JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

STATE OF WASHINGTON

THIRTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE

FIRST DAY

Senate Chamber

OLYMPIA, WASH., Monday, January 14, 1963.

At Noon

The Thirty-eighth Senate of the state of Washington assembled at the Senate Chamber in the State Capitol, pursuant to law at noon.

Lieutenant Governor John A. Cherberg, President of the Senate, called the Senate to order.

The President declared the Senate to be at ease until approximately 1:30 p. m.

At 1:30 p. m. the President announced that the Senate would continue to be at ease until approximately 2:15 p. m.

At 2:15 p. m. the Senate was called to order by President Cherberg.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Mark McCormack, Color Bearer, and Jane Petrich, presented the Colors.

The Reverend J. Burton Salter, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Almighty God, we invoke Thy blessing upon the Senators of the state of Washington. Before the toil and tribulations of a new session open before us, we lay before Thee the meditations of our hearts; our gratitude in the light of the events of last Fall that we are still here to meet our responsibilities; our desires to be true to our high calling as servants of the common good for the people of this State.

"May our meditations be acceptable in Thy sight. Help us, Lord, to bring all our aims and powers into conformity to Thy will that in this session appointed tasks may be met with purity of purpose and without moral compromise.

"Make us great enough for these great days and bestow upon us wisdom to make right decisions, courage to carry them out, and the strength to preserve until we have achieved our goals for the good of the people of this state and the establishment of Thy peace and way of life here on earth. For Jesus Christ's sake. Amen."

COMMITTEE FROM THE HOUSE

A committee from the House comprised of Representatives Rosenberg, Clark and O'Dell appeared before the bar of the Senate to notify the Senate that the House was organized and ready to do business.

The report was received and the committee retired.

The following certificate of election from the Secretary of State was read by the Acting Secretary of the Senate:

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"This body is governed by rules, laws and customs from the past. What we do here is simply a prelude into the future of our great state and the lives of its citizens. Therefore, it is with real appreciation that the President welcomes to the Senate those of you who have already done so much in handing down to us our tradition. It is good to witness your continuing interest and willingness to serve the people of our state.

"Some people say something is a real pleasure and you are inclined to disbelieve him. Psychologists have taught us that 'pleasure was had when a faculty worked in accord with its nature'. Hence, I know that this group of intelligent and well-intentioned Senators truly enjoy meeting an intellectual and well-intentioned group such as our newly elected Senators. You are truly welcome and we take real pleasure in your presence.

"Each of us is cognizant of the great responsibility to the people of the state of Washington and with a spirit of understanding and tolerance can discharge our duties and responsibilities in a proper, honest and sincere manner.

"The members of the Senate and the President are happy and delighted to have so many relatives and friends present on this happy occasion. The President is sure that you join in congratulating the outstanding group of Senators taking their oath of office today."

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The President declared the first order of business to be nominations for the office of President Pro Tempore.

Senator Sandison:

"Mr. Chairman; I place in nomination the name of Senator Edward F. Riley.

"The position of President Pro Tempore demands fairness, respectability, honesty and experience. I think the entire Senate will agree this gentleman has all of those qualifications. I urge you to support him."

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. Chairman, members of the Senate:

"It is my privilege to rise to second the nomination of Senator Edward F. Riley as President Pro Tempore of the state Senate. I had the pleasure of serving with Senator Riley when he was Representative in the House, at the time I was first elected to the Legislature, and I have found it a great pleasure to serve with him here in the state Senate for the two terms that I have been here. He has always been most fair. He has friends on both sides of the aisle—many of them. I know he comes to all of you as your friend, and he will do an eminently fair job on behalf of the entire Senate in the position of President Pro Tempore."

Senator Woodall:

"I rise to place in nomination the name of a man who, in my opinion, gives evidence of some of the great things in America. This man came here as an immigrant boy. He has done well in this, his adopted land. He has served his state, his county, his city, well. For over forty years he has served in various capacities, whether it be on school boards, city government, county government, or his state. I would not wish this nomination at all to be construed as in any way detracting from some of the fine remarks said concerning Senator Riley, for I am sure that those remarks concerning his fairness are well taken. However, those of us who have known this man for many years wish at this time to pay tribute to this fine public servant who comes from over east of the mountains.

"I nominate W. C. (Bill) Raugust for the office of President Pro Tempore."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I take a great deal of pleasure seconding the nomination of Bill Raugust who has served so many years in the state Senate and who has contributed so much to the legislation that has gone through this august body for quite a number of years."

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President, I would like to second the nomination of Senator Riley. I would like to make the observation that this is truly a democratic body, that we have Republicans running and we have Democrats running, and I think the Democrats will support the Democrats and the Republicans will support the Republicans."

On motion of Senator Greive the nominations for the office of President Pro Tempore were closed.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll on the election of President Pro Tempore of the Senate and Senator Riley was elected by the following vote: Senator Riley, 32; Senator Raugust, 16; absent and excused, 1.

Those voting for Senator Riley were: Senators Bailey, Charette, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Foley, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Petrich, Rasmussen, Raugust, Sandison, Talley, Washington—32.

Those voting for Senator Raugust were: Senators Atwood, Chytil, England, Freise, Guess, Lennart, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Rickdall, Riley, Ryder, Stender, Thompson, Jr., Williams, Woodall—16.

Those absent or not voting were: Senator Foster—1.

Senator Riley, having received the constitutional majority vote of the Senate was elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President, I would like to rise to a point of personal privilege for and in behalf of Senator Raugust.

"This marks a milestone in Senator Raugust's life. He has run for election in many organizations and associations and this is the first time he has been defeated. I might list a few of them. He has been President of the Chamber of Commerce of Odessa, President and a Director of the School Board, Mayor and Councilman of Odessa, Commander and Adjutant of the American Legion. In the Republican Party he has run for and won the office of Precinct Committeeman, Chairman of the Republican Party of Lincoln County, State Committeeman for Lincoln County, Past President of the Pacific Northwest Hardware and Implement Dealers' Association for Washington, Oregon and Western Montana, a Deacon of the United Congregational Church and a member of the Board of Trustees and a member of the Board of Directors of the United Theology Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota.

"He wanted me to say that he has never been beaten by a better man."

Senator Woodall:

"This kind of leads to the conclusion that if Senator Freise would have nominated him, instead of me, he might have won."

Senator Greive:

"I think it only goes to show that this is the first time he has ever had to depend upon Democrats for his election."

The President appointed Senator Dore and Senator Charette as a committee of honor to escort Senator Riley to the rostrum.

The Acting Sergeant at Arms and the honor committee escorted Senator Riley to the rostrum and Chief Justice Ott administered the oath of office.

The President:

"Senator Riley, the President is confident that the entire Senate is exceptionally well pleased with the selection of Senator Riley as President Pro Tempore, because we know that in addition to doing an excellent job he will provide the Senate with rulings which in addition to being accurate and equitable, will be 'crystal clear'. May I extend to you, Senator Riley, my most sincere congratulations on this occasion, your election as President Pro Tempore of the state senate."

Senator Riley:

"Thank you, sir.

"Mr. President, Chief Justice Ott, Reverend Salter, Senator Morgan, and gentlemen of the Senate:

"May I hasten to say to you, Mr. President, that the words you have spoken are entirely true. I did take an oath of office that I would do the things that all of us said we would do. There are forty-nine members of this body of which I call myself one. I shall be working with the members of the Senate in my position on the floor, and, if called upon to preside, I can assure you members of the Senate that I shall preside with fairness, impartiality, and, because the rules under which we operate are made by you, I will try to interpret them and enforce them to the best of my ability. Should there be any errors, may I ask you all to be indulgent because they will only be an error of the head and certainly not of the heart.

"I hope that all of us will have a happy New Year ahead and a happy session ahead, and I am pleased to be again one of your fellow associates and workers.

"Thank you."

The honor committee escorted Senator Riley from the rostrum.

The President declared that nominations were now in order for the office of Temporary President.

Senator Knoblauch:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I have the pleasure this afternoon to nominate for the office of Temporary President of the Senate a man who has served our state long and well. I don't think that I will live long enough to see another man like Senator Davey Cowen in public service. I say that because I have come to love and respect this man very deeply.

"Dr. Cowen came to Olympia in 1935, served a couple of terms in the House, and then came over to the state Senate. He is an extremely broad-minded man because this morning I saw him sitting in three different seats over in the House during the roll call for Speakership. May I, with much pleasure, present in nomination the name of our good friend, Senator David Cowen, for Temporary President."

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President and fellow members of the Senate:

"I don't want Senator David Cowen to think for one moment I have changed my mind since our caucus where I nominated him. There aren't enough words to tell how much service he has given over these number of years, serving with my mother, Senator Haddon, who was here today to see him and the rest of you fine people. I would just like to say I am happy to second his nomination."

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President, I hope that in rising to nominate one of our colleagues for the office of Temporary President, I am not setting some new record for him. I didn't check this out with him, but it is my pleasure, as long as I have been serving in this body and in the House before, to have become rather well acquainted with one of our members; and never, either here or outside of these halls, has it been my privilege to know a man as well read and as profound as Senator Lennart. He has served this state and he has served this Senate honorably and ably, and I rise to place in nomination the name of Senator Ernest W. Lennart."

Senator Atwood:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I deem it a real privilege for such a new member as myself to second the nomination of my good friend and neighbor, Senator Ernie Lennart."

There being no further nominations, the President declared the nominations closed.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll on the election of Temporary President, and Senator Cowen was elected by the following vote: Senator Cowen, 33; Senator Lennart, 15; absent and excused, 1.

Those voting for Senator Cowen were: Senators Bailey, Charette, Connor, Cooney, DeGarmo, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Foley, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Petrich, Rasmussen, Riley, Sandison, Talley, Washington—33.

Those voting for Senator Lennart were: Senators Atwood, Chytil, Cowen, England, Freise, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Raugust, Rickdall, Ryder, Stender, Thompson, Jr., Williams, Woodall—15.

Those absent or not voting were: Senator Foster—1.

Senator Cowen, having received the constitutional majority vote of the Senate was elected Temporary President of the Senate.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege. There are two great desires in life. One is to get your heart's desire, and the other is to be able to turn it down. This time I went down in honorable defeat to a man I love very much."

The President:

"Thank you, Senator Lennart."

The President appointed Senators Cooney, Washington and Knoblauch to act as a committee of honor to escort Senator Cowen to the rostrum.

The committee escorted Senator Cowen to the rostrum.

The Honorable Richard B. Ott, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, administered the oath of office to Senator Cowen.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, this young man standing to my left certainly typifies the true Horatio Alger story. Those of you who have known Davey Cowen for many years may not realize he was born in Portland, Oregon, and worked his way through college by carrying papers on the streets of Portland. He graduated from the University of Oregon in November, 1918, and came to Spokane, Washington that same year. He has been a resident of Spokane ever since.

"In 1962 the people of Spokane saw fit to select Davey Cowen as their Man of the Year. This is certainly a fitting tribute to Davey for the many years of service to his beloved city.

"Commencing this year, Davey will establish a new record of having continuously served in the House and Senate for a record of twenty-nine years. It certainly belies his appearance.

"One of his many friends recently wrote Davey to this effect: 'Reflecting upon the past events, your remarkable record of public service is truly outstanding. Those of us who have some idea of your personal charities know that your service in the state Legislature has cost you a small fortune and that all you sought was a personal satisfaction of a job well done. You have played a key roll in the history of the state of Washington through both critical and prosperous years. Your wisdom and counsel have been a great contribution and is an inspiration to all of us in public life.'

"I know that the members who have served with him will say 'amen' to the statement made by the above-mentioned friend. Davey, heartiest congratulations."

Senator Cowen:

"Thank you, John.

"Mr. President, Chief Justice Ott, Your Excellency, and members of the Senate:

"When I first arrived here in 1935, the only face that I can see in our body today is that of my good friend Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the state of Washington, Richard B. Ott. He no doubt recollects those trying days of the 'thirties, and I know no doubt a good many of you here remember the 'thirties when we had a general economic breakdown of our nation. Those were the days when men were men and boys were boys. Those were trying days, and it took great leadership in order to save this state; and, I may say that the Governor of this state who is a resident of Spokane county, Governor Clarence Martin, showed great leadership in saving our state from chaos and many other things. I, too, was happy to have a part in that legislature in 1935; and, the only man present now who was here then is our Chief Justice Richard B. Ott.

"I am deeply grateful for the honor that you have bestowed on me, not only today but in the many years past, and maybe if I serve another twenty-nine years. I may be able to take the seat of my good friend Ed Riley. It may take another twenty-nine years. I don't know if I will live that long. Those of you sitting in this body, I sincerely hope that you too will serve in your capacity as members of the state senate another twenty-nine years. God bless you and may the Lord keep you well.

"Thank you."

The committee of honor escorted Senator Cowen from the rostrum.

The President called for nominations for the office of Secretary of the Senate.

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I have had the distinct honor to have placed Ward Bowden's name in nomination for the last three sessions of this body, and I once again have that pleasure.

"I think one of the things that can be best said about Ward Bowden is that no task that we ask of him is too small for him to perform for us, nor is any task too large for him to perform. I especially point out to the new members of the Senate that Ward Bowden is here to serve us as individuals as well as collectively. If, presumptively on my part, Ward is elected as Secretary of the Senate, and I hasten to say I have no doubt but what that will be a fact, I urge you new members of the Senate to afford yourself of the opportunity to ask Ward for help on any matter that may be of concern to you. I say that in all fields, except as to any question that perhaps is outside the scope of his authority, Ward will quickly tell you when that happens, because when I first came here and Ward was first elected Secretary of the Senate, I thought, because he came from Sultan, which is in my legislative district, that he might somehow give me a little bit of an edge and allow me to ask for perhaps a benefit that would not necessarily accrue to all. Ward quickly assured me that that was not the case. He educated me in a hurry. As a matter of fact, he established standards much higher for me than I think he had for the remainder of the Senate. This is indicative of the honor he attaches to the office of Secretary of the Senate.

"I think that we can do no better than to elect Ward Bowden to that office once again."

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President, this is my fourth session and in the three previous sessions I have known no employee or officer of this body who deserved bi-partisan support more than Ward Bowden. He is competent. He is considerate, and he is eminently fair and I am very happy to second the nomination for the minority party."

MOTION

Senator Greive moved that the Secretary be instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for Ward Bowden for Secretary of the Senate.

RULING OF THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"If there are no objections, the nominations for the office of Secretary of the Senate will be closed. However, Senator Greive, while the President is quite familiar with Mr. Bowden's personality, character and sterling qualities, the President must rule that the Secretary call the roll because I am sure that Mr. Bowden would want this to stick and to be glued down."

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll on the election of Secretary of the Senate, and Ward Bowden was elected by the following vote: Ward Bowden, 48; absent and excused, 1.

Those voting for Ward Bowden were: Senators Atwood, Bailey, Charette, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, England,

Foley, Freise, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Petrich, Rasmussen, Raugust, Rickdall, Riley, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Thompson, Jr., Washington, Williams, Woodall—48.

The President appointed an honor committee consisting of Senator Gissberg and Senator Mardesich to escort Ward Bowden to the rostrum.

Chief Justice Ott administered the oath of office of Secretary of the Senate to Ward Bowden.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Mr. Bowden:

"That was a close fight which you just won. The President is certainly grateful to the members of the Senate for choosing as Secretary of the Senate a man of Ward Bowden's character, intelligence and diligence. Mr. Bowden's mass of legislative experience and his sincere devotion to duty has made him a friend and advisor to the entire Senate. I am sure you are all aware of the great value and help that Ward is to the President and to every other officer of the Senate and to the personnel that are with us this session. He proves of great value to each and every one of us at all times and certainly, as long as the Senate of the state of Washington has a man of this character as Secretary of the Senate, certainly we cannot, to quote Judge Ott, err too much. Thank you very much, Senators, and congratulations to you, Ward!"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Peterson:

"Mr. President, I just want to say a word while our Secretary of the Senate is before the Senators, and that is this is a unanimous vote and for that reason we want him to know that the members on this side of the aisle are as much in accord with the vote and I would have liked to have been one of the members to escort him to the rostrum."

Mr. Bowden:

"Thank you, Mr. President, Judge Ott, and distinguished members of the Senate.

"I want to express my appreciation to you on both sides of the aisle, of course, for your fine support and I am sure you must realize I deem it a great privilege to serve you in this office of Secretary of the Senate. Thank you all very much.

"I would like at this time to present to you some new faces and some old on the desk staff of the Secretary.

"You all know Don Wilson, the Assistant Secretary. Don, would you stand?

"And, of course, you all know Peter Brudevold who is our Reading Clerk and has been for many sessions.

"A new face, we have Patricia Scott Martin, who is our Minute Clerk. Pat served in a similar capacity in the House during several previous sessions and is a highly competent court reporter.

"And over to my left is another Pat—Pat O'Brien, who is our Public Address Technician, and so we have an O'Brien over here, too.

"And at my extreme left is Evelyn Ashley, who has worked here before and most of you know her. She has a new job this session and I am pleased Evelyn is with us as Docket Clerk.

"I feel that you will be served with a very efficient desk staff, and with that, I think we better go to other business.

"Thank you, gentlemen, very much."

The President declared nominations for the office of Sergeant at Arms of the Senate now in order.

Senator Henry:

"Distinguished guests and fellow Senators:

"This has become almost automatic with me over the years because the man I am going to place in nomination as Sergeant at Arms is a long-time friend and colleague. I served with this gentleman in the House of Representatives in 1951. I had the pleasure of nominating him Sergeant at Arms of the House in 1955, and here in 1957, 1959 and 1961. He is a man who is very efficient and who has served us all well and worked hard at his job. It is my pleasure to place in nomination the name of Charlie Johnson, as Sergeant at Arms."

Senator DeGarmo:

"I rise to second the nomination of Charlie Johnson."

Senator Peterson:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I rise to place in nomination the name of a member of our party who has served many years in various capacities, particularly as Sergeant at Arms at caucuses, conventions and various other meetings. This member of our party has done outstanding work. He has served in a judicious manner and has really helped considerably to promote the interest of good government in the state of Washington. I therefore place in nomination the name of Gene Mahoney, forty-fourth district, Seattle, county of King."

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, colleagues of the Senate:

"I would like to rise to second the nomination of Gene Mahoney as Sergeant at Arms."

On motion of Senator Greive the nominations were closed.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the election of Sergeant at Arms of the Senate and Charlie Johnson was elected by the following vote: Charlie Johnson, 31; Gene Mahoney, 16; absent and excused, 2.

Those voting for Charlie Johnson for Sergeant at Arms were: Senators Bailey, Charette, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Foley, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Rasmussen, Riley, Sandison, Talley, Washington—31.

Those voting for Gene Mahoney for Sergeant at Arms were: Senators Atwood, Chytil, England, Freise, Guess, Lennart, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Raugust, Rickdall, Ryder, Stender, Thompson, Jr., Williams, Woodall—16.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Foster, Petrich—2.

The President appointed an honor committee consisting of Senators DeGarmo and Henry to escort Charlie Johnson to the rostrum.

Chief Justice Ott administered the oath of office of Sergeant at Arms to Charlie Johnson.

The President:

"Members of the Senate:

"Probably one of the most difficult duties to perform during a legislative session is that of keeping the business of the Senate in an orderly manner. To assist in this particular project, you have once again elected Mr. Charlie Johnson as your Sergeant at Arms. The President looks upon this as an expression of your confidence in Mr. Johnson, as well as an expression of gratitude for his past services. We all know Charlie will continue to fulfill his duties as Sergeant at Arms in a most credible manner. Congratulations to you, Charlie, and best wishes."

Mr. Johnson:

"Thank you, Governor.

"Governor, Judge Ott and Senators:

"It is a pleasure to serve you on both sides of the aisle, and I am very happy to help you Republicans as well as the Democrats. If any favors are to be done, I am sure they will all be equitably divided—on the Democratic side."

The honor committee escorted Charlie Johnson from the rostrum.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"The President, with the permission of the members of the Senate, should like to express his deep appreciation and gratitude to the members of the Senate for the harmonious and pleasant manner in which you have organized the state Senate. Also, the President would like to express his regret and apologize to his friends on the left for failing to have one of your group escort Mr. Bowden to the rostrum. Now that Mr. Bowden is our Secretary, rather than our Acting Secretary, the President believes he will not make that mistake again.

"Thanks very much to you, Judge Ott.

"Would the Chief Justice's committee of honor please come to the rostrum to escort the Chief Justice to his chambers?"

Chief Justice Ott of the Supreme Court of the state of Washington was escorted to his chamber.

SECOND DAY

NOON SESSION

SENATE CHAMBER,

The Senate was called to order at noon by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senator Foster.

On motion of Senator Neill, Senator Foster was excused.

Reverend J. Burton Salter, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Almighty God unto whom all hearts are open, all desires are known, and from whom no secrets are hid; we beseech Thee for Thy benediction upon the Senators of this State and their associates that we all may face whatever the day brings in the gladness of Thy guidance, in the Glory of Thy service, and in the solemn realization that we are indeed our brother's keeper.

"Draw us near to Thee in sincerity and with humility that we may know Thy peace in our minds and in our hearts.

"Direct and sanctify all that we do and say in order that in all the decisions that emerge from the deliberations of this august body, there may be nothing of which when the evening comes we shall have cause to be ashamed.

"Bestow, O loving Father, these gifts upon us for the sake of Thy Son Jesus Christ, our Lord, Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEES

"Members of the Senate, present in the Legislative Building today is a very distinguished guest, the Honorable Mayor of Olympia, Mr. Neil McKay. The President should like to request Senators Woodall, Washington, Connor and DeGarmo as a committee of honor to escort our distinguished visitor to the rostrum.

The committee of honor escorted Mayor McKay to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, the honored guest today has a very important message to deliver to you. The President is sure that it will hold your deep interest. It is my privilege to present to you, Mayor McKay of Olympia."

Mayor McKay:

"Thank you very much, Governor Cherberg and members of the Senate.

"On behalf of the citizens of Olympia, I want to take this opportunity to welcome you to our city. As you are probably all aware, ever since the Legislature has been meeting in our city, it has been customary for the citizens of the city of Olympia to welcome the members of the Legislature with a Legislative Ball, and traditionally the Legislative Ball has been held the first Wednesday of the Session. That comes rather quickly after the Legislature convenes, but it gives you a chance to get acquainted with the people of Olympia early during the time that you are visiting our city; and so tomorrow night at the State Armory in Olympia, the Legislative Ball for this Session will take place.

"I have given to your Sergeant at Arms a package containing tickets for each one of you.

"We have a very fine orchestra and I am sure you will enjoy the dance very much. The receiving line will begin at nine o'clock, and in the receiving line will be the Governor and the Supreme Court Judges, the elective officials and their ladies. At ten o'clock, the dancing will start.

"We hope that you will enjoy this dance very much and we hope you will all attend. Again I want to welcome you to our Olympia. We are happy to have you here and hope you have a very enjoyable session of the Legislature. Thank you very much."

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Mayor McKay:

"Thank you very much on behalf of the members of the Senate for your cordial invitation. The President is sure that the members of the Senate will be delighted to attend and will be looking forward with great anticipation and pleasure in doing so."

The committee of honor escorted Mayor McKay from the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"It is always the pleasure of the President to note the presence of a renowned and radiant former member of the august body of the Senate of the state of Washington. The President is sure that you will know exactly who it is when I say that this honored former member is the mother of our own eminent and respected Senator Frances Haddon Morgan from Kitsap county. Of course, the President is referring to that majestic person, Mrs. Lulu Haddon. The President takes deep pleasure in asking Senators Morgan, McMillan, Thompson, Jr. and Freise to please escort our lovely visitor to the rostrum."

The committee of honor escorted Mrs. Haddon to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate:

"Upon arriving at the rostrum, Senator Haddon advised me that she had hidden in a corner in the hopes that the President would not see her. The President has often been accused, and rightly so, of overlooking certain things, but never has he been found guilty of failing to look over a very attractive visitor. Senator Haddon, the members of the Senate and the President take pleasure in prevailing upon you to address the Senate.

Senator Haddon:

"Thank you. It is always a pleasure to come back and see the Senate. There are still a few here that I served with. Today it is a very great pleasure to be here because former Representative Ernest Leber is in the back of the hall. He served eighteen or sixteen—I have forgotten which—years in the House. I served with him in 1933, in that rough session, and I have a great feeling for him. It's nice to see a few of the old-timers here and I am always glad to come back to see you get organized and going. Thank you very much."

The President:

"Members of the Senate:

"The President also notes the presence of the Honorable Ernest R. Leber. As Mrs. Haddon has so generously pointed out, Representative Leber served with distinction in the House of Representatives, and Senator Morgan has just jumped the gun on the President. The President was going to have Senator Raugust and Senator Washington join Senator Morgan in escorting Representative Leber to the rostrum. I think it is all right at this time.

"Now, Representative Leber, if you think you are going to get out of addressing the Washington State Senate, you will have to start thinking again. The President is sure from the warm reception you received that the Senators would be delighted to have you speak to them. Won't you, please?"

Representative Leber:

"President Cherberg and members of the Legislature:

"It is a pleasure for me to come back here again after being absent from legislative groups since 1949. I have served eight terms in this Legislature. However, I served none in the Senate, but I had the honor and pleasure about twenty-some odd years ago to serve in the Legislature with this fine lady here, Mrs. Haddon, and there are many more men in this Senate with whom I have served in this Legislature. I am glad to be present, and I wish you the best of everything in the Session to come."

The President:

"Thank you very much, Representative Leber.

"I am sure that everyone joins the President in expressing the thought that we appreciate very much your words."

PRESENTATION OF PETITIONS, MEMORIALS, RESOLUTIONS AND MOTIONS

Senator Woodall gave notice that on the next working day under the proper order of business, he would move the following amendment to the temporary Senate rules:

Amendment to temporary Senate Rules, by Senator Woodall:

Amend Temporary Senate Rule 58 by adding thereto the following language: "Provided further, That introduction of bills by departmental or executive request shall be limited to the first twenty days of the session unless the Senate shall otherwise direct by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to the Senate, the said vote to be taken by yeas and nays and entered upon the journal or unless the same be at a special session."

"The members of the Senate and the President are happy to visit the House of Representatives in a true spirit of cooperation and understanding. We have been received in the same true spirit.

"It is an ideal time for each of us to recall our duties and obligations to the citizens of the state of Washington. The eminent jurist, Louis Brandeis, once said, 'The greatest progress will perhaps be made if all of us can give larger thought to our duties than to our rights.'

"Governor Rosellini, Speaker Day and the President wish to express our appreciation to you for your patience, your understanding and your remarkably good sense of humor.

"One consoling feature of this particular situation is that today we are all joined in making history in the state of Washington. This is the first time in history that a Joint Session of the Washington Legislature has convened in the Senate chamber.

"At this time, the occasion for which we have gathered has come. It is with great pride and privilege that the President presents His Excellency, the Honorable Albert D. Rosellini, Governor of the state of Washington. (Applause.)

MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR ALBERT D. ROSELLINI TO THE LEGISLATURE

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, members of the Legislature, members of the Judiciary, state elected officials and ladies and gentlemen:

"I might ask: What do I do for an encore after the failure of the public address system in the other room? I will not be offended if you will want to applaud in agreement when I say that the address I made over there was the best I have ever made. (Laughter.)

"Seriously, I do appreciate this opportunity to extend to all of you a warm greeting. It is traditional, as we know, for the Chief Executive of the state of Washington to report on the condition of the state on an occasion such as this, and let me assert at the start that the condition of the state of Washington is sound. We are on course and we are moving forward.

"In the last two years we have lived through three great events. We have recovered from a recession, we have held the most successful world's fair in history, and we have lived up to our responsibilities in a grave national emergency. This is no surprise. Our people have a tradition of greatness. We have tamed the Columbia. We have made the desert flourish. We have spanned the length and breadth of this great commonwealth with unsurpassed highways. We have provided a quality education for our children and youth. Within our borders lie atomic and space industries. Mountain, plain and valley are producing abundantly. Through private enterprise and enlightened government, our people have built and are building a great civilization. Our spirit is the same spirit that infused those who first sailed around the Cape to this new territory, of those who first felled the mighty Douglas fir, and of those who crossed the plains in covered wagons.

"The will of the people must prevail. The people have spoken clearly. They want their state government to continue the highly successful programs which have gained us national recognition. They want these programs maintained as they have been in the recent past, diligently within the principle of fiscal responsibility. This is the challenge we propose to meet.

"The composition of this Legislature has been much discussed. May I offer an observation based upon considerable experience in public affairs and lengthy service in the Legislature. Regardless of party label, we are all conservatives, we are all liberals. We are conservatives insofar as we reaffirm, in action as well as words, our faith in the historic principles of self government enunciated by our fathers, in our respect for the dignity of the individual and his right to be free and to enjoy the fruits of his labor, and in the belief that government is the servant, not the master, of the people. We are liberals insofar as we approach new problems with a fresh outlook, with a determination that what must be done, can be done in the public sector of the commonwealth, that strong, responsible, and responsive government, equal to the challenges of the hour, and aware of human needs in a fast-changing, increasingly-complex society, is the only government worthy of the name. Let us conduct our deliberations openly, honestly, and realistically. Let us be proud of our achievements. Then let us look at what we must do in this session to continue the progress which makes each of us proud to be a citizen of the state of Washington.

"Let us make certain that our children shall continue to receive an education in the schools of this state comparable to the best. Universal free education is an American idea. The whole world seeks what we have had for generations. Our enemies seek to outdo us. We must meet increased enrollments. We must maintain quality. We must expand opportunities for higher learning. A skilled and educated citizenry is our greatest resource.

"On an over-all basis our educational program, both in the common schools, including the secondary level, and in our five institutions of higher learning, is meeting the needs of our children and youth. I propose that the Legislature take into account the increased enrollment at all levels. I ask the Legislature to give careful consideration to the needs of our five institutions of higher learning. A larger percentage of high school graduates now seeks an education beyond the twelfth grade than ever before. The bumper crop of World War II babies is now of college age. Our two universities are numbered among the nation's finest institutions of higher learning, and our three state colleges are widely recognized for their graduates. Although we cannot, because of fiscal limitations, do all that might seem highly desirable by way of improving even more the high quality of our educational program, my proposal for support of education will ensure a continuation of elementary, secondary, and higher education at a level in keeping with our best traditions.

"The World's Fair is history. It was not only a financial success, but it gave a boost to our economy. It demonstrated what men of good will, in both private and public capacities can accomplish when they set their minds to do it. The state of Washington, through the Department of Commerce and Economic Development, played a leading role in planning Century 21. The cooperation between private enterprise and government in this field will continue. Spearheading this effort will be a private, nonprofit tourist-promotion organization called Washington Welcome, which was created at my request to capitalize upon the momentum stimulated by the World's Fair. The advancement of economic growth in all sectors will continue to be the mission of the Department of Commerce and Economic Development.

"I think all of us who have lived here for some time realize that the state of Washington is an outdoor paradise, but population growth, increased demands upon facilities, and a shrinking availability of outdoor resources require that we take action now. A long-range outdoor recreation program is one of the most important needs confronting the people of our state. I will present to the Legislature, in a special message, a comprehensive proposal on the subject of outdoor recreation.

"We must preserve our fishing industry. Hatcheries and fish farms have replenished the streams, but the maintenance of fishing resources is an interstate and international problem. A Pacific Coast Conference on Salmon has just been held at my invitation. I ask you to give careful consideration to its recommendations. Research is vitally needed. However, of even greater importance at this time is the protection of the right of access by the fishing industry in the state of Washington to resources in international waters. The state must remain an alert and informed party to any and all negotiations carried on by the federal government with foreign countries on the subject of fishing rules and regulations. When I speak of fishing, I refer not only to the several species of salmon, but to other species such as halibut. The future of an important Washington industry is at stake.

"Pollution of water and air have become problems of national interest. The Pollution Control Commission and the Department of Health are working on these problems. Important gains have been made. Our commercial salmon industry, shellfish industry, and sports fishing are vitally interested in the outcome of studies now under way.

"Fresh clean air is a vital natural resource. The future of Washington as a place to live, work, and enjoy recreation depends upon control of air pollution as well as water pollution. An Air Pollution Control Board is proceeding with its work.

"The development of our extensive hydroelectric resources must go forward. I believe there is a place in this for both private and public enterprise. Our atomic, aerospace, and aluminum industries are directly dependent on the availability of low-cost electrical energy. We must continue to apply the principle of multiple water-resource usage so that lands are reclaimed, crops irrigated, water-shed areas protected, fish runs guaranteed, and scenic and recreation areas preserved. First claim to hydroelectric power produced in the Pacific Northwest must be ensured. We have won our struggle to produce electrical energy at Hanford, but, in a growing area where electrical power is a key factor in industrial development, we must look to additional resources. Plans are now being made to utilize some of our coal reserves for conversion into electrical power.

"An estimated 235,000 citizens of this state are employed in manufacturing. One-fourth of these work in forest product industries. The two million acres of forest lands managed by the Department of Natural Resources are a tremendously significant part of the total timber resources of the state. Our timber economy depends to a large extent on maintaining maximum productivity in the wood-fiber category, both on public and private lands. We must continue that research which will help to produce maximum yields of such forest-land products as timber, water, wildlife, and recreation.

"The Department of Conservation, which works very closely with the Department of Natural Resources, is currently conducting a topographical study. This, together with a mineral survey already made, will provide inventories of great significance in our program of industrial development.

"Washington rightly claims a position of leadership in terms of its concern for the well-being of its working force. Through continued adherence to sound insurance principles, we can, and must, maintain our unemployment compensation fund, which has traditionally been one of the most solvent in the country. Employment is at an all-time high, but unemployment compensation benefits should be extended to groups of workers not now covered.

"Joint Federal-State activities in the area of retraining those displaced by automation must continue and be accelerated. To facilitate this cooperation with the Federal government in the retraining of displaced employees and in dealing with other problems related to automation, I have appointed a state Manpower Advisory Committee, on which are represented labor, management, agriculture, vocational education, and the public. The injured workmen's rehabilitation center is in operation and meeting our expectations. Once again I ask the Legislature to study the possibility of implementing a program of permanent, partial-disability pensions for injured workmen. Gains in wage and hour protection for women and minors have been made. The Washington State mediation and conciliation program has made an important contribution to labor-management relations. I ask that the Legislature continue to reject any so-called right to work law.

"The work of the Veterans' Rehabilitation Council must continue. Closures by the Veterans' Administration of its facilities in several of our larger cities make the services of this agency even more imperative than heretofore.

"The Washington State Supreme Court has declared our publicly-assisted housing law unconstitutional. We must try again. Anti-discrimination clauses should be written into all state contracts. I will submit measures dealing with each of these matters later in the Session. I propose, further, that the state of Washington join the other forty-nine states in removing the prohibition to ownership of land by aliens.

"Ninety-seven percent of all our young people are law-abiding. The remaining three percent constitute our juvenile delinquency problem. Drinking by minors is a major contributor to delinquent behavior. I urge the Legislature to join with me in taking steps to bring this problem under greater control. Prevention of juvenile delinquency has been, and must be, emphasized. New child guidance centers are in operation and proving successful. Our new juvenile reception and diagnostic center, which will soon open, will help resolve a crucial problem. Despite a significant increase in commitments, our rehabilitation programs are working, and the number of juvenile parole violations continue to be among the lowest in the nation.

"The proud achievements in the area of delinquency prevention and rehabilitation of youthful offenders can be matched in virtually all other areas of state institutional programs. For instance, our three state mental hospitals are now fully accredited for the first time in the history of our state. In addition, through new programs of psychotherapy the population of these three hospitals has continued to decline steadily. As with mental illness, our programs for the mentally retarded also have achieved dramatic results. But in so doing, we have also increased the need for additional facilities for the retarded. This has occurred despite a substantial expansion during the past two years of existing facilities. We must continue to devote intense efforts to resolve growing problems in this area of our society. Our program of services to the visually and auditorially handicapped in our two state schools in Vancouver is going forward.

"Work has begun on a new adult correction institution near Shelton. This will open in 1964. The emphasis in our correction program has been on rehabilitation. Our policies in the area of probation and parole have facilitated the restoration of offenders to productive life.

"The Department of Health is studying radiation, continuing its attack on tuberculosis, and making great gains in the field of alcoholism research and treatment. Vaccines for the prevention of virus-type diseases have been carefully scrutinized before permitting release.

"The Department of Agriculture has tightened control over the sale and use of pesticides and insecticides to ensure the wholesomeness of foods grown and distributed in this state. The meat inspection program has improved. Deceptive and fraudulent practices in the packaging and labeling of foods have been curtailed.

"The state of Washington, for the past three decades, has met the needs of those who could not provide the necessities of life for themselves. In the past two years, the Department of Public Assistance has activated a work-relief program, a surplus food distribution program, a fraud investigation unit, and has expanded the operations of the support enforcement and collection units. The latter efforts have helped ensure that funds are going to those who legitimately qualify for assistance. Adoption procedures have been strengthened. A blind rehabilitation center is under construction in Seattle. The Department is continuing to direct its efforts toward the rehabilitation of physically handicapped persons and the employment of those with limited skills and experience. To more effectively collect from those who have deserted their children, I ask the Legislature to strengthen the state's Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act.

"This state has constructed, is now building, and has additional plans for, a system of highways which has earned for us the esteem of the entire United States. Our Highway Department was recently named, on a national television network, as one of the five best in the whole nation. Our interstate highway program, which represents two-thirds of the work load of the Highway Department at the present time, is on, or ahead of, schedule. Highway progress in the past two years has been phenomenal. For the record of this proud achievement, I invite your attention to the annual activity report of the Washington Highway Department, which includes a full description of projects completed and under way. We are meeting, as rapidly as federal and state funds are available, present demands for a safe and expeditious highway transportation system, and we are planning for future highway development which will be integrated with all other parts of the economy. The Puget Sound Regional Transportation Study, now under way, is one such effort.

"It is time for objectivity in considering the Washington State Ferry System. The ferry system has met the demands made upon it. Notwithstanding frequently heard opinions to the contrary, the present ferries meet safety standards. Excepting for peak periods, these ferries will do a satisfactory job for the next two or three years. However, a number of the ferries which are adequate now, will be obsolete in terms of capacity to meet demand as projected into the future. Capital replacement cannot be realized from present or foreseeable schedules of fares. We must plan for orderly replacement of vessels and ferry terminals. After examining the report of the General Manager of the system, I concur in his recommendation that Chapter 7 of Laws Extraordinary Session of 1961 be amended. I recommend that all revenues accruing to the Puget Sound reserve account from one-fourth cent of the gasoline tax be reserved for the exclusive use of Washington State Ferries to pay operating deficits, debt service on bonds, replacement of capital equipment and terminal facilities, and such additional costs as are necessary and approved in each biennial budget.

"The state of Washington, in 1961, received national recognition for its achievements in traffic supervision. Our record for 1962 will very likely be the best among the thirteen western states. But, the death and injury rates on our highways must be further reduced. Through automation, the Department of Licenses is now making a remarkable contribution to highway safety. I am determined that the highways of this state will become safe for all who use them. I will introduce legislation relating to the compulsory use of seat belts in motor vehicles, as well as other measures pertaining to highway safety.

"The Department of Civil Defense has located shelter space for more than one million persons. Those now licensed, which include the majority of those located, are being stocked with supplies. A food distribution program has been established, and survival techniques have been taught to thousands. Monitoring stations to measure fallout have been established in 206 locations. A civil defense communications network has been expanded and improved.

"At my request, the last Legislature authorized a program for the protection of the buying public. Stronger measures to protect the consumer from fraudulent, deceptive, and unfair practices will be introduced later in this session.

"The Department of Personnel has just completed a classification study involving state employees under the civil service act. Equal pay for equal work, insofar as possible, is our goal.

"The proper conduct of elections is a responsibility of state government. I propose that candidates for public office should be required by law to disclose the sources of their financial support, prior to both the primary and general elections. Accordingly, I will introduce a proposal for a State Campaign Contribution and Expenditure Reporting Law. I ask the Legislature to consider it carefully.

"Reapportionment of legislative districts is an obligation imposed upon the Legislature by the state constitution. The United States Supreme Court has served notice that states which do not comply in this regard run the risk of having the courts make this determination for them. I recommend and urge you, that we exercise the sovereign power of our state in accomplishing this necessary task.

"Everyone here is aware that our cities face financial difficulties. Consideration should be given by the Legislature to their plight. Subdivisions of the state, including municipalities, should be required to assume additional obligations only when ways and means at the local level have been provided.

"In 1961, I created by executive directive, a division of local affairs in the Department of Commerce and Economic Development. This division has administered several federal programs of assistance to cities and other municipal corporations. I ask the Legislature to grant statutory status to this division, which would thereby have statewide developmental planning authority enabling it to coordinate and administer additional federal programs pertaining to urban problems.

"The Advisory Council on Nuclear Energy and Radiation has been studying the status of our atomic energy program. The council recommends amendatory legislation which would enable the state of Washington to seek agreement with the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission for assumption by the state of regulatory functions. By attaining agreement status, our state would be taking a long step toward creating a coordinated program for industry, education, agriculture, and health. I strongly urge adoption of the proposed amendment.

"We are endowed in this state with unsurpassed natural resources: snow-capped mountains, fertile valleys, broad plains, and extensive waterways. We have more of what most people consider the basic formula for good living than any other state in the union. Our natural wonders are matched by those we ourselves have made. This is giant country. No mean objective can catch the imagination of people with our heritage. All of our people have enjoyed the opportunities and freedoms ensured by wise public policies and equality under the law. The level of our civilization commands wide respect.

"Two weeks ago I had the privilege of meeting a Cuban refugee. He had been a judge in the Traditional Courts of Cuba. He and his family, after more than a year of negotiations, were finally permitted to leave Cuba. He is weary of all dictatorship. Most Cubans, he pointed out, do not even know there is a state of Washington. They know only about Washington, D. C. He learned a great deal about our state through a voluntary relocation agency. But, even before leaving Cuba, he had heard that the state of Washington had the largest engineering undertakings in the country: bridges, tunnels, and dams. And, he was an engineer as well as a lawyer. He had selected our state because of its natural beauty and the widely recognized hospitality of its people. He was not disappointed. He was overcome by the beauty of this building. In less than one week, he had discovered the majesty, the beauty, and the potentialities of this great natural wonderland, which we, too often, take for granted.

"We, in this room, have been entrusted with the responsibility to preserve and wisely use the great wealth handed down to us, to maintain freedom, and to enlarge opportunities for every man, woman, and child who lives within this commonwealth.

"Let us, in humility, and, seeking Divine help, rededicate ourselves to the ideals which have made this nation and this state a place where life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are boundless."

(Applause.)

The committee retired.

The President of the Senate instructed the committee consisting of Representatives Uhlman, Mast and O'Connell and Senators Greive and Neill to come forward and escort the elected state officials from the Senate chamber to the reception room.

The President of the Senate:

"Members of the Legislature, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The President wishes to express the appreciation of the members of the Senate, and his own, for the wonderful reception the House gave us upon our arrival and to express gratitude to the Speaker for his cooperation and consideration.

"The President also would like to express appreciation for the cooperation of the Chief Clerk of the House, S. R. Holcomb, and to the Secretary of the Senate, Ward Bowden. The processes and the mechanics of a legislature are complex and extremely intricate, and I believe we all are indebted to both Mr. Holcomb and Mr. Bowden for the grand work they do for each of us."

Deliver us from the sophistries of the cynical and the inclinations of our hearts to self-deceit. PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to announce that the cigars and candy that are being passed among the Senators are given as a compliment of a very outstanding citizen of this state. Likewise some cigarettes are being distributed. He is the only Senator in the state of Washington who never has to run for re-election. I refer to a man who, for many, many years, counseled us and guided us and led us on certain matters of legislation. A few years ago he was named an Honorary Senator of the state of Washington. I refer to Senator Wilbur Scruby of Seattle; and, I would like at this time, if the President would desire, that he be escorted to a seat on the rostrum."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President:

"Thank you very much, Senator Woodall. The President is delighted that you called the attention of the members of the Senate and the President to the presence of such an illustrious and remarkable person. The President would like to request Senators Woodall, Ryder, Cowen and Gissberg to act as a committee of honor to escort our distinguished visitor to the rostrum."

The honor committee consisting of Senators Woodall, Ryder, Cowen and Gissberg, escorted Honorary Senator Wilbur Scruby to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate:

"The President is sure that he would be amiss in his duties and responsibilities if at this time the Senate were to miss the opportunity of hearing from the Honorable Wilbur Scruby. It is with true pleasure that the President presents a good friend and respected honorary member of the Washington State Senate, Mr. Wilbur Scruby."

