The House was called to order at 12:00 noon by the Chief Clerk, Barbara Baker.

The flags were escorted to the rostrum by the Washington State Patrol Honor Guard commanded by Trooper Pete Stock. The National Anthem was sung by Malachi Jones from Timberline High School. The Chief Clerk, Barbara Baker led the Chamber in the Pledge of Allegiance. The prayer was offered by Pastor John Rosenberg, Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Olympia Washington.

Pastor John Rosenberg: “Creator God, we thank you for allowing us to live and to work in a place so beautiful we sometimes believe it rivals heaven itself. We’re also deeply grateful for the profound privilege of being citizens in a democracy, but all is not well in our state O, God. There are too many demands and too few revenues to address them. We are not of one mind about how to face the challenges ahead. So we come to you today to ask your blessings upon the men and women of this House as they carry out the important work to which they have been elected. Be with them in the long days ahead when they are separated from their loved ones and the people they represent. When it might be easy to give in to cynicism, despair or expedience, bless them with courage, hope and integrity. When the problems that face them seem insurmountable, and a way through impossible, send them your wisdom and the light of your spirit to guide them through. Help them to remember the most vulnerable among us as they make decisions affecting the future of all of the citizens of our state. Above all, keep them and their loved ones in your care and protection during these days. May they never doubt the importance of the work to which you have called them, or your continued presence as they carry out their sacred vocation. Amen.”

The Chief Clerk called upon Representatives Hansen and Johnson to escort chief Justice Barbara Madsen of the Supreme Court of the State of Washington to the rostrum.
MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

The Honorable
Speaker of the House
The Legislature of the State of Washington
Olympia, Washington

Mr. Speaker:

Definitions

Rule 1. "Absent" means an unexcused failure to attend.

"Term" means the two-year term during which the members as a body may act.

"Session" means a constitutional gathering of the house in accordance with Article 2 § 12 of the state Constitution.

"Committee" means any standing, conference, joint, or select committee as so designated by rule or resolution, and also means any standing committee subcommittee.

"Fiscal committee" means the appropriations, capital budget, finance and transportation committees, and the appropriations subcommittees on education ((appropriations & oversight)), general government ((appropriations & oversight)), and health & human services ((appropriations & oversight, transportation, and ways & means committees)).
"Bill" means bill, joint memorial, joint resolution, or concurrent resolution unless the context indicates otherwise.

Chief Clerk to Call to Order

Rule 2. It shall be the duty of the chief clerk of the previous term to call the house to order and to conduct the proceedings until a speaker is chosen.

Election of Officers

Rule 3. The house shall elect the following officers at the commencement of each term: Its presiding officer, who shall be styled speaker of the house; a speaker pro tempore, who shall serve in absence or in case of the inability of the speaker; a deputy speaker pro tempore, who shall serve in absence or in case of the inability of the speaker and speaker pro tempore; and a chief clerk of the house. Such officers shall hold office during all sessions until the convening of the succeeding term: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That any of these offices may be declared vacant by the vote of a constitutional majority of the house, the members voting viva voce and their votes shall be entered on the journal. If any office is declared vacant, the house shall fill such vacant office as hereinafter provided. In all elections by the house a constitutional majority shall be required, the members shall vote viva voce and their votes shall be entered on the journal. (Art. II § 27)

Powers and Duties of the Speaker

Rule 4. The speaker shall have the following powers and duties:

(A) The speaker shall take the chair and call the house to order precisely at the hour appointed for meeting and if a quorum be present, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read and shall proceed with the order of business.

(B) The speaker shall preserve order and decorum, and in case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct within the chamber or legislative area, shall order the sergeant at arms to suppress the same and may order the sergeant at arms to remove any person creating any disturbance within the house chamber or legislative area.

(C) The speaker may speak to points of order in preference to other members, arising from the seat for that purpose, and shall decide all questions of order subject to an appeal to the house by any member, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once without leave of the house.

(D) The speaker shall sign all bills in open session. (Art. II § 32)

(E) The speaker shall sign all writs, warrants, and subpoenas issued by order of the house, all of which shall be attested to by the chief clerk.

(F) The speaker shall have the right to name any member to perform the duties of the chair, but such substitution shall neither extend beyond adjournment nor authorize the representative so substituted to sign any documents requiring the signature of the speaker.

(G) The speaker, in open session, shall appoint committee chairs as selected by the majority party caucus, and shall appoint members to committees in the same ratio as the membership of the respective parties of the house, unless otherwise provided by law or house rules.

(H) The speaker shall serve as chair of the rules committee.

(I) The speaker shall have charge of and see that all officers, attaches, and clerks perform their respective duties.

(J) The speaker pro tempore shall exercise the duties, powers, and prerogatives of the speaker in the event of the speaker's death, illness, removal, or inability to act until the speaker's successor shall be elected.

Chief Clerk

Rule 5. The chief clerk shall perform the usual duties pertaining to the office, and shall hold office until a successor has been elected.

The chief clerk shall employ, subject to the approval of the speaker, all other house employees; the hours of duty and assignments of all house employees shall be under the chief clerk's directions and instructions, and they may be dismissed by the chief clerk with the approval of the speaker. The speaker shall sign and the chief clerk shall countersign all payrolls and vouchers for all expenses of the house and appropriately transmit the same. In the event of the chief clerk's death, illness, removal, or inability to act, the speaker may appoint an acting chief clerk who shall exercise the duties and powers of the chief clerk until the chief clerk's successor shall be elected.

Duties of Employees

Rule 6. Employees of the house shall perform such duties as are assigned to them by the chief clerk. Under no circumstances shall the compensation of any employee be increased for past services. No house employee shall seek to influence the passage or rejection of proposed legislation.

Admission to the House
Rule 7. It shall be the general policy of the house to keep the chamber clear as follows:

(A) The sergeant at arms shall admit only the following individuals to the wings and adjacent areas of the house chamber for the period of time beginning one-half hour prior to convening and ending one-half hour following the adjournment of the house's daily session:

- The governor or designees, or both;
- Members of the senate;
- State elected officials;
- Officers and authorized employees of the legislature;
- Former members of the house who are not advocating any pending or proposed legislation;
- Representatives of the press;
- Other persons with the consent of the speaker.

(B) Only members, pages, sergeants at arms, and clerks are permitted on the floor while the house is in session.

(C) Lobbying in the house chamber or in any committee room or lounge room is prohibited when the house or committee is in session unless expressly permitted by the house or committee. Anyone violating this rule will forfeit his or her right to be admitted to the house chamber or any of its committee rooms.

Absentees and Courtesy

Rule 8. No member shall be absent from the service of the house without leave from the speaker. When the house is in session, only the speaker shall recognize visitors and former members.

Bills, Memorials and Resolutions - Introductions

Rule 9. Any member desiring to introduce a bill shall file the same with the chief clerk. Bills filed by 10:00 a.m. shall be introduced at the next daily session, in the order filed. PROVIDED, That if such introduction is within the last ten days of a regular session, it cannot be considered without a direct vote of two-thirds (2/3) of all the members elected to each house with such vote recorded and entered upon the journal. (Art. II § 36)

Any returning member or member-elect may prefile a bill with the chief clerk commencing the first Monday in December preceding any regular session or twenty (20) days before any special session. Prefiled bills shall be introduced on the first legislative day.

All bills shall be endorsed with a statement of the title and the name of the member or members introducing the same. The chief clerk shall attach to all bills a substantial cover bearing the title and sponsors and shall number each bill in the order filed. All bills shall be printed unless otherwise ordered by the house.

Any bill introduced at any session during the term shall be eligible for action at all subsequent sessions during the term.

Reading of Bills

Rule 10. Every bill shall be read on three separate days: PROVIDED, That this rule may be temporarily suspended at any time by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present; and that on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, this rule may be suspended by a majority vote.

A bill may be returned to second reading for the purpose of amendment by a suspension of the rules: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, section 12 of the state Constitution or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, this rule may be suspended and a bill returned to second reading for the purpose of amendment by a majority vote.

(A) FIRST READING. The first reading of a bill shall be by title only, unless a majority of the members present demand a reading in full. After the first reading the bill shall be referred to an appropriate committee.

Upon being reported out of committee, all bills shall be referred to the rules committee, unless otherwise ordered by the house.

The rules committee may, by majority vote, refer any bill in its possession to a committee for further consideration. Such referral shall be reported to the house and entered in the journal under the fifth order of business.

(B) SECOND READING. Upon second reading, the bill number and short title and the last line of the bill shall be read unless a majority of the members present shall demand its reading in full. The bill shall be subject to amendment section by section. No amendment shall be considered by the house until it has been sent to the chief clerk's desk in writing, distributed to the desk of each member, and read by the clerk. All amendments adopted during second reading shall be securely fastened to the original bill. All amendments rejected by the house shall be passed to the minute clerk, and the journal shall show the disposition of such amendments.

When no further amendments shall be offered, the speaker shall declare the bill has passed its second reading.

(C) SUBSTITUTE BILLS. When a committee reports a substitute for an original bill with the recommendation that the substitute bill do pass, it shall be in order to read the substitute the first time and have the same printed. A motion for the substitution shall not be in order until the second reading of the original bill.
(D) THIRD READING. Only the last line of bills shall be read on third reading unless a majority of the members present demand a reading in full. No amendments to a bill shall be received on third reading but it may be referred or recommitted for the purpose of amendment.

(E) SUSPENSION CALENDAR. Bills may be placed on the second reading suspension calendar by the rules committee if at least two minority party members of the rules committee join in such motion. Bills on the second reading suspension calendar shall not be subject to amendment or substitution except as recommended in the committee report. When a bill is before the house on the suspension calendar, the question shall be to adopt the committee recommendations and advance the bill to third reading. If the question fails to receive a two-thirds vote of the members present, the bill shall be referred to the rules committee for second reading.

(F) HOUSE RESOLUTIONS. House resolutions shall be filed with the chief clerk who shall transmit them to the rules committee. If a rules committee meeting is not scheduled to occur prior to a time necessitated by the purpose of a house resolution, the majority leader and minority leader by agreement may waive transmission to the rules committee to permit consideration of the resolution by the house. The rules committee may adopt house resolutions by a sixty percent majority vote of its entire membership or may, by a majority vote of its members, place them on the motions calendar for consideration by the house. House resolutions are not subject to debate, except for resolutions necessary for the operation of the house, and resolutions commemorating Children's Day, Day of Remembrance, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, National Guard Day, and President's Day.

(G) CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS. Reading of concurrent resolutions may be advanced by majority vote.

Amendments

Rule 11. The right of any member to offer amendments to proposed legislation shall not be limited except as provided in Rule 10(E) and as follows:

(A) AMENDMENTS TO BE OFFERED IN PROPER FORM. The chief clerk shall establish the proper form for amendments and all amendments offered shall bear the name of the member who offers the same, as well as the number and section of the bill to be amended.

(B) COMMITTEE AMENDMENTS. When a bill is before the house on second reading, amendments adopted by committees and recommended to the house shall be acted upon by the house before any amendments that may be offered from the floor.

(C) SENATE AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILLS. A house bill, passed by the senate with amendment or amendments which shall change the scope and object of the bill, upon being received in the house, shall be referred to the appropriate committee and shall take the same course as for original bills unless a motion not to concur is adopted prior to the bill being referred to committee.

(D) AMENDMENTS TO BE GERMANE. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment; and no bill or resolution shall at any time be amended by annexing thereto or incorporating therein any other bill or resolution pending before the house.

(E) SCOPE AND OBJECT NOT TO BE CHANGED. No amendment to any bill shall be allowed which shall change the scope and object of the bill. This objection may be raised at any time an amendment is under consideration. The speaker may allow the person raising the objection and the mover of the amendment to provide brief arguments as to the merits of the objection. (Art. II § 38)

(F) NO AMENDMENT BY REFERENCE. No act shall ever be revised or amended without being set forth at full length. (Art. II § 37)

(G) TITLE AMENDMENTS. The subject matter portion of a bill title shall not be amended in committee or on second reading. Changes to that part of the title after the subject matter statement shall either be presented with the text amendment or be incorporated by the chief clerk in the engrossing process.

Final Passage

Rule 12. Rules relating to bills on final passage are as follows:

(A) BUDGET BILLS. No final passage vote may be taken on an operating budget, transportation budget, or capital budget bill until twenty-four (24) hours after the bill is placed on the third reading calendar. The twenty-four (24) hour requirement does not apply to conference reports, which are governed by Joint Rule 20, or to bills placed on the third reading calendar by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present.

(B) RECOMMITTMENT BEFORE FINAL PASSAGE. A bill may be recommitted at any time before its final passage.

(C) FINAL PASSAGE. No bill shall become a law unless on its final passage the vote be taken by yeas and nays, the names of the members voting for and against the same be entered on the journal of each house, and a majority of the members elected to each house be recorded thereon as voting in its favor. (Art. II § 22)

(D) BILLS PASSED - CERTIFICATION. When a bill passes, it shall be certified to by the chief clerk, said certification to show the date of its passage together with the vote thereon.
Hour of Meeting, Roll Call and Quorum

Rule 13. (A) HOUR OF MEETING. The speaker shall call the house to order each day of sitting at 10:00 A.M., unless the house shall have adjourned to some other hour.

(B) ROLL CALL AND QUORUM. Before proceeding with business, the roll of the members shall be called and the names of those absent or excused shall be entered on the journal. A majority of all the members elected must be present to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. In the absence of a quorum, seven members with the speaker, or eight members in the speaker's absence, having chosen a speaker pro tempore, shall be authorized to demand a call of the house and may compel the attendance of absent members in the manner provided in Rule 21(B). For the purpose of determining if a quorum be present, the speaker shall count all members present, whether voting or not. (Art. II § 8)

(C) The house shall adjourn not later than 10:00 P.M. of each working day. This rule may be suspended by a majority vote.

Daily Calendar and Order of Business

Rule 14. The rules relating to the daily calendar and order of business are as follows:

(A) DAILY CALENDAR. Business of the house shall be disposed of in the following order:

First: Roll call, presentation of colors, prayer, and approval of the journal of the preceding day.
Second: Introduction of visiting dignitaries.
Third: Messages from the senate, governor, and other state officials.
Fourth: Introduction and first reading of bills, memorials, joint resolutions, and concurrent resolutions.
Fifth: Committee reports.
Sixth: Second reading of bills.
Seventh: Third reading of bills.
Eighth: Floor resolutions and motions.
Ninth: Presentation of petitions, memorials, and remonstrances addressed to the Legislature.
Tenth: Introduction of visitors and other business to be considered.
Eleventh: Announcements.

(B) UNFINISHED BUSINESS. The unfinished business at which the house was engaged preceding adjournment shall not be taken up until reached in regular order, unless the previous question on such unfinished business has been ordered prior to said adjournment.

(C) EXCEPTIONS. Exceptions to the order of business are as follows:
(1) The order of business may be changed by a majority vote of those present.
(2) By motion under the eighth order of business, a bill in the rules committee may be placed on the calendar by the affirmative vote of a majority of all members of the house.
(3) House resolutions and messages from the senate, governor, or other state officials may be read at any time.

Motions

Rule 15. Rules relating to motions are as follows:

(A) MOTIONS TO BE ENTERTAINED OR DEBATED. No motion shall be entertained or debated until announced by the speaker and every motion shall be deemed to have been seconded. A motion shall be reduced to writing and read by the clerk, if desired by the speaker or any member, before it shall be debated and by the consent of the house may be withdrawn before amendment or action.

(B) MOTIONS IN ORDER DURING DEBATE. When a motion has been made and seconded and stated by the chair, the following motions are in order, in the rank named:

(1) Privileged motions:
   Adjourn
   Adjourn to a time certain Recess to a time certain Reconsider
   Demand for division
   Question of privilege
   Orders of the day

(2) Subsidiary motions:
   First rank: Question of consideration
SECOND RANK: To lay on the table

THIRD RANK: For the previous question

FOURTH RANK: To postpone to a day certain
To commit or recommit
To postpone indefinitely

FIFTH RANK: To amend

(3) Incidental motions:
Points of order and appeal
Method of consideration Suspension of the rules
Reading papers
Withdraw a motion
Division of a question

(C) THE EFFECT OF POSTPONEMENT - MOTIONS TO POSTPONE OR COMMIT. Once decided, no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely shall again be allowed on the same day and at the same stage of the proceedings. When a question has been postponed indefinitely, it shall not again be introduced during the session. The motion to postpone indefinitely may be made at any stage of the bill except when on first reading.

(D) MOTIONS DECIDED WITHOUT DEBATE. A motion to adjourn, to recess, to lay on the table and to call for the previous question shall be decided without debate.

All incidental motions shall be decided without debate, except that members may speak to points of order and appeal as provided in Rule 22.

Motions to adopt house resolutions shall be decided without debate, except as provided in Rule 10(F).

A motion for suspension of the rules shall not be debatable except that the mover of the motion may briefly explain the purpose of the motion and one member may briefly state the opposition to the motion.

(E) MOTION TO ADJOURN. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, except when the house is voting or is working under the call of the house; but this rule shall not authorize any member to move for adjournment when another member has the floor.

Rule 16. The methods by which a member may exercise his or her right to debate are as follows:

(A) RECOGNITION OF MEMBER. When any member desires to speak in debate or deliver any matter to the house, the member shall rise and respectfully address the speaker and pause until recognized.

(B) ORDER OF SPEAKING. When two or more members arise at once, the speaker shall name the one who is to speak.

(C) LIMITATION OF DEBATE. No member shall speak longer than ten (10) minutes without consent of the house: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, no member shall speak more than three (3) minutes without the consent of the house. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the house: PROVIDED, That the chair of the committee or the mover of the question may close debate if it is consistent with Rule 18 (Previous Question).

Rules of Debate

Rule 17. The rules for debate in the house are as follows:

(A) QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE. Any member may rise to a question of privilege and explain a personal matter, by leave of the speaker, but the member shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations.

(B) WITHDRAWAL OF MOTION, BILL, ETC. After a motion is stated by the speaker or a bill, memorial, resolution, petition, or remonstrance is read by the clerk, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the house, but may be withdrawn by consent of the house at any time before decision or amendment.

(C) READING OF A PAPER. When the reading of any paper is called for and is objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the house.

(D) DISTRIBUTION OF MATERIALS. Any materials of any nature distributed to the members' desks on the floor shall be subject to approval by the speaker and shall bear the name of at least one member granting permission for the distribution. This shall not apply to materials normally distributed by the chief clerk.
(E) ORDER OF QUESTIONS. All questions, whether in committee or in the house, shall be propounded in the order in which they are named except that in filling blanks, the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

(F) DIVISION OF POINTS OF DEBATE. Any member may call for a division of a question which shall be divided if it embraces subjects so distinct that one being taken away a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the house; but a motion to strike out and to insert shall not be divided. The rejection of a motion to strike out and to insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and to insert a different proposition.

(G) DECORUM OF MEMBERS. While the speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk across or out of the house; nor when a member is speaking shall any member entertain private discourse or pass between the speaking member and the rostrum.

(H) REMARKS CONFINED. A member shall confine all remarks to the question under debate and avoid personalities. No member shall impugn the motive of any member's vote or argument.

(I) EXCEPTION TO WORDS SPOKEN IN DEBATE. If any member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling the member to order shall repeat the words excepted to and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's table. No member shall be held in answer or be subject to the censure of the house for words spoken in debate if any other member has spoken before exception to them shall have been taken.

(J) TRANSGRESSION OF RULES - APPEAL. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgresses the rules of the house the speaker shall, or any member may, call the member to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down unless permitted to explain; and the house shall, if appealed to, decide the case without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the chair shall prevail.

Rule 18. The previous question may be ordered by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present on all recognized motions or amendments which are debatable.

The previous question is not debatable and cannot be amended.

The previous question shall be put in this form: "Representative __________ demands the previous question. As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say 'Aye'; as many as are opposed will say 'No'."

The results of the motion are as follows: If determined in the negative, the consideration goes on as if the motion had never been made; if decided in the affirmative it shall have the effect of cutting off all debate and bringing the house to a direct vote upon the motion or amendment on which it has been ordered: PROVIDED HOWEVER, That when a bill is on final passage or when the motion to postpone indefinitely is pending, one of the sponsors of the bill or the chair of the committee may have the privilege of closing debate after the previous question has been ordered.

If an adjournment is had after the previous question is ordered, the motion or proposition on which the previous question was ordered shall be put to the house immediately following the approval of the journal on the next working day, thus making the main question privileged over all other business, whether new or unfinished.

Ending of Debate - Previous Question

Voting

Rule 19. (A) PUTTING OF QUESTION. The speaker shall put the question in the following form: "The question before the house is (state the question). As many as are in favor say 'Aye'; and after the affirmative vote is expressed, "as many as are opposed say 'No'."

(B) ALL MEMBERS TO VOTE. Every member who was in the house when the question was put shall vote unless, for special reasons, excused by the house.

All motions to excuse a member shall be made before the house divides or before the call for yeas and nays is commenced; and any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief and verbal statement of the reasons for making such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

Upon a division and count of the house on the question, only members at their desks within the bar of the house shall be counted.

(C) CHANGE OF VOTE. When the electric roll call machine is used, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the speaker has locked the roll call machine. When an oral roll call is taken, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the result has been announced.

(D) PRIVATE INTEREST. No member shall vote on any question which affects that member privately and particularly. A member who has a private interest in any bill or measure proposed or pending before the legislature shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon. (Art. II § 30)

(E) INTERRUPTION OF ROLL CALL. Once begun, the roll call may not be interrupted. No member or other person shall visit or remain at the clerk's desk while the yeas and nays are being called.
(F) YEAS AND NAYS - RECORDED VOTES. Upon the final passage of any bill, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and shall be recorded by the electric voting system: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That an oral roll call shall be ordered when demanded by one-sixth (1/6) of the members present. (Art. II § 21)

The speaker may vote last when the yeas and nays are called.

When the vote is by electric voting machine or by oral roll call on any question, it shall be entered upon the journal of the house. A recorded vote may be compelled by one-sixth (1/6) of the members present. A request for a recorded vote must be made before the vote is commenced.

(G) TIE VOTE, QUESTION LOSES. In case of an equal division, the question shall be lost.

(H) DIVISION. If the speaker is in doubt, or if division is called for by any member, the house shall divide.

Reconsideration

Rule 20. Notice of a motion for reconsideration on the final passage of bills shall be made on the day the vote to be reconsidered was taken and before the house has voted to transmit the bill to the senate.

Reconsideration of the votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the next working day after such vote was taken: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution, or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, then reconsideration of votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the same day as the original vote was taken.

A motion to reconsider an amendment may be made at any time the bill remains on second reading.

Any member who voted on the prevailing side may move for reconsideration or give notice thereof.

A motion to reconsider can be decided only once when decided in the negative.

When a motion to reconsider has been carried, its effect shall be to place the original question before the house in the exact position it occupied before it was voted upon.

Call of the House

Rule 21. One-sixth (1/6) of the members present may demand a call of the house at any time before the house has divided or the voting has commenced by yeas and nays.

(A) DOORS TO BE CLOSED. When call of the house has been ordered, the sergeant at arms shall close and lock the doors, and no member shall be allowed to leave the chamber: PROVIDED, That the rules committee shall be allowed to meet, upon request of the speaker, while the house stands at ease: AND PROVIDED FURTHER, That the speaker may permit members to use such portions of the fourth floor as may be properly secured.

(B) SERGEANT AT ARMS TO BRING IN THE ABSENTEEES. The clerk shall immediately call a roll of the members and note the absentees, whose names shall be read and entered upon the journal in such manner as to show who are excused and who are absent without leave.

The clerk shall furnish the sergeant at arms with a list of those who are absent without leave, and the sergeant at arms shall proceed to bring in such absentees; but arrests of members for absence shall not be made unless ordered by a majority of the members present.

(C) HOUSE UNDER CALL. While the house is under a call, no business shall be transacted except to receive and act on the report of the sergeant at arms; and no other motion shall be in order except a motion to proceed with business under the call of the house, a motion to excuse absentees, or a motion to dispense with the call of the house. The motion to proceed with business under the call of the house and the motion to excuse absent members shall not be adopted unless a majority of the members elected vote in favor thereof. The motion to dispense with the call of the house may be adopted by a majority of the members present.

Appeal from Decision of Chair

Rule 22. The decision of the chair may be appealed from by any member, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once unless by leave of the house. In all cases of appeal, the question shall be: "Shall the decision of the chair stand as the judgment of the house?"

Standing Committees

Rule 23. The standing committees of the house and the number of members that shall serve on each committee shall be as follows:

1. Agriculture & Natural Resources .......................................................... 13
2. Business & Financial Services ......................................................... 13
3. Capital Budget .................................................................................. 11
4. Community & Economic Development & Housing ....................... 9
5. Early Learning & Human Services .................................................. 9
6. Education ......................................................................................... 24
7. Education Appropriations & Oversight ........................................... 19
Committee members shall be selected by each party's caucus. Membership on appropriations subcommittees is restricted to the membership of the appropriations committee. The majority party caucus shall select all committee chairs.

Duties of Committees

Rule 24. House committees shall operate as follows:

(A) NOTICE OF COMMITTEE MEETING. The chief clerk shall make public the time, place and subjects to be discussed at committee meetings. All public hearings held by committees shall be scheduled at least five (5) days in advance and shall be given adequate publicity: PROVIDED, That when less than eight (8) days remain for action on a bill, the Speaker may authorize a reduction of the five-day notice period when required by the circumstances, including but not limited to the time remaining for action on the bill, the nature of the subject, and the number of prior hearings on the subject.

(B) COMMITTEE QUORUM. A majority of any committee shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

(C) SESSION MEETINGS. No committee shall sit while the house is in session without special leave of the speaker.

(D) DUTIES OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

(1) Only such bills as are included on the written notice of a committee meeting may be considered at that meeting except upon the vote of a majority of the entire membership of the committee to consider another bill.
(2) A majority recommendation of a committee must be signed by a majority of the entire membership of the committee in a regularly called meeting before a bill, memorial, or resolution may be reported out: PROVIDED, That by motion under the eighth order of business, a majority of the members elected to the house may relieve a committee of a bill and place it on the second reading calendar.

Majority recommendations of a committee can only be "do pass," "do pass as amended," or that "the substitute bill be substituted therefor and that the substitute bill do pass."

(3) Members of the committee not concurring in the majority report may prepare a written minority report containing a recommendation of "do not pass" or "without recommendation," which shall be signed by those members of the committee subscribing thereto, and submitted with the majority report.

(4) All committee reports shall be spread upon the journal. The journal of the house shall contain an exact copy of all committee reports, together with the names of the members signing such reports.

(5) Every vote to report a bill out of committee shall be taken by the yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against, as well as the names of members absent, shall be recorded on the committee report. Any member may call for a recorded vote, which shall include the names of absent members, on any substantive question before the committee. A copy of all recorded committee votes shall be kept by the chief clerk and shall be available for public inspection.

(6) All bills having a direct appropriation shall be referred to the appropriate fiscal committee before their final passage.

(7) No standing committee shall vote by secret written ballot on any issue.

(8) A majority recommendation of a committee must be signed by a majority of the entire membership of the committee in a regularly called meeting.

(9) A standing committee to which a bill was originally referred shall, prior to voting the bill out of committee, consider whether the bill authorizes rule-making powers or requires the exercise of rule-making powers and, if so, consider:
   (a) The nature of the new rule-making powers; and
   (b) To which agencies the new rule-making powers would be delegated and which agencies, if any, may have related rule-making powers.

(10) Standing committee subcommittees established in Rule 23 have the same powers and duties as standing committees.

Standing Committees - Expenses - Subpoena Power

Rule 25. Regardless of whether the legislature is in session, members of the house may receive from moneys appropriated for the legislature, reimbursement for necessary travel expenses, and payments in lieu of subsistence and lodging for conducting official business of the house.

The standing committees of the house may have the powers of subpoena, the power to administer oaths, and the power to issue commissions for the examination of witnesses in accordance with the provisions of chapter 44.16 RCW. Before a standing committee of the house may issue any process, the committee chairperson shall submit for approval of the executive rules committee a statement of purpose setting forth the name or names of those subject to process. The process shall not be issued prior to approval by the executive rules committee. The process shall be limited to the named individuals.

Vetoed Bills

Rule 26. Veto messages of the governor shall be read in the house and entered upon the journal. It shall then be in order to proceed to reconsider the bill, refer it, lay it on the table, or postpone its consideration to a day certain.

The merits of the bill may be debated before the vote is taken, but the vote on a vetoed bill cannot be reconsidered.

In case of a bill containing several sections or items, one or more of which has been objected to by the governor, each section or item so objected to shall be voted upon separately by the house. Action by the house upon all vetoed bills shall be endorsed upon the bill and certified by the speaker.

Vetoed bills originating in the house, which have not been passed notwithstanding the veto of the governor, shall remain in the custody of the officers of the house until the close of the term, after which they shall be filed with the secretary of state.

Suspension of Compensation

Rule 27. (1) Any member of the house of representatives convicted and sentenced for any felony punishable by death or by imprisonment in a Washington state penal institution shall, as of the time of sentencing, be denied the legislative salary for future service and be denied per diem, compensation for expenses, office space facilities, and assistance. Any member convicted of a felony and sentenced therefor under any federal law or the law of any other state shall, as of the time of sentencing, be similarly denied such salary, per diem, expenses, facilities, and assistance if either (a) such crime would also constitute a crime punishable under the laws of Washington by death or by imprisonment in a state penal institution, or (b) the conduct resulting in the conviction and sentencing would also constitute a crime punishable under the laws of Washington by death or by imprisonment in a state penal institution.

(2) At any time, the house may vote by a constitutional majority to restore the salary, per diem, expenses, facilities, and assistance denied a member under subsection (1). If the conviction of a member is reversed, then the salary, per diem, and expense amounts denied the member since sentencing shall be forthwith paid, and the member shall thereafter have the rights and privileges of other members.

Smoking

Rule 28. Smoking of cigarettes, pipes, or cigars shall not be permitted at any public meeting of any committee of the house of representatives or within House facilities.

"No smoking" signs shall be posted so as to give notice of this rule.

Liquor
Rule 29. The House of Representatives shall strictly adhere to the liquor laws of the state of Washington, including provisions relating to banquet and special occasion permits. The proper permits must always be obtained before consumption of liquor in any house facility.

Parliamentary Rules

Rule 30. The rules of parliamentary practice comprised in Reed's Parliamentary Rules shall govern all cases in which they are not inconsistent with the standing rules and orders of the house.

Standing Rules Amendment

Rule 31. Any standing rule may be rescinded or changed by a majority vote of the members elected: PROVIDED, That the proposed change or changes be submitted at least one day in advance in writing to the members together with notice of the consideration thereof. Any standing rule may be suspended temporarily by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present except as provided in Rule 10.

Rules to Apply for Assembly

Rule 32. The permanent house rules adopted at the beginning of the term are to govern all acts of the house during the course of the term unless amended or repealed.

Legislative Mailings

Rule 33. The House of Representatives directs the house executive rules committee to adopt procedures and guidelines to ensure that all legislative mailings at public expense are for legitimate legislative purposes.
Representative Sullivan moved the adoption of the resolution.

Representatives Sullivan and Wilcox spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 4600 was adopted.

ELECTION OF THE SPEAKER

Representative Sullivan: “Thank you Madame Clerk, I rise to nominate Representative Frank Chopp. I want to start, there might be a little confusion, especially for those members who have only been here for a couple years or the people who have been watching TVW over the last couple years, the good gentleman from the 49th sitting next to me served as Speaker Pro-Tem for the last two years, the shorter guy with the moustache, that you don’t see as often, is Representative Frank Chopp, who has been nominated today. But in all seriousness, Madame Clerk, it really is an honor to rise today in support of this nomination of Speaker Chopp. I think if you talk to people around here, what they think of Representative Chopp, you will get a variety of opinions. They would all agree, I think, on a couple of different things. First and foremost is his passion. His passion for helping people. His passion for this institution that we represent. I think you would also get agreement about the success, his success in serving as the longest serving Speaker in the history of the State of Washington. But more importantly, his success in building agendas and moving those agendas through the process for the benefit of the State of Washington and to the people who live here. I know one of the things I’m most impressed with about Representative Chopp, is his sense of humility and his work ethic. A lot of us, after we pass bills, we’re all excited, we run to the press and we want the accolades, Representative Chopp actually runs from the press. But again, seriously, Representative Chopp is one of those people who just won’t accept the credit, he will give the credit to the people who are working on these issues, to the people he trusts here in this institution, which is all of us. He is also one who just simply after passing something that he has worked on, for sometimes years, simply rolls up his sleeves and goes to work on the next task at hand and that is just the type of leader that he is and why I have so much respect for him, and that’s why I’m honored to stand here today and ask for your support to elect Representative Frank Chopp as our Speaker for the next two years.”

Representative Kretz: “I’d like to nominate Representative DeBolt. Well I got here eight years ago and I remember when I first met Richard, I wasn’t too impressed. We didn’t really hit it off right away and it stayed that way for a while actually, but as the years went on and we spent more time together and got to know each other better, I was really struck. I think this is the best description of Richard DeBolt I could give. He is an honest, principled, compassionate, actually a kind person, he just hides it really well. After eight years of working together and seeing who he really is and seeing how much he cares about the people of this state and this institution, I’m proud to nominate Richard DeBolt.”

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative DeBolt: “Well after a speech like that I should probably withdraw my name. I would like to withdraw my name from nomination for Speaker of the House.”

MOTIONS

Representative Sullivan moved that the nominations for the Office of Speaker of the House of Representatives be closed. The motion was carried.

Representative Sullivan moved that Representative Frank Chopp be elected to the position of Speaker of the House of Representatives. The motion was carried. Representative Sullivan escorted Speaker Frank Chopp to the rostrum.

OATH OF OFFICE

Chief Justice Madsen administered the Oath of Office to Speaker Chopp.

Chief Clerk Baker congratulated the Speaker and turned the gavel over to him.

SPEAKERS’ REMARKS

Mr. Speaker: “Welcome to the People’s House! Before I get rolling, I’d like to introduce my wife, Nancy. And let’s hear it for all the spouses and family members who sacrifice for us. Let us welcome back the Republican Leader, Richard DeBolt. And the Majority Leader, Pat Sullivan. Thanks Pat, for your kind words. The new members here today represent over 20 percent of our group. Will all the new members of the House please stand. Welcome! As part of the orientation for the new members, let me introduce myself. My name is Frank Chopp and I’m the Speaker of the House. I thought I might need to introduce myself more formally, because at the dinner for new House members last week with Governor Inslee, I was congratulating one new member on his recent election. He then asked me if I was one of the State Troopers protecting the new Governor. By the way, I took his question to be a compliment. Being considered part of a security detail, I thought that was pretty cool.

We all remember the learning curve of being a new member. But I want you to know that we greatly appreciate all the talent and experience you bring to this endeavor. We will also learn from you. In particular, we are fortunate to have two active public school teachers joining our ranks. With all the focus on basic education, it’s going to be great to have with us educators who understand the challenges of the classroom. I would also like to recognize the returning members for all that they have done. Just to mention one member, I hope he doesn’t mind, Gary Alexander.

Last session, when we were facing a thorny proposal about balanced budgets, Gary came up with a new approach that solved the dilemma. I just want to say thanks Gary.

Thank you all, for serving in the House. We are elected to represent the people who are still experiencing the effects of the Great Recession brought on by the schemes and swaps of Wall Street. And despite the impact of the Great Recession on the state’s budget, we have the potential to advance a great agenda for our people. As we build a Great Recovery, let us work together to: Improve basic education for the one million students in our public schools. Extend health care to over 350,000 adults through our Basic Health Plan and cover 800,000 children with Apple Health. Strengthen the safety net to protect the most vulnerable, which, at some points in our lives, will include everyone. Promote opportunity for hundreds of thousands of college students, who are just asking for the same chances that we had when we were growing up. Create jobs for tens of thousands of the unemployed by investing in the infrastructure that will benefit all 6.8 million people in Washington state. That’s a lot of good we can do. Let’s start with Basic Education.
The McCleary decision is clear. We must make a significant down payment to support the students in our schools. Luckily, this House is leading the way. The reforms we championed in House Bills 2261 and 2776 were cited by the State Supreme Court as a guide for better meeting our constitutional mandate to provide a quality education for all students. You should be proud of the role that so many of you have played in leading the way long before the Court made its decision. As we fund education, let us always focus on the students. Let us start early in the lives of our students, since early learning is so critical to lifelong success. Let us all work towards equity in education. To close the opportunity gap, we must address poverty. Education involves more than just the classroom. Sick, hungry, or homeless children struggle in school.
The health of our students is connected to the education of their minds. To succeed in school, kids need to be healthy and ready to learn. That’s why we are so proud of our Apple Health for All Students. 95 percent of all kids in Washington now have health coverage. But 95 percent isn’t good enough. We must do better.
By the way, Apple Health could also provide a way to help fund school maintenance. But as we all know, the young are not the only ones who need health care.

Thanks to the President’s Affordable Care Act, adults will be able to get the coverage they need. Let me ask a simple question.
Does anyone here want to go without health care? Of course not.
Health care is a fundamental human need. But we must ensure that health care is affordable, that the new Health Care Exchange is efficient, and that the Medicaid expansion is based on the proven success of our own Basic Health Plan. Health care is only one part of our safety net.

Everyone, on both sides of the aisle, says that we must protect the most vulnerable. We should turn that rhetoric into reality.
Children who are victims of neglect and abuse. Foster kids without a home. Elders suffering from dementia. People with disabilities who are not able to work. The mentally ill. Those who need our compassion to help meet their basic needs of food, health, and shelter. In decades past, the mentally ill would suffer not just from their illness, but also from stigma and shame. Now, everyone has a friend or a family member who has experienced the despair of mental illness. Mental illness is not a lifestyle choice or the result of making bad decisions. We must leave the middle ages when thinking about the health of our brains. Every day, we see evidence of how mental illness affects not just individuals, but total communities as well. We need to translate this awareness into action.

Another action we must take is to create opportunity for all.
For a parent, there is no greater, heart-warming pride than to see our son or daughter graduate from college or complete a certificate or apprenticeship. That joy can turn to anguish when young people have already begun to fail. We must ensure that education in good hands for the greater good.

In many cases, public policy is informed by our own personal experience. One of the reasons I care so much about education is the history of my own family. During the Great Depression, my Dad had to go to work at the age of 12 at the coal mines in Roslyn, and my Mom didn’t finish high school, until she went back at age 69 and earned her high school diploma at the Green River Community College. From my parent’s generation to mine, opportunities were eroded. Sometimes, when we look at all that needs to be done, we can get exhausted. Sometimes, a small thing renews our faith in the future. Just a week ago, I attended an awards ceremony sponsored by the VFW: Patriot’s Pen: a Youth Essay Writing Contest. The community hall was packed. The coffee was strong. The dessert, unfortunately, was not Hostess Cupcakes. But the spirit was festive, nonetheless.
The young winners that day came from all different backgrounds; from all different parts of the world; of all different races, and of different ages, from 3rd grade to high school. In the young people there, I saw the faces of our future of a new America. A more diverse, and therefore, a stronger America. The kids defined their love of their country as contributing to the community and caring for each other. Let me quote from parts of one essay, entitled,
“What I Would Tell America’s Founding Fathers”. Dear Founding Fathers, It was all worth something, all the hard work you did.
You made a difference: by taking a chance, by trusting a mere experiment, and by not giving up. You gave us a chance to make a difference. You gave us a chance to make America great, by creating representative government, and we did. I am proud to be an American, living in the America that you started. Thank you for giving me, and everyone else, a chance to make a difference, and change the world. Those were the words of my great niece, Oakley. We, guess what, she won first place that day. Her essay brought tears to my eyes. Thanks Oakley, for making a difference in my life. Someday, I hope you will help us recognize the Founding Mothers of the future, not just the Founding Fathers from the past.

Each of us here has a story. There’s one among us with a particularly inspiring story. He’s part of a family of new Americans. And despite losing his sight at a young age, he could still envision a career as a lawyer and a campaign to get elected as a new lawmaker. It’s a real American story. And it’s part of the reason why we believe in One Nation and in One Washington. We are all in this together. We are all Americans striving to give our children a better world.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative DeBolt: “Thank you Mr. Speaker. Very nice speech, I enjoyed it a great deal, especially the opening remarks about your State Patrol background. I think it’s the guns you carry with you everywhere you go, quite scary. As we stand here today and we stand before the body as the minority party, we are excited to get to work this year. We were able to pass and work on a budget in the past two years. We’re a minority party that put out solutions in the way of the budget. We brought it to the table and we influenced policy, you heard it from the Speaker today. We made an un-winnable situation, where everybody thought we needed revenue, into a situation where we knew we didn’t. We are excited to stand here today, to solve more problems for Washington State. As I think about it, I think about the challenges ahead of us, and I think about our new Governor and what we need to do to support him. One of the things we have to support him in, is he said he didn’t want to raise taxes. He said that we didn’t need new revenue, we could solve the problem within the revenue we have. I agree Mr. Speaker. The thing that we have to do, as you talk about the great recession, we have to think about what is a great recession. What is the driver of the great recession? Is it that we need bigger government? Is that what a great recession is about? Or is it about we need jobs? Mr Speaker. When we talk about the great recovery, where do we sit as it is compared to our neighbors in Oregon and Idaho, even California. They are recovering, we have yet to begin. Why is that Mr. Speaker? Because we are not making the changes necessary to do what? Create jobs. This is a problem that we are having, opportunity gaps. As we talk about the opportunity gaps, Mr. Speaker, what is that opportunity gap? The opportunity gap is about poverty, it’s about families that are struggling, that can’t make it through their lives. They are sitting there looking at their checkbooks everyday wondering what they are going to sacrifice today because they don’t have what Mr. Speaker? A job. It’s not about Seattle jobs, it’s about the entire States’ jobs. The rural areas of Washington State are dying, Mr. Speaker, because we don’t think of them. Whether it’s a growth management act that is a cookie cutter government that has been placed upon us that worked for King County, maybe works for Pierce County, but it’s strangeling and killing rural Washington because we can’t locate businesses there. If you don’t have jobs, you don’t have revenue, it’s a simple equation. Socioeconomic woes are solved by a job and yet, Mr. Speaker, we hear that government is the way to create jobs to get out of this problem. We have picked winners and losers in the job market for too long. We have to raise the whole ship. We have to make sure rural Washington has the same opportunities as urban Washington. We need to make sure that every child has an opportunity to an education. We need to make sure that every teacher has a safe environment to work in. How do we do that? How do we make people better environmentalists? Anybody know? When you are a better environmentalist, is when you are working. That’s when you don’t change your own oil and dump it down the drain. That’s when you take precautions because you have a job to be able to pay for it, to do it right. That is when you can go out and get a new car that creates revenue for the State of Washington. Washingtonians don’t feel empowered right now because they are not working. We have 13 percent unemployment in one of my counties, 13. Is there opportunity there? We can’t get permits, Mr. Speaker that we need to build jobs. Is that government creating jobs or is that government hindering jobs? Mr. Speaker, we cannot tax our way out of the problems that we are facing today. Any time that we think that we can make it more expensive on those families of Washington to make decisions on what they are going to buy, because they’re not sure if they can afford a gallon of gas anymore, or if they can afford their property taxes anymore, anything we do to make it more expensive on them or their companies, or their employers, or lack of employers, we’re doing them a disservice. So we’re committed to three things in our caucus, funding education first, making it a priority, giving it its own budget, and making sure the children of Washington know that they are a priority and that the court knows they are a priority. We are committed to jobs. More importantly, making personal incomes rise, giving people more disposable income, more opportunities, more chances to send their kids to college to do better for their families, to be better environmentalists and be better Washingtonians Mr. Speaker. And lastly, the thing that we need to focus on the most is a sustainable budget that focuses on the mental health and public safety of Washingtonians. That we can do this within the parameters that we have set if we make the right choices. We can’t cave to special interests Mr. Speaker, we have to do what is right, we can’t pick winners and losers, we can do this, we’ve done this before. We’re only 900 million down folks, we did it with 2 billion down last time, this is a cake walk right? So Mr. Speaker, we have got to work within our means, and I’m here to commit to you, that any time you want solutions and suggestions; Gary is at your beck and call. Our caucus promises to you, to be open, honest and transparent. That we will give you everything we have to solve the problems in the State of Washington no matter who gets the credit, we want to bring our ideas forward, Mr. Speaker, and get us out on time. Thank you Mr. Speaker.”

ELECTION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

Representative Wylie: “Thank you Mr. Speaker. I knew Jim for more than ten years before I came here the last couple of years and I know very well his integrity, his passion, his gentleness and his concern for the members of our state. But there is more. For those of you that are new to this body, the Speaker Pro Tem has a job that moves the process along. We come here because we have a lot of passion. Sometimes we disagree about what are the priorities and how we address those. The Speaker Pro Tem moves the process along. We listen to his voice. He pays attention to the process, he administers it fairly and he makes sure we can all use our voices on behalf of our constituents. We all know, most of us, that Jim can do this job, that Representative Moeller has done a good job, but he does better than a good job. His speed and clarity can help us get things done and he has got a voice that we listen to for long hours and it’s a nice voice to listen to. I am proud to nominate my friend, Representative Jim Moeller.”
MOTIONS

Representative Sullivan moved that the nominations for the Office of Speaker Pro Tempore of the House of Representatives be closed. The motion was carried.

Representative Sullivan moved that Representative Jim Moeller be elected to the position of Speaker Pro Tempore of the House of Representatives. The motion was carried.

Representative Wylie escorted Speaker Pro Tempore Moeller to the rostrum.

OATH OF OFFICE

Chief Justice Madsen administered the Oath of Office to Speaker Pro Tempore Moeller.

SPEAKER PRO TEMPORES’ REMARKS

Speaker Pro Tempore Moeller: “Thank you members, Sharon for your kind words! My fellow legislators, colleagues and friends; as we celebrated with family and friends over the holidays, our nation and state experienced the horrors of the shootings at Clackamas Mall in Oregon and the elementary school shooting in Sandy Hook, Connecticut. As the children were evacuated from their school, they were told, “close your eyes”. Again, we have been reminded of the professionalism, decency and outstanding dedication to the people of this nation by our teachers, policemen, firemen and other first responders. In the midst of shock, they provide composure and protection for our children. They provide healing for the injured and protection for us all. They have set the standard for public service, and may we strive to match their commitment. But we should think about that command close your eyes and what it means for you and me. The children were asked to close their eyes, to protect them from horror but those who led them out, had to keep their eyes wide open. It made me ask, have we, the adults, and in this House, the people who pass laws, have we too often closed our eyes? You and I this morning are part of a great continuity. Hand to hand, generation-to-generation, and even from one continent to another, we hold in our hands a tremendous legacy, a high responsibility, and an historic responsibility connecting this house to assemblies and parliaments stretching back seven centuries. Along with this privilege comes this mandate, we cannot close our eyes, we must not close our eyes. In the days to come, we will study reports of slender resources, an economy healing slowly; even as we retire thousands of baby boomers every passing day, confront escalating health care costs, and must live within the discipline of global competition. We will live with limits, but limits and prudence must not be a formula for indifference or even apathy. It falls to you and me to look our challenges square in the eye. We cannot close our eyes to thousands of middle class families now cast down into gentile poverty. We cannot close our eyes to the ongoing needs of veterans returning from wars, wars that are still running, with injuries and many challenges as they struggle to come all the way home. We cannot close our eyes to the homeless and to vulnerable adults. We cannot close our eyes to our children, pride of our nation, the future of our country. And here’s something we must look right in the eye, mental illness. We have ignored it, we have looked away and now our neglect has become lethal. All of us here have taken an oath before man and God in order to begin our formal service to the state and people of Washington. We swore an oath before God, and the eyes of God are not closed. He will surely witness our actions in this place, and whether we see our brothers who sleep in the dust, or if we see our sisters who weep in mourning for the loss of children. He will see- and my friends- we must act! I pray that as your Speaker Pro Tem, that I will be worthy of your trust, that I will every day earn your confidence, and that together we will write a record of progress, meeting the needs of our time. President Kennedy once said that we choose to do the hard things, the challenging things because they are hard, and because it’s our moment and our responsibility to take them on, with open eyes, full hearts, integrity and calm determination. So let it be with us. May God bless this House and the great State of Washington. Let’s get to work. Thank you!”

ELECTION OF DEPUTY SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

Representative Carlyle: “Mr. Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I rise to place in nomination the name of the distinguished, noble and honorable gentlelady from the 33rd District, Representative Tina Orwall, for the position of Deputy Speaker Pro Tempore. It is well recognized Mr. Speaker that the 98 members of this distinguished institution have the gracious and dignified gentlelady from the 33rd to thank for our fancy new voting machines. Due to her violent destruction of our previous machine in the previous session of this Legislature, we are relieved of the discomfort of those relics of a previous century. Due to this singular accomplishment alone, it is unimaginable that anyone else could conceivably cruise to victory against her candidacy this year. However, to ensure against this remote prospect, I offer to remind my colleagues of her firm grasp of parliamentary procedure, her fair and equitable approach to leading this Chamber and her straightforward command of the legislative tasks of the day. She is well versed in the nuance of respect for all and it is with unbridled hope for an easy victory that you will stand with me in voting for the indefatigable gentlelady from the 33rd District. Thank you Mr. Speaker.”

MOTIONS

Representative Sullivan moved that the nominations for the Office of Deputy Speaker Pro Tempore of the House of Representatives be closed. The motion was carried.

Representative Carlyle escorted Deputy Speaker Pro Tempore Orwall to the rostrum.

OATH OF OFFICE

Chief Justice Madsen administered the Oath of Office to Deputy Speaker Pro Tempore Orwall.

DEPUTY SPEAKER PRO TEMPORES’ REMARKS

Deputy Speaker Pro Tempore Orwall: “Thank you Mr. Speaker, and also thank the good gentleman from the 36th Legislative District for those kind words and his support. We work in a sacred institution. We come here all from all areas across this great state. We hold different perspectives and beliefs. But most importantly, we bring forward the voices of the people we represent. I have been serving in the legislature for four years, and I can tell you that it is full of people who are hard-working, dedicated, who care deeply about this state and the people they serve. We have some challenges ahead of us but I know that working together we can find solutions and move this state Representative Ormsby: “Thank you Mr. Speaker. My reasons for nominating Barbara Baker for Chief Clerk are both personal and professional. The first day I arrived at the Capitol, one of the first folks that I met was Barbara in a different capacity, but who instilled in me the reverence of this institution and how we must conduct ourselves in fulfilling our obligation. We have seen moments of levity today but it is, as Chief Justice Madsen said, a just body and should be treated that way. It’s no mistake that the majesty and grandeur of this Chamber is as it should be so that we conduct ourselves. Barbara instilled in me on that very first day the importance of that and that is what she brings as Chief Clerk. The professional reasons for my nominating Barbara Baker for this position have to do with the job she does and I imagine that we could ask any number of members here what the job of the Chief Clerk is, and they wouldn’t know. I can tell you, that if it wasn’t being done, and done well, we would know what the job of the Chief Clerk was. That is why it’s important that they perform so well. The job of the Chief Clerk is to oversee all House employees and that includes the members. Barbara does it with great aplomb and does bring the sanctity and the reverence that this institution deserves. The way that Barbara goes about it, I would just describe in this way; a very communicative manner, she does it openly and transparently, she is accountable, she is fair, firm and consistent and for those reasons I ask you to support me in supporting Barbara Baker for Chief Clerk.”

Representative Orcutt: “Thank you Mr. Speaker. We got a new system here so I had to look somewhere else to find out when the mike was on. I also rise in support of Barb Baker, her nomination for Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives. When we took the oath of office, and I don’t have the oath of office for the Chief Clerk, but I’m sure there are some parts of that that are very similar to the ones we just took. The most important part that I want to focus on is the part that says I will faithfully and impartially discharge the duties. In her case it will be of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives. Faithfully and impartially. Let me take the faithfully part first. You heard a little about what the job entails. Facilities is a big part of it and we’ve had a lot of changes in facilities around here the last few years. We had construction on the John L. O’Brien building and a plan was put together to try and do the work over a four year period, try to do it during the interims and try to do it in a way that didn’t disturb staff. Well, the first year we found out that didn’t work. Barb went back to work on finding another way of doing it. She worked diligently, she worked with people on both sides of the aisle to come up with a solution that worked well for members, for staff, and I’m glad to report it saved the taxpayers money with the solution they came to as a result of the work that she did and we all should applaud her, if for nothing else, for that. Then, there are other issues that come up. As soon as she gets done with one, something else, that she had no idea was coming, pops up. We have had issues with the IRS who didn’t like the way that we were doing member reimbursements and she had to take that on. Then we just heard about the voting machine issue last year with the gentl lady from the 33rd, and that’s another issue that the Chief Clerk had to take on. Mr. Speaker, she faithfully discharges the duties of the office impartially. She works with members from both sides of the aisle, she listens to ideas from people from both sides of the aisle. If somebody from the minority has a concern, they can and should feel confident that when they go and talk to Barbara Baker she will listen, and she will do her level best to be fair. In all of my experiences with Barb Baker, she has been fair and I feel confident that when she takes that oath of office, to faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives that she will do exactly that.”

MOTION

Representative Sullivan moved that the nominations for the Office of Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives be closed. The motion was carried.

Representatives Ormsby and Orcutt escorted Chief Clerk Baker to the rostrum.

Chief Justice Madsen administered the Oath of Office to Chief Clerk Baker.

CHIEF CLERKS’ REMARKS

Chief Clerk Barbara Baker: “Four years ago was the first time I had the honor of addressing this body. Then, I spoke a lot about the importance of institutional history and about a man named Si Holcomb, who served as Chief Clerk for 33 years from 1933 until he died in office in 1965. It was kind of a long speech. I won’t be doing that today. But I do have two quick points that I want to make. The gist of that speech was that even though I didn’t (and still don’t) know much about him, I hoped that our work here for the House would also stand the test of time. What none of us knew then was how difficult these four years would be. Our method to get through was to use as a decision-making benchmark a goal that every person who works here shares and that is to support all the members of the House in every decision that we make. We decided on two bedrock principles that guide every decision: to be fully respectful, and to be fair. Because I believe that if there is one thing that will raise emotion, that will make a person feel hurt or to be angry, it is to believe that you aren’t being treated fairly. So, unlike Si Holcomb, there will be no pictures of me in the halls as a little old lady. But I want to let you know that I am honored by the kind words expressed here today, and especially by your vote to elect me and by extension the people of this state both during campaign seasons and legislative sessions. Of course it is a great honor, but it can also get lonely for those who are left at home. We all know what it feels like, and we know there will be nights and weekends when spouses will be doing double duty and kids will receive a goodnight phone call instead of getting tucked in. If it’s any consolation, I raised two beautiful daughters as a legislative staffer and they turned out just fine. One of them is sitting here and I’d like to close by introducing her and telling her how proud I am. So, this is my daughter, Cadence. Welcome aboard or welcome back. It is going to be fun, and thanks again.”
Speaker Chopp thanked Chief Justice Madsen and called upon Representatives Johnson and Hansen to escort the Justice from the Chamber.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the fourth order of business.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 4402

and the same are herewith transmitted.

Hunter Goodman, Secretary

January 14, 2013

MR. SPEAKER:

The Senate has adopted SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 8400 and the same is herewith transmitted.

Hunter Goodman, Secretary

The Sergeant at Arms of the House announced the arrival of the Senate at the Chamber doors. The Sergeant at Arms of the House and the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate escorted President of the Senate Brad Owen, President Pro Tempore Tim Sheldon, Senator Ed Murray and Senator Mark Schoesler to the rostrum. The Senators were invited to seats within the Chamber.
JOINT SESSION

Pursuant to House Concurrent Resolution 4402, the Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) called the Joint Session to order. The Clerk called the roll of the House members. The Clerk called the roll of the Senate members. The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) declared a quorum of the Legislature was present.

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) “The first purpose of this Joint Session is to comply with the constitutional requirement of canvassing the vote for and against referenda and initiatives and for the constitutional elective officers.”

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) called on the Clerk to read the message from the Secretary of State.

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

CANVASS OF THE RETURNS OF THE GENERAL ELECTION HELD ON NOVEMBER 6, 2012

I, Sam Reed, Secretary of State of the State of Washington, do hereby certify that according to the provisions of RCW 29A.60.260, I have canvassed the returns of the 3,172,939 ballots cast by the 3,904,959 registered voters of the state for and against the initiatives, referenda, constitutional amendments, and advisory measures which were submitted to the vote of the people at the state general election held on the 6th day of November, 2012, as received from the County Auditors.

Initiative Measure No. 1185

Initiative Measure No. 1185 concerns tax and fee increases imposed by state government. This measure would restate existing statutory requirements that legislative actions raising taxes must be approved by two-thirds legislative majorities or receive voter approval, and that new or increased fees require majority legislative approval.

Yes 1,892,969
No 1,069,083

Initiative Measure No. 1240

Initiative Measure No. 1240 concerns creation of a public charter school system. This measure would authorize up to forty publicly-funded charter schools open to all students, operated through approved, nonreligious, nonprofit organizations, with government oversight; and modify certain laws applicable to them as public schools.

Yes 1,525,807

Referendum Measure No. 74

The legislature passed Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill 6239 concerning marriage for same-sex couples, modified domestic-partnership law, and religious freedom, and voters have filed a sufficient referendum petition on this bill. This bill would allow same-sex couples to marry, preserve domestic partnerships only for seniors, and preserve the right of clergy or religious organizations to refuse to perform, recognize, or accommodate any marriage ceremony.

Approved 1,659,915
Rejected 1,431,285

Initiative Measure No. 502

Initiative Measure No. 502 concerns marijuana. This measure would license and regulate marijuana production, distribution, and possession for persons over twenty-one; remove state-law criminal and civil penalties for activities that it authorizes; tax marijuana sales; and earmark marijuana-related revenues.

Yes 1,724,209

Engrossed Senate Joint Resolution No. 8221

The Legislature has proposed a constitutional amendment on implementing the Commission on State Debt recommendations regarding Washington's debt limit. This amendment would, starting July 1, 2014, phase-down the debt limit percentage in three steps from nine to eight percent and modify the calculation date, calculation period, and the term general state revenues.

Approved 1,748,436
Rejected 1,031,039

Senate Joint Resolution No. 8223

The Legislature has proposed a constitutional amendment on investments by the University of Washington and Washington State University. This amendment would create an exception to constitutional restrictions on investing public funds by allowing these universities to invest specified public funds as authorized by the legislature, including in private companies or stock.

Approved 1,258,969
Rejected 1,602,785

Advisory Vote No. 1, Engrossed Senate Bill 6635

The legislature eliminated, without a vote of the people, a business and occupation tax deduction for certain financial institutions’ interest on residential loans, costing $170,000,000 in its first ten years, for government spending.

Repealed 1,552,134
Maintained 1,175,863

Advisory Vote No. 2, Substitute House Bill 2590

The legislature extended, without a vote of the people, expiration of a tax on possession of petroleum products and reduced the tax rate, costing $24,000,000 in its first ten years, for government spending.

Maintained 1,207,812
I further certify that according to the provisions of RCW 29A.60.250, I have canvassed the returns of the ballots cast for all federal and statewide offices, and those legislative and judicial offices whose jurisdiction encompasses more than one county in the General Election held on the 6th day of November, 2012, as received from the County Auditors, and that the votes cast for candidates for these offices are as follows:

The total number of votes cast for the office of Governor in the November 6, 2012, General Election equals 3,079,639. In accordance with Article II, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution and RCW 29A.72.150, the number of signatures of legal voters on a petition measure is determined by the total votes cast for the office of Governor at the preceding election. Signature petitions for initiatives must be equal to or exceed eight percent of and four percent of the votes cast for a referendum. To meet the eight percent requirement during the next four years, sponsors of initiative measures must submit a minimum of 246,372 valid signatures and to meet the four percent requirement, sponsors of referendum measures must submit a minimum of 123,186 valid signatures.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the State of Washington on this 8th day of January, 2013, at Olympia, the State Capital.

