NOON SESSION

House Chamber, Olympia, Monday, January 11, 1999

The House was called to order at 12:00 p.m. by Speaker Timothy A. Martin, Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives. The Sergeant at Arms was asked to escort the members to their seats on the floor of the House.

The flag was escorted to the rostrum by the Washington National Guard Color Guard. The National anthem was sung by students from the Washington School for the Blind in Vancouver. Prayer was offered by Father William J. Sullivan, Former President and current Chancellor, Seattle University.

Father Sullivan: "Gracious and Loving God, God of our fathers and of our children, as we gather today for the formal opening of this legislative session, we ask the blessing of your presence among us, the guidance of your wisdom, the light of your counsel.

The members of this House have gathered from the four corners of the State from the shores of the Pacific and the banks of the Columbia, from the Inland Empire and from Puget Sound, from the Palouse to the Islands. As they do so, it is the prayer of their fellow citizens that they may work together in seeking the common good of the people of Washington, that in their deliberations they may not lose sight of the needs of the voiceless, the homeless, the abused, the illiterate who live — often unseen — in our midst. That these representatives of the people may not be discouraged by the mass, and the weight and the complexity of the problems they are asked to address.

It is our special prayer of the people, O Lord, that at this particular moment in our political history, our representatives may exercise the power given to them with dignity, with dedication, with alert conscience so that the confidence of the citizens in our form of government may grow deeper and stronger.

Bless this House, O Lord, guide its members, light their path. This is our prayer, O God — in whom we trust.

Amen."

The Chief Clerk called upon Representatives Dow Constantine and Kathy Lambert to escort Richard P. Guy, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Washington from the State Reception Room to the Rostrum.

Definitions

Rule 1. "Absent" means an unexcused failure to attend.

"Term" means the two-year term during which the members as a body may act.

"Session" means a constitutional gathering of the house in accordance with Article 2 § 12 of the state Constitution.

"Committee" means any standing, conference, joint, or select committee as so designated by rule or resolution.

"Bill" means bill, joint memorial, joint resolution, or concurrent resolution unless the context indicates otherwise.

Chief Clerk to Call to Order

Rule 2. It shall be the duty of the chief clerk of the previous term to call the house to order and to conduct the proceedings until a speaker is chosen.

Election of Officers

Rule 3. The house shall elect the following officers at the commencement of each term: Its presiding officer, who shall be styled speaker of the house; a speaker pro tempore, who shall serve in absence or in case of the inability of the speaker; and a chief clerk of the house. Such officers shall hold office during all sessions until the convening of the succeeding term: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That any of these offices may be declared vacant by the vote of a constitutional majority of the house, the members voting viva voce and their votes shall be entered on the journal. If any office is declared vacant, the house shall fill such vacant office as hereinafter provided. In all elections by the house a constitutional majority shall be required, the members shall vote viva voce and their votes shall be entered on the journal. (Art. II § 27)

Powers and Duties of the Speaker

Rule 4. The speaker shall have the following powers and duties:

(A) The speaker shall take the chair and call the house to order precisely at the hour appointed for meeting and if a quorum be present, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read and shall proceed with the order of business.

(B) The speaker shall preserve order and decorum, and in case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct within the chamber or legislative area, shall order the sergeant at arms to suppress the same and may order the sergeant at arms to remove any person creating any disturbance within the house chamber or legislative area.

(C) The speaker may speak to points of order in preference to other members, arising from the seat for that purpose, and shall decide all questions of order subject to an appeal to the house by any member, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once without leave of the house.

(D) The speaker shall sign all bills in open session. (Art. II § 32)

(E) The speaker shall sign all writs, warrants, and subpoenas issued by order of the house, all of which shall be attested to by the chief clerk.

(F) The speaker shall have the right to name any member to perform the duties of the chair, but such substitution shall neither extend beyond adjournment nor authorize the representative so substituted to sign any documents requiring the signature of the speaker.

(G) The speaker, in open session, shall appoint committee chairs from the majority party of the house and shall appoint members to committees in the same ratio as the membership of the respective parties of the house, unless otherwise provided by law or house rules.

(H) The speaker shall serve as chair of the rules committee.

(I) The speaker shall have charge of and see that all officers, attaches, and clerks perform their respective duties.

(J) The speaker pro tempore shall exercise the duties, powers, and prerogatives of the speaker in the event of the speaker's death, illness, removal, or inability to act until the speaker's successor shall be elected.

Chief Clerk

Rule 5. The chief clerk shall perform the usual duties pertaining to the office, and shall hold office until a successor has been elected.

The chief clerk shall employ, upon the recommendation of the employment committee and, subject to the approval of the speaker, all other house employees; the hours of duty and assignments of all house employees shall be under the chief clerk's directions and instructions, and they may be dismissed by the chief clerk with the approval of the speaker. The speaker shall sign and the chief clerk shall countersign all payrolls and vouchers for all expenses of the house and appropriately transmit the same. In the event of the chief clerk's death, illness, removal, or inability to act, the speaker may appoint an acting chief clerk who shall exercise the duties and powers of the chief clerk until the chief clerk's successor shall be elected.

Duties of Employees

Rule 6. Employees of the house shall perform such duties as are assigned to them by the chief clerk. Under no circumstances shall the compensation of any employee be increased for past services. No house employee shall seek to influence the passage or rejection of proposed legislation.

Admission to the House

Rule 7. It shall be the general policy of the house to keep the chamber clear as follows:

(A) The sergeant at arms shall admit only the following individuals to the wings and adjacent areas of the house chamber for the period of time beginning one-half hour prior to convening and ending one-half hour following the adjournment of the house's daily session:

The governor or designees, or both;
Members of the senate;
State elected officials;
Officers and authorized employees of the legislature;
Former members of the house who are not advocating any pending or proposed legislation;
Representatives of the press;
Other persons with the consent of the speaker.

(B) Only members, pages, sergeants at arms, and clerks are permitted on the floor while the house is in session.

(C) Lobbying in the house chamber or in any committee room or lounge room is prohibited when the house or committee is in session unless expressly permitted by the house or committee. Anyone violating this rule will forfeit his or her right to be admitted to the house chamber or any of its committee rooms.

Absentees and Courtesy

Rule 8. No member shall be absent from the service of the house without leave from the speaker. When the house is in session, only the speaker shall recognize visitors and former members.

Bills, Memorials and Resolutions - Introductions

Rule 9. Any member desiring to introduce a bill shall file the same with the chief clerk. Bills filed by 10:00 a.m. shall be introduced at the next daily session, in the order filed: PROVIDED, That if such introduction is within the last ten days of a regular session, it cannot be considered without a direct vote of two-thirds (2/3) of all the members elected to each house with such vote recorded and entered upon the journal. (Art. II § 36)

Any member or member-elect may prefile a bill with the chief clerk commencing twenty (20) days before any session. Prefiled bills shall be introduced on the first legislative day.

All bills shall be endorsed with a statement of the title and the name of the member or members introducing the same. The chief clerk shall attach to all bills a substantial cover bearing the title and sponsors and shall number each bill in the order filed. All bills shall be printed unless otherwise ordered by the house.

Any bill introduced at any session during the term shall be eligible for action at all subsequent sessions during the term.

Reading of Bills

Rule 10. Every bill shall be read on three separate days: PROVIDED, That this rule may be temporarily suspended at any time by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present; and that on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, this rule may be suspended by a majority vote.

(A) FIRST READING. The first reading of a bill shall be by title only, unless a majority of the members present demand a reading in full.

After the first reading the bill shall be referred to an appropriate committee.

Upon being reported out of committee, all bills shall be referred to the rules committee, unless otherwise ordered by the house.

The rules committee may, by majority vote, refer any bill in its possession to a committee for further consideration. Such referral shall be reported to the house and entered in the journal under the fifth order of business.

(B) SECOND READING. Upon second reading, the bill number and short title and the last line of the bill shall be read unless a majority of the members present shall demand its reading in full. The bill shall be subject to amendment section by section. No amendment shall be considered by the house until it has been sent to the chief clerk's desk in writing, distributed to the desk of each member, and read by the clerk. All amendments adopted during second reading shall be securely fastened to the original bill. All amendments rejected by the house shall be passed to the minute clerk, and the journal shall show the disposition of such amendments.

When no further amendments shall be offered, the speaker shall declare the bill has passed its second reading.

(C) SUBSTITUTE BILLS. When a committee reports a substitute for an original bill with the recommendation that the substitute bill do pass, it shall be in order to read the substitute the first time and have the same printed. A motion for the substitution shall not be in order until the second reading of the original bill.

(D) THIRD READING. Only the last line of bills shall be read on third reading unless a majority of the members present demand a reading in full. No amendments to a bill shall be received on third reading but it may be referred or recommitted for the purpose of amendment.

(E) SUSPENSION CALENDAR. Bills may be placed on the second reading suspension calendar by the rules committee if at least two minority party members of the rules committee join in such motion. Bills on the second reading suspension calendar shall not be subject to amendment or substitution except as recommended in the committee report. When a bill is before the house on the suspension calendar, the question shall be to adopt the committee recommendations and advance the bill to third reading. If the question fails to receive a two-thirds vote of the members present, the bill shall be referred to the rules committee for second reading.

(F) HOUSE RESOLUTIONS. House resolutions shall be filed with the chief clerk who shall transmit them to the rules committee. If a rules committee meeting is not scheduled to occur prior to a time necessitated by the purpose of a house resolution, the majority leader and minority leader by agreement may waive transmission to the rules committee to permit consideration of the resolution by the house. The rules committee may adopt house resolutions by a sixty percent majority vote of its entire membership or may, by a majority vote of its members, place them on the motions calendar for consideration by the house.

(G) CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS. Reading of concurrent resolutions may be advanced by majority vote.

Amendments

Rule 11. The right of any member to offer amendments to proposed legislation shall not be limited except as provided in Rule 10(E) and as follows:

(A) AMENDMENTS TO BE OFFERED IN PROPER FORM. The chief clerk shall establish the proper form for amendments and all amendments offered shall bear the name of the member who offers the same, as well as the number and section of the bill to be amended.

(B) COMMITTEE AMENDMENTS. When a bill is before the house on second reading, amendments adopted by committees and recommended to the house shall be acted upon by the house before any amendments that may be offered from the floor.

(C) SENATE AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILLS. A house bill, passed by the senate with amendment or amendments which shall change the scope and object of the bill, upon being received in the house, shall be referred to the appropriate committee and shall take the same course as for original bills unless a motion not to concur is adopted prior to the bill being referred to committee.

(D) AMENDMENTS TO BE GERMANE. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment; and no bill or resolution shall at any time be amended by annexing thereto or incorporating therein any other bill or resolution pending before the house.

(E) SCOPE AND OBJECT NOT TO BE CHANGED. No amendment to any bill shall be allowed which shall change the scope and object of the bill. This objection may be raised at any time an amendment is under consideration. The speaker may allow the person raising the objection and the mover of the amendment to provide brief arguments as to the merits of the objection. (Art. II § 38)

(F) NO AMENDMENT BY REFERENCE. No act shall ever be revised or amended without being set forth at full length. (Art. II § 37)

(G) TITLE AMENDMENTS. The subject matter portion of a bill title shall not be amended in committee or on second reading. Changes to that part of the title after the subject matter statement shall either be presented with the text amendment or be incorporated by the chief clerk in the engrossing process.

Final Passage

Rule 12. Rules relating to bills on final passage are as follows:

(A) RECOMMITMENT BEFORE FINAL PASSAGE. A bill may be recommitted at any time before its final passage.

(B) FINAL PASSAGE. No bill shall become a law unless on its final passage the vote be taken by yeas and nays, the names of the members voting for and against the same be entered on the journal of each house, and a majority of the members elected to each house be recorded thereon as voting in its favor. (Art. II § 22)

(C) BILLS PASSED - CERTIFICATION. When a bill passes, it shall be certified to by the chief clerk, said certification to show the date of its passage together with the vote thereon.

Hour of Meeting, Roll Call and Quorum

Rule 13. (A) HOUR OF MEETING. The speaker shall call the house to order each day of sitting at 10:00 A.M., unless the house shall have adjourned to some other hour.

(B) ROLL CALL AND QUORUM. Before proceeding with business, the roll of the members shall be called and the names of those absent or excused shall be entered on the journal. A majority of all the members elected must be present to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. In the absence of a quorum, seven members with the speaker, or eight members in the speaker's absence, having chosen a speaker pro tempore, shall be authorized to demand a call of the house and may compel the attendance of absent members in the manner provided in Rule 21(B). For the purpose of determining if a quorum be present, the speaker shall count all members present, whether voting or not. (Art. II § 8)

(C) The house shall adjourn not later than 10:00 P.M. of each working day. This rule may be suspended by a majority vote.

Daily Calendar and Order of Business

Rule 14. The rules relating to the daily calendar and order of business are as follows:

(A) DAILY CALENDAR. Business of the house shall be disposed of in the following order:

First: Roll call, presentation of colors, prayer, and approval of the journal of the preceding day.

Second: Introduction of visiting dignitaries.

Third: Messages from the senate, governor, and other state officials.

Fourth: Introduction and first reading of bills, memorials, joint resolutions, and concurrent resolutions.

Fifth: Committee reports.

Sixth: Second reading of bills.

Seventh: Third reading of bills.

Eighth: Floor resolutions and motions.

Ninth: Presentation of petitions, memorials, and remonstrances addressed to the Legislature.

Tenth: Introduction of visitors and other business to be considered.

Eleventh: Announcements.

(B) UNFINISHED BUSINESS. The unfinished business at which the house was engaged preceding adjournment shall not be taken up until reached in regular order, unless the previous question on such unfinished business has been ordered prior to said adjournment.

(C) EXCEPTIONS. Exceptions to the order of business are as follows:

(1) The order of business may be changed by a majority vote of those present.

(2) By motion under the eighth order of business, a bill in the rules committee may be placed on the calendar by the affirmative vote of a majority of all members of the house.

(3) House resolutions and messages from the senate, governor, or other state officials may be read at any time.

Motions

Rule 15. Rules relating to motions are as follows:

(A) MOTIONS TO BE ENTERTAINED OR DEBATED. No motion shall be entertained or debated until announced by the speaker and every motion shall be deemed to have been seconded. A motion shall be reduced to writing and read by the clerk, if desired by the speaker or any member, before it shall be debated and by the consent of the house may be withdrawn before amendment or action.

(B) MOTIONS IN ORDER DURING DEBATE. When a motion has been made and seconded and stated by the chair, the following motions are in order, in the rank named:

(1) Privileged motions:

Adjourn
Adjourn to a time certain Recess to a time certain Reconsider
Demand for division
Question of privilege
Orders of the day

(2) Subsidiary motions:

First rank: Question of consideration
Second rank: To lay on the table
Third rank: For the previous question
Fourth rank: To postpone to a day certain To commit or recommit
 To postpone indefinitely
Fifth rank: To amend

(3) Incidental motions:

Points of order and appeal
Method of consideration
Suspension of the rules
Reading papers
Withdraw a motion
Division of a question

(C) THE EFFECT OF POSTPONEMENT - MOTIONS TO POSTPONE OR COMMIT.

Once decided, no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely shall again be allowed on the same day and at the same stage of the proceedings. When a question has been postponed indefinitely, it shall not again be introduced during the session. The motion to postpone indefinitely may be made at any stage of the bill except when on first reading.

(D) MOTIONS DECIDED WITHOUT DEBATE. A motion to adjourn, to recess, to lay on the table and to call for the previous question shall be decided without debate.

All incidental motions shall be decided without debate, except that members may speak to points of order and appeal as provided in Rule 22.

A motion for suspension of the rules shall not be debatable except that the mover of the motion may briefly explain the purpose of the motion and one member may briefly state the opposition to the motion.

(E) MOTION TO ADJOURN. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, except when the house is voting or is working under the call of the house; but this rule shall not authorize any member to move for adjournment when another member has the floor.

Rule 16. The methods by which a member may exercise his or her right to debate are as follows:

(A) RECOGNITION OF MEMBER. When any member desires to speak in debate or deliver any matter to the house, the member shall rise and respectfully address the speaker and pause until recognized.

(B) ORDER OF SPEAKING. When two or more members arise at once, the speaker shall name the one who is to speak.

(C) LIMITATION OF DEBATE. No member shall speak longer than ten (10) minutes without consent of the house: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, no member shall speak more than three (3) minutes without the consent of the house. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the house: PROVIDED, That the chair of the committee or the mover of the question may close debate if it is consistent with Rule 18 (Previous Question).

Rules of Debate

Rule 17. The rules for debate in the house are as follows:

(A) QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE. Any member may rise to a question of privilege and explain a personal matter, by leave of the speaker, but the member shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations.

(B) WITHDRAWAL OF MOTION, BILL, ETC. After a motion is stated by the speaker or a bill, memorial, resolution, petition, or remonstrance is read by the clerk, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the house, but may be withdrawn by consent of the house at any time before decision or amendment.

(C) READING OF A PAPER. When the reading of any paper is called for and is objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the house.

(D) DISTRIBUTION OF MATERIALS. Any materials of any nature distributed to the members' desks on the floor shall be subject to approval by the speaker and shall bear the name of at least one member granting permission for the distribution. This shall not apply to materials normally distributed by the chief clerk.

(E) ORDER OF QUESTIONS. All questions, whether in committee or in the house, shall be propounded in the order in which they are named except that in filling blanks, the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

(F) DIVISION OF POINTS OF DEBATE. Any member may call for a division of a question which shall be divided if it embraces subjects so distinct that one being taken away a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the house; but a motion to strike out and to insert shall not be divided. The rejection of a motion to strike out and to insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and to insert a different proposition.

(G) DECORUM OF MEMBERS. While the speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk across or out of the house; nor when a member is speaking shall any member entertain private discourse or pass between the speaking member and the rostrum.

(H) REMARKS CONFINED. A member shall confine all remarks to the question under debate and avoid personalities. No member shall impugn the motive of any member's vote or argument.

(I) EXCEPTION TO WORDS SPOKEN IN DEBATE. If any member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling the member to order shall repeat the words excepted to and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's table. No member shall be held in answer or be subject to the censure of the house for words spoken in debate if any other member has spoken before exception to them shall have been taken.

(J) TRANSGRESSION OF RULES - APPEAL. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgresses the rules of the house the speaker shall, or any member may, call the member to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down unless permitted to explain; and the house shall, if appealed to, decide the case without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the chair shall prevail.

If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, the member shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, and the case shall require it, the member shall be liable to the censure of the house.

Ending of Debate - Previous Question

Rule 18. The previous question may be ordered by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present on all recognized motions or amendments which are debatable.

The previous question is not debatable and cannot be amended.

The previous question shall be put in this form: "Representative _____ demands the previous question. As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say 'Aye'; as many as are opposed will say 'No'."

The results of the motion are as follows: If determined in the negative, the consideration goes on as if the motion had never been made; if decided in the affirmative it shall have the effect of cutting off all debate and bringing the house to a direct vote upon the motion or amendment on which it has been ordered: PROVIDED HOWEVER, That when a bill is on final passage or when the motion to postpone indefinitely is pending, one of the sponsors of the bill or the chair of the committee may have the privilege of closing debate after the previous question has been ordered.

If an adjournment is had after the previous question is ordered, the motion or proposition on which the previous question was ordered shall be put to the house immediately following the approval of the journal on the next working day, thus making the main question privileged over all other business, whether new or unfinished.

Voting

Rule 19. (A) PUTTING OF QUESTION. The speaker shall put the question in the following form: "The question before the house is (state the question). As many as are in favor say 'Aye'; and after the affirmative vote is expressed, "as many as are opposed say 'No'."

(B) ALL MEMBERS TO VOTE. Every member who was in the house when the question was put shall vote unless, for special reasons, excused by the house.

All motions to excuse a member shall be made before the house divides or before the call for yeas and nays is commenced; and any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief and verbal statement of the reasons for making such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

Upon a division and count of the house on the question, only members at their desks within the bar of the house shall be counted.

(C) CHANGE OF VOTE. When the electric roll call machine is used, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the speaker has locked the roll call machine. When an oral roll call is taken, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the result has been announced.

(D) PRIVATE INTEREST. No member shall vote on any question which affects that member privately and particularly. A member who has a private interest in any bill or measure proposed or pending before the legislature shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon. (Art. II § 30)

(E) INTERRUPTION OF ROLL CALL. Once begun, the roll call may not be interrupted. No member or other person shall visit or remain at the clerk's desk while the yeas and nays are being called.

(F) YEAS AND NAYS - RECORDED VOTES. Upon the final passage of any bill, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and shall be recorded by the electric voting system: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That an oral roll call shall be ordered when demanded by one-sixth (1/6) of the members present. (Art. II § 21)

The speaker may vote last when the yeas and nays are called.

When the vote is by electric voting machine or by oral roll call on any question, it shall be entered upon the journal of the house. A recorded vote may be compelled by one-sixth (1/6) of the members present. A request for a recorded vote must be made before the vote is commenced.

(G) TIE VOTE, QUESTION LOSES. In case of an equal division, the question shall be lost.

(H) DIVISION. If the speaker is in doubt, or if division is called for by any member, the house shall divide.

Reconsideration

Rule 20. Notice of a motion for reconsideration on the final passage of bills shall be made on the day the vote to be reconsidered was taken and before the house has voted to transmit the bill to the senate.

Reconsideration of the votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the next working day after such vote was taken: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution, or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, then reconsideration of votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the same day as the original vote was taken. A motion to reconsider an amendment may be made at any time the bill remains on second reading.

Any member who voted on the prevailing side may move for reconsideration or give notice thereof.

A motion to reconsider can be decided only once when decided in the negative.

When a motion to reconsider has been carried, its effect shall be to place the original question before the house in the exact position it occupied before it was voted upon.

Call of the House

Rule 21. One-sixth (1/6) of the members present may demand a call of the house at any time before the house has divided or the voting has commenced by yeas and nays.

(A) DOORS TO BE CLOSED. When call of the house has been ordered, the sergeant at arms shall close and lock the doors, and no member shall be allowed to leave the chamber: PROVIDED, That the rules committee shall be allowed to meet, upon request of the speaker, while the house stands at ease: AND PROVIDED FURTHER, That the speaker may permit members to use such portions of the fourth floor as may be properly secured.

(B) SERGEANT AT ARMS TO BRING IN THE ABSENTEES. The clerk shall immediately call a roll of the members and note the absentees, whose names shall be read and entered upon the journal in such manner as to show who are excused and who are absent without leave.

The clerk shall furnish the sergeant at arms with a list of those who are absent without leave, and the sergeant at arms shall proceed to bring in such absentees; but arrests of members for absence shall not be made unless ordered by a majority of the members present.

(C) HOUSE UNDER CALL. While the house is under a call, no business shall be transacted except to receive and act on the report of the sergeant at arms; and no other motion shall be in order except a motion to proceed with business under the call of the house ~~((or))~~, a motion to excuse absentees, or a motion to dispense with the call of the house. The motion to proceed with business under the call of the house and the motion to excuse absent members shall not be adopted unless a majority of the members elected vote in favor thereof. The motion to dispense with the call of the house may be adopted by a majority of the members present.

Appeal from Decision of Chair

Rule 22. The decision of the chair may be appealed from by any member, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once unless by leave of the house. In all cases of appeal, the question shall be: "Shall the decision of the chair stand as the judgment of the house?"

Standing Committees

Rule 23. The standing committees of the house and the number of members that shall serve on each committee shall be as follows:

1. Agriculture & Ecology	11
2. Appropriations	31
3. Capital Budget	11
4. Children & Family Services	11
5. Commerce & Labor	9
6. Criminal Justice & Corrections	13

Committee members shall be selected by each party's caucus. The majority party caucus shall select all committee chairs.

Duties of Committees

Rule 24. House committees shall operate as follows:

(A) NOTICE OF COMMITTEE MEETING. The chief clerk shall make public the time, place and subjects to be discussed at committee meetings. All public hearings held by committees shall be scheduled at least five (5) days in advance and shall be given adequate publicity: PROVIDED, That when less than eight (8) days remain for action on a bill, the Speaker may authorize a reduction of the five-day notice period when required by the circumstances, including but not limited to the time remaining for action on the bill, the nature of the subject, and the number of prior hearings on the subject.

(B) COMMITTEE QUORUM. A majority of any committee shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

(C) SESSION MEETINGS. No committee shall sit while the house is in session without special leave of the speaker.

(D) DUTIES OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

(1) Only such bills as are included on the written notice of a committee meeting may be considered at that meeting except upon the vote of a majority of the entire membership of the committee to consider another bill.

(2) A majority recommendation of a committee must be signed by a majority of the entire membership of the committee in a regularly called meeting before a bill, memorial, or resolution may be reported out: PROVIDED, That by motion under the eighth order of business, a majority of the members elected to the house may relieve a committee of a bill and place it on the second reading calendar.

Majority recommendations of a committee can only be "do pass," "do pass as amended," or that "the substitute bill be substituted therefor and that the substitute bill do pass."

(3) Members of the committee not concurring in the majority report may prepare a written minority report containing a recommendation of "do not pass" or "without recommendation," which shall be signed by those members of the committee subscribing thereto, and submitted with the majority report.

(4) All committee reports shall be spread upon the journal. The journal of the house shall contain an exact copy of all committee reports, together with the names of the members signing such reports.

(5) Every vote to report a bill out of committee shall be taken by the yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against, as well as the names of members absent, shall be recorded on the committee report and spread upon the journal. Any member may call for a recorded vote, which shall include the names of absent members, on any substantive question before the committee. A copy of all recorded committee votes shall be kept by the chief clerk and shall be available for public inspection.

(6) All bills having a direct appropriation shall be referred to the appropriate fiscal committee before their final passage. For purposes of this subsection, fiscal committee means the appropriations, capital budget, finance, and transportation (~~policy and budget~~) committees.

(7) No standing committee shall vote by secret written ballot on any issue.

(8) During its consideration of or vote on any bill, resolution, or memorial, the deliberations of any standing committee of the house of representatives shall be open to the public.

(9) A standing committee to which a bill was originally referred shall, prior to voting the bill out of committee, consider whether the bill authorizes rule-making powers or requires the exercise of rule-making powers and, if so, consider:

(a) The nature of the new rule-making powers; and

(b) To which agencies the new rule-making powers would be delegated and which agencies, if any, may have related rule-making powers.

Standing Committees - Expenses - Subpoena Power

Rule 25. Regardless of whether the legislature is in session, members of the house may receive from moneys appropriated for the legislature, reimbursement for necessary travel expenses, and payments in lieu of subsistence and lodging for conducting official business of the house.

The standing committees of the house may have the powers of subpoena, the power to administer oaths, and the power to issue commissions for the examination of witnesses in accordance with the provisions of chapter 44.16 RCW. Before a standing committee of the house may issue any process, the committee chairperson shall submit for approval of the executive rules committee a statement of purpose setting forth the name or names of those subject to process. The process shall not be issued prior to approval by the executive rules committee. The process shall be limited to the named individuals.

Vetoed Bills

Rule 26. Veto messages of the governor shall be read in the house and entered upon the journal. It shall then be in order to proceed to reconsider the bill, refer it, lay it on the table, or postpone its consideration to a day certain.

The merits of the bill may be debated before the vote is taken, but the vote on a vetoed bill cannot be reconsidered.

In case of a bill containing several sections or items, one or more of which has been objected to by the governor, each section or item so objected to shall be voted upon separately by the house.

Action by the house upon all vetoed bills shall be endorsed upon the bill and certified by the speaker.

Vetoed bills originating in the house, which have not been passed notwithstanding the veto of the governor, shall remain in the custody of the officers of the house until the close of the term, after which they shall be filed with the secretary of state.

Suspension of Compensation

Rule 27. (1) Any member of the house of representatives convicted and sentenced for any felony punishable by death or by imprisonment in a Washington state penal institution shall, as of the time of sentencing, be denied the legislative salary for future service and be denied per diem, compensation for expenses, office space facilities, and assistance. Any member convicted of a felony and sentenced therefor under any federal law or the law of any other state shall, as of the time of sentencing, be similarly denied such salary, per diem, expenses, facilities, and assistance if either (a) such crime would also constitute a crime punishable under the laws of Washington by death or by imprisonment in a state penal institution, or (b) the conduct resulting in the conviction and sentencing would also constitute a crime punishable under the laws of Washington by death or by imprisonment in a state penal institution.

(2) At any time, the house may vote by a constitutional majority to restore the salary, per diem, expenses, facilities, and assistance denied a member under subsection (1). If the conviction of a member is reversed, then the salary, per diem, and expense amounts denied the member since sentencing shall be forthwith paid, and the member shall thereafter have the rights and privileges of other members.

Smoking

Rule 28. Smoking of cigarettes, pipes, or cigars shall not be permitted at any public meeting of any committee of the house of representatives or within House facilities.

"No smoking" signs shall be posted so as to give notice of this rule.

Parliamentary Rules

Rule 29. The rules of parliamentary practice comprised in Reed's Parliamentary Rules shall govern all cases in which they are not inconsistent with the standing rules and orders of the house.