Honorary Senator Wilbur Scruby:

"Mr. President:

"I am very sorry, but my voice is very bad. I had a little session last night with some of the boys, as usual.

"I started in the old capitol in 1915 as a representative of the Washington Bankers' Association, and I continued up until 1949, when I decided I was getting a little old for the job and they had to get somebody much younger.

"I am always glad to come down here for two or three days during the session and see my old friends and meet a lot of new ones. Particularly, I am glad to see Ed Riley from my district. He is a Democrat and I am a Republican.

"The most gratifying thing was when I was elected Honorary Senator in 1947. There were twenty-three Democrats and twenty-three Republicans in the Senate and, surprisingly, I got the votes of all the twenty-three Democrats, including a lot of them who were on the left side of the fence.

"I am always glad to be here and I hope you will have a very fine session. Thank you."

The President:

"Thank you, Mr. Scruby, for your presence and for your gifts this morning."

President of the Senate, John A. Cherberg:

"Members of the Legislature, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"His Excellency, the Honorable Albert D. Rosellini, Governor of the state of Washington:"

BUDGET MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR ALBERT D. ROSELLINI TO THE LEGISLATURE

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Legislature:

"Tonight it is important that you join me in considering the human and the financial condition of this green corner which must be of primary concern to all of us—our state of Washington. We earn our living here, we raise our families here, we elect our government here. And no citizen can afford to remain uninformed or take for granted, the progress and the problems of that government.

"Because that progress and the problems are so compelling, I am at this time following a course unprecedented for the delivery of a Governor's budget message. As I address the members of the newly convened Thirty-eighth Washington State Legislature I speak also to my fellow citizens. The subject is money.

"Contrary to the old maxim, money in the state of Washington DOES grow on trees. It grows on trees, on missiles and jets, on farms, on heavy industry, and on tourists. It grows year by year, but the crop is not so flourishing that we can afford to avoid a major inventory when conditions demand it. In my judgment, conditions do not demand such an inventory.

"The most important challenge confronting all of us in this state is . . . how we shall raise . . . and how we shall spend . . . the money required to perform those tasks which our citizens expect of their government. To understand the nature of this challenge, demands the attention not only of myself as governor, or of the legislators, but of the entire state. I ask tonight the attention of the forward passers who seek to move down the field toward a needed community score, sometimes without enough thought to the burly tacklers of excessive debt. I ask the attention of the skeptic who automatically, but often dangerously, equalizes government with waste, and with functions and services of benefit to anybody but himself. I call also upon the one-track advocate, who pounds at the doors of state government in behalf of his particular interest but ignores or even scorns other needs; and finally, all those Washingtonians who wish simply to learn all the facts so they may determine for themselves the wisdom of past procedures and proposed solutions.

"I am proposing this evening, to this legislature a 1963-65 balanced budget. It will meet the minimal needs of sustaining our current levels of quality even as we face up to unavoidable facts of life. I repeat: minimal needs. I am suggesting that this can, and must be done on the basis of expected revenues, and without any new taxes. I recognize that this will be difficult for the legislature to enact. However, I wish the legislators to be aware that I shall hold to this position and stand with them in maintaining it. I am aware that this budget will disappoint many who in good faith feel an urgency for continued improvement and expansion of state programs. But it will also disappoint those who live in the dream world of belief that savings, however diligently pursued, can permanently offset rising expenses of meeting economic and human needs. I am not now recommending new taxes because this would require an unthinkable addition to existing taxes which are unjust and regressive, as I have said in previous budget messages. Ladies and gentlemen of the legislature, my fellow citizens, it is time to call such a halt because our state has a problem.

"The problem is neither greater than in many states, nor is it indeed as great as in many others. But nonetheless, a problem it is. While there are eighteen other states in which the load of state and local taxes on the individual is higher than in Washington, we rank only with the Southern States and with the fledgling states of Hawaii and Alaska in the lopsided and staggering degree to which our system requires the state to carry most of the burden while local tax sources go relatively untapped.

"Let's look at the elements of the problem.

"In the ten years ending in 1961, the population in our state grew by almost 21 percent, and personal income grew by almost 57 percent.

"It would be logical to assume from this that taxes which were in effect in 1951 would be producing ten years later about as much additional money as the population and income growth. But when we examine the taxes actually collected in 1961, we find that they were not just 57 percent more than ten years previously, but over 100 percent more because new taxes had been levied in the interim.

"Why were these additional taxes necessary?

"The answer lies in the nature of our population growth. During those same ten years, the number of people who work for a living and produce income—those 18 to 65 years of age—increased only about 8 percent. But the school-age segment of our population—those 17 and under—increased 42 percent . . . while the age group 65 and over increased above 32 percent. So we had a disproportionate increase in the number of persons who require state services as compared to those who provide the money for such services. How did this startling pattern of growth demand that we spend our money? In the budget which I am now proposing for the state's principal pocketbook—the General Fund—in 1963-65, the distribution would be as follows and is consistent with what has been necessary in recent years.

"For schooling, including the institutions of higher education, 58.7 percent!

"Carefully scrutinized needs for public assistance, including old age, aid to dependent children, and assistance to the blind and disabled, 24.8 percent!

"For the state institutions with which we have made such significant progress in the past six years, including the adult and juvenile facilities, as well as the hospitals for the mentally ill, the blind, the deaf and the retarded, 8.5 percent!

"And finally, for all other functions of state government dependent on the general fund, a long list including agriculture, departments for public safety and regulation, pollution control, insurance regulation, economic and tourist development, protection of our natural resources and current capital outlay . . . all of these just 8 percent.

"Let us return to that first staggering figure: almost 60 percent of all money which we expect to come into the general fund in the next two years must be committed to the education of our children; with by far the greater part of it for common schools and expended under the exclusive jurisdiction of the state department of public instruction.

"Let it be clearly understood, were it not for the needs of the schools, the growth between 1951 and 1961 in all other functions of state government, all other, could have been financed out of the yield from the taxes which were in effect in 1951.

In that decade, spending for all these other functions of government increased by only 50 percent, while the expenditures for the schools grew by almost 172 percent. This does not, in any sense, imply that these increased state outlays for the schools have been excessive in terms of the real need. On the basis of standards and approaches which are adhered to in all healthy states, we have an excellent and well run public school system. I emphasize the increased spending only to point up the fact that schooling has been and remains the only function which cannot be financed from the normal growing yield of our present tax structure.

"Let us look again at that tax structure.

"As I am sure you know, there are numerous ways by which taxes for the job of state and local government may be collected. Throughout the country, fellow Americans are confronted with the problem of whether most activities within a state should be supported by state government . . . therefore requiring a preponderant collection of taxes by the state; or whether in the interest of local responsibility and citizen knowledgeability and decision, there should be a more thoughtful division of the tax burden between the state and local levels.

"Our division between the state and local levels is the prime reason why we have a problem.

"As the members of the legislature are painfully aware, the load of support for services required by our citizens is so grossly placed upon the state, that of all taxes collected in Washington in 1961, the state was compelled to collect and allocate close to 68.6 percent of the total. Compare this 68.6 percent to the national average which shows that over half of the taxes collected in the individual states are shouldered at the county, city and district level, while only 49 percent is shouldered by state government.

"And so, ladies and gentlemen of the legislature, fellow citizens across the state, in light of these fundamentals, in light of the imbalance for which there is no present alternative, in light of the inequitable nature of our state level taxes, a hold-the-line budget is the only responsible course which I can set.

"Meanwhile, we must resolutely face the responsibilities of the next two years, where we are now, and what we must accomplish.

"Next June, when the present fiscal period ends, we will be faced with an increase in the general fund deficit of 1.3 million dollars. It is important to understand the nature of this increase. During this present fiscal period, the areas of state government under my jurisdiction have saved more than twenty-six million dollars through economies which I instituted last year. I ordered this austere cutback because of two factors: appropriations by the legislature were larger than our estimated revenues; and since then actual collections have been even less than these estimates. Nevertheless, this saving of more than twenty-six million dollars has not only balanced these factors, but combined with one-time federal revenues of over two million dollars, will bring us to the end of this fiscal period with a nearly seven million dollar reduction in the overall general fund deficit insofar as those activities under my control are concerned.

"However, as I have previously indicated, state spending for the common schools is not under the control of the Governor. We estimate that in the current fiscal period the actual spending for the common schools will exceed appropriations by eight million dollars, thus accounting for the projected increase in the general fund deficit.

"Looking into the future, in terms of the economy of the state, we can anticipate further growth, although not at the rate experienced during 1962 when the nation as a whole was in the recovery phase of the business cycle. My budget projects a gross increase in state sources of revenue of about 8 percent. I must emphasize to the legislature and the people that this is a realistic projection and one that must be shored up by such factors as the augmented tax enforcement and industrial promotion proposals contained in my budget.

"During the next two years, we estimate that revenue from existing state sources available to finance additional services at current levels of quality, will be sixty-two million dollars. Remember, this is new money to provide an expanding population only with services now being maintained. If special groups prove realistic enough to accept this ground rule in terms of their particular interests, then it will be possible to effect in some areas needed quality improvements which could be provided within the limitations of this expected, normal-growth, new income.

"The first concern of this budget is education.

"As the heart of our fiscal problem is education, so is the heart of the education problem one of numbers, compounded in recent years by our greater emphasis on quality as well as quantity.

"While the age group 17 and under is increasing twice as fast as the total state population, enrollment in colleges and universities is increasing three times as fast. The state superintendent of public instruction and the five state institutions of higher education seek one hundred thirty-nine million dollars more than they will be spending in this fiscal period. Remember, please, that we predict a total of only sixty-two million dollars in new state revenues during the next two years. Obviously, we cannot consider full compliance with education's expanded requests if we are to avoid any new taxes.

"However, it is my realistic conviction, that we can maintain our current level of state support to education for both the students who have been enrolled and the additional students who will be enrolled during the next two years. This support will be based on the cost-per-student formula established for our common schools in the last legislature. I also am convinced that we can take care of the expanded physical facilities needed and the greater enrollment expected in our colleges and universities based on existing staff and salary patterns. We can also meet the full requirement to the Teachers' Retirement Fund, including the supplemental pensions of 1.6 million dollars increased by the last legislature. Furthermore, we can maintain existing levels in other agencies under the heading of education, including the board of vocational education, the state library and the historical associations. We can also provide full state support for existing kindergarten programs.

"This can be accomplished with an increased allocation to education of forty-seven million dollars, as compared to the one hundred thirty-nine million dollars in requested increases proposed. The forty-seven million dollar increase that I propose, is, in itself, three-quarters of the total increase expected in state revenues.

"I recognize that this will not provide for the requested annual salary increases for teachers, faculty members and non-certificated employees. It will not provide for the requested program improvements requested across-the-board in our curriculums, nor for the support of summer schools, nor for the total improvement asked for in the handicapped children's educational program.

"These improvements, as close to my heart as they are, must be made by the public school districts and by institutions of higher education within the relatively independent and flexible fiscal authority available to them. We have no choice. This is a time for holding the line.

"And to emphasize how important this decision is, applying the forty-seven million dollars of increased appropriations which I propose for education, will leave just fifteen million dollars in new state funds, plus whatever additional Federal funds may be available, to support the equally deserving added requirements, over the current spending level, for all other general fund functions of state government.

"The largest area of spending outside of education is public assistance. Once again, here is a vital function of state government which, as in education, has for its major dollar beneficiaries a disproportionate segment of our population not in the breadwinner category; namely the aged. There is a widespread misconception regarding all areas of public assistance that Washington State has been too liberal in its welfare program. As a matter of fact, state spending for this purpose has been declining since the 1957-59 period, and our estimated state spending for the current period is nine million dollars below those in 1955-57. This has been accomplished without reducing our grant levels for the helpless and needy, but rather through taking full advantage of increased Federal support of our programs.

"In this connection, I would also observe that intensified fraud-detection activities, and work programs established among able-bodied welfare beneficiaries by my Department of Public Assistance, have thus far conclusively proved that the 'chiseler' is a rare bird among the many thousands who suffer the need of public assistance, and that most persons are eager to 'earn' their keep.

"Enactment by the last Congress of highly significant amendments to the Welfare laws has challenged the states to modify their individual programs so as to place greater emphasis on services that will help individuals win self-sufficiency; namely services to strengthen the family, rehabilitate the individual, and reduce dependency. States which rise to this challenge can achieve greater Federal assistance for the purpose. I am pleased to report that through such steps as will be enumerated in my budget we will be able to move towards such significant goals at an increase in state cost of only six hundred thousand dollars, while Federal participation will increase by 15.7 million dollars.

"From a program standpoint this proposed public assistance budget will maintain all present services to the aged, blind, and disabled. At the same time it will provide for more intensive case work services for those problem families in which dependence on community help might otherwise become chronic.

"My budget includes two million dollars in state funds for full continuation of our pace-setting surplus food program which will distribute more than twenty-one million dollars worth of food in the next two years. This will be the equivalent of almost five dollars per person per month.

"I must point out that appropriations by the last legislature did not permit the justified increase in rates paid to those agencies which provide appropriate medical services to the needy. My budget allows for increasing such rates in two steps in order to guarantee continuation of essential medical services at minimum cost.

"The third largest area of state government is the department of institutions with its programs devoted to delinquency prevention and juvenile rehabilitation and to the return of the mentally afflicted and the socially twisted to productive citizenship. In this category the primary emphasis for the next two years will be to continue the present level of activity for an increased number of persons in need of such institutional attention. To this end I propose an addition to their present budget of 5.7 million dollars. The increased number of persons to be served will be accommodated at new or enlarged facilities at Shelton adult correction center, Cushman juvenile diagnostic center, and the Fircrest and Rainier schools for the retarded. Let it be noted that by July of next year we will have increased the state's capacity to care for the unfortunate victims of retardation by a buildup of almost 1,300 beds since 1956. But pride must be tempered by the knowledge that a 100 percent increase in the waiting list has been experienced in the same period.

"In the field of mental illness, however, pride need not be limited. Remarkable improvements in the treatment of the mentally ill requested in the past by me and authorized by the legislature have resulted in the professional accreditation of all three of our state mental hospitals for the first time in the state's history. Further, these improvements have so accelerated the rate of competent return of patients to productive life that this year will witness the successful treatment and return to private life of almost twice as many mentally ill as was the case in 1957. This remarkable achievement which produces a declining population in the mental hospitals even while we successfully treat more patients than ever before, will allow us in the next two years to further strengthen programs in these institutions while at the same time we make a slight reduction in total state spending for this purpose.

"In the remaining functions of state government, no expansion above the current level is proposed. Note that this will include general government, natural resources and recreation, public safety and regulation, agriculture, current capital outlay and state assistance to political subdivisions.

"At this point it is important that we look beyond the boundaries of our green corner. For the purpose of assuring our state a policy position that draws upon the experience encountered in other states, my staff and I have collected confidential information on the tax policies and practices which may be expected in other parts of the nation during the up-coming two year period. The states covered were those which may logically be correlated with our own, including many of the largest states. We find that almost without exception the tax line will be held in these states and current levels will be maintained in state support of education and other service areas. At the same time, we find that with but one exception the states expect to provide increases that will bring in line with rates prevailing outside state government, the salaries paid to those dedicated men and women who make state public service a career.

"In our own state such salary scales in line with community levels are required by law. However, employees in Washington tied to state funds outside education now, in fact, receive wages that match only early 1959 levels. Accordingly, I am recommending immediate implementation of correct job and pay alignments, and adjustment by 1965 to 1962 prevailing rates, at a total cost of five and one half million dollars. This will increase efficiency by helping to ease the vicious vacancy rates which now exist in skilled specialists needed by the state.

"We now turn to capital outlay—that area of necessary state spending to provide for, or help support, the construction of new facilities. Needs in this category are strongly implied by the population increases projected for all levels of education and in all state institutions save those of the mentally ill. Requested spending for this purpose in just three areas, public schools, higher education, and state institutions, total almost one hundred eleven million dollars. But I propose a capital budget for these agencies of 51.5 million dollars in new appropriations from general state sources.

"This will allow for construction of sufficient classrooms which, together with those previously programmed, will accommodate the increased enrollment in schools and community colleges through the fall of 1966. It will also allow for completion of the Shelton reception and diagnostic center for adult offenders, for construction of a second 'half-way house' for the rehabilitation of juveniles, and for expansion of facilities for the retarded.

"It will be observed that this portion of the capital spending program does not provide for additional general fund bonds to cover the requests from this source for further construction at college and university campuses, nor for those agencies which have their own fund sources or bonding capacities. Consistent with the dynamics of this inventory period, I am now recommending only those further improvements and additions during the next two years which can be implemented without our state's general fund assistance.

"About one-fifth of this 51.5 million dollar program can be accomplished through the use of balances remaining from prior bond issues and of monies which can now be realized from the sale of certain investments.

"I propose that the remainder be raised through a general fund revenue bond issue for school classrooms to be submitted to the people in November, 1964. I commend this direction. Indeed, in the interest of better long range planning, I am recommending to the legislature that this bond issue to be submitted to the people should be in the amount of fifty-nine million dollars so as to include support for appropriations that might be made by the 1965 legislature for construction in the two years thereafter.

"And so, as we can see, it is possible for the many-faceted house of state government to be supported during the next two years with the means we expect to be available in the state. No one of the many consequential advances scored in recent years need be endangered by this state posture. I know the legislature and I are of one mind in believing that constant, further progress and improvement are fundamental to the American spirit, yet I must express the devout wish that these next two breathing-spell years will bring a revitalization of the local levels of responsibility, without which the goals of progress may themselves become endangered.

"This, then, is the inventory. In order for our state to move ahead in the future it is necessary now for every one of us to evaluate this inventory.

"The legislature's task is an excruciatingly difficult one. Our individual ability to face the music may be equally difficult to achieve. The plan I propose for expending our state monies is a plan that can be lived with but it is not one that can be enjoyed. It is designed for a period that requires soul searching, re-evaluations, new approaches. This path is one that I am resolutely determined to follow during this legislative session to the end that while we exhibit our concern for goals—our own as well as those of the less fortunate—we exhibit also that rugged character necessary to achieve a sense of responsibility as broad as our state-wide concerns and as compelling as the dangers and opportunities we confront."

(Applause.)

The President of the Senate instructed the committee consisting of Senators Foley, Durkan and Neill and Representatives McCaffree, Backstrom and Witherbee to come forward and escort Governor Rosellini from the rostrum to the reception room.

The committee retired.

"May we tolerate nothing in our personal living which if multiplied would weaken our state. Teach us to know that our state is no better than its citizens and no stronger than those in whom it puts its trust. So may we see ourselves as Thou dost see us, that being ashamed we may seek forgiveness, and knowing our weaknesses may accept Thy strength. ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Joint Memorial No. 4, and the memorial was passed by the following vote: Yeas, 39; nays, 8; absent or not voting, 2.

Those voting yea were: Senators Bailey, Charette, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, England, Foley, Foster, Freise, Gissberg, Greive, Hallauer, Henry, Herrmann, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Petrich, Rasmussen, Rickdall, Riley, Sandison, Talley, Washington, Woodall—39.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Raugust, Stender—2.

Senate Joint Memorial No. 4, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

EXPLANATIONS OF VOTES

I am in favor of tax relief for the individual by way of raising the $600 exemption but voted against this memorial because I felt that raising the limit to $1000 was too great an increase considering the extreme financial commitments of the federal government in combating the threats to our freedom around the world. An $800 exemption would have been more to my liking.

(signed) H. B. HANNA, Senator, Twelfth District.

I felt that it was necessary for me to vote against Senate Joint Memorial No. 4 without considering the merits of it at this time. The Memorial was introduced upon the Senate floor and did not have the benefit of any prior discussion or research in any committee of the Senate. Laudable as the intention of the sponsors of the Memorial may be, I felt very strongly about preserving the tradition of the Senate committee system to the end that all memorials and all bills are routed to the appropriate standing committee for evaluation, review, study and recommendation.

(signed) MICHAEL J. GALLAGHER

TENTH DAY

NOON SESSION

SENATE CHAMBER,
OLYMPIA, WASH., Wednesday, January 23, 1963.

The Senate was called to order at noon by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senator McCormack.

On motion of Senator Bailey, Senator McCormack was excused.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Kim Peery, Color Bearer, and JoAnn Poulsen, presented the Colors.

Reverend Robert M. Daly, pastor of St. Michael's Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Almighty God, Source of truth and wisdom, grant us that light of understanding by which we might know Thy will with regard to what is proposed here. Then give us the strength of character to pursue what is right and just and most beneficial for the future of our fellow citizens to the best of our ability as You have given us to see it.

"Through Christ our Lord. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Keefe:

"Mr. President:

"This is a big day in the Senate as we have some new guests, and I wonder if the members of the Senate and the President would like to introduce them. This is the first time we have had a full schedule of press writers here. It is good to see you back!"

The President:

"Members of the Senate:

"The President is happy that Senator Keefe called to our attention the presence of the distinguished members of the Fourth Estate. The members of the Senate and the President join in extending to you a warm, heartfelt welcome and a cordial greeting. The House of Representatives convened this morning at 11:00 a. m. and adjourned precisely at 11:12 a. m. Although we know this is not the reason for your presence, we are glad you are here to observe the solemn proceedings of the Senate."

DEFERRAL OF PROPOSED CHANGE—SENATE RULE 58

Senator Hess:

"Mr. President:

"I had expected at this time to move for a change in Rule 58. I found after checking that it is probable the change would be defeated, so in deference to the other members, I won't make that proposal at this time. I am sorry that this is so. I think this would have probably saved an average during the session time of approximately thirty minutes of some of our busy days, perhaps even more time. I am still working on another suggestion which I hope to present for consideration of the Senate, and that is a consent calendar which I believe can save even more time.

"I would like to respectfully direct the attention of the members to the fact that for several years I have been trying to interest the legislature in finding ways to make its work more efficient. I proposed at the last special session that the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House appoint a special interim committee to study the procedures of the two bodies in an effort to find ways to save time in order to improve the efficiency of our activities. No committees were appointed. Prior to this session I asked the Governor of the state to appoint a bi-partisan committee from both parties to do the same thing. No committee was appointed.

"I think it is by now fairly well established that we are not going to have an annual session of the legislature in the near future. Therefore, it seems that it is imperative that we find a way to make this brief sixty day session more thoughtful, more productive. I am beginning to realize that custom is much harder to change than law, but I seriously suggest to each of you that we have a mutual and individual responsibility to re-examine our customs, because I am sure there are ways to improve the way we are doing the state's business."

The Secretary read:

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"This morning the Senate is favored with the presence of a very distinguished and honored visitor. The President at this time should like to request of Senators Riley, Washington, Ryder and Woodall that they act as a committee of honor to escort our visitor to the rostrum."

The committee of honor consisting of Senators Riley, Washington, Ryder and Woodall escorted Specialist Fourth Class Ronald C. Richards to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"Napoleon once said that soldiers win battles and generals get the credit, but this morning we have the opposite situation. Present today in the Senate chamber is a gentleman born in Stockton, California, who has just been honored as 'Soldier of the Month' at Fort Lewis. It is the pleasure of the President at this time to present to the members of the Senate, Specialist Ronald C. Richards, who was selected from over 22,000 soldiers for this highly respected honor.

"The President is sure that the members of the Senate would appreciate hearing from you, Mr. Richards. Would you please favor us with a few remarks?"

Specialist Richards:

"Gentlemen:

"It is indeed an honor to be here today and it is really great to be able to win the honor of 'Soldier of the Month' out at Fort Lewis. I surely didn't expect to be so lucky as to be entertained in such a fabulous manner.

"It is my honor to be in this state although I am only going to be here a short while. I am sorry that I am going to miss the summer, but I only live a short way away in California. It is about 750 miles to my home and there is always the chance that I will be able to come back to this area and visit again, perhaps on vacation or something of that nature.

"I thank you for this honor."

The President:

"There is one additional remark that I would like to make. Mr. Richards reminded the President that the wonderful school in his home town of Stockton, College of the Pacific, knocked off Washington State University last fall 13-12."

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President:

"Did you have to mention that?"

The President:

"Would the members of the honor committee please come forward and escort our visitor from the chamber?"

The committee of honor escorted Specialist Richards from the rostrum.

MEMORIAL TO THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON

To the Senate and to the House of Representatives of the State of Washington in Legislative Session Assembled:

WE, Your Memorialists, the City Council of the City of Seattle, respectfully represent and petition as follows:

WHEREAS, The limited housing available to minority groups because of discrimination on account of their race, color, creed or national origin, tends to confine such groups to restricted areas and thereby deprives them of freedom normally available to others, in the choice of housing within their financial capabilities and is injurious to the local community and the state as a whole; and

WHEREAS, Such limitation on housing is not peculiar to any particular area or municipality in the state, and enactment of uniform, state-wide housing legislation which would help to alleviate such inequities should be given highest priority;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved By the City Council of the City of Seattle, the Mayor Concurring:

That your Memorialists, the City Council of the City of Seattle, State of Washington, respectfully petition the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Washington in legislative session assembled to enact the necessary amendments to the present state law against discrimination which would establish uniform state-wide application of the law with regard to housing accommodations.

Be It Further Resolved, That copies of this memorial be transmitted to the Governor of the State of Washington, the President of the Senate and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Washington.

ADOPTED by the City Council and signed by me in open session in authentication of its adoption this 21st day of January, 1963.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Riley:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"As has been the custom for many years in the past, through the courtesy of our senior member, the gracious Senator Cowen, we would like to have the Pages of the Senate enter and take a place before the bar of the Senate so that a presentation may be made to them."

The Senate Pages were escorted to the bar of the Senate by the Sergeant at Arms.

Senator Riley:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate, and Pages of the Senate:

"Some of you have perhaps served the Senate previously and, if you have, I am certain you were delighted with the experiences and the pleasantries that joined you in your association throughout the legislative session. May I at this time assure all the Pages present that to serve in the Senate is a distinct privilege. You are selected young men and women. You have been selected because you have been sponsored by someone who has said you will make a tremendous contribution to the members of the Senate by your presence and services.

"As I mentioned a moment ago, Senator Cowen, who has sat in these legislative halls longer than any senator or representative in the history of the state, is now making it possible for each and every one of you, as an early expression of appreciation, to have a gift of a wrist watch.

"Senator Cowen is always gracious about doing pleasant things and is always a little shy on making these gestures known to you, but the watches with which you are now being presented are his gift. I wonder, Senator Cowen, if you would just stand all the way up and let everyone know, who does not know already, who our well known Senator from Spokane county is.

"Now, Pages of the Senate, if you will proceed this way, we will present you with your wrist watch."

(Applause.)

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I would like to remind Senator Riley that he could dwell a little bit further. I am a somewhat junior member, at least to Senator Cowen, but I think it was he who created the idea of the beautiful jackets that the Pages are wearing, am I not correct?"

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The President feels, at a time like this, that certainly we should all hear from the biggest little guy in the state of Washington, a person who has done so much good for his constituents and for all the people in the state of Washington.

"The President should like to request of Senators Riley, Knoblauch, Woodall and Ryder that they escort the illustrious and honored senator from Spokane, Senator Dr. David C. Cowen, to the rostrum."

The committee of honor consisting of Senators Riley, Knoblauch, Woodall and Ryder escorted Senator Cowen to the rostrum.

The President:

"Davey, everyone in the Senate chamber, and I am sure in the state of Washington, would like to hear from you at this moment."

Senator Cowen:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I feel highly honored today to receive the wonderful expression from my fellow members here in the state Senate.

"I have given watches to the Pages for many, many years.

"I remember once when I was a young boy I had somewhat of a difficult time going through school. I still remember a very wealthy man in the city of Portland, Oregon, who helped me a great deal to get through high school and college. I have always thought that if there was a gracious man in this world who would do that for me, then someday, if I was financially able, I, too, would reciprocate in some little manner and in some form such as I have been doing during the past twenty-eight years that I have served in the legislature.

"I want to thank you very much once again for the wonderful honor you have shown to me, and, Mr. President, I want to express my gratitude to you for your many kindnesses since you have been Lieutenant Governor.

"I want to thank the members of the Senate for the many honors that you have bestowed upon me and I shall never forget your kindness. Thank you.

"Members of the Senate, within the bar of the Senate chamber today we have a former member whom I served with many years ago, and he is to my way of thinking one of the most outstanding and forthright members we have ever had. He is sitting in the north gallery with his lovely wife. I would like to ask that former Senator Ross W. Earlywine stand, together with his lovely wife, and let the members of the Senate see him.

"Thank you very kindly."

The Secretary read:

"Further point of personal privilege, Mr. President:

"As I was over in the House of Representatives when the elder member of the board's name came up, I was not accorded a vote on the matter. I have only voted to confirm or had one opportunity to vote on the confirmation of one member, and the Journal will likewise show that Woodall voted 'nay' and I have been reliably informed that there are several members of the minority party who, if you got them all alone at night, quietly wish they had voted with Woodall the day he voted 'no' on that appointment."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President:

"I, too, rise to a point of personal privilege. I would like to ask the gentlemen on my right, the minority group, how they voted to abolish the nine year term and to reduce these nine year terms to at least seven, regardless of who the Governor might be. I pose that question to both Senators Thompson and Woodall."

Senator Thompson:

"Were you addressing me, Senator Kupka? If you were, I co-sponsored the bill and I voted for it."

Reverend Charles A. Loyer, pastor of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Eternal God and Father Who dost use human agencies to bring to pass Thy will on earth, bless the Senators in their work this day. Give to them a sense of serving a higher Power that they may successfully avoid the danger of being enslaved by a lesser one. Deliver them from the fear of political reprisal.

"Grant that they may not be unduly influenced by those pressure groups who, not waiting for the world to beat a path to their door, range through hall and corridor, and declaim to one and all that they have not only a better but the only mouse-trap.

"Bless our legislators with a pride of office and a sense of mission that will disdain political pettifogging, that will ignore the clamor of selfish interests, and that will give this day a good account of their stewardship over the natural and social resources of our state. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Greive:

"I would like to very heartily second the motion made by Senator Woodall."

Senator Riley:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to ask Senator Woodall a question if he will submit. Senator, is it your intention to suspend the rules and consider the confirmations of all the others or just Senator Martin?"

Senator Woodall:

"I do this solely out of respect for the fact that he is a former member of this body. I have no intention of making a motion as to any other person."

The motion carried.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Mardesich:

"Mr. President:

"I should like to call your attention to the presence within the bar of the Senate of a former Senator, Howard Bargreen, from Everett."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President:

"Thank you very much, Senator Mardesich. The President should like to appoint you, Senator Mardesich, Senators Gissberg, Woodall and Neill to act as a committee of honor to escort our esteemed visitor to a place of honor upon the rostrum."

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to also call your attention to the presence of Senator Elway."

The President:

"Thank you very much, Senator Bailey. The President should like to have this committee also escort Senator Elway to a place of honor on the rostrum and request that Senators Bailey and Charette also join the committee, and to make this even, also Senators Peterson and Freise."

The committee of honor consisting of Senators Mardesich, Gissberg, Woodall, Neill, Bailey, Charette, Peterson and Freise escorted former Senator Howard Bargreen and Senator Harry Elway, Jr. to the rostrum.

The President:

"The President has just been advised that this is the first double-barrelled presentation. Thank you, Sergeant at Arms Johnson. The President does not believe there is any particular significance in the fact that Senator Bargreen turned to the right to approach the rostrum and Senator Elway turned to the left.

"Gentlemen, the members of the Senate and the President would be very grateful if you were to address the group at this time."

Senator Bargreen:

"Governor Cherberg, good friends in the Senate, and my friend here, the other part of the double barrel that was mentioned here by our Governor:

"It is certainly nice to have the opportunity to come here and suspend Rule 40. It is always a pleasure, especially on a beautiful morning, to come and see all my friends.

"Somebody asked if I missed the Senate. I certainly do. I miss all of my good friends in the Senate, but I don't miss all the work. I noticed this morning as I was coming upon the Senate elevator, there were three of your very attractive Senate secretaries with their arms loaded with letters from the people at home. Well, I can see it is going to be a hectic session if it is starting that fast already. I don't think the people at home really realize the amount of work that members of the legislature accomplish each session, not only looking at each letter, reading it, but answering too, which is a task all in itself for sixty days.

"I noticed they have repaired the carpet which had become worn very thin from members running over to the telephones and talking to the people at home who tell you what to do. Also, there is the problem when you have guests from your district, who say to you when you get home after the session, 'You know, I was down to see you, Senator, and you weren't there.'

"I know you are going to have a very fine session and do outstanding work for the many people in our fast-growing state. I personally want to wish you a wonderful session and, again, as a citizen of the state of Washington, to thank every one of you Senators for the fine job you do, not just during the session, but the entire year as well."

The President:

"Thank you very much, Senator Bargreen.
"Senator Elway."

Senator Elway:

"Governor Cherberg, members of the Senate, Senator Bargreen, friends:

"I have often wondered just how I would feel after having served in this humble body to have the privilege of being introduced here. Now, here I am, unprepared. I tried to convince myself during the first few weeks of this year that I wasn't going to miss my service here, and I was fooling myself. When I get back and see my friends here and the responsibilities you have, it does tug a little.

"My message will be brief. I want you to take good care of our new Senator from Grays Harbor County, Senator Charette. Also, I have a little devotion to a lot of work we have done in the interim Joint Committee on Governmental Cooperation. A lot of very good legislation has come out from their efforts and I hope you take a good look at that and see that some of it gets on the Governor's desk.

"In closing, I would just like to pass on this thought, I know you will take care of the unselfish majority and let the selfish minority haggle for themselves.

"It is my real privilege to have the opportunity to have just a minute with my friends. It's a real pleasure.

"Thank you very much."

The President:

"Thank you very much, Senator Elway."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Woodall:

"Just a point of clarification, Mr. President. When Senator Elway speaks of the selfish minority, he was not speaking about us."

Senator Greive:

"I think that we of the majority would say that when a man leaves this body and leaves that minority, he finally recognizes it for what it is."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Ryder:

"Would Senator Neill yield to a question?"

"Senator Neill, is there any provision for the protection of bondholders who, through no fault of their own, may not have been able to make a claim; or where some old assessment or piece of property that is being held by the city was sold and the funds would ordinarily go into one of these L.I.D. groups? Is there any protection there for the bondholders to get their prorated share after they have been cancelled?"

Senator Neill:

"Well, Senator, I will answer this to the best of my ability. I don't pretend to be an expert on this subject. However, should a city hold a piece of property as a trustee, having foreclosed the local L.I.D. assessment, and then, if the city in some future years sells this piece of property, this money would have to go into the local properties group because it is a trust fund. By operation of this bill, they could give notice and within one year the bondholder could get his pro rata part of the money. Should he not come in within the one year and the fund was transferred to the current expense fund, it seems to me—and I will just give a personal opinion, Senator,—under line 8, the amendment which took out of the bill the prohibition against writing future warrants, it only says it would 'terminate accounting,' in this particular fund, so I feel the bondholder would not lose his rights. It would make it a little more difficult for him to get the money. He would have to go to the city council to get his money drawn out of the current expense fund and put back in the local improvement district fund."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Would Senator Neill yield to a further question?"

"Senator Neill, as I read this bill, it says they shall advertise. They shall by publication notify the bondholders and warrant holders. Is it the intent of the bill that upon the publication of this, that the charges for advertising shall be assessed against the warrant holders and bondholders in order to recover?"

Senator Neill:

"Senator, I don't believe so. It is customary in all local improvement district assessments notices that this cost of publication, after you form the district, must be paid out of current expenses. There is no way to pay it out of the general improvement district fund. All we are trying to do here is provide some means of notifying the bondholders and warrant holders.

"Practically all of these old bonds were bearer bonds. At this time the cities don't know who owns them or where they are. Their only means of notice is to give public notice and attempt to locate the holders of these old bonds."

Further debate ensued.

The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the rules be suspended and Engrossed Senate Bill No. 13 be placed on final passage.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 13, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 43; nays, 4; absent or not voting, 2.

Those voting yea were: Senators Atwood, Bailey, Charette, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, England, Foley, Foster, Freise, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, McCormack, McMullan, Morgan, Neill, Peterson, Raugust, Rickdall, Riley, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Thompson, Jr., Washington, Williams, Woodall—43.

Those voting nay were: Senators Moriarty, Jr., Petrich, Rasmussen, Ryder—4.

SEVENTEENTH DAY

NOON SESSION

SENATE CHAMBER,
OLYMPIA, WASH., Wednesday, January 30, 1963.

The Senate was called to order at noon by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senator Talley.

On motion of Senator Bailey, Senator Talley was excused.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages James E. Stender, Color Bearer, and Kate Keiser, presented the Colors.

Reverend Charles A. Loyer, pastor of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"God of all grace and mercy, Who hast ordained that we should live out our days in a world of growing complexity where no simple answers will do nor easy short cuts be found; bless the members of this chamber with wisdom, perseverance, and a saving sense of humor. Help them in weighing the welter of actions proposed to distinguish between the good and the better, between those that treat the symptoms and those that treat the disease. Return to favor those homespun nostrums of other years: integrity, hard work and a woodshed well supplied with lathes. Give the legislators the grace to humor us poor souls who want to be both the patient and the doctor.

"And, O God, watch over the precious freedoms of our land during this biennium lest they be endangered by those friends who would fence them in. Help us to discover and maintain a happy balance between personal freedom and social responsibility. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Cowen:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate, Reverend Loyer:

"I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for your wonderful prayers each morning. I have served fifteen regular sessions in the legislature and they are the most outstanding I have ever heard in the history of my career. I just wish to thank you personally and on behalf of all of the members of the Senate."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President:

I want to call your attention to the fact that former Senator Martin is within the bar of the Senate and I think, in view of what happened yesterday, he should be escorted to the rostrum."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President:

"Thank you very much, Senator Bailey.

"Would Senators Bailey, Rickdall, Chytil and Kupka please act as a committee of honor to escort our noted visitor to a place of honor upon the rostrum?"

A committee of honor consisting of Senators Bailey, Rickdall, Chytil and Kupka escorted former Senator Fred Martin to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The President is sure that every one joins in a warm and cordial greeting to our esteemed and respected former member, Senator Fred Martin. In view of the action taken yesterday by the members of the Senate, the President is of the belief that our distinguished visitor should have the opportunity this morning to defend himself. Senator Martin, would you please address the group?"

Senator Martin:

"Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"At long last I have reached a position in this Senate where I don't think any of you can call a point of order on me! I wish to offer my most sincere thanks for the somewhat unprecedented action which you took yesterday in confirming my appointment. It came as a complete surprise to me and to everyone else.

"Someone, and I think it was Senator Hanna, said that you took this hasty action for two reasons: number one, you were so happy to get me out of the Senate; and number two, things have been so slow around here this session so far that you haven't received your quota of cigars.

"Well, actually this confirmation came so suddenly that it caught me with my cigar supply down, however, I have been around here long enough to know I should lay in a supply beforehand. I think that Sergeant at Arms Charlie Johnson probably can be prevailed upon to help out with this problem.

"As you know, Governor Rosellini appointed me director of the Department of General Administration on February 1 of last year. I replaced Charles Hodde, who was appointed chairman of the Tax Commission. Charlie Hodde did a splendid job of reorganizing our department and improving its operation. When I took over, the department was in excellent condition and I shall do my best to keep it that way. With the action that you took yesterday, I can be assured of drawing my salary for the remainder of this biennium. After that, it depends on what you do with the budget, and at this point I should like to assure you that my budget has been carved right to the bone and when that budget reaches the Senate and I have an opportunity to tell my story, I am sure you are going to revise it upward. Mr. President, I'm not so sure I like the grins I see on the faces out there!

"I was a member of the Senate for three sessions and I was a member of the House of Representatives for twelve years. That service was a wonderful experience for me and also quite a liberal education. I came to the House for the first time in 1935. Senator Cowen came at the same time. Our first session was twenty-eight years ago. It is impossible for me to realize it has been that long.

"Down through the years I have acquired some wonderful friends in the legislature and among those associated with the legislature. My fondest memories will always be of my experiences here, and I predict that every one of you, when you finally leave the legislature, will feel the same way.

"Now, Mr. President, I hope you will accord me the privilege of moving to suspend Rule 40, and I so move, Mr. President. I again want to thank you all so very much for your vote of confidence yesterday and assure you I will do my best to deserve it."

The President:

"Thank you very much, Senator Martin."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, Senator Martin:

"I rise to a point of order. You indicated that there wasn't much possibility of raising that point on you, but I find that there is a rule that covers just about everything, and I am sure your recollection about these rules will be refreshed when I refer you to that portion of Rule 45 which allows the Sergeant at Arms and the doorkeeper to admit former Senators to the Senate body, provided, however—and this admission is conditional, Senator—when you start talking about your budget having been pared to the bone, that comes under the head of lobbying. The rule says that these courtesies shall be rescinded if the privilege is used for the purpose of lobbying when the Senate is in session."

RULING OF THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President will rule upon the point of order raised by Senator Gissberg. The President rules that the point of order is well taken. Therefore, that portion of Rule 45 shall be administered in Senator Martin's case. The sentence will be suspended for the remainder of this particular session."

The committee of honor escorted Senator Martin from the rostrum.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hess:

"Mr. President:

"I see Senator Sandison has returned and I suggest that it might be appropriate that the President ask an honor guard to escort him to the rostrum so that he can receive the warm regards of his colleagues and explain his work on this great commission to which he has been appointed."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President:

"Thank you very much, Senator Hess. Would you act as chairman of that committee along with Senators Knoblauch, Ryder and Freise to escort our honored and esteemed member to a place of honor upon the rostrum?"

A committee of honor consisting of Senators Hess, Knoblauch, Ryder and Freise escorted Senator Sandison to the rostrum.

Senator Sandison:

"Thank you very much. I was hoping you would ask me for a little word of explanation about the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education.

"The commission was created about ten years ago to set up a regional board to handle primarily the requests of schools receiving large grants, such as the Commonwealth Foundation, the Carnegie Fund and the Kellogg Fund and many others who wanted to make grants for study and manpower needs in the west. The grantors did not want to make a grant to one school, therefore, they wanted a compact drawn up so that all could share and share alike.

"There were other compacts drawn up in other states. As a matter of fact, in the New England regional education system they have had a compact such as this since before World War I.

"At the same time it was discovered that the manpower needs of the various states were pretty much the same and there probably was no need of duplicating medical schools, mining schools, veterinary schools and so on, in various states, as a result of the compact with the money from these large foundations and funds. Besides entering into research, it also pays the out-of-state tuition of students. As a matter of fact, Washington state is the only state of the thirteen states involved that pays no money out for this, it is all on the plus side as far as we are concerned because the out-of-state students come in and the foundations pay into our various schools.

"At the present time the compact is now doing a study on a regional juvenile delinquency program. They are doing research of mental health, which is assigned to the several schools and some of the money, for instance, is being spent right now with our own Department of Institutions.

"The job actually entails very little work, very little travel, in case you are interested, and a great deal of correspondence.

"Thank you."

EIGHTEENTH DAY

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senator Rickdall.

Reverend Charles A. Loyer, pastor of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Almighty God, Who dost so often reward with success a happy blending of the old and the new, bless the fledgling Senators who are making their initial appearance here on the hill. Give them confidence that refuses to be intimidated by the magnitude and diversity of their tasks or by the strangeness of their surroundings. Temper their idealism with just enough compromise to make it workable. And whatever telling blows they may give—or take—keep alive in them their pride of office, their enthusiasm for causes, and their expectation of results.

"Bless too the seasoned veterans of this chamber. Protect them from the occupational disease of cynicism. Grant them that humility which is the mark of greatness and that openness of mind which welcomes ideas old and new. Help them this day in finding ways and means of pooling together their wisdom and experience to constructive ends. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

"Senator, I am of course not concerned with the fact that your committee has gone over these bills quite thoroughly, but is it in effect true that there is no substantive change in any of these laws that we have discussed today?"

Senator Petrich:

"As far as I can tell, I am satisfied and the rest of the committee is satisfied, there are no substantive changes being made. We are simply attempting to correct typographical errors or re-insert amendments which were adopted. There were for instance two or three amendments to one section of the bill, and this simply restates the law as it was intended when the original laws were enacted."

On motion of Senator Hallauer, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 99 was advanced to third reading the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lennart:

"Will Senator Hallauer yield to a question?"