SAM REED
Secretary of State

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding): “In view of the election results previously read, certified to by the Secretary of State, the Joint Session now declares the following qualified citizens to be duly elected constitutional officers of the State of Washington:

The committee of honor escorted Governor Gregoire and family to the rostrum and the family was introduced: First Gentleman Mike Gregoire, Michelle and Courtney Gregoire, Scott Lindsay and Audrey Christine Lindsay.

The President welcomed state officials and representatives from the State of Nevada, as well as, representatives from the Republic of Uzbekistan who were also present in the House gallery.

The flags were escorted to the rostrum by the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post 318 Honor Guard, commanded by Ken Wojciechski. The President led the Chamber in the Pledge of Allegiance. The National Anthem was performed by the Auburn High School Choir Chamber Quartet, comprised of Linda Karout, Morgan Warren, Marcos Antonio Garcia and Ethan Hinze, Directed by Kandy Gilbert. The prayer was offered by Father Michael J. Ryan, formerly of St. Michaels Parish, Olympia, Washington.

Father Michael J. Ryan: “My friends, we read in the Hebrews Scriptures from the Prophet Micah, “This is all that I ask of you, to do justice, to love tenderly and to walk humbly with your God.” My sisters and brothers, let us pray. Good and gracious God, we gather this day to ask your continual blessings on Governor Christine Gregoire as she passes the baton on to Governor Elect Jay Inslee. As she leaves after eight years of service, may she know our gratitude for the selfless ways in which she has led amidst great and unforeseen obstacles in our economy. She stood tall and continued to work tirelessly for the entire human family of the State of Washington. In her quiet wisdom, gentle care and compassion for the vulnerable, and those who were made to feel they are on the fringe of society, she gave them a sense of inclusion in the one human family. Her concern was for all the precious people of God that she was elected to serve. Bless her for the ways she insisted, from the young to the elders among us, would have opportunities to grow through education and public service. As a tribute to Christine Gregoire may all of us here strive to protect the beautiful creation that surrounds us and it is another sign that you, our God, is generous and gracious. Thanks too, today, to Secretary of State Sam Reed, State Auditor Brian Sonntag and Attorney General Rob McKenna and we conclude now with a blessing for Chris and for First Mike and for their daughters and for their son in law Scott and this beautiful granddaughter, and for those that would like, I invite you extend an arm of blessing as we pray. May the Lord bless you and keep you, may the Lord let Gods’ face shine upon you and be gracious to you and the Lord look upon you kindly and give you peace, Amen.”

Reading of the Journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was ordered to stand approved.

HONORING STATE ELECTED OFFICIALS LEAVING OFFICE

The President: “As Washington’s 17th Attorney General, Rob McKenna served as the state's chief legal officer, directing more than 500 attorneys and 700 professional staff providing legal services to state agencies, the Governor and Legislature. He served two terms, with clear priorities: making communities safer by leading the state in fighting meth and prescription drug abuse, gang violence, human trafficking, sexual predators and domestic violence; protecting consumers and businesses from identity theft, internet predators, fraud and high-tech crimes, and promoting integrity in government by defending the state’s laws; and implementing new performance management initiatives in his office and encouraging open access to government. Prior to being elected attorney general, Rob was a Metropolitan King County Councilman from 1995-2007. He practiced business and regulatory law at Perkins Coie from 1988-1996, after receiving his J.D. from the prestigious University of Chicago Law School in 1988, where he was a member of the Law Review. He earned a B.A. in Economics and a B.A. in International Studies, both with honors, from the University of Washington. Rob and his wife Marilyn have four beautiful children.”

Rob McKenna: “Madam Governor, Mr. President, Mr. Speaker of the House, Members of the House and Senate, I am honored to be here today with so many distinguished and dedicated public servants. I am also honored by the presence here today of a number of outstanding legal professionals from the Washington Attorney General’s Office who are with us in the gallery. It has been a tremendous privilege to serve for the past eight years as Attorney General for our great state, and as the leader of the best public law office in America. As all of us do, we in the Attorney General’s Office stand on the shoulders of those who came before us, building on the tradition of excellence in the provision of legal services to this state government, and to the people of Washington State. The 1100 attorneys, professional staff and support staff in our office handle over 20,000 court cases per year, including thousands of cases involving severely abused and neglected children, vulnerable adults, and victims of crime. We represent every agency of state government, from the largest DHS, L&I, Ecology and Transportation, to the smallest. We provide them with legal counsel every day, and represent them in court thousands of times every year. The Washington AGO is recognized nationally as an outstanding law office, thanks to the tireless efforts of our staff. Over the past eight years, for example, we have won over 90 percent of our appellate cases, including all seven of the cases we have argued in the United States Supreme Court. We also represent the people of the State of Washington more directly in our role as the state’s Consumer Protection agency and anti-trust enforcement agency. In my two terms alone, we have successfully handled over 200,000 consumer complaints, brought enforcement actions against hundreds of companies that have unfairly and deceptively treated their customers, and gone after scammers of all descriptions from across the country. Thanks to the legislature’s adoption of laws we have proposed, we have deployed new legal tools against 21st Century forms of fraud, going after spyware and malware purveyors, targeting identity theft, and teaching other state attorneys general offices how to do the same. We also have taken very seriously our role in protecting the public’s safety. We have successfully sought and obtained the legal commitment of sexually violent predators, including some of the most notorious in our state’s recent history. We have prosecuted dozens of violent felons, stepping in where our county prosecutors have needed the state’s help, and we have assisted in solving many other new and cold-case crimes through our Homicide Investigations Tracking Unit. When four Lakewood police officers were brutally gunned down just after Thanksgiving a few years ago, our senior criminal investigator was on the scene that same morning, bringing to bear the resources of the HITS Unit. When a state trooper was the victim of an attempted murder in Grays Harbor County, our Chief Deputy was in the local prosecutor’s office within 24 hours, and our office prosecuted the shooter to conviction in what proved to be a very challenging case. We also have sought to protect consumers, to enhance the public’s safety, and to support our law enforcement community, by offering our office’s ideas for strengthening our state’s laws in all those areas. Thanks to members of the legislature from both parties, and to Governor Gregoire, we have seen 45 bills written in the Attorney General’s Office become law, giving hope to survivors of domestic violence, providing new tools to consumers to avoid identity theft, and protecting children from the scourge of methamphetamine and from predators, among other measures. In these and in many other ways as well, all of us in the Attorney General’s Office have sought to accomplish what all of you seek to accomplish every day when you come to work as leaders and public servants: To make a difference, to improve the lives of our fellow citizens, to leave this wonderful Evergreen State a little better than how we found it. I would like to thank all of you with whom I have been privileged to serve these past eight years, and especially the women and men of the Attorney General’s Office. It has been an extraordinary journey. Thank you very much”.

The President: “We say farewell today to one of our state’s longest-standing elected officials, State Auditor Brian Sonntag. Mr. Sonntag was first elected to public office way back in 1978 as Pierce County Clerk, working as the administrative officer for the Superior Courts. He was elected to the office of Pierce County Auditor in 1986, an office his father, Jack W. Sonntag, had held for 21 years, from 1948 to 1969. Mr. Sonntag was elected Washington State Auditor on November 3, 1992. He has been re-elected every four years since then, most recently in 2008 with 70 percent of the vote. He has served our state with distinction and honor. We now turn Mr. Sonntag to private life, where he can have more time with his wife, Jann, their five sons and three grandchildren.

Brian Sonntag: “I’d first like to introduce my wife Jann, and a few other family members here today. Sister-in-law Alison Sonntag, sons Michael and Joey and my Granddaughter, Jade. You know, our state’s founders were a bunch of populists who didn’t trust government very much. They created an independent check and balance on state and local government, the Office of State’s Auditor, and put it right smack in the Constitution. For this office, the only issue is accountability. I define that as government being open, accessible, responsive and responsible, a government that listens to people and when it talks to them and tells the truth. President Kennedy called public service, “a noble profession and a high calling.” Those of us who the voters have hired are the holders of a trust, a fragile trust. We have an opportunity to serve the public, and that opportunity comes with a responsibility, a responsibility to make a difference. I believe after 20 years as State Auditor, we have made a difference. We raised the visibility of this office so citizens could independently assess the stewardship of their government officials. We advocated for state employee whistleblowers and supported all state employees who are trying to make state government work better. We truly listened to citizens and helped connect them with their government. I’m proud that Governing Magazine credited us with what they described as a “one-of-a-kind effort to bring citizens in the decision-making fold”. Open government is a deeply held value of mine and it must be for all of us in public office. Citizens must have clear and direct access to government meetings, actions and information. It’s the foundation of our state government and government at all levels. When government’s doors are open and elected officials remember who they work for citizens’ trust and confidence in government will increase. I’m proud of the work of our office the financial compliance and performance audits we have done and also some of the broader issues we’ve looked at and reported on. Issues like underfunded liabilities, the state’s financial system, local governments at risk of financial sustainability and resizing state government’s footprint. We’ve been able to do the work we do because of the talents and commitment of the employees in the State Auditor’s Office, some of whom are here today and I’d like to recognize them. I’m so very blessed and thankful for the opportunity to serve the citizens of Washington, to have served with colleagues like these and others over the years and to have worked with some wonderful people. Good luck to all of you and thanks for your service to our state”.

The President: “And last but not least, we thank Sam Sumner Reed for his public service. Sam became Washington’s 14th Secretary of State in 2000, and has certainly made his mark in elections history. Sam and Rob McKenna took the people’s case for a wide open, Top Two Primary to the United States Supreme Court, and won. Sam also is widely recognized for sweeping improvements to the voting process following Washington’s controversial 2004 gubernatorial race, the closest in U.S. history. Throughout Reed’s past two terms in office, the Secretary has worked diligently to make Washington a more business-friendly state by allowing corporations to file electronically. Also in 2004, he launched the nation’s first state government digital archives to rescue disappearing electronic history. Prior to his service as Secretary of State, Reed was elected Thurston County Auditor five times and served as the Assistant Secretary of State. Governor Dan Evans appointed Reed Director of the Urban Affairs Commission and the Constitutional Reform Commission. Sam, whose family lived in Washington in territorial days, grew up in Wenatchee and later moved to Spokane. He attended Washington State University where he earned a Bachelor’s Degree in Social Studies and Master’s Degree in Political Science. Secretary of State Sam Reed and his wife Margie make their home in Olympia and are looking forward to spending more time traveling and working on their backhand in tennis. They have two adult children, David and Kristen, and two grandchildren.”

Sam Reed: “Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, Governor Gregoire, distinguished statewide elected officials, Chief Justice Madsen and members of the Supreme Court, legislators, family and friends, people of Washington, I thank you and I bid you farewell today. It has been an amazing ride for Margie and me – 45 years in public life, including 35 years in county and state government! Nearly a lifetime ago, it seems, we came to Olympia from the apple orchards and the Palouse of Eastern Washington to teach and to serve in government. We stayed to raise our family here and to heed to call to service. On our hardest days, we never regretted that decision. My heart is full today as this Wenatchee boy reflects on his life and work and our family’s service to the state by allowing corporations to file electronically. Also in 2004, he launched the nation’s first state government digital archives to rescue disappearing electronic history. Prior to his service as Secretary of State, Reed was elected Thurston County Auditor five times and served as the Assistant Secretary of State. And let me tell you, there’s nothing like changing diapers again to bring perspective to life. Being a grandmother is a great gift … to fall in love again and to remember what really matters. You know, the Executive Mansion was our home for eight years, and when I could, I slipped out the door and down the steps for a walk around our beautiful Capitol Campus. That was one time of my day that I could reflect. So today my last full day as Governor I invite you to come with me on my last walk to reflect on the state of the State of Washington what we accomplished this past eight years, and what we still must do to keep the state of our state strong. This particular morning, I see a woman in Beijing or Hyderabad, or Paris or Seoul. She works on a laptop that runs on Microsoft software. She sips a cup of Starbucks coffee. Her laptop ordered from Amazon was delivered to an airport via a Boeing 747. It was hauled to a warehouse on a Kenworth 18-wheeler built by our own Paccar. This woman happens to be a bio scientist. She’s working with hundreds of others on a global health project maybe a malaria vaccine led by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and PATH and our two great research universities, the University of Washington and Washington State University. The Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, PATH, or maybe she just started a small life sciences company and is working with another start-up down in Vancouver on gene therapy for a rare disease. She also is a healthy, discerning consumer, and in her bag is an apple, or bag of cherries, or bread made from Washington wheat or a bottle of fine wine for after work, all shipped through our ports from the orchards and fields of Eastern Washington, the refrigerator of the world. On our walk this morning, I want to pause and say to you: Ladies and gentlemen, there is no other state in the nation not one that has what the Great State of Washington has. There is no other state with our diversity of riches and the promise they bring to our children and grandchildren. A booming aerospace industry. Boeing just keeps winning orders for the 787, 737-MAX, the 737 and the 777. We landed the Air Force tanker contract and now let’s make sure we do the same for the 777X! Today we have the strongest, most integrated aerospace supply chain on earth with 50 percent more suppliers in the past eight years 740 and rising. The aerospace sector puts 128,000 Washingtonians to work every day. But we won’t rest on our laurels. Washington will always be the home to aerospace and the good-paying jobs that those companies bring. Along with aerospace, we have a software and IT presence that begins with Microsoft, Amazon, Real Networks and T-Mobile, but in no way ends there. We are home to more than 4,000 companies all across Washington. The fact is, our software and IT sector encompasses a broader range of products and services than just about any state in the United States, and brings more than $30 billion in business a year. Along with software and IT, a life sciences sector that took off in Seattle but now stretches to the Tri-Cities, Spokane, Snohomish County and Vancouver. About 70 Washington cities are home to 480 life sciences companies and research organizations, including biotech, pharma and medical devices. All relieve suffering here and around the world, and today they provide nearly 35,000 good-paying Washington jobs. Along with life sciences, a global health presence powered by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, PATH, our research universities and nonprofits. Thank you for establishing the Life Sciences Discovery Fund. It has proven to be an essential tool in growing the industry, and I ask you to continue to support it. Along with global health, agriculture. Apples, potatoes, wheat, wine and dozens of other products are shipped all over the world, making agriculture our second-largest export after transportation equipment. This $46 billion industry exported $8.6 billion in products in the past 12 months. That’s a record! I’ve handed out cherries in South Korea, french fries in Vietnam and Almond Roca in Beijing. I’ve enjoyed being Promoter-in-Chief but I have to admit I won’t miss being called the French Fry Lady! And along with all this, we have the Hanford Nuclear Reservation, the one-of-its-kind incubator not just for cleanup technology for the world, but for breakthroughs in everything from cancer treatment to an energy-saving electricity grid to scientists and engineers who are following the innovation of their Hanford forebears and inventing first-time technology, this time to be used to clean up not just the Hanford site, but sites from England to Russia to Japan. It’s very clear. No other state has what we have. So this morning, part way through our walk, I’m ready to report. The state of Washington is coming out of the Great Recession as a world leader in the economies of the 21st century industries that provide good jobs from Spokane to Seattle and from Bellingham to Vancouver. And despite the challenges ahead, I can say today that the state of our state is strong! We can say with confidence that in the past eight years, we have built the future of the Great State of Washington a future of promise and opportunity. On our walk, we now can see the magnificent Capitol dome in the distance and the marble building where you and I have worked together for the past eight years. I think everybody in this chamber will agree: History will reflect that this was not just any eight years. You were not just any Legislature. And these were not just any times. You and I witnessed a historic economic crisis and with it, wrenching change in our economy and in our social fabric. But we didn’t just witness it. We were called to confront it every day. And we did. Together, we served in good times and bad. And whatever the challenge, we took it on for the people of Washington State. Our biggest challenge started and 2008 when trouble hit trouble not seen since the Great Depression with revenue plunging quarter after quarter after quarter as if there were no bottom. In fact, revenue fell almost every quarter13 of 16 until it finally stabilized last February. That was the longest string of revenue drops since the Economic and Revenue Forecast Council was created 28 years ago. You were tested. I was tested. This was not what I expected. It wasn’t what anybody expected. But we stepped up. And together, we guided the state of Washington through the worst economic calamity since the Great Depression and we did it with our heads and our hearts. We did it with compassion. And we did it with our Washington values. So today, I thank you. You have much to do in the months ahead, but let’s pause this morning and be grateful to each other for all we’ve accomplished together to build the future of Washington state. When I came into office in 2005, we were at the tail end of a recession. We were on the road to recovery from the impact of Initiative 695, the dot-com bust and 9/11. There was pent-up need for services, education, health care, our social safety net, the environment, transportation. Money is never unlimited. Even then, we had to make hard choices. Everybody was banging at the door. From the start, we said that just getting by isn’t good enough. We wanted to do better for the people of our state. And we made the best decisions to build the future of Washington. The best decisions for our schoolchildren and our college students. I’m proud that in my first term, we invested more in education than at any other time in our history. We created the Department of Early Learning. The impact we make on our children will benefit our state for generations to come. Harvard has named our early learning program as the most innovative in the country. And we are one of just nine states to receive an Early Learning Race to the Top $60 million grant. We made the best decisions for our K-12 system, and despite the challenges we still face, our public schools are serving our kids in ways that this century demands if they are to succeed in the world economy. We put more money and muscle into science, technology, engineering and math or STEM so our children are ready for the jobs of the future. We are implementing a model evaluation system so our teachers can excel and win the confidence of parents. We have innovative schools with targeted, creative approaches to learning. We have Launch Year to prepare seniors for jobs or college. We have College Bound scholarships to give kids who do well in school and stay out of trouble a path to college. Let’s build more schools and fewer prisons! We made the best decisions for our two- and four-year colleges to keep the doors open to more students and more opportunity. We increased enrollment in our community and technical colleges by 31,000 students and launched online learning. Today, we are building the workforce of tomorrow: Twenty-four of our colleges provide training for aerospace jobs. We provided branch campuses to serve more Washingtonians, and today the UW has campuses in Tacoma and Bothell. WSU has campuses in Vancouver, the Tri-Cities and Spokane, and offers four-year degrees at Everett Community College. We expanded enrollment at our universities, and today we are educating 12,000 more students a year. The bottom line: 50,000 more students are getting a college education because we believe in them and our future. We significantly increased financial aid for all our college students even in tough times. We created the Student Achievement Council to focus on our students’ success from high school to higher education. We created a public-private partnership the Opportunity Scholarship so smart young people can afford a college education. The Great Recession tested our higher education system. We had tuition increases because we had to. We had no choice. We had to maintain our values, quality and access. And we did. Now the challenge is clear. Our future is at stake. We must fully fund a seamless education system from early learning through higher education. We made the best decisions for transportation. In 2005, we passed a historic construction package, and voters ratified it because we made our case. And we have delivered on our promise. From the 2005 voter-endorsed tax we are close to completing all 421 statewide projects. Eighty-eight percent have been completed early or on time, and 91 percent are on or under budget. Those projects provided thousands of good-paying jobs at a time we needed them most. And importantly, those projects move millions of people every single day. They move moms and dads to work, their kids to school and soccer practice, and products to and from our thriving ports. We are building a world-class infrastructure. In 2015, we will open the two-mile-long tunnel under the heart of Seattle to replace the crumbling, dangerous Alaskan Way Viaduct and give Seattle a world-class waterfront. I’ll be at the ribbon cutting with my granddaughter! We are building the new 520 Bridge across Lake Washington to replace the 50-year-old structure that could fall in the next bad windstorm. I’ll be at that ribbon cutting too maybe with two grandchildren! Today, that part of our future that relies on passage over Snoqualmie Pass is faster and safer for freight and motorists. We have built half of Spokane’s critical North-South Freeway. And we are on our way to building the new Columbia River Crossing to replace the current one built for horse and buggy. Ladies and gentlemen, within the past eight years, we undertook the largest transportation construction package in state history: more than $16 billion. And we not the next big earthquake or windstorm are knocking down the old Viaduct, the 520 Bridge and the Columbia River Crossing Bridge and building for our future. We made difficult decisions for our social safety net and health care. We were tested, but I believe we maintained the health and safety of our most vulnerable our seniors, our mentally ill, our developmentally disabled, and our abused and neglected children. We made sure every child in Washington has access to health care, certainly one of our proudest accomplishments. We have built one of the best long-term care systems in the nation, a system of choices for our seniors to live out their lives in dignity. AARP rates our system the second best in the country. We just became the second state in the nation to assure better, safer health care for our poorest seniors and disabled. We will merge and manage their care under Medicare and Medicaid for better-quality care at a lower cost. In 2005, we set out to cut costs, increase access and provide higher-quality health care. We did, we are, and we lead the nation. While the vast majority of other states are struggling with rising Medicaid-inflation costs, our growth rate is projected to be minus 1 percent. You heard me right: minus 1 percent. We are employing evidence-based medicine to ensure better health outcomes for Washingtonians. And because we were already reforming health care, we are among the first states in the nation to implement the Affordable Care Act! This morning I ask you to embrace this historic opportunity to give every Washingtonian the health care coverage they deserve and you will save $140 million in the next biennium. Every Washingtonian deserves an open door to the doctor when they need one! We made the best decisions for public safety. Washingtonians have a right to be safe in their homes and on the streets. We took action in good times and bad, and the crime rate has fallen every year since I took office. Every jurisdiction now has the resources to verify that sex offenders are living where they say they are. We closed three prisons to make better use of space, and did it without letting the serious offenders walk free. We strengthened community supervision and now we concentrate on the offenders who are high risk to reoffend. And I’m proud to say the Washington State Patrol is ranked one of the best state law enforcement agency in the country. We made the best decisions for our economy. One in three jobs in our state depends on international trade. We sold, traded and created innovative partnerships through 12 trade missions. This fall, we became the first state to establish a sister-state relationship with an Indian state. Andhra Pradesh, China is now our number one trading partner, with Canada, Japan and Korea close behind. Trade with China alone has grown at an average rate of nearly 20 percent a year since 2000, even during the global downturn. In the past eight years, we have recruited and retained shippers at our ports, most recently Hanjin, Korea’s largest container line, at the Port of Seattle. Our export of goods has grown 119 percent, from about $30 billion to $65 billion. Export of services is up by an additional $29 million. Make no mistake. Our trade economy kept us going through the hard times and it is our future. It unites Eastern and Western Washington, impacts every community and provides the jobs we need. We are the most trade-dependent state in the nation, and the fact is our work knows no boundaries. Like never before, we trade with the world! We made the best decisions for clean, renewable energy now and in the future. Our base is legacy hydropower. When I took office, we produced no wind power. Today we are among the top-five wind energy producers. We are pioneering the smart grid and have a strong presence in the solar power supply chain. Clean, renewable energy has been our unique history for 80 years. Today, we are number one in the nation in renewable energy. We made the best decisions for water. I believe a new era is finally here, when bitter wars over water are finally surrendering to partnerships that bring good, clean and new water to our farms, our fish and our growing cities. We’ve made the most progress with water in our history: more water to the Yakima Basin and our growing west side cities, innovative tools through water markets and banking to create flexibility, and protection for our fish-critical basins. Mark Twain said that whiskey’s for drinking and water’s for fighting. Well, no longer will our water policy be defined by who won and who lost. It’s high time that we all win and we will! We made the best decisions for broadband. Today, 99 percent of Washingtonians have access to high-speed internet. We had a plan when the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act was looking to invest in broadband. Today we’ve been named the most-wired state in the nation. We made the best decisions to save the jewel and economic engine of Western Washington, our Puget Sound. We created a partnership among local, state and federal governments, tribes and stakeholders to get it done. We must meet our goal to make Puget Sound fishable, swimmable and diggable by 2020. Let’s be the generation that saves Puget Sound! We made the best decisions to support our brave military men and women and veterans. In fact, you passed, compensation and unemployment insurance systems. We saved our strongest in the nation. We helped employees and employers savings. Ladies and gentlemen, we are the envy of states around the country. Our public pension system is now rated one of the strongest in the nation. We helped employees and employers weather the recession. Together, we reformed our workers’ compensation and unemployment insurance systems. We saved our businesses including small businesses billions of dollars in the years to come. We held workers’ comp rates flat again this year. And over the past eight years, we had little or no increases in workers’ comp premiums. In two of those years, the Department of Labor and Industries returned $350 million. At the same time, we reformed the way we serve injured workers, and we’re getting them back on the job faster or trained for new careers. While 36 states’ funds are bankrupt, we have the most stable unemployment insurance trust fund in the nation and record-low UI rates.

Together, we ripped out the walls and pulled up the floors to remodel our 123-year-old house of government. We consolidated and merged all or part of five agencies’ back-office operations under one director at the new Department of Enterprise Services. This has already saved taxpayers $18 million and is expected to save another $27 million in the next biennium. We closed six institutions. The last time even one was closed was four decades ago. Since 2008, our general government workforce has shrunk by nearly 11 percent. The number of state employees is the lowest since 1996, and they serve 1 million more people. Our public servants have met the challenge and they have sacrificed with furloughs and pay cuts, with higher health care premiums and pension payments. They helped make my favorite four-letter word GMAP, for Government Management Accountability and Performance successful. Now they’re doing Lean management to serve Washingtonians in better and more efficient ways. Today let’s recognize the caseworker called out at midnight to save a battered child the snowplow driver clearing Snoqualmie Pass at 3 a.m. the agriculture inspector making sure our food is safe … the legislative lawyer who works through the night to get the bills just right … the person at the front desk whose phone is lit up all day long. Today I ask you to stand and join me in well-deserved recognition for our dedicated state employees! Finally, we made the best decision for our gay and lesbian citizens, and the people of Washington agreed. We clearly saw that separate but equal is not equal. We gave all couples the right to marry and to help us build a better Washington and a better world. I’m proud that our gay and lesbian couples became the first in the country to marry because their friends and neighbors stood up at the ballot box and said they should have that right. I’m proud that our citizens passed marriage equality by the widest margin of any state. And I’m proud of my daughters for showing the way and helping me realize that their generation understands that who you are is not about who you love. Thank you. So thanks for taking this walk with me today. It’s my last one, and I appreciate your company. Tomorrow at noon, I will be the former Governor of the Great State of Washington. And you will be writing new history with Governor Jay Inslee. Before I go, I have two recommendations for you about the future of the Great State of Washington. First, this Legislature must give our children what we were given good schools, good teachers and the chance to be part of the world economy. We cannot falter. Education is the heart of everything we do and it is our future. Second, if education is the heart of our economic future, transportation is the backbone. Our state will remain strong only if our roads, highways, bridges and ferries are effectively getting our people to work and our goods to market. Remember our competition. China isn’t waiting. India isn’t waiting. Korea isn’t waiting. We can’t wait either. There is no free lunch! The decision of the Supreme Court in McLeay told us we are failing in our paramount duty. Our moral and legal responsibility is to give every child in Washington the chance for a good basic education, the same one you and I got. We cannot cut our way out of this. We cannot save our way out of this. We cannot grow our way out of this. To meet the McLeay ruling, we will need at least a $1 billion down payment in the next biennium, and $3.4 billion by 2018. Today is the day. Now is the time to invest in our children and their future! We must also have the transportation infrastructure for our economic corridors to get employees to work and goods to market if we want to remain a vibrant economic competitor in the years to come. These projects and more demand funding: the Columbia River Crossing, the Dennyabby Bridge and the Washington State Route 167 between Tacoma and Puyallup. The 40-mile I-405 corridor. A new 144-car ferry. And I-5 at Joint Base Lewis-McChord. Freight-dependent businesses account for nearly 45 percent of our jobs. Companies move nearly $40 million worth of freight on our roads every single hour. We must maintain our very valuable transportation system, from highways and bridges to ferries and city streets. I urge you to come together find a way to make sure we continue to make transportation improvements and build the future of Washington. If we step up to our commitment to build a new Columbia River Crossing with Oregon this year, the federal government will too. I urge you to invest the $450 million to make certain that this critical West Coast economic corridor moves forward. Now is the time to build the future of Washington! In the end, these two challenges are only that challenges. You’ve met tougher ones in the past eight years, and you delivered for the people of Washington. I know you will deliver again. You will do what you always do. You will keep the state of our state strong! Finally, today, in my last appearance as governor, I still feel the need to pinch myself a little to make sure the past eight years weren’t just a dream maybe my mother’s dream too, the short-order cook at the Rainbow Café in Auburn for all those years the single mom who worked so hard and kept a watchful eye on her daughter, Chris O’Grady, sitting on a stool in the kitchen doing her homework. I always believed what my mom said. You can make it in America if you work hard enough. If you respect yourself and serve those around you. If you keep the faith and don’t give up. That’s what I did. I was just a Washington girl who loved to play basketball, pick blueberries, ride horses in the summer. I was just a young Washington woman who became the first in her family to graduate from college. I was just a Washington woman who got that gift of education, who admired John F. Kennedy and who chose a career of public service as a clerk typist, a caseworker, an Assistant Attorney General, Director of Ecology, an Attorney General and then the ultimate privilege: to serve as Governor of the state I love, the Great State of Washington. And on my last full day as Governor, I can speak from experience and say we still live in the greatest state in the nation and the greatest country in the world. Thank you, people of Washington, for the pleasure of serving you. And thank you, ladies and gentlemen of the Legislature, for hearing me one last time. I appreciate it. I will miss governing and I will miss all of you. Please accept my deepest thanks for your public service. Farewell, God bless you and God bless the great State of Washington.”

President Owen: “Thank you Governor for you very, very profound remarks. I can see why you are such an excellent politician, emphasized by a couple of our colleagues. For instance, Auditor Sonntag pulls out a grocery list during his remarks, as a prop. Okay. Sam Reed? A used up old briefcase. The Governor? A two-month old baby. Nice going. Governor you have been proven to be a very skilled mediator, a tough negotiator, and extremely effective leader in the toughest of times. We thank you very much and wish you all the best. Personally, I would like to thank you for your tremendous accessibility, your guidance and your friendship over the years that we’ve had. Thank you very much. We would also like to present you with a little remembrance of your time serving the great State of Washington."

On behalf of the people of the State of Washington and the Legislature, the President presented Governor Christine Gregoire with a gift of artwork created by Ms. Kim Merriman in gratitude for and recognition of her public service.

The President asked the committee of honor to escort Governor Gregoire and the Gregoire family from the House Chamber.

The President asked the committee of honor to escort the statewide elected officials from the House Chamber.

The President asked the committee of honor to escort the Supreme Court Justices from the House Chamber.

On motion of Representative Sullivan, the Joint Session was dissolved. The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) assumed the chair.

The Sergeant at Arms of the House and the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate escorted President of the Senate Brad Owen, President Pro Tempore Tim Sheldon, Senator Ed Murray and Senator Mark Schoesler from the Chamber.

There being no objection the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

There being no objection, the House adjourned until 10:00 a.m., January 16, 2013, the third day of the Regular Session.

JOINT SESSION

Pursuant to House Concurrent Resolution 4402, the Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) called the Joint Session to order. The Clerk called the roll of the House members. The Clerk called the roll of the Senate members. The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) declared a quorum of the Legislature present.

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) called upon the President of the Senate, Lt. Governor Brad Owen, to preside over the Joint Session.

President Owen: “The purpose of the Joint Session is to administer the oaths of office to statewide elected officials and to receive the inaugural address from His Excellency, Governor Jay Inslee.”

The President appointed a committee of honor to escort the Chief Justice and the Justices of the State Supreme Court Justices to the House Chamber: Representatives Freeman and O’Ban; and Senators Fain and Mullet.

The President appointed a committee of honor to escort the statewide elected officials to the House Chamber: Representatives Appleton and Magendanz; and Senators Conway and Rivers.

The President appointed a committee of honor to advise His Excellency, Governor Jay Inslee, that the joint session had assembled and to escort him to the House Chamber: Representatives Hunt and Zeiger; and Senators Cleveland and Parlette.

The Sergeant at Arms of the House announced the arrival of the Chief Justice and the Justices of the State Supreme Court at the Chamber doors. The committee of honor escorted the Chief Justice and the Justices of the Supreme Court to seats on the floor of the House Chamber and they were introduced: Chief Justice Barbara Madsen, Justice Charles W. Johnson, Justice Susan Owens, Justice Mary E. Fairhurst, Justice James M. Johnson, Justice Debra L. Stephens, Justice Charlie Wiggins, Justice Steven Gonzalez and Justice Sheryl Gordon-McCloud.

The Sergeant at Arms of the House announced the arrival of the statewide elected officials to the Chamber doors. The committee of honor escorted the statewide elected officials to the floor of the House Chamber and they were introduced: Secretary of State elect Kim Wyman, State Treasurer Jim McIntire, State Auditor elect Troy Kelley, State Attorney General elect Bob Ferguson, Superintendent of Public Instruction Randy Dorn, Insurance Commissioner Mike Kreidler and Commissioner of Public Lands Peter Goldmark.

The President introduced the special guests present in the Chambers: former Governor Mike Lowry; Secretary of State Sam Reed; Ms. Virginia Cross, Tribal Chairman, Muckleshoot Tribal Council; Mr. Melvin R. Sheldon, Jr., Chairman, Board of Directors, Tulalip Tribes; Mr. Harry Smiskin, Chairman, Yakama Nation Tribal Council; and Mr. Brian Cladoosby, Chairman, Swinomish Indian Tribal Community. The President introduced members of the Suquamish Tribe. The President introduced the Honorable Lyle Stewart, Minister of Agriculture and minister responsible for Saskatchewan Crop Insurance Corporation, of Saskatchewan province of Canada, Member of the Legislative Assembly (MLA) for Thunder Creek, Saskatchewan, and president of the Pacific NorthWest Economic Region (PNWERS) executive committee; the Honorable Alana DeLong, Member of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta for Calgary-Bow, Alberta and representative to PNWERS; the Honorable Douglas Horne, the Member of the Legislative Assembly for Coquitlam-Burke Mountain, Province of British Columbia and representative to PNWERS; the Honorable Deborah Boone of Canon Beach, Oregon, a member of the Oregon State House of Representatives serving the 32nd Legislative District, and a representative to PNWERS.

The President welcomed members and representatives of the State of Washington Consular Association who were present in the Gallery. The members of the Consular Association were joined by Consul General Gao Zhansheng of the Consulate General of the People’s Republic of China in San Francisco and Consul General Priya Guha of the British Consulate General of the United

The Sergeant at Arms of the House announced the arrival of His Excellency Governor-elect Jay Inslee at the Chamber doors. The committee of honor escorted Governor-elect Inslee to his seat at the rostrum and he was introduced.

The flags were escorted to the rostrum by the Washington State Patrol Honor Guard, commanded by Trooper Pete Stock. The President led the Joint Session in the Pledge of Allegiance. The National Anthem was performed by Miss Lena Hou, a fourth grade student at Sierra Heights Elementary School in Renton. The prayer was offered by Reverend Doctor Dee Eisenhauer, Eagle Harbor Congregational Church, Bainbridge Island, Washington.

Reverend Doctor Dee Eisenhauer: “Holy One whom we call by many names. Out of our separate paths we have converged in this place on this day of new beginnings. Call us out of our separateness, out of our parties and caucuses, out of our interest groups and districts, help us for this moment to transcend all that divides us. Give us in these moments of prayer a spirit of true unity as we attune our souls to a Higher Power. God of grace, we come to this day of new beginnings with joy, celebrating the hard work, deep convictions and good intentions that brought all those who have run for public office into this temple of democracy. We thank you for inspiring Governor Inslee and all of his colleagues in government with a will to serve, and we celebrate their Yes! to the call to service, and the people’s Yes! to their abilities. We come to this day and this place with excitement and with some trepidation as well, mindful of the difficult tasks ahead for all those who hold public office. The complexities of the problems we undertake to solve are mind-boggling. The choices we are called upon to make are so often heart-wrenching as we juggle competing interests while struggling to discern greater goods and lesser evils. We do this juggling and struggling as imperfect beings. Creator, you know us to be creatures with speckled hearts. We long to do good and we relish being right. We are suitably proud of our skills and accomplishments, and at the same time often blind to our own faults and weaknesses. Keep all who lead vigilant against the powers and temptations that would corrupt the heart and cripple our democracy. Keep each one humble enough to confess a mistake and hopeful enough to begin again with the fresh insight that only failure can teach. We need your aid to see beyond our own narrow interests to a broad vision of the common good. We ask that you, champion of the poor and vulnerable, keep the voices of the voiceless heard in the ears of the heart. Kindle compassion for those whose ability to take care of themselves is compromised by unemployment, disability, illness, injury, or age. Especially we ask you to keep the future of our children and youth in minds and hearts as we strive to leave a better world for those who follow us. You have blessed Governor Inslee with a passion for preserving this green earth. Use his passion and vision to advance our state’s stewardship of the magnificent natural resources entrusted to us, that present and future generations might benefit from this term of leadership. Amidst the cacophony of conflict we anticipate as those elected set out to govern, we pray that you would provoke peace. Help each one seek the common ground that welcomes both conviction and compromise. Help us find the dynamic balance between continuity and change. Where we cannot reach unanimity, steer us away from futile dissonance and stir us instead to creative harmony. We lift your servant Jay Inslee into your light. Give him wisdom. Give him courage. Give him strength and patience. Nudge him to seek help when help is needed, from You, and from his community of friends and colleagues. Help him to listen as well as he speaks, to learn as well as he teaches, to follow as well as he leads. Guard his health, and protect him from all who would seek to harm him with weapons or words. Bless and strengthen his marriage to his best friend, confidant and partner, Trudi, as they walk this new road together. May the words of our mouths, the meditations of all of our hearts, the fruits of our labor, the effects of our policies, the legacy of our laws, the dynamics of our decisions be acceptable in your sight, O Lord, our Strength and our Redeemer. Amen.”

The Washington State Patrol Honor Guard retired from the Chamber.

OATHS OF OFFICE

The President called Commissioner of Public Lands Peter Goldmark to the rostrum of the House to receive the Oath of Office. Justice Charlie Wiggins thereupon administered the Oath of Office to Commissioner Goldmark. The President presented Commissioner Goldmark a certificate of election and he retired to his seat on the floor of the House.

The President presented Secretary Wyman a certificate of election and she retired to her seat on the floor of the House.

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) assumed the Chair.

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) called Lt. Governor Brad Owen to the rostrum of the House to receive the Oath of Office. Justice James Johnson thereupon administered the Oath of Office to Lt. Governor Owen. The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) presented Lt. Governor Owen a certificate of election.

The President of the Senate resumed the Chair.

The President called Mr. Jay Inslee, Governor-elect, to the rostrum of the House to receive the Oath of Office. Chief Justice Barbara Madsen thereupon administered the Oath of Office to Mr. Inslee, Governor-elect. The President presented Governor Inslee a certificate of election and the Joint Session received the Governor’s inaugural address.

GOVERNOR’S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

Governor Inslee: “Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Madam Chief Justice, distinguished justices of the court, my fellow statewide elected officials, members of the Washington State Legislature, members of our armed forces and National Guard, members of the Consular Corps, Governor Christine Gregoire and my fellow Washingtonians. Our world is changing faster and more dramatically than ever before. Once-in-a-lifetime events now seem to happen with startling regularity. We’ve seen the greatest financial crisis since the Great Depression, natural disasters fueled by climate change and unimaginable human tragedies like Sandy Hook Elementary. But we also bear witness to rapid breakthroughs in technology, medicine and the fundamental understanding of our universe. Every day I am left in awe at how much we are able to achieve and heartbroken over the tragedies that we have had to endure. We truly live in extraordinary times. We also live in an extraordinary state, filled with extraordinary people. Where the world sees uncertainty, we see opportunity. And we all feel a profound responsibility to our children and our grandchildren. We have a spirit of innovation here in Washington that has changed the world, from aerospace to software to e-commerce. And you know what? We are not done. A new world economy is emerging from the depths of this recession. While its contours and relationships are not fully understood to us, we do know two things: One: With our uniquely powerful fusion of values and talents, Washington state has the potential to lead the next wave of world changing innovations. Two: The world will not wait for us. We face fierce and immediate global competition for the jobs of tomorrow. Leading this next wave of growth is our opportunity, not our entitlement. We must move, swiftly and boldly, to put this recession behind us and bring forward a unique economic strategy that brings the best of Washington state to the world. As Franklin Delano Roosevelt said, “Never before have we had so little time in which to do so much.” Today, I’d like to share my vision of the path ahead. I know that to achieve this vision we must all work together. Democrat and Republican, House and Senate, East and West, to answer the challenges of our age. I have represented both sides of our state, first as a state representative from the Yakima Valley, then in Congress representing both Eastern and Western Washington. I want to thank the people of Washington for electing me your governor. I am truly humbled to represent all of Washington, and to deliver the change in Olympia you asked for last November. Now I would like to do something very difficult to do as a University of Washington Husky, and that is to honor a Washington State Cougar. I would like to introduce all of you to my wife of 40 years, Trudi Inslee. We met at Ingraham High School and raised our family in a century-old farmhouse in the Yakima Valley. I’d also like you to meet my three boys and their families: Connor; Joe; Jack and his wife, Megan; our grandson, Brody; and the newest Inslee, Zoe Ann. This is a very special day for my family. And this is a very special time in history for many other families. People all across Washington stood up for fairness and family in approving marriage equality last November. We should all be proud. The vote on Referendum 74 represents the best of who we are as a state. It should be an inspiration for the progress we can make toward equality, fairness and justice across all of Washington. It has been an amazing journey over the past year and a half, as I’ve traveled to all corners of the state. I am a fifth generation son of the state of Washington, and am proud to have roots in this state that are as wide as they are deep. My family came to this state as fishermen and gold miners. My grandmother raised four boys as a single mother working at Bartell drugstore. My uncles built the best airplanes in the world at Boeing, my dad was a biology teacher and I am proud that my mom and dad worked to restore the alpine meadows of Mount Rainier. I am proud of the working people of Washington, and I know their work, having driven bulldozers in Bellevue, painted houses in Burien, run the business end of a jackhammer, prosecuted drunk drivers and raised hay in the Yakima Valley. Washington has welcomed many people to our great state from all points of the compass, but no matter when you and your family arrived here, in our souls all of us in Washington are pioneers. That is what makes us unique. We push the world forward. We take risks. We take pride in what we do and who we are. I look forward to a true partnership with Senate Majority Leader Rodney Tom and Minority Leader Ed Murray, and with House Speaker Frank Chopp and Minority Leader Richard DeBolt. I want us to collaborate early and often on a legislative agenda that benefits all of Washington. I want to work with every member of the Legislature too. Our economy draws its strength from a marketplace of ideas, and so should our state. I have called all 146 of you already to begin this partnership. If you received a message from me, that wasn’t a robocall. I need to talk to you about the future of our state. When the people of Yakima sent me here to Olympia more than two decades ago, Washington had just completed its first century. I sat and listened as former Governor Booth Gardner presented us with a challenge heading into Washington’s second century. He said, “Either we respond to international competition, or we doom ourselves and our children to a dramatic slide to second-rate status.
in the world.” We chose to answer this challenge with a unique formula for international success that has made us who we are today: businesses, entrepreneurs, state government, all working together. Now it’s 24 years later. I have a new job, a new vantage point, and the world looks much different. A once-vibrant and growing state economy was brought low by the gross irresponsibility of those on Wall Street. As a result we have suffered four years of recession, with almost 300,000 people in Washington looking for work. Too many of our families are on the brink of losing their home. Parents lie awake at night wondering how they can provide for their children’s future. But we remain an optimistic state, a visionary state and an innovative state. Time has not dimmed and the recession has not diminished our thirst for innovation and our talent for technological growth. We are the most creative, entrepreneurial group of businessmen and women, scientists, educators and workers on the planet. Companies such as Silicon Energy in Marysville are leading the world with some of the most durable solar cells ever built. Janicki Industries in Sedro Woolley is driving innovation in aerospace. Valve, a software company in Bellevue, has grown into a world-class leader in interactive entertainment. And an across-the-board effort led to the re-opening of Grays Harbor Paper last year, putting 175 people back to work making 100 percent recycled paper. Innovation is in our genes. We create. We invent. We build. So now we must go forward, with both high ambition and a recognition that the power of innovation will fuel the next wave of job growth in Washington.

Make no mistake: Our top priority today, tomorrow, and every day for the next four years, is jobs. We must build a working Washington, capable of sustained economic leadership in a rapidly changing world. During the campaign I put out a plan to get Washington back to work that grew to more than 100 points of action. My plan focuses on job growth in seven industry clusters: aerospace, life sciences, military, agriculture, information technology, clean energy technology and the maritime trades. These clusters represent both the present and the future key drivers of economic growth and job creation in our state. We must support innovators in these areas with incentives to take risks and bring ideas from dream to reality. I have proposed a tradable research and development tax credit to help early-stage companies to develop and commercialize their idea. It’s worked in other states, and it’s something we can do this session. I will work with the Legislature to make it more desirable for small and medium-size businesses to hire more people in Washington. We must also do a better job commercializing the technologies developed in our world-class research institutions, connecting the dots from the classroom to the laboratory to the marketplace. No economic strategy would be complete without a transportation plan that facilitates this growth. This session I expect to work with stakeholders who have already committed to a bipartisan plan to build an infrastructure for the next generation. In the next 10 years, our population will grow by approximately three-quarters of a million people, but we will not be adding one more square inch of dirt. To honestly address our infrastructure, we have to recognize that creativity is as important as concrete. I want us to turn our innovative spirit toward crafting a transportation package that includes roads, trains, light rail, buses, bike routes and other modes of transportation. We need ways to free capacity for freight and commerce, and rethink how we do the business of transportation in our state and how we use our transportation infrastructure. If we’re serious about long-term economic growth, innovation must become part of the culture of Olympia. I heard a clear and powerful message on Election Day. The people of Washington State are tired of a state government that doesn’t change with the times. They expect me, and all of us here, to be as innovative as the people we represent. Since the recession, the debate over the state budget seems to be stuck in the movie “Groundhog Day.” We have the same arguments and we revisit the same untenable options. It’s time we made it to a new day. Today we begin a multi-year effort to bring disruptive change to Olympia, starting with the very core of how we do business. With authentic, courageous leadership, we will bring the principles of Lean management to all of state government, following the lead of Boeing, Virginia Mason and a growing number of state and local governments. We will provide efficiency, effectiveness and transparency. We will introduce performance metrics where it counts, giving us the data we need to fix what’s broken, cut what we don’t need and replace rhetoric with quantifiable results. But this effort is about more than measurement. It’s about instituting a culture shift that will endure well beyond my administration. Moving forward, all state agencies will be rooted in the same three principles: First, we will measure success by the results we produce, not the money we put in. Second, we will know our customers and what they value. Third, every agency will adopt a unique process for continual improvement that engages our state employees. Change is coming to Olympia, and I want all state workers to be actively involved in knowing how much you have sacrificed. You are on the front lines, figuring out how to do more with less just like every family in Washington right now. You will be empowered as change agents, and we will need your ingenuity and dedication more than ever. I am serious about reform. In the weeks to come, I will be taking action to transition to a results- and data-driven government, with continuous quality improvement, employee engagement and clear accountability. And to honestly address our budget problems, we must admit the difficult truth that the road to a balanced budget and a fully funded educational system runs directly through health care reform. This means investing in preventive care and aligning incentives with patients to encourage healthy lifestyle choices. King County is already doing this, and it is working. We’ll improve the health of all of us in Washington as we move from “sick care” to the true health care system we deserve. We need to leverage our Medicaid and state employee health systems, and engage providers, carriers and community clinics, to find innovative payment models and health care delivery systems that incentivize quality over quantity. Effectively implementing the Affordable Care Act will save us money by removing the hidden tax of hundreds of dollars paid monthly by all our state’s insured citizens. We can do this for the health of our family and the health of our economy. When we make our health care system more efficient, we lower the cost of doing business in our state. The states that get this right will have a clear advantage in recruiting and retaining the jobs of tomorrow. This session, we must make sure Washington gets this right, first. We must also protect the quality and choice that we expect from a health care system that works. Washington women need the freedom and privacy to make the health care decisions that are best for themselves and their families. That’s why I look forward to the Legislature sending the Reproductive Parity Act to my desk, which I will sign. Let’s get this done. For Washington to be successful, our economy, our government and our schools must all work together, but before we continue, I want to take a moment to honor the courage and heroism of public school teachers, educators and all our public employees. The tragedy at Sandy Hook Elementary School in Connecticut showed us all that our nation’s educators put the welfare of their students above everything, even their own lives. You may have heard the story about the parent who was in the principal’s office when the sounds of gunshots began. That parent said she ran to get under the nearest desk, as most people would have done, but the educators in the room ran another way. They ran toward the sound of the gunfire. They did not return. It is my fervent hope that the country sees the sacrifices made at this one school, in this one state, as entirely consistent with what teachers and educators do every day, in every school, protect the children in their care. The tragedy at Sandy Hook was unimaginable, but not unfamiliar. We have lost too many loved ones in Washington state: in a Seattle café, in Lakewood, at the Seattle Jewish Federation, in a house in Carnation, all victims of a lethal combination of untreated mental illness, evil intent and easy access to deadly weapons. Any failure to address the issue of violence in our communities and our schools will be intolerable, and in the coming weeks I will work with the Legislature to address this crisis responsibly. I don’t have all the answers, but I know the sooner we reject the extremes and embrace common sense, the sooner we’ll be able to get a public health solution to this public health problem. And common sense tells us that this solution will involve mental health and keeping guns out of the wrong hands while respecting the right of my son to hunt and my uncle to defend his home. All of us have an obligation to provide for the well-being of our families, to ensure their safety and to make sure our children are prepared for the world. I am proud to live in a state where the education of our children is enshrined as the paramount duty of state government. I got my start in politics as a concerned parent when Trudi and I led the effort to fund the construction of a new high school. I’m inspired by the pockets of excellence I have seen in schools all across Washington. In Pasco, they improved high school graduation rates through intervention teams they created. In Renton, they closed achievement gaps with a world-class approach that demands continuous quality improvement in how we educate our children. I visited TAF Academy where, thanks to a unique public-private partnership, young students are applying the latest technological tools to solve real-world problems. Across our state we need this kind of real innovation, real reform using proven models and real accountability. We need to increase the emphasis on STEM education. Science, technology, engineering and math are just as important to the next generation as the three R’s were to my generation. They are the essential tools for success in this new economy. We need to invest more where we get the biggest return, in high-quality early learning programs. We need a system that aligns from early learning to kindergarten to 12th grade to our universities. Accountability must be present at every level. We should continue the progress we are making on improving the teacher and principal evaluation system, and make it a significant part of personnel decisions. And yes, we need to meet the funding obligations set out by the McCleary decision, but we cannot continue to allow funding debates to mask deeper problems in our schools that demand innovation and reform. I want us to be able to look our children in the eyes, knowing that we honored our commitment to provide them a world-class education, not through gimmicks or blind allocation of money but through systemic, sustainable reform of our schools. It’s also critical for us to preserve the leading role our research institutions play in inventing the future, growing our economy and creating jobs. While we do this, we can no longer accept the misalignment between what our schools teach and what skills our employers need. This is something I will act on immediately to sharpen the relationship between our schools and the economy they are preparing our young people to enter. It will be hard work, but it is required work if we want Washington to rise to the challenges the world will present us. There is no challenge greater for Washington, with more opportunity for job growth and more suited to our particular brand of genius and ingenuity, than leading the world’s clean energy economy. It is clear to me that we are the right state, at the right time, with the right people. It’s also clear to me that we face grave and immediate danger if we fail to act. Nine of 10 of the hottest years on record happened in the past decade. We’ve had epic flooding, searing drought and devastating wildfires, including last summer’s fires in Central Washington and the rising tides along our coast. Our Pacific Northwest waters, especially in Puget Sound, are becoming too acidic, forcing parts of our shellfish industry to move last year. In Eastern Washington, our long tradition in agriculture could be threatened if snowpack declines. Water stored as snow is money in the bank for Washington’s rural economies, but the bank could fail if we don’t act. As a parent and a grandparent, I cannot consciously accept the dangers of climate change for my family or yours. As a Governor I can’t afford to look the other way or point fingers or deny these realities, and I cannot allow our state to miss the moment we are destined for. All of us in Washington will have to square up to both our responsibility and our opportunity on climate change, and when we do, I’d like us to remember what Dr. Martin Luther King once said: “The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy.” On climate change, we have settled the scientific controversy. What remains is how we respond to the challenge. Now I know Washington can’t solve this global problem alone, but we must embrace our role as first responders as our children’s health is in clear and immediate danger. We must also embrace our role as entrepreneurs and pioneers, ensuring that economic solutions to climate change begin here. Companies in this state are already moving forward, and we will not hand over our destiny to lead the world in clean energy to any state or to any nation. We don’t deny science in Washington; we embrace it. We do not follow technological innovation; we lead it. And we will not pass up a golden opportunity to create jobs. We need these clean energy jobs that work for the long haul. They will be in Bellingham at the Itec solar company, in Seattle at MacDonald-Miller, a great efficiency company, in Spokane at the McKinstry Company and at Boeing where we are making the world’s most fuel efficient jet. These jobs won’t just fall into our lap. Washington has what it takes to win, but the clean energy race is highly competitive. Germany, China and California are not waiting. Neither should we. Over the next four years, we need to show our commitment with policies to promote economic growth, research and development on clean energy, to lock in the next wave of growth and opportunity for the next generation. I look forward to having a real dialogue with the Legislature in the coming weeks on how we best put our ingenuity to work to meet the challenges before us — on creating jobs, educating our children, changing how we do business in state government and creating a culture of leading the world in energy independence. But as we move forward to determine what we will do, we must also remember who we are as a state. Washington is a state that embraces all people for who they are. A state that allows all to love who they will. A state that is never content with today, but is always leading the world in inventing tomorrow. A state whose very name commits itself to the preservation of its own beauty for its own grandchildren and its own great-grandchildren. The Evergreen State. Thank you. Now let’s get to work. Thanks a lot.”

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, Today, January 21, 2013, we join with the people of the state of Washington and throughout our nation in celebration, and in reflection, of the life and legacy of the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.; and

WHEREAS, We recall Dr. King's words almost half a century ago when he stood bravely in our nation's capital, in the shadow of the Lincoln Memorial, a magnificent tribute to the Great Emancipator, and articulated to all Americans a bold vision, declaring, "I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal"; and

WHEREAS, We remember Dr. King's courageous words and his unwavering commitment in the face of tyranny and oppression; in abuse and incarceration; and we thank him for his sacrifice; and

WHEREAS, Dr. King's work, and the mere mention of his name, are synonymous with peace and equality; and

WHEREAS, He received the Nobel Prize for Peace in 1964, the youngest man to ever be selected for this singular honor; and

WHEREAS, Dr. King and his followers helped change the status quo through nonviolent means, with protests at lunch counters and a march on Selma; and

WHEREAS, Dr. King helped bring an overdue end to segregation in America and a new beginning for our nation, thereby fulfilling the promise of a democracy for every American. The Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965 became law because of the blood and tears shed, and the sweat invested, by Dr. King and his multitude of followers representing every community and every neighborhood of our great land; and

WHEREAS, Best known for leading the action and movement to halt racial injustice, Dr. King is also justly renowned for organizing the "Poor People's Campaign" to address and overcome issues of economic injustice; and

WHEREAS, Americans continue to honor and find inspiration in his work long after assassination took him from his family and from his country in 1968, awarding him the Presidential Medal of Freedom in 1977, and the Congressional Gold Medal in 2004; and

WHEREAS, We wonder what Dr. King would think today as we stand here on the eve of history, as our first African-American president reads in for a second term; and

WHEREAS, We reflect on how far we have come and how far we still must travel. We contemplate what Dr. King's dream means for a new generation of dreamers;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives, on behalf of the people of our state, recognize the importance of the life and work of the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. to the civil society and freedoms of the United States of America and of the state of Washington; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives honor Dr. King's memory by remembering that we, too, must remain resolute in our own pursuit of his dream of justice and equality for all people.

Representative Freeman moved adoption of HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 4603

There being no objection, the bills and joint resolution listed on the day’s introduction sheet under the fourth order of business were referred to the committees so designated.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

The Speaker assumed the chair.

SIGNED BY THE SPEAKER

The Speaker signed the following bills:

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 4400
HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 4401
HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 4402

The Sergeant at Arms of the Senate announced the arrival of the members of the House of Representatives at the Senate Chamber doors. The Sergeant at Arms of the Senate and the Sergeant at Arms of the House escorted Deputy Speaker Pro Tempore of the House, the Honorable Tina Orwall, House Majority Floor Leader Tami Green and House Assistant Republican Floor Leader Matt Shea to seats on the rostrum. The members of the House of Representatives were invited to seats within the Chamber.

JOINT SESSION

The President called the Joint Session to order. The Secretary called the roll of the members of the House of Representatives.
The Secretary called the roll of the members of the Senate. The President declared that a quorum of the Legislature was present.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: “This joint session has been convened to receive the State of the Judiciary message from the Honorable Barbara Madsen, Chief Justice of the Washington State Supreme Court.”

The President appointed a committee of honor to escort the Justices of the State Supreme Court to the Senate Chamber: Representatives Holy and Stonier; and Senators Frocket and Pearson.

The President appointed a committee of honor to escort the statewide elected official to the Senate Chamber: Representatives Farrell and Scott; and Senators Bailey and Nelson.

The President appointed a committee of honor to advise the Honorable Barbara Madsen, Chief Justice of the Washington State Supreme Court, that the joint session had assembled and to escort her to the Senate Chamber: Representatives Goodman and Nealey; and Senators Chase and Padden.

The Sergeant at Arms of the Senate announced the arrival of the Justices of the State Supreme Court at the Chamber doors. The committee of honor escorted the Justices of the State Supreme Court to the front of the Chamber and they were introduced: Justice Charles W. Johnson, Justice Susan Owens, Justice Mary E. Fairhurst, Justice Debra L. Stephens, Justice Charlie K. Wiggins, Justice Steven Gonzalez and Justice Sheryl Gordon McCloud.

The Sergeant at Arms of the Senate announced the arrival of the statewide elected official at the Chamber doors. The committee of honor escorted statewide elected official to the front of the Chamber and he was introduced: State Auditor Troy Kelley.

The Sergeant at Arms of the Senate announced the arrival of the Honorable Barbara Madsen, Chief Justice of the Washington State Supreme Court, at the Chamber doors. The committee of honor escorted the Honorable Barbara Madsen, Chief Justice of the Washington State Supreme Court, to the rostrum of the Senate.

The Washington State Patrol Honor Guard consisting of Lieutenant Mike Turcott and Sergeant Ted DeHart presented the Colors. The President led the Joint Session in the Pledge of Allegiance. The Washington State Patrol Honor Guard retired from the Chamber. The prayer was offered by Rabbi Seth Goldstein of Temple Beth Hatfiloh, Olympia.

Rabbi Seth Goldstein: “Source of all Life and Blessing: We ask that your blessing descend upon this body. May all those who assemble here be endowed with a mind of wisdom and a heart of compassion. May the spirit of goodness fill their souls, and may they continue to see one another, and the people they serve as full, whole human beings, created in the divine image and worthy of love and respect. And on this day when we focus on the judiciary, we ask for blessing not only for those who are charged with making the laws, but those who are charged with their interpretation and application. May all those who serve in the judiciary be blessed with a sense of fairness and justice, of equality and service, of righteousness and peace. We are mindful of that universal charge we find in Scripture, in the book of Deuteronomy: tzedek tzedek tirdof—justice, justice shall you pursue. It is asked, why is the word “Justice” repeated? One interpretation is that first this verse teaches our desired outcome is justice—justice must be the goal of a well ordered society. The repetition of the word implies that not only must our goal be justice, but the path to justice—the process by which we achieve justice in our society—must also be just. We are blessed that our system of government allows for the separation of powers, provides for the orderly execution of justice and establishes a dynamic system of legal interpretation. May this continue to be so. And may all those who serve the public good in any capacity from any place. Find favor in Your eyes and may the work of their hands benefiting the people of our state and country long endure. Amen.”