Standing Rules Amendment

Rule 30. Any standing rule may be rescinded or changed by a majority vote of the members elected: PROVIDED, That the proposed change or changes be submitted at least one day in advance in writing to the members together with notice of the consideration thereof. Any standing rule may be suspended temporarily by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present except as provided in Rule 10.

Rules to Apply for Assembly

Rule 31. The permanent house rules adopted at the beginning of the term are to govern all acts of the house during the course of the term unless amended or repealed.

Legislative Mailings

Rule 32. The house of representatives directs the house executive rules committee to adopt procedures and guidelines to ensure that all legislative mailings at public expense are for legitimate legislative purposes.

Liquor

Rule 33. The House of Representatives shall strictly adhere to the liquor laws of the state of Washington, including provisions relating to banquet and special occasion permits. The proper permits must always be obtained before consumption of liquor in any house facility.

APPENDIX TO HOUSE RULES

The House of Representatives of the fifty-sixth legislature, being composed of an equal number of members of each major political party, acknowledges that this extraordinary circumstance requires extraordinary rules of procedure which provide for bipartisan control and responsibility, ensure fairness and promote cooperation.

The following Appendix Rules A-1 through A-6 shall not be operative in the event that a candidate for speaker receives a constitutional majority of the votes of the membership of the House.

RULE A-1. HOUSE RULES

Reed's Parliamentary Rules and the Rules of the House of Representatives are hereby superseded to the extent they are inconsistent with the rules set forth in this appendix.

All references to speaker, speaker pro tempore, or chief clerk in Reed's Parliamentary Rules or the House Rules shall be held to refer to the co-speakers, co-speakers pro tempore, and co-chief clerks, respectively.

RULE A-2. ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The House shall elect the following officers at the commencement of the fifty-sixth legislature: Co-speakers, who shall be styled democratic speaker and republican speaker, co-speakers pro tempore, who shall be styled democratic speaker pro tempore and republican speaker pro tempore, and co-chief clerks.

In all elections each member shall be allowed one vote and the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected.

RULE A-3. DUTIES OF OFFICERS

(A) Co-Speakers - The co-speakers shall jointly perform the duties and responsibilities of the speaker of the House and may represent the entire house in that capacity. The powers of the speaker may not be exercised individually by a co-speaker without the prior agreement of both co-speakers.

The co-speakers shall agree upon a procedure for dividing the duties of the chair and may jointly designate a co-speaker pro tempore, co-chief clerk, or any member to perform the duties of the chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment. All acts, resolutions, and other documents requiring the signature of the speaker shall be signed by both co-speakers.

Decisions regarding administration and operation of the House of Representatives shall be made jointly by the co-speakers or their designees. These decisions shall include, but not be limited to: Referral of bills to committee; appointment of conference committees; approval of house expenditures; approval of travel; decisions on points of order; employment and removal of employees; and designation of persons who shall act as representatives for the public press.

(B) Co-Chief Clerks - The co-chief clerks shall jointly perform the duties and responsibilities of the chief clerk of the House of Representatives. The powers of the chief clerk may not be exercised individually by a co-chief clerk without the prior agreement of both co-chief clerks. All acts, resolutions, and other documents requiring the signature of the chief clerk shall be signed by both chief clerks.

RULE A-4. COMMITTEES

The various standing committees of the House of Representatives shall have co-chairs, a democratic chair named by the democratic caucus and a republican chair named by the republican caucus.

The co-chairs shall jointly perform the duties and responsibilities of the committee chair, including committee administration, staff assignments, and scheduling. The co-chairs shall agree upon a procedure for dividing the duties of presiding at committee meetings. The powers of the chair may not be exercised individually by a co-chair without the prior agreement of both co-chairs. Each co-chair shall jointly have the right to close debate as provided in Rules 16(C) and 18.

RULE A-5. VOTING REQUIREMENTS AND PROCEDURES

Notwithstanding any other provision of the Rules of the House of Representatives, a constitutional majority of the members elected shall be required, for adoption of any motion, resolution, or memorial unless a greater majority is required by the Rules of the House or the Constitution: PROVIDED, That the motions to adjourn, recess, and dispense with the call of the House may be adopted by a majority of the members present: PROVIDED FURTHER, That an oral roll call may be ordered, a division called for, or a call of the House demanded as provided in Rules 19(F), 19(H), and 21 respectively.

A vote by a majority of the membership of the standing committee, as defined in Rule 23 shall be required for adoption of any motion, majority report, resolution or memorial unless a greater majority is required by the Rules of the House or the Constitution: PROVIDED, That the motions to adjourn and recess may be adopted by a majority of the members present: PROVIDED FURTHER, That a roll call may be ordered as provided for in Rule 24(D)(5).

When the electric roll call machine is used, the members shall be given at least one and one-half minutes to vote. This time limitation may be waived by a majority vote of the members elected before the vote is commenced.

RULE A-6. HOUSE ADMINISTRATION

All vouchers for payrolls and expenses of the House shall be signed by both co-chief clerks. All supplies for the use of the House shall be furnished upon requisitions signed by both co-chief clerks.

Representative Ballard moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Ballard and Chopp spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4600 was adopted.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

Representative Karen Schmidt: "Thank you Mr. Speaker, members of the House, and distinguished guests.

Indeed, it is a great day to be a citizen of the state of Washington. Only once before in the history of our state have the citizens brought us together — party to party — to share the power of this chamber equally. The message they have given to each of us is to work together and to deliver together a better government of the people. The expectations of our citizens are always high. But this time, they are even higher. As the political bickering continues in the "other Washington", the citizens back here in our state have given us this opportunity to demonstrate that we can move beyond partisanship. As an equal body of both Republicans and Democrats, we have been brought together to find common ground for the common problems and needs that face each of us. And so it is right that we nominate a leader with the experience, the insight and the ability to bring each of us together for the people of our great state.

It is right that we choose a leader of this chamber who comes from the people -- who understands the importance of "government of the people"-- who lives the meaning of "public servant." Clyde Ballard is the embodiment of the American Dream. He grew up not the product of an affluent family but the son of migrant workers. His parents traveled quite often — going to places where there was work to feed the family. Their typical work day started at dawn and continued until sundown. It was not an easy life. At an early age, Clyde learned the values of hard work, of commitment and dedication, honesty and perseverance, and of public service. It is what has defined his strong, personal character. With the support of his wife, Ruth, together they built a successful ambulance business in Wenatchee. It was Clyde's genuine caring for people and commitment to public service that made the ambulance business such a good match for him.

It's these same qualities which prompted the people from North Central Washington to elect and re-elect Clyde as their state representative since 1982. These same qualities of honesty, caring and commitment have made Clyde Ballard the perfect match as the leader and speaker of the House of Representatives. Over the years, Clyde has also recognized the importance of being a good listener. Friends tell the story of how Clyde learned it's best to listen to those close to you. Clyde had received a six-pack of cola from a friend. On the label was the University of Washington Husky emblem. Clyde wanted to save the cans without opening the top so they would appear new. But he also wanted to get the pop out of the cans. He decided to puncture the underside of the cans to capture the cola. But Ruth — knowing what may happen with cans under pressure — warned him against it. Being the eternal optimist he is, Clyde decided not to listen to Ruth. It only took once.

He punctured the underside of the can. It exploded into a fizz that soaked not only Clyde, but the walls and ceiling of Ruth's kitchen. I'm told the stains can still be seen on some of the higher parts of the ceiling.

And so it is we know Clyde recognizes the importance of being a good listener. Listening and bringing people together is one of the major attributes of being a good leader and House speaker. It's no secret that our caucus has varied opinions. We are mostly together on fiscal issues. But when it comes to social issues, we run the gamut of philosophy.

Yet, Clyde Ballard has always been the voice of reason. Clyde is the leader we turn to who builds bridges between our gaps. When we have fallen apart on some of our most divisive issues, Clyde has picked up the pieces and has brought us back together again. Clyde Ballard has brought balance and fairness to our caucus and to both parties, Democrat and Republican. And he has proven that our system of checks and balances works-- so long as we continue to show mutual respect to each other. In his many years as public servant, Clyde has traveled hundreds of thousands of miles back and forth across Washington state sharing his vision of the future. He has made many sacrifices along the way.

Let me take a moment to thank his family for the sacrifices they have made in sharing Clyde with us. His wife, Ruth and their three sons, Jeff, Shawn, and Scott and their families, along with Clyde's grandchildren.

Speaking of sacrifices, once Clyde traveled to meet me on a speaking tour in Eastern Washington. He received a phone call from Ruth. Clyde had forgotten his wallet back home in East Wenatchee — along with his drivers' license, and of course, cash. We were going on to another stop and Clyde didn't have any money to get out of the parking garage. Imagine the Speaker of the House having to ask the House Transportation Chairman for money to pay for transportation needs. What a switch! I paid the ticket and we bought him lunch that day too!

I think it was a reminder of what his days were like when there was little money to go around. But even more so it was a reminder that even the smallest of details can be very important. Those of us who have been here for years know that the big issues can often be worked out. It's the smallest details that often present the greatest challenges between us and between our parties. But again, Clyde's leadership and experience have brought us together as he reminds us that we are here working for the people of Washington state.

And let me take a moment to speak about the institution itself. We have the greatest system of government in the world. You and I are so very fortunate to live in a nation where ideas may be freely exchanged. Our system of government works best when we bring ideas to this institution where we can openly and passionately debate our differences with respect for each other and the process. It is by our participation in this civil process and the respect we show for this institution that our government of the people is preserved. Eight years ago in this same chamber, the Minority Leader of the House echoed the voices of Washington's citizens.

He said, 'We have had a lot of advice that has said to us, 'Do what is right and not is what political.'"

Those are Clyde Ballard's words in 1991 who also added, "I absolutely agree with that. I think we have to. I think it is imperative that we as a Legislature do what is right and not what is political."

His own words best describe the integrity of Clyde Ballard: "Do what is right!"

This is the kind of leadership the people of our state want someone who will go beyond partisanship a man who will build bridges among our most passionate differences. Our citizens want someone who will do right for the people of Washington state. Today, we are to bestow the honor of the title of House Speaker.

In speaking about honor, President Calvin Coolidge said, "No person was ever honored for what he received. Honor has been the reward for what he gave." Clyde Ballard has given us leadership with demonstrated character, compassion and dedication.

Today, let us do — not what is political — but what we know is right.

Let us put forward the title of Speaker of the House to the people's public servant here who is most deserving the honorable Clyde Ballard."

Representative Lynn Kessler: "Members of the House, distinguished guests. It's my privilege and pleasure to place Representative Frank Chopp's name in nomination for Co-Speaker of the Washington State House of Representatives.

For only the second time in the history of our great State, the House of Representatives has an equal number of Democratic and Republican members. Shared power will present both challenges and opportunities for all of us in this chamber. It's more important now than ever that our Co-Speakers are leaders who are up to this task. I believe that both Frank Chopp and Clyde Ballard are the right people for the job.

Representative Frank Chopp has certainly proven that he has the skills to execute his duties as Co-Speaker. Throughout the many necessary negotiations that have taken place between Frank and Clyde since November, it has become clearly evident that we are well-served.

Frank is a man of integrity and compassion, qualities that I believe are essential in a great leader. His energy and exuberance have been a tremendous motivator for our Democratic caucus members. His sense of fairness has already served us well in addressing the organizational tasks that were necessary to prepare us for today and the rest of the upcoming session. Frank encourages creativity, and he's enthusiastic about other peoples' ideas. We work well together as a team.

As a member who serves a rural district, I have found Frank's interest in rural economic development issues extremely helpful. Many of the members of this body think of Frank only as a Seattle legislator, but he was actually born and raised in Bremerton. His roots and ties go deep into rural Washington. Ironically, I moved from the Wallingford area of urban Seattle to rural Hoquiam 19 years ago, while Frank moved from rural Bremerton and lives with his wife Nancy and their daughter Ellie in my old urban Wallingford neighborhood. Because of his understanding not just of urban but also rural issues, I have frequently turned to Frank for support on matters that are critical for my district and the other rural areas of our state. Through Frank's leadership, our caucus is committed to working for ONE Washington.

Frank is a down to earth person who understands what it is to live in the real world and what people really care about — a solid education for our children and grandchildren; and a good job with a paycheck that meets the monthly bills and still leaves a little for some fun.

Frank is a man of his word. He will lead us with dignity and thoughtfulness through the challenging and I hope productive days ahead. It is with full confidence in his character, and with great enthusiasm, that I urge you to elect Frank Chopp as Co-Speaker of the House of Representatives."

Representative Barbara Lisk moved the nominations for Speaker of the House be closed. The motion was carried.

Representative Lisk moved that the rules be suspended and that by voice vote, Clyde Ballard and Frank Chopp be elected as Co-Speakers of the House. The motion was carried.

Chief Clerk Martin requested that Representatives Schmidt and Kessler escort Speaker Ballard and Speaker Chopp to the Rostrum. Chief Justice Richard Guy administered the Oath of Office to Speaker Clyde Ballard and to Speaker Frank Chopp.

ACCEPTANCE SPEECH BY SPEAKER BALLARD

Speaker Ballard: "Some how as I look out over the floor of the House this morning it doesn't appear that things are any different this year. But we all know that our lives and jobs here are going to be just a little bit unique this time around. We might even find just a few unusual challenges as we conduct the business of the people in 1999. It's a darn good thing we're all friends And get along so well And agree on every subject Right?

The fact is we are embarking today on a path that has only confronted our state once before in its long and glorious history. We must share control of the House between Republicans and Democrats. And that means we must also share responsibility for conducting the legislative process and managing the institution in a manner that is productive for the citizens of Washington and in a way that will make the public proud.

Yes we face unique challenges this year. But it will be no one's fault but our own and it will be to our great shame if we fail to succeed in facing and meeting those challenges.

I have been proud to serve you all of you in this House and all of the constituents we represent throughout the state I have been proud to serve you as speaker of the House the past four years. Now I am honored to continue leading the House this time sharing the duties and responsibilities of speaker with my friend Frank Chopp. I must tell you that Frank and I have learned an awful lot about each other in just a few weeks. You could say we've grown very close very fast. That's a good thing right?

You learn a great deal about a person when you have to depend on them. And the simple truth is Frank and I have had to depend on each other. We have been faced with making decisions that could not be made unless we found a way to reach agreement with each other. At the same time failure to make these decisions was simply not an option. Now that is pressure.

But I'm pleased to say we have risen to the challenge making sound and fair decisions while establishing a relationship and a respect that will help see us through this session. The lessons we have learned through the process of organizing the House have been valuable and they are lessons that are important to every one of us. We must make the greatest effort and take the greatest care to establish and nurture strong personal relationships with each other. That means we must be open and honest in our communication with each other. We must respect each other and do our utmost to understand the views and perspectives of others.

I have always said that while I enjoy every aspect of the legislative process what I truly love the most are the friendships we make serving here together friendships that transcend our political and philosophical differences or our differences in background and experience. Now we will find out absolutely just how much our friendship means. The fact is we cannot succeed indeed, we cannot survive without each other. As members of our respective parties and as individuals we need each other.

Having said all that I know we won't always agree with each other not on every issue. And I look forward to many spirited debates. We should welcome an engaging exchange of ideas. The greatest strength of the political process is our ideas and the more ideas that we look at and the more that we are willing to listen to and consider the ideas of others the more successful we will be in finding effective and workable solutions. Given the fact that we need each other I will be doing everything I can along with Co-Speaker Chopp to help us find common ground by identifying the interests and objectives we share. That is the first and most critical step in working together and seeking consensus that will allow us all find solutions. Solutions that are effective solutions that are sound solutions that are responsible. At the same time it is healthy to share the differing and competing ideas we may have as to how believe those common objectives can best be reached. What in the end will determine our success or failure is our ability to get beyond the worthwhile battle over ideas and move on to a resolution of issues that enables us to come together and offer real solutions to the real problems facing the citizens we represent.

Can we identify the common interests and concerns that underlie the issues we care about even as we challenge each other over the best ways to address those issues? Will we commit ourselves to the pursuit of solutions to reaching decisions even when we know that those decisions will require us to find a way to agree with each other? Are we willing and able to make every effort to build personal friendship and trust with every one of our colleagues and rely upon those relationships as the foundation for an ongoing effort to understand each other and respect each other? These questions and their answers will ultimately determine the course of this legislative session. We are embarking today on an experience that is entirely new to almost every one of us.

There will be challenges. It won't always be easy. But if we are of good will if we can think of ourselves as people and as friends if we strive to understand each other if we remember that we need each other then we can find ways to make this process work together. I have every confidence that we will have a productive and successful legislative session this year. And my pledge to you is that I will do everything I can to assist you and encourage you in this endeavor continuing to provide institutional leadership that is respectful and fair to every member of the House.

I deeply appreciate your continued confidence and trust in me. Let's have a great session!"

ACCEPTANCE SPEECH BY SPEAKER CHOPP

Speaker Chopp: "Father Sullivan, thank you for your inspirational prayer. I've long admired your education legacy and your amazing fund-raising ability. We are honored to have you here today.

Lynn Kessler, thank you so much. You are a wonderful person and a tremendous leader. Your good will and decency shine through in everything you do. And I look forward to continuing our teamwork together.

Mr. Speaker, what a shock to both of us that we are standing up here together today. What a shock to everyone else that we're actually working together so well. I greatly appreciate that you have taken a new look at me. I'm sure that you would agree, that all legislators this session should take a new look at each other, with an open mind. If we don't then we'll be living in the past, rather than looking to the future. Clyde, I particularly admire your definition of what makes a good speaker. In your own words: "A good speaker realizes their obligation is to every member and to every citizen, and the decisions they make, they have to make fairly. Everyone has to be treated absolutely equal." Clyde, I will do my best to live up to your definition.

The two of us, are going to be closely watched and variously described. This past Saturday, I heard a radio news reporter describing the legislature as if it were going to be like the Wild West. She ominously said that the session was to begin at High Noon. Next thing you know, they may start casting Clyde as Gary Cooper. And I guess they'll cast me as James T. Kirk in the Star Trek version of "Gunfight at the OK Corral."

Now, with a 49/49 tie, instead of reaching for our holster or our phaser, let's all rise to the occasion. What we need this session are the three C's: Cooperation, Civility and Creatively. If we are to accomplish anything this session, we must cooperate with one another. If we are to get our work done in the time allotted, we must be civil to one another. And if we are to make a difference in the lives of the people of this state, we must be creative about solutions. Business as usual just isn't enough.

To get us in the proper frame of mind, I ask that each of you think back to those who have made a difference in your life. For me, it was many people, my teachers among them. One in particular, made a difference at two different times in my life. She was my 4th grade teacher, and later on she was my high school English teacher. She taught me the three R's, as well as the three C's. Her creativity opened my eyes (even though my watercolors were sometimes a little too creative). Her civility set an example. And her spirit of cooperation made team teaching all the more effective. I remember her acerbic wit and her quick mind — which she puts to good use in retirement, as she works as a citizen activist to save some land in Kitsap County for parks and open space. Her name is Audrey Boyer. Mr. Speaker, I asked that Mrs. Boyer would stand to be recognized. Now that you got all that applause, Mrs. Boyer, I'd like to apologize to you for that paper airplane incident in 4th grade. I've been worrying about that for a long time.

By the way, all of us legislators might want to reflect upon how we acted as students, when we discuss how teachers will be treated this session. It ain't an easy job, teaching the young, but it's a very important one.

Now, I'd like to introduce members of my family, who've really made a difference in my life. My wife Nancy Long, my son Nate, my daughter Ellie, my parents Frank and Anne Chopp, my sisters Anita and Joanne, my brothers-in-law Kelly and Earl, my nephew Tyler and my mother-in-law Dorothy Long.

Family has always been important to me. When I was growing up in Bremerton, my family would gather around the kitchen table for dinner, and we'd talk about the day. We usually asked my Dad how his day at the shipyard went. He would always answer "terrible". But we all knew he had a good job — a great job — at a wage that kept the family afloat while he helped overhaul ships for the Navy. We would ask my Mom how her day went. For many years, she worked as a cafeteria worker in the local schools. By the way, to this day, I still love cafeteria food. My parents would ask me how I did at school that day. They kept telling me how important getting an education was. They set high standards for me. Often they would talk about the next PTA meeting where my Dad was President and my Mom the host. They did all this before anyone officially called it "parental involvement". My parents would keep up on my other activities as well. Every fall, they would religiously follow the travails of my peewee football team.

But throughout every season, there was always talk about another level of football — and that was politics. My family could sure argue about politics. They would argue about whether Governor Evans was really a Republican or a Democrat. They would argue about schools and roads, jobs and wages, parks and playfields, and about so much more. At dinner, I ate it all up — the food — and the talk.

These are the kind of kitchen table issues that still concern people today: strong schools, good jobs, secure families and a healthy environment. As we represent people here in Olympia, these are the issues that should concern us. Everyday issues. Mainstreet values. Issues and values that I hope we will find common ground. To do that, we need to reach across the aisle. So to start this session off on a good note, I'd like to invite the legislators on both side of the main aisle that separates us, to stand up, meet halfway across the aisle, and shake hands. Alright! That's it. That's what this session must be about. And that's why we must remember to take a new look at each other, to rise to the occasion and to make a difference. Let's go to work."

Speaker Ballard called upon Representatives John Koster and Jim McIntire to escort Judge Marlin Appelwick, Washington State Court of Appeals to the Rostrum.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER PRO-TEMPORE

Representative Helen Sommers: "I rise to nominate Representative Val Ogden as co-Speaker Pro Tem. Val Ogden has the qualities needed for the position of co-Speaker Pro Tem: respected, fair, knowledgeable, thoughtful, thorough, trusted, friendly — she fits the job.

Val Ogden was born in Okanogan. She has a record as a leader in many communities across the country and in a range of activities: leader in YWCA on the East Coast including Washington D.C., leader in Camp Fire Councils in several states from Maryland to Minnesota to California; Executive Director of the United Way in Fort Collins, Colorado and that city named her Citizen of the Year. And back here at home in Washington many more activities: Mental Health Board, Human Services Council, Arts and Tourism Chair, Washington Wildlife and Recreation Board, State Historical Society Board and very active and well recognized for her outstanding work with the national Conference of State Legislatures.

Val Ogden knows how to work with a bi-partisan spirit. She is effective in a bi-partisan way. Just think — last session in a Republican controlled Legislature, she got five bills passed.

Finally let me say, Val Ogden respects this institution — This institution respects Val Ogden.

I am very proud to nominate my hard working colleague and my good friend as the first woman speaker pro-tem in 35 years — Val Ogden."

Representative Gary Alexander: I would like to nominate a friend and colleague of mine who I admire very much — Rep John Pennington, from the 18th District — for Republican Speaker Pro Tem.

Born and raised in Nashville, Tennessee, John moved to Washington State in 1990 to pursue an interest in the emerging gourmet coffee industry. While selling coffee in Battleground, he met his lovely wife, Valerie Ann. In late 1991, Rep Pennington and his new wife took a $700 federal income tax refund and began their own company — Timber Town Coffee Company. They operated that coffee service company, and later, a small roasting facility, followed by a coffee-desert shop in the same Battleground town in which they met and married some eight years ago.

John was first elected to the House in 1994. During his second term, with the support of many of you in this room, he was elected Speaker Pro Tem. He has the distinction of being the youngest Speaker Pro Tem elected by this distinguished body.

John is a strong advocate of protecting the integrity of the institution of government by the people. And maintaining high ethical standards among its members and employees. His combination of respect, and dignity in overseeing the discussions and activity of this illustrious chamber and the past two years prepares him well for working together with his Democratic counter-part in the two years ahead.

I would ask you all to please join me in a unanimous vote for John Pennington for Republican Speaker Pro Tem. Thank you."

Representative Lisk moved the nominations for Speaker Pro Tempore be closed. The motion was carried.

Representative Lisk moved that the rules be suspended and that by voice vote, Representative Val Ogden and Representative John Pennington be elected as co Speakers Pro Tempore of the House. The motion was carried.

Speaker Ballard requested Representatives H. Sommers and Alexander escort Speaker Pro Tempore Val Ogden and Speaker Pro Tempore John Pennington to the Rostrum.

Judge Marlin Appelwick administered the Oath of Office to Speaker Pro Tempore Val Ogden and to Speaker Pro Tempore John Pennington.

ACCEPTANCE SPEECH BY SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE OGDEN

Speaker Pro Tempore Ogden: "Chief Justice Guy, Judge Appelwick, Speaker Ballard and Speaker Chopp, honored guests, colleagues and family and friends, I am very proud to be elected as your co-Speaker Pro Tem. What makes this moment even more special for me is that my family is here to share in this event. My son Dan from Issaquah, my husband Dan from Vancouver, and my brother and sister-in-law, Chuck and Carroll Munson from Wenatchee. I'd also like to give a special thanks to Helen Sommers for her very kind words.

In recognizing Helen, I also want to note that at Twelve Noon today Helen officially completed twenty-five years — a full quarter century — of outstanding service to this House. She has been a mentor and friend to me, as she has for many other members. I am honored that she has nominated me for this leadership position. Thank you Helen!

Helen mentioned I'd be the first woman Speaker Pro Tem in 35 years. What you may not know is that two of the three women Speakers Pro Tem in our history are heroines in Southwest Washington: Julia Butler Hansen and Ella Wintler. I am profoundly honored to share a position that was held by these great women. I will strive to carry on their tradition with grace, a sense of humor and fairness.

And I'm honored to share this position with another leader who's earned all of our respect — my friend and colleague, John Pennington. During the past two years, I've watched Speaker Pro Tem Pennington perform his duties with decorum, grace and good humor. I believe we'll be a great team.

To Speakers Ballard and Chopp: I pledge I will do all I can to help you preserve the great traditions of this House and maintain its integrity.

But we do have some challenges. There are some who call us a divided House. There are some who predict the 49-49 tie will create gridlock. I believe that they are wrong. Instead of thinking of ourselves as evenly divided, let's think of ourselves as evenly balanced. We will share responsibility and power — 49 - 49. We can and will work together for the citizens of this state. After all, wisdom is not the particular prerogative of one party or person.

And citizens don't care where leadership comes from — as long as we focus on the issues which are important to them. We are truly facing a pivotal moment in our history. People have wondered for a long time what the 21st century will be like — will there be jobs which will pay a living wage with benefits? Will our schools continue to provide a quality education for our children? Will our children grow up to live in a clean and healthy environment? Will our quality of life, as we know it in this great state, be maintained? We still don't know all the answers to these questions. But we do know the answer is in our hands. The people of Washington have trusted us to lead them into the 21st century. And we will not fail. I believe we will work together, with each other, with the Senate, and with the Governor, for what is good public policy and the interests of the citizens of this state.

So when we look back two years from now, I hope that we will be able to feel we have been successful. Ralph Waldo Emerson stated it better than I can when he said, "to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to have played and laughed with enthusiasm and sung with exultation; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived — this is to have succeeded." I hope for all of us that we can say, "Yes, we have succeeded."

I am so very, very proud to share this responsibility — and opportunity — with all of you. Thank you for your trust, and for your friendship."

ACCEPTANCE SPEECH BY SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE PENNINGTON

Representative Pennington: "Thank you, Representative Alexander for your kind remarks. I would like to introduce my wife and best friend, Valerie and my Mother-in-Law, Ruth Fox. Judge Appelwick, Chief Justice Guy, Speaker Ballard, Speaker Chopp, Madame Speaker Pro Tem, any other Speakers that I may be missing? And distinguished colleagues and friends. Over the past two years in this position, I have had three wonderful teachers. One is my friend Speaker Clyde Ballard. Another, the gentleman I will soon nominate for the office of Chief Clerk, Mr. Tim Martin, and the third is my former colleague and friend, Judge Marlin Appelwick. What an honor to be sworn in by him.

Because of the encouragement and, often scrutiny, of each of them I have taken with great sincerity my role as an officer of this institution. Those that have come before me include a very distinguished list: Julia Butler Hansen from southwest Washington and John L. O'Brien, we alone served for 9 terms as Speaker Pro Tem on top of the 4 terms as Speaker of the House. They are the legends, and I am merely a learner, a student.

I could not ask for someone better to share this position with, other than Representative Val Ogden of Vancouver. I first met her in the summer of 1994, she is a gifted and talented leader for her district and southwest Washington, someone with whom I have great respect and consider my friend.

It has been a remarkable experience for someone, who in 1997, stood here at the ripe age of thirty to help in presiding over this, the people's House. It is, I suppose as my parents said somewhat of a milestone for a kid who was selling coffee only five years ago in the rural areas of southwest Washington. I have been greatly humbled by your willingness to allow me the opportunity to learn.

It is my deep hope that these next two years will find us with an even greater desire for strong and healthy debate — that which is both civil and courteous — a healthy respect for protection and preservation of this institution that we who serve in it now can build upon the legacy of those that have come before us — those that have laid the ground work for high ethical stands and behavior in this House which we observe today. My greatest wish for not only this house, but indeed politics as a whole, that we should ingrain the basic tenant of integrity so deeply into this institution that it should never be undone.