"We shall suppose that a liquor license has been turned down by the department. Under this new amendment of the law, a licensee may hang on for months before we get rid of him, is that right?"

Senator Hallauer:

"I think the part of the Code that I read to you covers that situation. This is still a penalty that would apply in the case of someone who had a license and was given a penalty. What you are suggesting, I believe, is that an applicant for a license would be able to go into court and extend the proceedings. This would get him exactly nowhere because he has no license that he is benefited by at that point. It would be pointless for him to be dilatory."

Senator Lennart:

"What I am objecting to is the slowness of the machinery to correct this."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Stender:

"Would Senator Hallauer yield?"

"Suppose the Liquor Board suspended the license of a vendor for possibly selling to minors. Could they go to court under this act and stay the execution of this order to close that vendor for thirty days, or whatever period was determined?"

Senator Hallauer:

"Senator, as I understand the provision that I just read, they would only have a suspension of the penalty if the reviewing court, in its action on the case, said that they could have such a stay in regard to the penalty. Otherwise, the penalty is immediately effective."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McMillan:

"Would Senator Hallauer yield?"

"Senator Hallauer, if there is an applicant for a license who has been turned down by the Board, would he have the right of appeal to the courts, or would the decision of the Board as to the issuance of the license be final?"

Senator Hallauer:

"I think, Senator, I will have to defer to one of the attorneys present in regard to that question."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"It is my understanding that under the Administrative Procedures Act, the only cause for appeal would be if the action of the Board were arbitrary and capricious, and I can assure you that that is a very tough statute to reach."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 99, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 38; nays, 7; absent or not voting, 4.

Those voting yea were: Senators Atwood, Bailey, Charette, Chytil, Connor, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, England, Foley, Foster, Freise, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Hess, Knoblauch, Kupka, McCormack, Mardesich, Morgan, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Petrich, Riley, Ryder, Sandison, Thompson, Jr., Washington, Williams, Woodall—38.

Those voting nay were: Senators Keefe, Lennart, McMillan, Rasmussen, Raugust, Stender, Talley—7.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Cooney, Herrmann, McCutcheon, Rickdall—4.

Senate Bill No. 99, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

Reverend Charles A. Loyer, pastor of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"O Lord our God, Who dost often stamp with approval the golden means, we thank Thee for our two-party system of government, for the hammer and the anvil, which while apparently ambitious of wearing each other out, have fashioned amid the blows, the principles and policies that have made our country great.

"Bless this day both the members of the majority and of the minority. Grant that each without apology may be true to their political philosophy, loyal to their party, and prepared to fight for that in which they believe, or challenge that which they cannot accept. And yet give to them a measure of political flexibility. Help them to sense the point at which such loyalties must yield to a higher loyalty and to wise compromise.

"Bless the give and take of this day with results that will embody the stabilizing influences of the past and the new creative thinking demanded by the future. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

SENATE RESOLUTION
1963 -9-

By Senators Gissberg and Woodall:

WHEREAS, The Federal Power Commission, by order dated December 27, 1960, in its Docket Nos. G-16235, et al, granted a certificate to natural gas pipeline applicants for the construction of what is commonly known as the "Rock Springs Project", subject to authorization of the California Public Utilities Commission for those portions of the project under its jurisdiction; and

WHEREAS, The construction and operation of said project would be in the best interests of gas consumers and the public generally of the state of Washington; and

WHEREAS, Rehearings before the Federal Power Commission were occasioned by the authorization granted by the California Public Utilities Commission imposing certain conditions, all of which conditions have been fully met; and

WHEREAS, Upon rehearing intervention by protesting pipeline companies has given rise to the injection of controversies between contending corporate interests with the resultant danger that over-all public benefits might be subordinated to matters of corporate self-interest; and

WHEREAS, One of the applicants constitutes the sole supplier of natural gas to our area and the Pacific Northwest; and

WHEREAS, From intervention by the regulatory body of this state and investigation made by it, it having been made to appear that culmination of the proceedings by grant of the authority sought would result in improved utilization of the pipeline facilities upon which this area relies, to such an extent as to eliminate any justification that may otherwise exist for a further rate increase to gas distribution companies and their customers in the state of Washington; and

WHEREAS, By formal intervention in the proceedings the Pacific Northwest states of Washington, Idaho and Oregon have participated in said proceedings in support of the applications, and have filed exceptions and briefs to the proposed decision of the examiner, which decision would now deny the applications; and

WHEREAS, The applications have the support on the record of other state regulatory agencies including the Public Utilities Commission of the state of California; and

WHEREAS, The volume of the record, the number of parties to the proceeding and the technicality of various objections of protesting pipeline companies are such that consideration of the over-all public interest as advanced by the numerous foregoing public agencies might become obscured through consideration of details of competitors' self-interest to the detriment of the over-all public interest;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, By the Washington State Senate in legislative session assembled: That the members of the Federal Power Commission avail themselves of the opportunity to consider fully the positions of the aforementioned public agencies as reflected in the record and summarized in their filed exceptions and briefs, to the end that the over-all public interest as therein expressed be not subordinated to the self-interest of protesting companies;

Be It Further Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be directed to immediately transmit copies of this resolution to the Honorable Joseph C. Swidler, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, and to each member of said commission, and to each of this state's senators and representatives in Congress.

On motion of Senator Gissberg, the resolution was adopted.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGES

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I consider this a matter of considerable compliment to myself to be asked at this time to speak on behalf of Warren Bishop for his position. I have had the opportunity over the past three bienniums of being closely associated with Mr. Bishop in matters related to fiscal problems of the state of Washington. All of you have also had the same privilege. Perhaps my association has been closer as chairman of the committee that has handled many of these matters.

"To the new members of the Senate I can only refer you to any member who has been here before as to the distinction with which Mr. Bishop has served in his office. I think it is a fine compliment that all of us have honored Mr. Bishop with our approval in past sessions and I hope that everyone is of the same mind now."

Senator Neill:

"Mr. President:

"It is with a great deal of pride and personal satisfaction that I find myself able to stand on this side of the aisle and second the confirmation of Warren Bishop. Like Senator Hallauer, I have had the opportunity to do budget committee work and appropriations committee work and to work very closely with Warren Bishop. There is no greater public servant in the state of Washington than Warren Bishop.

"It is with tremendous pleasure that we on this side of the aisle join in and ask for the confirmation of this extremely valuable servant to the state of Washington."

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President:

"I would add just one word to what has been said. A truly efficient man is Warren Bishop, a marvelous public servant loved by all other people."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hess:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege:

"I see that we have each received a letter from the Seattle World's Fair Commission, and I note that it is entitled, 'Final Report.'

"Now, I wonder if Senator Gallagher would yield to a question."

The President:

"Will Senator Gallagher yield to a question?"

Senator Gallagher:

"Yes."

Senator Hess:

"Senator Gallagher:

"My inquiry is that perhaps you, as a member of the Commission, could answer this question. I don't find an auditor's report in this final report and I raise the question whether it is the intention of the Commission to submit a final report without having an auditor's report included?"

Senator Gallagher:

"Mr. President, Senator Hess:

"It is not the intention of the World's Fair Commission to submit a report without an audit. There will be an audit by a private auditing firm and there will be the state auditor's report which was made by the auditor, not the Commission. I don't think that it is the prerogative of the Commission to submit the state auditor's report. That will be done by the state auditor and will be a supplemental report to this. While it does say this is a final report, there will also be a supplemental report."

Senator Hess:

"May I question further, Senator Gallagher?"

"Do I understand correctly, then, this does not constitute the final document, but we may expect that we will receive an auditor's report plus a private audit report?"

Senator Gallagher:

"That is true."

Senator Hess:

"And this will be presented to us for review before we are asked to review?"

Senator Gallagher:

"Well, of course I can't say when the state auditor's report will be placed before you, but I can assure you the private auditor's report will be before you before the conclusion of the session."

Senator Hess:

"Mr. President, if it is possible, would Senator Gallagher pass the inquiry on to the Commission so it might inform us when we might expect the auditor's report? I think some of us would be grateful for that information."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President:

"I talked to Al Rogers, our Secretary, yesterday, and he said that he talked to Mr. Donaldson, who is employed by the state auditor. They are working diligently and will attempt to get that audit to us by March 1st. It is a big job and we recognize this, and I believe that every effort is being made to obtain that report for the legislature.

"At the Commission meeting approximately a week ago this matter of an audit was brought up, and that is one of the reasons we had a cut-off date or a resolution stating that the corporation would be dissolved as of February 15, unless the legislature took other action. We did this so we would have sufficient time after February 15th to get an audit into the hands of all of the legislators, and that the legislature would have a couple of weeks at least thereafter to act, if they so desired."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Would Senator Freise yield to a question?

"I have this report before me. You are quite familiar, are you not, with Article 15 of the articles of incorporation of the Century 21 Exposition? That is the article which says at the end of the fair there shall be a final report filed with the Washington State Legislature; and, thereafter, after a reasonable time, that the corporation shall be dissolved unless otherwise directed by the legislature. Now, I understand in addition that liquidation trustees have already been appointed and that the corporation will go out of business on February 15, is that correct?"

Senator Freise:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"A resolution has been adopted that as of February 15th the corporation would be dissolved. We have appointed three trustees to take over the assets as of said time and, unless the legislature in the meantime desires to change that or acts in any other manner. If Senator McCutcheon has introduced bills, we certainly will be happy to read them, discuss them and consider them."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Thank you very much, Senator Freise. I think I will address this one to my friend, Senator Gallagher.

"Senator Gallagher, do you think that between now and the 15th of February is a reasonable time in which to peruse this document? It weighs, I think, about a half a pound. My old eyes can't go through this much matter that fast."

Senator Gallagher:

"Mr. President:

"I am sure that if the Senator will open the cover of that book, he will note that it is printed in large type. We did this especially for those of us whose eyesight is beginning to fail. I think the Senator will have no trouble."

Senator McCutcheon:

"How then am I going to examine those reports which reach me before the 15th, these other reports that you talk about and the audit?"

Senator Gallagher:

"Well, I think that prior to the 15th you will have them. If not, then I think your proposal for additional legislation would be in order at that time."

Senator Dore:

"Would Senator Gallagher yield to a question?

"Senator Gallagher, don't you think it is putting the cart before the horse? You are dissolving the corporation on the 15th, yet you say the accountants will report to the legislature on March 1st of 1963. Don't you think it should be the other way around, that you should have the report here by February 15th and then give us until March 1st, after examining it, to see whether or not we want to have further inquiry into this matter?"

Senator Gallagher:

"Well, Senator Dore, I am not an expert on audits, but it would appear to me that you have to close the doors of the corporation and then audit it. I think that is the purpose of the shut-off date. Then the auditors can audit after the shut-off date."

Senator Dore:

"Will Senator Gallagher yield to another question?"

"By the language in the report saying 'unless otherwise directed,' is the Commission thinking perhaps of a Senate resolution requesting the World's Fair Commission to liquidate on February 15th, or to put it off until March 15th or the 13th, perhaps? Wouldn't that be in order? Is that what you are asking for?"

Senator Gallagher:

"Basically Senator McCutcheon probably has the answer. As you know, the Commission goes out of business as of April, I believe April 30th, unless otherwise directed by the legislature. Therefore, it is going to be necessary for some sort of continuing legislation, either continuing the World's Fair Commission or designating some other group to carry on the business of the assets of the corporation. Otherwise, it will be necessary, under our existing statutes, for the liquidating committee to liquidate the assets."

Senator Dore:

"Well, my question, Senator, is very simple. Unless directed otherwise by the legislature, would a Senate resolution by, say Senator McCutcheon and myself, requesting the World's Fair Commission to delay liquidation until after we receive the auditor's report on March 1st, maybe March 15th, be a reasonable request?"

Senator Gallagher:

"Not being a licensed attorney, if you will give me the weekend to think about it, I may have an answer for you."

Senator Dore:

"I think we need an accountant, not an attorney."

"We pray, O God, help us to appreciate and to treasure the rich heritage that is ours, living and working in this land hewn out of wilderness by devoted, freedom-loving men and women. Help us to perpetuate high and noble principles that we know are right and honorable.

"Our Father, help us to be less concerned about ourselves, and more concerned to care for those who need us, whether they be the aged, or the children. In this, we believe that Thou wilt be well pleased. Help us in love and understanding to this end.

Deferring dissolution of world fair corporation.

Debate ensued.

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Freise rise?"

Senator Freise:

"I would like to answer Senator McCutcheon."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"May I suggest that under Rule 29, which Senator McCutcheon correctly commented on, we are only permitted a brief discussion on the question. For what purpose does Senator Dore rise?"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Dore:

"Under personal privilege."

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Gallagher rise?"

Senator Gallagher:

"I have no objection to Senator Dore making a little speech at this time, which I think he intends to do. On the other hand, Senator Freise rose, I think, to direct certain questions to Senator McCutcheon. If you are going to permit Senator Dore to make a speech, I think Senator Freise should be given the same privilege."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President will rule under Rule 29 which we have already discussed, the privilege was granted to Senator McCutcheon, the maker of the motion, to give a brief explanation. There is no further discussion permitted under the rules."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Dore:

"Point of order, Mr. President. I thought I was already recognized under personal privilege, and then you were interrupted by Senator Gallagher."

The President:

"All right, Senator Dore will state his personal privilege."

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I am a sponsor of this particular resolution. I want to make it perfectly clear that I have no criticism of the World's Fair Commission or the operation of the fair. I think they have done a tremendous job, and I am saying this because I am from Seattle and this is no criticism of any actions of the commissioners. But if this motion is not carried, of course I will have no opportunity to make a statement on this. Therefore, under personal privilege I want to make these remarks and they are these: —"

The President:

"Now, Senator Dore, will you please confine your remarks to personal privilege?"

Senator Dore:

"That's what I am trying to do, Mr. President. I might ask for what purpose Senator Greive is standing."

The President:

"He is just tired of sitting, Senator Dore.

"For what purpose does Senator Herrmann rise?"

Senator Herrmann:

"To ask Senator Dore if he will yield to a question."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Dore and Senator Herrmann, I want to say to both of you gentlemen that we are operating as best we can under the rules of the Senate which are to expedite business and not delay it. You may proceed, Senator Dore, on your personal privilege, confining your remarks to those which are personal to you."

Senator Dore:

"The only reason I joined in sponsorship of this resolution is, under this letter, they are going to want the legislature to more or less forget this thing on February 15th, and at the same time the report will not be made by the auditor until March 1st of the same year. Now I think this is ridiculous. It should be the other way round. I think the legislature should have a chance to see what the auditors say and perhaps we will have more questions concerning what they do say, and I think by that way we will be able to resolve many of the so-called—and I think groundless and foundless charges that have been made against the World's Fair.

"I think it behooves us as the deliberative body to go into these matters and we should study the accounts before we give a more or less confirmation of this report; and, that is what I rose to say under personal privilege, to explain my sponsorship of this bill and to say that it is not a criticism or is it meant to cast any inferences against any of the good work of the fair. I think the World's Fair Commission did a tremendous job for the community and the state. This is merely the business-like way of doing things, to examine the auditors' reports first, before we say they did a fine job. I think it should be the other way around and I think the World's Fair Commissioners would like this because we will have the complete picture."

MOTIONS

Senator Greive moved that the rules be suspended to permit full discussion of the motion by Senator McCutcheon.

The motion carried.

Debate ensued.

Senator England moved that Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3 be made a special order of business for 12:30 p. m., February 5, 1963.

On motion of Senator Greive, the motion by Senator England was laid upon the table.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Would Senator McCutcheon yield to questions?"

"Senator McCutcheon, I was very interested in your comment about pending lawsuits. Do you happen to know the approximate total demands that are asked for under the seventeen lawsuits?"

Senator McCutcheon:

"I have the lawsuits listed here and I think you have it in your book there, too. They range from $2,000.00 to $300,000.00. That's not counting the Seattle litigation. I haven't totaled that."

Senator Woodall:

"Further question:

"If the corporation is dissolved, what entity would pursue the defense of these claims? Would that be the liquidating trustees?"

Senator McCutcheon:

"I presume so."

Senator Woodall:

"And would those be proper items to submit to our claims sub-committee here at the legislature if those were allowed? Would that be the way they would be paid?"

Senator McCutcheon:

"I feel that is true. If the corporation runs out of cash, why there is nobody else to pay it and the state ends up paying it."

The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the rules be suspended and Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3 be advanced to second reading and read the second time in full.

The motion was carried.

On motion of Senator McCutcheon, the following amendment was adopted: On page 2, line 14, after "Legislative" strike "budget committee" and insert "Council"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Ryder:

"Would Senator McCutcheon yield to a question?"

"Senator, about two-thirds of the way down you have a 'WHEREAS' which reads as follows:

'WHEREAS, The remaining assets of Century 21 Exposition, Inc. are insufficient to meet the claim of the state for reimbursement for certain lands that were acquired at state expense and disposed of without actual consideration; and'

"Would you mind explaining just what land you have in mind there and what that refers to?"

Senator McCutcheon:

"I believe that refers to the state lands where the Federal Government Science Building is located and which were transferred to the federal government."

Senator Ryder:

"Senator McCutcheon, without the final report, of which you speak, could we know that that was actually true, that these lands were transferred?"

Senator McCutcheon:

"No, we don't and I would be happy to join you in an amendment to strike that."

Senator Ryder moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 2, lines 4, 5, 6 and 7, strike the following: "WHEREAS, The remaining assets of Century 21 Exposition, Inc. are insufficient to meet the claim of the state for reimbursement for certain lands that were acquired at state expense and disposed of without actual consideration; and"

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Greive, the amendment by Senator Ryder was laid on the table.

MOTIONS

Senator Ryder moved that Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3 be placed at the top of the second reading calendar for Tuesday, February 5, 1963.

On motion of Senator Greive the motion by Senator Ryder was amended to include Senate Bill No. 59 and Senate Bill No. 143.

The motion by Senator Ryder, as amended by Senator Greive, was carried. Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3 and Senate Bills No. 59 and 143 were ordered placed at the top of the second reading calendar for Tuesday, February 5, 1963.

Grant unto us wisdom, understanding and ability to resolve the equations of life in a way pleasing to Thee. They represent students from The Philippines, India, Pakistan, Yugoslavia, Syria, Germany, Austria, Nigeria, Viet Nam and Japan.

"Mr. Shami, the members of the Senate and the President would appreciate it if you would on this occasion address the group."

Mr. Shami:

"Mr. President and honorable members of the Senate:

"It is my greatest privilege and pleasure to speak to you on my own behalf and on behalf of the other international students who are here. We are all students, mostly graduate students doing their Master Degree or Doctorate work in various fields at the Washington State University. Most of them are in the exchange program. There are about 162 foreign students on the campus from about forty-five countries, and we are all grateful to the United States, who provided this opportunity for us to obtain higher training in our different fields.

"We are on a tour. We traveled from Pullman to Seattle to visit the Boeing Plant and today we attended a session in the House of Representatives, and now we are in the Senate. From here we go to Yakima and the Hanford Atomic Energy Plant, and then we will be back for more of our studies again.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, Senators:

"There is a crisis in the affairs of man in the world today, and as one of America's adopted sons, I am much impressed when I see groups like this who come over to observe our way of life and how we govern ourselves, for the ability of man to govern himself is a great ability. Only people highly advanced in intelligence are capable of self-government, and of those who have been so highly favored, only a few are capable of endurance. I think it is grand of these people to come up here to see how we behave because it is not by man's wealth that he advances, it is only by moral standards from within. I am very happy to see these people here."

The President:

"Thank you, Senator Lennart."

The Secretary read:

Senator England moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 1, line 26, after "thus" and before "with" strike "attempting to comply" and insert "complying as interpreted by said office"

The motion was lost on a rising vote and the amendment was not adopted.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Stender:

"Mr. President, I wonder if Senator Gallagher would yield to a question.

"Senator, I was wondering if somewhere along the way there is going to be a dissolution of the corporation, the Century 21 Exposition Corporation. I don't know whether it will be now or later, but in the passing of this resolution, does this actually change the fact that the trustees will actually have to make settlement of these seventeen lawsuits?"

Senator Gallagher:

"It is my understanding that dissolving the corporation does not relieve the corporate officers of their responsibility if they acted in violation of the law. Now, as I understand it, unless something is done—and this does not do it—as of April 30th the World's Fair Commission goes out of business and from that time on you don't have a commission and this resolution in itself does not continue that corporation."

Senator Stender:

"In other words, the resolution would not, you might say, dissolve the responsibility of any of the Fair corporation people if there is wrongdoing found later?"

Senator Gallagher:

"That is my understanding."

Debate ensued.

Senators Keefe, Cooney and Connor demanded the previous question and tained.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President:

"As a sponsor of the measure, could I close debate?"

MOTION

Senator Greive moved that the rules be suspended and that Senator Dore be permitted to close debate.

Engossed Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3, having received the constitutional majority, was declared adopted.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

The undersigned have voted against Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3, not because of opposition to an investigation of all phases of the operation of the World's Fair, but because this particular resolution is poorly drawn and needlessly requires the continuance of the entire World's Fair Commission, and C-21 Exposition, Inc., for at least two years more. The continuance of these bodies will do nothing to further the investigation of events that have heretofore taken place, and will only complicate the legal problems involved in the windup of the Fair, and will cause additional unnecessary expense.

Charles P. Moriarty, Jr., Walter B. Williams, R. Frank Atwood, Sam C. Guess, John H. Stender, Jack England, Ted G. Peterson, Albert C. Thompson, Jr., Herbert H. Freise.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Riley:

"Would Senator Rasmussen yield to a question?"

"Senator Rasmussen, line 5 starts out this way: 'All sales made prior to the effective date—'

"Can you tell me about how many sales were made?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"I think there were about twenty-five sales."

Senator Riley:

"Do you have any idea of the volume?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"Small parcels of the port district."

Senator Riley:

"In money, I mean. About how much in money did the twenty-five sales total?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"I'm not aware of that, Senator Riley."

The motion was lost on a rising vote and the amendment was not adopted.

On motion of Senator Rasmussen, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 64 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Would someone who is familiar with the bill answer what I consider to be a serious question?"

"Down at the bottom of page 1 and the top of page 2 we are doing something I have never seen done in legislation before. We are requiring some conditions which are not specified in this act be set forth in the deed conveying this property by the port officials to be covenants with the land. Now the portion I am concerned about says this: 'The conditions upon which said properties are conveyed shall be set forth in the instrument conveying title thereof with the further condition that all of the provisions herein set forth shall be covenants running with the land.'

"Now my question is, what are the provisions herein set forth and; two, this covenant running with the land, would that mean that the grantee of the property from the port could never vary from the plans and specifications approved by the port commission; and, third, if it means that, why set it forth in the legislation? Can it not be done by private arrangements between the grantor and grantee? I just direct those questions to somebody who is closer to this thing than I am."

Senator Petrich:

"Senator, this question that you raise is one which I raised when I first looked at the bill. However, the underlined provision on page 1 and page 2 is carrying over into this portion of the bill portions which were repealed by new section 2. In other words, we are not injecting anything new into these deeds of port industrial property. These are exactly the same provisions which have been in the law in reference to covenants running with the land as far as grants from the port commission to various grantees."

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Well, Senator Petrich, can you tell me what the provisions herein set forth refer to? What are these provisions?"

Senator Petrich:

"The provisions herein set forth refer to a section referring, if I'm not mistaken, Senator, to substantial improvements on property conveyed within a period of some twelve months' time after the grant. Now if there is any particular reservation, perhaps this bill should be held on second reading until you are satisfied yourself; but actually there is nothing new in this underlined material. That is the picking up of a section which we repealed and putting it in the same place with reference to notices, and we combined exactly the same wording."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Gallagher, Senate Bill No. 64 was ordered to hold its place on the third reading calendar for Wednesday, February 6, 1963.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Greive, the remaining bills on second and third reading were ordered to hold their places on the second and third reading calendar for Wednesday, February 6, 1963.

At 3:30 p. m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 7:55 p. m.

EVENING SESSION

The Senate was called to order at 7:55 p. m. by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present.

At 8:00 p. m., the Senate retired to the House chamber to meet in Joint Session for the purpose of viewing the film entitled, "Washington State, Land of Contrasts."

JOINT SESSION

The Sergeant at Arms of the House announced the arrival of the Senate at the bar of the House.

The Speaker invited the Senators to seats within the House and instructed the Sergeants at Arms of the Senate and the House to escort the President of the Senate to a seat on the rostrum.

President of the Senate John A. Cherberg called the joint session to order.

The Secretary of the Senate called the roll of the Senate and all members were present.

The Clerk of the House called the roll of the House and all members were present.

President Cherberg:

"Mr. Speaker, President Pro Tempore Riley, members of the Washington State Legislature, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The purpose of this joint session of the legislature is to view a film entitled 'Washington State, Land of Contrasts'. I am sure many members of the legislature join with the President in expressing the thought that this is the understatement of the thirty-eighth legislative session.

"Here to narrate this particular film is Mr. Mark Evans of Washington, D. C. Mr. Evans is a renowned television and radio executive who is currently doing an hour program on television in the East entitled 'Opinion in the Capitol'. In addition, Mr. Evans is vice-president of Metromedia Association, Inc., a television and radio company. Mr. Evans on occasion has given the narration on this film to audiences exceeding seven thousand people, one in particular in Constitution Hall in Washington, D. C. This film is soon to be shown on television throughout the states of New York, Washington, Kansas and in the California area.

"It is with great pride that the President at this time presents Mr. Mark Evans."

(Applause.)

Mr. Evans:

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, distinguished members of this august body, I bring you greetings from the District of Columbia. I have a trade that I have been asked to offer to you, your reorganization problems for the problems of filibustering in the Senate of the United States. (Laughter.)

"I am not unmindful of the honor which is mine here tonight to show you a film of which I am very proud. The flight I made from Washington, D. C. for this specific purpose was and is a small effort indeed compared to the thrill of showing you this film which I had the pleasure of making this last summer and to show it in this, I think, the most beautiful capitol building in all the world, and I have seen most of them.

(Applause.)

"I profusely apologize not for what is in the film but for what of necessity was left out of the film. I am sure you can appreciate the monumental task of trying to depict a state such as yours on celluloid. It is almost impossible, because you don't have one state; you have about seven different geographical states. I have previously made films of the Soviet Union and many other unusual places, but I have never enjoyed making one more than I did this one. This was the first of its type of any of the states of the Union.

"We came out here at the request of the Geographic Society because of the great World's Fair which you had and we thoroughly enjoyed it. I am a television commentator and executive and this lecturing business is an avocation, and I am very happy to be doing it. One of my purposes is to show on behalf of my company that we believe in the beauties of your state and are desirous of perpetuating those beauties. If there is anything wrong with your state in my estimation, it is the lack of zeal on the part of your people in selling your state to the federal Union.

"There are many things about which I am sure you are going to disagree in your meeting of the legislature of the state of Washington and I thought it might be well for you to find something on which you are completely unified. I think that is your love of one of the great and I think most beautiful states in the Union. I have a running love affair with the Evergreen state. I hope you will re-evaluate what you have as you see the film. I have yet to show it to an audience when I haven't been besieged with people who make the declaration of their avowed purpose hereafter to see for themselves the majesty of the Evergreen State.

"Thank you very much."

(Applause.)

The film "Washington State, Land of Contrasts" was then shown with narration by Mr. Evans.

President Cherberg:

"Thanks very much, Mr. Evans. The resounding reception of your film and your narration certainly is indication of the opinion of the members of the legislature of you and your film."

MOTION

On motion of Representative Copeland, the joint session was dissolved. The Speaker directed the Sergeants at Arms of the Senate and the House to escort the Senators and the President of the Senate back to the Senate chamber.

SECOND EVENING SESSION

At 9:55 p. m., the President called the Senate to order.

MOTION

At 9:55 p. m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate adjourned until noon, Wednesday, February 6, 1963.

JOHN A. CHERBERG, President of the Senate.

WARD BOWDEN, Secretary of the Senate.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY

NOON SESSION

SENATE CHAMBER,
OLYMPIA, WASH., Wednesday, February 6, 1963.

The Senate was called to order at noon by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators DeGarmo and Foster.

On motion of Senator Greive, Senator DeGarmo was excused.

On motion of Senator Neill, Senator Foster was excused.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Michael C. O'Connell, Color Bearer, and Theresa Pomeroy, presented the Colors.

Reverend Dave Carlson, pastor of the Assembly of God Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"God our Father, God of all creation and Father of all mankind, we humbly approach Thy throne of grace in prayer.

"We thank Thee that we can come in prayer for Thou in Thy love hast made the way possible by the cross of Christ; and we thank Thee that we desire to come, for in so doing we recognize our insufficiency and need.

"This day is Thy gift to us and we pray that Thy will shall be done both in us, and through us. Be pleased, O God, to use us as instruments of righteousness to fulfill our obligations to those who trust us. Fashion our lives upon the anvil of Thy divine will and temper us with strength and resiliency equal to the tasks of the day. Grant us, O God, that at the end of day we shall be content that good has been done to the benefit of all, and of honor to Thee.

"This we ask in the name of Christ Jesus, our Lord. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"With your permission, the President should like to announce the presence of a renowned and celebrated young American. The President at this time should like to request of the Senators of the Inland Empire that they act as a committee of honor to escort our celebrated guest to the rostrum."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

A committee of honor consisting of Senators Keefe, Cowen, Herrmann, Cooney, Guess and Neill escorted Mr. Maury Wills to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The President is sure that you recognize our very prominent and princely figure, Mr. Maury Wills. This fine gentleman exercised and made a remarkable judgment in that after playing for the Seattle Rainiers and Spokane Indians, decided that the Evergreen State was the one place in the world where he would like to reside with his very lovely wife and exceptionally fine five young children.

"Mr. Wills is certainly looking forward to February 23rd because that is the date on which he reports for spring training. But what is even more important than that, he will be able to obtain a little rest at that time. Since the close of the last baseball season, Maury has traveled over 55,000 miles around the world, you might say twice, to greet and meet all of the many fans that he has developed so magnificently. This total mileage is approximately one-third the distance Maury traveled around the bases for the Los Angeles Dodgers last season.

"It was either Bugs Baer or Ring Lardner who said, in describing a rather slow, heavy footed fellow named Ping Bodie who once tried to steal second base: 'Ping had larceny in his heart and lead in his feet.'

"Just the opposite is true of Maury Wills. He has larceny in his heart, it's true, but he has mercury in his feet and for that reason was able to successfully negotiate the theft of 104 bases last season.

"In addition to the many 'Whereas's' that you heard last week when you so generously adopted the Senate Resolution, what was not included in this particular resolution was the fact that Maury was also made an honorary member of Folsom Prison and San Quentin for his fine achievement.

"Maury, as we all know, has brought credit upon the state of Washington, and it is certainly fitting and proper that this resolution was adopted.

"Senator Davey Cowen and Senator James Keefe, through the kind offices of the Secretary of State, the Honorable Victor A. Meyers, have designated our guest as a distinguished citizen of the state of Washington.

"To All to Whom These Presents Shall Come, Greetings. Know ye Maury Wills is hereby appointed Distinguished Citizen of the State of Washington.' And this is signed by Senator Doctor David C. Cowen, Senator James Keefe, and your own President, along with Victor A. Meyers

"Now, Maury, it is with extreme pleasure that Senator Keefe, Senator Cowen, and the other members of the Senate and I present this to you and we do this only with the thought in mind that you have to do something for us; namely, that you will favor us with some well chosen words.

"Congratulations."

Mr. Maury Wills:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"Again I want to say that you have added another glorious moment to my career and also to my life. It is indeed an honor and pleasure to come to Seattle and here at the Capitol to visit with you and get a chance to know you and give you a chance to know me a little better as an individual, rather than just a ball player that you read about in the papers.

"I received many awards this year. I have traveled all over the country, but I must say I cherish this award today more than anything I have received because this is at home, and these are things you really appreciate. It's just like the frosting on the cake and as I have said before, to me without frosting a cake just isn't a cake.

"I came to the state of Washington with my family in 1957 when I played in Seattle for the Rainiers. Ever since we started playing baseball back in 1951, my wife and I have continuously looked for some place where we could settle down and raise our children, some place to call home, some place that would be beneficial to us and a place that we could be beneficial to; and not until we came here to the state of Washington, over in God's country in Spokane, did we find a place where we wanted to stay.

"We are so proud to be citizens of the state of Washington and to be Spokanites. A lot of players down in Los Angeles can't understand why I wanted to come up here to 'live in the woods', as they say. I often tell them that the good fresh air up here would kill them anyhow after being in all of the smog down there. They really don't know what living is until they come up to the Northwest.

"I would like to tell you a little bit about my baseball career. Back in 1959, right after playing in the World Series, I came home and about five years prior to that I started getting aches in my knees. Every night after a ballgame, my knees would just ache. Finally I was introduced to Dr. David C. Cowen, our senator. He x-rayed my teeth and found two abscessed teeth which he fixed for me. Believe me, my legs haven't hurt since. My back hurts now!

"Often I have said this: that I was fortunate that I was blessed in being able to steal 104 bases that I couldn't have stolen those bases without people like Jim Gilliam hitting behind me or without the management giving me the 'go' sign, the 'green light' as we call it. I was on my own all the time. I didn't have to wait for a steal sign. Whenever I got ready to run, I could run; but only because of players like Elston Howard to hit home runs and keep the score close, or pitchers like Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax to hold down the opposition so the score would be close and you might have a steal situation. This is the first time I have had a chance to mention what Senator Cowen did for me. I know without his help I wouldn't have been able to steal those bases. Behind every successful story there is always somebody behind the scenes that does a lot and he is the one behind the scenes in this case.

"I don't know what else I can talk about but again I want to say that we are so proud to be here in the state of Washington and even though they have tried to lure us to Los Angeles on many occasions, they can't pry us from Spokane with a crowbar! My family and my kids are just so happy there. The bus comes and picks them up in the morning and takes them to school right in front of the house and brings them right back. They have a lot of wonderful friends in the school. All the coaches like them and they play sports.

"A cute little story is that my oldest boy is a pretty good baseball player. He made a couple of errors one time and the coach couldn't understand it. He said 'Barry—his name is Barry—Your daddy is a shortstop for the Los Angeles Dodgers. Why do you make those errors?'

"After about three times of this, my boy said 'With all due respects, my name is Barry, not Maury.'

"Thank you again very much and if you ever get over to Spokane, I certainly would like to show you all the hospitality and brotherly love and good Christian fellowship that you have shown me here today.

"Thank you very much."

Senator Riley:

"Mr. President:

"Just off the record I might say to Maury in reference to your back ailment, there is another Spokaneite by the name of Day who, I understand, is a chiropractor. He is also located in the Capitol and you might wish to pay him a visit."

The President:

"Maury, members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The President certainly appreciates the sincere and honest remarks you have just given us. It isn't often that we have a person of your stature visiting our Senate chamber. It's good to realize that you are so aware of the good fortune that you have received and the assistance and cooperation of your teammates, your coaches and managers.

"As you are so well aware, Maury, the political arena in the state of Washington is something of a haven for broken down coaches and athletes. For this reason the President and members of the Senate join in wishing you long and continued success on the baseball diamond.

"Senator Cowen has received a great deal of credit for his part in the success of Maury Wills. What Maury did not say was that he is still paying Senator Cowen every month, just like alimony.

"Maury, with your permission, we will go ahead with the official business but we would love to have you stay on the rostrum."

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Henry, the Committee on State Government was relieved of further consideration of Senate Bill No. 311.

On motion of Senator Henry, Senate Bill No. 311 was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

On motion of Senator Dore, the Senate chamber was made available to the Appropriations Committee for the purpose of holding a public hearing at 8:00 p. m., Thursday, February 14, 1963.

The Secretary read:

SENATE RESOLUTION
1963 -12-

By Senator Donohue:

WHEREAS, Population statistics reported in the 1960 federal census are no longer completely accurate and reliable because of the changing conditions inevitably occurring with the passage of time; and

WHEREAS, Since the 1960 federal census many new voting precincts have been formed; and

WHEREAS, The registration of voters under Washington law is not sufficiently current to reflect recent losses in populations in some areas; e.g., losses of population resulting from the freeway developments presently under way in Seattle and metropolitan King county as well as other areas in the state; and

WHEREAS, Delineation of legislative district boundaries by city streets rather than precinct lines requires the compilation and translation of information heretofore unprepared; and

WHEREAS, The legislature requires current information concerning factors other than population which the federal courts have expressly pointed out to be proper considerations to the preparation of legislative districting and apportionment;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, By the Senate of the state of Washington, that the Chairman of the Senate's Standing Committee on Constitution, Elections and Legislative Processes appoint and chair a special committee of members from the membership of the Committee on Constitution, Elections and Legislative Processes to conduct a fact-finding survey to provide current and accurate information necessary and proper for the fair and equitable reapportionment and redistricting of the state legislature; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the committee seek the advice and assistance of the personnel of those governmental agencies (including legislators) who are in a position to provide such information and service.

On motion of Senator Donohue, the resolution was adopted.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I have the honor to submit the following appointment to the position of Member, Public Assistance Advisory Committee, subject to your confirmation:

Elsie Wedekind, appointed April 21, 1961, for the term ending June 10, 1963, succeeding Robert M. Christiansen.

Sincerely,

ALBERT D. ROSELLINI, Governor.

CONFIRMATION OF GUBERNATORIAL APPOINTMENT

It was moved by Senator Greive that the rules be suspended and the appointment of Elsie Wedekind to the position of member of the Public Assistance Advisory Committee be now confirmed by the Senate.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"Max Wedekind was my seatmate for sixteen years. His wife, of course, has been a good friend of mine during all of that period of time. I feel confident she is going to be approved anyway and I would like to prevail upon the Senate to grant her that courtesy which we grant to former members of the Senate and consider her appointment today. I think it is little enough honor for a fellow legislator who served us for many years."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"I don't want to raise an objection to this. We have made exceptions in the case of former Senators. The theory on which we make that exception is that having served with the individual, we know the particular party and there is no point in referring their name to any committee because we have worked with them and know them. Now I am perfectly willing to go along with this matter today, but it would be my hope in the future that on names other than former members of the body with whom we have served, that they be referred to committee. On this one we are willing to go ahead."

Senator Greive:

"May I explain for Senator Woodall's information, we just thought we would accord her a little honor in view of her husband's service and consider her immediately."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"Many of you know Elsie Wedekind and know of her long years of interest in legislative work. She will do excellent work on this committee and I urge you to support the appointment of the Governor.

"Thank you."

The motion was carried.

APPOINTMENT OF ELSIE WEDEKIND

The Secretary called the roll on the appointment of Elsie Wedekind to the position of member of the Public Assistance Advisory Committee and her appointment was confirmed by the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 45; nays, 0; absent or not voting, 4.

Those voting yea were: Senators Atwood, Bailey, Charette, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, England, Foley, Freise, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Petrich, Rasmussen, Rickdall, Riley, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Thompson, Jr., Washington, Williams, Woodall—45.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The noted Senator from Pierce county, Senator George W. Kupka, has just called the attention of the President to the presence of an illustrious and renowned former member of the Washington State Senate."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

"Would the outstanding group of Senators from Pierce county please act as a committee of honor to escort our distinguished visitor to the rostrum? The President is sure that you will recognize your former President Pro Tempore, the Honorable Gerald G. Dixon."

A committee of honor consisting of Senators Kupka, Knoblauch, McCutcheon, Petrich and Rasmussen, escorted former Senator Gerald G. Dixon to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"It is with great pride and pleasure the President at this time presents the remarkably fine Senator and gentleman from Pierce county, President Pro Tempore Gerald Dixon."

Senator Dixon:

"Mr. President, Fellow Senators and Mrs. Morgan:

"I want to thank you very, very much for the little demonstration you gave me when I came in.

"You know, of course, that formerly I was down here in the legislature for a total of twenty-four years. That's quite a while and finally I decided to retire, and I have been sorry I did ever since because I can't forget my legislative days.

"The highest honor that any person can receive is to be elected a representative of the people, and I come from a good county, Pierce County. The whole state knows of Senator McCutcheon lately, what he is doing down here, and he's right! I would like to add my voice to see that the World's Fair Commission is not discontinued until the legislature that put ten and a half million dollars, I voted for it too as I was here then, finds out whether they are going to get any of it back or whether it was well spent or not. That is all we want to know.

"Well, gentlemen, I could go on and say quite a bit but it is wonderful to be among you again. When I was first elected during the same year as Senator Cowen, we were in the House together and we have had many, many times together and are bosom pals today. I would do anything for Senator Cowen and I think he would do anything for me. There is a greet feeling between us Senators.

"I am sorry there was a coalition in the House. They got away to a bad start. I was a victim of a coalition once, that was in 1951. It is just like an opportunist. Somebody wanted a quick, short take and I was a victim of a coalition, but the parties to the coalition said they would never do it again and I came back, and in 1959 I was elected President Pro Tempore with forty-eight votes. I think that is a record in itself.

"I want to say, gentlemen, I just love all of you. The Republicans in the Senate are just as good as the Democrats, but there are more Democrats. I have learned to work with you, I have had a lot of favors from you and I think a lot of you. Thank you, gentlemen, for everything."

The President:

"Thank you very much, Senator Dixon, for your very fine words."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"If the President would direct the Sergeant at Arms to my desk, I would like to suspend Rule 40 in honor of the most fighting Senator we have had, Senator Dixon."

The President:

"Thank you, Senator Rasmussen. Would the Sergeant at Arms please wait on Senator Rasmussen? Senator Gallagher, do you wish to speak in rebuttal?"

Senator Gallagher:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I was under the impression that Senator McCutcheon did a pretty good job yesterday. I didn't think he would have to call upon the reserve troops to come in and hold his position."

The President:

On motion of Senator Greive, the permanent rules of the Senate as amended, were adopted.

The Secretary read:

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR SPECIAL MESSAGE TO THE THIRTY-EIGHTH LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON

February 7, 1963

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

The need for public parks, recreation sites and open spaces has never been greater, and this fact is receiving increased attention throughout our nation. The federal government, as a result of extensive studies of the outdoor recreation situation, has created an outdoor recreation bureau. In the Federal Housing Act of 1961 there were provisions for open space grants. Proposals also have been made for major new federal park and recreation programs.

The states of New York, New Jersey and Wisconsin have authorized investments of from 50 million dollars to 75 million dollars in outdoor recreation programs. Our neighboring states of California, Oregon and Hawaii have laid the ground work for similar action in this field by conducting extensive studies of recreational needs and resources.

The pressing need for related endeavors here in our own state has been evident for some time. One of the basic needs, for example, is recreation facilities for our working population. It's a well established fact that happy, healthy workers are highly productive workers. This is important in our attempts to enlarge existing industry, bring new payrolls into our state—and, in general, create jobs for the thousands who are moving into Washington State every year.

Early in 1962, I appointed an inter-agency committee comprised of the directors of the six state agencies that have major responsibilities concerning land use. Within the time limitations that existed, this committee has compiled extensive information from state agencies and the public in an effort to provide the most complete picture possible of outdoor recreational resources, and the need for them, in our state of Washington.

The report of this committee now is being printed and bound by the state printer. A copy of the report will be in the hands of every legislator by Monday, February 11th. I regret that I am unable to furnish you with the report today, but the tremendous workload placed upon the state printer, primarily because of new work related to legislative documents, has prevented this.

The legislative package that I present to you today includes four bills that would provide for a far-reaching program for the development of outdoor recreation resources in the state of Washington. This program calls for the acquisition of areas to fit the future needs by our citizens for outdoor recreation facilities. Please understand, that this program can be implemented without any additional taxation.

The initial emphasis of this program is placed on securing property related to our water and marine sports and recreation use. The order and timing of the objectives of this program are dictated by the growing scarcity as well as the rapid rise in value of water front property. I am advised by the property tax section of the tax commission that purchases of desirable water front sites on both fresh water and salt water now sell for prices that are 200 percent to 600 percent above prevailing prices of 1952-53. Furthermore, there are many instances of even faster rising prices.

The program I am presenting for your consideration will provide approximately 3 million dollars of income for the purchase of such water front property during the next biennium. This approximately 3 million dollars will be made available by using marine gas tax monies collected from the sale of gasoline used by boats on Washington waters.

I further submit, in separate legislation, that a proposal be placed before the people at the general election in November of 1964 asking their approval to authorize the issuance of bonds, the total of which would not exceed 10 million dollars. This issuance would occur during the period from January 1, 1965, to December 31, 1970.