The President welcomed and introduced the Honorable Barbara Madsen, Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court.

STATE OF THE JUDICARY

Chief Justice Barbara Madsen: “Thank you Mr. President, Speaker Chopp, Governor Inslee, elected officials, members of the House and Senate, fellow justices and judges, Rabbi Goldstein, ladies, and gentlemen. Let me add my welcome to all of the new legislators and to those of you who have changed houses. I had the chance to meet many of you over the past few weeks at the dinners sponsored by our Board for Judicial Administration—the BJA at our Temple of Justice birthday party, at the inaugural ball, or swearing you in. For those I have not met, I look forward to meeting you as we go through this legislative session. Whatever the occasion, I believe that time spent getting to know one another is time well spent.

I am honored to be here today, along with my colleagues on the Washington Supreme Court, to deliver this report on the state of Washington’s judiciary. As many of you know, our court system operates through a system of trial courts and appellate courts. Many of the leaders of our court associations are with us today, in the gallery. I would like to take a moment to introduce them: Presiding Chief Judge Christine Quinn-Brintnall from the Court of Appeals, Division Two in Tacoma; Benton/Franklin County Superior Court Judge Craig Matheson, president of the Superior Court Judges’ Association of Washington; and Judge Sara Derr from Spokane County District Court, president of the District and Municipal Court Judges’ Association. These judges are joined by members of the Board for Judicial Administration, the policy-setting board for the courts. I am very proud of these judges and the people they represent who work in our court system. We also have the administrative heads of our three agencies with us today: The Washington State Court administrator who heads the Administrative Office of the Courts, Callie Dietz; the executive director of the Office of Civil Legal Aid, Jim Bamberger; and the director for the Office of Public Defense, Joanne Moore. It is no secret that we are experiencing very challenging times in our state and in our nation. I have not spoken to anyone who is predicting that you will have an easy session this year. I think you will be spending long days and many nights in Olympia.

As the spokesperson for the courts, I also feel a great weight on my shoulders. Even in the best of times, our divided government requires careful leadership in each branch. As you begin this legislative session, I know that many of you are thinking about the issue of divided government. The gray areas at the edges of our respective powers can give rise to debate and even disagreement about the areas of authority in which each of our branches operate. Such debate and disagreement is healthy—indeed I think this is a part of the checks and balances that our founders intended. Even in a divided government, the branches are meant to work together. As many of you know, this is the 100th anniversary of the Temple of Justice. The temple, which is home to the Supreme Court, was the first building on the capitol campus. If you look at the campus from Budd Inlet, you will see that the temple appears to blend into the capitol building-and together the temple and the capitol are covered by one capitol dome. In designing the capitol group in this way, the architects were attempting to reflect the reality that the three branches together make a single government. As with the legislature and the governor, the judiciary has its role to play. I want to assure all of you that the courts are committed to working with you on matters of common interest and concern within the limits of our branch's authority.

Unlike the legislature and the governor, our courts generally operate under the radar screen. More than two million individual civil and criminal cases are filed every year in our trial courts. Thousands are decided in our appellate courts each year. We have one constitutional duty. That is to fairly, effectively, and timely adjudicate the civil and criminal disputes that come before us. At a judge's swearing-in a few weeks ago, I heard a story from John Ladenburg, formerly the Pierce County executive. John was in China on a trade mission along with Microsoft, Amazon, and other U.S. companies. According to John, one of the delegates asked a Chinese government minister what he thought was needed to attract new businesses to China. His answer-lawyers. You may laugh-just as the Washington team did. But when they laughed the minister became angry. He said, "Without lawyers there are no courts; without courts, there is no legal system. Without a legal system there is no protection; there are no commercial laws-you do not even understand the advantage you have in your country-you have the rule of law. Your courts protect people and their property. That makes all the difference." Lest you think I am claiming all the credit for the courts-I believe that it is the legislature, the executive, and the courts-working together-that provide the kind of environment that is necessary for individuals and businesses to grow and prosper. Even with its flaws, our system is the envy of the world.

We know that the law is complex. Cases are complex. And disagreements are predictable. Cases like McCleary, that address school funding, and the pending case of League of Education Voters, which involves a challenge to restrictions on the power of the legislature to tax, will always provoke controversy. That comes with the constitutional responsibility placed on courts. But, it's how we work together to meet the very complex and difficult challenges that will determine the future for the public that we all serve. Last week, we heard comments from outgoing Governor Gregoire and newly elected Governor Inslee. Though their plans for meeting the future differed-the common theme was the same-we are all facing significant challenges- maybe now more than ever as year upon year of economic difficulties continue. I recently learned that the Chinese symbol for crisis is a combination of two concepts-opportunity and danger. The opportunity is to redefine how we deliver services to the public. The danger is in failing to adapt. The extensive budget cuts of the past four years have required the courts to become creative and to be innovators-and we're committed to continue looking for new, efficient processes to help us fulfill our responsibility to deliver justice. Though being chief justice carries challenges, the position also gives me a bird's eye view of the tremendous job that our courts are doing to innovate in these tough budget times. I want to mention just a few of these creative solutions: At the Administrative Office of the Courts, we have created online education that allows judges and court personnel to stay current with changes in law and practices while reducing or eliminating travel costs or time away from court.

We are also modernizing our aging computer systems by looking at commercial, off-the-shelf products to meet the growing demands of technology in courts throughout our state. Local courts are also working in innovative ways to help curb costs and improve service. Pierce County juvenile courts, for example, have reduced "failure to appear" rates and detention rates implementing a two-tiered warrant system, calling and conducting home visits to remind juveniles to be in court, and using a continuum of alternatives to detention. This strategy is one of six that Pierce County has implemented to reduce racial and ethnic disparities. The result has been a 47% decrease in detention from 2007 to 2011.

In this vein, we are also exploring ways to foster regional courts. District and municipal courts are where most citizens interact with the judicial system, and we need to foster an approach that best serves the public. More than 170 municipalities currently contract with a district or municipal court. It is imperative that we examine the most efficient and cost effective method of providing judicial services to everyone coming to court in Washington State. More and more, community leaders are interested in exploring cooperative arrangements for the delivery of court services. Thanks to a grant from the State Justice Institute, we are currently exploring a concept that is broadly described as regional courts.

Combined courts can contribute to better court performance, customer service, and fiscal efficiency. We want to work with you on this important court reform.

Along with our Temple of Justice centennial, this year is the 50th anniversary of the United States Supreme Court's decision in Gideon v.Wainwright. As Justice Hugo Black wrote in that ground breaking decision, "Lawyers in criminal courts are necessities, not luxuries." We can be proud that long before the United States Supreme Court expressed that belief, our legislature acted to guarantee the right to counsel in Washington State. Recently, however, we learned that in areas of our state, the promise of access to effective assistance of counsel has not been met. Public trust and confidence in our criminal justice system depends on people knowing and believing they have been treated fairly and that their rights have been protected. A conviction may have a lifetime of consequences-including the ability to get a job, an apartment, a student loan. A conviction may separate a family or mean losing custody of a child. As judges, it is our duty to ensure not just the presence of counsel, but effective counsel. And to be effective takes time. As far back as 2004, the Report of the WSBA Blue Ribbon Panel on Criminal Defense concluded that the standards for public defense services enacted in RCW 10.101.030 were being ignored in many jurisdictions and that the lack of enforceable standards, especially case load standards, "jeopardizes the ability of even the most dedicated defenders to provide adequate representation." After more than a year of debate, a four-month formal public comment period, and intense internal discussion, the Washington Supreme Court recently adopted indigent defense certification, which requires development of case load standards. But adopting court rules is just the beginning. Now, attorneys, trial judges, and administrators must work together to find the best way to implement certification in their courts.

We know that some legislators have concerns about how this will impact local communities—but, through the Office of Public Defense, we want to work with the cities and counties to help design workable systems. Last December, the court ordered the Office of Public Defense to prepare a new report on how the standards and attorney certification rules are being implemented across the state. The report is due this March and will focus on how jurisdictions are working with attorney case loads and methods for addressing them successfully. The case load limits do not become effective under the rules until October 2013.

I also want to mention the other new initiative that the Office of Public Defense is undertaking. Because of its great success with the Parents Representation Program, you in this legislature have asked the office to take on the enormous task of improving the defense of sexually violent predators. I have no doubt that the Office of Public Defense will exercise the same scrupulous care in evaluating the most efficient and cost effective ways of delivering services to this population that it has exercised in all of its innovative programs. We look forward to working with you on this important initiative.

Another challenge facing our branch is to effectively address racial disparities in our court system. The Washington State Center for Court Research, which operates within the judicial branch, has been hard at work collecting and sharing data on a statewide level and county-by-county. The specific details at the county and court level will help us determine the causes for disproportionality and guide us in finding solutions. Based on data gathered so far, the task force has submitted a number of recommendations for actions by the Supreme Court, for judicial branch agencies, for the different court levels, and for justice partners, such as schools and law enforcement agencies. We need to examine the causes of disproportionality and work toward solutions. We know that “Justice is the Guardian of Liberty.” These words are etched on the façade of the United States Supreme Court. It will take all of us working together to ensure that justice is equally applied. We will be asking for your help as we meet this challenge.

Likewise, we must recognize that not all people who need the court system are able to speak English. Seventy-eight different languages were interpreted in Washington’s trial courts in 2012, and King County’s running tally shows that they have provided interpreters for 130 different languages. However, our state has certified and registered interpreters in only 35 languages, meaning that we are not able to ensure quality translations for many languages spoken in our courts. Legal proceedings, with their technical language and complex processes, are confusing enough when you understand English. But, imagine walking into a high stakes situation where you didn’t understand a word of what was going on. As Washington’s diversity continues to grow, the need for interpreters is exploding. With limited resources, we must find a way to provide interpreter services in the most efficient and effective ways possible. That is why the Supreme Court included in its budget submission to the legislature a request for funding for a pilot program for video remote interpreting. Reducing both the cost and time of travel can better focus scarce resources where they belong. We need your help to find a solution. We also recognize that the Great Recession has generated a host of profound legal problems for our low income Washingtonians. In 2011 alone, more than a quarter of a million calls were placed to our statewide legal aid hotline. Demand for help is particularly high in recession sensitive areas of law such as housing, foreclosure, help with governmental support programs, domestic violence, and family safety. In Washington, legal aid is delivered through an innovative public private partnership. State funding supports our nationally recognized statewide legal aid provider—the Northwest Justice Project as well as 17 local volunteer legal aid programs. I’m very proud of the thousands of volunteer attorneys across the state who together delivered nearly 60,000 hours of free legal aid, worth more than $10 million to over 20,000 individuals and families. But deep federal budget cuts have crippled legal aid. There are only 87 state-funded legal aid attorneys left to meet the needs of more than 1.8 million low income people who are eligible for state-funded civil legal aid. Today, there is just one legal aid attorney serving all of Clallam and Jefferson Counties; one serves all of Southeast Washington, from Walla Walla to Clarkston; and one serves all low income clients in Grays Harbor and Pacific Counties. In our urban centers, there are more than 22,000 eligible clients for each state-funded legal aid attorney. Legal aid helps resolve cases quickly, often keeping many cases out of court in the first place, and facilitating the quick resolution of those that are in our courts. Legal aid is a smart and cost effective investment. The legal aid system, as administered by our Office of Civil Legal Aid, has received strong bipartisan support in recent years. For this, we in the judicial branch are grateful. But we need your continuing support to meet the civil justice needs of our state’s poorest residents.

Finally, I would like to address the critical challenges that we face in keeping our courthouses safe for the thousands of attorneys, jurors, court staff, litigants, and members of the public. As Judge David Edwards of Grays Harbor County can attest, this is a challenge in every local jurisdiction. He is a shining example of courage in what can only be described as a terrifying ordeal that occurred in his courthouse. Given Judge Edwards’ experience, the recent attack on Judge Brett Buckley at his home in Olympia, and multiple bomb threats in courthouses throughout Washington last month, we know that courthouse security is a continuing challenge that needs to be resolved quickly. We are truly blessed that in each situation, there was not a tragic ending. But hoping that this remains the case is not a policy. At a fundamental level, our democracy is dependent on a judicial branch that can decide disputes safely. No one should be afraid to walk into a courthouse. In 2012, the security staff at Spokane County District Court confiscated over 1,000 handguns, 9,000 knives, 80 tasers, 1,700 razor blades, 1,100 cans of mace, and hundreds of other items that could be used as weapons. In courts without security, these items enter the courthouse every day. The reality is that at any given time, people who are charged with violent crimes or who are engaged in intensely emotional situations are gathered together in one location. Simply hoping that nothing bad happens is no longer good enough.

As we look back on an extraordinarily challenging year, Washington can be proud of its judiciary and its ability to adapt, modernize, and innovate. But this is just the beginning. We will continue to devise innovative and cost efficient ways to ensure that all persons—including the most vulnerable in our society—are provided with fair and timely justice and that they have their day in court in a modern and technologically advanced court system. With the leadership of the Board for Judicial Administration, and the efforts of our exceptional judges and court staff, I am confident we will continue to turn the challenges we face into opportunities to transform the court system today and in the future. We will continue to balance the scales so that we can adapt to fiscal realities and never stray from our constitutional mission. The pursuit of justice is what this court system is all about—from its inception two centuries ago to this very day and in all the years to come. I thank you for the warm welcome that you have given me. and my fellow justices, and I wish you all well in the coming year. Thank you.”

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: “Chief Justice, we appreciate very much your very profound comments and your commitment and spirit of unity and cooperation of the Legislature as well as we want to thank the courts throughout the state for their incredible efforts to be more efficient and effective through the creative concepts that they have developed. Thank you very much for that information.”

The President called upon the committee of honor to escort Chief Justice Madsen, Chief Justice of the Washington State Supreme Court from the Chamber.

The President called upon the committee of honor to escort the State Auditor Troy Kelley from the Chamber.

The President called upon the committee of honor to escort the Justices of the Washington State Supreme Court from the Chamber.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Fain the Joint Session was dissolved.

The Sergeant at Arms of the Senate and the Sergeant at Arms of the House escorted Deputy Speaker Pro Tempore of the House, the Honorable Tina Orwall, House Majority Floor Leader Tami Green, House Assistant Republican Floor Leader Matt Shea and the members of the House of Representatives from the Senate Chamber.

There being no objection, the House adjourned until 9:55 a.m., January 24, 2013, the 11th Day of the Regular Session.

FRANK CHOPP, Speaker

BARBARA BAKER, Chief Clerk
The House was called to order at 9:55 a.m. by the Speaker (Representative Orwall presiding).

Reading of the Journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was ordered to stand approved.

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

January 23, 2013

MR. SPEAKER:

The President has signed SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 8400 and the same is herewith transmitted.

Hunter Goodman, Secretary

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

CERTIFICATION OF INITIATIVE TO THE LEGISLATURE NO. 517

Pursuant to Article II, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution, RCW 29A.72.230, and WAC 434-379-010, the Office of the Secretary of State has caused the signatures submitted in support of Initiative to the Legislature No. 517 to be examined in the following manner:

1. It was determined that 346,906 signatures were submitted by the sponsors of the initiative. A random sample of 10,606 signatures was taken from those submitted;

2. Each sampled signature was examined to determine if the signer was a registered voter of the state, if the signature was reasonably similar to the one appearing on the record of that voter, and if the same signature appeared more than once in the sample. We found 9,122 valid signatures, 1,459 signatures that were invalid and 25 pairs of duplicated signatures in the sample;

3. We calculated an allowance for the chance error of sampling (57) by multiplying the square root of the number of invalid signatures by 1.5;

4. We estimated the upper limit of the number of signatures on the initiative petition which were invalid (49,596) by dividing the sum of the number of invalid signatures in the sample and allowance for the chance of error of sampling by the sampling ratio;

5. We determined the maximum allowable number of pairs of signatures on the petition (56,157) by subtracting the sum of the number of signatures required by Article II, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution (241,153) and the estimate of the upper limit of the number of invalid signatures on the petition from the number of signatures submitted;

6. We determined the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample (52) by multiplying the square of the sampling ratio by the maximum allowable number of pairs of signatures on the initiative petition;

7. We determined the acceptable number of pairs of signatures in the sample (41) by subtracting 1.65 times the square root of the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample from the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample; and

8. The number of pairs of signatures in the sample is less than the acceptable number of pairs of signatures in the sample.

Therefore, I hereby declare Initiative to the Legislature No. 517 to contain sufficient signatures.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Seal of the State of Washington this 23rd day of January, 2013.

MARK NEARY
Deputy Secretary of State

Initiative to the Legislature No. 517 was read the first time and referred to the Committee on Government Operations and Elections.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the fourth order of business.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

There being no objection, the House adjourned until 10:00 a.m., January 25, 2013, the 12th Day of the Regular Session.

FRANK CHOPP, Speaker
BARBARA BAKER, Chief Clerk
The House was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by the Speaker (Representative Orwall presiding). The Clerk called the roll and a quorum was present.

The flags were escorted to the rostrum by a Sergeant at Arms Color Guard, Pages Alyss Normoyle and Zac Ladd. The Speaker (Representative Orwall presiding) led the Chamber in the Pledge of Allegiance. The prayer was offered by Representative Shelly Short, 7th District, Washington.

Reading of the Journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was ordered to stand approved.

RESOLUTION

Speakers’ Attorney Catherine Maynard:

WHEREAS, Allen W. Hayward has afforded the House the highest levels of excellence, loyalty, decorum, and appropriate feistiness during his many capacities as a most distinguished lawyer and supporter of the House of Representatives and the Republican Caucus; and

WHEREAS, Allen has served the House honorably since 1979, temporarily leaving his private law practice to assist the House Republican Caucus during the 49-49 tie between Democrats and Republicans; and

WHEREAS, Staffing circumstances offered Allen the full-time position of attorney to the Republican Leader, a position he has held with distinction and humility throughout his career in the House; and

WHEREAS, That full-time position allowed Allen the privilege of serving the House during the leaderships of Speakers Bagmariol, O’Brien, Berentsen, Polk, Ehlers, King, Ebersole, Ballard, and Chopp; and

WHEREAS, Allen Hayward has patiently and enthusiastically trained and mentored hundreds of new and existing employees on the Rules, regulations, ethical practices, and nuances of serving elected members of the House of Representatives; and

WHEREAS, Allen throughout his career with the House of Representatives has been acknowledged by lawmakers, staff, lobbyists, and constituents, regardless of their political affiliation, philosophical persuasion, or policy position, as a loyal, trusted, and generous friend and adviser who loved the Institution and maintained his professional and personal integrity and dedication; and

WHEREAS, Allen is now retiring after 34 years of distinguished service to the House of Representatives;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives honor Allen W. Hayward for his unselsh, diligent, and dedicated service, and for the outstanding example he has set for others who will serve after him; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a copy of this Resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to our faithful friend, colleague, and confidant, Allen W. Hayward.

Representative Kretz moved adoption of HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 4605

Representatives Kretz, Sullivan, Kristiansen, Moeller, Smith, Hunt, Walsh and Santos spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

Representative Kretz: “Thank you Madame Speaker. I guess one of the true measures of a man is when they marry up and Allen certainly did that. It’s so good to see Sharon up there. We appreciate not just Allen but Sharon, what a great couple of people to have around here, what an example for all of us. I think the biggest lesson I learned from Allen was respect for this institution and he has constant respect for it. I think back to my freshman year, and one of the things that stuck with me ever since I’ve been here, and probably most strongly, was a meeting we had with all the freshman, with Sid Snyder and Vito Chiechi. They spent the evening talking about respect for the institution and what a privilege to hear two men like that, instill in us what we need to know and the respect for the institution, as well as the people of the institution. I put Allen in with the same category, I’ve learned so much from him in the last eight years and it’s a tough job. I think about a job that requires you to come in here early in the morning and often times your first two conversations are with Richard DeBolt and Cathy Maynard, you’d better have your coffee before you get into the office. I think maybe even more than this side, you guys should be very thankful he has been here, at least in my time here, he has spent more time protecting you than he did us, I think. Believe it or not we would occasionally come up with some schemes, things are flying fast and hard, tensions are high and we would occasionally cook up some kind of a plot to do on the floor, and what I liked about Allen was that he never told me no. He would sit there and look at me and then say something like, “This may seem like a really good idea” and then he would say, “it even may even be a lot of fun but I think you should really think about this first.” Then he would go through the reasons and what he always came back to was respect for the institution. Allen, I just want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for the things you have taught all of us and the amazing balance you have had in making this place go every day. I know everyone respects you for that and I just thank you for your friendship. Thank you.”
Representative Sullivan: “Thank you Madame Speaker. Echoing some of the sentiments already expressed, and I want to mostly thank you for keeping the good gentleman from the 7th from doing any of those stupid things he mentioned. When I was preparing remarks today I was, in addition to serving here, for eight years as a State Legislator, I was a staffer here for a number of years, and I ran into Allen a few times but didn’t have much interaction, but I had a lot more interaction with his wife Sharon. So when I was trying to think about what to say today I thought who knows Allen better than anyone? I got a few stories from Sharon that I thought might be interesting to share. One thing I didn’t realize was that at one point Allens’ nickname was “Dogbite”. Back when he was a legislative staffer here in 1979, there was a bill that would give one free bite of liability to any dog owner and there was a legislator here that took offense to that legislation and asked Allen to draft a few amendments and I guess there was over one hundred in total or more. After that, there were people who referred to Allen as “Dogbite”, they didn’t actually know his name, they just called him “Dogbite”, that actually stuck for quite a while. As a matter of fact it is my understanding that when his son Matt was born he was referred to as “Puppybite” for a little while. You know, through the years I think people counted on Allen to solve more problems and he became more of an institution within this institution and solved problems on a daily basis. Except for one situation that occurred, I guess, back when Newt Gingrich was Speaker of the U.S. House and he came here. Clyde Ballard was the Speaker and Newt came here to give a speech and everyone was prepared and it was an exciting time, the pomp and circumstance everything led up to the point he was going to speak and the microphones went dead. Speaker Ballard and Speaker Gingrich looked over at Allen and asked what should we do and Allen stood up and made a motion as if he was going to solve the problem and he went through the back door and no one saw him again. Allen, in all seriousness you truly are an institution within this institution, you will be greatly missed by everyone here. I know, from those on the other side of the aisle who have worked with you everyday, but from those on this side of the aisle, we wish you the best. You and Sharon deserve a great retirement and you are welcome back here anytime. Thank you very much Allen for your service to this institution.

Representative Kristiansen: “Thank you Madame Speaker. Allen, you are going to be missed. I still remember, it was about 12-13 years ago, I was a guest before I was even elected to office. I had one of our colleagues down here invite me to be a guest of the caucus and I’d never been down here, behind the scenes, seeing what was going on. It became very apparent very quickly that there was one man that everybody looked to for information, and that was Allen. I asked this gentleman, who was a former legislator, who is that guy over there? Everybody is asking him questions. I thought he must be Speaker of the House. I mean, everybody was going to him and he said no, that is Allen Hayward. It was said in such a way that, what? Who is this Allen Hayward guy? Is this an urban legend? Who is this guy? A couple years later I was elected to the legislature and I’ve served now for eleven years down here and he is an urban legend, but he is real. You know, Madame Speaker, you may have the majority, but we have Allen. We all have on our desk, if I may Madame Speaker, we’re not supposed to use props but I’m going to use one anyway, you can gavel me if you’d like. I think he is the only guy down here who really knows and has memorized every single page of this book. He knows the rules inside and out, he knows the parliamentary procedure inside and out and as Representative Kretz had mentioned earlier, he has talked us off several cliffs when we thought we were pretty smart, we think we’ve gotcha, and he’d say, “you know, that might sound like a great idea now, but you might regret it later.” He did talk us off a few cliffs there. I think he has been here for thirty four years and as I look around this body here I realize, there are several of you who weren’t even born when he started working here, I’m talking about the women of course, they are all young, but he brings not only knowledge to this institution, but an amazing amount of wisdom. I think there is a difference there. I think a lot of us show up here in Olympia, and we’ve got a lot of knowledge, but we may not have that in the form of wisdom in applying that knowledge. One of the things that I greatly respect about you Allen is that you have taken the knowledge that you have learned over the years, and with all of your experiences, and the wisdom that you now carry, you’ve been able to help guide us as a caucus in times that have been difficult for us. You’ve been able to help us solve problems for the State of Washington, and not just for our caucus, I think for everybody, everybody on the rostrum and Madame Speaker, I think you have had some amazing input on how this place operates. The other thing about Allen I will never forget is that he is always so doggone enthusiastic about this process, he loves this institution. If you have ever had an opportunity to spend five minutes with this gentleman you will know that he just has so much respect and enthusiasm about not only this institution, but our form of government that we have here. He has got it memorized, he knows it, and I will admit, from the minority perspective, there are very few things we can celebrate when it comes to voting on bills, but one of the things that has pleased me more than anything is to watch Allen come out from around the corner, shov up on the floor, and the looks on everybody’s face on the rostrum going, uh oh, here comes Allen, what did we do wrong? He has kind of been the watchdog of this place to make sure everybody, not just ourselves, but everybody in this institution pays it the respect it is due. Allen, we love you, were going to miss you, have fun on those sunny shores, wherever you’re going to go, enjoy time with your wife and family. Thank you very much Madame Speaker.

Representative Moeller: “Thank you Madame Speaker. Allen, you may want to talk to your wife as you’re moving on your way to Ocean Shores later today and Hawaii because she shared with us a number of stories. For example, when duty called, Allen was always there, for example in 1985 when we, the Washington State Legislature hosted NCSL, Allen was assigned to crowd control. Along the Seattle waterfront there were copious amounts of seafood delicacies that were shared and we all enjoyed them of course, but particularly there was one called Tequila Shooters that Allen particularly enjoyed, he found them to be quite tasty, but he was the first to admit that the climb up the waterfront to his hotel room, a half mile away, up, up, up the hill was especially long considering that part of it was covered on his knees. I want to specifically thank you Allen for all your patience with me, I know that since I was a freshman I was trying to emulate the Speaker Pro Temp John Lovick up there, in fact a lot of my cohorts here on the floor were tired of me mouthing the words as they came out of his mouth but at the same time, I also remember you sharing with me the stops of the bus, so to speak, the orders of business and all the other intricacies of this place. For some of us, in fact, for very few of us, this place is just another place to work, but for the vast majority of us, we get to work in this place and you have taught us all about that so I thank you and I think this House thanks you.”

Representative Smith: “Thank you Madame Speaker. I rise today in support of our dear friend and colleague, Allen. You know, if I may have your permission to tell you a little story. When I was a very young bride, I happened to be living in southern California and my mom loved John Wayne. I got to talk to his secretary. We have a picture, in our family from John Wayne to my mom and when my mom died, that picture came to my house.
It sits just as you enter our home. John Wayne was an American hero. My kids know about John Wayne, they all have their favorite movies in which he figured out what we needed to do and rescue those who needed rescuing and led the way for what was right and just. He was a great actor and a patriot. But you know American heroes come in a lot of packages. Allen Hayward, you are an American hero. You have inspired decades of legislators to believe in the best of this institution. You’ve taught us that the rules we abide by and our little red book, it matters. That the debates are debates around the issues that we stay focused on why we’re here. I want to thank you for that. I want to thank you that your office has been consistently, for more than thirty years, for me, for every legislator that entered it, the safest place on campus. We could count on you, your advice was sound your integrity was never questioned, your trustworthiness gave us a sense to be able to walk out your door and do what we had asked you about and to do it well and with honor and integrity. You are our American hero and I just want everyone to know that behind the scenes in the institutions that govern our nation at the state level and the federal level, are people like Allen Hayward who lead the way. When people get discouraged about politics and about the divisiveness and about the ugliness, know this, there are Allen Haywards. Investing in young legislators and old legislators for us to do our jobs well. Your experience was forged in the fires of life experiences and your education, your keen sense of justice, your love of our constitution. From that, your experience has been a guiding hand for so many of us. We have been blessed to have worked with you, we ask God’s blessing on you and Sharon and this next season of life, you will continue to inspire in another capacity, and know this, our friendship and deep admiration go with you, thanks Allen.

Representative Hunt: “Thank you Madame Speaker. Well Allen, I have waited years to do this. ‘We’ve worked together and against each other for many years. I started out as a Senate Democratic Caucus staff member and we always knew we had these little things we’d try to slip into a bill or something and we hated Allen Hayward because we knew he would find it and we would never get it done. It’s been a wonderful friendship. You told a story at your retirement party or somebody did that when you first came here you offered to work for free. That is wasn’t about the money, it wasn’t about the job, he wanted to work in the Legislature and was willing to do it for free for a part-time job. Well, it’s been a pretty good part time job and thank you for that. I think the person who so eloquently read the resolution, I think there was a phrase in there about “appropriate feistiness”. I thought that really summed up Allen Hayward. He has been the go-to guy in the Legislature. There have been times when any of us have a question about this place or how we want it to work or what happened when, and we could go to Allen and get the answer. I think it is so important not only the quality of Allen Hayward, but the one thing we are really losing is addition to a wonderful guy and a wonderful staff member, is the institutional memory. You know where a lot of the bodies, so to speak, are buried and that’s good. You can look at us and say, “you know, that was tried 8 or 10 years ago and it didn’t work then either, and here’s why”, and that is really helpful. So, I know your smile is a little broader today and may you both have a good retirement and enjoy it well and one final thing, we went through this issue this year of where are we going to hold the Governors Ball. It was going to be Saint Martins and I sent out this angry email about that and Allen replied. He said I think this is a great idea, the last time the Governors’ Ball was at Saint Martin’s we were inaugurating a Republican Governor and we should do it again in 2013 for a Republican Governor. Well after the election was over I sent Allen an email response that said, how do you feel now? It was a two word response, “MOVE IT”. So Allen, thank you for your work, for your humor, for your friendship and don’t be a stranger, we really love and admire you and thank you for all you have done.”

Representative Walsh: “Thank you Madame Speaker and thank you Allen. I came here, this is my 21st session and you know, I used to think, oh my God who could work here this long, and here I am entering my third decade here. It’s nice to know that someone was a little crazier than me. We appreciate that and I remember always, my former boss had a wonderful relationship with you and had so much respect for you. Any time I would have any questions that he might not be able to answer, which was pretty rare but did happen, he would say, ‘go talk to the smartest guy in this place’, and that was Allen, and it’s true. Not only was he the smartest guy, but probably also was able to be very humble in that position as well. I never felt, although he was sort of a God in this place, I never felt that I couldn’t just go and sit down and have a conversation with him, I was very green when I got here. I did some stupid things. I remember very distinctly we would sometimes do a Thursday night Karaoke thing and one of our members got a DUI after our Thursday evening and I remember a reporter coming to me and wanting to talk about that. One of the things I quoted at one of the locations where we held this event on a Thursday night was, “Hell, you practically have to be drunk to get out of that place.” So what showed up on the front page the next day? That quote. I just remember kind of hanging my head and realizing I had to show that to my boss. I went and talked to Allen about that a little too. He said well, you know, people pick up on sensationalistic things and even though you say off the record, it isn’t going to work that way. He has just imparted little bits of knowledge to me over the years. I hope I’ve gotten a little smarter, I’d like to think I have some institutional memory as well, but, I don’t have much of a memory left at this age. So anyway, you and Sharon deserve each other, you guys are both wonderful, I have so enjoyed working with you. It is always with a bit of sadness when I see the great people leave this place, because there is a lot of great people, you are all great people, and I love working with you all, but it’s always so hard to see the good ones leave. Thank you Allen.”

Representative Santos: “Thank you Madame Speaker. I couldn’t pass this opportunity without saying just a few words about the service of the gentleman that we are here honoring today. The good lady from the 10th referenced that in this line of work, what often hits the media, the front pages, your 5 o’clock news, is the divisiveness of the public debate. The partisanship of our politics and that is a part of the tradition of being diverse minded and having clear different opinions, but the one thing that unites every member on this floor, Madame Speaker, is that we are each members of the Washington State House of Representatives and that this institution is one that we incur an obligation to uphold, not just today, but into the future. It is that notion of respect for this institution that has been instilled in every member on both sides of the aisle by the gentleman that we honor today and by the Speakers’ Attorney. I rise today because some members, many members, may not remember that there was a time, in the last 15 years that I’ve served in this body, where the Speakers’ Attorney was not able to serve as our guide on a daily basis. During that time of need, Allen Hayward served as a guide to both the Republican caucus and the Democratic caucus. During times when we were fully staffed, Allen Hayward always proved to be the most worthy of adversaries but during times of need, he became our trusted friend and for that Madame Speaker, I urge all members of this body to recognize Allen Hayward as the most honorable steward of this great institution that we are so privileged to serve. Thank you Madame Speaker.”

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 4605 was adopted.

The Speaker (Representative Orwall presiding) introduced Allen Haywards’ family, his long suffering, lovely and talented wife, Sharon Hayward, parents Don and Barbara Hayward, sons Matthew Hayward, Jeff Malloy and Chris Malloy, grandson Gavin Hayward, sister in law Julie Knackstedt and niece Lea McCartney.

MOTION

Representative Sullivan moved that the remarks honoring Allen Hayward be spread across the journal.

The motion was adopted.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the fourth order of business.

Definitions

Rule 1. "Absent" means an unexcused failure to attend.

"Term" means the two-year term during which the members as a body may act.

"Session" means a constitutional gathering of the house in accordance with Article 2 § 12 of the state Constitution.

"Committee" means any standing, conference, joint, or select committee as so designated by rule or resolution, and also means any standing committee subcommittee.

"Fiscal committee" means the appropriations, capital budget, finance and transportation committees, and the appropriations subcommittees on education, general government, and health & human services.

"Bill" means bill, joint memorial, joint resolution, or concurrent resolution unless the context indicates otherwise.

Chief Clerk to Call to Order

Rule 2. It shall be the duty of the chief clerk of the previous term to call the house to order and to conduct the proceedings until a speaker is chosen.

Election of Officers

Rule 3. The house shall elect the following officers at the commencement of each term: Its presiding officer, who shall be styled speaker of the house; a speaker pro tempore, who shall serve in absence or in case of the inability of the speaker; a deputy speaker pro tempore, who shall serve in absence or in case of the inability of the speaker and speaker pro tempore; and a chief clerk of the house. Such officers shall hold office during all sessions until the convening of the succeeding term: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That any of these offices may be declared vacant by the vote of a constitutional majority of the house, the members voting viva voce and their votes shall be entered on the journal. If any office is declared vacant, the house shall fill such vacant office as hereinafter provided. In all elections by the house a constitutional majority shall be required, the members shall vote viva voce and their votes shall be entered on the journal. (Art. II § 27)

Powers and Duties of the Speaker

Rule 4. The speaker shall have the following powers and duties:

(A) The speaker shall take the chair and call the house to order precisely at the hour appointed for meeting and if a quorum be present, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read and shall proceed with the order of business.

(B) The speaker shall preserve order and decorum, and in case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct within the chamber or legislative area, shall order the sergeant at arms to suppress the same and may order the sergeant at arms to remove any person creating any disturbance within the house chamber or legislative area.

(C) The speaker may speak to points of order in preference to other members, arising from the seat for that purpose, and shall decide all questions of order subject to an appeal to the house by any member, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once without leave of the house.

(D) The speaker shall sign all bills in open session. (Art. II § 32)

(E) The speaker shall sign all writs, warrants, and subpoenas issued by order of the house, all of which shall be attested to by the chief clerk.

(F) The speaker shall have the right to name any member to perform the duties of the chair, but such substitution shall neither extend beyond adjournment nor authorize the representative so substituted to sign any documents requiring the signature of the speaker.

(G) The speaker, in open session, shall appoint committee chairs as selected by the majority party caucus, and shall appoint members to committees in the same ratio as the membership of the respective parties of the house, unless otherwise provided by law or house rules.

(H) The speaker shall serve as chair of the rules committee.

(I) The speaker shall have charge of and see that all officers, attaches, and clerks perform their respective duties.

(J) The speaker pro tempore shall exercise the duties, powers, and prerogatives of the speaker in the event of the speaker's death, illness, removal, or inability to act until the speaker's successor shall be elected.

Chief Clerk

Rule 5. The chief clerk shall perform the usual duties pertaining to the office, and shall hold office until a successor has been elected.

The chief clerk shall employ, subject to the approval of the speaker, all other house employees; the hours of duty and assignments of all house employees shall be under the chief clerk's directions and instructions, and they may be dismissed by the chief clerk with the approval of the speaker. The speaker shall sign and the chief clerk shall countersign all payrolls and vouchers for all expenses of the house and appropriately transmit the same. In the event of the chief clerk's death, illness, removal, or inability to act, the speaker may appoint an acting chief clerk who shall exercise the duties and powers of the chief clerk until the chief clerk's successor shall be elected.

Duties of Employees

Rule 6. Employees of the house shall perform such duties as are assigned to them by the chief clerk. Under no circumstances shall the compensation of any employee be increased for past services. No house employee shall seek to influence the passage or rejection of proposed legislation.

Admission to the House

Rule 7. It shall be the general policy of the house to keep the chamber clear as follows:

(A) The sergeant at arms shall admit only the following individuals to the wings and adjacent areas of the house chamber for the period of time beginning one-half hour prior to convening and ending one-half hour following the adjournment of the house's daily session:

- The governor or designees, or both;
- Members of the senate;
- State elected officials;
- Officers and authorized employees of the legislature;
- Former members of the house who are not advocating any pending or proposed legislation;
- Representatives of the press;
- Other persons with the consent of the speaker.

(B) Only members, pages, sergeants at arms, and clerks are permitted on the floor while the house is in session.

(C) Lobbying in the house chamber or in any committee room or lounge room is prohibited when the house or committee is in session unless expressly permitted by the house or committee. Anyone violating this rule will forfeit his or her right to be admitted to the house chamber or any of its committee rooms.

Absentees and Courtesy

Rule 8. No member shall be absent from the service of the house without leave from the speaker. When the house is in session, only the speaker shall recognize visitors and former members.

Bills, Memorials and Resolutions - Introductions

Rule 9. Any member desiring to introduce a bill shall file the same with the chief clerk. Bills filed by 10:00 a.m. shall be introduced at the next daily session, in the order filed: PROVIDED, That if such introduction is within the last ten days of a regular session, it cannot be considered without a direct vote of two-thirds (2/3) of all the members elected to each house with such vote recorded and entered upon the journal. (Art. II § 36)

Any returning member or member-elect may prefile a bill with the chief clerk commencing the first Monday in December preceding any regular session or twenty (20) days before any special session. Prefiled bills shall be introduced on the first legislative day.

All bills shall be endorsed with a statement of the title and the name of the member or members introducing the same. The chief clerk shall attach to all bills a substantial cover bearing the title and sponsors and shall number each bill in the order filed. All bills shall be printed unless otherwise ordered by the house.

Any bill introduced at any session during the term shall be eligible for action at all subsequent sessions during the term.

Reading of Bills

Rule 10. Every bill shall be read on three separate days:

PROVIDED, That this rule may be temporarily suspended at any time by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present; and that on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution or concurrent resolution, on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, this rule may be suspended by a majority vote.

A bill may be returned to second reading for the purpose of amendment by a suspension of the rules: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, section 12 of the state Constitution or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, this rule may be suspended and a bill returned to second reading for the purpose of amendment by a majority vote.

(A) FIRST READING. The first reading of a bill shall be by title only, unless a majority of the members present demand a reading in full.

After the first reading the bill shall be referred to an appropriate committee.

Upon being reported out of committee, all bills shall be referred to the rules committee, unless otherwise ordered by the house.

The rules committee may, by majority vote, refer any bill in its possession to a committee for further consideration. Such referral shall be reported to the house and entered in the journal under the fifth order of business.

(B) SECOND READING. Upon second reading, the bill number and short title and the last line of the bill shall be read unless a majority of the members present shall demand its reading in full. The bill shall be subject to amendment section by section. No amendment shall be considered by the house until it has been sent to the chief clerk's desk in writing, distributed to the desk of each member, and read by the clerk. All amendments adopted during second reading shall be securely fastened to the original bill. All amendments rejected by the house shall be passed to the minute clerk, and the journal shall show the disposition of such amendments.

When no further amendments shall be offered, the speaker shall declare the bill has passed its second reading.

(C) SUBSTITUTE BILLS. When a committee reports a substitute for an original bill with the recommendation that the substitute bill do pass, it shall be in order to read the substitute for the first time and have the same printed. A motion for the substitution shall not be in order until the second reading of the original bill.

(D) THIRD READING. Only the last line of bills shall be read on third reading unless a majority of the members present demand a reading in full. No amendments to a bill shall be received on third reading but it may be referred or recommitted for the purpose of amendment.

(E) SUSPENSION CALENDAR. Bills may be placed on the second reading suspension calendar by the rules committee if at least two minority party members of the rules committee join in such motion. Bills on the second reading suspension calendar shall not be subject to amendment or substitution except as recommended in the committee report. When a bill is before the house on the suspension calendar, the question shall be to adopt the committee recommendations and advance the bill to third reading. If the question fails to receive a two-thirds vote of the members present, the bill shall be referred to the rules committee for second reading.

(F) HOUSE RESOLUTIONS. House resolutions shall be filed with the chief clerk who shall transmit them to the rules committee.
If a rules committee meeting is not scheduled to occur prior to a time necessitated by the purpose of a house resolution, the majority leader and minority leader by agreement may waive transmission to the rules committee to permit consideration of the resolution by the house. The rules committee may adopt house resolutions by a sixty percent majority vote of its entire membership or may, by a majority vote of its members, place them on the motions calendar for consideration by the house. House resolutions are not subject to debate, except for resolutions necessary for the operation of the house, and resolutions commemorating Children's Day, Day of Remembrance, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, National Guard Day, and President's Day.

(G) CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS. Reading of concurrent resolutions may be advanced by majority vote.

Amendments

Rule 11. The right of any member to offer amendments to proposed legislation shall not be limited except as provided in Rule 10(E) and as follows:

(A) AMENDMENTS TO BE OFFERED IN PROPER FORM.
The chief clerk shall establish the proper form for amendments and all amendments offered shall bear the name of the member who offers the same, as well as the number and section of the bill to be amended.

(B) COMMITTEE AMENDMENTS. When a bill is before the house on second reading, amendments adopted by committees and recommended to the house shall be acted upon by the house before any amendments that may be offered from the floor.

(C) SENATE AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILLS. A house bill, passed by the senate with amendment or amendments which shall change the scope and object of the bill, upon being received in the house, shall be referred to the appropriate committee and shall take the same course as for original bills unless a motion not to concur is adopted prior to the bill being referred to committee.

(D) AMENDMENTS TO BE GERMANE. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment; and no bill or resolution shall at any time be amended by annexing thereto or incorporating therein any other bill or resolution pending before the house.

(E) SCOPE AND OBJECT NOT TO BE CHANGED. No amendment to any bill shall be allowed which shall change the scope and object of the bill. This objection may be raised at any time an amendment is under consideration. The speaker may allow the person raising the objection and the mower of the amendment to provide brief arguments as to the merits of the objection. (Art. II § 38)
(F) NO AMENDMENT BY REFERENCE. No act shall ever be revised or amended without being set forth at full length. (Art. II § 37)

(G) TITLE AMENDMENTS. The subject matter portion of a bill title shall not be amended in committee or on second reading. Changes to that part of the title after the subject matter statement shall either be presented with the text amendment or be incorporated by the chief clerk in the engrossing process.

Final Passage

Rule 12. Rules relating to bills on final passage are as follows:

(A) BUDGET BILLS. No final passage vote may be taken on an operating budget, transportation budget, or capital budget bill until twenty-four (24) hours after the bill is placed on the third reading calendar. The twenty-four (24) hour requirement does not apply to conference reports, which are governed by Joint Rule 20, or to bills placed on the third reading calendar by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present.

(B) RECOMMITMENT BEFORE FINAL PASSAGE. A bill may be recommitted at any time before its final passage.

(C) FINAL PASSAGE. No bill shall become a law unless on its final passage the vote be taken by yeas and nays, the names of the members voting for and against the same be entered on the journal of each house, and a majority of the members elected to each house be recorded thereon as voting in its favor. (Art. II § 22)

(D) BILLS PASSED - CERTIFICATION. When a bill passes, it shall be certified to by the chief clerk, said certification to show the date of its passage together with the vote thereon.

Hour of Meeting, Roll Call and Quorum

Rule 13. (A) HOUR OF MEETING. The speaker shall call the house to order each day of sitting at 10:00 A.M., unless the house shall have adjourned to some other hour.

(B) ROLL CALL AND QUORUM. Before proceeding with business, the roll of the members shall be called and the names of those absent or excused shall be entered on the journal. A majority of all the members elected must be present to constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. In the absence of a quorum, seven members with the speaker, or eight members in the speaker's absence, having chosen a speaker pro tempore, shall be authorized to demand a call of the house and may compel the attendance of absent members in the manner provided in Rule 21(B). For the purpose of determining if a quorum be present, the speaker shall count all members present, whether voting or not. (Art. II § 8)

(C) The house shall adjourn not later than 10:00 P.M. of each working day. This rule may be suspended by a majority vote.

Daily Calendar and Order of Business

Rule 14. The rules relating to the daily calendar and order of business are as follows:

(A) DAILY CALENDAR. Business of the house shall be disposed of in the following order:

First: Roll call, presentation of colors, prayer, and approval of the journal of the preceding day.
Second: Introduction of visiting dignitaries.
Third: Messages from the senate, governor, and other state officials.
Fourth: Introduction and first reading of bills, memorials, joint resolutions, and concurrent resolutions.
Fifth: Committee reports.
Sixth: Second reading of bills.
Seventh: Third reading of bills.
Eighth: Floor resolutions and motions.
Ninth: Presentation of petitions, memorials, and remonstrances addressed to the Legislature.
Tenth: Introduction of visitors and other business to be considered.
Eleventh: Announcements.

(B) UNFINISHED BUSINESS. The unfinished business at which the house was engaged preceding adjournment shall not be taken up until reached in regular order, unless the previous question on such unfinished business has been ordered prior to said adjournment.

(C) EXCEPTIONS. Exceptions to the order of business are as follows:
(1) The order of business may be changed by a majority vote of those present.
(2) By motion under the eighth order of business, a bill in the rules committee may be placed on the calendar by the affirmative vote of a majority of all members of the house.
(3) House resolutions and messages from the senate, governor, or other state officials may be read at any time.

Motions

Rule 15. Rules relating to motions are as follows:

(A) MOTIONS TO BE ENTERTAINED OR DEBATED. No motion shall be entertained or debated until announced by the speaker and every motion shall be deemed to have been seconded. A motion shall be reduced to writing and read by the clerk, if desired by the speaker or any member, before it shall be debated and by the consent of the house may be withdrawn before amendment or action.

(B) MOTIONS IN ORDER DURING DEBATE. When a motion has been made and seconded and stated by the chair, the following motions are in order, in the rank named:

(1) Privileged motions:
  Adjourn
  Adjourn to a time certain Recess to a time certain
  Reconsider
  Demand for division
  Question of privilege
  Orders of the day

(2) Subsidiary motions:
  First rank: Question of consideration
  Second rank: To lay on the table
  Third rank: For the previous question
  Fourth rank: To postpone to a day certain
  To commit or recommit
Motions to adopt house resolutions shall be decided without debate, except in such cases as provided in Rule 22. That members may speak to points of order and appeal as provided in Rules 7 and 10(F).

All incidental motions shall be decided without debate, except as provided in Rule 18. The question shall be decided without debate.

Adjourn, to recess, to lay on the table and to call for the previous question shall be decided without debate.

A motion to adjourn, to recess, to lay on the table and to call for the previous question shall be decided without debate.

All incidental motions shall be decided without debate, except that members may speak to points of order and appeal as provided in Rule 22.

Motions to adopt house resolutions shall be decided without debate, except as provided in Rule 10(F).

A motion for suspension of the rules shall not be debatable except that the mover of the motion may briefly explain the purpose of the motion and one member may briefly state the opposition to the motion.

A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, except when the house is voting or is working under the call of the house; but this rule shall not authorize any member to move for adjournment when another member has the floor.

Rule 16. The methods by which a member may exercise his or her right to debate are as follows:

(A) RECOGNITION OF MEMBER. When any member desires to speak in debate or deliver any matter to the house, the member shall rise and respectfully address the speaker and pause until recognized.

(B) ORDER OF SPEAKING. When two or more members arise at once, the speaker shall name the one who is to speak.

(C) LIMITATION OF DEBATE. No member shall speak longer than ten (10) minutes without consent of the house. Provided, that on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day (a) any bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, no member shall speak more than three (3) minutes without the consent of the house. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the house; provided, that the chair of the committee or the mover of the question may close debate if it is consistent with Rule 18 (Previous Question).

Rule 17. The rules for debate in the house are as follows:

(A) QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE. Any member may rise to a question of privilege and explain a personal matter, by leave of the speaker, but the member shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations.

(B) WITHDRAWAL OF MOTION, BILL, ETC. After a motion is stated by the speaker or a bill, memorial, resolution, petition, or remonstrance is read by the clerk, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the house, but may be withdrawn by consent of the house at any time before decision or amendment.

(C) READING OF A PAPER. When the reading of any paper is called for and is objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the house.

(D) DISTRIBUTION OF MATERIALS. Any materials of any nature distributed to the members' desks on the floor shall be subject to approval by the speaker and shall bear the name of at least one member granting permission for the distribution. This shall not apply to materials normally distributed by the chief clerk.

(E) ORDER OF QUESTIONS. All questions, whether in committee or in the house, shall be propounded in the order in which they are named except that in filling blanks, the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

(F) DIVISION OF POINTS OF DEBATE. Any member may call for a division of a question which shall be divided if it embraces subjects so distinct that one being taken away a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the house; but a motion to strike out and to insert shall not be divided. The rejection of a motion to strike out and to insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and to insert a different proposition.

(G) DECORUM OF MEMBERS. While the speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk across or out of the house; nor when a member is speaking shall any member entertain private discourse or pass between the speaking member and the rostrum.

(H) REMARKS CONFINED. A member shall confine all remarks to the question under debate and avoid personalities. No member shall impugn the motive of any member's vote or argument.

(I) EXCEPTION TO WORDS SPOKEN IN DEBATE. If any member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling the member to order shall repeat the words excepted to and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's table. No member shall be held in answer or be subject to the censure of the house for words spoken in debate if any other member has spoken before exception to them shall have been taken.

(J) TRANSGRESSION OF RULES - APPEAL. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgresses the rules of the house the speaker shall, or any member may, call the member to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down unless permitted to explain; and the house shall, if appealed to, decide the case without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the chair shall prevail.

If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, the member shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, and the case shall require it, the member shall be liable to the censure of the house.

Rules of Debate
Ending of Debate - Previous Question

Rule 18. The previous question may be ordered by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the members present on all recognized motions or amendments which are debatable.

The previous question is not debatable and cannot be amended. The previous question shall be put in this form: "Representative ________ demands the previous question. As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say 'Aye'; as many as are opposed will say 'No'."

The results of the motion are as follows: If determined in the negative, the consideration goes on as if the motion had never been made; if decided in the affirmative it shall have the effect of cutting off all debate and bringing the house to a direct vote upon the motion or amendment on which it has been ordered: PROVIDED HOWEVER, That when a bill is on final passage or when the motion to postpone indefinitely is pending, one of the sponsors of the bill or the chair of the committee may have the privilege of closing debate after the previous question has been ordered.

If an adjournment is had after the previous question is ordered, the motion or proposition on which the previous question was ordered shall be put to the house immediately following the approval of the journal on the next working day, thus making the main question privileged over all other business, whether new or unfinished.

Voting

Rule 19. (A) PUTTING OF QUESTION. The speaker shall put the question in the following form: "The question before the house is (state the question). As many as are in favor say 'Aye'; and after the affirmative vote is expressed, "as many as are opposed say 'No'."

(B) ALL MEMBERS TO VOTE. Every member who was in the house when the question was put shall vote unless, for special reasons, excused by the house.

All motions to excuse a member shall be made before the house divides or before the call for yeas and nays is commenced; and any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief and verbal statement of the reasons for making such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

Upon a division and count of the house on the question, only members at their desks within the bar of the house shall be counted.

(C) CHANGE OF VOTE. When the electric roll call machine is used, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the speaker has locked the roll call machine. When an oral roll call is taken, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the result has been announced.

(D) PRIVATE INTEREST. No member shall vote on any question which affects that member privately and particularly. A member who has a private interest in any bill or measure proposed or pending before the legislature shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon. (Art. II § 30)

(E) INTERRUPTION OF ROLL CALL. Once begun, the roll call may not be interrupted. No member or other person shall visit or remain at the clerk's desk while the yeas and nays are being called.

(F) YEAS AND NAYS - RECORDED VOTES. Upon the final passage of any bill, the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and shall be recorded by the electric voting system: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That an oral roll call shall be ordered when demanded by one-sixth (1/6) of the members present. (Art. II § 21)

The speaker may vote last when the yeas and nays are called.

When the vote is by electric voting machine or by oral roll call on any question, it shall be entered upon the journal of the house. A recorded vote may be compelled by one-sixth (1/6) of the members present. A request for a recorded vote must be made before the vote is commenced.

(G) TIE VOTE, QUESTION LOSES. In case of an equal division, the question shall be lost.

(H) DIVISION. If the speaker is in doubt, or if division is called for by any member, the house shall divide.

Reconsideration

Rule 20. Notice of a motion for reconsideration on the final passage of bills shall be made on the day the vote to be reconsidered was taken and before the house has voted to transmit the bill to the senate. Reconsideration of the votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the next working day after such vote was taken: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, Section 12 of the state Constitution, or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, then reconsideration of votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the same day as the original vote was taken.

A motion to reconsider an amendment may be made at any time the bill remains on second reading.

Any member who voted on the prevailing side may move for reconsideration or give notice thereof.

A motion to reconsider can be decided only once when decided in the negative.

When a motion to reconsider has been carried, its effect shall be to place the original question before the house in the exact position it occupied before it was voted upon.

Rule 21. One-sixth (1/6) of the members present may demand a call of the house at any time before the house has divided or the voting has commenced by yeas and nays.

(A) DOORS TO BE CLOSED. When call of the house has been ordered, the sergeant at arms shall close and lock the doors, and no member shall be allowed to leave the chamber: PROVIDED, That the rules committee shall be allowed to meet, upon request of the speaker, while the house stands at ease: AND PROVIDED FURTHER, That the speaker may permit members to use such portions of the fourth floor as may be properly secured.

(B) SERGEANT AT ARMS TO BRING IN THE ABSENTEES. The clerk shall immediately call a roll of the members and note the absentees, whose names shall be read and entered upon the journal in such manner as to show who are excused and who are absent without leave.

The clerk shall furnish the sergeant at arms with a list of those who are absent without leave, and the sergeant at arms shall proceed to bring in such absentees; but arrests of members for absence shall not be made unless ordered by a majority of the members present.

(C) HOUSE UNDER CALL. While the house is under a call, no business shall be transacted except to receive and act on the report of the sergeant at arms; and no other motion shall be in order except a motion to proceed with business under the call of the house, a motion

10. Government Accountability & Oversight 9

Duties of Committees

Rule 24. House committees shall operate as follows:

(A) NOTICE OF COMMITTEE MEETING. The chief clerk shall make public the time, place and subjects to be discussed at committee meetings. All public hearings held by committees shall be scheduled at least five (5) days in advance and shall be given adequate publicity: PROVIDED, That when less than eight (8) days remain for action on a bill, the Speaker may authorize a reduction of the five-day notice period when required by the circumstances, including but not limited to the time remaining for action on the bill, the nature of the subject, and the number of prior hearings on the subject.

(B) COMMITTEE QUORUM. A majority of any committee shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

(C) SESSION MEETINGS. No committee shall sit while the house is in session without special leave of the speaker.

(D) DUTIES OF STANDING COMMITTEES.

(1) Only such bills as are included on the written notice of a committee meeting may be considered at that meeting except upon the vote of a majority of the entire membership of the committee to consider another bill.

(2) A majority recommendation of a committee must be signed by a majority of the entire membership of the committee in a regularly called meeting before a bill, memorial, or resolution may be reported out: PROVIDED, That by motion under the eighth order of business, a majority of the members elected to the house may relieve the committee of a bill and place it on the second reading calendar.

Majority recommendations of a committee can only be "do pass," "do pass as amended," or that "the substitute bill be substituted therefor and that the substitute bill do pass."

(3) Members of the committee not concurring in the majority report may prepare a written minority report containing a recommendation of "do not pass" or "without recommendation,"

Rule 22. The decision of the chair may be appealed from by any member, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once unless by leave of the house. In all cases of appeal, the question shall be: "Shall the decision of the chair stand as the judgment of the house?"

Standing Committees

12. Health Care & Wellness 17
13. Higher Education 19
14. Judiciary 13
15. Labor & Workforce Development 9
16. Local Government 9

Committee members shall be selected by each party's caucus. Membership on appropriations subcommittees is restricted to the membership of the appropriations committee. The majority party caucus shall select all committee chairs.

which shall be signed by those members of the committee subscribing thereto, and submitted with the majority report.

(4) All committee reports shall be spread upon the journal. The journal of the house shall contain an exact copy of all committee reports, together with the names of the members signing such reports.

(5) Every vote to report a bill out of committee shall be taken by the yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for and against, as well as the names of members absent, shall be recorded on the committee report. Any member may call for a recorded vote, which shall include the names of absent members, on any substantive question before the committee. A copy of all recorded committee votes shall be kept by the chief clerk and shall be available for public inspection.

(6) All bills having a direct appropriation shall be referred to the appropriate fiscal committee before their final passage.

(7) No standing committee shall vote by secret written ballot on any issue.

(8) During its consideration of or vote on any bill, resolution, or memorial, the deliberations of any standing committee of the house of representatives shall be open to the public.

(9) A standing committee to which a bill was originally referred shall, prior to voting the bill out of committee, consider whether the bill authorizes rule-making powers or requires the exercise of rule-making powers and, if so, consider:
   (a) The nature of the new rule-making powers; and
   (b) To which agencies the new rule-making powers would be delegated and which agencies, if any, may have related rule-making powers.

(10) Standing committee subcommittees established in Rule 23 have the same powers and duties as standing committees.

Standing Committees - Expenses - Subpoena Power

Rule 25. Regardless of whether the legislature is in session, members of the house may receive from moneys appropriated for the legislature, reimbursement for necessary travel expenses, and payments in lieu of subsistence and lodging for conducting official business of the house.

The standing committees of the house may have the powers of subpoena, the power to administer oaths, and the power to issue commissions for the examination of witnesses in accordance with the provisions of chapter 44.16 RCW. Before a standing committee of the house may issue any process, the committee chairperson shall submit for approval of the executive rules committee a statement of purpose setting forth the name or names of those subject to process. The process shall not be issued prior to approval by the executive rules committee. The process shall be limited to the named individuals.

Vetoed Bills

Rule 26. Veto messages of the governor shall be read in the house and entered upon the journal. It shall then be in order to proceed to reconsider the bill, refer it, lay it on the table, or postpone its consideration to a day certain.

The merits of the bill may be debated before the vote is taken, but the vote on a vetoed bill cannot be reconsidered.

In case of a bill containing several sections or items, one or more of which has been objected to by the governor, each section or item so objected to shall be voted upon separately by the house. Action by the house upon all vetoed bills shall be endorsed upon the bill and certified by the speaker.

Vetoed bills originating in the house, which have not been passed notwithstanding the veto of the governor, shall remain in the custody of the officers of the house until the close of the term, after which they shall be filed with the secretary of state.