We indeed find ourselves in a historic place in time. For only two legislatures in this great state of Washington have led their citizens into a new century — only one will lead it's citizens into a new millennium. On January 9, 1899 the Washington State House opened it's ceremonies, no doubt much like ours, to being the journey of concluding one century and beginning another. There were 68 Republicans, 9 People's Party members, 1 Citizen's Party member and no Democrats, and you can rest assured I will be making no editorial comments about the makeup of that legislature.

This one, January 11, 1999 will certainly be different — if not one issues, then definitely on makeup of its membership.

I conclude with the same commitment I made to you two years ago. I offer to you fairness, a willingness to listen but above all integrity. For we are all too often reminded that all we have in Olympia is our integrity — and once it is lost or broken, it may never be retrieved."

Speaker Ballard requested Representatives Helen Sommers and Gary Alexander to escort Co-Speaker Pro Tem Ogden and Co-Speaker Pro Tem Pennington to their seats on the floor.

ELECTION OF CHIEF CLERK

Representative Bill Grant: "It is a great honor for me to nominate a man for our Co-Chief Clerk who first came to the legislature in 1959 as a Bill Clerk in the Senate while still in high school in Carnation. He attended Western Washington University in Bellingham and got a political science degree from the University of Washington. After serving in the military, where he achieved the rank of Captain, he returned to his life in politics.

When he was first elected as Chief Clerk of the Washington State House of Representatives in 1973 he was the youngest Chief Clerk in the United States. He served in that position until 1979. He served as Co-Chief Clerk when the House was evenly divided during the split in 1979 and 1980. He has served, with distinction, in both the Senate and the Governor's office.

Not only is he a man who is very much respected by those of us who know him, more importantly he has a great deal of respect for this institution and will serve us well as our Co-Chief Clerk. It is an honor for me to place the name of Dean R. Foster in nomination for the position of Co-Chief Clerk."

Representative John Pennington: "I suppose it is a bit unique for one officer of this House to nominate another, but I felt compelled to nominate the gentleman — Chief Clerk of this House, Tim Martin, for a third term.

In 1995, at the age of 35, Tim Martin was unanimously elected as the House's chief administrator — all the while his wife, Kim, was patiently smiling and waiting at the rear of the chamber — waiting to deliver their second child of which she did only hours later. Tim Martin is not a leader, but a humble public servant — graduating with honors from the University of Puget Sound Law School. He has been a wonderful administrator of this House's daily activities and its overall public image.

With his intense focus on enhancing institutional integrity and public trust, Chief Clerk Martin has become nationally recognized by organizations such as NCSL and by renowned ethics advisor and author, Alan Rosenthal of Rutgers University — who has visited on two occasions to incorporate the positive change of Washington State's Legislature into his studies and writings.

It is a proud moment in our history when our chief clerk is asked to speak abroad about the dramatic reforms which he has helped to institute over the past four years. Tim also has made it very clear, that it is his greatest desire to leave this institution with integrity placed above all else.

He is innovative and visionary.

When Chief Clerk Martin realized that we were using ten to eleven million sheets of paper in each budget session, he proposed the then-radical concept of purchasing laptop computers for each member, to be used both at the member's home and office — as well as having the capability to be plugged into the desk on the floor. The reasons for that change, he said, were for efficiency of the public's resources and improving the public's access to their elected leaders. The results are phenomenal. From average citizens to business leaders, entire classrooms to seniors, we receive now on a daily basis dozens of electronic messages from our constituents. Often times, they are received as the same citizen views us over public access TVW.

It indeed has enhanced our ability to communicate effectively and efficiently. Not only was it visionary, but has become the model for other state across the nation. Just this morning, the House of Representatives was awarded the Progress of Freedom Foundation's Digital Democracy Award for the state that has best applied digital technology to democracy.

So Mr. Speaker, it is with a sense of great pride that I nominate for a third term as chief clerk of this house — a humble servant, a man focused on the integrity of this institution, a visionary and my friend, Mr. Timothy Martin."

MOTIONS

Representative Kessler moved the nominations for Chief Clerk be closed. The motion was carried.

Representative Kessler moved that the rules be suspended and that by voice vote, Dean R. Foster and Timothy A. Martin be elected as co-Chief Clerks of the House. The motion was carried.

Speaker Chopp requested Representatives Grant and Pennington to escort Dean R. Foster and Timothy A. Martin to the Rostrum. Judge Appelwick administered the Oath of Office to co-Chief Clerks Foster and Martin.

ACCEPTANCE SPEECH OF CO-CHIEF CLERK FOSTER

Chief Clerk Foster: "Mr. Speakers, ladies and gentlemen, members of the House of Representatives, thank you for this honor. I didn't expect to be back here again. I would first like to acknowledge the members of the forty sixth Legislature, the 1979 and 1980 tie. They have been very important in the process of setting this up and since we won't be doing this until 2019 and 2020, I think that every twenty years we should acknowledge a little bit of history: Helen Sommers, who was here then, we have five members of the Senate and Lt. Governor Brad Owen, Senator Bauer, Senator Deccio, Senator McDonald, Senator Winsley and Senator Wojahn who were all over here We know they know what it is like so they will be very cooperative with us this year and know what any problems are. I'd also like to acknowledge my three partners of twenty years ago that helped put this together: Speakers Bagnariol and Berentson but most of all my co-Chief Clerk, who I believe is sitting up in the gallery, my good friend, Vito Chiechi.

Second I would like to thank and acknowledge the members of my family who have been so supportive of me. I have been nervous because we had the floor pass rule and you will see why I was so nervous in just a couple of minutes but that was one of the Chief Clerk perogatives I think. My mother started talking to me about politics when I was real young. She told me about being a teacher in Olympia in the late thirties, when she would come to watch the Legislature. She talked to me about the Speakers and the kind of people who were here, she was a principal of Garfield Grade School in the late thirties. My dad and mom brought me here in 1959, the first time, when I was quite nervous. I was given a great, great opportunity then and now I have a second great opportunity. My mom and dad Bob and Wanda Foster who are sitting right up there in the gallery. I am like Speaker Ballard, I often have refused, not refused but been unable to remember all the family. But I would like to acknowledge my wife Sharon who gave me the House pass to be here today, my sister Syd, our children, Kim and David and Scott who are here today as well as our other two children, Brian and Michael who couldn't be here today. And then I would like to acknowledge the rest of my family who are up in the front row of the gallery.

And finally to you members of this legislature, we pledge that we will be all working together to finish this session and to do what the citizens have asked us to do — work together, work cooperatively, work across the aisle, work in the Chief Clerk's Office. It will be a fun session, it will be a difficult session but most of all it will be memorable.

Thank you very much."

ACCEPTANCE SPEECH OF CO-CHIEF CLERK MARTIN

Chief Clerk Martin: "First of all, thank you Speaker Pro Tem Pennington for those very generous nominating remarks. They mean a lot to me. And thank you Mr. Speaker Ballard, Mr. Speaker Chopp, Chief Justice Guy, Judge Appelwick, Secretary of State Munro, Deputy Chief Sharon Hayward and VickiSusan Anderson -- Happy Birthday, Vicki! You keep this place running every day and we all appreciate it.

What a great honor it is for me to have one more opportunity to do a job that I enjoy doing as much as I do this one. Thank you.

I am humbled. I am completely humbled by the trust you have placed in me. And I will do everything I can to earn that trust on a daily basis.

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the team of very talented professionals that keep the infrastructure of the legislative process intact. And that's your House staff. We in this State are very fortunate to have assembled such a topnotch group of very caring individuals. They do you proud every day.

And finally, with your indulgence, I would like to take an opportunity to recognize my family: my parents, Jerry and Faye Martin; and my nephew, here from Australia, Jerry Martin; and my very best friends in the whole world -- I'm so very proud of these people -- my wife Kim, Max (who is in my office watching "Cartoon Network" instead of watching Day out here) and Gust, who work up just in time -- and made it here this year. Thank you."

Speaker Chopp thanked Chief Justice Richard Guy and Judge Marlin Appelwick for assisting the House with the Oaths of Office. He requested Representatives Constantine, Lambert, Koster and McIntire escort Chief Justice Guy and Judge Appelwick from the House Chamber.

RESOLUTION

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-- 4601, by Representatives Kessler and Lisk

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a committee of four members of the House of Representatives to notify the Senate that the House of Representatives is now organized and ready to conduct business.

Representative Kessler moved adoption of the resolution.

Representative Kessler spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4601 was adopted.

Speaker Chopp appointed Representatives Jim Kastama, Sharon Tomiko Santos, Mark Schoesler and Larry Sheahan to notify the Senate that the House was organized and ready to do business.

It is now my pleasure to present the Governor of the great State of Washington to give his State of the State address. His Excellency the Honorable Gary Locke."

STATE OF THE STATE GOVERNOR GARY LOCKE

Governor Locke: "Mr. President, Mr. Speakers, Honorable Chief Justice, distinguished Justices of the Supreme Court, statewide elected officials, members of the Washington State Legislature, Congressman Adam Smith and Sarah, other elected officials, members of the Consular Association, and fellow citizens:

What a difference a year makes. I am pleased to welcome many friends back to Olympia, and to greet the new members of this historic 56th Legislature. Each of you has worked very hard to be here, and I share your sense of pride in the opportunity to serve the people of the state of Washington.

Every elected official in this room knows that we didn't get here by ourselves. We owe so much to our families. That's why I would like to begin today by introducing and thanking this state's First Lady, First Mom, and my best friend: Mona Locke. And I'd like to introduce my father Jimmy Locke.

While the many new faces in this room have changed the majority party in the Senate and brought the ultimate in bipartisan balance to the House, the challenges before us remain the same. In fact, as we prepare to enter a new century, our challenges have become more urgent.

The message of the last election was clear: the people of our state want us to focus on issues over politics – plain and simple. Now, all of us, Republicans and Democrats alike, must say: we are listening. So tonight I issue a challenge to this legislature: a challenge to forge a partnership, a partnership to solve real problems.

In the past two years, we've made a good start. Unemployment is low. Our children's test scores are going up as our state's tough, new academic standards begin to take root. Our truly tenacious and brilliant Attorney General, Christine Gregoire, has slayed the nicotine dragon, and made possible new investments in health care and disease prevention possible. When I took office, there were 96,000 families on welfare in our state. Today, we have reduced welfare dependence by over 33 percent. We have truly begun to change the culture of state government, and to rebuild pride in public service. Our Savings Incentive Plan has ended the "spend it or lose it" mentality of state government, and freed up millions of dollars for school construction and technology. Later this month, we will give out the first-ever tax refund to more than 100,000 businesses, thanks to their efforts to make their workplaces safer, and thanks to the wise management and efficiency of state employees.

We have been blessed with a strong economy and creative entrepreneurs who've broken all records for new job creation. There is, to be sure, economic uncertainty and hardship as a result of the Asian economic downturn. But as we close the 20th century, I'm proud to say the state of our state is vibrant, hopeful, and filled with promise.

Clearly, our citizens want us to continue focusing on issues that concern everyday people. And you know what that means in my book: education.

Education is the great equalizer in our society, and knowledge is the price of admission to the 21st century. That's why my primary goal as governor is to make Washington a state of learning – a state where every citizen, of every age, is involved in education. A state where learning is truly way of life. Most of you – Republicans and Democrats alike promised to focus on education. So let us join together to make education the centerpiece of this 56th Legislature, and to make Washington a state of learning.

One hundred years ago, in the final days of the 19th century, Governor John Rogers stood before the legislature and delivered the state of the state address. Governor Rogers was a former state legislator, and the prime sponsor of the "Barefoot Schoolboy Act," which established state funding for public schools. At that time, public schooling meant an 8th grade education for most children.

In his 1899 speech, Governor Rogers called for something very controversial: extending public education from the 8th grade to the 12th grade! He also asked the legislature to fund circulating libraries in horse-drawn wagons, because he believed that if students developed a taste for good reading "a vast and incalculable good (would) be done, and the character of the future men and women of this state (would) be elevated to a higher plane."

Today, as we stand on the cusp of another new century, it is vital that we reflect on what we have gained, and what we have learned in the last hundred years.

At the time of Governor Rogers' 1899 speech, the population of Washington was 500,000. And when he addressed the legislature, he faced an all-male group. Women in Washington State were still 11 years away from winning the vote.

Today, our state's population is over five and one-half million, and still growing. And Washington holds the proud distinction of having the highest percentage of female legislators in the United States.

When Governor Rogers held office, industries freely dumped vast amounts of raw waste into our rivers and bays. Children as young as 10 years old worked in factories. And in most industries, people worked long hours, in dangerous conditions, and were without the most basic workers' rights.

Clearly, we have made progress in this century. But now we must chart our course for the next century.

None of us can predict what our world will be like a hundred years from now. We know that our population will continue to grow and become more diverse, our technology and economy will be transformed, and scientific advances will continue to astonish us. Dramatic progress in medicine and health care will mean that many – perhaps even most – of the children born this year – like Emily's little brother or sister will actually live to see the beginning of the 22nd century.

But although we can see only the dimmest outline of what lies ahead, three things are imperative:

First, to succeed in the coming century, education must become a larger part of all our lives – and education of our children must become an even higher priority.

Second, we must learn to live in harmony with the natural world that sustains us, and we must protect the wild salmon, the rivers, the forests and the agricultural lands that will sustain the people of the 21st century and beyond.

And third, we must learn to live in harmony with each other. We must learn to be more civil, more respectful of our differences, and more appreciative of our diversity.

If, in the next two years, our actions are guided by these three imperatives, we will do a good job of preparing our state for a new century and achieving Washington's promise.

The first – education – is the key. Let me tell you a little story that illustrates why. A few years ago, just after Microsoft stock went public, the husband of a former state senator had a chat with a close friend of Bill Gates III. The husband asked the friend if she thought he should buy some Microsoft stock. And she said, "Oh, no, I don't think so. They really don't have any capital, or any assets to speak of. All they have is what's in their brains."

That was spectacularly bad advice. And what made it such bad advice was the failure to recognize that what's in our brains is the most valuable asset of all. What's in our brains is the new economy's most important form of capital. It's no longer raw materials, or even money that new businesses need most. What they need is smart, well-educated people with new ideas. So what's in our brains is the critical source of our future prosperity.

That's why we need to pay much more attention to how young brains develop. We know now that learning begins at birth, and that the first three years of a child's life are critical to creating a lifelong capacity for learning. That's why our Commission on Early Learning, chaired by our First Lady and Melinda Gates, is working to ensure that every infant and every toddler gets the consistent affection and stimulation they need so they can love and learn to their fullest potential, throughout their lives. This is what it will take for every child to come to kindergarten ready to succeed.

Our next task, of course, is to make sure that every child, in every public school, does succeed and meets our state's tough new academic standards. But our schools need help to do this.

They need more teachers, and that's why I'm proposing to add 1,000 new teachers to our elementary schools. This will provide more individualized attention to more of our youngest students. And we know that this will make a lasting difference.

But as even our youngest students will tell you, all teachers are not the same. We need not just more teachers, but more outstanding teachers. Higher expectations of students and higher expectations of teachers simply must go hand in hand. That's why I'm proposing scholarships to outstanding teacher candidates in subjects like math and science, where we have shortages. That's why I'm proposing that teachers must pass competency tests before they set foot in the classroom. And that's why I want to give significant pay increases to the outstanding teachers who meet the tough standards of state and national certification.

Just as important, we need to fundamentally change the way we finance schools by creating incentives and rewards for helping students meet our tough new academic standards.

Our state Learning Assistance Program provides extra funding and staffing for schools with large numbers of failing students. But when students in those schools begin to improve, we cut that funding. Punishing schools for doing a good job makes no sense, and we should end this practice immediately, and reform this program.

Indeed, schools that do a good job should be honored and rewarded. To do that, I'm proposing cash awards to elementary and middle schools where test scores go up three years in a row.

If our schools are to improve, we need to free them from the control of Olympia and even their local central administration and give them the flexibility and tools to succeed. So, I call on you to create Opportunity School Districts – districts where money goes directly to individual schools with decision-making authority over spending vested in principals, teachers, and parents, and where most state regulations will be waived.

But the most important thing our schools need is us – citizens of our state. Teachers can't do it all. They need our time, our support, and our consistent involvement. In the past six months, the Washington Reading Corps has begun to make good on the promise of greater parent and citizen involvement in schools all across our state. Today, over 9,000 volunteers have spent time helping 19,788 children master the skill of reading. But many more children who need this help are still not getting it. So I call on all parents and citizens to be more involved in our schools, to help our children learn to read, and to help our schools be the best in the nation.

It is my passionate belief, as it was the belief of Governor Rogers 100 years ago, that a relentless focus on creating avid readers will do a "vast and incalculable good," and that it will help to "raise the character of the future men and women of this state to a higher plane."

But we must recognize that the "higher plane" to which today's students must rise is far above the elevation imagined by Governor Rogers. Governor Rogers recognized that the transition from an agrarian to an industrial economy required the addition of a high school education. At the dawn of a new century, we must recognize that the transition from an industrial economy to a knowledge-based economy will require education beyond high school.

That's why I'm proposing the creation of Washington's Promise scholarships. These two-year college scholarships will be awarded to the top 15 percent of every high school graduating class, starting with this year's senior class. When our new, 10th grade test is in place, it will be awarded to all high school students who pass that test. And it is my hope that eventually, it will be awarded to every high school graduate, in recognition of the fact that the world of the 21st century simply requires a higher level of education.

These two-year scholarships can be used at any public or private institution in this state. It will be available to students whose families make up to 135 percent of median family income – not poverty level. For a family of four, that's $69,000; for a family of five, it's $82,000.

And these scholarships can be used for short-term technical training. A student might, for instance, take a 12-week course, get a job, and use the balance of the scholarship for periodic skill upgrades over a period of several years. This represents a new way of thinking about what it means to get a college education.

A college education is a part of the American Dream. But today, the sad reality is that unless you're from a high-income family or a low-income family that qualifies for financial aid, paying for college is getting harder every year. Going to college isn't just a symbol of honor or distinction any more – it's a necessity. So, it's about time we help working and middle-class families realize the American dream of a college education.

The timing of this proposal is critical. We know that the baby-boom echo is about to result in a surge of new high school graduates who will want and need higher education. We also know that a record number of older adults are returning to school to change careers, to upgrade their skills, or to enrich their own understanding of the world in which we live. All of this requires us to stretch the capacity of our higher education system.

To do this, I am proposing that we make room for 10,000 more students in the next two years. I am also proposing the creation of the Washington Online College, which will help students of every age, in every corner of the state, enroll in distance education courses with credit over the Internet.

But it isn't enough to simply expand our colleges and universities. In our state today, our information technology industries have over 7,000 job openings, paying very high wages. Yet our colleges are only graduating some 1,300 students a year with the appropriate degrees to fill those jobs. The result is that Washington companies are hiring workers from other states and other countries. I want Washingtonians trained for Washington jobs. We must therefore insist that our colleges and universities offer the courses that our students are demanding.

A greater willingness to learn is also essential to saving our wild salmon. And we have to own up to the fact that, in the course of this century, we have been very slow learners.

We've finally learned that salmon simply cannot live without abundant, clean, cold water in our rivers and streams. We've also learned that our natural environment is finite and fragile, and that when we abuse our environment, there are measurable and often irreversible consequences.

But the most important lesson is the one that Chief Seattle tried to teach us long ago. It is that we are a part of the web of life, and not its master or its architect.

Salmon recovery is about much more than fish. It is about respect for the natural world that sustains us. And if we fail to do what's necessary for salmon, we will fail at something far larger than saving fish. We will fail at saving the very quality of life that makes living in the Pacific Northwest special and distinctive.

In addition to the long-term consequences of a degraded environment, we face a more immediate threat: If we fail to protect our wild salmon, the federal government will do it for us – and to us. We will lose control over our land, our water, and our farms and forests. That will not happen without a fight. And there is no guarantee, of course, that a federally-imposed salmon strategy would even work.

The truth that every Washington resident must know is that salmon recovery will affect all of us – even those of us who don't fish, don't live near streams, or don't even like to eat salmon. Restoring salmon – and protecting our environment – will affect decisions about where and how we build new homes, and expand or start businesses. It will affect how we wash our cars and fertilize our lawns, and how much we pay for water and electricity. And the longer we postpone the tough decisions needed to save our wild salmon, the higher the costs will be.

That's why I am calling for over $200 million in immediate state and federal investments to help local and tribal governments implement watershed recovery plans; to enforce the environmental laws we already have on the books; to remove barriers to fish in our streams; and to help farmers and timber owners protect salmon habitat.

There's something else we need to learn, too. Over the past several decades, we've passed tough laws that keep criminals behind bars longer. But we need to learn that whether a convicted criminal is released in two years or ten years, they will come back to our communities. We made a mistake when we abolished parole. We need to fix that mistake by passing our offender accountability act and bringing back parole.

And this year, I am also asking you to approve legislation that will help transform every state agency into the kind of nimble, adaptable organization that can change with the times, and provide high quality services. We need the authority to contract out state services to the private sector, and to let state employees compete for those contracts. We need to expand collective bargaining rights for state employees – to the same degree now enjoyed by city and county employees. And we need a simple, streamlined personnel and civil service system.

There is so much more to do. I'll be sending you proposals to create prosperous rural communities that attract high-tech, high-wage jobs and help existing businesses grow. We must provide real, measurable relief from the traffic congestion that impedes economic growth and drives commuters crazy. We must ensure that our elders are able to live independently for as long as possible. And we simply must invest in decent housing for the farm workers who harvest the food we eat.

This is the mindset of my agenda: instead of standing at the bottom of the cliff with an ambulance and a stretcher, we want state government to be at the top of the cliff, building fences. We want our children to get the education they need to succeed in the 21st century, so they won't ever have to apply for welfare. We want to help people get jobs and move up a career ladder rather than just paying them to be poor. We want to help people stay healthy, rather than just paying the bills when they get sick. We want to preserve and protect our natural resources rather than waiting until the last wild salmon disappears. And we want to prevent the crime, the child neglect, and the anguish caused by drug abuse, rather than picking up the pieces broken lives and families.

To accomplish all this – to forge successful partnerships, to solve real problems, and to focus on issues over politics – we must keep in mind that third imperative: the imperative of living in harmony with each other. Here in Olympia, that means we must keep our minds open to new ideas, regardless of whether they come from Democrats or Republicans, or from the executive branch or the legislature. We must not demean one another, exaggerate our differences, or impugn the motives of those with whom we differ. We must work harder at respecting our differences, and remembering that even in the heat of debate, we owe each other and the people we serve the highest standard of civility and honesty.

We simply must hold fast to the values embraced by generations of the Locke family and families all across our state: get a good education, work hard, and take care of each other. I'd like to introduce some people who embody those values – people who remind us of the power all of us have to make a positive difference in our state's future:

Meet Margaret Banks, an outstanding teacher from Vancouver who's won certification by the prestigious National Board for Professional Teaching Standards at great expense to herself and without any accompanying extra compensation. Thank you, Margaret, for your commitment to education.

Next, please welcome Teddy McDaniel, a fifth grade student at Cedar Valley Elementary in Lynnwood, and Cindy Anderson, his Reading Corps tutor. Teddy wrote me a letter to tell me how much difference a summer reading academy made in his young life. This year he's been moved to a higher reading group, and the other kids don't laugh at him any more when he reads out loud. Teddy wrote, "School is better for me this year. And everyone is proud of me and I'm proud of myself." We're proud of you Teddy!

Next please welcome Angela Grasser, a single mom and WorkFirst participant who is off public assistance after two and a half years and doing well in her new job thanks in part to the help she received from her case manager, Lisa Wheaton, and Kimberly Metcalf, her Employment Security job counselor. Good luck to you Angela and thank you Lisa and Kimberly.

And finally, I'd like to introduce Hazel Wolf, who was born in 1898. Hazel has said that her ambition is to live into the 21st century so that she'll have the distinction of having been alive in three centuries. She is a lifelong environmental activist who has taught generations of children to be good stewards of the natural world. And she is the perfect embodiment of the spirit of both our best and most enduring values, and the appetite for adventure and learning that the beginning of a new century evokes.

These are the people who show us the way to make Washington a state of learning, and to achieve Washington's promise. And these are the people who show us that the longer we live, the more we can give – to our families, our communities, and our country.

A hundred years from now, today's elected officials will be but historical photographs on the walls of this magnificent building. Our chance to make a difference for the people and the future of Washington State is brief and fleeting. We must all make the most of it. Let us commit to preparing the way for a new century, and a new era of hope, opportunity, and lifelong learning.

Thank you very much."

The President thanked the Governor for his stirring remarks and asked the special committee to escort Governor and Mrs. Locke from the House Chamber.

The President asked the special committee to escort the State Elected Officials from the House Chamber.

The President asked the special committee to escort the Supreme Court Justices from the House Chamber.

On motion of Representative Kessler, the Joint Session was dissolved.

The President relinquished the chair to Speaker Chopp.

Speaker Chopp requested the Sergeant at Arms of the House and the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate escort President of the Senate Lieutenant Owen, President Pro Tempore Wojahn, Majority Leader Snyder, Minority Leader McDonald and members of the Washington State Senate from the House Chamber.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

On motion of Representative Kessler, the House adjourned until 10:00 a.m., Wednesday, January 13, 1999 for the purpose of the State of the Judiciary Address.

SECOND DAY, JANUARY 12, 1999

JOURNAL OF THE HOUSE

NOTICE: Formatting and page numbering in this document may be different from that in the original published version.

THIRD DAY

MORNING SESSION

House Chamber, Olympia, Wednesday, January 13, 1999

The House was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by Speaker Ballard. The Clerk called the roll and a quorum was present.

The flag was escorted to the rostrum by a Sergeant at Arms Color Guard, Pages Steve Dokken and Natalie Quist. Prayer was offered by Pastor Robert Cassis, Olympia.

Pastor Cassis: "Almighty God, in whom we trust, we acknowledge our total dependence upon your gracious goodness to us. You have ordained government to restrain evil and to reward righteousness. It is fitting therefore, that as we commence this meeting we pause to acknowledge you and to seek your blessing.

In a few moments, all three branches of our government will gather together and their presence reminds us of the wisdom of our forefathers. The checks and balances they built into our republic, serve our state and nation well. Our system, although sometimes cumbersome, effectively brings about the highest good for the many while protecting the rights and interests of the few.

Ours is a nation of laws which ensure opportunity and justice for all. Our judicial system, despite its weaknesses, is the fairest on the face of the earth. We are served well by it and the men and women who interpret and apply the law. We ask your wisdom, strength and approval for their work. We ask your special blessing upon Chief Justice Guy as he assumes the leadership of our highest court, in the months ahead, and as he speaks to us today.

In conclusion, we take this opportunity to thank you for the long and distinguished service of Justice James Dolliver as he enters retirement. We pray for happiness, health and meaning for this next phase of his life.

In your name and for your glory. Amen."

Reading of the Journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was ordered to stand approved.

The Sergeant at Arms announced that the Honorable Richard P. Guy, Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court had arrived. The President instructed the committee to escort Chief Justice Guy to the Rostrum.

The President stated the purpose of the Joint Session was to receive the State of the Judiciary address from Chief Justice Richard Guy.

STATE OF THE JUDICIARY
CHIEF JUSTICE RICHARD P. GUY

Chief Justice Guy: "Governor, Lt. Governor, Speakers, Senators, Representatives, Elected Officials, members of the Judiciary, distinguished guests, ladies and gentlemen.

Two days ago, Justice James Dolliver retired following twenty-two years of service on the State Supreme Court and eleven years as Chief of Staff for Governor Evans. Five years ago, Justice Dolliver suffered a serious stroke. Shortly before Jim informed the Court that his doctors told him he could return to work, I visited Jim at his home. Jim saw that I was making my own evaluation of his ability to return. He said, "Guy, I want you to know my mind is as good as it has ever been." I replied, "Jim, that is not altogether reassuring to me." Jim then announced that I was out of control and that he had to return immediately — and he did. Some time later Barbara Dolliver fell down stairs at their home injuring her head and breaking both wrists. She recovered from those injuries and has resumed writing poetry. In these times, when heroes are tough to come by, I give you Jim and Barbara Dolliver.

With the consent of the President of the Senate, I would like to ask the Sergeant at Arms to escort former Governor Daniel J. Evans in to the House Chambers."

The President requested the Sergeant at Arms to escort former Governor Evans to the Rostrum.

