. I will just close with, you will notice that the date on my items, this is a 2004, but I want you to be assured that this adds value to my gifts unlike for example an Aqua Fest 2005 tee shirt. Thank you so much. It is such an honor to serve with you all and I look forward to the remaining of this session. Thank you Mr. President."

2007 REGULAR SESSION

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Tom: "Well, some of the comments were very interesting and I will get that name of that tailor Senator Hatfield. My good friend to the left, since he writes the budget, all I have to say about him is that he is a gentleman, a scholar and I hear he is a real lady killer. On some of these gifts it seems like people really stress out on some of these gifts and being in my district is the home of Microsoft, one of the world's richest corporations, I thought that it was only fitting that I bring a gift from Microsoft. Now, I don't want you to get too excited that your getting like Vista or anything because that probably wouldn't fit in. I was thinking I'd do the, the Senator Hobbs deal and get you something you know a couple of years old and I was thinking maybe Windows 95. On Windows 95, I was worried that too many of my colleagues east of the mountains would think that that was an update. But, so what I did is I went to the world's richest corporation and basically said, 'I want you to share my personal philosophy just because you have a lot of money you can still be frugal.' So basically what you're going to be getting from one of the world's richest corporations is basically whatever they have left over. So, that's what you're going to be having here today. Just wanted to say thanks for everybody for all the incredible welcome I've had here in the Senate. I have had probably a little more changes than most new members coming over from the other side in several different ways I guess you could say and look forward to working with all of you. Thank you."