Suspension of Compensation

Rule 27. (1) Any member of the house of representatives convicted and sentenced for any felony punishable by death or by imprisonment in a Washington state penal institution shall, as of the time of sentencing, be denied the legislative salary for future service and be denied per diem, compensation for expenses, office space facilities, and assistance. Any member convicted of a felony and sentenced therefor under any federal law or the law of any other state shall, as of the time of sentencing, be similarly denied such salary, per diem, expenses, facilities, and assistance if either (a) such crime would also constitute a crime punishable under the laws of Washington by death or by imprisonment in a state penal institution, or (b) the conduct resulting in the conviction and sentencing would also constitute a crime punishable under the laws of Washington by death or by imprisonment in a state penal institution.

(2) At any time, the house may vote by a constitutional majority to restore the salary, per diem, expenses, facilities, and assistance denied a member under subsection (1). If the conviction of a member is reversed, then the salary, per diem, and expense amounts denied the member since sentencing shall be forthwith paid, and the member shall thereafter have the rights and privileges of other members.

Smoking

Rule 28. Smoking of cigarettes, pipes, or cigars shall not be permitted at any public meeting of any committee of the house of representatives or within House facilities. "No smoking" signs shall be posted so as to give notice of this rule.

Liquor

Rule 29. The House of Representatives shall strictly adhere to the liquor laws of the state of Washington, including provisions relating to banquet and special occasion permits. The proper permits must always be obtained before consumption of liquor in any house facility.
After subsection (D)(10) of Rule 24, insert the following:

"(A) FUND EDUCATION FIRST. Education funding for the fiscal biennium, appropriations for the purposes of basic education, as defined by the legislature, and other K-12 education purposes must be enacted into law before it is in order for the house to take a final passage vote on omnibus operating or transportation appropriations legislation."

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

CERTIFICATION OF INITIATIVE TO THE LEGISLATURE NO. 522

Pursuant to Article II, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution, RCW 29A.72.230, and WAC 434-379-010, the Office of the Secretary of State has caused the signatures submitted in support of Initiative to the Legislature No. 522 to be examined in the following manner:

1. It was determined that 353,331 signatures were submitted by the sponsors of the initiative. A random sample of 10,762 signatures was taken from those submitted;

2. Each sampled signature was examined to determine if the signer was a registered voter of the state, if the signature was reasonably similar to the one appearing on the record of that voter, and if the same signature appeared more than once in the sample. We found 9,503 valid signatures, 1,241 signatures that were invalid and 18 pairs of duplicated signatures in the sample;

3. We calculated an allowance for the chance error of sampling (53) by multiplying the square root of the number of invalid signatures by 1.5;

4. We estimated the upper limit of the number of signatures on the initiative petition which were invalid (42,479) by dividing the sum of the number of invalid signatures in the sample and allowance for the chance of error of sampling by the sampling ratio;

5. We determined the maximum allowable number of pairs of signatures on the petition (69,699) by subtracting the sum of the number of signatures required by Article II, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution (241,153) and the estimate of the upper limit of the number of invalid signatures on the petition from the number of signatures submitted;

6. We determined the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample (65) by multiplying the square of the sampling ratio by the maximum allowable number of pairs of signatures on the initiative petition;

7. We determined the acceptable number of pairs of signatures in the sample (51) by subtracting 1.65 times the square root of the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample; and

8. The number of pairs of signatures in the sample is less than the acceptable number of pairs of signatures in the sample.

Therefore, I hereby declare Initiative to the Legislature No. 522 to contain sufficient signatures.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the Seal of the State of Washington this 31st day of January, 2013.

KIM WYMAN
Secretary of State

There being no objection, Initiative No. 522 was referred to Committee on Agriculture & Natural Resources.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the fourth order of business.

RESOLUTIONS

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 2013-4610, by Representative Van De Wege

WHEREAS, Washington's pulp and paper mill workers have dedicated their time, sweat, and labor to one of our state's most vital manufacturing industries; and

WHEREAS, In 2008 Washington's economy succumbed to the economic crisis that spread across our nation and around the globe; and

WHEREAS, This crisis was the worst economic disaster in our nation's history since the Great Depression; and

WHEREAS, As a result of the economic downturn, Washington's pulp and paper mill workers saw their once prosperous livelihood suffer; and

WHEREAS, These workers made great concessions, so that despite the hardships they and their families would face, the industry would endure; and

WHEREAS, Some of these workers accepted austerity measures and continued to work with severe cuts to both their pay and hours; and

WHEREAS, Other workers were forced to make even greater sacrifices, finding themselves jobless after decades of working in the industry; and

WHEREAS, There is now a burgeoning future for pulp and paper mill workers in Washington; and

WHEREAS, One mill in Grays Harbor that shut down during the peak of the economic downturn has since reopened; and

WHEREAS, As the industry continues to regain its momentum, we must remember the workers who accepted the unfortunate but necessary austerity and unemployment measures in the face of the industry's potential demise; and

WHEREAS, These workers had a direct yet difficult role in keeping Washington's pulp and paper mill industry alive;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives of the State of Washington thank the pulp and paper mill workers of our state for their sacrifice and dedication both before and during the economic crisis, and into the future as the industry rebounds.

The Speaker (Representative Orwall presiding) stated the question before the House to be adoption of House Resolution No. 4610.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 4610 was adopted.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 2013-4611, by Representatives Zeiger, Walsh, Hargrove, Haler, Scott, Manweller, Appleton, McCoy, Morrell, Fagan, Magendanz, O'Ban, and Angel

WHEREAS, The Independent Colleges of Washington is a nonprofit organization composed of ten independent nonprofit liberal arts colleges that provide educational opportunity, choice, and success to 40,000 students, two-thirds of whom are Washington residents; and

WHEREAS, ICW is passionate about ensuring students enjoy maximum access to a transformative educational experience from a diverse and affordable set of options, in keeping with its vision of providing Washington with college graduates who are critical thinkers, ethical leaders, and engaged citizens by virtue of a rigorous education grounded in the liberal arts; and

WHEREAS, ICW member colleges produce one in five baccalaureate and advanced degrees conferred in Washington at a cost to the state of just two percent of the higher education budget, all in the form of student financial assistance; and

WHEREAS, ICW member colleges produce 35 percent of math degrees awarded in Washington, 23 percent of science degrees, 20 percent of engineering degrees, and 34 percent of nursing degrees in Washington, helping the state address the need for more degrees in high-demand fields of study; and

WHEREAS, ICW colleges employ 7,000 people, contribute nearly $2.5 billion to state and local economies, and provide communities in Washington with over 500,000 hours of volunteer service each year; and

WHEREAS, ICW colleges provide access to high quality, rigorous higher education opportunities, enrolling a diverse population of students, including 25 percent first-generation and 31 percent low-income students; and

WHEREAS, ICW colleges are providing over $324 million in grant aid to students this academic year to help keep college affordable for students and their families; and

WHEREAS, ICW raises over $1.3 million in 2011 and 2012 to fund scholarships for students attending ICW member colleges, further supporting access to higher education for students; and

WHEREAS, Since November 30, 1953, ICW has served member colleges and their students and has worked to improve collaborative partnerships among the colleges, with the State of Washington, and with Washington's public colleges and universities, thus earning the motto "Better Together: Partners in Student Success for 60 Years";

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives congratulate the Independent Colleges of Washington on the occasion of its 60th anniversary and commend the Independent Colleges of Washington for its excellent service to the State and its tireless efforts to support students and to strengthen all sectors of the higher education system in Washington.

The Speaker (Representative Orwall presiding) stated the question before the House to be adoption of House Resolution No. 4611.

There being no objection, the bills and resolution listed on the day’s committee reports under the fifth order of business were referred to the committees so designated, with the exception of HOUSE BILL NO. 1043 which was placed on the second reading calendar.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

There being no objection, the House adjourned until 10:00 a.m., February 15, 2013, the 33rd Day of the Regular Session.

FRANK CHOPP, Speaker
BARBARA BAKER, Chief Clerk
The House was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by the Speaker (Representative Orwall presiding). The Clerk called the roll and a quorum was present.

The flags were escorted to the rostrum by Boy Scout Troop 252 from Seattle. The Speaker (Representative Orwall presiding) led the Chamber in the Pledge of Allegiance. The prayer was offered by Pastor Brooks Andrews, Japanese Baptist Church, Seattle.

Reading of the Journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was ordered to stand approved.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, On February 19, 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued Executive Order 9066 which authorized the military to forcibly remove and incarcerate more than 120,000 persons of Japanese ancestry from the West Coast, including 12,000 Japanese-American residents of Washington State; and

WHEREAS, The first Civilian Evacuation Order gave Japanese-Americans from Bainbridge Island less than one week to leave behind homes, farms, businesses, friends, and family and to report to hastily constructed detention centers like Camp Harmony on the grounds of the Western Washington Fair in Puyallup; and

WHEREAS, This drastic course of action allegedly aimed to prevent acts of espionage and sabotage by Japanese-Americans who were deemed untrustworthy and disloyal to the United States; and

WHEREAS, On March 23, 1943, the War Department organized a segregated unit of Japanese-Americans, many of whom reported for military duty from concentration camps surrounded by barbed wire in which they and their families were detained; and

WHEREAS, More than 12,000 volunteers responded to questions of their loyalty and patriotism by amassing a battle record unparalleled in U.S. military history including: Seven Presidential Unit Citations; 21 Medals of Honor; 29 Distinguished Service Crosses; 1 Distinguished Service Medal; 588 Silver Stars; more than 4,000 Bronze Stars; 22 Legion of Merit Medals; 15 Soldier’s Medals; 9,486 Purple Hearts; 16 decorations from France and Italy; and a Congressional Gold Medal awarded collectively to the 442nd Regimental Combat Unit, the 100th Infantry Battalion, and the Military Intelligence Service, United States Army; and

WHEREAS, Equally loyal and patriotic Japanese-Americans fought to protect our constitutional rights and liberties through dissent, like University of Washington student Gordon Hirabayashi who was arrested, convicted, and imprisoned for defying the military curfew on select civilians and refusing to evacuate when ordered; and

WHEREAS, In 1982, the Congressional Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians found "no military or security reason for the internment" of persons of Japanese ancestry, but determined it "was caused by racial prejudice, war hysteria, and a failure of political leadership"; and

WHEREAS, As a result of this travesty of justice, Japanese-Americans suffered immense economic loss of property and assets, immeasurable physical and psychological harm, and were deprived of their constitutional liberties without due process of law; and

WHEREAS, In 1979, newly elected Congressman Mike Lowry of Washington State introduced H.R. 5977 to provide reparations and an apology to former Japanese-American internees, thus initiating a ten-year legislative quest that ended when President Ronald Reagan signed the Civil Liberties Act of 1988; and

WHEREAS, Five years earlier, the Washington State Legislature enacted and Governor John Spellman signed similar legislation sponsored by State Senators George Fleming, Jack Jones, Jim McDermott, Kent Pullen, and Phil Talmadge to provide token compensatory redress to forty state workers who lost their jobs due to the wartime incarceration of Japanese-Americans; and

WHEREAS, Throughout Washington state, Japanese-American survivors of the European and Asian battlefields of World War II and of American concentration camps live their golden years quietly, in unassuming contrast to their extraordinary acts of patriotism and valor;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives, along with the people of Washington, pause to acknowledge the seventy-first anniversary of the signing of Executive Order 9066, the seventieth anniversary of the formation of the 442nd Regimental Combat Team, the thirtieth anniversary of the signing of Washington State Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill 3163, and the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Civil Liberties Act of 1988, to recognize and honor the heroism, sacrifice, patience, and loyalty of the Japanese-American World War II veterans and internees, and to remember the lessons and blessing of liberty and justice for all; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Nisei Veterans Committee, the Military Intelligence Service – Northwest Association, the Japanese American Citizens League, the Japanese Cultural & Community Center of Washington State, the Wing Luke Museum of the Asian Pacific American Experience, Governor Mike Lowry, and State Senator George Fleming.

Representative Stonier moved adoption of HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 4617

Representatives Stonier, Kochmar, Santos and Overstreet spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 4617 was adopted.
The Speaker (Representative Orwall presiding) introduced former Governor Mike Lowry and former State Representative Kip Tokuda seated in the gallery, and asked the Chamber to recognize them.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the fourth order of business.

FRANK CHOPP, Speaker

BARBARA BAKER, Chief Clerk
WHEREAS, This body recognizes that in order to thrive as a state and nation we must empower children through policies that foster their success;
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the House of Representatives celebrate the children of the State of Washington and encourage all of its citizens to celebrate children's Day as well as throughout the year by nurturing them with love, attention, and encouragement, in order to keep our communities strong.

Representative Riccelli moved adoption of HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 4621

Representatives Riccelli and Hawkins spoke in favor of the adoption of the resolution.

WHEREAS, Washington is the only state named for an American president, George Washington, the father of our country, and as such, we Washingtonians hold the presidency and presidents in exceptionally high esteem; and

WHEREAS, For many years our state and nation have set aside the third Monday in February to celebrate Presidents' Day, which honors President George Washington, President Abraham Lincoln, and other former presidents of the United States of America; and

WHEREAS, George Washington, born February 22, 1732, led the Revolutionary Army with courage and fortitude, served as the first president of the United States, defined the office, and remained ever mindful of his actions and the ramifications carried by his deeds; and

WHEREAS, Abraham Lincoln, born February 12, 1809, is remembered as the savior of the Union. Through the Emancipation Proclamation, he ended slavery, and he strove to rebuild the Union at the Civil War's conclusion; and

WHEREAS, In 1968 federal legislation, the "Monday Holidays Proclamation, he ended slavery, and he strove to rebuild the Union at the Civil War's conclusion; and

WHEREAS, In 1968 federal legislation, the "Monday Holidays Act," was passed to install the Presidents' Day celebration that we have come to know and respect; and

WHEREAS, In 1985, the Washington State Legislature singled out the third Monday in February as a day for commemorating the births of presidents Washington and Lincoln; and
WHEREAS, It is recognized that this diverse, wonderful land of ours has been fashioned into a land of freedom and opportunity thanks to the tireless efforts of our forebears, especially presidents George Washington and Abraham Lincoln; and

WHEREAS, A Presidents' Day celebration would not be complete without recognizing the invaluable service of the first ladies in our American presidential history; and

WHEREAS, The first ladies of our nation have provided citizens with role models who exemplify what it means to be an American, and Abigail Adams, Dolly Madison, Eleanor Roosevelt, Jacqueline Kennedy, Nancy Reagan, Hillary Rodham Clinton, and other notable first ladies have served as examples of strength and courage throughout our history;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That on this eighteenth day of February, 2013, the House of Representatives honor the first and sixteenth presidents of the United States for their immeasurable contributions to, and noble sacrifices for, the causes of liberty, equality, and justice.

Representative Habib moved adoption of HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 4616

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 2013-4619, by Representatives Sawyer, Jinkins, McCoy, Goodman, Fey, and Freeman

WHEREAS, Today we remember the honorable Justice Vernon R. Pearson of the Washington State Supreme Court, who passed away this month; and
WHEREAS, Justice Vernon R. Pearson was a veteran, having served in the United States Navy during World War II. He was honorably discharged in 1946 with the rank of lieutenant, junior grade; and
WHEREAS, Justice Vernon R. Pearson served 12 years on the intermediate appeals bench and was twice chief judge of Division Two; and
WHEREAS, Justice Vernon R. Pearson served as a Supreme Court justice from 1982 to 1989, and as chief justice from 1987 to 1989; and
WHEREAS, Justice Vernon R. Pearson was a friend of and champion for all Native American tribes, understanding both tribal law and its significance; and
WHEREAS, As chair of a Council of Chief Justices' coordinating committee, he was instrumental in organizing a national conference of state supreme court justices, court officials from around the United States, and representatives of some of the nation's 150 tribal courts where an emphasis on Native American sovereignty and the understanding of mutual problems and differences were the key subjects of discussion; and
WHEREAS, Fellow Justice Barbara Durham once said Justice Pearson would “be a great healer on the court. He's the perfect chief because he'll bring us all together. He's got that kind of good spirit about him”; and
WHEREAS, Justice Vernon R. Pearson was honored in 1989 by the American Judicature Society with its coveted Herbert Harley Award and by Gonzaga University with its Law Medal award; and
WHEREAS, Immediately following his death, the Quinault Indian Nation released a statement honoring their friend and mourning his loss with “deep sadness and great respect”;
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives honor, commend, and celebrate the life work and dedication of Justice Vernon R. Pearson.

WHEREAS, The House of Representatives of the state of Washington recognize extraordinary merit and achievement in all forms of endeavors; and
WHEREAS, The Seattle Seahawks thrilled fans by finishing the 2012 season with an overall record of 11-5, including a perfect 8-0 record on their home field in 2012; and
WHEREAS, The Seahawks advanced to the playoffs winning the NFC wild card round and representing the city admirably in the NFC divisional round; and
WHEREAS, The Seahawks have inspired their fans with their commitment to community and tenacity of play, inspiring the spirit of the "12th Man" to reach every part of this great state and each Seahawks fan across the country, and leading the "12th Man" to be the loudest fans in the league producing more opponent false starts than any other fan base since 2005; and
WHEREAS, The Seahawks achieved amazing team and individual accomplishments in the 2012 season with six Pro Bowl selections and four All-Pro selections; and
WHEREAS, Though one of the youngest teams in the league, the Seahawks showed great poise throughout the season that was demonstrated by players that placed second in defensive Rookie of the Year honors, third in offensive Rookie of the Year honors, and by setting the rookie quarterback record for touchdown passes in a single season; and
WHEREAS, The Seahawks defense was the number one ranked scoring defense in the NFL, and the offense set single-season records during the regular season for total rushing yards, average rushing yards, and per-carry average; and
WHEREAS, The Seahawks inspired the "12th Man" on and off the field through its civic work with the Seattle Seahawks Charitable Foundation; and
WHEREAS, The Seahawks Charitable Foundation and Spirit of 12 Partners, including the Russell Okung's UP Foundation, the Trufant Family Foundation, the Marshawn Lynch Fam 1st Family Foundation, and the Michael Robinson's Excel 2 Excellence Foundation, embody the team's commitment to the Pacific Northwest community and its fans; and
WHEREAS, Coach Pete Carroll has been an incredible leader by guiding the Seahawks to an overall winning record since joining the team in 2010 and working with youth in our communities through the formation of A Better Seattle, a partnership to help create a culture of safety and peace while reducing violence in our communities;
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives congratulate the Seattle Seahawks on their outstanding success on the field and commend Seahawks players and management for their support of community activities and charitable causes; and
BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Seattle Seahawks Football Team. Go Hawks.

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 2013-4624, by Representative O'Ban

WHEREAS, It is the policy of the Washington State House of Representatives to recognize the bravery and selflessness of Washington's military men and women; and

WHEREAS, The Third Stryker Brigade returned home to Joint Base Lewis-McChord in December 2012; and

WHEREAS, Roughly 4,000 members of the Third Stryker Brigade served with honor and distinction during their year-long deployment to Afghanistan; and

WHEREAS, The Third Stryker Brigade's mission was to defeat insurgents in the southern provinces of Zabul and Kandahar, Afghanistan; and

WHEREAS, The nation remembers and honors the many brave soldiers of the Third Stryker Brigade who gave the ultimate sacrifice to our country; and

WHEREAS, We extend our thoughts and prayers to the families who lost their loved ones who nobly served our nation in the Third Stryker Brigade; and

WHEREAS, Recognition is given to the brave soldiers of the Third Stryker Brigade who sustained life altering injuries, and we offer our support to these extraordinary heroes in a manner befitting our nation's bravest servants; and

WHEREAS, Recognition is given to Colonel Charles Webster and Command Sergeant Major Samuel Murphy for their leadership of the Third Stryker Brigade and sound judgment on the battlefield, and we thank them for accepting their call to duty; and

WHEREAS, This body recognizes the many lives these troops have made brighter through their service to our country and communities; and

WHEREAS, Communities in Washington welcome these public servants with heartfelt thanks and gratitude to serve in other ways as neighbors and friends or in their continued military careers; and

WHEREAS, Acknowledgment is given for the sacrifice made by the families of the Third Stryker Brigade, who were not on the battlefield, but bravely met the challenges at home to care for children, parents, friends, and neighbors on their own; and

WHEREAS, Recognition is given for the sacrifice we ask of those who serve in our volunteer military, and we have the utmost respect for those willing to lay down their lives for us in the cause of freedom, reminding us that "Greater love has no one than this, that he lay down his life for his friends";

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State House of Representatives recognize and honor Colonel Charles Webster, Command Sergeant Major Samuel Murphy, and the brave troops of the Third Stryker Brigade who served our country so valiantly overseas. We welcome these military men and women into our communities with our thanks and gratitude and commit to doing all we can to transition them and their families into civilian life, or to support them in their continued service in our armed forces; and

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative Angel: “Thank you. I wanted just to share that it has been a year already since we lost Trooper Tony in my district, by Bremerton. I wanted to share, if I may read, what one of our local newspapers said about him today? I quote, “A big hearted man with a ready smile. Radulescu was known as Trooper Tony in the communities surrounding Bremerton, where he spent his entire 16 year career with the State Patrol. “Tony was the epitome of a State Trooper” said Kitsap County Sheriff Steve Boyer. “He could handle problems with courage and he had those interpersonal skills that made everyone like him. He could write somebody a ticket and they would say thank you.” You know it’s tough when you lose a trooper and having two grandsons, George and Nate that are troopers, I pray for them every day and still it’s been one year already. Let’s just pray we don’t lose any more of our troopers in such a tragic situation as this. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask for one minute of silence in honor of the loss of our troopers, with Trooper Tony in mind, and we thank them for their service, thank you.”

Speaker Pro Tempore Moeller: Will the body please join me in a moment of silence, thank you.”

Representative Cody moved the adoption of amendment (13).

On page 2, beginning on line 32, after "(6)" strike all material through "70.47.160" on line 33 and insert "The legislature recognizes that every individual possesses a fundamental right to exercise their religious beliefs and conscience. The legislature further recognizes that in developing public policy, conflicting religious and moral beliefs must be respected. Therefore, while recognizing the right of conscientious objection to participating in specific health services, the state shall also recognize the right of individuals enrolled with plans containing the basic health plan services to receive the full range of services covered under the plan.

(7)(a) No individual health care provider, religiously sponsored health carrier, or health care facility may be required by law or contract in any circumstances to participate in the provision of or payment for a specific service if they object to doing so for reason of conscience or religion. No person may be discriminated against in employment or professional privileges because of such objection.

(b) The provisions of subsections (6) through (9) of this section are not intended to result in an enrollee being denied timely access to any service included in the basic health plan services. Each health carrier shall:

(i) Provide written notice to enrollees, upon enrollment with the plan, listing services that the carrier refuses to cover for reason of conscience or religion;

(ii) Provide written information describing how an enrollee may directly access services in an expeditious manner; and

(iii) Ensure that enrollees refused services under this section have prompt access to the information developed pursuant to (b)(ii) of this subsection.

(c) The insurance commissioner shall establish by rule a mechanism or mechanisms to recognize the right to exercise conscience while ensuring enrollees timely access to services and to assure prompt payment to service providers.

(8)(a) No individual or organization with a religious or moral tenet opposed to a specific service may be required to purchase coverage for that service or services if they object to doing so for reason of conscience or religion.

(b) The provisions of subsections (6) through (9) of this section shall not result in an enrollee being denied coverage of, and timely access to, any service or services excluded from their benefits package as a result of their employer's or another individual's exercise of the conscience clause in (a) of this subsection.

(c) The insurance commissioner shall define by rule the process through which health carriers may offer the basic health plan services to individuals and organizations identified in (a) and (b) of this subsection in accordance with the provisions of subsection (7)(c) of this section.

(9) Nothing in subsections (6) through (8) of this section requires a health carrier, health care facility, or health care provider to provide any health care services without appropriate payment of premium or fee.

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. RCW 48.150.010 and 2009 c 552 s 1 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Direct agreement" means a written agreement entered into between a direct practice and an individual direct patient, or the parent or legal guardian of the direct patient or a family of direct patients, whereby the direct practice charges a direct fee as consideration for being available to provide and providing primary care services to the individual direct patient. A direct agreement must (a) describe the specific health care services the direct practice will provide; and (b) be terminable at will upon written notice by the direct patient.

(2) "Direct fee" means a fee charged by a direct practice as consideration for being available to provide and providing primary care services as specified in a direct agreement.

(3) "Direct patient" means a person who is party to a direct agreement and is entitled to receive primary care services under the direct agreement from the direct practice.

(4) "Direct patient-provider primary care practice" and "direct practice" means a provider, group, or entity that meets the following criteria in (a), (b), (c), and (d) of this subsection:

(a)(i) A health care provider who furnishes primary care services through a direct agreement;

(ii) A group of health care providers who furnish primary care services through a direct agreement; or

(iii) An entity that sponsors, employs, or is otherwise affiliated with a group of health care providers who furnish only primary care services through a direct agreement, which entity is wholly owned by the group of health care providers or is a nonprofit corporation exempt from taxation under section 501(c)(3) of the internal revenue code, and is not otherwise regulated as a health care service contractor, health maintenance organization, or disability insurer under Title 48 RCW. Such entity is not prohibited from sponsoring, employing, or being otherwise affiliated with other types of health care providers not engaged in a direct practice;

(b) Enters into direct agreements with direct patients or parents or legal guardians of direct patients;

(c) Does not accept payment for health care services provided to direct patients from any entity subject to regulation under Title 48 RCW or plans administered under chapter 41.05, 70.47, or 70.47A RCW; and

(d) Does not provide, in consideration for the direct fee, services, procedures, or supplies such as prescription drugs except as provided in RCW 48.150.040(2)(b)(ii)(B), hospitalization costs, major surgery, dialysis, high level radiology (CT, MRI, PET scans or invasive radiology), rehabilitation services, procedures requiring general anesthesia, or similar advanced procedures, services, or supplies.

(5) "Health care provider" or "provider" means a person regulated under Title 18 RCW or chapter 70.127 RCW to practice health or health-related services or otherwise practicing health care services in this state consistent with state law.

(6) "Health carrier" or "carrier" has the same meaning as in RCW 48.43.005.

(7) "Network" means the group of participating providers and facilities providing health care services to a particular health carrier's health plan or to plans administered under chapter 41.05, 70.47, or 70.47A RCW.

(8) "Primary care" means routine health care services, including screening, assessment, diagnosis, and treatment for the purpose of promotion of health, and detection and management of disease or injury.

Sec. 2. RCW 48.150.040 and 2009 c 552 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Direct practices may not:

(a) Enter into a participating provider contract as defined in RCW 48.40.040 or 48.46.020 with any carrier or with any carrier's contractor or subcontractor, or plans administered under chapter 41.05, 70.47, or 70.47A RCW, to provide health care services through a direct agreement except as set forth in subsection (2) of this section;

(b) Submit a claim for payment to any carrier or any carrier's contractor or subcontractor, or plans administered under chapter 41.05, 70.47, or 70.47A RCW, for health care services provided to direct patients as covered by their agreement;

(c) With respect to services provided through a direct agreement, be identified by a carrier or any carrier's contractor or subcontractor, or plans administered under chapter 41.05, 70.47, or 70.47A RCW, as

a participant in the carrier's or any carrier's contractor or subcontractor network for purposes of determining network adequacy or being available for selection by an enrollee under a carrier's benefit plan; or

(d) Pay for health care services covered by a direct agreement rendered to direct patients by providers other than the providers in the direct practice or their employees, except as described in subsection (2)(b) of this section.

(2) Direct practices and providers may:

(a) Enter into a participating provider contract as defined by RCW 48.44.010 and 48.46.020 or plans administered under chapter 41.05, 70.47, or 70.47A RCW for purposes other than payment of claims for services provided to direct patients through a direct agreement. Such providers shall be subject to all other provisions of the participating provider contract applicable to participating providers including but not limited to the right to:

(i) Make referrals to other participating providers;

(ii) Admit the carrier's members to participating hospitals and other health care facilities;

(iii) Prescribe prescription drugs; and

(iv) Implement other customary provisions of the contract not dealing with reimbursement of services;

(b)(i) Pay for charges associated with:

(A) The provision of routine lab and imaging services; and

(B) The dispensing, at no additional cost to the direct patient, of drugs prescribed by the direct provider.

(ii) In aggregate payments made under (b)(i)(A) and (B) of this subsection per year per direct patient are not to exceed fifteen percent of the total annual direct fee charged that direct patient. Exceptions to this limitation may occur with respect to routine lab and imaging services in the event of short-term equipment failure if such failure prevents the provision of care that should not be delayed; and

(c) Charge an additional fee to direct patients for supplies, medications, and specific vaccines provided to direct patients that are specifically excluded under the agreement, provided the direct practice notifies the direct patient of the additional charge, prior to their administration or delivery."

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. A new section is added to chapter 84.56 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, if the landlord of a mobile home park takes ownership of a mobile home or park model trailer with the intent to resell or rent the same after (a) the mobile home or park model trailer has been abandoned; or (b) a final judgment for restitution of the premises under RCW 59.18.410 has been executed in favor of the landlord with regard to the mobile home or park model trailer and title has been lawfully transferred to the landlord, the outstanding taxes become the responsibility of the landlord.

(2) Upon notification by the assessor, the county treasurer must remove from the tax rolls any outstanding taxes, as well as interest and penalties, on a mobile home or park model trailer if the landlord of a mobile home park:

(a) Submits a signed affidavit to the assessor indicating that the landlord has taken ownership of the mobile home or park model trailer with the intent to resell or rent after:  (i) The mobile home or park model trailer has been abandoned; or (ii) a final judgment for restitution of the premises under RCW 59.18.410 has been executed in favor of the landlord with regard to the mobile home or park model trailer and title has been lawfully transferred to the landlord; and

(b) The most current assessed value of the mobile home or park model trailer is less than eight thousand dollars.

(3) For the purposes of this section, "abandoned," "mobile home," and "park model" have the same meanings as provided in RCW 59.20.030.

Sec. 2. RCW 46.44.170 and 2010 c 161 s 1118 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Any person moving a mobile home as defined in RCW 46.04.302 or a park model trailer as defined in RCW 46.04.622 upon public highways of the state must obtain:

(a) A special permit from the department of transportation and local authorities pursuant to RCW 46.44.090 and 46.44.093 and (shall) must pay the proper fee as prescribed by RCW 46.44.0941 and 46.44.096; and

(b) For mobile homes constructed before June 15, 1976, and already situated in the state: (i) A certification from the department of labor and industries that the mobile home was inspected for fire safety; or (ii) an affidavit in the form prescribed by the department of commerce signed by the owner at the county treasurer's office at the time of the application for the movement permit stating that the mobile home is being moved by the owner for his or her continued occupation or use; or (iii) a copy of the certificate of title together with an affidavit signed under penalty of perjury by the certified owner stating that the mobile home is being transferred to a wrecking yard or similar facility for disposal. In addition, the destroyed mobile home must be removed from the assessment rolls of the county and any outstanding taxes on the destroyed mobile home must be removed by the county treasurer.

(2) A special permit issued as provided in subsection (1) of this section for the movement of any mobile home or a park model trailer that is assessed for purposes of property taxes (shall) is not (be) valid until the county treasurer of the county in which the mobile home or park model trailer is located (shall) must endorse or attach his or her certificate that all property taxes which are a lien or which are delinquent, or both, upon the mobile home or park model trailer being moved have been satisfied. Further, any mobile home or park model trailer required to have a special movement permit under this section shall display an easily recognizable decal. However, endorsement or certification by the county treasurer and the display of the decal is not required:

(a) When a mobile home or park model trailer is to enter the state or is being moved from a manufacturer or distributor to a retail sales outlet or directly to the purchaser's designated location or between retail and sales outlets;

(b) When a signed affidavit of destruction is filed with the county assessor and the mobile home or park model trailer is being moved to a disposal site by a landlord as defined in RCW 59.20.030 after (i) the mobile home or park model trailer has been abandoned as defined in RCW 59.20.030; or (ii) a final judgment for restitution of the premises under RCW 59.18.410 has been executed in favor of the landlord with regard to the mobile home or park model trailer and title has been lawfully transferred to the landlord, the mobile home or park model trailer will be removed from the tax rolls and, upon notification by the assessor, any outstanding taxes on the destroyed mobile home or park model trailer will be removed by the county treasurer; or

(c) When a signed affidavit of destruction is filed with the county assessor by any mobile home or park model trailer owner or any property owner with an abandoned mobile home or park model trailer, the same shall be removed from the tax rolls and upon notification by the assessor, any outstanding taxes on the destroyed mobile home or park model trailer (shall) must be removed by the county treasurer.

(3) Except as provided in section 1(1) of this act, if the landlord of a mobile home park takes ownership of a mobile home or park model trailer with the intent to resell or rent the same under RCW 59.20.030 after (a) the mobile home or park model trailer has been abandoned as defined in RCW 59.20.030; or (b) a final judgment for restitution of the premises under RCW 59.18.410 has been executed in favor of the landlord with regard to the mobile home or park model trailer and title has been lawfully transferred to the landlord, the outstanding taxes become the responsibility of the landlord.

(4) It is the responsibility of the owner of the mobile home or park model trailer subject to property taxes or the agent to obtain the endorsement and decal from the county treasurer before a mobile home or park model trailer is moved.

(5) This section does not prohibit the issuance of vehicle license plates for a mobile home or park model trailer subject to property taxes.
taxes, but plates (shall) may not be issued unless the mobile home or park model trailer subject to property taxes for which plates are sought has been listed for property tax purposes in the county in which it is principally located and the appropriate fee for the license has been paid.

(6) The department of transportation, the department of labor and industries, and local authorities are authorized to adopt reasonable rules for implementing the provisions of this section. The department of transportation (shall) must adopt rules specifying the design, reflective characteristics, annual coloration, and for the uniform implementation of the decal required by this section. The department of labor and industries (shall) must adopt procedures for notifying destination local jurisdictions concerning the arrival of mobile homes that failed safety inspections."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 43.10 RCW to read as follows:

Sec. 3. RCW 77.04.055 and 2000 c 107 s 204 are each amended as necessary to reflect evolving case law, treaty interpretations, generally accepted academic findings, agreements entered into by the states and tribes, and any other relevant developments related to tribal hunting law.

Sec. 3. RCW 77.04.055 and 2000 c 107 s 204 are each amended to read as follows:
In establishing policies to preserve, protect, and perpetuate wildlife, fish, and wildlife and fish habitat, the commission shall meet annually with the governor to:

(a) Review and prescribe basic goals and objectives related to those policies; and

(b) Review the performance of the department in implementing fish and wildlife policies.

(2)(a) The commission shall maximize fishing, hunting, and outdoor recreational opportunities compatible with healthy and diverse fish and wildlife populations.

(b) The commission shall establish hunting, trapping, and fishing seasons and prescribe the time, place, manner, and methods that may be used to harvest or enjoy game fish and wildlife.

(3) The commission shall establish provisions regulating food fish and shellfish as provided in RCW 77.12.047.

(4) The commission shall have final approval authority for tribal, interstate, international, and any other department agreements relating to fish and wildlife.

(5)(a) The commission shall adopt rules to implement the state's fish and wildlife laws.

(b) The commission shall adopt, review and update as necessary, enforcement policies and guidelines related to tribal hunting rights that are based on the contents of the training module on tribal hunting rights produced by the office of the attorney general under section 2 of this act.

(6) The commission shall have final approval authority for the department's budget proposals.

(7) The commission shall select its own staff and shall appoint the director of the department. The director and commission staff shall serve at the pleasure of the commission.

Sec. 4. RCW 77.15.075 and 2012 c 176 s 8 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Fish and wildlife officers shall have and exercise, throughout the state, such police powers and duties as are vested in sheriffs and peace officers generally. Fish and wildlife officers are general authority Washington peace officers.

(2) An applicant for a fish and wildlife officer position must be a citizen of the United States of America who can read and write the English language. Before a person may be appointed to act as a fish and wildlife officer, the person shall meet the minimum standards for employment with the department, including successful completion of a psychological examination and polygraph examination or similar assessment procedure administered in accordance with the requirements of RCW 43.101.095(2).

(3) Any liability or claim of liability under chapter 4.92 RCW that arises out of the exercise or alleged exercise of authority by a fish and wildlife officer rests with the department unless the fish and wildlife officer acts under the direction and control of another agency or unless the liability is otherwise assumed under an agreement between the department and another agency.

(4) The department may utilize the services of a volunteer chaplain as provided under chapter 41.22 RCW.

(5) All fish and wildlife officers, as part of their new officer training, receive at least four hours of training related to the training module on tribal hunting rights prepared by the office of the attorney general under section 2 of this act and any relevant policies adopted by the commission under RCW 77.04.055. This training must be repeated at least once a year for every fish and wildlife officer, with a focus on any recent changes to the module."

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. (1) The legislature finds that it is in the public interest of the citizens of Washington to encourage the recovery and reuse of materials, such as metals, that replace the output of mining and other extractive industries.

(2) The legislature further finds that it is desirable to reduce the volume of the solid waste stream and resulting burdens on municipalities.

(3) The legislature further finds that ensuring the proper handling and recycling of used small rechargeable batteries prevents the release of certain toxic materials into the environment and removes from the waste stream certain materials that may present safety concerns if mishandled.

(4) The legislature further finds that it is important to ensure that all entities supplying small rechargeable batteries to users in Washington, whether as stand-alone units or as easily removable components of products, bear the same battery stewardship obligations.

(5) The legislature further finds that addressing certain existing and future barriers to implementation of voluntary industry programs to collect and recycle used small rechargeable batteries will facilitate these interests.

(6) The legislature further finds that the opportunity exists for the state of Washington to encourage the continuation of existing private mechanisms that ensure the proper stewardship of used small rechargeable batteries, while avoiding any burden on the state for enforcement responsibilities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Battery pack" means an assembly of small rechargeable batteries, together weighing less than eleven pounds, that are packed in a container that has a single positive and negative connection.

(2) "Bona fide used small rechargeable battery stewardship program" or "bona fide program" means a program for the collection, transportation, recycling, and disposal of used small rechargeable batteries that meets the criteria set forth in section 5 of this act.

(3) "Easily removable" means readily detachable by a consumer with the use of common household tools or without the use of tools.

(4) "Manage" means to run or direct the functioning of a bona fide used small rechargeable battery stewardship program, other than as a retailer or as a franchisor on behalf of its franchisees, on behalf of more than one marketer or manufacturer.

(5) "Manager" means a person who conducts activities described in the definition of manage in this section.

(6) "Manufacture or market" means to perform one of the following acts, other than as a retailer:

(a) Manufacture, or arrange for the manufacturing of, small rechargeable batteries or portable rechargeable products sold, offered for sale, or distributed in Washington under a brand name owned or licensed by the manufacturer or the person who arranges for manufacturing;

(b) Package, or arrange for the packaging of, small rechargeable batteries or portable rechargeable products sold, offered for sale, or distributed in Washington under a brand name owned or licensed by the package or the person who arranges for packaging;

(c) Import into the United States small rechargeable batteries or portable rechargeable products sold, offered for sale, or distributed in Washington under a brand name owned or licensed by the importer or the person who arranges for the importation; or

(d) Otherwise make available to wholesalers or retailers in Washington small rechargeable batteries either as replacement batteries or as easily removable components in portable rechargeable products.

(7) "Manufacturer or marketer" means every person who conducts activities described in the definition of manufacture or market in this section.

(8) "Nonenrolled battery" means a small rechargeable battery that is not manufactured or marketed by any person who self-operates, manages, or participates in a bona fide used small rechargeable battery stewardship program.

(9) "Participate" means to appoint a manager to act as a representative to administer a bona fide used small rechargeable battery stewardship program on one's behalf and to have that appointment accepted by the manager of the bona fide program.

(10) "Person" means a sole proprietorship, partnership, corporation, nonprofit corporation or organization, limited liability company, firm, association, cooperative, or other legal entity located within or outside Washington.

(11) "Portable rechargeable product" means a product, other than a medical device as defined in RCW 19.210.010, that is packaged with, or contains, one or more easily removable small rechargeable batteries at the time it is sold or offered for sale.

(12) "Retailer" means every person who sells or offers to sell small rechargeable batteries or portable rechargeable products at retail through any means including, but not limited to, remote offerings such as sales outlets, catalogs, or the internet. The term retailer does not include a person who engages solely in wholesale transactions with a distributor or manufacturer.

(13) "Self-operate" means to run or direct the functioning of a bona fide used small rechargeable battery stewardship program as a retailer or franchisor on behalf of oneself or one's franchisees.

(14) "Self-operator" means a retailer or franchisor who conducts activities described in the definition of self-operate in this section.

(15) "Small rechargeable battery" means:

(a)(i) Except as described in (b) of this subsection, one or more voltaic or galvanic cells, together weighing less than eleven pounds, that are electrically connected to produce electric energy and are designed to be recharged; or

(ii) Except as described in (b) of this subsection, a battery pack.

(b) "Small rechargeable battery" does not include:

(i) A battery that is not easily removable or is not intended or designed to be removed from the product, other than by the manufacturer;

(ii) A battery that contains electrolyte as a free liquid; or applicable laws and rules; fide program self-operator or manager require compliance with all lawfully permitted facilities for reclamation of battery constituents; compliance with all applicable laws and rules and transported only to

(2) This section does not apply to the activities of a telecommunications provider for equipment marketed under a brand it owns that contains small rechargeable batteries.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) Except as authorized by subsection (2) of this section, a person may not sell or make available to a wholesaler or retailer for sale in Washington a nonenrolled battery, whether as a replacement battery or as a component of a portable rechargeable product.

(2) An action under this section may be brought against one or more defendants.

(3) It is a defense to liability under this section that another manufacturer or marketer of the allegedly nonenrolled battery self-operates, manages, or participates in a bona fide program.

(4)(a) In any action under this section, the self-operator or manager may recover an amount of damages equal to no more than three times the costs the self-operator or manager incurred in collecting, handling, recycling, or properly disposing of nonenrolled batteries that are reasonably identified as having been manufactured or marketed by the defendant manufacturer or marketer.

(b) In addition to the costs identified in (a) of this subsection, the self-operator or manager may also recover an amount of damages equal to no more than three times the costs identified in (a) of this subsection, plus attorneys' fees and costs of litigation.

(5) An action under this section to recover the costs specified in this section may be brought in any superior or district court in the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) The self-operator or manager of a bona fide used small rechargeable battery stewardship program that incurs costs, including incremental administrative and other costs, in excess of three thousand dollars to collect, transport, and reclaim nonenrolled batteries collected in Washington may bring a civil action or actions to recover costs, damages, and fees, as specified in this section, from any manufacturer or marketer who sold in Washington or made available to a wholesaler or retailer for sale in Washington those nonenrolled batteries.

(2) An action under this section may be brought against one or more defendants.

(3) It is a defense to liability under this section that another manufacturer or marketer of the allegedly nonenrolled battery self-operates, manages, or participates in a bona fide program.

(4)(a) In any action under this section, the self-operator or manager may recover an amount of damages equal to no more than three times the costs identified in (a) of this subsection, plus attorneys' fees and costs of litigation.

(b) In addition to the costs identified in (a) of this subsection, the self-operator or manager may also recover an amount of damages equal to no more than three times the costs identified in (a) of this subsection, plus attorneys' fees and costs of litigation.

(5) An action under this section to recover the costs specified in this section may be brought in any superior or district court in the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) A program for the collection, transportation, recycling, and disposal of used small rechargeable batteries is a bona fide used small rechargeable battery stewardship program for purposes of this chapter if it is either:

(a) A self-operated program that meets the requirements of subsection (2) of this section and collects used small rechargeable batteries regardless of brand at all retail locations in Washington at which the retailer or franchisees sell small rechargeable batteries or portable rechargeable products; or

(b) A program managed on behalf of more than one participating manufacturer or marketer that meets the requirements of subsections (2) and (3) of this section.

(2) All bona fide programs must meet the following operational conditions:

(a) All used small rechargeable batteries collected by the bona fide program are handled by the program self-operator or manager in compliance with all applicable laws and rules and transported only to lawfully permitted facilities for reclamation of battery constituents;

(b) All contracts with service providers entered into by the bona fide program self-operator or manager require compliance with all applicable laws and rules;
(iii) Information on how small rechargeable battery manufacturers and marketers and consumers may seek technical assistance from the bona fide program; and

(e) Include in its annual report required by subsection (2)(f)(viii) of this section an independently audited financial statement, including a breakdown of bona fide program expenses such as collection, recycling, education, and overhead, unless the bona fide program is part of a program that also operates in jurisdictions outside of Washington, in which case funding information and audited financial statements need not be reported on a Washington-specific basis, but average bona fide program-wide costs of collection and overhead must be clearly stated.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. This chapter is void if a federal law, or a combination of federal laws, takes effect that establishes a national program for the collection and recycling of both used nonrechargeable batteries and used small rechargeable batteries.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. Nothing in this chapter alters or limits the authority of the utilities and transportation commission to regulate collection of solid waste, including curbside collection of residential recyclable materials, nor does this chapter alter or limit the authority of a city or town to provide such services itself or by contract under RCW 81.77.020.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. Sections 2 through 7 of this act constitute a new chapter in Title 70 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. This act takes effect January 1, 2014."

Representative Shea moved the adoption of amendment (123).

Beginning on page 19, line 27, strike all of subsection (d) and insert:

“((d) Residential schedule. The court may deviate from the standard calculation if the child spends a significant amount of time with the parent who is obligated to make a support transfer payment. The court may not deviate on that basis if the deviation will result in insufficient funds in the household receiving the support to meet the basic needs of the child or if the child is receiving temporary assistance for needy families. When determining the amount of the deviation, the court shall consider evidence concerning the increased expenses to a parent making support transfer payments resulting from the significant amount of time spent with that parent and shall consider the decreased expenses, if any, to the party receiving the support resulting from the significant amount of time the child spends with the parent making the support transfer payment.))”

On page 22, after line 22, insert the following:

(1) The court shall make an adjustment to the standard calculation for a shared residential schedule subject to the provisions in this section.

(2) In order to make an adjustment to the standard calculation based on the residential schedule, there must be a court order or findings made by an administrative law judge regarding the number of overnights the child or children spend with the obligor parent, and the number of overnights allocated to the obligor is equivalent to at least fourteen percent of annual overnights. The number of overnights in the court order or administrative law judge’s findings must be used to calculate the residential adjustment. The findings made by an administrative law judge may be based upon a written agreement between the parents or upon sworn testimony provided by a party at the administrative hearing for child support.

(3) The adjustment must be based on the table in section 8 of this act and the formula set forth in the worksheet for calculating residential credit.

(4) An adjustment may not be made to the standard calculation based on the shared residential schedule if:

(a) The adjustment would result in insufficient funds in the household receiving the support transfer payment to meet the basic needs of the child;

(b) The obligee’s net income before receiving the support transfer payment is at or below one hundred twenty-five percent of the federal poverty level guidelines for one person; or

(c) The child is receiving temporary assistance for needy families.

(5) To help parties estimate residential credit, the division of child support shall, if feasible and within available resources, create a residential credit calculator available online.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. A new section is added to chapter 26.19 RCW to read as follows:

Residential time table. The TOTAL column represents the anticipated total out-of-pocket expenses expressed as a percentage of the basic child support obligation that will be incurred by the parent who will pay child support. The total expenses are the sum of transferred and duplicated expenses. The DUPLICATED column represents the duplicated expenses and reflects the assumption that when there is an equal sharing of residential time, fifty percent of the basic child support obligation will be duplicated. The number of annual overnights column will determine the particular fractions of TOTAL and DUPLICATED to be used in the residential time credit worksheet.

(1) It is the intent of the legislature:
(a) To ensure that adequate facilities are available to serve new growth and development;
(b) To promote orderly growth and development by establishing standards by which counties, cities, and towns may require, by ordinance, that new growth and development pay a proportionate share of the cost of new facilities needed to serve new growth and development; and
(c) To ensure that impact fees are imposed through established procedures and criteria so that specific developments do not pay arbitrary fees or duplicative fees for the same impact.
(2) Counties, cities, and towns that are required or choose to plan under RCW 36.70A.040 are authorized to impose impact fees on development activity as part of the financing for public facilities, provided that the financing for system improvements to serve new development must provide for a balance between impact fees and other sources of public funds and cannot rely solely on impact fees.
(3) (a) Counties, cities, and towns collecting impact fees must adopt a permanent system for the collection of impact fees from applicants for residential building permits issued for a lot or unit created by a subdivision, short subdivision, site development permit, binding site plan, or condominium that includes one or more of the following:
(ia) A process by which an applicant for any development permit that requires payment of an impact fee must record a covenant...
36.70, 35.63, or 35A.63 RCW. After the date a county, city, or town is responsible for comprehensive plan adoption contained in chapter 36A.040 RCW, a process by which an applicant may apply for a deferral of the impact fee payment until final inspection or certificate of occupancy, or equivalent certification.

(b) Counties, cities, and towns may adopt local systems for the collection of impact fees that differ from the requirements of this subsection (3) if the payment timing provisions are consistent with this subsection.

(c) Any county, city, or town with a prior existing process to delay all impact fees in place prior to the effective date of this section is exempt from the provisions of this section as long as the prior existing impact fee deferral process remains in effect. Prior existing impact fee deferral processes may be amended in a manner consistent with this subsection.

(4) The impact fees:

(a) Shall only be imposed for system improvements that are reasonably related to the new development;

(b) Shall not exceed a proportionate share of the costs of system improvements that are reasonably related to the new development; and

(c) Shall be used for system improvements that will reasonably benefit the new development.

(5) Impact fees may be collected and spent only for the public facilities defined in RCW 82.02.090 which are addressed by a capital facilities plan element of a comprehensive land use plan adopted pursuant to the provisions of RCW 36.70A.070 or the provisions for comprehensive plan adoption contained in chapter 36.70A.070, or 35A.63 RCW. After the date a county, city, or town is required to adopt its development regulations under chapter 36.70A RCW, continued authorization to collect and expend impact fees is contingent on the county, city, or town adopting or revising a comprehensive plan in compliance with RCW 36.70A.070, and on the capital facilities plan identifying:

(i) Deficiencies in public facilities serving existing development and the means by which existing deficiencies will be eliminated within a reasonable period of time;

(ii) Additional demands placed on existing public facilities by new development; and

(iii) Additional public facility improvements required to serve new development.

(b) If the capital facilities plan of the county, city, or town is complete other than for the inclusion of those elements which are the responsibility of a special district, the county, city, or town may impose impact fees to address those public facility needs for which the county, city, or town is responsible.

Sec. 2. RCW 36.70A.070 and 2010 1st sp.s. c 26 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

The comprehensive plan of a county or city that is required or chooses to plan under RCW 36.70A.040 shall consist of a map or maps, and descriptive text covering objectives, principles, and standards used to develop the comprehensive plan. The plan shall be an internally consistent document and all elements shall be consistent with the future land use map. A comprehensive plan shall be adopted and amended with public participation as provided in RCW 36.70A.140. Each comprehensive plan shall include a plan, scheme, or design for each of the following:

(1) A land use element designating the proposed general distribution and general location and extent of the uses of land, where appropriate, for agriculture, timber production, housing, commerce, industry, recreation, open spaces, general aviation airports, public utilities, public facilities, and other land uses. The land use element shall include population densities, building intensities, and estimates of future population growth. The land use element shall provide for protection of the quality and quantity of groundwater used for public water supplies. Wherever possible, the land use element should consider utilizing urban planning approaches that promote physical activity. Where applicable, the land use element shall review drainage, flooding, and storm water run-off in the area and nearby jurisdictions and provide guidance for corrective actions to mitigate or cleanse those discharges that pollute waters of the state, including Puget Sound or waters entering Puget Sound.

(2) A housing element ensuring the vitality and character of established residential neighborhoods that: (a) Includes an inventory and analysis of existing and projected housing needs that identifies the number of housing units necessary to manage projected growth; (b) Includes a statement of goals, policies, objectives, and mandatory provisions for the preservation, improvement, and development of housing, including single-family residences; (c) Identifies sufficient land for housing, including, but not limited to, government-assisted housing, housing for low-income families, manufactured housing, multifamily housing, and group homes and foster care facilities; and (d) Makes adequate provisions for existing and projected needs of all economic segments of the community.

(3) A capital facilities plan element consisting of: (a) An inventory of existing capital facilities owned by public entities, showing the locations and capacities of the capital facilities; (b) A forecast of the future needs for such capital facilities; (c) The proposed locations and capacities of expanded or new capital facilities; (d) At least a six-year plan that will finance such capital facilities within projected funding capacities and clearly identifies sources of public money for such purposes; and (e) A requirement to reassess the land use element if probable funding falls short of meeting existing needs and to ensure that the land use element, capital facilities plan element, and financing plan within the capital facilities plan element are coordinated and consistent. Park and recreation facilities shall be included in the capital facilities plan element.

(4) A utilities element consisting of the general location, proposed location, and capacity of all existing and proposed utilities, including, but not limited to, electrical lines, telecommunication lines, and natural gas lines.

(5) A rural element. Counties shall include a rural element including lands that are not designated for urban growth, agriculture, forest, or mineral resources. The following provisions shall apply to the rural element:

(a) Growth management act goals and local circumstances. Because circumstances vary from county to county, in establishing patterns of rural densities and uses, a county may consider local circumstances, but shall develop a written record explaining how the rural element harmonizes the planning goals in RCW 36.70A.020 and meets the requirements of this chapter.
(b) Rural development. The rural element shall permit rural development, forestry, and agriculture in rural areas. The rural element shall provide for a variety of rural densities, uses, essential public facilities, and rural governmental services needed to serve the permitted densities and uses. To achieve a variety of rural densities and uses, counties may provide for clustering, density transfer, design guidelines, conservation easements, and other innovative techniques that will accommodate appropriate rural densities and uses that are not characterized by urban growth and that are consistent with rural character.

(c) Measures governing rural development. The rural element shall include measures that apply to rural development and protect the rural character of the area, as established by the county, by:

(i) Containing or otherwise controlling rural development;

(ii) Assuring visual compatibility of rural development with the surrounding rural area;

(iii) Reducing the inappropriate conversion of undeveloped land into sprawling, low-density development in the rural area;

(iv) Protecting critical areas, as provided in RCW 36.70A.060, and surface water and groundwater resources; and

(v) Protecting against conflicts with the use of agricultural, forest, and mineral resource lands designated under RCW 36.70A.170.

(d) Limited areas of more intensive rural development. Subject to the requirements of this subsection and except as otherwise specifically provided in this subsection (5)(d), the rural element may allow for limited areas of more intensive rural development, including necessary public facilities and public services to serve the limited area as follows:

(i) Rural development consisting of the infill, development, or redevelopment of existing commercial, industrial, residential, or mixed-use areas, whether characterized as shoreline development, villages, hamlets, rural activity centers, or crossroads developments.

(A) A commercial, industrial, residential, shoreline, or mixed-use area ((shall be)) are subject to the requirements of (d)(iv) of this subsection, but ((shall)) are not ((be)) subject to the requirements of (c)(ii) and (iii) of this subsection.

(B) Any development or redevelopment other than an industrial area or an industrial use within a mixed-use area or an industrial area under this subsection (5)(d)(i) must be principally designed to serve the existing and projected rural population.

(C) Any development or redevelopment in terms of building size, scale, use, or intensity shall be consistent with the character of the existing areas. Development and redevelopment may include changes in use from vacant land or a previously existing use so long as the new use conforms to the requirements of this subsection (5);

(ii) The intensification of development on lots containing, or new development of, small-scale recreational or tourist uses, including commercial facilities to serve those recreational or tourist uses, that rely on a rural location and setting, but that do not include new residential development. A small-scale recreation or tourist use is not required to be principally designed to serve the existing and projected rural population. Public services and public facilities shall be limited to those necessary to serve the recreation or tourist use and shall be provided in a manner that does not permit low-density sprawl;

(iii) The intensification of development on lots containing isolated nonresidential uses or new development of isolated cottage industries and isolated small-scale businesses that are not principally designed to serve the existing and projected rural population and nonresidential uses, but do provide job opportunities for rural residents. Rural counties may allow the expansion of small-scale businesses as long as those small-scale businesses conform with the rural character of the area ((as defined by the local government according to RCW 36.70A.030(15))). Rural counties may also allow new small-scale businesses to utilize a site previously occupied by an existing business as long as the new small-scale business conforms to the rural character of the area ((as defined by the local government according to RCW 36.70A.030(15))). Public services and public facilities shall be limited to those necessary to serve the isolated nonresidential use and shall be provided in a manner that does not permit low-density sprawl. For the purposes of this subsection, "rural character" has the same meaning as provided in RCW 36.70A.030:

(iv) A county shall adopt measures to minimize and contain the existing areas or uses of more intensive rural development, as appropriate, authorized under this subsection. Lands included in such existing areas or uses shall not extend beyond the logical outer boundary of the existing area or use, thereby allowing a new pattern of low-density sprawl. Existing areas are those that are clearly identifiable and contained and where there is a logical boundary delineated predominately by the built environment, but that may also include undeveloped lands if limited as provided in this subsection. The county shall establish the logical outer boundary of an area of more intensive rural development. In establishing the logical outer boundary, the county shall address (A) the need to preserve the character of existing natural neighborhoods and communities, (B) physical boundaries, such as bodies of water, streets and highways, and landforms and contours, (C) the prevention of abnormally irregular boundaries, and (D) the ability to provide public facilities and public services in a manner that does not permit low-density sprawl;

(v) For purposes of (d) of this subsection, an existing area or existing use is one that was in existence:

(A) On July 1, 1990, in a county that was initially required to plan under all of the provisions of this chapter;

(B) On the date the county adopted a resolution under RCW 36.70A.040(2), in a county that is planning under all of the provisions of this chapter under RCW 36.70A.040(2); or

(C) On the date the office of financial management certifies the county's population as provided in RCW 36.70A.040(5), in a county that is planning under all of the provisions of this chapter pursuant to RCW 36.70A.040(5).

(e) Exception. This subsection shall not be interpreted to permit in the rural area a major industrial development or a master planned resort unless otherwise specifically permitted under RCW 36.70A.360 and 36.70A.365.

(f) A transportation element that implements, and is consistent with, the land use element.

(a) The transportation element shall include the following subelements:

(i) Land use assumptions used in estimating travel;

(ii) Estimated traffic impacts to state-owned transportation facilities resulting from land use assumptions to assist the department of transportation in monitoring the performance of state facilities, to plan improvements for the facilities, and to assess the impact of land-use decisions on state-owned transportation facilities;

(iii) Facilities and services needs, including:

(A) An inventory of air, water, and ground transportation facilities and services, including transit alignments and general aviation airport facilities, to define existing capital facilities and travel levels as a basis for future planning. This inventory must include state-owned transportation facilities within the city or county's jurisdictional boundaries;

(B) Level of service standards for all locally owned arterials and transit routes to serve as a gauge to judge performance of the system. These standards should be regionally coordinated;

(C) For state-owned transportation facilities, level of service standards for highways, as prescribed in chapters 47.06 and 47.80 RCW, to gauge the performance of the system. The purposes of reflecting level of service standards for state highways in the local comprehensive plan are to monitor the performance of the system, to evaluate improvement strategies, and to facilitate coordination between the county's or city's six-year street, road, or transit program and the office of financial management's ten-year investment program. The concurrency requirements of (b) of this subsection do not apply to transportation facilities and services of statewide significance except for counties consisting of islands whose only connection to the mainland are state highways or ferry routes. In these island counties, state highways and ferry route capacity must be a factor in meeting the concurrency requirements in (b) of this subsection;

(D) Specific actions and requirements for bringing into compliance locally owned transportation facilities or services that are below an established level of service standard;

(E) Forecasts of traffic for at least ten years based on the adopted land use plan to provide information on the location, timing, and capacity needs of future growth;

(F) Identification of state and local system needs to meet current and future demands. Identified needs on state-owned transportation facilities must be consistent with the statewide multimodal transportation plan required under chapter 47.06 RCW;

(iv) Finance, including:

(A) An analysis of funding capability to judge needs against probable funding resources;

(B) A multiyear financing plan based on the needs identified in the comprehensive plan, the appropriate parts of which shall serve as the basis for the six-year street, road, or transit program required by RCW 35.77.010 for cities, RCW 36.81.121 for counties, and RCW 35.58.2795 for public transportation systems. The multiyear financing plan should be coordinated with the ten-year investment program developed by the office of financial management as required by RCW 47.05.030;

(C) If probable funding falls short of meeting identified needs, a discussion of how additional funding will be raised, or how land use assumptions will be reassessed to ensure that level of service standards will be met;

(v) Intergovernmental coordination efforts, including an assessment of the impacts of the transportation plan and land use assumptions on the transportation systems of adjacent jurisdictions;

(vi) Demand-management strategies;

(vii) Pedestrian and bicycle component to include collaborative efforts to identify and designate planned improvements for pedestrian and bicycle facilities and corridors that address and encourage enhanced community access and promote healthy lifestyles.