Governor Evans: "Forty two years ago I wouldn't have needed these (as the former Governor put on his glasses). What a privilege it is for me to come back after forty two years when I first took my seat number 98 back there, whoever's occupying it now and began with the privilege of serving in this House followed by a career of public service. And it was at that same time that about that same time that Jim Dolliver began his long and distinguished career in public service. Many of you know but some may not that he was the son of an Ohio congressman, came by his political background naturally. First came to the Pacific Northwest as a park ranger in the Olympic National Park. We join together in 1963 when the House had a coalition. Now if you think a tie vote is tough, try a coalition sometime. Jim was the attorney for the Republican caucus, we had three caucuses that year and were quite successful. Next Spring, I decided that I would take a try at Governor and the first person I turned to was Jim Dolliver. As my campaign manager and with a borrowed car from a friend of mine who was a car dealer we spent over a year traveling the State every little village we could find, trying to convince people that there was an election coming up even though it was sixteen months away and I was really running for Governor. The election of course was successful and my first appointment was Jim Dolliver as my Chief of Staff. He was more than just a Chief of Staff or Staff member — he was a friend, a colleague and in many respects a mentor because I found in the intellectual giant someone who could with compassion and passion, with a knowledge that I could depend on, do the job of helping run this State. His permanent legacy is long. I mentioned that he first came to this State as a park range in Olympic National Park. One of my first hikes from Camp Parsons was into the Olympic Mountains more than fifty years ago and I still enjoy going back into those mountains. We spent a lot about hikes and places to go when we probably should have been talking state problems of importance. But these were problems of importance and out of it came some of the first environmental legislation, the protection of the Ocean strip of the Olympic National Park — the beginnings of what has flourished in the years since — of helping to protect this extraordinary land we all have the responsibility for.

He is a life long Republican — a life long Republican who believes strongly in equality, in compassion, in conservation and economic conservatism. An intellectual giant and yet one who has a twinkle in his eye and who frequently gave me some real good advice. On piece I will pass along.

On occasion as Governor, I got pretty upset. And I'd sit down and dictate a letter of massive retaliation against someone but I did have the good sense to always show it to Jim. And he would look at it and say, 'Governor, that's a whale of letter, that's marvelous. Why don't sit on it for twenty four hours? I would and I'd come back and sometimes I'd say 'Well maybe we shouldn't send it'. Other times I'd still be ready to go and he'd say 'That letter is so good that it belongs in the Archives for future generations.' There are other things in the Archives and I've got to share with you one memo of hundreds that past between Jim Dolliver and I during those days that I was Governor. Someday a graduate student in History will dig through the Archives and find many of those memos, probably scratch her head and wonder what in the world were they talking about. This one, Jimmy said 'further explication of word which is sometimes an intransitive verb and sometimes a noun, origin unknown. Recently Loretta (my scheduling secretary) inquired of you whether you wished to meet this person. You responded 'Oh piffle'. In early times I felt I had a firm grasp in Gubernatorial Nuances and Meanings. However in recent months some rather considerable errors in interpretation have been made. I am of the view that 'Oh piffle', while it might sound negative, really has some characteristics of the affirmative. This view gains weight when the definitions of piffle are examined: To talk in a trivial, inept or ineffective way perhaps a blend of piddle and trifle. Or trivial nonsense or inaptitude, empty gavel. Loretta says you may have said 'Oh piffler', i.e., one who piffles but that seems unlikely. If it was a case of bad reporting, it may have been you said 'Oh piffer' which is member of the Punjab Irregular Frontier Corps but since you are Navy not Army we have discarded that possibility. I suggested you might have 'O Pifferio' which is old Italian wind instrument used by shepherds i.e, a bag pipe but Ralph Munro was not in the office and besides he is Scotch. As you can see, all meaningful work has stopped until this matter is clarified. Please check one of the following: I will see him: Yes No See Me or None of the above

As I said that is only one of scores of similar memos that made each day a little more pleasant during the most difficult of times.

It is a great privilege for me, not only to come back to this Chamber but to come back for this purpose to tell Jim and Barbara Dolliver how much Nancy and I love them, how much they have meant to not only the political career but how much they have meant to our lives. They are great people. The Supreme Court and the State will lose an intellectual giant but we will all be blessed by the more than forty years you have given to public service."

Chief Justice Guy: "The last time, Governor Evans, Justice Dolliver and I were in this chamber together, Dan Evans was a State Representative, Jim Dolliver was the attorney for the Republican caucus, and I was the speaker's attorney. We, like everyone in this chamber, are proof that the American dream is not dead. We can be anything we want, do anything we want. All we have to do is create our personal vision and work to achieve it.

A point of personal privilege. My wife Lynn also has a strong feeling of affection for this House. She was the receptionist for the speaker during the 1963 session. We were both from Spokane and had known one another. We became engaged during the session and married the following November. We have now been married 35 years. By your leave, I introduce Lynn, our three children Victoria, Heidi and Emily, and our two grandchildren, Jeremy and Jessica.

The purpose of this address is to advise you on the present state of the judiciary and inform you of our legislative requests for the next biennium. The judges of this state are proud, dedicated and independent. We are not insular or political advocates. We are competent people representing in our makeup all segments of Washington society. Issues are decided on their merits — not prejudged. Judges of this state are involved in their communities and active in improving the justice system. I want you to see the faces of representative state judges and to better understand how committed they are to their work and to the people they serve. I have invited three judges representing the district courts, superior courts and appeals courts of this state and will introduce them to you now. Judge Jim Riehl is a District Court Judge from Kitsap County. With assistance from the Supreme Court's Gender and Justice Commission, Judge Riehl organized a Domestic Violence summit for Kitsap County. Participants included teachers, doctors, police, social service organizations, business leaders and judges. From that conference, Judge Riehl developed a plan for such conferences that is being presented to the American Bar Association as a model.

Domestic violence is destructive of every aspect of family life. It not only damages the people directly involved, but children, grandparents, family members, friends, business associates, teachers, and medical personnel. During this session, the domestic violence coalition will propose enabling legislation in furtherance of the Federal Full Faith and Credit Domestic Violence Act. It will allow local prosecutors to enforce protection orders from other states to safeguard those who have fled to our jurisdiction. I support that legislation.

Judge Patricia Hall-Clark is a Superior Court Judge from King County. First as Court Commissioner and now as a Superior Court Judge, her work has been that of a Juvenile Court Judge and Family Court Judge. I know the Becca Bill has cost and hearings implications, and I presently make no comment on that aspect of the law. But Judge Clark, by her presence, wants to thank you for that legislation. She wants you to know that she has had children return to her Court and tell her that what she did for them under the authority of the Becca Bill saved their lives. Judges support family courts. We believe the family court must unify all aspects of law involving family issues, from juvenile to dissolution, under one division of the Superior Court. A family court must be served by judges who want to hear family law cases and who will be the family court judge for a term sufficient to give consistency and resolution to cases. The majority of dissolution cases involve pro se litigants. They need judges who will resolve their disputes with patience and fairness, and I ask you to consider legislation that promotes Unified Family Courts. We address funding for family courts in a Court Improvement Act, which I shall discuss with you today.

Judge Dennis Sweeney is Chief Judge of the Courts of Appeals and serves on the third division of the Court in Spokane. He lives in the Tri-Cities. The bar association of the Tri Cities has 100% participation in the local pro bono program to assist low income people of the area. When Judge Sweeney practiced law in Kennewick, he was a part of the local pro bono program, and as a judge he is a member of the Washington State Bar Association's committee on Access to Justice. While not every local bar association has 100% participation in pro bono services, free legal services are provided throughout the state by every local association and the services are worth thousands of dollars. I recognized that lawyers have their critics. However, in the area of giving money and help to provide services to people who need to access the system, who can't afford a lawyer and don't know where to turn, the lawyers of this state have been magnificent. Our courts would be unable to assist the citizens in resolving their legal problems without the contribution of the pro bono lawyers. On behalf of the Judiciary, I thank them. In addition to the services provided by local attorneys, it is also essential to have legal service clinics that are organized to service the public in certain areas. I will discuss Access to Justice funding when I later speak about the Court Improvement Act we are suggesting.

I am aware that some of you may believe that courts, and the Supreme Court in particular, are activist and fail to recognize that a court's function is to interpret legislation and the Constitution and not to usurp legislative policy making. Those of us who chose law as a career did so with an appreciation of a system of governance and order that evolved from the time people first joined together for collective security to our present democratic republic. There has always been a separation in the function of a legislative body and judicial body. There is, by us in the judicial branch, reverence for the legislature. Your acts are those of the people through representative government. You, through your legislation and through the purse, have a coextensive check and balance on us, as well as the executive branch. We understand our role, apply the laws you enact, interpret legislation hopefully as you intended, and protect our great charter, the Constitution. We do work, and will continue to work, together with you and the executive branch to enhance and protect our society. We will do nothing to diminish your role as the representatives of the people.

Next, I wish to discuss with you legislative proposals and suggestions, as well as activities we are undertaking, to make the courts more efficient. I have suggested that lawyers who run for judicial positions have some experience as lawyers. This proposal is not original but is one of the recommendations made by the Walsh Commission to the Supreme Court. My suggestion is that those who wish to be Supreme Court Justices serve a minimum of 10 years as a member of the bar. Those who seek to be Court of Appeals Judges should serve a minimum of 7 years as a member of the bar. And those who seek to be Superior Court Judges should serve a minimum of 5 years as a member of the bar. At present, the only court which requires years of experience as a member of the bar is the Court of Appeals. The Supreme Court, the Superior Court Judges Association, and the Board for Judicial Administration of the State Judiciary, have each endorsed this proposal. While this proposal has been criticized as elitist and protectionist, I see it as a response to the public's need to have more knowledge about judicial candidates. At the very least, the public should be able to understand that all candidates have certain minimum qualifications. This should provide the public with some assurance that the people to whom they entrust their children, their property, and their rights have the wisdom of experience. This proposal is not in response to any individual. Rather, it is a perceived need studied and not pursued. I look to your collective wisdom on this proposal and invite sponsorship to this constitutional amendment that ultimately would be evaluated by the vote of the people.

There is a wonderful song in the play and movie "Cabaret" that "Money makes the world go around". While money may indeed make the world go around, the lack of money can also make the world stop. The trial courts are underfunded, and the criminal justice system is overwhelming the trial courts' ability to deal responsibly with civil justice.

To assist the trial courts in performing their responsibilities of providing justice in a timely and available manner, both in criminal as well as civil proceedings, we propose what we have termed the Court Improvement Act of 1999. This proposal would fund the salaries of all trial judges, district and superior, from the State general fund rather than county money. In addition this Improvement Act would provide necessary training for local police officers so they would better understand the statutory and constitutional requirements of their jobs. The Act would allow some flexibility in how court services are delivered by employing business-enhancing best practices approved by the Board for Judicial Administration. Finally, the Improvement Act would provide funding for legal services in that in large measure it will be used to assist low income people in resolving domestic disputes that are so procedurally difficult and in addressing landlord and tenant conflicts. Legal services are as critical to our citizens' well being as are medical services. Legal service assistance is essential to the judiciary in the performance of our duties of insuring that people before the court know their choices and their rights and their responsibilities under the law. The judiciary supports the funding of legal services, and we ask you to continue to support those services that are so vital to the people by supporting this funding proposal. We do not come before you with these funding requests without bringing to the table potential enhanced public safety penalty fees and litigation filing fees. Our contribution through these fees would provide to the state more than half of the requests for state money sought in the Improvement Act. The legislation has been pre-filed.

Two years ago you provided funding for the Supreme Court to create a Commission on Justice, Efficiency and Accountability. Under the leadership of then-Chief Justice Barbara Durham, the Commission undertook its work. It identified the need for funding expressed in the Court Improvement Act. It reviewed and approved trial court standards for all trial courts. It identified the missions of the courts and categorized them by whether they were core or non-core missions. We are now at the heart of the work. Our final effort will be to determine how well we perform our missions and identify who should perform those functions. As a part of that evaluation, we will also consider alternatives that may be offered to litigants to resolve their cases. In today's world, there are no monopolies, and that includes government services. Private judging supplements, and in some cases supplants, the judiciary. Cost, time, selection of a judge, and certainty of a trial date are some of the reasons private judging has become popular. We must adjust governmental services, including the judiciary, to meet the needs of the people. Protracted and delayed justice is making civil justice no longer available. Our courts will become criminal courts almost exclusively. Petty drug enforcement cases are overwhelming us. Technology demands of a changing society require that we in the judiciary examine how we do business and whom we serve. We are undertaking that evaluation.

Some time ago the Supreme Court commissioned a study on the functions of the District Courts. Justice Charles Johnson has agreed to chair a subcommittee of the Board for Judicial Administration to evaluate that study's recommendations and possible implementation. The Supreme Court is aware that in this state there are more than 385,000 unserved warrants issued by district courts. These warrants arise from misdemeanor arrests, DUI arrests, and major traffic infractions. Often a convicted offender will move beyond a county's jurisdiction and thus avoid arrest and, if arrested, avoid being returned to the county where the charge originated. Out-of-county warrants are not routinely served because of the cost in transporting a prisoner back to the county where the warrant was issued. The county where an offender later resides has no jurisdiction to try the person or to order local jail time since the district court's jurisdiction is limited to its county. Finally, no county wants to use its resources or its crowded jail to remedy another county's problem. Justice Johnson's subcommittee will also make recommendations on how to resolve the outstanding warrant problem. The solutions may include both legislation and a change of court rules. I am pleased to advise that members of the Senate and House Judiciary Committees have agreed to serve on this subcommittee to help shape the solutions and report back to the legislature.

You will receive shortly a copy of a report by the Supreme Court Domestic Relations Commission and the Gender and Justice Commission of the Supreme Court on the parenting plan. The report is being presented to the judiciary committees of both houses by the researcher. The report validates the need for parenting plan legislation. It does identify current requirements that appear counter-productive and states that the forms required have become too numerous and difficult to complete. The majority of parties dissolving their marriage are not represented by attorneys but appear pro se. Of those who represent themselves in their dissolution actions, up to 80% must return to court for modification because of changes that occur or because some needed element of the dissolution was not made a part of the original action. The report points out the need for a family court judge who can provide continuity for the parties and resolve their disputes more efficiently and right the first time.

Another concern of the courts is the time it takes to place children in permanent homes after there has been a termination of parental rights. Foster care is designed to be temporary but often becomes long term. A Permanency Oversight Committee has devised a framework for permanency planning and accomplishment to ensure that children in foster care have families of their own. The five-year plan for ensuring permanent families is now before you for your evaluation. While there are no legislative requests, the plan does involve the participation of the Department of Social and Health Services, an agency funded by you.

It is difficult for me to express to you the reverence we judges have for the legislature as being representatives of the people. We appreciate the complexity of the tasks assigned to you and understand that you do business in great waters. We do so by giving life and expression in our courts to your legislation. We are an independent branch of our great government that strives to do the public's business in this time of social change and limited resources. However, neither the judiciary nor the legislature nor the executive can act alone in governance. We are a team working together for the common good. I pledge to you our advice on legislation, past and future, and our efforts in making business changes in managing the courts that are consistent with constitutional and statutory imperatives. In the future the ability of all of us will be needed to intelligently discern between areas of ethical concern and statutory needs in the application of genetic research. The uses to which the computer is being put and will be put involve privacy concerns and business practices which will be issues of first impression for legislators and courts requiring collective thought.

This is the state of the Judiciary. We are proud, dedicated and independent. We are proud of our role in being the forum where grievances and disputes may be resolved fairly. We are dedicated to improving the management of the services we provide. We believe in judicial independence. We will never be partisan in our decisions. We will do what is right under the law, however unpopular. I am proud of our state judges and even more proud of being able to represent them to you today.

You have been kind to invite me to this, your chamber. You have been kinder still in listening to me. By your leave, I step down from this, your bench, and go where I belong, with the judges of this state now before you."

The President thanked Chief Justice Guy for his comments.

The President requested the committee to escort Governor Locke from the House Chambers to the State Reception Room.

The President requested the committee to escort the State Elected Officials from the House Chamber.

The President requested the committee to escort the Supreme Court Justices from the House Chamber.

On motion by Representative Lisk, the Joint Session was dissolved.

The President relinquished the chair to Speaker Ballard.

Speaker Ballard requested the Sergeant at Arms to escort President of the Senate Owen, President Pro Tempore Wojahn, Majority Leader Snyder, Minority Leader McDonald and the members of the Washington State Senate from the House Chamber.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

MOTION

On motion by Representative Lisk, the House adjourned until 10:00 a.m., Thursday, January 14, 1999.

MOTION

On motion of Representative Kessler, the bills listed on the day's introduction sheet under the fourth order of business were referred to the committees so designated with the exception of House Bill No. 1085 which was referred to the Committee on Criminal Justice and Corrections.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative Sullivan: "Mr. Speaker, I regret to inform this body and members of the Legislature, that an Air National Guard airplane went down in Germany yesterday. This event is a serious tragedy to the Air National Guard of which I am a member and to the families who had members on that crew. I'd ask that the members of this body take a moment of silence at this time and keep the families of these folks in your thoughts and prayers. Thank you."

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative D. Schmidt: "This is an extension of Representative Sullivan's comments. We discussed this together. For your information, it was four members of our Washington Air National Guard who died in the airplane last night in Germany. They were on their two weeks of annual training, something most members of our Washington Air National Guard do, both Army and Air Force members. They are normal, everyday citizens, they work and live in our communities and they serve our State and our Country. As I said, they were doing their annual two weeks of training and this was their last training mission of the day. They were on their last flight, they were due to come home from Germany tomorrow and return to their jobs the next week. The information was that as they were coming down, the plane had touched, and bounced back up and after that for some reason they had lost control. There were four families effected by this accident. I would like you to know so we can remember them. The pilot was Major David Fite. He was from Bellevue. The other three crew members were all from Spokane. Major David Fite, Captain Kenneth Theile, Spokane; Major Matthew Laiho, Spokane and Technical Sergeant Richard Visintainer. I want to echo Representative Sullivan's remarks that we have a moment of silence for members of our State's National Guard who died doing their duty. Thank you."

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative Benson: "This is a little difficult for me. Matt Laiho was a very good friend of mine. I would like to tell about my remembrances of Matt. In 1982, after I got out of college, I joined the Air Force and I went to officer training school. Matt Laiho was in my flight at officer training school. After officer training school, we went back to Sacramento California for further training and Matt was in my flight there and in my class. His wife Val was a very good friend of ours and I was one of the bachelor members of the flight and when Thanksgiving came we all went over to their house for Thanksgiving. In a lot of ways, she was kind of like the den mother of our flight. Matt went into tankers, I went into bombers but we have been very good friends for a long time and then he went into the Guard. I've known him closely for I don't know nearly sixteen years I guess. My children go to the same school that his children go to. I just ask that as we are thinking about this, let's remember that they are real people, with real lives, real children that will sorely miss their fathers. And I'm joining the Air National Guard next month as a Captain going into the same unit. I think that as we go through we need to remember the dedication and the potential and in this case real sacrifice that members of our State are making. Thank you."

The House observed a moment of silence in honor of the Air National Guard members.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

MOTION

On motion of Representative Kessler, the House adjourned until 10:00 a.m., Friday, January 15, 1999.

EIGHTH DAY

House Chamber, Olympia, Monday, January 18, 1999

The House was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by Speaker Chopp. The Clerk called the roll and a quorum was present.

The flag was escorted to the rostrum by the Fort Lewis Command Color Guard. Prayer was offered by Rabbi Mark Glickman, Temple Beth El, Tacoma.

In celebration of Martin Luther King Day, Jesse Peak, a senior at Stadium High School and the Tacoma Community College Running Start Program, sang "Give Me Jesus" and "Go Down Moses" by Harry T. Burley. Jesse earned National First Place honors in the Afro-Academic, Cultural, Technological and Scientific Olympics sponsored by the NAACP. Ethel Wellington-Trawick, principal of Edison Elementary School, Tacoma and Jesse's mother, accompanied Jesse on the piano.

Reading of the Journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was ordered to stand approved.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4602, by Representatives Tokuda, Santos, Kenney, Veloria, Lovick, Radcliff, Ballasiotes, Dunn, Clements, McIntire, Murray, Hurst, D. Sommers, Schoesler, D. Schmidt, Fortunato, Doumit, Thomas, Carlson, McDonald, Poulsen, Dickerson, Cody, Ogden, Regala, Edmonds, Haigh, Wensman, Conway, Linville and Stenson

WHEREAS, January 18, 1999, has been designated as the holiday when we, as a nation, remember Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. devoted his adult life and the life of his family to the pursuit of freedom, justice, and peace in America and the world; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. was jailed several times throughout his struggle to bring all people the opportunity to live free from racial, ethnic, and religious discrimination and violence; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s philosophy of nonviolence which was based on the life and values of Mohandas Gandhi, is now woven into the fabric of America; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. set an example of devotion to the principle that all Americans should live free from discrimination and violence; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s leadership achievements were acknowledged when he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s efforts and personal sacrifice were further recognized by the Congress of the United States, which created a permanent federal holiday to commemorate the date of his birth; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s efforts are also recognized by the State of Washington, which honors his memory with a state holiday; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s untimely death deeply grieved both our nation and the State of Washington;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives pause in our endeavors on behalf of the citizens of the State of Washington to commemorate the life of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Representative Tokuda moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Tokuda, Mastin, Lovick, Pennington, Kenney, Regala, Skinner, Quall and Haigh spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4602 was adopted.

Sommers, Mielke, Lambert, Bush, McDonald, Radcliff, Delvin, Thomas, Mastin, Carlson, Benson, H. Sommers, Campbell, Doumit, Murray, Cody, Ogden, Parlette, Lantz, Schual-Berke, Kagi, Edmonds and Veloria

WHEREAS, It is the policy of the Washington State Legislature to recognize the contributions of individuals who reflect standards of excellence that enhance the well-being and quality of life of the citizens of the state of Washington; and

WHEREAS, Margaret Casey has served since 1977 as a legislative advocate, setting the highest standards of dedication, honesty, and civility; and

WHEREAS, Margaret has lobbied for those who are the most vulnerable in society, such as poor children, the aging, those in prison, those in long-term care, and children in the juvenile justice system, making the concerns of these follow Washingtonians known and felt throughout the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, Margaret is held in high esteem, even by those who do not share her views, because of her forthright, whole-hearted, and caring attitude and her ability to see many sides of an issue; and

WHEREAS, Margaret has made the needs of those she has represented seem real and understandable, and not merely abstract; and

WHEREAS, Margaret's idealism and conscience challenge all of us who serve the people of Washington in the legislative process, and encourage us to build a better and more just society; and

WHEREAS, Margaret was also a former teacher and school principal who loved ballroom dancing;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives recognize Margaret Casey for her years of dedicated advocacy for the frail, for the elderly, and for poor children and their families, whose voice was heard through her concern and further wish her the best of luck in all future endeavors; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to Margaret Casey.

Representative Huff moved adoption of the resolution.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4607, by Representatives D. Schmidt, Sullivan, Benson, Talcott, Hatfield, G. Chandler, Lovick, Campbell, Lisk, Ballasiotes, McMorris, Wensman, Stensen, Wood, Regala, Radcliff, Barlean, Ogden, Conway, B. Chandler, Linville, Dunn, Carlson, Fisher, Cooper, Thomas, Pflug, Skinner, Hankins, McDonald, Fortunato, Doumit, Esser and Kagi

WHEREAS, Over eight thousand men and women of the Washington National Guard, consisting of the Army National Guard and the Air National Guard, continue to serve the country as a key part of our national defense; and

WHEREAS, These citizen soldiers and airmen reside in every legislative district throughout Washington and through the gift of their time and personal energies serve the needs of the people of Washington State; and

WHEREAS, The Guard is active in promoting positive activities for the youth of our state through active involvement in the Guard's helicopter outreach programs, drug demand reduction presentations at local schools, and Camp Minuteman, a motivational summer youth experience at Camp Murray; and

WHEREAS, The Guard makes a major contribution to our state's counterdrug effort by providing over sixty soldiers and airmen on duty throughout the year in thirty-five different local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies. Guard men and women supported and participated in over four thousand fifty arrests and seizures of over two hundred fifty million dollars in drugs, assets, and cash; and

WHEREAS, In communities throughout the state, the Guard continues to be an essential source of social support for our communities by making armories available for public use as classrooms, food banks, and centers for community and youth activities. The Guard also answered numerous calls for assistance from local communities for missions varying from traditional color guards to hauling food in support of antihunger initiatives; and

WHEREAS, The Guard continues to demonstrate its essential role as an integral part of the state's ability to protect and sustain the lives and property of its citizens. The Guard was ready when windstorms and floods threatened Washington citizens during November and December 1995. In February 1996, over three hundred airmen and soldiers responded to disaster from flooding in twenty-one counties in our state. Citizen soldiers and airmen from the Guard evacuated people from rooftops and flooded homes and farms. National Guard soldiers and airmen delivered hundreds of thousands of sandbags to stricken communities throughout our state. In November 1996, the Guard helped the citizens of Spokane when an ice storm disrupted the power and water supplies for thousands of homes. In December 1996, the Guard answered the call when thirty Washington counties were struck by a devastating ice storm, a snowstorm, and the resulting floods as the snow and ice melted. Soldiers and airmen worked side by side to help evacuate stricken homes, direct traffic, assist overburdened law enforcement officials, transport medical personnel through snow-blocked streets, and fill and place sandbags in flooded areas; and

WHEREAS, These soldiers and airmen sacrifice their time, comfort, and energies to protect and preserve the lives and property of their fellow citizens. In doing so, these dedicated people demonstrate the vitality of the great tradition of sacrifice and service to State and Nation that characterize the Washington National Guard; and

WHEREAS, The Washington National Guard is composed of citizen soldiers and airmen who in the noble and time-honored tradition of the Minutemen from the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1636, stand ready at a moment's notice to answer the call of need from their State or Country to protect and guarantee the blessings of liberty and providence or to respond to calamity or natural disaster;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives express its appreciation to the families and employers of our Guard soldiers and airmen for their support without which the Guard's mission could not be successful and specifically and particularly recognize the value of a strong Washington National Guard to the economy and well-being of this state, both through the performance of its disaster relief mission, and through the ongoing benefit to local communities by the presence of productively employed, drug-free, and efficiently trained Guard members and the armories that house them; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to the Honorable William J. Clinton, President of the United States; the Honorable Gary Locke, Governor of the State of Washington; the Adjunct General of the Washington National Guard; the Secretary of the Army; and the Secretary of the Air Force.

Representative D. Schmidt moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives D. Schmidt, Sullivan and Cooper spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4607 was adopted.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4608, by Representatives D. Schmidt, Sullivan, Benson, Talcott, Hatfield, G. Chandler, Lovick, Campbell, Lisk, Ballasiotes, McMorris, Wensman, Stensen, Wood, Regala, Veloria, Radcliff, Huff, Barlean, Ogden, Conway, B. Chandler, Dickerson, Linville, Dunn, Carlson, Cooper, Thomas, Pflug, Skinner, Hankins, McDonald, Fortunato, Doumit, Esser, Bush, Kagi and Scott

WHEREAS, Over eight thousand men and women of the Washington National Guard, consisting of the Army National Guard and the Air National Guard, continue to serve the country as a key part of our national defense; and

WHEREAS, These citizen soldiers and airmen sacrifice their time, comfort, and energies to protect and preserve the lives and property of their fellow citizens, and in doing so, these dedicated people demonstrate the vitality of the great tradition of sacrifice and service to State and Nation that characterize the Washington National Guard; and when their plane, a KC-135E Stratotanker, returning from a reconnaissance plane refueling mission, crashed in Germany:

Major David W. Fite, 41, of Bellevue, Washington, pilot of the KC-135E aerial tanker; a graduate of the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colorado; a gulf war veteran who spent 11 years in the Air Force and Reserves; and a husband to Kay;

Major Matthew F. Laiho, 40, of Spokane, Washington, the navigator of the KC-135E aerial tanker; a gulf war veteran who served in the Air Force for seven years before joining the National Guard in May 1989; and a husband to Valerie and a father to two children, Erik and Evan;

Captain Kenneth F. Theile, 31, of Spokane, Washington, co-pilot of the KC-135E aerial tanker, a graduate of the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colorado, who joined the Washington National Guard in September 1998, after serving nine years in the Air Force; and a husband to Michelle; and

Tech. Sgt. Richard G. Visintainer, 48, of Spokane, Washington, a civilian truck driver who joined the Air National Guard in 1972 after serving in the Air Force for four years, and a father to two children, Bridget and Richard;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives recognize and honor the four men of the Washington National Guard who died tragically while serving their country; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to the Honorable William J. Clinton, President of the United States; the Honorable Gary Locke, Governor of the State of Washington; the Adjunct General of the Washington National Guard; and the families of these four brave men.

Representative Benson moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Benson and Miloscia spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4608 was adopted.

Speaker Ballard introduced and acknowledged Brigadier General Lee Legowik, Assistant Adjutant General, Army; Brigadier General Jim McDevitt, Chief of Staff, Air; and the soldiers and airmen of the Washington National Guard.

Speaker Ballard called upon Representative Pennington to preside.