I wish to emphasize that although I would prefer a program that functions on a pay-as-you-go basis, money for such a plan is not now available. Therefore, keeping in mind the decided inflationary trend of the real estate market, I feel certain that any interest payments that result from a bonding measure will be more than offset by the anticipated rise in the cost of real property over the years.

The proposed outdoor recreation bonds would have, as security, the same source that now is being used to secure and retire the bonds issued for the state's participation in the World's Fair.

These World's Fair bonds are being retired from license fees payable by corporations. But these fees bring revenue in excess of the need for such bond retirement. Furthermore, the excess increases steadily with each repayment. Therefore, it is this existing and growing excess revenue that would be used to support the bonding proposal if issuance of the outdoor recreation bonds are approved by the voters. Schedules showing this method of bonding to be practical have been developed and will be presented to the legislature for study.

Thus, the combined effect of my fiscal proposals will provide 3 million dollars for acquisition and development of outdoor recreation sites in the next biennium, approximately 6 million dollars during the 1965-1967 biennium, approximately 6 to 7 million dollars in the 1967-1969 biennium, and 7 to 8 million dollars in the 1969-1971 biennium.

It is my intention that all funds secured by a vote of the people be dedicated to site acquisition and development. It is my further intention that the estimated 3 million dollars received from the marine gas tax be devoted exclusively during the 1963-1965 biennium to the acquisition and development of water front property. Thereafter, the question of possible use of all or part of marine gas funds for operational purposes is a proper one for succeeding legislatures to decide.

I further propose, in separate legislation, that a Washington State Outdoor Recreational Development Board be established. This board would be empowered to authorize the allocation of funds to participating agencies for the acquisition, construction, development, and improvement of outdoor recreational facilities.

This same piece of legislation would provide for the establishment of an outdoor recreational fund and for state participation in related federal programs.

The board that I propose would be broadly representative of all levels of government as well as outdoor recreational clubs or associations and of private enterprises related to the area of outdoor recreation.

This should be clearly understood, that in establishing this Outdoor Recreational Development Board, we would in no way be creating another government agency. This board would make use of resources and personnel of existing state agencies.

I also want to emphasize that there is a possibility of obtaining federal matching funds related to outdoor recreation. There already is a bill before Congress on this matter. Whenever such funds are made available, we in the state of Washington, through a board such as the one I am suggesting, would be in a position to take immediate advantage of the situation.

This program offers the people of Washington an effective, well-reasoned approach to securing proper sites in a business-like way. I wish to emphasize that it is not a crash program that would generate unwise purchasing, but rather is a program that covers a reasonable period and would enable logical selection of sites and proper timing for negotiations for their purchase.

Washington has the opportunity to begin now on outdoor recreational development while such a project is still economical and while the basic resources still are relatively available. Washington State has a vast recreational potential that can promote prosperity, health and pleasure for our citizens.

I commend this program to you for approval.

ALBERT D. ROSELLINI, Governor,
State of Washington.

President Pro Tempore Riley presiding:

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"Members of the Senate:

"We will divert from the calendar for a few moments for something that is also of importance, not only to the members of the Senate and to our presiding officer, Mr. President, but to his family."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

"In order to initiate this, may I ask that Senators Cowen, Hanna, Ryder and Moriarty, Jr., escort Lieutenant Governor Cherberg, together with his charming bride, Betty, before the bar of the Senate."

The committee of honor escorted Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. John A. Cherberg to the bar of the Senate.

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"Our statesman, Ernest Lennart, through the graciousness and thoughtfulness that he has always shown to us and to all the members present, has a gift, a presentation that he would like to make at this time to Mrs. Cherberg and to our President, Lieutenant Governor Cherberg."

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President Pro Tempore, Mrs. Cherberg, John Cherberg, members of the Senate:

"If in the evening of a long, toilsome life I would be abruptly asked what, among all of the things I have done upon this earth has been most rewarding, I would without any hesitation say that experience of having served with you, Mr. President, so many years, and you fellow Senators here in the Senate in trying to better the state of Washington and make it better than it once was and to come before God's good grace and say that and mean it.

"You know I have had many hobbies in my life and they say hobbies are something you never excel in and I don't excel in anything. I am very humble in it.

"Most of you Senators have been telling the President he has been a marvelous presiding officer, fair and impartial and kind in all respects to both sides. I have never said a thing since I came here from the first day of the legislature.

"Now it looks like they are about to shingle me off the roof and I won't come back any more. I thought I should sketch each of you Senators, and I have been quite busy. One of the first days I approached a gentleman and asked him if he could get a small picture or photograph of Mrs. Cherberg. I know she is a lovely lady, and I knew I would be delighted in drawing her and making a portrait of her. I obtained a picture and later as she sat in the foyer I made quite a study of her, also still later while I was at a banquet, I put my glasses on so she couldn't see where I was focusing my eyes, but she must have seen I was really studying her face.

"Finally I got what I wished and finally I made a pen and ink drawing. I say that I made a pen and ink drawing because each and every line is irrevocable. You cannot take it away. Life is like that. You can't change it. If you have done a deed, you can't change it. You may atone for it but you can't change a thing. It is like that amendment to the U. S. Constitution that we had. Everyone said it was a very bad amendment, so they took the XVIII Amendment out with the XXI and they say we made one heck of a mess, but the XVIII Amendment will always be with us, and so it is with pen and ink. I like to draw with pen and ink. It is a very good medium. Very few do it. I do not excel.

"Now I have made this drawing of one of the loveliest ladies that I have ever seen. I do not know her well but I know she must have left a lasting impression on the man she married because you know that's how we become what we are—the books we read, the friends we make, the prayers we say—more than anything else, the woman we marry; and I should like to give you this picture now, Mr. Cherberg.

"This, Governor, is what I owe you in gratitude for your kindness and impartiality to me. It is a picture of your lovely wife. I would like to have you uncover it and take a look before I make the other presentation.

"May I also say, Senators, that should I ever visit the Cherberg home, I am not so sure the picture will be there but I know the frame will be because these lovely frames have been taken care of by my good friend, Davey Cowen."

Lieutenant Governor Cherberg:

"My good friend, Ernie, Betty, members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"Betty and I are really quite humble when we listen to the remarks just made by a man of outstanding character, ability and kindness. The ability, of course, includes artistic ability. I can only say, Ernie, that we are very grateful, deeply so to you for this very kind act on your part.

"I might add that my feelings are rather mixed at this particular time in the sense I believe that a person such as you should be honored here for the major contributions you have made to the people of the state of Washington and to the Senate of the state.

"Thank you very much Senator Lennart for these remarkably good drawings."

Senator Lennart:

"Now I suppose we should try with the other presentation. I have had quite a time with this. I have been sitting down in front here and the blame fellow never stood still. You know I had to be guided a good deal by some pictures but they were small and I couldn't capture what I wanted because he is constantly moving around, making decisions. It was impossible for me to follow him but finally I caught what I wanted and I have that picture. It is going to go to the lovely lady whom he married; Mrs. Cherberg."

Mrs. Cherberg:

"To follow after Senator Lennart and my husband is quite a challenge. That is a wonderful picture, really. I have always admired pen and ink sketches. In fact, I have a picture that my father gave me years ago that is a pen and ink sketch of a scene in Vermont which has always been my favorite picture and I will hang this right next to it. It is very lovely. Thank you."

Senator Lennart:

"This concludes my presentation.

"I have taken the privilege of having duplicates made of these pictures before I had them placed in frames and am keeping them for my files. I am doing this for all of the others also. Thank you very much."

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"Senator Lennart, what I say to you I am sure is echoed by everybody else.

"The learned Senator Lennart commented in his opening remarks that he did not excel in anything. Senator Lennart, you excel in one thing that is vitally important and necessary, and that is you excel in the item of thoughtfulness and generosity. What a great blessing it is to be thoughtful and to think of others. With all of the controversy that goes on in the Senate halls, when it is all over and graduation day comes, I think we all leave with some reluctance because we have made friends here.

"Certainly, Senator Lennart, everyone is your friend here and Mr. President, I think that to be honored again by Senator Lennart's initiative and joined in by your beautiful bride, Betty, again typifies what the members of the Senate think of you.

"Mr. President, and Betty, and members of the Senate:

"May I at this time take occasion to have Mrs. Lennart, who is the gallery, stand and be recognized, not only for her husband's achievements, but for her association and guidance."

(Applause.)

"I can only add one further word. You made reference to the fact that it is sometimes difficult to find Mr. President because he was bouncing around. I am sorry you didn't inform me earlier. Maybe I could have prevailed upon him to sit for four or five days and I could have presided!

"That concludes this delightful little episode. I will call upon the committee to escort you, Mr. President, from the rostrum in the style to which you would like to become accustomed. I should also like to comment that the framing was done by Senator Cowen who always puts all of us in a beautiful frame and in a beautiful frame of mind. Thank you, Senator Cowen."

The committee of honor escorted Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Cherberg from the rostrum.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Bailey:

"Mr. President:

"On the point of personal privilege, I want to state that ordinarily it has been the custom to hear the proponents of the motion before the opponents. Now the proponents of this bill have never been allowed to explain the bill and actually when a motion is before the Senate for a suspension of the rules, we have permitted an explanation by the party moving to suspend the rules.

"I think this has been entirely out of order. I am going along with it now, but I am going to voice the same objection I did yesterday. If we have to put bills over every time somebody has to call home to check on it, it just means that we are not going to get many bills passed."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, where is the bill now?"

The President:

"The bill is on the second reading calendar for tomorrow."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"I just wanted to make the explanation that this bill has been agreed upon between industry and the department. I don't think there is any real problem here. If there had been permission granted to explain the bill, it wouldn't have been necessary to hold it over."

Senate Bill No. 291, by Senators Washington, Hess and Raugust (by Departmental request):

Permitting change in sign designation of state highway routes.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Washington, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 291 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Section 1. Section 1, chapter 240, Laws of 1957 and RCW 37.12.010 are each amended to read as follows:

The state of Washington hereby obligates and binds itself to assume [, as hereinafter provided] criminal and civil jurisdiction over Indians and Indian territory, reservations, country, and lands within this state in accordance with the consent of the United States given by the act of August 15, 1953 (Public Law 280, 83rd Congress, 1st Session) for the civil and criminal enforcement of state laws and regulations concerning the following matters and purposes:

Additional state jurisdiction in criminal and civil causes of action may be extended to particular reservations or Indian Country with the consent of the governing body of the tribe occupying the Indian Country affected by the assumption of such additional jurisdiction. This may be achieved by negotiation with the tribe or by unilateral action by the tribe. In every case the extent of such additional jurisdiction shall be determined by a resolution of the tribal governing body and become effective upon the tribe's transmittal of the resolution to the Governor of the state of Washington. Such resolution may effectively accept jurisdiction as to any particular field of criminal or civil jurisdiction. All state jurisdiction extended by virtue of this Act shall be concurrent (and not exclusive) with jurisdiction in the same matters existing in the tribes or the federal government.

PROVIDED FURTHER, That Indian Tribes that petitioned for, were granted and became subject to state jurisdiction pursuant to this chapter on or before the effective date of this amendatory act shall remain subject to state civil and criminal jurisdiction as if this amendatory act had not been enacted.

When the board of county commissioners of any county containing Indian Country has approved said negotiated contract and their proportionate reimbursement they shall signify their approval by resolution. Thereafter, when the Governor of the state of Washington has approved said negotiated contract and the state's proportionate reimbursement he shall signify his approval of same by a proclamation assuming and accepting jurisdiction, and this amended act shall be effective thirty days after the date of said proclamation. The rates or terms of said contract shall as far as possible be on the basis of and take into consideration the untaxed Indian lands and the proportion such lands bear to the total land area of said counties and state, and the proportion the law enforcement costs caused by this assumption bears to the total law enforcement costs of said counties and state."

Debate ensued.

The motion was lost and the amendment was not adopted.

On page 3 add a new section following section 6 to read as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, the support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect immediately."

In line 8 of the title, after "RCW 37.12.020" strike the period (.) and insert "[.]; and declaring an emergency."

Passed to the Committee on Rules and Joint Rules for third reading.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hess:

"Point of personal privilege, Mr. President:

"I think that some of the remarks in part impugn my motives and I somewhat resent them. I would like to make the record clear beyond any misunderstanding that I do not think a rewrite of this bill by any stretch of the imagination is a repudiation of Senate Joint Resolution No. 9 which the people passed, nor do I think anything in my remarks would indicate there is no merit in such a bill. My remarks indicated that certain sections of this bill were, in my judgment, very, very unwise and I think that to infer otherwise was to misinterpret the facts."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Gissberg:

"Point of personal privilege, Mr. President:

"Senator Hess, I in no way attempted to impugn your motives by my remarks or the motives of any Senator on this floor, nor would I ever do so. It is my hope, however, in view of the action taken by the majority of the members on this past vote, Senator Hess, that you will see to it that your alternate proposal for carrying out the mandate of the people will be met and that you will diligently work to achieve that end by providing some tools with which the constitutional provision can be fulfilled and by working out amendments or a new bill, if that be your desire and if you continue to be supported by a majority of the Senators."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, I too rise on a point of personal privilege:

"For the information of the Senators, I was one of the co-sponsors of the arguments for Senate Joint Resolution No. 9 in the Secretary of State's Voters' Pamphlet and it is not my intention that the bill be killed. However, in reading over the bill and considering some of the aspects of it, I do not think this is the right approach for carrying Senate Joint Resolution No. 9 into effect. I was very much for it. I think that the State Government Committee under the able guidance of Senator Al Henry will be able to come up with a more favorable solution. I certainly hope they will do it and bring the bill before us."

Senate Bill No. 250, by Senators Petrich and Gallagher:

Authorizing city to aid in support of areas receiving its electricity services.

On motion of Senator Gallagher, Senate Bill No. 250 was referred to the Committee on Public Utilities.

"O God, the burden of the world is great and our hands are small; the mystery of life is very deep and our love falters; sin is stubborn and our wills are feeble; without Thee, we are lost.

"Strengthen our hands, empower our love, direct our wills. Though the day be short, help us to lift some burden, bring light to some darkness and stand firm against all evil.

"Open new paths of righteousness for our souls' sake, that we may not grow weary in well-doing; lengthen our sight that we may see farther than this day.

"And as we stand in Thy presence at this moment, we would be mindful of that one who is ill. Grant unto him a sense of Divine companionship and strengthen him with courage and wisdom and fortitude for the facing of these hours.

"And when the night lays the world away, take our souls into Thy keeping and restore them with Thy spirit for the work of another day. In the Master's name. Amen."

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President and fellow Senators:

"As you realize, Senator Pearson is a former member of the Senate and, according to tradition, we have always taken a former member of the Senate and rather than send his appointment to committee and hold lengthy hearings, we have attempted to bestow some honor on him by moving the appointment along and confirming his appointment on the floor.

"At this time I think many of you in the Senate know Senator Pearson who is now Chairman of the Utilities Commission under the Governor and I would appreciate it and I know that you would too, and I am sure that Francis would, if we consider his confirmation now."

Senator Dore:

"Not to delay the proceedings, but I would like to add my remarks along with Senator Durkan, that Senator Pearson, despite what would be a tremendous handicap to many men who probably would have settled for a much more limited sphere of endeavor, has demonstrated his courage, tenacity, intelligence and ability to move around and do a job like all the rest of us. I think he has done an outstanding job and gained the respect of labor and industry alike, and I think we would be remiss if we didn't add our confirmation to his loyalty and demonstrate the respect we hold for him here in the Senate."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"Senator Kupka, in the graciousness that only he has demonstrated over the years, has called to my attention the fact that Senator Pearson owes his present position not only to his loyalty to this group but to the fine and lovely lady standing in the south gallery who is his mother. Mrs. Pearson has been with us during the entire session and I think I have learned to know, respect and like her as much, if not more, than her son. I wonder, Mr. President, if Mrs. Pearson could please stand and be recognized by the Senate."

(Applause.)

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I want to add my words to the approbation of Senator Pearson. I have been associated with him for many years and found him to be a very fine man but there is one other thing I want to call to your attention too. Not only is he well qualified for the job, but he has loaned to Committee Room 14 the best secretary in his office for the duration of the session and I think this is ample reason why the Republicans should vote for his confirmation."

Senator Peterson:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"From this side of the aisle, I would like to concur. I served with Senator Pearson in 1955 and 1957, and his grasp of any situation was so great that I marveled at the work he could do. You might say that he is the father of the present pollution program that we have and his work in fisheries was so outstanding that we advanced our service into the fish farming area and various other phases of the work."

The motion was carried.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate, I would like to make a brief explanation:

"It has just come to the attention of the Committee on Highways that under the Revised Code of Washington, chapter 41.06.060, it is provided that where appointments are made by the Highway Commission, the confirmations must be made within thirty days after the session begins. This is the thirtieth day and they must be considered and acted upon today. POINT OF INQUIRY

"Does Senator Washington yield to a question?"

Senator Woodall:

"But your committee has recommended these appointments?"

Senator Washington:

"Yes, the committee has recommended them."

Senator Raugust:

"If I may, I think I can answer Senator Woodall's question, supporting Senator Washington. I was on the subcommittee to recommend these applications. I could not get the information last week and asked Senator Washington to give me some time. I received the information and yesterday I recommended to them. I just want to support Senator Washington in that the delay was caused by the subcommittee."

The motion was carried.

SECOND READING OF BILLS

Senate Bill No. 129, by Senators Dore, Knoblauch and Chytil:
Providing civil defense workmen's compensation.

On motion of Senator Dore, Senate Bill No. 129 was ordered to retain its place on the second reading calendar for tomorrow.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The President has just learned of the presence in the Legislative Building of a very distinguished and respected member of the United States Congress.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

"The President at this time should like to request of Senator Ryder, Senator Riley, Senator Williams and Senator Gallagher that you act as a committee of honor to escort our esteemed visitor to a place of honor upon the rostrum."

The committee of honor including Senators Ryder, Riley, Williams and Gallagher escorted Congressman Thomas M. Pelly to the rostrum.

The President:

"The President is indeed proud and honored to have the opportunity for the first time to present the very capable, efficient and respected Congressman from the first district of Washington, the President's home district, along with that of Senator Moriarty, Jr. Representative Tom Pelly, now serving his sixth term in the United States House of Representatives, has in the opinion of many people, placed the needs of his country and his district above his party. Mr. Pelly has actively promoted the full use of the Bremerton Naval Shipyards' extensive facilities and their efficient and well trained work force. Mr. Pelly has sought the preservation and protection of the interests of his constituents in their traditional fishing grounds and has kept a vigilant surveillance to maintain a strong merchant marine.

"In addition to all of these splendid attributes, Mr. Pelly has the very happy faculty for being able to get along with his colleagues and is recognized by them as a man who gets things done in Washington, D.C. that is!

"We all know and respect Tom so well, that to say more would be somewhat redundant and detract from the message that Tom has to deliver to us.

"It would be a pleasure, Congressman Pelly, if you would honor us by addressing the Senate."

Congressman Thomas M. Pelly:

"Mr. President:

"It is a great courtesy to me to allow me to interrupt your important work this morning, but it does give me a wonderful chance to greet many of my close, warm and old friends who are members of this body; and also to bring from Washington, D.C. greetings from the Washington State Congressional delegation.

"Legislative bodies on the national level and on the state level are having great problems these days, and I would suggest to all of you that one of our greatest problems is that there is often an overlapping and uncertainty as to the areas of responsibility between the national government and the state government. These problems did not arise in any recent administration. Rather, in my opinion, they began some fifty years ago when the Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution was adopted and the federal government obtained a major source of income to finance programs.

"It is interesting that after the income tax amendment was adopted, Senator Byrd, not our present Senator Byrd but his father, suggested that there should be a limitation on income taxes of a maximum rate of ten percent, and immediately the opposition said that was an open invitation for raising taxes and that no one had any idea that income tax would ever exceed a rate of two percent.

"Today is the birthday of the 'Great Emancipator.' In his day the average tax was a dollar and a half per capita. At the time of the adoption of the income tax, the actual per capita average was $2.41. Did the rate increase up to a maximum ten percent? No, it went up a hundredfold.

"The average per capita income tax today is $241.00. This has made it very difficult, of course, for state governments to finance their programs and meet their responsibility; and I think that one of the major problems arises from the upset in equilibrium between the respective national and state governments, as far as the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States are concerned when, starting in 1937, a series of decisions opened up the taxing and spending authority of the federal government to the general welfare. Whereas, heretofore, the only responsibilities were for those specified in the Constitution and not reserved to the states under previous decisions.

"It would have seemed that when the federal government took over the responsibility for the general welfare, that it would have relieved the state government. Unfortunately, it worked the opposite way because immediately the federal government began appropriating money for which the states were required to furnish matching funds. Therefore, this has been a difficult problem.

"Mr. President and members, it appears to me that in this matter of financing various programs, some of us who believe that government closest to the people is the best government and that the decisions that are rendered in government should be close so that the voices of the governed can be heard, are not making it easier for the state legislature when we try to keep on the state level responsibility for programs such as education, for example. I point out that if the local communities are not able to convince the citizen that he or she must vote for special levies in emergencies to meet the needs of the schools, then the pressures become more heavy on the state government; and if the state doesn't act, then there is more pressure on the federal level.

"But I only point out to you today that the citizen will lose his voice over such matters as the administration of his schools through his school board if, in turn, it is necessary to relinquish to the national government the control and management of schools.

"In this connection, Mr. President and members, I want to point out that as far as the present program goes, we are deep in debt. The actual debt of the federal government and its obligations, including the national debt, are a trillion dollars. That's $22,000 for every family in the country. The interest that every family must pay each month on the national debt is $16.00 per family. These are things that concern most of us as to how far you can go in debt. I hope we never find out because the consequences would be too serious.

"In concluding these remarks, may I again express my appreciation and suggest that the formula under which we can meet our responsibilities as legislators may well have been expressed in the philosophy of Abraham Lincoln, whom we remember today, when he said that government should only do those things for people that they cannot do for themselves. Again I would say that we could use the formula of a president a hundred years later, President Kennedy, when he said to the American people when he was inaugurated: 'Ask not what your government can do for you; ask what you can do for your government.'

"In this connection, I suggest that if we, as legislators, do ask the people to forego benefits and use restraint as far as their requests are concerned, they will meet the test. I believe the American people and the citizens of this state would be very happy to join with their legislators in holding down their demands and requests to obtain adequate needs for public service.

"With this message, I thank you again for allowing me to intrude in your busy time. I remind you of the warm greetings of my colleagues and say thank you, Mr. President and members."

The President:

"Congressman Pelly, members of the Senate:

"The President and the members of the Senate certainly enjoyed your most interesting and informative remarks. The President was especially interested in your observation regarding the average amount of income tax paid by each citizen, and has at last found something in which he is slightly above average.

"Senator Thompson, would you act as chairman of the Congressman's escort committee and escort our respected visitor from the Senate chamber."

The committee of honor escorted Congressman Pelly from the rostrum.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate:

"It is just a few minutes until noon. The President is sure that you are aware of the special order of business before us at this time. With your permission perhaps the Senate should consider the special order at this particular moment.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

"The President should like to request several of the honored members to act as an escort to our very friendly and beloved Senator Ernest W. Lennart. Would Senator Neill, Senator Gallagher, Senator Bailey, and Senator Freise please act as a committee of honor to escort our distinguished member to a place upon the rostrum?"

A committee of honor consisting of Senators Neill, Freise, Gallagher and Bailey escorted Senator Lennart to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The Washington State Senate in its wisdom reached a judgment in adopting a resolution yesterday that made it possible for the President to present this afternoon to the Senate a most able and respected statesman. It is not often that we have an opportunity to call from among the members of the Senate a man whose entire life has been devoted to the study of mankind.

"This Senator, whose home boasts one of the finest private libraries in the state, has spent his lifetime becoming familiar with all walks of life. As a successful business man who has also worked with his hands, the Senator has also studied political history and is an extraordinary historian and philosopher in his own right; and above all is a beloved husband and father.

"The members of the Senate have chosen an ideal person to address us this morning concerning the immortal American, Abraham Lincoln, whose memory we commemorate today.

"The President is privileged to present Senator Ernest Lennart, and I am sure that Senator Lennart, before delivering his remarks, wishes to extend a cordial invitation to the Honorable Samuel J. Smith, Representative from the 37th District of King County, to come to a place on the rostrum."

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

"Senator Dore and Senator Williams, would you please act as a committee to escort the Honorable Samuel J. Smith to the rostrum?"

A committee of honor consisting of Senators Dore and Williams escorted Representative Smith to the rostrum.

The President:

"Ernie, it is with a deep sense of satisfaction and humbleness that we request you to address us today."

Senator Lennart:

"Thank you, Mr. President, Honorable Samuel J. Smith, my fellow Senators:

"Thank you, too, Mr. President, for those kind remarks. I know I cannot live up and have not lived up to half of them but I know you really did mean it, and thank you, too, my fellow Senators for this recurrent honor year in and year out to come before you and speak about the Great Emancipator. And thanks, too, to the beloved Republic which has adopted me and for which I have a feeling of intense love which a native citizen neither feels nor understands. One of the most remarkable Senators we have here, a man of much understanding, Marshall Neill, said, "They just simply take it for granted."

"Abraham Lincoln, unknown to fame until his election to the presidency, exhibited a power for the government of man which scarcely has been surpassed in any age. No man ever displayed a greater insight into the complex motives which shape the public opinion of a free country. He possessed almost to the degree of an instinct the supreme quality of a statesman of taking the right decision, of taking it at the right moment, and of expressing it in a language of incomparable felicity.

"Bugalow's familiarity with statesmen, politicians, lawyers and men of affairs wrote of Lincoln. I do not know that history has made a record of attainment of any corresponding eminence by any other man who so habitually, who so constitutionally did to others as he would have them do to him. Without any pretensions to religious excellence, from the time he first came under the observation of the Nation, he seemed, like Milton, to have ever walked under his great Task Master's eye.

"Frothingham, who knew Lincoln intimately, said of him, "To me there seems a grace almost surpassing in the quiet, unwearied, almost infinite patience which this good man possessed and lived on. A man of low temperament, and sad nature, he waited and worked, worked and waited, bearing all things, enduring all things—even from his friends.' What a history was written on that care-worn, furrowed face of suffering accepted, of sorrow entertained, of emotions buried, of duty done.

"Lincoln first came under the observation of the nation during the Lincoln-Douglas debates. 'A house divided against itself cannot stand. I do believe this nation cannot endure permanently half slave and half free. I do not expect the union will be dissolved. I do not expect the house will fall. But I do expect it will cease to be divided. It will be either all one thing or all of the other.'

"This, said Sandburg, was so clear that any two farmers fixing a fence or digging a ditch could talk it over and understand it in all of its gruesome meaning.'

"Then he added this for the thoughtful and for the philosopher: 'Either the opponents of slavery will arrest the further spreading of it and place it where it shall rest in the public's mind in the belief that it is in the course of ultimate extinction, or its advocates will push it forward until it shall be lawful throughout in all the states, East as well as West, North as well as South.'

"He wrote a letter to the Commons of Boston who wanted him as a speaker and who set forth what he was to speak and not speak about. He said this: 'This is a world of compensation. He who would be no slave must consent to have no slavery. Those who would deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves and under a just God will not long retain it.'

"They had a strike in Massachusetts. The shoe factory workers said they couldn't get along on $250.00 a year. Douglas said it was an unfortunate sectional warfare and had to be stamped out, to which Lincoln replied: 'Thank God there is a system by which labor can go on strike in this land.'

"Once an old friend of his spoke of going to court with his next neighbor. Lincoln said: 'Has he been a friend of yours for a long time?' 'Nigh on to fifteen years.' 'Part of the time you get along all right, don't you?' 'I reckon we do.' 'Well, see this horse of mine? Sometimes I get out of patience with him but I know his faults. He does fairly well as horses go, but it will take me a long time to get used to some other horses' faults for all horses have faults.' The lawsuit was called off. And so the talking, illusive, story-telling Lincoln is a challenge for any artist.

"There is a letter written to a mother whom the President heard had lost five sons. The letter: 'Dear Madam: I have been shown in the file of the War Department a statement from the Attorney General of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have lost their lives gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine that should attempt to beguile you from a grief of a loss so overwhelming, but I cannot refrain from tendering the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic that they died to save. I pray our Heavenly Father that he may assuage the grief of your bereavement and leave you only with the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride for having laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.'

"This letter almost reminds one of the Ancient Greek spirit when Pericles said of the dead in Athens that a graven monument will be established, not upon stone, but in the hearts of men.

"It could also remind us of an American mother's pilgrimage to her soldier son's grave under a blue southern sky in France where in an eternal glory rests her son and other mothers' sons that died that our way of life may go on.

"The war went on—the beating of drums, the agony of blood. Columns upon columns of soldiers in blue went south and further south. Thousands upon thousands returned back in ambulances in agony, suffering and death. Other thousands lay buried in shallow graves, buried by hurried, burying squads who shoveled them over, fragments of the created going back to the Creator. Other thousands as in Gettysburg were left for the scavenger birds to pick their skulls and ribs clean, finally the rain and sunshine leaving an ancient halo of dignity before man; and the war went on. One general replaced another. Some of them were Democrats, others were Republicans.

"One day a man came to Lincoln's office, a close friend, and told him, 'Mr. President, there are movements afoot that you should be aware of to replace you with a dictator.'

"The President smiled and went over to his desk and pulled out a drawer and from thence he pulled out a letter. He said to his friend, 'I have just made General Hooker Commander of the Army of the Potomac and I have sent him this letter. Would you like to have me read it to you?' His friend said he would and he read the letter:

"General: I have just made you Commander of the Army of the Potomac. Of course I have done this upon what appears to me to be sufficient reason, but I think it is best for me to tell you that there are matters in regards to which I am not satisfied.

"You are a skillful and an able soldier, which of course I like. You have confidence in yourself, which is a valuable if not indispensable quality. You do not mix politics with your profession, in which you are right. You are ambitious which, within reasonable bounds, does good rather than harm. But I do think that during General Burnside's command of the Army, you have taken counsel of your ambition and thwarted him as much as you could, in which you did a great harm to the country and to a most honorable and meritorious brother officer.

"I have heard in such a way as to believe it of you recently saying that both the Army and the government needed a dictator. Of course it is not for this, but in spite of it, that I give you the Command. Only successful generals can set up dictatorships. What I now ask of you is military success, and I will risk the dictatorship. The government will assist you all it can which is neither more nor less than it has done for all of its commanders. I fear that the spirit you have aided to infuse into the Army by criticizing their commander and withholding confidence from him will turn upon you. I shall assist you all I can to put it down. Neither you nor Napoleon, if he were alive again, would have any success in an Army where such a spirit prevails in it. And now, beware of rashness, but with sleepless vigilance, go ahead and give us victories.'

"Not long afterward, General Hooker was in his Army log hut before a log fire with War Correspondent Brooks, an old friend of his. He stopped and turned to his old friend and said to him:

"The President tells me that you know about the letter that he sent to me when he made me Commander of the Army.' The President had read the letter to him, Brooks admitted.

"General Hooker said, 'Would you like to hear it again?'

"Brooks said that he would, but he had been so impressed with it when he first read it to him, that he had remembered it almost verbatim.

"When he had read the letter, tears came out of his eyes and he said to Brooks, 'That is just such a letter as a father would write to his erring son. The President was unduly hard on me but I love him the much more for it. When I get to Richmond, I will have it published.' He never got to Richmond.

"The President had been elected for the second term. The dome of the Capitol had not yet been completed. The statue on top of it had not yet been erected but a great platform had been put in place for the dignitaries and for the President to take the oath of office and give the inaugural address. It was a beautiful clear morning when the President gave to the world perhaps one of the most immortal utterances in the English language. I will give it in part:

"My fellow Countrymen:

"On a corresponding occasion to this four years ago, all eyes were anxiously directed to an impending civil war. All dreaded it. All sought to avert it. While the inaugural address was being delivered from this place wholly devoted to saving the Union without war, insurgent agents were in the city seeking to destroy it without war—seeking to dissolve the Union, and divide effects, by negotiation. Both parties deprecated war; but one of them would make war rather than let the nation survive; the other would accept war rather than let it perish. And the war came.

"One-eighth of the whole population were colored slaves, not distributed generally over the Union, but localized in the Southern part of it. These slaves constituted a peculiar and powerful interest. All knew that this interest was, somehow, the cause of the war. To strengthen, to perpetuate, to extend this interest was the object for which the insurgents would rend the Union, even by war; while the government claimed no right to do more than to restrict the territorial enlargement of it. Neither party expected for the war, the magnitude, or the duration, which it has already attained. Neither anticipated that the cause of the conflict might cease with, or even before, the conflict itself should cease. Each looked for an easier triumph, and a result less fundamental and astounding. Both read the same Bible, and pray to the same God; and each invokes His aid against the other. It may seem strange that any men should dare to ask a just God's assistance in wringing their bread from the sweat of other men's faces; but let us judge not that we be not judged. The prayers of both could not be answered; that of neither has been answered fully. The Almighty has His own purposes. 'Woe unto the world because of offences! for it must needs be that offences come; but woe to that man by whom the offence cometh!' If we shall suppose that American Slavery is one of those offences which, in the providence of God, must needs come, by which, having continued through His appointed time, He now wills to remove, and that He gives to both North and South, this terrible war, as the woe due to those by whom the offence came, shall we discern therein any departure from those divine attributes which the believers in a Living God always ascribe to Him? Fondly do we hope—ferently do we pray—that this mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet, if God wills that it continue, until all the wealth piled by the bondman's two hundred and fifty years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash, shall be paid by another drawn with the sword, as was said three thousand years ago, so still it must be said 'the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.'

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow, and his orphan—to do all which may achieve and cherish a just, and a lasting peace, among ourselves, and with all nations.'

The President:

"Senator Lennart, your learned and philosophical remarks and beautiful language have given each of us a greater appreciation of the true significance of this anniversary. We are very grateful to you.

"The presence of a very kind and gracious and lovely lady, Mrs. Lennart, has reminded the President that Senator Lennart is the first to subscribe to the words of Charles Dickens when he said, 'Reflect upon your blessings, of which all men have many.'

"The President should like to have the honor of presenting Mrs. Lennart to the members of the Senate. Won't you please stand, Mrs. Lennart, in order that the members of the Senate may welcome you."

(Applause.)

"Representative Smith, we are very grateful to you for your visit to the Senate chamber today and know that you truly enjoyed Senator Lennart's remarks.

"Representative Smith informs me that he finds it necessary to meet Mrs. Smith immediately. Therefore, would the committee please escort Representative Smith from the Senate chamber."

The committee of honor escorted Representative Smith from the rostrum.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Peterson:

"Mr. President, Members of the Senate:

"I had expected someone from the other side of the aisle to say something about Director of Fisheries George Starlund. I just want to say that Mr. Starlund took over an untenable position, you might say, in Fisheries, and he was one who perhaps wasn't too well aware of what Fisheries was all about. But I think he has gone down the middle and has done a wonderful job. I just wanted to say that because I don't think he should be overlooked in the comments here."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Atwood:

"Will Senator Petrich yield to a question? Senator Petrich, is it your intention by the amendment to line 17 which has been adopted that only a volunteer worker would be covered under this act? You added 'or volunteer' before 'registered.' I think you now have an ambiguity in the bill as it now reads. That's in subsection 2, line 17. Most of these volunteers, I presume would not be registered civil defense workers."

Senator Petrich:

"In response, Senator Atwood, my amendment inserted the words on line 17 after the second civil defense. I recognize your point now, Senator. Perhaps there was an oversight on the registration."

Senator Atwood:

"I presume none of these volunteers would be registered workers."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Greive:

"I would like to ask Senator Petrich, through the Chair, if it wouldn't be helpful if we were to hold this or refer this particular bill to committee."

Senator Petrich:

"Mr. President:

"It would be my wish to hold the bill at the end of the second reading calendar."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I'll defer to Senator Petrich to make that motion."

Senator Atwood:

"I think that we have gotten into a real difficulty with all these amendments because we have taken one section out of the bill and the Hess amendment took out the words 'enemy attack'. If we are going to take this wording out, the whole act would have to be reworded because the whole title and 38.52.020 refers not only to national disasters but also to enemy attack. I believe these amendments have created a real problem and the matter should go back to committee and be reworded in its entirety."

MOTION

Senator Greive moved that Senate Bill No. 129 take its place at the end of the second reading calendar for today.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Riley, Senate Bill No. 129 was referred to the Committee on Parks, Capitol Grounds, Public Buildings, Veterans' Affairs and Civil Defense.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hess:

"Point of personal privilege, Mr. President:

"The other day when Senate Bill No. 128 was referred to the Committee on State Government, Senator Gissberg indicated rather strongly that he felt that I had a personal responsibility to see that a substitute measure was prepared. I would like the records of the Senate to show that I now hand to Senator Henry for his committee's review a redraft and proposed substitute measure for Senate Bill No. 128. I don't claim that it is a perfect redraft, but I do think that it will do the job that the constitutional amendment made it mandatory to be done, and will do it much more simply."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Henry:

"Mr President:

"I have heard of communications breaking down and particularly in a public address system, but never when an aggrieved Senator sits so close to me. Now I don't think there is anything wrong with the State Government Committee. In fact like Senator McCutcheon, I think I am a good chairman. I think this bill has been taken up in orderly presentation and I suggest Senator Hess appear before the committee at the proper time and present his bill or amendment, or give it to the Secretary of the Senate.

"Therefore, I want the record to show I now hand it back to him."

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Senator Morgan:

"The members of the Senate and the President believe you exude the true spirit of St. Valentine! Would you please stand and hold up your bouquet?"

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

"May I say something I should have said last session, but I am going to say it now. It has been a pleasure to serve with all of you and I have enjoyed every moment of it."

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"The attention of the President has been called to the presence of an outstanding and honored former member of the Washington State Senate.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

"The President should like to ask Senator Keefe, Senator Gissberg, Senator Ryder and Senator Neill to act as a committee of honor to escort the Honorable Francis Pearson to a place of honor on the rostrum. Senator Sandison, would you please act as chairman of this escort committee?"

A committee of honor consisting of Senators Keefe, Gissberg, Ryder, Neill and Sandison escorted former Senator Francis Pearson to the rostrum.

The President:

"Members of the Senate, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"It is a signal honor for the President to have the opportunity to present one of the most outstanding and esteemed former member of the Washington State Senate. Many of you are familiar with the wonderful sense of humor always exemplified by the Honorable Francis Pearson. The President can remember many amusing and glorious occasions during the time he had the privilege of serving with Senator Francis Pearson.

"Everyone is especially delighted with the action of the Senate a few days ago when they unanimously approved Francis's appointment as Chairman of the Utilities and Transportation Commission in an unprecedented action taken by the Senate.

"The members of the Senate, I am sure, join the President in expressing delight that the lovely, gracious and beautiful Mrs. Betty Pearson, his wife, is present in the south gallery and before presenting Senator Pearson, would Mrs. Pearson please stand in order that the members of the Senate may properly receive and recognize her?"

(Applause.)

"Francis, the members are certainly happy that you are visiting the Senate chamber this morning and would be delighted if, at this time, you would address them. Won't you please?"

Senator Pearson:

"Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"I noticed that we were having a little trouble, Senator Sandison and I both getting together in the aisle a moment ago. It was quite difficult for the third one. My wife has told me I was beginning to look like a bale of alfalfa hay with the middle wire broke. I don't know what she will say about both of us.

"I realize you do have a lot of problems, as always, and this time is no different. In fact, it seems as the state grows, it generates more problems for you folks when you come down here to try and take care of the problems that are coming about because of a terrifically fast expansion in the Pacific Northwest. I know that in the industry we regulate, or the various industries, we have had many trips to Washington, D. C. before the Federal Power Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Securities Exchange Commission and the C.A.B. concerning various activities developing in the Northwest.

"When I was first appointed to the Commission, the natural gas industry was in its infancy. I think there was less than half a million therms used in the state at that time. Now, with the advent of natural gas going throughout the entire area of the state to work in conjunction with the other means of power that we have, whether electricity, coal or oil, why the gas industry has grown from less than half a million therms to over seven hundred million therms, which means that there were more BTU units, a therm equals 29.3 kilowatt hours, used in the state last year than the total output of Grand Coulee, Chief Joseph and Bonneville Dams put together.

"I appreciate the resolution you passed which was presented by Senator Woodall and Senator Gissberg on helping us out before the Power Commission. It could mean millions of dollars to the Northwest. We deal with these people with the airplanes coming out of Seattle, in order to compete Puget Sound industry with the California market. We do the same thing on tie lines. We work with British Columbia to do the things that are necessary in utilizing some of the products they have to send down here that we can use very well in our expansion.

"As I say it is a pleasure for me to come over here. It was a very fine Valentine's present for me to have the opportunity to come and visit you and we welcome you over to the Commission. You have two other ex-Senators over there, Senator Patrick D. Sutherland and Senator Dayton E. Witten, so any time you folks feel that you want to relax a little bit, you can come over and listen to our problems and we will be happy to listen to yours.

"Now, Mr. President, I don't know what your new rules are, because I haven't been keeping track of them, but there used to be a rule called Rule 40, as I recall. Whatever you have along that line now, I would like to have the privilege of suspending it. If Sergeant at Arms Johnson will see that the cigars and candy are passed around, I would appreciate it very much."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Lennart:

"Senators:

"In all of the years that I have been here, I think that I have never met a more remarkable man than Francis Pearson. He has faculties none of us ever dreamed of having. The fact that he is blind hasn't stopped him at all, and every time he comes here he recognizes, of course, my unusual dialect. But I was thinking about Milton and his blindness and I will quote to you what he said because it illustrates more than anything else what I think about Francis Pearson:

"Thus through the years seasons return, but not to me returns the sweet approach of night or summer's rose, or flocks, or herds, or human face divine, but darkness instead. An ever enduring cloud surrounds me and from the pleasant face of man cut off and from the book of knowledge fair surrounded with the universal black, all nature's work to me obscured and erased and wisdom from one entrance quite shut out. So much greater, Thou, Celestial Light, shine inwards and the mind through all her works radiates their planet eyes. All myself from them purge and disperse that I may see and tell of things invisible to mortal eyes."

SECOND READING OF BILLS

Senate Bill No. 288, by Senators Washington and Raugust:

Supplementing law relating to motor vehicle equipment and lighting.

On motion of Senator Woodall, Senate Bill No. 288 was referred to the Judiciary Committee with instructions to report back to the Senate within five working days.

Senate Bill No. 120, by Senators Henry, Peterson and Greive:

Regulating optometry.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEESenate Bill No. 120:

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., January 31, 1963.

Regulating optometry (reported by Committee on Medicine, Dentistry, Public Health, Air and Water Pollution):

MAJORITY recommends that it do pass with the following amendment:

On page 3, section 9, line 16, strike the period (.) following "board" and insert the following: " : Provided, However, That the board shall not be vested with rule making power and shall be limited in its regulatory activities to the provisions of the optometry board act."

DAVID E. McMILLAN, Chairman.

We concur in this report: R. Frank Atwood, Frank Connor, John L. Cooney, R. R. (Bob) Grieve, Frances Haddon Morgan, Albert C. Thompson, Jr., Perry B. Woodall.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

Senator McMillan moved the adoption of the committee amendment. Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Would Senator Greive yield to a question? Senator Greive, you referred to the optometry board act. Wouldn't it be better legislative procedure to refer to the RCW section?"

Senator Greive:

"I called it the optometry board act. In reality it is RCW 18.53.140. I thought that I would just dub it that way for the present moment."

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"I wonder if the Secretary of the Senate could prepare an amendment to the amendment striking the words, 'the optometry board act' and inserting in lieu thereof the Revised Code of Washington citation that we have in mind. Would that be satisfactory?"

Senator Greive:

"This would be unnecessary, Senator. If you will look at section 8 and section 9, that the sections we are referring to are already specifically set out, so it would seem that merely to put them in two places would be superfluous."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Petrich:

"Would Senator Greive yield?"

"Senator, isn't it true that in section 16 of the proposed act that you have identified this particular bill as the optometry board act?"

Senator Greive:

"That's correct.

"It would seem to me that since this is the new identification for this particular bill and since the specific sections to which Senator Moriarty referred are set out in the act, that the proposed amendment to the committee amendment isn't necessary."

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"If this bill becomes the optometry board act, and in this bill you are referring to another optometry board act, won't that be confusing?"

Senator Greive:

"That isn't what we are doing in this bill. We make specific reference to those sections, and all this says is that the powers of the board which are created will be limited to those sections set out in the bill, and they will refer back to others. I have no objection to the amendment but I don't think it does anything except confuse the situation. I have no real objection to it. If you insist, all right, but I just don't think that it does anything."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Petrich:

"Would Senator Greive yield?"