(b) After adoption of the comprehensive plan by jurisdictions required to plan or who choose to plan under RCW 36.70A.040, local jurisdictions must adopt and enforce ordinances which prohibit such new or amended elements shall be null and void until funds sufficient to cover applicable local government costs are appropriated and distributed by the state at least two years before local government must update comprehensive plans as required in RCW 36.70A.130.

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. RCW 70.240.020 and 2008 c 288 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Beginning July 1, 2009, no manufacturer, wholesaler, or retailer may manufacture, knowingly sell, offer for sale, distribute for sale, or distribute for use in this state a children's product or product component containing the following:

(a) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, lead at more than .009 percent by weight (ninety parts per million);

(b) Cadmium at more than .004 percent by weight (forty parts per million);

(c) Phthalates, individually or in combination, at more than .01 percent by weight (one thousand parts per million).

(2) Beginning July 1, 2015, no manufacturer, wholesaler, or retailer may manufacture, knowingly sell, offer for sale, distribute for sale, or distribute for use in this state children's products or residential upholstered furniture, as defined in RCW 70.76.010, containing TDCPP or TCEP in amounts greater than one hundred parts per million in any product component.

(3) If determined feasible for manufacturers to achieve and necessary to protect children's health, the department, in consultation with the department of health, may by rule require that no manufacturer, wholesaler, or retailer may manufacture, knowingly sell, offer for sale, distribute for sale, or distribute for use in this state a children's product or product component containing lead at more than .004 percent by weight (forty parts per million).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 70.240 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Beginning July 1, 2015, no manufacturer, wholesaler, or retailer may manufacture, knowingly sell, offer for sale, distribute for sale or distribute for use in this state, residential upholstered furniture, as defined in RCW 70.76.010, or children's products containing a flame retardant not included in RCW 70.240.020 in any product component in amounts greater than one hundred parts per million identified by the department as a high priority chemical of high concern for children as required under RCW 70.240.030.

(2) Except for TDCPP and TCEP, the department shall grant an exemption to restrictions under subsection (1) of this section for a length of time requested by the manufacturer, but not to exceed two years, if the manufacturer of residential upholstered furniture or children's products demonstrates, and the department determines, that there is no technically feasible safer alternative to meet applicable Washington state or federal fire safety standards.

(3) Beginning July 1, 2015, at the request of the department, a manufacturer of residential upholstered furniture or children's products shall, within sixty days of the request, submit a certificate of compliance stating that the product or product component meets the requirements of subsection (1) of this section. A manufacturer required under any other state statute to provide a certificate of compliance may develop one certificate containing all required information.

(4) The certificate of compliance must include the following:

(a) Chemical names and chemical abstracts service registry numbers for all chemicals present in the product or product component that act as flame retardants;

(b) The specific basis upon which an exemption, if applicable, is claimed; and

(c) The signature of an authorized official of the manufacturing company.

(5) A manufacturer completing a certificate of compliance shall keep a copy of the certificate on file for as long as the product or product component contains flame retardants. If a manufacturer ceases to sell or distribute products or product components containing flame retardants, the manufacturer must retain the certificate on file for three years from the date of the last sale or distribution.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. A new section is added to chapter 19.200 RCW to read as follows:

The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Credit card" means a card or device existing for the purpose of obtaining money, property, labor, or services on credit.

(2) "Debit card" means a card or device used to obtain money, property, labor, or services by a transaction that debits a cardholder's account, rather than extending credit.

(3) "Discount" means a reduction made from the price that customers are informed is the regular price. It does not include any means of increasing the price that customers are informed is the regular price.

Sec. 2. RCW 19.200.010 and 2009 c 382 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The legislature finds that credit and debit cards are important tools for consumers in today's economy. The legislature also finds that unscrupulous persons often fraudulently use the card accounts of others by stealing the card itself or by obtaining the necessary information to fraudulently charge the purchase of goods and services to another person's account. The legislature intends to provide some protection for consumers from the latter by limiting the information that can appear on a card receipt.

(2) No person that accepts credit or debit cards for the transaction of business shall print more than the last five digits of the card account number or print the card expiration date on a credit or debit card receipt. This includes all receipts kept by the person or provided to the cardholder.
(3) This section shall apply only to receipts that are electronically printed and shall not apply to transactions in which the sole means of recording the card number is by handwriting or by an imprint or copy of the credit or debit card.

((4) The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(a) "Credit card" means a card or device existing for the purpose of obtaining money, property, labor, or services on credit.

(b) "Debit card" means a card or device used to obtain money, property, labor, or services by a transaction that debits a cardholder's account (rather than extending credit).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 19.200 RCW to read as follows:

(1)(a) Any person that imposes a surcharge on a cardholder who elects to use a credit card in lieu of payment by cash, check, or similar means must clearly and conspicuously disclose the surcharge.

(b) If a surcharge for the use of a credit card is being imposed in a transaction at a physical location, the disclosure required in (a) of this subsection must be conspicuously and continuously posted at the location. The disclosure must be in a size and location that is easily seen and read by a consumer prior to a sale.

(c) If a surcharge for the use of a credit card is being imposed in an electronic transaction, the disclosure required in (a) of this subsection must be conspicuously and continuously posted at the location. The disclosure must be in a size and location that is easily seen and read by a consumer prior to a sale.

(2)(a) Any person that accepts credit cards for the transaction of business may offer a discount for the purpose of inducing payment by cash, check, or other means not involving the use of a credit card. The discount must be offered to all prospective buyers and the availability of the discount must be clearly and conspicuously disclosed.

(b) If a discount for the use of a payment method other than a credit card is allowed in a transaction at a physical location, the disclosure required in (a) of this subsection must be provided prior to the point where a consumer is going to approve any final transaction.

(c) If a discount for the use of a payment method other than a credit card is allowed in an electronic transaction, the disclosure required in (a) of this subsection must be provided prior to the point where a consumer is going to approve any final transaction.

Representative Reykdal moved the adoption of amendment (215).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that low-income youth are not only at higher risk of dropping out of school, they are also less likely to have dependable access to sufficient and nutritious food. Innovative partnerships between community-based organizations, schools, food banks, and farms or gardens offer promise to address both dropout prevention and food security for such youth, as well as enhancing health and nutrition in the surrounding community. These types of partnerships should be supported as pilot projects and carefully evaluated to assure that desired outcomes are met and to identify opportunities for expansion and replication in other parts of the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 28A.630 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The dropout prevention through farm engagement pilot project is established for a three-year period beginning in the 2013-14 school year.

(2) The office of the superintendent of public instruction shall select two pilot projects from school districts that agree to partner with community-based organizations, food banks, and farms or gardens to establish an alternative high school program targeted primarily to at-risk youth as provided in subsection (3) of this section. One of the selected projects must be a currently operating program with a record of success in engaging low-income and disengaged youth. The second selected project must create a new program in a different community. One of the projects must be selected from east of the crest of the Cascade mountains and one must be selected from west of the crest of the Cascade mountains. The selected projects must operate near farm-related activities and may include partnerships with farm-oriented student clubs and organizations. Participating in this pilot project may be incorporated into a student's culminating project to meet any community service requirements.

(3) Dropout prevention through farm engagement pilot projects must have the following characteristics:

(a) Primarily target low-income and disengaged youth who have dropped out or are at risk of dropping out of high school;

(b) Provide participating youth with opportunities for community service such as building food gardens for low-income families and work-based learning and employment training during the school year and during the summer through a farm or garden program;

(c) Provide participating youth with opportunities to earn core credits and elective credits toward high school graduation, including but not limited to science, health, and career and technical education credits;

(d) Offer youth development support and services to participating youth including social emotional learning, counseling, leadership training, and career and college guidance; and

(e) Improve food security for participating youth and the community through the farm or garden program.

(4) For each annual average full-time equivalent student enrolled in the pilot project, including enrollment during the summer months, the participating school district shall receive a basic education allocation as calculated under RCW 28A.150.260 and the omnibus appropriations act for a skill center student. The allocation under this subsection does not apply to a student's enrollment in courses of study that are not part of the pilot project. The allocations provided for the pilot project based on the basic education allocation as calculated under RCW 28A.150.260 and the omnibus appropriations act for a skills center student may not be used to provide participating youth with stipends. No funds from levies under RCW 84.52.0531 may be used to provide participating youth with stipends. Any stipends that are provided to participating youth through other funds must be prorated based on attendance, and youth who are absent for a day may not receive any stipend amount for that day.

(5) The purpose of the dropout prevention through farm engagement pilot project is to measure the effectiveness and cost-benefit of a particular alternative high school program on improving outcomes for at-risk youth. The office of the superintendent of public instruction shall conduct a rigorous evaluation after the pilot projects have been operating for two years, including analysis of a statistical comparison group of students who did not participate in the project. The office shall submit the evaluation results to the education committees of the legislature by December 1, 2015, including recommendations for whether the pilot projects should be continued or replicated in other parts of the state.

(6) Outcomes to be measured under the pilot project include:

(a) Student GPA overall and in science;

(b) Number of earned credits in core courses and elective courses;

(c) Incidence of discipline issues;

(d) School attendance rates;
(e) High school graduation and GED attainment;
(f) Student health and nutrition;
(g) Acreage used for fresh produce;
(h) Volume of produce produced and made available to students, families, school district food programs, and community food banks; and
(i) Hours of community service activity by students.

(7) This section expires August 31, 2016."

Representative Reykdal moved the adoption of amendment (188).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

(1) After a final order is issued under RCW 49.48.084, if an employer defaults in the payment of: (a) Any wages determined by the department to be owed to an employee, including interest; or (b) any civil penalty ordered by the department under RCW 49.48.083, the director may file with the clerk of any county within the state a warrant in the amount of the payment plus any filing fees. The clerk of the county in which the warrant is filed shall immediately designate a superior court cause number for the warrant, and the clerk shall cause to be entered in the judgment docket under the superior court cause number assigned to the warrant, the name of the employer mentioned in the warrant, the amount of payment due on it plus any filing fees, and the date when the warrant was filed. The aggregate amount of the warrant as docketed becomes a lien upon the title to, and interest in, all real and personal property of the employer against whom the warrant is issued, the same as a judgment in a civil case docketed in the office of the clerk. The sheriff shall proceed upon the warrant in all respects and with like effect as prescribed by law with respect to execution or other process issued against rights or property upon judgment in a court of competent jurisdiction. The warrant so docketed is sufficient to support the issuance of writs of garnishment in favor of the state in a manner provided by law in case of judgment, wholly or partially unsatisfied. The clerk of the court is entitled to a filing fee which shall be added to the amount of the warrant. A copy of the warrant shall be mailed to the employer within three days after the filing of the clerk.

(2)(a) The director may issue to any person, firm, corporation, other entity, municipal corporation, political subdivision of the state, a public corporation, or any agency of the state, a notice and order to withhold and deliver property of any kind when he or she has reason to believe that there is in the possession of the person, firm, corporation, other entity, municipal corporation, political subdivision of the state, public corporation, or agency of the state, property that is withheld and deliver property of any kind when he or she has reason to believe that there is in the possession of the person, firm, corporation, other entity, municipal corporation, political subdivision of the state, public corporation, or agency of the state, property that is withhold and deliver property of any kind when he or she has reason to believe that there is in the possession of the person, firm, corporation, other entity, municipal corporation, political subdivision of the state, public corporation, or agency of the state, property that is service has been made shall answer the notice within twenty days exclusive of the day of service, under oath and in writing, and shall make true answers to the matters inquired of in the notice and order. Upon service of the notice and order, if the party served possesses any property that may be subject to the claim of the department, the party shall promptly deliver the property to the director. The director shall hold the property in trust for application on the employer's indebtedness to the department, or for return without interest, in accordance with a final determination of a petition for review. In the alternative, the party shall furnish a good and sufficient surety bond satisfactory to the director conditioned upon final determination of indebtedness to the department, or for return without interest, in accordance with final determination of the matter.

(ii) The department may match its outstanding warrants, except those for which a payment agreement is in good standing, to the department of revenue. The department of revenue shall include the warrants provided by the department in any notice and order to withhold and deliver served under RCW 82.32.235(3). A financial institution that is served with a notice and order to withhold and deliver under this subsection (c)(i) must answer the notice within the time period applicable to service under RCW 82.32.235(3).

(ii) The department may match its outstanding warrants, except those for which a payment agreement is in good standing, to the department of revenue. The department of revenue shall include the warrants provided by the department in any notice and order to withhold and deliver served under RCW 82.32.235(3). A financial institution that is served with a notice and order to withhold and deliver under this subsection (c)(ii) must answer the notice within thirty days, exclusive of the day of service.

(iii) The department and the department of revenue may adopt rules to implement this subsection (c).

(3) In addition to the procedure for collection of wages owed, including interest, and civil penalties as set forth in this section, the department may recover wages owed, including interest, and civil penalties assessed under RCW 49.48.083 in a civil action brought in a court of competent jurisdiction of the county where the violation is alleged to have occurred.

(4) Whenever any employer quits business, sells out, exchanges, or otherwise disposes of the employer's business or stock of goods, any person who becomes a successor to the business becomes liable for the full amount of any outstanding citation and notice of assessment or penalty against the employer's business under this chapter if, at the time of the conveyance of the business, the successor has: (a) Actual knowledge of the fact and amount of the outstanding citation and notice of assessment or (b) a prompt, reasonable, and effective means of accessing and verifying the fact and amount of the outstanding citation and notice of assessment from the department. If the citation and notice of assessment or penalty is not paid in full by the employer within ten days of the date of the sale, exchange, or disposal, the successor is liable for the payment of the full amount of the citation and notice of assessment or penalty, and payment thereof by the successor must, to the extent thereof, be deemed a payment upon the purchase price. If the payment is greater in amount than the purchase price, the amount of the difference becomes a debt due the successor from the employer.

(5) This section does not affect other collection remedies that are otherwise provided by law.

Sec. 2. RCW 82.32.235 and 2009 c 562 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) In addition to the remedies provided in this chapter the department is authorized to issue to any person, a notice and order to withhold and deliver property of any kind whatsoever when there is reason to believe that there is in the possession of such person, property which is or will become due, owing, or belonging to any taxpayer against whom a warrant has been filed.

(2) The sheriff of the county where the service is made, or his or her deputy, or any duly authorized representative of the department may personally serve the notice and order to withhold and deliver upon the person to whom it is directed or may do so by certified mail, with return receipt requested.

(3)(a) The department is authorized to issue a notice and order to withhold and deliver to any financial institution in the form of a listing of all or a portion of the unsatisfied tax warrants filed under this chapter and outstanding warrants under RCW 49.48.086 with the clerk of the superior court of a county of the state, except tax warrants subject to a payment agreement, which is not in default, between the department and the taxpayer.

(b) As an alternative to the methods of service in subsection (2) of this section, the department may serve the notice and order to withhold and deliver authorized under this subsection electronically. The remedy in this subsection (3) is in addition to any other remedies authorized by law.

(c) No more than one notice and order to withhold and deliver under this subsection (3) may be served on the same financial institution in a calendar month.

(d) Notice and order to withhold and deliver under this subsection (3) must include the federal taxpayer identification number of each taxpayer.

(e) For purposes of this subsection, "financial institution" means a bank, trust company, mutual savings bank, savings and loan association, or credit union authorized to do business and accept deposits in this state under state or federal law.

(f) The department may provide a financial institution relief from a notice and order to withhold and deliver in the form provided under this subsection (3) upon the request of the financial institution. The department must consider the size, customer base, and geographic location of the financial institution when considering whether to provide relief. The department must serve any financial institution so relieved under subsection (1) of this section.

(4) Any person who has been served with a notice and order to withhold and deliver under subsection (1) of this section must answer the notice within twenty days, exclusive of the day of service. Any person who has been served with a notice and order to withhold and deliver under subsection (3) of this section must answer the notice within thirty days, exclusive of the day of service. The answer must be in writing, under oath if required by the department, and include true answers to the matters inquired of in the notice. Any person served under subsection (3) of this section may answer in aggregate within thirty days, but must answer separately as to each taxpayer listed and specify any property by taxpayer which is delivered. The department must allow any person served electronically under subsection (3) of this section to answer the notice and order to withhold and deliver electronically in a format provided or approved by the department.

(5) In the event there is in the possession of any person served with a notice and order to withhold and deliver, any property which may be subject to the claim of the department, such property must be delivered immediately to the department of revenue or its duly authorized representative upon demand. The department must hold the property in trust for application on the indebtedness involved or for return, without interest, in accordance with final determination of liability or nonliability. Instead of delivering the property to the department or the department's duly authorized representative, the person may furnish a bond satisfactory to the department conditioned upon final determination of liability.

(6) Should any person, having been served with a notice and order to withhold and deliver, fail to answer the notice and order to withhold and deliver within the time prescribed in this section or otherwise fail to comply with the duties imposed in this section, the department may bring a proceeding, in the superior court of Thurston county or of the county in which service of the notice was made, to enforce the notice and order to withhold and deliver. The court may render judgment by default against such person for the full amount claimed by the department in the notice and order to withhold and deliver or may grant such other relief as the court deems just, together with costs.

(7) For purposes of this section, "person" has the same meaning as in RCW 82.04.030 and also includes any agency, department, or institution of the state."

SECOND READING

HOUSE BILL NO. 1290, by Representatives Orwall, Hunt, Bergquist, Fitzgibbon, Maxwell, Lytton, McCoy, Ryu, Riccelli, Hudgins, Pollet, Zeiger, Farrell and Ormsby

Requiring county auditors to place ballot drop boxes at various locations throughout the county. Revised for 1st Substitute: Concerning ballot drop boxes.

The bill was read the second time.

There being no objection, Substitute House Bill No. 1290 was substituted for House Bill No. 1290 and the substitute bill was placed on the second reading calendar.

SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1290 was read the second time.

With the consent of the house, amendments (207), (206), (204), (187), (183), (182), (166), (162), (161), (152), (151), and (102) were withdrawn.
Representative Hunt moved the adoption of amendment (235).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. A new section is added to chapter 29A.40 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Each county auditor or other local election official must place at least one ballot drop box at each public college and university, the branch campuses of Washington State University and the University of Washington, and the main campuses of each public community college and technical college. This requirement is waived if the county already has a ballot drop box within one mile of the campus. Ballot drop boxes may be placed inside a building or outdoors, and must be in place at least eighteen days before the next general election. The administration or an associated student body association may assist with funding the ballot drop boxes provided under this section.

(2) The county auditor or election official may install a ballot drop box on any campus, in addition to those required in subsection (1) of this section, if the administration or an associated student body association commits to jointly funding the installation of the ballot drop box.

(3) Each county auditor or local election official shall establish and maintain an advisory committee that includes a representative from the Washington student association and a representative from the administration and student government associated with each public college, university, community college, and technical college located in that county. The committee shall assist election officials by:

(a) Identifying locations for the ballot drop boxes that will maximize accessibility to students; and

(b) Developing an outreach plan that identifies other means to promote students' voting by use of the ballot drop boxes.

(4) The requirements of this section do not apply to Western Governors University, which is an online university.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 29A.40 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Within ninety days of the effective date of this section, each county auditor or local election official shall provide a report to the secretary of state's office that includes the following information:

(a) The number, type, and location of the county's ballot boxes, including those permanently installed and those installed on a temporary basis in the periods immediately preceding an election; and

(b) A description of the methods used to inform voters of the location of the ballot drop boxes.

(2) The secretary of state, in consultation with county auditors and county election officials, shall compile the information listed in subsection (1)(a) of this section and develop and implement a plan to provide voter access to drop boxes in every county.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 29A.40 RCW to read as follows:

(1) County auditors, local election officials, and the secretary of state must consider Indian reservations, especially those in remote locations, when identifying ballot drop box locations or developing proposals for the placement of ballot drop boxes.

(2) Any person who tampers with or destroys a ballot drop box is subject to a civil penalty of not more than five thousand dollars. The civil penalty imposed in this section is in addition to any other penalties authorized by law.

Correct the title.

Representative Alexander moved the adoption of amendment (239) to amendment (235).

On page 1, beginning on line 3 of the striking amendment, strike all of section 1 and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. A new section is added to chapter 29A.40 RCW to read as follows:

The office of the secretary of state and the Washington state association of county auditors shall:

(1) Inventory the style, location, cost, and utilization of all existing off-site ballot drop boxes.

(2) Create best practice standards for the placement and maintenance of ballot drop boxes.

(3) Create a 2013 pilot project to test ballot drop boxes on the campuses of public or private four-year colleges and community and technical colleges. County auditors may volunteer to install permanent or temporary ballot drop boxes on or at these campuses for use during the 2013 primary and general elections and 2014 special elections. The office of the secretary of state shall fund the fabrication and installation of these pilot campus ballot drop boxes, not to exceed eight boxes, at locations to be determined by county auditors who volunteer to test a campus ballot drop box.

(4) Produce a report for the legislature by July 1, 2014, that includes the inventory and best practices for ballot drop boxes and the results of the college campus pilot project. The report must also include recommendations for how to maximize ballot drop box utilization, as well as recommendations for alternative strategies for twenty-four hour, postage-free ballot deposit.

Representative Pedersen spoke against the adoption of the amendment.

Amendment (72) was not adopted.

Representative Orwall moved the adoption of amendment (141).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature recognizes that persons convicted and imprisoned for crimes they did not commit have been uniquely victimized. Having suffered tremendous injustice by being stripped of their lives and liberty, they are forced to endure imprisonment and are later stigmatized as felons. A majority of those wrongly convicted in Washington state have no remedy available under the law for the destruction of their personal lives resulting from errors in our criminal justice system. The legislature intends to provide an avenue for those who have been wrongly convicted in Washington state to redress the lost years of their lives, and help to address the unique challenges faced by the wrongly convicted after exoneration.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) Any person convicted in superior court and subsequently imprisoned for one or more felonies of which he or she is actually innocent may file a claim for compensation against the state.

(2) For purposes of this chapter, a person is:
(a) "Actually innocent" of a felony if he or she did not engage in any illegal conduct alleged in the charging documents; and
(b) "Wrongly convicted" if he or she was charged, convicted, and imprisoned for one or more felonies of which he or she is actually innocent.

(3)(a) If the person entitled to file a claim under subsection (1) of this section is incapacitated and incapable of filing the claim, or if he or she is a minor, or is a nonresident of the state, the claim may be filed on behalf of the claimant by an authorized agent.

(b) A claim filed under this chapter survives to the personal representative of the claimant as provided in RCW 4.20.046.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) All claims under this chapter must be filed in superior court. The venue for such actions is governed by RCW 4.12.020.

(2) Service of the summons and complaint is governed by RCW 4.28.080.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) In order to file an actionable claim for compensation under this act, the claimant must establish by documentary evidence that:
(a) The claimant has been convicted of one or more felonies in superior court and subsequently sentenced to a term of imprisonment, and has served all or part of the sentence;

(b)(i) The claimant is not currently incarcerated for any offense; and

(ii) During the period of confinement for which the claimant is seeking compensation, the claimant was not serving a term of imprisonment or a concurrent sentence for any crime other than the felony or felonies that are the basis for the claim;

(c)(i) The claimant has been pardoned on grounds consistent with innocence for the felony or felonies that are the basis for the claim; or

(ii) The claimant's judgment of conviction was reversed or vacated and the charging document dismissed on the basis of significant new exculpatory information or, if a new trial was ordered pursuant to the presentation of significant new exculpatory information, either the claimant was found not guilty at the new trial or the claimant was not retried and the charging document dismissed; and

(d) The claim is not time barred by section 9 of this act.

(2) In addition to the requirements in subsection (1) of this section, the claimant shall state facts in sufficient detail for the finder of fact to determine that:

(a) The claimant did not engage in any illegal conduct alleged in the charging documents; and

(b) The claimant did not commit or suborn perjury, or fabricate evidence to cause or bring about the conviction. A guilty plea to a crime the claimant did not commit, or a confession that is later determined by a court to be false, does not automatically constitute perjury or fabricated evidence under this subsection.

(3) Convictions vacated, overturned, or subject to resentencing pursuant to In re: Personal Detention of Andress, 147 Wn.2d 602 (2002) may not serve as the basis for a claim under this chapter unless the claimant otherwise satisfies the qualifying criteria set forth in section 2 of this act and this section.

(4) The claimant shall verify the claim unless he or she is incapacitated, in which case the personal representative or agent filing on behalf of the claimant shall verify the claim.

(5) If the attorney general concedes that the claimant was wrongly convicted, the court shall award compensation as provided in section 6 of this act.

(6)(a) If the attorney general does not concede that the claimant was wrongly convicted and the court finds after reading the claim that the claimant does not meet the filing criteria set forth in this section, it may dismiss the claim, either on its own motion or on the motion of the attorney general.

(b) If the court dismisses the claim, the court shall set forth the reasons for its decision in written findings of fact and conclusions of law.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. Any party is entitled to the rights of appeal afforded parties in a civil action following a decision on such motions. In the case of dismissal of a claim, review of the superior court action is de novo.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. (1) In order to obtain a judgment in his or her favor, the claimant must show by clear and convincing evidence that:

(a) The claimant was convicted of one or more felonies in superior court and subsequently sentenced to a term of imprisonment, and has served all or any part of the sentence;

(b)(i) The claimant is not currently incarcerated for any offense; and

(ii) During the period of confinement for which the claimant is seeking compensation, the claimant was not serving a term of imprisonment or a concurrent sentence for any conviction other than those that are the basis for the claim;

(c)(i) The claimant has been pardoned on grounds consistent with innocence for the felony or felonies that are the basis for the claim; or

(ii) The claimant's judgment of conviction was reversed or vacated and the charging document dismissed on the basis of significant new exculpatory information or, if a new trial was ordered pursuant to the presentation of significant new exculpatory information, either the claimant was found not guilty at the new trial or the claimant was not retried and the charging document dismissed; and

(d) The claim did not engage in any illegal conduct alleged in the charging documents; and

(e) The claimant did not commit or suborn perjury, or fabricate evidence to cause or bring about his or her conviction. A guilty plea to a crime the claimant did not commit, or a confession that is later determined by a court to be false, does not automatically constitute perjury or fabricated evidence under this subsection.

(2) Any pardon or proclamation issued to the claimant must be certified by the officer having lawful custody of the pardon or proclamation, and be affixed with the seal of the office of the governor, or with the official certificate of such officer before it may be offered as evidence.

(3) In exercising its discretion regarding the weight and admissibility of evidence, the court shall give due consideration to difficulties of proof caused by the passage of time or by release of evidence pursuant to a plea, the death or unavailability of witnesses, the destruction of evidence, or other factors not caused by the parties.

(4) The claimant may not be compensated for any period of time in which he or she was serving a term of imprisonment or a concurrent sentence for any conviction other than the felony or felonies that are the basis for the claim.

(5) If the jury or, in the case where the right to a jury is waived, the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that the claimant was wrongly convicted, the court shall order the state to pay the actually innocent claimant the following compensation award, as adjusted for partial years served and to account for inflation from the effective date of this section:

(a) Fifty thousand dollars for each year of actual confinement including time spent awaiting trial and an additional fifty thousand dollars for each year served under a sentence of death pursuant to chapter 10.95 RCW;

(b) Twenty-five thousand dollars for each year served on parole, community custody, or as a registered sex offender pursuant only to the felony or felonies which are grounds for the claim;

(c) Compensation for child support payments owed by the claimant that became due and interest on child support arrearages that accrued while the claimant was in custody on the felony or felonies that are grounds for the compensation claim. The funds must be paid on the claimant's behalf in a lump sum payment to the department of social and health services for disbursement under Title 26 RCW;

(d) Reimbursement for all restitution, assessments, fees, court costs, and all other sums paid by the claimant as required by pretrial orders and the judgment and sentence; and

(e) Attorneys' fees for successfully bringing the wrongful conviction claim calculated at ten percent of the monetary damages awarded under subsection (5)(a) and (b) of this section, plus expenses. However, attorneys' fees and expenses may not exceed seventy-five thousand dollars. These fees may not be deducted from the compensation award due to the claimant and counsel is not entitled to receive additional fees from the client related to the claim. The court may not award any attorneys' fees to the claimant if the claimant fails to prove he or she was wrongly convicted.

(6) The compensation award may not include any punitive damages.

(7) The court may not offset the compensation award by any expenses incurred by the state, the county, or any political subdivision of the state including, but not limited to, expenses incurred to secure the claimant's custody, or to feed, clothe, or provide medical services for the claimant. The court may not offset against the compensation... award the value of any services or reduction in fees for services to be provided to the claimant as part of the award under this section.

(8) The compensation award is not income for tax purposes, except attorneys' fees awarded under subsection (5)(e) of this section.

(9)(a) Upon finding that the claimant was wrongly convicted, the court shall seal the claimant's record of conviction.

(b) Upon request of the claimant, the court may order the claimant's record of conviction vacated if the record has not already been vacated, expunged, or destroyed under court rules. The requirements for vacating records under RCW 9.94A.640 do not apply.

(10) Upon request of the claimant, the court shall refer the claimant to the department of corrections or the department of social and health services for access to reentry services, if available, including but not limited to the community-based transition programs and long-term support programs for education, mentoring, life skills training, assessment, job skills development, mental health and substance abuse treatment.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. (1) On or after the effective date of this section, when a court grants judicial relief, such as reversal and vacation of a person's conviction, consistent with the criteria established in section 4 of this act, the court shall provide to the claimant a copy of sections 2 through 11 of this act at the time the relief is granted.

(2) The clemency and pardons board or the indeterminate sentence review board, whichever is applicable, upon issuance of a pardon by the governor on grounds consistent with innocence on or after the effective date of this section, shall provide a copy of sections 2 through 11 of this act to the individual pardoned.

(3) If an individual entitled to receive the information required under this section shows that he or she was not provided with the information, he or she has an additional twelve months, beyond the statute of limitations under section 9 of this act, to bring a claim under this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. (1) Nothing in this chapter precludes any existing remedy available to the claimant related to his or her wrongful conviction and imprisonment.

(2) If a claimant is awarded compensation under this act and receives a tort award related to his or her wrongful conviction and incarceration, the claimant shall reimburse the state for the lesser of:

(a) The amount of the compensation award, excluding the portion awarded pursuant to section 6(5)(c) through (e) of this act; or

(b) The amount received by the claimant under the tort award.

(3) A release dismissal agreement, plea agreement, or any similar agreement whereby a prosecutor's office or an agent acting on its behalf agrees to take or refrain from certain action if the accused individual agrees to forgo legal action against the county, the state of Washington, or any political subdivision, is admissible and should be evaluated in light of all the evidence. However, any such agreement is not dispositive of the question of whether the claimant was wrongly evaluated in light of all the evidence. Any such agreement whereby a prosecutor's office or an agent acting on its behalf agrees to take or refrain from certain action if the accused individual agrees to forgo legal action against the county, the state of Washington, or any political subdivision, is admissible and should be evaluated in light of all the evidence.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. Except as provided in section 7 of this act, an action for compensation under this chapter must be commenced within three years after the grant of a pardon, the grant of judicial relief and satisfaction of other conditions described in section 2 of this act, or release from custody, whichever is later; provided, however, that any action by the state challenging or appealing the grant of judicial relief or release from custody tolls the three-year period. Any persons meeting the criteria set forth in section 2 of this act who was wrongly convicted or entitled to compensation under this act may commence an action under this chapter within three years after the effective date of this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. A new section is added to chapter 28B.15 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Subject to the conditions in subsection (2) of this section and the limitations in RCW 28B.15.910, the governing boards of the state universities, the regional universities, The Evergreen State College, and the community colleges, shall waive all tuition and fees for the following persons:

(a) A wrongly convicted person; and

(b) Any child or stepchild of a wrongly convicted person who was born or became the stepchild of, or was adopted by, the wrongly convicted person before compensation is awarded under section 6 of this act.

(2) The following conditions apply to waivers under subsection (1) of this section:

(a) A wrongly convicted person must be a Washington domiciliary to be eligible for the tuition waiver.

(b) A child must be a Washington domiciliary ages seventeen through twenty-six years to be eligible for the tuition waiver. A child's marital status does not affect eligibility.

(c) Each recipient's continued participation is subject to the school's satisfactory progress policy.

(d) Tuition waivers for graduate students are not required for those who qualify under subsection (1) of this section but are encouraged.

(e) Recipients who receive a waiver under subsection (1) of this section may attend full time or part time. Total credits earned using the waiver may not exceed two hundred quarter credits, or the equivalent of semester credits.

(3) Private vocational schools and private higher education institutions are encouraged to provide waivers consistent with the terms of this section.

(4) For the purposes of this section:

(a) "Child" means a biological child, stepchild, or adopted child who was born of, became the stepchild of, or was adopted by a wrongly convicted person before compensation is awarded under section 6 of this act.

(b) "Fees" includes all assessments for costs incurred as a condition to a student's full participation in coursework and related activities at an institution of higher education.

(c) "Washington domiciliary" means a person whose true, fixed, and permanent house and place of habitation is the state of Washington. In ascertaining whether a wrongly convicted person or child is domiciled in the state of Washington, public institutions of higher education shall, to the fullest extent possible, rely upon the standards provided in RCW 28B.15.013.

(d) "Wrongly convicted person" means a Washington domiciliary who was awarded damages under section 6 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. A new section is added to chapter 72.09 RCW to read as follows:

When a court refers a person to the department under section 6 of this act as part of the person's award in a wrongful conviction claim, the department shall provide reasonable access to existing reentry programs and services. Nothing in this section requires the department to establish new reentry programs or services.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

director determines that the provisions of this section have not been violated, the employee may institute the action on his or her own behalf within thirty days of such determination. In any such action the superior court shall have jurisdiction, for cause shown, to restrain violations of subsection (1) of this section and order all appropriate relief including rehiring or reinstatement of the employee to his or her former position with back pay.

(3) Within ninety days of the receipt of the complaint filed under this section, the director shall notify the complainant of his or her determination under subsection (2) of this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 49.17 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Upon request of a victim or victim's representative, the director must:

(a) Meet with the victim or victim's representative regarding the inspection or investigation conducted under this chapter concerning an employee's serious physical harm that resulted in in-patient hospitalization or death. Alternatives to live meetings may be used. Reasonable efforts must be made to arrange for the meeting to take place before the director decides whether to issue a citation;

(b) Provide to the victim or victim's representative:

(i) A copy of any citation or report issued as a result of the inspection or investigation. The citation or report must be provided at no cost and provided on the later of the date the citation or report is received by the employer and the date of the request;

(ii) Notification of any appeal filed under RCW 49.17.140 regarding a citation issued as a result of the inspection or investigation;

(iii) An explanation of the rights of employees and employee representatives to participate in the proceedings conducted under RCW 49.17.140;

(c) Provide to the victim or victim's representative an opportunity to appear and make a statement before the parties at proceedings during reassumption of jurisdiction by the director or appeal before the board of industrial insurance appeals regarding any violations associated with the fatality or hospitalization. This opportunity must be provided before the director enters an agreement to withdraw or modify a violation associated with the fatality or hospitalization or reduce an associated penalty. Alternatives to live appearances may be used.

(2) The director shall adopt rules regarding the rights of victims and their representatives under this section and for the informal review of any claim of a denial of such a right. These rules shall ensure insofar as possible that the issuance of a citation following a workplace fatality or hospitalization is not unduly delayed in order for the director to meet with the victim or victim's representative.

(3) For purposes of this section, "victim" means:

(a) An employee who has sustained serious physical harm resulting in death or in-patient hospitalization that is the subject of an inspection or investigation conducted under this chapter; or

(b) A family member of an employee described in (a) of this subsection, if the employee is killed or cannot reasonably exercise the employee's rights under this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 49.17 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The requirements of this section apply to an employer that is required by law or chooses to establish a safety committee to communicate and evaluate safety and health issues in the workplace.

(2) The employer must provide at least eight hours of safety and health training to members of the safety committee within three months of appointment to the committee and annually thereafter. This training must include training on hazard identification and control. Trainers and class content must meet requirements established by the department. The training shall be in addition to and may be combined with training programs provided to all employees pursuant to the rules for accident prevention programs.

(3) The safety committee shall:

(a) Identify situations that may be a source of danger or hazard to workers;

(b) Make recommendations to the employer and the workers for the improvement of the safety and health of workers; and

(c) Recommend to the employer and the workers the establishment, maintenance, and monitoring of programs, measures, and procedures respecting the safety and health of workers.

(4) If the employer receives written recommendations from the safety committee pursuant to subsection (3) of this section, the employer shall respond to the safety committee in writing no later than twenty-one calendar days after receiving the recommendations.

(5) At least one employer and one employee member of the safety committee shall conduct regular inspections of the physical condition of the workplace, as well as equipment, work methods, and work practices, to ensure that prompt action is taken to correct any hazardous condition found. Such an inspection must be performed no less than once every three months. Written reports of such inspections must be provided to and reviewed by the full safety committee within forty-five days of the inspection's completion.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 49.17 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The employer shall provide to each new employee at the time of hiring and prior to beginning work written information about all employee rights provided pursuant to this chapter, including at least the following:

(a) The right to request a workplace inspection;

(b) The right to receive information and training about workplace hazards;

(c) The right to receive copies of test results done to find hazards in the workplace;

(d) The right to review records of work-related injuries and illnesses;

(e) The right to get copies of medical records; and

(f) The right to exercise these rights without fear of retaliation or discrimination.

(2) The department shall develop and make available materials to assist employers with implementing this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The WISHA advisory committee shall continue its work of reviewing and making recommendations regarding civil penalties under the Washington industrial safety and health act to ensure that the assessment of civil penalties meets the requirements under the occupational safety and health act of 1970 (84 Stat. 1590; 29 U.S.C. Sec. 651 et seq.). The WISHA advisory committee shall also review statutory civil penalties and make recommendations regarding any changes to the civil penalties. The department of labor and industries shall report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2013, regarding: (1) Recommendations by the WISHA advisory committee and department steps with respect to ensuring the assessment of civil penalties meets federal requirements; and (2) recommendations of the WISHA advisory committee regarding any changes to the statutory civil penalties."

Sec. 1. RCW 19.02.050 and 2011 c 298 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

(The legislature hereby directs the full participation by the following agencies)) Each of the following agencies must fully participate in the implementation of this chapter:

(1) Department of agriculture;
Section 2. A new section is added to chapter 19.02 RCW to read as follows:

(1)(a) Each agency required to fully participate in the implementation of this chapter under RCW 19.02.050 must provide the department with the name of the agency's coordinator for the purposes of implementing the requirements of this section. Using a format designated by the department, each agency must provide the department with the following information:

(i) A listing of each business license issued by the agency;

(ii) A description of the persons and specific activities for which the license is required;

(iii) The time period for which the license is issued and any issuance, renewal, or reissuance requirements; and

(iv) Other information the department determines necessary to implement this section, including links to the licensing information, application, and instructions on the agency's web site, if available.

(b) An agency that issues licenses in accordance with (i) national or federal mandates, requirements, or standards; or (ii) educational standards and an examination, may alternatively comply with this chapter by providing the department with a link to its licensing web site, summary information about the licensing requirements or standards in a format or formats designated by the department, and a designated agency contact.

(2) In addition to the requirements in subsection (1) of this section, each agency, by November 1st of each year, beginning November 1, 2013, must provide the department with certification on a form designated by the department that all business licensing information submitted by the agency is complete and up-to-date. If an agency has not submitted all the business licensing information required under this section, the agency must instead submit a progress report and explanation to the department.

(3) The department must compile the information submitted by each agency, and submit an aggregate report to the governor and the economic development committees of the legislature by January 1st of each year, beginning January 1, 2014.

Sec. 3. RCW 19.02.030 and 2011 c 298 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) There is located within the department a business license center.

(2) The duties of the center include:

(a) Developing and administering a computerized one-stop master license system capable of storing, retrieving, and exchanging license information with due regard to privacy statutes, as well as issuing and renewing master licenses in an efficient manner;

(b) Providing a license information service detailing requirements to establish or engage in business in this state;

(c) Providing for staggered master license renewal dates;

(d) Identifying types of licenses appropriate for inclusion in the master license system;

(e) Recommending in reports to the governor and the legislature the elimination, consolidation, or other modification of duplicative, ineffective, or inefficient licensing or inspection requirements; and

(f) Incorporating licenses into the master license system. Both the regulatory agency legally authorized to issue the license and the department must agree that the license will be issued through the master license system in order for the license to be incorporated.

(3) The department may adopt under chapter 34.05 RCW such rules as may be necessary to effectuate the purposes of this chapter. Correct the title.

The Clerk called the roll on the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 1674, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 97; Nays, 0; Absent, 0; Excused, 1.

Excused: Representative Goodman.
The Clerk called the roll on the final passage of House Bill No. 1768, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 1768.

Excused: Representative Goodman.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1768, by Representatives Moscoso, Liias, Ryu, Moeller, Johnson, Kochmar and McCoy

Authorizing use of the job order contracting procedure by the department of transportation.

The bill was read the second time.

There being no objection, the rules were suspended, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Representatives Moscoso and Orcutt spoke in favor of the passage of the bill.

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) stated the question before the House to be the final passage of House Bill No. 1768.

ROLL CALL

The Clerk called the roll on the final passage of House Bill No. 1768, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 97; Nays, 0; Absent, 0; Excused, 1.

Excused: Representative Goodman.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 4403, by Representatives Sells, Seastaa, Manweller, Haler, Moscoso, Hansen, Reykdal, Wylie, Santos, Hayes, Fagan, Condotta, Smith, Pollet, Maxwell, Ormsby, Ryu, Morrell, Parker and Riccelli

Concerning the workforce training and education coordinating board's high skills high wages plan.

The bill was read the second time.

There being no objection, the rules were suspended, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Representatives Reykdal, Manweller and Angel spoke in favor of the passage of the bill.

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) stated the question before the House to be the final passage of House Concurrent Resolution No. 4403.

ROLL CALL

The Clerk called the roll on the final passage of House Concurrent Resolution No. 4403, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 91; Nays, 6; Absent, 0; Excused, 1.

Excused: Representative Goodman.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 4403, having received the necessary constitutional majority, was declared passed.

RECONSIDERATION

There being no objection, the House reconsidered the vote by which SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1283 passed the House.

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) stated the question before the House to be the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 1283.

ROLL CALL

The Clerk called the roll on the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 1283, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 74; Nays, 23; Absent, 0; Excused, 1.

Excused: Representative Goodman.
Orcutt, Overstreet, Parker, Pike, Ross, Schmick, Scott, Shea, Short, Taylor, Vick and Zeiger.

Excused: Representative Goodman.

SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1283, on reconsideration, having received the necessary constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eighth order of business.

There being no objection, the Committee on Rules was relieved of the following bills and the bills were placed on the second reading calendar:

- HOUSE BILL NO. 1008
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1023
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1063
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1124
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1145
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1233
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1247
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1269
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1287
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1395
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1399
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1412
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1416
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1420
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1421
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1437
- HOUSE BILL NO. 1466

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

There being no objection, the House adjourned until 10:00 a.m., March 9, 2013, the 55th Day of the Regular Session.

FRANK CHOPP, Speaker

BARBARA BAKER, Chief Clerk
The House was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by the Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding). The Clerk called the roll and a quorum was present.

The flags were escorted to the rostrum by a Sergeant at Arms Color Guard, Pages Sean McKechnie and Steve Traff. The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) led the Chamber in the Pledge of Allegiance. The prayer was offered by Representative Jan Angel, 26th District.

Reading of the Journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was ordered to stand approved.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the fourth order of business.

INTRODUCTIONS AND FIRST READING

HB 1995 by Representatives Hudgins, Stanford, Riccelli, Sells, Green, Ormsby, Hunt and Appleton

AN ACT Relating to state contracts for call center services; adding a new section to chapter 39.26 RCW; prescribing penalties; and providing an effective date.

Referred to Committee on Government Operations & Elections.

HB 1996 by Representative Orcutt

AN ACT Relating to environmental standards related to transportation projects; amending RCW 47.01.290, 90.48.260, and 77.55.021; adding a new section to chapter 43.21C RCW; and adding a new section to chapter 77.55 RCW.

Referred to Committee on Environment.

SSB 5048 by Senators Sheldon, Benton and Hargrove

AN ACT Relating to notice against trespass; and reenacting and amending RCW 9A.52.010.

Referred to Committee on Judiciary.

SSB 5088 by Senate Committee on Transportation (originally sponsored by Senators Benton, Rivers, Holmquist Newbry, Honeyford and Becker)

AN ACT Relating to the establishment of high capacity transportation corridor areas; and amending RCW 81.104.200.

Referred to Committee on Transportation.

SSB 5105 by Senators Dammeier, Harper and Pearson

AN ACT Relating to conditions under which the department of corrections provides rental vouchers to an offender; amending RCW 9.94A.729; and adding a new section to chapter 72.09 RCW.

Referred to Committee on Public Safety.

ESSB 5138 by Senate Committee on Ways & Means (originally sponsored by Senators Parlette and Hargrove)

AN ACT Relating to improving the management of state debt; amending RCW 43.88.030 and 43.88.031; reenacting and amending RCW 39.42.070; adding a new section to chapter 39.42 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 43.08 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 43.88 RCW; creating a new section; and repealing 2011 1st sp.s. c 46 ss 1 and 2 (uncodified).

Referred to Committee on Capital Budget.

SSB 5182 by Senate Committee on Transportation (originally sponsored by Senators Carrell, Harper, King, Chase, Smith, Eide, Hobbs and Schlicher)

AN ACT Relating to the disclosure of vehicle owner information; reenacting and amending RCW 46.12.635; and providing an effective date.

Referred to Committee on Judiciary.

ESSB 5199 by Senate Committee on Ways & Means (originally sponsored by Senators Ericksen and Holmquist Newbry)

AN ACT Relating to de facto changes in water rights for irrigation purposes that involved conversion to more efficient irrigation technologies; adding a new section to chapter 90.03 RCW; and providing an expiration date.

Referred to Committee on Agriculture & Natural Resources.

SSB 5264 by Senate Committee on Transportation (originally sponsored by Senators Benton, Mullet, Baumgartner and Sheldon)

AN ACT Relating to the transportation and storage of certain explosive devices; and amending RCW 70.74.191.

Referred to Committee on Judiciary.

ESSB 5315 by Senate Committee on Human Services & Corrections (originally sponsored by Senators Becker, Dammeier, Rivers, Padden and Roach)

AN ACT Relating to the implementation of the recommendations made by the Powell fatality team; amending RCW 13.34.136, 13.34.380, and 74.14B.010; reenacting and amending RCW 13.34.130; and adding a new section to chapter 13.34 RCW.

Referred to Committee on Early Learning & Human Services.

E2SSB 5329 by Senate Committee on Ways & Means (originally sponsored by Senators Litzow, Hobbs, Fain, Hatfield, Tom, Frocht and Roach)

AN ACT Relating to transforming persistently failing schools; amending RCW 28A.657.050, 28A.657.050, 28A.657.060, 28A.657.090, and 28A.657.100; adding new sections to chapter 28A.657 RCW; creating new sections; providing an effective date; and providing an expiration date.

Referred to Committee on Education.

SSB 5332 by Senate Committee on Governmental Operations (originally sponsored by Senators Roach, Nelson, Rolfs, Conway, Fain and Delvin)

AN ACT Relating to voter-approved benefit charges for fire protection districts; and amending RCW 52.18.050.

Referred to Committee on Local Government.

ESB 5378 by Senators Benton, Schoesler, Bailey, Carrell, Becker, Holmquist Newbry, Sheldon, Ericksen and Dammeier

AN ACT Relating to a six-year time frame for substantial building code amendments; amending RCW 19.27.074, 19.27A.045, and 19.27A.025; and creating a new section.

Referred to Committee on Local Government.

SSB 5416 by Senate Committee on Health Care (originally sponsored by Senators Bailey, Schlicher, Becker and Keiser)

AN ACT Relating to prescription information; amending RCW 69.41.010, 69.50.308, and 69.50.312; and reenacting and amending RCW 69.50.101.

Referred to Committee on Health Care & Wellness.

SSB 5437 by Senate Committee on Law & Justice (originally sponsored by Senators Padden, Hargrove, Roach, Kline, Sheldon, Pearson and Chase)

AN ACT Relating to boating safety; amending RCW 79A.60.040, 10.31.100, and 79A.60.150; reenacting and amending RCW 7.80.120; adding new sections to chapter 79A.60 RCW; and prescribing penalties.

Referred to Committee on Public Safety.

SB 5465 by Senators Dammeier, Schlicher, Becker, Keiser and McAuliffe

AN ACT Relating to exemptions from licensure as a physical therapist; and amending RCW 18.74.150 and 18.74.180.

Referred to Committee on Health Care & Wellness.

SB 5496 by Senators Braun, Fain, Hatfield, Hargrove, Dammeier, Chase and Kohl-Welles

AN ACT Relating to authorizing approval of online school programs in private schools; adding a new section to chapter 28A.195 RCW; and creating new sections.

Referred to Committee on Education.

SSB 5523 by Senate Committee on Financial Institutions, Housing & Insurance (originally sponsored by Senators Benton and Roach)

AN ACT Relating to the property taxation of mobile homes and park model trailers; amending RCW 46.44.170; and adding a new section to chapter 84.56 RCW.

Referred to Committee on Finance.

ESSB 5709 by Senate Committee on Ways & Means (originally sponsored by Senators Smith, Ericksen, Sheldon, Holmquist Newbry, Dammeier, Brown and Roach)

AN ACT Relating to a pilot program to demonstrate the feasibility of using densified biomass to heat public schools; and creating new sections.

Referred to Committee on Environment.

2SSB 5732 by Senate Committee on Ways & Means (originally sponsored by Senators Carrell, Darneille, Keiser and Pearson)

AN ACT Relating to improving behavioral health services provided to adults in Washington state; amending RCW 71.24.025; adding a new section to chapter 43.20A RCW; adding a new section to chapter 70.97 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 71.05 RCW; creating a new section; providing an effective date; and providing expiration dates.

ESB 5843 by Senators Tom, Billig, Hill, Hobbs, Murray, Darneille, Kohl-Welles, Conway and Frockt

AN ACT Relating to strengthening the review of the legislature's goals for tax preferences by requiring that every new tax preference provide a statement of legislative intent and include an expiration date where applicable; adding a new section to chapter 43.135 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 82.02 RCW; and creating a new section.

Referred to Committee on Finance.

SJM 8005 by Senators Hargrove, King, Sheldon, Eide, Hobbs, Hatfield, Benton, Padden, Shin and Chase

Requesting that state route number 117 be designated as the POW/MIA Memorial Highway.

Referred to Committee on Transportation.

There being no objection, the bills listed on the day's introduction sheet under the fourth order of business were referred to the committees so designated.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the sixth order of business.

SECOND READING

HOUSE BILL NO. 1826, by Representative Morris

Updating integrated resource plan requirements to address changing energy markets.

The bill was read the second time.

Representative Morris moved the adoption of amendment (142).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. RCW 19.280.010 and 2006 c 195 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

It is the intent of the legislature to encourage the development of new safe, clean, and reliable energy resources to meet demand in Washington for affordable and reliable electricity. To achieve this end, the legislature finds it essential that electric utilities in Washington develop comprehensive resource plans that explain the mix of generation and demand-side resources they plan to use to meet their customers' electricity needs in both the short term and the long term. The legislature intends that information obtained from integrated resource planning under this chapter will be used to assist in identifying and developing: (1) New energy generation(2); (2) conservation and efficiency resources(3); (3) methods, commercially available technologies, and facilities for integrating renewable resources, including to address an overgeneration event; and (4) related infrastructure to meet the state's electricity needs.

Sec. 2. RCW 19.280.020 and 2009 c 565 s 19 are each amended to read as follows:

The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Commission" means the utilities and transportation commission.

(2) "Conservation and efficiency resources" means any reduction in electric power consumption that results from increases in the efficiency of energy use, production, transmission, or distribution.

(3) "Consumer-owned utility" includes a municipal electric utility formed under Title 35 RCW, a public utility district formed under Title 54 RCW, an irrigation district formed under chapter 87.03 RCW, a cooperative formed under chapter 23.86 RCW, a mutual corporation or association formed under chapter 24.06 RCW, a port district formed under Title 53 RCW, or a water-sewer district formed under Title 57 RCW, that is engaged in the business of distributing electricity to one or more retail electric customers in the state.

(4) "Department" means the department of commerce.

(5) "Electric utility" means a consumer-owned or investor-owned utility.

(6) "Full requirements customer" means an electric utility that relies on the Bonneville power administration for all power needed to supply its total load requirement other than that served by nondispatchable generating resources totaling no more than six megawatts or renewable resources.

(7) "Governing body" means the elected board of directors, city council, commissioners, or board of any consumer-owned utility.

(8) "High efficiency cogeneration" means the sequential production of electricity and useful thermal energy from a common fuel source, where, under normal operating conditions, the facility has a useful thermal energy output of no less than thirty-three percent of the total energy output.

(9) "Integrated resource plan" means an analysis describing the mix of generating resources (and), conservation, various technologies and resources to integrate renewable resources, including to address an overgeneration event, and efficiency resources that will meet current and projected needs at the lowest reasonable cost to the utility and its ratepayers and that complies with the requirements specified in RCW 19.280.030(1).

(10) "Investor-owned utility" means a corporation owned by investors that meets the definition in RCW 80.04.010 and is engaged in distributing electricity to more than one retail electric customer in the state.

(11) "Lowest reasonable cost" means the lowest cost mix of generating resources and conservation and efficiency resources determined through a detailed and consistent analysis of a wide range of commercially available resources. At a minimum, this analysis must consider resource cost, market-volatility risks, demand-side resource uncertainties, resource dispatchability, resource effect on system operation, the risks imposed on the utility and its ratepayers, public policies regarding resource preference adopted by Washington state or the federal government, and the cost of risks associated with environmental effects including emissions of carbon dioxide.

(12) "Plan" means either an "integrated resource plan" or a "resource plan."

(13) "Renewable resources" means electricity generation facilities fueled by: (a) Water; (b) wind; (c) solar energy; (d) geothermal energy; (e) landfill gas; (f) biomass energy utilizing animal waste, solid organic fuels from wood, forest, or field residues or dedicated energy crops that do not include wood pieces that have been treated with chemical preservatives such as creosote, pentachlorophenol, or copper-chrome-arsenic; (g) by-products of pulping or wood manufacturing processes, including but not limited to bark, wood chips, sawdust, and lignin in spent pulping liquors; (h) ocean thermal, wave, or tidal power; or (i) gas from sewage treatment facilities.

(14) "Resource plan" means an assessment that estimates electricity loads and resources over a defined period of time and complies with the requirements in RCW 19.280.030(2).

(15) "Overgeneration event" means an event within an operating period of a balancing authority when the electricity supply, including generation from intermittent renewable resources, exceeds the demand for electricity for that utility's energy delivery obligations and a negatively priced regional market.

Sec. 3. RCW 19.280.030 and 2011 c 180 s 305 are each amended to read as follows:

Each electric utility must develop a plan consistent with this section.

(1) Utilities with more than twenty-five thousand customers that are not full requirements customers shall develop or update an integrated resource plan by September 1, 2008. At a minimum, progress reports reflecting changing conditions and the progress of the integrated resource plan must be produced every two years thereafter. An updated integrated resource plan must be developed at least every four years subsequent to the 2008 integrated resource plan. The integrated resource plan, at a minimum, must include:

(a) A range of forecasts, for at least the next ten years or longer, of projected customer demand which takes into account econometric data and customer usage;

(b) An assessment of commercially available conservation and efficiency resources. Such assessment may include, as appropriate, high efficiency cogeneration, demand response and load management programs, and currently employed and new policies and programs needed to obtain the conservation and efficiency resources;

(c) An assessment of commercially available, utility scale renewable and nonrenewable generating technologies including a comparison of the benefits and risks of purchasing power or building new resources;

(d) A comparative evaluation of renewable and nonrenewable generating resources, including transmission and distribution delivery costs, and conservation and efficiency resources using "lowest reasonable cost" as a criterion;

(e) An assessment of methods, commercially available technologies, or facilities for integrating renewable resources, including to address an overgeneration event, if applicable to the utility's resource portfolio;

(f) The integration of the demand forecasts and resource evaluations into a long-range assessment describing the mix of supply side generating resources and conservation and efficiency resources that will meet current and projected needs at the lowest reasonable cost and risk to the utility and its ratepayers; and

(g) A short-term plan identifying the specific actions to be taken by the utility consistent with the long-range integrated resource plan.

(2) All other utilities may elect to develop a full integrated resource plan as set forth in subsection (1) of this section or, at a minimum, shall develop a resource plan that:

(a) Estimates loads for the next five and ten years;

(b) Enumerates the resources that will be maintained and/or acquired to serve those loads; and

(c) Explains why the resources in (b) of this subsection were chosen and, if the resources chosen are not: (i) Renewable resources ((ee)); (ii) methods, commercially available technologies, or facilities for integrating renewable resources, including to address an overgeneration event; or (iii) conservation and efficiency resources, why such a decision was made.

(3) An electric utility that is required to develop a resource plan under this section must complete its initial plan by September 1, 2008.

(4) Resource plans developed under this section must be updated on a regular basis, at a minimum on intervals of two years.

(5) Plans shall not be a basis to bring legal action against electric utilities.

(6) Each electric utility shall publish its final plan either as part of an annual report or as a separate document available to the public. The report may be in an electronic form.

Sec. 4. RCW 19.280.060 and 2006 c 195 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

The department shall review the plans of consumer-owned utilities and investor-owned utilities, and data available from other state, regional, and national sources, and prepare an electronic report to the legislature aggregating the data and assessing the overall adequacy of Washington's electricity supply. The report shall include a statewide summary of utility load forecasts, load/resource balance, and utility plans for the development of thermal generation, renewable resources, and conservation and efficiency resources, and an examination of assessment methods used by utilities to address overgeneration events. The commission shall provide the department with data summarizing the plans of investor-owned utilities for use in the department's statewide summary. The department may submit its report within the biennial report required under RCW 43.21F.045. Correct the title.

Representatives Morris and Short spoke in favor of the adoption of the amendment.

Amendment (142) was adopted.

The bill was ordered engrossed.

There being no objection, the rules were suspended, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Representatives Morris and Short spoke in favor of the passage of the bill.

MOTION

On motion of Representative Van De Wege, Representative Freeman was excused.

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) stated the question before the House to be the final passage of Engrossed House Bill No. 1826.

ROLL CALL

The Clerk called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed House Bill No. 1826, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 87; Nays, 10; Absent, 0; Excused, 1.

The bill was read the second time.

There being no objection, Second Substitute House Bill No. 1306 was substituted for House Bill No. 1306 and the second substitute bill was placed on the second reading calendar.

SECOND SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1306 was read the second time.

Representative Morris moved the adoption of amendment (213).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. A new section is added to chapter 39.102 RCW to read as follows:

This chapter expires June 30, 2044.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. RCW 39.102.904 (Expiration date--2006 c 181) and 2006 c 181 s 707 are each repealed.