RESOLUTIONS

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4611, by Representatives Skinner, Dunn, Santos, Talcott, Kessler, Ogden, Conway, D. Schmidt, Fortunato, Ruderman, Campbell, Thomas, Lantz and Regala

WHEREAS, The literary, performing, and visual arts are vibrant threads weaving through the tapestry of life in the State of Washington; and

WHEREAS, The arts inspire creativity and innovation, foster communication and understanding across the cultures, knit our communities and our state together with a common understanding of our humanity, and transmit core values to future generations; and

WHEREAS, The arts accelerate students' mastery of history, math, and science, enhance problem-solving skills, and increase the self-esteem of youth at risk; and

WHEREAS, The arts industry throughout Washington state generates millions of dollars annually through performances, exhibitions, festivals, art walks, craft fairs, and concerts in the parks; and

WHEREAS, The arts industry informs and educates the public and its leadership about cultural opportunities, and encourages artistic and economic growth; and

WHEREAS, The arts industry provides assistance in long-range community and educational planning in an effort to secure a place for the arts as a vital component of Washington state's environment; and

WHEREAS, The arts industry provides forums for discussion and collaboration between the cultural community at large to implement ways and means to meet the identified cultural goals of the area, and supports efforts to meet those needs; and

WHEREAS, Our state has received international acclaim for the quality of its artists and arts institutions, drawing audiences from across the nation and the world to the Northwest, and making cultural tourism a vital part of our economy;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives recognize and honor arts and artists in Washington state.

Representative Skinner moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Skinner, Lantz, Anderson, Ogden and Ruderman spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4611 was adopted.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4609, by Representatives Pflug, Boldt, Cody, Dunn, Conway, D. Schmidt and Thomas

WHEREAS, All citizens should be made aware of the safe, proper, effective, and efficient use of medications; and

WHEREAS, Nearly half of the medicines prescribed in this country are used incorrectly, thus contributing to prolonged illnesses, avoidable side effects, and unnecessary hospitalizations which could be prevented; and

WHEREAS, The efforts of our schools, public agencies, and private pharmacy organizations are instrumental in educating the public about safe and proper medication use; and

WHEREAS, Pharmacists are devoted to improving patient health care outcomes in cooperation with other health care providers in our community, hospital, managed care, nursing home, home health care, and research and industry settings; and

WHEREAS, Over the past ten years, national polls have continuously ranked pharmacists as the most highly respected professionals in America;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives recognize the high quality, cost-effective health care provided by pharmacists; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to the state board of pharmacy, the secretary of the department of health, and the president of the Washington state pharmacists association.

Representative Pflug moved adoption of the resolution.

Sommers, D. Sommers, Stensen, Sullivan, Sump, Thomas, Veloria, Wensman, Wolfe and Wood

WHEREAS, It is the policy of the Washington State Legislature to recognize and honor the contributions of individuals who reflect standards of excellence that enhance the well-being and quality of life of all the citizens of the state of Washington; and

WHEREAS, John Henry Stanford, a native of Yeadon, Pennsylvania (his "Camelot"), had a long and distinguished career of not only being the best he could be but motivating others to be the best they could be; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford graduated from Pennsylvania State University in 1961 with a bachelor's degree in political science and earned a master's degree in personnel management and administration from Central Michigan University; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford, a thirty-year career officer in the United States Army, also received military education at the Infantry School, the Army Aviation School, the Transportation School, the United States Army Command and General Staff College, and the Industrial College of the Armed Forces; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford served in the Pentagon as military assistant to the Under Secretary of the Army during the Carter Administration, 1977-1979; executive assistant to the Special Assistant to the Secretary of Defense, 1981; special assistant and executive secretary during the Reagan Administration to Secretary of Defense, Caspar Weinberger, 1981-1984; and in a number of chief executive officer positions of billion-dollar logistics operations during his seven years as a general officer; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford received many honors during his military career, including the Army Commendation Medal, the Bronze Star, the Meritorious Service Medal, the Air Medal, the Distinguished Flying Cross, and the Legion of Merit; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford served as County Manager for Fulton County, Georgia (encompassing Atlanta), the largest, wealthiest county in the Southeast, where he managed the day-to-day operations and long-range administrative direction of more than five thousand employees and nearly one million residents, and oversaw a budget of approximately one-half billion dollars; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford spoke extensively to industry groups, private corporations, universities, and defense organizations on topics such as leadership, values, communication, and effective motivational techniques; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford became Superintendent of Seattle Public Schools on September 1, 1995, where he proceeded to win the hearts and minds of the people with his mission to make the district's schools, and school kids, the best they could be; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford worked hard to successfully accomplish his vision by implementing innovative and ground-breaking measures to refocus the district's mission on academic achievement, breaking the link between poverty and low achievement, raising standards for students and teachers, negotiating a trust agreement with the teacher's union, developing a training program for teachers and principals, allocating equal resources to schools, improving school safety, increasing state, local, and federal funding, and implementing a city-wide reading campaign; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford as Superintendent of Seattle Public Schools considered himself as the Chief Executive Officer of Destiny, Inc., building destinies for children and creating a world-class educational system to promote excellence in all their endeavors; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford had the courage, character, will, and dedication to try the impossible in order to achieve great things for the benefit of thousands of Seattle school children who knew him, questioned him, respected him, thanked him, loved him, and hugged him in response to his leadership philosophy of "Love `em and lead `em"; and

WHEREAS, John Stanford left a wonderful heritage for his family, his wife, Patricia Corley, and his two sons, Steven and Scott, and for all the children, families, and people of Seattle and Washington state by his shining example of commitment to compassionate service, principled leadership, individual integrity, and common-sense intelligence;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives honor the memory of John Henry Stanford for his outstanding contributions he gave to the people of this state; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to Patricia Stanford, Steven Stanford, Scott Stanford, and the Seattle Public School District.

Representative Quall moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Quall, Talcott, Lovick, Cox, Tokuda, Wensman, Kenney, O'Brien and Stensen spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4610 was adopted.

Speaker Ballard introduced Mrs. Patricia Stanford, her son Scott Stanford, Joseph Olchefske, Acting Seattle School Superintendent and former Senator George Fleming. Scott Stanford addressed the chamber.

RESOLUTIONS

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4615, by Representatives Lambert, Ogden, Lantz, Hankins, Pflug, D. Schmidt, Skinner, McDonald, Hatfield, Thomas and Conway

WHEREAS, The Boy Scouts of America have been an integral part of building the character of youth for over eighty-nine years; and

WHEREAS, In Washington State there are over ninety-seven thousand youths involved with Boy Scouting, from Cubs through Explorers; and

WHEREAS, Over thirty-one thousand adults in Washington give their time to volunteer to the Boy Scouts; and

WHEREAS, The Governor of Washington State, Gary Locke, is a lifetime Boy Scout, having earned the rank of Eagle Scout; and

WHEREAS, Over forty-three members of the Washington State Legislature have been Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and over fifty members have volunteered their time as leaders, parents, and counselors in scouting; and

WHEREAS, Scouts of all ages provide assistance in local and national emergencies; and

WHEREAS, Thousands of Scouts participate every year in "Scouting for Food" good turn projects and have collected hundreds of tons of food for local food banks; and

WHEREAS, The coed Explorer program prepares youth for future careers; and

WHEREAS, The coed Learning for Life program provides children with positive values and essential life skills in classrooms all over the nation; and

WHEREAS, The Scout Law, which reads "a Scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent" provides an ethical code that we would all do well to follow; and

WHEREAS, The Scout motto of "Be Prepared" and the Scout slogan of "Do a good turn daily" provide a positive mission for Scouts of all ages; and

WHEREAS, World-wide Scout principles, which include individual respect, citizenship, and service to others, help lay a foundation for the future service to our state and country;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives applauds the effort and work of the six councils of the Boy Scouts of America in Washington State and the positive programs they provide for our youth; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives encourages all agencies of state government to recognize the service and benefits that the Boy Scouts of America provide; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to the Honorable Gary Locke, Governor of Washington; the Governor's cabinet officers; all state-wide elected officials; the National Boy Scouts of America Office, the Western Region Office of the Boy Scouts of America, and to the Boy Scout Councils serving Washington State.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4613, by Representatives G. Chandler, Grant, Linville, Schoesler, Cox, Mastin, Mulliken, Buck, Hankins, Dunn, Skinner, Thomas and Fortunato

WHEREAS, Watatoes yield more potatoes per acre than the common potatoes grown in other regions in the world; and

WHEREAS, The Washington Watato industry contributes approximately two billion dollars to our state's economy; and

WHEREAS, People all over the world know that Watatoes are delicious and nutritious; and

WHEREAS, There are over three hundred proud Watato growers in the state of Washington, harvesting nearly one hundred fifty-two thousand acres of Watatoes each year; and

WHEREAS, Eighty-seven percent of Watatoes are sold to processors who carefully and lovingly transform them into golden fries, crunchy chips, and whipped and creamy mashed Watatoes; and

WHEREAS, Due to the long, warm days and cool nights in the mineral-rich volcanic soil of the Columbia Basin, Watatoes grow up to be the light, fluffy, high-solids Watatoes known world-wide; and

WHEREAS, Nearly nine out of every ten Watatoes are marketed out of Washington state, with a significant portion of these going to overseas markets; and

WHEREAS, Japan purchases approximately seventy percent of the french fries made from Watatoes that are exported each year; and

WHEREAS, In Pacific Rim countries where local government trade regulations permit fresh potato imports, Watatoes command a ninety-five percent share of United States potato exports;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives acknowledge and honor the women and men who plant, grow, harvest, and process Watatoes in Washington state, who have contributed so much to the strength and vitality of our state and its economy, the character of our communities, and the general well-being of our citizens; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to the Washington State Potato Commission and to Watato lovers everywhere.

Chandler, DeBolt, Mitchell, Ballasiotes, Clements, Esser, Barlean, Mastin, Benson, Wensman, Schoesler, Lambert, Hatfield, Pflug, Dunn, Hankins, D. Schmidt, Thomas, Mulliken and McDonald

WHEREAS, The people of the State of Washington should celebrate CHILDREN as one of the most valuable assets of their society; and

WHEREAS, CHILDREN represent the future, hope, and inspiration of the people of the State of Washington; and

WHEREAS, The CHILDREN of the State of Washington should have the right to be cherished and live in an environment that develops their personality; and

WHEREAS, The CHILDREN of the State of Washington should be allowed to feel that their ideas and dreams will be valued and respected because adults in the society take time to listen; and

WHEREAS, Many CHILDREN in the State of Washington face crises of grave proportions, especially as they enter adolescent years in a fast-changing and insecure world; and

WHEREAS, CHILDREN are the responsibility of all the citizens of the State of Washington and everyone should celebrate the CHILDREN of this society, whose questions, laughter, and tears are important to the existence of this society; and

WHEREAS, CHILDREN of the State of Washington should have the right to an education, wholesome recreation, and a peaceful society; and

WHEREAS, The state has designated the second Sunday in October to commemorate the CHILDREN of the State of Washington;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives declare that children are our future. It is vital that they are protected and nurtured. It is important that we focus on children and their needs, as well as recognize their accomplishments. The House of Representatives encourages the citizens of Washington to celebrate children on Children's Day and throughout the year by spending more quality time with children and highlighting their special importance. It is important that we show our support for the youth of the State of Washington.

House Resolution No. 99-4628 was adopted.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4627, by Representatives Ogden, Lambert, Pflug, Dunn, D. Schmidt, Linville, Lovick, Thomas and Hankins

WHEREAS, The year 1999 marks the two hundredth anniversary of the death of America's founding father, George Washington; and

WHEREAS, George Washington was the indispensable figure in the creation of the United States of America and served our nation as its first commander in chief and president with unparalleled distinction; and

WHEREAS, George Washington modeled for the world the peaceful transference power, a cornerstone of democracy; and

WHEREAS, George Washington, in the first presidential inaugural address, challenged all Americans with the task of preserving for all ages the "sacred fire of liberty"; and

WHEREAS, In 1853, the Territory of Washington was named for this national hero; and

WHEREAS, In 1889 the State of Washington joined the Union as the forty-second State and became the only state named for a President;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives proclaim 1999 as George Washington Year to celebrate the life and legacies of George Washington: First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen.

Representative Ogden moved adoption of the resolution.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4625, by Representatives Mastin, Van Luven, Radcliff, Benson, Thomas, Ballasiotes, Huff, Campbell, Alexander, Clements, D. Schmidt, Mulliken, Cairnes, Barlean, Mielke, Schindler, B. Chandler, Koster, Schoesler, G. Chandler, Carrell, Dunn, K. Schmidt, Wensman, Mitchell, Sump, Lambert, Ericksen, Esser, Fortunato, Skinner, Cox, Pflug, Linville and Hankins

WHEREAS, It is the policy of the Washington State Legislature to recognize excellence in all fields of endeavor; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln, the 16th President of the United States of America, exhibited the highest levels of excellence in service and sacrifice to his country; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln demonstrated unimpeachable moral character in all matters, large or small, public or personal, thereby earning himself the nickname "Honest Abe"; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln was a gentleman from humble beginnings, being raised in a log cabin, who cleared land and split rails as a young man, and although he later attained great stature in public life, he never lost touch, empathy, or the values he shared with the common person; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln exemplified the greatest preservation and abilities in scholastic and professional endeavors, illustrated by the fact that he educated himself in the profession of law and following an apprenticeship earned a well-deserved reputation as a skilled, talented, and respected member of the bar; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln continues to be known and admired for his eloquent and accomplished oratory of viewpoints which were always rooted in the truest principles of liberty and justice, and which are perhaps best illustrated in his debate opposing slavery with Judge Stephen A. Douglas, and by the delivery of what has become known as the Gettysburg Address, which honored the magnitude of the cost of liberty; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln believed the republican form of government established by the Founding Fathers was the best means of ensuring freedom from despotic government and he became the father of the modern Republican Party dedicated to maintaining principles of constitutional representation under the rule of law; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln unselfishly gave of himself throughout his long and distinguished commitment to public service to his fellow citizens which included judicial service in the Eighth Circuit, as a member of the Illinois State Legislature, as a member of the United States Congress, and as the President of the United States of America; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln courageously issued the famous Emancipation Proclamation Act of 1862, adopted by Congress later that same year, which valued the citizenship and respected the freedom of all persons regardless of race or color; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln, while President of the United States, issued annual Proclamations of National Prayer Day, duly adopted by Congress, that recognized the pursuits of Nations and Governments, as well as those of men, are dependent upon the solemn guidance and reverent will of God; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln, within one month of being inaugurated as President, faced the mighty challenge of a Civil War . . . which tore at the fabric of the union, pitting brother against brother, family against family . . . with a love of liberty and a firm assurance in the divine providence as his guide and support for the nation; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln steadfastly directed the campaign to victory in the Civil War, held malice toward none and a spirit of charity toward all, believed with conviction and firmness in the right and just, helped bind this great nation together and heal its wounds, and gave to us a just and lasting national peace; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln suffered an untimely death, just five days after bringing the Civil War to an end in April 1865, at the hands of an assassin who tragically ended the life of a man who gave of himself to his country unselfishly, charitably, graciously, and patriotically for causes that were just, noble, and honorable on behalf of liberty and freedom for all; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln's own words are inscribed into the walls of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C.: "That this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth";

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives of the state of Washington honor the 16th President of these United States, for his faith, character, ideals, and contributions which continue to inspire the best within the hearts of men, women, and children everywhere, and which will continue to do so for generations to come.

Representative Mastin moved adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4625 was adopted.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4623, by Representatives Lovick, Pennington, Chopp, Ballard, Kessler, Tokuda, Ogden, Ruderman, Radcliff, Veloria, McIntire, Conway, Santos, Wensman, D. Schmidt, Grant, Dickerson, Wolfe, Constantine, Hatfield, Pflug, Skinner, Dunn, Linville, Thomas and Hankins

WHEREAS, Each year February marks the national observance of African American History Month to celebrate the significant contributions of Americans of African ancestry to the history of our great nation; and

WHEREAS, It is to the benefit of all Americans to honor those who have come before us; and

WHEREAS, Carter G. Woodson, the father of African American History Month, through his research left us with a written record of the presence of millions of Americans whose ancestors have been on the continent of North America since before the Mayflower; and

WHEREAS, Carter G. Woodson founded this month so that Americans of African ancestry could be honored for the many accomplishments which would otherwise go unnoticed in the mainstream textbooks and historical celebrations of United States history; and

WHEREAS, For more than 300 years as part of an established system of slavery and human bondage, they toiled and survived, and then overcame the degradation and shame of this system to become contributors at every level of our public and private endeavors; and

WHEREAS, The desire to succeed and contribute to America caused African Americans to defy racial hostility, Jim Crow Laws, and economic and social injustices; and

WHEREAS, This willingness to succeed and the love for their country has left a positive impact on American culture and society in areas of education, medicine, industry, the military, religion, social sciences, philosophy, agriculture, engineering, and the arts; and

WHEREAS, African Americans continue to contribute widely to the attainment of peace, equality, and justice, and all Americans deserve to know of all the great moments and accomplishments of African Americans; and

WHEREAS, George Washington Bush was the first African American to serve in the Washington Territorial Legislature, and Representatives Charles Stokes and Marjorie Pitter King were the first African American man and woman to serve in the legislature following the proclamation of Washington statehood; and Charles Z. Smith was the first African American to serve on the Washington State Supreme Court; and

WHEREAS, The Washington State Legislature has had among its elected African American Representatives and Senators, Sam Smith, Michael Ross, Peggie Joan Maxie, George Fleming, Bill Smitherman, Jesse Wineberry, Vivian Caver, Rosa Franklin, Dawn Mason, and John Lovick; and

WHEREAS, There have been major contributions made to Washington State history by African American citizens including: Civil rights leader Edwin T. Pratt; poet Mona Lake Jones; artists Jacob Lawrence and James Washington; historian Esther Mumford; and musicians Quincy Jones, Ernestine Anderson, and Jimi Hendrix; and

WHEREAS, Washington is a beautiful state, and America is a proud nation due to our recognition of the contributions made by many diverse ethnic populations and because of our ability to work together as a state dependent upon international peace, harmony, and cooperation;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives recognize February 1999, as African American History Month, in recognition of Americans of African descent who have contributed to America, a nation in which we take great pride.

RESOLUTIONS

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4629, By Representatives Schual-Berke, Cody, Santos, Linville, Talcott, Haigh, Fisher, H. Sommers, Edmonds, Kagi, Parlette, Regala, Ballasiotes, Keiser, Ruderman, Anderson, Hankins, D. Schmidt, Barlean, Thomas, Conway and Pflug

WHEREAS, Monday, February 15, 1999, marks the one hundred seventy-ninth anniversary of the birth of Susan Brownell Anthony, reformer and leader of women's suffrage; and

WHEREAS, Susan B. Anthony defied male electioneers and faced indictment for illegally voting in 1872; and

WHEREAS, Susan B. Anthony spoke on suffrage legislation before members of the Washington State Territorial Legislature in Olympia, Washington, on October 19, 1871, making her the first woman in the history of the United States to be given the privilege of addressing an assembled legislature; and

WHEREAS, Following her presentation to the Washington Territorial Legislature, Susan B. Anthony was the guest of Daniel Bigelow, a state lawmaker who was one of the first to support women's suffrage in the Northwest, at what is now Olympia's historic Bigelow Home; and

WHEREAS, Susan B. Anthony helped draft the constitution for the Washington Women's Suffrage Association; and

WHEREAS, Susan B. Anthony was director of the Female Department of the Canajoharie Academy in New York until she abandoned her career in education to devote her life to social reform, first organizing the Women's State Temperance Society of New York; and

WHEREAS, Susan B. Anthony, along with Elizabeth Cady Stanton, founded in 1863 the Woman's Loyal National League to petition Congress to advocate full civil and political rights for women and blacks when the Civil War ended; and

WHEREAS, In 1866, Susan B. Anthony and other reformers formed the Equal Rights Association to further their campaign for women's suffrage; and

WHEREAS, The reformers took their suffrage campaign in 1867 to the New York State Constitutional Convention, where the state legislature refused to consider the issue, but instead gave considerable support to legislation legalizing prostitution; and

WHEREAS, Susan B. Anthony and her suffragettes fought back with lobbying efforts that killed the prostitution bill in committee, and furthermore, eventually secured the first laws in New York state guaranteeing women's rights over their children and control over property and wages; and

WHEREAS, Susan B. Anthony, during the presidential campaign in 1872, urged women to claim their rights under the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments by registering and voting in every state in the union; and

WHEREAS, In a colorful display of her remarkable courage, Susan B. Anthony and her three sisters boldly entered a stronghold of men in a Rochester, New York, barbershop in 1872 and insisted that they be registered to vote under provisions of the Fourteenth Amendment; and

WHEREAS, On November 5th, Susan B. Anthony entered her polling place and voted the Republican ticket after which she was charged and indicted for voting illegally; and

WHEREAS, In another display of determination, Susan B. Anthony, refusing to pay her streetcar fare as a deputy marshal was carting her off to jail, announced loudly enough for all passengers to hear, "I'm traveling at the expense of this government. This gentleman is taking me to jail. Ask him for my fare!";

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives honor Susan B. Anthony and remember her for and emulate her in her dedication to social reform that led to the passage of the Women's Suffrage Amendment (Nineteenth Amendment) to the United States Constitution in 1920; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That Susan B. Anthony be remembered for her courage and determination to work for equal rights for all citizens of America as reflected in Anthony's quote, "It was we, the people, not we, the white male citizens, nor yet we, the male citizens, but we the whole people, who formed this Union. And we formed it not to give the blessings of liberty, but to secure them, not to the half of ourselves and the half of our posterity, but to the whole people--women as well as men."

Representative Schual-Berke moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Schual-Berke and Kessler spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4620, by Representatives Edmonds, Kagi, D. Schmidt, Thomas and Pflug

WHEREAS, CRISTA Ministries for fifty years has pursued a mission of social accountability and compassion to people in all walks of life throughout the state of Washington and worldwide; and

WHEREAS, In 1949 CRISTA founder, Mike Martin, leased the abandoned fifty-five-acre Firlands Tuberculosis Sanatorium from King County for just one dollar per year; and

WHEREAS, As condition of the lease, King County required "King's Garden," or CRISTA Ministries as it is known today, to establish a "rest home" in order to help support its ministry to young people; and

WHEREAS, Today one man's vision grew to become ten distinct ministries providing meaningful vocation to one thousand two hundred fifty individuals and countless volunteers in Washington State, who serve people in need at varying stages of life; and

WHEREAS, The residents of Washington State and the world's impoverished communities are served through the ten ministries of CRISTA, which include a specialized education program for at-risk urban youth, two continuing care retirement communities for seven hundred eighty seniors that offers life with dignity and purpose, a pre-K through 12 school system, a camps program which hosts four thousand young campers annually, a family counseling service, three radio stations, an employment and career placement network, an AIDS outreach program, international and domestic adoption and pregnancy counseling programs, and a worldwide relief organization;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives hereby recognize and honor CRISTA Ministries for its fifty-year legacy of "bringing hope to life."

Representative Edmonds moved adoption of the resolution.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4616, by Representatives G. Chandler, Linville, B. Chandler, Koster, McMorris, Cox, Barlean, Thomas, Hatfield, Dunn, Ruderman and Pflug

WHEREAS, Washington is home to 264,000 dairy cows; and

WHEREAS, Washington's dairy cows are the third most productive in America, averaging more than 3,180 pounds of milk per cow above the national average; and

WHEREAS, Our state's dairy farmers contribute approximately seven hundred twenty-eight million dollars to the state's economy each year; and

WHEREAS, Milk production ranks second in dollar value among all of Washington's bountiful agricultural commodities; and

WHEREAS, Washington's dairy industry is actually older than the state itself; and

WHEREAS, The first creamery in Washington was started at Cheney in 1880, at a time when cattle outnumbered territorial residents by more than two-to-one; and

WHEREAS, February 17, 1999, marks the observance of Legislative Dairy Day, an annual event celebrated at the state capitol of the great state of Washington for well over thirty years; and

WHEREAS, Legislative Dairy Day honors the dairy industry, which is the second largest agricultural industry in this great state of Washington, for the extensive contributions made by the dairy industry to the economic well-being of our great state of Washington as well as the invaluable contribution made by the dairy industry in providing an indispensable part of a healthy, balanced, and nutritious diet, with such irreplaceable products as milk, cheese, ice cream, yogurt, and a great many other dairy products; and

WHEREAS, Legislative Dairy Day also honors the Washington State Dairy Federation which, as a professional organization of dairy farmers in this great state of Washington, provides an exceptional voice for the contribution and special concerns of the dairy farmers; and

WHEREAS, Citizens throughout the state today honor this special industry with the annual Dairy Day celebration at the state capitol; and

WHEREAS, The Washington State Dairy Federation is the proud sponsor of this observance; and

WHEREAS, Julie Haakenson of Carnation, a 1997 honors graduate of Eastlake High School in Redmond, is representing the dairy industry with distinction as the reigning Washington State Dairy Ambassador; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Haakenson is serving an eleven-month internship with the Washington Dairy Products Commission; and

WHEREAS, Her coalternates are Amanda Miller of Spokane who represents the Inland Northwest dairy farmers; and Becky Smith of Custer who represents the Whatcom County dairy farmers;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the members of the Washington State House of Representatives acknowledge and honor the women and men whose work on dairy farms throughout Washington has contributed so much to the strength and vitality of our state and its economy, the character of our communities, and the general well-being of our citizens; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to the Washington State Dairy Federation, to Washington State Dairy Ambassador Julie Haakenson, and to coalternates Amanda Miller and Becky Smith.

Representative Linville moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Linville, G. Chandler, Anderson and Ruderman spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

SPEAKER'S PRIVILEGE

Speaker Pro Tempore Ogden introduced the reigning royalty Julie Haakenson, Amanda Miller and Becky Smith, Washington State Dairy Princesses. Princess Julie addressed the chamber.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4630, by Representatives Grant, G. Chandler, Mastin, Kagi, Lantz, Hankins, D. Schmidt, Thomas, Dunn, Conway and Pflug

WHEREAS, It is the policy of the Washington state legislature to recognize and honor the contributions of individuals who reflect standards of excellence that enhance the well-being and quality of life of the people of Washington state; and

WHEREAS, Many esteemed Washingtonians who came before us, including Senators Warren Magnuson and Henry "Scoop" Jackson, had the vision to see the critical role hydroelectric power would play in the successful development of Washington state, and the Columbia and Snake River dams were built as the result of conscious decisions by these giants in our state and national history; and

WHEREAS, They recognized that the dams were the Pacific Northwest's chief economic asset as producers of inexpensive kilowatts, and they worked closely with the Bonneville Power Association that managed the dams providing most of our region's electricity and fueling our economy; and

WHEREAS, They understood the populist impulses of our state and region and joined the great tradition of the "public power democrats" who promoted public works projects, including hydroelectric dams on the mighty Columbia River, and through their committed efforts, affordable hydroelectric power became an inextricable part of Washington's and the Pacific Northwest's psyche and economy; and

WHEREAS, They labored to ensure that adequate hydroelectric power was easily available to attract new industry, to generate family wage jobs, to assist farmers in modernizing their operations and increasing production, and to help local utility districts form and have inexpensive power delivered to them, and other positive benefits, such as: Enhanced barge traffic, which greatly assists the transportation of farm products to market; increased recreational opportunities, such as boating, fishing, and other water-related activities; and communities protected from untold damage from severe flooding; and

WHEREAS, As a result of their foresight, hydroelectric power linked the aluminum mills of Spokane with the pulp mills of Grays Harbor, with the vineyards of Yakima Valley, with the bomb factories of Hanford, all essential components of our diverse culture and traditions; and

WHEREAS, They left us a legacy of clean, accessible, and inexpensive hydroelectric power, improved water quality, improved air quality, and a history of economic growth and prosperity by their commendable efforts to pursue dams on the Columbia and Snake Rivers; and

WHEREAS, There are ongoing efforts to breach dams on Northwest rivers with the potential of costing hundreds of millions of dollars and detrimentally impacting jobs, electric power, irrigation, navigation, recreation, existing infrastructures, property values, and the social and economic well-being of all our citizens; and

WHEREAS, These efforts to breach dams in our region are not supported by any member of Washington state's congressional delegation or other Northwest congressional delegations; and

WHEREAS, Governor Locke has publicly stated that he does not support the breaching of dams and cannot imagine any argument convincing him to support the dams being torn down; and

WHEREAS, Governor Locke has clearly indicated that he does not support the United States Army Corps of Engineers' proposed plans to breach dams in Washington state; and

WHEREAS, Governor Locke recognizes the benefits of promoting rural economic development and the need to pursue policies that will enhance rural economic development; and

WHEREAS, Governor Locke has recognized the tremendous negative impacts breaching dams would have on the economic vitality of Washington state, especially on Eastern Washington, and has publicly stated, "The benefits clearly do not outweigh the costs";

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives honor the contributions of all those whose key roles in ensuring the installation and operation of the hydroelectric producing dams have so enhanced the well-being and quality of life of all the citizens of the state of Washington, and of Governor Locke and all the other elected officials, both Democrat and Republican, at all levels of government who have also worked hard to ensure the ongoing success of hydroelectric producing dams and the prosperity they provide our citizens.

Representative Grant moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Grant and G. Chandler spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4630 was adopted.