"Perhaps I need a pair of glasses to help me understand this a little better but I am somewhat confused by the restrictive wording of this amendment. You are making it nearly impossible to establish normal rules for the promulgation of standards of conducting examinations and that sort of thing, which, as I understand this act, you have taken away from the section. Aren't you unnecessarily limiting this board by not permitting it to adopt rules to prescribe the manner in which people shall apply and take examinations and be certified as optometrists?"

Senator Greive:

"I frankly am confused as to your question. We have the RCW set forth, we have chapter 18.53.140 and we have optometry board act. You have a board set out to do the particular work. I can't for the life of me see why we are restricting them in any way other than we are telling them to do what was heretofore done by the License Department or the old optometry board, both of which are set out in the statute. But if you think for some reason that wouldn't apply, I would appreciate it if you would make it clear."

Further debate ensued.

MOTIONS

Senator Rasmussen moved that Senate Bill No. 120 be referred to the Committee on Medicine, Dentistry, Public Health, Air and Water Pollution.

On motion of Senator Greive, the motion by Senator Rasmussen was laid on the table.

On motion of Senator Greive, the committee amendment was laid on the table.

Senator Rasmussen moved that Senate Bill No. 120 be indefinitely postponed.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Peterson:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"The question here was as to the amendment as to whether it should be codified or whether it should be referred to as the optometry act. Senator Rasmussen is now making a speech against the bill and endeavoring to kill it."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"The question is on indefinite postponement of this bill and I explained the reason why it should be indefinitely postponed."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Rasmussen, your point of order is well taken."

Debate ensued:

MOTION

Senator Riley moved that the motion by Senator Rasmussen be laid on the table.

The motion was carried.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President:

"As a point of personal privilege, I just want to say this. I haven't knowingly accepted any money for any of my campaigns, not even from the Republican Party and the last time I was elected I turned money over to someone else. I have nothing against people who take it but I just want to make that statement.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, personal privilege:

"May I say that the gentleman (Senator Rasmussen) who just spoke a few moments ago, came to me before this bill came out and attempted to blackmail me and said he was going to blacken my name if the bill came out. I said that I don't believe in blackmail and that if he had any charges to go ahead and make them.

"I have never in my sixteen years in the Senate seen such a despicable attack with so little evidence to go on. I suggest that if Senator Rasmussen has anything, that he come forward with the evidence."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Cowen:

"Mr. President:

"I wish to express myself on personal privilege to the members of the Senate. I think that I have run for public office longer than any person here. I too have never accepted a campaign donation in all of my long career either in the Senate or in the House."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President, personal privilege:

"I have never been fortunate enough to receive any campaign contributions from Senator Greive, however, that is not the question. The thing that constantly provokes the Senate is the chairman of the Labor Committee and the fact that he is always riding on his great white charger. I would like to point out to him that I am sure, that he, like me, has received support from organized labor. I have received it in the past and I hope that I will receive it again, but if we were to follow Senator Rasmussen's logic, it would mean that he should resign as chairman of the Labor and Social Security Committee, that he can't really vote on those bills because he has an interest in them. And when they come on the floor, that I, who am an attorney for a labor union, must stand up and disqualify myself because I have an interest in them also and that he who works as a working man or for a railroad company has to disqualify himself. Now, how absurd can you be?"

"Senator Rasmussen charges down the aisle back and forth, slashing at will but never does he sit and contemplate that the things he charges us with, he is equally guilty of, if it be guilt."

"Thank you, Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"There are some members of this body who run in what we call 'secure districts'. Some members who may not even campaign, there are some members who find themselves in economic brackets where it is not necessary to have any assistance whatever and that is very fine and very splendid for any people who are in an economic bracket for them to run without assistance from anybody else and I appreciate those type of public servants. But on this matter brought up today, I have known Senator Greive ever since I first came down here. I have probably disagreed with him more frequently than I have agreed with him in years gone by. I used to think he was kind of a 'wild man' and kind of an 'odd ball'. I have disagreed with him many, many times but at no time did I ever think that this man's heart or conscience were for sale."

"I think the type of thing that happened here this morning should have been taken up in the Democratic Caucus and you folks should have decided among yourselves whether or not you wanted to bring this in and have it discussed here today. I think for this side of the aisle we can say, Senator Greive, we have known you a long time and we have never known you to do anything that wasn't honorable."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Raugust:

"Personal privilege, Mr. President, since everybody else has a little to say:

"I do want to say that I have run for twenty years and I have never taken a dollar, but I don't see where there is anything wrong with some man that needs support taking it. I have made my contribution to candidates that ran for offices, and I don't see anything wrong and I don't think it has anything to do with this. If you run in a district where we haven't got much competition, you don't have to spend money. This year I had no competition. I did make a contribution. I do say this with Senator Woodall, although I have not always agreed with Senator Greive, I have always admired him where he stood and when he told me he would do something, he would do it."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Knoblauch:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I haven't made it a policy to speak much in the Senate but I think the talk I have heard by Senator Rasmussen was one that should not have taken place on the floor of the Senate. He has cast a reflection upon every man that sits in the State Senate.

"We are forgetting the purpose that we are here for this afternoon. We are discussing the merits of a bill.

"Let me say that also a reflection has been cast upon a fine group of professional men in the state of Washington whom we look toward for much help in my area, and this afternoon I can say that I have in the south gallery some of the finest citizens in the state of Washington, who happen to reside in the 25th district. These young men are optometrists, men whom we respect and who are taking their places in our community; and it is a sad, sad day when statements like this must be made on the floor of the State Senate.

"Senator Rasmussen, you made a statement two years ago that you were sorry to be seated in the Senate of the State of Washington. I think we have that in mind this afternoon.

"I have never always agreed with Senator Greive. I may have opposed him at times when he was up for election as Democratic Majority Leader. But let me say that as time goes on, I have come to respect him very much as one of the finest members of the State Senate. He is extremely fair to both sides of the aisle. I don't think the Republicans could ever criticize the fairness of Senator Bob Greive, and that goes for the Democrats, and I am sorry that this spectacle took place on the floor of the Senate this afternoon."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Peterson:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"When I walked over and talked with Senator Greive a moment ago, I said, 'Sit down, Senator, because I am going to go all out to protect you against these charges.'

"Now, as a sponsor of this bill, Senator Rasmussen, this is a bombshell to me. I am really surprised that this is the method that you would use to injure, and I say 'injure' advisedly, a profession that is as highly thought of as the Optometrical Association. You could have used any other bill, but not one involving a profession that has had as long a life and throughout its history, yes, and its history goes way back, has done such a wonderful work for all the people. I stand here and I see all of my fellow Senators, many of them are wearing glasses, many of them have them tucked away in their desks. Senator Cowen is smiling—

"But to do this to your Majority Leader, Senator Rasmussen, I think this is something that all of the Senators on this side will concur in with me, is certainly an act that should have been taken up in your caucus. That, I think, would have been the place to have done it. There are many people sitting here and the people of the state of Washington are going to wonder what we are doing here.

"Yes, we all need help in marshaling our districts and to come down here and do the work we should, and they say it is honorable and people should want to help, even with a dollar. We go from house to house collecting campaign money to help."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen:

"Speaking on personal privilege, first let me clear up one item that was brought to the attention of the Senate where Mr. Durkan said that I would rightly be charged with personal interest, being a laboring man and serving as Chairman of the Labor Committee. Well, Mr. Durkan, being one of the Committee on Committees, knows that I had a personal interview with the Committee sitting en banc when I tried to relieve myself of the responsibility of being committee chairman of the Labor and Social Security Committee. The committee unanimously refused to grant me that and insisted that I be chairman. That was very well. I examined my conscience and said I had run for election and should serve.

"What Mr. Durkan is not aware of, I happen to be a laboring man with a railroad and as an employée of a railroad I am not subject to any of the state laws regarding labor, either unemployment compensation or social security or anything like that. We are covered by federal laws, so I am probably one of those that could serve on that committee as chairman without affecting myself in any way as a laboring man. So I hope, Senator Durkan, that will clear that up in your mind. You can research it if you desire.

"Secondly, Senator Peterson just said I could have raised this issue on any one of a number of other bills. I am surprised, Senator Peterson, you would say we have that many bills that I could raise this issue on. I stated at the outset that, and one thing for the Senate's information, my remarks were not recorded in the Journal as they were debate on a motion to indefinitely postpone. You do not record in the Journal debate on a bill. You do record in the Journal personal privilege and remarks under that.

"There hasn't been anyone as yet that has gotten up to deny their knowledge of the 'Greive Fund.' My remarks at that time were directed toward the fact that I thought the Senate, itself, should institute an investigation. I did not personally impugn Senator Greive of any wrongdoing. I have had very high regard for him in the eighteen years that we have worked together between the House and the Senate and I think that Senator Greive and I, though we have had differences of opinion about this source of money, that I did indicate to him and I do not consider it blackmail, if this bill came on the floor it would be necessary for me to reveal the knowledge that had come into my possession and I have here copies of an audit report. This is information that I have for the Senate that I am asking them to investigate themselves and certainly if there is nothing to it, I will be the first to admit that there is nothing wrong with collecting money in this manner.

"This isn't tarring the optometrical association. What I am saying is that when some Senator or any lobbyist that wants to give you money for a campaign, and I say the same thing the others have (interrupted)."

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Woodall rise?"

Senator Woodall:

"To inquire is the Senator speaking now under personal privilege or is he speaking on the merits of the bill?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"Personal privilege, Senator, and I have never raised my voice against another Senator speaking on personal privilege.

"I would like to say that if the Senate does not want to be tarred with the public opinion that says, 'We wonder what is going on there,' that they should investigate themselves.

"Campaign funds, I have accepted campaign funds. It is true what Senator Lennart and some of the others have said. Senator Raugust, some areas you don't have to spend a great deal of money and I have never objected to anyone accepting all the money they could get but I do think that the public is entitled to know where they get it. We have several bills up in committee that would require the listing of campaign expenditures. We have a bill up in the State Government Committee that would include the Senators and Representatives under a code of ethics. As you recall a few years back in general administration, we put public employees under a code of ethics and we came back last session with this same problem and extended it to municipal government and we put those under a code of ethics and in each session we have left the legislature's code of ethics. Now a code of ethics in itself would not prevent what I am speaking about here today but it would give them leverage for the interested public opinion to move into the picture and say these Senators and Representatives violated the code of ethics.

"You heard the issue raised on the floor of the House where a certain representative was accused of having some 35 to 60 thousand dollars of private power money. There was truth back of that story. That money was put out in an attempt to buy the speaker's race. I think that's the thing we're talking about here. The Senators get on their feet and say what a great noble thing that we are doing. Why do they object to an investigation—why do they not assist in getting some of these bills passed that would list where these campaign funds come from. Let's not wrap up our service in a white sheet and ride the charger down. Maybe Rasmussen is guilty, investigate, but bring the guilty ones to the attention of the public—they will take care of them at the elections.

"Thank you, Senators, you have your own conscience to live with as I have mine."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hess:

"Mr. President:

"I rise to reluctantly continue a conversation that never should have begun under personal privilege. I rise for one reason—an honorable man's reputation has been unjustly besmirched. I have known Senator Greive, fought with him and fought beside him but as long as I have been in this legislature I would stake my own reputation on his honesty and I am very proud of my reputation. I know that some of the reporters that have covered this legislature for years and years agree with this appraisal of Senator Greive because within the last few months we have discussed various legislators and I know that they regard him in that light.

"Since the subject has been raised and since Senator Greive has been criticized for serving as one who collected campaign funds for Senators seeking reelection and I assume the Republicans have someone who performs this same function, I am sure you must, if you don't then someone in the party does because I am sure you receive just as much financial assistance as any of us. Your campaign delivered is an indication of it anyway. May I say this, Senator Greive helped me financially in my campaign and you know what the help consisted of? He sent me a letter and with this letter came a check and the check was for a total amount and it was for my share of the contributions that voluntarily had been given Senator Greive and that had been apportioned out among a number of Senators. The number of Senators were listed, my fraction was listed, the total contribution was listed and the amount I received was listed and at the bottom of it was a statement that these were accepted with the explicit understanding that they would in no way influence your attitude on any matter coming before the legislature. I accepted them in that vein, I deposited them in a bank in that vein, I drew checks against them in that vein.

"Legislative campaigns are not inexpensive. I don't know to this day because I don't have the list here whose names were and weren't on that group. I read it at the time. The amounts were not huge, they didn't influence my attitude on any legislation. I think this kind of thing is done with respect to both political parties at every level of government where campaigns cost money.

"Now I think that a code of ethics is entirely a different matter. I believe we need a code of ethics for the legislature. There are serious abuses but the example that has been raised today of a responsible Senator raising money for reasonable campaign contributions in an open, above-board, responsible manner with an accounting for the funds and the group that he has raised the funds for is responsible, a public respected organization and the bill that is before us stands on its own merits. I think it is most unfortunate that this entire subject has been raised."

On motion of Senator Greive, the following amendments were adopted:

On page 1, section 3, line 17, after "board" insert a period. Strike lines 18, 19, 20 and 21 to and including "include"

On page 1, section 3, line 21, after "include" strike "only" and insert "Only"

On page 1, section 3, line 24, before "years" strike "seven" and insert "four"

On page 1, section 3, line 26, after "business" and before the period, insert "may be appointed"

Senator Rasmussen moved the adoption of the following amendment:

Amend Senate Bill No. 120 by striking section 11, beginning on line 27, page 3 of the printed bill and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. Any person against whom a rule or provision of law has been invoked by the board may appeal the action in the superior court in and for the county in which the licensee resides. The appeal shall be conducted as a trial de novo, and the court shall have the power to issue such orders and grant such relief as it deems just and suitable. The jurisdiction of the court shall be exclusive and its judgment and decree shall be final, except that the same shall be subject to a review by the supreme court, on appeal, by either party.

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Gallagher, the amendment was laid on the table. Senator Rasmussen moved the adoption of the following amendment:

Amend Senate Bill No. 120 by striking on line 12, page 1, of the printed bill "re-organized and reconstituted as the optometry board," and inserting "abolished and its duties transferred to the optometry board." and by striking section 3, beginning on line 14, page 1, of the printed bill and inserting the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The board shall be composed of five members appointed by the governor. The governor shall appoint to the initial board two members for terms of two and three years respectively, from a list of nominees submitted by the Washington Optometric Association, said list to contain at least four names. The governor shall appoint to the initial board two members for terms of two and three years respectively, from a list submitted by the National Association of Optometrists, Northwest division, said list to contain at least four names. The governor shall appoint the fifth member of the board for a one year term, from a list of four nominees, two submitted by the Washington Optometric Association and two submitted by the National Association of Optometrists, Northwest division. All nominees shall be optometrists who are citizens of the United States, residents of this state, having been licensed to practice and practicing optometry in this state for a period of at least seven years immediately preceding the effective date of appointment, and who have no connection with any school or college embracing the teaching of optometry or with any optical supply business.

Thereafter appointments to regular terms shall be for three years and the method and source of nomination in each instance shall be the same as for appointment to the same position previously. In every instance the association asked to submit nominees shall submit at least two nominees for each position to be filled.

In the event a vacancy shall occur other than at the conclusion of a regular term, appointment will be from a list of at least two names submitted by the association which submitted the name of the board member whose position is vacant."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Greive, the amendment was laid on the table.

On motion of Senator Gallagher, the following amendments were adopted:

On page 2, section 5, line 12, after "chairman" and before "at" insert "or the director of licenses"

On page 2, section 5, line 13, after "chairman" and before "may" insert "or the director of licenses". After "designate" and before the period insert "by giving three days' notice."

On page 3, section 9, line 16, after the period following "board" insert "Nothing in this act shall be construed to give the board the power to set or recommend a minimum schedule of fees to be charged by licensed optometrists."

On motion of Senator Riley, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 4, section 13, line 3, strike all of the new section and substitute the following: "Members of the board are entitled to receive their actual and necessary expenses, not exceeding twenty-five dollars per day, plus mileage, for time spent in the performance of their duties as members of the board."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Ryder, Senators Bailey and Williams were excused. Senator Rasmussen moved the adoption of the following amendment:

Amend new section 10, page 3, line 26, after the period add:

"Due notice shall be effective when the party or parties thereby affected shall have served upon them, in the same manner as legal process, notice containing a complete statement of the nature of the proceedings, the scope of the proceedings, the names of any witness to be called or the description of the documents to be introduced as evidence if no witness is to be called, and the time and place of such hearing.

"The filing with a Superior Court of a petition for review of the proceedings of any board shall stay the proceedings of the board and the orders of the board unless otherwise directed by the Court."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Durkan, the amendment was laid on the table.

On motion of Senator Greive, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 120 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

WARD BOWDEN, Secretary of the Senate.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY

MORNING SESSION

SENATE CHAMBER,

OLYMPIA, WASH., Friday, February 15, 1963.

The Senate was called to order at 11:00 a. m. by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators Donohue, Foster and McMillan.

On motion of Senator Chytil, Senator Foster was excused.

On motion of Senator Riley, Senators McMillan and Donohue were excused.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Kim Rasmussen, Color Bearer, and Kate Keiser, presented the Colors.

Réverend Teddy E. Turner, pastor of the First Christian Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Out of the stillness of the night into the staggering challenges of a new day we come, our Divine Father. We do not know what the hours hold which lie ahead.

We live by the faith that with a firm reliance upon Thee, we may walk and talk and live with confidence.

"We thank Thee for the variety of talent and insight represented among these members of the Senate. Out of the combined strength of character and wisdom which they bring to their tasks, grant that a tapestry of sound government and a responsible citizenry may be woven.

"As they labor together, may they exemplify the fine art of disagreeing agreeably; of rejecting ideas without rejecting each other. May they be loyal to their highest principles, and in moments of confusion and bewilderment, grant them courage to keep time to the beat of a far distant drummer.

"Enable us all to think constantly upon the things that are true, honorable, just, lovely and of good report. In the Master's Name. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Riley:

"Mr. President:

"I just want to comment lightly that this is one Journal that, if it were read, I think a lot of people would like to be able to count to ten because of some of the irresponsible statements that were made yesterday."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"Further personal privilege, for the record, I would like to say that the statements I made yesterday were not irresponsible and I am still asking for an investigation, and I propose asking the State Bar also to move in and investigate because they too have a code of ethics with regard to the operation of the members of their group. I again reiterate my remarks. I do not consider them irresponsible."

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"At this time, the President has been informed of the presence of a former member of the Senate within the Senate chamber.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed a committee of honor consisting of Senators Keefe, Cowen, Guess, Cooney and Herrmann to escort former Senator Roderick A. Lindsay to the rostrum.

The Secretary read:

SECOND READING OF BILLS

Senate Bill No. 271, by Senators Durkan and Dore:
Clarifying provisions relating to the sale of firearms.
The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Durkan, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 271 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Would Senator Durkan yield to a question, please?"

"Senator Durkan, in consideration of this bill before the committee, were the sheriffs and police associations and state patrol there? Did they appear before your committee and testify?"

Senator Durkan:

"The answer is 'no'; however, we publicized this before the session of the legislature and we had no comments. Maybe I should best answer you on this, Senator Rasmussen, that nowhere throughout the state except in the isolated instance of Seattle has there been any infringing upon the act that we passed in 1959."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Did the Association of Washington Cities appear? Were they represented?"

Senator Durkan:

"I also informed their counsel and the only letter we received is the one Senator Hess has received."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Riley:

"Would Senator Hess yield to a question? Senator, you made reference to a letter from the Chief of Police of Seattle. I wonder with the permission of the Senate, could you read a few lines from that letter so that we might have some idea of the Chief's attitude, he being the chief law enforcement officer of the metropolitan city."

On motion of Senator Durkan, the rules were suspended and Senator Riley was permitted to read the letter as follows:

Senator Riley:

"There being no objection, let me quote from the letter. It is dated February 11, City of Seattle, from the Office of the Chief of Police, Chief Ramon:

"Recently Senate Bill 271 was introduced. This bill relates to firearms and prohibits any city or town or other political subdivision from requiring the purchaser to secure a permit to purchase.

"In the 1961 legislature, the state legislature enacted a statute concerning the sale of short firearms. In August of 1961, the City Council of Seattle enacted an ordinance requiring a purchaser of a short firearm to secure a permit to do so from the Police Department. A lawsuit of the type described as "friendly" was filed and heard in the Superior Court in King County, and the Seattle Ordinance was declared by the court to be a reasonable extension of police powers and a necessary ordinance.

"Part of the reason that the ordinance was enacted in Seattle was that the licensed firearm dealers felt that the 1961 legislation made it extremely difficult for them to comply with the law. It placed upon them the responsibility of determining whether or not an applicant to purchase a pistol was not one of those prohibited from doing so by the state law. The majority of the dealers preferred that the Police Department accept this responsibility.

"Currently a Congressional committee has recently held a highly publicized hearing in Los Angeles, California, which elicited the danger to the community of unregulated sale of short firearms. It is respectfully requested that you give consideration to the denial of the passage of this proposed statute.

"Yours very truly, F. C. Ramon, Chief of Police."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Would Senator Durkan yield to a question? Senator Durkan, as I understand this, it requires or forbids the city or any political subdivision from requiring a license or permit from the police department before the sale, but is the law designed to prohibit the political subdivision of the city from requiring a permit after the sale?"

Senator Durkan:

"No, but as you are aware, the constitutional right to bear arms is a very important part of this act, but if it is going to be a concealed weapon, the law requires a permit not only after, but before the sale. Now we have to operate on the premise that the majority of the citizens are honest and when they go into a dealer's, they are going to buy a weapon for a legitimate purpose, but if it is going to be a concealed weapon, then they have to go to the police department and get a permit, or afterwards, if they are going to use the weapon for concealed purposes, they have to get a permit."

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"One further question, then. Could the city of Seattle after the passage of this ordinance simply change the time when the person is required to go down to the police department, and say after the sale is made and after the dealer has licensed the purchaser, that thereafter they have to go down to the police department to get the form? If that's the case, then I can't see any objection to the bill."

Senator Durkan:

"As I read the law, it specifically applies only to the dealer. It has nothing to do with the purchaser of the firearm, if he is going to carry it in his car or in the city. This is covering the specific item of the dealer's license."

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Then the police department or the Seattle City Council, if they felt it was necessary, could say, all right, after the purchase is made and after the dealer has done what he has to do, the purchaser must, after he has purchased the firearm, also go down after the sale and pick up the permit and in that way you could get the uniformity you are requiring."

Senator Durkan:

"I would like to answer that question 'yes' but since Senator Rasmussen is here, I just don't know whether this does or not. It may be that this little debate on the Senate floor, like it always does, brings out some points that perhaps should be cleared up."

Debate ensued:

On motion of Senator Durkan, Senate Bill No. 271 was ordered to retain its place on the third reading calendar for Monday, February 18, 1963.

Senate Bill No. 16, by Senators Peterson and Talley:

Creating eyesight qualifications for issuance of hunting licenses.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Bill No. 16:

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., February 12, 1963.

Creating eyesight qualifications for issuance of hunting licenses (reported by Committee on Fisheries, Game, and Game Fish):

MAJORITY recommends that it do pass with the following amendments:

On page 1, section 1, line 6, after "game" strike all of the matter down to and including the period following "requirements" in line 16 and insert "shall not issue a hunting license to any person when in the opinion of the director such person is afflicted with or is suffering from defects in his vision as will prevent him from exercising reasonable and ordinary care while hunting: Provided, That the Game Commission may permit any such person to demonstrate personally that notwithstanding any defect in vision he is a proper person to hunt and the director in his discretion may cause to be issued to such person a restricted hunting license conditioned on whatever restrictions are necessary to insure the health and safety of other persons, which restrictions shall be endorsed on the restricted hunter's license."

On page 1, section 2, line 21, after "cents" and before "obtain" in line 22, strike "and by meeting the eyesight requirements promulgated under section 1 of this act"

ROBERT L. CHARETTE, Chairman.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

MOTION

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"I move that the Senate subpoena the records of the Ted Best and Associates. I have the motion in writing here, Mr. President. I'll present it."

The President:

"Would you send the motion to the secretary's desk, please?"

"It has been moved that the records of the Ted Best and Associates, 4443 California Avenue, Seattle 16, Washington be subpoenaed for investigation by the Senate."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Point of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President.

"I have always had the impression that the power of subpoena could only be exercised by joint committees and could not be exercised unilaterally by one house. I would like to have that point clarified because, while certainly we on this side of the aisle are prepared to investigate anything, we are glad to do that, it would be foolish to vote to give the power of subpoena if, in fact, we do not have it, and if I recall a law case on the subject, I think the power of subpoena only comes about by concurrent resolution. I would like to be further advised on that point. I don't know whether Judge McCutcheon or Judge Petrich or someone would care to comment on that point of law, but I do think, I have grave doubt as to the powers of subpoena."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, speaking on the point of order (Interruption)"

MOTION

Senator Gallagher:

"Mr. President:"

The President:

"Senator Gallagher, for what purpose do you rise?"

QUESTION OF CONSIDERATION

Senator Gallagher:

"I move to raise the question of consideration on the motion by Senator Rasmussen."

The President:

"The Senator from King County has moved the question of consideration upon the motion as presented by Senator Rasmussen.

"For what purpose does Senator Woodall rise?"

Senator Woodall:

"I would like a ruling as to my point of order, if we can have it, because this would perhaps influence the vote on the question of consideration. I would like to request that we be put at ease for some little period to peruse this particular matter."

The President declared the Senate to be at ease subject to the call of the President.

The President called the Senate to order.

MOTION

At 12:40 p. m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 1:50 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 1:50 p. m.

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order at 2:00 p. m.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators Dore and Foster, Senator Foster having been excused.

On motion of Senator Bailey, Senator Talley was excused.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President's ruling on the parliamentary inquiry raised by Senator Woodall:

"Senator Rasmussen has moved that the records of the Ted Best and Associates, 4443 California Avenue, Seattle 16, Washington be subpoenaed for investigation by the Senate. Senator Woodall has raised a point of parliamentary inquiry as to whether or not the power of subpoena can be exercised by the Senate and expressing his opinion that the subpoena power could be exercised only by joint committees and that it could not be exercised unilaterally by one house.

"The reply on the parliamentary inquiry raised by Senator Woodall must be answered by reference to the Senate Rules. The State Constitution in Article 2, section 9 grants each house of the legislature the power to make its own rules. In referring to the duties of the President of the Senate, Rule 1 of the Rules of the Senate provides in part, as follows: 'He shall sign all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by order of the Senate, all of which shall be attested by the Secretary.' This rule implies and in fact makes direct reference to the power of the Senate to issue subpoenas.

"The President believes the word 'subpoenas' is broad enough to include a subpoena of the type requested in Senator Rasmussen's motion."

The President:

"Senator Gallagher has raised the question of consideration on the motion presented by Senator Rasmussen.

"For what purpose does Senator Rasmussen rise?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"To raise a point of order, Mr. President."

The President:

"The Senator will state his point of order."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, I had been recognized on my motion. I was taken off of the floor by Senator Woodall on parliamentary inquiry. I have a right to the floor now on the motion."

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Gallagher rise?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Gallagher:

"Point of order. As I interpret Rule 68 it says: 'When the question of consideration has been raised as to any motion, resolution or amendment, it shall not be put until said motion, resolution or amendment has been read. The question of consideration shall be carried by a majority vote of the Senators present.'

"Now the motion as presented by Senator Rasmussen has been read in full. I was recognized by the Chair. I raised the question of consideration. Therefore, I think it is in order at this time."

Senator Greive:

"May I point out under Reed's 110, the question of consideration has to be made immediately before any consideration has been taken up or it is not in order."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, further point of order.

"The motion had been read, the Chair had recognized Senator Rasmussen, and Senator Woodall raised the parliamentary inquiry and at the time the Chair recognized Senator Woodall for his parliamentary inquiry, Senator Gallagher jumped up and was not recognized in order because the parliamentary inquiry was pending. Then he raised the question for consideration. I still maintain, Mr. President, that I should have the floor."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President's ruling on the point of order as raised by Senator Rasmussen:

"The President respectfully directs the attention of the members of the Senate and Senator Rasmussen to Rule 110 of Reed's Parliamentary Rules which states:

"The Question of Consideration. — The assembly, upon hearing the proposition or question stated by the Chair, may conclude that it does not desire to consider it at all. In order to determine this any member has a right to raise the question of consideration, which he does usually in the form in which Senator Gallagher presented it. Therefore, the question before the Senate is the question of consideration on Senator Rasmussen's motion, as raised by Senator Gallagher.

"For what purpose does Senator Rasmussen rise?"

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President:

"If the question of consideration prevails, the Senate then has indicated that it does not wish to consider the matter of this investigation?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator McCutcheon:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"The question of consideration doesn't go to a question of whether or not the Senate wants to investigate anybody or not. The question of consideration goes to this particular motion in which Senator Rasmussen wants the Senate to subpoena the Best records, only."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The explanation, as offered by Senator McCutcheon, is essentially the same as the President would have replied."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Woodall rise?"

Senator Woodall:

"Parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President:

"Would you please explain the vote?"

The President:

"A vote 'aye' is in effect a vote not to consider, and a vote 'no' would in effect be a vote to consider."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Moriarty rise?"

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Parliamentary inquiry. I was curious to know whether debate had begun on the main motion presented to the Senate. Referring to Reed's Rules No. 163, as digested, it says if debate has begun on the main motion, it is too late to demand the question of consideration."

RULING OF THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Moriarty, in reply to your inquiry, the President in checking the minutes, finds the debate had not begun."

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator Rasmussen rise?"

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Parliamentary inquiry:

"Would the President clarify the vote that would mean a vote to sustain Senator Rasmussen or to sustain Senator Gallagher?"

The President:

"The President will try to establish that in his explanation."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Woodall:

"Point of order.

"Let's not put it on the basis of sustaining Senator Rasmussen or Senator Gallagher or we Republicans will want a neutral vote if you put it that way."

The President stated the question before the Senate is: The question of consideration of Senator Rasmussen's motion has been raised by Senator Gallagher; a vote 'aye' will be a vote not to consider the motion presented by Senator Rasmussen; a vote 'no' will be a vote to consider the motion.

Senator Rasmussen demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators McCutcheon, Washington, DeGarmo, Thompson, Jr., Peterson, Atwood, Woodall and Guess.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the question of consideration as raised by Senator Gallagher and by their vote the Senate decided to consider the motion by Senator Rasmussen: Yeas, 24, nays, 25; absent or not voting, 1.

Those voting yea were: Senators Bailey, Charette, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Durkan, Foley, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Talley—24.

Those voting nay were: Senators Atwood, Chytil, Dore, England, Freise, Guess, Hallauer, Lennart, McCormack, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Petrich, Rasmussen, Raugust, Rickdall, Riley, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Thompson, Jr., Washington, Williams, Woodall—24.

Those absent or not voting were: Senator Foster—1.

The President of the Senate voted nay.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Hess:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I have an amendment to the motion on the desk."

The President:

"Do you wish the amendment read?"

Senator Hess:

"Yes, Mr. President."

Senator Hess moved the adoption of the following amendment to the motion by Senator Rasmussen:

After the comma on line 2 of the Rasmussen amendment, add the following, "and all records relating to campaign contributions given or accepted in the 1962 campaign in Washington".

Senator Gallagher moved that the Senate defer further action on the motion by Senator Rasmussen pending consideration of a resolution.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Kupka:

"Would Senator Hess yield to a question?"

"Senator Hess, by your amendment to broaden this investigation of campaign funds or contributions, do you mean to tell me you want to go asking the ladies who baked cookies last year during the campaign to help their candidates—will they have to come forward and tell how many dozens of cookies they contributed? Just how broad do you want this?"

Senator Hess:

"Senator Kupka, I'm glad you asked that question. As a matter of fact, my curiosity has been aroused by the fact that one group in Pierce County contributed $100,000 to a Republican state campaign at the last state-wide race and afterward I saw in the press that the candidate said the money was raised by cookies and I would like a little bit of clarification of how many cookies were sold."

Senators Herrmann, Cooney and Hanna demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved by Senator Gallagher that action be deferred on the amendment proposed by Senator Hess until a resolution is considered.

Senator Rasmussen demanded a roll call and the demand was not sustained. The motion to defer action was carried.

INTRODUCTION AND FIRST READING OF RESOLUTION

Senator Greive moved that the Senate immediately take up consideration of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 6.

The motion was carried.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 6 was introduced and read the first time by title.

On motion of Senator Greive, the rules were suspended, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 6 was advanced to second reading and read the second time in full as follows:

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 6, by Senator Greive, providing for investigation of political campaign contributions:

WHEREAS, Political campaign contributions and funds are of vital importance to the operation of the party system of government; and

WHEREAS, The nature and existence of political campaign contributions and funds ought to be more fully explored and evaluated;

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, That there shall be appointed a Joint Bi-partisan Legislative Committee to meet during the Thirty-eighth Legislature to explore and evaluate the existence, nature and operation of political campaign contributions whether to an individual or group of candidates, including contributions and funds raised by any political party or subdivision or committee thereof, lobbyists or those representing matters before the Legislature, who shall not be protected by their professional confidences, or by any committee independent of any political party or by industry or by labor, and including contributions raised by fund raising dinners and by all other means together with lists of donors and/or ticket purchasers; three members shall be appointed from the Senate by the President of the Senate and three members shall be appointed from the House of Representatives by the Speaker of the House; and the Chairman of the Committee shall be the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court; and

Be It Further Resolved, That each member of the Legislature or of any group as enumerated in the foregoing paragraph is expected to cooperate with such Committee, and to bring forth and disclose thereto such knowledge as he may possess concerning such funds and contributions; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the committee may, if it so desires, retain the services of a certified public accountant to examine and make a confidential report to the Committee as to the donors and fiscal operation of any such contribution or fund; and may, at its option keep the amounts of contributions and the names of contributors confidential, if the same were so received; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the Committee shall have the power to issue subpoenas; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the Committee shall report to the Legislature such of its findings and recommendations as it shall deem appropriate.

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

Senator Rasmussen moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 2, line 3, after "or fund;" strike the balance of the paragraph and insert "the committee shall make public the report and their recommendations; and"

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Would Senator Woodall yield to a question?"

Senator Woodall:

"Yes, I will yield."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Senator Woodall, I would wish to employ you as my legal counsel."

Senator Woodall:

"Employment refused."

Senator Rasmussen:

"I can't pay you the wages anyway, Senator.

"I have a question here on line 20 of the first page of the resolution that we are working on, in which it says that the Chairman of this committee shall be the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. My question is: Can the Senate appoint the Chief Justice to any committee?"

Senator Woodall:

"No, that's the reason, if you will note my proposed amendment that I wish to present, if you will lay all of yours aside and adopt mine, you will find the resolution will be in good order. The Senate cannot order the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court to do anything."

Senator Woodall moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 1, line 7, after "appointed" strike the balance of the resolution and insert the following:

"a subcommittee of the Legislative Council to meet during the interim following the Thirty-eighth Legislature to explore and evaluate the existence, nature and operation of political campaign contributions whether to an individual or group of candidates, including contributions and funds raised by any political party or subdivision or committee thereof, lobbyists or those representing matters before the Legislature, who shall not be protected by their professional confidences, or by any committee independent of any political party or by industry or by labor, and including contributions raised by fund raising dinners and by all other means together with lists of donors and/or ticket purchasers; and

Be It Further Resolved, That all state elective officials, including legislators, and all groups enumerated in the foregoing paragraph are expected to cooperate with such Committee, and to bring forth and disclose thereto such knowledge as they or any of them may possess concerning such funds and contributions; and

Be It Further Resolved, That the Committee shall report to the Thirty-ninth Legislature such of its findings and recommendations as it shall deem appropriate."

Debate ensued.

Senator Gallagher moved that the amendment by Senator Woodall be laid upon the table.

Senator Woodall demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Raugust, Lennart, Neill, Ryder, Moriarty, Jr., Thompson, Jr., Freise, Peterson and England.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the motion by Senator Gallagher, and the amendment by Senator Woodall was laid upon the table by the following vote: Yeas, 31; nays, 17; absent or not voting, 1.

Those voting yea were: Senators Bailey, Charette, Connor, Cooney, DeGarmo, Donohue, Dore, Durkan, Foley, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Hal-lauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Petrich, Rasmussen, Riley, Sandison, Talley, Washington—31.

On page 1, line 22, after "Legislature" insert "and all candidates for any office voted upon in the 1962 primary and general election."

On page 2, line 8, strike the last paragraph.

Senator Petrich moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 2, line 6, after "Resolved," strike "That the Committee shall have the power to issue subpoenas" and insert the following:

"That the committee hereby created in exercising the powers and performing the functions vested in it by this resolution shall have: (I) All the powers conferred upon legislative committees in Chapter 44.16 Revised Code of Washington; (II) except when inconsistent with this resolution, all the powers conferred upon committees by the rules of the House of Representatives, the rules of the Senate, and the joint rules of the Senate and House of Representatives, as they are enacted and amended from time to time and such rules are hereby incorporated herein and made a part hereof the same as if they were set forth in this resolution in full; (III) all powers necessary or convenient to accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution, including but not limited to the following duties and powers:

"(1) The chairman shall have authority to create subcommittees from its membership, assigning to the subcommittee any study, inquiry, investigation or hearing which the committee itself has authority to undertake or hold, and the subcommittee for the purpose of this assignment shall have and exercise all of the powers conferred upon the committee limited by the express terms of the resolution or resolutions of the latter defining the powers and duties of the subcommittee, which powers may be withdrawn or terminated at any time by the committee;

"(9) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties, and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution; and in case of disobedience on the part of any witness to comply with any subpoena issued by the committee or on the refusal of any person to testify regarding any matter on which he may be lawfully interrogated, the superior court of any county, or the judge thereof, on application of the committee shall compel compliance by proceedings for contempt, as in the case of disobedience of the requirements of a subpoena issued from such court or a refusal to testify therein"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Would Senator Petrich yield?"

Senator Petrich:

"Delighted to."

Senator Woodall:

"That was a very lengthy amendment. I did not get it in detail. What about the time element under your resolution? Which group handles it and when do they report back? I didn't understand that."

Senator Petrich:

"In the enumerated powers, the committee can go to work as soon as the resolution is adopted, and meet during this session or in the interim, and is required to report back to the Thirty-ninth Legislative Session."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Durkan:

"Would Senator Petrich yield?"

"Senator, I just wonder how much money we are going to appropriate for this, and the reason I ask this is a sincere question. Are the appropriations going to be on your bill? Have you considered it? This is not a delaying tactic when I ask this question."

Senator Petrich:

"Senator, I know it isn't a delaying tactic and frankly I haven't been able to work this out. I have been working on this for approximately thirty minutes. However, if the investigation is going to be done, we have to have the appropriate machinery to authorize the committee to do it."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Gallagher:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"Is Senator Rasmussen speaking on the amendment as proposed by Senator Petrich or is he speaking on his original motion?"

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Rasmussen, please confine your remarks to the motion, the adoption of the amendment as proposed by Senator Petrich."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Yes, Mr. President."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Gallagher:

"Point of order, Mr. President. Again, to the point of order, I think that the Senator should confine his remarks strictly to the adoption of the amendment proposed by Senator Petrich; otherwise, I think the President should put him in his proper position."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Rasmussen, will you please do as the President requested and confine your remarks to the question of the adoption of the amendment."

Debate ensued.

Senators Hanna, Herrmann and Cooney demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Woodall:

"Point of personal privilege, Mr. President."

The President:

"The Senator will state his point of personal privilege."

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"This last remark by Senator Rasmussen that there are some Senators involved in delaying tactics, I want to make something abundantly clear: That if he has any reference to the fact that on this side of the aisle we have proposed amendments which would place it in the hands of the legislative council, he is entirely in error. That was not delaying tactics. I know nothing of this fund or anything connected with it. I don't know where he gets his figure of eighteen Senators. I know of no man on this side of the aisle involved at all and I resent the implication that if someone tries to adopt a constructive amendment that he gets tarred with the accusation of delaying tactics. The amendments submitted on this side of the aisle were submitted in good faith in an approach to the problem. We happened to feel that it was a proper one and was not in any way a delaying measure."

The President stated the question before the Senate is the adoption of the amendment by Senator Petrich.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

Senator Woodall moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 1, line 17, strike "three" and insert "four"

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

Senator Woodall moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 1, line 19, strike "three" and insert "four"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McCormack:

"Would Senator Woodall yield to a question?"

Senator Woodall:

"Yes."

Senator McCormack:

"Senator Woodall, quite aside from the point Senator Kupka just now raised as to how many might be from the Senate or the House and which side of the aisle, I wonder if you would accept this wording for your amendment, if we don't worry about the number, if we would say in line 19 or say in line 17, four members to be appointed from the Senate by the President of the Senate, and insert 'two each from each party caucus' and four members to be appointed from the House of Representatives by the Speaker of the House, 'two each from each major party caucus' would you accept that wording?"

Senator Woodall:

"As I stated a moment ago, any wording that makes it clear in the minds of everyone, I would be most happy to accept, and if you will go ahead and submit an amendment while this is under consideration and have it ready in that period of time, I will be glad to pass on it instead of the one I have."

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

Senator McCormack moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 1, line 19, after "Senate", insert ", two each from each party caucus,"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator McCormack:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"There are two amendments. We are dealing in halves. The first one is with respect to the House and the other with respect to the Senate. The one before us now applies only to the Senate and it will be followed by an amendment dealing with the House."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McCutcheon:

"Would Senator McCormack yield to a question?"

"Senator McCormack, would you object to having your other amendment read?"

Senator McCormack:

"Not at all, Mr. President. I would be glad to."

MOTION

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I move that under Reed's Rule No. 140, we suspend the rules and permit both amendments to be considered as a whole."

There being no objection, the following amendment by Senator McCormack was read:

On page 1, line 20, after "House" and before the semicolon, insert ", two each to be selected by the Republican caucus and two by the Democratic caucus, and all appointed members shall be confirmed by a majority vote of both houses"

On motion of Senator McCormack, the amendments were consolidated.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Riley:

"Would Senator McCormack yield?"

"Senator, I want to be as straightforward on this as I can to make sure I am in agreement with you. Is it the intent of your amendment, or as it is read, would you interpret it to mean that all eight must be confirmed by the House and all eight confirmed by the Senate, or do you just mean that the four from the Senate shall be confirmed by the Senate and the four from the House shall be confirmed by the House? If you meant that, I think perhaps the words 'respective houses' might well be put in there to eliminate any confusion."

Senator McCormack:

"In answer to Senator Riley's question, Mr. President, I intended all eight members should be confirmed by both Houses. That is why I omitted the word 'respectively.'"

Senator McCormack moved the adoption of the consolidated amendments. Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the consolidated amendments were adopted. On motion of Senator Greive, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate

Concurrent Resolution No. 6 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the resolution was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

Senators Gallagher, Petrich and Dore demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

On motion of Senator Greive, Engrossed Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 6 was ordered immediately transmitted to the House.

The Senate resumed consideration of the amendment by Senator Hess to the motion as presented by Senator Rasmussen.

The President declared the question before the Senate is: The adoption of the amendment by Senator Hess to the motion as presented by Senator Rasmussen.

Debate ensued.

Senator Woodall moved the adoption of the following amendment to the amendment by Senator Hess:

Add the following to Senator Hess' amendment to the motion by Senator Rasmussen: "and the 1960 gubernatorial election campaign in Washington State."

Senator Gallagher moved that Senator Rasmussen's motion and all amendments thereto be laid upon the table.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Point of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President:
"Will the motion take the original motion with it?"

The President:

"Would you state the motion again, Senator Gallagher?"

Senator Gallagher:

"I move that the Senate amendment pending by Senator Hess to the motion made by Senator Rasmussen be laid upon the table together with all further amendments pending thereto."

Senator Rasmussen demanded a roll call and the demand was not sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the motion made by Senator Rasmussen and the amendment proposed by Senator Hess be laid upon the table.

The motion was carried.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, personal privilege."

The President:

"Senator, the President believes that just about everything has been answered and discussed. If you have a matter of personal privilege that is pertinent to your person alone, the President will permit you to speak. Otherwise, the President must indicate that he will rule otherwise."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Thank you, Mr. President.

"Senators, all throughout this discussion, I have never attacked Senator Greive personally or declared that he was not a Christian or that he was dishonest. I have pointed out to the Senate merely what, in my opinion, was necessary that the Senate look into. I want to apologize to Senator Greive if he thought that I was inferring that he was dishonest. Never at any time have I done that, but I think that everybody will agree that this is something that should interest the Senate.

"Thank you, Mr. President."

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Greive, all bills on second reading were ordered to retain their place on tomorrow's calendar for second reading.

At 4:55 p. m., on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate adjourned until 11:00 a. m., Tuesday, February 19, 1963.

JOHN A. CHERBERG, President of the Senate.

WARD BOWDEN, Secretary of the Senate.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY

MORNING SESSION

SENATE CHAMBER,

OLYMPIA, WASH., Tuesday, February 19, 1963.

"O God, who in this land hast made the people the ministers of Thy just rule: So turn their hearts unto Thee that holding their citizenship as a sacred trust, they may guard, defend and use it according to Thy will; and that, serving Thee with willing, joyful and obedient hearts, they may cherish their freedom as a blessing of Thy Gospel, and strive to bring it to all people.

"Heavenly Father, grant us in all our doubts and uncertainties the grace to ask what Thou wouldst have us to do; that the spirit of wisdom may save us from false choices, and that in Thy light we may see light and in Thy straight path may not stumble; through our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen."

Senator Foster:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"As you know, my recent bout with the flu hospitalized me a few days. During that period of time, they gave me about every kind of test you can think of and some you can't think of. When the tests were over, they gave me a good bill of health, and yesterday they liberated me.

"I am very glad to be back in the Senate this morning and I want to take this opportunity to thank you, the members of the Senate and the President, for the lovely bouquet which you sent me. It helped to brighten an otherwise drab hospital."

Very truly yours,

(signed) BURTON L. JOHNSON,
Legal Administrative Assistant.

State of Washington, Executive Department,
Olympia, February 19, 1963.

To the Honorable, The Senate of the State of Washington.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I wish to talk to you today about matters primarily related to public education.

I know that each of you is aware that during the past few years, the quality of instruction in our schools has improved immeasurably. During this same period, teachers' salaries and their quest for professional recognition have taken a well deserved and unprecedented rise.

You will recall that in my first two messages to the 38th Legislature I stressed the fact that the primary concern of this administration continues to lie in the field of public education. I emphasized then—and repeatedly since then—that the balanced budget I submitted to you would allocate 75 percent of all new general fund revenue to common schools and higher education. Furthermore, I have promised that this administration would continue to seek new sources of revenue for public education.

I am pleased to report that we now appear to have found the means by which additional funds can be made available to public education.

During the past several weeks intensive discussions were held upon our initiative with the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare about Federal regulations related to payment of certain welfare funds. This involved a new interpretation of these Federal regulations.

We have just received verbal assurance that this new interpretation can be applied in our State, and that written confirmation of this will be forthcoming.

Therefore, I am able at this time to inform you that the State of Washington is eligible to receive an additional six million dollars in Federal funds to be used by the Department of Public Assistance. This, in turn, will free an identical amount of state general funds, without impairing our Public Assistance programs.

This will result from a change in procedure that will permit us to use money from the Federal Government's program of Medical Assistance to the Aged, and apply this money to programs for citizens who need Nursing Home care, but who at the same time would qualify for Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, and Disability Assistance.

To repeat, this procedural change will result in an additional six million dollars to our State from the Federal Government, and thus make available six million dollars in state general funds.

Concerning the allocation of this six million dollars, I respectfully suggest that one million dollars be given to the Department of Public Assistance to assure continuance of State medical care service to children in foster homes and those covered under our program of Aid to Dependent Children.

I further suggest that the remaining balance of five million dollars of the six million dollars be allocated to public education for such important areas as increased OASI payments, predetermined salary increases, and the educational enrichment programs.

I might also suggest that a portion of this could be applied to the establishment of such worthwhile programs as the proposed Research Center for retarded children at the University of Washington.

I would like to take this opportunity to explain some widely misunderstood facts concerning my budget proposals for education.

I refer the members of the Legislature to Page 428 of the Budget Document. The information contained on that page shows clearly that the estimated revenues of the school districts of the State will be 15 million dollars more than the estimated total expenditures of the school districts.

In connection with this, I emphasize that our figures for school district revenues include the same level of excess levies that were approved in the school districts for the present biennium, and also that the school district expenditures are based on cost levels of the 1962-1963 school year as estimated by the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Keeping these facts in mind, it becomes evident that if school districts will approve local excess levies to the same extent that they did for the present biennium, then some 15 million dollars more will be available to them than would be required for anticipated enrollment increases, based on today's cost levels.

Add to this the five million dollars made possible through our efforts to obtain additional Federal welfare funds, and we have a total of 20 million dollars available to help resolve some of the problem areas in the field of education.

I commend this information and suggestions to you for your approval and action.

ALBERT D. ROSELLINI, Governor,
State of Washington.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, a matter of personal privilege:

"Much as I regret opening up the circumstances of yesterday, I feel that there is one matter that should be taken up.

"As I have personally informed the gentlemen of the Senate, Mr. Best has come to Olympia, he has been here since late last night, he has all of his books and records with him, and he desires anyone that is interested to come and look at them. He has offered them to the press. I understand that they have looked at them and made no great examination, but he is perfectly willing that they be examined by Senator Rasmussen, too.

"But that isn't what troubles me. The thing that really troubles me is that we get into a fight like this and sometimes we hurt friends. Mr. Best and I went to school together. Mr. Best has an office across the street from me. Mr. Best has served twelve years as Secretary of my commercial club, which would be to me the same as a Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Best has been Secretary of the West Seattle Commercial Club. He has a high privilege. He has been honored. He is one of the most regarded and respected men in my particular community. Mr. Best also represents two statewide organizations whose members are in various places.

"Yesterday Mr. Best was libeled. Mr. Best desires to meet Senator Rasmussen in a forum where he can speak also. Senator Rasmussen has served this body for many years. He knows the things he has said about this honorable gentleman are privileged. He knows they can be repeated as privilege. He knows he is not subject to lawsuit.

"Mr. Best has asked me as his lifelong friend to ask the lady and gentlemen of the Senate, or more specifically, Senator Rasmussen, to step off the floor and talk about bribery and solicitation, if those are the words he wants to use, so that he can sue him; and, I am here to say for Ted Best, that if he doesn't do it, he's a coward."

MOTION

Senator Rasmussen:

"I move the rules be suspended and we revert to the first order of business."

The President:

"It has been moved that the rules be suspended and that the Senate revert to the first order of business."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"For what purpose is Senator Rasmussen making this motion? Before I vote I would wish to have the explanation for what purpose he wishes to revert back. I might also point out, Mr. President, that it does not require a suspension of the rules to revert to the first order of business; it simply requires a motion which would be sustained by a majority of those present."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Thank you, Senator Gissberg. That was my error.

"I move the Senate revert to the first order of business for the purpose of making a motion. I move that the Senate proceed with investigation of (Interruption)"

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Rasmussen the motion has not been carried as yet.

"The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the Senate revert to the first order of business for the purpose of making a motion."

The motion was lost.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, personal privilege:

"There are times, gentlemen and members of the Senate, when things should be said and times when we should say more. We have had our differences. We will have our differences. Sometimes even Caesars have bitterness underscored. Sometimes we will think in terms of welfare of the Party, rather than Country, of political welfare, rather than public welfare. But such is the nature of our way of life, such is the nature of a democracy, that eventually all of us will fade away in depth of devotion for a common Country which, alone in all the world, all of us are obsessed with in Providence. Let us unite, independent and free. Let us go ahead with our business."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen:

"Personal Privilege, Mr. President:

"Senator Greive has indicated that I have libeled and blackmailed and everything else on this floor. For the information of the Senate, and this is for the President to hold in his care until such a time as it is referred to the Supreme Court and the Bar Association of the State, this is a letter by Senator Greive: 'Whether or not my efforts on behalf of the profession in the legislature have been effective, I will let you judge.'

"Dr. Koch, who has been a legislative representative, can verify this. Senator Greive is telling an outright lie on this floor when he says he does not represent the association in the legislature. This is a letter written under his own hand justifying legal fees, and it must be explained to the Senate. We do not approve of lying on the Senate floor."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President, personal privilege:

"Senator Rasmussen is, in this particular instance, confusing the situation. I do now and always have represented for many years the Osteopathic Association. The Osteopathic Organization is an organization quite apart from the Optometric Organization. It happens they both have the same executive secretary. No it is true from time to time I have on occasion represented the Optometric Association, but I have never done it on a regular basis. I think the last time was a year ago. I am not their regular attorney, who is Lionel Wolff in Spokane. My representation has been only on very special matters, namely anti-trust in recent years, in which I have some proficiency, and it was only a special matter. I wrote a brief at that time. I think I took one trip for them when I had occasion to do some work, but I would say that my relationship is very minor, say one as to five or something, as compared with the regular attorneys, and I have never sought, nor attempted to represent them. I do represent the Osteopathic profession regularly. I make no bones about it, that is no problem. But this does not in any way justify Mr. Rasmussen. He still hasn't answered the question. The question here isn't who I represent. It's whether he has libeled an honest gentleman. It is whether or not this gentleman who has made a good reputation, whose name is now spread over every paper in the state of Washington, has a right to redress."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"Am I going to have a rebuttal on this debate? Speaking to the point of order, Mr. President, these are charges so serious that the President must take action to appoint an individual committee of Senators to work on this, the point of order on the debate and the point of order I brought before the Senate."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Greive:

"Continuing my remarks, Mr. Rasmussen to satisfy me has only to step off the floor and make the same remarks. We will be glad to furnish him a copy of the remarks he made on the floor, so that he can be brought to court; and, as far as I am concerned, the question is simply whether or not Senator Rasmussen is a coward."

MOTION

Senator Durkan moved that the Senate proceed in order.
The motion was carried.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen:

"Point of order."

The President:

"The Senator will state his point of order."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Where does that leave my rebuttal?"

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President is not aware of any particular rule that provides an opportunity for rebuttal. The President is of the opinion that a debate did not ensue."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Thank you, Mr. President."

"It is my pleasure to speak on behalf of Max Nicolai for his new appointment as a member of the State Personnel Board. I have been acquainted with Max Nicolai some ten years, since the 1953 Session of the Legislature in the House of Representatives. I have found him to be a man of exceptional ability in the legal and other fields. He is a fellow who has a great range of humor and I am sure you have all enjoyed him at different times. We on our side have used him as Caucus counsel on a number of occasions and I am sure you have felt the barb of his wit on the other side of the aisle here, and we on this side of the aisle have enjoyed it and the exchange has been perfectly open and on a friendly basis.

"On behalf of Max Nicolai, I do want to assure you that while he is here now as the Governor's legal counsel, he is not being paid for that particular work which he is doing in the Governor's office at this time. He is a member of the Personnel Board and is being paid in that way, so he is not in a dual capacity here. His employment with the Personnel Board will really get under way after the Session.

Senator Woodall:

"Would Senators David Cowen yield to a question?
"Is this some form of your patronage?"

Senator Cowen:

"Yes."

Senator Washington:

"I wish to rise and also support the appointment of Max Nicolai. I have known Max as an attorney for a number of years, ever since coming to the legislature in 1951. He has a great deal of legal talent. He does have a brilliant mind. I know in the drafting of legislation in the past, although he was not a member of the bill drafting staff, he was always of great assistance, and I feel that he would be a real addition to this Board. I recommend him highly."

Senator Riley:

"It's rather unusual that I can concur in both the case of Dr. Bucove and Max Nicolai because it is very rarely that we can get fellows like this confirmed. We have them frequently in our Church, but we don't get very many of these members where we can get them confirmed."

The motion was carried.

"Almighty God, Heavenly Father, keep us this day in health of body and soundness of mind, in purity of heart and cheerfulness of spirit, in contentment with our lot and charity with our neighbor; and further all our lawful undertakings with Thy blessing. Forbid that we should approach the throne of grace in the merit of our own achievements or things of personal gain but rather seek Thy presence as the pathway of eternal righteousness and truth.

"Grant freedom from anxiety to the members of this Senate and make way for diligence to the tasks which lie before them by keeping their loved ones in safety and health. And may this diligence give to the people of this state rich examples of trusteeship. Hear, too, our unspoken prayers with their deeper hopes. In the name of Christ we pray. Amen."

Senators Greive, Connor, Washington and Gallagher demanded a Call of the Senate.

A Call of the Senate was ordered.

CALL OF THE SENATE

The Sergeant at Arms locked the doors of the Senate chamber.

The Secretary called the roll on the Call of the Senate, all members being present.

On motion of Senator Greive, the Senate proceeded under the Call of the Senate.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President, point of order:

"I believe the amendment by Senator Dore enlarges the scope and object of the bill and therefore is not germane and should not be considered. The condominium bill relates to property and the ownership of property on a certain basis other than that which we now have. This relates to certain rules and regulations which may be promulgated by the Antidiscrimination Board. I do not think that the two of them should go together."

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President:

"I am not so sure that I can agree with Senator Ryder. I should like to have the amendment read again. I have had some Latin. Condominium in Latin—condo means joint or common dominion, and if the definition is right, I think the amendment is germane."

The Secretary read the amendment.

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President:

"Are you going to have any trouble with the ruling because if you aren't, I would just as soon not say anything. I think it is very germane to condominium. This would only apply to condominiums, providing, if we adopt this new type of ownership, there would be no discrimination. It is very germane. I couldn't consider it any more germane. It applies only to condominium. It doesn't apply, it doesn't affect the old type of property ownership, but the new type comes in fresh and clean."

The President:

"Are there any further remarks?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Mr. President:

"Speaking on the point of order, I was going to reserve these comments until we discussed the amendment itself. I think all of you are familiar with what this amendment tries to do. It places in the condominium statute we are considering, which is one form of ownership (Interruption)"

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President:

"Not to interrupt, Senator Moriarty, I don't want him to take unfair advantage of the mover of the amendment. I think every person is entitled to speak on the germaneness of the amendment but I think by his opening remarks that he is going too far afield, at least so it would seem from analyzing his first few remarks."

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Referring to the constitutionality of Senator Dore's amendment (Interruption)"

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Would you confine your remarks to the point of order, Senator Moriarty?"

Senator Dore:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"Constitutionality is not before this body, only germaneness. Constitutionality is a point of law which can only be determined by the Supreme Court."

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"If an amendment is possibly unconstitutional, it seems to me that it is obvious that it raises a legitimate question as to whether it is germane, if it enlarges the scope and object of the bill. The Supreme Court rendered a decision in 1959 that all property, whether publicly owned or privately owned, must be treated the same way. Senator Dore's amendment would place this antidiscrimination provision against one form of apartment house ownership. It would not affect, as he pointed out in his remarks a few moments ago, any other form of apartment house ownership or any other form of property ownership. It would apply only to the condominium and I raise the question of constitutionality, and through the question of constitutionality, the question of whether or not the amendment is germane. It seems to me if an amendment on its face is unconstitutional because it applies to one form of land ownership and not all forms, then the question of germaneness is almost self-explanatory.

"I think we are all familiar with the Supreme Court decision in 1959, relative to the 1957 act which dealt with discrimination in publicly owned apartment houses. The Supreme Court held that because the act of 1957 did not apply to privately owned apartment houses, as well as public, that the statute was unconstitutional. As I explained, Senator Dore has an amendment applying to one limited form of apartment house ownership."

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President:

"I think I have already made these remarks. Of course I am quite surprised at Senator Moriarty's comments saying that the constitutionality of this has already been determined when the act hasn't passed. First you have to pass a bill and then challenge its constitutionality. What he is talking about is the O'Mara case and the O'Mara case concerned federal property which has no materiality here.

"In any event it is not for the Lieutenant Governor or the President of the Senate to rule on the constitutionality of a bill. That is a question for the Supreme Court and many times they change their minds. This is a question of germaneness. The only thing that is before the President and the Senate is whether this is germane, and it is very germane. This is a new type of property ownership. Condominiums are something we have never had before. We are creating a new type of ownership and I am only trying to say here that if we create it, we can't discriminate in its use. It is very germane. It pertains to the method of use, so I think the point of order raised by Senator Ryder is not well taken."

Senator Ryder:

"Mr. President:

"My point of order was not germaneness particularly, but this amendment enlarges the scope and object of this bill which has to do with a certain type of property ownership. This gets into another subject entirely, that of discrimination and the treatment of minority groups. We have another bill in the Senate and several in the House which cover this in a constitutional and upward manner. It certainly enlarges the scope and object of this bill to attach this amendment to it."

The President:

"Are there any further remarks?"

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"Speaking simply for myself, it would seem to me that, number one, the constitutionality is something that could not be ruled upon by the President of the Senate or by any other person other than the Supreme Court. To so decide would be to have to decide then on the legality of every bill we pass and whether any bill we pass would fit within these terms. Secondly, as far as the object and scope, this applies directly to this particular new concept in living accommodations. It would seem to me this is the way and method which should be used to determine whether or not this should be, from this point forward, restricted or in some way used to protect minority groups."

Senator Riley:

"Mr. President:

"So far the members of the bar have been talking on the constitutionality and so forth. I am going to address one simple remark. If we have, on the basis that it is not germane, one apartment house here and another apartment house across the street, then each has a different set of rules. On that basis, I think the amendment by Senator Dore is not appropriate, is not germane, and should be so ruled by the President."

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"In response to Senator Riley, I would like to point out that we have classifications in terms of legislation every day in this body. We classify cities into various divisions, first, second and third class cities; towns and counties, and we classify in many other ways besides that. We are asking in the case of Senate Bill No. 4 to classify a new type of property ownership and, since we do have this power to classify and the amendment by Senator Dore is limited to this particular classification, condominium, I see nothing out of order with the amendment."

The President:

"Are there any further remarks? The honored Senators are well aware of the complexity of this particular question. Therefore, the President should like to retire to study the point of order as presented by Senator Ryder."

The President declared the question before the Senate is: A point of order has been raised by Senator Ryder to the amendment offered by Senator Dore.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senate Bill No. 4 provides for ownership and possession of apartments within a building and creates rights and duties of owners regarding their apartments in relation to other parties.

"The amendment presented by Senator Dore is a further clarification of the rights and duties of owners with reference to the transfer of their property interest.

"The President believes that this further clarification of the rights and duties of the owners does not enlarge the scope and object of the bill, therefore, the amendment is in order and the point of order raised by Senator Ryder is not well taken."

Senator Greive demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Connor, Bailey, Hess, Petrich, Dore, Mardesich, Rasmussen, Kupka and Gallagher.

Those absent and excused were: Senator Gissberg—1.

The President stated the question before the Senate is: The adoption of the amendment by Senator Dore.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Dore:

"Would Senator Moriarty yield to a question?

"Senator, as a practical matter, isn't it true that it is contemplated that the great majority of these apartments will be financed through FHA?"

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"The answer to that question is yes, and the answer to your next question is, 'I don't know.'"

Senator Dore:

"Well, isn't it true that the majority of the people who appeared before the committee, the bankers and finance houses, stated that as a practical matter they will finance through FHA? Isn't that correct?"

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"That is true, but I don't know the answer to the next question. I know what you are referring to."

Senator Dore:

"Your first answer is yes."

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Yes."

Senator Dore:

"Don't you believe that the Executive Order providing there can be no discrimination in the event federal money is used—don't you think that will apply if these are financed through FHA?"

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"All I have seen is newspaper reports on the subject, Senator Dore, but the question that bothers me is the question of constitutionality under the laws of the state of Washington, not under the regulations of the FHA."

Senator Dore:

"Well, Senator Moriarty, this amendment is a separate section, isn't that correct? And doesn't the law provide that in the event it is unconstitutional, that part falls off and the remainder of the bill remains?"

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Yes, and can you tell me now what part is constitutional?"

Senator Dore:

"Well, if the amendment is unconstitutional, the court would merely knock off the amendment and uphold the rest of the bill."

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"You were arguing a moment ago that we couldn't say what the courts were going to do, Senator, and I don't know. If you do, I would be interested in your opinion."

Senator Dore:

"Well, Judge Woodall does, I think."

Further debate ensued.

Senator Greive demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

Senator Greive demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Washington, Connor, Bailey, Kupka, Hallauer, Charette, Hess and Dore.

Those absent and excused were: Senator Gissberg—1.

Engrossed Senate Bill No. 4, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

We, the undersigned, protest scalping Senate Bill No. 4 by tacking on an amendment changing the scope and object of the bill contrary to Senate Rule No. 62.

There are several carefully prepared bills more fully covering the subject of the amendment still receiving thoughtful consideration of the legislature. There is ample time for action, unless blocked by action of the majority party.

Singling out condominiums among all types of ownership results in a palpably unconstitutional classification which is arbitrary and capricious. This will result in needless judicial review of the bill, delaying its implementation.

Our vote on the amendment is not a measure of our policy on the subject of civil rights as is evidenced by our support, as sponsors and otherwise, of civil rights legislation. We will demonstrate our support of civil rights legislation when the majority brings a committee processed bill onto the floor of the Senate.

Upon the complete retirement of the present bonded indebtedness relating thereto, the Longview-Rainier bridge shall become a part of the state highway system and shall be operated and maintained by the state highway commission as a toll-free facility."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator McCormack:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"These amendments are not germane. They are a separate subject and should therefore be out of order."

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"I believe it somewhat enlarges the scope and object of the bill when you start out to have a little bridge over the Columbia in Eastern Washington and we end up legislating about the Narrows Bridge, which is way over yonder. I think we have enlarged the scope and object of the bill. I am sorry, but I would have enjoyed hearing Senator McCutcheon."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Speaking on the point of order by Senator McCormack:

"Parenthetically, I think my amendment would have strengthened Senator McCormack's bill but I would remind Senator Woodall while the Chair is in deep reverie on this matter that in one state we may have a ridge of mountains between the two sides but the same Columbia River they are talking about happens to run right around Senator Talley's district and both are bridges over the same river and under the same toll bridge authority, under the same state government, under the same law, largely, as it affects the collection of all tolls. There is set out in both bills manners of financing the methods of guaranteeing the fund. I have a lot to say about the guaranteeing of funds, too, but I think it is perfectly germane. It does not enlarge the scope. It is about the same size of a bridge. I haven't measured it lately, Senator Woodall, but I think the distance isn't too greatly different in size. Now, Senator, the Longview bridge happens to be a little higher. It has a magnificent view from the top of it because they want ships to go under it, but this is all on the same subject matter and is perfectly germane. The amendment is good. I take exception to the point of order. There is no point of order to be ruled upon here."

Senator Washington:

"I want to assure Senator McCutcheon that, knowing you, this was not entirely unexpected. I would like to speak on the point of order and definitely this is not germane. This is a bill which allows a bridge to be operated and maintained by the Highway Commission. It will not be operated and maintained by the Toll Bridge Authority. This is a bill for the construction of a project and for the raising of tolls.

"The amendment would very seriously complicate the entire bill. That is for the reduction and taking off of tolls. It is the exact opposite of the purpose for which the bill is intended.

"The Tacoma Narrows Bridge relates to Puget Sound, a very complete and separate subject. The problem of the Longview Bridge relates to very many complicated problems between the state of Oregon and the state of Washington. Very definitely this is not germane and certainly extends the scope and object of the bill."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President (President Pro Tempore Riley presiding):

"Members of the Senate:

"The President's ruling on the question raised as to the question of Senator McCormack, the Chair will rule that there is, in effect, considerable subject matter that is typical. There is the subject of the toll bridge. There is the common denominator, the Columbia River. But the scope and object is enlarged when we take the Narrows Bridge, as contrasted to Senate Bill No. 243 which provides for the building of a new bridge.

"The President will rule that this enlarges the scope and object of the bill and, on that basis, the amendment is not germane."

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF THE CHAIR

Senator McCutcheon:

"Mr. President:

"I now appeal from the ruling of the Chair upon the point of order."

Senator Greive:

"I would suggest that Senator Cowen be called upon."

Temporary President David E. Cowen assumed the Chair.

The President (Temporary President Cowen presiding):

"The question before the Senate is: Should the Decision of the Chair be the judgment of the Senate."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Riley:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"It seems to me Senator McCutcheon is not confining his remarks to the matter before the Senate, namely, an appeal has been taken from the decision of the Chair. Now the question is, is the amendment which he offered germane or is it not germane? It seems to me that the arguments on what system of financing is used is very far afield from the point under question."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President (Temporary President Cowen presiding):

"The point is well taken. Senator McCutcheon, please keep your remarks relative to the judgment of the Chair. You may proceed, Senator McCutcheon."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Riley:

"Mr. President:

"I wish the President would suggest to Senator McCutcheon that he confine his remarks on the point of order which has been raised. I do not like to sit here and have him point out to me that, because I do not like a philosophy, my judgment is weakened."

Senator McCutcheon:

"I may have used an unfortunate choice of words. I shouldn't have said you didn't like the policy."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Stender:

"Would Senator Washington yield to a question?"

"Senator Washington, I assume from the revenue of tolls that will be placed on the users, that revenue bonds be sold without the $200,000 underwriting the bonds that you proposed in the bill."

Senator Washington:

"They very possibly and probably could, but the interest rate would be very high. By having a guarantee fund you can reduce the interest rate and thereby make many more projects feasible. We are attempting to work out a means where many of our bodies of water can be crossed. It is like having a mortgage behind a loan. If you go to a bank and take out a personal loan that is unguaranteed, you spend much more, perhaps seven or eight percent. If you put down a mortgage, you get it for much less, although you don't intend that the house or mortgage is going to be foreclosed. We don't expect this $100,000 a year will be foreclosed, but it has a mortgage backing it up and it is going to give us a much better and cheaper interest rate."

The President resumed the Chair.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Hallauer:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I believe the matter under discussion is the Appeal from the Decision of the Chair. We are now having debate on the bill."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Hallauer's point of order is well taken. Senator Stender, would you confine your remarks to a discussion of the Appeal from the Decision of the Chair?"

Debate ensued.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Durkan:

"Point of parliamentary inquiry. Is it proper to move the previous question at this time?"

The President:

"The President believes that it is in order."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rickdall:

"Point of order. I believe Senate Rule No. 1 provides that a member may not speak more than once on appeal without the approval of the Senate."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The point of order is well taken by Senator Rickdall, according to Rule 1 of the Senate."

MOTION

Senator Durkan:

"I move Senator McCutcheon be given permission to address the Senate for three minutes."

Debate ensued.

The President stated the question before the Senate is: Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the Senate.

Senator McCutcheon demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Rasmussen, Washington, Knoblauch, Kupka, Cooney, Sandison, McCormack and Greive.

"Our God and Heavenly Father; we especially thank Thee for this day that we observe in this state with special meaning, Washington's birthday. It is a day that leads us to realize the patriotic devotion and character of our forefathers. Hear us,

O Lord, as we make our own, the prayer that came from the depths of his being so many years ago:

... "Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government, and entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large.

"And finally that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, love mercy and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility, and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

TRIBUTE TO GEORGE WASHINGTON BY REPRESENTATIVE MOON

George Washington was born February 22, 1732 in a house built by his father in Westmoreland County, Virginia and died on Saturday night, December 14, 1799 at the age of 67.

The vision of George Washington that always rises before us at every mention of his name is the Washington of later years, the Commander in Chief of the Revolutionary Army, the man who presided over the Constitutional Convention, the first president of the United States. We often forget that there must have been a first occasion when George Washington had to "carry his district" like any small town office holder of today. He was defeated in his first attempt for a seat in the Virginia House of Burgesses. On a later attempt he won this seat. He seemed to have gained his first lesson in statesmanship from the chagrin of political defeat.

Washington accomplished what from the very beginning he set out to do. In his existence there is nothing of those gifted personalities who arise from one or a series of strokes of fortune.

Neither can one find in him that element of tragedy which so often allures the historian and deceives posterity as to the real merits of men. No, history has found Washington very little of the spectacular, but much, very much of inward greatness.

As a member of the 2nd Continental Congress along with Franklin, Jefferson, Sam and John Adams, Washington belonged to the militant group that was convinced that Britain would not yield to a purely defensive armed resistance. They were in favor of independence and regarded it as inevitable.

The choice of Washington as Commander in Chief was a fortunate one. True, he did not turn out to be a brilliant tactician. Yet he inspired confidence, and persisted stubbornly despite the many setbacks he suffered. His courage, tenacity, honesty, and dignity were in the long run more vital to success than was military genius.

During the revolutionary period, southern leaders like Washington were well aware of the incongruity of slavery in a Republic dedicated to the principles of the Declaration of Independence.

After the Revolution he helped organize and became a trustee of the Alexandria Academy and subsequently established the first free school of Northern Virginia. It may be observed that this little free school was the foster father of the free-school system in Virginia.

He knew how to be heroic and how to be prudent; great with simplicity, wise without arrogance and the democratic leader of a great mass with not one concession to compromise of principle.

In all his life there is a moving dignity, a greatness which even today absorbs our spirits. These traits aggrandize Washington into a solemn figure standing on the threshold of our history as the symbol of a new civilization; the guardian of American Culture.

Washington, convinced with justice, charmed with the heroic, and captivated with his concept of dignity and public welfare.

In his life there is a continuing and iron logic; an unswerving loyalty to his ideas, to his nation and to his conscience. His thought was truly the matrix of his acts. Agitator, soldier, statesman, or citizen, his method is the same: loyalty, perseverance, order, boldness, and passion, but all subordinate even to the stern discipline of the intellect and Christian morals.

When one reads his letters and writings, one realizes that Washington must have had the ability to recognize the smoke screens put forth by his opponents to cloud the issues and appeal to the emotions. Yes, he had the courage to meet these half-truths and innuendoes with truth and to evaluate the facts of the issues as compared to the appeals to emotion.

Of none was it truer than of him that "the way of duty is the way of glory."

Even today one may lose himself in the soul of Washington, with only delight for the spirit.

The heroes of our independence acted under very different circumstances and conditions, but their fundamental characteristics were forged in the thought and personality of Washington.

The noble and majestic life of Washington is today the perfect symbol of the American nation to which he gave life. There is in him something of lofty spirituality which removes him from other great soldier-statesmen of the past. He dignified men instead of oppressing them.

He made war, but he made things greater than war; he gave moral and political form to a great republic.

He would rather suffer injustice, than to do injustice.

For this, although his glory is great, his deeds are greater.

Always he did what he should, and not what he could.

He served his nation and did not make his nation serve him.

The President of the Senate turned the gavel over to Senator Morgan.

MEMORIAL TRIBUTE BY SENATOR FRANCES HADDON MORGAN

A tribute written by a famous woman writer and Legislator—Eva Anderson:

We pause, in the midst of a busy day—at a time of crisis in state and nation—to honor our recently-departed fellow legislators.

Enshrined on the Roll of Memory today, are the names of 27 men and 1 woman. They, too, once sat in these legislative halls even as you and I now sit here. As the clock on the wall ticked, and the calendar days fitted past with kaleidoscopic swiftness, they, too, dreamed of building a better world. But when the Reaper declares that "Life's session is ended," no mortal can stay the clock for a single instant. No one can say, "Give me a few more minutes; a few more hours. My bill didn't pass."

Eventually for all, TIME ITSELF RUNS OUT. THOSE FIRST STEPS IN IMMORTALITY, WHICH EVERY HUMAN CRAVES, MUST BE TAKEN NOW.

Those whom we honor today used some of Life's shining hours, we know, for Humanity and for the State of Washington. To them, we are deeply grateful.

To you in the galleries—friends and relatives of our comrades—we extend our warmest sympathy. Upon you, falls the great burden of this loneliness.

Here and now, may you and I—all of us—rededicate our own lives to perpetuating their dream:

"The dream of a brotherhood coming to birth.

"The dream of a Christ for a Christlike earth."

"Bless and guide the citizens of this state and grant that we may be so bound together that unity and cooperation may forbid intolerance and gross unfairness. Help us to be grim fighters for the truth, for individual freedom, and the rights of man wherever he may live.

"As we worship may we come before Thee, not as underlings who are summoned, but as children answering the call of their dear father. Strengthen these of the Senate and all who assist in their function that in regularly appointed government Thy name may be glorified. Through Thy Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

State of Washington, Executive Department,
Olympia, February 11, 1963.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I have the honor to submit the following appointment to the position of member, State Liquor Control Board, subject to your confirmation:

Garland Sponburgh, appointed August 1, 1961, for the term ending January 15, 1970, succeeding Charles W. Bryant.

Sincerely,

ALBERT D. ROSELLINI, Governor.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., February 21, 1963.

GARLAND SPONBURGH, to the position of member, State Liquor Control Board, appointed August 1, 1961, for the term ending January 15, 1970, succeeding Charles W. Bryant (reported by Committee on Liquor Control):

Recommends that said appointment be confirmed. FRANK CONNOR, Chairman.

We concur in this report: Victor F. DeGarmo, Herbert H. Freise, Al Henry, George W. Kupka, W. C. Raugust, Edward F. Riley, Gordon Sandison, Perry B. Woodall.

CONFIRMATION OF GUBERNATORIAL APPOINTMENT

It was moved by Senator Greive that the rules be suspended and the appointment of Garland Sponburgh to the position of member of the State Liquor Control Board be confirmed.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGES

Senator Connor:

"Mr. President, Lady and Gentlemen of the Senate:

"Mr. Sponburgh appeared before our committee and assured us he had done an excellent job in the last two years and we are sure he will continue to do so."

Senator Thompson, Jr.:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"You are aware that I have been critical of some of the actions of the Liquor Board particularly their business practices. Commander Sponburgh formerly lived in the 48th District in Kirkland and took responsible action as a newly appointed member toward correcting some of the objections that many of us felt were occurring by members of the Liquor Board. I know of one example, specifically. The Board had announced to the Legislative Council that they were going to rent a store on Mercer Island for $500.00 a month. This happened to be next to one of those very desirable grocery stores that seem to have such an attraction for the Liquor Board and this was an attempt to justify their $500.00 a month rent in Bellevue which was next to one of the hardware stores that seem to have such an attraction for the Liquor Board, and Commander Sponburgh, when this was brought to his attention, came physically to Mercer Island to examine several locations available and elected to take one for $350.00 a month that was not next to a grocery store which seemed to have such an attraction, but which was $150.00 a month less rent, so I think this gentleman sincerely is trying to do a good job for the Liquor Board. It is only regrettable that he doesn't have other members on the Board with his interest."

Senator Charette:

"Mr. President:

"I rise in support of this confirmation, also. I have found that Mr. Sponburgh has certainly been one that will lend his ear and listen to problems and try to straighten out these problems. He is certainly a fine gentleman and should receive the unanimous confirmation of the Senate."

The motion was carried.

APPOINTMENT OF GARLAND SPONBURGH

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Would Senator Kupka yield?"

"Senator, was a party by the name of McNeil before your committee for testimony?"

Senator Kupka:

"A party by the name of who?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"A party by the name of McNeil, Charles McNeil."

Senator Kupka:

"No, he wasn't."

Debate ensued.

PRESIDENT'S PRIVILEGE

The President:

"May the President have the date of the letter you referred to, Senator Rasmussen?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"February 21, 1963, Mr. President."

The President:

"For your information, Senator Rasmussen, the President has not received such a letter and in the future the President would appreciate your determining the accuracy of your communications before making any such flat and all-inclusive statements."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, my apologies:

"The chances are that you have not received the letter but it is probably in the mail. It says copies were sent to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House. Down here quite frequently it happens that our mail is delayed. I received this some days ago. This one was addressed to me. Our mail gets piled up here and we do not get a chance to read it and this is nothing against the President because this bill has traveled out of committee so fast and into Rules Committee, I agree with you, people did not have time to consider their mail. My apologies, Mr. President. I don't mean to infer anything was wrong with your operations at all. Yesterday was the 22nd. This was dated the 21st and yesterday was a very, very busy day for all concerned."

Debate ensued.

Senators Kupka, Gallagher and Cooney demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 360 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 32; nays, 15; absent or not voting, 2.

Those voting nay were: Senators Cowen, Freise, Greive, Guess, Hanna, Herrmann, Hess, Knoblauch, Lennart, McCutcheon, Morgan, Petrich, Rasmussen, Washington, Williams—15.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Dore, Raugust—2.

Senate Bill No. 360, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President:

"Point of personal privilege. As a member of Senator Kupka's committee, I feel something should be cleared up. Senator Rasmussen stated this bill had traveled with great rapidity through the chamber of the Senate and not having any prepared speech or anything, I just took today's calendar and went through it and noted the introduction of Senate Bill No. 294 was February 4th, Senate Bill No. 182 was January 28th, Senate Bill No. 403 was February 11th, Senate Bill No. 356 was February 7th, Senate Bill No. 360 was February 7th, and on down. I think it shows that due consideration has been given to all of these bills.

"Now, Senator Rasmussen mentioned a letter and, incidentally, it should have been given great merit. I received a letter the other day in which the writer said that Senator Rasmussen was nuts and he wanted to have a hearing on him. I, for one, immediately wrote back to him and disagreed with him; however, in closing I did say we were all entitled to our opinions."

Senator Rasmussen:

"I wish to apologize to the Chairman of the Committee if the wrong impression was given. I certainly hold Senator Kupka in high esteem and we work together every day. My point was not that Senator Kupka's committee worked expeditiously, but in going home last night I heard that the committee had reported the bill out into the Rules Committee and then after studying the list at home, I find the bill on the calendar already. I only inferred that it traveled awfully fast from the time it came over the radio and right onto the calendar. Now the Committee Chairman is doing a good job and I wish to commend him."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Kupka:

"Mr. President, would Senator Rasmussen yield to a question?

"Would you mind telling me or telling this body just who this gentleman is and what his address is and if he still wants to file that paper, he certainly can."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Senator Kupka, the gentleman's name is Charles McNeil and he makes the offer himself. He says, 'I would be happy and willing to appear at your request in order to amplify and produce supporting evidence.' However, I have every intention of bringing this over to the House Committee. It is too late to work on it here."

Senator Kupka:

"You didn't give me his address. You have just given me his name. I want to know his address."

Senator Rasmussen:

"He lists a telephone number, Quilcene 796-2424, if you desire to call him."

Senator Kupka:

"Where is that, Senator Rasmussen? Is that the town of Quilcene?"

Senator Rasmussen:

"It must be."

Senator Kupka:

"I thought that was a prefix."

Senator Rasmussen:

"It's in Senator Sandison's district. Maybe he knows him."

Senator DeGarmo:

"I would like to say this to my friend, Senator Rasmussen:

"I wouldn't worry too much about some of these letters. I sent a letter almost a year ago to our prosecuting attorney regarding Sunday laws and so forth and I haven't received an answer yet. Perhaps I am on the wrong side of the aisle."

MOTION

Senator Riley moved that the Senate proceed in order.

The motion was carried.

MOTION

At 12:35 p. m. on motion of Senator Greive, the Senate recessed until 1:45 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 1:45 p. m.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators Connor, Cowen, Dore, McCormack and Raugust, Senator Raugust having been excused.

On motion of Senator Petrich, Senator Dore was excused.

On motion of Senator Durkan, Senator Cowen was excused.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President observed within the bar of the Senate the Honorable Clarence Martin, Speaker of the House of Representatives of Oregon and Representative Ross Morgan also from the state of Oregon. The President appointed a special committee of Senators Hess, Sandison, Keefe, Neill, Woodall and Henry to escort the visitors to a place of honor upon the rostrum.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McMillan:

"Mr. President:

"At this time I wish to commend the honorable gentlemen from the state of Oregon for their foresight and general intelligence in securing the pay raise down there. Before leaving our Capitol, perhaps they might impart to some of our leaders some instructions as to what we might do in order to follow them."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"Could I inquire of the Speaker of the House of Representatives of Oregon if they received copies of the bills that will be on the calendar Monday in the Senate in relation to the reciprocal agreement on workmen's compensation between the states?"

Speaker Martin:

"Yes, sir, we did."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President:

"We appreciate the effort of the Oregon legislature in getting this legislation passed. We are very desirous of it, also, and it was just a matter of timing and working with committees, or we would have had it done before."

MOTION

Senator Greive:

"Senator Woodall and I have a motion. We would like to join in making a motion together from both sides of the aisle. Senator Woodall will make the motion."

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President:

"I move that the rules be suspended and Senate Bill No. 314 be placed on the second reading calendar for today."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"I would like the journal to read that that motion was made by the floor leader of the majority party and the floor leader of the minority party, both parties of the legislature, and acted upon."

The President:

"It shall be so ordered."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hallauer:

"A matter of personal privilege in this instance. I do appreciate what Senator Greive and Senator Woodall are trying to do in this regard; however, there are some amendments being prepared by Mr. Jerry Hagan, Director of the Department of Labor and Industries, that would extend this reciprocal act to British Columbia as well as Oregon. I trust that in our haste to be courteous to our visitors, we won't overlook the fact that we have neighbors both to the north and south. These amendments need to be considered on Monday."

Senator Rasmussen:

"I believe that the amendment placed on the bill in committee covers the situation that Senator Hallauer brought up."

Senator Hallauer:

"I am sorry, Senator Rasmussen. This is not quite correct. There was a request by some of the labor representatives in addition to the committee amendment. There is also another amendment, a separability clause and a clarification of the particular committee amendments that you were considering."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Greive:

"All of this debate is out of order, Mr. President. I suggest we put it on the second reading calendar. We can always hold it over."

The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the rules be suspended and Senate Bill No. 314 be placed on the second reading calendar for today.

Senator Washington:

"Would Senator Charette yield to a question?"

"I wish this question to be answered in order that if there are any questions of legal interpretation, that the intent of the Senate may be made clear by the question and the answer. Senator Charette, it is my understanding that by your amendment it will still be necessary that the public agency retain, until the completion of the project, the ten percent; that it be retained until the work is complete to enforce the completion of the project or to retire any repairs that might be necessary. They would have that amount when the contract was complete; is that right?"

Senator Charette:

"That is correct. At the end of the project, they would be required by the statute to have five percent but it is within their discretion to retain more."

Senator Washington:

"Then, with that understanding, I think Senator Charette has accomplished with fewer words what I had intended with my amendment."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Washington, the following amendments were adopted:

On page 2, section 1, line 10, after "building" strike the comma and insert "or"

On lines 10 and 11, after "work" strike "or other division of the contract"

On motion of Senator Riley, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 182 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

MOTION

"Mr. President:

"I move at this time that the rules be suspended and an editorial written in the Sunday paper by the dean of our political writers, Stub Nelson, concerning the greatness of Senator John Happy be spread upon the Journal."

Senator Greive:

"Mr. President:

"On behalf of, not only myself, but of all of the Democratic members, we would like to join Senator Woodall in that motion."

The motion was carried unanimously.

The President:

"The President does not believe that a suspension of the rules is necessary, but, rather agrees with the entire assemblage that it would be of special interest to all of us if Mr. Peter Brudevold, would read the recent article in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer by Mr. Stub Nelson and, Stub, the members would certainly think the President remiss if he did not say at this time that every one of us thinks it is a remarkably good article and believes that you are to be commended for preparing such a message. For that reason, Senator Woodall and Senator Greive suggested that it be read at this time in your presence and spread upon the Journal of the Senate."

View from Olympia

John Happy's Day

By Stub Nelson, Political Editor.

A heart-warming thing happened while we were sitting in the Senate Press Row one afternoon this past week. It was a particularly pleasant interlude because it took place on a day when bitter charges and counter-charges had reverberated in the chamber.

Senator David Cowen, Spokane Democrat and dean of the upper chamber in point of service, took the floor to call presiding officer John Cherberg's attention to the presence of Mrs. John Happy, widow of the late Spokane Republican senator, in the gallery.

Lieutenant Governor Cherberg quickly and gladly extended a welcome to the visiting lady.

Introductions in legislative chambers usually are routine and perfunctory. This one was not, and we believe the story behind it worth telling.

We can't remember when an introduction sparked such a sincere and ringing ovation.

Standing by their desks, senators on both sides of the aisle went all-out as they vigorously clapped their hands.

Mrs. Happy remained quiet in her seat for a moment, but as the applause reached a rising crescendo she stood up, and with a restrained bow acknowledged the warm welcome she was receiving. Yet we feel sure she would be the first to say that the ovation was—in a very direct way—a tribute to her late husband.

The applause and hand-clapping went on and on.

ALL THE DIFFERENCES WERE WASHED AWAY

We looked out over the Senate floor and guess what? Those who seemed to be clapping the longest and loudest were liberal Democratic senators who never in their careers had voted with the conservative Senator Happy on a controversial issue.

All the differences over political philosophies had washed away.

Every senator on the floor, and their views on many issues are vastly different, showed by the warm expressions on their faces—and by their applause—an eager desire to demonstrate their tremendous admiration and respect for John Happy.

Why this united display of high regard, you may ask? The answer is simple: John Happy was a man of unlimited courage. He was as solid as a rock—a fellow who never wavered from his point of view.

Courage, let us hasten to say, is an all-important commodity in public life. The abundance or lack of it has affected the course of every legislature in the past, it will play a big part in the session now under way, and it will affect the ultimate decisions of all future legislatures.

This writer wished John Happy could have been in his old seat to hear that ovation. I truly do, because during his long service in the Senate he seldom heard cheers.

John Happy fought unceasingly against high spending and high taxes. He could say "No," loud and clear.

Traditionally, pressure groups demanding more and more and more in the way of state "services" fill the Legislative Building every session. Those who would carry the banner for the taxpayer always are outnumbered.

John Happy was not too popular with the pressure people, and he was not the darling of the masses who want a "Santa Claus" government to give everybody everything, regardless of future consequences.

HE STUCK TO HIS GUNS

Sticking to his guns, he voted his convictions fearlessly, and he took some lickings.

John Happy fought against deficits, at local and federal levels, and staunchly maintained that mounting governmental debt is placing an unfair burden on children now growing up.

There was not an ounce of demagoguery in John Happy's body. He disregarded the easy route—political expediency.

No one—but no one—could pressure him into voting for a measure—even though it had great popular appeal—that he didn't think was right.

John Happy was a great admirer of the late Senator Robert Taft. He firmly believed the Ohioan would have made a fine President. And when Republican king-makers gave Taft the go-by, he was bitterly disappointed. Yet he didn't change his course.

Senator Taft's stature has increased since his passing. Before winning the presidency, John F. Kennedy, a Democrat, wrote a book—"Profiles in Courage." In it, Mr. Kennedy included Taft among a very small group of all-time great senators.

Regardless of party affiliations, Mr. Kennedy likes men of courage. Collectively every state senator on the floor the other day displayed the same trait.

John Happy had qualifications for higher office. Yes, even governor. Yet he probably could never have won that office. He was too forthright, too candid.

It is now apparent that John Happy, like Senator Taft, has gained stature in death.

The moral and message of the John Happy story is that the quality of courage is sure to be recognized. Unfortunately, it sometimes comes a little late.

The fact that John Happy was often in the minority and suffered some defeats is not important. What counts is that he fought the good fight—and never quit.

Although he is no longer here, it is satisfying to know that his colleagues—those who were for and against him—remember him with great affection and esteem.

MOTION

Senator Keefe:

"Mr. President:

"I move that the Secretary have Mr. Nelson's article suitably inscribed and sent to Mrs. John Happy."

The President:

"With the unanimous approval of the Senate, it is so ordered.

"Peter, the members of the Senate and the President wish to commend you on the outstanding manner in which you read Mr. Nelson's article."

Thou hast promised, O Father of life, that if any lack wisdom, they should ask of Thee, and Thou will give to all liberally and not upbraid. Thou knowest, our Father, the many baffling and perplexing problems that confront the members of this law making body. Focus, therefore, we pray Thee, the hearts and minds and wills of all upon Him who said, 'I am the way and the truth and the life.' Truly Thou art the way. Without Thee there is no going. Thou art the truth. Without Thee, there is no knowing. Thou art the life. Without Thee, there is no living.

"Grant us all that way to go, that truth to know, that life to live, through the same, Thy Son, Jesus Christ, Our Lord. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

One page 25, section 65, line 30, strike all the material and insert the following:

"Section 27, chapter 21, Laws of 1961 first extraordinary session and RCW 46.52.130 are each amended to read as follows:

The director shall upon request furnish any insurance company or its agent, [business or person] having or considering the issuance of a policy of insurance a certified abstract of the operating record of any person, [where such person has endorsed his consent on such request for the record,] covering a period of not less than five years past, whenever possible, which abstract shall include an enumeration of motor vehicle accidents in which such person has been involved and any reported convictions or forfeitures of bail of such person upon a charge of violating any motor vehicle law. Such enumeration shall include any reports of failure to appear in response to a traffic citation served upon such person by an arresting officer. In addition thereto the director shall furnish such record to the person whose driving record is involved, upon such person's request.

The director shall collect for each such abstract the sum of one dollar fifty cents which shall be deposited in the motor vehicle operators' records revolving fund.

Any insurance company or its agent receiving such certified abstract shall use it exclusively for its own underwriting purposes and shall not divulge any of the information therein contained to a third party.

Any violation of this section shall be a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of one hundred dollars."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Would Senator Washington yield to a question?

"Senator, I am in accordance with part of what you said, but as I read this it says, if I had been injured I could get this information, but as I read the first part, it says the Department, upon request, will furnish any person a certified abstract of the operation record of any person subject to the provisions of the act, which abstract would include so and so and so and so.

"Now, what I would like to point out, under this section, as I read it, I would have the right to write to the Department and send two dollars and find out what kind of driving record my political opponent had and use it. I do not see any safeguards in this section."

Senator Washington:

"Only if he had an accident within the purview of this act. This language is roughly the language in the present act. This is not a change in the law as it is now stated. This has definitely been scrutinized and you have to be involved in an accident. This doesn't apply to just anyone."

Senator Woodall:

"The second section says if you are involved in an accident, but the first portion makes no requirement. It says 'any person subject to the provisions of this act.'"

Senator Washington:

"Yes."

Senator Woodall:

"And that means anyone operating a car, doesn't it?"

Senator Washington:

"No, this has been construed to be one who comes within the operation of the act in case of accident. Now this has been considered, as I understand it, and there has definitely been at least an informal opinion and it has been so construed, that the individual must have had an accident. We discussed this quite thoroughly in committee, and I think the members of the committee, including Senator Freise, a member on the committee, concluded that that is the meaning, so we haven't changed the wording of the previous act on this."

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Woodall, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 4, section 8, line 10, add a new subsection as follows:

"(3) To the driver, if not the owner of the vehicle involved in the accident, if there was in effect at the time of the accident, an automobile liability policy or bond as to which there is a bona fide dispute concerning coverage of such driver as evidenced by the pendency of litigation seeking a declaration of said driver's coverage under such policy or bond."

Re-number subsection (3) as subsection (4) and renumber the remaining subsections consecutively.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Dore, Senator Petrich was excused.

On motion of Senator Herrmann, Senator Durkan was excused.

On motion of Senator Freise, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 25, section 62, line 6, strike "65" and insert "62"

On motion of Senator Washington, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 244 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Senator Washington, as I understand your explanation of this bill, if I were to bump into somebody in an automobile and cause damages in the amount of $100.00, in the event that I paid for that, under the present law, I would be covered. That is, I have satisfied my financial responsibility. Now, under this new proposed law, even though I had paid damages caused to this gentleman's car, I then would have to furnish an insurance policy to cover any future accidents I might have."

Senator Washington:

"That is correct."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Is there anything in here that regulates the rates at which I would have to purchase that insurance?"

Senator Washington:

"No, this bill does not regulate the cost of insurance."

Senator Rasmussen:

"This means, though, that I would have to buy the insurance?"

Senator Washington:

"That is correct."

Senator Rasmussen:

"This would prohibit the License Department from giving me my license until I purchased the insurance, no matter how badly I needed my car to go to work?"

Senator Washington:

"That's right. It's like the dog bite case. You are entitled to the first bite, but you don't get a second bite."

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 244, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 45; nays, 1; absent or not voting, 3.

Those voting yea were: Senators Atwood, Bailey, Charette, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Dore, England, Foley, Foster, Freise, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Guess, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Raugust, Rickdall, Riley, Ryder, Sandison, Talley, Thompson, Jr., Washington, Williams, Woodall—45.

Those voting nay were: Senator Rasmussen—1.

Those absent or not voting were: Senators Durkan, Petrich, Stender—3.

Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 244, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

Providing accident reports to be made immediately to local officials or state patrol.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Washington, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 289 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Would Senator Washington yield?"

"You have only covered half of what you have done. You go ahead and add some new matter whereby at the present time, you have twenty-four hours in which to report an accident. You have added new matter that says you must report immediately and then, within the twenty-four hours, make a written report. You have added new matter, have you not?"

Senator Washington:

"I believe, Senator Woodall, within twenty-four hours the operator shall make a written report."

Senator Woodall:

"No, the part that is underlined. This would require making an immediate report to the police in order to try to get the police out to make an accident report on the scene. That is a new provision which is not law, is that not correct?"

Senator Washington:

"You are correct."

Senator Woodall:

"So, if two people have an accident and mutually agree that they can report it within twenty-four hours, they still have to get the police out on the scene even though the two parties between themselves can agree that they may want to wait and report it the next day?"

Senator Washington:

"I believe that is correct."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Greive, Senate Bill No. 289 was ordered to retain its place on the second reading calendar for tomorrow.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 5, by Senators Washington and Peterson:

Providing for development of simplified forms for securing of information necessary for administration of laws relating to commercial vehicles.

"It is with pleasure that I rise to second the motion to confirm Dr. French's appointment as a member of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education. Most of the members of this body have had a chance to get acquainted with Dr. French and to work with him during his appearances here before committees, and you are well acquainted with him and the work that is being done by Dr. French and Senator Sandison on the Western Interstate Commission. This work has gone a long way toward alleviating the financial problems we have been having in dealing with higher education on the West Coast and, through the efforts of a man like Dr. French and Senator Sandison, this program is moving along very speedily."

Senator Hess:

"I would like to join Senator Neill in urging your support for the confirmation of Dr. French. I will be brief. I know the high regard in which he is held by everyone, but I wanted to make certain that it is clear that this is a genuine support from all over the state for the outstanding leadership Dr. French has given in the area of higher education, and most particularly this sphere of responsibility."

Senator Washington:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"Speaking in favor of the confirmation of Dr. French, there is very little I can add, but his son lives in Ephrata and he is a very close personal friend of mine. I have grown acquainted with Dr. French, not only to know him very well as a man, but for his professional work. I certainly would go along with and request you to vote favorably for his appointment."

"Our Father God we thank Thee in Thy great goodness that Thou hast permitted us to see the dawn of another day, another Ash Wednesday, the beginning of another Sacred season of Lent. In penitence and faith, may we this day in spirit take our place beneath the cross of Jesus.

"Lord, we confess our numerous faults. How great our guilt has been. Foolish and vain were all our thoughts and all our lives were sin. 'Tis by the purchase of his death who hung upon a tree, the spirit is sent down to breathe on such dry bones as we.'

"Spirit of the living God, fall afresh on us. Melt us, mold us, fill us, use us, make this day a day of opportunity to serve Thee and our fellow men. Give strength for our tasks, wisdom for our responsibilities, faith to live in Thy sight.

"Whatever we do in word or deed this day, may we do it in the name of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Senate Bill No. 93, by Senators Dore, Talley and Ryder:
Changing urban renewal procedure.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Bill No. 93:

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., February 19, 1963.

Changing urban renewal procedure (reported by Committee on Cities, Towns and Counties):

MAJORITY recommends that it do pass with the following amendment:

In section 1, lines 9 and 10, after "learning" strike "or nonprofit benevolent or charitable corporation or association"

DON L. TALLEY, Chairman.

We concur in this report: R. Frank Atwood, Joe Chytil, Frank Connor, Victor F. DeGarmo, Dewey C. Donohue, Jack England, Sam C. Guess, Al Henry, Andy Hess, Ted G. Peterson, John A. Petrich, Edward F. Riley.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

Senator Dore moved that the committee amendment be not adopted.

Debate ensued.

Senator Hallauer moved that the committee amendment be adopted.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Dore:

"Mr. President:

"Point of order. I think both motions are of the same order so I think we must vote first on the motion not to adopt."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Dore, deciding the point of order, the motion as presented by Senator Hallauer is of a positive nature, and it has been the custom of the Senate to place a positive motion before a negative one. The question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the committee amendment be adopted."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"As I read this present language, it says, 'all nonprofit, benevolent or charitable organizations.'

"Now, the Elks' Lodge is a benevolent organization so unless this amendment is adopted, you could take private property and turn it over to the Elks' Club or the American Legion or any organization that is incorporated under the nonprofit category, is that true?"

Senator Dore:

"Well, Senator Woodall, maybe I could ask you a question in reverse: What I was fearful about was whether or not the language, 'institutions of higher learning' included both public and private institutions. It may be that if you strike the word 'charitable,' the courts might interpret it not to include institutions of higher learning. My thought was not to adopt the amendment. It is strictly permissive legislation anyway. The municipality can only sell to an abutting owner after a fair market value has been established and a public hearing held. I don't think the public would stand for the acquisition of private land in order to turn it over to any club.

"In answer to your question, yes, I assume if the appropriate situation arose, they could sell to the Elks' Club, but this is permissive. They would still have a right not to do it. I was originally going to hold the bill over and get an opinion from the Attorney General as to what is meant by an 'institution of higher learning.'"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Washington:

"Would Senator Dore yield?"

"In the operation of urban renewal, after the land is acquired in the normal course of affairs by urban renewal, then what becomes of the property ordinarily?"

Senator Dore:

"It should be used for the purpose for which it was condemned. Sometimes, of course, there is a surplus of land which needs to be disposed. Originally, they had to sell to the highest bidder, but this would enable them to negotiate with these various parties mentioned in the statute. I think it would be unfortunate if in the Seattle University area they negotiated with a third party to build a private office building in the middle of the Seattle University campus, which may happen if the amendment of Senator Freise is adopted. I am not too certain because the amendment is not before us, but I wanted to eliminate that so there would be no question about it. That was my purpose in asking not to have this amendment adopted."

Senator Washington:

"One further question:

"Actually it is essential as part of the urban renewal program that we do acquire property by condemnation and that it then is turned over to private industry for building on the basis of competitive bid. So there is inherent in the whole field of urban renewal the idea of condemnation and use by private persons, is that right?"

Senator Dore:

"That's right."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Stender:

"Senator Dore:

"You say that you could see no difference between the private institution of learning and the public institution a moment ago. Now isn't it true that one is under the directorship and control of a public group and the other is under the control of a private group?"

Senator Dore:

"Well, yes."

Senator Washington:

"It's all for a private purpose."

Senator Stender:

"Well, one is in the interest of the public and one is in the interest of a private group."

Senator Dore:

"I don't quite follow you, Senator. They are both interested in educating our students."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McCutcheon:

"Would Senator Freise yield?"

"I am confused. Isn't this just getting rid of property that the public uses to anybody? I have no conception that you are condemning property for the Lutheran schools or Catholic schools or anything else."

Senator Freise:

"Well, in this particular case, Senator, you may own an apartment house. The urban renewal has the power to decide that they are going to do away with the property. It may be a fire threat. Rather than have you remove the property, they condemn it and turn right around and turn it over to a private or a charitable or parochial institution. This is anti-American. This has happened. Millions of dollars worth of downtown property in St. Louis, for example, has been turned over to the St. Louis University. They have vacated millions of dollars worth of property on streets right in downtown St. Louis and turned it over to St. Louis University. This should not happen in the state of Washington."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Without compensation?"

Senator Freise:

"At a very nominal compensation. At the present time the Edward Hines Hospital outside of Chicago, Illinois, extremely valuable government property, is being turned over to the Loyola University Board for pennies on the dollar."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Will Senator Dore yield?"

"Senator Dore, to your knowledge, are these urban renewal projects condemning more land than they want to use for the urban renewal?"

Senator Dore:

"I would say they wouldn't do that. That would be an extravagance of public funds. You can only condemn for a public purpose. Then if you don't quite use all the land in the comprehensive plan, they can, of course, sell to anyone who wants it on competitive bid. This bill would simply enable them to negotiate for the fair market value after public hearing to various parties. I think it is in the interest of all of us if perhaps the municipality could take into consideration to sell land at a fair market price to those bodies who can best help the entire community. I think it is perhaps true that our libraries, schools, parks and things of that nature perhaps are more beneficial to the entire city than to Mr. Joe Blow who is just going to use it for his own private purpose. This is merely enabling legislation. It doesn't take away the basic concept behind condemnation that it can only be for a public purpose. This is just a question whereby, after you have some land left and you want to sell it and get the money back into the treasury of the municipality, that they would have the right to negotiate with anyone, whether it be private or public persons."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Riley:

"I wonder if Senator Freise would yield to a question?"

"Senator, you have expressed concern about turning over certain land to colleges, and specifically the name of Seattle University has been mentioned. As far as you know, does the Seattle University receive any funds, any moneys from any church?"

Senator Freise:

"From what I read in the paper, I understand it is a Jesuit Institution and I believe it is an arm of the Catholic Church."

Senator Riley:

"You are correct in that part, but may I say that Seattle University does not receive any money from the Catholic Church or any other church."

Senator Freise:

"I hope that's true. At least, it doesn't receive any funds from the public treasury, either."

The motion was carried and the committee amendment was adopted.

On page 1, section 1, line 9, after "any" and before "institution" insert "public"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"In today's P.I. there is a well written article by Stub Nelson on the various schemes of reapportionment. The schemes enumerated dwindle down into insignificance in proportion to the real issue before the people in the state regarding the initiative right.

"Thigpen v. Meyers, U.S. District Court No. 5597, by judicial fiat, runs roughshod over the will of the people, in whom all political power inheres.

"Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, one right the people did not consent to was the right to be governed without recourse. Thus the people wisely reserved the right of referendum. Nor did the people of this state surrender the right to initiate and declare policy directly through the initiative. And they exercise their legislative will as surely when they reject as when they elect.

"The Courts said: 'We have no way of knowing whether the measure was defeated because a majority did not desire reapportionment or whether they didn't approve of the proposed method or whether they didn't understand it (there were numerous other complicated matters on the ballot) or whether the opponents were better organized than the proponents.'

"How can the Court cast a vote for the stay-at-home, how can the Court indict the people by suggesting that the people did not understand? How can the Court indict the people by impugning the motives of the people? How can the Court, speculating on the myriad of possibilities for the vote on 211, disregard it? The people are the jury. The rationalization, however reasonable or unreasonable in the eyes of the Court, should inhere in the verdict of the people.

"None of the illustrious judges would allow counsel or a party litigant to impugn the jury or consider affidavits speculating about the credibility of the evidence, the sufficiency, the weight.

"It is presumptuous indeed for the Court to suggest that the people are less than supreme in this republican form of government. The people may be crude; but, they are nonetheless sincere. It is they who have been the moving force in all of our great crusades for freedom. In the Habeas Corpus Act, the Magna Carta, the Bill of Rights, and our own Declaration of Independence.

"Now we have finally reached the point where we should put the Courts to the test, to learn whether our learned brethren have at last reached that point where in democracy you cannot trust the people.

"Surely the Court cannot take the position that the right of the people to govern themselves means the right of the people to govern themselves in the way the district Court finds.

"And so let us not worry too much if we fail to agree upon a bill any more than our constituents. Let the Supreme Court tell us that what the people do is meaningless, if that be their position. I, for one, am confident that the Court, faced with the issue, will decide that the people's vote on Initiative 211 was, in fact, redistricting, accomplished by the legislative authority of the state through the repository of all legislative and indeed all governmental power, namely, the people."

Senate Bill No. 242, by Senators Hallauer and Petrich:

Prescribing procedure for disqualification of judges.

On motion of Senator Petrich, Substitute Senate Bill No. 242 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 242 and Substitute Bill No. 242 was placed on second reading and read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Petrich, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 242 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Dore:

"Would Senator Petrich yield to a question?

"Senator, I'm not too familiar with the bill but under the present statute you can only file one affidavit of prejudice. Does this bill make a special category out of one judge, circuits so that they can file endless affidavits of prejudice and never bring the matter to trial? Does this expand that right? It seems to me offhand that it would. As the law is now, you can file one affidavit against the first judge and then you are stuck with the second one. You can't file a second affidavit, but under this bill, in one judge counties, can you now endlessly file affidavits against any judge that may come to hear the case?"

Senator Petrich:

"Senator, in response to your question, there isn't any expansion of the right to file an affidavit of prejudice. One affidavit may be filed. It does provide a different means of selecting a substitute judge. That's all."

Senator Dore:

"Well, for the Journal, then, this bill still has the same rule as applied to all other counties, that a party may file only one affidavit of prejudice and he is limited to that?"

Senator Petrich:

"Right."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen:

"Point of personal privilege, Mr. President:

"Mr. President, I was attempting to get the floor to speak on this concurrent resolution and the body cut me off."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Gallagher:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"It may have been that Senator Rasmussen was attempting to get the floor, but the previous question had been demanded and he now wishes to debate the merits of the resolution."

Senator Rasmussen:

"I have no desire to debate the merits of the resolution."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Ruling upon the point of order presented by Senator Gallagher, the President believes the point of order is well taken. The previous question had been requested. The previous question had been sustained and the Senate rules provide that the main question be placed immediately after the Senate has sustained the previous question. I believe that was a proper course of action."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President (Interruption)"

The President:

"And, further, Senator, on the point of personal privilege, if you wish a definition, the President has a statement prepared to read on the point of personal privilege, if the members desire to hear it."

MOTION

Senator McCutcheon:

"I move the President read his statement so we will know where we stand."

The motion was carried.

The Secretary read:

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

Personal Privilege

"Questions of privilege shall be, first, those affecting the rights of the Senate collectively, its safety, dignity, and the integrity of its proceedings; second, the rights, reputation, and conduct of members individually in their representative capacity only.

"The object of the rule was to prevent the large consumption of time which resulted from members getting the floor for all kinds of speeches under the pretext of personal privilege.

"Apparently, the rule was adopted to limit speeches, rather than extend more excuses for members to get on their feet. This rule dates back to 1880. However, the rule of the Senate is:

"Rule 25: Any Senator may rise to a question of privilege and explain a matter personal to himself by leave of the President, but he shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations, nor shall any question of personal privilege permit any Senator to introduce any person or persons in the galleries. Provided: The President, upon notice received, may acknowledge the presence of any group without applause from the Senate.

"Personal privilege, then, would be: 'a right of a Senator to rise and defend an attack on himself in a representative capacity made by another Senator, or anyone else either privately or publicly.'

"The rule would not permit a member to rise and make a derogatory remark but only to rebut one."

The President:

"The President believes the statement is quite clear, Senator Rasmussen, and if the President's memory is correct, the proceedings this morning certainly have not caused any attack on you."

MOTION

Senator McCutcheon moved that the Senate proceed in order.

The motion was carried.

JOHN A. CHERBERG, President of the Senate.

FORTY-SEVENTH DAY

MORNING SESSION

SENATE CHAMBER,
OLYMPIA, WASH., Friday, March 1, 1963.

The Senate was called to order at 10:30 a.m. by President Cherberg.

The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Fred Myers, Color Bearer, and Marye Fuller, presented the Colors.

Reverend Arthur Anderson, pastor of the Gloria Dei Lutheran Church of Olympia, offered prayer as follows:

"Our Lord, Thou hast said that they who wait upon Thee shall renew their strength. They shall mount up with wings like eagles. They shall run and not be weary. They shall walk and not faint. In accordance with Thy promise, we do now wait for Thee. Speak, Lord, to each of us during these prayer moments. Give us the hearing, that we may have the toning of those who are taught. Give us the obedient will, taking heed how we hear, that our people may know length of days and years of life and abundant welfare. Make us constantly and increasingly aware of the praise paid for our goodly heritage that out of deep gratitude we may do our utmost to pass it on, not blemished or diminished, but enhanced and enlarged.

"Bless now, we pray Thee, the members of this assembly who by virtue of their office represent both themselves and their fellow citizens. Bless them. Make them a blessing this day, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

On motion of Senator Greive, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

Senator Petrich moved the adoption of the following amendment:

In section 1, page 1, line 8, insert "break and" after "shall" and before "enter"

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gallagher:

"Would Senator Gissberg yield to a question before we proceed?"

Senator Gissberg:

"I'll defer to Senator Woodall."

Senator Gallagher:

"Senator Woodall, as I now interpret the language, it would appear to me that where somebody shall break and enter and, having committed a crime therein, shall break out of the tent, booth, locked motor vehicle, room or other structure wherein any property, including money or coin devices or currency receptacles is kept for use, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor."

Senator Woodall:

"You read correctly."

Senator Gallagher:

"I know in the earlier bill which you introduced with co-sponsors, there was some question about certain booths in lavatories where there were coin receptacles and in emergency cases it sometimes was necessary, where one did not have the proper change, that people have, without any intent to commit burglary, slipped under the doors. I notice that you later introduced a substitute bill. Now, I want to be assured that these people that I have reference to are not under any stretch of any imagination included in the penalty area of this bill."

Senator Woodall:

"Thank you. I think I understand your question. I am surprised that you are now assuming the roll which normally is asserted by Senator Rasmussen. I see he is not on the floor.

"I will say this: That the committee was very much impressed by your forceful presentation of these matters when you appeared in Judiciary Committee. It was one of your more forceful presentations. They were touched with your tale of woe and, as we say, in most if not all laws, there is a loop hole, and Senator Riley has just suggested that that is an escape clause. I feel that you need have no fears over any emergency situation you might ever be put to."

(Laughter.)

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Senator Gissberg moved that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the amendment by Senator Petrich to Senate Bill No. 491 was adopted.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Henry:

"Will Senator Petrich yield to a question?

"Senator, is it your contention that this amendment will place anybody under the burglary statute who goes into a booth with the idea of breaking machinery and extorting money therefrom?"

Senator Petrich:

"Senator, this provision doesn't call for the making of a burglary offense, but it is simply to a burglary offense. I frankly cannot answer that particular question. It may very well be that breaking a coin box itself, would be enough to constitute the offense. I think without my amendment, however, you are opening up a completely new field, establishing a new crime, which I don't think the members of this body want to do. It may be we ought to have a further amendment to have some provision for breaking the receptacle, but I think exploring a new type of crime is not what this body wants to do. I think that would be an ill-advised procedure."

Senator Woodall moved that Senate Bill No. 491 retain its place at the head of tomorrow's calendar for second reading.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"I would like to see this bill held over if, and only if, the motion to reconsider the amendment which has now been placed will still be in order tomorrow. I now make that inquiry as a point of parliamentary inquiry."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President is of the opinion that your motion to reconsider would be in order tomorrow, Senator."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"The motion I have made will still be pending?"

The President:

"The motion will be pending when Senate Bill No. 491 comes before the Senate for consideration."

The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that Senate Bill No. 491 take its place at the head of the second reading calendar for tomorrow.

On motion of Senator Greive, the rules were suspended and Senator Hallauer was permitted to close debate.

The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the amendment by Senator Hallauer be laid upon the table.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

The undersigned voted "nay" on Senate Bill No. 233 because we believe that the continuous operation of public utility districts is in the essential public interest and that the right to strike such utility should not be granted by the legislature.

It was clearly stated on the floor of the Senate that Senate Bill No. 233 was intended to nullify the Supreme Court decision of Port of Seattle v. International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, 52 Wn. 2d 317, as it applies to public utility districts.

We wish to state clearly that this was our sole purpose in voting "nay" and that we have in the past and will continue in the future to consider the plight of the working man with sympathy.

CHARLES P. MORIARTY, JR.
WALTER B. WILLIAMS

MOTION

Senator Riley moved that the Senate Chambers be made available Wednesday evening for approximately two hours between 6:00 and 8:00 p. m. for use by the Pages and employees of the Senate for a mock session.

The motion was carried.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Woodall:

"Mr. President, point of personal privilege:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate, I hold in my hand an article appearing in the Aberdeen Daily World under the date of Thursday, February 28, which compels me to make some remarks about it.

"Never in the time that I have been here have so many untrue statements been uttered about a particular bill than the Indian jurisdiction bill and a culmination of all of the untruths is in this particular article to which I have reference.

"I think it might be worthwhile to chronologically get, once and for all, some of the truth out. Now this particular article is under the by-line of Eldon Barrett and it carries this caption, 'Redistricting Deal Springs Indian Bill.' I would quote from this article:

"A behind the scenes deal involving legislative redistricting was the lever that sprung the controversial Indian bill out of the House Judiciary Committee, United Press International learned today.'

"So I went to this gentleman and asked, 'From whom did you learn these great things?' He said:

" 'Well, it's all over the House.'

" 'What house?'"

Senator Riley:

"The outhouse."

Senator Woodall:

"The outhouse would be a good place for this because I think some of the thinking that goes into this contemptible article could only come from such a source. Continuing, however, I said: 'Where?'

" 'Well, some of the Senators.'

" 'You mean some of the Republican Senators?'

" 'No, some House members.'

"So, I went over to the House side. I asked Representative Canfield, who was one of the two Republicans who worked with the ladies on Initiative 211, what he knew of this thing and he said, 'There's nothing to it.'

"Now, let's go further and read what is in this contemptible article. 'The Indian bill was stashed away in a three man subcommittee for safekeeping and although the subcommittee never held a formal meeting, the measure came up before the entire committee and was voted out. Then it was whisked away to the Rules Committee. Exact details of the deal were not revealed.'

"This is a sample of the contemptible use that the free press can be put to. You talk about a deal and then, 'What is the deal?' 'No exact details.' Now, if it's worth reporting about, why not put out details of the alleged deal?

"Now, let's go further with what it says: 'The move occurred with such speed that Indian lobbyists didn't know what happened until it was too late to muster their forces.'

"Now, let's get a little case history on this bill. This matter was under study by the Legislative Council for the last two years. The bill was written back in last October, was presented to the Legislative Council, was held up until the November meeting at the request of Senator Kupka; the measure was adopted by the Legislative Council in December, was introduced into this legislature, it being Senate Bill No. 56. It came in on the third day of the session. The bill was thoroughly explored by committee hearings. The bill was debated and discussed on the floor. The bill then went over to the House, and I have asked the chairman of that particular committee to chronologically detail what happened over there, and in case someone is interested in truth instead of spectacular falsehoods, here is what happened:

"February 12, the bill was referred to the House Judiciary Committee. February 13, it was placed on the calendar of the Judiciary Committee for hearing on the 19th. February 14, notice of hearing was prepared and mailed to all interested persons. February 19, committee hearing commenced at 8:40 and ended at 9:50. All sponsors and other interested legislators and interested members of the public were there, and present at this were the same Indian lobbyists who had appeared all during the time we had the hearings previously when they were heard in the Senate. The same ones appeared and the same amendments were suggested all over again.

"On the 20th, the bill was considered in executive session by a subcommittee consisting of Representatives Gorton, Uhlman and Earley to consider various amendments suggested by those speaking at the hearing. February 26, six days later, a subcommittee reported that certain suggested amendments were put in draft form and these amendments were available in the committee room, and they were to be considered at tomorrow's meeting of the committee

"February 27th, executive session held at 8:30 a. m., continued until 2:30 p. m. At both meetings various amendments were discussed and passed upon, including the suggested revision of the bill proposed under Spokane tribes' and other's suggestions.

"February 28th, official signatures had been obtained and bill transmitted to the Chief Clerk.

"Now, that covers a span from the 12th of February to the 28th day of February, which I suggest does not bear out the allegation of something being 'speedily whisked through.' There was no mystery about this bill.

"Let's read further now in this article: 'Exact details of the deal were not revealed.' Of course not because there was no deal, and I challenge him to get the details of this deal, if such a deal there be 'But they involved redistricting in Yakima County where Senator Perry Woodall, Republican, Toppenish, resides and practices law.' I'm glad at least they got two things straight. I live there and I do practice law.

"'Woodall is the prime mover of the Indian bill' Senator Hallauer resents that part of your article because he is just as much a mover of this as I am. However, I am proud to stand on that I was Chairman of the Judiciary subcommittee that considered it in Legislative Council.

"'Woodall is the prime mover of the Indian bill, a measure that would put all of Washington's redmen under paleface laws The move occurred with such speed that the Indian lobbyists were cut off, they didn't know what happened to them, too late to muster forces. Now the object of the deal was to bring the Senate more in line with the House thinking on redistricting. Woodall would have influence in the matter because he is minority floor leader with sixteen other Republicans. The current House version . . . ' and here's the silly part of the whole article 'the current House version of the redistricting proposal would give Yakima Tri-city area another Senator and an additional House member and, of course, that also would give the Yakima delegation, all Republican, additional incentive to work for the House proposal.'

"Now, how silly can you get? A measure to give Yakima County more representation would make Yakima County people want to vote for the Indian bill which they were for in the first place.

"Then it goes on to say, 'Senator Robert Greive, who is putting together the Senate redistricting bill, said he had heard a deal had been made but it didn't worry him too much.' Well, it shouldn't. He's got the votes. 'The Senate Democratic floor leader also pointed out he had voted for Woodall's Indian bill,' and so on.

"Now, let us get something straight. No one asked me about a deal. I started coming here in 1939. This is the first time, I guess there is a first time for all of us and maybe I have been overdue, this is the first time my name has been written up in a newspaper linking it with some kind of a deal, and any man who links my name with a deal either is an alien to the truth or an enemy of it, and I challenge this man who uses his freedom of the press to link my name with a deal to get the details of the deal and who is in it, to name these people. But hiding behind immunity of the press, he makes a remark that there is some kind of a deal that sprung this bill out of committee.

"I checked with Representative Canfield, whom I have known since boyhood when he taught agriculture at Yakima High School. He tells me that there was not one word of discussion between himself and Slade Gorton concerning anything about redistricting while the Indian bill was there.

"Now let me explain to you a little coincidence which possibly fostered someone to pull some mental gymnastics. It so happened that Slade Gorton was on the subcommittee of the Legislative Council all during this last two years. I didn't put him there. Speaker of the House John O'Brien put him on the committee. Because he had served on that committee, Mr. Anderson made him Chairman of the subcommittee on this matter of the amendments to this bill. Coincidentally, he is of course chairman of the redistricting committee. I don't think that proves anything, and I want to say this: I have checked with my Yakima County delegation. I have checked with Mr. Gorton. They tell me, and I happen to believe them, that the word of redistricting never was discussed nor did it ever enter into anything about bringing this bill out of committee, and I know that I never discussed redistricting with anybody. I'm not worried about it. I happen to come from Yakima County and, if people will only tell the truth about me, I don't care what part of Yakima County they put into my district. I'm not worried about that. The only thing I am worried about is those who will not tell the truth of me.

"I say this is an infamous article, ill-conceived, wrongfully inspired, and put out with a design to do me an injustice; and he who says that my vote on any issue has ever been based upon any deal is either a fool or a liar."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President, a matter of personal privilege:

"I would like to add my voice to that of Senator Woodall in this instance in regard to the chronicling of events in the House. I happened to be a co-sponsor of the measure referred to. I had my own reasons because of local problems in the area of Indian jurisdiction, to have kept a close watch on the measure in the House and inquired of members of the Judiciary Committee there. Senator Woodall is entirely correct in his recitation of the facts of this case. I think any good reporter could have ascertained these facts if he had inquired directly. This obviously was not done.

"Now this bill did go to a subcommittee in the Judiciary Committee of the House. What developed there was simply the matter of adding some amendments offered by the Assistant Attorney General of the United States. These are technical amendments and there was nothing in the way of a deal at any time."

"Oh Lord, Our God, when I in awesome wonder consider all the worlds Thy hands have made, I see the stars, I hear the rolling thunder, Thy power throughout the Universe displayed, then sings my soul, Our Creator God, to Thee. And when I think that God, His Son not sparing, sent Him to die, I scarce can take it in that on a cross, my burden gladly bearing, he bled and died to take away my sin. Then sings my soul, My Saviour God, to Thee: How great Thou art! How great Thou art!

"In the Sacred silence of these prayer moments, may Thy greatness and goodness mold us and make us after Thy will. Grant us Thy Grace this day to think without confusion, clearly, to act from honest motives purely, to love our fellow men sincerely, to trust in Thee in Heaven securely, through Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen."

Imposing excise tax on fuel used for propulsion of marine watercraft, licensing certain distributors and disposing of revenue therefrom.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

Senate Chamber,
Olympia, Wash., February 28, 1963.

Senate Bill No. 380:

Imposing excise tax on fuel used for propulsion of marine watercraft, licensing certain distributors and disposing of revenue therefrom (reported by Committee on Ways and Means):

Recommends that it do pass with the following amendment:

On page 26, add new sections following section 42 to read as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 43. The provisions of this act requiring the payment of taxes shall not apply to marine fuel delivered exclusively for commercial or industrial marine use by a distributor directly into fuel tanks connected to the engine of any marine vessel owned or operated by the purchaser of the fuel: Provided, That such purchaser holds at the time of the delivery a permit issued pursuant to the provisions of section 44 of this act. Each invoice covering such sale shall have the statement, 'Ex Washington Marine Fuel Tax' clearly marked thereon.

In support of the aforementioned exemption the distributor shall obtain from the person so purchasing the marine fuel, and retain in his possession, an exemption certificate in such form and detail as the director may require. The certificate shall contain a statement signed by the purchaser of the fuel to the effect that the fuel so purchased will be used solely for commercial or industrial marine use. The distributor may either obtain a separate exemption certificate from the purchaser for each delivery of fuel thereto or he may obtain one certificate covering all deliveries made to such purchaser during any given calendar month.

Sections 47 and 48 of this act relating to records and the examination of records shall also apply to the exemption claimed by any person who purchases marine fuel under the provisions of this section.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 44. Any person desiring to claim a refund shall obtain a permit from the director by application therefor on such form as he shall prescribe, which application shall contain, among other things, the name and address of the applicant, the nature of the business and a sufficient description for identification of the vessels and equipment in which the marine fuel is to be used, for which refund may be claimed under the permit. The permit shall bear a permit number and all applications for refund shall bear the number of the permit under which it is claimed. The director shall keep a permanent record of all permits issued and a cumulative record of the amount of refund claimed and paid thereunder. Such permit shall be obtained before or at the time that the first application for refund is made under the provisions of this act. At the time of filing an application for a refund permit, the applicant shall pay to the director a permit fee of one dollar, which shall be deposited in the marine facilities account of the outdoor recreational fund. All information supplied by the applicant shall be under oath. All permits shall expire on the thirty-first day of March of every even-numbered year.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 45. Any dealer who delivers marine fuel exclusively for commercial marine use into the fuel tanks connected to the engine of any commercial marine vessel owned or operated by the purchaser of the fuel, said dealer having paid the tax on such fuel levied or directed to be paid as provided in this act, either directly by the collection of such tax by the vendor from the dealer or indirectly by the adding of the amount of the tax to the price of such fuel, shall be entitled to and shall be refunded the amount of the tax so paid. The refund shall be applicable only if the person to whom the dealer sold the fuel holds a permit issued pursuant to the provisions of section 44 of this act at the time of sale. Each invoice covering such sale shall have the statement, 'Ex Washington Marine Fuel Tax,' clearly marked thereon.

The dealer shall file a certificate supporting such refund in such form and detail as the director may require. The certificate shall contain a statement signed by the purchaser of the fuel to the effect that the fuel so purchased will be used solely for commercial marine use. The dealer may either file a separate certificate obtained from the purchaser for each delivery of fuel thereto or he may file one certificate covering all deliveries made to such purchaser during any given calendar month.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 46. If any person who purchases marine fuel exclusive of tax under the provisions of section 43 and 45 of this act uses or permits such fuel to be used for purposes other than commercial marine use as set forth in this act, he shall immediately become liable for the marine fuel tax imposed thereon and shall for a period of five years thereafter become ineligible for any permit under section 44 of this act.

The director is hereby empowered with full authority to promulgate rules and regulations and to prescribe forms necessary for the enforcement of the provisions relating to such sales and use of marine fuel.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 47. Any person claiming refund on marine fuel used and any person purchasing marine fuel from a dealer who is claiming refund from a dealer on account of the sale of such fuel under section 45 of this act may be required by the director to also furnish information regarding the amount of marine fuel purchased from other sources or for other purposes during the period reported for which no refund is claimed.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 48. Upon the approval of the director of the claim for refund, the state treasurer shall draw a warrant upon the state treasury for the amount of the claim in favor of the person making such claim and the warrant shall be paid from the marine facilities account. Applications for refunds of the tax shall be filed in the office of the director not later than the close of the last business day of a period thirteen months from the date of purchase of such motor fuel, and if not filed within this period the right to refund shall be forever barred. Any person or the member of any firm or the officer or agent of any corporation who makes any false statement in any claim required for the refund of the tax, as provided in this act, or who collects or causes to be repaid to him or to any other person any such refund without being entitled to the same under the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 49. The director may in order to establish the validity of any claim for refund require the claimant, or, in the case of a dealer filing a claim for refund as provided by section 45 of this act, the person to whom such fuel was sold, to furnish such additional proof of the validity of the claim as the director may determine, and may examine the books and records of the claimant or said person to whom the fuel was sold for such purpose. The records shall be sufficient to substantiate the accuracy of the claim and shall be in such form and contain such information as the director may require. The failure to maintain such records or to accede to a demand for an examination of such records may be deemed by the director as sufficient cause for denial of all right to the refund claimed on account of the transaction in question."

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

I wish to comment on the referral of House Bill No. 43 from the Committee on Natural Resources to the Committee on State Government. SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

The time having arrived, the President stated the special order of business to be consideration of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 380 on second reading.

Engrossed Senate Bill No. 380, by Senators Hanna, DeGarmo and Ryder (by Executive request):

Imposing excise tax on fuel used for propulsion of marine watercraft, licensing certain distributors and disposing of revenue therefrom.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

Senator Durkan moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 29, add a new section as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 50. Any person who uses any marine fuel for the purpose of operating an internal combustion engine for commercial or industrial marine use, upon which the marine fuel tax has been paid, shall be entitled to and shall receive a refund of the amount of the marine fuel tax paid on each gallon of marine fuel so used, whether such marine fuel tax has been paid either directly to the vendor from whom the marine fuel was purchased or indirectly by adding the amount of such tax to the price of such fuel."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen:

"Would Senator Durkan yield?"

"Senator Durkan, this amendment in effect if adopted, will make available merely the unclaimed gas tax for marine use?"

Senator Durkan:

"This amendment doesn't even apply to the unclaimed use. This amendment takes off all commercial users of marine fuel, such as oyster growers who buy gas and use it in collection of oysters. It was our intention in the subcommittee to make the amendment inclusive to industry and commercial growers. When it was sent to the Ways and Means Committee, this exemption provision was inadvertently left out. This will now exempt all persons who use any marine fuel for the operation of commercial vessels."

Senator Rasmussen:

"You don't have the amendment for people that use marine fuel on boats and tie up in mooring places?"

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President:

"The answer to that is that they are not exempt and we discussed this yesterday."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gallagher:

"I wonder if Senator Durkan would yield to another question. In your definition for industrial use, what effect would that have upon a commercial boathouse who rents to others for both commercial and for pleasure use?"

Senator Durkan:

"It depends entirely upon the use. If it is put to a commercial use, they would be exempt. If it is rented for a pleasure craft, they would collect the 7½ cents tax. If it is rented for a commercial use, then the exemption applies. The question is not as to whether you rent or own your own boat, but the purpose to which it is put, whether pleasure or commercial."

Senator Gallagher:

"Senator Durkan, this leads me into a position where I am not so sure I can support the amendment because I know of people who have charter boats who can go and get a so-called commercial fishing license. I think around Neah Bay they cost a dollar or two, and they could get a license in order to get above the limit of the fish catch. Now, if this is going to permit those people to avoid paying this tax, I think we should tighten up a little bit."

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President, Senator Gallagher:

"Of course there are many ways in which you can obstruct justice and avert the law. The purpose of every law that is drafted is that these people will comply with the law and in the event they don't, there are measures which can be taken to see that they do. This is not intended to permit people to obstruct the intent of the legislature. If it is used for pleasure, the tax applies."

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

Senator Guess moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 3, section 2, line 22, strike "two" and insert "one".

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Greive, the amendment was laid upon the table.

Senator Williams moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 3, section 2, line 16, after the period following the word "fund" insert "No expenditures shall be made from the marine facilities account without prior legislative appropriation designating the particular project for which the sums are appropriated."

Debate ensued.

Senator Greive moved that the amendment be laid upon the table.

Senator Woodall demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Raugust, Neill, Moriarty, Jr., Peterson, Bailey, Kupka, Knoblauch and Chytil.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll, and the amendment by Senator Williams was laid upon the table by the following vote: Yeas, 26; nays, 23; absent or not voting, 0.

Those voting yea were: Senators Bailey, Charette, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Durkan, Foley, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Sandison, Talley, Washington—26.

Those voting nay were: Senators Atwood, Chytil, Dore, England, Foster, Freise, Guess, Lennart, Mardesich, Morgan, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Petrich, Rasmussen, Raugust, Rickdall, Riley, Ryder, Stender, Thompson, Jr., Williams, Woodall—23.

Senator Rasmussen moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 26, section 40, line 6, add “, provided any person may claim a refund if the amount exceeds five dollars.”

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Greive, the amendment was laid upon the table.

Senator Mardesich moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 3, section 2, line 16, after the period following the word “fund” insert “No expenditures shall be made from the marine facilities account without prior approval of the Legislative Budget Committee.”

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Greive, the amendment was laid upon the table.

Senator Petrich moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 10, section 10, line 25, after “distributors” and before the period insert “: Provided, That where such fuel is imported into this state in fixed fuel tanks of a marine watercraft, one hundred gallons of such fuel shall be exempt from the provisions of this section.”

Debate ensued.

The motion was carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Durkan, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 380 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

“Would Senator Durkan yield?”

“Senator Durkan, as the bill now stands, these particular advisers who are chosen solely because of their interest in boating, are advisers only to make recommendations to the Governor, is that correct?”

Senator Durkan:

“We are speaking about Senate Bill No. 380?”

Senator Woodall:

“Yes, which spends the money.”

Senator Durkan:

“Yes.”

Senator Woodall:

"And the Governor solely without consultation and without any other person or group, makes the sole decision as to where the money is going, is that correct?"

Senator Durkan:

"The answer is, yes, we believe in a strong executive type branch of government and this is the responsibility of the Governor, and he is going to answer to the people if it is abused."

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Re-Engrossed Senate Bill No. 380, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 34; nays, 14; absent or not voting, 1.

Those voting yea were: Senators Bailey, Charette, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Durkan, England, Foley, Gallagher, Gissberg, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, Kupka, Lennart, McCormack, McCutcheon, McMillan, Morgan, Moriarty, Jr., Peterson, Petrich, Riley, Ryder, Sandison, Stender, Talley, Thompson, Jr.—34.

Those voting nay were: Senators Atwood, Chytil, Dore, Foster, Freise, Guess, Mardesich, Neill, Rasmussen, Raugust, Rickdall, Washington, Williams, Woodall—14.

Those absent or not voting were: Senator Henry—1.

Re-Engrossed Senate Bill No. 380, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, I rise to a point of personal privilege."

The President:

"The Senator will state his point of personal privilege."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate, and Senator Rasmussen:

"I am on my feet to protest as strongly as I know how the statements that Senator Rasmussen made on television last night. Up until this point I have not commented upon or entered into this discussion on the Senate floor, because I have felt to do so would not lend dignity to this Chamber. However, I have now been attacked by him, as well as has every other honorable attorney sitting in this chamber.

"Last night he made a statement to the effect that 'they are all in on it,' in which he was referring to moneys paid to lawyers of the Senate by clients interested in legislation. That statement of his is a malicious lie. Thousands upon thousands of people in this state have heard that statement made by him, and I want to say that for myself, and I know that I speak for most of the other attorneys sitting in this room, that I don't represent anybody in this Legislature except the people of my legislative district, for which they pay me the sum of one hundred dollars per month. Of course the additional reward that I have had over the years has been the knowledge that I have enjoyed the respect, if not the support, of the people in my community.

"Senator Rasmussen, by the use of his black tar brush and shotgun approach, has intentionally and wilfully smeared every lawyer sitting in the Senate, and his statement last night was simply appalling to me. The reputations of the honest, honorable, and devoted attorneys sitting in this chamber has been severely damaged forever and, of course, any lawyer, any person practicing as an attorney and so holding himself forth, in order to have clients, has to have at least two prime requisites: one, ability; two, reputation. If his reputation is bad, gentlemen, then his ability can't help him even earn a living, because he won't have the respect of the people that he seeks to serve.

"Now, Senator Rasmussen did not name names, he told me this morning, but of course that is the very viciousness of his Joe McCarthyism attack, and I intend, for one, to determine whether his character assassination, which it is, although he states it generally, is actionable as slander; and, if it is, I intend to make him pay for the despicable lie; and, if he now rises to say that he did not intend the result, then the least that he can do is provide everyone with a public apology."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen:

"Mr. President, members of the Senate:

"For those people that have a feeling that I slandered them, they have my deepest apology. It is certainly not my intention that I slander wilfully anyone. What I was repeating on television, and if any of you saw the program, I was repeating a statement that was heard in our caucus in which one gentleman said, 'You know my retainer and I know yours, all eighteen of you,' and if that be slander, so be it. That was in the caucus, and in that same caucus, gentlemen of the Senate, I asked at that time, I said, 'It would certainly be nice if those people would rise and purge themselves the same as this gentleman attorney has done and would release, through the caucus, the information that he seemed to have.'

"There was at that time not one, in fact somebody in the back said, 'What about the fees that the laymen get?' and our caucus chairman, Senator Bailey, and I give him credit, he said, 'When we get a fee, it's called graft. When you people get it, it's called a retainer,' so if we're going to have facts, let us have facts.

"Now, Senator Gissberg has gotten up publicly and disclaimed that he has at any time accepted any retainers to do business on this Senate floor. I have given to the Senate information about one attorney that has accepted retainers and one attorney that has bragged about the amount of work that he has done for these people that he represents on this Senate floor. We have it in print. I have given the information to the Senate. I've asked the Senate to please set up a committee to investigate. It's not my desire to blacken an innocent man's name, but, gentlemen, I'm not in accord, when Senator Gissberg says that we are all innocent.

"Now, I'm not saying anything in my TV remarks that wasn't heard by all of the Democrats in their caucus and everyone of them that are honorable men can stand up and say the same thing, and the people of the state of Washington, gentlemen, are thinking badly of the Senate. I'll ask you something: Why shouldn't they? You've had evidence given to you. You've had a man on the floor admit that he raised eleven thousand dollars. I couldn't raise eleven thousand cents. Neither could Senator McCutcheon. He agreed. And yet, the Senate itself refuses to investigate these matters that Senator Gissberg and I are talking about. Why shouldn't they distrust us?

"A few days ago, a list of names come out in the paper, thirteen names of Senators or former Senators. There are twelve more names that will probably come out. This same gentleman that I asked you to investigate, who had worked with an attorney on this floor, this same gentleman released these names to the President and said, 'Yes, it's true. I gave these men money. I worked close with a Senator on the floor,' and has the Senate investigated? No. This man says he raised eleven thousand dollars, gentlemen, himself. He said he raised eleven thousand dollars and gave it to you Senators. None of you know where the money came from. Not one of you.

"Senator Gissberg, have you joined with me in trying to get the Senate to investigate this case? I want to bring the gentleman in, Ted Best and Associates. I want to bring him in and have the Senate investigate and find out how he raises the money and what Senators, particularly, he has given it to and what amounts, and the Senate has refused.

"I'm not speaking for Rasmussen personally. I'm speaking for the people of the state, the people that say, 'Why doesn't the Senate investigate? Are they afraid of what they will turn up?'

"Sure, we passed a resolution and said we'll investigate all campaign expenses. You people, have been here many years, just as long as I have. You know what we're talking about. We're not talking about general campaign expenses. But we put in the resolution, to investigate all of them, because we wanted to spread it wide enough so nothing would come of it.

"Now, if you gentlemen say that there's nothing wrong, fine and dandy. Senator Gissberg got quite alarmed because there seemed to be an indication in my talk that I repeated information that was given to us in caucus. There isn't a man of honor on this floor that can deny that. There isn't a man of honor that can deny, there wasn't one other lawyer that got up in there. You'll agree, one lawyer got up. I think he was a gentleman. I think he was honest, and I'm not saying all the rest of the lawyers, I can't speak for those that weren't in caucus, but I want to say I've served many, many years with a lot of you and there are a lot of excellent lawyers, a lot of very excellent people. There are a lot of them that are taking advantage of their position on this Senate floor that are not serving the people. I don't want to name names, but it can be done, and as far as disparaging the whole law profession, I would not do that. The people of the state of Washington, themselves, are doing that.

"It became necessary, in order to do something for the people, to put a measure up so that we could make some attempt to cut probate costs. We have additional measures laying in the Judiciary Committee where the lawyers could perfect it. Does it show up out here on the floor?"

RULING OF THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Rasmussen:

"The President believes your remarks are not relevant to the situation. Please confine your remarks to a rebuttal of the remarks of Senator Gissberg."

Senator Rasmussen:

"Thank you, Mr. President. I think you are quite right. I was wandering over the field. Sometimes in representing the people, I get a little exuberant.

"Senator Gissberg, my apologies to you, sir, and to the rest of the lawyers on the floor; and, to those that feel that I have something to disclose, I would beg for the people's sake of the state of Washington that they do so."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The President:

"For what purpose does Senator McMillan rise?:"

Senator McMillan:

"Just a matter of a few comments if I am in order, Mr. President."

The President:

"The Senator will please state that portion of the discussion that he feels that he must rebut."

Senator McMillan:

"I feel that the Senator has made remarks that reflect on every Senator sitting in this chamber this afternoon, including myself. I just want to speak briefly, and say it is my feeling, gentlemen, that the remarks of Senator Rasmussen today and on previous occasions have damaged severely the reputation of, I believe, practically every man sitting here. By his remarks on this and other occasions he has put out and represented to the people of this state that we have a legislative body in the form of the state Senate, sitting here, which is corrupt, which is, in a very large measure, accepting campaign funds from shady, from irresponsible, from sources which are corrupting, which make it impossible for us to be fair in deliberating.

"I think it is eminently unfair to myself. I think it is unfair to all of us when we realize that there are in the United States campaign funds practically for every legislative candidate, whether it be state or national. All posts require campaign funds. A man, unless he be of unlimited means, finds it impossible to go out and polish himself, in order to be elected to these various legislative offices. Because of the nature of our form of government, it is becoming increasingly necessary that these campaign funds be raised. If we couldn't have it that way, only the wealthy would be able to seek office.

"Now there's one little point that I think I will bring up, and I'm not going to say anything further about it, and that is this particularly black, despicable sum that Mr. Ted Best has raised for the optometric association which has been passed around among the Senators. The optometrist bill was represented as something that was strictly shady. Now, I find that it has been accepted in the House, has been praised by the Chairman of the Committee on Medicine and Dentistry over in the House,

Dr. Adams, a man of high standing in his home community of Spokane. We find that actually it is a good bill.

"Let's examine the amount of money that Ted Best contributed for this campaign and divided up among the various candidates which he indicates received money. It adds up to about fifty dollars apiece for each one of those candidates, with the exception of one who was not elected and I believe he was from the southern part of the state and he was an optometrist. I believe he stated he received one hundred dollars. It's a petty sum when we think of it, when we think about the tremendous sums that are raised for these campaigns.

"With those remarks, ladies and gentlemen, I am going to take my seat, but I do feel that we have been unjustly treated by these continuing remarks."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Riley, the Senate proceeded in order.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Moriarty, Jr.:

"Would Senator Bailey yield?"

"Senator Bailey, who would care or pay for the expense of maintaining these lands and providing sanitary facilities on these lands."

Senator Bailey:

"As it stands now, Senator Moriarty, this is a public highway and the public highway, under the law, is a county road. As it stands now, it is the duty of the county commissioners of the county involved to do this. I had followed the idea of putting this under the jurisdiction of the Parks Department and taking care of it that way; however, as soon as we put an area which is hundreds of miles long under the Parks Department, an agency that is almost impossible to administer economically, anyway, it would be very costly. I think the cost figure here wouldn't change the present sanitation facilities. The counties now are liable for that. Sometime in the future, I foresee the possibility of the State Parks Department providing for those facilities."

Debate ensued.

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 544, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 46; nays, 0; absent or not voting, 3.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McMillan:

"Would Senator Raugust yield?"

"First, let me say it makes me very happy to learn that Pend Oreille and Stevens Counties have a large or it appears they might have a very good oil potential. Does this bill permit, or does it make possible the condemnation so that these people can secure these leases, whether a man wants to lease or not?"

Senator Raugust:

"This sets up an arbitration board, before which you can appear and if you don't want to sell your rights, by arbitration they will agree that you get a certain percentage of oil from the development, but the reason it makes this necessary, as I said before, is when you may just have a small field you can't afford to take the risk to drill oil on just a small unit."

Senator McMillan:

"Well, this gives them the power of condemnation, in effect, doesn't it?"

Senator Raugust:

"I don't believe so."

Senator McMillan:

"The result of the decision of the Board would, in practice, amount to condemnation, is that right?"

Senator Raugust:

"Senator McMillan:

"No, to the best of my knowledge, there is no condemnation provided for in Senate Bill No. 520."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McCutcheon:

"Would Senator Raugust yield?"

"Senator, is this patterned after the Louisiana act?"

Senator Raugust:

"I wouldn't know. The only purpose of this bill is, the hopes that we can get oil development in this state. They have provided for the arbitration board so that they can come to some agreement by which the men who hold the land will give permission so that the land can be developed for oil and they could afford to drill."

Senator McCutcheon:

"Well, I am familiar with the Louisiana code and I just wondered."

Senator Raugust:

"As I understand it again, Senator McCutcheon, this is in effect some sort of interstate oil compact, commission, law or act."

Debate ensued.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

Senator Stender moved the adoption of the following amendment:

On page 2 add a new section to read as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. This act shall become effective January 1, 1975.

Senator Greive moved that the amendment be laid upon the table.

The motion was carried.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Hess:

"Mr. President:

"This is a matter that I discussed with the President the other day when several motions were made that amendments be considered at one time. I raised the question with the President whether such consideration did not require unanimous consent of the body, and I think that same group of amendments in that form again makes the point of order pertinent before any such motion might be made."

Senator Greive:

"In answer to Senator Hess, I think that this is pretty clearly covered in Senate Rule 61."

Senator Hess:

"Speaking to the parliamentary inquiry, it would seem at least in my interpretation of the rules, that any member could, by protesting thus requiring unanimous consent, require that each amendment pending on any matter be considered by itself as an entity and not combined with others in toto. I think this is the substance of what Senator Greive has suggested in the rule. I merely wanted the President to give us that rule."

Senator Herrmann:

"Mr. President:

"Would it require a unanimous vote or merely a suspension of the rules, which would require two-thirds majority?"

The President:

"Senator Greive, what portion of Rule 61 covers the situation described by Senator Hess?"

Senator Greive:

"Rule 61 says that the bills shall be read section by section, subject to amendment. It seems to me that you are going to have to offer each amendment separately. You can't consider all of them at one time, and under Rule 140 in Reed's which would let you insert and strike, I don't think that would cover this because there isn't any such inserting or striking here."

Senator Hess:

"I did not mean to cause the body to cease proceeding in order. As long as the point is not raised at this time, I would defer my point of inquiry."

Senator Greive:

"I don't have the rule, but upon second reading the rule says bills shall be read section by section, subject to amendment, and that has been interpreted in the past to mean that you must take each amendment in order."

Senator Thompson, Jr.:

"I think Reed's Rule 134 would also be of help."

Senator Greive:

"Reed's Rule 134 has a very limited application and conflicts somewhat with 140.

Reed's Rule 134 applies to a single paragraph, and this is more than one paragraph; therefore, Reed's Rule 134 wouldn't apply. It has to be one paragraph."

The President:

"The President will prepare a ruling and will deliver the ruling at a later time."

The Secretary read the following amendment by Senator Thompson, Jr.:

On page 1, line 26, add a new section to be known as section 4 as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. No sign or placard stating or referring directly or indirectly to, the price or prices of drugs or sundries, other than such signs or placards herein authorized, shall be posted or maintained on, at, near, or about any premises on which drugs or sundries are sold or offered for sale at retail."

Renumber sections 4 and 5 as sections 5 and 6.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President:

"We all have mimeographed copies of these amendments on our desks and I request a ruling from the President on amendments 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, that they, under Rule 62, enlarge the scope and object of the bill and in no way are germane to the title. I would also include amendment number 9.

"Under Rule 62, Mr. President, the title of the bill reads: 'An act relating to retail sales of motor vehicle fuel,' and I appreciate the position of my friend, Senator Thompson, but I don't see how drugstores, automobiles, horse collars, motels, cafes and restaurants fit into this particular picture at all."

Senator Thompson, Jr.:

"Mr. President, speaking on the point of order:

"Have you been into a modern drugstore lately? We carry all these sort of drugstore items like cleaning fluid, gasoline, buggy whips, and these are all things germane to a drugstore, a modern drugstore."

Senator Woodall:

"Speaking to the point of order, these amendments clearly enlarge the scope and object of the bill. The scope and object of the bill is very clearly set out, an act relating to retail sales of motor vehicle fuels. It doesn't relate to drugstores, sundries, novelties or any of these other items, and I respectfully submit that this is going into items above and beyond the scope and object of this bill."

Senator Foster:

"I concur in the remarks of Senator Woodall and Senator Henry. These are frivolous and sham amendments at best, and they certainly are not within the scope of the title of this bill."

Senator Thompson, Jr.:

"Mr. President, speaking on the point of order, this really is a bill dealing with the beautification of the streets and places of business. It is really a bill discussing signs and the size of signs on the sidewalk at a place of business, and I would feel that the object of the bill is really to please the eye by trying to restrict signs to no larger than twelve by twelve, and that was the purpose of the amendments, if you read them."

Senator Rickdall:

"Commenting on the statements of Senator Woodall, I appreciate his views, but I really don't think they are frivolous because if you pass this kind of legislation and open up the door, I am sure that you are going to have further amendments in later sessions that will do just the thing you are trying to do in the fourteen amendments. I don't think they are frivolous at all."

Senator Gissberg:

"I move that all of the amendments contained on the mimeograph sheet be laid upon the table."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Hess:

"I now ask that the President rule on the point of order that I raised a few moments ago."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes that under a suspension of the rules, that the motion as presented by Senator Gissberg would be in order."

Senator Hess:

"Further clarifying the ruling, speaking on the point of inquiry, would it be the intention of the President to declare that the amendments may be tabled only when they are combined and before the members in one sheet or a combination of sheets, or would it be the President's ruling that any amendments pending, whether so combined or whether merely on the desk, can be tabled by a suspension of the rules?"

"Speaking to the point of parliamentary inquiry, I think this goes to a fundamental basic right of a legislative body. We had an instance in the House of Representatives earlier this session that, to me, violated the rights of every member of the House. I believe that if the President permits Senator Gissberg's motion to apply to any amendments which might be pending on the desk, we have in the Senate also established that the same rules shall prevail and again the rights of each member shall be lessened.

"The point of parliamentary procedure that I think is at stake here is the right of a member to have whatever is pertinent to the discussion, whether it is an amendment or motion or whatever it may be, considered on its own merits. The right of, in essence, a full and unlimited debate on any given subject. If we permit this motion, if we permit a two-thirds majority, without even hearing, considering or knowing the content of a subject matter, arbitrarily in one fell swoop, to push it aside and ban it from consideration by the body, in my judgment we have violated a most important and fundamental ruling. I think the whole history of Reed's Rules and Robert's Rules of Order and parliamentary procedure in all kinds of legislative bodies, in all kinds of public organizations, go against the grain of such an approach."

Senator Riley:

"Mr. President, again on the point of order raised, I want to agree with Senator Hess and make this one observation:

"The Senate is a deliberative body. If we are not permitted to discuss amendments separately, we cannot deliberate. We recognize as a committee system it is not possible to send this bill to committee to make its determination after deliberation, so while we have the amendments before us and, being a deliberative body, I think it is required that we should discuss each and every amendment separately and let them stand on their own merits or lack thereof."

Senator Greive:

"I move that the rules be suspended, that we proceed in order and take the amendments one by one, foregoing the ruling."

Senator Gissberg:

"Mr. President:

"I just want to make my position clear to Senator Hess. Specifically, one, I don't like this bill. I think it's a bad bill and I intend to vote against it, but I think these amendmenst make it an even worse bill and I suspect that is the reason these amendments have been put on the desk, in hopes they will be adopted and thereby assure that the bill is going to be killed on the Senate floor. My only purpose, and I most surely agree, Senator, that we should be very slow in doing anything to preclude a full consideration of an amendment by anybody without a reading of the amendment, was that because all of the amendments have been printed and put on the desks, there has been an opportunity for everyone to have read the amendmetns, although the reading clerk has not specifically read them. That is the purpose that I had in mind when I made the motion, in order to expedite the legislative process at this late time. I suspect if we take up each of these and if the mover of the amendment is serious, we are probably going to be here about an hour and a half on this legislation."

Senator Greive:

"I have a motion before the Senate that the rules be suspended and we proceed in order."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Woodall:

"Point of order. I think when a point of order has been raised, as to the propriety of an amendment pending before the body, that other proceedings are out of order until that particular matter be determined. I think the thing that has gotten us off base is another motion being made prior to the time the President passed on the question of whether or not these amendments dealing with various and sundry other things, go beyond the words, 'motor vehicle fuel.'"

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President believes that the point of order as presented by Senator Woodall is well taken."

Senator Greive:

"I was about to withdraw my motion."

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

Th President called the Senate to order.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President's Ruling on the point of order as raised by Senator Henry:

"Senator Henry has raised the point of order that amendments Numbered 2 through 9 enlarge the scope and object of Senate Bill 97 and are not germane to the title. Senate Bill 97 is an act relating to retail sales of motor vehicle fuel and the amendment as proposed by Senator Thompson concerns itself with drugs or sundries offered for sale at retail.

"The President believes that the point of order as raised by Senator Henry insofar as it affects amendments numbered 3 through 9 could only be raised at such time as the particular amendments are being considered. In the event that the amendments are being considered jointly, then the point of order raised by Senator Henry insofar as the propriety of all the amendments could be considered.

PROTEST OF VOTE

These remarks are entered in the Journal in explanation of my vote against Senate Bill 97. I was denied an opportunity to make them when the bill was up for consideration, debate having been cut off by raising the previous question without any discussion of the bill on final passage.

I have deepest sympathy for retail gasoline dealers. I have known a great many of them through the years, and they are among the hardest working, most dedicated and helpful businessmen in any community. They are cruelly exploited by the powerful oil companies and by their controlled subsidiary distributors.

Using tax writeoff privileges against substantial profits in other areas of business, these companies have deliberately created more retail outlets than can economically sustain themselves. Further, they manipulate and vary prices to different retailers in such a manner as to make any reasonable independence and competition impossible for many individual stations. These practices are particularly ruinous in the savage price wars which on occasion appear to be deliberately started by producer companies. It often appears that the purpose of such price wars is the bankruptcy of marginal station operators, or a change in brand focus in a given community.

I would strongly support a detailed federal investigation into such practices, and punitive legislation designed to strike at the heart of this problem. Something should have been done in this area a long time ago.

Believing, however, as strongly as I do that America is a land of private enterprise, and that competition between business and industry is essential for its well-being, I cannot support legislation that would in effect limit competition. Senate Bill 97 as amended would make it almost impossible for a passing motorist to know the price at which gasoline would be available. The dealer would be limited to a single sign of a size and lettering too small to serve the traditional function of station price advertising. Those stations in competition with a discount house operation would be particularly disadvantaged. The bill in my judgment constitutes a seriously improper limitation on the freedom and flexibility of business.

There is a real danger to this country's economy in the continuing passage, by our legislatures and the United States Congress, of a multiplicity of restrictive laws. Each by itself may be no more restraining than the thread-sized ropes of the Lilliputians were to the Giant Gulliver; yet the total effect was to tie Gulliver beyond his power to move of his own volition. If we are not careful, we can do the same thing to our economy.

ANDY HESS.

I concur with the above remarks and enter my protest accordingly.

WILLIAM A. GISSBERG.

On motion of Senator Greive, Senate Bill No. 497 was ordered to retain its place on the third reading calendar for tomorrow.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Morgan:

"Mr. President, I wish to explain a matter personal to myself.

"Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

"I have been wanting to make some remarks for some time since we have had this pall of criticism in this body regarding campaign funds. I wish my remarks to be included in the official records of this Senate, the Journal.

"The remarks that Senator Rasmussen has been making lately and most especially yesterday are indeed vicious and destructive to all who sit in this body. Senator Rasmussen and Senator Greive are two men whom I have admired and trusted. I trust them because I believe they are sincere and honest. I truthfully believe that Senator 'Slim' is being used as a front for some people who seek to destroy our Democracy, and the Washington State Senate.

"If anyone in this state of Washington is naive enough to still think that ordinary people like myself can run for public office and not require campaign donations, he is certainly not realistic, to say the least. The moment this nasty slur came out on the floor of this Senate I stated to our home town paper, the Bremerton Sun, that I had received some money from Senator Greive's campaign pool, also from organized labor and a local bipartisan citizen's committee in Bremerton.

"I should have added that I also received nearly five hundred dollars from Senator Wilbur Hallauer, whose check read "Senatorial Pool." I was grateful, in all cases, for their help and tried to use the money advantageously. Even then I had to go to the bank and take out a note to help me through the campaign, certainly I am not owned by anyone. People who know me, know that this is true. My voting record reflects this fact.

"I am an ordinary citizen, the wife of a rural mail carrier and, believe me, these public offices in the House and Senate have been a real strain on us financially. The hundred dollars a month salary I receive goes for phone bills and gasoline. It does not cover my expenses. I hold my office in high honor. I work hard and sincerely for the people, and especially the children and youth of the state of Washington.

"Never has anyone in the Senate pressured me to vote for their particular bill or in any particular manner. Nor have Senator Greive and Senator Hallauer asked me to do anything of this nature. I admire Senator Greive and I believe in him as do the majority of the members of this body. Senator Greive does not have to scrounge for money. His family is financially secure. The 'rabbit chasing' by Senator Rasmussen has created a sad state of affairs. 'Slim' knows where the big money is in this political life. He knows that Senator Greive's campaign funds did not include the rackets, namely gambling and vice. Frankly, whoever or whatever interest is stirring up Senator Rasmussen, it is certainly achieving its purpose—destroying honest, hard-working legislators so those who seek to gain control of the Senate may do so by next session—to split and divide, stir up confusion through constant heckling smacks of the dialectical processes used by subversives.

"Senator Rasmussen had better look further and study well, very well indeed, the people who are using him to do their dirty front work. There is a plan to destroy the courts of this nation, to destroy the Bar Association and the lawyers within that body; to destroy the dignity of public office; and the plan goes so far as to malign and destroy any individual or office holder who stands in the way of the plan as they seek to continue to destroy our form of government.

"Senator Rasmussen, as your friend, please watch your words and dwell on that which is of good report, for the sake of the people of the state of Washington, which most of us are trying to serve to the best of our ability."

(signed) FRANCES HADDON MORGAN.

"Our sight is short, our wills are vain, our purposes shift. Steady us, Great God, that we may think clearly, feel keenly and determine wisely the best for the greatest number.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Senator Hess having presented a question of a parliamentary inquiry on the 50th legislative day, the President gives the following response:

"The Senate rules are silent on the matter of joining amendments, hence the President believes that a majority of the members present could adopt a motion to consider more than one amendment concurrently.

"The President is of the opinion that subsequent to action on a motion to join amendments, the amendments should be read, and then the motion put to the assembly for consideration and vote.

"The President further believes that in the event a member of the Senate desires that the reading of the amendments be dispensed with a motion to suspend the rules for this purpose would be required."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Hess:

"Mr. President:

"May I ask a further question for clarification of the President's ruling on the subject of this question of parliamentary inquiry?

"In the event that a group of amendments are on the desk and a motion is made that they be combined and acted upon by a single motion, and that motion is adopted and the amendments are then under consideration, if, subsequent to that point, an additional amendment is placed upon the desk, does it then take its course as a new matter?"

LETTER OF INTEREST

Washington Railroad Association
302 Hoge Building
Seattle 4, Washington
February 27, 1963.

To the Members of the Washington State Senate:

A few weeks ago I received in the mail a copy of the enclosed booklet from Mr. and Mrs. David Smith. Mrs. Smith is the daughter of Representative and Mrs. Jack Rogers of Bremerton. I thoroughly enjoyed reading this booklet as I have been for several years a student of Thomas Jefferson and have quite a collection of books about him and have twice traveled to his home at Monticello. Perhaps it is the most unique of all the colonial homes in Virginia because it sets atop an 865 foot mountain with a view of forty miles in every direction. It took more than thirty years to build and contains numerous of Mr. Jefferson's inventions.

Although Thomas Jefferson has been dead for 137 years, his stature is greater than ever. Most of his ideas seem as fresh as the day they were conceived. As Claude Bowers, his biographer, wrote: "to Thomas Jefferson, more than to any other man, we are indebted for the formulation of the theories of society and government popularly described as 'Americanism'." Abraham Lincoln who was an ardent student of Jefferson wrote that "The principles of Jefferson are the definitions and axioms of a free society." Jefferson not only wrote the Declaration of Independence but set up our educational system; built the University of Virginia; founded a great political party; helped design the national capitol; was instrumental in establishing American coinage; he more than doubled the territory of the United States without the loss of a drop of blood, and invented many machines and gadgets. He collected scientific materials in the fields of zoology, biology and anthropology. He wrote a classic essay on poetry and he codified the legal system of his native state. During the formation of the American nation, he was a member of the Virginia Legislature, governor of his state, ambassador to France, secretary of state, vice president, and twice president of the United States. He stands out as a leading philosopher and theorist of American democracy. He sponsored the expedition of Lewis and Clark that opened the Pacific Northwest to exploration and settlement.

It has been said that we should pass as few laws as possible since we only pass laws to protect ourselves from each other and every time we pass a law, we, in some way, restrict someone's freedom. Jefferson commented as follows:

"I am not an advocate for frequent changes in laws and constitutions. But laws and institutions must go hand in hand with the progress of the human mind. As that becomes more developed, more enlightened, as new discoveries are made, new truths discovered and manners and opinions change, with the change of circumstances, institutions must advance also to keep pace with the times. We might as well require a man to wear still the coat which fitted him when a boy as civilized society to remain ever under the regimen of their barbarous ancestors."

As good advice to all of us, he said, "I never considered a difference of opinion in politics, in religion, in philosophy, as a cause for withdrawing from a friend." Leaving you with this note I hope that you, too, will enjoy getting re-acquainted with Thomas Jefferson as I did.

Sincerely,

JOHN M. HURLEY

There being no objection, the Senate advanced to the seventh order of business.

Turn us from the hearing of words, and the making of words, and the confusion of much speaking, that we may possess ourselves for these brief moments undistracted, waiting and with all our hopes listening for Thy voice of cheer and encouragement.

"Thou art standing always at the gates of opportunity, ready to help lest we stumble. Strengthen us to labor at gates which appear to be shut until they are open and Thy truth and way are revealed, then give us sense and power to walk therein, unashamed and unafraid. Amen."

Debate ensued.

Senator Hess moved that the amendment be laid upon the table.

Senator Dore demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained by Senators Stender, Guess, Morgan, Greive, McMillan, Petrich, Herrmann, Donohue, Charette, and McCutcheon.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Hallauer:

"I would ask that the President rule as to the appropriateness of the amendment under Rule 62."

The President:

"A point of order has been raised as to whether or not the amendment proposed by Senator Stender changes the scope and object of House Bill No. 83."

Senator Hallauer:

"Mr. President:

"May I speak to the point of order? You will note in the bill that the only new matter now is that contained in subsection 6 where it appears, following the underlined language: 'Make rules and regulations governing the establishment in any existing nonhigh school district of any secondary program or any new grades in grades 9 through 12. Before any such program or any new grades are established the district must obtain prior approval of the State Board.'

"The purpose of the bill as it appears before us merely is a limiting bill to give more power to the State Board of Education, to make their approval necessary before any high school starts. I submit the amendment offered by Senator Stender is quite foreign to this particular purpose."

Senator Stender:

"Well, Mr. President, I would like to speak to the point of order if I might:

"Looking through the bill, I can't imagine that a point of order would be raised on this type of bill because the bill provides for duties and responsibilities of the Board of Education. When you get down through the bill, you have enumerated in the present bill, with the amendment to subsection 6, fourteen different defined duties, among them:

"Supervise the issuance of normal diplomas and teachers' certificates,

"Examine and accredit secondary schools,

"Prepare an outline course or courses of study for the kindergarten, elementary school, junior high school and high school departments of the common school,' and so on,

"Prepare a uniform series of questions to be used by the county superintendents in the examination of teachers,'

"Now you have all these things relating to the responsibilities that the State Board has been elected to carry out. The amendment which would now be number fifteen is just one more responsibility which is to set a certain standard with regard to this type of testing, and I see no reason for a point of order on a question completely germane to the bill."

Senator Dore:

"I think if you will examine the title of the bill 'Relating to education,' and I can't conceive of any word broader than 'education' or 'relating to education.' In other words, 'and the State Board of Education,' the Supreme Court has held again and again that where you have a broad, general term, not a limiting term, and the term 'education,' you can practically attach anything at all pertaining to education to this bill. So I think this is very definitely germane and Senator Hallauer's point of order is not well taken."

Senator McCutcheon:

"I also agree with Senator Dore and Senator Stender, Senator Hallauer thinks the underscored matter is the only part we are voting on, but we are voting on the entire bill and it is clearly germane."

Senator Peterson:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"I feel that Senator Stender's original bill should be able to stand alone, that this is a poor time to tack something like this on. I just want to say very briefly before you vote now that you will have some problems here and you will certainly put the school districts in a bad position, a bad light, because now you are going into the field of vocational guidance and if you do (Interruption)."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Riley:

"Point of order. I would suggest, Mr. President, that Senator Peterson confine his remarks to the question of the point of order which has been raised and not the merits of the bill."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The point of order raised by Senator Riley is well taken."

The President declared the Senate to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"The President's ruling on the point of order raised by Senator Hallauer:

"House Bill No. 83 is an act relating to education and the State Board of Education, which specifically enumerates the powers and duties with reference to schools of all types. The President believes the amendment proposed merely enumerates an additional power for the State Board of Education. Therefore, the President rules that the point of order is not well taken. The amendment as proposed to House Bill No. 83 does not change the scope and object of the bill."

The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the amendment as proposed by Senator Stender be laid upon the table. A vote "aye," will be to table the amendment, a vote "no" will be to keep the amendment before the Senate.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the motion by Senator Hess, and the amendment was laid upon the table by the following vote: Yeas, 33; nays, 16; absent and excused, 0.

Those voting yea were: Senators Bailey, Charette, Chytil, Connor, Cooney, Cowen, DeGarmo, Donohue, Durkan, Foley, Freise, Gallagher, Greive, Hallauer, Hanna, Henry, Herrmann, Hess, Keefe, Knoblauch, McCormack, McCutcheon, Moriarty, Jr., Neill, Peterson, Petrich, Rasmussen, Riley, Sandison, Talley, Thompson, Jr., Washington, Williams—33.

Those voting nay were: Senators Atwood, Dore, England, Foster, Gissberg, Guess, Kupka, Lennart, McMillan, Mardesich, Morgan, Raugust, Rickdall, Ryder, Stender, Woodall—16.

The President called upon Senator Pro Tempore Riley to preside.

Senator Charette moved the adoption of the following amendment:

In section 6, page 2, line 11, after "twelve" strike the period (.) and add the following:

"; provided that the rules and regulations in effect six (6) months before an application for a program or any new grades shall be the ones applied to the application."

Debate ensued.

The motion was lost on a rising vote and the amendment was not adopted.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

President Pro Tempore Riley appointed a special committee consisting of Senators Foley, Cowen, Mardesich, Freise, Neill and Williams to escort President and Mrs. John A. Cherberg to a place of honor upon the rostrum.

PRESENTATION OF GIFT TO THE PRESIDENT

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"President and Mrs. Cherberg, members of the Senate:

"It is all agreed that the Senate is a deliberative body. We debate. We disagree. We discuss and we agree, and certainly today we are all in agreement on one thing:

"Traditionally we like to do something collectively in a rather realistic way to express the opinions and the feelings that all of the Senators have for Governor and Mrs. Cherberg. On this occasion it is a happy one to have been asked to present to Governor and Mrs. Cherberg or we might say, Johnny and Betty, a gift which comes from the members of the Senate. It comes from their hearts.

"It is easy to say how fond we are of people, but this is a definite expression and so Governor and Mrs. Cherberg, the members of the Senate want you to have, and they have been gracious enough to ask me to present them to you, two round-trip tickets to Honolulu—and return!

"And then, members of the Senate, I think it is fair and appropriate to say that from the heart of the little man of Spokane, Dr. Cowen, he has made it possible for a week's stay at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

"Now, John and Betty, will you stand up and accept the applause? And, Betty, I'm going to turn the tickets over to you because it will be your decision as to when you shall leave. And, of course, the members of the Senate and the ladies and gentlemen assembled would like to hear from you as well as look upon you, so if you will just step over here and say a word, and then we will ask the Governor to do likewise."

Mrs. Cherberg:

"They say Christmas comes once a year. I think it was early this year. Thank you so much. I'll never be able to say 'thank you' enough."

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"Governor, the Senators, as well as the ladies and gentlemen assembled, would like to have a word from you."

Lieutenant Governor Cherberg:

"Thank you, Mr. President, Ed, Francis, lady and gentlemen of the Senate:

"I appreciate Ed's remarks very much. I am certainly grateful to each of you, and to you, Davey, for this magnificent gift. I'm very happy that the legal counselors present in the Senate joined in the collective bargaining to arrange this fabulous gift.

"I was almost as impressed with the visitor last week as was Perry Woodall, Senator Inouye of Hawaii. I thought he expressed my particular feelings at this time when he said, 'Aloha! I love you.'"

(Applause.)

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"Thank you, Johnny and Betty."

Senator Lennart:

"Mr. President:

"May I just inquire if this trip will take place before Christmas and if we will get out of here before then?"

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"Well, members of the Senate, I think it is perfectly clear from the sound of the applause that all of us feel keenly about our presiding officer and his charming wife, and to have had this occasion I think gives us all a feeling that when our deliberations are over, we are all of one mind and we respectfully agree that we do have a fine family here with the Cherbergs."

The special committee escorted Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. John A. Cherberg from the rostrum.

The Senate resumed consideration of House Bill No. 83 on second reading.

Senator Dore moved the adoption of the following amendment by Senators Stender, Petrich and Dore:

On page 3, line 12, add a new subsection to be known as subsection (15) as follows:

"(15) Set standards for psychological testing programs to be recommended to local school directors. Such standards shall specify the type of psychological tests that shall require parental or guardian consent prior to giving such tests to students."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Thompson, Jr.:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"I respectfully direct attention to Reed's Rule 138 which provides that an amendment decided in the negative cannot be renewed as to the whole or a part of the words."

Senator Dore:

"Speaking to the point of order, Mr. President:

"I would like to have the amendments read again and I think a comparison will be sufficient."

The proposed amendments were read by the Secretary.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"The President's ruling upon the point of order:

"The point of order as raised by Senator Thompson is to the effect as pointed out in Reed's Rule 138: 'If the amendment to strike out be decided in the negative, it cannot be renewed as to the whole or a part of the words.'

"Then, in addition to that, members of the Senate, the President would say that all rules are established to expedite business. It would occur to the President that a constant revision of amendments similar or alike would be a delaying procedure, and on that basis, I would say the point of order raised by Senator Thompson is well taken."

Senator Henry:

"Mr. President:

"I got into this argument a little bit late. This rule talks about an amendment by striking out. I would submit to you that the amendment just presented is an addition of a new paragraph and has nothing to do with Rule 138."

Senator Dore:

"I think the key words in Reed's Rule 138 are: 'It may, however, be proposed that these words with others, or a part of these words with others, be stricken out, provided the words newly proposed to be stricken out constitute substantially a new proposition different from the one already decided.'"

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"May the President read these words also from Reed's Rule 138: 'A negative vote is a decision on the part of the assembly that the words proposed to be stricken out shall stand part of the main question.'"

Senator Dore:

"But these words are not being stricken out. They were offered and rejected. This has nothing to do with this amendment. I happened by choice to use some of the same words, but this is a new amendment, entirely different, and I don't think Rule 138 is applicable at all. It talks about striking words out or leaving them in. This adds a new section."

MOTION

Senator Thompson, Jr. moved that the Senate proceed in order.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Charette:

"Point of order. Will the President consider Reed's Rule 136?"

Senator Thompson, Jr.:

"Mr. President:

"I don't see what relation 136 has to the motion before the body. The motion is to proceed in order. You have made your ruling."

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"Senator Thompson, may I suggest that the President thinks a review of the contents of Reed's Rule 136 rather substantiates the President's ruling."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Woodall, Senator Guess was excused from the Call of the Senate.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

President Pro Tempore Riley:

"Members of the Senate:

"Again on the question of the point of order raised by Senator Charette, reading from Reed's Rule 136: 'If the amendment is decided in the negative, it cannot be repeated, although the same words with others, or a part of the same words with others, provided a substantially new proposition be thereby presented.'

"The ruling of the President then will stand on the basis that, having considered the previous amendment in the negative, the amendment now is not before the Senate."

Senator Hess moved that the rules be suspended and that House Bill No. 83 be advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill placed on final passage.

NOTICE OF RECONSIDERATION

Senator Durkan gave notice that, having voted on the prevailing side, he would, as the first order of business during this evening's session, move that the Senate reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 418 passed the Senate.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

Senator Chytil moved that the Senate do immediately reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 418 passed the Senate.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Durkan:

"Point of order, Mr. President:

"Would you give me a ruling whether or not my motion is in order since it is previous to the motion of Senator Chytil?"

Senator Chytil:

"Mr. President:

"I believe my motion takes precedence."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"In reply to Senator Durkan, on and after the 50th day of the session, a motion for reconsideration shall be in order only on the same day upon which notice of reconsideration is given and may be made at any time that day.

"Senator Durkan, you gave notice of reconsideration. The notice was received. Then Senator Chytil was recognized and made a motion that the Senate do now immediately reconsider the vote by which the Senate passed Engrossed Senate Bill No. 418. A portion of Rule 31 says, 'A motion to reconsider shall have precedence over every other motion except to adjourn.'

"The President believes Senator Chytil's motion is in order."

MOTION

Senator Durkan:

"I move we do now adjourn."

The President:

"Senator Durkan, the President believes that you would be defeating your purpose with that motion because reconsideration must be had today."

Senator Durkan:

"Mr. President, I would like to amend my motion that we adjourn until 8:00 p.m. this evening."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Woodall:

"This is no motion to adjourn. This is a motion to recess to a fixed hour. I believe it is debatable."

The President:

"That portion of the motion pertaining to time is debatable, Senator Woodall."

Senator Woodall:

"Well, Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"Eight o'clock is definitely the wrong time. You have heard 'now is the hour.' Let us proceed with the day's business."

The motion to recess was lost on a rising vote.

The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the Senate do now immediately reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 418 passed the Senate.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Woodall:

"Point of parliamentary inquiry, Mr. President:

"If this motion prevails, we then immediately reconsider. If it fails, then the motion or the notice of Senator Durkan remains before the body. What is the status of his motion, if we vote not to reconsider it, sir? My question is, does it leave the notice before the body?"

Senator Greive:

"I believe Rule 204 answers that. You can only reconsider once."

Senator Woodall:

"I understand that you can only reconsider once. The question is: We are voting on whether we do or do not now wish to reconsider, so that if the vote is in the negative, the notice of Senator Durkan would remain, would it not?"

Senator Greive:

"We are now voting on the question of reconsideration. We have to be because that takes precedence."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

The President:

"Members of the Senate:

"The President, in answer to the parliamentary inquiry believes that if Senator Chytil's motion to immediately reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 418 passed the Senate, if that particular motion fails, then Senator Durkan's notice will stand for this evening and, at that time, a motion by Senator Durkan to reconsider the vote would be in order.

"However, if Senator Chytil's motion prevails and the Senate does immediately reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 418 passed the Senate, then Senator Durkan's notice of reconsideration would not be in order."

The President stated the question before the Senate is: It has been moved that the Senate do immediately reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 418 passed the Senate.

The motion was carried on a rising vote.

RECONSIDERATION

The President stated the question before the Senate is: The Senate has voted to reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Senate Bill No. 418 passed. Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Knoblauch:

"Would Senator Chytil yield?

"Senator, did you introduce a bill like this one during the last session?"

Senator Chytil:

"Mr. President and members of the Senate:

"No, I did not introduce this bill last session. I did, in 1958, correspond with the department pointing up this problem. In 1959, I gave them the opportunity to work out this problem. In 1961, I gave them the opportunity to work out this problem. Here it is 1963, five years later, and we have not worked out this problem. I also say further that the department, itself, in the last three bienniums has not once asked for any maximum security nor any other regulations within their budget to hold boys in maximum security because they have been talking an open program."