Sec. 3. RCW 82.14.475 and 2010 c 164 s 12 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A sponsoring local government, and any cosponsoring local government, that has been approved by the board to use local infrastructure financing may impose a sales and use tax in accordance with the terms of this chapter and subject to the criteria set forth in this section. Except as provided in this section, the tax is in addition to other taxes authorized by law and is collected from those persons who are taxable by the state under chapters 82.08 and 82.12 RCW upon the occurrence of any taxable event within the taxing jurisdiction of the sponsoring local government or cosponsoring local government.

(2) The tax authorized under subsection (1) of this section is credited against the state taxes imposed under RCW 82.08.020(1) and 82.12.020 at the rate provided in RCW 82.08.020(1). The department must perform the collection of such taxes on behalf of the sponsoring local government or cosponsoring local government at no cost to the sponsoring local government or cosponsoring local government and must remit the taxes as provided in RCW 82.14.060.

(3) The aggregate rate of tax imposed by the sponsoring local government, and any cosponsoring local government, must not exceed the lesser of:

(a) The rate provided in RCW 82.08.020(1) less:
   (i) The aggregate rates of all other local sales and use taxes imposed by any taxing authority on the same taxable events;
   (ii) The aggregate rates of all taxes under RCW 82.14.465 and this section that are authorized to be imposed on the same taxable events but have not yet been imposed by a sponsoring local government or cosponsoring local government that has been approved by the department or the community economic revitalization board to receive a state contribution under chapter 39.100 or 39.102 RCW; and
   (iii) The percentage amount of distributions required under RCW 82.08.020(5) multiplied by the rate of state taxes imposed under RCW 82.08.020(1); and

(b) The rate, as determined by the sponsoring local government, and any cosponsoring local government, in consultation with the department, reasonably necessary to receive the state contribution over ten months.

(4) Sponsoring local governments that have been approved before October 1, 2008, by the community economic revitalization board for a state contribution must select the rate of tax under this section no later than September 1, 2009.

(5) The department, upon request, must assist a sponsoring local government and cosponsoring local government in establishing their (6)(a) No tax may be imposed under the authority of this section:

(i) Before July 1st of the second calendar year following the year approval by the board under RCW 39.102.040 was made; and

(ii) Until a sponsoring local government reports to the board and the department as required by RCW 39.102.140 that the state has benefited through the receipt of state excise tax allocation revenues or state property tax allocation revenues, or both.

(b) The tax imposed under this section expires when all indebtedness issued under the authority of RCW 39.102.150 is retired and all other contractual obligations relating to the financing of public improvements under chapter 39.102 RCW are satisfied, but not more than twenty-five years after the tax is first imposed.

(7) An ordinance adopted by the legislative authority of a sponsoring local government or cosponsoring local government imposing a tax under this section must provide that:

(a) The tax is first imposed on the first day of a fiscal year;

(b) The cumulative amount of tax received by the sponsoring local government, and any cosponsoring local government, in any fiscal year may not exceed the amount of the state contribution;

(c) The tax will cease to be distributed for the remainder of any fiscal year in which either:

(i) The amount of tax received by the sponsoring local government, and any cosponsoring local government, equals the amount of the state contribution;

(ii) The amount of revenue from taxes imposed under this section by all sponsoring and cosponsoring local governments equals the annual state contribution limit; or

(iii) The amount of tax received by the sponsoring local government equals the amount of project award granted in the approval notice described in RCW 39.102.040;

(d) Neither the local excise tax allocation revenues nor the local property tax allocation revenues may constitute more than eighty percent of the total local funds as described in RCW 39.102.020((28)) (29)(b). This requirement applies beginning January 1st of the fifth calendar year after the calendar year in which the sponsoring local government begins allocating local excise tax allocation revenues under RCW 39.102.110;

(e) The tax must be distributed again, should it cease to be distributed for any of the reasons provided in (c) of this subsection, at the beginning of the next fiscal year, subject to the restrictions in this section; and

(f) Any revenue generated by the tax in excess of the amounts specified in (c) of this subsection belongs to the state of Washington.

(8) If a county and city cosponsor a revenue development area, the combined amount of distributions received by both the city and county may not exceed the state contribution.

(9) The department must determine the amount of tax receipts distributed to each sponsoring local government, and any cosponsoring local government, imposing sales and use tax under this section and shall advise a sponsoring or cosponsoring local government when tax distributions for the fiscal year equal the amount of state contribution for that fiscal year as provided in subsection (11) of this section. Determinations by the department of the amount of tax distributions attributable to each sponsoring or cosponsoring local government are final and may not be used to challenge the validity of any tax imposed under this section. The department must remit any tax receipts in excess of the amounts specified in subsection (7)(c) of this section to the state treasurer who must deposit the money in the general fund.

(10) If a sponsoring or cosponsoring local government fails to comply with RCW 39.102.140, no tax may be distributed in the subsequent fiscal year until such time as the sponsoring or cosponsoring local government complies and the department calculates the state contribution amount for such fiscal year.

(11) Each year, the amount of taxes approved by the department for distribution to a sponsoring or cosponsored local government in the next fiscal year must equal the state contribution and may be no more than the total local funds as described in RCW 39.102.020((28)) (29)(b). The department must consider information from reports described in RCW 39.102.140 when determining the amount of state contributions for each fiscal year.

The department's determination of the amount of the state contribution is final and conclusive, and may not be changed once such determination is made and such contribution is distributed to the sponsoring or cosponsoring local government, unless the department subsequently determines that local revenue information contained in a report described in RCW 39.102.140 differs from the actual dedicated local revenue. If a discrepancy is found, the department must adjust its determination accordingly. A sponsoring or cosponsoring local government may not receive, in any fiscal year, more revenues from taxes imposed under the authority of this section than the amount approved annually by the department. The department may not approve the receipt of more distributions of sales and use tax under this section to a sponsoring or cosponsoring local government than is authorized under subsection (7) of this section.

(12) The amount of tax distributions received from taxes imposed under the authority of this section by all sponsoring and cosponsoring local governments is limited annually to not more than seven million five hundred thousand dollars.

(13) The definitions in RCW 39.102.020 apply to this section unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(14) If a sponsoring local government is a federally recognized Indian tribe, the distribution of the sales and use tax authorized under this section must be authorized through an interlocal agreement pursuant to chapter 39.34 RCW.

(15) Subject to RCW 39.102.195, the tax imposed under the authority of this section may be applied either to provide for the payment of debt service on bonds issued under RCW 39.102.150 by the sponsoring local government or to pay public improvement costs on a pay-as-you-go basis, or both.

(16) The tax imposed under the authority of this section must cease to be imposed if the sponsoring local government or cosponsoring local government ((fails to issue indebtedness under the authority of RCW 39.102.150, and)) fails to commence construction on public improvements((i)) by June ((30th of the fifth fiscal year in which the local tax authorized under this section is imposed)) 30 2017.

(17) For purposes of this section, the following definitions apply:

(a) "Local sales and use taxes" means sales and use taxes imposed by cities, counties, public facilities districts, and other local governments under the authority of this chapter, chapter 67.28 or 67.40 RCW, or any other chapter, and that are credited against the state sales and use taxes.

(b) "State sales and use taxes" means the tax imposed in RCW
82.08.020(1) and the tax imposed in RCW 82.12.020 at the rate provided in RCW 82.08.020(1).

(18) This section expires June 30, 2044.

Sec. 4. RCW 39.102.150 and 2009 c 267 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A sponsoring local government that has designated a revenue development area and instead of paying public improvement costs on a pay-as-you-go basis has been authorized the use of local infrastructure financing may incur general indebtedness, including issuing general obligation bonds, to finance the public improvements and retire the indebtedness in whole or in part from local excise tax allocation revenues, local property tax allocation revenues, and sales and use taxes imposed under the authority of RCW 82.14.475 that it receives, subject to the following requirements:

(a)(i) The ordinance adopted by the sponsoring local government and authorizing the use of local infrastructure financing indicates an
(i) The sponsoring local government includes this statement of the intent in all notices required by RCW 39.102.100; or

(b) The sponsoring local government adopts a resolution, after opportunity for public comment, that indicates an intent to incur this indebtedness and the maximum amount of this indebtedness that is contemplated.

(2) (a) Except as provided in (b) of this subsection, the general indebtedness incurred under subsection (1) of this section may be payable from other tax revenues, the full faith and credit of the local government, and nontax income, revenues, fees, and rents from the public improvements, as well as contributions, grants, and nontax money available to the local government for payment of costs of the public improvements or associated debt service on the general indebtedness.

(b) A sponsoring local government that issues bonds under this section ((shall)) may not pledge any money received from the state of Washington for the payment of such bonds, other than the local sales and use taxes imposed under the authority of RCW 82.14.475 and collected by the department.

(3) In addition to the requirements in subsection (1) of this section, a sponsoring local government designating a revenue development area and authorizing the use of local infrastructure financing may require the nonpublic participant to provide adequate security to protect the public investment in the public improvement within the revenue development area.

(4) Bonds issued under this section ((shall)) must be authorized by ordinance of the governing body of the sponsoring local government and may be issued in one or more series and ((shall)) must bear such date or dates, be payable upon demand or mature at such time or times, bear interest at such rate or rates, be in such denomination or denominations, be in such form either coupon or registered as provided in RCW 39.46.030, carry such conversion or registration privileges, have such rank or priority, be executed in such manner, be payable in such medium of payment, at such place or places, and be subject to such terms of redemption with or without premium, be secured in such manner, and have such other characteristics, as may be provided by such ordinance or trust indenture or mortgage issued pursuant thereto.

(5) The sponsoring local government may annually pay into a fund to be established for the benefit of bonds issued under this section a fixed proportion or a fixed amount of any local excise tax allocation revenues and local property tax allocation revenues derived from property or business activity within the revenue development area containing the public improvements funded by the bonds, such payment to continue until all bonds payable from the fund are paid in full. The local government may also annually pay into the fund established in this section a fixed proportion or a fixed amount of any revenues derived from taxes imposed under RCW 82.14.475, such payment to continue until all bonds payable from the fund are paid in full. Revenues derived from taxes imposed under RCW 82.14.475 are subject to the use restriction in RCW 39.102.130.

(6) In case any of the public officials of the sponsoring local government whose signatures appear on any bonds or any coupons issued under this chapter ((shall)) cease to be such officials before the delivery of such bonds, such signatures ((shall)), nevertheless, ((be)) are valid and sufficient for all purposes, the same as if such officials had remained in office until such delivery. Any provision of any law to the contrary notwithstanding, any bonds issued under this chapter are fully negotiable.

(7) Notwithstanding subsections (4) through (6) of this section, bonds issued under this section may be issued and sold in accordance with chapter 39.46 RCW.

Sec. 5. RCW 39.102.140 and 2009 c 518 s 12 and 2009 c 267 s 5 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) A sponsoring local government shall provide a report to the board and the department by March 1st of each year. The report shall contain the following information:

(a) The amount of local excise tax allocation revenues, local property tax allocation revenues, other revenues from local public sources, and taxes under RCW 82.14.475 received by the sponsoring local government, cosponsoring local government, or any participating local government during the preceding calendar year that were dedicated to pay the public improvements financed in whole or in part with local infrastructure financing, and a summary of how these revenues were expended;

(b) The names of any businesses located within the revenue development area as a result of the public improvements undertaken by the sponsoring local government and financed in whole or in part with local infrastructure financing;

(c) The total number of permanent jobs created in the revenue development area as a result of the public improvements undertaken by the sponsoring local government and financed in whole or in part with local infrastructure financing;

(d) The average wages and benefits received by all employees of the businesses located within the revenue development area as a result of the public improvements undertaken by the sponsoring local government and financed in whole or in part with local infrastructure financing;

(e) That the sponsoring local government is in compliance with RCW 39.102.070; and

(f) Beginning with the reports due March 1, 2010, the following must also be included:

(i) A list of public improvements financed on a pay-as-you-go basis in previous calendar years and by indebtedness issued under this chapter;

(ii) The date when any indebtedness issued under this chapter is expected to be retired;

(iii) At least once every three years, updated estimates of state excise tax allocation revenues, state property tax allocation revenues, and local excise tax increments, as determined by the sponsoring local government, that are estimated to have been received by the state, any participating local government, sponsoring local government, and cosponsoring local government, since the approval of the project award under RCW 39.102.040 by the board; and

(iv) Any other information required by the department or the board to enable the department or the board to fulfill its duties under this chapter and RCW 82.14.475.

(2) The board shall make a report available to the public and the legislature by June 1st of each even-numbered year. The report shall include a list of public improvements undertaken by sponsoring local governments and financed in whole or in part with local infrastructure financing and it shall also include a summary of the information provided to the department by sponsoring local governments under subsection (1) of this section.

(3) The department, upon request, must assist a sponsoring local government in estimating the amount of state excise tax allocation revenues and local excise tax increments required in subsection (1)(f)(iii) of this section.

Sec. 6. RCW 39.102.020 and 2010 c 164 s 11 are each amended to read as follows:

The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Annual state contribution limit" means seven million five hundred thousand dollars statewide per fiscal year.

(2) "Assessed value" means the valuation of taxable real property as placed on the last completed assessment roll.

(3) "Board" means the community economic revitalization board under chapter 43.160 RCW.
local infrastructure financing.

revenues or other revenues from local public sources dedicated for local public improvement costs on a pay-as-you-go basis subject to RCW 82.14.030.

"Local excise tax increment" means an amount equal to some or all of any participating local government's local excise tax increment, amounts of local excise taxes equal to some or all of any participating local government's excise tax increment as agreed upon in the written agreement under RCW 39.102.080, or both, and dedicated to local infrastructure financing.

"Local excise taxes" means local revenues derived from the imposition of sales and use taxes authorized in RCW 82.14.030.

"Property tax allocation revenue value" means the assessed value of real property in a revenue development area has not increased as a result of any of the reasons specified in (a)(i)(A) through (C) of this subsection.

"Public improvement costs" means the cost of: (a) Design, planning, acquisition including land acquisition, site preparation including land clearing, construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation, improvement, and installation of public improvements; (b) demolishing, relocating, maintaining, and operating property pending construction of public improvements; (c) the local government's portion of relocating utilities as a result of public improvements; (d) financing public improvements, including interest during construction, legal and other professional services, taxes, insurance, principal and interest costs on general indebtedness issued to finance public improvements, and any necessary reserves for general indebtedness; (e) assessments incurred in revaluing real property for the purpose of determining the property tax allocation revenue base value that are in excess of costs incurred by the assessor in accordance with the revaluation plan under chapter 84.41 RCW, and the costs of apportioning the taxes and complying with this chapter and other applicable law; (f) administrative expenses and feasibility studies reasonably necessary and related to these costs; and (g) any of the above-described costs that may have been incurred

"Low-income housing" means residential housing for low-income persons or families who lack the means which is necessary to enable them, without financial assistance, to live in decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings, without overcrowding. For the purposes of this subsection, "low income" means income that does not exceed eighty percent of the median family income for the standard metropolitan statistical area in which the revenue development area is located.

"Ordinance" means any appropriate method of taking legislative action by a local government.

"Participating local government" means a local government having a revenue development area within its geographic boundaries that has entered into a written agreement with a sponsoring local government as provided in RCW 39.102.080.

"Participating taxing district" means a local government having a revenue development area within its geographic boundaries that has entered into a written agreement with a sponsoring local government as provided in RCW 39.102.080.

"Property tax allocation revenue base value" means the assessed value of real property located within a revenue development area less the property tax allocation revenue value.

"Property tax allocation revenue value" means seventy-five percent of any increase in the assessed value of real property in a revenue development area resulting from:

(A) The placement of new construction, improvements to property, or both, on the assessment roll, where the new construction and improvements are initiated after the revenue development area is approved by the board;

(B) The cost of new housing construction, conversion, and rehabilitation improvements, when such cost is treated as new construction for purposes of chapter 84.55 RCW as provided in RCW 84.14.020, and the new housing construction, conversion, and rehabilitation improvements are initiated after the revenue development area is approved by the board.

(C) The cost of rehabilitation of historic property, when such cost is treated as new construction for purposes of chapter 84.55 RCW as provided in RCW 84.26.070, and the rehabilitation is initiated after the revenue development area is approved by the board.

(ii) Increases in the assessed value of real property in a revenue development area resulting from (a)(i)(A) through (C) of this subsection are included in the property tax allocation revenue value in the initial year. These same amounts are also included in the property tax allocation revenue value in subsequent years unless the property becomes exempt from property taxation.

(b) "Property tax allocation revenue value" includes seventy-five percent of any increase in the assessed value of new construction consisting of an entire building in the years following the initial year, unless the building becomes exempt from property taxation.

(c) Except as provided in (b) of this subsection, "property tax allocation revenue value" does not include any increase in the assessed value of real property after the initial year.

(d) There is no property tax allocation revenue value if the assessed value of real property in a revenue development area has not increased as a result of any of the reasons specified in (a)(i)(A) through (C) of this subsection.

(e) For purposes of this subsection, "initial year" means:

(i) For new construction and improvements to property added to the assessment roll, the year during which the new construction and improvements are initially placed on the assessment roll;

(ii) For the cost of new housing construction, conversion, and rehabilitation improvements, when such cost is treated as new construction for purposes of chapter 84.55 RCW, the year when such cost is treated as new construction for purposes of levying taxes for collection in the following year; and

(iii) For the cost of rehabilitation of historic property, when such cost is treated as new construction for purposes of chapter 84.55 RCW, the year when such cost is treated as new construction for purposes of levying taxes for collection in the following year.

"Public improvement costs" means the cost of: (a) Design, planning, acquisition including land acquisition, site preparation including land clearing, construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation, improvement, and installation of public improvements; (b) demolishing, relocating, maintaining, and operating property pending construction of public improvements; (c) the local government's portion of relocating utilities as a result of public improvements; (d) financing public improvements, including interest during construction, legal and other professional services, taxes, insurance, principal and interest costs on general indebtedness issued to finance public improvements, and any necessary reserves for general indebtedness; (e) assessments incurred in revaluing real property for the purpose of determining the property tax allocation revenue base value that are in excess of costs incurred by the assessor in accordance with the revaluation plan under chapter 84.41 RCW, and the costs of apportioning the taxes and complying with this chapter and other applicable law; (f) administrative expenses and feasibility studies reasonably necessary and related to these costs; and (g) any of the above-described costs that may have been incurred.
before adoption of the ordinance authorizing the public improvements and the use of local infrastructure financing to fund the costs of the public improvements.

(((20))) (21) "Public improvements" means:
(a) Infrastructure improvements within the revenue development area that include:
(i) Street, bridge, and road construction and maintenance, including highway interchange construction;
(ii) Water and sewer system construction and improvements, including wastewater reuse facilities;
(iii) Sidewalks, traffic controls, and streetlights;
(iv) Parking, terminal, and dock facilities;
(v) Park and ride facilities of a transit authority;
(vi) Park facilities and recreational areas, including trails; and
(vii) Storm water and drainage management systems;
(b) Expenditures for facilities and improvements that support affordable housing as defined in RCW 43.63A.510.

(((21))) (22) "Real property" has the same meaning as in RCW 84.04.090 and also includes any privately owned improvements located on publicly owned land that are subject to property taxation.

(((22))) (23) "Regular property taxes" means regular property taxes as defined in RCW 84.04.140, except: (a) Regular property taxes levied by public utility districts specifically for the purpose of making required payments of principal and interest on general taxes as defined in RCW 84.04.140, except: (a) Regular property taxes levied by public utility districts specifically for the purpose of making required payments of principal and interest on general indebtedness; (b) regular property taxes levied by the state for the support of the common schools under RCW 84.52.065; and (c) regular property taxes authorized by RCW 84.55.050 that are limited to a specific purpose. "Regular property taxes" do not include excess property tax levies that are exempt from the aggregate limits for junior and senior taxing districts as provided in RCW 84.52.043.

(((23))) (24) "Relocating a business" means the closing of a business and the reopening of that business, or the opening of a new business that engages in the same activities as the previous business, in a different location within a one-year period, when an individual or entity has an ownership interest in the business at the time of closure and at the time of opening or reopening. "Relocating a business" does not include the closing and reopening of a business in a new location where the business has been acquired and is under entirely new ownership at the new location, or the closing and reopening of a business in a new location as a result of the exercise of the power of eminent domain.

(((24))) (25) "Revenue development area" means the geographic area adopted by a sponsoring local government and approved by the board, from which local excise and property tax allocation revenues are derived for local infrastructure financing.

(((25))) (26)(a) "Revenues from local public sources" means:
(i) Amounts of local excise tax allocation revenues and local property tax allocation revenues, dedicated by sponsoring local governments, participating local governments, and participating taxing districts, for local infrastructure financing; and
(ii) Any other local revenues, except as provided in (b) of this subsection, including revenues derived from federal and private sources.

(b) Revenues from local public sources do not include any local funds derived from state grants, state loans, or any other state moneys including any local sales and use taxes credited against the state sales and use taxes imposed under chapter 82.08 or 82.12 RCW.

(((26))) (27) "Small business" has the same meaning as provided in RCW 19.85.020.

(((27))) (28) "Sponsoring local government" means a city, town, or county, and for the purpose of this chapter a federally recognized Indian tribe or any combination thereof, that adopts a revenue development area and applies to the board to use local infrastructure financing.

(((28))) (29) "State contribution" means the lesser of:
(a) One million dollars;
(b) The total amount of local excise tax allocation revenues, local property tax allocation revenues, and other revenues from local public sources, that are dedicated by a sponsoring local government, any participating local governments, and participating taxing districts, in the preceding calendar year to the payment of principal and interest on bonds issued under RCW 39.102.150 or to pay public improvement costs on a pay-as-you-go basis subject to RCW 39.102.195, or both;
(c) The amount of project award granted by the board in the notice of approval to use local infrastructure financing under RCW 39.102.040; or
(d) The highest amount of state excise tax allocation revenues and state property tax allocation revenues for any one calendar year as determined by the sponsoring local government and reported to the board and the department as required by RCW 39.102.140.

(((29))) (30) "State excise tax allocation revenue" means an amount equal to the annual increase in state excise taxes estimated to be received by the state in each calendar year following the approval of the revenue development area by the board, from taxable activity within the revenue development area as set forth in the application provided to the board under RCW 39.102.040 and periodically updated and reported as required in RCW 39.102.140(1)(f).

(((30))) (31) "State excise taxes" means revenues derived from state retail sales and use taxes under RCW 82.08.020(1) and 82.12.020 at the rate provided in RCW 82.08.020(1), less the amount of tax distributions from all local retail sales and use taxes, other than the local sales and use taxes authorized by RCW 82.14.475 for the applicable revenue development area, imposed on the same taxable events that are credited against the state retail sales and use taxes under chapters 82.08 and 82.12 RCW.

(((31))) (32) "State property tax allocation revenue" means an amount equal to the estimated tax revenues derived from the imposition of property taxes levied by the state for the support of common schools under RCW 84.52.065 on the property tax allocation revenue value, as set forth in the application submitted to the board under RCW 39.102.040 and updated annually in the report required under RCW 39.102.140(1)(f).

(((32))) (33) "Taxing district" means a government entity that levies or has levied for it regular property taxes upon real property located within a proposed or approved revenue development area.

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

'Sec. 1. RCW 28C.04.420 and 2009 c 554 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

The college board may, subject to appropriation from the legislature or from funds made available from any other public or private source and pursuant to rules adopted by the college board, and with the advice of the workforce training customer advisory committee established in RCW 28C.04.390, provide job skills grants to educational institutions. The job skills grants shall be used exclusively for programs which are consistent with the job skills program. The college board shall work in collaboration with the workforce training customer advisory committee established in RCW 28C.04.390 to assure that:

(1) The program is within the scope of the job skills program under this chapter and may reasonably be expected to succeed and thereby increase employment within the state;

(2) Provision has been made to use any available alternative funding from local, state, and federal sources;

(3) The job skills grant will only be used to cover the costs associated with the program;

(4) The program will not unnecessarily duplicate existing programs and could not be provided by another educational institution more effectively or efficiently;

(5) The program involves an area of skills training and education for which there is a demonstrable need;

(6) The applicant has made provisions for the use of existing federal and state resources to provide financial assistance;

(7) The job skills grant is essential to the success of the program as the resources of the applicant are inadequate to attract the technical assistance and financial support necessary for the program to succeed and

(8) The program represents a collaborative partnership between business, industry, labor, educational institutions, and other partners, as appropriate;

(9) The commitment of financial support from businesses (and industry) with an annual gross business income of five hundred thousand dollars or more shall be equal to or greater than the amount of the requested job skills grant;

(b) The commitment of financial support from businesses with an annual gross business income of less than five hundred thousand dollars shall be at least equal to the trainees’ salaries and benefits while in training;

(c) The annual gross business income shall be the income reported to the department of revenue for the previous fiscal year;

(10) The job skills program gives priority to applications:

(a) Proposing training that (leads to transferable skills that are interchangeable among different jobs, employers, or workplaces) provides college credit or leads to a recognized industry credential;

(b) From firms in strategic industry clusters as identified by the state or local areas;

(c) Proposing coordination with other cluster-based programs or initiatives including, but not limited to, industry skill panels, centers of excellence, innovation partnership zones, state-supported cluster growth grants, and local cluster-based economic development initiatives;

(d) (Proposing industry-based credentialing) From consortia of colleges or consortia of employers; and

(e) Proposing increased capacity for educational institutions that can be made available to industry and students beyond the grant recipients;

(11) Binding commitments have been made to the college board by the applicant for adequate reporting of information and data regarding the program to the college board, particularly information concerning the recruitment and employment of trainees and students, and including a requirement for an annual or other periodic audit of the books of the applicant directly related to the program, and for such control on the part of the college board as it considers prudent over the management of the program, so as to protect the use of public funds, including, in the discretion of the college board and without limitation, right of access to financial and other records of the applicant directly related to the programs; and

(12) A provision has been made by the applicant to work, in cooperation with the employment security department, to identify and screen potential trainees, and that provision has been made by the applicant for the participation as trainees of low-income persons including temporary assistance for needy families recipients, dislocated workers, and persons from minority and economically disadvantaged groups to participate in the program.

Beginning ((October 1, 1999)) January 1, 2014, and every (two) year((s)) thereafter, the college board shall provide the legislature and the governor with a report describing the activities and outcomes of the state jobs program."

COLLOQUY

Representative Rodne: “Is it the intent of this bill to affect, one way or another, the pending lawsuit between the City of Seattle and the towing industry?”

Representative Pollet: “No, there is no express preemption and no express carve out for Seattle in the bill. The court will decide whether existing state law preempts the city’s ability to enact an ordinance regulating private property impounds.”

Representative Rodne: “Thank you. Is it the intent of this bill to affect the enforceability of the current Seattle ordinance?”

Representative Pollet: “No. The bill, particularly after being amended, is crafted to allow Seattle’s rates to continue until a court rule on the issue of preemption based on state law existing at the time of the ordinance’s enactment. As amended, the bill is very clear that Seattle, as a city which adopted an ordinance prior to January 1, 2013, is not required by RCW 46.55.240 to amend its ordinance to reflect the rate set out in this bill before the courts have ruled on the issue of preemption.”

Representative Upthegrove moved the adoption of amendment (274).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature makes the following findings:

(1) In order to mitigate the negative consequences of greenhouse gas and particulate air emissions, every state and nation in the world must do its part to develop clean energy technology.

(2) The sooner that economies of scale are available for the manufacture and marketing of renewable energy technologies, the sooner these technologies will become cost-competitive or even less expensive than traditional, polluting sources of energy.

(3) The clean technology sector of the economy is one that is growing rapidly, even in a time when other sectors have been stagnant or in a recession.

(4) In enacting incentives for renewable energy systems, the legislature intends to attract to Washington a vibrant clean technology sector.

(5) The tax incentives created in this act can be an important economic development tool, increasing high-wage employment both east and west of the Cascade mountains.

(6) It is the intent of the legislature, in modifying the existing renewable energy investment cost recovery incentive program, to improve utilization of the incentive by state residents and businesses, streamline program administration, and incubate the development of clean energy technology.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 82.16 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The legislature finds that the effectiveness of attempts to foster job creation and retention are important aspects of setting tax policy. In order to make policy choices regarding the best use of limited state resources, the legislature needs to know how tax incentives are used, and the degree to which incentive programs meet the legislature's intent.

(2) The legislature intends to achieve the following performance milestones as a result of the incentives awarded under this act:

(a) Increased utilization of the available tax credits, as evidenced by:

(i) A one hundred percent increase in the number of solar energy systems installed and receiving the incentive, from the 2012 baseline; and

(ii) A one hundred percent increase in the total generating capacity of installed systems, from the 2012 baseline;

(b) A decrease over time in the levelized cost of the systems receiving the tax preferences; and

(c) Growth of solar-related employment, as evidenced by:}
(i) An increase in the total number and per capita rate of solar-related jobs in Washington;

(ii) Achievement of a top ten national ranking for solar-related employment and a top nine ranking for per capita solar-related employment;

(d) An increase in the utilization of, and employment related to, non-solar renewable energy systems eligible to receive the incentives created in this act; and

(e) Leveraging of nonstate funds, as measured by a report of the total dollar value of tax credits awarded within each county and zip code, and the total amount of nonstate funds leveraged within each county and zip code.

(3)(a) The department must collect, through its application and certification process, data from persons receiving the tax preferences created in this act as necessary to report on progress toward achieving the performance milestones listed in subsection (1) of this section.

(b) In compliance with RCW 43.01.036, the department must submit an annual report to the legislature that details the progress achieved in reaching the outcome specified in subsection (1)(a)(i) of this section.

(4) All recipients of tax credits or incentive payments awarded under this chapter must provide any data requested for reporting purposes. Failure to comply may result in the loss of a tax credit award or incentive payment in the following year.

(5) As part of its 2019 tax preference reviews conducted under chapter 43.136 RCW, the joint legislative audit and review committee must assess the performance of the incentives created in this act; and

1. (a) The person applying to receive the voucher must be:

(i) The meter holder, meaning the party responsible to the light and power business for paying for electricity transmitted to the situs of a renewable energy system.

(ii) The owner of the renewable energy system. The meter holder need not occupy the real property upon which the system is installed; and

(b) An owner of the renewable energy system.

(4) When the meter holder is a residential retail electric customer, the system must have an electrical generating capacity of not more than five kilowatts, and when the meter holder is not a residential retail electric customer, the system must have an electrical generating capacity of not more than one hundred kilowatts.

(5)(a) Before submitting for the first time the application for the incentive allowed under ((subsection (4)(a))) this section, the applicant must submit to the department of revenue and to the ((climate and rural energy development center at the Washington State University, established under RCW 28B.30.642)) agency designated by the governor a certification in a form and manner prescribed by the department that includes, but is not limited to, the following information:

(i) The name and address of the applicant and location of the renewable energy system. (A) If the applicant is an administrator of a community solar project as defined in RCW 82.16.110(2)(a)(i), the certification must also include the name and address of each of the owners of the community solar project.

(B) If the applicant is a company that owns a community solar project as defined in RCW 82.16.110(2)(a)(ii), the certification must also include the name and address of each member of the company; (ii) The applicant’s tax registration number; (iii) That the electricity produced by the applicant meets the definition of “customer-generated electricity” or is generated by a system that meets the eligibility requirements set forth in subsection (3) of this section, and that the renewable energy system produces electricity with:

(A) Any solar inverters and solar modules manufactured in Washington state; (B) A wind generator powered by blades manufactured in Washington state; (C) A solar inverter manufactured in Washington state; (D) A solar module manufactured in Washington state; (E) A solar converter manufactured in Washington state; or (F) Solar or wind equipment manufactured outside of Washington state; (iv) That the electricity can be transformed or transmitted for entry into or operation in parallel with electricity transmission and distribution systems; (v) The date that the renewable energy system received its final electrical permit from the applicable local jurisdiction; (vi) The annual electricity consumption at the meter in the previous calendar year, or an engineering estimate of the projected annual consumption, if no record of annual consumption at the meter is available or if electricity consumption at the meter has substantially changed; and (vii) A projection of the annual electricity production of the system in kilowatt-hours.
(b) Within thirty days of receipt of the certification the agency designated by the governor must notify the applicant by mail, or electronically as provided in RCW 82.32.135, whether the renewable energy system qualifies for an incentive under this section. ((The department may consult with the climate and rural energy development center to determine eligibility for the incentive.) The agency designated by the governor must either issue the voucher or inform the applicant of the reason that the application is denied. System certifications, applications, vouchers, and the information contained therein are subject to disclosure under RCW 82.32.330(3)(l).

((4))) (c) The agency designated by the governor is authorized to assess an application fee to recover its costs of administering the program established in this section.

(6)(a) The agency designated by the governor must also transmit the voucher electronically as provided in RCW 82.32.135 to the light and power business serving the situs of the system.

(b) The voucher must state the first and last day of the ten-year term, or other term in the case of persons receiving a voucher as provided in subsection (1)(d) of this section, for which the applicant has qualified to receive production incentive payments from the light and power business.

(c) The light and power business, upon receiving the voucher, must make incentive payments for each kilowatt-hour of electricity generated.

(d) If, during the ten-year term of the voucher, there is a change in the meter holder and a new party becomes financially responsible to the light and power business, the voucher is transferrable to the new meter holder, provided that the new meter holder is also a person eligible to receive payments under this section.

(7)(a) By August 1st of each year (application for the incentive must be made to the light and power business serving the situs of the system by certification in a form and manner prescribed by the department that includes, but is not limited to, the following information), the agency designated by the governor must receive a report of the amount of kilowatt-hours generated in the immediately preceding fiscal year by any system for which a person is receiving incentive payments pursuant to this section. The report may be submitted in one of the following ways:

(i) The name and address of the applicant and location of the renewable energy system.

(ii) If the applicant is an administrator of a community solar project as defined in RCW 82.16.110(2)(b)(i), the application must also include the name and address of each of the owners of the community solar project.

(iii) If the applicant is a company that owns a community solar project as defined in RCW 82.16.110(2)(a)(i), each owner is eligible to receive payments under this section; and

(iv) A statement of the amount of kilowatt-hours generated by the renewable energy system in the prior fiscal year.)

(b) The agency designated by the governor must notify the light and power business serving the situs of the system whether the incentive payment will be authorized or denied. The business may consult with the climate and rural energy development center to determine eligibility for the incentive payment. Incentive certifications and the information contained therein are subject to disclosure under RCW 82.32.330(3)(l).

(c)(i) Persons, administrators of community solar projects, and companies receiving incentive payments must keep and preserve, for a period of five years, suitable records as may be necessary to determine the amount of incentive applied for and received. Such records must be open for examination at any time upon notice by the light and power business that made the payment or by the department. If upon examination of any records or from other information obtained by the business or department it appears that an incentive has been paid in an amount that exceeds the correct amount of incentive payable, the business may assess against the person for the amount found to have been paid in excess of the correct amount of incentive payable and must add thereto interest on the amount. Interest is assessed in the manner that the department assesses interest upon delinquent tax under RCW 82.32.050.

(ii) If it appears that the amount of incentive paid is less than the correct amount of incentive payable the business may authorize additional payment.

((4))) (8) Except for community solar projects, the investment cost recovery incentive may be paid fifteen cents per economic development kilowatt-hour unless requests exceed the amount authorized for credit to the participating light and power business. For community solar projects, the investment cost recovery incentive may be paid thirty cents per economic development kilowatt-hour unless requests exceed the amount authorized for credit to the participating light and power business. For the purposes of this section, the rate paid for the investment cost recovery incentive may be multiplied by the following factors:

(a) For (customer-generated) electricity produced using solar modules manufactured in Washington state or a solar stirling converter manufactured in Washington state, two and four-tenths;

(b) For (customer-generated) electricity produced using a solar or a wind generator equipped with an inverter manufactured in Washington state, one and two-tenths;

(c) For (customer-generated) electricity produced using an anaerobic digester, or by other solar equipment or using a wind generator equipped with blades manufactured in Washington state, one; and

(d) For all other (customer-generated) electricity produced by wind, eight-tenths.

((5)) (9) On or after July 1, 2018, a new base rate and multipliers may go into effect. New rates and multipliers adopted under the authority of this subsection will be applicable to any vouchers awarded after July 1, 2018. The rates must be adjusted to reflect decreases in the capital costs of purchasing and installing a renewable energy system, changes in the leverized costs of such systems, or other factors that the agency deems relevant to fulfilling the purpose of incentivizing job growth and the environmental and economic benefits of renewable energy in the state.

(10)(a) No person is eligible for incentives under this section for electricity generated in excess of the net kilowatt-hours consumed annually at the metered location. No person is eligible for incentives provided under this section for more than twenty-five thousand dollars per year eligible renewable energy system.

(b) Except as provided in (c) through ((6))) (d) of this subsection, ((6))) (10), each applicant in a community solar project is eligible for up to five thousand dollars per year.

(c) Where the applicant is an administrator of a community solar project as defined in RCW 82.16.110(2)(a)(i), each owner is eligible... for an incentive but only in proportion to the ownership share of the project, up to five thousand dollars per year.

(d) Where the applicant is a company owning a community solar project that has applied for an investment cost recovery incentive on behalf of its members, each member of the company is eligible for an incentive that would otherwise belong to the company but only in proportion to each ownership share of the company, up to five thousand dollars per year. The company itself is not eligible for incentives under this section.

((6)) In the case of a utility-owned community solar project, each ratepayer that contributes to the project is eligible for an incentive in proportion to the contribution, up to five thousand dollars per year.

((7)) If, at any time before July 1, 2018, requests for the investment cost recovery incentive exceed fifty percent of the amount of funds available for credit to the participating light and power business, the ((incentive payments must be reduced proportionately.))

(2) The climate and rural energy development center at Washington State University energy program may establish guidelines and standards for technologies that are identified as Washington manufactured and therefore most beneficial to the state's environment.

((8)) (12) The environmental attributes of the renewable energy system belong to the applicant, and do not transfer to the state or the light and power business upon receipt of the investment cost recovery incentive.

((9)) (13) No incentive may be paid under this section for kilowatt-hours generated before July 1, 2005((, or after June 30, 2020)).

No new vouchers may be issued after June 30, 2023.

Sec. 4. RCW 82.16.130 and 2010 c 202 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A light and power business (shall be) is allowed a credit against taxes due under this chapter in an amount equal to the investment cost recovery incentive payments made in any fiscal year under RCW 82.16.120.  The credit shall be taken in a form and manner as required by the department.

((The credit under this section for the fiscal year may not exceed one-half percent of the businesses' taxable power sales due under RCW 82.16.020(1)(b) or one hundred thousand dollars, whichever is greater.))

(2) Incentive payments to participants in a utility-owned community solar project as defined in RCW 82.16.110(2)(a)(ii) may only account for up to twenty-five percent of the total allowable credit.

Incentive payments to participants in a company-owned community solar project as defined in RCW 82.16.110(2)(a)(iii) may only account for up to five percent of the total allowable credit.

(3) The total credit claimed under this section may not exceed the tax that would otherwise be due under this chapter.

Refunds (shall) may not be granted in the place of credits.

Expenditures not used to earn a credit in one fiscal year may not be used to earn a credit in subsequent years.

((22)) (4) For any light and power business that has claimed credit for amounts that exceed the correct amount of the incentive payable under RCW 82.16.120, the amount of tax against which credit was claimed for the excess payments (shall be) is immediately due and payable.

The department (shall) must assess interest but not penalties on the taxes against which the credit was claimed.

Interest (shall be) is assessed at the rate provided for delinquent excise taxes under chapter 82.32 RCW, retroactively to the date the credit was claimed, and (shall) accrue until the taxes against which the credit was claimed are repaid.

((33)) (5) The right to earn tax credits under this section expires June 30, 2020.

Credits may not be claimed after June 30, 2024.

(5) For incentive payments made pursuant to RCW 82.16.120, the authority of the agency designated by the governor to issue a voucher expires June 30, 2023.

(6) The total credits available under this section is the aggregate of 0.5% of each participating light and power businesses' annual taxable power sales in the immediately preceding calendar year.

Credits are available on a first-come, first-served basis.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. A new section is added to chapter 82.16 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The legislature finds that allowing utilities to finance and own renewable energy systems may help achieve the objectives of increasing the number of renewable energy systems in the state and incubating the development of the state's clean energy technology industry.

Third-party ownership is also a tool to increase access to renewable energy systems for those residents and businesses who cannot leverage sufficient capital to pay the full cost of a renewable energy system upfront.

The legislature intends to make a renewable energy investment cost recovery incentive tax credit available to renewable energy systems owned and financed by utilities.

(2) A qualifying utility, as defined in RCW 19.285.030(18), may claim a credit under this section for electricity generated by a solar energy system that has a generating capacity of not more than one hundred kilowatts, is installed on the premises of a residential or commercial retail electric customer of the qualifying utility in Washington, and is owned by the qualifying utility.

(3) The credit allowed for solar energy systems owned by a qualifying utility may not exceed 0.5% of the qualifying utility's taxable power sales due under RCW 82.16.020(1)(b), or one hundred thousand dollars, whichever is greater.

(4) The credit that may be claimed by a qualifying utility for power generated by a solar energy system is equal to the amount of incentive payment a community solar project with the same power generation, consumption, and system components would have been eligible to receive under RCW 82.16.120.

(5) The environmental attributes of the solar energy system belong to the qualifying utility.

(6) The total credit claimed under this section and RCW 82.16.130 may not exceed the tax that would otherwise be due under this chapter.

Refunds may not be granted in the place of credits.

Expenditures not used to earn a credit in one fiscal year may not be used to earn a credit in subsequent years.

(7) For any qualifying utility that has claimed credit for amounts that exceed the correct amount of the incentive payable under RCW 82.16.120, the amount of tax against which credit was claimed for the excess payments is immediately due and payable.

The department must assess interest but not penalties on the taxes against which the credit was claimed.

Interest is assessed at the rate provided for delinquent excise taxes under chapter 82.32 RCW retroactively to the date the credit was claimed and accrues until the taxes against which the credit was claimed are repaid.

(8) The legislature intends to achieve the following performance milestones as a result of the tax preference created in this section:

(a) Increased utilization of available tax credits at a growth rate of five percent each year for the first five years of the program; and

(b) Improved ability of consumers, regardless of their ability to pay upfront for the full capital costs of a renewable energy system, to install renewable energy systems on their real property.

This milestone must be tracked by requiring those applying to receive incentive payments for a system owned or financed by a third party to indicate in their application whether they would have had the financial ability to fully fund the upfront installation costs for a system if systems leased from third-party owners had not been eligible to receive the incentive.
legislature on the effectiveness of the program in achieving the objectives described in subsection (8) of this section.

(b) Upon request of the joint legislative audit and review committee, the department of revenue and other agencies must cooperate by providing any data or information requested.

(10)(a) The qualifying utility must provide the customer on whose premises a solar energy system is being installed a contract that includes, but is not limited to, the following information:

(i) A guarantee of the minimum annual kilowatt-hours that the system will generate for the entire term of the contract;

(ii) In the case of a lease, a clear payment schedule with a total amount, inclusive of all fees, costs, and other charges, listed for each month and for each year of the entire term of the lease agreement;

(iii) An acknowledgment that the utility is responsible for system installation, repairs, and monitoring for the duration of the agreement;

(iv) Protections against damage to the customer's property caused by the system, its installation, and removal, including a clear statement of whose responsibility it is to pay any costs associated with restoring the customer's property to its original condition after removal of the system at the end of the lease term; and

(v) A disclosure of the terms and conditions governing when the property is sold or transferred.

(b) A qualifying utility must provide the customer a separate document with an easy to read, nontechnical summary of the provisions required under (a) of this subsection.

(c) The qualifying utility must compile and make available to the joint legislative audit and review committee a report of the average price per kilowatt-hour of electricity generated by the systems authorized in this section, as compared to the average price per kilowatt-hour of electricity generated by systems that received or are receiving the incentive under RCW 82.16.120.

(11) After December 31, 2015, if in compliance with other applicable law or rule, the agency designated by the governor may authorize renewable energy systems owned by third parties other than utilities to qualify for the incentives created under RCW 82.16.120. Nonutility third-party owners of renewable energy systems may only be authorized to receive the incentives if, in the agency's determination, based on objective criteria, such ownership is consistent with the legislature's objectives as established in section 2 of this act and subsection (1) of this section. The agency, in making its determination, must hold meetings with interested parties, and provide notice and an opportunity for public comment.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. A new section is added to chapter 80.28 RCW to read as follows:

(1)(a) Upon request by an electrical company, the commission may approve a tariff allowing the company to recover its costs from acquiring, installing, operating, and maintaining cost-effective distributed solar energy systems at the premises of retail electric customers of the company.

(b) The cost basis for a distributed solar energy system must include, but may not be limited to:

(i) A fair return on common equity equal to the return that the commission has authorized for the company's other capital assets;

(ii) The cost of debt incurred for investments made in the acquisition, installation, operation, and maintenance of distributed solar energy systems; and

(iii) Any reasonable incentive the company may offer to a retail electric customer to secure the right to place a distributed solar energy system on their premises.

(c) Costs incurred by the company to acquire, install, operate, and maintain a distributed solar energy system must be offset by:

(i) The value of an investment cost recovery incentive payable to the company under sections 5 and 6 of this act;

(ii) The estimated value of renewable energy credits produced by distributed solar energy systems owned by the company; and

(iii) The value of any other state and federal tax credits that may accrue to the company from the production of energy from a distributed solar energy system.

(d) If the company determines that a customer or class of customers should contribute a reasonable amount to the electrical utility's cost of acquiring, installing, operating, and maintaining a distributed solar energy system in order for the system to be cost-effective, it may specify the amount of the contribution in its tariff. The commission may approve or deny the company's request to include a customer contribution in the tariff, or revise the contribution requirement to an amount that will not increase financial risk to the company's shareholders or other customers. The commission may only deny the request for a customer contribution upon a finding that the tariff is fair, just, reasonable, and sufficient without the customer contribution requirement.

(e)(i) Once the company has recovered its costs under the tariff, the distributed solar energy system is no longer necessary and useful to the company pursuant to RCW 80.12.020. The tariff must specify the terms and conditions, including guidelines for establishing a fair market value, under which a customer may purchase the distributed solar energy system located at its premises after the company has recovered its costs under the tariff. Once the company has recovered its costs under the tariff, it may convey ownership of a distributed solar energy system without cost to a retail electric customer who has made a contribution under (d) of this subsection.

(ii) Any payments received by a company from the sale of distributed solar energy systems must be deposited in a segregated account to be used by the company to supplement any other measures it may use under (c) of this subsection to offset costs incurred by the company to acquire, install, operate, and maintain a distributed solar energy system.

(2) A distributed solar energy system that has been installed pursuant to this section is not eligible for net metering under chapter 80.60 RCW while the system is owned by the company.

(3) For the purposes of this section:

(a) "Cost-effective" means, at the time a distributed solar energy system is placed in the rate base, the distributed solar energy system is reasonably expected to generate energy at a total incremental system cost, per unit of energy delivered to end use, that is less than, or equal to, the comparable cost from the lowest reasonable cost eligible renewable resource, as identified in the company's last completed integrated resource plan under chapter 19.280 RCW, considering:

(i) The value of an investment cost recovery incentive payable to the company under RCW 82.16.120;

(ii) The estimated value of renewable energy credits produced by distributed solar energy systems owned by the company;

(iii) The value of any other state and federal tax credits that may accrue to the company from the production of energy from a distributed solar energy system; and

(iv) The financial contribution that may be required from a customer pursuant to subsection (1)(d) of this section.

(b) "Distributed solar energy system" means any device or combination of devices or elements that relies upon direct sunlight as an energy source for use in the generation of electricity and has an electrical generating capacity of not more than five kilowatts, when the meter holder is a residential retail electric customer, and not more than one hundred kilowatts, when the meter holder is a commercial retail electric customer.

(c) "Eligible renewable resource" has the same meaning as defined under RCW 19.285.030.

(4) This section expires December 31, 2020.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.
SECOND SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1374 was read the second time.

Representative Morris moved the adoption of amendment (257).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

Sec. 1. RCW 80.50.010 and 2001 c 214 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature finds that the present and predicted growth in energy demands in the state of Washington requires the development of a procedure for the selection and utilization of sites for energy facilities and the identification of a state position with respect to (eesb) the proposed site. The legislature also finds that there is a critical need for infrastructure to ensure the safe and reliable operations of electrical generation and energy transmission systems in Washington and the region. The legislature recognizes that the selection of sites will have a significant impact upon the welfare of the population, the location and growth of industry and the use of the natural resources of the state.

It is the policy of the state of Washington to recognize the (pressing) need for increased energy facilities, and to ensure through available and reasonable methods, that the location and operation of (eesb) facilities will produce minimal adverse effects on the environment, ecology of the land and its wildlife, and the ecology of state waters and their aquatic life.

It is the intent to seek courses of action that will balance the increasing demands for energy facility location and operation in conjunction with the broad interests of the public. Such action will be based on these premises:

(1) To assure Washington state citizens that, where applicable, operational safeguards are at least as stringent as the criteria established by the federal government and are technically sufficient for their welfare and protection.

(2) To preserve and protect the quality of the environment; to enhance the public’s opportunity to enjoy the esthetic and recreational benefits of the air, water and land resources; to promote air cleanliness; and to pursue beneficial changes in the environment.

(3) To provide abundant energy at reasonable costs.

(4) To avoid costs of complete site restoration and demolition of chemical preservatives such as creosote, pentachlorophenol, or copper-chrome-arsenic.

The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Alternative energy resource" includes energy facilities of the following types: (a) Wind; (b) solar energy; (c) geothermal energy; (d) landfill gas; (e) wave or tidal action; (f) energy storage; or (g) biomass energy based on solid organic fuels from wood, forest, or field residues, or dedicated energy crops that do not include wood pieces that have been treated with chemical preservatives such as creosote, pentachlorophenol, or copper-chrome-arsenic.

(2) "Applicant" means any person who makes application for a site certification pursuant to the provisions of this chapter.
(3) "Application" means any request for approval of a particular site or sites filed in accordance with the procedures established pursuant to this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires.

(4) "Associated facilities" means storage, transmission, handling, or other related and supporting facilities connecting an energy plant with the existing energy supply, processing, or distribution system, including, but not limited to, communications, controls, mobilizing or maintenance equipment, instrumentation, and other types of ancillary transmission equipment, off-line storage or venting required for efficient operation or safety of the transmission system and overhead, and surface or subsurface lines of physical access for the inspection, maintenance, and safe operations of the transmission facility and new transmission lines constructed to operate at nominal voltages of at least 115,000 volts to connect a thermal power plant or alternative energy facilities to the northwest power grid. However, common carrier railroads or motor vehicles shall not be included.

(5) "Biofuel" has the same meaning as defined in RCW 43.325.010.

(6) "Certification" means a binding agreement between an applicant and the state which shall embody compliance to the siting standards and guidelines, in effect as of the date of certification, which have been adopted pursuant to RCW 80.50.040 as now or hereafter amended as conditions to be met prior to or concurrent with the construction or operation of any energy facility.

(7) "Construction" means on-site improvements, excluding exploratory work, which cost in excess of two hundred fifty thousand dollars.

(8) "Council" means the energy facility site evaluation council created by RCW 80.50.030.

(9) "Counsel for the environment" means an assistant attorney general or a special assistant attorney general who shall represent the public (in accordance with RCW 80.50.080).

(10) "Electrical transmission facilities" means electrical power lines and related equipment.

(11) "Energy facility" means an energy plant or transmission facilities: PROVIDED, That the following are excluded from the provisions of this chapter:

(a) Facilities for the extraction, conversion, transmission or storage of water, other than water specifically consumed or discharged by energy production or conversion for energy purposes; and

(b) Facilities operated by and for the armed services for military purposes or by other federal authority for the national defense.

(12) "Energy plant" means the following facilities together with their associated facilities:

(a) Any nuclear power facility where the primary purpose is to produce and sell electricity;

(b) Any nonnuclear stationary thermal power plant (with generating capacity of three hundred fifty thousand kilowatts or more, measured using maximum continuous electric generating capacity, less minimum auxiliary load, at average ambient temperature and pressure, and) and floating thermal power plants (of one hundred thousand kilowatts or more) suspended on the surface of water by means of a barge, vessel, or other floating platform;

(c) Facilities which will have the capacity to (receive) import or export liquefied natural gas (in the equivalent of more than one hundred million standard cubic feet of natural gas per day, which) that has been or will be transported over land or marine waters;

(d) Facilities which will have the capacity to receive more than an average of fifty thousand barrels per day of crude or refined petroleum or liquefied petroleum gas which has been or will be transported over marine waters, except that the provisions of this chapter shall not apply to storage facilities unless occasioned by such new facility construction;

(e) Any underground reservoir for receipt and storage of natural gas as defined in RCW 80.40.010 (capable of delivering an average of more than one hundred million standard cubic feet of natural gas per day); (and)

(f) Facilities capable of processing more than twenty-five thousand barrels per day of petroleum or biofuel into refined products except where such biofuel production is undertaken at existing industrial facilities; and

(g) Any alternative energy resource.

(13) "Independent consultants" means those persons who have no financial interest in the applicant's proposals and who are retained by the council to evaluate the applicant's proposals, supporting studies, or to conduct additional studies.

(14) "Land use plan" means a comprehensive plan or land use element thereof adopted by a unit of local government pursuant to chapter 35.63, 35A.63, 36.70, or 36.70A RCW, or as otherwise designated by chapter 325, Laws of 2007.

(15) "Person" means an individual, partnership, joint venture, private or public corporation, association, firm, public service company, political subdivision, municipal corporation, government agency, public utility district, or any other entity, public or private, however organized.

(16) "Preapplicant" means a person considering applying for a site certificate agreement for any transmission facility.

(17) "Preapplication process" means the process which is initiated by written correspondence from the preapplicant to the council, and includes the process adopted by the council for consulting with the preapplicant and with cities, towns, and counties prior to accepting applications for all transmission facilities.

(18) "Secretary" means the secretary of the United States department of energy.

(19) "Site" means any proposed or approved location of an energy facility, alternative energy resource, or electrical transmission facility.

(20) "Thermal power plant" means, for the purpose of certification, any electrical generating facility (using) combusting any gaseous, liquid, or solid fuel (for distribution of electricity by electric utilities) or using heat to create steam for the generation of electricity.

(21) "Transmission pipeline facility" means any of the following together with their associated facilities:

(a) Crude or refined petroleum or liquid petroleum product transmission pipeline of the following dimensions: A pipeline larger than six inches minimum inside diameter between valves for the transmission of these products with a total length of at least fifteen miles;

(b) Natural gas, synthetic fuel gas, or liquefied petroleum gas transmission pipeline (of the following dimensions: A pipeline larger than fourteen inches minimum inside diameter between valves, for the transmission of these products) with a total length of at least fifteen miles that operates in excess of twenty percent of the specified minimum yield strength and the pipeline is used for the purpose of delivering gas to a distribution facility, except an interstate natural gas pipeline regulated by the United States federal power commission; and

(c) A transmission pipeline facility may include a pipeline carrying federally listed hazardous waste to the energy facility.

(22) "Zoning ordinance" means an ordinance of a unit of local government regulating the use of land and adopted pursuant to chapter 35.63, 35A.63, 36.70, or 36.70A RCW or Article XI of the state Constitution, or as otherwise designated by chapter 325, Laws of 2007.

(23) "Electric utility" means an electric utility, as the term "electric utility" is defined in RCW 19.29A.010.

(24) "Proven energy technology" means any energy technology used in an energy facility offered for sale in the United States and preapproved by the council.
Sec. 3. RCW 80.50.030 and 2010 c 271 s 601 and 2010 c 152 s 2 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) There is created and established the energy facility site evaluation council.

(2)(a) The chair of the council shall be appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the senate, shall have a vote on matters before the council, shall serve for a term coextensive with the term of the governor, and is removable for cause. The chair may designate a member of the council to serve as acting chair in the event of the chair's absence. The salary of the chair shall be determined under RCW 43.03.040. The chair is a "state employee" for the purposes of chapter 42.52 RCW. As applicable, when attending meetings of the council, members may receive reimbursement for travel expenses in accordance with RCW 43.03.050 and 43.03.060, and are eligible for compensation under RCW 43.03.250.

(b) The chair or a designee shall execute all official site application documents (contracts) and other materials on behalf of the council. The chair shall manage the scheduling of all public meetings necessary for site certification of an energy facility and provide over meetings of the council. The Washington utilities and transportation commission shall provide all administrative and staff support for the council. The commission has supervisory authority over the staff of the council and shall employ such personnel as are necessary to implement this chapter. Not more than three such employees may be exempt from chapter 41.06 RCW. The utilities and transportation commission shall serve as the fiscal agent for the council, ensuring compliance with state law, and shall execute contracts in consultation with the council. The council shall otherwise retain its independence in exercising its powers, functions, and duties (and its supervisory control over nonadministrative staff support) relating to site applications. Membership, powers, functions, and duties of the Washington state utilities and transportation commission and the council shall otherwise remain as provided by law.

(3)(a) The council shall consist of ((the directors, administrators, or their designees, of the following departments, agencies, commissions, and committees or their statutory successors:))

(i) Department of ecology;

(ii) Department of fish and wildlife;

(iii) Department of commerce;

(iv) Utilities and transportation commission; and

(v) Department of natural resources.

(b) The directors, administrators, or their designees, of the following departments, agencies, and commissions, or their statutory successors, may participate as council members at their own discretion provided they elect to participate no later than sixty days after an application is filed:

(i) Department of agriculture;

(ii) Department of health;

(iii) Military department; and

(iv) Department of transportation.

(c) Council membership is discretionary for agencies that choose to participate under (b) of this subsection for applications that are filed with the council on or after May 8, 2001. For applications filed before May 8, 2001, council membership is mandatory for those agencies listed in (b) of this subsection:

(i) Two members of the growth management hearings board, preferably with experience or training in energy facilities or environmental impact analyses under the state environmental policy act;

(ii) The director, administrator, or their designee, of the department of fish and wildlife; and

(iii) The director, administrator, or their designee, of the department of ecology.

(b) If the proposed energy facility is proposed to be sited on or across shorelines of the state, as defined in RCW 90.58.030, or forest land, as defined in RCW 76.09.020, the chair shall invite, depending on the impacts, a member from the shorelines hearings board for proposals that involve shorelines of the state and a designee from the department of natural resources for proposals that involve forest land to participate as a council member. If a member of the shorelines hearings board or a designee from the department of natural resources is invited and participates in the site certification of a proposed energy facility, that council member or designee shall serve on the council in place of one of the two growth management hearings board members.

(4) The appropriate county legislative authority of every county wherein an application for a proposed site is filed shall appoint a member or designee as a voting member to the council. The member or designee so appointed shall sit with the council only at such times as the council considers the proposed site for the county which he or she represents, and such member or designee shall serve until there has been a final acceptance or rejection of the proposed site.

(5) The city legislative authority of every city within whose corporate limits an energy facility is proposed to be located shall appoint a member or designee as a voting member to the council. The member or designee so appointed shall sit with the council only at such times as the council considers the proposed site for the city which he or she represents, and such member or designee shall serve until there has been a final acceptance or rejection of the proposed site.

(6) For any port district wherein an application for a proposed port facility is filed subject to this chapter, the port district shall appoint a member or designee as a nonvoting member to the council. The member or designee so appointed shall sit with the council only at such times as the council considers the proposed site for the port district which he or she represents, and such member or designee shall serve until there has been a final acceptance or rejection of the proposed site. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply if the port district is the applicant, either singly or in partnership or association with any other person.

(7) If the proposed energy facility is a nuclear power plant, the department of health shall appoint a designee from the department as a voting member of the council. The appointed designee shall sit with the council only at such times as the council considers the proposed site for the port district which he or she represents, and such member or designee shall serve until there has been a final acceptance or rejection of the proposed site. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply if the port district is the applicant, either singly in partnership or association with any other person.

(8) If the proposed energy facility is a nuclear power plant, the department of health shall appoint a designee from the department as a voting member of the council. The appointed designee shall sit with the council only at such times as the council considers the proposed site for the port district which he or she represents, and such member or designee shall serve until there has been a final acceptance or rejection of the proposed site.

Sec. 4. RCW 80.50.040 and 2001 c 214 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

The council shall have the following powers:

(1) To adopt, promulgate, amend, or rescind suitable rules and regulations, pursuant to chapter 34.05 RCW, to carry out the provisions of this chapter, and the policies and practices of the council in connection therewith;

(2) To develop and apply environmental and ecological guidelines and standards in relation to the type, design, location, construction, and operational conditions of certification of energy facilities subject to this chapter;

(3) To establish rules of practice for the conduct of public hearings (pursuant to the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act, as found in chapter 34.05 RCW);

(4) To prescribe the form, content, and necessary supporting documentation for site certification;

(5) To receive applications for energy facility locations and to investigate the sufficiency thereof;

(6) To ((make and)) enter into contracts, when applicable, for independent studies of sites proposed by the applicant, subject to the provisions of RCW 39.26.120;

(7) To conduct hearings on the proposed location of the energy facilities;

(8) To prepare written reports to the governor which shall include: (a) A statement indicating whether the application is in compliance with the council’s guidelines, (b) criteria specific to the site and transmission line routing, (c) a council recommendation as to the disposition of the application, and (d) a draft certification agreement when the council recommends approval of the application.) To approve or deny an application for site certification of a proposed energy facility:

(9) To prescribe the means for monitoring of the effects arising from the construction and the operation of energy facilities to assure continued compliance with terms of certification and/or permits issued by the council pursuant to chapter 90.48 RCW or subsection (12) of this section: PROVIDED, That any on-site inspection required by the council shall be performed by other state agencies pursuant to interagency agreement: PROVIDED FURTHER, That the council may retain authority for determining compliance relative to monitoring;

(10) To integrate its site evaluation activity with activities of federal agencies having jurisdiction in such matters to avoid unnecessary duplication;

(11) To present state concerns and interests to other states, regional organizations, and the federal government on the location, construction, and operation of any energy facility which may affect the environment, health, or safety of the citizens of the state of Washington;

(12) To issue permits in compliance with applicable provisions of the federally approved state implementation plan adopted in accordance with the Federal Clean Air Act, as now existing or hereafter amended, for the new construction, reconstruction, or enlargement or operation of energy facilities: PROVIDED, That such permits shall become effective only if the ((governor)) council approves an application for certification and executes a certification agreement pursuant to this chapter: AND PROVIDED FURTHER, That all such permits shall be conditioned upon compliance with all provisions of the federally approved state implementation plan which apply to energy facilities covered within the provisions of this chapter: (and)

(13) To serve as an interagency coordinating body for energy-related issues;

(14) To develop standards for an expedited siting process for the state of Washington, local governments, and other political subdivisions of the state in relation to the type, design, location, construction, operational conditions, and decommissioning of energy facilities subject to this chapter; and

(15) To enter into interlocal agreements with towns, cities, and counties for the purpose of issuing site certifications for energy facilities within the geographic jurisdiction of the local government.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. A new section is added to chapter 80.50 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Beginning December 1, 2014, the council must use:

(a) Council standards as provided under Title 463 WAC for the siting, construction, operation, and decommissioning of energy facilities; or

(b) For issues not addressed in the standards in (a) and (d) of this subsection, Oregon Administrative Rules, chapter 345, in effect as of January 1, 2013, except for the following:

(i) Oregon Administrative Rule 345-023-0005;
(ii) Oregon Administrative Rule 345-023-0020;
(iii) Oregon Administrative Rule 345-023-0030;
(iv) Oregon Administrative Rule 345-023-0040;
(v) Oregon Administrative Rule 345-024-0500;
(vi) Oregon Administrative Rule 345-022-0080; and
(vii) Oregon Administrative Rule 345-022-0030.

(c) When Oregon Administrative Rules reference an Oregon state agency or other Oregon governmental entity, the council must identify the most equivalent Washington state agency or governmental entity and substitute the Washington agency or entity in place of the Oregon state agency or Oregon governmental entity.

(d) To issue a site certificate, the council, after consultation with appropriate state agencies, must find that:

(i) For plant species that the Washington state natural heritage program has listed as threatened or endangered under chapter 79.70 RCW, the design, construction, and operation of the proposed facility, taking into account mitigation:

(A) Are consistent with the protection and conservation program, if any, that the natural heritage program has adopted under chapter 79.70 RCW; or

(B) If the natural heritage program has not adopted a protection and conservation program, are not likely to cause a significant reduction in the likelihood of survival or recovery of the species; and

(ii) For wildlife species that the Washington department of fish and wildlife has listed as threatened or endangered under RCW 77.12.020, the design, construction, and operation of the proposed facility, taking into account mitigation, are not likely to cause a significant reduction in the likelihood of survival or recovery of the species.

(2) The council may issue a site certificate for an energy facility that does not meet one or more of the standards adopted under subsection (1) of this section if the council determines that the overall public benefits of the energy facility outweigh the impact on the resources protected by the standards the facility does not meet.

(3)(a) By December 1, 2014, cities and counties must use the minimum standards in subsection (1) of this section when permitting energy facilities.

(i) Any local government or political subdivision that is not the council, with minimum energy facility siting standards adopted prior to the effective date of this section, is exempt from the provisions of this section for as long as the existing minimum standards remain in effect. The minimum standards adopted by the local government or a political subdivision that is not the council before this section takes effect may be amended in a manner consistent with this section when permitting energy facilities applied for under this chapter.

(ii) Any local government or political subdivision that is not the council, when determining the timeline for the environmental review of the proposed energy facility, may adjust the timeline depending on the proposed energy facility's compliance with the standards in this section. If a proposed energy facility meets the energy facility siting standards, the environmental review of the proposed energy facility must be completed within six months.

(iii) Within one week of submitting an application to either a local government or political subdivision that is not the council, an applicant must provide notice of the application to adjacent landowners who own property located within one mile of the proposed site of the energy facility. The notice must be provided by mailing the notice to the latest recorded real property owners, as shown by the records of the county assessor.

(iv) A county, city, or town is authorized to approve an energy facility only if its land use ordinances are in compliance with the growth management act and any order issued by the growth management hearings board.

(b) The council and any local government in the state may enter into, and are encouraged to enter into, an interlocal agreement as provided under chapter 39.34 RCW for the purpose of authorizing the council to issue site certifications for energy facilities within the geographic jurisdiction of the local government. Any such interlocal agreements may include recognition of jurisdiction or site-specific characteristics necessary to ensure compatibility for energy facilities permitted under this chapter.

(4)(a) An energy technology company may seek preapproval of its energy technology by submitting to the council an energy technology preapproval application to the council. The council shall impose a charge to cover necessary costs to process the preapproval application.

(b) For each preapproval application submitted by an applicant under (a) of this subsection, the council shall develop through rule making the standards an energy technology must meet to be a preapproved energy technology. The applicant is responsible for the cost associated with the rule making and the council must collect a fee from the applicant to recover the cost of the rule making.

(c) The council shall maintain a list of energy technologies to be granted expedited environmental review or processing under this chapter and the specific standards adopted under this subsection.

(5) Any person may petition the council to request the adoption, amendment, or repeal of any council rule as allowed in RCW 34.05.330. Any person petitioning the council requesting the adoptions, amendment, or repeal of any council rule is responsible for reimbursing the council for costs associated with adopting, amending, or repealing a rule.

Sec. 6. RCW 80.50.045 and 2006 c 196 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1)(a) The council shall consult with other state agencies, utilities, local municipal governments, public interest groups, tribes, and other interested persons to convey their views to the secretary and the federal energy regulatory commission regarding appropriate limits on federal regulatory authority in the siting of electrical transmission corridors in the state of Washington.

((2)(a)) (b) The council is designated as the state authority for purposes of siting electrical transmission facilities under the national energy policy act of 2005 and for purposes of other such rules or regulations adopted by the secretary. The council’s authority regarding electrical transmission facilities is limited to those electrical transmission facilities that are the subject of section 1221 of the national energy policy act and this chapter.

((4)) (c) For the construction and modification of electrical transmission facilities that are the subject of section 1221 of the national energy policy act, the council may: (((a))) (i) Approve the siting of the facilities; and (((b))) (ii) consider the interstate benefits expected to be achieved by the proposed construction or modification of the facilities in the state.

((4))) (d) When developing recommendations as to the disposition of an application for the construction or modification of electrical transmission facilities under this chapter, the fuel source of the electricity carried by the transmission facilities shall not be considered.

(2) The council shall monitor the activities of the federal energy regulatory commission and may receive notifications for energy projects located in Washington that are under the regulatory oversight of the federal energy regulatory commission. These notifications must include, but are not limited to, project filings, delegated orders, notices, and the federal energy regulatory commission decisions.

Sec. 7. RCW 80.50.060 and 2007 c 325 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1)(a) Except as provided under (b) and (c) of this subsection, the provisions of this chapter apply to the construction of energy facilities which includes the new construction of energy facilities ((and the reconstruction or enlargement of existing energy facilities, where the net increase in physical capacity or dimensions resulting from such reconstruction or enlargement meets or exceeds those capacities or dimensions set forth in RCW 80.50.020 (7) and (15)). No construction of such energy facilities may be undertaken, except as otherwise provided in this chapter, after July 15, 1977, without first obtaining certification in the manner provided in this chapter.

(2)(a) The provisions of this chapter apply to the construction, reconstruction, or enlargement of a new or existing energy facility that exclusively uses alternative energy resources and chooses to receive certification under this chapter, regardless of the generating capacity of the project) if the applicant chooses to receive certification under this chapter.

((4))) (b) Any proposed nuclear power facility in Washington, where the primary purpose is to produce and sell electricity, must apply to the council for site certification.

(c) Any proposed transmission pipeline facility in Washington must apply to the council for site certification.

(2)(a) The provisions of this chapter apply to the construction, reconstruction, or modification of electrical transmission facilities when:

(i) The facilities are located in a national interest electric transmission corridor as specified in RCW 80.50.045;

(ii) An applicant chooses to receive certification under this chapter, and the facilities are: (A) Of a nominal voltage of at least one hundred fifteen thousand volts and are located in a completely new corridor, except for the terminus of the new facility or interconnection of the new facility with the existing grid, and the corridor is not otherwise used for electrical transmission facilities; and
(B) located in more than one jurisdiction that has promulgated land use plans or zoning ordinances; or

(iii) An applicant chooses to receive certification under this chapter, and the facilities are: (A) Of a nominal voltage in excess of one hundred fifteen thousand volts; and (B) located outside an electrical transmission corridor identified in (a)(i) and (ii) of this subsection ((2)(a)) (2).

((b)) (b) For the purposes of this subsection, "modify" means a significant change to an electrical transmission facility and does not include the following: (i) Minor improvements such as the replacement of existing electrical transmission line facilities or supporting structures with equivalent facilities or structures; (ii) the relocation of existing electrical transmission line facilities; (iii) the conversion of existing overhead lines to underground; or (iv) the placing of new or additional conductors, supporting structures, insulators, or their accessories on or replacement of supporting structures already built.

((4))) (3) The provisions of this chapter shall not apply to normal maintenance and repairs which do not increase the capacity or dimensions (beyond those set forth in RCW 80.50.020 (7) and (15)) of an energy facility.

(4) The provisions of this chapter do not apply to an energy facility that previously has been approved or denied by a local government.

(5) Applications for certification of energy facilities made prior to July 15, 1977, shall continue to be governed by the applicable provisions of law in effect on the day immediately preceding July 15, 1977, with the exceptions of RCW 80.50.190 and 80.50.071 which shall apply to such prior applications and to site certifications

(6) Applications for certification shall be upon forms prescribed by the council and shall be supported by such information and technical studies as the council may require.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. A new section is added to chapter
80.50 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Each applicant for a site certificate shall submit to the council a preliminary application for a site certificate. The preliminary application must provide information about the proposed site and the characteristics of the energy facility sufficient for the preparation of the council’s notice of application requirements. The preliminary application must specify whether the proposed energy facility will comply with local land use ordinances in the jurisdiction or jurisdictions in which it is proposed.

(2)(a) The chair of the council shall provide notice to the public within three working days of receiving a preliminary application.
Within one week of submitting a preliminary application to the council, an applicant must provide notice of the application to adjacent landowners by mailing the notice to the latest recorded real property owners, as shown by the records of the county assessor, who own property located within one mile of the proposed site of the energy facility. The public notice must provide a description of the proposed site and facility in sufficient detail to inform the public of the location and proposed use of the site.
(b) After the chair of the council provides public notice, a city, county, or regional planning authority may not change land use plans or zoning ordinances so as to affect the proposed site.

(3) Within three working days after the chair of the council provides public notice, an applicant for a site certification shall distribute the preliminary application to any agency that has regulatory or advisory responsibility with respect to the facility and any city or county affected by the application.

(4) No more than thirty-five days after receiving a preliminary application, the chair of the council shall issue a notice of application requirements establishing the statutes, administrative rules, council standards, local ordinances, application requirements, and study requirements for the site certificate application. The chair of the council may consider whether the proposed facility is in compliance with city, county, or regional land use plans or zoning ordinances and may specify additional requirements in the notice of application based on a review of plans and ordinances where the proposed facility is to be located.

(5) Following issuance of the notice of application requirements, an applicant must submit an application for site certification consistent with the notice of application.

(6) The chair of the council shall determine within fifteen days of submission of the application whether an application meets the council’s requirements.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. A new section is added to chapter 80.50 RCW to read as follows:

(1)(a) Following requirements set forth under chapter 43.21C RCW, the chair must oversee an environmental review of the proposed energy facility.

(b) After the chair of the council determines whether an application meets council requirements as provided under section 8 of this act, the chair shall within three working days initiate a scoping process to determine the range of proposed actions, alternatives, and impacts to be examined in the environmental impact statement.

(c) The chair of the council shall notify any agency that has regulatory or advisory responsibility with respect to the facility and any city or county affected by the application of the scoping process.

(d) Within thirty days of initiating the scoping process, the chair of the council shall conduct a public hearing and submit scoping recommendations to the council in order for the council to establish a timeline for the environmental review of the proposed energy facility.

(e) Within fourteen days of receiving the timeline recommendations from the chair of the council, the council must determine whether the environmental review process as required under chapter 43.21C RCW for the proposed energy facility must be completed within six months, twelve months, or longer. In determining the timeline, the council may adjust the timeline depending on the proposed energy facility's compliance with the standards under section 5 of this act. If a proposed energy facility meets the energy facility siting standards under section 5 of this act, the environmental review of the proposed energy facility must be completed within six months. The environmental review for proposed energy facilities that do not meet the standards in section 5 of this act must be completed within twelve months, unless the council determines that due to the complexity of the proposed energy facility, the environmental review should be longer.

(f) If the council establishes an environmental review process for more than six months, the attorney general shall appoint an assistant attorney general as a counsel for the environment. The counsel for the environment shall represent the public and its interest in protecting the quality of the environment. Costs incurred by the counsel for the environment in the performance of these duties must be charged to the office of the attorney general, and may not be a charge against the appropriation to the energy facility site evaluation council. The counsel for the environment must be accorded all the rights, privileges, and responsibilities of an attorney representing a party in a formal action. This section may not be construed to prevent any person from being heard or represented by counsel in accordance with the other provisions of this chapter.

(g) Within the timeline established by the council, the chair of the council shall publish a draft environmental impact statement, solicit comments on the draft environmental impact statement, hold a public hearing on the draft environmental impact statement, consider comments received on the draft environmental impact statement, and submit to the council a recommended final environmental impact statement. In submitting the recommended final environmental impact statement to the council, the chair shall specify whether there are any disputed items based on public input provided during the development of the recommended final environmental impact statement.

(i) If there are disputed items in the recommended final environmental impact statement, the council shall hold a public hearing within fifteen days on the draft environmental impact statement under this subsection (1)(g). At the hearing, the chair shall provide a report to the council regarding the recommended environmental impact statement and regarding the disputed items in the recommended environmental impact statement. The issues that may be considered at the public hearing under this subsection are limited to those issues raised during the preliminary application process and during the environmental review process that lead to the development of the recommended environmental impact statement. The chair shall specify to the council the basis for decisions made relating to the disputed items contained in the recommended final environmental impact statement. Based on the input of the chair, the applicant, and the public at the public hearing, the council may elect to address the disputed items from the recommended environmental impact statement in the final environmental impact statement. The council shall issue the final environmental impact statement within fifteen days of the public hearing required under this subsection.

(ii) If there are no disputed items in the recommended final environmental impact statement, the chair shall submit to the council the recommended final environmental impact statement within fifteen days of the public hearing under this subsection (1)(g) and the council shall adopt the recommended final environmental impact statement as the final environmental impact statement.

(2) The council may contract with independent consultants to review information from the public hearing and to prepare the draft and final environmental impact assessments.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. A new section is added to chapter 80.50 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Within fifteen days of issuing the final environmental impact statement, the chair of the council shall prepare and issue an initial order and draft site certification based on the final environmental impact statement.

(2) Within fifteen days of receiving an initial order and draft site certification, the council must make a final decision on the application. The council must either approve the application and execute the draft certification agreement or reject the application for site certification. If the council fails to make a final decision, the initial order submitted by the chair becomes the final order on the fifteenth day following receipt of the initial order.

RCW 80.50.071 and 2011 c 261 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The council shall receive all preliminary applications and applications for energy facility site certification under this chapter. Each applicant shall pay such reasonable costs as are actually and necessarily incurred by the council in processing a preliminary application or an application.

(a) Each applicant shall, at the time of application submission, deposit fifty thousand dollars, or such greater amount as may be specified by the council after consultation with the applicant. Costs that may be charged against the deposit include, but are not limited to, independent consultants' costs, councilmember's wages, employee benefits, costs of a hearing examiner, costs of a court reporter, staff salaries, wages and employee benefits, goods and services, travel expenses, and miscellaneous direct expenses as arise directly from processing an application.

(b) The council may commission its own independent consultant to measure the consequences of the proposed energy facility on the environment or any matter that it deems essential to an adequate appraisal of the site. The council shall provide an estimate of the cost of the study to the applicant and consider applicant comments.

(c) The council shall submit to each applicant a statement of such expenditures made during the preceding calendar quarter which shall be in sufficient detail to explain such expenditures. The applicant shall pay the state treasurer the amount of such statement to restore the total amount on deposit to the originally established level: PROVIDED, That such applicant may, at the request of the council, increase the amount of funds on deposit to cover anticipated expenses during peak periods of application processing. Any funds remaining unexpended at the conclusion of application processing shall be refunded to the applicant, or at the applicant's option, credited against required deposits of certificate holders.

(2) Each certificate holder shall pay such reasonable costs as are actually and necessarily incurred by the council for inspection and determination of compliance by the certificate holder with the terms of the certification relative to monitoring the effects of construction, operation, and site restoration of the facility.

(a) Each certificate holder, within thirty days of execution of the site certification agreement, shall have on deposit fifty thousand dollars, or such greater amount as may be specified by the council after consultation with the certificate holder. Costs that may be charged against the deposit include, but are not limited to, those specified in subsection (1)(a) of this section as arise from inspection and determination of compliance by the certificate holder with the terms of the certification.

(b) The council shall submit to each certificate holder a statement of such expenditures actually made during the preceding calendar quarter which shall be in sufficient detail to explain such expenditures. The certificate holder shall pay the state treasurer the amount of such statement to restore the total amount on deposit to the originally established level: PROVIDED, That if the actual expenditures for inspection and determination of compliance in the preceding calendar quarter have exceeded the amount of funds on deposit, such excess costs shall be paid by the certificate holder.

(3) If an applicant or certificate holder fails to provide the initial deposit, or if subsequently required payments are not received within thirty days following receipt of the statement from the council, the council may (a) in the case of the applicant, suspend processing of the application until payment is received; or (b) in the case of a certificate holder, suspend the certification.

(4) All payments required of the applicant or certificate holder under this section are to be made to the state treasurer who shall make payments as instructed by the council from the funds submitted. All such funds shall be subject to state auditing procedures. Any unexpended portions thereof shall be returned to the applicant or certificate holder.

(5)(a) Upon receipt of an application for an energy facility site certification proposing an energy plant ((or alternative energy resource)) that is connected to electrical transmission facilities of a nominal voltage of at least one hundred fifteen thousand volts, the council shall notify in writing the United States department of defense. The notification shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(i) A description of the proposed energy plant or alternative energy resource;

(ii) The location of the site;

(iii) The placement of the energy plant or alternative energy resource on the site;

(iv) The date and time by which comments must be received by the council; and

(v) Contact information of the council and the applicant.

(b) The purpose of the written notification is to provide an opportunity for the United States department of defense to comment upon the application, and to identify potential issues relating to the placement and operations of the energy plant or alternative energy resource, before a site certification application is approved. The time period set forth by the council for receipt of such comments shall not extend the time period for the council's processing of the application.

(c) In order to assist local governments required to notify the United States department of defense under RCW 35.63.270, 35A.63.290, and 36.01.320, the council shall post on its web site the appropriate information for contacting the United States department of defense.

Sec. 12. RCW 80.50.075 and 2006 c 205 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Any person filing an application for certification of an energy facility ((or an alternative energy resource facility)) pursuant to this chapter may apply to the council for an expedited processing of such an application. The application for expedited processing shall be submitted to the council in such form and manner and accompanied by such information as may be prescribed by council rule. The council may grant an applicant expedited processing of an application for certification upon finding that the environmental impact of the proposed energy facility is not significant or will be mitigated to a nonsignificant level under RCW 43.21C.031 ((and the project is found under RCW 80.50.005(2) to be consistent and in)). Review must consider compliance with city, county, or regional land use plans or zoning ordinances.

(2) Upon granting an applicant expedited processing of an application for certification, the council shall not be required to:

(a) Commission an independent study to further measure the consequences of the proposed energy facility ((or alternative energy resource facility)) on the environment, notwithstanding the other provisions of RCW 80.50.071; nor

(b) Hold an adjudicative proceeding under chapter 34.05 RCW, the administrative procedure act, on the application.

(3) The council shall adopt rules governing the expedited processing of an application for certification pursuant to this section.

Sec. 13. RCW 80.50.085 and 2001 c 214 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) After the council has received a preliminary site application, council staff shall assist applicants in identifying issues presented by the preliminary application and the application.

(2) Council staff shall review all information submitted and recommend resolutions to issues in dispute that would allow site approval.

(3) Council staff may make recommendations to the council on conditions that would allow site approval.

Sec. 14. RCW 80.50.100 and 2011 c 180 s 109 are each amended to read as follows:

((1)(a) The council shall report to the governor its recommendations as to the approval or rejection of an application for certification within twelve months of receipt by the council of such an application, or such later time as is mutually agreed by the council and the applicant.

(b)) In the case of an application filed prior to December 31, 2025, for certification of an energy facility proposed for construction, modification, or expansion for the purpose of providing generating facilities that meet the requirements of RCW 80.80.040, and are located in a county with a coal-fired electric ((generating ((generation))) generation facility subject to RCW 80.80.040(3)(c), the council shall expedite the processing of the application pursuant to RCW 80.50.075 and shall ((report its recommendations to the governor))) issue a site certification or reject the site certification application within one hundred eighty days of receipt by the council of such an application, or a later time as is mutually agreed by the council and the applicant.

((2) If the council recommends approval of an application for certification, it shall also submit a draft certification agreement with the report. The council shall include conditions in the draft certification agreement to implement the provisions of this chapter, including but not limited to, conditions to protect state or local governmental or community interests affected by the construction or operation of the energy facility, and conditions designed to recognize the purpose of laws or ordinances, or rules or regulations promulgated thereunder, that are preempted by or superseded pursuant to RCW 80.50.110 as now or hereafter amended.

(3)(a) Within sixty days of receipt of the council's report the governor shall take one of the following actions:

(i) Approve the application and execute the draft certification agreement;

(ii) Reject the application; or

(iii) Direct the council to reconsider certain aspects of the draft certification agreement.

(b) The council shall reconsider such aspects of the draft certification agreement by reviewing the existing record of the application or, as necessary, by reopening the adjudicative proceeding for the purpose of receiving additional evidence. Such reconsideration shall be conducted expeditiously. The council shall resubmit the draft certification to the governor incorporating any amendments deemed necessary upon reconsideration. Within sixty days of receipt of such draft certification agreement the governor shall either approve the application and execute the certification agreement or reject the application. The certification agreement shall be binding upon execution by the governor and the applicant.

(4) The rejection of an application for certification by the governor shall be final as to that application but shall not preclude reconsideration. The council shall reconsider the rejection by reviewing the existing record of the application or, as necessary, by reopening the adjudicative proceeding. Such reconsideration shall be conducted expeditiously. The council shall resubmit the draft certification to the governor incorporating any amendments deemed necessary upon reconsideration.

Sec. 15. RCW 80.50.105 and 1991 c 200 s 1112 are each amended to read as follows:

((In making its recommendations to the governor under this chapter regarding))) For an application that includes transmission pipeline facilities for petroleum products, the council shall give appropriate weight to city or county facility siting standards adopted for the protection of sole source aquifers.

Sec. 16. RCW 80.50.110 and 1975-76 2nd ex.s. c 108 s 37 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) If any provision of this chapter is in conflict with any other provision, limitation, or restriction which is now in effect under any other law of this state, or any rule or regulation promulgated thereunder, this chapter shall govern and control and such other law or rule or regulation promulgated thereunder shall be deemed superseded for the purposes of this chapter.

(2) The state hereby preempts the regulation and certification of the location, construction, and operational conditions of certification of the energy facilities included under RCW 80.50.060 as now or hereafter amended.

(3) For an energy facility interconnecting to an electric utility’s distribution system, the application of standards and terms of a site certification by the council under this chapter only applies to the part of the facility within the geographic boundaries of the proposed facility and not to the electrical interconnection of a facility to the electric utility's distribution system.

SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1383 was read the second time.

Representative Goodman moved the adoption of amendment (199).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. Stalking is a crime that affects 3.4 million people over the age of eighteen each year in the United States. Almost half of those victims experience at least one unwanted contact per week. Twenty-nine percent of stalking victims fear that the stalking will never stop. The prevalence of anxiety, insomnia, social dysfunction, and severe depression is much higher among stalking victims than the general population. Three in four stalking victims are stalked by someone they know, and at least thirty percent of stalking victims are stalked by a current or former intimate partner. For many of those victims, the domestic violence protection order is a tool they can access to help them stay safer. For those who have not had an intimate relationship with the person stalking them, there are few remedies for them under the law. Victims who do not report the crime still desire safety and protection from future interactions with the offender. Some cases in which the stalking is reported are not prosecuted. In these situations, the victim should be able to seek a civil remedy requiring that the offender stay away from the victim. It is the intent of the legislature that the stalking protection order created by this chapter be a remedy for victims who do not qualify for a domestic violence order of protection. Moreover, it is the intent of the legislature that courts specifically distinguish stalking conduct covered by the stalking protection order from common acts of harassment or nuisance covered by antiharassment orders. Law enforcement agencies need to be able to rely on orders that distinguish stalking conduct from common acts of harassment or nuisance. Victims of stalking conduct deserve the same protection and access to the court system as victims of domestic violence and sexual assault, and this protection can be accomplished without infringing on constitutionally protected speech or activity. The legislature finds that preventing the issuance of conflicting orders is in the interest of both petitioners and respondents.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Minor" means a person who is under eighteen years of age.

(2) "Petitioner" means any named petitioner for the stalking protection order or any named victim of stalking conduct on whose behalf the petition is brought.

(3) "Stalking conduct" means any of the following:

(a) Any act of stalking as defined under RCW 9A.46.110;

(b) Any act of cyberstalking as defined under RCW 9.61.260;

(c) Any course of conduct involving repeated or continuing contacts, attempts to contact, monitoring, tracking, keeping under observation, or following of another that:

(i) Would cause a reasonable person to feel intimidated, frightened, or threatened and that actually causes such a feeling;

(ii) Serves no lawful purpose; and

(iii) The stalker knows or reasonably should know threatens, frightens, or intimidates the person, even if the stalker did not intend to intimidate, frighten, or threaten the person.

(4) "Stalking no-contact order" means a temporary order or a final order granted under this chapter against a person charged with or arrested for stalking, which includes a remedy authorized under section 16 of this act.

(5) "Stalking protection order" means an ex parte temporary order or a final order granted under this chapter, which includes a remedy authorized in section 10 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. There shall exist an action known as a petition for a stalking protection order.

(1) A petition for relief shall allege the existence of stalking conduct and shall be accompanied by an affidavit made under oath stating the specific reasons that have caused the petitioner to become reasonably fearful that the respondent intends to injure the petitioner or another person, or the petitioner's property or the property of another. The petition shall disclose the existence of any other litigation or of any other restraining, protection, or no-contact orders between the parties.

(2) A petition for relief shall be filed as a separate, stand-alone civil case and a petition for relief may be made regardless of whether or not there is a pending lawsuit, complaint, petition, or other action between the parties.

(3) Forms and instructional brochures and the necessary number of certified copies shall be provided to the petitioner free of charge.

(4) A person is not required to post a bond to obtain relief in any proceeding under this section.

(5) If the petition states that disclosure of the petitioner's address would risk abuse of the petitioner or any member of the petitioner's family or household, that address may be omitted from all documents filed with the court. If the petitioner has not disclosed an address under this subsection, the petitioner shall designate an alternative address at which the respondent may serve notice of any motions.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A petition for a stalking protection order may be filed by a person:

(1) Who does not qualify for a protection order under chapter 26.50 RCW and who is a victim of stalking conduct; or

(2) On behalf of any of the following persons who is a victim of stalking conduct and who does not qualify for a protection order under chapter 26.50 RCW:

(a) A minor child, where the petitioner is a parent, a legal custodian, or, where the respondent is not a parent, an adult with whom the child is currently residing; or

(b) A vulnerable adult as defined in RCW 74.34.020 and where the petitioner is an interested person as defined in RCW 74.34.020(10).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) Any person may seek relief under this chapter by filing a petition with a court alleging that the person has been the victim of stalking conduct committed by the respondent.

(2) A minor sixteen years of age or older may seek relief under this chapter and is not required to seek relief through a guardian or next friend. This does not preclude a parent or legal custodian of a victim sixteen or seventeen years of age from seeking relief on behalf of the minor.

(3) The district courts shall have original jurisdiction and cognizance of any civil actions and proceedings brought under this chapter, except a district court shall transfer such actions and proceedings to the superior court when it is shown that (a) the petitioner, victim, or respondent to the petition is under eighteen years of age; (b) the action involves title or possession of real property; (c) a superior court has exercised or is exercising jurisdiction over a proceeding involving the parties; or (d) the action would have the effect of interfering with a respondent's care, control, or custody of the respondent's minor child.

(4) Municipal courts may exercise jurisdiction and cognizance of any civil actions and proceedings brought under this chapter by adoption of local court rule, except a municipal court shall transfer such actions and proceedings to the superior court when it is shown that (a) the petitioner, victim, or respondent to the petition is under eighteen years of age; (b) the action involves title or possession of real property; (c) a superior court has exercised or is exercising jurisdiction over a proceeding involving the parties; or (d) the action would have the effect of interfering with a respondent's care, control, or custody of the respondent's minor child.

(5) Superior courts shall have concurrent jurisdiction to receive transfer of stalking petitions in cases where a district or municipal court judge makes findings of fact and conclusions of law showing that meritorious reasons exist for the transfer. The jurisdiction of district and municipal courts is limited to enforcement of RCW 26.50.110(1), or the equivalent municipal ordinance, and the issuance and enforcement of temporary orders provided for in section 12 of this act if the superior court is exercising jurisdiction over a proceeding under this chapter involving the parties.

(6) No guardian or guardian ad litem need be appointed on behalf of a respondent to an action under this chapter if such respondent is sixteen years of age or older.

(7) If a guardian ad litem is appointed for the petitioner or respondent, the petitioner shall not be required to pay any fee associated with such appointment.

(8) An action under this chapter shall be filed in the county or the municipality where the petitioner resides, unless the petitioner has left the residence or household to avoid stalking conduct. In that case, the petitioner may bring an action in the county or municipality of the previous or the new residence or household.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. Upon receipt of the petition, the court shall order a hearing which shall be held not later than fourteen days from the date of the order. The court may schedule a hearing by telephonic hearing, to reasonably accommodate a disability, or in exceptional circumstances to protect a petitioner from further stalking behavior. The court shall require assurances of the petitioner's identity before conducting a telephonic hearing. Except as provided in section 15 of this act, personal service shall be made upon the respondent not less than five court days prior to the hearing. If timely personal service cannot be made, the court shall set a new hearing date and shall require additional attempts at obtaining personal service or other service as permitted under section 15 of this act. The court may issue an ex parte temporary stalking order pending the hearing as provided in section 12 of this act.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 7. Before granting an order under this chapter, the court may consult the judicial information system, if available, to determine criminal history or the possibility of other proceedings involving the parties.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 8. No fees for filing or service of process may be charged by a public agency to petitioners seeking relief under this chapter.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 9. Victim advocates shall be allowed to accompany the victim and confer with the victim, unless otherwise directed by the court. Court administrators shall allow advocates to assist victims of stalking conduct in the preparation of petitions for stalking protection orders. Advocates are not engaged in the unauthorized practice of law when providing assistance of the types specified in this section.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 10. (1)(a) If the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the petitioner has been a victim of stalking conduct by the respondent, the court shall issue a stalking protection order.

(b) The petitioner shall not be denied a stalking protection order because the petitioner or the respondent is a minor or because the petitioner did not report the stalking conduct to law enforcement. The court, when determining whether or not to issue a stalking protection order, may not require proof of the respondent's intentions regarding the acts alleged by the petitioner. Modification and extension of prior stalking protection orders shall be in accordance with this chapter.

(2) The court may provide relief as follows:

(a) Restrain the respondent from having any contact, including nonphysical contact, with the petitioner directly, indirectly, or through third parties regardless of whether those third parties know of the order;

(b) Exclude the respondent from the petitioner's residence, workplace, or school, or from the day care, workplace, or school of the petitioner's minor children;

(c) Prohibit the respondent from knowingly coming within, or knowingly remaining within, a specified distance from a specified location;

(d) Prohibit the respondent from keeping the petitioner and/or the petitioner's minor children under surveillance, to include electronic surveillance;

(e) Order any other injunctive relief as necessary or appropriate for the protection of the petitioner, to include a mental health and/or chemical dependency evaluation; and

(f) Require the respondent to pay the administrative court costs and service fees, as established by the county or municipality incurring the expense and to reimburse the petitioner for costs incurred in bringing the action, including reasonable attorneys' fees.

(3) Unless otherwise stated in the order, when a person is petitioning on behalf of a minor child or vulnerable adult, the relief authorized in this section shall apply only for the protection of the victim, and not the petitioner.

(4) In cases where the petitioner and the respondent attend the same public or private elementary, middle, or high school, the court, when issuing a protection order and providing relief, shall consider, among the other facts of the case, the severity of the act, any continuing physical danger or emotional distress to the petitioner, and the expense difficulty, and educational disruption that would be caused by a transfer of the respondent to another school. The court may order that the person restrained in the order not attend the public or approved private elementary, middle, or high school attended by the person protected by the order. In the event the court orders a transfer of the restrained person to another school, the parents or legal guardians of the person restrained in the order are responsible for transportation and other costs associated with the change of school by the person restrained in the order. The court shall send notice of the restriction on attending the same school as the person protected by the order to the public or approved private school the person restrained by the order will attend and to the school the person protected by the order attends.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 11. For the purposes of issuing a stalking protection order, deciding what relief should be included in the order, and enforcing the order, RCW 9A.08.020 shall govern whether the respondent is legally accountable for the conduct of another person.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 12. (1) Where it appears from the petition and any additional evidence that the respondent has engaged in stalking conduct and that irreparable injury could result if an order is not issued immediately without prior notice, the court may grant an ex parte temporary order for protection, pending a full hearing and granting such injunctive relief as it deems proper, including the relief as specified under section 10 (2)(a) through (d) and (4) of this act.

(2) Irreparable injury under this section includes, but is not limited to, situations in which the respondent has recently threatened the petitioner with bodily injury or has engaged in acts of stalking conduct against the petitioner.

(3) The court shall hold an ex parte hearing in person or by telephone on the day the petition is filed or on the following judicial day.

(4) An ex parte temporary stalking protection order shall be effective for a fixed period not to exceed fourteen days or twenty-four days if the court has permitted service by publication or mail. The ex parte order may be reissued. A full hearing, as provided in this chapter, shall be set for not later than fourteen days from the issuance of the temporary order or not later than twenty-four days if service by publication or by mail is permitted. Unless the court has permitted service by publication or mail, the respondent shall be personally served with a copy of the ex parte order along with a copy of the petition and notice of the date set for the hearing.

(5) Any order issued under this section shall contain the date and time of issuance and the expiration date and shall be entered into a statewide judicial information system by the clerk of the court within one judicial day after issuance.

(6) If the court declines to issue an ex parte temporary stalking protection order, the court shall state the particular reasons for the court's denial. The court's denial of a motion for an ex parte temporary order shall be filed with the court.

(7) A knowing violation of a court order issued under this section is punishable under RCW 26.50.110.

NEW SECTION, Sec. 13. (1) Except as otherwise provided in this section or section 16 of this act, a final stalking protection order shall be effective for a fixed period of time or be permanent.

(2) Any ex parte temporary or final stalking protection order may be renewed one or more times. The petitioner may apply for renewal of the order by filing a petition for renewal at any time within the three months before the order expires. If the motion for renewal is uncontested and the petitioner seeks no modification of the order, the order may be renewed on the basis of the petitioner's motion or affidavit stating that there has been no material change in relevant circumstances since entry of the order and stating the reason for the requested renewal. The court shall grant the petition for renewal unless the respondent proves by a preponderance of the evidence that the respondent will not resume acts of stalking conduct against the petitioner or the petitioner's children or family or household members.
when the order expires. The court may renew the stalking protection order for another fixed time period or may enter a permanent order as provided in this section. The court may award court costs, service fees, and reasonable attorneys' fees as provided in section 10 of this act.

(3) Any stalking protection order which would expire on a court holiday shall instead expire at the close of the next court business day.

(4) The practice of dismissing or suspending a criminal prosecution in exchange for the issuance of a stalking protection order undermines the purposes of this chapter. This section shall not be construed as encouraging that practice.

(5) If the court declines to issue an order for protection or declines to renew an order for protection, the court shall state in writing on the order the particular reasons for the court's denial.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. (1) Any stalking protection order shall describe each remedy granted by the court, in reasonable detail and not by reference to any other document, so that the respondent may clearly understand what he or she must do or refrain from doing.

(2) A stalking protection order shall further state the following:

(a) The name of the petitioner that the court finds was the victim of stalking by the respondent;

(b) The date and time the stalking protection order was issued, whether it is an ex parte temporary or final order, and the duration of the order;

(c) The date, time, and place for any scheduled hearing for renewal of that stalking protection order or for another order of greater duration or scope;

(d) For each remedy in an ex parte temporary stalking protection order, the reason for entering that remedy without prior notice to the respondent or greater notice than was actually given;

(e) For ex parte temporary stalking protection orders, that the respondent may petition the court, to modify or terminate the order if he or she did not receive actual prior notice of the hearing and if the respondent alleges that he or she had a meritorious defense to the order or that the order or its remedy is not authorized by this chapter.

(3) A stalking protection order shall include the following notice, printed in conspicuous type: "A knowing violation of this stalking protection order is a criminal offense under chapter 26.50 RCW and will subject a violator to arrest. You can be arrested even if any person protected by the order invites or allows you to violate the order's prohibitions. You have the sole responsibility to avoid or refrain from violating the order's provisions. Only the court can change the order."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. (1) An order issued under this chapter shall be personally served upon the respondent, except as provided in subsection (6), (7), or (8) of this section. If the respondent is a minor, the respondent's parent or legal custodian shall also be personally served.

(2) The sheriff of the county or the peace officers of the municipality in which the respondent resides shall serve the respondent personally unless the petitioner elects to have the respondent served by a private party.

(3) If service by a sheriff or municipal peace officer is to be used, the clerk of the court shall have a copy of any order issued under this chapter forwarded on or before the next judicial day to the appropriate law enforcement agency specified in the order for service upon the respondent. Service of an order issued under this chapter shall take precedence over the service of other documents unless they are of a similar emergency nature.

(4) If the sheriff or municipal peace officer cannot complete service upon the respondent within ten days, the sheriff or municipal peace officer shall notify the petitioner. The petitioner shall provide information sufficient to permit notification.

(5) Returns of service under this chapter shall be made in accordance with the applicable court rules.

(6) If an order entered by the court recites that the respondent appeared in person before the court, the necessity for further service is waived and proof of service of that order is not necessary.

(7) If the respondent was not personally served with the petition, notice of hearing, and ex parte order before the hearing, the court shall reset the hearing for twenty-four days from the date of entry of the order and may order service by publication instead of personal service under the following circumstances:

(a) The sheriff or municipal officer or private process server files an affidavit stating that the officer or private process server was unable to complete personal service upon the respondent. The affidavit must describe the number and types of attempts the officer or private process server made to complete service;

(b) The petitioner files an affidavit stating that the petitioner believes that the respondent is hiding from the server to avoid service. The petitioner's affidavit must state the reasons for the belief that the respondent is avoiding service;

(c) The server has deposited a copy of the petition, notice of hearing, and the ex parte order of protection in the post office, directed to the respondent at the respondent's last known address, unless the server states that the server does not know the respondent's address;

(d) The court finds reasonable grounds exist to believe that the respondent is concealing himself or herself to avoid service, and that further attempts to personally serve the respondent would be futile or unduly burdensome;

(e) The court shall reissue the temporary order of protection not to exceed another twenty-four days from the date of reissuing the ex parte protection order and order to provide service by publication; and

(f) The publication shall be made in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where the petition was brought and in the county of the last known address of the respondent once a week for three consecutive weeks. The newspaper selected must be one of the three most widely circulated papers in the county. The publication of summons shall not be made until the court orders service by publication under this section. Service of the summons shall be considered complete when the publication has been made for three consecutive weeks. The summons must be signed by the petitioner. The summons shall contain the date of the first publication, and shall require the respondent upon whom service by publication is desired, to appear and answer the petition on the date set for the hearing. The summons shall also contain a brief statement of the reason for the petition and a summary of the provisions under the ex parte order. The summons shall be essentially in the following form:

In the . . . . . . . . . . court of the state of Washington for the county of . . . . . . . . . .

Petitioner

vs. No. . . . . . . . . .

Respondent

The state of Washington to . . . . . . . . . . (respondent):

You are hereby summoned to appear on the . . . . . day of . . . . . . 20 . . . , at . . . . . a.m./p.m., and respond to the petition. If you fail to respond, an order of protection will be issued against you pursuant to the provisions of the stalking protection order act, chapter 7. RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), for a minimum of one year from the date you are required to appear. A temporary order of protection has been issued against you, restraining you from the following: (Insert a brief statement of the provisions of the ex parte order.) A copy of the petition, notice of hearing, and ex parte order has been filed with the clerk of this court.

Petitioner
(2)(a) At the time of arraignment or whenever a motion is brought to modify the conditions of the defendant's release, the court shall determine whether a stalking no-contact order shall be issued or extended. If a stalking no-contact order is issued or extended, the court may also include in the conditions of release a requirement that the defendant submit to electronic monitoring, including real-time global position satellite monitoring with victim notification. If electronic monitoring is ordered, the court shall specify who shall provide the monitoring services, and the terms under which the monitoring shall be performed. Upon conviction, the court may require as a condition of the sentence that the defendant reimburse the providing agency for the costs of the electronic monitoring, including costs relating to real-time global position satellite monitoring with victim notification.

(b) A stalking no-contact order issued by the court in conjunction with criminal charges shall terminate if the defendant is acquitted or the charges are dismissed, unless the victim files an independent action for a stalking protection order. If the victim files an independent action for a civil stalking protection order, the order may be continued by the court until a full hearing is conducted pursuant to section 6 of this act.

(3)(a) The written order releasing the person charged or arrested shall contain the court's directives and shall bear the legend: "Violation of this order is a criminal offense under chapter 26.50 RCW and will subject a violator to arrest. You can be arrested even if any person protected by the order invites or allows you to violate the order's prohibitions. You have the sole responsibility to avoid or refrain from violating the order's provisions. Only the court can change the order."

(b) A certified copy of the order shall be provided to the victim at no charge.

(4) If a stalking no-contact order has been issued prior to charging, that order shall expire at arraignment or within seventy-two hours if charges are not filed.

(5) Whenever an order prohibiting contact is issued pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, the clerk of the court shall forward a copy of the order on or before the next judicial day to the appropriate law enforcement agency specified in the order. Upon receipt of the copy of the order, the law enforcement agency shall enter the order for one year unless a different expiration date is specified on the order. The order shall be recorded as a stalking no-contact order.

(6)(a) When a defendant is found guilty of stalking as defined in RCW 9A.46.110 or any other stalking related offense under RCW 9A.46.060 and a condition of the sentence restricts the defendant's ability to have contact with the victim, and the victim does not qualify for a domestic violence protection order under chapter 26.50 RCW, the condition shall be recorded as a stalking no-contact order.

(b) The written order entered as a condition of sentencing shall contain the court's directives and shall bear the legend: "Violation of this order is a criminal offense under chapter 26.50 RCW and will subject a violator to arrest. You can be arrested even if any person protected by the order invites or allows you to violate the order's prohibitions. Only the court can change the order."

(c) A final stalking no-contact order entered in conjunction with a criminal prosecution shall remain in effect for a period of five years from the date of entry.

(d) A certified copy of the order shall be provided to the victim at no charge.

(7) A knowing violation of a court order issued under subsection (1), (2), or (6) of this section is punishable under RCW 26.50.110.

(8) Whenever a stalking no-contact order is issued, modified, or terminated under subsection (1), (2), or (6) of this section, the clerk of the court shall forward a copy of the order on or before the next judicial day to the appropriate law enforcement agency specified in the order. Upon receipt of the copy of the order, the law enforcement agency shall enter the order for one year unless a different expiration date is specified on the order. The order is fully enforceable in any jurisdiction in the state. Entry into the computer-based criminal intelligence information system constitutes notice to all law enforcement agencies of the existence of the order. The order is fully enforceable in any jurisdiction in the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. (1)(a) When any person charged with or arrested for stalking as defined in RCW 9A.46.110 or any other stalking related offense under RCW 9A.46.060 is released from custody before arraignment or trial on bail or personal recognizance, the court authorizing the release may prohibit that person from having any contact with the victim. If there is no outstanding restraining or protective order prohibiting that person from having contact with the victim, and the victim does not qualify for a domestic violence protection order under chapter 26.50 RCW, the court authorizing release may issue, by telephone, a stalking no-contact order prohibiting the person charged or arrested from having contact with the victim or from knowingly coming within, or knowingly remaining within, a specified distance of a location.

(b) In issuing the order, the court shall consider the provisions of RCW 9.41.800.

(c) The stalking no-contact order shall also be issued in writing as soon as possible.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. (1) In a proceeding in which a petition for a stalking protection order is sought under this chapter, a court of this state may exercise personal jurisdiction over a nonresident individual if:

(a) The individual is personally served with a petition within this state;

(b) The individual submits to the jurisdiction of this state by consent, entering a general appearance, or filing a responsive document having the effect of waiving any objection to consent to personal jurisdiction;
(c) The act or acts of the individual or the individual's agent giving rise to the petition or enforcement of a stalking protection order occurred within this state;

(d)(i) The act or acts of the individual or the individual's agent giving rise to the petition or enforcement of a stalking protection order occurred outside this state and are part of an ongoing pattern of stalking behavior that has an adverse effect on the petitioner or a member of the petitioner's family or household and the petitioner resides in this state; or

(ii) As a result of acts of stalking behavior, the petitioner or a member of the petitioner's family or household has sought safety or protection in this state and currently resides in this state;

(e) There is any other basis consistent with RCW 4.28.185 or with the Constitution of this state and the Constitution of the United States.

(2) For jurisdiction to be exercised under subsection (1)(d)(i) or (ii) of this section, the individual must have communicated with the petitioner or a member of the petitioner's family, directly or indirectly, or made known a threat to the safety of the petitioner or member of the petitioner's family while the petitioner or family member resides in this state. For the purposes of subsection (1)(d)(i) or (ii) of this section, "communicated or made known" includes, but is not limited to, through the mail, telephonically, or a posting on an electronic communication site or medium. Communication on any electronic medium that is generally available to any individual residing in the state shall be sufficient to exercise jurisdiction under subsection (1)(d)(i) or (ii) of this section.

(3) For the purposes of this section, an act or acts that "occurred within this state" includes, but is not limited to, an oral or written statement made or published by a person outside of this state to any person in this state by means of the mail, interstate commerce, or foreign commerce. Oral or written statements sent by electronic mail or the internet are deemed to have "occurred within this state."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. (1) A copy of a stalking protection order or stalking no-contact order granted under this chapter shall be forwarded by the clerk of the court on or before the next judicial day to the appropriate law enforcement agency specified in the order. Upon receipt of the order, the law enforcement agency shall immediately enter the order into any computer-based criminal intelligence information system available in this state used by law enforcement agencies to list outstanding warrants. The order shall remain in the computer for one year unless a different expiration date is specified on the order. Upon receipt of notice that an order has been terminated, the law enforcement agency shall remove the order from the computer-based criminal intelligence information system. The law enforcement agency shall only expunge from the computer-based criminal intelligence information system orders that are expired, vacated, terminated, or superseded. Entry into the law enforcement information system constitutes notice to all law enforcement agencies of the existence of the order. The order is fully enforceable in any county in the state.

(2) The information entered into the computer-based criminal intelligence information system shall include notice to law enforcement whether the order was personally served, served by publication, or served by mail.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. (1) Upon application with notice to all parties and after a hearing, the court may modify the terms of an existing stalking protection order.

(2) A respondent's motion to modify or terminate an existing stalking protection order must include a declaration setting forth facts supporting the requested order for termination or modification. The nonmoving parties to the proceeding may file opposing declarations. The court shall deny the motion unless it finds that adequate cause for hearing the motion is established by the declarations. If the court finds that the respondent established adequate cause, the court shall set a date for hearing the respondent's motion.

(3) The court may not terminate or modify an existing stalking protection order unless the respondent proves by a preponderance of the evidence that there has been a substantial change in circumstances such that the respondent will not resume acts of stalking conduct against the petitioner or those persons protected by the protection order if the order is terminated or modified. The petitioner bears no burden of proving that he or she has a current reasonable fear of harm by the respondent.

(4) A court may require the respondent to pay the petitioner for costs incurred in responding to a motion to terminate or modify a stalking protection order, including reasonable attorneys' fees.

(5) In any situation where an order is terminated or modified before its expiration date, the clerk of the court shall forward on or before the next judicial day a true copy of the modified order or the termination order to the appropriate law enforcement agency specified in the modified or termination order. Upon receipt of the order, the law enforcement agency shall promptly enter it in the computer-based criminal intelligence information system, or if the order is terminated, remove the order from the computer-based criminal intelligence information system.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. A new section is added to chapter 10.14 RCW to read as follows:

In each county, the superior court may appoint one or more attorneys to act as protection order commissioners pursuant to this chapter to exercise all powers and perform all duties of a court commissioner appointed pursuant to RCW 2.24.010 provided that such positions may not be created without prior consent of the county legislative authority. A person appointed as a protection order commissioner under this chapter may also be appointed to any other commissioner position authorized by law.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 21. A new section is added to chapter 10.14 RCW to read as follows:

(1) By January 1, 2014, the administrative office of the courts shall develop a single master petition pattern form for all antharassment and stalking protection orders issued under chapter 7- -RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act) and this chapter. The master petition must prompt petitioners to disclose on the form whether the petitioner who is seeking an ex parte order has experienced stalking conduct as defined in section 2 of this act. An antharassment order and stalking protection order issued under chapter 7.-- RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act) and this chapter must substantially comply with the pattern form developed by the administrative office of the courts.

(2) The legislature respectfully requests that the Washington state supreme court gender and justice commission, in consultation with Washington coalition of sexual assault programs, Washington state coalition against domestic violence, Washington association of prosecuting attorneys, Washington association of criminal defense lawyers, and Washington association of sheriffs and police chiefs, consider other potential solutions to reduce confusion about which type of protection order a petitioner should seek and to provide any recommendations to the legislature by January 1, 2014.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 22. An ex parte temporary order issued under this chapter shall not be admissible as evidence in any subsequent civil action for damages arising from the conduct alleged in the petition or the order.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 23. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed as requiring criminal charges to be filed as a condition of a stalking protection order being issued.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 24. This act may be known and cited as the stalking protection order act.

Sec. 25. RCW 9.41.800 and 2002 c 302 s 704 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Any court when entering an order authorized under chapter 7.- - RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), RCW 9A.46.080, 10.14.080, 10.99.040, 10.99.045, 26.09.050, 26.09.060,
26.10.040, 26.10.115, 26.26.130, 26.50.060, 26.50.070, or 26.26.590 shall, upon a showing by clear and convincing evidence, that a party has: Used, displayed, or threatened to use a firearm or other dangerous weapon in a felony, or previously committed any offense that makes him or her ineligible to possess a firearm under the provisions of RCW 9.41.040:

(a) Require the party to surrender any firearm or other dangerous weapon;
(b) Require the party to surrender any concealed pistol license issued under RCW 9.41.070;
(c) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a firearm or other dangerous weapon;
(d) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a concealed pistol license.

(2) (a) Any court when entering an order authorized under chapter 7.  - RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), RCW 9A.46.080, 10.14.080, 10.99.040, 10.99.045, 26.09.050, 26.09.060, 26.10.040, 26.10.115, 26.26.130, 26.50.060, 26.50.070, or 26.26.590 may, upon a showing by a preponderance of the evidence but not by clear and convincing evidence, that a party has: Used, displayed, or threatened to use a firearm or other dangerous weapon in a felony, or previously committed any offense that makes him or her ineligible to possess a pistol under the provisions of RCW 9.41.040:

(a) Require the party to surrender any firearm or other dangerous weapon;
(b) Require the party to surrender any concealed pistol license issued under RCW 9.41.070;
(c) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a firearm or other dangerous weapon;
(d) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a concealed pistol license.

(2) Any court when entering an order authorized under chapter 7.  - RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), RCW 9A.46.080, 10.14.080, 10.99.040, 10.99.045, 26.09.050, 26.09.060, 26.10.040, 26.10.115, 26.26.130, 26.50.060, 26.50.070, or 26.26.590 may, upon a showing by a preponderance of the evidence but not by clear and convincing evidence, that a party has: Used, displayed, or threatened to use a firearm or other dangerous weapon in a felony, or previously committed any offense that makes him or her ineligible to possess a pistol under the provisions of RCW 9.41.040:

(a) Require the party to surrender any firearm or other dangerous weapon;
(b) Require the party to surrender any concealed pistol license issued under RCW 9.41.070;
(c) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a firearm or other dangerous weapon;
(d) Prohibit the party from obtaining or possessing a concealed pistol license.

(3) The court may order temporary surrender of a firearm or other dangerous weapon without notice to the other party if it finds, on the basis of the moving affidavit or other evidence, that irreparable injury could result if an order is not issued until the time for response has elapsed.

(4) In addition to the provisions of subsections (1), (2), and (3) of this section, the court may enter an order requiring a party to comply with the provisions in subsection (1) of this section if it finds that the possession of a firearm or other dangerous weapon by any party presents a serious and imminent threat to public health or safety, or to the health or safety of any individual.

(5) The requirements of subsections (1), (2), and (4) of this section may be for a period of time less than the duration of the order.

(6) The court may require the party to surrender any firearm or other dangerous weapon in his or her immediate possession or control or subject to his or her immediate possession or control to the sheriff of the county having jurisdiction of the proceeding, the chief of police of the municipality having jurisdiction, or to the restrained or enjoined party's counsel or to any person designated by the court.

A departure from the standards in RCW 9.94A.589 (1) and (2) governing whether sentences are to be served consecutively or concurrently is an exceptional sentence subject to the limitations in this section, and may be appealed by the offender or the state as set forth in RCW 9.94A.585 (2) through (6).

(1) Mitigating Circumstances - Court to Consider

The court may impose an exceptional sentence below the standard range if it finds that mitigating circumstances are established by a preponderance of the evidence. The following are illustrative only and are not intended to be exclusive reasons for exceptional sentences.

(a) To a significant degree, the victim was an initiator, willing participant, aggressor, or provoker of the incident.
(b) Before detection, the defendant compensated, or made a good faith effort to compensate, the victim of the criminal conduct for any damage or injury sustained.
(c) The defendant committed the crime under duress, coercion, threat, or compulsion insufficient to constitute a complete defense but which significantly affected his or her conduct.
(d) The defendant, with no apparent predisposition to do so, was induced by others to participate in the crime.
(e) The defendant's capacity to appreciate the wrongfulness of his or her conduct, or to conform his or her conduct to the requirements of the law, was significantly impaired. Voluntary use of drugs or alcohol is excluded.
(f) The offense was principally accomplished by another person and the defendant manifested extreme caution or sincere concern for the safety or well-being of the victim.

(2) Aggravating Circumstances - Considered by a Jury -Imposed

A departure from the standards in RCW 9.94A.589 results in a presumptive sentence that is clearly excessive in light of the purpose of this chapter, as expressed in RCW 9.94A.010.

(b) The defendant or the defendant's children suffered a continuing pattern of physical or sexual abuse by the victim of the offense and the offense is a response to that abuse.

(i) The defendant was making a good faith effort to obtain or provide medical assistance for someone who is experiencing a drug-related overdose.

(j) The current offense involved domestic violence, as defined in RCW 10.99.020, and the defendant suffered a continuing pattern of coercion, control, or abuse by the victim of the offense and the offense is a response to that coercion, control, or abuse.

(2) Aggravating Circumstances - Considered and Imposed by the Court

The trial court may impose an aggravated exceptional sentence without a finding of fact by a jury under the following circumstances:

(a) The defendant and the state both stipulate that justice is best served by the imposition of an exceptional sentence outside the standard range, and the court finds the exceptional sentence to be consistent with and in furtherance of the interests of justice and the purposes of the sentencing reform act.

(b) The defendant's prior unscored misdemeanor or prior unscored foreign criminal history results in a presumptive sentence that is clearly too lenient in light of the purpose of this chapter, as expressed in RCW 9.94A.010.

(c) The defendant has committed multiple current offenses and the defendant's high offender score results in some of the current offenses going unpunished.

(d) The failure to consider the defendant's prior criminal history which was omitted from the offender score calculation pursuant to RCW 9.94A.525 results in a presumptive sentence that is clearly too lenient.

(3) Aggravating Circumstances - Considered by a Jury -Imposed by the Court

Except for circumstances listed in subsection (2) of this section, the following circumstances are an exclusive list of factors that can support a sentence above the standard range. Such facts should be determined by procedures specified in RCW 9.94A.537.

(a) The defendant's conduct during the commission of the current offense manifested deliberate cruelty to the victim.

(b) The defendant knew or should have known that the victim of the current offense was particularly vulnerable or incapable of resistance.

(c) The current offense was a violent offense, and the defendant knew that the victim of the current offense was pregnant.

(d) The current offense was a major economic offense or series of offenses, so identified by a consideration of any of the following factors:

(i) The current offense involved multiple victims or multiple incidents per victim;

(ii) The current offense involved attempted or actual monetary loss substantially greater than typical for the offense;

(iii) The current offense involved a high degree of sophistication or planning or occurred over a lengthy period of time; or

(iv) The defendant used his or her position of trust, confidence, or fiduciary responsibility to facilitate the commission of the current offense.

(e) The current offense was a major violation of the Uniform Controlled Substances Act, chapter 69.50 RCW (VUCSA), related to trafficking in controlled substances, which was more onerous than the typical offense of its statutory definition: The presence of ANY of the following may identify a current offense as a major VUCSA:

(i) The current offense involved at least three separate transactions in which controlled substances were sold, transferred, or possessed with intent to do so;

(ii) The current offense involved an attempted or actual sale or transfer of controlled substances in quantities substantially larger than for personal use;

(iii) The current offense involved the manufacture of controlled substances for use by other parties;

(iv) The circumstances of the current offense reveal the offender to have occupied a high position in the drug distribution hierarchy;

(v) The current offense involved a high degree of sophistication or planning, occurred over a lengthy period of time, or involved a broad geographic area of disbursement; or

(vi) The offender used his or her position or status to facilitate the commission of the current offense, including positions of trust, confidence or fiduciary responsibility (e.g., pharmacist, physician, or other medical professional).

(f) The current offense included a finding of sexual motivation pursuant to RCW 9.94A.835.

(g) The offense was part of an ongoing pattern of sexual abuse of the same victim under the age of eighteen years manifested by multiple incidents over a prolonged period of time.

(h) The current offense involved domestic violence, as defined in RCW 10.99.020, or stalking, as defined in RCW 9A.46.110, and one or more of the following was present:

(i) The offense was part of an ongoing pattern of psychological, physical, or sexual abuse of a victim or multiple victims manifested by multiple incidents over a prolonged period of time;

(ii) The offense occurred within sight or sound of the victim's or the offender's minor children under the age of eighteen years; or

(iii) The offender's conduct during the commission of the current offense manifested deliberate cruelty or intimidation of the victim.

(i) The offense resulted in the pregnancy of a child victim of rape.

(j) The defendant knew that the victim of the current offense was a youth who was not residing with a legal custodian and the defendant established or promoted the relationship for the primary purpose of victimization.

(k) The offense was committed with the intent to obstruct or impair human or animal health care or agricultural or forestry research or commercial production.

(l) The current offense is trafficking in the first degree or trafficking in the second degree and any victim was a minor at the time of the offense.

(m) The offense involved a high degree of sophistication or planning.

(n) The defendant used his or her position of trust, confidence, or fiduciary responsibility to facilitate the commission of the current offense.

(o) The defendant committed a current sex offense, has a history of sex offenses, and is not amenable to treatment.

(p) The offense involved an invasion of the victim's privacy.

(q) The defendant demonstrated or displayed an egregious lack of remorse.

(r) The offense involved a destructive and foreseeable impact on persons other than the victim.

(s) The defendant committed the offense to obtain or maintain his or her membership or to advance his or her position in the hierarchy of an organization, association, or identifiable group.

(t) The defendant committed the current offense shortly after being released from incarceration.

(u) The current offense is a burglary and the victim of the burglary was present in the building or residence when the crime was committed.

(v) The offense was committed against a law enforcement officer who was performing his or her official duties at the time of the offense, the offender knew that the victim was a law enforcement officer, and the victim's status as a law enforcement officer is not an element of the offense.

(w) The defendant committed the offense against a victim who was acting as a good samaritan.

(x) The defendant committed the offense against a public official or officer of the court in retaliation of the public official's performance of his or her duty to the criminal justice system.

(y) The victim's injuries substantially exceed the level of bodily harm necessary to satisfy the elements of the offense. This aggravator is not an exception to RCW 9.94A.530(2).

(z)(i) The current offense is theft in the first degree, theft in the second degree, possession of stolen property in the first degree, or possession of stolen property in the second degree; (B) The stolen property involved is metal property; and (C) The property damage to the victim caused in the course of the theft of metal property is more than three times the value of the stolen metal property, or the theft of the metal property creates a public hazard.

(ii) For purposes of this subsection, "metal property" means commercial metal property, private metal property, or nonferrous metal property, as defined in RCW 19.290.010.

(aa) The defendant committed the offense with the intent to directly or indirectly cause any benefit, aggravandizement, gain, profit, or other advantage to or for a criminal street gang as defined in RCW 9.94A.030, its reputation, influence, or membership.

(bb) The current offense involved paying to view, over the internet in violation of RCW 9.68A.075, depictions of a minor engaged in an act of sexually explicit conduct as defined in RCW 9.68A.011(4)(a) through (g).

(cc) The offense was intentionally committed because the defendant perceived the victim to be homeless, as defined in RCW 9.94A.030.

Sec. 27. RCW 9A.46.040 and 2012 c 223 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Because of the likelihood of repeated harassment directed at those who have been victims of harassment in the past, when any defendant charged with a crime involving harassment is released from custody before trial on bail or personal recognizance, the court authorizing the release may issue an order pursuant to this chapter and require that the defendant:
(a) Stay away from the home, school, business, or place of employment of the victim or victims of the alleged offense or other location, as shall be specifically named by the court in the order;

(b) Refrain from contacting, intimidating, threatening, or otherwise interfering with the victim or victims of the alleged offense and such other persons, including but not limited to members of the family or household of the victim, as shall be specifically named by the court in the order.

(2) Willful violation of a court order issued under this section or an equivalent local ordinance is a gross misdemeanor. The written order releasing the defendant shall contain the court's directives and shall bear the legend: Violation of this order is a criminal offense under chapter 9A.46 RCW. A certified copy of the order shall be provided to the victim by the clerk of the court.

(3) If the defendant is charged with the crime of stalking or any other stalking related offense under RCW 9A.46.060, and the court issues an order protecting the victim, the court shall issue a stalking no-contact order pursuant to chapter 7.-- RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 28. A new section is added to chapter 9A.46 RCW to read as follows:

A defendant arrested for stalking as defined by RCW 9A.46.110 shall be required to appear in person before a magistrate within one judicial day after the arrest.

(2) At the time of appearance provided in subsection (1) of this section the court shall determine the necessity of imposing a stalking no-contact order under chapter 7.-- RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act).

(3) Appearances required pursuant to this section are mandatory and cannot be waived.

(4) The stalking no-contact order shall be issued and entered with the appropriate law enforcement agency pursuant to the procedures outlined in chapter 7.-- RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act).

Sec. 29. RCW 9A.46.110 and 2007 c 201 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A person commits the crime of stalking if, without lawful authority and under circumstances not amounting to a felony attempt of another crime:

(a) He or she intentionally and repeatedly harasses or repeatedly follows another person; and

(b) The person being harassed or followed is placed in fear that the stalker intends to injure the person, another person, or property of the person or of another person. The feeling of fear must be one that a reasonable person in the same situation would experience under all the circumstances; and

(c) The stalker either:

(i) Intends to frighten, intimidate, or harass the person; or

(ii) Knows or reasonably should know that the person is afraid, intimidated, or harassed even if the stalker did not intend to place the person in fear or intimidate or harass the person.

(2)(a) It is not a defense to the crime of stalking under subsection (1)(c)(i) of this section that the stalker was not given actual notice that the person did not want the stalker to contact or follow the person; and

(b) It is not a defense to the crime of stalking under subsection (1)(c)(ii) of this section that the stalker did not intend to frighten, intimidate, or harass the person.

(3) It shall be a defense to the crime of stalking that the defendant is a licensed private investigator acting within the capacity of his or her license as provided by chapter 18.165 RCW.

(4) Attempts to contact or follow the person after being given actual notice that the person does not want to be contacted or followed constitutes prima facie evidence that the stalker intends to intimidate or harass the person. "Contact" includes, in addition to any other form of contact or communication, the sending of an electronic communication to the person.

(5)(a) Except as provided in (b) of this subsection, a person who stalks another person is guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

(b) A person who stalks another is guilty of a class ((C)) B felony if any of the following applies: (i) The stalker has previously been convicted in this state or any other state of any crime of harassment, as defined in RCW 9A.46.060, of the same victim or members of the victim's family or household or any person specifically named in a protective order; (ii) the stalker violates any protective order protecting the person being stalked; (iii) the stalker has previously been convicted of a gross misdemeanor or felony stalking offense under this section for stalking another person; (iv) the stalker was armed with a deadly weapon, as defined in RCW (9A.44.020) 9A.44.025, while stalking the person; (v) (A) the stalker's victim is or was a law enforcement officer, judge; juror; attorney; victim advocate; legislator; community corrections' officer; an employee, contract staff person, or volunteer of a correctional agency; court employee, court clerk, or courthouse facilitator; an employee of the child protective, child welfare, or adult protective services division within the department of social and health services; and (B) the stalker stalked the victim to retaliate against the victim for an act the victim performed during the course of official duties or to influence the victim's performance of official duties; or (vi) the stalker's victim is a current, former, or prospective witness in an adjudicative proceeding, and the stalker stalked the victim to retaliate against the victim as a result of the victim's testimony or potential testimony.

(6) As used in this section:

(a) "Correctional agency" means a person working for the department of natural resources in a correctional setting or any state, county, or municipally operated agency with the authority to direct the release of a person serving a sentence or term of confinement and includes but is not limited to the department of corrections, the indeterminate sentence review board, and the department of social and health services.

(b) "Follows" means deliberately maintaining visual or physical proximity to a specific person over a period of time. A finding that the alleged stalker repeatedly and deliberately appears at the person's home, school, place of employment, business, or any other location to maintain visual or physical proximity to the person is sufficient to find that the alleged stalker follows the person. It is not necessary to establish that the alleged stalker follows the person while in transit from one location to another.

(c) "Harasses" means unlawful harassment as defined in RCW 10.14.020.

(d) "Protective order" means any temporary or permanent court order prohibiting or limiting violence against, harassment of, contact or communication with, or physical proximity to another person.

(e) "Repeatedly" means on two or more separate occasions.

Sec. 30. RCW 10.14.070 and 2005 c 144 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

Upon receipt of the petition alleging a prima facie case of harassment, other than a petition alleging a sex offense as defined in chapter 9A.44 RCW or a petition for a stalking protection order under chapter 7.-- RCW (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), the court shall order a hearing which shall be held not later than fourteen days from the date of the order. If the petition alleges a sex offense as defined in chapter 9A.44 RCW, the court shall order a hearing which shall be held not later than fourteen days from the date of the order. Except as provided in RCW 10.14.085, personal service shall be made upon the respondent not less than five court days before the hearing. If timely personal service cannot be made, the court shall set a new hearing date and shall either require additional attempts at obtaining personal service or permit service by publication as provided by RCW 10.14.085. If the court permits service by publication, the court shall set the hearing date not later than twenty-four days from the date of the order. The court may issue an ex parte order for protection pending the hearing as provided in RCW 10.14.080 and 10.14.085.

Sec. 31. RCW 26.50.110 and 2009 c 439 s 3 and 2009 c 288 s 3 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1)(a) Whenever an order is granted under this chapter, chapter 7.-- (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), 7.90, 9A.46, 9.94A, 10.99, 26.09, 26.10, 26.26, or 74.34 RCW, or there is a valid foreign protection order as defined in RCW 26.52.020, and the respondent or person to be restrained knows of the order, a violation of any of the following provisions of the order is a gross misdemeanor, except as provided in subsections (4) and (5) of this section:

(i) The restraint provisions prohibiting acts or threats of violence against, or stalking of, a protected person, or restraint provisions prohibiting contact with a protected party;
(ii) A provision excluding the person from a residence, workplace, school, or day care;
(iii) A provision prohibiting a person from knowingly coming within, or knowingly remaining within, a specified distance of a location;
(iv) A provision prohibiting interfering with the protected party's efforts to remove a pet owned, possessed, leased, kept, or held by the petitioner, respondent, or a minor child residing with either the petitioner or the respondent; or
(v) A provision of a foreign protection order specifically indicating that a violation will be a crime.

(b) Upon conviction, and in addition to any other penalties provided by law, the court may require that the respondent submit to electronic monitoring. The court shall consider the ability of the convicted person to pay for the monitoring. The court shall consider the ability of the convicted person to pay for electronic monitoring.

(2) A peace officer shall arrest without a warrant and take into custody a person whom the peace officer has probable cause to believe has violated an order issued under this chapter, chapter 7.-- (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), 7.90, 9A.46, 9.94A, 10.99, 26.09, 26.10, 26.26, or 74.34 RCW, and that does not amount to assault in the first or second degree under RCW 9A.46.994A, 10.99, 26.09, 26.10, 26.26, or 74.34 RCW, or a valid foreign protection order as defined in RCW 26.52.020, that restrains the person from coming within, or knowingly remaining within, a specified distance of a location, if the person restrained knows of the order. Presence of the order in the law enforcement computer-based criminal intelligence information system is not the only means of establishing knowledge of the order.

(3) A violation of an order issued under this chapter, chapter 7.-- (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), 7.90, 9A.46, 9.94A, 10.99, 26.09, 26.10, 26.26, or 74.34 RCW, or of a valid foreign protection order as defined in RCW 26.52.020, shall also constitute contempt of court, and is subject to the penalties prescribed by law.

(4) Any assault that is a violation of an order issued under this chapter, chapter 7.-- (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), 7.90, 9A.46, 9.94A, 10.99, 26.09, 26.10, 26.26, or 74.34 RCW, or of a valid foreign protection order as defined in RCW 26.52.020, and that does not amount to assault in the first or second degree under RCW 9A.36.011 or 9A.36.021 is a class C felony, and any conduct in violation of such an order that is reckless and creates a substantial risk of death or serious physical injury to another person is a class C felony.

(5) A violation of a court order issued under this chapter, chapter 7.-- (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), 7.90, 9A.46, 9.94A, 10.99, 26.09, 26.10, 26.26, or 74.34 RCW, or of a valid foreign protection order as defined in RCW 26.52.020, is a class C felony if the offender has at least two previous convictions for violating the provisions of an order issued under this chapter, chapter 7.90, 9A.46, 9.94A, 10.99, 26.09, 26.10, 26.26, or 74.34 RCW, or a valid foreign protection order as defined in RCW 26.52.020. The previous convictions may involve the same victim or other victims specifically protected by the orders the offender violated.

(6) Upon the filing of an affidavit by the petitioner or any peace officer alleging that the respondent has violated an order granted under this chapter, chapter 7.-- (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), 7.90, 9A.46, 9.94A, 10.99, 26.09, 26.10, 26.26, or 74.34 RCW, or a valid foreign protection order as defined in RCW 26.52.020, the court may issue an order to the respondent, requiring the respondent to appear and show cause within fourteen days why the respondent should not be found in contempt of court and punished accordingly. The hearing may be held in the court of any county or municipality in which the petitioner or respondent temporarily or permanently resides at the time of the alleged violation.

Sec. 32. RCW 10.31.100 and 2010 c 274 s 201 are each amended to read as follows:

A peace officer having probable cause to believe that a person has committed or is committing a felony shall have the authority to arrest the person without a warrant. A police officer may arrest a person without a warrant for committing a misdemeanor or gross misdemeanor only when the offense is committed in the presence of the officer, except as provided in subsections (1) through (10) of this section.

(1) Any police officer having probable cause to believe that a person has committed or is committing a misdemeanor or gross misdemeanor, involving physical harm or threats of harm to any person or property or the unlawful taking of property or involving the use or possession of cannabis, or involving the acquisition, possession, or consumption of alcohol by a person under the age of twenty-one years under RCW 66.44.270, or involving criminal trespass under RCW 9A.52.070 or 9A.52.080, shall have the authority to arrest the person.

(2) A police officer shall arrest and take into custody, pending release on bail, personal recognizance, or court order, a person without a warrant when the officer has probable cause to believe that:

(a) An order has been issued of which the person has knowledge under RCW 26.44.063, or chapter 7.-- (the new chapter created in section 33 of this act), 7.90, 9A.46, 9.94A, 10.99, 26.09, 26.10, 26.26, or 74.34 RCW restraining the person and the person has violated the terms of the order restraining the person from acts or threats of violence, or restraining the person from going onto the grounds of or entering a residence, workplace, school, or day care, or prohibiting the person from knowingly coming within, or knowingly remaining within, a specified distance of a location or, in the case of an order issued under RCW 26.44.063, imposing any other restrictions or conditions upon the person; or

(b) A foreign protection order, as defined in RCW 26.52.010, has been issued of which the person has knowledge and the person under restraint has violated a provision of the foreign protection order prohibiting the person under restraint from communicating or communicating with another person, or excluding the person under restraint from a residence, workplace, school, or day care, or prohibiting the person from coming within, or knowingly remaining within, a specified distance of a location, or a violation of any provision for which the foreign protection order specifically defines that a violation will be a crime; or

(c) The person is sixteen years or older and within the preceding four hours has assaulted a family or household member as defined in RCW 10.99.020 and the officer believes: (i) A felony assault has occurred; (ii) an assault has occurred which has resulted in bodily injury to the victim, whether the injury is observable by the responding officer or not; or (iii) that any physical action has occurred which was intended to cause another person reasonably to fear imminent serious bodily injury or death. Bodily injury means physical pain, illness, or an impairment of physical condition. When the officer has probable cause to believe that family or household members have assaulted each other, the officer is not required to arrest both persons. The officer shall arrest the person whom the officer believes to be the primary physical aggressor. In making this determination, the officer shall make every reasonable effort to consider: (i) The intent to protect victims of domestic violence under RCW 10.99.010; (ii) the comparative extent of injuries inflicted or serious threats creating fear of physical injury; and (iii) the history of domestic violence of each person involved, including whether the conduct was part of an ongoing pattern of abuse.

(3) Any police officer having probable cause to believe that a person has committed or is committing a violation of any of the following traffic laws shall have the authority to arrest the person:
   (a) RCW 46.52.010, relating to duty on striking an unattended car or other property;
   (b) RCW 46.52.020, relating to duty in case of injury to or death of a person or damage to a vehicle;
   (c) RCW 46.61.500 or 46.61.530, relating to reckless driving or racing of vehicles;
   (d) RCW 46.61.502 or 46.61.504, relating to persons under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs;
   (e) RCW 46.20.342, relating to driving a motor vehicle while operator's license is suspended or revoked;
   (f) RCW 46.61.5249, relating to operating a motor vehicle in a negligent manner.

(4) A law enforcement officer investigating at the scene of a motor vehicle accident may arrest the driver of a motor vehicle involved in the accident if the officer has probable cause to believe that the driver has committed in connection with the accident a violation of any traffic law or regulation.

(5) Any police officer having probable cause to believe that a person has committed or is committing a violation of RCW 79A.60.040 shall have the authority to arrest the person.

(6) An officer may act upon the request of a law enforcement officer in whose presence a traffic infraction was committed, to stop, detain, arrest, or issue a notice of traffic infraction to the driver who is believed to have committed the infraction. The request by the witnessing officer shall give an officer the authority to take appropriate action under the laws of the state of Washington.

(7) Any police officer having probable cause to believe that a person has committed or is committing any act of indecent exposure, as defined in RCW 9A.88.010, may arrest the person.

(8) A police officer may arrest and take into custody, pending release on bail, personal recognizance, or court order, a person without a warrant when the officer has probable cause to believe that an order has been issued of which the person has knowledge under chapter 10.14 RCW and the person has violated the terms of that order.

(9) Any police officer having probable cause to believe that a person has, within twenty-four hours of the alleged violation, committed a violation of RCW 9A.50.020 may arrest such person.

(10) A police officer having probable cause to believe that a person illegally possesses or illegally has possessed a firearm or other dangerous weapon on private or public elementary or secondary school premises shall have the authority to arrest the person.

For purposes of this subsection, the term "firearm" has the meaning defined in RCW 9.41.010 and the term "dangerous weapon" has the meaning defined in RCW 9.41.250 and 9.41.280(1) (c) through (e).

(11) Except as specifically provided in subsections (2), (3), (4), (6) of this section, nothing in this section extends or otherwise affects the powers of arrest prescribed in Title 46 RCW.

(12) No police officer may be held criminally or civilly liable for making an arrest pursuant to subsection (2) or (8) of this section if the police officer acts in good faith and without malice.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 33. Sections 1 through 19 and 22 through 24 of this act constitute a new chapter in Title 7 RCW.

Correct the title.

Representative Goodman spoke in favor of the adoption of the amendment.

Amendment (199) was adopted.

The bill was ordered engrossed.

There being no objection, the rules were suspended, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Representatives Goodman, Fey, Angel and Rodne spoke in favor of the passage of the bill.

The Speaker (Representative Moeller presiding) stated the question before the House to be the final passage of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1383.

ROLL CALL

The Clerk called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 1383, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yes, 98; Nays, 0; Absent, 0; Excused, 0.

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1383, having received the necessary constitutional majority, was declared passed.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1774, by Representatives Freeman, Goodman, Haler, Roberts, Farrell, Kagi, Stanford, Stonier, Bergquist, Ryu, O'Ban, Morrell, Fey, Pollet and Santos

Measuring performance of the child welfare system.

The bill was read the second time.

There being no objection, Substitute House Bill No. 1774 was substituted for House Bill No. 1774 and the substitute bill was placed on the second reading calendar.

SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1774 was read the second time.

Representative Kagi moved the adoption of amendment (229).
Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. (1) The legislature recognizes that the goals of the child welfare system are to protect the safety, permanence, and well-being of the children it serves. The legislature further recognizes the importance of maintaining publicly accessible data that tracks the performance of the child welfare system, leading to transparency and public understanding of the system.

(2) The legislature believes it is important to measure safety, permanence, and well-being such that the public and the legislature may understand how the child welfare system is performing. This information will also serve the legislature in determining priorities for investment of public dollars as well as need for substantive legislative changes to facilitate improvement.

(3) The reports to the legislature under section 2 of this act will be used to provide feedback to the department of social and health services. The agencies referenced in section 2 of this act will not disclose individually identifiable private information except as allowable under federal and state law.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 74.13 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The University of Washington, through partners for our children, within the school of social work, and the department, in collaboration with other state agencies, shall develop measurements in the areas of safety, permanency, and well-being, using existing and available data. Measurements must be calculated from data used in the routine work of the state agencies' data and information technology departments. Any new record linkage or data-matching activities required in fulfillment of this section may be performed by partners for our children pursuant to agreements developed under subsection (6) of this section.

(2) For the purposes of this section, "state agencies" means any agency or subagency providing data used in the integrated client database maintained by the research and data analysis division of the department. Any exchange of data must be in accordance with applicable federal and state law.

(3) All measurements must use a methodology accepted by the scientific community. All measurements must address any disproportionate racial and ethnic inequality. The initial measurements must be developed by December 1, 2013.

(4) The measurements may not require the state agencies to revise their data collection systems, and may not require the state agencies to provide individually identifiable information.

(5) The state agencies shall provide the University of Washington with all measurement data related to the measurements developed under this section at least quarterly beginning July 1, 2014. Partners for our children shall make any nonidentifiable data publicly available. Partners for our children shall report on the data to the legislature and the governor annually starting December 31, 2014.

(6) By January 1, 2014, the state agencies shall execute agreements with partners for our children to enable sharing of data pursuant to RCW 42.48.020 sufficient to comply with this section.

(7) The fact that partners for our children has chosen to use a specific measure, use a specific baseline, or compare any measure to a baseline is not admissible as evidence of negligence by the department in a civil action.

Sec. 3. RCW 74.13B.020 and 2012 c 205 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) No later than December 1, 2013, the department shall enter into performance-based contracts for the provision of family support and related services. The department may enter into performance-based contracts for additional services, other than case management.

(2) Beginning December 1, 2013, the department may not renew its current contracts with individuals or entities for the provision of the child welfare services included in performance-based contracts under this section for services in geographic areas served by network administrators under such contracts, except as mutually agreed upon between the department and the network administrator to allow for the successful transition of services that meet the needs of children and families.

(3) The department shall conduct a procurement process to enter into performance-based contracts with one or more network administrators for family support and related services. As part of the procurement process, the department shall consult with department caseworkers, the exclusive bargaining representative for employees of the department, tribal representatives, parents who were formerly involved in the child welfare system, youth currently or previously in foster care, child welfare services researchers, and the Washington state institute for public policy to assist in identifying the categories of family support and related services that will be included in the procurement. The categories of family support and related services shall be defined no later than July 15, 2012. In identifying services, the department must review current data and research related to the effectiveness of family support and related services that mitigate child safety concerns and promote permanency, including reintegration and child well-being. Expenditures for family support and related services purchased under this section must remain within the levels appropriated in the operating budget.

(4) Network administrators shall, directly or through subcontracts with service providers:

(i) Assist caseworkers in meeting their responsibility for implementation of case plans and individual service and safety plans; and

(ii) Provide the family support and related services within the categories of contracted services that are included in a child or family's case plan or individual service and safety plan within funds available under contract.

(b) While the department caseworker retains responsibility for case management, nothing in chapter 205, Laws of 2012 limits the ability of the department to continue to contract for the provision of case management services by child-placing agencies, behavioral rehabilitation services agencies, or other entities that provided case management under contract with the department prior to July 1, 2005.

(5) In conducting the procurement, the department shall actively consult with other state agencies with relevant expertise, such as the health care authority, and with philanthropic entities with expertise in performance-based contracting for child welfare services. The director of the office of financial management must approve the request for proposal prior to its issuance.

(6) The procurement process must be developed and implemented in a manner that complies with applicable provisions of intergovernmental agreements between the state of Washington and tribal governments and must provide an opportunity for tribal governments to contract for service delivery through network administrators.

(7) The procurement and resulting contracts must include, but are not limited to, the following standards and requirements:

(a) The use of family engagement approaches to successfully motivate families to engage in services and training of the network's contracted providers to apply such approaches;

(b) The use of parents and youth who are successful veterans of the child welfare system to act as mentors through activities that include, but are not limited to, helping families navigate the system, facilitating parent engagement, and minimizing distrust of the child welfare system;

(c) The establishment of qualifications for service providers participating in provider networks, such as appropriate licensure or certification, education, and accreditation by professional accrediting entities;

(d) Adequate provider capacity to meet the anticipated service needs in the network administrator's contracted service area. The network administrator must be able to demonstrate that its provider network is culturally competent and has adequate capacity to address disproportionality, including utilization of tribal and other ethnic providers capable of serving children and families of color or who need language-appropriate services;

(e) Fiscal solvency of network administrators and providers participating in the network;

(f) The use of evidence-based, research-based, and promising practices, where appropriate, including fidelity and quality assurance provisions;

(g) Network administrator quality assurance activities, including monitoring of the performance of providers in their provider network, with respect to meeting measurable service outcomes;

(h) Network administrator data reporting, including data on contracted provider performance and service outcomes; and

(i) Network administrator compliance with applicable provisions of intergovernmental agreements between the state of Washington and tribal governments and the federal and Washington state Indian child welfare act.

As part of the procurement process under this section, the department shall issue the request for proposals no later than December 31, (2012. The department shall notify the apparently successful bidders no later than June 30, 2013) 2013, shall begin implementation of performance-based contracting no later than July 1, 2014, and shall fully implement performance-based contracting no later than July 1, 2015.

(8) Performance-based payment methodologies must be used in network administrator contracting. Performance measures should relate to successful engagement by a child or parent in services included in their case plan, and resulting improvement in identified problem behaviors and interactions. For the initial three-year period of implementation of performance-based contracting, the department may transfer financial risk for the provision of services to network administrators only to the limited extent necessary to implement a performance-based payment methodology, such as phased payment for services. However, the department may develop a shared savings methodology through which the network administrator will receive a defined share of any savings that result from improved performance. If the department receives a Title IV-E waiver, the shared savings methodology must be consistent with the terms of the waiver. If a shared savings methodology is adopted, the network administrator shall reinvest the savings in enhanced services to better meet the needs of the families and children they serve.

(9) The department must actively monitor network administrator compliance with the terms of contracts executed under this section.

The use of performance-based contracts under this section must be done in a manner that does not adversely affect the state’s ability to continue to obtain federal funding for child welfare-related functions currently performed by the state and with consideration of options to further maximize federal funding opportunities and increase flexibility in the use of such funds, including use for preventive and in-home child welfare services.

Sec. 4. RCW 74.13.360 and 2012 c 205 s 8 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) No later than December 30, (2015) 2016:

(a) In the demonstration sites selected under RCW 74.13.368(4)(a), child welfare services shall be provided by supervising agencies with whom the department has entered into performance-based contracts. Supervising agencies may enter into subcontracts with other licensed agencies; and

(b) Except as provided in subsection (3) of this section, and notwithstanding any law to the contrary, the department may not directly provide child welfare services to families and children provided child welfare services by supervising agencies in the demonstration sites selected under RCW 74.13.368(4)(a).

Renumber the remaining subsections consecutively and correct the exchange.

(5) The assessment described in this section shall be considered a special purpose obligation or assessment in connection with coverage based on the carrier's actual covered lives.

At the end of the calendar year, the exchange shall compare the amount of the assessment for each carrier calculated in subsection (2) of this section to the amount of the assessment that would have been collected from each carrier based on each carrier's actual covered lives in qualified health plans and dental plans in the exchange during that calendar year. If a carrier's share of the assessment would have been smaller if it were based on actual covered lives, the exchange shall refund the carrier for the difference between the collected amount of the assessment and the amount of the assessment that would have been collected based on the carrier's actual covered lives.

(4) The exchange shall reconcile assessment payments based on actual covered lives at the end of the calendar year of the assessment. At the end of the calendar year, the exchange shall compare the amount of the assessment for each carrier calculated in subsection (2) of this section to the amount of the assessment that would have been collected from each carrier based on each carrier's actual covered lives.

If a carrier's share of the assessment would have been larger if it were based on actual covered lives, the exchange shall collect from the carrier the difference between the collected amount of the assessment and the amount of the assessment that would have been collected based on the carrier's actual covered lives.

The assessment described in this section shall be considered a special purpose obligation or assessment in connection with coverage described in this section for the purpose of funding the operations of the exchange.

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. It is the intent of the legislature to procure spoken language interpreter services directly from language access providers through the use of scheduling and billing software or through contracts with scheduling and coordinating organizations, thereby reducing administrative costs while protecting consumers. The legislature further intends to institute quality controls by establishing an advisory group to advise state agencies on the qualifications, training, and education of spoken language interpreters for state certification. The legislature further intends to exclude interpreter services for sensory impaired persons from the provisions of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 39.26 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The department of social and health services and the health care authority are each authorized to purchase interpreter services on behalf of limited-English speaking applicants and recipients of public assistance.

(2) The department of labor and industries is authorized to purchase interpreter services for medical and vocational providers authorized to provide services to limited-English speaking injured workers or crime victims.

(3) No later than September 1, 2015, the department of social and health services, the health care authority, and the department of labor and industries must each purchase spoken language interpreter services directly from language access providers through no more than three contracts with scheduling and coordinating organizations. Each of the departments must be able to provide spoken language interpreter services through telephonic and video remote technologies. If the department determines it is more cost effective or efficient, it may jointly purchase these services with the department of social and health services, the health care authority, or the department of labor and industries as provided in subsection (3) of this section.

(4) By September 1, 2015, the department of enterprise services must purchase, for all other state agencies, spoken language interpreter services directly from language access providers through no more than three contracts with scheduling and coordinating delivery organizations. The department must be able to provide spoken language interpreter services through telephonic and video remote technologies. If the department determines it is more cost effective or efficient, it may jointly purchase these services with the department of social and health services, the health care authority, or the department of labor and industries as provided in subsection (3) of this section.

(5) If the department of social and health services, the health care authority, and the department of labor and industries determine that it is more cost effective or efficient, they may integrate procurement of spoken language interpreter services through a single centralized system. The department of social and health services, the health care authority, and the department of labor and industries may procure interpreters through the department of enterprise services if the demand for spoken language interpreters cannot be met through their respective contracts.

(6) All language access providers procured under this section must be certified or authorized by the state, or be nationally certified by the certification commission for healthcare interpreters. When a nationally certified, state-certified, or authorized language access provider is not available, a state agency is authorized to contract with a spoken language interpreter with other certifications or qualifications deemed to meet state standards. Nothing in this subsection shall preclude providing interpretive services through state employees or employees of medical or vocational providers.

(7) Nothing in this section is intended to address how state agencies procure interpreters for sensory-impaired persons.

(8) For purposes of this section, "state agency" means any state office or activity of the executive branch of state government, including state agencies, departments, offices, divisions, boards, commissions, and correctional and other types of institutions, but excludes institutions of higher education as defined in RCW 28B.10.016, the school for the blind, and the center for childhood deafness and hearing loss.

(8) The department of social and health services, the health care authority, the department of labor and industries, and the department of enterprise services may not impose reimbursement rates or obligations established through collective bargaining under RCW 41.56.510 in contracts with entities that do not provide interpreter services through language access providers as defined in RCW 41.56.030 (10).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 39.26 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The department of social and health services shall establish the spoken language interpreter advisory group to advise the departments of social and health services, labor and industries, and enterprise services and the health care authority on the policies, rules, and regulations governing certification and authorization of spoken language interpreters. The secretary, in consultation with the directors, shall make appointments to the advisory group as follows:

(a) One designated representative each from the department of social and health services, the department of labor and industries, the department of enterprise services, or a designee department, and the health care authority;

(b) Three spoken language interpreters, one of whom must provide interpreter services through telephonic and video remote technologies, initial terms being two serving two years, and one serving three years;

(c) One physician licensed by the state under chapter 18.57 or 18.71 RCW, who shall serve an initial three-year term;

(d) One hospital language access administrator, who shall serve an initial two-year term;

(e) Two representatives from immigrant or refugee advocacy organizations, one serving an initial term of one year and the other an initial term of two years;

(f) One representative from a labor organization, serving an initial term of two years;

(g) One member from the public, serving an initial three-year term;

(h) One representative from an entity that provides interpreter services through telephonic and video remote technologies;

(i) One representative for interpreter agencies, serving an initial term of two years; and

(j) One representative from the department of social and health services language testing and certification program.

(2) After initial appointments, members under subsection (1)(b) through (i) of this section shall serve three-year terms and may be appointed to no more than two sequential terms.

(3) Members of the advisory group may be reimbursed for travel expenses as provided in RCW 43.03.050 and 43.03.060.

(4) The department of social and health services shall provide staff to the advisory group.

(5) The advisory group shall meet as needed or as requested by the director of the department of social and health services.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 39.26 RCW to read as follows:

The advisory group established under section 3 of this act shall have the following duties:

(1) Develop and recommend policies to enhance the quality of interpreters;

(2) Evaluate the certification standards used by the state, including the code of ethics, other states, and national certifications and make recommendations for improving state certifications and authorizations; and

(3) Other duties as requested.

Sec. 5. RCW 41.56.030 and 2011 1st sp.s. c 21 s 11 are each amended to read as follows:

As used in this chapter:
"Language access provider" means any independent contractor who provides spoken language interpreter services (for department of social and health services appointments or medicare enrollee appointments, or provided these services on or after January 1, 2009, and before June 10, 2010, whether paid by a broker, language access agency, or the department), whether paid by a language access agency, broker, or the respective department: (i) For department of social and health services appointments or medicare enrollee appointments, or who provided these services on or after January 1, 2009, and before June 10, 2010; (ii) for department of labor and industries authorized medical and vocational providers, or who provided these services on or after January 1, 2012, and before the effective date of this section; or (iii) for state agencies, or who provided these services on or after January 1, 2009, and before June 10, 2010, whether paid by a broker, language access agency, or the department), whether paid by a language access agency, broker, or the respective department; or (iii) for state agencies, or who provided these services on or after January 1, 2009, and before June 10, 2010, whether paid by a broker, language access agency, or the department)), whether paid by a broker, language access agency, or the department), whether paid by a language access agency, broker, or the respective department); (e) fire fighters as that term is defined in RCW 41.26.030 employed by the governing body of any county with a population of ten thousand or more; (f) employees of fire departments of public employers who dispatch exclusively either fire or emergency medical services, or both; or (h) employees in the several classes of advanced life support technicians, as defined in RCW 18.71.200, who are employed by a public employer.

"Public employer" means any officer, board, commission, council, or other person or body acting on behalf of any public body governed by this chapter, or any subdivision of such public body. For the purposes of this section, the public employer of district court or superior court employees for wage-related matters is the respective county legislative authority, or person or body acting on behalf of the legislative authority, and the public employer for non-wage-related matters is the judge or judge’s designee of the respective district court or superior court.

"Uniformed personnel" means: (a) Law enforcement officers as defined in RCW 41.26.030 employed by the governing body of any city or town with a population of two thousand five hundred or more and law enforcement officers employed by the governing body of any county with a population of ten thousand or more; (b) correctional employees who are uniformed and nonuniformed, commissioned and noncommissioned security personnel employed in a jail as defined in RCW 70.48.020, who are employed by a public employer.

In addition to the entities listed in RCW 41.56.020, this chapter applies to the governor with respect to language access providers. Solely for the purposes of collective bargaining and as expressly limited under subsections (2) and (3) of this section, the governor is the public employer of language access providers who, solely for the purposes of collective bargaining, are public employees. The governor or the governor’s designee shall represent the public employer for bargaining purposes.

There shall be collective bargaining, as defined in RCW 41.56.030, between the governor and language access providers, except as follows:

(1) "Adult family home provider" means a provider as defined in RCW 70.128.010 who receives payments from the medicaid and state-funded long-term care programs.

(2) "Bargaining representative" means any lawful organization which has as one of its primary purposes the representation of employees in their employment relations with employers.

(3) "Child care subsidy" means a payment from the state through a child care subsidy program established pursuant to RCW 74.12.340 ((74.39A.240(4)), 45 C.F.R. Sec. 98.1 through 98.17, or any successor program.

(4) "Collective bargaining" means the performance of the mutual obligations of the public employer and the exclusive bargaining representative to meet at reasonable times, to confer and negotiate in good faith, and to execute a written agreement with respect to grievance procedures and collective negotiations on personnel matters, including wages, hours and working conditions, which may be peculiar to an appropriate bargaining unit of such public employer, except that by such obligation neither party shall be compelled to agree to a proposal or be required to make a concession unless otherwise provided in this chapter.

(5) "Commission" means the public employment relations commission.

(6) "Executive director" means the executive director of the commission.

(7) "Family child care provider" means a person who: (a) Provides regularly scheduled care for a child or children in the home of the provider or in the home of the child or children for periods of less than twenty-four hours or, if necessary due to the nature of the parent’s work, for periods equal to or greater than twenty-four hours; (b) receives child care subsidies; and (c) is either licensed by the state under RCW 74.15.030 or is exempt from licensing under chapter 74.15 RCW.

(8) "Individual provider" means an individual provider as defined in RCW 74.39A.240(4) who, solely for the purposes of collective bargaining, is a public employee as provided in RCW 74.39A.270.

(9) "Institution of higher education" means the University of Washington, Washington State University, Central Washington University, Eastern Washington University, Western Washington University, The Evergreen State College, and the various state community colleges.

(10)(a) "Language access provider" means any independent contractor who provides spoken language interpreter services (for department of social and health services appointments or medicare enrollee appointments, or provided these services on or after January 1, 2009, and before June 10, 2010, whether paid by a broker, language access agency, or the department), whether paid by a language access agency, broker, or the respective department: (i) For department of social and health services appointments or medicare enrollee appointments, or who provided these services on or after January 1, 2009, and before June 10, 2010; (ii) for department of labor and industries authorized medical and vocational providers, or who provided these services on or after January 1, 2012, and before the effective date of this section; or (iii) for state agencies, or who provided these services on or after January 1, 2012, and before the effective date of this section.

(11) "Public employee" means any employee of a public employer except any person (a) elected by popular vote, or (b) appointed to office pursuant to statute, ordinance or resolution for a specified term of office as a member of a multimember board, commission, or committee, whether appointed by the executive head or body of the public employer, or (c) whose duties as deputy, administrative assistant or secretary necessarily imply a confidential relationship to (i) the executive head or body of the applicable bargaining unit, or (ii) any person elected by popular vote, or (iii) any person appointed to office pursuant to statute, ordinance or resolution for a specified term of office as a member of a multimember board, commission, or committee, whether appointed by the executive head or body of the public employer, or (d) who is a court commissioner or a court magistrate of superior court, district court, or a department of a district court organized under chapter 3.46 RCW, or (e) who is a personal assistant to a district court judge, superior court judge, or court commissioner. For the purpose of (e) of this subsection, no more than one assistant for each judge or commissioner may be excluded from a bargaining unit.

(12) "Public employer" means any officer, board, commission, council, or other person or body acting on behalf of any public body governed by this chapter, or any subdivision of such public body. For the purposes of this section, the public employer of district court or superior court employees for wage-related matters is the respective county legislative authority, or person or body acting on behalf of the legislative authority, and the public employer for non-wage-related matters is the judge or judge’s designee of the respective district court or superior court.

(13) "Uniformed personnel" means: (a) Law enforcement officers as defined in RCW 41.26.030 employed by the governing body of any city or town with a population of two thousand five hundred or more and law enforcement officers employed by the governing body of any county with a population of ten thousand or more; (b) correctional employees who are uniformed and nonuniformed, commissioned and noncommissioned security personnel employed in a jail as defined in RCW 70.48.020, who are employed by a public employer.

Sec. 6. RCW 41.56.510 and 2010 c 296 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) In addition to the entities listed in RCW 41.56.020, this chapter applies to the governor with respect to language access providers. Solely for the purposes of collective bargaining and as expressly limited under subsections (2) and (3) of this section, the governor is the public employer of language access providers who, solely for the purposes of collective bargaining, are public employees. The governor or the governor’s designee shall represent the public employer for bargaining purposes.

(2) There shall be collective bargaining, as defined in RCW 41.56.030, between the governor and language access providers, except as follows:

language access providers do not have the right to strike;

(3) Language access providers who are public employees solely for the purposes of collective bargaining under subsection (1) of this section are not, for that reason, employees of the state for any other purpose. This section applies only to the governance of the collective bargaining relationship between the employer and language access providers as provided in subsections (1) and (2) of this section.

(4) Each party with whom the department of social and health services, the department of labor and industries, and the department of enterprise services contracts for language access services and each of their subcontractors shall provide to the respective department an accurate list of language access providers, as defined in RCW 41.56.030, including their names, addresses, and other contact information, annually by January 30th, except that the initials the lists must be provided within thirty days of (June 10, 2010) the effective date of this section. The department shall, upon request, provide a list of all language access providers, including their names, addresses, and other contact information, to a labor union seeking to represent language access providers.

(5) If a language access provider cannot be procured through a bargaining unit, a state agency is authorized to contract with any spoken language interpreter provider.

(6) This section does not create or modify:

(a) The (department's) obligation of any state agency to comply with (RCW) federal statutes and regulations; and

(b) The legislature's right to make programmatic modifications to the delivery of state services under chapter 74.04 or 39.26 RCW or Title 51 RCW. The governor may not enter into, extend, or renew any agreement under this chapter that does not expressly reserve the legislative rights described in this subsection.

(4)(a) Upon receiving the application of a state agency for the appointment of a language access provider under this section, the department shall, upon request, provide a list of all language access providers in the units specified in (a) of this subsection shall be the representatives chosen in (a)(i) and (ii) of this subsection;

(b) The exclusive bargaining representatives of language access providers in the units specified in (a) of this subsection shall be the representatives chosen in (a)(i) and (ii) of this subsection;

(c) Notwithstanding the definition of "collective bargaining" in RCW 41.56.030(4), the scope of collective bargaining for language access providers under this section is limited solely to: (i) Economic compensation, such as the manner and rate of payments; (ii) professional development and training; and (iii) labor-management committees; and (iv) grievance procedures. Retirement benefits are not subject to collective bargaining. By such obligation neither party may be compelled to agree to a proposal or be required to make a concession unless otherwise provided in this chapter;

(d) In addition to the entities listed in the mediation and interest arbitration provisions of RCW 41.56.430 through 41.56.470 and 41.56.480, the provisions apply to the governor or the governor's designee and the exclusive bargaining representative of language access providers, except that:

(i) In addition to the factors to be taken into consideration by an interest arbitration panel under RCW 41.56.465, the panel shall consider the financial ability of the state to pay for the compensation and benefit provisions of a collective bargaining agreement;

(ii) The decision of the arbitration panel is not binding on the legislature and, if the legislature does not approve the request for funds necessary to implement the compensation and benefit provisions of the arbitrated collective bargaining agreement, the decision is not binding on the state;

(e) Language access providers do not have the right to strike;

(5) If a single employee organization is the exclusive bargaining representative for two or more bargaining units, the governor and the employee organization may agree to negotiate a single collective bargaining agreement for all of the bargaining units that the employee organization represents.

(6) This section does not create or modify:

(a) The (department's) obligation of any state agency to comply with (RCW) federal statutes and regulations; and

(b) The legislature's right to make programmatic modifications to the delivery of state services under chapter 74.04 or 39.26 RCW or Title 51 RCW. The governor may not enter into, extend, or renew any agreement under this chapter that does not expressly reserve the legislative rights described in this subsection.

(4)(a) Upon receiving the application of a state agency for the appointment of a language access provider under this section, the department shall, upon request, provide a list of all language access providers in the units specified in (a) of this subsection shall be the representatives chosen in (a)(i) and (ii) of this subsection;

(b) The exclusive bargaining representatives of language access providers in the units specified in (a) of this subsection shall be the representatives chosen in (a)(i) and (ii) of this subsection;

(c) Notwithstanding the definition of "collective bargaining" in RCW 41.56.030(4), the scope of collective bargaining for language access providers under this section is limited solely to: (i) Economic compensation, such as the manner and rate of payments; (ii) professional development and training; and (iii) labor-management committees; and (iv) grievance procedures. Retirement benefits are not subject to collective bargaining. By such obligation neither party may be compelled to agree to a proposal or be required to make a concession unless otherwise provided in this chapter;

(d) In addition to the entities listed in the mediation and interest arbitration provisions of RCW 41.56.430 through 41.56.470 and 41.56.480, the provisions apply to the governor or the governor's designee and the exclusive bargaining representative of language access providers, except that:

(i) In addition to the factors to be taken into consideration by an interest arbitration panel under RCW 41.56.465, the panel shall consider the financial ability of the state to pay for the compensation and benefit provisions of a collective bargaining agreement;

(ii) The decision of the arbitration panel is not binding on the legislature and, if the legislature does not approve the request for funds necessary to implement the compensation and benefit provisions of the arbitrated collective bargaining agreement, the decision is not binding on the state;

(e) Language access providers do not have the right to strike;

(f) If a single employee organization is the exclusive bargaining representative for two or more bargaining units, the governor and the employee organization may agree to negotiate a single collective bargaining agreement for all of the bargaining units that the employee organization represents.

(3) Language access providers who are public employees solely for the purposes of collective bargaining under subsection (1) of this section are not, for that reason, employees of the state for any other purpose. This section applies only to the governance of the collective bargaining relationship between the employer and language access providers as provided in subsections (1) and (2) of this section.

(4) Each party with whom the department of social and health services, the department of labor and industries, and the department of enterprise services contracts for language access services and each of their subcontractors shall provide to the respective department an accurate list of language access providers, as defined in RCW
41.56.030, including their names, addresses, and other contact

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. If any part of this act is found to be in conflict with federal requirements that are a prescribed condition to the allocation of federal funds to the state, the conflicting part of this act is inoperative solely to the extent of the conflict and with respect to the agencies directly affected, and this finding does not affect the operation of the remainder of this act in its application to the agencies concerned. Rules adopted under this act must meet federal requirements that are a necessary condition to the receipt of federal funds by the state."

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1753, having received the necessary constitutional majority, was declared passed.

HOUSE BILL NO. 1887, by Representatives Sawyer, Ryu, Green and Freeman

Increasing educational options under vocational rehabilitation plans. (REVISED FOR ENGROSSED: Ordering consideration of increased educational options under vocational rehabilitation plans.)

The bill was read the second time.

Representative Sawyer moved the adoption of amendment (38).

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

Sec. 1. RCW 51.32.099 and 2011 c 291 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1)(a) The legislature intends to create improved vocational outcomes for Washington state injured workers and employers through legislative and regulatory change under a pilot program for the period of January 1, 2008, through June 30, 2013. This pilot vocational system is intended to allow opportunities for eligible workers to participate in meaningful retraining in high-demand occupations, improve successful return to work and achieve positive outcomes for workers, reduce the incidence of repeat vocational services, increase accountability and responsibility, and improve cost predictability. To facilitate the study and evaluation of the results of the proposed changes, the department shall establish the temporary funding of certain state fund vocational costs through the medical aid account to ensure the appropriate assessments to employers for the costs of their claims for vocational services in accordance with RCW 51.32.099.

(b) An independent review and study of the effects of the pilot program shall be conducted to determine whether it has achieved the appropriate outcomes at reasonable cost to the system. The review shall include, at a minimum, a report on the department's performance with regard to the provision of vocational services, the skills acquired by workers who receive retraining services, the types of training programs approved, whether the workers are employed, at what jobs and wages after completion of the training program and at various times subsequent to their claim closure, the number and demographics of workers who choose the option provided in subsection (4)(b) of this section, and their employment and earnings status at various times subsequent to claim closure. The department may adopt rules, in collaboration with the subcommittee created under (c)(iii) of this subsection, to further define the scope and elements of the required study. Reports of the independent researcher are due on December 1, 2010, December 1, 2011, and December 1, 2012.

(c) In implementing the pilot program, the department shall:

(i) Establish a vocational initiative project that includes participation by the department as a partner with WorkSource, the established state system that administers the federal workforce investment act of 1998. As a partner, the department shall place vocational professional full-time employees at pilot WorkSource locations; refer some workers for vocational services to these vocational professionals; and work with employers in work source pilot areas to market the benefits of on-the-job training programs and with community colleges to reserve slots in high employer demand programs of study as defined in RCW 28B.50.030. These on-the-job training programs and community college slots may be considered by both department and private sector vocational professionals for vocational plan development. The department will also assist stakeholders in developing additional vocational training programs in various industries, including but not limited to agriculture and construction. These programs will expand the choices available to injured workers in developing their vocational training plans with the assistance of vocational professionals.

(ii) Develop and maintain a register of state fund and self-insured workers who have been retrained or have selected any of the vocational options described in this section for at least the duration of the pilot program.

(iii) Create a vocational rehabilitation subcommittee made up of members appointed by the director for at least the duration of the pilot program. This subcommittee shall provide the business and labor partnership needed to maintain focus on the intent of the pilot program, as described in this section, and provide consistency and transparency to the development of rules and policies. The subcommittee shall report to the director at least annually and recommend to the director and the legislature any additional statutory changes needed, which may include extension of the pilot period. The subcommittee shall provide input and oversight with the department concerning the study required under (b) of this subsection. The subcommittee shall provide recommendations for additional changes or incentives for injured workers to return to work with their employer of injury. The subcommittee shall also consider options that, under limited circumstances, would allow injured workers to attend baccalaureate institutions under their vocational rehabilitation plans and, by December 31, 2013, the subcommittee shall provide recommendations to the director and the legislature on statutory changes needed to develop those options.

(iv) The department shall develop an annual report concerning Washington's workers' compensation vocational rehabilitation system to the legislature and to the subcommittee by December 1, 2009, and annually thereafter with the final report due by December 1, 2012. The annual report shall include the number of workers who have participated in more than one vocational training plan beginning with plans approved on January 1, 2008, and in which industries those workers were employed. The final report shall include the department's assessment and recommendations for further legislative action, in collaboration with the subcommittee.

(2)(a) For the purposes of this section, the day the worker commences vocational plan development means the date the department or self-insurer notifies the worker of his or her eligibility for plan development services or of an eligibility determination in response to a dispute of a vocational decision.

(b) When the supervisor or supervisor's designee has decided that vocational rehabilitation is both necessary and likely to make the worker employable at gainful employment, he or she shall be provided with services necessary to develop a vocational plan that, if completed, would render the worker employable. The vocational professional assigned to the claim shall, at the initial meeting with the worker, fully inform the worker of the return-to-work priorities set forth in RCW 51.32.095(2) and of his or her rights and responsibilities under the workers' compensation vocational system. The department shall provide tools to the vocational professional for communicating this and other information required by RCW 51.32.095 and this section to the worker.
(c) On the date the worker commences vocational plan development, the department shall also inform the employer in writing of the employer's right to make a valid return-to-work offer during the first fifteen days following the commencement of vocational plan development. However, at the sole discretion of the supervisor or the supervisor's designee, an employer may be granted an extension of time of up to ten additional days to make a valid return-to-work offer. The additional days may be allowed by the department with or without a request from the employer. The extension may only be granted if the employer made a return-to-work offer to the worker within fifteen days of the date the worker commenced vocational plan development that met some but not all of the requirements in this section. To be valid, the offer must be for bona fide employment with the employer of injury, consistent with the worker's documented physical and mental restrictions as provided by the worker's health care provider. When the employer makes a valid return-to-work offer, the vocational plan development services and temporary total disability compensation shall be terminated effective on the starting date for the job without regard to whether the worker accepts the return-to-work offer.

(d) Following the time period described in (c) of this subsection, the employer may still provide, and the worker may accept, any valid return-to-work offer. The worker's acceptance of such an offer shall result in the termination of vocational plan development or implementation services and temporary total disability compensation effective the day the employment begins.

(3)(a) All vocational plans must contain an accountability agreement signed by the worker detailing expectations regarding progress, attendance, and other factors influencing successful participation in the plan. Failure to abide by the agreed expectations shall result in suspension of vocational benefits pursuant to RCW 51.32.110.

(b) Any formal education included as part of the vocational plan must be for an accredited or licensed program or other program approved by the department. The department shall develop rules that provide criteria for the approval of nonaccredited or unlicensed programs.

(c) The vocational plan for an individual worker must be completed and submitted to the department within ninety days of the day the worker commences vocational plan development. The department may extend the ninety days for good cause. Criteria for good cause shall be provided in rule. The frequency and reasons for good cause extensions shall be reported to the subcommittee created under subsection (1)(c)(iii) of this section.

(d) Costs for the vocational plan may include books, tuition, fees, supplies, equipment, child or dependent care, training fees for on-the-job training, the cost of furnishing tools and other equipment necessary for self-employment or reemployment, and other necessary expenses in an amount not to exceed twelve thousand dollars. This amount shall be adjusted effective July 1 of each year for vocational plans or retraining benefits available under subsection (4)(b) of this section approved on or after this date but before June 30 of the next year based on the average percentage change in tuition for the next fall quarter for all Washington state community colleges.

(e) The duration of the vocational plan shall not exceed two years from the date the plan is implemented. The worker shall receive temporary total disability compensation under RCW 51.32.090 and the cost of transportation while he or she is actively and successfully participating in a vocational plan.

(f) If the worker is required to reside away from his or her customary residence, the reasonable cost of board and lodging shall also be paid.

(4) Vocational plan development services shall be completed within ninety days of commencing. Except as provided in RCW 51.32.095(3), during vocational plan development the worker shall, with the assistance of a vocational professional, participate in vocational counseling and occupational exploration to include, but not be limited to, identifying possible job goals, training needs, resources, and expenses, consistent with the worker's physical and mental status. A vocational rehabilitation plan shall be developed by the worker and the vocational professional and submitted to the department or self-insurer. Following this submission, the worker shall elect one of the following options:

(a) Option 1: The department or self-insurer implements and the worker participates in the vocational plan developed by the vocational professional and approved by the worker and the department or self-insurer. For state fund claims, the department must review and approve the vocational plan before implementation may begin. If the department takes no action within fifteen days, the plan is deemed approved. The worker may, within fifteen days of the department's approval of the plan or of a determination that the plan is valid following a dispute, elect option 2. However, in the sole discretion of the supervisor or supervisor's designee, the department may approve an election for option 2 benefits that was submitted in writing within twenty-five days of the department's approval of the plan or of a determination that the plan is valid following a dispute if the worker provides a written explanation establishing that he or she was unable to submit his or her election of option 2 benefits within fifteen days. In no circumstance may the department approve of an election for option 2 benefits that was submitted more than twenty-five days after the department's approval of a retraining plan or of a determination that a plan is valid following a dispute.

(i) Following successful completion of the vocational plan, any subsequent assessment of whether vocational rehabilitation is both necessary and likely to enable the injured worker to become employable at gainful employment under RCW 51.32.095(1) shall include consideration of transferable skills obtained in the vocational plan.

(ii) If a vocational plan is successfully completed on a claim which is thereafter reopened as provided in RCW 51.32.160, the cost and duration available for any subsequent vocational plan is limited to that in subsection (3)(d) and (e) of this section, less that previously expended.

(b) Option 2: The worker declines further vocational services under the claim and receives an amount equal to six months of temporary total disability compensation under RCW 51.32.090. The award is payable in biweekly payments in accordance with the schedule of temporary total disability payments, until such award is paid in full. These payments shall not include interest on the unpaid balance. However, upon application by the worker, and at the discretion of the department, the compensation may be converted to a lump sum payment. The vocational costs defined in subsection (3)(d) of this section shall remain available to the worker, upon application to the department or self-insurer, for a period of five years. The vocational costs shall, if expended, be available for programs or courses at any accredited or licensed institution or program from a list of those approved by the department for tuition, books, fees, supplies, equipment, and tools, without department or self-insurer oversight. The department shall issue an order as provided in RCW 51.52.050 confirming the option 2 election, setting a payment schedule, and terminating temporary total disability benefits effective the date of the order confirming that election. The department shall thereafter close the claim. A worker who elects option 2 benefits shall not be entitled to further temporary total, or to permanent total, disability benefits except upon a showing of a worsening in the condition or conditions accepted under the claim such that claim closure is not appropriate, in which case the option 2 selection will be rescinded and the amount paid to the worker will be assessed as an overpayment. A claim that was closed based on the worker's election of option 2 benefits may be reopened as provided in RCW 51.32.160, but cannot be reopened for the sole purpose of allowing the worker to seek vocational assistance.
(i) If within five years from the date the option 2 order becomes final, the worker is subsequently injured or suffers an occupational disease or opens the claim as provided in RCW 51.32.160, and vocational rehabilitation is found both necessary and likely to enable the injured worker to become employable at gainful employment under RCW 51.32.095(1), the duration of any vocational plan under subsection (3)(e) of this section shall not exceed eighteen months.

(ii) If the available vocational costs are utilized by the worker, any subsequent assessment of whether vocational rehabilitation is both necessary and likely to enable the injured worker to become employable at gainful employment under RCW 51.32.095(1) shall include consideration of the transferable skills obtained.

(iii) If the available vocational costs are utilized by the worker and the claim is thereafter reopened as provided in RCW 51.32.160, the cost available for any vocational plan is limited to that in subsection (3)(d) of this section less that previously expended.

(iv) Option 2 may only be elected once per worker.

(c) The director, in his or her sole discretion, may provide the worker vocational assistance not to exceed that in subsection (3) of this section, without regard to the worker's prior option selection or benefits expended, where vocational assistance would prevent permanent total disability under RCW 51.32.060.

(5)(a) As used in this section, "vocational plan interruption" means an occurrence which disrupts the plan to the extent the employability goal is no longer attainable. "Vocational plan interruption" does not include institutionally scheduled breaks in educational programs, occasional absence due to illness, or modifications to the plan which will allow it to be completed within the cost and time provisions of subsection (3)(d) and (e) of this section.

(b) When a vocational plan interruption is beyond the control of the worker, the department or self-insurer shall recommence plan development. If necessary to complete vocational services, the cost and duration of the plan may include credit for that expended prior to the interruption. A vocational plan interruption is considered outside the control of the worker when it is due to the closure of the accredited institution, when it is due to a death in the worker's immediate family, or when documented changes in the worker's accepted medical conditions prevent further participation in the vocational plan.

(c) When a vocational plan interruption is the result of the worker's actions, the worker's entitlement to benefits shall be suspended in accordance with RCW 51.32.110. If plan development or implementation is recommenced, the cost and duration of the plan shall not include credit for that expended prior to the interruption. A vocational plan interruption is considered a result of the worker's actions when it is due to the failure to meet attendance expectations set by the training or educational institution, failure to achieve passing grades or acceptable performance review, unaccepted or postinjury conditions that prevent further participation in the vocational plan, or the worker's failure to abide by the accountability agreement per subsection (3)(a)(i) of this section."