On page 6, after line 3, insert the following:

"Sec. 2. RCW 9.41.800 and 1996 c 295 s 14 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Any court when entering an order authorized under RCW 9A.46.080, 10.14.080, 10.99.040, 10.99.045, 26.09.050, 26.09.060, 26.10.040, 26.10.115, 26.26.130, 26.26.137, 26.50.060, or 26.50.070 shall, upon a showing by clear and convincing evidence, that a party has: Used, displayed, or threatened to use a firearm or other dangerous weapon in a felony, or previously committed any offense that makes him or her ineligible to possess a firearm under the provisions of RCW 9.41.040:

- (a) Require the party to surrender any firearm or other dangerous weapon;
- (b) Require the party to surrender any concealed pistol license issued under RCW 9.41.070;
- (c) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a firearm or other dangerous weapon;
- (d) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a concealed pistol license.

(2) Any court when entering an order authorized under RCW 9A.46.080, 10.14.080, 10.99.040, 10.99.045, 26.09.050, 26.09.060, 26.10.040, 26.10.115, 26.26.130, 26.26.137, 26.50.060, or 26.50.070 may, upon a showing by a preponderance of the evidence but not by clear and convincing evidence, that a party has: Used, displayed, or threatened to use a firearm or other dangerous weapon in a felony, or previously committed any offense that makes him or her ineligible to possess a pistol under the provisions of RCW 9.41.040:

- (a) Require the party to surrender any firearm or other dangerous weapon;
- (b) Require the party to surrender a concealed pistol license issued under RCW 9.41.070;
- (c) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a firearm or other dangerous weapon;
- (d) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a concealed pistol license.

(3) The court may order temporary surrender of a firearm or other dangerous weapon without notice to the other party if it finds, on the basis of the moving affidavit or other evidence, that irreparable injury could result if an order is not issued until the time for response has elapsed.

(4) In addition to the provisions of subsections (1), (2), and (3) of this section, the court may enter an order requiring a party to comply with the provisions in subsection (1) of this section if it finds that the possession of a firearm or other dangerous weapon by any party presents a serious and imminent threat to public health or safety, or to the health or safety of any individual.

(5) The requirements of subsections (1), (2), and (4) of this section may be for a period of time less than the duration of the order.

(6) The court may require the party to surrender any firearm or other dangerous weapon in his or her immediate possession or control or subject to his or her immediate possession or control to the sheriff of the county having jurisdiction of the proceeding, the chief of police of the municipality having jurisdiction, or to the restrained or enjoined party's counsel or to any person designated by the court.

(7) Any court when entering an order authorized under RCW 9A.46.080, 10.14.080, 10.99.040, 10.99.045, 26.09.050, 26.09.060, 26.10.040, 26.10.115, 26.26.130, 26.26.137, 26.50.060, or 26.50.070 shall inform the party who requested the order how to apply for a temporary emergency concealed pistol license under RCW 9.41.070."

RESOLUTIONS

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4622, by Representatives Santos, Eickmeyer, Murray, Wensman, Stensen, Schual-Berke, Cairnes, Barlean, O'Brien, D. Schmidt, Benson, Tokuda, Fortunato, Conway, Cody, Linville, Dunn, Ballasiotes, Thomas, Pflug, Carlson, Skinner, Lantz, Ogden, Regala, Veloria and Ruderman

WHEREAS, On February 19, 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued Executive Order 9066, which authorized the forced assembly, evacuation, and internment of approximately 12,000 Japanese Americans residing in the state of Washington; and

WHEREAS, The order for assembly and detention at Camp Harmony in Puyallup, Washington, prior to evacuation and subsequent internment caused the Japanese Americans from the state of Washington to lose millions of dollars in property and assets, to suffer immeasurable physical and psychological damage, and to be deprived of their constitutional liberties without due process of law; and

WHEREAS, The alleged purpose of this drastic course of action was to prevent Japanese Americans, all of whom were deemed disloyal and untrustworthy, from committing acts of espionage and sabotage against the United States during the period of its involvement in World War II; and

WHEREAS, An overwhelming number of Japanese Americans from the state of Washington responded to questions of their loyalty and patriotism by volunteering from within barbed wire camps to serve in the United States Military Intelligence Service and the United States Army's 442nd Regimental Combat Team, the latter of which became the most decorated American unit of its size in World War II with 7 Presidential Unit Citations, a Congressional Medal of Honor, 52 Distinguished Service Crosses, 588 Silver Stars, 4,000 Bronze Stars, 9,486 Purple Hearts, and a total of 18 decorations from France and Italy; and

WHEREAS, A few equally patriotic Japanese Americans like Gordon Hirabayashi, then a student at the University of Washington, were willing to face imprisonment to seek justice by challenging the constitutionality of the evacuation and internment orders; and

WHEREAS, Hindsight has proven that the predominant factor that actually led to the internment of Japanese Americans was not a military necessity to protect the United States from possible espionage or sabotage, but was the result of "race prejudice, war hysteria, and a failure of political leadership"; and

WHEREAS, Japanese American internees from the state of Washington endured economic, physical, and psychological hardship and suffered in silence for over 40 years before the state of Washington provided monetary redress and reparations to municipal and state employees;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives, along with the people of Washington, pause in its endeavors this day to recognize the Japanese American internees from the state of Washington and honor their patience, heroism, sacrifice, and patriotic loyalty, and to remember the lessons and blessings of liberty and justice for all; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to the Nisei Veterans Committee, the Military Intelligence Service - Northwest Association, and the Japanese American Citizens League.

Representative Santos moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Santos, Carlson, Tokuda, Wensman, Miloscia, Fortunato, Rockefeller, K. Schmidt, spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

On motion of Representative Pennington, the remarks of Representative Santos were spread upon the Journal.

Representative Santos: "My friends, distinguished members of the Washington State House of Representatives, I'm truly honored to stand before you, and urge your support of House Resolution 99-4622.

A little more than a month ago, I stood on this floor for the very first time, and was taking the oath of office, proudly standing beside all of you, pledging to uphold the constitutions of the United States and the state of Washington. It was truly a very memorable moment, for all of us, but I'd like to share the special significance that this moment held for me.

Fifty-seven years ago, on February 19th, 1942, a date that lay in ignominy for decades, the President of the United States of America signed Executive Order 9066, which led to the evacuation and internment of nearly 120,000 Japanese-Americans.

Among the evacuees were my own grandmother, then a 36-year-old mother of four, and my Mom, both of whom are United States citizens by birth. But constitutional birthrights offered very little protection in the midst of wartime hysteria, just 50 years ago. Under military order and guard, families, like mine, were given little time to gather their meager belongings, and were removed to one of ten wartime relocation centers in the United States: Manzanar, Tule Lake, Poston, Gila, Minidoka, Heart Mountain, Granada, Topaz, Rohwer and Jerome.

The nation's very first exclusion order afforded the Japanese-American residents of Bainbridge Island exactly six days to rearrange their lives.

Still, the hallmark of America is our faith — as a nation and as a people — in the enduring power of our Constitution. And it is this relationship that we have with the Constitution that makes it a living, breathing document.

And it's this faith that motivated hundreds of young Japanese-American men to leave their families behind barbed wire, and to volunteer for military duty in service to their country — despite lingering questions about their loyalty.

And Mr. Speaker, with your permission, I'd like to share a photograph of one such volunteer. Thank you. This is my great uncle, P.F.C. George Miyaoka, who belonged to the famed 442nd regimental combat team—as you've heard, one of the most decorated units of its size in U.S. military history.

Just 29 years old, he died, in battle, in Italy, fighting to prove his loyalty, and to defend the freedoms that we continue to enjoy today. As you can see, he was awarded the Purple Heart, and the Silver Star, for his valor and service to our country. And Uncle George's story is not unusual in the Japanese-American community.

So I have to confess that I had a rather large lump in my throat last month, when we were sworn in as the 56th Washington State Legislature. And I made my pledge in silent remembrance of Uncle George, Grandma, Mom, and all of those whose rights have been abrogated and freedoms abridged.

And that is why, on the anniversary of the signing of Executive Order 9066, the Japanese-American community pauses in observance of a Day of Remembrance to remind us of the fragility of our constitutional civil liberties.

I'm deeply honored to serve beside all of you in this very proud chamber, as we fulfill the duties and the responsibilities we have to the people of the state of Washington. We are the guardians of our most cherished rights and freedoms. We are the stewards of America's promise of justice and liberty for all.

And so I urge you to support House Resolution 99-4622.

Thank you.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4612, by Representatives Pflug, Thomas, Cairnes, Fortunato, Dunn, Carlson, Ogden and Talcott

WHEREAS, The students of Tahoma High School in Maple Valley, Washington, enrolled in the program known as "We The People, The Citizen and Constitution" have exhibited that they have learned very well the lessons of our forefathers who wrote the Constitution of the United States and will be representing all of Washington in national championship competitions; and

WHEREAS, This knowledge will enhance their lives and direct their paths as they walk through life, proud in the knowledge that Americans have long stood for justice and liberty of all Americans; and

WHEREAS, Being armed with this knowledge is to the benefit of all citizens of this great country and state and will encourage them to participate in the democracy men and women have fought so gallantly to preserve; and

WHEREAS, Knowing that these energetic, knowledgeable young people will one day lead this state and country, and that there may very well be in their midst a Governor, Senator, or member of Congress or perhaps even a future President; and

WHEREAS, Teachers of "We The People" program such as Stephanie Galloway and Mark Oglesby can take great pride knowing that the students enrolled in this program have the knowledge to outperform university students in every topic; and

WHEREAS, Studies have shown that 80 percent of senior students participating in this program have registered to vote compared to an average of 37 percent, thereby proving that this program has increased the interest in politics and in participating in government;

WHEREAS, For the first time, Tahoma High School had teams competing at the state championship, and one such team won the first place title, enabling its members to represent the whole state of Washington when they compete at the national competition in Washington, D.C.;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives wish to acknowledge the participants in this program, all of whom are members of the team that won first place: Adam Baldrige, Mary Basinger, Joshua Bodily, Sydney Brumbach, Katie Carder, Erika Chavez, Elizabeth Dauenhauer, Steven Dekoker, Meaghan Denney, Nathan Dill, Marisa Dorazio, Jesse Duncan, Jon Hallstrom, Jayson Hart, Carolyn Hott, Joshua Keegan, Daniel Lindner, Casey Lineberger, Clark Lundberg, Karrie Pilgrim, Michael Pirog, David Rosales, Jason Shinn, Jeremy Sloan, Justin Sly, Donny Trieu, Orianna Tucker, Jessica Walker, Raymond Williams, and Elizabeth Zaleski, students making their families and fellow citizens proud; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives forward a copy of this resolution to the Principal of Tahoma High School to further show the respect of this body for a job well done by each student and teacher.

Representative Pflug moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Pflug, Thomas, Carlson and Fortunato spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4635, by Representatives Anderson, Barlean, Skinner, Thomas and Pflug

WHEREAS, It is the policy of the Washington State Legislature to honor meritorious service and to recognize excellence in all fields of endeavor; and

WHEREAS, As modern society continues to grow more complex with each passing year, the necessity for innovative people becomes even more apparent; and

WHEREAS, No nation can function effectively without the most efficient waste management systems; and

WHEREAS, Paul F. Brewer has been a leader in the field of waste recycling as the director of Solid Waste Management at Naval Air Station Whidbey Island; and

WHEREAS, Paul F. Brewer has been the driving force behind the successful Navy Whidbey Recycle program; and

WHEREAS, The Navy Whidbey Recycle program has received numerous awards, including the White House "Closing the Loop" Award, and drawn praise from, among others, Vice President Albert Gore, Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the Office of the Federal Environmental Executive, the National Awards Council for Environmental Sustainability, the Secretary of the Navy, and the Chief of Naval Operations; and

WHEREAS, In a state already known for its innovative and progressive recycling efforts, the recycling program at Naval Air Station Whidbey stands out as a leader in waste reduction and completing the loop by encouraging the purchase of products made of recycled materials; and

WHEREAS, The Navy Whidbey Recycle program serves not only Naval Air Station Whidbey, but also its thirty-five thousand neighbors in the surrounding community; and

WHEREAS, Because of the Navy Whidbey Recycle program, Naval Air Station Whidbey and its neighbors now recycle as much as six thousand five hundred tons of material a year, saving taxpayers at least $1.5 million a year in disposal costs;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives hereby recognizes and honors the outstanding contributions to our environment and our community by Paul F. Brewer and the Navy Whidbey Recycle program; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to Mr. Paul F. Brewer.

Representative Anderson moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Anderson and Barlean spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

House Resolution No. 99-4635 was adopted.

The Flags were escorted to the Rostrum by the 1st Corps Command Color Guard. The President led the body in the Pledge of Alliance.

President Owen: "Honored members of the Legislature, Ladies and Gentlemen, the purpose of this joint session is to conduct memorial services in memory of departed former members of the Legislature. At this time, I would like to respectfully present the Honorable Val Ogden, Speaker Pro Tempore of the House of Representatives

Speaker Pro Tempore Ogden: "Father Kilian Malvey, St. Martin's Abbey, Lacey, will give the Invocation, followed by a selection performed by the Legislative Choir. The choir is a group of volunteers from the Senate and House of Representatives' members and staff, accompanied by Representative Cathy McMorris."

Father Malvey: "Gracious God of the Universe, we acknowledge and affirm the mystery of sunsets and farewells, of departures and finales as integral notes in Your divine chorus. We are thankful even for the pains of daily dying, for the daily separations, that are the counterpoint in our common lives. With gratitude, we listen to the Yearly song of Creation, the melody of Spring, Summer and Autumn which rises til the death-rest of Winter, only to begin again in the evergreen resurrection of Spring.

We take joy, as our hearts rise to You, that this divine harmony of death and life was sung by prophets and holy people, and that Your Son, Jesus, sang that song with his whole person in his death and resurrection from the tomb.

As we gather today to remember our sisters and brothers whose lives touched ours and added to the richness of our existence, we lift up into Your divine heart all those who have served Your people in our state and local communities. We ask You to grant them eternal peace and the perpetual company of Your chosen ones in Your Heavenly home.

And help us to let Your ancient and eternal song of death and life be played out in each of us, as we live out our faith that death is but a doorway that opens unto a greater and fuller expression of life, that opens to a final union with You, O Lord of Life.

Amen."

The Legislative Chorus sang "For All the Saints".

Speaker Pro Tempore Ogden called upon Speaker Pro Tempore John Pennington to preside over the Memorial Tribute.

Speaker Pro Tempore Pennington: "We are assembled today to pay tribute to the lives and services of the distinguished former members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Washington who have passed from among us.

On behalf of the people of our state, The Fifty-Sixth Legislature of the State of Washington conveys its respects to those deceased legislators who once sat in the hallowed chambers of the House and Senate, like we are doing today, answered roll calls on sometimes critical perplexing bills, attended committee meetings and above all else, served to the best of their abilities in order to make our state a better and more enjoyable place to live. While their journey in this life is completed, their achievements, records and valued services have been recorded in the journals of the Senate and House and are now and forevermore a permanent part of the history of the State of Washington.

We express our sympathies to the bereaved families and their friends and also share with them on this memorable occasion the fond and happy memories of these legislators, who served well beyond their call of duty and responsibilities and truly loved this great State of Washington. They have indeed left a legacy of dedicated service that will remain forever etched in our hearts, our memories and our legislative records."

The roll was called for the deceased former members of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Rabbi Mark Glickman, Temple Beth El, Tacoma, gave the memorial prayer.

Rabbi Glickman: "O God of all humanity, for many years, men and women have gathered in this place to do what they could to guarantee the welfare of our corner of the nation. In doing whatever possible to provide a quality education to young and old alike, to ensure the cleanliness of our air, water and land, and to help provide prosperity for us all, they have, in actuality, been doing your work O God — holy work. We pray for the continued strength of our legislators and their success in this great task. The people we have come to memorialize today gave their hearts to this great effort in many, many ways. They served on committees, they crafted legislation, they stood up for what they believed in. They, too, were part of this holy effort, and we remember them with great fondness. Though none of them were faultless, they all gave their hearts and minds to create a better society for us all, and that is what really counts.

The Jewish tradition teaches that memory is key to redemption, that by remembering our past, we can build a better tomorrow for us all. And so, we remember these members of this great body today in the hope that can allow their gifts to continue to give, that we can allow the best that was in them to help us to continue their great work. Their work remains our task; their dreams remain our challenge. We pray for the strength to continue to rise to the model that their lives set for us. Of people that such as these, Jews have traditionally said zecher tzaddik livrachah, the memory of the righteous is a blessing.

Amen."

The Legislative Chorus sang "Hymn of Promise".

Pastor Lee Forstrom, Westwood Baptist Church, Olympia, gave the closing prayer.

Pastor Forstrom: "Let's bow together for pray. Our Father, it is good that we could come this afternoon to be a part of this ceremony -- to remember and to pay tribute to these servants who have given so much of their time, energy and resources in service for this State and for its citizens. We would also pray for each one of us here that You would encourage and comfort us as we claim their memories as Your special gifts to us. May these memories instruct us, motivate us, support us and lift us. May we not forget what these people have done by serving among us. Even though death is powerful and mysterious and even at times frightening, we know because of our hope in You it does not have the last word. We are grateful that we can move on from this point realizing that You are our God, who has our future in store for us.

And so we pray that as we look to the future that we will continue to learn from the past. We thank you Our God for being sovereign, for being powerful, for being all wise and knowing that when we put our trust in You that it is never a mistake. Thank you for what You have done in our midst and we continue to pray for Your special blessing upon each of our lives.

Amen."

Secretary of State Ralph Munro and members of the Olympia Highlanders played "Amazing Grace". Echo Taps were played by the Washington State Army National Guard and American Legion Post #3.

Speaker Pro Tempore Ogden returned the gavel to Lieutenant Governor Owen to preside over the conclusion of the program.

President Owen: "Thank you, Speaker Pro Tempore Ogden, Speaker Pro Tempore Pennington and other members of our memorial committee. Our warmest gratitude to those of you who have participated in the program today. I hope that the loved ones of those we honor today will draw comfort from today's observance.

RESOLUTION

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4639, by Representatives Regala, DeBolt, Conway, Kastama, Sullivan, McDonald, Bush, Alexander, Lantz, Talcott, Carlson, Campbell, Dunn, Skinner, Hankins and Thomas

WHEREAS, March 2, 1999, marks the 100th anniversary of Mt. Rainier as a national park; and

WHEREAS, Mt. Rainier, known as Tahoma by many Indian tribes, is symbolic of Washington state itself, and is a source of great pride to state residents; and

WHEREAS, When the weather clears, and we tell each other that "the Mountain is out," everyone knows what is meant; and

WHEREAS, More than two million people visit Mt. Rainier National Park each year; and

WHEREAS, These visitors come not only from the Pacific Northwest, but from throughout the world to enjoy the scenery and wildlife; and

WHEREAS, Mt. Rainier offers year-round outdoor experiences to people of all ages and abilities; and

WHEREAS, At its summit of 14,410 feet above the sea, the approximately 10,000 people who try to reach it annually are presented with a breathtaking view of our state, and take back something that they will always remember; and

WHEREAS, The Wonderland Trail is a 93-mile loop which circles the Mountain, and takes a person from valley forests to alpine meadows and barren areas of rock and snow; and

WHEREAS, Trees nearly 1000 years old can be found in the Grove of the Patriarchs, including a Douglas fir 35 feet in circumference; and

WHEREAS, The snout of the Carbon Glacier is easily visited as the lowest elevation glacier in the lower 48 states; and

WHEREAS, Comet Falls provides 320 feet of thunder and mist, and is only 1 of 122 waterfalls contained within the park; and

WHEREAS, The fields of lupine, asters, and Indian paintbrush provide a lush setting to sight bears, mountain goats, and other wildlife; and

WHEREAS, These unspoiled views are the direct result of good stewardship and the countless hours provided by volunteers;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives join all state residents in offering congratulations to all those who work to keep Mt. Rainier National Park a national treasure, and in wishing Mt. Rainier National Park a happy 100th birthday; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Co-Chief Clerks of the House of Representatives to the Superintendent of Mt. Rainier National Park and to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior.

RESOLUTION

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4643, by Representatives Schoesler, Boldt, B. Chandler, Koster, McMorris, Mulliken, Schindler, Mielke, Delvin, McDonald, D. Schmidt, Carlson, Talcott, G. Chandler, Skinner, Pflug, Hankins, Dunn, Thomas, Ogden, Morris, Hatfield, Fortunato, Esser, Lambert, Conway, Linville and Barlean

WHEREAS, The State Land Grant Universities Cooperative Extension Service was established by Congress and the Department of Agriculture in 1914; and

WHEREAS, Out of that system grew 4-H Youth Development, an organization committed to the education and life skills of America's youth; and

WHEREAS, The term "4-H" stands for Head, Heart, Hands, and Health. "Head" conveys clearer thinking; "Heart" conveys greater loyalty; "Hands" conveys larger service; and "Health" conveys better living; and

WHEREAS, Building on its origins as corn clubs for boys and canning clubs for girls, the 4-H Youth Development Program continues to be the largest informal education program for boys and girls. Over 5.6 million youth, ages five to 19, from all fifty states and around the world in 83 countries, participate each year and develop knowledge and skills they will need to become competent, caring, productive, and contributing citizens of the world. The 4-H Program is very diverse in the project areas and educational programs it offers young people as well as in the audience it reaches; and

WHEREAS, Youth Development, in conjunction with the Cooperative Extension Service, has members in all of Washington's 39 counties; and

WHEREAS, 4-H Youth Development encourages young people to become involved in their communities in a variety of ways; and

WHEREAS, Our county fairs are excellent avenues in which members of 4-H can showcase their talents; and

WHEREAS, Youth Development has, in recent years, extended its education efforts into urban areas as well as rural areas; and

WHEREAS, Members have many choices of projects in many different education fields, including social sciences, the arts, animal sciences, family living, environmental stewardship, mechanical sciences, and the study of our natural resources; and

WHEREAS, This greatly expanded and enhanced education of 80,000 of our young people in Washington is due to the hard work and dedication of Cooperative Extension Services agents and program assistants from Washington State University, in concert with over 9,000 adult community volunteers; and

WHEREAS, We are honored that 4-H Youth Development members from all corners of our state are currently visiting the state capitol as part of an education program called "Know Your Government;"

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives welcomes those delegates, extension agents and program assistants, and adult volunteers to our state capital; and that we recognize the value of the "Know Your Government" program, as well as all of the education programs sponsored over the years by Washington State University's Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth Development.

Representative Schoesler moved adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Schoesler, Morris, D. Schmidt, Haigh, Mulliken, G. Chandler, Boldt, Linville, Kagi, Fortunato, B. Chandler, Dunn and Pflug spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 99-4642, by Representatives Mitchell, Parlette, Miloscia, Ballard, Dunn, Thomas and Skinner

WHEREAS, Sarah Baker, 16 years of age, an esteemed resident of Auburn, Washington, and a student at Thomas Jefferson High School, and Brooke Lacy, 15 years of age, an esteemed resident of East Wenatchee, Washington, and a student at Eastmont Junior High School, were named Washington's top two volunteers for 1999 in the Prudential Spirit of Community Awards; and

WHEREAS, This prestigious award, presented by The Prudential Insurance Company of America, in partnership with the National Association of Secondary School Principals, is a nation-wide awards program that, for four years now has honored young people across America who have demonstrated an extraordinary commitment to serving their communities; and

WHEREAS, Nearly 20,000 high school and middle-level students were considered for this award, and Ms. Baker and Ms. Lacy earned this award by giving generously of their time and energy to their communities. Both Ms. Baker and Ms. Lacy, as State Honorees, will each receive $1,000 awards, an engraved silver medallion, and an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. in May, where they will join the top two honorees, one middle-level and one high school youth, from each of the other states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico for several days of national recognition events. Ten of these participants will later be named America's top youth volunteers for 1999; and

WHEREAS, The success of the State of Washington, the strength of our communities, and the overall vitality of American society depend, in great measure, upon the dedication of young people like Ms. Baker and Ms. Lacy, who use their considerable talents and resources to serve others;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives hereby congratulate and honor Ms. Baker and Ms. Lacy as recipients of the Prudential Spirit of Community Award, recognize their outstanding record of volunteer service, peer leadership, and community spirit, and extend best wishes for these fine young ladies' continued success and happiness.

Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1274, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1613, by Representatives Barlean, Lovick, B. Chandler, Thomas and Rockefeller; by request of Department of Revenue

Clarifying the property tax exemption statutes.

The bill was read the second time.

"Sec. 6. RCW 28C.10.084 and 1993 c 445 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The agency shall establish, maintain, and administer a tuition recovery trust fund. All funds collected for the tuition recovery trust fund are payable to the state for the benefit and protection of any student or enrollee of a private vocational school licensed under this chapter, or, in the case of a minor, his or her parents or guardian, for purposes including but not limited to the settlement of claims related to school closures under subsection (10) of this section and the settlement of claims under RCW 28C.10.120. The fund shall be liable for settlement of claims and costs of administration but shall not be liable to pay out or recover penalties assessed under RCW 28C.10.130 or 28C.10.140. No liability accrues to the state of Washington from claims made against the fund.

(2) By June 30, 1998, a minimum operating balance of one million dollars shall be achieved in the fund and maintained thereafter. If disbursements reduce the operating balance below two hundred thousand dollars at any time before June 30, 1998, or below one million dollars thereafter, each participating entity shall be assessed a pro rata share of the deficiency created, based upon the incremental scale created under subsection (6) of this section. The agency shall adopt schedules of times and amounts for effecting payments of assessment.

(3) To be and remain licensed under this chapter each entity shall, in addition to other requirements under this chapter, make cash deposits into a tuition recovery trust fund as a means to assure payment of claims brought under this chapter.

(4) The amount of liability that can be satisfied by this fund on behalf of each individual entity licensed under this chapter shall be established by the agency, based on an incremental scale that recognizes the average amount of unearned prepaid tuition in possession of the entity. However, the minimum amount of liability for any entity shall not be less than five thousand dollars. The upper limit of liability is reestablished after any disbursements are made to settle an individual claim or class of claims.

(5) The fund's liability with respect to each participating entity commences on the date of its initial deposit into the fund and ceases one year from the date it is no longer licensed under this chapter.

(6) The agency shall adopt by rule a matrix for calculating the deposits into the fund required of each entity. Proration shall be determined by factoring the entity's share of liability in proportion to the aggregated liability of all participants under the fund by grouping such prorations under the incremental scale created by subsection (4) of this section. Expressed as a percentage of the total liability, that figure determines the amount to be contributed when factored into a fund containing one million dollars. The total amount of its prorated share, minus the amount paid for initial capitalization, shall be payable in up to twenty increments over a ten-year period, commencing with the sixth month after the entity makes its initial capitalization deposit. Additionally, the agency shall require deposits for initial capitalization, under which the amount each entity deposits is proportionate to its share of two hundred thousand dollars, employing the matrix developed under this subsection. The amount thus established shall be deposited by each applicant for initial licensing before the issuance of such license.

(7) No vested right or interests in deposited funds is created or implied for the depositor, either at any time during the operation of the fund or at any such future time that the fund may be dissolved. All funds deposited are payable to the state for the purposes described under this section. The agency shall maintain the fund, serve appropriate notices to affected entities when scheduled deposits are due, collect deposits, and make disbursements to settle claims against the fund. When the aggregated deposits total five million dollars and the history of disbursements justifies such modifications, the agency may at its own option reduce the schedule of deposits whether as to time, amount, or both and the agency may also entertain proposals from among the licensees with regard to disbursing surplus funds for such purposes as vocational scholarships.

(8) Based on annual financial data supplied by the entity the agency shall determine whether the increment assigned to that entity on the incremental scale established under subsection (6) of this section has changed. If an increase or decrease in gross annual tuition income has occurred, a corresponding change in its incremental position and contribution schedule shall be made before the date of its next scheduled deposit into the fund. Such adjustments shall only be calculated and applied annually.

(9) No deposits made into the fund by an entity are transferable. If the majority ownership interest in an entity is conveyed through sale or other means into different ownership, all contributions made to the date of transfer accrue to the fund. The new owner commences contributions under provisions applying to a new applicant, except that if ownership of an entity is transferred to an immediate family member, the entity is not required to make additional cash deposits into a tuition recovery trust fund.

(10) To settle claims adjudicated under RCW 28C.10.120 and claims resulting when a private vocational school ceases to provide educational services, the agency may make disbursements from the fund. Students enrolled under a training contract executed between a school and a public or private agency or business are not eligible to make a claim against the fund. In addition to the processes described for making reimbursements related to claims under RCW 28C.10.120, the following procedures are established to deal with reimbursements related to school closures:

(a) The agency shall attempt to notify all potential claimants. The unavailability of records and other circumstances surrounding a school closure may make it impossible or unreasonable for the agency to ascertain the names and whereabouts of each potential claimant but the agency shall make reasonable inquiries to secure that information from all likely sources. The agency shall then proceed to settle the claims on the basis of information in its possession. The agency is not responsible or liable for claims or for handling claims that may subsequently appear or be discovered.

(b) Thirty days after identified potential claimants have been notified, if a claimant refuses or neglects to file a claim verification as requested in such notice, the agency shall be relieved of further duty or action on behalf of the claimant under this chapter.

