FIRST DAY

NOON SESSION

Senate Chamber, Olympia
Monday, January 8, 2018

Pursuant to state law, the Senate of the 2018 Regular Session of the Sixty-Fifth Legislature of the State of Washington assembled in the Senate Chamber at the State Capitol. At 12:14 p.m., the Senate was called to order by the President of Senate, Lieutenant Governor Habib presiding.

The acting Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all senators were present.

The Washington State Patrol Honor Guard consisting of Sergeant Jason Greer, Sergeant Greg Tri, Trooper Brandon Tobol, Trooper Heather Axtman and Trooper Shaneka Phillips presented the Colors.

Mr. Kavi Singh and Miss Isha Singh, the son and daughter of Senator Manka Dhingra, led the Senate in the Pledge of Allegiance.

The National Anthem was interpreted into Americal Sign Language (ASL) by Miss Jacie Fabela, Miss Mercy Owen, Miss Gracie Meivis, and Miss Joy Brown from River Ridge High School, American Sign Language Program at River Ridge High School, Lacey. They were accompanied vocalists Miss Anita Cook, Miss Ashley Duncan, Miss Tabitha Corrigan and Miss Maylilian Mikaela from Timberline High School in Lacey. They were led by Ms. Catherine Boos, guests of Senator Hunt.

MOMENT OF SILENCE

At the request of the President, the Senate rose and observed a moment of silence in memory of Pierce County Sheriff's Deputy Daniel A. McCartney, who died in the line of duty during the early morning hours of Monday, January 8, 2018.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Deputy Daniel McCartney was shot just after 11:30 p.m. while responding to a 911 call reporting a home intruder in Frederickson. On Wednesday, January 17, 2018, following a procession from Joint Base Lewis-McChord, a memorial service was held at Olson Auditorium, Pacific Lutheran University in Parkland. At the direction of Governor Inslee, the flags of Washington State and the United States were lowered to half-staff Wednesday, January 17, 2018 in his honor and in recognition of his and his family's sacrifice.

The prayer was offered by Mr. Jeremiah George, Ms. Morningstar Green, and Mr. Austin Penn of the Squaxin Island Tribe, guests of Senator McCoy.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "Before we move to the swearing in of the newly elected and appointed Senators, the President would like to just take a moment to share two thoughts: First of all, the President on behalf of the state Senate would like to extend a very warm word of welcome to all those who are guests in our chambers today. Particularly those who are loved ones, family and friends of our new state Senators. But truly for whatever reason you have made your way here, and whether this is your first time joining us for this opening day ceremony or whether you are old hat, we love having you here. We hope you know how welcome you are to our galleries, to our state capitol to observe your state government in action, to meet with your legislators, and to be apart of this work which we are so privileged to do on the public's behalf.

I would also like to welcome back all of my colleagues in state government who are here to serve once more. You know a year ago I was quite a good deal more nervous than I am this week. I want to say at that time there was a change in this chamber, but the change was on this side of the rostrum and many of you may not have known after twenty years of Lieutenant Governor Owen's service what to expect when an institution known for consistency experienced a change. I want to thank each and every one of you who was here last session for your patience and tolerance of me for all the many ways in which you taught me, and will continue to teach me to do my job on your behalf. It is such a tremendous privilege and honor for me to work with you to lead this state Senate. And this year there is also a change in this chamber, but it is not on this side of the rostrum, it is on the other side of the rostrum and as with my change and perhaps even more so it is understandable that some people may not know what to expect or how things may change as we have a shift in the majority party. But while I certainly don't know what the policy outcomes of these next sixty days will be any better than anyone else here, what I do know is that through the relationships I've had the privilege of building with Senators returning here and those which I hope to build with our two new members, I know that what will not change in this coming session and in the years to come is the respect and dignity with which Senators treat there time here on behalf of your constituents. That Democrat, Republican, or Questioning, each of us who serves in state government does truly honor this opportunity and this tremendous responsibility. And so I want to ask that each of you who have taught me this lesson yourselves maintain and preserve that spirit of dignity so that we can continue to have the fantastic and vigorous but respectful debates on this Senate floor that I think have made this entire state capital so proud.

So, on behalf of my own staff, my office and myself, I want to welcome each of you back and congratulate you on what I know will be a fruitful session to come."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Liias, the Senate advanced to the third order of business.

REMARKS BY SENATOR PEDERSEN

Senator Pedersen: “Thank you Mr. President, I would like to nominate Senator Karen Keiser. Thank you very much Mr. President. I am greatly honored to nominate Senator Keiser for this position in our state Senate. Senator Keiser has been here serving for quite a long time and during a storied career in the Senate has led an effort to expand access to health care to all sorts of people in our state, leading us to have one of the lowest uninsured rates in the country. And probably most noticeably from the last session, completed an effort of more than ten years, to have paid family and medical leave come to our state. Working effectively with folks from the other side of the aisle, particularly the gentleman from the 47th on that important project that will benefit people around our state. Senator Keiser has the perspective and temperament, I believe, to do an excellent job of leading the chamber on those times when you will be absent and unable to serve. I am greatly honored that the senior member of our caucus will do such a great job representing us up on the rostrum. So I am happy to nominate Senator Keiser.”

REMARKS BY SENATOR FAIN

Senator Fain: “Thank you Mr. President, I wish to second the nomination of Senator Keiser to the position. Thank you Mr. President. It is a great honor to stand and put this name forward. I have worked very closely with Senator Keiser since I came to this chamber, everything from my first year working on floods and impacts they have in the Kent and Auburn Valleys to last years monumental change to our family leave laws here in Washington which were absolutely an equal and bipartisan effort which were started long ago by Senator Keiser in this chamber. My friendship with Senator Keiser goes long before even the time that I was elected here to this chamber. In fact, I believe that at one point in my life I actually was represented by Senator Keiser in the Legislature when I was living in the Normandy Park/Des Moines area. But unlike at that time, I will be very happy to vote for her today.”

MOTION

On motion of Senator Liias, nominations for the office of President Pro Tempore of the Senate were closed.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the election for the office of President Pro Tempore.

REMARKS BY SENATOR MCCOY

Senator McCoy: “Thank you Mr. President, I stand and rise to nominate the Senator from the 29th Legislative District, Senator Steve Conway. Thank you Mr. President. I have served with Senator Conway over in the other chamber and now this chamber. Although he has been in both chambers a lot longer than I have, I am starting my sixteenth year and it has been a pleasure to serve with him all of those years. So, I could talk for hours about it but I think I will cut it short and present Senator Conway.”

REMARKS BY SENATOR ZEIGER

Senator Zeiger: “Thank you Mr. President, I second the nomination of Senator Steve Conway for Vice President Pro Tempore. Thank you Mr. President. It has been a real pleasure for me to serve with Senator Conway. As senators from neighboring districts, we are part of the powerful Pierce County delegation.”

President Habib: “We don’t call that a ‘mafia’ anymore Senator Zeiger?”

EDITOR’S NOTE: For much of the time from the early 1980s through the mid-1990s, the speaker of the House, the Senate majority leader, the chairs of the legislative fiscal committees, as well as some notably effective legislators, and the governor were Pierce County residents. The legislative delegation representing the County became known colloquially as the “Pierce County mafia,” for their ability to unify across political parties and chambers to pass an inordinate amount of legislation benefitting the City of Tacoma and Pierce County.

Senator Zeiger: “We do call it the mafia. Senator Conway’s record of service in this body and to his community is impressive and he has made a real difference here in the legislature over a number of years in a range of issues: health care; pensions; economic development; the capital budget. We could go on and on in the issues in which he has made a difference. He has worked in academia professionally as well as in the labor movement. He is a historian who brings perspective to our deliberations here. So it is my pleasure to second this nomination for Senator Conway.”

Senator Schoesler: “Thank you Mr. President. I move to second the nomination of Brad Hendrickson. Thank you Mr. President. Members of the Senate, this job of administering all of the business affairs of this chamber requires a lot of abilities. And I think the most important trait we have is, as the previous speaker mentioned, is experience. Experience in running the affairs of an unique institution and our candidate is very well prepared. Thank you.”

FIRST DAY, JANUARY 8, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Baumgartner: "Thank you Mr. President. I am trying to understand these rules and would ask if Senator Liias would yield to a question?"

President Habib: "Senator Liias?"

Senator Liias: "Sure."

President Habib: "Senator Baumgartner."

Senator Baumgartner: "Thank you Mr. President. With the purposed time limit on the budget (Rule 53), how would it work if there was an amendment to an amendment? What would be the timing on that?"

Senator Liias: "Thank you for that question, Senator Baumgartner. Amendments to amendments wouldn't have to comply with the eighteen hour rule but we know that the scope and object of those amendments would have to be narrowly tailored to the underlying amendment being changed."

Senator Baumgartner: "Mr. President?"

President Habib: "Senator Baumgartner."

Senator Baumgartner: "But if the amendment has to be in eighteen hours, how would you even know to draft an amendment to the amendment and still be within the time period? The challenge of the time limit, I think, is if something is up to the eighteen hour time limit, it essentially eliminates the possibility of an amendment to an amendment."

President Habib: "Senator Liias, would you like to ..."

Senator Liias: "Yeah. Happily, thank you, Mr. President. Thank you Senator Baumgartner. I think that part of the reason why we have that six-hour window is if there are technical corrections that need to be made to the amendments that have been adopted, those could still be considered, so there is that view. But in terms of new substantive amendments, they would have to comply with that eighteen hour deadline."

Senator Baumgartner: "So, what I am hearing is that there are no amendments to the amendment when it comes to the budget under these proposed rules?"

Senator Liias: "That is not what I am saying and I would be happy to chat with you more offline about the details."

President Habib: "Alright, we're done with the colloquy. Senator Erickson."

Senators Ericksen and Padden, spoke against adoption of the resolution.

Senator Nelson spoke in favor of adoption of the resolution.

Senators Hobbs and Hasegawa spoke on the adoption of the resolution.

Dr. Singh: “(Dr. Singh opened the prayer with a few brief statements in Punjabi not translated here.) Let us join in prayer and reflection. As we come together today, let us keep in our hearts and prayers Deputy McCartney, his family, his colleagues in the Pierce County Sheriff’s Department and all those who serve our communities with honor, strength, and sacrifice. Oh Gracious God, All-creating Light that is common to all humanity, we turn to You at this point in history and ask for Your blessing, guidance and strength for this state of Washington, its residents, Governor Inslee, and all those who are present in mind, in person, or in spirit. Please allow us to serve with truth, justice, humility, and compassion. Bless us with the wisdom and strength to address the challenges that we face today with integrity and honesty and work for Chardi Kala, the good for all people. Let us create a world based not on fear where the color of our skin, the faith that we believe in, the language that we speak, does not divide us. Instead, please help us celebrate and recognize the diversity that exists all around us. (Dr. Singh offered a brief statement in Punjabi.) We are all created from the same Light. Let us be united in purpose and give us the understanding that welfare of all humankind is a priority for those who lead us. I share a small prayer from the Sikh holy scriptures: (Dr. Singh offered a brief chant in Punjabi.) By respecting nature we respect our Creator and we respect ourselves. The air is our teacher, water is our father, and the vast Earth is our mother. (Dr. Singh offered a brief chant in Punjabi.) Grant us the wisdom to do good in this world and take care of this Earth. We shall all be judged by what we do in our lives. (Dr. Singh offered a brief chant in Punjabi.) Let us remember the divine in our hearts as we work hard and honestly to fulfill our life’s potential. Guru Nanak says, ‘Only such people who act for the good of all creatures, liberate not just themselves but countless others.’ Let us pray so that God may grant us the strength to create a caring, more just, compassionate, loving world for all creatures. Thank you. (Dr. Singh closed with brief statements in Punjabi.)"

STATE OF THE STATE

Governor Inslee: "Thank you. Thank you. Good afternoon. Thank you, Jasmit, for those timely and empowering words. Thanks to the Wenatchee High School Vocal Jazz Ensemble for that inspiring rendition of our national anthem.

Thank you Lieutenant Governor for honoring Deputy McCartney. All of our hearts are with his family and I appreciate you honor him.

A big thank you to my wife, Trudi, my entire family, and in particular, to my mother-in-law, the original Trudy Tindall, who tells me that her first one hundred years in Washington have been pretty great. So thanks Trudy very much. I appreciate that.

I'd like to welcome our new legislators in our ranks, Senator Manka Dhingra, Senator Keith Wagoner, and Representative Carolyn Eslick. May you all do good work here."

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Madam Chief Justice, distinguished justices of the court, members of the Legislature, tribal leaders, state and local government officials, members of the Consular Corps, and most importantly, my fellow Washingtonians:

I am honored to stand before you once again to report on the state of Washington.

Because of the work we have done together in the past five years, our state has made crucial investments in our schools and colleges, in our highways and transit systems, in our health care system.

The minimum wage was raised for Washington's workers, and last year, we passed the best paid family leave program in the United States.

We have invested in our people. That's why our state has one of the country's fastest-growing economies, why it was named the Top State in the United States for doing business, and why statewide unemployment is at a historic low.

Our economy is strong. Our future is bright. But there are always new heights to reach, new challenges to overcome, and persistent wrongs to right.

When our state's first governor, Elisha Ferry, delivered his message to our inaugural Legislator, he challenged legislators to think big.

'It is your province,' he said, 'to make precedents, not to follow them; to mark the way, that others may walk in the path which you have made.'

We have been walking in the path that Governor Ferry and the first Legislature set this state for 128 years. Today, it is up to us to continue that work for future generations.

This year we cannot focus just on the length of this session, which is short. We have to focus on our legacy, which can be long. Several opportunities are in front of us to forge a prosperous path for the next generation.

Access to democracy is a cornerstone to the enduring health of our nation and our state, so let's leave a legacy of a stronger democracy by increasing voter participation and equitable representation. It is time to pass the Washington Voting Rights Act, automatic voter registration, and Election Day registration.

And speaking of a stronger democracy, let's leave a legacy that supports our modern democracy — and our modern economy — by ensuring equal access to the internet for all Washingtonians. When Washington, D.C., takes away that protection, we must protect net neutrality for our people, for our businesses, and for the virtues of free speech.

At a time ... At a time when women's health care rights are under attack throughout our nation, let's leave a legacy that ensures full access to contraception and allows women to chart their own course. That includes access to long-acting reversible contraception and reproductive parity.

And not all of our work is in passing bills.

Right now, let's all — elected leaders and employers alike — commit to inclusive workplaces where everyone is safe from sexual harassment and assault. This is one of the persistent wrongs that our society must make right.

This session ... This session, let's also continue our outstanding legacy on education.

Legislators can take pride that you've passed a plan that will fully comply with the McCleary decision.

I want to commend Senators John Braun and Christine Rolfes, Representatives Pat Sullivan, Timm Ormsby, and David Taylor, and so many others who've helped achieve what is a bipartisan success.

But the Supreme Court has made it clear that the plan needs to start one year earlier, and fortunately, we have the reserves to be able to do that.

It is crucial that we implement the McCleary plan now, because a child is only a third grader once and they don't get that year back.

But our work on education does not stop at McCleary.

We have got to stop telling our children that a four-year degree is the only path to success. That simply is not true.

Let's leave a legacy of opportunity for all our students by expanding career-connected learning.

My budget includes funding to help us continue our Career Connect Washington initiative, which has the potential to be one of the most exciting and meaningful things we can do for our students.

During a study mission to Switzerland last year, our Washington delegation saw a truly remarkable apprenticeship system stemming from a robust partnership with business, labor, and academia. There is no reason our own students cannot have better access to those same opportunities here at home.

Please let me recognize the chairs of that delegation who are in the gallery today: former U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland and Liechtenstein Suzi LeVine and her husband, Eric LeVine.

Thanks for your visionary leadership. We appreciate that. Thank you.

You can go to Tacoma and see for yourself how this works. It was a joy last year when I got to celebrate our state's first 15 registered youth apprentices as they prepared to launch rewarding careers in aerospace. Let's expand that opportunity, as well as apprenticeship programs for our veterans and other Washingtonians, in the coming years.

This session ... This session, let's leave a legacy of compassion by continuing our work on behavioral health care. This is a persistent challenge that intersects our efforts to end homelessness, to improve our criminal justice system, and to combat an opioid epidemic that kills an average of two Washingtonians each day.

We must build upon our current work on opioids. We need to pursue innovative approaches to affordable housing, and strengthen our partnerships with counties to help us foster healthy communities in a more robust, accessible mental health care system.

Let's continue our bipartisan legacy of helping Dreamers fulfill their potential in the state of Washington. This is a time ... This is a time ... This is a time of great uncertainty and fear for our Dreamers and their families. Let's pass legislation now to ensure the availability of College Bound scholarships for Dreamers, even if the federal government fails to renew their deferred-action status.

SECOND DAY, JANUARY 9, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

Let's leave ... Let's leave a legacy. Let's leave a legacy of common-sense measures to help end the scourge of gun violence. Our state's voters have demonstrated strong support for such measures. We can continue our commitment to public safety and health by banning bump stocks, closing the loophole on semi-automatic rifles, and requiring the safe storage of firearms. These are common-sense measures.

Let's leave a legacy that upholds the equal application of justice by passing a bill to end the death penalty in the state of Washington.

And let's make sure we don't leave a legacy of irresponsible brinksmanship. It is absolutely crucial that we pass a capital budget as one of the first orders of business this session.

This budget ... This budget supports more than 19,000 construction jobs in every corner of the state.

It would help us build more affordable housing and expand capacity in our mental health care system. This funding is languishing at exactly the same time the need for these projects are exploding.

In Yakima, students are waiting for renovations to alleviate overcrowding at East Valley High School.

In Sequim, biologists are waiting for upgrades at the Dungeness Hatchery to improve fish passage.

In Ephrata, the community is waiting to replace an aging water line.

If you want to help rural Washington — if you want more affordable housing, better mental health care and school construction — then do something about it and send this capital budget to my desk now. We need to get this job done. ... — By the way, when we do this, it will be a bipartisan success and everyone in this chamber will be able to enjoy it. I'm looking forward to that day.

As we gather to do the people's work this session, Washington's values and this Legislature's actions will be more important than ever.

Despite the onslaught of divisiveness, disorder, and disrespect coming from the White House this past year, the people of our state have stood proudly together.

The world should know that we are going to keep standing up for civility, tolerance, and liberty. We will fight to protect Washingtonians' health care, a woman's right to choose, the right for people to be safe from discrimination, and the right to clean air and water.

We will not be intimidated in the state of Washington. It's important to know that.

You know, Washington state has so much to be proud of. Our biotech companies are creating new treatments for cancer. Scientists at Hanford have helped confirm the existence of gravitational waves predicted by Einstein. We even make world-famous beer and wine.

And we should be proud of the great progress we have made together in state government.

When I came into office, there was doubt that we could pass a transportation package. But we did, and it is the largest and greenest transportation package in state history.

When I came into office, there was doubt we could invest $7 billion in education. But we did.

We tackled transportation. We tackled education. And now we must recognize an existential threat to the health of our state, a threat to the health of our children, and a threat to the health of our businesses that demands action this year.

That threat is climate change.

This Legislature recognized this threat a decade ago — a decade ago — when it pledged to the people of Washington that we would make our air cleaner and we would reduce carbon pollution. Sadly, I have to tell ya, unless we act this year, that promise by the Legislature will be broken.

It is time to step up and give our citizens what they demand and deserve — and what is the law — which is a fight against climate change and the damaging health effects of carbon pollution.

While this session is short, our legacy on climate change must be long and must be lasting.

We have just 59 days to do our part to save our children from a certain, endless cycle of crop-killing droughts one year and rivers spilling their banks the next. To save salmon from dying in ever-warming waters and our forests from being reduced to plumes of ash.

We have allowed the unfettered release of carbon pollution into our air. That burden will be carried by our children, our economy, our security, and our quality of life.

We must be victorious over climate change, because, as Winston Churchill said, '... without victory, there is no survival.'

I believe Washingtonians will be together on this issue. I'll tell you why.

Because on this issue, there is no geographic divide in our state. The Eastern Washington farmer whose irrigation supply is threatened by low snowpack faces the same crisis as the Western Washington shellfish grower whose baby oysters are threatened by ocean acidification caused by carbon pollution.

There is no age divide. The young child suffering from asthma is just as vulnerable as a grandparent suffering from COPD, a lung disease aggravated by heat and air pollution.

And there is no partisan divide. Nationally respected Democrats and Republicans are among those calling for a tax on carbon pollution.

Support for enacting a price on carbon is growing. Members of the business, tribal, environmental, and labor communities from across our state are coming to the table to talk about carbon pricing.

Some of them are here today, including Microsoft and Puget Sound Energy, which have enacted bold changes in the way they do business.

Labor leaders see the job potential in growing our clean energy economy. Our environmental leaders and tribes see the urgency of acting now to curb carbon pollution. They all agree that putting a price on carbon this year is the right thing to do, and have committed to working with me to get that accomplished.

House and Senate members have also been working closely with my office all summer and fall to design a Washington-focused approach, and their contributions have been key.

So we are joined across geography, across age, and across political interests. Now is the time to join in action and put a price on carbon pollution.

Doing so ... Doing so ... Doing so will allow us to reinvest in all the things that drive down emissions. We can build more solar panels. We can put more electric cars on the road. We can help more Washingtonians purchase energy-saving insulation for their homes and fir their businesses.

We can reduce the wildfire risk in rural communities and on tribal lands. We can improve utility services and modernize the electrical grid. We can make much-needed upgrades to our irrigation and water-management systems. We can prepare our workforce for new careers in clean energy.

And by doing these things, we can save our forests. We can help our rural economies. We can protect our waterways.

I am optimistic about this this year, and that optimism is well justified by Washington's can-do spirit of confidence and innovation. And why shouldn't we get this done?

Carbon pricing is hardly a new or bold idea at this point.

British Columbia, our neighbor to the north, is doing it and their economy is booming.

To the south, California is doing it, and Oregon is considering it.

From Quebec to Japan, from Europe to Mexico, many states and nations have enacted a price on carbon. Even China is getting on board, having recently launched the largest carbon market on the planet.

By passing a carbon tax, we would simply join our West Coast neighbors, and the rest of the world, as the global economy moves away from fossil fuels and toward a decarbonized, clean-energy future.

And I believe that Washington state is exactly the right state to lead the clean-energy economy and to seize the jobs that China and other nations are clamoring for.

This is, fundamentally, who we are in Washington. We create, we invent, we build. And the people of Washington are ready to create, and invent, and build the carbon-free future our children and our grandchildren deserve.

These clean-energy jobs belong here. Not just in China. Not just in Germany. Not just in B.C. here.

Washington employs some of the most influential climate scientists in the world. Our universities and businesses are on the cutting edge of clean-energy technologies.

In the Pacific Coast region, clean-energy jobs have grown, and this is kind of interesting to know. Clean-energy jobs have grown more than twice as fast as jobs in the overall economy.

Mukilteo is home to the inventors and manufacturers of the world's largest vanadium flow battery. Moses Lake is home to one of the world's largest carbon fiber manufacturing plants for electric cars. Our state is home to the inventors of biofuels that have powered the Boeing 787 across the oceans.

It is our state's destiny — because of who we are — to defeat climate change.

Even if the White House walks away from the global effort now embraced by every single nation in the world except the United States, an effort to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, we will walk forward and join this battle for the world's healthy future. That's who we are.

Already, Washington has joined with 14 other states and territories to form the United States Climate Alliance, and we are committed to meeting our share of the emission reduction targets outlined in the Paris Climate Accord. This is a significant collaboration. We represent 40 percent of the U.S. economy, and if we were our own nation, we would have the third-largest economy in the world. And it is the right thing to do this.

Washington is home to the most beautiful collection of fertile wheat fields, and towering forests and salty waters on Earth. It is true and inarguable that our Creator practiced on the rest of the planet, and then He created Washington state.

Every single one of us here today is deeply tied to Washington in our own unique way. We each have a part of this state that we love: a favorite fishing spot, a quiet place on the farm, that campground you've been going to for generations in the forest. But the things we treasure individually can only be saved collectively.

We have been given an incredible bounty of natural beauty and sustenance, and we must now ask ourselves how we can protect that bounty for future generations.

We know we are smart enough to recognize the perils of climate change, and we know we are innovative enough to do something about it.

Repeatedly, over the decades, we have lived up to Governor Ferry's charge 'to mark the way.'

We have succeeded in aerospace, in software, in online commerce, in coffee, in biotechnology, and there is every reason to believe we will succeed in fighting climate change and growing our economy in the process.

This is the year to believe in ourselves. This is the year to act with confidence. This is the year for us to do our part, for all who will walk in the path we will make together.

We are here in Olympia to serve the current and future, and future, interests of all Washingtonians, and I want thank each of you for your willingness to find solutions to the challenges we face.

I like to think of this Legislature and our state as one big family: We may have differences around the dinner table, but on what really counts, we agree.

We all agree that our families deserve to be safe from tragedies like mass shootings. We all agree we must do more for homeless individuals and families. We all agree that our children deserve the best education possible. We all agree that our communities deserve protection from the physical and financial threats of climate change.

Today I call on all of us to look deep in our hearts and to think of our families.

For them, and for all Washingtonians, present and future, let's get to work together. Thank you."

SENATE RESOLUTION 8681

By Senators Saldaña, McCoy, Becker, Schoesler, Chase, Darneille, Dhingra, Hobbs, Liias, Sheldon, and Wellman

WHEREAS, Today, the third Monday in January, we remember and honor the life and legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who became a beacon of hope for actualizing equality in our nation; and

WHEREAS, 2018 marks the fifty year anniversary of Dr. King's untimely death; and

WHEREAS, Dr. King used his gift of oration to awaken America to the struggles of disenfranchised communities through nonviolent means; and

WHEREAS, Dr. King's unwavering support for the principles of racial justice and social equality helped transform America; and

WHEREAS, Dr. King's steadfast pursuit of fairness encouraged others, as exemplified in his famous "Letter from Birmingham Jail," in which he said, "Injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere."; and

WHEREAS, Dr. King believed that a person's worth should be measured not by his or her color, culture, or class but rather by his or her commitment to making life better for all through service rendered to each other;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Senate, in recognition of the courageous leadership and legacy of hope demonstrated by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., honor his memory by urging all citizens of our state to continue the legacy of Dr. King by treating all people as equal.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of Senate Resolution No. 8681.

The motion by Senator Saldaña carried and the resolution was adopted by voice vote.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "The President would like to add his words of recognition for this day and thank all the Senators for their remarks and mention for anyone who might be wondering, this question does come up sometimes, members of the public will ask, 'Why is the Legislature working on a federal holiday?' 'Why are you working when other levels of government are closed?' And the answer is quite simply that this day gives the public an opportunity in a way that other weekdays don't to come down to Olympia and meet with legislators. I believe in the truest spirit of the holiday itself, to have that experience of advocacy and meet with legislators on important issues including those mentioned here today. It is only possible during our session this year today and on President's Day. And so that is why we do this and it is a very important day for the Senate.

EIGHTH DAY, JANUARY 15, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

And also notably among those constituents who come here are young people who have the day off from school, so it is very important for us to have young people come.”

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUEST

The President welcomed Miss Rocksie Marchand, the Indian Nation Finals Rodeo Ladies Barrel Racing, Ladies Division champion, who was seated in the gallery and recognized by the Senate.

EDITOR’S NOTE: Miss Rocksie Timentwa-Marchand won the Ladies Barrel Racing, Ladies Open Division title at the 42nd annual Indian National Finals Rodeo held November 7 – 11, 2017 in Las Vegas, NV. Miss Marchand, nine years of age, of Wilbur and a member of the Colville Confederated Tribes, became the youngest person to win first place at the rodeo competition.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Padden: “Mr. President, I regret to inform those who don’t know of the passing of a good friend of mine, who I worked with in the House for many years, maybe you know him, Mr. John Gower, who was in the Republican Caucus as an attorney in the House. He was an outstanding attorney. A very principled individual, but one who worked well with staff from the agencies, certainly from the Democratic Caucus in the House, and was known for probably saving every amendment he ever drafted over, I’m sure, I don’t know how long, but I am guessing around twenty years that he worked in the House. And I remember hearing of ... he would go during the interim, sometimes, on motorcycle rides and he went a couple times with former Senator Hargrove and Shankar Narayan, so that was quite a threesome. They would travel around and share fellowship together. But he’s certainly going to be sorely missed. He lived in Tacoma. A wonderful wife, Karen. And so I just wanted to note his passing for members of the Senate. Thank you Mr. President.”

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: “Senator Padden, thank you for making the body aware of that. And we as a Chamber send our regrets and condolences to his family and to the House of Representatives and all those who had the opportunity to know him and work with him. Thank you for bringing that to the Senate’s attention.”

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: “We have had some tragic news in the past twenty four hours, and first of all, as many will know, our state lost a great leader yesterday, Governor John Spellman, who passed away yesterday. He was Governor of this state from 1981 to 1985 and indeed was Governor when I was born. And was King County Executive for twelve years prior to that, and a civic leader and mentor to many, environmental leader for our state, and in so many other ways a source of admiration and so on behalf of the Senate, I will as President, communicate our condolences to Governor Spellman’s family, and that we keep them in our thoughts and prayers and there will be opportunity for us in a more formal way to pay our respects to our former governor.

Last night, you may have all heard the tragic news of the loss of Tyler Hilinski, quarterback at Washington State University. And while the circumstances are not completely public at this time, we know that his loss is a tremendous tragedy for his family and for the entire Cougar community, and for the entire state. And it is just a heartbreaking moment for all of us to think about. This young man gave so much pleasure and joy to people who got to know him through his leadership on the field and we mourn with him and with the Washington State University and Pullman communities. At this time I would ask the Senate to join me in a moment of silence in recognition of this tragic moment for Tyler’s family and community.”

MOMENT OF SILENCE

The Senate rose and observed a moment of silence in memory of Mr. Tyler Hilinski, Washington State University student-athlete, who passed away Tuesday, January 16, 2018 in Pullman.

Senator Baumgartner moved that the following amendment no. 334 by Senator Fortunato be adopted:

Beginning on page 10, line 9, strike all of section 302 and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 302. (1) A political subdivision is in violation of this act when:

(a) It is established by prima facie evidence that:

(i) The protected class is sufficiently large and geographically compact enough to constitute a majority in a single member voting district;

(ii) The protected class is politically cohesive; and

(iii) The majority votes sufficiently as a bloc to enable it to defeat the protected class' preferred candidate; and

(b) It is established that, by the totality of circumstances, the voters of the protected class have less opportunity than members of the majority group to participate in the political process and to elect representatives of their choice.

(2) In determining whether there is a violation of this act, the court shall analyze elections of the governing body of the political subdivision, ballot measure elections, elections in which at least one candidate is a member of a protected class, and other electoral choices that affect the rights and privileges of members of a protected class. Only elections conducted prior to the filing of an action pursuant to this chapter shall be used to establish or rebut the existence of a violation. In determining whether, by the totality of the circumstances, the voters of the protected class have less opportunity than members of the majority group to participate in the political process and to elect representatives of their choice, the court shall consider, at a minimum, the following factors:

(a) The history of voter-related discrimination in the political subdivision;

(b) The extent to which voting in elections of the political subdivision is racially polarized;

(c) The extent to which the political subdivision has used voting practices or procedures that tend to enhance the opportunity for discrimination against the minority group, such as unusually large election districts, majority voting requirements, and prohibitions against bullet voting;

(d) The exclusion of members of the protected class from the candidate slating process;

(e) The extent to which protected class members bear the effects of past discrimination in areas such as education, employment, and health, which hinder their ability to participate effectively in the political process;

(f) The use of overt or subtle racial appeals in political campaigns;

(g) The extent to which members of the protected class have been elected to public office in the political subdivision; and

(h) Whether there is a significant lack of responsiveness on the part of elected officials to the particularized needs of the members of the protected class.

(3) In determining whether there is a violation of this act, the court shall analyze elections of the governing body of the political subdivision, ballot measure elections, elections in which at least one candidate is a member of a protected class, and other electoral choices that affect the rights and privileges of members of a protected class. The court shall also consider whether the proportion of elected officials serving on the political subdivision's legislative body who are members of the protected class is equivalent to the proportion of the population who are members of the protected class. Only elections conducted prior to the filing of an action pursuant to this chapter shall be used to establish or rebut the existence of a violation.

(4) The election of candidates who are members of a protected class and who were elected prior to the filing of an action pursuant to this chapter shall not preclude a finding of a violation of this act."

President Habib: "Just a reminder to members, two things: Number One, that these are your rules. We don't make reference to actions of the House of Representatives. Contrary to what people think, it is okay to acknowledge that it exists, but we don't make reference to actions that they have taken. And I would also ask members that we avoid impugning motives. I don't believe that has happened yet, the President has not taken that position, but we are early in the session now, and it is important that we have these debates and discussions in a respectful fashion. So I ask that we all keep that in mind."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the adoption of amendment no. 335 by Senator Padden and the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 20; Nays, 25; Absent, 0; Excused, 4.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The legislature recognizes that many local governments are presently considering the option of converting from at large elections to electoral systems that are oriented towards district-based voting. However, several types of jurisdictions are required to conduct their general elections on an at large basis, and are thus precluded from any change. This state law prohibition may put certain jurisdictions in the precarious position of facing liability under the federal voting rights act, while state law prevents them from adopting a legitimate, good faith solution. Further, noting the outcome of the recent lawsuit within the state of Washington, the legislature recognizes that the federal voting rights act provides an effective means to challenge what a plaintiff considers to be an unfair electoral system. Therefore, the legislature intends to provide local governments with the tools they need to offer the most effective, inclusive, and fair electoral systems for their citizens.

used as follows: (a) Only a resident of the ward or district may be a candidate for, or hold office as, a councilmember of the ward or district; and (b) only voters of the ward or district may vote at a primary to nominate candidates for a councilmember of the ward or district. Voters of the entire city or town may vote at the general election to elect a councilmember of a ward or district, unless the city or town ~~((had prior to January 1, 1994, limited))~~ council has adopted an ordinance or the voters of the city or town have approved an initiative limiting the voting in the general election for any or all council positions to only voters residing within the ward or district associated with the council positions. If a city or town had so limited the voting in the general election to only voters residing within the ward or district, then the city or town shall be authorized to continue to do so.

(3) When a city or town has qualified for an increase in the number of councilmembers from five to seven by virtue of the next succeeding population determination made by the office of financial management, two additional council positions shall be filled at the next municipal general election ~~((with))~~. If the voting at the election includes voters of the entire city, the person elected to one of the new council positions receiving the greatest number of votes ~~((being elected for))~~ shall serve a four-year term of office, and the person elected to the other additional council position ~~((being elected for))~~ shall serve a two-year term of office. The two additional councilmembers shall assume office immediately when qualified in accordance with RCW 29A.04.133, but the term of office shall be computed from the first day of January after the year in which they are elected. Their successors shall be elected to four-year terms of office. Prior to the election of the two new councilmembers, the city or town council shall fill the additional positions by appointment not later than forty-five days following the release of the population determination, and each appointee shall hold office only until the new position is filled by election.

(4) When a city or town has qualified for a decrease in the number of councilmembers from seven to five by virtue of the next succeeding population determination made by the office of financial management, two council positions shall be eliminated at the next municipal general election if four council positions normally would be filled at that election, or one council position shall be eliminated at each of the next two succeeding municipal general elections if three council positions normally would be filled at the first municipal general election after the population determination. The council shall by ordinance indicate which, if any, of the remaining positions shall be elected at-large or from wards or districts.

(5) Vacancies on a council shall occur and shall be filled as provided in chapter 42.12 RCW.

Sec. 4. RCW 35.23.850 and 2015 c 53 s 41 are each amended to read as follows:

In any city initially classified as a second-class city prior to January 1, 1993, that retained its second-class city plan of government when the city reorganized as a noncharter code city, the city council may divide the city into wards, not exceeding six in all, or change the boundaries of existing wards at any time less than one hundred twenty days before a municipal general election. No change in the boundaries of wards shall affect the term of any councilmember, and councilmembers shall serve out their terms in the wards of their residences at the time of their elections. However, if these boundary changes result in one ward being represented by more councilmembers than the number to which it is entitled, those having the shortest unexpired terms shall be assigned by the council to wards where there is a vacancy, and the councilmembers so assigned shall be deemed to be residents of the wards to which they are assigned for purposes of determining whether those positions are vacant and shall serve until a ward resident is elected.

The representation of each ward in the city council shall be in proportion to the population as nearly as is practicable.

Wards shall be redrawn as provided in chapter 29A.76 RCW. Wards shall be used as follows: (1) Only a resident of the ward may be a candidate for, or hold office as, a councilmember of the ward; and (2) only voters of the ward may vote at a primary to nominate candidates for a councilmember of the ward. Voters of the entire city may vote at the general election to elect a councilmember of a ward, unless the city ~~((had prior to January 1, 1994, limited))~~ council has adopted an ordinance or, if authorized, the voters of the city have approved an initiative limiting the voting in the general election for any or all council positions to only voters residing within the ward associated with the council positions. If a city had so limited the voting in the general election to only voters residing within the ward, then the city shall be authorized to continue to do so. The elections for the remaining council position or council positions that are not associated with a ward shall be conducted as if the wards did not exist.

Sec. 5. RCW 35A.12.180 and 2015 c 53 s 53 are each amended to read as follows:

At any time not within three months previous to a municipal general election the council of a noncharter code city organized under this chapter may divide the city into wards or change the boundaries of existing wards. No change in the boundaries of wards shall affect the term of any councilmember, and councilmembers shall serve out their terms in the wards of their residences at the time of their elections: PROVIDED, That if this results in one ward being represented by more councilmembers than the number to which it is entitled those having the shortest unexpired terms shall be assigned by the council to wards where there is a vacancy, and the councilmembers so assigned shall be deemed to be residents of the wards to which they are assigned for purposes of those positions being vacant and shall serve until a ward resident is elected. The representation of each ward in the city council shall be in proportion to the population as nearly as is practicable.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hunt: "Thank you Mr. President. I know early this morning we had a moment of silence, but it has been a tough, tough day for those of us who are Washington State Cougars with the death of quarterback Tyler Hilinski. A twenty-one year old superstar in the making, who came into the game against Boise State in the fourth quarter and brought them back from a twenty to seven deficit to a lead. Who had to start the bowl game against Michigan State without his quarterback who was injured. Without his two star receivers. And still managed to throw for almost three hundred yards and complete eighty percent of his passes. It is really sad that we lost such a great potential. It is sad when we lose anybody, but for this young man with such a glowing future, I just want to say, we send our best to his family and to our Cougar friends and we will miss Tyler a lot. Thank you."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Tyler Hilinski, May 26, 1996 – January 16, 2018, Washington State University student-athlete, backup quarterback and projected starter for the WSU Cougars, passed away Tuesday, January 16, 2018 in Pullman. A memorial service was held Saturday, January 27, in La Verne, California.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Schoesler: “I think everyone knows now the passing of Governor John Spellman. You know John Spellman became Governor about the time I first got significantly interested in this process. And out of all of the things that he was remembered by, I think that even in the middle of an economic downturn, the state spent over fifty percent of it's budget on K-12. We just now reached that level again in the current biennial budget. Thirty-five years later, we reached the level of John Spellman in education funding, something I am sure that every member of this Chamber is proud of, but it had been a long time. I had the opportunity to visit with former Governor Spellman a couple of times before he passed away. I can assure you that his wit and his memory where sharp to the very end. I would ask him about some of the difficult years in his term, and I asked about the troglodytes, one of whom is still a member of this body again. And he refined what the troglodytes statement really was, not how we interpret it. And that keen wit, that memory of the process. We have the legacy of, he was there when the Kingdome came that brought the Mariners and Seahawks that we now enjoy. We wouldn't have had those major league franchises without that facility. And at that time he didn't believe that we had the safety to have a pipeline under Puget Sound. And he bucked his friends and his party because he didn't believe that that process was safe. Not an easy thing to do. I think that the one thing that I would share with the previous speaker is on his last visit he brought his grandchildren who never saw the building where grandpa served because they were under thirty-five years old and the last thing I did was get a verbal commitment that at least one of Governor John Spellman's grandchildren would go to WSU. Thank you.”

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: “Thank you Senator Schoesler. Indeed, we started the day on a sober note and as we end it again we remember Governor Spellman and a rich and full life well-lived, a life of service and we remember also a life snuffed out far too soon and that never really got to reach the full and beautiful potential that I think we all know waited in store. So, it is a difficult day and I thank the members of the Senate for doing your work, some challenging work, working through these bills on what I know is a difficult day for all of us and we'll continue to do our work on to tomorrow and send our condolences to those who are suffering in grief today.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Padden: “Thank you Mr. President. Since I guess I was the troglodyte that was referred to in the previous remarks, I'll fess up. I think I am the only person who actually served, currently in the Legislature, served when John Spellman was Governor. And, although I wasn't real close to him, he was a family friend, my father and he actually went on some retreats together. He was a spiritual fellow, very contemplative fellow, who, you know, smoked a pipe. I remember going into his office with one of the predecessors there for Senator Ericksen from the 42nd District, former Representative Roger Van Dyken, and talking to him, and we kind of talked to his chief of staff and he was off in the corner smoking his pipe. But he did become engaged in certain issues. I think he was a very honorable person. He later said that he probably shouldn't have used that troglodyte term, but it was kind of in good fun. Former Representative Dick Bond made buttons and we wore them and had a lot of fun. But it was a very difficult time because we had one thirty day session, November, no committee meetings, and all there was to do to pressure to reduce spending in the budget that had already been adopted or to raise taxes. Unfortunately, the Republican majority raised the sales tax on food and the folks repealed it later and then we were no longer in the majority for quite a while. So, I kind of remember how that felt and here I am feeling it again. It's (laughter), as you folks know, it's not always the best feeling, but anyway, I think it is important that we take time to honor the last Republican governor. I think we are now the state that has gone the longest without a Republican governor. But an honorable guy, he won a very tough primary against Duane Berenson, who was from Burlington, and there was a very interesting primary on the Democratic side between Dixie Lee Ray and Jim McDermott. So those were many years ago, but it is a tribute to him. He lived ninety-one years, so I think our condolences to his wife Lois, and their six children and it is good to remember him. Thank you Mr. President.”

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: “Thank you Senator Padden and when you and Governor Spellman were smoking pipes and calling each other troglodytes, Senator Liias and I were busy being born.”

REMARKS BY SENATOR LIAS

Senator Liias: “Thank you Mr. President. And I actually appreciate Senator Schoesler and Senator Padden's remarks. I hope that, just as we honored Governor Gardner on his passing, I hope that we will work together on a resolution and at the appropriate time honor Governor Spellman's great work on behalf of our state, including work that began long before the President and I graced this great state.”

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Honorable John D. Spellman, 1926 – 2018, Governor of Washington between 1981 and 1985, passed away Tuesday, January 16, 2018. Mrs. Lois E. (c) In the following water resource inventory areas with instream flow rules adopted by the department of ecology under chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW that do not explicitly regulate permit-exempt groundwater withdrawals, evidence of an adequate water supply must be consistent with section 202 of this act, unless the applicant provides other evidence of an adequate water supply that complies with chapters 90.03 and 90.44 RCW: 1 (Nooksack); 11 (Nisqually); 22 (Lower Chehalis); 23 (Upper Chehalis); 49 (Okanogan); 55 (Little Spokane); and 59 (Colville).

(d) In the following water resource inventory areas with instream flow rules adopted by the department of ecology under chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW that do not explicitly regulate permit-exempt groundwater withdrawals, evidence of an adequate water supply must be consistent with section 203 of this act, unless the applicant provides other evidence of an adequate water supply that complies with chapters 90.03 and 90.44 RCW: 7 (Snohomish); 8 (Cedar-Sammamish); 9 (Duwamish-Green); 10 (Puyallup-White); 12 (Chambers-Clover); 13 (Deschutes); 14 (Kennedy-Goldsborough); and 15 (Kitsap).

(e) In water resource inventory areas 37 (Lower Yakima), 38 (Naches), and 39 (Upper Yakima), the department of ecology may impose requirements to satisfy adjudicated water rights.

(f) Additional requirements apply in areas within water resource inventory area 3 (Lower Skagit-Samish) and 4 (Upper Skagit) regulated by chapter 173-503 WAC, as a result of Swinomish Indian Tribal Community v. Department of Ecology, 178 Wn.2d 571, 311 P.3d 6 (2013).

(g) In other areas of the state, physical and legal evidence of an adequate water supply may be demonstrated by the submission of a water well report consistent with the requirements of chapter 18.104 RCW.

(h) For the purposes of this subsection (1), "water resource inventory areas" means those areas described in chapter 173-500 WAC as of the effective date of this section.

(2) In addition to other authorities, the county or city may impose additional requirements, including conditions on building permits requiring connection to an existing public water system where the existing system is willing and able to provide safe and reliable potable water to the applicant with reasonable economy and efficiency.

(3) Within counties not required or not choosing to plan pursuant to RCW 36.70A.040, the county and the state may mutually determine those areas in the county in which the requirements of subsection (1) of this section shall not apply. The departments of health and ecology shall coordinate on the implementation of this section. Should the county and the state fail to mutually determine those areas to be designated pursuant to this subsection, the county may petition the department of enterprise services to mediate or, if necessary, make the determination.

((3)) (4) Buildings that do not need potable water facilities are exempt from the provisions of this section. The department of ecology, after consultation with local governments, may adopt rules to implement this section, which may recognize differences between high-growth and low-growth counties.

(5) Any permit-exempt groundwater withdrawal authorized under RCW 90.44.050 associated with a water well constructed in accordance with the provisions of chapter 18.104 RCW before the effective date of this section is deemed to be evidence of adequate water supply under this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 102. A new section is added to chapter 36.70A RCW to read as follows:

For the purposes of complying with the requirements of this chapter relating to surface and groundwater resources, a county or city may rely on or refer to applicable minimum instream flow rules adopted by the department of ecology under chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW. Development regulations must ensure that proposed water uses are consistent with RCW 90.44.050 and with applicable rules adopted pursuant to chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW when making decisions under RCW 19.27.097 and 58.17.110.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 103. A new section is added to chapter 36.70 RCW to read as follows:

For the purposes of complying with the requirements of this chapter, county development regulations must ensure that proposed water uses are consistent with RCW 90.44.050 and with applicable rules adopted pursuant to chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW when making decisions under RCW 19.27.097 and 58.17.110.

Sec. 104. RCW 58.17.110 and 1995 c 32 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The city, town, or county legislative body shall inquire into the public use and interest proposed to be served by the establishment of the subdivision and dedication. It shall determine: (a) If appropriate provisions are made for, but not limited to, the public health, safety, and general welfare, for open spaces, drainage ways, streets or roads, alleys, other public ways, transit stops, potable water supplies, sanitary wastes, parks and recreation, playgrounds, schools and schoolgrounds, and shall consider all other relevant facts, including sidewalks and other planning features that assure safe walking conditions for students who only walk to and from school; and (b) whether the public interest will be served by the subdivision and dedication.

(2) A proposed subdivision and dedication shall not be approved unless the city, town, or county legislative body makes written findings that: (a) Appropriate provisions are made for the public health, safety, and general welfare and for such open spaces, drainage ways, streets or roads, alleys, other public ways, transit stops, potable water supplies, sanitary wastes, parks and recreation, playgrounds, schools and schoolgrounds and all other relevant facts, including sidewalks and other planning features that assure safe walking conditions for students who only walk to and from school; and (b) the public use and interest will be served by the platting of such subdivision and dedication. If it finds that the proposed subdivision and dedication make such appropriate provisions and that the public use and interest will be served, then the legislative body shall approve the proposed subdivision and dedication. Dedication of land to any public body, provision of public improvements to serve the subdivision, and/or impact fees imposed under RCW 82.02.050 through 82.02.090 may be required as a condition of subdivision approval. Dedications shall be clearly shown on the final plat. No dedication, provision of public improvements, or impact fees imposed under RCW 82.02.050 through 82.02.090 shall be allowed that constitutes an unconstitutional taking of private property. The legislative body shall not as a condition to the approval of any subdivision require a release from damages to be procured from other property owners.

(3) If the preliminary plat includes a dedication of a public park with an area of less than two acres and the donor has designated that the park be named in honor of a deceased individual of good character, the city, town, or county legislative body must adopt the designated name.

(4) If water supply is to be provided by a groundwater withdrawal exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050, the applicant's compliance with RCW 90.44.050 and with applicable rules adopted pursuant to chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW is sufficient in determining appropriate provisions for water supply for a subdivision, dedication, or short subdivision under this chapter.

PART 2

NEW SECTION. Sec. 201. The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

- (1) "Department" means the department of ecology.
- (2) "Lead agency" has the same meaning as defined in RCW 90.82.060.
- (3) "Water resource inventory area" or "WRIA" means a water resource inventory area established in chapter 173-500 WAC as it existed on the effective date of this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 202. (1) Unless requirements are otherwise specified in the applicable rules adopted under this chapter or under chapter 90.22 or 90.54 RCW, potential impacts on a closed water body and potential impairment to an instream flow are authorized for new domestic groundwater withdrawals exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 through compliance with the requirements established in this section.

(2) In the following water resource inventory areas with instream flow rules adopted by the department under chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW that do not explicitly regulate permit-exempt groundwater withdrawals and that have completed a watershed plan adopted under chapter 90.82 RCW, the department shall work with the initiating governments and the planning units described in chapter 90.82 RCW to review existing watershed plans to identify the potential impacts of exempt well use, identify evidence-based conservation measures, and identify projects to improve watershed health: 1 (Nooksack); 11 (Nisqually); 22 (Lower Chehalis); 23 (Upper Chehalis); 49 (Okanogan); 55 (Little Spokane); and 59 (Colville).

(3) In the water resource inventory areas listed in subsection (2) of this section, the lead agency shall invite a representative from each federally recognized Indian tribe that has a usual and accustomed harvest area within the water resource inventory area to participate as part of the planning unit.

(4)(a) In collaboration with the planning unit, the initiating governments must update the watershed plan to include recommendations for projects and actions that will measure, protect, and enhance instream resources and improve watershed functions that support the recovery of threatened and endangered salmonids. Watershed plan recommendations may include, but are not limited to, acquiring senior water rights, water conservation, water reuse, stream gaging, groundwater monitoring, and developing natural and constructed infrastructure, which includes, but is not limited to, such projects as floodplain restoration, off-channel storage, and aquifer recharge. Qualifying projects must be specifically designed to enhance streamflows and not result in negative impacts to ecological functions or critical habitat.

(b) At a minimum, the watershed plan must include those actions that the planning units determine to be necessary to offset potential impacts to instream flows associated with permit-exempt domestic water use. The highest priority recommendations must include replacing the quantity of consumptive water use during the same time as the impact and in the same basin or tributary. Lower priority projects include projects not in the same basin or tributary and projects that replace consumptive water supply impacts only during critical flow periods. The watershed plan may include projects that protect or improve instream resources without replacing the consumptive quantity of water where such projects are in addition to those actions that the planning unit determines to be necessary to offset potential consumptive impacts to instream flows associated with permit-exempt domestic water use.

(c) Prior to adoption of the updated watershed plan, the department must determine that the actions identified in the watershed plan, after accounting for new projected uses of water over the subsequent twenty years, will result in a net ecological benefit to instream resources within the water resource inventory area.

- (d) The watershed plan may include:
- (i) Recommendations for modification to fees established under this subsection;
 - (ii) Standards for water use quantities that are less than authorized under RCW 90.44.050 or more or less than authorized under subsection (5) of this section for withdrawals exempt from permitting;
 - (iii) Specific conservation requirements for new water users to be adopted by local or state permitting authorities; or
 - (iv) Other approaches to manage water resources for a water resource inventory area or a portion thereof.

(e) Any modification to fees collected under subsection (5) of this section or standards for water use quantities that are less than authorized under RCW 90.44.050 or more or less than authorized under subsection (5) of this section for withdrawals exempt from permitting may not be applied unless authorized by rules adopted under this chapter or under chapter 90.54 RCW.

(5) Until an updated watershed plan is approved and rules are adopted under this chapter or chapter 90.54 RCW, a city or county issuing a building permit under RCW 19.27.097(1)(c), or approving a subdivision under chapter 58.17 RCW in a watershed listed in subsection (2) of this section must:

- (a) Record relevant restrictions or limitations associated with water supply with the property title;
- (b) Collect applicable fees, as described under this section;
- (c) Record the number of building permits issued under chapter 19.27 RCW or subdivision approvals issued under chapter 58.17 RCW subject to the provisions of this section;
- (d) Annually transmit to the department three hundred fifty dollars of each fee collected under this subsection;
- (e) Annually transmit an accounting of building permits and subdivision approvals subject to the provisions of this section to the department;
- (f) Until rules have been adopted that specify otherwise, require the following measures for each new domestic use that relies on a withdrawal exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050:

(i) An applicant shall pay a fee of five hundred dollars to the permitting authority;

(ii) An applicant may obtain approval for a withdrawal exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 for domestic use only, with a maximum annual average withdrawal of three thousand gallons per day per connection.

(6) Rules adopted under this chapter or under chapter 90.54 RCW may:

(a) Rely on watershed plan recommendations and procedures established in this section to authorize new withdrawals exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 that would potentially impact a closed waterbody or a minimum flow or level;

(b) Rely on projects identified in the watershed plan to offset consumptive water use; and

(c) Include updates to fees based on the planning unit's determination of the costs for offsetting consumptive water use.

ELEVENTH DAY, JANUARY 18, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

(7)(a) If a watershed plan that meets the requirements of this section is not adopted in water resource inventory area 1 (Nooksack) by February 1, 2019, the department must adopt rules for that water resource inventory area that meet the requirements of this section by August 1, 2020.

(b) If a watershed plan that meets the requirements of this section is not adopted in water resource inventory area 11 (Nisqually) by February 1, 2019, the department must adopt rules for that water resource inventory area that meet the requirements of this section by August 1, 2020.

(c) The department must adopt rules that meet the requirements of this section for any of the following water resource inventory areas that do not adopt a watershed plan that meets the requirements of this section by February 1, 2021: 22 (Lower Chehalis); 23 (Upper Chehalis); 49 (Okanogan); 55 (Little Spokane); and 59 (Colville).

(8) This section only applies to new domestic groundwater withdrawals exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 in the following water resource inventory areas with instream flow rules adopted under chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW that do not explicitly regulate permit-exempt groundwater withdrawals: 1 (Nooksack); 11 (Nisqually); 22 (Lower Chehalis); 23 (Upper Chehalis); 49 (Okanogan); 55 (Little Spokane); and 59 (Colville) and does not restrict the withdrawal of groundwater for other uses that are exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 203. (1) Unless requirements are otherwise specified in the applicable rules adopted under this chapter or chapter 90.22 or 90.54 RCW, potential impacts on a closed water body and potential impairment to an instream flow are authorized for new domestic groundwater withdrawals exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 through compliance with the requirements established in this section.

(2)(a) In the following water resource inventory areas with instream flow rules adopted by the department under chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW that do not explicitly regulate permit-exempt groundwater withdrawals and that have either not adopted a watershed plan, or adopted a partial watershed plan, under chapter 90.82 RCW, the department shall establish watershed restoration and enhancement committees in the following water resource inventory areas: 7 (Snohomish); 8 (Cedar-Sammamish); 9 (Duwamish-Green); 10 (Puyallup-White); 12 (Chambers-Clover); 13 (Deschutes); 14 (Kennedy-Goldsborough); and 15 (Kitsap).

(b) The department shall chair the watershed restoration and enhancement committee and invite the following entities to participate:

(i) A representative from each federally recognized Indian tribe that has reservation land within the water resource inventory area;

(ii) A representative from each federally recognized Indian tribe that has a usual and accustomed harvest area within the water resource inventory area;

(iii) A representative from the department of fish and wildlife, appointed by the director of the department of fish and wildlife;

(iv) A representative designated by each county within the water resource inventory area;

(v) A representative designated by each city within the water resource inventory area;

(vi) A representative designated by the largest irrigation district within the water resource inventory area;

(vii) A representative designated by the largest publicly owned water purveyor providing water within the water resource inventory area that is not a municipality;

(viii) A representative designated by a local organization representing the residential construction industry within the water resource inventory area;

(ix) A representative designated by a local organization representing environmental interests within the water resource inventory area; and

(x) A representative designated by a local organization representing agricultural interests within the water resource inventory area.

(3) By June 30, 2021, the department shall prepare and adopt a watershed restoration and enhancement plan for each watershed listed under subsection (2)(a) of this section, in collaboration with the watershed restoration and enhancement committee. Except as described in (h) of this subsection, all members of a watershed restoration and enhancement committee must approve the plan prior to adoption.

(a) The watershed restoration and enhancement plan should include recommendations for projects and actions that will measure, protect, and enhance instream resources and improve watershed functions that support the recovery of threatened and endangered salmonids. Plan recommendations may include, but are not limited to, acquiring senior water rights, water conservation, water reuse, stream gaging, groundwater monitoring, and developing natural and constructed infrastructure, which includes but is not limited to such projects as floodplain restoration, off-channel storage, and aquifer recharge. Qualifying projects must be specifically designed to enhance stream flows and not result in negative impacts to ecological functions or critical habitat.

(b) At a minimum, the plan must include those actions that the committee determines to be necessary to offset potential impacts to instream flows associated with permit-exempt domestic water use. The highest priority recommendations must include replacing the quantity of consumptive water use during the same time as the impact and in the same basin or tributary. Lower priority projects include projects not in the same basin or tributary and projects that replace consumptive water supply impacts only during critical flow periods. The plan may include projects that protect or improve instream resources without replacing the consumptive quantity of water where such projects are in addition to those actions that the committee determines to be necessary to offset potential consumptive impacts to instream flows associated with permit-exempt domestic water use.

(c) Prior to adoption of the watershed restoration and enhancement plan, the department must determine that actions identified in the plan, after accounting for new projected uses of water over the subsequent twenty years, will result in a net ecological benefit to instream resources within the water resource inventory area.

(d) The watershed restoration and enhancement plan must include an evaluation or estimation of the cost of offsetting new domestic water uses over the subsequent twenty years, including withdrawals exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050.

(e) The watershed restoration and enhancement plan must include estimates of the cumulative consumptive water use impacts over the subsequent twenty years, including withdrawals exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050.

(f) The watershed restoration and enhancement plan may include:

(i) Recommendations for modification to fees established under this subsection;

(ii) Standards for water use quantities that are less than authorized under RCW 90.44.050 or more or less than authorized under subsection (4) of this section for withdrawals exempt from permitting;

(iii) Specific conservation requirements for new water users to be adopted by local or state permitting authorities; or

(iv) Other approaches to manage water resources for a water resource inventory area or a portion thereof.

(g) After adoption of a watershed restoration and enhancement plan, the department shall evaluate the plan recommendations and initiate rule making, if necessary, to incorporate recommendations into rules adopted under this chapter or under chapter 90.22 or 90.54 RCW. Any modification to fees collected under subsection (4) of this section or standards for water use quantities that are less than authorized under RCW 90.44.050 or more or less than authorized under subsection (4) of this section for withdrawals exempt from permitting may not be applied unless authorized by rules adopted under this chapter or under chapter 90.54 RCW.

(h) If the watershed restoration and enhancement committee fails to approve a plan by June 30, 2021, the director of the department shall submit the final draft plan to the salmon recovery funding board established under RCW 77.85.110 and request that the salmon recovery funding board provide a technical review and provide recommendations to the director to amend the final draft plan, if necessary, so that actions identified in the plan, after accounting for new projected uses of water over the subsequent twenty years, will result in a net ecological benefit to instream resources within the water resource inventory area. The director of the department shall consider the recommendations and may amend the plan without committee approval prior to adoption. After plan adoption, the director of the department shall initiate rule making within six months to incorporate recommendations into rules adopted under this chapter or under chapter 90.22 or 90.54 RCW, and shall adopt amended rules within two years of initiation of rule making.

(4)(a) Until a watershed restoration and enhancement plan is approved and rules are adopted under subsection (3) of this section, a city or county issuing a building permit under RCW 19.27.097(1)(d), or approving a subdivision under chapter 58.17 RCW in a watershed listed in subsection (2)(a) of this section must:

(i) Record relevant restrictions or limitations associated with water supply with the property title;

(ii) Collect applicable fees, as described under this section;

(iii) Record the number of building permits issued under chapter 19.27 RCW or subdivision approvals issued under chapter 58.17 RCW subject to the provisions of this section;

(iv) Annually transmit to the department three hundred fifty dollars of each fee collected under this subsection;

(v) Annually transmit an accounting of building permits and subdivision approvals subject to the provisions of this section to the department;

(vi) Until rules have been adopted that specify otherwise, require the following measures for each new domestic use that relies on a withdrawal exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050:

(A) An applicant shall pay a fee of five hundred dollars to the permitting authority;

(B) Except as provided in (b) of this subsection, an applicant may obtain approval for a withdrawal exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 for domestic use only, with a maximum annual average withdrawal of nine hundred fifty gallons per day per connection; and

(C) An applicant shall manage stormwater runoff on-site to the extent practicable by maximizing infiltration, including using low-impact development techniques, or pursuant to stormwater management requirements adopted by the local permitting authority, if locally adopted requirements are more stringent.

(b) Upon the issuance of a drought emergency order under RCW 43.83B.405, the department may curtail withdrawal of groundwater exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 and approved under this subsection (4) to no more than three hundred fifty gallons per day per connection for indoor use only. Notwithstanding the limitation to no more than three hundred fifty gallons per day per connection for indoor use only, an applicant may use groundwater exempt from permitting to maintain a fire control buffer during a drought emergency order.

(5) Rules adopted under this chapter or chapter 90.54 RCW may:

(a) Rely on watershed restoration and enhancement plan recommendations and procedures established in this section to authorize new withdrawals exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 that would potentially impact a closed waterbody or a minimum flow or level;

(b) Rely on projects identified in the watershed restoration and enhancement plan to offset consumptive water use; and

(c) Include updates to fees based on the watershed restoration and enhancement committee's determination of the costs for offsetting consumptive water use.

(6) This section only applies to new domestic groundwater withdrawals exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 in the following water resource inventory areas with instream flow rules adopted under chapters 90.22 and 90.54 RCW that do not explicitly regulate permit-exempt groundwater withdrawals: 7 (Snohomish); 8 (Cedar-Sammamish); 9 (Duwamish-Green); 10 (Puyallup-White); 12 (Chambers-Clover); 13 (Deschutes); 14 (Kennedy-Goldsborough); and 15 (Kitsap) and does not restrict the withdrawal of groundwater for other uses that are exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 204. (1) The department shall initiate two pilot projects to measure water use from all new groundwater withdrawals for domestic purposes exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 in the areas described in this section. The pilot projects must be conducted to determine the overall feasibility of measuring water use for all new groundwater withdrawals. The department must purchase and provide meters to be used in the pilot projects. The pilot projects must be conducted in the area under the Dungeness water rule, chapter 173-518 WAC, within water resource inventory area 18 and the area in which the Kittitas county water bank program operates within water resource inventory area 39.

(2) At a minimum, the pilot project must address the following:

(a) Initial and on-going costs, including costs to local government and the department;

(b) Technical, practical, and legal considerations that must be addressed;

(c) The costs and benefits of a water use measurement program relying on individual meters versus a water management program that estimates permit-exempt groundwater withdrawals; and

(d) Measures to protect the privacy of individual property owners and ensure accurate data collection.

(3) The department shall report on the pilot project results in the report to the legislature submitted under section 205 of this act. The department shall include recommendations to the legislature, including estimated program costs for expanding the pilot projects to other basins.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 205. The department shall submit a report to the legislature by December 31, 2020, and December 31, 2027, in compliance with RCW 43.01.036, that includes the following elements:

(1) Progress in completing and adopting watershed plans under section 202 of this act and watershed restoration and enhancement plans under section 203 of this act;

(2) A description of program projects and expenditures;

ELEVENTH DAY, JANUARY 18, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

(3) An assessment of the streamflow restoration and enhancement benefits from program projects;

(4) A listing of other efforts or actions taken associated with streamflow restoration and enhancement, projects to benefit instream resources, and other directly related watershed improvements conducted in coordination with the restoration and enhancement planning process;

(5) The total number of new withdrawals exempt from permitting under RCW 90.44.050 authorized in each water resource inventory area under provisions of sections 202 and 203 of this act, and estimates of consumptive water use impacts associated with the new withdrawals; and

(6) A description of potential or planned projects, including projected costs and anticipated streamflow, water supply, and watershed health benefits.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 206. (1) The watershed restoration and enhancement account is created in the custody of the state treasurer. All receipts from fees paid pursuant to sections 202 and 203 of this act must be deposited into the account. The account may also receive those moneys as may be appropriated by the legislature for the purpose of funding restoration and enhancement projects as identified in sections 202 and 203 of this act. Expenditures from the account may be used only for the costs of administering this act, including implementing watershed planning projects under section 202 of this act and watershed restoration and enhancement projects under section 203 of this act, and collecting data and completing studies necessary to develop, implement, and evaluate watershed restoration and enhancement projects under this act. Only the director or the director's designee may authorize expenditures from the account. The account is subject to allotment procedures under chapter 43.88 RCW, but an appropriation is not required for expenditures.

(2) Fee revenues collected under sections 202 and 203 of this act must be used exclusively within the water resource inventory area in which the fee originated. The restriction in this subsection does not apply to moneys in the watershed restoration and enhancement account that do not originate from fees collected under sections 202 and 203 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 207. (1) The watershed restoration and enhancement taxable bond account is created in the custody of the state treasurer. All receipts from direct appropriations from the legislature or moneys directed to the account from any other source must be deposited in the account. The account is intended to fund projects using taxable bonds. Expenditures from the account may be used only as provided for in this section. Only the director or the director's designee may authorize expenditures from the account. The account is subject to allotment procedures under chapter 43.88 RCW, but an appropriation is not required for expenditures.

(2) Expenditures from the watershed restoration and enhancement taxable bond account may be used to assess, plan, and develop projects that include acquiring senior water rights, water conservation, water reuse, stream gaging, groundwater monitoring, and developing natural and constructed infrastructure, which includes, but is not limited to, projects such as floodplain restoration, off-channel storage, and aquifer recharge, or other actions designed to provide access to new water supplies with priority given to projects in watersheds developing plans as directed by sections 202 and 203 of this act and watersheds participating in the pilot project in section 204 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 208. (1) The watershed restoration and enhancement bond account is created in the custody of the state treasurer. All receipts from direct appropriations from the legislature or moneys directed to the account from any other source must be deposited in the account. The account is intended to fund projects using tax exempt bonds. Expenditures from the account may be used only as provided for in this section. Only the director or the director's designee may authorize expenditures from the account. The account is subject to allotment procedures under chapter 43.88 RCW, but an appropriation is not required for expenditures.

(2) Expenditures from the watershed restoration and enhancement bond account may be used to assess, plan, and develop projects that include acquiring senior water rights, water conservation, water reuse, stream gaging, groundwater monitoring, and developing natural and constructed infrastructure, which includes, but is not limited to, projects such as floodplain restoration, off-channel storage, and aquifer recharge, or other actions designed to provide access to new water supplies with priority given to projects in watersheds developing plans as directed by sections 202 and 203 of this act and watersheds participating in the pilot project in section 204 of this act.

(4) The first meeting of the task force must occur by June 30, 2018.

(5) Staff support for the task force must be provided by the office of program research and senate committee services. The department and the department of fish and wildlife shall cooperate with the task force and provide information as the cochairs reasonably request.

(6) Within existing appropriations, the expenses of the operations of the task force, including the expenses associated with the task force's meetings, must be paid jointly and in equal amounts by the senate and the house of representatives. Task force expenditures are subject to approval by the house executive rules committee and the senate facility and operations committee. Legislative members of the task force are reimbursed for travel expenses in accordance with RCW 44.04.120. Nonlegislative members are not entitled to be reimbursed for travel expenses if they are elected officials or are participating on behalf of an employer, governmental entity, or other organization. Any reimbursement for other nonlegislative members is subject to chapter 43.03 RCW.

(7)(a) By November 15, 2019, the joint legislative task force must make recommendations to the legislature in compliance with RCW 43.01.036.

(b) Recommendations of the joint legislative task force must be made by a sixty percent majority of the members of the task force. The representatives of the departments of fish and wildlife, ecology, and agriculture are not eligible to vote on the recommendations. Minority recommendations that achieve the support of at least five of the named voting members of the task force may also be submitted to the legislature.

(8) The department shall issue permit decisions for up to five water resource mitigation pilot projects. It is the intent of the legislature to use the pilot projects to inform the legislative task force process while also enabling the processing of water right applications that address water supply needs. The department is authorized to issue permits in reliance upon water resource mitigation of impacts to instream flows and closed surface water bodies under the following mitigation sequence:

(a) Avoiding impacts by: (i) Complying with mitigation required by adopted rules that set forth minimum flows, levels, or closures; or (ii) making the water diversion or withdrawal subject to the applicable minimum flows or levels; or

(b) Where avoidance of impacts is not reasonably attainable, minimizing impacts by providing permanent new or existing trust water rights or through other types of replacement water supply resulting in no net annual increase in the quantity of water diverted or withdrawn from the stream or surface water body and no net detrimental impacts to fish and related aquatic resources; or

(c) Where avoidance and minimization are not reasonably attainable, compensating for impacts by providing net ecological benefits to fish and related aquatic resources in the water resource inventory area through in-kind or out-of-kind mitigation or a combination thereof, that improves the function and productivity of affected fish populations and related aquatic habitat. Out-of-kind mitigation may include instream or out-of-stream measures that improve or enhance existing water quality, riparian habitat, or other instream functions and values for which minimum instream flows or closures were established in that watershed.

(9) The department must monitor the implementation of the pilot projects, including all mitigation associated with each pilot project, approved under this section at least annually through December 31, 2028.

(10) The pilot projects eligible for processing under this section, based on criteria as of the effective date of this section, include:

(a) A city operating a group A water system in Kitsap county and water resource inventory area 15, with a population between 13,000 and 14,000;

(b) A city operating a group A water system in Pierce county and water resource inventory area 10, with a population between 9,500 and 10,500;

(c) A city operating a group A water system in Thurston county and water resource inventory area 11, with a population between 8,500 and 9,500;

(d) A nonprofit mutual water system operating a group A water system in Pierce county and water resource inventory area 12, with between 10,500 and 11,500 service connections; and

(e) An irrigation district located in Whatcom county and water resource inventory area 1, solely for the purpose of processing changes of water rights from surface water to groundwater, and implementing flow augmentation to benefit instream flows.

(11) Water right applicants eligible to be processed under this pilot project authority must elect to be included in the pilot project review by notifying the department by July 1, 2018. Once an applicant notifies the department of its intent to be processed under this pilot project authority, subsection (8) of this section applies to final decisions issued by the department, even if such a final decision is issued after the expiration of this section.

(12) By November 15, 2018, the department must furnish the task force with information on conceptual mitigation plans for each water resource mitigation pilot project application.

(13) To ensure that the processing of pilot project applications can inform the task force process in a timely manner, the department must expedite processing of applications for water resource mitigation pilot projects. The applicant for each pilot project must reimburse the department for the department's costs of processing the applicant's application.

(14) The water resource mitigation pilot project authority granted to the department does not affect or modify any other procedural requirements of chapter 90.03, 90.44, or 90.54 RCW that apply to the processing of such applications.

Sec. 302. RCW 90.03.247 and 2003 c 39 s 48 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Whenever an application for a permit to make beneficial use of public waters is approved relating to a stream or other water body for which minimum flows or levels have been adopted and are in effect at the time of approval, the permit shall be conditioned to: (a) Protect the levels or flows; or (b) require water resource mitigation of impacts to instream flows and closed surface water bodies for water resource mitigation pilot projects authorized under section 301 of this act.

(2) No agency may establish minimum flows and levels or similar water flow or level restrictions for any stream or lake of the state other than the department of ecology whose authority to establish is exclusive, as provided in chapter 90.03 RCW and RCW 90.22.010 and 90.54.040. The provisions of other statutes, including but not limited to ((RCW 77.55.100 and)) chapter 43.21C RCW, may not be interpreted in a manner that is inconsistent with this section. In establishing such minimum flows, levels, or similar restrictions, the department shall, during all stages of development by the department of ecology of minimum flow proposals, consult with, and carefully consider the recommendations of, the department of fish and wildlife, the department of ((community, trade, and economic development)) commerce, the department of agriculture, and representatives of the affected Indian tribes. Nothing herein shall preclude the department of fish and wildlife, the department of ((community, trade, and economic development)) commerce, or the department of agriculture from presenting its views on minimum flow needs at any public hearing or to any person or agency, and the department of fish and wildlife, the department of ~~((community, trade, and economic development))~~ commerce, and the department of agriculture are each empowered to participate in proceedings of the federal energy regulatory commission and other agencies to present its views on minimum flow needs.

Sec. 303. RCW 90.03.290 and 2001 c 239 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) When an application complying with the provisions of this chapter and with the rules of the department has been filed, the same shall be placed on record with the department, and it shall be its duty to investigate the application, and determine what water, if any, is available for appropriation, and find and determine to what beneficial use or uses it can be applied. If it is proposed to appropriate water for irrigation purposes, the department shall investigate, determine and find what lands are capable of irrigation by means of water found available for appropriation. If it is proposed to appropriate water for the purpose of power development, the department shall investigate, determine and find whether the proposed development is likely to prove detrimental to the public interest, having in mind the highest feasible use of the waters belonging to the public.

(2)(a) If the application does not contain, and the applicant does not promptly furnish sufficient information on which to base such findings, the department may issue a preliminary permit, for a period of not to exceed three years, requiring the applicant to make such surveys, investigations, studies, and progress reports, as in the opinion of the department may be necessary. If the applicant fails to comply with the conditions of the preliminary permit, it and the application or applications on which it is based shall be automatically canceled and the applicant so notified. If the holder of a preliminary permit shall, before its expiration, file with the department a verified report of expenditures made and work done under the preliminary permit, which, in the opinion of the department, establishes the good faith, intent, and ability of the applicant to carry on the proposed development, the preliminary permit may, with the approval of the governor, be extended, but not to exceed a maximum period of five years from the date of the issuance of the preliminary permit.

(b) For any application for which a preliminary permit was issued and for which the availability of water was directly affected by a moratorium on further diversions from the Columbia river during the years from 1990 to 1998, the preliminary permit is extended through June 30, 2002. If such an application and preliminary permit were canceled during the moratorium, the application and preliminary permit shall be reinstated until June 30, 2002, if the application and permit: (i) Are for providing regional water supplies in more than one urban growth area designated under chapter 36.70A RCW and in one or more areas near such urban growth areas, or the application and permit are modified for providing such supplies, and (ii) provide or are modified to provide such regional supplies through the use of existing intake or diversion structures. The authority to modify such a canceled application and permit to accomplish the objectives of (b)(i) and (ii) of this subsection is hereby granted.

(3) The department shall make and file as part of the record in the matter, written findings of fact concerning all things investigated, and if it shall find that there is water available for appropriation for a beneficial use, and the appropriation thereof as proposed in the application will not impair existing rights or be detrimental to the public welfare, it shall issue a permit stating the amount of water to which the applicant shall be entitled and the beneficial use or uses to which it may be applied: PROVIDED, That where the water applied for is to be used for irrigation purposes, it shall become appurtenant only to such land as may be reclaimed thereby to the full extent of the soil for agricultural purposes. But where there is no unappropriated water in the proposed source of supply, or where the proposed use conflicts with existing rights, or threatens to prove detrimental to the public interest, having due regard to the highest feasible development of the use of the waters belonging to the public, it shall be duty of the department to reject such application and to refuse to issue the permit asked for.

(4) If the permit is refused because of conflict with existing rights and such applicant shall acquire same by purchase or condemnation under RCW 90.03.040, the department may thereupon grant such permit. Any application may be approved for a less amount of water than that applied for, if there exists substantial reason therefor, and in any event shall not be approved for more water than can be applied to beneficial use for the purposes named in the application. In determining whether or not a permit shall issue upon any application, it shall be the duty of the department to investigate all facts relevant and material to the application. After the department approves said application in whole or in part and before any permit shall be issued thereon to the applicant, such applicant shall pay the fee provided in RCW 90.03.470: PROVIDED FURTHER, That in the event a permit is issued by the department upon any application, it shall be its duty to notify the director of fish and wildlife of such issuance.

(5) The requirements of subsections (1) and (3) of this section do not apply to water resource mitigation pilot projects for which permits are issued in reliance upon water resource mitigation of impacts to instream flows and closed surface water bodies under section 301 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 304. The legislature intends to appropriate three hundred million dollars for projects to achieve the goals of this act until June 30, 2033. The department of ecology is directed to implement a program to restore and enhance stream flows by fulfilling obligations under this act to develop and implement plans to restore stream flows to levels necessary to support robust, healthy, and sustainable salmon populations.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 305. Sections 201 through 208 and 301 of this act constitute a new chapter in Title 90 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 306. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

(b) Public schools that are not obligated by this section to offer breakfast after the bell are encouraged to do so. Nothing in this section is intended to prevent a high-needs school from implementing a breakfast after the bell program before the 2019-20 school year.

(2) High-needs schools with at least seventy percent of free or reduced-price eligible children participating in both school lunch and school breakfast are exempt from the provisions of subsection (1) of this section. The office of the superintendent of public instruction shall evaluate individual participation rates annually, and make the participation rates publicly available.

(3) Each high-needs school may determine the breakfast after the bell service model that best suits its students. Service models include, but are not limited to, breakfast in the classroom, grab and go breakfast, and second chance breakfast.

(4) All breakfasts served in a breakfast after the bell program must comply with federal meal patterns and nutrition standards for school breakfast programs under the federal healthy, hunger-free kids act of 2010, (P.L. 111-296) and any federal regulations implementing that act. When choosing foods to serve in a breakfast after the bell program, schools must give preference to foods that are healthful and fresh, and if feasible, give preference to Washington-grown food.

(5) Subject to the availability of amounts appropriated for this specific purpose, the superintendent of public instruction shall administer one-time start-up allocation grants to each high-needs school implementing a breakfast after the bell program under this section. Grant funds provided under this section must be used for the costs associated with launching a breakfast after the bell program, including but not limited to equipment purchases, training, additional staff costs, and janitorial services.

(6) The legislature does not intend to include the programs under this section within the state's obligation for basic education funding under Article IX of the state Constitution.

The guidelines and procedures must also include recommendations and best practices for designing, implementing, and operating breakfast after the bell programs that are based upon the implementation and operational experiences of schools of differing sizes and in different geographic regions of the state that have implemented breakfast after the bell programs.

(2) The office of the superintendent of public instruction shall offer training and technical and marketing assistance to all public schools and school districts related to offering breakfast after the bell, including assistance with various funding options available to high-needs schools such as the community eligibility provision under 42 U.S.C. If students are provided the opportunity to engage in educational activity concurrently with the consumption of breakfast, and the provision of breakfast allows the regular instructional program to continue functioning, the period of time designated for student participation in breakfast after the bell, as defined in section 2 of this act, must be considered instructional hours.

Dick was a, I served with Dick in the House for many years and Dick actually was a real force of the Commerce & Labor Committee in the decades of the 1980s and 1990s, and eventually lobbied here for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, as well. A real strong spokesperson for working families in this state. I can remember him being my mentor when I first arrived in '93 here and his encouragement of standing strong for working families. Dick was a gentleperson, a good person. Served in the Senate and in the House and we'll miss him. I really want to send my condolences to his family and express my sorrow on the loss of Dick King."

But Dick was a good chairman, he listened to everybody, he worked very hard, and I think he served for thirty years here. So, I just wanted to remember Dick as a very good representative from the Everett area. Thank you."

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

CERTIFICATION OF INITIATIVE TO THE LEGISLATURE NO. 940

Pursuant to Article 11, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution, RCW 29A.72.230, and WAC 434-37 9-010, the Office of the Secretary of State has caused the signatures submitted in support of Initiative to the Legislature No. 940 to be examined in the following manner:

1. It was determined that 359,895 signatures were submitted by the sponsors of the initiative. A random sample of 10,833 signatures was taken from those submitted;
2. Each sampled signature was examined to determine if the signer was a registered voter of the state, if the signature was reasonably similar to the one appearing on the record of that voter, and if the same signature appeared more than once in the sample. We found 9,100 valid signatures, 1,732 signatures that were invalid and 1 pair of duplicated signatures in the sample;
3. We calculated an allowance for the chance error of sampling (62) by multiplying the square root of the number of invalid signatures by 1.5;
4. We estimated the upper limit of the number of signatures on the initiative petition which were invalid {59,615} by dividing the sum of the number of invalid signatures in the sample and allowance for the chance of error of sampling by the sampling ratio;
5. We determined the maximum allowable number of duplicate pairs of signatures on the petition {40,658} by subtracting the sum of the number of signatures required by Article II, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution (259,622) and the estimate of the upper limit of the number of invalid signatures on the petition from the number of signatures submitted;

SEVENTEENTH DAY, JANUARY 24, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

6. We determined the expected number of duplicate pairs of signatures in the sample (37) by multiplying the square of the sampling ratio by the maximum allowable number of pairs of signatures on the initiative petition;

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Sheldon: "Thank you Madam President. You and I have both been here a long time and one of the things that has personally been bothering me for a long while here this year is the appearance of the capitol dome. It is, I would call it, kind of a swampy grey color. When you come in tomorrow in the daylight, take a look at the color of that dome and think, 'Are we sending a message to the public that this is a well-kept capital campus?' I am not proud of the way it looks and I hope that we can make some changes. I talked to some of the fellows that work downstairs that wear blue uniforms and they will tell you the same thing. They are state employees and are also disappointed in the appearance of this building from the outside. I am lodging my complaint. Thank you."

Sec. 2. RCW 9.41.090 and 2015 c 1 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) In addition to the other requirements of this chapter, no dealer may deliver a pistol or bump-fire stock to the purchaser thereof until:

(a) The purchaser produces a valid concealed pistol license and the dealer has recorded the purchaser's name, license number, and issuing agency, such record to be made in triplicate and processed as provided in subsection (5) of this section. For purposes of this subsection (1)(a), a "valid concealed pistol license" does not include a temporary emergency license, and does not include any license issued before July 1, 1996, unless the issuing agency conducted a records search for disqualifying crimes under RCW 9.41.070 at the time of issuance;

(b) The dealer is notified in writing by the chief of police or the sheriff of the jurisdiction in which the purchaser resides that the purchaser is eligible to possess a pistol or bump-fire stock under RCW 9.41.040 and that the application to purchase is approved by the chief of police or sheriff; or

(c) The requirements or time periods in RCW 9.41.092 have been satisfied.

(2)(a) Except as provided in (b) of this subsection, in determining whether the purchaser meets the requirements of RCW 9.41.040, the chief of police or sheriff, or the designee of either, shall check with the national crime information center, the Washington state patrol electronic database, the department of social and health services electronic database, and with other agencies or resources as appropriate, to determine whether the applicant is ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to possess a firearm.

(b) Once the system is established, a dealer shall use the state system and national instant criminal background check system, provided for by the Brady Handgun Violence Prevention Act (18 U.S.C. Sec. 921 et seq.), to make criminal background checks of applicants to purchase firearms. However, a chief of police or sheriff, or a designee of either, shall continue to check the department of social and health services' electronic database and with other agencies or resources as appropriate, to determine whether applicants are ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to possess a firearm.

(3) In any case under this section where the applicant has an outstanding warrant for his or her arrest from any court of competent jurisdiction for a felony or misdemeanor, the dealer shall hold the delivery of the pistol or bump-fire stock until the warrant for arrest is served and satisfied by appropriate court appearance. The local jurisdiction for purposes of the sale shall confirm the existence of outstanding warrants within seventy-two hours after notification of the application to purchase a pistol or bump-fire stock is received. The local jurisdiction shall also immediately confirm the satisfaction of the warrant on request of the dealer so that the hold may be released if the warrant was for an offense other than an offense making a person ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to possess a ~~(pistol)~~ firearm.

(4) In any case where the chief or sheriff of the local jurisdiction has reasonable grounds based on the following circumstances: (a) Open criminal charges, (b) pending criminal proceedings, (c) pending commitment proceedings, (d) an outstanding warrant for an offense making a person ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to possess a ~~(pistol)~~ firearm, or (e) an arrest for an offense making a person ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to possess a ~~(pistol)~~ firearm, if the records of disposition have not yet been reported or entered sufficiently to determine eligibility to purchase a ~~((pistol))~~ firearm, the local jurisdiction may hold the sale and delivery of the pistol or bump-fire stock up to thirty days in order to confirm existing records in this state or elsewhere. After thirty days, the hold will be lifted unless an extension of the thirty days is approved by a local district court or municipal court for good cause shown. A dealer shall be notified of each hold placed on the sale by local law enforcement and of any application to the court for additional hold period to confirm records or confirm the identity of the applicant.

(5)(a) At the time of applying for the purchase of a pistol or bump-fire stock, the purchaser shall sign in triplicate and deliver to the dealer an application containing:

(i) His or her full name, residential address, date and place of birth, race, and gender;

(ii) The date and hour of the application;

(iii) The applicant's driver's license number or state identification card number;

(iv) If purchasing a pistol, a description of the pistol including the make, model, ~~((caliber))~~ and manufacturer's number if available at the time of applying for the purchase of a pistol. If the manufacturer's number is not available at the time of purchase of the pistol, the application may be processed, but delivery of the pistol to the purchaser may not occur unless the manufacturer's number is recorded on the application by the dealer and transmitted to the chief of police of the municipality or the sheriff of the county in which the purchaser resides; and a statement that the purchaser is eligible to possess a ~~((pistol))~~ firearm under ~~((RCW 9.41.040))~~ state or federal law.

(b) The application shall contain a warning substantially as follows:

CAUTION: Although state and local laws do not differ, federal law and state law on the possession of firearms differ. If you are prohibited by federal law from possessing a firearm, you may be prosecuted in federal court. State permission to purchase a firearm is not a defense to a federal prosecution.

The purchaser shall be given a copy of the department of fish and wildlife pamphlet on the legal limits of the use of firearms, firearms safety, and the fact that local laws and ordinances on firearms are preempted by state law and must be consistent with state law.

(c) The dealer shall, by the end of the business day, sign and attach his or her address and deliver a copy of the application and such other documentation as required under subsection (1) of this section to the chief of police of the municipality or the sheriff of the county of which the purchaser is a resident. The triplicate shall be retained by the dealer for six years. The dealer shall deliver the pistol or bump-fire stock to the purchaser following the period of time specified in this chapter unless the dealer is notified of an investigative hold under subsection (4) of this section in writing by the chief of police of the municipality or the sheriff of the county, whichever is applicable, denying the purchaser's application to purchase and the grounds thereof. The application shall not be denied unless the purchaser is not eligible to possess a ~~((pistol))~~ firearm under ~~((RCW 9.41.040 or 9.41.045,))~~ state or federal law.

(d) The chief of police of the municipality or the sheriff of the county shall retain or destroy applications to purchase a pistol or bump-fire stock in accordance with the requirements of 18 U.S.C. Sec. 922.

(6) A person who knowingly makes a false statement regarding identity or eligibility requirements on the application to purchase a ~~((pistol))~~ firearm is guilty of false swearing under RCW 9A.72.040.

(7) This section does not apply to sales to licensed dealers for resale or to the sale of antique firearms.

Sec. 3. RCW 9.41.094 and 1994 sp.s. c 7 s 411 are each amended to read as follows:

A signed application to purchase a pistol or bump-fire stock shall constitute a waiver of confidentiality and written request that the department of social and health services, mental health institutions, and other health care facilities release, to an inquiring court or law enforcement agency, information relevant to the applicant's eligibility to purchase a pistol or bump-fire stock to an inquiring court or law enforcement agency.

Sec. 4. RCW 9.41.097 and 2009 c 216 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department of social and health services, mental health institutions, and other health care facilities shall, upon request of a court or law enforcement agency, supply such relevant information as is necessary to determine the eligibility of a person to possess a ~~((pistol))~~ firearm or to be issued a concealed pistol license under RCW 9.41.070 or to purchase a pistol or bump-fire stock under RCW 9.41.090.

(2) Mental health information received by: (a) The department of licensing pursuant to RCW 9.41.047 or 9.41.173; (b) an issuing authority pursuant to RCW 9.41.047 or 9.41.070; (c) a chief of police or sheriff pursuant to RCW 9.41.090 or 9.41.173; (d) a court or law enforcement agency pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, shall not be disclosed except as provided in RCW 42.56.240(4).

Sec. 5. RCW 9.41.0975 and 2009 c 216 s 7 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The state, local governmental entities, any public or private agency, and the employees of any state or local governmental entity or public or private agency, acting in good faith, are immune from liability:

(a) For failure to prevent the sale or transfer of a firearm to a person whose receipt or possession of the firearm is unlawful;

(c) For issuing a concealed pistol license or alien firearm license to a person ineligible for such a license;

(d) For failing to issue a concealed pistol license or alien firearm license to a person eligible for such a license;

(e) For revoking or failing to revoke an issued concealed pistol license or alien firearm license;

(f) For errors in preparing or transmitting information as part of determining a person's eligibility to receive or possess a firearm, or eligibility for a concealed pistol license or alien firearm license;

(g) For issuing a dealer's license to a person ineligible for such a license; or

(h) For failing to issue a dealer's license to a person eligible for such a license.

(5)(a) A licensing authority shall, within thirty days after the filing of an application of any person for a dealer's license, determine whether to grant the license. However, if the applicant does not have a valid permanent Washington driver's license or Washington state identification card, or has not been a resident of the state for the previous consecutive ninety days, the licensing authority shall have up to sixty days to determine whether to issue a license. If the seller or transferor removes the firearm from the business premises of the licensed dealer while the background check is being conducted, the purchaser or transferee and the seller or transferor shall return to the business premises of the licensed dealer and the seller or transferor shall again deliver the firearm to the licensed dealer prior to completing the sale or transfer.

(b) Except as provided in (a) of this subsection, the licensed dealer shall comply with all requirements of federal and state law that would apply if the licensed dealer were selling or transferring the firearm from its inventory to the purchaser or transferee, including but not limited to conducting a background check on the prospective purchaser or transferee in accordance with federal and state law requirements and fulfilling all federal and state recordkeeping requirements.

(c) The purchaser or transferee must complete, sign, and submit all federal, state, and local forms necessary to process the required background check to the licensed dealer conducting the background check.

Sec. 8. RCW 9.94A.533 and 2016 c 203 s 7 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The provisions of this section apply to the standard sentence ranges determined by RCW 9.94A.510 or 9.94A.517.

(2) For persons convicted of the anticipatory offenses of criminal attempt, solicitation, or conspiracy under chapter 9A.28 RCW, the standard sentence range is determined by locating the sentencing grid sentence range defined by the appropriate offender score and the seriousness level of the completed crime, and multiplying the range by seventy-five percent.

(3) The following additional times shall be added to the standard sentence range for felony crimes committed after July

23, 1995, if the offender or an accomplice was armed with a firearm as defined in RCW 9.41.010 and the offender is being sentenced for one of the crimes listed in this subsection as eligible for any firearm enhancements based on the classification of the completed felony crime. If the offender is being sentenced for more than one offense, the firearm enhancement or enhancements must be added to the total period of confinement for all offenses, regardless of which underlying offense is subject to a firearm enhancement. If the offender or an accomplice was armed with a firearm as defined in RCW 9.41.010 and the offender is being sentenced for an anticipatory offense under chapter 9A.28 RCW to commit one of the crimes listed in this subsection as eligible for any firearm enhancements, the following additional times shall be added to the standard sentence range determined under subsection (2) of this section based on the felony crime of conviction as classified under RCW 9A.28.020:

(a) Five years for any felony defined under any law as a class A felony or with a statutory maximum sentence of at least twenty years, or both, and not covered under (f) of this subsection;

(b) Three years for any felony defined under any law as a class B felony or with a statutory maximum sentence of ten years, or both, and not covered under (f) of this subsection;

(c) Eighteen months for any felony defined under any law as a class C felony or with a statutory maximum sentence of five years, or both, and not covered under (f) of this subsection;

(d) If the offender is being sentenced for any firearm enhancements under (a), (b), and/or (c) of this subsection and the offender has previously been sentenced for any deadly weapon enhancements after July 23, 1995, under (a), (b), and/or (c) of this subsection or subsection (4)(a), (b), and/or (c) of this section, or both, all firearm enhancements under this subsection shall be twice the amount of the enhancement listed;

(e) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, all firearm enhancements under this section are mandatory, shall be served in total confinement, and shall run consecutively to all other sentencing provisions, including other firearm or deadly weapon enhancements, for all offenses sentenced under this chapter. However, whether or not a mandatory minimum term has expired, an offender serving a sentence under this subsection may be:

(i) Granted an extraordinary medical placement when authorized under RCW 9.94A.728(1)(c); or

(ii) Released under the provisions of RCW 9.94A.730;

(f) The firearm enhancements in this section shall apply to all felony crimes except the following: Possession of a machine gun or bump-fire stock, possessing a stolen firearm, drive-by shooting, theft of a firearm, unlawful possession of a firearm in the first and second degree, and use of a machine gun or bump-fire stock in a felony;

(g) If the standard sentence range under this section exceeds the statutory maximum sentence for the offense, the statutory maximum sentence shall be the presumptive sentence unless the offender is a persistent offender. If the addition of a firearm enhancement increases the sentence so that it would exceed the statutory maximum for the offense, the portion of the sentence representing the enhancement may not be reduced.

(4) The following additional times shall be added to the standard sentence range for felony crimes committed after July 23, 1995, if the offender or an accomplice was armed with a deadly weapon other than a firearm as defined in RCW 9.41.010 and the offender is being sentenced for one of the crimes listed in this subsection as eligible for any deadly weapon enhancements based on the classification of the completed felony crime. An offender serving a sentence under this subsection may be granted an extraordinary medical placement when authorized under RCW 9.94A.728(1)(c).

(8)(a) The following additional times shall be added to the standard sentence range for felony crimes committed on or after July 1, 2006, if the offense was committed with sexual motivation, as that term is defined in RCW 9.94A.030. If the offender is being sentenced for more than one offense, the sexual motivation enhancement must be added to the total period of total confinement for all offenses, regardless of which underlying offense is subject to a sexual motivation enhancement. If the offender committed the offense with sexual motivation and the offender is being sentenced for an anticipatory offense under chapter 9A.28 RCW, the following additional times shall be added to the standard sentence range determined under subsection (2) of this section based on the felony crime of conviction as classified under RCW 9A.28.020:

(c) The sexual motivation enhancements in this subsection apply to all felony crimes;

(d) If the standard sentence range under this subsection exceeds the statutory maximum sentence for the offense, the statutory maximum sentence shall be the presumptive sentence unless the offender is a persistent offender. (e) The portion of the total confinement sentence which the offender must serve under this subsection shall be calculated before any earned early release time is credited to the offender;

(f) Nothing in this subsection prevents a sentencing court from imposing a sentence outside the standard sentence range pursuant to RCW 9.94A.535.

(9) An additional one-year enhancement shall be added to the standard sentence range for the felony crimes of RCW 9A.44.073, 9A.44.076, 9A.44.079, 9A.44.083, 9A.44.086, or 9A.44.089 committed on or after July 22, 2007, if the offender engaged, agreed, or offered to engage the victim in the sexual conduct in return for a fee. If the offender is being sentenced for more than one offense, the one-year enhancement must be added to the total period of total confinement for all offenses, regardless of which underlying offense is subject to the enhancement. If the offender is being sentenced for an anticipatory offense for the felony crimes of RCW 9A.44.073, 9A.44.076, 9A.44.079, 9A.44.083, 9A.44.086, or 9A.44.089, and the offender attempted, solicited another, or conspired to engage, agree, or offer to engage the victim in the sexual conduct in return for a fee, an additional one-year enhancement shall be added to the standard sentence range determined under subsection (2) of this section. For purposes of this subsection, "sexual conduct" means sexual intercourse or sexual contact, both as defined in chapter 9A.44 RCW.

(10)(a) For a person age eighteen or older convicted of any criminal street gang-related felony offense for which the person compensated, threatened, or solicited a minor in order to involve the minor in the commission of the felony offense, the standard sentence range is determined by locating the sentencing grid sentence range defined by the appropriate offender score and the seriousness level of the completed crime, and multiplying the range by one hundred twenty-five percent. If the standard sentence range under this subsection exceeds the statutory maximum sentence for the offense, the statutory maximum sentence is the presumptive sentence unless the offender is a persistent offender.

(b) This subsection does not apply to any criminal street gang-related felony offense for which involving a minor in the commission of the felony offense is an element of the offense.

(c) The increased penalty specified in (a) of this subsection is unavailable in the event that the prosecution gives notice that it will seek an exceptional sentence based on an aggravating factor under RCW 9.94A.535.

(11) An additional twelve months and one day shall be added to the standard sentence range for a conviction of attempting to elude a police vehicle as defined by RCW 46.61.024, if the conviction included a finding by special allegation of endangering one or more persons under RCW 9.94A.834.

(12) An additional twelve months shall be added to the standard sentence range for an offense that is also a violation of RCW 9.94A.831.

(13) An additional twelve months shall be added to the standard sentence range for vehicular homicide committed while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or any drug as defined by RCW 46.61.520 or for vehicular assault committed while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or any drug as defined by RCW 46.61.522, or for any felony driving under the influence (RCW 46.61.502(6)) or felony physical control under the influence

(RCW 46.61.504(6)) for each child passenger under the age of sixteen who is an occupant in the defendant's vehicle. These enhancements shall be mandatory, shall be served in total confinement, and shall run consecutively to all other sentencing provisions. If the addition of a minor child enhancement increases the sentence so that it would exceed the statutory maximum for the offense, the portion of the sentence representing the enhancement may not be reduced.

(14) An additional twelve months shall be added to the standard sentence range for an offense that is also a violation of RCW 9.94A.832.

Sec. 9. RCW 13.40.193 and 2014 c 117 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) If a respondent is found to have been in possession of a firearm in violation of RCW 9.41.040(2)(a)(~~(iii)~~) (iv), the court shall impose a minimum disposition of ten days of confinement. If the offender's standard range of disposition for the offense as indicated in RCW 13.40.0357 is more than thirty days of confinement, the court shall commit the offender to the department for the standard range disposition. The offender shall not be released until the offender has served a minimum of ten days in confinement.

(2)(a) If a respondent is found to have been in possession of a firearm in violation of RCW 9.41.040, the disposition must include a requirement that the respondent participate in a qualifying program as described in (b) of this subsection, when available, unless the court makes a written finding based on the outcome of the juvenile court risk assessment that participation in a qualifying program would not be appropriate.

(b) For purposes of this section, "qualifying program" means an aggression replacement training program, a functional family therapy program, or another program applicable to the juvenile firearm offender population that has been identified as evidence-based or research-based and cost-beneficial in the current list prepared at the direction of the legislature by the Washington state institute for public policy.

(3) If the court finds that the respondent or an accomplice was armed with a firearm, the court shall determine the standard range disposition for the offense pursuant to RCW 13.40.160. If the offender or an accomplice was armed with a firearm when the offender committed any felony other than possession of a machine gun or bump-fire stock, possession of a stolen firearm, drive-by shooting, theft of a firearm, unlawful possession of a firearm in the first and second degree, or use of a machine gun or bump-fire stock in a felony, the following periods of total confinement must be added to the sentence: For a class A felony, six months; for a class B felony, four months; and for a class C felony, two months. The additional time shall be imposed regardless of the offense's juvenile disposition offense category as designated in RCW 13.40.0357.

(4) When a disposition under this section would effectuate a manifest injustice, the court may impose another disposition. When a judge finds a manifest injustice and imposes a disposition of confinement exceeding thirty days, the court shall commit the juvenile to a maximum term, and the provisions of RCW 13.40.030(2) shall be used to determine the range. When a judge finds a manifest injustice and imposes a disposition of confinement less than thirty days, the disposition shall be comprised of confinement or community supervision or both.

(5) Any term of confinement ordered pursuant to this section shall run consecutively to any term of confinement imposed in the same disposition for other offenses.

By Senators Van De Wege, Liias, Rolfes, Chase, Pedersen, Nelson, McCoy, Ranker, Bailey, Angel, Sheldon, King, and Hobbs

WHEREAS, The Washington Legislature in 1868 established pilot and pilotage regulations for the Strait of Juan de Fuca and Puget Sound and related waters; and

WHEREAS, The legislature established that it shall be the duty of the governor to appoint two experienced and resident ship masters and one resident merchant to constitute a board of pilot commissioners for the different ports of Puget Sound, the Strait of Juan de Fuca, and related waters; and

WHEREAS, The legislature established that the commissioners shall meet in Port Townsend at least once every three months and hold their first regular meeting on the first Monday of May, 1868; and

WHEREAS, The Pilotage Act was signed into law on January 30, 1868, by the seventh governor of Washington Territory, the honorable Marshall F. Moore, a union army veteran of the civil war who served as governor from 1867 to 1869; and

WHEREAS, The commission and pilots have been serving Washington State and waterborne commerce in the Puget Sound region for one hundred fifty years; and

WHEREAS, No persons, except those licensed by the commissioners, may pilot vessels in or out of the bays or harbors of Puget Sound, the Strait of Juan de Fuca, or their inlets or harbors, for hire; and

WHEREAS, It is the duty of every pilot in charge of a vessel arriving in any of the ports of Puget Sound or its branches to have the vessel safely moored or anchored in such position as the master may direct, and that pilots keep a pilot station and boats in good condition for cruising the Strait of Juan de Fuca and for safely boarding vessels upon arrival and disembark; and

WHEREAS, It is the mission of the state and Puget Sound pilots to ensure against the loss of lives, loss of or damage to property and vessel, and to protect the marine environment by maintaining efficient and competent pilotage service on our state's inland waters within the Puget Sound pilotage district; and

WHEREAS, The Pilotage Act, regulated and administered by the state's board of pilotage commissioners and serviced by state licensed pilots, has successfully handled nearly two hundred fifty thousand vessel assignments, spanning more than three decades, without a major incident in the Puget Sound; and

WHEREAS, Puget Sound pilots were available to board ships on arrival at the Port Angeles pilot station ninety-nine percent of the time providing nearly perfect service; and

WHEREAS, The state's compulsory pilotage program has successfully mitigated the risk of ships operating in Puget Sound waters while preserving Washington's position as an able competitor for waterborne commerce from other ports and nations of the world;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State Senate honor this historic date of January 30, 2018, as the 150th Anniversary of Washington's Pilotage Act of 1868.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Sheldon: "Thank you Mr. President. When Senator Keiser was on the rostrum recently, I wanted to expand on a point that I made. I have travelled around our country a little bit and been in some of the state capitols that are neighboring us. Obviously Boise has had quite a restoration in their capitol not too long ago, and it looks great. My observation Mr. President, is that the capitol dome here is in the worst shape I have ever seen it. It is almost black. The north side is certainly much darker than the south side, but it needs cleaning badly. I have the privilege to park down in the garage under, below this building, and talk to the maintenance people down there and they agree with me that they had never seen it in this poor of condition. So, my point by rising here today is to help us to enlist some help in getting this capitol dome cleaned up so it looks presentable and looks like the capitol dome that all of our citizens should recognize. Thank you."

President Habib: "Thank you and Senator Sheldon I can virtually, and I wasn't here then, but I can virtually guarantee, because I believe you were, this is not the worst condition you have ever seen the capitol dome in. You were here during the Nisqually earthquake years."

Senator Sheldon: "Yes, I was here during the earthquake but that did not affect the condition of it. I think it is a lichen or a mold that has attached itself. We've had projects to clean the capitol dome before, I recall, and it's an extensive job but I have never seen us go this long and have it be in such poor condition."

President Habib: "You are certainly welcome and I will tell you that it is something that on behalf of the Senate as Lt. Governor, I chair the Senate Capitol Committee and it has come up but I would, we will share the next meeting of that committee with you, the time and the date of it, and we would be glad to have you come and discuss that with members of the committee."

Senator Sheldon: "Mr. President, I would love to do that. Thank you very much for your response."

MOTION

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. (1) The legislature finds that thoughtful and evidence-based school food programs are associated with improved outcomes for students, including reductions in tardiness, absenteeism, suspensions, and reported illnesses and visits to nurses' offices. The legislature further finds that thoughtful and evidence-based school food programs are also associated with improved student results on standardized tests and improved graduation rates.

(2) The legislature acknowledges that existing school-related farm programs play an important role in helping students to better understand the relationships between academics, food, farming, and good health.

APPOINTMENT OF VALORIA A. LOVELAND

(3) The legislature finds that the purpose of sections 1 through 7 of this act is to achieve the public policy benefits specified in subsection (1) of this section: Improved student outcomes. To do so, the legislature intends to:

(a) Expand opportunities for students to have a healthy breakfast by requiring schools with large populations of qualifying low-income students to offer breakfast after the bell programs, a program model that has increased breakfast participation rates in other states; and

(b) Increase support for school-related farm programs that have proven successful in supporting students through policies that, among other benefits, promote student health and readiness through healthy local foods and school garden projects; and

(c) Conduct an analysis of breakfast after the bell programs established in accordance with section 3 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 28A.235 RCW to read as follows:

The definitions in this section apply throughout sections 3 through 4 of this act unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Breakfast after the bell" means a breakfast that is offered to students after the beginning of the school day. Examples of breakfast after the bell models include, but are not limited to:

(a) "Grab and go," where easy-to-eat breakfast foods are available for students to take at the start of the school day or in between morning classes;

(b) "Second chance breakfast," where breakfast foods are available during recess, a nutrition break, or later in the morning, for students who are not hungry first thing in the morning, or who arrive late to school; and

(3) Each high-needs school may determine the breakfast after the bell service model that best suits its students. Service models include, but are not limited to, breakfast in the classroom, grab and go breakfast, and second chance breakfast.

(4) All breakfasts served in a breakfast after the bell program must comply with federal meal patterns and nutrition standards for school breakfast programs under the federal healthy, hunger-free kids act of 2010, (P.L. 111-296) and any federal regulations implementing that act. SENATE RESOLUTION 8690

By Senator McCoy

WHEREAS, Adeline "Hattie" Black passed away January 19, 2018. Hattie was the eldest member of the Swinomish Indian Tribal community, born September 8, 1917. Hattie's well-lived life reflected many crucial stories to the history of her community; and

WHEREAS, Hattie grew up in a magical world, one profoundly tied to place: The water, open sky and lush landscape of the western Swinomish shoreline all inspired her. She delighted in picking wild lilies at Kukutali, watching fishermen work the fish traps near her home, and visiting her favorite spot: The tall fir at Lone Tree; and

WHEREAS, Hattie's family history provided a strong and firm tie to Lone Tree until the end of her life. Hattie was raised in a household run by women who managed their own small truck farm; she was educated first and foremost by her grandmother; and

WHEREAS, Educated in the La Conner School District from 1928 to 1940, Hattie entered a world that could not have been easy for her. Nevertheless, Hattie persevered and she came to greatly enjoy her school years. She helped ease the transition of other Native children into the classroom. She participated in many extra-curricular activities such as musicals and plays; she delighted when her classmates made the long hike out to Lone Tree from town; and

WHEREAS, Before graduating from high school, Hattie's grandmother passed away and she decided to make it out on her own. Hattie had become a nanny for a family of five when Congress created the Women's Army Corps. After enlisting and being assigned, Hattie served as an Air Operation Specialist in Brooks Air Force Base in Texas. She served until 1946 and reflected that her period of service was one of the happiest times of her life and was proud to be part of the efforts during WWII; and

WHEREAS, Hattie then married Roy Black and spent the following years traveling the world; from Jerusalem to Egypt to Alaska. She once again returned to the Swinomish Reservation in 2004 where she was cared for by her friends and later by Shuksan Healthcare center; and

WHEREAS, Hattie's long-lived life, allowed the Swinomish Tribe to document and archive crucial memories in order to help tell her story to future generations. Some of her personal historic donations include: Historic photographs, her grandmother's basket, and even her World War II uniform. On her 100th birthday, Hattie was presented with songs of honor and she ended her day by walking up to Lone Tree to see "her tree," called da-chook-hay in her native Lushootseed; and

WHEREAS, It is with great sadness to let go of a well-rooted member of the Swinomish Tribe, but may we honor and remember her in the history she left behind;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Senate recognize and honor Adeline "Hattie" Black; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Secretary of the Senate to the family of Adeline "Hattie" Black and to President Brian Cladoosby.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Padden: "Thank you Mr. President. Today is the anniversary of the birthday of the Fortieth President of the United States, the Honorable Ronald Wilson Reagan, who was born in the heartland of America, in Illinois, on this day in 1911. He had an illustrious career as many of us know, was a lifeguard, saved numerous, numerous individuals, saved their lives as a lifeguard. Later went on, I thought maybe the most interesting parts of his life, as a radio broadcaster doing the play-by-play games for the Iowa affiliate of the Chicago Cubs. Later, of course, he went on to become an actor, a spokesperson for General Electric Theater and really came on the political scene, as often happens Mr. President, from the ashes of defeat. Sometimes we rise to victory. He was involved in one of the greatest defeats of any Republican candidate, somebody who I worked for back in 1964, Barry Goldwater. He gave a speech that was heard around the nation that propelled him into notoriety at the end of that campaign, later led him to become Governor of California in '66, and from there he had quite a distinguished record as Governor of California, ran for president in '76. Then, of course, was elected President in '80 and '84, and he brought a new outlook to government. Some of the things that Ronald Reagan said, there are so many things, I actually have a little display Mr. President outside my office in the Newhouse Building if anybody is around that area and wanted to see some of the quotes of Reagan, but he made the one famous statement that: 'Government is not the solution to the problem. Government is the problem,' and: 'When government expands, liberty contracts.' He also indicated that the basis of conservatism is the desire for less government, less interference, less centralized authority, and more individual freedom. So, in 1980, he ran for president. He received 489 electoral college votes, Mr. President. The only states that he did not carry, kind of interesting in today's political context, Georgia, West Virginia, Minnesota, and the District of Columbia. And four years later he had one of the greatest electoral college victories ever in 1984, getting 525 electoral college votes out of a maximum of 538. The only state he did not carry was his opponent's home state of Minnesota, which was very close, and the District of Columbia. But not only did he promote freedom here in the United States of America, he promoted freedom throughout the world. And through his leadership, along with two of his crucial allies, Pope John Paul II and Margaret Thatcher, we were able to tear down the iron curtain and literally tear down the Berlin Wall. We all remember when he made his trip to Berlin, to the Brandenburg Gate. He said, 'I come here to this gate Mr. Gorbachev, open the gate. Mr. Gorbachev, tear down this wall!' And some of his speech writers, Mr. President, didn't want him to put that in. They thought it was too provocative but he knew what he wanted to say. He was his own person, he put that in and it became very, very famous. One of the other things he said about foreign policy is that there is a: 'Focus of evil in the modern world. ... I urge you to beware the temptation ... to ignore the facts of history and the aggressive impulses of any evil empire, to simply call the arms race a giant misunderstanding and thereby remove yourself from the struggle between right and wrong, good and evil.' So, I have always been an admirer of the Fortieth President of the United States Mr. President and I think it is appropriate to recognize his birthdate, his influence on our country, and I would like to close with just some remarks he made towards the end of his eight years as president. He said, 'We did it. We weren't just marking time. We made a difference. We made the city stronger. We made the city freer, we left here in good hands. All in all, not bad, not bad at all. And so, good bye, God bless you, and God bless the United States of America.' Thank you Mr. President."

REMARKS BY SENATOR LIAS

Senator Liias: “Thank you Mr. President. I appreciate Senator Padden’s comments and I would note that he was such a great admirer of President Reagan that he actually cast an electoral vote for him in 1976, four years before he was the nominee of the Republican Party. So, Senator Padden’s appreciation for President Reagan is well documented in history. I will also note, Mr. President, that today is the 52nd birthday of singer Rick Astley, and Mr. President we are ‘never gonna give you up,’ so we are going to move that the Senate go at ease subject to the call of the President.”

MOTION

At 8:40 a.m., on motion of Senator Liias, the Senate was declared to be at ease subject to the call of the President for the purposes of receiving reports of standing committees later in the day.

EVENING SESSION

The Senate was called to order at 11:10 p.m. by President Habib.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Liias, the Senate reverted to the first order of business.

You know the 45th District is known for its innovative spirit, often best exemplified by both the high-tech and the low small tech companies that employ many of my constituents. And you need to look more than what's been going on around the world, you can see the picture of the red Tesla floating around in orbit. That was put there by one of the companies that is in my district. And I was actually going to provide you all with Teslas, but they took the red one and put it out in orbit so I was missing one, though I think Senator Mullet has graciously offered that his Tesla can be the next one to go up in space. And I think Senator Takko will be putting his hat on the spaceship, so we have that to look forward to at the next launch. But, in all seriousness, I wanted to provide you with this wonderful bottle of wine which is from one of the wineries in Woodinville. It was actually founded by a few ex-Microsoft individuals, so it really does combine a lot of the different offerings that we have in the 45th District. Avennia wine actually has been recognized as one of Washington wineries to watch by Wine Press Northwest with a fine vintage in 2010 being named the red wine of the year by Seattle Magazine. So, if you'd like a bottle please come visit the district, we have many more wineries and wonderful restaurants. And, this is why I brought this bottle to share. I also wanted to highlight some of the other things the people in my district have been doing. And

And again, I am truly honored and humbled to be a part of this body and I really want to thank each and every one of you for the warm reception you have given and I really have enjoyed conversations all over this room. POINT OF ORDER

Senator Liias: "Mr. President, I believe that Senator Baumgartner, while attempting to set the context is actually entering into a third reading debate on the speech and we should speak to the amendment around removing the language about procurement that is before us."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "Senator Baumgartner, I'm inclined to agree that, particularly since you are asking to read this document in at this point which doesn't appear to be directly related to the content of this amendment. I'd ask if you could, well I am going to ask that you, especially in light of the number of amendments you've put forward and are having to work through this, and as you mentioned it is late. Please, if you could keep your remarks in your own words and I'll be, I'm trying to be lenient here. I understand it is a difficult topic, but please, try and reserve you time here to your own ideas."

Senator Baumgartner again spoke in favor of adoption of the amendment.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "Senator Baumgartner. Number one, we will not be impugning motives of the Governor either. I am going to continue to speak and your microphone has been cut off."

THIRTY FIRST DAY, FEBRUARY 7, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

I going to continue to speak. We are not here ... You are more than welcome to discuss whether or not you think it is appropriate to address a court case, but I will remind you that just two weeks ago, this chamber took up legislation to address another prominent state supreme court case that I believe you were very supportive of and I did not remember, nor would I have allowed opponents of the Hirst legislation to refer to it as 'a subversion' or 'an intent to subvert' a court ruling. We frequently in the legislative process are responding to court cases, so when you use language like that, it does impugn not only the requester of the legislation, in this case the Governor, but also the prime sponsor of the legislation and other legislators who support it. So, please, I know this is an emotional topic but please reserve your remarks for the ideas and the content, not history, politics, things that are outside the four corners of the policy debate that we are having."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Fain: "Thank you Mr. President. My inquiry, I guess, is: Are you interpreting Senate Rules as to apply to impugning the motives of individuals that are not sitting senators? In that, are you interpreting the rules to state that we may not impugn the motives of other elected officials or individuals that are not members of this chamber? And, if so, Mr. President I am not certain where our rules indicate that, but I am certainly open that education."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "Well I will tell you, as I just stated in the final couple sentences before you raised your point, I said by introducing political motives for the request legislation one would also be impugning the motives of the person who introduced that piece of legislation. The President sees no sunlight between the purported motivations of a government agency requesting legislation and those of the prime sponsor, your colleague in the State Senate. So, I don't need to reach the question that you are asking in order to say that these kinds of political speculations do impugn the motives of the prime sponsor and co-sponsors of this piece of legislation. They have no place."

Senator Fain: "Thank you Mr. President. May I respond briefly?"

President Habib: "You have raised a point of order. I've answered your point of order. Are you raising another point?"

Senator Fain: "I have an additional clarification that I would request sir."

President Habib: "Please go ahead."

Senator Fain: "I do not believe that impugning the motives of the prime sponsor is necessary to impugn the motives of the legislation because the legislation was brought to us by another individual who is not a member of this body. And I think that it is difficult to have an important conversation on something with as much gravity as this issue if we are unable to explain the perceived motives behind it, particularly when evidence has been provided that substantiates those claims. Thank you Mr. President."

President Habib: "Thank you. And I will say, to put an end to that, Senator Fain, I would say that the President does find that, in instances in which there is request legislation, to impugn the motives of the requesting agency does confer that same motive to the senator, in this case it would be Senator Cleveland, or any sponsor of the legislation. Moreover, I will just say as I take the prerogative of the presiding officer to say that I am very proud of the work the Senate has done tackling difficult issues today and this session without needing to resort to political speculation and these types of corrosive comments. I just think we can have this debate respectfully. I ask that we have that just as we did when there were difficult topics perhaps for folks across the aisle."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Liias: "Mr. President, my point is that myself and the members of my caucus are trying to understand why Senator Baumgartner is proposing the specific changes he is proposing on page 8, line 6. And that is my concern. I appreciate that he has broad concerns with the bill. I would like to understand why he proposes to remove this particular language and would ask that the debate on this amendment be germane to why these specific words should be removed from the bill so we can understand its intent."

President Habib: "Your point is well taken. Senator Baumgartner, if you would like to conclude your remarks on the amendment you have proposed then you are free to do so."

Senators Baumgartner once again spoke in favor of adoption of the amendment.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "Senator Baumgartner, once again, by suggesting that there's a motivation on the part of anyone in the Senate to keep members of the public in the dark, you're once again impugning the motives of your colleagues. And, moreover, you're not speaking to the content of the amendment. If I were voting on this amendment, I would not yet know what changes you're proposing. So I'm going to give you one more chance to speak to the content of the amendment you're proposing."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Padden: "Thank you Mr. President. You've indicated your job is to enforce the rules of the Senate. Right now we are violating Rule 15."

President Habib: "Senator Padden, Rule 15 was suspended for the remainder of the day earlier this afternoon."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

POINT OF INQUIRY

President Habib: "Senator Braun. Senator Braun. I'm going to, I'm going to, I know that everyone is feeling emotional and conspiracy minded. I'm going to walk you through the last four ... I'm going speak you through ... I'm going to walk you through the last four speeches. There will be order. There will be order. I'm going to walk you through the last four speeches just to clarify this for you. Senator Baumgartner moved the amendment. Senator Keiser spoke next. Senator Fain spoke next and Senator Liias spoke next. That is alternating among the two caucuses in this chamber. Alright, so you will not impugn my motives either. I then, I went to Senator Liias. He made a motion. We were in the middle of that motion and you are out of order. Now, the motion to call the previous question has been raised."

Senator Braun: "Thank you Mr. President. I would like clarification, Mr. President, on how our system here to ask to speak is supposed to work. I have punched my button now over a dozen times this evening and each time I have been passed over. I don't know if that's because you're making choices at the rostrum – which may be appropriate, I just don't understand what I am doing wrong because we keep bouncing around to people that, even though I've pushed my button."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

The President declared the question before the Senate to be, "Shall the main question be now put?"

The motion by Senator Liias carried and the previous question was put by a rising vote.

President Habib: "Senator Braun you're not ... You are not doing anything wrong. All I can tell you is you've known me as presiding officer here now, this is second year, and I have mentioned to you in your last point on the previous amendment, it is my practice to alternate between Democrats and Republicans, beginning with the maker of whatever motion is being debated. I think members in the Senate know that if you look back and think about it, you will see that I do that at every opportunity. So, there may be times when, Senator Braun, a Republican has just spoken or a member of your caucus has just spoken, and, though you may have requested to speak next, a Democrat is next in order. So there is a whole process, but I will never end debate or call a question on my own so long as any senator still wants to speak unless subject to a motion to cut debate short that is moved and agreed to by the Senate itself, which has happened tonight. So, if there have been instances in which you felt that,

MOTION

Senator Baumgartner demanded a roll call.

The President declared that one-sixth of the members supported the demand and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment no. 460 by Senator Baumgartner on page 10, line 16, to Substitute Senate Bill No. 6199.

notwithstanding the Senate's own restrictions on debate, I have for some reason not called on you, I apologize and would ask that you certainly are welcome to yell 'Mr. President', signal to counsel up here in any other appropriate way to signal that you want to speak before the calling of a vote. Did you want to speak on this amendment?"

Senator Braun: "Thank you Mr. President. I want to point out the last time that I did yell and I was impugned for doing so. So, I am a little confused on how I am supposed to respond. I am getting conflicted messages here."

President Habib: "We can discuss it separately. What I would like to do is ask you to speak on this amendment."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Braun: "Mr. President, I would like to point out to you and others here that we have tried to work - we obviously feel strongly about this bill and we would like to have a good robust debate. We recognize that the hour is late, folks would like to get done. To help focus on the most important amendments, we have withdrawn, I think it is over eleven amendments now. We have only run a fraction of the amendments we proposed. We did that in good faith, and in response to that we have had our discussion curtailed by the actions of the majority repeatedly now. I would ask that they consider that this is not a debate in good faith, they are cutting us off without any good reasons in spite of the fact that we have withdrawn amendments to try to make this a more civil debate. Thank you, Mr. President."

MOTION

At 11:12 p.m., on motion of Senator Liias, the Senate was declared to be at ease subject to the call of the President.

The Senate was called to order at 11:58 p.m. by President Habib.

Any provision of a nondisclosure policy or agreement including any arbitration agreement or decision that would limit, prevent, or punish such disclosure is contrary to public policy and unenforceable. However, the court shall enter appropriate orders upon motion of any party supported by affidavit or sworn declaration, or without motion but on the court's own accord, to ensure that the identity of any person who is or is alleged to be a victim of sexual harassment or assault is not made public as a result of a disclosure made under this section, unless such person consents.

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUESTS

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUEST

The President welcomed and introduced Senator Slade Gorton who was seated at the rostrum.

With permission of the Senate, business was suspended to allow Senator Slade Gorton to address the Senate.

REMARKS BY U.S. SENATOR SLADE GORTON

U.S. Senator Gorton: "Thank you Mr. President and thank you members of the Senate for this distinct honor. Particularly for the highly personal remarks by so many of you on both sides of the aisle. Especially impressive, I think, because my only experience in this building was on the other side of that great gulf, not in this body at all.

For some reason or another, much of the talk has been about redistricting. And I have been on both sides of that great gulf in that respect. The last time I was in the Legislature and the Legislature did it's redistricting, it took four years, and they were four rather brutal years, before a successful and valid set of lines were drawn. The legislators who lived right after that were extremely wise in taking that highly personal system out of the Legislature itself and putting it in the hands of a four member voting commission. It is my view, having done redistricting in the Legislature and outside the Legislature, that the state of Washington now has the single best system in the United States of America for redrawing both congressional and legislative district lines. And what makes it, for all practical purposes, unique is that there are two republicans and two democrats who must work together to make the venture a success. Almost every other state that does it by commission, the republican members and the democratic members join together to elect a tie-breaker, and one party always guesses wrong. It ends up still being a partisan enterprise. In the state of Washington it is not, it is truly bipartisan. The net result of which has been we have never had a significant challenge to the way in which redistricting was done in this state. And today you read about all kinds of states that are still worried about the redistricting taking place after the year 2010. So you can congratulate yourselves, I think, on being in the best state for that normally highly partisan, but now, by reason of our system, bipartisan system of working.

One other thing I would like to say is I look on you as men and women of great privilege. In serving a state that is as dramatic and as rapidly growing as the state of Washington. You face all kinds of challenges as a result. For many, our economic success has been a tremendous bonanza, but many parts of the state haven't shared in it and many people in our metropolitan areas have not shared in it either. As a result of which you spend, you face, very, very difficult complex challenges. The penalty for not meeting those challenges is you keep on facing the same challenges all over again. The reward of meeting them successfully is that each successful venture creates two more challenges in its place. You have that opportunity. You have it here today and, with your wisdom, we will continue to have it as a state for many years to come.

So, I envy you. You are doing wonderful work. You are doing fascinating work. You are doing work that individually frustrates you from time to time but you are doing the work of a free society and I believe I can say, you're doing it well.

Thank you for this honor."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Wagoner: "Well, I think it is traditional to make some remarks and I want to thank some people. First, I would like to thank my mentor on the Republican side, Senator Honeyford, for teaching me the ropes and the rules. However, he neglected to remind me to wear body armor tonight. I guess I am a little slow on the uptake because I should have learned a lesson. I see my esteemed colleague from the 45th is still wearing her red sweater which I think covers up the blood from what you did to her the other night. So I think the next bill I would like to introduce would provide for another protected class and anti-bullying, and that would be freshmen senators. But in all seriousness, I'd also like to thank the Chairs of the two committees I sit on for giving me some mentorship and some opportunities to learn, and I stole from the gentleman from the 36th this morning when he was addressing Senator Slade Gorton, and he talked about grace and kindness, and you have all treated me with grace and kindness here. I deeply appreciate that.

The gift on your desk tonight, I was going to bring water but we didn't have any in Skagit County. [Laughter] But that is a good thing because I think you are going to like this a lot better. This is an apple wine that comes from Eagle Haven Winery, which is just to the east of Sedro Wooley. Those of you visiting the area, maybe to do the Cascade loop, should stop in. It is a wonderful venue with a tasting room. The origins of the Eagle Haven Winery are in the Perkins Orchard which was established in 1968. So they have about twenty acres of apples and I will leave you to be the judge of whether their product is as good as I think it is. Thank you very much Mr. President."

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that the public has the right to know who is contributing to election campaigns in Washington state and that campaign finance disclosure deters corruption, increases public confidence in Washington state elections, raises the level of debate, and strengthens our representative democracy.

The legislature finds that campaign finance disclosure is overwhelmingly supported by the citizens of Washington state as evidenced by the two initiatives that largely established Washington's current system. Both passed with more than seventy-two percent of the popular vote, as well as winning margins in every county in the state.

One of the cornerstones of Washington state's campaign finance disclosure laws is the requirement that political advertisements disclose the sponsor and the sponsor's top five donors. Many political action committees have avoided this important transparency requirement by funneling money from political action committee to political action committee so the top five donors listed are deceptive political action committee names rather than the real donors. The legislature finds that this practice, sometimes called "gray money" or "donor washing," undermines the intent of Washington state's campaign finance laws and impairs the transparency required for fair elections and a healthy democracy.

Therefore, the legislature intends to close this disclosure loophole, increase transparency and accountability, raise the level of discourse, deter corruption, and strengthen confidence in the election process by prohibiting political committees from receiving an overwhelming majority of their funds from one or a combination of political committees.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 42.17A RCW to read as follows:

THIRTY THIRD DAY, FEBRUARY 9, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

(1) For any requirement of including "top five contributors" information under RCW 42.17A.320 or any other provision of this chapter, the persons or entities making the largest contributions shall be determined solely as follows:

(a) The sponsor must first identify the five persons or entities making the largest contributions in excess of seven hundred dollars reportable under this chapter during the twelve-month period preceding the date on which the advertisement is initially to be published or otherwise presented to the public;

(b) For any political committee that qualifies as one of the top five contributors identified under (a) of this subsection, the top five contributors to that political committee during the same period must then be identified, and so on, until the individuals or entities other than political committees that have contributed the most to all political committees involved with the advertisement have been identified; and

(c) The sponsor's advertisement must then list the top five individuals or entities other than political committees contributing in excess of seven hundred dollars and making the largest aggregate contributions among all those identified under (a) and (b) of this subsection.

(2) Contributions to the sponsor that are earmarked, tracked, and used for purposes other than the advertisement in question should not be counted in identifying the top five contributors under subsection (1) of this section.

(3) The sponsor shall not be liable for a violation of this section where the persons or entities making the largest contributions to the advertisement fail to report to the commission contributions to the sponsor.

(4) The commission is authorized to adopt rules, as needed, to prevent circumvention and effectuate the purposes of top five contributors information requirements, which are intended to inform voters about the individuals and entities sponsoring political advertisements.

Sec. 3. RCW 42.17A.320 and 2013 c 138 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) All written political advertising, whether relating to candidates or ballot propositions, shall include the sponsor's name and address. All radio and television political advertising, whether relating to candidates or ballot propositions, shall include the sponsor's name. The use of an assumed name for the sponsor of electioneering communications, independent expenditures, or political advertising shall be unlawful. For partisan office, if a candidate has expressed a party or independent preference on the declaration of candidacy, that party or independent designation shall be clearly identified in electioneering communications, independent expenditures, or political advertising.

(2) In addition to the information required by subsection (1) of this section, except as specifically addressed in subsections (4) and (5) of this section, all political advertising undertaken as an independent expenditure or an electioneering communication by a person or entity other than a bona fide political party must include as part of the communication:

(a) The statement: "No candidate authorized this ad. It is paid for by (name, address, city, state)";

(b) If the sponsor is a political committee, the statement: "Top Five Contributors," followed by a listing of the names of the five persons or entities making the largest contributions in excess of seven hundred dollars reportable under this chapter during the twelve-month period before the date of the advertisement or communication; and

(c) If the sponsor is a political committee established, maintained, or controlled directly, or indirectly through the formation of one or more political committees, by an individual, corporation, union, association, or other entity, the full name of that individual or entity.

(3) The information required by subsections (1) and (2) of this section shall:

(a) Appear on the first page or fold of the written advertisement or communication in at least ten-point type, or in type at least ten percent of the largest size type used in a written advertisement or communication directed at more than one voter, such as a billboard or poster, whichever is larger;

(b) Not be subject to the half-tone or screening process; and

(c) Be set apart from any other printed matter.

(4) In an independent expenditure or electioneering communication transmitted via television or other medium that includes a visual image, the following statement must either be clearly spoken, or appear in print and be visible for at least four seconds, appear in letters greater than four percent of the visual screen height on a solid black background on the entire bottom one-third of the television or visual display screen, or bottom one-fourth of the screen if the sponsor does not have or is otherwise not required to list its top five contributors, and have a reasonable color contrast with the background: "No candidate authorized this ad. Paid for by (name, city, state)." If the advertisement or communication is undertaken by a nonindividual other than a party organization, then the following notation must also be included: "Top Five Contributors" followed by a listing of the names of the five persons or entities making the largest contributions in excess of seven hundred dollars reportable under this chapter during the twelve-month period preceding the date on which the advertisement is initially published or otherwise presented to the public. Abbreviations may be used to describe contributing entities if the full name of the entity has been clearly spoken previously during the broadcast advertisement.

(5) The following statement shall be clearly spoken in an independent expenditure or electioneering communication transmitted by a method that does not include a visual image: "No candidate authorized this ad. Paid for by (name, city, state)." If the independent expenditure or electioneering communication is undertaken by a nonindividual other than a party organization, then the following statement must also be included: "Top Five Contributors" followed by a listing of the names of the five persons or entities making the largest contributions in excess of seven hundred dollars reportable under this chapter during the twelve-month period preceding the date on which the advertisement is initially published or otherwise presented to the public. Abbreviations may be used to describe contributing entities if the full name of the entity has been clearly spoken previously during the broadcast advertisement.

(6) Political advertising costing one thousand dollars or more supporting or opposing ballot measures sponsored by a political committee must include the information on the "Top Five Contributors" consistent with subsections (2), (4), and (5) of this section. A series of political advertising sponsored by the same political committee, each of which is under one thousand dollars, must include the "Top Five Contributors" information required by this section once their cumulative value reaches one thousand dollars or more.

(7) Political yard signs are exempt from the requirements of this section that the sponsor's name and address, and "Top Five Contributor" information, be listed on the advertising. In addition, the public disclosure commission shall, by rule, exempt from the identification requirements of this section forms of political advertising such as campaign buttons, balloons, pens, pencils, sky-writing, inscriptions, and other forms of advertising where identification is impractical.

(8) For the purposes of this section, "yard sign" means any outdoor sign with dimensions no greater than eight feet by four feet."

On page 1, line 1 of the title, after "Relating to" strike the remainder of the title and insert "disclosure of contributions from political committees to other political committees; amending RCW 42.17A.320; adding a new section to chapter 42.17A RCW; and creating a new section."

For purposes of this section, "significant involvement" means demonstrated support of an emotional, psychological, or financial nature within the parent-child relationship, at or reasonably near the time of death, or at or reasonably near the time of the incident causing death, including either giving or receiving emotional, psychological, or financial support to or from the child.

(2) In addition to recovering damages for the child's health care expenses, loss of the child's services, loss of the child's financial support, and other economic losses, damages may be also recovered under this section for the loss of love and companionship of the child, loss of the child's emotional support, and for injury to or destruction of the parent-child relationship, in such amounts as determined by a jury to be just under all the circumstances of the case.

(3) A defendant's liability is several only and not joint under RCW 4.22.070(1) (a) or (b) if the decedent's parent or legal guardian is not dependent upon the decedent for support.

(4) An action may be maintained by a parent or legal guardian under this section, regardless of whether or not the child has attained the age of majority, only if the child has no spouse, state registered domestic partner, or children.

(5) Each parent is entitled to recover for his or her own loss separately from the other parent regardless of marital status, even though this section creates only one cause of action(~~(-but if the parents of the child are not married, are separated, or not married to each other damages may be awarded to each plaintiff separately, as the trier of fact finds just and equitable)).~~)

(6) If one parent brings an action under this section and the other parent is not named as a plaintiff, notice of the institution of the suit, together with a copy of the complaint, shall be served upon the other parent: PROVIDED, That notice shall be required only if parentage has been duly established.

Such notice shall be in compliance with the statutory requirements for a summons. Such notice shall state that the other parent must join as a party to the suit within twenty days or the right to recover damages under this section shall be barred. Failure of the other parent to timely appear shall bar such parent's action to recover any part of an award made to the party instituting the suit.

~~((In such an action, in addition to damages for medical, hospital, medication expenses, and loss of services and support, damages may be recovered for the loss of love and companionship of the child and for injury to or destruction of the parent child relationship in such amount as, under all the circumstances of the case, may be just.))~~

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. A new section is added to chapter 35.99 RCW to read as follows:

(1)(a) It is the policy of the state to promote the efficient deployment of small cell facilities and small cell networks, as defined in RCW 80.36.375, infrastructure by offering predictability for wireless service providers so communities across the state have access to wireless communications technologies and create a framework for the deployment of wireless communications services. It is also the policy of the state that cities and towns maintain sufficient authority to manage the public rights-of-way for the health, safety, and welfare of their citizens and the general public.

(b) It is the intent of the legislature that cities and towns may require personal wireless service providers seeking to deploy small cell facilities or small cell networks infrastructure to obtain a master permit or equivalent authority under RCW 35.99.030. Additionally, a city or town may require a wireless service provider to obtain appropriate permits to enter and use the specified right-of-way for the purpose of installing, maintaining, repairing, or removing identified small cell network facilities.

(2) Except as provided for in subsection (7) of this section, cities and towns with a population greater than five thousand shall enact a small cell facility deployment ordinance, or develop a small cell facility deployment policy establishing a process for siting small cell facilities and small cell networks within the right-of-way under this chapter, provided the city or town has received a complete application and application fee for a master permit from a wireless service provider for a small cell facility as defined in RCW 80.36.375.

(3) A city or town may not require an applicant proposing to site a small cell facility on an existing pole or structure to apply for a conditional use permit except where:

(a) Such a proposal would require original installation of a new pole or structure;

(b) Such a proposal would require an existing pole or structure to be extended or replaced at a height more than fifteen feet above the existing height of a pole or structure, except where the applicant can demonstrate that the requested pole height is the minimum needed to achieve necessary safety clearances or the requirement of the pole owner; or

(c) The proposed facility does not meet established design standards for small cell facilities or small cell networks, as defined in RCW 80.36.375.

(4)(a) A city or town that updates an existing small cell facility deployment ordinance or policy, or adopts a small cell facility deployment ordinance or policy must outline the process that personal wireless service providers are required to follow in seeking a master permit to deploy small cell facilities and small cell networks, as defined in RCW 80.36.375.

(b) The small cell facility deployment ordinance or policy must treat service providers in a competitively neutral and nondiscriminatory manner.

(5) The small cell facility deployment ordinance or policy must include initial fees or deposits required for filing the master permit application. The use of a deposit for administrative costs in lieu of a set fee is not prohibited if the final, total administrative fee charged complies with the requirements of RCW 35.21.860. The fee schedule may allow a permit applicant to pay an additional fee for expedited permit processing if the city has deployed such a process. This provision is not intended to require jurisdictions to create an expedited permitting process when one does not already exist.

(6) A small cell facility deployment ordinance or policy may include the following provisions, at the discretion of the city or town: Standards for the installation of small cell facilities and small cell networks, as defined in RCW 80.36.375, on city or town-owned structures located outside of the right-of-way and other terms and conditions for these installations.

(7) A city or town that, as of the effective date of this section, has previously adopted an ordinance or policy, consistent with this act, governing the siting of small cell network infrastructure is not required to adopt or amend a small cell facility deployment ordinance or policy as otherwise required under subsection (2) of this section.

(8) A small cell facility deployment ordinance or policy enacted as required by this section has no effect on previously adopted franchises, permits, or agreements for small cell facilities or small cell networks deployments made or entered into by any city or town.

(9) Nothing in this section limits a city or town from issuing master permits or use permits in accordance with other provisions of this chapter.

(10) Nothing in this section may be construed as creating a duty on cities or towns with a population less than five thousand. However, cities with a population of less than five thousand may adopt a small cell facility deployment ordinance or policy and the provisions under subsection (2) of this section.

Sec. 2. RCW 35.99.010 and 2000 c 83 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Cable television service" means the one-way transmission to subscribers of video programming and other programming service and subscriber interaction, if any, that is required for the selection or use of the video programming or other programming service.

(2) "Facilities" means all of the plant, equipment, fixtures, appurtenances, antennas, and other facilities necessary to furnish and deliver telecommunications services and cable television services, including but not limited to poles with crossarms, poles without crossarms, wires, lines, conduits, cables, communication and signal lines and equipment, braces, guys, anchors, vaults, and all attachments, appurtenances, and appliances necessary or incidental to the distribution and use of telecommunications services and cable television services.

(3) "Master permit" means the agreement in whatever form whereby a city or town may grant general permission to a service provider to enter, use, and occupy the right-of-way for the purpose of locating facilities. This definition is not intended to limit, alter, or change the extent of the existing authority of a city or town to require a franchise nor does it change the status of a service provider asserting an existing statewide grant based on a predecessor telephone or telegraph company's existence at the time of the adoption of the Washington state Constitution to occupy the right-of-way. For the purposes of this subsection, a franchise, except for a cable television franchise, is a master permit. A master permit does not include cable television franchises.

(4) "Personal wireless services" means commercial mobile services, unlicensed wireless services, and common carrier wireless exchange access services, as defined by federal laws and regulations.

(5) "Right-of-way" means land acquired or dedicated for public roads and streets, but does not include:

- (a) State highways;
- (b) Land dedicated for roads, streets, and highways not opened and not improved for motor vehicle use by the public;
- (c) Structures, including poles and conduits, located within the right-of-way;
- (d) Federally granted trust lands or forest board trust lands;
- (e) Lands owned or managed by the state parks and recreation commission; or
- (f) Federally granted railroad rights-of-way acquired under 43 U.S.C. Sec. 912 and related provisions of federal law that are not open for motor vehicle use.

(6) "Service provider" means every corporation, company, association, joint stock association, firm, partnership, person, city, or town owning, operating, or managing any facilities used to provide and providing personal wireless services, telecommunications, or cable television service for hire, sale, or resale to the general public. Service provider includes the legal successor to any such corporation, company, association, joint stock association, firm, partnership, person, city, or town. A personal wireless service provider includes entities providing infrastructure, including but not limited to fiber, conduit, poles, or other structures to another service provider, but does not include electrical utility entities.

(7) "Telecommunications service" means the transmission of information by wire, radio, optical cable, electromagnetic, or other similar means for hire, sale, or resale to the general public. For the purpose of this subsection, "information" means knowledge or intelligence represented by any form of writing, signs, signals, pictures, sounds, or any other symbols. For the purpose of this chapter, telecommunications service excludes the over-the-air transmission of broadcast television or broadcast radio signals.

(8) "Use permit" means the authorization in whatever form whereby a city or town may grant permission to a service provider to enter and use the specified right-of-way for the purpose of installing, maintaining, repairing, or removing identified facilities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The legislature finds that:

(1) The federal communications commission has adopted a national broadband plan that includes recommendations directed to federal, state, and local governments, including recommendations to:

- (a) Design policies to ensure robust competition and maximizing consumer welfare, innovation, and investment;
- (b) Ensure efficient allocation and management of assets that government controls or influences, such as poles and rights-of-way, to encourage network upgrades and competitive entry;
- (c) Reform current universal service mechanisms to support deployment in high-cost areas; ensuring that low-income Americans can afford broadband; and supporting efforts to boost adoption and utilization; and
- (d) Reform laws, policies, standards, and incentives to maximize the benefits of broadband in sectors that government influences significantly, such as public education, health care, and government operations;

(2) The federal communications commission has also adopted a goal that all of the country's households have affordable access to actual download speeds of at least twenty-five megabits per second and actual upload speeds of at least three megabits per second; that a majority of households have access to speeds of one hundred fifty megabits, respectively; and that every community should have affordable access to at least one gigabit per second broadband service to anchor institutions such as schools, hospitals, and government buildings;

(3) These national goals are presently appropriate for Washington state, and recognizes that as technology advances the goals will require changes over time;

(4) Extensive investments have been made by the telecommunications industry and the public sector, as well as policies and programs adopted to provide affordable broadband services throughout the state, that will provide a foundation to build a comprehensive statewide framework for additional actions needed to advance state's broadband goals.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 43.330 RCW to read as follows:

The definitions in this section apply throughout sections 5 through 8 of this act unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(2) "Local governments" includes cities, towns, counties, municipal corporations, public port districts, quasi-municipal corporations, and special purpose districts.

(f) Implementing actions necessary to develop and maintain a detailed inventory of the deployment of broadband services, including monitoring and tracking the availability of broadband services and internet speeds across the state, with an emphasis upon identifying and assessing progress made towards achieving the goals for internet speeds in unserved and underserved areas;

(g) Developing standards for defining levels of service for broadband access, including unserved and underserved areas, and revising these standards as technological advances are made and services are expanded;

(h) Fostering public sector and telecommunications industry actions to bring sustainable broadband access to areas that are unserved or underserved;

(5) By November 1, 2018, the office must develop a list of projects for grant support as authorized under section 7 of this act that will advance high speed broadband access in unserved rural areas of the state. Beginning November 1, 2018, through December 31, 2020, the office must give first priority to projects deploying end-user broadband services in unserved or underserved rural areas of the state.

(6) The office may conduct research as provided under RCW 43.330.050(8) as it applies to the development and deployment of broadband access throughout the state. Information provided to the office in the course of research and analysis is not subject to disclosure subject to RCW 42.56.270(12)(a)(i).

(1) The office may take all appropriate steps to seek federal funding in order to maximize investment in broadband deployment and adoption in the state.

(2) The office may apply for federal funds and other grants or donations and must deposit the funds in the broadband access account created in section 10 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. A new section is added to chapter 43.330 RCW to read as follows:

THIRTY FOURTH DAY, FEBRUARY 10, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

(2) Beginning December 1, 2018, and by December 1st each subsequent year, a person receiving federal funding for the purposes of making broadband-capable infrastructure available to underserved or unserved areas of the state must notify the department of the amount of federal funding received for this purpose.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. A new section is added to chapter 43.330 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The broadband access account is created in the state treasury. All receipts from sections 6 and 9 of this act must be deposited into the account. Moneys in the account may be spent only after appropriation.

(2) Expenditures from the account may be used only for the expansion of broadband access, including funding grants under section 7 of this act.

Sec. 11. RCW 80.36.135 and 2008 c 181 s 414 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The legislature declares that:

(a) Changes in technology and the structure of the telecommunications industry may produce conditions under which traditional rate of return, rate base regulation of telecommunications companies may not in all cases provide the most efficient and effective means of achieving the public policy goals of this state as declared in RCW 80.36.300, this section, and RCW 80.36.145. The commission should be authorized to employ an alternative form of regulation if that alternative is better suited to achieving those policy goals.

(b) Because of the great diversity in the scope and type of services provided by telecommunications companies, alternative regulatory arrangements that meet the varying circumstances of different companies and their ratepayers may be desirable.

(c) Increasing competition from private and public telecommunications providers may require the modification of obligations arising under RCW 80.36.090 in certain markets.

(2) Subject to the conditions set forth in this chapter and RCW 80.04.130, the commission may regulate telecommunications companies subject to traditional rate of return, rate base regulation by authorizing an alternative form of regulation. The commission may determine the manner and extent of any alternative forms of regulation as may in the public interest be appropriate. In addition to the public policy goals declared in RCW 80.36.300, the commission shall consider, in determining the appropriateness of any proposed alternative form of regulation, whether it will:

(a) Facilitate the broad deployment of technological improvements and advanced telecommunications services to underserved areas or underserved customer classes;

(b) Improve the efficiency of the regulatory process;

(c) Preserve or enhance the development of effective competition and protect against the exercise of market power during its development;

(d) Preserve or enhance service quality and protect against the degradation of the quality or availability of efficient telecommunications services;

(e) Provide for rates and charges that are fair, just, reasonable, sufficient, and not unduly discriminatory or preferential; and

(f) Not unduly or unreasonably prejudice or disadvantage any particular customer class.

(3) A telecommunications company or companies subject to traditional rate of return, rate base regulation may petition the commission to establish an alternative form of regulation. The company or companies shall submit with the petition a plan for an alternative form of regulation. The plan shall contain a proposal for transition to the alternative form of regulation and the proposed duration of the plan. The plan must also contain a proposal for ensuring adequate carrier-to-carrier service quality, including service quality standards or performance measures for interconnection, and appropriate enforcement or remedial provisions in the event the company fails to meet service quality standards or performance measures. The commission also may initiate consideration of alternative forms of regulation for a company or companies on its own motion. The commission, after notice and hearing, shall issue an order accepting, modifying, or rejecting the plan within nine months after the petition or motion is filed, unless extended by the commission for good cause. The commission shall order implementation of the alternative plan of regulation unless it finds that, on balance, an alternative plan as proposed or modified fails to meet the considerations stated in subsection (2) of this section.

(4) Not later than sixty days from the entry of the commission's order, the company or companies affected by the order may file with the commission an election not to proceed with the alternative form of regulation as authorized by the commission.

(5) The commission may waive such regulatory requirements under Title 80 RCW for a telecommunications company subject to an alternative form of regulation as may be appropriate to facilitate the implementation of this section. However, the commission may not waive any grant of legal rights to any person contained in this chapter and chapter 80.04 RCW. The commission may waive different regulatory requirements for different companies or services if such different treatment is in the public interest.

(6) Upon petition by the company, and after notice and hearing, the commission may rescind or modify an alternative form of regulation in the manner requested by the company.

(7) The commission or any person may file a complaint under RCW 80.04.110 alleging that a telecommunications company under an alternative form of regulation has not complied with the terms and conditions set forth in the alternative form of regulation. The complainant shall bear the burden of proving the allegations in the complaint.

(8) During a state of emergency declared under RCW 43.06.010(12), the governor may waive or suspend the operation or enforcement of this section or any portion of this section or under any administrative rule, and issue any orders to facilitate the operation of state or local government or to promote and secure the safety and protection of the civilian population.

Sec. 12. RCW 80.36.630 and 2013 2nd sp.s. c 8 s 202 are each amended to read as follows:

Sec. 13. RCW 80.36.650 and 2016 c 145 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A state universal communications services program is established. The program is established to protect public safety and welfare under the authority of the state to regulate telecommunications under Article XII, section 19 of the state Constitution. The purpose of the program is to support continued provision of basic telecommunications services under rates, terms, and conditions established by the commission during the time over which incumbent communications providers in the state are adapting to changes in federal universal service fund and intercarrier compensation support.

(2) Under the program, eligible communications providers may receive distributions from the universal communications services account created in RCW 80.36.690 in exchange for the affirmative agreement to provide continued services under the rates, terms, and conditions established by the commission under this chapter for the period covered by the distribution. The commission must implement and administer the program under terms and conditions established in RCW 80.36.630 through 80.36.690. Expenditures for the program may not exceed five million dollars per fiscal year; provided, however, that if less than five million dollars is expended in any fiscal year, the unexpended portion must be carried over to subsequent fiscal years and, unless fully expended, must be available for program expenditures in such subsequent fiscal years in addition to the five million dollars allotted for each of those subsequent fiscal years.

(3) A communications provider is eligible to receive distributions from the account if:

(a) The communications provider is: (i) An incumbent local exchange carrier serving fewer than forty thousand access lines in the state; or (ii) a radio communications service company providing wireless two-way voice communications service to less than the equivalent of forty thousand access lines in the state. For purposes of determining the access line threshold in this subsection, the access lines or equivalents of all affiliates must be counted as a single threshold, if the lines or equivalents are located in Washington;

(b) The customers of the communications provider are at risk of rate instability or service interruptions or cessations absent a distribution to the provider that will allow the provider to maintain rates reasonably close to the benchmark; and

(c) The communications provider meets any other requirements established by the commission pertaining to the provision of communications services, including basic telecommunications services.

(4)(a) Distributions to eligible communications providers are based on ~~((a-benchmark))~~ criteria established by the commission. ~~((The benchmark is the rate the commission determines to be a reasonable amount customers should pay for basic residential service provided over the incumbent public network. However, if an incumbent local exchange carrier is charging rates above the benchmark for the basic residential service, that provider may not seek distributions from the fund for the purpose of reducing those rates to the benchmark.))~~

(b) To receive a distribution under the program, an eligible communications provider must affirmatively consent to continue providing communications services to its customers under rates, terms, and conditions established by the commission pursuant to this chapter for the period covered by the distribution.

(5) The program is funded from amounts deposited by the legislature in the universal communications services account established in RCW 80.36.690. The commission must operate the program within amounts appropriated for this purpose and deposited in the account.

(6) The commission must periodically review the accounts and records of any communications provider that receives distributions under the program to ensure compliance with the program and monitor the providers' use of the funds.

(7) The commission must establish an advisory board, consisting of a reasonable balance of representatives from different types of stakeholders, including but not limited to communications providers and consumers, to advise the commission on any rules and policies governing the operation of the program.

(8) The program terminates on June 30, ~~((2019))~~ 2020, and no distributions may be made after that date.

Sec. 14. RCW 80.36.690 and 2013 2nd sp.s. c 8 s 208 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The universal communications services account is created in the custody of the state treasurer. Revenues to the account consist of moneys deposited in the account by the legislature and any penalties or other recoveries received pursuant to RCW 80.36.670. Expenditures from the account may be used only for the purposes of the universal communications services program established in RCW 80.36.650 and commission expenses related to implementation and administration of the provisions of RCW 80.36.620 through 80.36.690, and section 212, chapter 8, Laws of 2013 2nd sp. sess. Only the secretary of the commission or the secretary's designee may authorize expenditures from the account. The account is subject to allotment procedures under chapter 43.88 RCW, but an appropriation is not required for expenditures.

(2) This section expires July 1, 2020.

THIRTY FOURTH DAY, FEBRUARY 10, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

Sec. 15. 2013 2nd sp.s. c 8 s 212 (uncodified) is amended to read as follows:

By December 1, ~~((2017))~~ 2019, and in compliance with RCW 43.01.036, the Washington utilities and transportation commission must report to the appropriate committees of the legislature, on the following: (1) Whether funding levels for each small telecommunications company have been adequate to maintain reliable universal service; (2) the future impacts on small telecommunications companies from the elimination of funding under this act; (3) the impacts on customer rates from the current level of funding and the future impacts when the funding terminates under this act; and (4) the impacts on line and service delivery investments when the funding is terminated under this act. The report must also include an analysis of the need for future program funding and recommendations on potential funding mechanisms to improve availability of communications services, including broadband service, in unserved and underserved areas. Commission expenses related to conducting all analysis in preparation of this report must be expended from the universal communications services account.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. A new section is added to chapter 54.16 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The definitions in this subsection apply throughout this section unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(a) "Broadband" means networks of deployed telecommunications equipment and technologies necessary to provide high-speed internet access and other advanced telecommunications services.

(b) "Inadequate" means internet retail service that does not meet one hundred percent of the standards detailed in the service level agreement.

(c) "Partnership payment structure" means a group of or individual property owners who agree to pay a term payment structure for infrastructure improvements to their property.

(d) "Petition" means a formal written request for retail internet service by property owners on the public utility district broadband network.

(e) "Service level agreement" means a standard agreement, adopted during an open public meeting, between the retail internet service provider and the public utility that describes the required percentage of broadband download and upload speed and system availability, customer service, and transmission time.

(2) Any public utility district that, as of the effective date of this section, provides only water, sewer, and wholesale telecommunications services in a county with an area less than five hundred square miles and is located west of the Puget Sound may provide end-user internet services to end users on the public utility district's broadband network located within the public utility district boundaries only when the existing providers of end-user internet service on the public utility district's broadband network cease to provide end-user service or provide inadequate end-user service as determined in the manner prescribed by this section.

(3) Upon receiving a petition meeting the requirements of subsection (4) of this section, a public utility district board of commissioners may hold up to three meetings to:

(a) Verify the signature or signatures of the property owners on the petition and certify the petition;

(b) Determine and submit findings that the retail internet service available to the petitioners served by the public utility district's broadband network is either nonexistent or inadequate as defined in the service level agreement adopted by the commissioners for all existing internet service providers on the public utility district's broadband network; and

(c) By resolution, authorize the public utility district to provide retail internet service to end users on the public utility district's broadband network.

(4) A petition meets the requirements of subsection (3) of this section if it is delivered to a public utility district board of commissioners, declares that the signatories on the public utility district's broadband network have no or inadequate retail internet service providers, requests the public utility district to provide the retail internet service, and is signed by one of the following:

(a) A majority of a group, including homeowners' associations, of any geographical area within the public utility district, who have developed a partnership payment structure to finance broadband deployment with the public utility district; or

(b) Any individual who has developed a partnership payment structure to finance broadband deployment with the public utility district.

(5) For the purposes of this section, the adequacy of retail internet service is determined by measuring retail internet service to end users on the public utility district's broadband network and comparing it with service standards in the public utility district service level agreement used for all public utility district network providers. Measurement of the existing retail internet service provider's service must be quantified by measuring the service with speed and capacity devices and software. Additionally, a retail internet service provider may submit its own assessment of its service level for consideration by the commission within thirty days of the first meeting conducted under subsection (3) of this section.

(6) The commissioners of a public utility district may by resolution authorize the public utility district to provide or contract for provision of internet services to end users on the public utility district's broadband network when it is determined that no service or inadequate service exists for the individual or petitioners identified in subsection (4) of this section.

(7)(a) Except as provided in subsection (8) of this section, in case of failure to reach an agreement on the adequacy of retail internet service, the commissioners must request an appointment of an administrative law judge under Title 34 RCW to hear the dispute.

(b) The commissioners must provide a written notice, together with a copy of the dispute, and may require the disputing parties to attend a hearing before the administrative law judge, at a time and place to be specified in the written notice.

(c) The place of any such hearing may be the office of the commissioners or another place designated by the commissioners. The disputed information must be presented at the hearing.

(d) Upon review and consideration of all of the evidence, the administrative law judge must determine if the retail internet service is inadequate or nonexistent as defined in this section. Upon making a determination, the administrative law judge must state findings of fact and must issue and file a determination with the commissioners.

(8) If a provider of end-user service is a company regulated by the utilities and transportation commission, the company may choose to have the commission resolve disputes concerning the service level agreement under the process established in RCW 54.16.340. For the purposes of this subsection, "company" includes subsidiaries or affiliates.

(9) Any public utility district providing cable television service under this section must secure a cable television franchise, pay franchise fees, and any applicable taxes to the local cable franchise authority as required by federal law.

(10) Except as provided in subsection (8) of this section, nothing in this section may be construed or is intended to confer upon the utilities and transportation commission any authority to exercise jurisdiction over locally regulated utilities.

(11) All rates for retail internet services offered by a public utility district under this section must be fair and nondiscriminatory, except the public utility district may set tiers of service charges based on service demands of the end user, including commercial and residential rates.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. A new section is added to chapter 34.12 RCW to read as follows:

When requested by the public utility district commissioners, the chief administrative law judge shall assign an administrative law judge to conduct proceedings under section 16 of this act.

Sec. 18. RCW 53.08.370 and 2000 c 81 s 7 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A rural port district in existence on June 8, 2000, a port district located in a county that borders a foreign nation, and a port district located in a county that borders the Columbia river that has completed feasibility studies for a wholesale telecommunications network, may construct, purchase, acquire, develop, finance, lease, license, handle, provide, add to, contract for, interconnect, alter, improve, repair, operate, and maintain any telecommunications facilities within or without the district's limits for the following purposes:

- (a) For the district's own use; and
- (b) For the provision of wholesale telecommunications services within the district's limits. Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to authorize rural port districts to provide telecommunications services to end users.

(2) Except as provided in subsection (7) of this section, a rural port district providing wholesale telecommunications services under this section shall ensure that rates, terms, and conditions for such services are not unduly or unreasonably discriminatory or preferential. Rates, terms, and conditions are discriminatory or preferential when a rural port district offering such rates, terms, and conditions to an entity for wholesale telecommunications services does not offer substantially similar rates, terms, and conditions to all other entities seeking substantially similar services.

(3) When a rural port district establishes a separate utility function for the provision of wholesale telecommunications services, it shall account for any and all revenues and expenditures related to its wholesale telecommunications facilities and services separately from revenues and expenditures related to its internal telecommunications operations. Any revenues received from the provision of wholesale telecommunications services must be dedicated to the utility function that includes the provision of wholesale telecommunications services for costs incurred to build and maintain the telecommunications facilities until such time as any bonds or other financing instruments executed after June 8, 2000, and used to finance the telecommunications facilities are discharged or retired.

(4) When a rural port district establishes a separate utility function for the provision of wholesale telecommunications services, all telecommunications services rendered by the separate function to the district for the district's internal telecommunications needs shall be charged at its true and full value. A rural port district may not charge its nontelecommunications operations rates that are preferential or discriminatory compared to those it charges entities purchasing wholesale telecommunications services.

(5) A rural port district shall not exercise powers of eminent domain to acquire telecommunications facilities or contractual rights held by any other person or entity to telecommunications facilities.

(6) Except as otherwise specifically provided, a rural port district may exercise any of the powers granted to it under this title and other applicable laws in carrying out the powers authorized under this section. Nothing in chapter 81, Laws of 2000 limits any existing authority of a rural port district under this title.

(7) A port district under this section may select a telecommunications company to operate the port district's telecommunications facilities. The company may be the exclusive provider of telecommunications services to end users under terms specified in the contract with the port district. For purposes of this section, "telecommunications company" means any for-profit entity owned by investors that sells telecommunications services to end users. Nothing in this subsection (7) is intended to limit or otherwise restrict any other authority provided by law.

Sec. 19. 2018 c 2 s 1021 (uncodified) is amended to read as follows:

FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

CERB Administered Broadband Infrastructure (91000943)

The appropriation in this section is subject to the following conditions and limitations: During the 2017-2019 fiscal biennium, the community economic revitalization board may make grants and loans to local governments and federally recognized tribes to build infrastructure to provide high-speed, open-access broadband service, with a minimum of 25 megabits per second download speed, to rural and underserved communities, for the purpose of economic development.

(1) "Local governments" means cities, towns, counties, municipal corporations, public port districts, quasi-municipal corporations, and special purpose districts.

(2) "Broadband" means networks of deployed telecommunications equipment and technologies necessary to provide high-speed Internet access and other advanced telecommunications services.

(3) The board is authorized to make rural broadband loans to local governments and to federally recognized Indian tribes for the purposes of financing the cost to build infrastructure to provide high-speed, open-access broadband service, to rural and underserved communities, for the purpose of economic development. Grants may also be authorized for purposes designated in this chapter, but only when, and to the extent that, a loan is not reasonably possible, given the limited resources of the local government or the federally recognized Indian tribe, and subject to a finding by the board that financial circumstances require grant assistance to enable the project to move forward. However, no more than 25 percent of all financial assistance approved by the board in any biennium may consist of grants to local governments and federally recognized Indian tribes.

(4) Application for funding must be made in the form and manner as the board may prescribe. In making grants or loans the board must conform to the following requirements:

- (a) The board may not provide financial assistance:
 - (i) For a project the primary purpose of which is to facilitate or promote a retail shopping development or expansion.
 - (ii) For any project that evidence exists would result in a development or expansion that would displace existing jobs in any other community in the state.
 - (iii) For a project the primary purpose of which is to facilitate or promote gambling.
 - (iv) For a project located outside the jurisdiction of the applicant local government or federally recognized Indian tribe.

THIRTY FOURTH DAY, FEBRUARY 10, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

(v) For equipment or facilities which would enable a public entity to provide retail telecommunications services or services that the entity is not authorized by statute to provide.

(vi) For the deployment of publicly-owned telecommunication network infrastructure ("backbone") solely for the sake of creating competitive, publicly-owned telecommunication network infrastructure.

(b) The board may provide financial assistance only(~~:~~

~~(A) Results in the creation of significant private sector jobs or significant private sector capital investment as determined by the board;~~

~~(B) Will improve the opportunities for the successful maintenance, establishment, or expansion of industrial or commercial plants or will otherwise assist in the creation or retention of long term economic opportunities; and~~

~~(C) Is located in a rural community as defined by the board, or a rural county; or~~

~~(ii) For a project that does not meet the requirements of (b)(i) of this subsection but is a project that:~~

~~((g) An application must demonstrate convincing evidence that the median hourly wage of the private sector jobs created after the project is completed will exceed the countywide median hourly wage.~~

~~(h) The board must prioritize each proposed project according to:~~

~~(i) The relative benefits provided to the community by the jobs the project would create, not just the total number of jobs it would create after the project is completed, but also giving consideration to the unemployment rate in the area in which the jobs would be located;~~

~~(ii) The rate of return of the state's investment, including, but not limited to, the leveraging of private sector investment, anticipated job creation and retention, and expected increases in state and local tax revenues associated with the project;~~

(1) A state universal communications services program is established. The program is established to protect public safety and welfare under the authority of the state to regulate telecommunications under Article XII, section 19 of the state Constitution. The purpose of the program is to support continued provision of basic telecommunications services under rates, terms, and conditions established by the commission ~~((during the time over which incumbent communications providers in the state are adapting to changes in federal universal service fund and intercarrier compensation support)) and the provision, enhancement, and maintenance of broadband services, recognizing that the incumbent public network functions to provide all communications services including, but not limited to, voice and broadband services.~~

(2) Under the program, eligible communications providers may receive distributions from the universal communications services account created in RCW 80.36.690 in exchange for the affirmative agreement to provide continued telecommunications services under the rates, terms, and conditions established by the commission under this chapter and broadband services for the period covered by the distribution. The commission must implement and administer the program under terms and conditions established in RCW 80.36.630 through 80.36.690. Expenditures for the program may not exceed five million dollars per fiscal year; provided, however, that if less than five million dollars is expended in any fiscal year, the unexpended portion must be carried over to subsequent fiscal years and, unless fully expended, must be available for program expenditures in such subsequent fiscal years in addition to the five million dollars allotted for each of those subsequent fiscal years.

(3) A communications provider is eligible to receive distributions from the account if:

~~(b) The ((customers of the communications provider are at risk of rate instability or service interruptions or cessations absent a distribution to the provider that will allow the provider to maintain rates reasonably close to the benchmark))~~ communications provider has adopted a plan to provide, enhance, or maintain broadband service in its service area; and

(c) The communications provider meets any other requirements established by the commission pertaining to the provision of communications services, including basic telecommunications services.

~~(4)(a) Distributions to eligible communications providers are based on ((a benchmark established by the commission. The benchmark is the rate the commission determines to be a reasonable amount customers should pay for basic residential service provided over the incumbent public network. However, if an incumbent local exchange carrier is charging rates above the benchmark for the basic residential service, that provider may not seek distributions from the fund for the purpose of reducing those rates to the benchmark)) criterion established by the commission.~~

(b) If the program does not have sufficient funds to fully fund the distribution formula set out in (a) of this subsection, distributions must be reduced on a pro rata basis using the amounts calculated for that year's program support as the basis of the pro rata calculations.

(c) To receive a distribution under the program, an eligible communications provider must affirmatively consent to continue providing communications services to its customers under rates, terms, and conditions established by the commission pursuant to this chapter for the period covered by the distribution.

(5) The program is funded from amounts deposited by the legislature in the universal communications services account established in RCW 80.36.690. The commission must operate the program within amounts appropriated for this purpose and deposited in the account.

(6) The commission must periodically review the accounts and records of any communications provider that receives distributions under the program to ensure compliance with the program and monitor the providers' use of the funds.

~~(7) ((The commission must establish an advisory board, consisting of a reasonable balance of representatives from different types of communications providers and consumers, to advise the commission on any rules and policies governing the operation of the program.~~

~~(8))~~ The program terminates on June 30, ~~((2019))~~ 2029, and no distributions may be made after that date.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

President Habib: "Senator Padden? Well, it was also Senator Padden. Senator Padden, for what purpose do you rise?"

Senator Padden: "Point of information Mr. President. I'd, I'd seen Senator Braun was trying to get your attention ..."

President Habib: "Okay."

Senator Padden: "and I don't think you'd recognized him."

President Habib: "Whoever wants to make the point, please. Senator Braun."

Senator Braun: "Thank you Mr. President. I didn't want to comment again on the last bill, but I would like to raise a point with my colleagues here. We had a very, compelling statements from my colleague from the forty-ninth about her experience with unions and how they did good things for her family, and I certainly appreciate that. I want to point out two things: One, in my comments, I specifically did not say anything bad about SEIU. I said they have done, in fact if we go back and listen to it, they have done good things for their folks, but this is a very difficult position for these folks and they deserve a choice, and I think that is a reasonable comment and not one that should give offense. And I would share my own personal experience with the body. So when I was four, a year younger than Senator Cleveland but a little longer ago I'm afraid, a union organized in my grandfather's business. They demanded terms that he could not meet and keep the doors open. And he was forced to close the doors. At that time twelve pattern makers, including my father, including my grandfather, were put out of a job. So it cuts both ways Mr. President. And yet, I don't take offense when folks advocate for unions. I think that unions have, on occasions, done good things. I have been a member of a union. My wife is currently a member of a union. The challenge, Mr. President, is they take advantage of their position. They decide we're not just in the business of doing good for workers, which is a very noble, noble ambition. We're in the business on getting involved all kinds of other things that don't relate to work benefits, that don't relate to pay, to working conditions. And this is when we have trouble Mr. President. I think we have made that point. I think there is good discussion on both sides of the aisle, but when we decide that we are going to take personal offense every time we say something, every time we print something. In my brief five years here in the Senate, I have been on occasion called a 'terrorist' - very hard to take for someone who has now spent twenty-nine years in the US military. I have been called a 'hostage taker' as recently as last week. Our supporters are routinely referred to as 'racists,' as 'misogynists.' These things happen all the time Mr. President. I try very hard not to take personal offense to this. I understand folks have principals and goals and they're trying to advocate for those but it goes two ways. If we are expected not to take offense to those things, that has to go two ways. We can not and we should not, as was done just yesterday with a piece of documentation I had published, we can not censor each others' comments. Not when they are aimed at improving the dialogue and improving the knowledge of the citizens of our state. So I just ask the body to be a little, maybe, less personally sensitive to our dialogue. Allow us to speak. And we should speak with decorum. You made good points Mr. President, but we shouldn't be oversensitive. Because in doing so, we don't allow each side to go after ideas, to defend or contradict those ideas, and that is what makes this institution great. Thank you, Mr. President."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "And the President, I want to address what Senator Braun just mentioned and a topic that has been a shadow over us for the past couple of days. I do want to say, my belief, as the President heard it, is that Senator Cleveland's remarks really were related to the debate from the other night, and I think that we can all agree that the debate from the other night was not all of us at our best. I do want to say I do appreciate, and I have had conversations with a number of members since that time, and I noticed and noted the marked difference in the debate this morning. And I do really want to thank members for taking the guidance that I provided about how to be more respectful, even about a discussion that's very controversial or that we feel very strongly about. But I also want to say in response, or in reaction to Senator Braun's point, that what's important from the President's perspective, which ultimately is what determines whether the remarks will continue, or be found dilatory, is not the sensitivity of any one member in the chamber. I don't ask, nor do I need anybody to tell me they are sensitive or offended. It is the institution that can be offended. And it can be offended by any number of ways and those are set forth in your rules and how I interpret those rules. And so I do very much appreciate members listening to my guidance on how to avoid that offense to the institution. I do think this institution to the extent that it is sensitive, I think that is a good thing. That is what distinguishes us from bloggers or tweeters online and keeps the sacred nature of this debate as such as we debate issues and as majorities and minorities change over the years. And I am doing my best to try and preserve that and do it in a fair way and I appreciate senators' cooperation. Thank you."

2018 REGULAR SESSION

By Senators Hasegawa, Hobbs, Brown, Ranker, Billig, Saldaña, Wagoner, Kuderer, Conway, and Takko

WHEREAS, Seventy-six years ago, on February 19, 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued Executive Order 9066, which deprived all Japanese-Americans of their constitutional liberties without due process of law, and which authorized the United States military to forcibly remove and incarcerate more than 120,000 persons of Japanese ancestry from the West Coast, including 13,000 Japanese-American residents of Washington State; and

WHEREAS, The first civilian evacuation order gave Japanese-Americans from Bainbridge Island less than one week to leave behind homes, personal belongings, farms, businesses, friends, and family, allowed them only two suitcases of personal belongings, and transported them to hastily constructed detention centers, like Camp Harmony located in the horse stalls on the grounds of the Washington State Fair in Puyallup where they were held until more permanent concentration camps could be built in more remote locations, like Hunt, Idaho (Minidoka) and Tule Lake, California, which is where most Japanese-Americans from the Puget Sound region were held; and

WHEREAS, This drastic course of action allegedly aimed to prevent acts of espionage and sabotage by Japanese-Americans who were deemed untrustworthy and disloyal to the United States even though no evidence was ever presented to support such distrust; and

WHEREAS, On March 23, 1943, the War Department organized a segregated unit of Japanese-Americans, and, from within those American concentration camps where they and their families were incarcerated, surrounded by barbed wire and armed guards, thousands responded to questions of their loyalty and patriotism by volunteering to serve in the segregated Army unit known as the 442nd Regimental Combat Team, which went on to amass a battle record unmatched in United States military history earning 7 Presidential Unit Citations, 21 Medals of Honor, 29 Distinguished Service Crosses, a Distinguished Service Medal, 588 Silver Stars, more than 4,000 Bronze Stars, 22 Legion of Merit Medals, 15 Soldier's Medals, 9,486 Purple Hearts, and a total of 16 decorations from the governments of France and Italy; and

WHEREAS, Equally loyal and patriotic Japanese-Americans fought to protect our constitutional rights and liberties through dissent, like Minoru Yasui, Fred Korematsu, and University of Washington student Gordon Hirabayashi who was arrested, convicted, and imprisoned for defying the military curfew on select civilians and challenging the constitutionality of the exclusion and incarceration orders; and

THIRTY SIXTH DAY, FEBRUARY 12, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

WHEREAS, Korematsu and Hirabayashi were eventually awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom for their principled actions and sacrifices; and

WHEREAS, In 1982, the Congressional Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians found "no military or security reason for the internment" of persons of Japanese ancestry, but instead found the denial of constitutional rights "was caused by racial prejudice, war hysteria, and a failure of political leadership"; and

WHEREAS, In 1976, President Gerald Ford rescinded Executive Order 9066 saying, "I call upon the American people to affirm with me this American Promise—that we have learned from the tragedy of that long-ago experience forever to treasure liberty and justice for each individual American, and resolve that this kind of action shall never again be repeated"; and

WHEREAS, In 1979, newly elected Washington State Congressman Mike Lowry introduced H.R. 5977 which would become The Civil Liberties Act of 1988 when signed 10 years later by President Ronald Reagan who said, "So what is most important in this bill has less to do with property than with honor, for here, we admit a wrong. Here we reaffirm our commitment as a nation to equal justice under the law"; and

WHEREAS, In 2010, the United States Congress recognized the unparalleled record of Nisei soldiers by awarding the Congressional Gold Medal to the 100th Infantry Battalion, the 442nd Regimental Combat Team, who fought in Europe, and the Military Intelligence Service (MIS) of the U.S. Army who fought in the Pacific Theater as interpreters and code breakers; and

WHEREAS, Throughout Washington State, survivors of the European and Asian Pacific battlefields of World War II and of American incarceration camps continue to live their golden years in quiet contrast to their extraordinary acts of patriotism, conscience, and valor;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That on this 76th Anniversary of the signing of Executive Order 9066, the Senate, along with the people of Washington State, pause to acknowledge and reflect on the significance of Executive Order 9066 and its effect in denying constitutional freedoms and protections. We also reflect on our democracy's greatness in recognizing the need to correct this failure, and the need for constant vigilance to protect our constitutional rights and freedoms; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Senate recognize the Japanese-American internees, constitutional protectors, and World War II veterans from the State of Washington, honor their patience, heroism, sacrifice, and loyalty, and remember the lessons, rights, and responsibilities that come with the phrase, "liberty and justice for all"; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Secretary of the Senate to the Nisei Veterans Committee, the Military Intelligence Service-Northwest Association, the Japanese-American Citizens League National and Seattle Chapter, the Japanese Cultural & Community Center of Washington State, the Japanese American National Museum, and the Wing Luke Museum of the Asian Pacific American Experience.

SENATE BILL NO. 6034, by Senators Rolfes, Sheldon, Angel, Hunt, Chase, Kuderer and Hasegawa

Authorizing limited retail telecommunications services for public utility districts that provide only sewer, water, and telecommunications on the effective date of this act.

MOTION

THIRTY SIXTH DAY, FEBRUARY 12, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

On motion of Senator Rolfes, Substitute Senate Bill No. 6034 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 6034 and the substitute bill was placed on the second reading and read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Rolfes moved that the following striking amendment no. 496 by Senator Rolfes be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. A new section is added to chapter 54.16 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The definitions in this subsection apply throughout this section unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(a) "Broadband" means networks of deployed telecommunications equipment and technologies necessary to provide high-speed internet access and other advanced telecommunications services.

(b) "Inadequate" means internet retail service that does not meet one hundred percent of the standards detailed in the service level agreement.

(c) "Partnership payment structure" means a group of or individual property owners who agree to pay a term payment structure for infrastructure improvements to their property.

(d) "Petition" means a formal written request for retail internet service by property owners on the public utility district broadband network.

(e) "Service level agreement" means a standard agreement, adopted during an open public meeting, between the retail internet service provider and the public utility that describes the required percentage of broadband download and upload speed and system availability, customer service, and transmission time.

(2) Any public utility district that, as of the effective date of this section, provides only water, sewer, and wholesale telecommunications services in a county with an area less than five hundred square miles and is located west of the Puget Sound may provide end-user internet services to end users on the public utility district's broadband network located within the public utility district boundaries only when all of the existing providers of end-user internet service on the public utility district's broadband network cease to provide end-user service or provide inadequate end-user service as determined in the manner prescribed by this section.

(3) Upon receiving a petition meeting the requirements of subsection (4) of this section, a public utility district board of commissioners may hold up to three meetings to:

(a) Verify the signature or signatures of the property owners on the petition and certify the petition;

(b) Determine and submit findings that the retail internet service available to the petitioners served by the public utility district's broadband network is either nonexistent or inadequate as defined in the service level agreement adopted by the commissioners for all existing internet service providers on the public utility district's broadband network; and

(c) By resolution, authorize the public utility district to provide retail internet service to end users on the public utility district's broadband network.

(4) A petition meets the requirements of subsection (3) of this section if it is delivered to a public utility district board of commissioners, declares that the signatories on the public utility district's broadband network have no or inadequate retail internet service providers, requests the public utility district to provide the retail internet service, and is signed by one of the following:

(a) A majority of a group, including homeowners' associations, of any geographical area within the public utility district, who have developed a partnership payment structure to finance broadband deployment with the public utility district; or

(b) Any individual who has developed a partnership payment structure to finance broadband deployment with the public utility district.

(5) For the purposes of this section, the adequacy of retail internet service is determined by measuring retail internet service to end users on the public utility district's broadband network and comparing it with service standards in the public utility district service level agreement used for all public utility district network providers. Measurement of the existing retail internet service provider's service must be quantified by measuring the service with speed and capacity devices and software. Additionally, a retail internet service provider may submit its own assessment of its service level for consideration by the commission within thirty days of the first meeting conducted under subsection (3) of this section.

(6) The commissioners of a public utility district may by resolution authorize the public utility district to provide or contract for provision of internet services to end users on the public utility district's broadband network when it is determined that no service or inadequate service exists for the individual or petitioners identified in subsection (4) of this section.

(7)(a) Except as provided in subsection (8) of this section, in case of failure to reach an agreement on the adequacy of retail internet service, the commissioners must request an appointment of an administrative law judge under Title 34 RCW to hear the dispute.

(b) The commissioners must provide a written notice, together with a copy of the dispute, and may require the disputing parties to attend a hearing before the administrative law judge, at a time and place to be specified in the written notice.

(c) The place of any such hearing may be the office of the commissioners or another place designated by the commissioners. The disputed information must be presented at the hearing.

(d) Upon review and consideration of all of the evidence, the administrative law judge must determine if the retail internet service is inadequate or nonexistent as defined in this section. Upon making a determination, the administrative law judge must state findings of fact and must issue and file a determination with the commissioners.

(8) If a provider of end-user service is a company regulated by the utilities and transportation commission, the company may choose to have the commission resolve disputes concerning the service level agreement under the process established in RCW 54.16.340. For the purposes of this subsection, "company" includes subsidiaries or affiliates.

(9) Any public utility district providing cable television service under this section must secure a cable television franchise, pay franchise fees, and any applicable taxes to the local cable franchise authority as required by federal law.

(10) Except as provided in subsection (8) of this section, nothing in this section may be construed or is intended to confer upon the utilities and transportation commission any authority to exercise jurisdiction over locally regulated utilities.

(11) All rates for retail internet services offered by a public utility district under this section must be fair and nondiscriminatory, except the public utility district may set tiers of service charges based on service demands of the end user, including commercial and residential rates.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 34.12 RCW to read as follows:

When requested by the public utility district commissioners, the chief administrative law judge shall assign an administrative law judge to conduct proceedings under section 1 of this act."

On page 1, line 3 of the title, after "act;" strike the remainder of the title and insert "adding a new section to chapter 54.16 RCW; and adding a new section to chapter 34.12 RCW."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. A new section is added to chapter 79.10 RCW under the subchapter heading "general provisions" to read as follows:

(1) Subject to the availability of amounts appropriated for this specific purpose, the department must evaluate the department's lands portfolio and revenue streams, management practices, and transaction processes, and develop options and recommendations designed to ensure the state's fiduciary duty is being met and increase the amount and stability of revenue from state lands and state forestland over time. The evaluation must seek to account for the volatility of forest product markets and consider ways to mitigate the impact of market downturns on its revenues.

(a) The evaluation must specifically include an analysis of options that would leverage the earning potential for high value, low performing portions of state lands, with suggested legislative recommendations to enhance revenue generation from these types of lands, including transitioning lower performing assets to higher revenue production.

(b) The evaluation must develop alternatives and recommendations relating to fully addressing the existing arrearage volume, including annual updates to the appropriate committees of the legislature on specific progress towards meeting, and the updated timeline to fully address, this shortfall within the ten-year time frame identified by the board of natural resources in November 2017.

(c) The evaluation must evaluate and develop alternatives and recommendations relating to calculating and addressing arrearage, with a particular focus on ensuring the stability of revenue from state lands and state trust lands over time.

(d) The evaluation must include an assessment of factors that restrict the department from prudent management and revenue production.

(e) Regarding state forestlands, the evaluation must specifically include an analysis of options and recommendations for:

(i) The creation of a unitary trust for the revenue derived from state forestlands. The evaluation must include methods for allocating disbursements to the benefiting counties, and include consultation with the affected counties and their association;

(ii) Any alternative management focus, such as returning the lands to the counties for their management, leasing the lands to private timber investment management organizations, and transition of lands into higher revenue producing assets; and

(iii) Any other options for legislative consideration.

(2) The department must develop methods or tools to estimate the current asset value of state lands and state forestlands, as defined in RCW 79.02.010. The methods should be designed to be as accurate and resource efficient as possible and be designed to allow repeated estimates over time. The methods must allow for the segregation of different asset classes, and at a minimum allow for the tracking values over time for the following: Forestland, irrigated agricultural land, nonirrigated agricultural land, and commercial real estate land. The department may recommend other asset classes to track in addition to those listed.

(3) The department may utilize the services of a contractor for any portion of the evaluation, analysis, and tool and method development required by this section.

(4) The department must provide a final report to the appropriate committees of the senate and house of representatives by June 30, 2020, that includes the evaluation, analysis, and tools and methods required by this section. NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. (1) Within existing appropriations, the department of natural resources must prepare an evaluation of leases and easements of state-owned aquatic lands for industrial and commercial uses in existence on January 1, 2018, except leases for purposes of marinas and moorage. The evaluation must include:

(a) A summary of each lease and easement, including lease term, rental rate, and use conditions;

(ii) Improve racial and ethnic equity in educational outcomes;

(iii) Ensure access to consistent and accurate annual educational outcomes data;

(vii) Explore the option of creating a specific statewide school district that supports the needs of and tracks the educational progress of children and youth in foster care and children and youth experiencing homelessness; and

(viii) Identify where opportunities exist to align policy, practices, and supports for students experiencing homelessness and foster students; and

(f) Outline which recommendations can be implemented using existing resources and regulations and which require policy, administrative, and resource adjustments.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Becker: "Thank you Mr. President. Well, I just want to say 'Happy Anniversary' to my husband. It is a very personal day today but, since I have been in the Senate, I have not spent but one day with him on our anniversary. And this happens to be our forty-fifth anniversary and I think it is something that I am pretty proud of and proud that I've married a man that I have been able to love for forty-five years. Not many people can say that anymore, I think. You know, I met him on a blind date. My roommate introduced me to him and we played spoons and he cheated and I thought he was a really bad person. But, I will tell you on another date, and we were done with our date and I had to go out on one of my flights, because at the time I was a stewardess, and my car broke down and I called him and he came immediately and helped me and I think that's the day I totally fell in love with him. Because it was pouring down rain and he got me there to work on time. My little sister used to hate him because he didn't take me enough places. Well, he has made up for that. And my family, it was funny because in my family, Mr. President, it seemed like no matter who I brought home, no matter what age I was, they weren't good enough. And this one, well I told my parents he was good enough. And so we have two daughters and we have three grandchildren, two young men and one six year old, phenomenally smart, young granddaughter and so I think I have to share he bought me this lovely bouquet of flowers and I forgot to bring them in today because I was enjoying them when I got ready for work in my fifth-wheel this morning. But it is really a neat thing, we had a wedding at our house and we all had to dance and whoever they named off for what year, how many years you've been in your relationship of marriage, we were the second to the longest, in staying on the floor. And somebody beat us, they were like five years more than us. So marriage is a very important thing to me and when we take our vows, my husband and I swore to those vows and, to my knowledge, we both have been very truthful to those vows and so I just want to say Mr. President my husband would not cheat on anybody, nor would he lie to anybody so I believe him immensely. It's just a really neat thing and it's really fun to talk about him in such a positive light because a lot of times I just get mad at him. He doesn't move fast enough for me. You know, when we are building a fence, 'Come on Bob, hurry up.' When we were doing the siding on our house, 'Come on Bob, we've got three boards up to your one.' You know, but you know what, it's okay. Forty-five years is a pretty neat thing to celebrate. And we dated for three years before that, so I figure we've got forty-eight years under our belt. So thank you Mr. President. Bob Becker, I love you. I'll love you to the day I die and I am so glad we got to meet, get married, have a family, and actually celebrate forty-five years, even if we are not together today. Thank you Mr. President."

THIRTY SIXTH DAY, FEBRUARY 12, 2018

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "It is possible, I don't know, I am speculating. It is possible Senator Becker that you got married on the day Steve Hobbs came into this world. I am not sure. I don't know how old he is. It could be.

Woe unto all those, anyone watching as part of Capitol Classroom, all the young people out there that are thinking you are going to become politicians one day, consider wedding dates between May and December. That is a public announcement for TVW."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Schoesler: "Earlier today, in a lighter moment, I suggested that Bob Becker should get a sympathy card but, that teasing aside, Bob, having visited, is a remarkable man and I can't think of anything better than a man who has stayed with such a wonderful woman for forty-five years."

The department of commerce shall provide the work group's report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2019. As part of the report, the work group must consider the reduction in utility income associated with different levels of net metering and the increase necessary in retail electric rates to affected rate classes to recoup that income. The work group must specifically evaluate the effect of needed changes to electric rates on low-income customers. The work group should evaluate the differences in income and rate effects among different types of utilities: Consumer-owned and investor-owned; many customers and few customers; and urban, suburban, and rural utilities. Based on this information, the work group must report a range of potential net-metering policies and the impact of those policies to each identified type of utility. The work group may identify a preferred net metering policy applicable to all utilities in the state or a set of policies applicable to each type of utility. The work group shall also provide an inventory of other state's net metering laws and assess their applicability to the circumstances of different types of utilities in Washington state.

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. RCW 80.60.020 and 2007 c 323 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) An electric utility:

(a) Shall offer to make net metering available to eligible customers-generators on a first-come, first-served basis until the cumulative generating capacity of net metering systems equals 0.25 percent of the utility's peak demand during 1996. On January 1, 2014, the cumulative generating capacity available to net metering systems will equal ~~((0.5))~~ four percent of the utility's peak demand during 1996. Not less than one-half of the utility's 1996 peak demand available for net metering systems shall be reserved for the cumulative generating capacity attributable to net metering systems that generate renewable energy;

(b) Shall allow net metering systems to be interconnected using a standard kilowatt-hour meter capable of registering the flow of electricity in two directions, unless the commission, in the case of an electrical company, or the appropriate governing body, in the case of other electric utilities, determines, after appropriate notice and opportunity for comment:

(i) That the use of additional metering equipment to monitor the flow of electricity in each direction is necessary and appropriate for the interconnection of net metering systems, after taking into account the benefits and costs of purchasing and installing additional metering equipment; and

(ii) How the cost of purchasing and installing an additional meter is to be allocated between the customer-generator and the utility;

(c) Shall charge the customer-generator a minimum monthly fee that is the same as other customers of the electric utility in the same rate class, but shall not charge the customer-generator any additional standby, capacity, interconnection, or other fee or charge unless the commission, in the case of an electrical company, or the appropriate governing body, in the case of other electric utilities, determines, after appropriate notice and opportunity for comment that:

(i) The electric utility will incur direct costs associated with interconnecting or administering net metering systems that exceed any offsetting benefits associated with these systems; and

(ii) Public policy is best served by imposing these costs on the customer-generator rather than allocating these costs among the utility's entire customer base.

(2) If a production meter and software is required by the electric utility to provide meter aggregation under RCW 80.60.030(4), the customer-generator is responsible for the purchase of the production meter and software.

Sec. 2. RCW 80.60.030 and 2007 c 323 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

Consistent with the other provisions of this chapter, the net energy measurement must be calculated in the following manner:

(1) The electric utility shall measure the net electricity produced or consumed during the billing period, in accordance with normal metering practices.

(2) If the electricity supplied by the electric utility exceeds the electricity generated by the customer-generator and fed back to the electric utility during the billing period, the customer-generator shall be billed for the net electricity supplied by the electric utility, in accordance with normal metering practices.

(3) If electricity generated by the customer-generator exceeds the electricity supplied by the electric utility, the customer-generator:

(a) Shall be billed for the appropriate customer charges for that billing period, in accordance with RCW 80.60.020; and

(b) Shall be credited for the excess kilowatt-hours generated during the billing period, with this kilowatt-hour credit appearing on the bill for the following billing period.

(4) If a customer-generator requests, an electric utility shall provide meter aggregation.

(a) For customer-generators participating in meter aggregation, kilowatt-hours credits earned by a net metering system during the billing period first shall be used to offset electricity supplied by the electric utility.

(b) Not more than a total of one hundred kilowatts shall be aggregated among all customer-generators participating in a generating facility under this subsection.

(c) Excess kilowatt-hours credits earned by the net metering system, during the same billing period, shall be credited equally by the electric utility to remaining meters located on all premises of a customer-generator at the designated rate of each meter.

(d) Meters so aggregated shall not change rate classes due to meter aggregation under this section.

(5) On ~~((April 30th))~~ March 31st of each calendar year, any remaining unused kilowatt-hour credit accumulated during the previous year shall be granted to the electric utility to be used to assist qualified low-income residential customers of the electric utility in paying their electricity bills, without any compensation to the customer-generator.

Sec. 3. RCW 82.16.090 and 1988 c 228 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

Any customer billing issued by a light or power business or gas distribution business that serves a total of more than twenty thousand customers and operates within the state shall include the following information:

(1) The rates and amounts of taxes paid directly by the customer upon products or services rendered by the light and power business or gas distribution business; ~~((and))~~

(2) The rate, origin and approximate amount of each tax levied upon the revenue of the light and power business or gas distribution business and added as a component of the amount charged to the customer. Taxes based upon revenue of the light and power business or gas distribution business to be listed on the customer billing need not include taxes levied by the federal government or taxes levied under chapters 54.28, 80.24, or 82.04 RCW; and

(3) The total amount of kilowatt-hours of electricity consumed for the most recent twelve-month period.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 19.27 RCW to read as follows:

The state building code council, in consultation with the department of commerce and local governments, shall conduct a study of the state building code and adopt changes necessary to encourage greater use of renewable energy systems as defined in RCW 82.16.110.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) The department of commerce shall convene a work group to identify issues and laws associated with the future of net metering. The work group shall include representatives from consumer-owned utilities, investor-owned utilities, the utilities and transportation commission, the solar industry, and any other relevant participants. The department of commerce shall report the work group's recommendations to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2019. The work group recommendations must identify the specific circumstances in which changes in compensation for net metering systems would be warranted and what the policy should be for customer-generators in the same rate class. As part of the recommendations, the work group must consider the reduction in utility income associated with different levels of net metering and must consider if there are any cost shifts to ratepayers associated with net metering. The work group shall also provide an inventory of other state's net metering laws.

(2) This section expires June 30, 2020."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hawkins: “Well I would just like to wish two happy birthdays: One, to President Lincoln, because it is President Lincoln’s birthday today and also as I learned from a floor speech a couple of days ago, also our very own Senator Hobbs’ birthday. Happy Birthday Senator Hobbs.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Honeyford: “Well thank you. I thought it was time that we honor a great American. And on this 209th anniversary of Lincoln’s birthday, I think he deserves our remembrance and our thanks. And some of the things you may wonder if he is still relevant 209 years later and so I would like to share a story that I heard about Lincoln and it seems that Hugh McCullough who served as Lincoln’s Secretary of the Treasury once came with a delegation of New York bankers and as the party filed into the room he said to the president in a low voice, ‘These bankers have come to see me about our new loan. As bankers they are obliged to hold our national securities. I can vouch for their patriotism and loyalty for the good book says ‘Where the treasure is, there will also be the heart.’ And Mr. Lincoln or President Lincoln replied, ‘There is another text, Mr. McCullough, I remember that might equally apply, “Where the carcass is, there will be the vultures gathered together.’ And you may even know that Lincoln questioned his own relevance in future generations and when the President began his dedication of the National Cemetery at Gettysburg he humbly declared, ‘The world will little note nor long remember what we say here’ and how wrong he was. You know the Gettysburg Address, we remember those words, we remember his actions, he didn’t simply want to win a war or save the union no more than saving the union he was instrumental in saving the soul of our nation. And I really believe that deserves a great deal of thanks. And he put it so simply, ‘a nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are equal.’ All men are equal, and Lincoln was a trained lawyer, but his words never bore the shame or legalese, his detest of slavery can be summarized best with his address to an Indiana regiment when he declared, ‘When I hear anyone arguing for slavery, I feel a strong impulse to see it tried on him personally.’ That would be fun to see. Yet despite the rebellion, despite the spilled blood, or perhaps because of it, Lincoln planned for a post-Civil War peace that would have been conducted with ‘malice towards none and charity to all.’ He was an extraordinary man and I am sure he would be surprised today if he was alive at how well his words are remembered. We remember the Gettysburg Address because in just over two minutes and ten seconds, Lincoln was able to return America to the principles articulated in our Declaration of Independence. ... I will conclude. ... He gave definition, a new birth of freedom, bring true equality to all of our citizens and in doing so he brought us closer to the fulfilling the promise of our founding, and for that we owe him our remembrance and thanks. Thank you Mr. President.”

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Becker: “Thank you Mr. President. Well I too, and I thank Senator Hawkins and Senator Honeyford for talking about President Lincoln’s birthday and I also wanted to say that it is kind of a remarkable day. When I was first elected my husband and I took a trip back to Michigan and coming back we stopped at Wild Turkey Campground and camped. And some people told us about Springfield, Illinois where the museum is for President Abraham Lincoln and so we took a detour and went over there and spent the entire day and we probably could have spent two or three days going through that. And it went through, kind of like a roadway of his life and it started out with showing the family in the cabin and everything, and then him in law school, and him running for election, losing, and running again. Then going through all of his main things, writing all of the legislation to free the slaves. His commitment to freeing all of the people who were in slavery in the south. And all the battles. We think that right now in this part of our history we are the only ones that fight. Oh my goodness, it showed you fighters and people screaming and all the slanderous activities that were happening. And yet President Lincoln stood strong to free the slaves in the south. And it was a civil war, he did live to the end of the civil war, the history books back there were amazing but it is his birthday and I am disappointed but I am glad that two of our senators brought up his birthday so that we could actually talk about it. An impressive person. I think that he held honor and truth to be dear to his heart and I think that each and every one of us would do really well, and I am not saying we don't, but to hold honor and truth near and dear to our heart. If you ever get a chance go back visit the museum and you will experience something that is quite remarkable. Thank you Mr. President."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "Given the late hour, I would ask members to keep your points of personal privilege to matters that pertain to your participation in the Senate or if they are relevant, truly relevant to the work we are doing. We are here late at night and I have as much respect for President Lincoln as anybody, I would be happy to sit in any pro forma and hear a resolution in his honor. Tomorrow we will have the opportunity to honor a wonderful Washingtonian, Governor Spellman. We want to have the time to be able to do that. Tonight we need to continue and move legislation."

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 6229, by Senators Van De Wege, Chase, Conway, Wellman, Hasegawa, Saldaña, Keiser, Hunt and Kuderer

Requiring employers to provide exclusive bargaining representatives reasonable access to new employees for the purposes of presenting information about their exclusive bargaining representative.

The measure was read the second time.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fain: "Thank you Mr. President. I was listening to the remarks of the President a few moments ago and I was trying to think to myself of what part of the little red book the President was speaking from, and I could not come up with a passage, especially in light of the amendment to the rules that were adopted at the beginning of the year that eliminated the provision that had some, that addressed what could be spoken to in points of personal privilege, and so Mr. President I was hoping you could inform us in which rule you were interpreting."

President Habib: "It is also the President's prerogative to rule points of personal privilege as dilatory if they are being used to impede the work of the Senate under rule 49, Senator. And so, my hope was not to have to do that. I did allow these two speakers to put forward their points of personal privilege, which were on the unfortunate passing of our sixteenth president, some 150 years ago. And so I did allow that personal privilege for those two senators but if that were to continue it would begin to appear as though members were seeking at this late hour to impede the work of the Senate. We've today had the tremendous opportunity to honor Senator Becker's marriage, we've talked about Senator Hobbs' birthday, certainly we will have the very sacred opportunity tomorrow to recognize Governor Spellman's service, we had obviously Senator Gorton on Friday. It's important to do these things but I think everyone agrees right now, none of us are here because we enjoy working late into the night. We have bills to pass. If there is more to say about President Lincoln, I am sure a resolution could be arranged. Now, Senator Fain did you have another point?"

Senator Fain: "No, I just wanted to appreciate your long winded response. It gave me an opportunity to get organized."

President Habib: "Even I didn't hit the three minute mark Senator Fain."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Senate Rule 49 prescribes that measures reported by committees shall be referred to the Committee on Rules. Senate Rule 29 outlines rules of debate.

INTRODUCTION OF SPECIAL GUESTS

The President welcomed and introduced students, faculty, and administrators visiting for undergraduate research day who were seated in the gallery.

Senator Honeyford: "Thank you Mr. President. Well today is a very special day for someone I have a great deal of respect and admiration for. And this person has been a huge assistance in my twenty years in the Senate. And so, this individual is sitting on the podium and I wish her a Happy Birthday, Jeannie. Thank you Mr. President."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Habib: "I want to point out that Jeannie being Jeannie and self effacing, she just asked me to call your point of personal privilege dilatory, Senator Honeyford, but the President does not find it to be dilatory. Jeannie, truly without you I would irritate even more people in this chamber than I do already. You have taught me so much. I know you taught my predecessor so much, and your colleagues, the members of this chamber and the one thing I think we can all offer Jeannie is that, unlike last year when she missed her children's birthday on June 30 to be with us here, she will be able to spend some time with family on June 30 if not necessarily today on your birthday Jeannie. Would the Senate please join me in wishing her a very happy birthday with us today?"

The senate rose and recognized Ms. Jeannie Gorrell of the event of her birthday.

REMARKS BY SENATOR LIAS

Senator Liias: "Thank you Mr. President. I join Senator Honeyford in wishing Jeannie a happy birthday and I am so impressed in all that she has accomplished in thirty-nine short years here with us, and we look forward to many more to come."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Liias, the Senate advanced to the sixth order of business.

(7) "Dual credit fees" means any fees charged to a student for participation in college in the high school under RCW 28A.600.290 or running start under RCW 28A.600.310.

(18) "Owner" means the eligible purchaser or the purchaser's successor in interest who shall have the exclusive authority to make decisions with respect to the tuition unit contract or the individual college savings program contract. The owner has exclusive authority and responsibility to establish and change the asset investment options for a beneficiaries' individual college savings program account.

(19) "Participant college savings program account contract" means a contract to participate in the Washington college savings program between an eligible purchaser and the office.

(20) "State institution of higher education" means institutions of higher education as defined in RCW 28B.10.016.

For purposes of this chapter, services and activities fees do not include fees charged for the payment of bonds heretofore or hereafter issued for, or other indebtedness incurred to pay, all or part of the cost of acquiring, constructing, or installing any lands, buildings, or facilities.

(22) "Tuition unit contract" means a contract between an eligible purchaser and the governing body, or a successor agency appointed for administration of this chapter, for the purchase of tuition units in the advanced college tuition payment program for a specified beneficiary that may be redeemed at a later date for an equal number of tuition units, except as provided in RCW 28B.95.030 (7) and (8).

(23) "Unit cash value price" means the total value of assets under management in the advanced college tuition payment program on a date to be determined by the committee, divided by the total number of outstanding credits purchased by eligible purchasers before July 1, 2015, and any outstanding credits accrued by eligible purchasers as a result of the July 2017 unit rebase.

(24) "Unit purchase price" means the minimum cost to purchase one tuition unit in the advanced college tuition payment program for an eligible beneficiary. Generally, the minimum purchase price is one percent of the undergraduate tuition and fees for the current year, rounded to the nearest whole dollar, adjusted for the costs of administration and adjusted to ensure the actuarial soundness of the account. The analysis for price setting shall also include, but not be limited to consideration of past and projected patterns of tuition increases, program liability, past and projected investment returns, and the need for a prudent stabilization reserve.

Sec. 2. RCW 28B.95.030 and 2016 c 69 s 4 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The Washington advanced college tuition payment program shall be administered by the committee on advanced tuition payment which shall be chaired by the director of the office. The committee shall be supported by staff of the office.

(2)(a) The Washington advanced college tuition payment program shall consist of the sale of tuition units, which may be redeemed by the beneficiary at a future date for an equal number of tuition units regardless of any increase in the price of tuition, that may have occurred in the interval, except as provided in subsections (7) and (8) of this section.

THIRTY SEVENTH DAY, FEBRUARY 13, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

(b) Each purchase shall be worth a specific number of or fraction of tuition units at each state institution of higher education as determined by the governing body, except as provided in subsections (7) and (8) of this section.

(c) The number of tuition units necessary to pay for a full year's, full-time undergraduate tuition and fee charges at a state institution of higher education shall be set by the governing body at the time a purchaser enters into a tuition unit contract, except as provided in subsections (7) and (8) of this section.

(d) The governing body may limit the number of tuition units purchased by any one purchaser or on behalf of any one beneficiary, however, no limit may be imposed that is less than that necessary to achieve four years of full-time, undergraduate tuition charges at a state institution of higher education. The governing body also may, at its discretion, limit the number of participants, if needed, to ensure the actuarial soundness and integrity of the program.

(e) While the Washington advanced college tuition payment program is designed to help all citizens of the state of Washington, the governing body may determine residency requirements for eligible purchasers and eligible beneficiaries to ensure the actuarial soundness and integrity of the program.

(3)(a) No tuition unit may be redeemed until two years after the purchase of the unit.

(b) Units may be redeemed for enrollment at any institution of higher education that is recognized by the internal revenue service under chapter 529 of the internal revenue code. Units may also be redeemed to pay for dual credit fees.

(c) Units redeemed at a nonstate institution of higher education or for graduate enrollment shall be redeemed at the rate for state public institutions in effect at the time of redemption.

(4) The governing body shall determine the conditions under which the tuition benefit may be transferred to another family member. In permitting such transfers, the governing body may not allow the tuition benefit to be bought, sold, bartered, or otherwise exchanged for goods and services by either the beneficiary or the purchaser.

(5) The governing body shall administer the Washington advanced college tuition payment program in a manner reasonably designed to be actuarially sound, such that the assets of the trust will be sufficient to defray the obligations of the trust including the costs of administration. The governing body may, at its discretion, discount the minimum purchase price for certain kinds of purchases such as those from families with young children, as long as the actuarial soundness of the account is not jeopardized.

(6) The governing body shall annually determine current value of a tuition unit.

(7) For the 2015-16 and 2016-17 academic years only, the governing body shall set the payout value for units redeemed during that academic year only at one hundred seventeen dollars and eighty-two cents per unit. For academic years after the 2016-17 academic year, the governing body shall make program adjustments it deems necessary and appropriate to ensure that the total payout value of each account on October 9, 2015, is not decreased or diluted as a result of the initial application of any changes in tuition under section 3, chapter 36, Laws of 2015 3rd sp. sess. In the event the committee or governing body provides additional units under chapter 36, Laws of 2015 3rd sp. sess., the committee and governing body shall also increase the maximum number of units that can be redeemed in any year to mitigate the reduction in available account value during any year as a result of chapter 36, Laws of 2015 3rd sp. sess. The governing body must notify holders of tuition units after the adjustment in this subsection is made and must include a statement concerning the adjustment.

(8) The governing body shall allow account owners who purchased units before July 1, 2015, to redeem such units at the unit cash value price provided that all the redeemed funds are deposited immediately into an eligible Washington college savings program account established by the governing body. Within ninety days of the effective date of this section, the committee, in consultation with the state actuary and state investment board, shall:

(a) Establish a period that is not less than ninety days during which eligible purchasers may redeem units at the unit cash value price for the purposes of this subsection and provide at least thirty days' notice prior to the ninety-day window to all eligible account holders about the redemption option; and

(b) Establish the unit cash value price. The committee, in consultation with the state actuary and the state investment board, may revalue the unit cash value price established in this subsection (8)(b) up to three times during the ninety-day period in which eligible purchasers may redeem units for the unit cash value price.

(9) The governing body shall promote, advertise, and publicize the Washington advanced college tuition payment program. Materials and online publications advertising the Washington advanced college tuition payment program shall include a disclaimer that the Washington advanced college tuition payment program's guarantee is that one hundred tuition units will equal one year of full-time, resident, undergraduate tuition at the most expensive state institution of higher education, and that if resident, undergraduate tuition is reduced, a tuition unit may lose monetary value.

~~((9))~~ (10) In addition to any other powers conferred by this chapter, the governing body may:

(a) Impose reasonable limits on the number of tuition units or units that may be used in any one year;

(b) Determine and set any time limits, if necessary, for the use of benefits under this chapter;

(c) Impose and collect administrative fees and charges in connection with any transaction under this chapter;

(d) Appoint and use advisory committees and the state actuary as needed to provide program direction and guidance;

(e) Formulate and adopt all other policies and rules necessary for the efficient administration of the program;

(f) Consider the addition of an advanced payment program for room and board contracts and also consider a college savings program;

(g) Purchase insurance from insurers licensed to do business in the state, to provide for coverage against any loss in connection with the account's property, assets, or activities or to further insure the value of the tuition units;

(h) Make, execute, and deliver contracts, conveyances, and other instruments necessary to the exercise and discharge of its powers and duties under this chapter;

(i) Contract for the provision for all or part of the services necessary for the management and operation of the program with other state or nonstate entities authorized to do business in the state;

THIRTY SEVENTH DAY, FEBRUARY 13, 2018

2018 REGULAR SESSION

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. A new section is added to chapter 46.96 RCW to read as follows:

(1) A manufacturer shall compensate its new motor vehicle dealers for all labor and parts required by the manufacturer to perform recall repairs at rates no lower than those set in accordance with RCW 46.96.105. If parts or a remedy are not reasonably available to perform a recall service or repair on a used vehicle held for sale by a dealer authorized to sell new vehicles of the same line make within fifteen days of the manufacturer issuing the initial notice of recall, and the manufacturer has issued a stop-sale, do-not-drive order, or the manufacturer has not certified that the issue identified in the notice of recall does not affect the safe operation of the vehicle, commencing on the fifteenth day after the notice or order was issued and ending on the earlier of the date that the remedy or repair parts necessary to resolve the recall, stop-sale, or do-not-drive order are available to the dealer for vehicles in the dealer's inventory or the dealer sells, trades, or otherwise disposes of the vehicle, the manufacturer shall compensate the dealer at a prorated rate of at least 1.75 percent of the average trade-in value as indicated in an independent third-party guide for the year, make, model, and mileage of the recalled vehicle, per month, or portion of a month, while the recall or remedy parts are unavailable and the order remains in effect. A manufacturer is not required to compensate a motor vehicle dealer for more than the total trade-in value of the vehicle as established under this section. A manufacturer is not required to compensate a motor vehicle dealer for vehicles purchased by the dealer at a wholesale auction after the date the order was issued. A stop-sale or do-not-drive order is defined as a notification issued by a vehicle manufacturer to its franchised dealers stating that certain used vehicles in inventory should not be sold or leased, at retail or wholesale, due to a federal safety recall for a defect or a noncompliance, or a federal or California emissions recall.

(2) This section applies only to used vehicles subject to safety or emissions recalls pursuant to and recalled in accordance with federal law and regulations adopted thereunder and where a stop-sale, do-not-drive order has been issued, or the manufacturer has not certified that the issue identified in the notice of recall does not affect the safe operation of the vehicle. This section further applies only to new motor vehicle dealers holding used vehicles for sale that are a line make that the dealer is franchised to sell or on which the dealer is authorized to perform recall repairs.

(3) All reimbursement claims made by new motor vehicle dealers pursuant to this section for recall remedies or repairs, or for compensation where no part or repair is reasonably available and the vehicle is subject to a stop-sale, do-not-drive, or the manufacturer has not certified that the issue identified in the notice of recall does not affect the safe operation of the vehicle, is subject to the same limitations and requirements as a warranty reimbursement claim made under RCW 46.96.105. Claims shall be either approved or disapproved within thirty days after they are submitted to the manufacturer in the manner and on the forms the manufacturer reasonably prescribes. A manufacturer shall pay a claim within thirty days following approval. Any claim not specifically disapproved in writing within thirty days following receipt is approved.

(4) A manufacturer may compensate its franchised dealers under a national recall compensation program provided the compensation under the program is equal to or greater than that provided in subsection (1) of this section.

(5) A manufacturer may not otherwise recover all or any portion of its costs for compensating its dealers licensed in this state for recalled vehicles, parts, and service either by reduction in the amount due to the dealer or by separate charge, surcharge, or other imposition.

(6) Any remedy provided to a new motor vehicle dealer under this section is exclusive and may not be combined with any other state or federal recall compensation remedy.

Sec. 2. RCW 46.96.185 and 2014 c 214 s 7 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Notwithstanding the terms of a franchise agreement, a manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative, or an agent, officer, parent company, wholly or partially owned subsidiary, affiliated entity, or other person controlled by or under common control with a manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative, shall not:

(a) Discriminate between new motor vehicle dealers by selling or offering to sell a like vehicle to one dealer at a lower actual price than the actual price offered to another dealer for the same model similarly equipped;

(b) Discriminate between new motor vehicle dealers by selling or offering to sell parts or accessories to one dealer at a lower actual price than the actual price offered to another dealer;

(c) Discriminate between new motor vehicle dealers by using a promotion plan, marketing plan, or other similar device that results in a lower actual price on vehicles, parts, or accessories being charged to one dealer over another dealer;

(d) Discriminate between new motor vehicle dealers by adopting a method, or changing an existing method, for the allocation, scheduling, or delivery of new motor vehicles, parts, or accessories to its dealers that is not fair, reasonable, and equitable. Upon the request of a dealer, a manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative shall disclose in writing to the dealer the method by which new motor vehicles, parts, and accessories are allocated, scheduled, or delivered to its dealers handling the same line or make of vehicles;

(e) Discriminate against a new motor vehicle dealer by preventing, offsetting, or otherwise impairing the dealer's right to request a documentary service fee on affinity or similar program purchases. This prohibition applies to, but is not limited to, any promotion plan, marketing plan, manufacturer or dealer employee or employee friends or family purchase programs, or similar plans or programs;

(f) Give preferential treatment to some new motor vehicle dealers over others by refusing or failing to deliver, in reasonable quantities and within a reasonable time after receipt of an order, to a dealer holding a franchise for a line or make of motor vehicles sold or distributed by the manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative, a new vehicle, parts, or accessories, if the vehicle, parts, or accessories are being delivered to other dealers, or require a dealer to purchase unreasonable advertising displays or other materials, or unreasonably require a dealer to remodel or renovate existing facilities as a prerequisite to receiving a model or series of vehicles;

(g) Compete with a new motor vehicle dealer of any make or line by acting in the capacity of a new motor vehicle dealer, or by owning, operating, or controlling, whether directly or indirectly, a motor vehicle dealership in this state. It is not, however, a violation of this subsection for:

(i) A manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative to own or operate a dealership for a temporary period, not to exceed two years, during the transition from one owner of the dealership to another where the dealership was previously owned by a franchised dealer and is currently for sale to any qualified independent person at a fair and reasonable price. The temporary operation may be extended for one twelve-month period on petition of the temporary operator to the department.

The matter will be handled as an adjudicative proceeding under chapter 34.05 RCW. A dealer who is a franchisee of the petitioning manufacturer or distributor may intervene and participate in a proceeding under this subsection (1)(g)(i). The temporary operator has the burden of proof to show justification for the extension and a good faith effort to sell the dealership to an independent person at a fair and reasonable price;

(ii) A manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative to own or operate a dealership in conjunction with an independent person in a bona fide business relationship for the purpose of broadening the diversity of its dealer body and enhancing opportunities for qualified persons who are part of a group who have historically been underrepresented in its dealer body, or other qualified persons who lack the resources to purchase a dealership outright, and where the independent person: (A) Has made, or within a period of two years from the date of commencement of operation will have made, a significant, bona fide capital investment in the dealership that is subject to loss; (B) has an ownership interest in the dealership; and (C) operates the dealership under a bona fide written agreement with the manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative under which he or she will acquire all of the ownership interest in the dealership within a reasonable period of time and under reasonable terms and conditions. The manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative has the burden of proof of establishing that the acquisition of the dealership by the independent person was made within a reasonable period of time and under reasonable terms and conditions. Nothing in this subsection (1)(g)(ii) relieves a manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative from complying with (a) through (f) of this subsection;

(iii) A manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative to own or operate a dealership in conjunction with an independent person in a bona fide business relationship where the independent person: (A) Has made, or within a period of two years from the date of commencement of operation will have made, a significant, bona fide capital investment in the dealership that is subject to loss; (B) has an ownership interest in the dealership; and (C) operates the dealership under a bona fide written agreement with the manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative under which he or she will acquire all of the ownership interest in the dealership within a reasonable period of time and under reasonable terms and conditions. The manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative has the burden of proof of establishing that the acquisition of the dealership by the independent person was made within a reasonable period of time and under reasonable terms and conditions. The number of dealerships operated under this subsection (1)(g)(iii) may not exceed four percent rounded up to the nearest whole number of a manufacturer's total of new motor vehicle dealer franchises in this state. Nothing in this subsection (1)(g)(iii) relieves a manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative from complying with (a) through (f) of this subsection;

(iv) A truck manufacturer to own, operate, or control a new motor vehicle dealership that sells only trucks of that manufacturer's line make with a gross vehicle weight rating of 12,500 pounds or more, and the truck manufacturer has been continuously engaged in the retail sale of the trucks at least since January 1, 1993;

(v) A manufacturer to own, operate, or control a new motor vehicle dealership trading exclusively in a single line make of the manufacturer if (A) the manufacturer does not own, directly or indirectly, in the aggregate, in excess of forty-five percent of the total ownership interest in the dealership, (B) at the time the manufacturer first acquires ownership or assumes operation or control of any such dealership, the distance between any dealership thus owned, operated, or controlled and the nearest new motor vehicle dealership trading in the same line make of vehicle and in which the manufacturer has no ownership or control is not less than fifteen miles and complies with the applicable provisions in the relevant market area sections of this chapter, (C) all of the manufacturer's franchise agreements confer rights on the dealer of that line make to develop and operate within a defined geographic territory or area, as many dealership facilities as the dealer and the manufacturer agree are appropriate, and (D) as of January 1, 2000, the manufacturer had no more than four new motor vehicle dealers of that manufacturer's line make in this state, and at least half of those dealers owned and operated two or more dealership facilities in the geographic territory or area covered by their franchise agreements with the manufacturer;

(vi) A final-stage manufacturer to own, operate, or control a new motor vehicle dealership; or

(vii) A manufacturer that held a vehicle dealer license in this state on January 1, 2014, to own, operate, or control a new motor vehicle dealership that sells new vehicles that are only of that manufacturer's makes or lines and that are not sold new by a licensed independent franchise dealer, or to own, operate, or control or contract with companies that provide finance, leasing, or service for vehicles that are of that manufacturer's makes or lines;

(h) Compete with a new motor vehicle dealer by owning, operating, or controlling, whether directly or indirectly, a service facility in this state for the repair or maintenance of motor vehicles under the manufacturer's new car warranty and extended warranty. Nothing in this subsection (1)(h), however, prohibits a manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative from owning or operating a service facility for the purpose of providing or performing maintenance, repair, or service work on motor vehicles that are owned by the manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative;

(i) Use confidential or proprietary information obtained from a new motor vehicle dealer to unfairly compete with the dealer. For purposes of this subsection (1)(i), "confidential or proprietary information" means trade secrets as defined in RCW 19.108.010, business plans, marketing plans or strategies, customer lists, contracts, sales data, revenues, or other financial information;

(j)(i) Terminate, cancel, or fail to renew a franchise with a new motor vehicle dealer based upon any of the following events, which do not constitute good cause for termination, cancellation, or nonrenewal under RCW 46.96.060: (A) The fact that the new motor vehicle dealer owns, has an investment in, participates in the management of, or holds a franchise agreement for the sale or service of another make or line of new motor vehicles; (B) the fact that the new motor vehicle dealer has established another make or line of new motor vehicles or service in the same dealership facilities as those of the manufacturer or distributor; (C) that the new motor vehicle dealer has or intends to relocate the manufacturer or distributor's make or line of new motor vehicles or service to an existing dealership facility that is within the relevant market area, as defined in RCW 46.96.140, of the make or line to be relocated, except that, in any nonemergency circumstance, the dealer must give the manufacturer or distributor at least sixty days' notice of his or her intent to relocate and the relocation must comply with RCW 46.96.140 and 46.96.150 for any same make or line facility; or (D) the failure of a franchisee to change the location of the dealership or to make substantial alterations to the use or number of franchises on the dealership premises or facilities.

2018 REGULAR SESSION

(ii) Notwithstanding the limitations of this section, a manufacturer may, for separate consideration, enter into a written contract with a dealer to exclusively sell and service a single make or line of new motor vehicles at a specific facility for a defined period of time. The penalty for breach of the contract must not exceed the amount of consideration paid by the manufacturer plus a reasonable rate of interest;

(k) Coerce or attempt to coerce a motor vehicle dealer to refrain from, or prohibit or attempt to prohibit a new motor vehicle dealer from acquiring, owning, having an investment in, participating in the management of, or holding a franchise agreement for the sale or service of another make or line of new motor vehicles or related products, or establishing another make or line of new motor vehicles or service in the same dealership facilities, if the prohibition against acquiring, owning, investing, managing, or holding a franchise for such additional make or line of vehicles or products, or establishing another make or line of new motor vehicles or service in the same dealership facilities, is not supported by reasonable business considerations. The burden of proving that reasonable business considerations support or justify the prohibition against the additional make or line of new motor vehicles or products or nonexclusive facilities is on the manufacturer;

(l) Require, by contract or otherwise, a new motor vehicle dealer to make a material alteration, expansion, or addition to any dealership facility, unless the required alteration, expansion, or addition is uniformly required of other similarly situated new motor vehicle dealers of the same make or line of vehicles and is reasonable in light of all existing circumstances, including economic conditions. In any proceeding in which a required facility alteration, expansion, or addition is an issue, the manufacturer or distributor has the burden of proof. Except for a program or any renewal or modification of a program that is in effect with one or more new motor vehicle dealers in this state on June 12, 2014, a manufacturer shall not require, coerce, or attempt to coerce any new motor vehicle dealer by program, policy, standard, or otherwise to change the location of the dealership or construct, replace, renovate, or make any substantial changes, alterations, or remodeling to a new motor vehicle dealer's sales or service facilities, except as necessary to comply with health or safety laws or to comply with technology requirements without which a dealer would be unable to service a vehicle the dealer has elected to sell, before the tenth anniversary of the date of issuance of the certificate of occupancy or the manufacturer's approval, whichever is later, from:

(i) The date construction of the dealership at that location was completed if the construction was in substantial compliance with standards or plans provided by a manufacturer, distributor, or representative or through a subsidiary or agent of the manufacturer, distributor, or representative; or

(ii) The date a prior change, alteration, or remodel of the dealership at that location was completed if the construction was in substantial compliance with standards or plans provided by a manufacturer, distributor, or representative or through a subsidiary or agent of the manufacturer, distributor, or representative;

(m) Prevent or attempt to prevent by contract or otherwise any new motor vehicle dealer from changing the executive management of a new motor vehicle dealer unless the manufacturer or distributor, having the burden of proof, can show that a proposed change of executive management will result in executive management by a person or persons who are not of good moral character or who do not meet reasonable, preexisting, and equitably applied standards of the manufacturer or distributor. If a manufacturer or distributor rejects a proposed change in the executive management, the manufacturer or distributor shall give written notice of its reasons to the dealer within sixty days after receiving written notice from the dealer of the proposed change and all related information reasonably requested by the manufacturer or distributor, or the change in executive management must be considered approved;

(n) Condition the sale, transfer, relocation, or renewal of a franchise agreement or condition manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative sales, services, or parts incentives upon the manufacturer obtaining site control, including rights to purchase or lease the dealer's facility, or an agreement to make improvements or substantial renovations to a facility. For purposes of this section, a substantial renovation has a gross cost to the dealer in excess of five thousand dollars;

(o) Fail to provide to a new motor vehicle dealer purchasing or leasing building materials or other facility improvements the right to purchase or lease franchisor image elements of like kind and quality from an alternative vendor selected by the dealer if the goods or services are to be supplied by a vendor selected, identified, or designated by the manufacturer or distributor. If the vendor selected by the manufacturer or distributor is the only available vendor of like kind and quality materials, the new motor vehicle dealer must be given the opportunity to purchase the franchisor image elements at a price substantially similar to the capitalized lease costs of the elements. This subsection (1)(o) must not be construed to allow a new motor vehicle dealer or vendor to gain additional intellectual property rights they are not otherwise entitled to or to impair or eliminate the intellectual property rights of the manufacturer or distributor or to permit a new motor vehicle dealer to erect or maintain signs that do not conform to the reasonable intellectual property usage guidelines of the manufacturer or distributor;

(p) Take any adverse action against a new motor vehicle dealer including, but not limited to, charge backs or reducing vehicle allocations, for sales and service performance within a designated area of primary responsibility unless that area is reasonable in light of proximity to relevant census tracts to the dealership and competing dealerships, highways and road networks, ~~((state borders,))~~ any natural or man-made barriers, demographics, including economic factors, ~~((and))~~ buyer behavior information, and contains only areas inside the state of Washington unless specifically approved by the new motor vehicle dealer; ~~((or))~~

(q) Require, coerce, or attempt to coerce any new motor vehicle dealer by program, policy, facility guide, standard, or otherwise to order or accept delivery of any service or repair appliances, equipment, parts, or accessories, or any other commodity not required by law, which the dealer has not voluntarily ordered or which the dealer does not have the right to return unused for a full refund within ninety days or a longer period as mutually agreed upon by the dealer and manufacturer; or

(r) Modify the franchise agreement for any new motor vehicle dealer unless the manufacturer notifies the dealer in writing of its intention to modify the agreement at least ninety days before the effective date thereof, stating the specific grounds for the modification, and undertakes the modification in good faith, for good cause, and in a manner that would not adversely and substantially alter the rights, obligations, investment, or return on investment of the franchised new motor vehicle dealer under the existing agreement.

(2) Subsection (1)(a), (b), and (c) of this section do not apply to sales to a motor vehicle dealer: (a) For resale to a federal, state, or local government agency; (b) where the vehicles will be sold or donated for use in a program of driver's education; (c) where the sale is made under a manufacturer's bona fide promotional program offering sales incentives or rebates; (d) where the sale of parts or accessories is under a manufacturer's bona fide quantity discount program; or (e) where the sale is made under a manufacturer's bona fide fleet vehicle discount program. For purposes of this subsection, "fleet" means a group of fifteen or more new motor vehicles purchased or leased by a dealer at one time under a single purchase or lease agreement for use as part of a fleet, and where the dealer has been assigned a fleet identifier code by the department of licensing.

(3) The following definitions apply to this section:

(a) "Actual price" means the price to be paid by the dealer less any incentive paid by the manufacturer, distributor, factory branch, or factory representative, whether paid to the dealer or the ultimate purchaser of the vehicle.

(b) "Control" or "controlling" means (i) the possession of, title to, or control of ten percent or more of the voting equity interest in a person, whether directly or indirectly through a fiduciary, agent, or other intermediary, or (ii) the possession, direct or indirect, of the power to direct or cause the direction of the management or policies of a person, whether through the ownership of voting securities, through director control, by contract, or otherwise, except as expressly provided under the franchise agreement.

(c) "Motor vehicles" does not include trucks that are 14,001 pounds gross vehicle weight and above or recreational vehicles as defined in RCW 43.22.335.

(d) "Operate" means to manage a dealership, whether directly or indirectly.

(e) "Own" or "ownership" means to hold the beneficial ownership of one percent or more of any class of equity interest in a dealership, whether the interest is that of a shareholder, partner, limited liability company member, or otherwise. To hold an ownership interest means to have possession of, title to, or control of the ownership interest, whether directly or indirectly through a fiduciary, agent, or other intermediary.

(4) A violation of this section is deemed to affect the public interest and constitutes an unlawful and unfair practice under chapter 19.86 RCW. A person aggrieved by an alleged violation of this section may petition the department to have the matter handled as an adjudicative proceeding under chapter 34.05 RCW.