(c) After verification and review, the agency may disburse funds from the tuition recovery trust fund to settle or compromise the claims. However, the liability of the fund for claims against the closed entity shall not exceed the maximum amount of liability assigned to that entity under subsection (6) of this section.

(d) In the instance of claims against a closed school, the agency shall seek to recover such disbursed funds from the assets of the defaulted entity, including but not limited to asserting claims as a creditor in bankruptcy proceedings.

(11) When funds are disbursed to settle claims against a current licensee, the agency shall make demand upon the licensee for recovery. The agency shall adopt schedules of times and amounts for effecting recoveries. An entity's failure to perform subjects its license to suspension or revocation under RCW 28C.10.050 in addition to any other available remedies."

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively, correct any internal references accordingly, and correct the title.

Changing visitation rights in nonparental actions for child custody.

The bill was read the second time.

"Sec. 1. RCW 26.09.240 and 1996 c 177 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A person other than a parent, if the person is related to a child through consanguinity, marriage, or adoption, may petition the court for visitation with ~~((a))~~ the child at any time or may intervene in a pending dissolution, legal separation, or modification of parenting plan proceeding. ~~((A))~~ The person ~~((other than a parent))~~ may not petition for visitation under this section unless the child's parent or parents have commenced an action under this chapter.

(2) ~~((A))~~ The petition for visitation ~~((with a child by a person other than a parent))~~ must be filed in the county in which the child resides.

~~(3) ((A petition for visitation or a motion to intervene pursuant to this section shall be dismissed unless the petitioner or intervenor can demonstrate by clear and convincing evidence that a significant relationship exists with the child with whom visitation is sought. If the petition or motion is dismissed for failure to establish the existence of a significant relationship, the petitioner or intervenor shall be ordered to pay reasonable attorney's fees and costs to the parent, parents, other custodian, or representative of the child who responds to this petition or motion.~~

~~(4))~~ The court may order visitation between the petitioner or intervenor and the child ~~((between whom a significant relationship exists upon a finding supported by the evidence that the visitation is in the child's best interests.~~

~~(5)(a) Visitation with a grandparent shall be presumed to be in the child's best interests when a significant relationship has been shown to exist. This presumption may be rebutted by a preponderance of evidence showing that visitation would endanger the child's physical, mental, or emotional health.~~

~~(b) If the court finds that reasonable visitation by a grandparent would be in the child's best interest except for hostilities that exist between the grandparent and one or both of the parents or person with whom the child lives, the court may set the matter for mediation under RCW 26.09.015.~~

~~(6))~~ if the petitioner or intervenor has demonstrated by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that:

(a) A significant relationship exists with the child with whom visitation is sought;

(b) Denial of visitation would result in a substantial likelihood of harm to the child's physical, mental, or emotional well-being; and

(c) Visitation is in the child's best interests.

If the petition or motion is dismissed, the petitioner or intervenor shall be ordered to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and costs to the parent, parents, other custodian, or representative of the child who responds to the petition or motion.

(4) The court may consider the following factors when making a determination of the child's best interests:

(a) The strength of the relationship between the child and the petitioner or intervenor;

(b) The relationship between each of the child's parents or the person with whom the child is residing and the petitioner or intervenor;

(c) The nature and reason for either parent's objection to granting the petitioner or intervenor visitation;

(d) The effect that granting visitation will have on the relationship between the child and the child's parents or the person with whom the child is residing;

(e) The residential time-sharing arrangements between the parents;

(f) The good faith of the petitioner or intervenor;

(g) Any criminal history or history of physical, emotional, or sexual abuse or neglect by the petitioner or intervenor; and

(h) Any other factor relevant to the child's best interest.

~~((7))~~ (5) The restrictions of RCW 26.09.191 that apply to parents shall be applied to a petitioner or intervenor who is not a parent, but who is related to the child through consanguinity, marriage, or adoption. The nature and extent of visitation, subject to these restrictions, is in the discretion of the court.

~~((8))~~ (6) The court may order an investigation and report concerning the proposed visitation or may appoint a guardian ad litem as provided in RCW 26.09.220.

~~((9))~~ (7) Visitation granted ~~((pursuant to))~~ under this section shall be incorporated into the parenting plan for the child.

~~((10))~~ (8) The court may modify or terminate an order granting visitation ~~((rights granted pursuant to))~~ under this section in any subsequent modification action upon a showing that the visitation is no longer in the best interest of the child.

Sec. 2. RCW 26.10.160 and 1996 c 303 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A parent not granted custody of the child is entitled to reasonable visitation rights except as provided in subsection (2) of this section.

(2)(a) Visitation with the child shall be limited if it is found that the parent seeking visitation has engaged in any of the following conduct: (i) Willful abandonment that continues for an extended period of time or substantial refusal to perform parenting functions; (ii) physical, sexual, or a pattern of emotional abuse of a child; (iii) a history of acts of domestic violence as defined in RCW 26.50.010(1) or an assault or sexual assault which causes grievous bodily harm or the fear of such harm; or (iv) the parent has been convicted as an adult of a sex offense under:

(A) RCW 9A.44.076 if, because of the difference in age between the offender and the victim, no rebuttable presumption exists under (d) of this subsection;

(B) RCW 9A.44.079 if, because of the difference in age between the offender and the victim, no rebuttable presumption exists under (d) of this subsection;

(C) RCW 9A.44.086 if, because of the difference in age between the offender and the victim, no rebuttable presumption exists under (d) of this subsection;

(D) RCW 9A.44.089;

(E) RCW 9A.44.093;

(F) RCW 9A.44.096;

(G) RCW 9A.64.020 (1) or (2) if, because of the difference in age between the offender and the victim, no rebuttable presumption exists under (d) of this subsection;

(H) Chapter 9.68A RCW;

(I) Any predecessor or antecedent statute for the offenses listed in (a)(iv)(A) through (H) of this subsection;

(J) Any statute from any other jurisdiction that describes an offense analogous to the offenses listed in (a)(iv)(A) through (H) of this subsection.

This subsection (2)(a) shall not apply when (c) or (d) of this subsection applies.

(b) The parent's visitation with the child shall be limited if it is found that the parent resides with a person who has engaged in any of the following conduct: (i) Physical, sexual, or a pattern of emotional abuse of a child; (ii) a history of acts of domestic violence as defined in RCW 26.50.010(1) or an assault or sexual assault that causes grievous bodily harm or the fear of such harm; or (iii) the person has been convicted as an adult or as a juvenile has been adjudicated of a sex offense under:

(A) RCW 9A.44.076 if, because of the difference in age between the offender and the victim, no rebuttable presumption exists under (e) of this subsection;

(B) RCW 9A.44.079 if, because of the difference in age between the offender and the victim, no rebuttable presumption exists under (e) of this subsection;

(C) RCW 9A.44.086 if, because of the difference in age between the offender and the victim, no rebuttable presumption exists under (e) of this subsection;

(D) RCW 9A.44.089;

(E) RCW 9A.44.093;

(F) RCW 9A.44.096;

(G) RCW 9A.64.020 (1) or (2) if, because of the difference in age between the offender and the victim, no rebuttable presumption exists under (e) of this subsection;

(H) Chapter 9.68A RCW;

(I) Any predecessor or antecedent statute for the offenses listed in (b)(iii)(A) through (H) of this subsection;

(J) Any statute from any other jurisdiction that describes an offense analogous to the offenses listed in (b)(iii)(A) through (H) of this subsection.

This subsection (2)(b) shall not apply when (c) or (e) of this subsection applies.

(c) If a parent has been found to be a sexual predator under chapter 71.09 RCW or under an analogous statute of any other jurisdiction, the court shall restrain the parent from contact with a child that would otherwise be allowed under this chapter. If a parent resides with an adult or a juvenile who has been found to be a sexual predator under chapter 71.09 RCW or under an analogous statute of any other jurisdiction, the court shall restrain the parent from contact with the parent's child except contact that occurs outside that person's presence.

(d) There is a rebuttable presumption that a parent who has been convicted as an adult of a sex offense listed in (d)(i) through (ix) of this subsection poses a present danger to a child. Unless the parent rebuts this presumption, the court shall restrain the parent from contact with a child that would otherwise be allowed under this chapter:

(i) RCW 9A.64.020 (1) or (2), provided that the person convicted was at least five years older than the other person;

(ii) RCW 9A.44.073;

(iii) RCW 9A.44.076, provided that the person convicted was at least eight years older than the victim;

(iv) RCW 9A.44.079, provided that the person convicted was at least eight years older than the victim;

(v) RCW 9A.44.083;

(vi) RCW 9A.44.086, provided that the person convicted was at least eight years older than the victim;

(vii) RCW 9A.44.100;

(viii) Any predecessor or antecedent statute for the offenses listed in (d)(i) through (vii) of this subsection;

(ix) Any statute from any other jurisdiction that describes an offense analogous to the offenses listed in (d)(i) through (vii) of this subsection.

(e) There is a rebuttable presumption that a parent who resides with a person who, as an adult, has been convicted, or as a juvenile has been adjudicated, of the sex offenses listed in (e)(i) through (ix) of this subsection places a child at risk of abuse or harm when that parent exercises visitation in the presence of the convicted or adjudicated person. Unless the parent rebuts the presumption, the court shall restrain the parent from contact with the parent's child except for contact that occurs outside of the convicted or adjudicated person's presence:

(i) RCW 9A.64.020 (1) or (2), provided that the person convicted was at least five years older than the other person;

(ii) RCW 9A.44.073;

(iii) RCW 9A.44.076, provided that the person convicted was at least eight years older than the victim;

(iv) RCW 9A.44.079, provided that the person convicted was at least eight years older than the victim;

(v) RCW 9A.44.083;

(vi) RCW 9A.44.086, provided that the person convicted was at least eight years older than the victim;

(vii) RCW 9A.44.100;

(viii) Any predecessor or antecedent statute for the offenses listed in (e)(i) through (vii) of this subsection;

(ix) Any statute from any other jurisdiction that describes an offense analogous to the offenses listed in (e)(i) through (vii) of this subsection.

(f) The presumption established in (d) of this subsection may be rebutted only after a written finding that:

(i) If the child was not the victim of the sex offense committed by the parent requesting visitation, (A) contact between the child and the offending parent is appropriate and poses minimal risk to the child, and (B) the offending parent has successfully engaged in treatment for sex offenders or is engaged in and making progress in such treatment, if any was ordered by a court, and the treatment provider believes such contact is appropriate and poses minimal risk to the child; or

(ii) If the child was the victim of the sex offense committed by the parent requesting visitation, (A) contact between the child and the offending parent is appropriate and poses minimal risk to the child, (B) if the child is in or has been in therapy for victims of sexual abuse, the child's counselor believes such contact between the child and the offending parent is in the child's best interest, and (C) the offending parent has successfully engaged in treatment for sex offenders or is engaged in and making progress in such treatment, if any was ordered by a court, and the treatment provider believes such contact is appropriate and poses minimal risk to the child.

(g) The presumption established in (e) of this subsection may be rebutted only after a written finding that:

(i) If the child was not the victim of the sex offense committed by the person who is residing with the parent requesting visitation, (A) contact between the child and the parent residing with the convicted or adjudicated person is appropriate and that parent is able to protect the child in the presence of the convicted or adjudicated person, and (B) the convicted or adjudicated person has successfully engaged in treatment for sex offenders or is engaged in and making progress in such treatment, if any was ordered by a court, and the treatment provider believes such contact is appropriate and poses minimal risk to the child; or

(ii) If the child was the victim of the sex offense committed by the person who is residing with the parent requesting visitation, (A) contact between the child and the parent in the presence of the convicted or adjudicated person is appropriate and poses minimal risk to the child, (B) if the child is in or has been in therapy for victims of sexual abuse, the child's counselor believes such contact between the child and the parent residing with the convicted or adjudicated person in the presence of the convicted or adjudicated person is in the child's best interest, and (C) the convicted or adjudicated person has successfully engaged in treatment for sex offenders or is engaged in and making progress in such treatment, if any was ordered by a court, and the treatment provider believes contact between the parent and child in the presence of the convicted or adjudicated person is appropriate and poses minimal risk to the child.

(h) If the court finds that the parent has met the burden of rebutting the presumption under (f) of this subsection, the court may allow a parent who has been convicted as an adult of a sex offense listed in (d)(i) through (ix) of this subsection to have visitation with the child supervised by a neutral and independent adult and pursuant to an adequate plan for supervision of such visitation. The court shall not approve of a supervisor for contact between the child and the parent unless the court finds, based on the evidence, that the supervisor is willing and capable of protecting the child from harm. The court shall revoke court approval of the supervisor upon finding, based on the evidence, that the supervisor has failed to protect the child or is no longer willing or capable of protecting the child.

(i) If the court finds that the parent has met the burden of rebutting the presumption under (g) of this subsection, the court may allow a parent residing with a person who has been adjudicated as a juvenile of a sex offense listed in (e)(i) through (ix) of this subsection to have visitation with the child in the presence of the person adjudicated as a juvenile, supervised by a neutral and independent adult and pursuant to an adequate plan for supervision of such visitation. The court shall not approve of a supervisor for contact between the child and the parent unless the court finds, based on the evidence, that the supervisor is willing and capable of protecting the child from harm. The court shall revoke court approval of the supervisor upon finding, based on the evidence, that the supervisor has failed to protect the child or is no longer willing or capable of protecting the child.

(j) If the court finds that the parent has met the burden of rebutting the presumption under (g) of this subsection, the court may allow a parent residing with a person who, as an adult, has been convicted of a sex offense listed in (e)(i) through (ix) of this subsection to have visitation with the child in the presence of the convicted person supervised by a neutral and independent adult and pursuant to an adequate plan for supervision of such visitation. The court shall not approve of a supervisor for contact between the child and the parent unless the court finds, based on the evidence, that the supervisor is willing and capable of protecting the child from harm. The court shall revoke court approval of the supervisor upon finding, based on the evidence, that the supervisor has failed to protect the child or is no longer willing or capable of protecting the child.

(k) A court shall not order unsupervised contact between the offending parent and a child of the offending parent who was sexually abused by that parent. A court may order unsupervised contact between the offending parent and a child who was not sexually abused by the parent after the presumption under (d) of this subsection has been rebutted and supervised visitation has occurred for at least two years with no further arrests or convictions of sex offenses involving children under chapter 9A.44 RCW, RCW 9A.64.020, or chapter 9.68A RCW and (i) the sex offense of the offending parent was not committed against a child of the offending parent, and (ii) the court finds that unsupervised contact between the child and the offending parent is appropriate and poses minimal risk to the child, after consideration of the testimony of a state-certified therapist, mental health counselor, or social worker with expertise in treating child sexual abuse victims who has supervised at least one period of visitation between the parent and the child, and after consideration of evidence of the offending parent's compliance with community supervision requirements, if any. If the offending parent was not ordered by a court to participate in treatment for sex offenders, then the parent shall obtain a psychosexual evaluation conducted by a state-certified sex offender treatment provider indicating that the offender has the lowest likelihood of risk to reoffend before the court grants unsupervised contact between the parent and a child.

(l) A court may order unsupervised contact between the parent and a child which may occur in the presence of a juvenile adjudicated of a sex offense listed in (e)(i) through (ix) of this subsection who resides with the parent after the presumption under (e) of this subsection has been rebutted and supervised visitation has occurred for at least two years during which time the adjudicated juvenile has had no further arrests, adjudications, or convictions of sex offenses involving children under chapter 9A.44 RCW, RCW 9A.64.020, or chapter 9.68A RCW, and (i) the court finds that unsupervised contact between the child and the parent that may occur in the presence of the adjudicated juvenile is appropriate and poses minimal risk to the child, after consideration of the testimony of a state-certified therapist, mental health counselor, or social worker with expertise in treatment of child sexual abuse victims who has supervised at least one period of visitation between the parent and the child in the presence of the adjudicated juvenile, and after consideration of evidence of the adjudicated juvenile's compliance with community supervision or parole requirements, if any. If the adjudicated juvenile was not ordered by a court to participate in treatment for sex offenders, then the adjudicated juvenile shall obtain a psychosexual evaluation conducted by a state-certified sex offender treatment provider indicating that the adjudicated juvenile has the lowest likelihood of risk to reoffend before the court grants unsupervised contact between the parent and a child which may occur in the presence of the adjudicated juvenile who is residing with the parent.

(m)(i) The limitations imposed by the court under (a) or (b) of this subsection shall be reasonably calculated to protect the child from the physical, sexual, or emotional abuse or harm that could result if the child has contact with the parent requesting visitation. If the court expressly finds based on the evidence that limitations on visitation with the child will not adequately protect the child from the harm or abuse that could result if the child has contact with the parent requesting visitation, the court shall restrain the person seeking visitation from all contact with the child.

(ii) The court shall not enter an order under (a) of this subsection allowing a parent to have contact with a child if the parent has been found by clear and convincing evidence in a civil action or by a preponderance of the evidence in a dependency action to have sexually abused the child, except upon recommendation by an evaluator or therapist for the child that the child is ready for contact with the parent and will not be harmed by the contact. The court shall not enter an order allowing a parent to have contact with the child in the offender's presence if the parent resides with a person who has been found by clear and convincing evidence in a civil action or by a preponderance of the evidence in a dependency action to have sexually abused a child, unless the court finds that the parent accepts that the person engaged in the harmful conduct and the parent is willing to and capable of protecting the child from harm from the person.

(iii) If the court limits visitation under (a) or (b) of this subsection to require supervised contact between the child and the parent, the court shall not approve of a supervisor for contact between a child and a parent who has engaged in physical, sexual, or a pattern of emotional abuse of the child unless the court finds based upon the evidence that the supervisor accepts that the harmful conduct occurred and is willing to and capable of protecting the child from harm. The court shall revoke court approval of the supervisor upon finding, based on the evidence, that the supervisor has failed to protect the child or is no longer willing to or capable of protecting the child.

(n) If the court expressly finds based on the evidence that contact between the parent and the child will not cause physical, sexual, or emotional abuse or harm to the child and that the probability that the parent's or other person's harmful or abusive conduct will recur is so remote that it would not be in the child's best interests to apply the limitations of (a), (b), and (m)(i) and (iii) of this subsection, or if the court expressly finds that the parent's conduct did not have an impact on the child, then the court need not apply the limitations of (a), (b), and (m)(i) and (iii) of this subsection. The weight given to the existence of a protection order issued under chapter 26.50 RCW as to domestic violence is within the discretion of the court. This subsection shall not apply when (c), (d), (e), (f), (g), (h), (i), (j), (k), (l), and (m)(ii) of this subsection apply.

(3)(a) Any person who is related to a child through consanguinity, marriage, or adoption may petition the court for visitation (~~(rights)~~) with the child at any time including, but not limited to, custody proceedings. The court may order visitation (~~(rights for any person when visitation may serve the best interest of the child)~~) between the petitioner and the child whether or not there has been any change of circumstances if the petitioner has demonstrated by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that:

(i) A significant relationship exists with the child with whom visitation is sought;

(ii) Denial of visitation would result in a substantial likelihood of harm to the child's physical, mental, or emotional well-being; and

(iii) Visitation is in the child's best interests.

If the petition is dismissed, the petitioner shall be ordered to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and costs to the parent, parents, other custodian, or representative of the child who responds to the petition.

~~((4))~~ (b) The court may consider the following factors when making a determination of the child's best interests:

(i) The strength of the relationship between the child and the petitioner;

(ii) The relationship between each of the child's parents or the person with whom the child is residing and the petitioner;

(iii) The nature and reason for either parent's objection to granting the petitioner visitation;

(iv) The effect that granting visitation will have on the relationship between the child and the child's parents or the person with whom the child is residing;

(v) The residential time-sharing arrangements between the parents;

(vi) The good faith of the petitioner;

(vii) Any criminal history or history of physical, emotional, or sexual abuse or neglect by the petitioner; and

(viii) Any other factor relevant to the child's best interest.

(c) The restrictions of RCW 26.09.191 that apply to parents shall be applied to a petitioner or intervenor who is not a parent, but who is related to the child through consanguinity, marriage, or adoption. The nature and extent of visitation, subject to these restrictions, is in the discretion of the court.

(4) Visitation granted under this section shall be incorporated into the parenting plan for the child.

(5) The court may modify or terminate an order granting (~~(or denying)~~) visitation rights whenever modification or termination would serve the best interests of the child. Modification of a parent's visitation rights shall be subject to the requirements of subsection (2) of this section.

~~((5))~~ (6) For the purposes of this section, a parent's child means that parent's natural child, adopted child, or stepchild.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and takes effect immediately."

Representative Talcott moved the adoption of amendment (084) to the amendment (056):

On page 3, line 5 of the amendment, after "child." insert "If the court grants visitation under this section, the court shall ensure that the visitation time granted is divided between the primary residential parent and the nonprimary residential parent in an amount proportionate to the time awarded each parent under the parenting plan, unless such arrangement is found by the court not to be in the best interest of the child in maintaining contact with both parents."

On page 12, line 2 of the amendment, after "child." insert "If the court grants visitation under this section, the court shall ensure that the visitation time granted is divided between the primary residential parent and the nonprimary residential parent in an amount proportionate to the time awarded each parent under the parenting plan, unless such arrangement is found by the court not to be in the best interest of the child in maintaining contact with both parents."

HOUSE BILL NO. 2232, by Representatives Conway and Clements

Addressing occupational safety and health impact grants.

The bill was read the second time.

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. (1) The director, in consultation with the WISHA advisory committee, shall establish a program to provide safety and health impact grants to prevent injuries and illnesses, save lives, and educate Washington employees and employers about workplace hazards and safe workplace practices. The intent of this act is to benefit, in the broadest sense possible, Washington workers and employers, especially those who are in small business and may lack the injury and illness prevention resources that larger companies may possess. The department may use appropriated industrial insurance funds to accomplish the purpose of this act. Funding for this program will be taken from the reserves of the medical aid fund which are in excess of actuarial needs.

(2) Using a competitive application process, the department shall award safety and health impact grants to trade associations, business associations, employers, employee organizations, labor unions and groups of employees. The grants may include:

(a) Education and training grants to implement safety and health and to provide practical information, curricula, materials, and methods intended for use by employers and employees in reducing workplace hazards;

(b) Technical innovation grants to develop engineering and other technical solutions to injury and illness problems;

(c) Best practice grants for the application of hazard control; or

(d) State-wide priority grants to undertake innovative programs that address state-wide safety and health priorities established by the WISHA advisory committee.

(3) Applicants for grants may form partnerships with educational institutions and other organizations. Applicants for grants may form partnerships with self-insured employers if the product of the grant will significantly benefit employees and employers who belong to the state industrial insurance fund.

(4) Any materials, designs, or equipment developed under these grants will be in the public domain and may not be copyrighted or patented. Any materials or designs developed under these grants shall be provided to the department at no charge as a condition of grant receipt.

(5) Grants may not be used to support or develop specific legislative or regulatory initiatives.

(6) WISHA services may not use information contained in a grant application for inspection activity or to establish a recognized hazard for citation purposes.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) The director shall appoint a safety and health impact grant review committee that will be a subcommittee of the WISHA advisory committee. The review committee is composed of nine members: Four members representing employees, each appointed from a list of at least three names per position, submitted by recognized state-wide organizations of employees; four members representing employers, each appointed from a list of at least three names per position, submitted by recognized state-wide organizations of employers; and one ex officio member, without a vote, who shall represent the department. The committee chair shall be chosen by the review committee and shall alternate between business and labor. The committee members shall serve three-year renewable terms.

(2) Business and labor members of the safety and health impact grant review committee are entitled to expenses as provided under RCW 43.03.050 and 43.03.060.

(3) The safety and health impact grant review committee shall:

(a) Prepare requests for proposals;

(b) Receive, review, and process grant applications;

(c) Identify, by two-thirds majority vote, grant applications that merit funding and forward those applications to the director; and

(d) Identify, by two-thirds majority vote, funded grants that meet criteria for suspension or revocation and forward those grants to the director.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) The safety and health impact grant review committee, in cooperation with the director, shall develop grant application procedures and approval criteria. The director shall ensure the proper administrative support to successfully monitor grant recipients for compliance with grant criteria and all other procedures under the grant program. The director in cooperation with the safety and health impact grant review committee shall implement procedures and criteria for grant approval, including procedures for suspension or revocation of grants to recipients failing to comply with grant criteria established under the authority of this section.

(2) The director shall approve only those grant applications and their recommended acceptance conditions as forwarded by the safety and health impact grant review committee, unless the director has a compelling and substantive reason to reject an application, whereupon the director shall provide written explanation for the denial to the review committee. The safety and health impact grant review committee shall review any grant applications rejected by the director and may advise the director to reconsider. The director shall consider the advice, if given, and shall approve the grant application with any conditions presented by the safety and health impact grant review committee. The director may reject that advice only for a compelling and substantive reason. If the director rejects that advice, the safety and health impact grant review committee may refer the application to the WISHA advisory committee. The WISHA advisory committee shall review the application and may advise the director to reconsider.

(3) The director may revoke or suspend an issued grant if advised by the safety and health impact grant review committee that the recipient is not in compliance with grant criteria or procedures. The director may suspend an issued grant without the advice of the safety and health impact grant review committee only for a compelling and substantive reason and the suspension recommendation shall be presented to the safety and health impact grant review committee for its consideration.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. The department and the safety and health impact grant review committee will present an annual review regarding the activities of the safety and health impact grant program to the WISHA advisory committee, the workers' compensation advisory committee, and make it available to the appropriate standing committees of the legislature. Based on a recommendation of the WISHA advisory committee, the workers' compensation advisory committee shall make a biennial recommendation to the director concerning an appropriate budget for the program.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The director and representatives from the WISHA advisory committee shall perform a comprehensive review of the grant program which shall include, but not be limited to, reported outcomes, injury reduction, and safety awareness and shall issue a report for the legislature by December 31, 2004.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. The following acts or parts of acts, as now existing or hereafter amended, are each repealed, effective July 1, 2005:

- (1) Section 1 of this act;
- (2) Section 2 of this act;
- (3) Section 3 of this act;
- (4) Section 4 of this act; and
- (5) Section 5 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. Sections 1 through 6 of this act are each added to chapter 49.17 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. If specific funding for the purposes of this act, referencing this act by bill or chapter number, is not provided by June 30, 1999, in the omnibus appropriations act, this act is null and void."

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"PART I
TITLE 75
Amendments

Sec. 1. RCW 75.08.012 and 1983 1st ex.s. c 46 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

Wildlife, fish, and shellfish are the property of the state. The commission, director, and the department shall preserve, protect, perpetuate and manage the ((food)) fish and shellfish in state waters and offshore waters.

The department shall conserve the ((food)) fish and shellfish resources in a manner that does not impair the resource. In a manner consistent with this goal, the department shall seek to maintain the economic well-being and stability of the fishing industry in the state. The department shall promote orderly fisheries and shall enhance and improve recreational and commercial fishing in this state.

The commission may authorize the taking of wildlife, fish, and shellfish only at times or places, or in manners or quantities as in the judgment of the commission maximizes public recreational opportunities without impairing the supply of these resources. The commission shall attempt to maximize the public recreational fishing and hunting opportunities of all citizens, including juvenile, handicapped, and senior citizens.

Recognizing that the management of our state fish, wildlife, and shellfish resources depends heavily on the assistance of volunteers, the department shall work cooperatively with volunteer groups and individuals to achieve the goals of this title to the greatest extent possible.

Nothing in this title shall be construed to infringe on the right of a private property owner to control the owner's private property.

Sec. 2. RCW 75.08.020 and 1988 c 36 s 31 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The director shall investigate the habits, supply, and economic use of food fish and shellfish in state and offshore waters.

(2) The director shall make an annual report to the governor on the operation of the department and the statistics of the fishing industry.

(3) Subject to RCW 40.07.040, the director shall provide a comprehensive biennial report of all departmental operations to the chairs of the committees on natural resources ~~((and ways and means))~~ of the senate and house of representatives, the senate ways and means committee, and the house of representatives appropriations committee, including one copy to the staff of each of the committees, to reflect the previous fiscal period. The format of the report shall be similar to reports issued by the department from 1964-1970 and the report shall include, but not be limited to, descriptions of all department activities including: Revenues generated, program costs, capital expenditures, personnel, special projects, new and ongoing research, environmental controls, cooperative projects, intergovernmental agreements, and outlines of ongoing litigation, recent court decisions and orders on major issues with the potential for state liability. The report shall describe the status of the resource and its recreational, commercial, and tribal utilization. The report ~~((shall be given to the house and senate committees on ways and means and the house and senate committees on natural resources and))~~ shall be made available to the public.

Sec. 3. RCW 75.08.045 and 1995 1st sp.s. c 2 s 24 are each amended to read as follows:

The (~~commission~~) director may accept money or real property from persons under conditions requiring the use of the property or money for the protection, rehabilitation, preservation, or conservation of the state wildlife, food fish, and shellfish resources, or in settlement of claims for damages to wildlife, food fish, and shellfish resources. The (~~commission~~) director shall only accept real property useful for the protection, rehabilitation, preservation, or conservation of these fisheries resources.

Sec. 4. RCW 75.08.055 and 1995 1st sp.s. c 2 s 8 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The commission may enter into agreements with and receive funds from the United States for the construction, maintenance, and operation of fish cultural stations, laboratories, and devices in the Columbia River basin for improvement of feeding and spawning conditions for fish, for the protection of migratory fish from irrigation projects and for facilitating free migration of fish over obstructions.

(2) The (~~commission~~) director and the department may acquire by gift, purchase, lease, easement, or condemnation the use of lands where the construction or improvement is to be carried on by the United States.

Sec. 5. RCW 75.08.080 and 1995 1st sp.s. c 2 s 11 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The commission may adopt, amend, or repeal rules as follows:

(a) Specifying the times when the taking of wildlife, food fish, or shellfish is lawful or unlawful.

(b) Specifying the areas and waters in which the taking and possession of wildlife, food fish, or shellfish is lawful or unlawful.

(c) Specifying and defining the gear, appliances, or other equipment and methods that may be used to take wildlife, food fish, or shellfish, and specifying the times, places, and manner in which the equipment may be used or possessed.

(d) Regulating the possession, disposal, landing, and sale of wildlife, food fish, or shellfish within the state, whether acquired within or without the state.

(e) Regulating the prevention and suppression of diseases and pests affecting wildlife, food fish, or shellfish.

(f) Regulating the size, sex, species, and quantities of wildlife, food fish, or shellfish that may be taken, possessed, sold, or disposed of.

(g) Specifying the statistical and biological reports required from fishermen, dealers, boathouses, or processors of wildlife, food fish, or shellfish.

(h) Classifying species of marine and freshwater life as wildlife, food fish, or shellfish.

(i) Classifying the species of wildlife, food fish, and shellfish that may be used for purposes other than human consumption.

(j) Other rules necessary to carry out this title and the purposes and duties of the department.

(2) Subsections (1)(a), (b), (c), (d), and (f) of this section do not apply to private tideland owners and lessees and the immediate family members of the owners or lessees of state tidelands, when they take or possess oysters, clams, cockles, borers, or mussels, excluding razor clams, produced on their own private tidelands or their leased state tidelands for personal use.

"Immediate family member" for the purposes of this section means a spouse, brother, sister, grandparent, parent, child, or grandchild.

(3) Except for subsection (1)(g) of this section, this section does not apply to private sector cultured aquatic products as defined in RCW 15.85.020. Subsection (1)(g) of this section does apply to such products.

Sec. 6. RCW 75.08.206 and 1983 1st ex.s. c 46 s 20 are each amended to read as follows:

The director shall provide compensation insurance for (~~fisheries patrol~~) fish and wildlife officers, insuring these employees against injury or death in the performance of enforcement duties not covered under the workers' compensation act of the state. The beneficiaries and the compensation and benefits under the compensation insurance shall be the same as provided in chapter 51.32 RCW, and the compensation insurance also shall provide for medical aid and hospitalization to the extent and amount as provided in RCW 51.36.010 and 51.36.020.

Sec. 7. RCW 75.08.208 and 1983 1st ex.s. c 46 s 22 are each amended to read as follows:

The director shall relieve from active duty (~~(fisheries patrol)~~) fish and wildlife officers who are injured in the performance of their official duties to such an extent as to be incapable of active service. While relieved from active duty, the employees shall receive one-half of their salary less any compensation received through the provisions of RCW 41.40.200, 41.40.220, and 75.08.206 (as recodified by this act).

Sec. 8. RCW 75.08.230 and 1996 c 267 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Except as provided in this (~~(section)~~) title, state and county officers receiving the following moneys shall deposit them in the state general fund:

(a) The sale of commercial licenses required under this title, except for licenses issued under chapter 77.32 RCW; and

~~(b) ((The sale of property seized or confiscated under this title;~~

~~(c) Fines and forfeitures collected under this title;~~

~~(d) The sale of real or personal property held for department purposes;~~

~~(e) Rentals or concessions of the department;~~

~~(f)) Moneys received for damages to food fish, shellfish or department property(~~(; and~~~~

~~(g) Gifts)).~~

(2) The director shall make weekly remittances to the state treasurer of moneys collected by the department.

(3) All fines and forfeitures collected or assessed by a district court for a violation of this title or rule of the department shall be remitted as provided in chapter 3.62 RCW.

(4) Proceeds from the sale of food fish or shellfish taken in test fishing conducted by the department, to the extent that these proceeds exceed the estimates in the budget approved by the legislature, may be allocated as unanticipated receipts under RCW 43.79.270 to reimburse the department for unanticipated costs for test fishing operations in excess of the allowance in the budget approved by the legislature.

(5) Proceeds from the sale of salmon carcasses and salmon eggs from state general funded hatcheries by the department of general administration shall be deposited in the regional fisheries enhancement group account established in RCW 75.50.100 (as recodified by this act).

(6) Moneys received by the commission under RCW 75.08.045 (as recodified by this act), to the extent these moneys exceed estimates in the budget approved by the legislature, may be allocated as unanticipated receipts under RCW 43.79.270. Allocations under this subsection shall be made only for the specific purpose for which the moneys were received, unless the moneys were received in settlement of a claim for damages to food fish or shellfish, in which case the moneys may be expended for the conservation of these resources.

(7) Proceeds from the sale of herring spawn on kelp fishery licenses by the department, to the extent those proceeds exceed estimates in the budget approved by the legislature, may be allocated as unanticipated receipts under RCW 43.79.270. Allocations under this subsection shall be made only for herring management, enhancement, and enforcement.

Sec. 9. RCW 75.08.245 and 1988 c 115 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The department may supply, at a reasonable charge, surplus salmon eggs to a person for use in the cultivation of salmon. The department shall not intentionally create a surplus of salmon to provide eggs for sale. The department shall only sell salmon eggs from stocks that are not suitable for salmon population rehabilitation or enhancement in state waters in Washington. All sales or transfers shall be consistent with the department's egg transfer and aquaculture disease control regulations as now existing or hereafter amended. Prior to department determination that eggs of a salmon stock are surplus and available for sale, the department shall assess the productivity of each watershed that is suitable for receiving eggs.

~~((The salmon enhancement advisory council, created in RCW 75.48.120, shall consider egg sales at each meeting.))~~

Sec. 10. RCW 75.10.150 and 1996 c 267 s 14 are each amended to read as follows:

Since violation of the rules of the department relating to the accounting of the commercial harvest of food fish and shellfish result in damage to the resources of the state, liability for damage to food fish and shellfish resources is imposed on a wholesale fish dealer for violation of a provision in chapter 75.28 RCW (as recodified by this act) or a rule of the department related to the accounting of the commercial harvest of food fish and shellfish and shall be for the actual damages or for damages imposed as follows:

(1) For violation of rules requiring the timely presentation to the department of documents relating to the accounting of commercial harvest, fifty dollars for each of the first fifteen documents in a series and ten dollars for each subsequent document in the same series. If documents relating to the accounting of commercial harvest of food fish and shellfish are lost or destroyed and the wholesale dealer notifies the department in writing within seven days of the loss or destruction, the director shall waive the requirement for timely presentation of the documents.

(2) For violation of rules requiring accurate and legible information relating to species, value, harvest area, or amount of harvest, twenty-five dollars for each of the first five violations of this subsection following July 28, 1985, and fifty dollars for each violation after the first five violations.

(3) For violations of rules requiring certain signatures, fifty dollars for each of the first two violations and one hundred dollars for each subsequent violation. For the purposes of this subsection, each signature is a separate requirement.

(4) For other violations of rules relating to the accounting of the commercial harvest, fifty dollars for each separate violation.

Sec. 11. RCW 75.12.230 and 1998 c 190 s 81 are each amended to read as follows:

Within the waters described in RCW 75.12.210 (as recodified by this act), a person shall not transport or possess salmon on board a vessel carrying fishing gear of a type other than troll lines or angling gear, unless accompanied by a certificate issued by a state or country showing that the salmon have been lawfully taken within the territorial waters of the state or country.

Sec. 12. RCW 75.20.040 and 1998 c 190 s 85 are each amended to read as follows:

A diversion device used for conducting water from a lake, river, or stream for any purpose shall be equipped at or near its intake with a fish guard approved by the director to prevent the passage of fish into the diversion device. A person shall not divert water from a lake, river, or stream unless the diversion device is equipped with the fish guard. The fish guard shall be maintained at all times when water is taken into the diversion device. The fish guards shall be installed at places and times prescribed by the director upon thirty days' notice to the owner of the diversion device.

~~((Each day the diversion device is not equipped with an approved fish guard is a separate offense.))~~ If within thirty days after notice to equip a diversion device the owner fails to do so, the director may take possession of the diversion device and close the device until it is properly equipped. Expenses incurred by the department constitute the value of a lien upon the diversion device and upon the real and personal property of the owner. Notice of the lien shall be filed and recorded in the office of the county auditor of the county in which the action is taken.

Sec. 13. RCW 75.20.061 and 1983 1st ex.s. c 46 s 73 are each amended to read as follows:

If the director determines that a fishway or fish guard described in RCW 75.20.040 and 75.20.060 (as recodified by this act) and in existence on September 1, 1963, is inadequate, in addition to other authority granted in this chapter, the director may remove, relocate, reconstruct, or modify the device, without cost to the owner. The director shall not materially modify the amount of flow of water through the device. After the department has completed the improvements, the fishways and fish guards shall be operated and maintained at the expense of the owner in accordance with RCW 75.20.040 and 75.20.060 (as recodified by this act).

Sec. 14. RCW 75.20.098 and 1997 c 424 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

When reviewing a mitigation plan under RCW 75.20.100 or 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act), the department shall, at the request of the project proponent, follow the guidance contained in RCW 90.74.005 through 90.74.030.

Sec. 15. RCW 75.20.100 and 1998 c 190 s 87 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) In the event that any person or government agency desires to construct any form of hydraulic project or perform other work that will use, divert, obstruct, or change the natural flow or bed of any of the salt or fresh waters of the state, such person or government agency shall, before commencing construction or work thereon and to ensure the proper protection of fish life, secure the approval of the department as to the adequacy of the means proposed for the protection of fish life. This approval shall not be unreasonably withheld.

(2)(a) Except as provided in RCW 75.20.1001 (as recodified by this act), the department shall grant or deny approval of a standard permit within forty-five calendar days of the receipt of a complete application and notice of compliance with any applicable requirements of the state environmental policy act, made in the manner prescribed in this section.

(b) The applicant may document receipt of application by filing in person or by registered mail. A complete application for approval shall contain general plans for the overall project, complete plans and specifications of the proposed construction or work within the mean higher high water line in salt water or within the ordinary high water line in fresh water, and complete plans and specifications for the proper protection of fish life.

(c) The forty-five day requirement shall be suspended if:

(i) After ten working days of receipt of the application, the applicant remains unavailable or unable to arrange for a timely field evaluation of the proposed project;

(ii) The site is physically inaccessible for inspection; or

(iii) The applicant requests delay. Immediately upon determination that the forty-five day period is suspended, the department shall notify the applicant in writing of the reasons for the delay.

(d) For purposes of this section, "standard permit" means a written permit issued by the department when the conditions under subsections (3) and (5)(b) of this section are not met.

(3)(a) The department may issue an expedited written permit in those instances where normal permit processing would result in significant hardship for the applicant or unacceptable damage to the environment. In cases of imminent danger, the department shall issue an expedited written permit, upon request, for work to repair existing structures, move obstructions, restore banks, protect property, or protect fish resources. Expedited permit requests require a complete written application as provided in subsection (2)(b) of this section and shall be issued within fifteen calendar days of the receipt of a complete written application. Approval of an expedited permit is valid for up to sixty days from the date of issuance.

(b) For the purposes of this subsection, "imminent danger" means a threat by weather, water flow, or other natural conditions that is likely to occur within sixty days of a request for a permit application.

(c) The department may not require the provisions of the state environmental policy act, chapter 43.21C RCW, to be met as a condition of issuing a permit under this subsection.

(d) The department or the county legislative authority may determine if an imminent danger exists. The county legislative authority shall notify the department, in writing, if it determines that an imminent danger exists.

(4) Approval of a standard permit is valid for a period of up to five years from date of issuance. The permittee must demonstrate substantial progress on construction of that portion of the project relating to the approval within two years of the date of issuance. If the department denies approval, the department shall provide the applicant, in writing, a statement of the specific reasons why and how the proposed project would adversely affect fish life. Protection of fish life shall be the only ground upon which approval may be denied or conditioned. Chapter 34.05 RCW applies to any denial of project approval, conditional approval, or requirements for project modification upon which approval may be contingent.

(5)(a) In case of an emergency arising from weather or stream flow conditions or other natural conditions, the department, through its authorized representatives, shall issue immediately, upon request, oral approval for removing any obstructions, repairing existing structures, restoring stream banks, or to protect property threatened by the stream or a change in the stream flow without the necessity of obtaining a written approval prior to commencing work. Conditions of an oral approval to protect fish life shall be established by the department and reduced to writing within thirty days and complied with as provided for in this section. Oral approval shall be granted immediately, upon request, for a stream crossing during an emergency situation.

(b) For purposes of this section and RCW 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act), "emergency" means an immediate threat to life, the public, property, or of environmental degradation.

(c) The department or the county legislative authority may declare and continue an emergency when one or more of the criteria under (b) of this subsection are met. The county legislative authority shall immediately notify the department if it declares an emergency under this subsection.

(6) The department shall, at the request of a county, develop five-year maintenance approval agreements, consistent with comprehensive flood control management plans adopted under the authority of RCW 86.12.200, or other watershed plan approved by a county legislative authority, to allow for work on public and private property for bank stabilization, bridge repair, removal of sand bars and debris, channel maintenance, and other flood damage repair and reduction activity under agreed-upon conditions and times without obtaining permits for specific projects.

(7) This section shall not apply to the construction of any form of hydraulic project or other work which diverts water for agricultural irrigation or stock watering purposes authorized under or recognized as being valid by the state's water codes, or when such hydraulic project or other work is associated with streambank stabilization to protect farm and agricultural land as defined in RCW 84.34.020. These irrigation or stock watering diversion and streambank stabilization projects shall be governed by RCW 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act).

A landscape management plan approved by the department and the department of natural resources under RCW 76.09.350(2), shall serve as a hydraulic project approval for the life of the plan if fish are selected as one of the public resources for coverage under such a plan.

(8) For the purposes of this section and RCW 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act), "bed" means the land below the ordinary high water lines of state waters. This definition does not include irrigation ditches, canals, storm water run-off devices, or other artificial watercourses except where they exist in a natural watercourse that has been altered by man.

(9) The phrase "to construct any form of hydraulic project or perform other work" does not include the act of driving across an established ford. Driving across streams or on wetted stream beds at areas other than established fords requires approval. Work within the ordinary high water line of state waters to construct or repair a ford or crossing requires approval.

Sec. 16. RCW 75.20.1001 and 1993 sp.s. c 2 s 31 are each amended to read as follows:

The department shall process hydraulic project applications submitted under RCW 75.20.100 or 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act) within thirty days of receipt of the application. This requirement is only applicable for the repair and reconstruction of legally constructed dikes, seawalls, and other flood control structures damaged as a result of flooding or windstorms that occurred in November and December 1990.

Sec. 17. RCW 75.20.104 and 1993 sp.s. c 2 s 33 are each amended to read as follows:

Whenever the placement of woody debris is required as a condition of a hydraulic permit approval issued pursuant to RCW 75.20.100 or 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act), the department, upon request, shall invite comment regarding that placement from the local governmental authority, affected tribes, affected federal and state agencies, and the project applicant.

Sec. 18. RCW 75.20.1041 and 1993 sp.s. c 2 s 34 are each amended to read as follows:

The department and the department of ecology will work cooperatively with the United States army corps of engineers to develop a memorandum of agreement outlining dike vegetation management guidelines so that dike owners are eligible for coverage under P.L. 84-99, and state requirements established pursuant to RCW 75.20.100 and 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act) are met.

Sec. 19. RCW 75.20.106 and 1993 sp.s. c 2 s 35 are each amended to read as follows:

The department may levy civil penalties of up to one hundred dollars per day for violation of any provisions of RCW 75.20.100 or 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act). The penalty provided shall be imposed by notice in writing, either by certified mail or personal service to the person incurring the penalty, from the director or the director's designee describing the violation. Any person incurring any penalty under this chapter may appeal the same under chapter 34.05 RCW to the director. Appeals shall be filed within thirty days of receipt of notice imposing any penalty. The penalty imposed shall become due and payable thirty days after receipt of a notice imposing the penalty unless an appeal is filed. Whenever an appeal of any penalty incurred under this chapter is filed, the penalty shall become due and payable only upon completion of all review proceedings and the issuance of a final order confirming the penalty in whole or in part.

If the amount of any penalty is not paid within thirty days after it becomes due and payable the attorney general, upon the request of the director shall bring an action in the name of the state of Washington in the superior court of Thurston county or of any county in which such violator may do business, to recover such penalty. In all such actions the procedure and rules of evidence shall be the same as an ordinary civil action. All penalties recovered under this section shall be paid into the state's general fund.

Sec. 20. RCW 75.20.130 and 1996 c 276 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) There is hereby created within the environmental hearings office under RCW 43.21B.005 the hydraulic appeals board of the state of Washington.

(2) The hydraulic appeals board shall consist of three members: The director of the department of ecology or the director's designee, the director of the department of agriculture or the director's designee, and the director or the director's designee of the department whose action is appealed under subsection (6) of this section. A decision must be agreed to by at least two members of the board to be final.

(3) The board may adopt rules necessary for the conduct of its powers and duties or for transacting other official business.

(4) The board shall make findings of fact and prepare a written decision in each case decided by it, and that finding and decision shall be effective upon being signed by two or more board members and upon being filed at the hydraulic appeals board's principal office, and shall be open to public inspection at all reasonable times.

(5) The board has exclusive jurisdiction to hear appeals arising from the approval, denial, conditioning, or modification of a hydraulic approval issued by the department: (a) Under the authority granted in RCW 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act) for the diversion of water for agricultural irrigation or stock watering purposes or when associated with streambank stabilization to protect farm and agricultural land as defined in RCW 84.34.020; or (b) under the authority granted in RCW 75.20.190 (as recodified by this act) for off-site mitigation proposals.

(6)(a) Any person aggrieved by the approval, denial, conditioning, or modification of a hydraulic approval pursuant to RCW 75.20.103 (as recodified by this act) may seek review from the board by filing a request for the same within thirty days of notice of the approval, denial, conditioning, or modification of such approval.

(b) The review proceedings authorized in (a) of this subsection are subject to the provisions of chapter 34.05 RCW pertaining to procedures in adjudicative proceedings.

Sec. 21. RCW 75.20.320 and 1995 c 328 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The department may not require mitigation for adverse impacts on fish life or habitat that occurred at the time a wetland was filled, if the wetland was filled under the provisions of RCW 75.20.300 (as recodified by this act).

Sec. 22. RCW 75.24.060 and 1998 c 245 s 152 are each amended to read as follows:

It is the policy of the state to improve state oyster reserves so that they are productive and yield a revenue sufficient for their maintenance. In fixing the price of oysters and other shellfish sold from the reserves, the director shall take into consideration this policy. It is also the policy of the state to maintain the oyster reserves to furnish shellfish to growers and processors and to stock public beaches.

Shellfish may be harvested from state oyster reserves for personal use as prescribed by rule of the director.

The ~~((department))~~ director shall periodically inventory the state oyster reserves and assign the reserve lands into management categories:

- (1) Native Olympia oyster broodstock reserves;
- (2) Commercial shellfish harvesting zones;
- (3) Commercial shellfish propagation zones designated for long-term leasing to private aquaculturists;
- (4) Public recreational shellfish harvesting zones;
- (5) Unproductive land.

The ~~((department))~~ director shall manage each category of oyster reserve land to maximize the sustained yield production of shellfish consistent with the purpose for establishment of each management category.

The ~~((department))~~ commission shall develop an oyster reserve management plan, to include recommendations for leasing reserve lands, in coordination with the shellfish industry, by January 1, 1986.

The director shall protect, reseed, improve the habitat of, and replant state oyster reserves ~~((and))~~. The director shall also issue cultch permits and oyster reserve fishery licenses.

Sec. 23. RCW 75.24.065 and 1993 sp.s. c 2 s 40 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature finds that current environmental and economic conditions warrant a renewal of the state's historical practice of actively cultivating and managing its oyster reserves in Puget Sound to produce the state's native oyster, the Olympia oyster. The ~~((department))~~ director shall reestablish dike cultivated production of Olympia oysters on such reserves on a trial basis as a tool for planning more comprehensive cultivation by the state.

Sec. 24. RCW 75.24.070 and 1983 1st ex.s. c 46 s 82 are each amended to read as follows:

The director shall determine the time, place, and method of sale of oysters and other shellfish from state oyster reserves. Any person who commercially takes shellfish from state oyster reserves must possess an oyster reserve fishery license issued by the director pursuant to RCW 75.28.290 (as recodified by this act). Any person engaged in the commercial cultching of oysters on state oyster reserves must possess an oyster cultch permit issued by the director pursuant to RCW 75.28.295 (as recodified by this act).

To maintain local communities and industries and to restrain the formation of monopolies in the industry, the director shall determine the number of bushels which shall be sold to a person. When the shellfish are sold at public auction, the director may reject any and all bids.

(1) The ~~((department))~~ director may not authorize a person to take geoduck clams for commercial purposes outside the harvest area designated in a current department of natural resources geoduck harvesting agreement issued under RCW 79.96.080. The ~~((department))~~ director may not authorize commercial harvest of geoduck clams from bottoms that are shallower than eighteen feet below mean lower low water (0.0 ft.), or that lie in an area bounded by the line of ordinary high tide (mean high tide) and a line two hundred yards seaward from and parallel to the line of ordinary high tide. This section does not apply to the harvest of private sector cultured aquatic products as defined in RCW 15.85.020.

(2) Commercial geoduck harvesting shall be done with a hand-held, manually operated water jet or suction device guided and controlled from under water by a diver. Periodically, the ~~((commission))~~ director shall determine the effect of each type or unit of gear upon the geoduck population or the substrate they inhabit. The ~~((commission))~~ director may require modification of the gear or stop its use if it is being operated in a wasteful or destructive manner or if its operation may cause permanent damage to the bottom or adjacent shellfish populations.

Sec. 26. RCW 75.24.130 and 1995 1st sp.s. c 2 s 30 are each amended to read as follows:

The commission may examine the clam, mussel, and oyster beds located on aquatic lands belonging to the state and request the commissioner of public lands to withdraw these lands from sale and lease for the purpose of establishing reserves or public beaches. The ~~((commission))~~ director shall conserve, protect, and develop these reserves and the oyster, shrimp, clam, and mussel beds on state lands.

Sec. 27. RCW 75.25.092 and 1998 c 191 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A personal use shellfish and seaweed license is required for all persons other than residents or nonresidents under fifteen years of age to fish for, take, dig for, or possess seaweed or shellfish for personal use from state waters or offshore waters including national park beaches.

(2) The fees for annual personal use shellfish and seaweed licenses are:

(a) For a resident fifteen years of age or older, seven dollars;

(b) For a nonresident fifteen years of age or older, twenty dollars; and

(c) For a senior, five dollars.

(3) The personal use shellfish and seaweed license shall be visible on the licensee while harvesting shellfish or seaweed.

Sec. 28. RCW 75.28.011 and 1997 c 418 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Unless otherwise provided in this title, a license issued under this chapter is not transferable from the license holder to any other person.

(2) The following restrictions apply to transfers of commercial fishery licenses, salmon delivery licenses, and salmon charter licenses that are transferable between license holders:

(a) The license holder shall surrender the previously issued license to the department.

(b) The department shall complete no more than one transfer of the license in any seven-day period.

(c) The fee to transfer a license from one license holder to another is:

(i) The same as the resident license renewal fee if the license is not limited under chapter 75.30 RCW (as recodified by this act);

(ii) Three and one-half times the resident renewal fee if the license is not a commercial salmon license and the license is limited under chapter 75.30 RCW (as recodified by this act);

(iii) Fifty dollars if the license is a commercial salmon license and is limited under chapter 75.30 RCW (as recodified by this act);

(iv) Five hundred dollars if the license is a Dungeness crab-coastal fishery license; or

(v) If a license is transferred from a resident to a nonresident, an additional fee is assessed that is equal to the difference between the resident and nonresident license fees at the time of transfer, to be paid by the transferee.

(3) A commercial license that is transferable under this title survives the death of the holder.

Though such licenses are not personal property, they shall be treated as analogous to personal property for purposes of inheritance and intestacy. Such licenses are subject to state laws governing wills, trusts, estates, intestate succession, and community property, except that such licenses are exempt from claims of creditors of the estate and tax liens. The surviving spouse, estate, or beneficiary of the estate may apply for a renewal of the license. There is no fee for transfer of a license from a license holder to the license holder's surviving spouse or estate, or to a beneficiary of the estate.

Sec. 29. RCW 75.28.020 and 1994 c 244 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Except as otherwise provided in this title, a person ~~((as defined in RCW 75.08.011))~~ may hold a commercial license established by this chapter.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this title, an individual may hold a commercial license only if the individual is sixteen years of age or older and a bona fide resident of the United States.

(3) A corporation may hold a commercial license only if it is authorized to do business in this state.

(4) No person may hold a limited-entry license unless the person meets the qualifications that this title establishes for the license.

(5) The residency requirements in subsection (2) of this section do not apply to holders of nonsalmon delivery licenses.

Sec. 30. RCW 75.28.034 and 1995 c 227 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

If, for any reason, the department does not allow any opportunity for a commercial fishery during a calendar year, the ~~((department))~~ director shall either: (1) Waive the requirement to obtain a license for that commercial fishery for that year; or (2) refund applicable license fees upon return of the license.

Sec. 31. RCW 75.28.042 and 1997 c 58 s 882 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department shall immediately suspend the license of a person who has been certified pursuant to RCW 74.20A.320 by the department of social and health services as a person who is not in compliance with a support order or a residential or visitation order.

(2) A listing on the department of licensing's data base that an individual's license is currently suspended pursuant to RCW 46.20.291~~((7))~~ (8) shall be prima facie evidence that the individual is in noncompliance with a support order ~~((or residential or visitation order))~~. Presentation of a written release issued by the department of social and health services or a court stating that the person is in compliance with an order shall serve as proof of compliance.

Sec. 32. RCW 75.28.046 and 1998 c 267 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

This section applies to all commercial fishery licenses and delivery licenses, except for whiting-Puget Sound fishery licenses and emergency salmon delivery licenses.

(1) The license holder may engage in the activity authorized by a license subject to this section. With the exception of Dungeness crab--coastal fishery class B licensees licensed under RCW 75.30.350(4) (as recodified by this act), the holder of a license subject to this section may also designate up to two alternate operators for the license. Dungeness crab--coastal fishery class B licensees may not designate alternate operators. A person designated as an alternate operator must possess an alternate operator license issued under RCW 75.28.048 (as recodified by this act).

(2) The fee to change the alternate operator designation is twenty-two dollars.

Sec. 33. RCW 75.28.047 and 1998 c 267 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Only the license holder and any alternate operators designated on the license may sell or deliver food fish or shellfish under a commercial fishery license or delivery license. A commercial fishery license or delivery license authorizes no taking or delivery of food fish or shellfish unless the license holder or an alternate operator designated on the license is present or aboard the vessel.

(2) Notwithstanding RCW 75.28.010(1)(c) (as recodified by this act), an alternate operator license is not required for an individual to operate a vessel as a charter boat.

Sec. 34. RCW 75.28.048 and 1998 c 267 s 4 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A person who holds a commercial fishery license or a delivery license may operate the vessel designated on the license. A person who is not the license holder may operate the vessel designated on the license only if:

(a) The person holds an alternate operator license issued by the director; and

(b) The person is designated as an alternate operator on the underlying commercial fishery license or delivery license under RCW 75.28.046 (as recodified by this act).

(2) Only an individual at least sixteen years of age may hold an alternate operator license.

(3) No individual may hold more than one alternate operator license. An individual who holds an alternate operator license may be designated as an alternate operator on an unlimited number of commercial fishery licenses or delivery licenses under RCW 75.28.046 (as recodified by this act).

(4) An individual who holds two Dungeness crab--Puget Sound fishery licenses may operate the licenses on one vessel if the vessel owner or alternate operator is on the vessel. The department shall allow a license holder to operate up to one hundred crab pots for each license.

(5) As used in this section, to "operate" means to control the deployment or removal of fishing gear from state waters while aboard a vessel or to operate a vessel delivering food fish or shellfish taken in offshore waters to a port within the state.

Sec. 35. RCW 75.28.055 and 1997 c 421 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The (~~fish and wildlife commission~~) director may, by rule, increase the number of alternate operators beyond the level authorized by RCW 75.28.030 and 75.28.046 (as recodified by this act) for a commercial fishery license, delivery license, or charter license.

Sec. 36. RCW 75.28.095 and 1998 c 190 s 95 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The director shall issue the charter licenses and angler permits listed in this section according to the requirements of this title. The licenses and permits and their annual fees and surcharges are:
