BRUCE K. CHAPMAN
Secretary of State

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Honored members of the Senate and ladies and gentlemen present today. The President, with your permission, would like to exercise the privilege of introducing a former member of the Washington State Senate, the Honorable Fred H. Dore. When Fred came to the rostrum today he greeted me with the remark, 'I'll bet you never expected to see me back in the Senate.' This morning the Honorable Fred H. Dore became a member of the highest Court in the state, the Washington State Supreme Court. Prior to that, Fred was a long-time member of the state House of Representatives, and came to the Senate in 1972 where he remained for quite some time. It is indeed a pleasure to have Justice Dore here this morning to give the oath of office to several of our members. Fred is in good practice because he took the oath this morning himself.

"The President should like to respectfully request that the Sergeant at Arms conduct the newly reelected members individually to the bar of the Senate to receive his or her oath of office. The Sergeant at Arms will please escort the Honorable R. Ted Bottiger to the rostrum."

REMARKS BY JUSTICE DORE

Justice Dore: "First, I would like to say it is a real pleasure to be back here in the Senate which I spent, I think, sixteen years from 1959 to 1974, and I think some of the finest friends I have are past members or present members of the Senate. I enjoyed some of the finest times of my life and had the greatest experiences here in the Senate. It is really great to be back. Thank you. And I appreciate this signal honor of being able to swear in your new members."
ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll of the following newly reelected Senators and all were present: R. Ted Bottiger, George W. Clarke, Paul Conner, Marcus Gaspard, Ted Haley, Jeannette Hayner, Margaret Hurley, Lowell Peterson, J. T. Quigg, George L. Sellar, A. N. "Bud" Shinpoch, Don L. Talley, R. Lorraine Wojahn, Dianne Woody.

The Acting Sergeant at Arms escorted each of the newly reelected members of the Senate to the bar of the Senate to receive his oath of office.

Justice Dore of the Washington State Supreme Court thereupon administered the oath of office to each of the newly reelected members.

The President presented to each of the newly reelected Senators a certificate of election.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "Honored members of the Senate and ladies and gentlemen. The President believes it significant to remark that the next Senator, Senator Don L. Talley, is the senior Senator of the Washington State Senate, having first come to the Senate in 1957. The sergeant at arms will please escort the Honorable Don L. Talley to the rostrum."

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary of the Senate called the roll of the following newly elected and appointed members of the Senate and all were present: Albert Bauer, Donn Charnley, Ellen Craswell, Alex A. Deccio, W. H. "Bill" Fuller, Dick Hemstad, Jerry M. Hughes, Bill Kiskaddon, Bob McCaslin, Jack Metcalf, Irving Newhouse, E. G. "Pat" Patterson, Hal Zimmerman.

The Acting Sergeant at Arms escorted each of the newly elected and appointed members of the Senate to the bar of the Senate to receive his oath of office.

Justice Dore of the Washington State Supreme Court thereupon administered the oath of office to each of the newly elected members.

The President presented to each of the newly elected Senators a certificate of election.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "Honored members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen. It is a very heart warming and delightful sight to see so many wives, husbands, children, relatives, friends and neighbors of the newly elected, reelected, and appointed Senators and I am sure that we all join in offering our heartiest congratulations to these ladies and gentlemen who have just been sworn in along with our very best wishes for their continued success.

"The President is very happy to announce that the Honorable Lorraine Wojahn has called his attention to the fact that former Senator John Petrich who is now a very honored and capable member of the Washington Court of Appeals is present in the Senate chamber. Would Justice Petrich please come to the front so that we may properly recognize and welcome you. Jack was one of our most competent, capable and efficient Senators ever to serve in the Washington State Senate."

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The President declared nominations to be open for President Pro Tempore of the Senate.
REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. I take a great deal of pleasure in proposing and nominating to you, Senator Barney Goltz as President Pro Tem. I think each of us that has served with Barney and most of you that will soon to have the opportunity to do that and to know and enjoy him as much as all of us do, will realize his fairness, his devotion to the details and to the rules of the Senate and I think that we can all rest assured that we will have added to the custom and the heritage that we serve here, not only the remnants of the Henry rules but the beginning of the Goltz rules."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Thank you Mr. President. Members of the Senate, I would like to second the nomination of Senator Goltz not only because I think that he is a competent and capable person for that job, but I think that, at this time, it would be appropriate if we made a general statement with respect to the organization of the Senate, this being the opening situation with respect to the organization of the Senate.

"I think everyone is aware that the legislature in its entirety is faced with some very difficult problems; and we would like to offer our support in connection with the organization of the Senate in the hopes that we could cooperate in addressing these difficult problems and not engage in unnecessary political bickering. We, of course, realize that in some instances and as to some issues, politics is a necessary part of the operation of this body, and we appreciate that this will inevitably be the case as to some issues. However, we think that the majority of the problems should be approached on a nonpartisan basis and we offer our support in so approaching them.

"Accordingly, we will expect to abide by the organization of the Senate as proposed as long as we are convinced that the general objectives which I have just outlined are being followed. If, however, it should at any time become apparent to us that there is an unnecessary and undue and improper emphasis on a political difference, then we are, in effect, advising you at this time that we will approach certain of your people in whom we have confidence, with the suggestion that proper steps be taken whatever may be necessary, in order to remedy that particular situation. Now, we recognize that where we have a close division as we have here, 25 to 24, that there is the opportunity perhaps, of us becoming unduly apprehensive of political strategies, and both sides may feel that it is dangerous for them to have one or more people off of the floor, or not present at any particular time. We would hope that this type of apprehension can be allayed and as stated, that we can join together in a cooperative manner in endeavoring to solve the very difficult problems that are before us. So we will not offer any nominations in opposition to the slate as scheduled by the majority for the organization of the Senate at this time."

MOTION

Senator Bottiger moved the nominations be closed and a unanimous vote be cast for Senator Goltz.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "I just wanted to inquire as to whether Senator Bottiger's motion for a unanimous ballot, whether that would preclude a voice vote where the 'ayes' and 'nays' shall be recorded."
President Cherberg: "Senator Pullen, in reply to your point, a roll call will be conducted. As many as are in favor of the motion by Senator Bottiger will say 'aye'; those opposed 'no'. The motion is carried, the nominations for the office of President Pro Tem are closed. The Acting Secretary of the Senate will please call the roll on the election of the President Pro Tem."

The motion by Senator Bottiger carried and the nominations were closed.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll and Senator H. A. "Barney" Goltz was elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 49.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed Senators Wilson and Gould as a committee of honor to escort Senator Goltz to the rostrum.

Justice Dore of the Washington State Supreme Court administered the oath of office to Senator Goltz.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Honored members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen. It is indeed a pleasure for the President to introduce this outstanding and distinguished Senator as the new President Pro Tern. I am delighted with your choice and shall be looking forward with the greatest of interest and pleasure to working with Senator Goltz. I am happy that you, the Senate, showed such good judgment and now if you don't mind, we would like to hear from you Senator Goltz."

REMARKS BY SENATOR GOLTZ

Senator Goltz: "Thank you very much, Governor Cherberg; and thank you members, colleagues of the Senate. I think it is apparent already that I have already moved over to the other side of the aisle and maybe it is on that note of harmony that the election became unanimous. It should also be noted that I have moved closer to Senator Guess than I have ever been before, although I still remain just slightly to his left. I think all of you should know after the banquet last night how my name is really pronounced. It is as Governor Cherberg pronounced it, and not as it was pronounced there last night, although I have been called worse things than 'Glotz'; and I was reminded last night during those days in the House when there was more frivolity and we had time to write poetry and things of that kind, I received, during that brief period, a limerick from my son. It said, 'There once was a solon named Glotz, whose legislative talents were lots; and in order to show it, he became a poet, and for this the hots, we have nots.' So I am looking forward to serving in this capacity and I will, as I said in my oath, I will do the best I can to fulfill the obligations of this position. Thank you very much."
FIRST DAY, JANUARY 12, 1981

REMARKS BY SENATOR GUESS

Senator Guess: "I might add that, now that Senator Goltz is this close to me, I will continue that proselyting and see what we can do to convert him further."

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "I think it should also be pointed out, in order to keep Senator Goltz his own modest self, that he certainly will not fill the seat the way his predecessor did."

The committee of honor escorted Senator Goltz to his seat in the Senate Chamber and the committee was discharged.

VICE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The President declared the nominations to be open for the office of Vice President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

REMARKS BY SENATOR PETERSON

Senator Peterson: "Mr. President, members of the Senate. It is my pleasure to place in nomination the name of Senator Don Talley for the office of Vice President Pro Tem. I have served with Senator Talley longer perhaps than anyone except Sam Guess in this body, first starting out, as I recall the committee on cities, towns and counties; that is when state government was a little bit broader than it is now. Senator Talley chaired that committee. He served ably on many other committees during his years in the legislature. I think he is very deserving and very capable of serving in this capacity and I would urge your support for Senator Talley's nomination."

REMARKS BY SENATOR GUESS

Senator Guess: "Mr. President, I would like to rise and second the nomination of Senator Talley and say that Don, in the years that he has been here, has extended every courtesy to those of us on this side of the aisle, and I am sure that the service that he has been to the State of Washington is recognized by all of us."

MOTION

There being no further nominations, on motion of Senator Shinpoch, the nominations were closed.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll and Senator Don Talley was elected Vice President Pro Tempore by the following vote: Yeas, 49.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed Senators Peterson and Guess as a committee of honor to escort Senator Talley to the rostrum.
Justice Dore of the Washington State Supreme Court administered the oath of office to Senator Talley.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "Heartiest and warmest congratulations, Don; it is wonderful that you are going to be Vice President Pro Tempore and again, the Senate showed how wise they are."

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALLEY

Senator Talley: "Thank you very much on both sides of the aisle. I do deeply appreciate it and I want to assure Senator Clarke that we took notice of your remarks... continues to deal this fairly in rules, we won't have any problems."

The committee of honor escorted Senator Talley to his seat in the Senate Chamber and the committee was discharged.

SECRETARY OF THE SENATE

The President declared the nominations to be open for the office of Secretary of the Senate.

REMARKS BY SENATOR GASPAD

Senator Gaspard: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. I am honored in placing the name of Sidney R. Snyder in nomination for the office of Secretary of the Senate. Those of us who know Sid and have followed the Olympia scene for years now, probably best know him as 'Senator Snyder', the fiftieth Senator of the Washington State Senate. He is responsible for the management, the administration of this body, responsible for its efficient manner in which it is run.

"He has a rather long and prestigious career in service to the State of Washington, particularly here in the Senate. I think it must have been his first job that really taught him the ups and downs of politics. He first came to the Senate in 1949 and had a very prestigious job of being the elevator operator. But it must have been with that great vigor and confidence that he conducts himself, that he was then graduated to bill room supervisor."

"Again following his career, he went in 1957 over to the House and became the Assistant Chief Clerk. But we thought better of him and decided to get him back here, and in 1969 he then became the Secretary of the Senate."

"Sid is a grocer at Long Beach. He is a well-respected individual and I am sure he can be called a friend by each and every one of us here."

REMARKS BY SENATOR JONES

Senator Jones: "Mr. President, I would like to second the nomination of Sidney Snyder to the office of Secretary of the Senate. The hallmark of Sid's past administrations in dealing with the minority caucus has been one of total fairness. Sid has been a good friend, a person whom we have all respected and we certainly look forward to his continued service as Secretary of the Senate. He has the wholehearted support of the Republic caucus. Thank you."

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALLEY

Senator Talley: "I know it is not appropriate, but I would like to remark that Sid was raised in south Kelso, a part of my district. I knew him when he was very small and I certainly think he has grown with this job."
MOTION

There being no further nominations, on motion of Senator Ridder, the nominations were closed.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll and Sidney R. Snyder was elected Secretary of the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 49.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed Senators Fleming and Jones to escort Sidney R. Snyder to the rostrum.

Justice Dore of the Washington State Supreme Court administered the oath of office to Sidney R. Snyder.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "Honored and esteemed members of the Senate, ladies and gentlemen. The members of the Senate, and indeed all the people of the State of Washington are fortunate to have a man of Sid Snyder's capability, character, integrity and honesty serving as Secretary of the Senate. I do believe that Sid Snyder has to be the best legislative official in the country; and I know no one, and I am sure you don't either, who holds your confidence as strongly as Sid Snyder. Sid, congratulations; now won't you please honor us with a few words?"

REMARKS BY SID SNYDER

Mr. Snyder: "President Cherberg, ladies and gentlemen of the House... Senate. I certainly appreciate all the kind words spoken here today and I hope you are saying nice things about me when the end of the session comes about. I want to express my sincere thanks to all of you and pledge the cooperation, not only of myself but the entire staff of the Senate in trying to make your job and tasks around here as easy as possible during the next 105 days. Thank you kindly."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "I cannot help but comment that that little Freudian slip illustrates the profound influence of Si Holcomb, the old Clerk of the House, had in connection with Sid's early training. He still thinks back to those House days, I know."

SERGEANT AT ARMS

The President declared the nominations to be open for the office of Sergeant at Arms of the Senate.

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. I wish to present the name of Charlie Johnson, Sergeant at Arms, to serve the Senate for the succeeding term. You all know Charlie; you may not know that Charlie served in the House, 1951, Sergeant at Arms in the House in 1957, and since 1957 up to the present time and hopefully he will be reelected, he has served continuously in the Senate. He has progressed considerably through several sets of rules and several sets of Senators, and is still going strong.

"Charlie has four children and eight grandchildren, as you well know as the children go through both the House and the Senate. We have many of them each session. It's good to have a person who is experienced in child care. I know that we who have young children, or have had young children, many times put them in charge of the Sergeant at Arms. He does a good job for us in every phase of the work and I urge you support for the nomination of Charlie Johnson as Sergeant at Arms."

MOTION

There being no further nominations, on motion of Senator Bottiger, the nominations were closed.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and Charlie Johnson was elected Sergeant at Arms by the following vote: Yeas, 49.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed Senators Hurley and Quigg as a committee of honor to escort Charlie Johnson to the rostrum.

Justice Dore of the Washington State Supreme Court administered the oath of office to Charlie Johnson.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "Honored members of the Senate and other distinguished ladies and gentlemen. The President believes that it is of great significance to remark that Charlie Johnson, along with Senator Talley and one other official is also one of three remaining from the Senate class of 1957; so Charlie you must have something on the ball to hang in there as long as you have. Must be that you are a hard worker, industrious, efficient, and capable, so you will have to come up here and make a few remarks, Charlie."

REMARKS BY CHARLIE JOHNSON

Charlie Johnson: "Governor Cherberg, thank you. Thank you, Senators. Governor Cherberg is the other one that came over in '57. I appreciate your vote very much and I will do the best of my ability to serve you well. Thank you."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "I would like to point out to the body and all those present, that that ever-endurable former Senator Dore, now Justice Dore, has done more work today probably than the whole Supreme Court; and he is bearing up well so that argues well for the future."

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "Due to your friendly remarks, Senator Rasmussen, the President believes that it is fitting and proper for the committee of honor, Senator Talmadge, Senator Clarke, and we hope that you also come up, Senator Rasmussen, and escort our highly respected and esteemed Justice of the Supreme Court from this chamber to his chamber."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hurley: "Mr. President, I would just like to say a few words on a point of personal privilege. I would just like to have the members of the Senate know that today marks the twenty-eighth anniversary of Judge Fred Dore and my entrance into the political scene. It was in 1953 that we both served our first session in the House of Representatives; and after that we were seat-mates for the next ten years until after he left for the Senate. To have him swear me in today makes this a most memorable day. I didn't think it would ever happen to either one of us and I am so delighted, I just had to bring it to the attention of all of you. Thank you very much, and thank you Fred."

The committee of honor consisting of Senators Talmadge, Clarke and Rasmussen escorted Justice Fred Dore from the Senate Chamber to his office in the Temple of Justice.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed Senators Hansen, Hemstad and Bauer to escort the Honorable Lyle Watson, Mayor of Olympia, the Honorable Wes Barclift, Mayor of Tumwater and The Honorable Mark Brown, Mayor of Lacey to a place upon the rostrum.

With permission of the Senate, business was suspended to permit the honored guests to address the Senate.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "The President wishes to express his appreciation to Senator McCaslin for calling attention to the presence of one of the state's leading public officials, the very highly respected and capable mayor of Spokane, the Honorable Ron Bair, is seated in the south gallery and is accompanied by his lovely, charming and beautiful wife, Mrs. Bair. Won't you please stand in order that the members may properly recognize and welcome you."

The committee of honor consisting of Senators Hansen, Hemstad and Bauer escorted the honored guests from the Senate Chamber and the committee was discharged.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Bottiger, the following resolution was adopted:

SENATE RESOLUTION 1981-1

By Senators Bottiger, Fleming, Hayner and Jones:

MOTION

On motion of Senator Bottiger, the committee assignments as announced by the President of the Senate were confirmed.

INTRODUCTION AND FIRST READING

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 103, by Senators Bottiger, Fleming, Hayner and Jones: Adopting the joint rules.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Bottiger, the rules were suspended, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 103 was advanced to second reading and read the second time in full.

On motion of Senator Bottiger, the rules were suspended, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 103 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the resolution was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Bottiger, I am looking at page 3,line 15, sub (3). 'A legislator shall not ask, receive or agree to receive anything of value upon any understanding', and the new material, 'the legislator's vote, opinion, judgment or action will be influenced thereby.'

"My question, Senator Bottiger, if I went to Senator Gould and said 'Senator Gould, I'll vote for your bill if you will vote for mine.' That would then be receiving something of value for the promise of a vote — yes or no?"

Senator Bottiger: "Well Senator Rasmussen, I would like to refer that to the ethics committee. You catch me unprepared with no research. I would hate to venture a comment that I might later find had been considered otherwise by the courts or by the legislative body."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, further, Senator Bottiger, I wanted to have it clearly understood there is a long-standing court decision on that. I would like to have it plainly understood that Senator Gould and I have never traded votes; we have been friendly adversaries sometimes on a vote, but there is a court decision and I would presume that would be receiving something of value and I would like it, when we adopt the rules if everybody would know that."

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, I guess you have asked the wrong person. I do not know the answer. You have cited a court decision which I have not read; I do not know the answer to your question, sir."

Senator Rasmussen: "I will provide you with the court decision."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Thank you, Mr. President. In response to the inquiry by Senator Rasmussen, I am quite sure it would be our position that, in effect, trading of votes on a basis other than the separate merits of each piece of legislation, certainly is not ethical procedure on the part of a member of either the House or Senate. My answer to your inquiry would be that it is not ethical to do that and it would be prohibited under the rules; and I think that is the way we would conduct ourselves."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Gould: "I just wanted to reemphasize what Senator Rasmussen said, that we have never traded a vote. I also want to emphasize that we have never asked each other to trade a vote; but I am glad to know he considers my vote of some value."

MOTION

Senator Peterson moved that Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 103 be held for consideration at a later time.

Debate ensued.

There being no objection, Senator Peterson withdrew his motion to hold Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 103 to a later time.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 103.

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. I am going to shortly make a motion that the Senate be at ease subject to the call of the President. I want to publicly assure everyone that there will be no formal business transacted with the exception of the adoption of the resolution organizing the legislature. We have one more to pass to nominate a committee to advise the Governor that we are organized. We have to do that in order to open the session. And apparently the House has found something to fight about already and we will just have to wait for them to finish their fight so we can pass our resolutions and our business. But I am aware that members of the Republican caucus have a funeral to attend and I want to assure them that we will not take advantage of that situation."

A moment of silence was observed by the Senate for Jack Bowen, a member of the Senate staff.
REPORT OF COMMITTEE

The Senate committee composed of Senators Hughes, Charnley and Craswell reported back to the Senate that the House of Representatives had been notified that the Senate was organized and ready to transact business.

The report was received and the committee was discharged.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "Honored members of the Senate, the President should like to extend a cordial invitation to each and every one of you, along with your relatives, to visit the office of the Lieutenant Governor for a social engagement."

MOTION

At 2:33 p.m., on motion of Senator Bottiger, the Senate was declared to be at ease subject to the call of the President.

The President called the Senate to order at 2:45 p.m.

COMMITTEE FROM THE HOUSE

A committee from the House of Representatives consisting of Representatives Schmitten, Wang, Taylor and Hine appeared before the bar of the Senate and notified the Senate the House was organized and ready to transact business.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

January 13, 1981

The Honorable John A. Cherberg
President of the Senate
Olympia, Washington

The Honorable William Polk
Speaker of the House
Olympia, Washington

Dear Lt. Governor Cherberg, Mr. Speaker and Honorable Members of the House and Senate:

Pursuant to my constitutional duties and obligations, I transmit herewith my message on the condition of the affairs of state. Four separate documents constitute the bulk of this report.

The first of these is the report on my fourth year in office, attached herewith, that details the activities of the executive branch of government. There is little need to repeat here what is contained in that document, but three areas are so important to the future of this state that they warrant special emphasis.

A. Reorganization of the executive branch. As presently constituted there are eight state elected officials other than the Governor in the executive branch, and the Governor has no administrative supervision of more than 60 percent of the General Fund. For example, the sums allocated to the common schools are controlled by the independently elected Superintendent of Public Instruction. Additional areas removed from the Governor's administrative jurisdiction include all those agencies and departments that are headed by Commissions. Operation by committee, despite the dedicated service of outstanding citizens, is no more successful a management arrangement in the government than it is in the private sector.

B. Reexamination of the state's retirement systems. The state's portion of retirement costs is fast approaching 10 percent of the General Fund. Increases of around 60 percent (for state contributions amounting to $857 million) have been recommended by the State Actuary. I propose, before such increases are granted — some of which would amount to a state contribution of 78 percent of a member's monthly paycheck — that the legislature review the extent of commitment of general tax money for pensions. In particular the cost of the Law Enforcement and Firefighters' pensions must be revised lest these and the other government pension systems bankrupt the state.

C. Restrictions on bonding capacity. The 46th Legislature wisely put a limit of seven percent on the state's bonding authority. This was just one of the many actions that have served to maintain the state's favorable bond rating AA+. However, bonds have been authorized, but not yet issued, up to an amount that exceeds the limit by as much as $500 million. Excessive bonding, with its heavy load of debt service stretching years into the future, must be avoided if we are to maintain confidence in this state's financial condition and management. After a recent transaction in which the state received a very favorable 7.9 percent interest rate, Mr. Eugene Crowley, Vice President of Solomon Brothers said "...it is a demonstration of the faith the banking community has in this state and a vote of confidence in its management."

The second document is the supplemental budget to cover extraordinary costs of the current biennium ending June 30, 1981. Increases over anticipated needs have occurred, primarily in the common schools and in welfare. A plan to meet these needs within presently available funds has been presented to you.

The third document is the balanced budget for the 1981-83 biennium. My proposed budget, if adopted, will provide for essential state programs at adequate and near current levels without the necessity for imposing new or increased taxes.

Since my budget was submitted on December 19, 1980, much discussion has centered on the adequacy of our revenue forecasts. Economic prediction is at best an inexact science, and although I have confidence in the experts within government and from the private sector who advised my administration on the revenue outlook for the coming two and one-half years, I also recognize that events over which the state government has no control may unfold in such a manner as to render our forecasts obsolete.

Should that be the case, and should the legislature determine that additional revenues must be found, my recommendations include the following:

A. Distasteful as it may be, in a time of reduced revenues it is appropriate to examine once again those activities that have been exempted from certain taxes. I refer to applying the Business and Occupation taxes to all professional transactions and to the press, and extending the sales tax to media advertising. I would urge that these areas of privilege begin to assume their fair share of the taxes now disproportionately borne by business.

B. Increase in student tuition fees is necessary. Higher education now receives approximately 15 percent of the state's general fund revenues. Nationwide, students pay about one-fourth of the annual instructional costs in publicly supported colleges and universities; in Washington our students are charged only from 8 percent at community colleges to roughly 15 percent at the four-year institutions.
C. Extension of the sales tax to gasoline has been much debated. It may be counterproductive as a means of increasing funds for transportation, but additional user fees to subsidize all modes of transportation are clearly needed.

The fourth element in this report is a package of some 20 executive request pieces of legislation that will support economic development, strengthen human services, improve executive management, and increase assistance to local governments.

In summary, the state's economic condition is sound, its economy is diverse and growing. But until the present recession fades and interest rates come down, there will not be enough revenue for the state to fund all the programs and services that various groups of citizens want and some demand. Now is the time to practice restrictions on spending and to ponder the following from an anonymous writer:

"A democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can survive only until the voters discover that they can vote themselves largess from the public treasury. From that moment on, the majority always vote for the candidates promising the most benefits from the public treasury with the result that democracy always collapses over loose fiscal policies always followed by a dictatorship.

The average age of the world's great democratic civilizations and nations has been 200 years. All have progressed through the same sequence: from bondage to spiritual faith, from spiritual faith to great courage, from great courage to liberty, from liberty to abundance, from abundance to selfishness, from selfishness to complacency, from complacency to apathy, from apathy to dependency, and from dependency back again to bondage."

We can escape this fate if we act now.

Respectfully submitted,

DIXY LEE RAY, Governor

Office of the Governor, January 12, 1981.

TO THE HONORABLE, THE SENATE AND THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

In compliance with the provisions of Section 11 of Article III of the Constitution of the State of Washington, I have the honor to submit herewith my report of each case of reprieve, commutation or pardon which I have granted since the adjournment of the 1980 Session of the Forty-Sixth Regular Session of the Legislature.

On the 25th day of February, 1953 Burton Arthur Keeler was convicted and sentenced for the felony offense of Grand Larceny by the Superior Court for the State of Washington in and for the County of Spokane under Cause Number 14574 to a maximum term of fifteen (15) years, and on the 13th day of January, 1962 Burton Arthur Keeler was convicted and sentenced for the felony offense of Grand Larceny by the Superior Court for the State of Washington in and for the County of King under Cause Number 34806 to a maximum term of fifteen (15) years.

Burton Arthur Keeler was paroled by the Washington State Board of Prison Terms and Paroles on the 12th day of January, 1961; was granted a Conditional Discharge from supervision on the 21st day of January, 1963; and was granted a Final Discharge Restoring Civil Rights on the 29th day of March, 1965.

Burton Arthur Keeler has petitioned the Governor for a pardon and relief from any other disabilities or penalties that may not have been restored by the Final Discharge Restoring Civil Rights.

A number of letters of recommendation have been received from the community on the behalf of Burton Arthur Keeler, including a letter from the Prosecuting Attorney and other public officials.

An investigation by the local office of probation and parole shows that Burton Arthur Keeler has been actively employed and has given of himself to assist individuals suffering from alcoholism.
On September 2, 1980, a pardon was signed to pardon Burton Arthur Keeler of the crimes of Grand Larceny and do release and discharge Burton Arthur Keeler from any further punishment penalty or obligation by reason of the convictions of the crime of Grand Larceny, and do restore all civil rights forfeited by reason of these convictions.

APPOINTMENT OF REPRESENTATIVE

January 9, 1981

Mr. Bill Polk, Speaker
House of Representatives Legislative Building
Olympia, Washington

Dear Speaker Polk:

The King County Council in regular session today confirmed the appointment of Jay Lane to the vacancy in the House of Representatives for the 36th Legislative District, Position 2, to be effective January 14, 1981.

Sincerely,

Dorothy M. Owens, Deputy Clerk

The President: "The President is going to take advantage of the extra time we have. This is a very enjoyable experience and I am going to add to my enjoyment by introducing the members of Governor-elect and Mrs. Spellman's family.

"First of all, a very charming and gracious young lady, named Katherine, also known as 'Kat,' who will be a sixth grader at St. Michael's Grade School. Perhaps sometime, Kat, if you have enough influence, you might be able to become a page in Olympia.

"Another young beauty, Teresa, who will be a junior at Olympia High School;

"Handsome young son, Jeff, who is beginning his first term at The Evergreen State College;

"Another son, David, is a senior at Seattle University;

"Bart, who is an economics graduate of the University of Washington and is employed in Seattle. In a little aside, John's father, Bart, was a football coach at the University of Washington in the late twenties and early thirties. I metricated at the University in 1929 and grew to know Coach Spellman very well and admired him highly and had a great deal of respect for him, not only as a man but as a football coach. He was the one holdover from coaching on Bradshaw's staff to serve on Jimmy Falin's staff, which was quite a compliment because Jimmy Falin was a hardheaded Irishman, too.

"Another young lady, Margo, who is employed organizing the 13th International Cancer Congress to be held in Seattle in 1982, and her husband, Brian Tagas, who is a recent MBA graduate of the University of Washington.

"It is also a great pleasure and honor to present Mrs. Frank Murphy, who is the Governor's mother-in-law of Seattle; the Governor's sister, Mrs. Eugene Tully and her son Steve of Encino, California; and Mrs. Spellman's brother, Dr. Gerald Murphy and his wife, Bridgett, of New York.

"And now to get back to the football note, a man who has thrilled thousands upon thousands of people at the University of Washington with his eloquent voice, the honorable Robert McGrath, who will honor us by singing the National Anthem."

Mr. McGrath sang The Star Spangled Banner.

Prayer was offered by Archbishop Raymond G. Hunthausen of the Catholic Diocese of Seattle:

"Lord God, Master of the Universe, we gather here today with joyful hearts uplifted in gratitude and praise. We bless You, God of Freedom, for making us a free people and for helping us work to remain free of all that threatens to make us slaves. We thank You, Lord God our Redeemer, for showing us how we might be a free people in spirit and in heart. Look kindly on Your servant, John Spellman, and on these officials with whom he will govern the people of our state. As You directed Your holy servant, Moses, to lead Your children of Israel from slavery, from the oppression of evil, so direct these, our chosen public servants, that they may stay free from the oppression of evil, of greed or of the lust for power over others. Let their efforts at serving the common good be founded always on a profound respect for the dignity of the human person. In seeking solutions to the vast social and political problems that will confront them as officeholders, strengthen them to keep their eyes fixed on the dignity of every citizen. Help them to remember in their service on our behalf, that the great resources and complicated structures at their disposal exist primarily for the sake of the people, not the people for them. God of justice and mercy, let our new Governor and his colleagues hunger and thirst for justice and for peace. Where there is hatred, let them so love; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy. Give courage and endurance to their spouses and families for the demands that this time of public service will make on them. God of kindness and love, grant Governor Spellman and these government officials the grace of being faithful to the call that is theirs and the gift of being grateful for the pleasures and the trials in building the human community. Blessed are You, Lord God, Master of the Universe, for bringing us together here today with joyful hearts uplifted in praise. We thank You and we bless Your Name. Amen."

The President: "Thank you ever so much, your excellency for your most inspirational and heartwarming prayer. Every person here is delighted and honored that you could be with us today. Ladies and gentlemen, this Joint Session has been called for the purpose of administering the oath of office to the constitutionally elected officials of the State of Washington, and to receive the Inaugural Address of the Governor."

The President returned the gavel to The Speaker.

GOVERNOR'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

"Lieutenant Governor Cherberg, Mr. Speaker, Your Excellency Archbishop Hunthausen, former Governor Dan Evans, Mr. Chief Justice, distinguished members of the Supreme Court, distinguished Elected Officials, members of the Legislature:

"Coach Cherberg, you may be sure that even though my father was a football coach of yours, I'm certainly not going to be a coach. I expect you to give me a little coaching as you have today. It is, of course, both an honor and a humbling experience that you and I have been entrusted by the people of the State of Washington with their aspirations for the state for the next four years. I urge you to now pray with me for divine inspiration and assistance so that we may carry out that stewardship with wisdom, with justice and with charity.

"When a new governor stands before the people and the Legislature of the State of Washington for the first time, there is a moment when we can enjoy a sense of anticipation—a possibility that an era of candor and cooperation between the Executive and the Legislature will begin.

"If we can achieve that, there is no task that we cannot attack. If we cannot work together, even the simplest of goals will elude us. I pledge myself to cooperate with you. Let us have a fresh start, a new relationship; not alone for you and me, but for the State and all of the people of Washington.

"Let us work together with mutual respect.

"The troubles which we face—and which we share—certainly crowd the headlines and the news reports. We are constantly reminded of the difficult decisions which we must make in the days ahead. There is no question in my mind that they are difficult and complex decisions, but in the beginning days of my administration and your legislative session our attitude should be based more on optimism than upon doubt. More in hope than in resignation. More in enthusiasm than in despair. I urge you to share my conviction that 105 days from today we will face the people of the state and tell them that we have served them well. That we have maintained vital services. That we have cut back the cost of ongoing programs. That we have provided with compassion for those in urgent need.

"I call for this optimism fully aware of the financial situation which faces us immediately and of the sacrifices that each citizen must share. Tomorrow I will propose a program to meet financial needs. That program will not require a tax increase.

"We must do more than merely meet the present crisis. We must assure that it will not happen again. I will propose, after consultation with you, that we require by law that the state build a revenue reserve; a counter-cyclical fund to see us through the declines in the national economy when tax revenues dip and important services are threatened. We must learn the lesson of the Old Testament story of the fat years and the lean years. We must develop resources which will see us through those in times of need like these.

"Indeed, it is times like these that demand the careful nurturing of all our resources. To accomplish this I have been working the last many weeks assembling a management team. I hope that team will earn your respect for the thoughtful and energetic way in which they will administer their departments and deliver high-quality services at the greatest economy possible.

"To accomplish this will require the whole-hearted cooperation of our dedicated corps of public employees. We all respect the magnitude of the job which they do. I am charging my department heads to open and maintain the internal channels of communication among the state employees, their supervisors and the top levels of the department. We want to establish teams which will make each department trim, manageable and efficient. We must utilize the talents which reside in the personnel of the state government and, at the same time, acknowledge their right to adequate compensation and support their legitimate aspirations.

"Just as we should not make up the deficits in the state budget from the pay envelopes of the employees, we must not be parties to balancing our budget on the shoulders of the poor. The need for food and medical care for children and the aged does not decrease in tough times. The needs of the mentally ill and developmentally disabled do not diminish in times of tight budgets. We must not turn our backs on those who must turn to this government when all else fails. Those able to work should be provided an opportunity to work. Welfare grants must encourage—not discourage—work. Training programs must equip people for work that is available now. We must have affordable housing. We must address these issues with the assurance that the public recognizes the need. The history of this state demonstrates beyond a shadow of a doubt that our citizens will accept their responsibility to aid those in need.

"Even as I am speaking today, our state prisons and local jails are bursting at the seams, and every indication is that the budget assumptions regarding prison population in the next two years are 500 to 1,000 persons short of the problem we will really face. To meet this urgent need, I will present a plan to use—at least on a temporary basis—the McNeil Island facility. We will also proceed with additional facilities which you have already authorized. We have a big need and it will take several approaches to solve that problem.

"The prison problem is only one segment of the whole criminal justice system. The entire system needs a review—from juvenile delinquency to long-term imprisonment. It is a time for rethinking current practices, and perhaps for shedding long-held notions. To take the first steps in this rethinking, I will bring together all of the parties—police, prosecutors, judges, correction officials, parole boards and the Legislature to give high priority to developing a criminal justice system which will be appropriate to the needs of the eighties and which will reflect the hopes of society.
"On the subject of corrections, I must make an additional statement. Our goal is to provide secure but humane prisons. While serious criminals must be separated from society, we must not merely 'warehouse' offenders. We need rehabilitative and work programs which not only reduce idleness, but give individuals a greater sense of their own worth. Recent disorders in our state prisons are producing an effect which is directly opposite to the goals of the inmates. They should be aware that, while we can be persuaded, we will not be threatened.

"While social concerns take a lion's share of our budget, we must continue this state's commitment to the excellence of education from kindergarten through graduate school. We start with strong public schools, providing sound basic education with maximum local control. At the same time we must assure that the state, which funds—and must fund—basic education in full, will have the requisite control over costs.

"Community colleges must remain open to those whose future earning capacity is dependent on the education, training and retraining available to them in the community colleges.

"Our colleges and universities have suffered in recent years. They are essential to the enhancement of our future cultural and economical growth. It may be impossible to solve all their problems in the next biennium, but we must develop a comprehensive plan for their future fiscal health, and set it in motion. Tuitions must increase in a fair and predictable manner, and the educational institutions must be allowed maximum financial flexibility in order to proceed through these difficult times.

"In addition to the vital services which they offer to our economy in many research fields, our major universities are one of the underpinnings of our agricultural and fisheries industries. There is an ever-increasing demand worldwide in a hungry world for the fruits of our bountiful land. Our crystal clear waters offer the promise of becoming one of the great fisheries of the world. Increasingly, the markets of the world are seeking out the products of the State of Washington and it's our job to see that they do that in an increasingly rapid manner.

"When George Vancouver sailed into Puget Sound in 1792, he wrote that the fertile landscape required only '...the industry of man...to render it the most lovely country that can be imagined.' Vancouver's concern is with us still, although from a different point of view. It is not men and women we seek, for they will come, whether we wish it or not. What is needed is expansion of job opportunities to provide work for our ever-growing population. To accomplish this, we need a vigorous policy of pursuing markets abroad and of encouraging the expansion of existing businesses and the establishment of new businesses in this state. In this latter endeavor, we must be conscious of the competitive pressures from other states that sometimes put us at a disadvantage. Not only from other states but from abroad. Our undisputed natural beauty, quality of life and business opportunity are sometimes not sufficient by themselves to tip the scales in favor of our area over inducements to locate elsewhere.

"The people of Washington cannot afford to lose employment opportunities to our neighbors. We need an aggressive industrial development program to attract the kinds of industries that are compatible with our environment. I will propose carefully drafted legislation for tax-free industrial revenue bonds. Not corporate welfare—but incentives to create jobs. Not a program with the abuses seen in a few other state...but a reasonable program which will deserve—and earn—the respect of the entire public of the State of Washington. Forty-nine other states have an industrial revenue bonding authority. This state simply must have that ability.

"Any discussion of the economy of the eighties must consider energy. It is the essential factor of the equation. We must take every step necessary to assure adequate energy to meet the needs of our growing population and healthy economy.
Our commitment must include not only construction, and we must construct, but also innovation in use of unconventional sources and, of course, conservation—conservation and more conservation.

"A revitalized—perhaps I should say, 're-energized'—Energy Office with a clear mission and a strong management is necessary. We must capture the opportunities offered by the new Northwest Regional Power Bill...opportunities to address the critical energy need of the region.

"While the decade we are entering will be a difficult one, there are no insurmountable obstacles facing us at this time. Washington state is blessed by a tradition of good government, able and dedicated public servants, and committed people who work in their communities and participate in the governmental process. Our job is to provide them with laws and administration for an atmosphere conducive to each citizen's freedom and pursuit of happiness.

"What is needed is a reaffirmation of traditional values. Families are the basic units of society. Work is good. Those who provide jobs are not the enemies of society. Education is essential. Government should regulate only to the extent necessary to protect the public. Society cannot provide everything people want, but it must be able to provide everything they need. We can achieve more by working together than by fighting one another.

"If we are to have the jobs, energy, education, and necessary social programs, we must work together and reason together.

"-Business and industry are necessary for jobs and taxes.
"-Labor unions are important in providing good conditions.
"-Strong local government is essential.
"-The environment must be protected.
"-Children must be nurtured and educated.
"-Seniors should be respected and given choices.
"We need to put aside at this beginning, this opportunity, the rhetoric that divides us. Let us emphasize those principles on which we agree—accentuate the positive. Let us start with the assumption that all of us are working in good faith, and let us get on with our job. Finally, let us pray for God's help so that working together we will enter a new era of progress—one which will satisfy the demands of our great stewardship which has been entrusted to us. Thank you." (Applause)

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Newhouse: "Mr. President, I rise to a point of parliamentary inquiry. I note some twenty–three or four bills on this morning's agenda designated as 'Executive Requests', differentiated by Governor Ray requests. As we computerize these bills, will they be differentiated from the succeeding Governor? Normally we have had just the 'E' designation and will we be able to differentiate the Executive Request of the previous Governor from those of our incoming Governor?"
FOURTH DAY, JANUARY 15, 1981

REPLY BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "The Secretary advises that the bills will be designated by reference to the governor's name . . . Governor Ray and/or Governor Spellman. Thank you, Senator Newhouse."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Fleming, the following resolution was adopted:

SENATE RESOLUTION 1981–4

By Senators Fleming, Goltz, Wojahn, Talley, Ridder, Jones, Bluechel, Haley, Sellar and McDermott:

WHEREAS, We, the members of the Senate, as we gather here together on January 15, 1981, the fourth day of the legislative session, are honored to pay tribute to the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., whose quiet strength and unselfish courage turned stumbling blocks into stepping stones and transformed the jangling discords of our nation into a beautiful symphony of brotherhood; and

WHEREAS, This glorious American who trumpeted the cause of the poor, the oppressed and the disenfranchised from Atlanta to Birmingham, from Selma to our nation's capital, gave hope and restored dignity to those crippled by the manacles of discrimination and poverty; and

WHEREAS, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., despite the difficulties and frustrations of the day, sowed the seed for an America that would permit all people regardless of race, creed, color, religion or national origin to gather in the spirit of fellowship, to fight injustice in any form; and

WHEREAS, This man, this landmark of liberation and symbol of hope, through his conscious daily efforts embodied the principle that good is real and enduring even in death; and

WHEREAS, This Nobel laureate, this citizen of the world, gave new life to millions by sounding the chords of a christianity, made mute by self-interest and narrow-mindedness; and

WHEREAS, This voice of the people and clarion of freedom was silenced by an act of violence while espousing principles of nonviolence, an act which deeply grieved the citizens of this nation and the world;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That on this day, we, the members of the Senate of the State of Washington, pause in our endeavors to pay tribute to one of America's most honorable and honored citizens, the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., in order to call to the attention of the residents of this state Dr. King's wisdom and accomplishments and to rededicate ourselves to the pursuance of his principles of love, peace, freedom, and equality for all; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the Senate transmit a copy of this resolution to Dr. King's widow and the members of his family.

REMARKS BY SENATOR FLEMING

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. On this date fifty–two years ago, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. was born. It is fitting that each January 15 we pause to honor this man, cherish the sacrifice and rededicate ourselves to the ideas for which he lived and died.

"Dr. King was only thirty–nine years old when an assassin's bullet cut him down. Only thirty–nine years old. Yet even though his life was short, the message in his words and examples of his life, uplifted the hearts of hundreds of thousands throughout the world. He taught us much in those thirty–nine years. He taught us that we must not rest, content with thinking we possess the truth. We must live the truth, proclaim the truth, share it. We must allow ourselves to be possessed by the truth. We must strive to make the truth so vivid in both our language and conduct, that others will be possessed by it, too. This is what Dr. Martin King taught us and what his life showed us.

"Numerous men and women have brought the truth to the people but very, very few have brought so many people to the truth. He taught a very special kind of human dignity, that we must look both within ourselves and in all other children of God; a dignity which demands that we hold our heads up to everyone, but that we stick our noses up at no one.

"He taught us that we must resist racism, poverty, that we must resist everything that oppresses and degrades human dignity. But he taught us, too, that we must resist with dignity. We must devote ourselves so heartily to the struggles against oppression and violence, that we must even demean ourselves by, resorting to oppression and violence. He taught us that if we would remove hatred from this world that we must begin by removing hatred from our own hearts. He taught us that no one, no matter how evil their purpose is or cruel their mien, can compel us to pollute ourselves with hatred for others. And this is a very special kind of human dignity. He taught us to love God and one another that we can, and we must, raise ourselves to love the other person.

"The road he took from Atlanta to Birmingham, from Selma to the nation's capitol, from his pulpit in Montgomery to the balcony in Memphis, Tennessee with the road filled with setbacks and suffering. In his thirty-nine years he was slandered, beaten, stabbed, imprisoned. His home was bombed, the life of his children and his wife were threatened. He was the object of every kind of abuse that the opponents of equality and justice could mete out. But in his last months of life, he was still able to love his enemies and pray for their betterment.

"It is befitting that we remember and honor this man who taught us so much. Let us honor him as he would wish to be honored by us today, not merely with words and resolutions on January 15, but with the conduct of our lives every day of our lives. Let us rededicate ourselves to helping those who materially and spiritually have been oppressed. Let us meet excuses with persistence; frustration with rededicated effort; disappointment with hope; let us meet hatred with love and compassion.

"It is in this way that I think we can best honor Dr. Martin Luther King. I would ask the members of the body to stand for a minute of silent prayer. Thank you, Mr. President and members of the Senate."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. I know many members of the Senate have been wondering about the little badges that they've been seeing on the employees throughout this chamber and the other office buildings.

"Several months ago the operation and facilities committee met and we had discussion about a number of things as they relate to security. Not only did we talk about the fact that we needed to improve the communications and security of the employees and the legislative members, and by that I mean some of the members have indicated at various times that they didn't know who certain Senate employees were or whether, in fact, a person was a Senate employee. And so we decided to institute a system around security that would allow us to identify those employees.

"The purpose of those, as I've said, is recognition of our employees and also security. We've had some problems in our office buildings and also in this building, from a peculiar standpoint of view — things coming up missing, and I think it's a very important and constructive system.
"In that light I would like to share with you, it has been our intention that the Senate employees wear those identification tags at all times, not just when they are entering or wanting to enter the chambers here, or this building, but also in the Senate office building, because if they don't do that, then I think our system is not fulfilling its full purpose.

"Going one step further, wanting these badges in that manner, but also we have been concerned about the increasing number of times the President has had to resort to his gavel to quiet down the outer areas of the chamber, not only from boisterous (sic) and loud talking, but also in leaving the floor and exiting to the offices or to the lounge or what-have-you, sometimes they have to fight their way through x number of people, whether they are employees, whether they are lobbyists, and what-have-you. And we think by instituting this system and going further with this system, that we would like to, and you will have an opportunity, I think, at a later date when we consider Senate rules, to try to cut down the congestion in the outer flanks of the floor here.

"Hopefully, along with the security badges identifying our staff people, not having staff people but are not necessarily in the wings, not having overly crowded wings with other people, unauthorized people, or some of the members have even spoken in terms of being so crowded and being lobbied as they walk off the floor and so forth. We also want to make a special effort to cut down the number of lobbyists that are lingering in the wings while we are in session. I think it is important that if you would like to talk to a lobbyist, that you need to do that kind of thing, it's important that you have that person come in, or you arrange to talk with that person for a specific time because I think what we are doing there, is that I don't think any one set or group of lobbyists should have any more of a preference over any other lobbyist where we have lobbyists standing around out here, and other lobbyists apt to be up in the gallery.

"So I would hope that this will answer some of the questions that you have in terms of the little badges. I hope also that when we come around to address our Senate rules, that both members on this side of the aisle and members on that side of the aisle will want to cooperate and try and make sure that we can operate in as efficient a manner as we possibly can, cut down the congestion, and limit the number of people without specific requirements of being in the outer wings of the Senate chamber.

"If you have any questions, I will be glad to answer them."

REMARKS BY SENATOR PULLEN

Senator Pullen: "Thank you, Mr. President. And Senator Fleming, I want to compliment you on the great improvement you have made in our efficiency. Those are outstanding improvements and you definitely deserve a big vote of confidence for that.

"However, I was wondering in the interest; I just wanted to say that if you can get the clocks working around here, you are a real genius."

MOTION

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. There is before you, several pages of these appointments and I think it would unduly delay the business of the Senate to require the total reading and so therefore I move that the Secretary read the last line of the last page."

MOTION

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I move that the Secretary of the Senate be instructed to comply with the request of Governor Spellman."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "The Senate, we have all read the journal, I am sure, of four years ago and the speeches that some of us then made. It is a precedent that was set at that time that Governor Spellman is asking us to comply with. I have had two conversations with him, pointing out errors that we made last time we did this; one was what I called 'killing the judge in the middle of a trial', and urged that he resolve that problem, that there are pending before, for example, the board of prison terms and paroles, some revocation hearings, and have pointed out to him that a change there would require, as I read that statute, that the revocation hearing be started all over again. I also pointed out other regulatory agencies who are adopting budgets, and that will create a problem. And he has assured me that he will expeditiously solve those and resolve those problems so that those errors do not occur. I mentioned to him that if they do, that's fair game for public comment but I wished him well in resolving these very difficult problems.

"I believe the precedent is set, a majority of the Senate is in favor of returning the appointments. There will be many of us who vote for this motion who have very close personal friends, political allies on the list; and I am sure that I will have some explaining to do, explaining my 'yes' vote. But others had to do that four years ago and I think this is the expeditious way to resolve the problem."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

"Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, we certainly concur in your approach to this, Senator Bottiger. We are delighted, because we believe that this is a very proper and reasonable approach. Governor Spellman needs our total cooperation; he takes office at a time when we know that there are some severe problems in the state, and we want to give him every opportunity to solve those to the best of his ability; and I think it helps us as well.

"He certainly has indicated that he is not going to make a wholesale rejection of effective appointees that were made by Dixy Lee Ray. He has also said, as Senator Bottiger has indicated, that he would expeditiously appoint replacements where necessary to comply with the requirements for a quorum and make those boards and commissions operable.

"I believe that he is going to try to do some of that over the weekend so that there will be no slip at all, and I think that we all recognize that this will be a step in the right direction. I urge your adoption of this motion."

REMARKS BY SENATOR von REICHBAUER

Senator von Reichbauer: "Mr. President, members of the Senate. I rise to concur with Senator Bottiger's motion. As you all know I worked in the last interim with Senator Bottiger and Senator Hayner on confirmation reforms. I am pleased, Senator Bottiger tells me that, within the week, that bill will be before the Senate constitution and elections committee.

"It has been a history of strangeness, dealing with the confirmation appointees. In 1897 and 1905, two attorney generals' opinions held that the Governor could, indeed, withdraw unilaterally the names of nominations before the Senate. But since 1949, attorney generals' opinions and other opinions have held that the Senate has the authority to keep them. In 1957 the Senate sent back to then incoming Governor Rosellini, thirteen nominations. In 1965 they sent back two nominations to then incoming Governor Dan Evans. And four years ago, many people on this floor sent back one hundred and twenty-four nominations to then incoming Governor Dixy Lee Ray.

"I would note, however, two differences in the language used in the letter of January 21, 1977 from Governor Ray and the language of January 16, 1981 from Governor Spellman. In the letter from Governor Ray, it states, and I quote 'I am withdrawing all the names'. There is no realization of the powers of the Senate; whereas in Governor Spellman's letter, it says and I quote: 'I respectfully request that all appointments now before the Senate be returned to me'. While both Governor Ray and Governor Spellman are new to government in Olympia, it is apparent that Governor Spellman is not new to government. Government needs a system of checks and balances and I am pleased to note that he recognizes the need for the Senate to be a part of that process. I do not know how the press will characterize the action of the Senate today but I do not think Governor Spellman won a victory or the Senate won a victory. I think the people have won."

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "The question before the Senate is the motion by Senator Bottiger that the Senate comply with the request of the Governor in his message dated January 16. As many as are in favor of the motion will say 'aye'. As many opposed will say 'no'. The motion is carried."

MOTION

At 9:49 a.m., on motion of Senator Bottiger, the Senate adjourned until 11:00 a.m., Monday, January 19, 1981.

JOHN A. CHERBERG, President of the Senate.

SIDNEY R. SNYDER, Secretary of the Senate.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE GOLTZ

President Pro Tempore Goltz: "The President would like to say that the reason that I am presiding over this Senate during the last two sessions, is that Governor John Spellman has been in Washington, D.C. Attending the inaugural of Ronald Reagan as President of the United States. While the Governor is out of the city of Olympia, Lieutenant Governor Cherberg as Acting Governor, chooses not to preside over the Senate and has asked me to preside in his stead. I think it is significant that during my short reign at this rostrum that we have released the hostages and we have inaugurated a new President of the United States. I can hardly wait to see what is going to happen today."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, there has been a request made that, in the case of the last gubernatorial appointment, that both the transportation, as well as the energy and utilities committee, be permitted to examine into this appointee. That creates a problem and I know of no precedent to have had two committees hear a gubernatorial appointee confirmation process. So we will take that up in our caucus and ask Senator Hayner to do the same."

(Article 13 of the State Constitution.)

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, I might explain in advance, just from a parliamentary standpoint what this particular amendment is, and ask the ruling of the chair and also the consent of the Senate as a matter of procedure.

"The amendment which is being prepared and which will be distributed is, in substance, a striking amendment which would simply adopt the rules under which the Senate operated in previous sessions, in their entirety. And I won't argue at this time; when that amendment is up, the reasons for that will be argued; but in the event that motion should be lost, then we do have some perfecting amendments which we would like to offer to the main amendment as moved by Senator Bottiger.

"Now we are well aware of the fact that in ordinary parliamentary procedure, perfecting amendments should take precedence over striking amendments. But actually in this particular instance, it makes much more sense to determine first the basic question as to whether the body wishes to continue under the previous rules which have been debated and which everybody knows about, or whether in substance, they wish to endeavor to make corrections in those rules along the lines that have been outlined by Senator Talmadge. Now if those corrections are to be made and if the body does decide that it wants to engage in that procedure rather than to adopt the old rules, we would like to have it made clear that we reserve the right also, to present subsequently to the striking amendment, perfecting amendments to Senator Bottiger and Senator Talmadge's motion. And I would request a ruling from the chair or the consensus of the Senate that we permit it to proceed in that order, because I think it is the expeditious way for us to settle the argument that we have."

RULING BY PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE GOLTZ

President Pro Tempore Goltz: "Senator Clarke, the chair recognizes that the perfecting amendments do have precedence over striking amendments, but in the absence of other rules, I believe it is more a matter of consensus of this body as to how to proceed rather than a ruling of the chair; and therefore the chair will punt and ask the body to make that decision."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I have the world record punt returner on the floor but I will take this one myself. We will agree, Senator Clarke, that the course of order should be, to first decide whether we want to consider the rewrite, and assent to, then, the vote on the old rules."

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE GOLTZ

President Pro Tempore Goltz: "At this point, a motion would be in order to consider the striking motion that was called to our attention. It has not yet been offered and whether or not you would want to have that material printed before we proceed, . . ."
REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I think it is necessary, it is in our little red book that we have, so everybody has operated and knows what the old rules were, so I think we would accept the motion without the delay."

Senator Hayner moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Hayner, Jones and Clarke to Senate Resolution 1981—5:

On page 13, line 264, after "statement" and before "!

On motion of Senator Pullen, the following amendment was adopted on a rising vote:
On page 20, Rule 42, line 412, after "subsequently" strike "called" and insert "convened"
Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 19, Rule 37, lines 383 and 384, delete underlined language and replace with "ninety-fifth day of an odd year regular session or the fiftieth day of an even regular"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Senator Talmadge, as I understand in the intent, your language as you indicate, does occur in more than one location in the rules, that the tenth day prior to adjournment sine die of any regular session, would, indeed, mean the ninth—fifth day of an odd-year session or the fiftieth day of an even-year session unless we agree to adjourn prior to that and the people would know when the earlier adjournment would be so that we can determine what the tenth day prior is."

Senator Talmadge: "I think that is it, Senator, although I think sine die means the one hundred and fifth day. Not being a constitutional expert on this, I am not absolutely certain, but our concern was that we have a consistent time period throughout, and the regular one-hundred-and-five-day session and a regular sixty-day session, there is no doubt that it would be the ninety-fifth day and the fiftieth day as you have indicated. So in this particular session, unless something contrary to what we expect will happen, we have then until the ninety-fifth day of this session under the rules as it is stated in order to reconsider a motion . . . ."

Senator Pullen: "... assume we go one hundred and five days, that is it, and that is the consistent language throughout the rules. Mr. President, if there is no objection, I would like to withdraw my amendment."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Well, I simply would like to make the comment, and I have no objection to it being withdrawn, I agree with Senator Talmadge that I think the point would never rise but I do think that the body has a right to adjourn sine die at any time that it so desires. I just do not want that concept to be that we are forced to stay the constitutional limit if we do not desire to."

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE GOLTZ

President Pro Tempore Goltz: "I believe that Senator Clarke's remarks are well taken. I would like to announce that we will proceed through all the amendments which have been offered by Senator Pullen and then go to the next group, if that is all right with the body."

There being no objection, the amendment by Senator Pullen to page 19 was withdrawn.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendments:

On page 23, Rule 47, line 466, after "committee" insert "or subcommittee" and on page 23, Rule 47, line 477, strike "standing committee" and insert "subcommittee".

On motion of Senator Bottiger, the question was divided.

The President Pro Tempore declared the question before the Senate to be the amendment by Senator Pullen to page 23, Rule 47, line 466.

The motion by Senator Pullen carried and the amendment was adopted.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the amendment by Senator Pullen to page 23, Rule 47, line 477.

Debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendment was not adopted.

There being no objection, on motion of Senator Pullen, the amendment to page 23, striking "committee" and inserting "subcommittee" was withdrawn.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 23, Rule 47, line 477, after "chairperson" and before the colon insert: "and such bill and recommendation shall remain in committee until such time as a majority of committee members have signed the committee report form.

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Bluechel, further consideration of the amendment to page 23, line 477 was deferred until a later time.

Senator Pullen moved the following amendments be considered and adopted simultaneously:

On page 25, Rule 50, line 508 and 509 after "members" strike "of the senate" and insert "present".

On page 33, Rule 74, line 668, after "members" strike "of the senate" and insert "present".

On page 34, Rule 74, line 687, after "members" strike "of the senate" and insert "present".

Debate ensued.

There being no objection, on motion of Senator Pullen, the three amendments were withdrawn.

On motion of Senator Hayner, the following amendment by Senators Hayner, Jones and Clarke was adopted:

On page 5, line 96, after "employment" strike "official position".

There being no objection, on motion of Senator Hayner, the amendments to page 11 and page 18 by Senators Hayner, Jones and Clarke on the desk of the Secretary of the Senate, were withdrawn.

Senator von Reichbauer moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 18, line 360, strike "five" and restore "one".

Debate ensued.

Senator Clarke demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President Pro Tempore declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senator von Reichbauer.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment was adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 25; nays, 24.

Voting yea: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallagher, Gould, Guess, Haley, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Scott, Sellar, von Reichbauer, Zimmerman—25.

There being no objection, an amendment to page 19, line 383, on the desk of the Secretary of the Senate, was withdrawn.

Senator Hayner moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Hayner, Jones and Clarke:

On page 23, beginning on line 476, strike "PROVIDED, That in the case of a tie vote in a standing committee a bill may carry a recommendation consistent with the vote of the committee chairperson."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lee: "Senator Talmadge, some of the things that Senator Clarke has just said, raised some questions in my mind and I was also thinking of situations in last session in some of the committees when we did, indeed, have tie votes, and they were not party line votes, so let us just disregard that. Let us just say that they are, indeed, tie votes, there is at least one other committee on here where that is possible; I mean the natural resources committee has twelve members and of course any other time when a member is absent from a committee, that possibility also exists, that there would be a tie vote.

"Now obviously from what Senator Jones has said do you agree that when there is a tie vote, normally, without this rule, the motion would lose? Is that correct?"

Senator Talmadge: "Yes. The only remarks I would add, Senator Lee, would be that practically speaking I think the chairman would delay the vote, or alternatively switch his or her vote at the last minute to be with the prevailing side to make a motion for reconsideration to put the matter over."

Senator Lee: "That really is what leads to my next question, because when the chairman is on the dissenting side and there is a tie vote, does this, this kind of rule probably has no substance. Wouldn't it therefore be true that the one time when it would be used and would be of use to the committee chairman, would be when that committee chairman favored a motion and does not have the majority in the committee to see that it is passed out; in other words he has two 'yes' votes . . . ".

Senator Talmadge: "No, the intention is that the bill would take the recommendation of the committee chairman, 'do pass', 'do not pass', and so on. I think it would be significant also in the case of 'do not pass'. If something were to take place with respect to the bill that the chairman felt was objectionable and that would carry the majority recommendation in the committee, but it also would be a 'do not pass' recommendation."

Senator Lee: "I think what I am asking is, it appears that this would be unnecessary when the chairman of the committee voted in the negative; because the usual rule that, if it is a tie vote, that it does not, in other words such a rule would not be necessary, that it is only necessary, really, to assist the chairman when the chairman wishes to, a 'do pass' vote."

Senator Talmadge: "Well, I also think it has the significance with respect to the 'do not pass' which is the affirmative motion."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Clarke: "I would ask Senator Talmadge to recall to me any situation that he can remember where a committee has reported a bill out 'do not pass'. The normal procedure, or course, is that the bill just does not get out of committee. So I think we are talking about things that never occur."

Senator Talmadge: "In response to Senator Clarke's concern, there is a provision in the rules that a bill can carry a 'do not pass' recommendation, need not be laid on the table in the committee."

Further debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Hayner carried and the amendment was adopted on a rising vote.

Senator Hayner moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Hayner, Jones and Clarke:

On page 25, line 507, strike "two-thirds" and reinsert "majority"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, reference to the other house is a clear violation of Reed's rules, it has been tolerated to a point that I now raise the point of order and ask the . . . ".
POINT OF ORDER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, Reed's rules, and I am trying to find it, prohibits reference, I will find it quick enough, prevents reference in floor debate in a legislative body referring to actions of the other body of a unicameral legislature."

RULING BY PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE GOLTZ

President Pro Tempore Goltz: "Senator Hayner may proceed."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Newhouse: "Would Senator Bottiger yield?"

(Senator Bottiger declined.)

Further debate ensued.

Senator Clarke demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senators Hayner, Jones and Clarke to page 25, line 507.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yea, 24; nay, 25.

Voting yea: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallagher, Gould, Guess, Haley, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Scott, Sellar, Zimmerman—24.

There being no objection, on motion of Senator Hayner, an amendment by Senators Hayner, Jones and Clarke to page 31, line 620, on the desk of the Secretary of the Senate, was withdrawn.

Senator Hayner moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Hayner, Jones and Clarke:

On page 31, line 620, strike "only for omnibus appropriations bills"

Debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Hayner failed and the amendment was not adopted.

Senator Hayner moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Hayner, Jones and Clarke:

On page 33, line 664, after "shall be" reinsert "read in full and entered upon the journal" and on line 665 strike "recorded"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Hayner, one of the joint select committee studies was 'How do we get a gubernatorial appointment to a committee so they can begin holding hearings when the Senate was not in session', and I thought that was how we resolved it. If you reinsert 'read in full', then we are back to ground zero and we have no way to get them to the standing committees during interim so that the process will start. This was the key feature, I thought, of the select committee bill, so if Senator von Reichbauer is here, that is my concern."

Senator Hayner: "... refer this to Senator Newhouse."
REMARKS BY SENATOR NEWHOUSE

Senator Newhouse: "Senator Bottiger, I would suggest that the only way we could properly handle that would be by concurrent resolution at the end of the session, give authority to the committees to handle those hearings."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I am not sure I am satisfied with that. Senator von Reichbauer, the proposal is to delete the language which provides the automatic referral of the gubernatorial appointment to a standing committee so that they could begin their work. And I thought that was one of the main features of the select committee report, and for that reason I would have to oppose this. I think we are going a step backwards instead of forward."

The motion by Senator Hayner failed and the amendment was not adopted on a rising vote.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 11, Rule 17, line 207, after "majority vote" insert "of the members present".

The motion by Senator Pullen carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Pullen, the following amendments were considered and adopted simultaneously:

On page 25, Rule 50, line 508, strike "members of the senate" and insert "senators elected".

On page 33, Rule 74, line 668, strike "members of the senate" and insert "senators elected".

On page 34, Rule 74, line 687, strike "members of the senate" and insert "senators elected".

There being no objection, on motion of Senator Pullen, an amendment to page 23, Rule 47, line 477 on the desk of the Secretary of the Senate was withdrawn.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of Senate Resolution 1981–5 as amended.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Peterson: "The last amendment to Senator Pullen's that we adopted, refers to 'senators elected' rather than 'members of the Senate'. It would seem to me that this would put Senator Newhouse in a rather precarious position under these rules."

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE GOLTZ

President Pro Tempore Goltz: "Senator Newhouse does not appear to be precarious, but . . . Senator Pullen, did you want to comment on that point raised by Senator Peterson?"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "I started to but I am not sure I want to now; but just to clarify real quickly, every Senator is elected. Even those that are considered to be appointed are really elected Senators. You are elected by the county commissioners; if not, directly by the people; so every Senator is elected. This language is the same language that is right out of the Constitution and it is the same language that occurs in other rules that we have already adopted and that have existed before. So we like you, Senator Newhouse, and we are glad to keep you."
REMARKS BY SENATOR NEWHOUSE

Senator Newhouse: "I do not feel at all in a precarious position, Senator Peterson. I would point out, though, that by those amendments, there are three places in the rules which require a two-thirds vote of those elected, but you can suspend that rule by two-thirds vote of those present."

Senator Clarke demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on adoption of Senate Resolution 1981–5, as amended.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and Senate Resolution 1981–5, as amended, was adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 25; nays, 24.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Mr. President, did you not rule in the last session that a day is a period from which the sun rises to the time the sun sets and therefore we can come in any time on Monday as long as the sun has not yet set? Just to refresh your memory, Mr. President, I raised the issue last session when someone moved to adjourn and the time would have been, as I recall, seventy-four hours, and I immediately rose and objected, saying that seventy-four hours is more than seventy-two hours, which would be a three-day period. And your ruling at that time was that, it is true that a day can be construed as twenty-four hours, but it can also be construed as the time until the sun sets. And that would allow us, really, until about 5 o'clock p.m. on Monday. We did, under that ruling, recess for a period longer than seventy-two hours, I think it was seventy-four hours at that time."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Pullen, the President would have to refer to the Senate Journal of that time, and also to his friend Mr. Webster, to be able to reply to your inquiry."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "If Senator Pullen would so desire, the President will read the ruling as of January 18, 1980. 'The President has researched a definition of a day. Webster's Third New International Dictionary states '(1) The time of light or interval between one night and the next. The time between sunrise and sunset or from dawn to darkness; (2) The period of the earth's rotation on its axis ordinarily divided into twenty-four hours measured by the interval between two successive transits of a celestial body over the same meridian and taking a specific name from that of the body.' Therefore the President will abide by the Constitution of the State of Washington and rule that the motion by Senator Walgren is in order.' I hope that makes it perfectly clear to each member."

REMARKS BY SENATOR GOLTZ

Senator Goltz: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. Having had at least two opportunities to preside over the bridge of what is the equivalent of the Issaquah, I would point out that being up there and seeing all the variable pitch propellers working out here, turning this thing around in circles just like it did out there in the bay, and . . . realizing what really runs this place is a little gray box back in the work room — I think we should rename this the Issaquah II."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CHARNLEY

Senator Charnley: "Thank you, Mr. President. I simply wanted to request that the President Pro Tem, Senator Goltz, provide us with a log book of the Issaquah II. There are some problems there."

The motion by Senator Bottiger carried and the Senate recessed until 11:00 a.m.

SECOND MORNING SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 11:00 a.m.
MOTION

At 11:01 a.m., on motion of Senator Bottiger, the Senate adjourned until 11:00 a.m., Monday, January 26, 1981.

SECOND READING
SENATE BILL NO. 3110, by Senators Talmadge, Hemstad, Shinpoch, Zimmerman and Deccio:
Providing for reduction of court congestion.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Talmadge, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3110 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 3110 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time in full.

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3110 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Talmadge, in studying this bill, I would like to raise with you, the constitutional question and get your answer in regards to having more than one subject in a bill. It would seem to me that the court, many times has ruled on that, that you cannot contain more than one subject. Now I will call your attention to the fact that the first part of the bill calls for a study, and section 3 says, '... the presiding judge of the superior court ... county shall give full consideration to the recommendations of the judicial council.' But the study provides for reduction in court congestion.

"We are acting on the bill before we even have the study completed, which would be in January 1982. Then we go farther and we issue, provide for the finance committee to issue bonds — that's a different subject; then we provide for the raising of fees in court cases. It would seem to me that we have numerous instances where this bill would be unconstitutional.

"Then the last question would be, generally bond financing is not handled through the judicial committee, judiciary committee, but is handled through the ways and means committee, where we can study the issue. This bill has never gone through the ways and means committee, to my knowledge. I have attended most of the meetings and cannot recall that.

"I would just like your opinion on some of those questions particularly the constitutional one of more than one subject in a bill."

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, I believe Senator Bottiger has had the majority caucus attorney brief the issue of the one subject requirement. But my response will be fairly simple.

"The bill is designed to deal with the problem of court congestion. It is an omnibus court congestion reduction act. It is our belief, and I think it was the belief of the members of the Senate judiciary committee that the issues contained in the bill related to the problem of court congestion, and a method by which that court congestion can be reduced, and the impact on the public of the state of Washington ameliorated.

"I think that is the basic response to your concern, Senator, on a constitutional level, that the bill does relate to the reduction of court congestion in the courts of the state of Washington, and the mechanisms by which we do it are all set forth in that bill. Maybe Senator Bottiger could elucidate you further on the opinion of his caucus attorney."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, Senator Talmadge, we provide for a study to be completed by January 1982 in relation to court congestion and here we are, racing full speed ahead, not waiting for the study to be completed."
REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, Senator Talmadge is accurate. When the bill was in rules, I asked the caucus attorney to look at that question, because I compliment you, I, at least, raised my inquiry the same as yours. And the caucus attorney concluded, as Senator Talmadge has indicated, that it did not violate that section.

"As far as the study is concerned, the court congestion is there, everybody knows it. I do not think there is any dispute as to delay getting to trial. Your son and I both have to use the same court system and I am sure he could tell you the delays that are occasioned in Pierce county.

"Now the study under the bill asks for other suggestions other than the ones we have already identified."

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. I think that Senator Bottiger has more than adequately responded to the concerns raised by Senator Rasmussen. I think, basically, the answer is that the bill does deal entirely with the issue of court congestion."

Further debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the Senate commenced consideration of Senate Joint Resolution No. 107.

SECOND READING

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 107, by Senators Talmadge, Hemstad and Wojahn:

Authorizing additional court commissioners.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

January 15, 1981.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 107, authorizing additional court commissioners, (reported by Judiciary Committee):

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendment:

On page 1, line 12, after "numbert;)" insert "as provided by law"

Signed by: Senators Talmadge, Chairman; Bottiger, Newhouse, Shinpoch, Wojahn, Woody.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the committee amendment was adopted.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 1, line 12 after "perform" reinsert the striken language through "perform" on line 14.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf: "Senator Talmadge, as I read this, and I admit that I am not an attorney, this striken material that this amendment deals with, appears to grant to the court commissioners certain powers. Now you are saying that you want them to have more power, but your striking this language tends to limit their power. Am I reading something incorrectly here? This is a grant of power to them which you are taking away. It seems to me that the amendment is in order but I would appreciate your comments."

Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. In response to Senator Metcalf's concern, what we are attempting to do here is simply say that the legislature shall prescribe what duties the court commissioners may perform. If you look at the language fairly closely I think that is what the language indicates; that we will be the ones who will prescribe what duties the court commissioner shall have.

"The constitution now circumscribes what we can say to the court, that the court commissioner shall do. It limits it to those duties that are performed by a superior court judge in chambers, whatever that means, and nobody knows what that is exactly; to take depositions, and I do not think any judges these days take depositions; and to perform such other business connected with the administration of justice, and so forth.

"I think what we are attempting to do here is simply say that as a matter of public policy, we in the legislature want to be able to prescribe, by statute, what the court commissioners can do. And I think that is what the language is intended to do, Senator."

Senator Metcalf: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate. It appears to me that the constitution is very clear, 'such other business connected with the administration of justice as may be prescribed by law'; that is the legislature. We do have the power, it seems clear that this amendment is in order and I would urge your support."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I do not like to belabor this but if you will talk to Senators Hayner or Clarke or Hemstad or any of the people that are practicing, you will find that court commissioners are used now, currently, as juvenile court judges; to hear motions; to handle minor domestic relations; cases that do not require a formal trial. They do all of this out in the open and if this means that they cannot do that, then we have been doing it wrong for a whole long period of time.

"We do not know what this means 'duties performed in chambers.' Now Senator Rasmussen mentions that the attorneys, in trying a long suit, will generally get together with the judge to discuss how the trial is going. We do that in chambers. 'How many witnesses are you going to call? What are their names? How long do you think it is going to take? I have a speech I have to give on Tuesday afternoon, or Tuesday lunch, so you can expect to have a three-hour lunch on Tuesday instead of an hour-and-a-half.' That is what happens on those trial conferences at chambers.

"Other than that, if you mean in the judge's office by 'at chambers,' court commissioners cannot do anything. And that is what we are trying to do is clear up that ambiguity. Court commissioners are a tool, they cost about one-sixth of what a superior court judge costs; not just the salary, but all the traffic that goes with a superior court judge. We are trying to cut down the cost and speed up the procedure and we would like to expand what a court commissioner, the number of court commissioners we can have in the larger counties, basically where the real backlogs occur, and to be able to define what these people can do, by statute. We have a section in the constitution that potentially clouds what we can make the definition."

Further debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendment was not adopted on a rising vote.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 1, line 13, after "chamber" insert ", subject to revision by such judge."
Debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendment was not adopted.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 1, line 16, after "law" insert ": PROVIDED, That court commissioners of the superior court shall not hear any contested matter, civil or criminal, with the exception of juvenile proceedings as prescribed by law"

Debate ensued.
The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendment was not adopted.
Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 2, line 16, after "law" insert ": PROVIDED, That no court commissioner shall ever preside at a trial"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf: "Senator Talmadge, you say it is done today and commonly done. . . . Is it clearly constitutional what is done today?"

Senator Talmadge: "I think it is."

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment to the amendment:
On the amendment to page 1, line 16, before "trial" insert "jury"

Debate ensued.
The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendment to the amendment was not adopted.
The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendment was not adopted.
On motion of Senator Jones, Senator Deccio was excused.
On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Joint Resolution No. 107 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the resolution was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Talmadge, as I read the language that is in the proposed constitutional amendment it says, "... such business connected with the administration of justice as may be prescribed by law.' And this would allow court commissioners to do anything that has to do with the administration of justice and is taking all of the constitutional—that is the reason for having a constitution, Senator Talmadge, it is not easily changed. It has to go to the people for a vote.
"When a measure goes to the legislature it only takes a very simple majority to pass it; and that is why we have certain restrictions.
"Now the question related directly, is 'business connected with the administration of justice as may be prescribed by law'—that is wide open, isn't it?"

Senator Talmadge: "No."

Senator Rasmussen: "Give me a definition of what you call 'the administration of justice.'"

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, as I tried to indicate previously, and having studied constitutional law myself, I wanted to indicate earlier that this constitutional amendment operates within the constitutional framework of the state constitution and the federal constitution.

"Senator Pullen's concern earlier about a court commissioner presiding over a criminal case, is simply unfounded because that runs afoul of federal constitutional principles that say that is not due process of law. You have to be a regularly constituted judge in order for that person to sit on a criminal matter. Similarly, there are constitutional restrictions both on the civil side and on the criminal side from someone not elected, not accepted by the parties to the lawsuit, hearing the lawsuit for final resolution. That is why this particular measure is not that heinous as you might believe, Senator, because simply it says such duties as may be prescribed by law operates within the already-existing constitutional framework, both state and federal.

"I think that the concerns are simply unfounded."

Further debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Joint Resolution No. 107, and the resolution passed the Senate by the following vote:

Yeas, 35; nays, 11; excused, 3.

ENGROSSED SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 107, having received the constitutional two-thirds majority, was declared passed.

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, we tried to institute a procedure, not a rule, but a procedure whereby the bills would be out on the floor and the calendar would be set two days in advance for as long as we could do it, with the understanding that the amendments would be on the desks twenty-four hours before we considered the calendar, so that each caucus would have the advantage and the understanding, the ability to consider amendments that came up.

"That did not happen today. I would ask that those who want to have an orderly procedure, who wish to legislate from knowledge, comply with that request. I think it would work well and we could proceed. I did not raise any issue, nor did we try to put any amendments on the table but that might not happen next time."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "I would just like to request of the majority leader, that when there is going to be substantial changes in the order in which the calendar is considered, that he endeavor to give us as much advance notice as possible because sometimes we are not prepared in some things and caught more or less unaware, if you switch around too much."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, I would like to serve notice on the majority leader at this time that Senator Rasmussen never had any understanding that he would not, at any time, be allowed to offer an amendment to any bill that was under consideration before this body.

"I do not know what understanding Senator Bottiger had with anybody; but when the people send us down here, considering legislation, they expect us to perfect that legislation in the best manner that we can in our own thinking, representing them.

"I would like to point out that the legislation that we receive on the floor, and Senator Clarke just raised the question, also; we jump around considerably, but let me point out what could happen. Senator Bottiger, in agreement with somebody else, has an amendment that he has agreed on. I do not have any knowledge of that amendment. So because I did not have my amendment in there twenty-four hours before on an amendment that I never knew anything about, the understanding would be we just automatically lay it on the table.

"So I just want to make it very clear that I am not agreeing to any understanding like that and I hope that the rest of this body will continue to represent the people in the manner they expect to be represented when they are sent down here, and that is perfect the legislation, make it the best legislation we can for the people, and that restrictions on amendments as suggested by Senator Bottiger is entirely out of line with what the people expect.

"I would hope you would take that under consideration. I have made it rather broad and pointed but you seem to indicate that there was an understanding. There is no understanding as far as Senator Rasmussen is concerned."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Rasmussen, your message is received.

"In the attempt to legislate accurately with knowledge and with understanding, if the amendment that you would like to offer is put up a little bit ahead of time, then we do not get out onto the floor with amendments which have not been considered in caucus, which the members have not had an opportunity to check with people that may be more knowledgeable in the area. We are not suggesting that you cannot offer amendments—we are just suggesting they not come at the very last minute as has been the practice before.

"It might mean a little extra work, Senator, to look at the calendar and prepare the amendments twenty-four hours ahead of time, but then everybody here legislates from knowledge and not surprise."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, I would point out that I have been reading these calendars many more years than Senator Bottiger has and I am still caught by surprise by the little bugs that I find in the legislation; and quite frequently, as Senator Bottiger well knows, there are mistakes made in our drafting—the court is testing them all the time and the public is catching them more than we are.

"So the fact that you have read the bill and decided you would like to have an amendment, there is no way that I am going to be able to get it in there twenty-four hours ahead of time. The rules committee does have an advantage. I do not know, I wish you would explain who you had that understanding with. Was that discussed in the rules or what was it? What did go on? Or maybe it was back in the chamber."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "I will bite one more time, Senator. This was discussed on the floor and in our caucus at least twice, and individually with members. You do not have to agree, Senator; I would not expect that."

REMARKS BY SENATOR von REICHBAUER

Senator von Reichbauer: "Just a comment to Senator Rasmussen. I would point out, Senator, this is why, the question you raised today is the reason why I included a change in the Senate rules, if we can do it in one day rather than five days."

FIRST READING OF HOUSE BILL
The Secretary read the following:
ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 206, by Committee on Ways and Means (originally sponsored by Representative Chandler):
Adopting a supplemental budget.
Before a referral was made by the President of the Senate, the following action occurred:

MOTION
Senator Newhouse: "Mr. President, I move that Engrossed Substitute House Bill 206 be referred to the committee of the whole Senate."
President Cherberg: "Senator Newhouse has moved that Engrossed Substitute House Bill number 206 be referred to the committee of the whole. Senator Newhouse."

Senator Newhouse: "Senate rule 66, Mr. President. The reason of course is that this is the supplemental budget and the three bills following are revenue bills to implement it and time is of the essence. There is a matter of some immediacy because, particularly in Social and Health Services Department. If a supplemental budget is not passed by February 10, which is next Wednesday, the programs would have to be cut back or eliminated in the department, which would be very drastic. And I suggest that we are, all of us in this body pretty well informed about the provision of this supplemental budget; the Ways and Means Committee, we are well aware, has worked very hard on this for some weeks. I think we are prepared to handle it. I think we should handle it with some immediacy. "If this motion prevails it would be my intent to suggest that the Senate resolve itself into the committee of the whole on Friday, or some other acceptable date, in the near future."

Senator Bluechel demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.
REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, speaking against the motion, this is a way to catch something on the fly and put it on the second reading calendar and then resolve into the committee of the whole.

"Senator McDermott and Senator Moore have scheduled hearings on the effects of the changes in the budgetary process and the programs thereby affected, for their committees and have assured me that those measures will be ready for action on Monday, and that is why we changed the schedule around to provide more floor action time on Monday. And I think catching it there and trying to hold the hearings out on the Senate floor with the witnesses and everything coming, and the questions, would unduly delay it.

"We should go to the committee process, hear the testimony, hear the witnesses, make the report from the committee, and we will be handling that matter Monday, which is the ninth; and Governor Spellman has talked to us about the importance of the date, the tenth, and we will have it out here."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Peterson: "Mr. President, point of parliamentary inquiry.

"The motion is by Senator Newhouse to send this measure to the committee of the whole. We do not have a committee of the whole at the present time. What is the proper course . . . ?"

REPLY BY PRESIDENT CHERBERG

President Cherberg: "Senator Newhouse referred to rule 66, Senator Peterson."

MOTION

At 9:37 a.m., on motion of Senator Bottiger, the Senate adjourned until 10:00 a.m., Friday, February 6, 1981.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE
January 30, 1981.
Mr. President: The House has passed SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1610, notwithstanding the Governor's veto, and the same is herewith transmitted.
VITO T. CHIECHI, Chief Clerk.

MOTION TO OVERRIDE VETO OF SHB 1610
BY GOVERNOR RAY
Senator Shinpoch moved the Senate pass Substitute House Bill No. 1610 notwithstanding the veto by Governor Ray. Substitute House Bill No. 1610 came from the House in the 1980 session of the legislature from the Committee on State Government and was originally sponsored by Representatives McDonald, Sommers, Taller, Nelson (G.), Thompson, Becker, Nisbet, McGinnis, Garrett, Schmitten, Taylor, Williams, Struthers, Addison, Granlund, Hughes, Dunlap, Greeno, Sanders, Nelson (D) and Hastings having the short title of creating the state investment board.

POINT OF INQUIRY
Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Scott, I heard you mention that our over-all investment policies have been dismal at best. What do you mean by that?"
Senator Scott: "Other states' systems of comparable size, in states like Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado have had a return on investments over the last seven years, it has been a percent--and--a-half above ours. Part of this has been determined by the fact that we have had a very restrictive investment policy, up to the last few years, as to what the state finance committee could invest in. Generally, a very conservative policy—part of it is the problem of their reconciling three different types of recommendations from the advisory board and the consultants of TRS, LEOFF and state employees, and try to make a uniform investment policy that can be executed in a timely way.
TWENTY-SIXTH DAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1981

"Those are the two main causes of our performance being below comparable states with comparable investment level."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wilson: "Senator Shinpoch, the teachers, the public employees and the other groups involved in the pension programs, each have representatives presently serving on boards which manage these investments. My question is, do any of these representatives or any of the groups they represent, object to the changes that would be made in this proposal."

Senator Shinpoch: "Senator Wilson, since yesterday we have attempted to make that survey. The position of the Washington Federation of State Employees is unanimous support. The position of TRS was stated as 'soft support might be possible but the official position is neutrality.'

"The position of the LEOFF system is neutrality and we have statements such as 'we admit the administrative wisdom of the bill' and those kinds of things; but their official position is as I have indicated it to you to the best that we were able to determine in the last, say, twenty-four hours."

REMARKS BY SENATOR SHINPOCH

Senator Shinpoch: "While I am on my feet might I make a very short response to Senator Rasmussen.

"I would just like to point out to you that three members of the board of the state finance committee are elected officials. There is a senator, a member of the Senate, a member of the House, the state treasurer. I would point out one more thing—that the treasurer is appointed by the board to serve for three years; however, it requires the concurrence and the approval of the Senate for that to occur; and it is a three-year term. There are adequate controls available, both from the elected officials and from the fact that it requires the approval of the Senate."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Shinpoch that the Senate pass Substitute House Bill No. 1610 considered in the 1980 session of the legislature, notwithstanding the veto by Governor Ray.

ROLL CALL ON OVERRIDING VETO BY GOVERNOR RAY

The Secretary called the roll and Substitute House Bill No. 1610 passed the Senate, notwithstanding the veto by Governor Ray, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 42; nays 7.

SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 1610, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.
Remarks by President Cherberg

President Cherberg: "Introduction, first reading and reference of bills, memorials, and resolutions.

"Honored members of the Senate, it is clearly indicated that the first large number of bills will be referred to the energy and utilities committee. These bills are title only bills . . . Senator Newhouse . . ."

Remarks by Senator Newhouse

Senator Newhouse: "Mr. President I would refer to rule 18, 'unfinished business' on this order of business from the previous day."

Reply by President Cherberg

President Cherberg: "Will you please state rule 18, Senator Newhouse."

Remarks by Senator Newhouse

Senator Newhouse: "Mr. President, 'The unfinished business at the preceding adjournment shall have preference over all other matters, . . .'"

Reply by President Cherberg

President Cherberg: "The motion that Senator Newhouse has referred to is his motion of February 4, 1981, that Engrossed Substitute House Bill 206 be referred to the committee of the whole Senate. A roll call was demanded and the demand sustained."

Parliamentary Inquiry

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, as I read Rule 58, the action of the committee, while in the committee of the whole, requires a two-thirds vote on amendments from the bill that was referred from the ways and means committee. My point of inquiry would be that, would amendments, since the bill has not gone to ways and means, only require a majority vote?"

Reply by President Cherberg

President Cherberg: "The President will read the second portion of Senate Rule 58. 'No amendment to the omnibus appropriations bill, commonly known as the budget or supplemental budget, adding any new item, or items, thereto not incorporated in the bill as reported by the ways and means committee, shall be adopted except by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the senators elected.'

"In reply to your inquiry, Senator Bottiger, the President believes that inasmuch as this measure has not been reported out by the ways and means committee, that a majority vote is required for the adoption of an amendment."

Debate ensued.

Senators Fleming, Talley and Jones demanded a Call of the Senate. A Call of the Senate was ordered.

Call of the Senate

The Sergeant at Arms locked the doors of the Senate Chamber. The Secretary called the roll on the Call of the Senate, all members being present.
MOTION

On motion of Senator Bottiger, the Senate proceeded under the Call of the Senate.

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Senator Hayner, knowing that we want to get out of here in one hundred and five days, and knowing that the House has three appropriation committees, a committee on ways and means, and a committee on revenue, will it be your recommendation when the good and responsible Senate-originated biennial budget goes over to the House, that when that budget goes over, the House would resolve itself into a committee of the whole upon receipt of the budget from the Senate, and deal with the Senate budget in a fashion you recommend here?"

Senator Hayner: "That would certainly be up to the House to make that decision, Senator Talmadge.

"There is a great difference between a biennial budget and a supplemental budget, as you very well know. We had a spread sheet on the supplemental budget which is very limited. You know what the size of the biennial budget is. And they are going to have a committee of the whole to finally discuss the biennial budget, there is no question about that."

Debate ensued.

Senators Ridder, Fleming and Talley demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Newhouse made on the floor of the Senate on February 4, 1981 that Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 206 be referred to the committee of the whole Senate.

The motion for a roll call had been made by Senator Bluechel on February 4, 1981 and the demand was sustained.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion by Senator Newhouse failed by the following vote: Yeas, 24; nays, 25.

Voting yea: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallagher, Gould, Guess, Haley, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Scott, Sellar, Zimmerman—24.

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 206 was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3112, by Senators Talmadge, Hemstad, Shinpoch, Vognild and Deccio:
Providing for the award of expenses to prevailing parties in civil actions.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

January 15, 1981.

SENATE BILL NO. 3112, providing for the award of expenses to prevailing parties in civil actions (reported by Judiciary Committee): MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendment:
On page 1, line 23 after "files;" strike down to and including "witnesses," on line 25.
Renumber the remaining sections consecutively.
Signed by: Senators Talmadge, Chairman; Bottiger, Newhouse, Shinpoch, Wojahn and Woody.
The bill was read the second time by sections.
On motion of Senator Talmadge, the committee amendment was adopted.
Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 2, line 3, add a new subsection to read as follows:
"(8) Loss of income in those cases where the State of Washington or any political subdivision thereof, is both the complainant and non-prevailing party and the prevailing party is a natural person or his or her marital community"
Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Talmadge, does the state ever participate in civil suits against persons?"
Senator Talmadge: "Yes, it does. I think the remarks I made, Senator, were directed to Senator Pullen's concerns that, I think he was suggesting that this particular amendment would apply to criminal actions brought by the state or in the name of the state. And this particular piece of legislation only applies to costs in civil litigation."
Further debate ensued.
Senator Haley moved adoption of the following amendment to the amendment by Senator Pullen:
On line 2 of the amendment, strike "political subdivision" and insert "or any department, office, commission or board"
Debate ensued.
The motion by Senator Haley failed and the amendment to the amendment was not adopted.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the amendment by Senator Pullen.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Guess: "Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Bottiger a question. Senator Bottiger, in a case where a city or the state sues, not sues but enters into a condemnation procedure and the court, the jury says 'No, that the price that was offered by the city or the state was too low and therefore you are going to have to give the individual party more money.' Would this impact the condemnation proceedings in any way?"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Guess, clearly it would. It would not make any difference what the jury came back with. They could come back with less than the city offered. The property owner is always the prevailing party in a condemnation action. He is awarded a judgment for whatever the jury says. He is the prevailing party.

"So in every case this amendment would add all of the lost income of that property owner even though actually he lost. He got less than was offered to him."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Guess, your question to Senator Bottiger, because you indicate that because it was going to cost the state more money, that the individual should not have the right of recovery.

"Now in a case of condemnation, Senator Guess, and I want to ask you this and you are well aware of it, the state moves in and condemns a person's property and very often through the eagerness of the appraisers or someone, the state loses and the property owner receives additional compensation. This would merely say that he gets his crops (sic) back in relation to the loss of income; and it could well be that he would lose income because the state moved in to condemn the property. The little individual, I think, is the one that needs protection and I think you would agree with that—you have always stood on this floor and fought for the individual protection against the great state, or any political subdivision. What is your answer to that, Senator?"

Senator Guess: "Senator Rasmussen, in reply to that I remember back on a case where the jury increased the value, or increased the settlement to the individual property owner just north of Tacoma by the order of almost two to one what the state had been willing originally to give. They took into consideration in making that award the cost of the fees that the attorney charged the individual landowner to represent him; but the cost of the income that the man lost by being in court the three days that it was required that he be there, was not specifically spelled out. I do not know whether he felt like that he needed reimbursement, I know that he felt very much gratified that the jury did double the award and he was satisfied. But now would they have to go back and delineate the amount of money of that judgment that was reimbursement for the days he was in court? I do not know."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Guess, in answer to your question, I think Senator Talmadge can answer that and that the court is the final wording or what we are putting in is just merely guidance for the court. Is this correct Senator Talmadge?"

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: "In response to Senator Guess' question, in addition to the judgment that would be rendered, they would be entitled to loss income beyond the amount of the judgment."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Talmadge, is the final decision up to the court on the amount?"

Senator Talmadge: ". . . as to the amount of loss income? Yes, it is but they have to take testimony as to what the income loss was."
REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you, Senator Talmadge. Senator Guess, that gives you your answer. If we believe in the courts and the court system, it lays right out there before you. It is the judgment of the judge."

Further debate ensued.

Senators Bottiger, von Reichbauer and Goltz demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the amendment by Senator Pullen.

The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendment was not adopted on a rising vote.

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3112 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Bottiger, the bill proposes to allow 'termed costs, including, but not limited to, the following expenses . . .' . . but not limited to . . .' What does that refer to?"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Rasmussen, if you will read earlier in that paragraph 'parties are allowed by contract to agree to what cost would be paid the prevailing party,' and under this section, if you and I by contract agree that we would submit something to arbitration and share the expense, this section says those are enforceable contracts.

"When you get down to the 'including, but not limited to,' then we set out the specifics. If the parties have not agreed, this is what the judge will consider."

Senator Rasmussen: "Whether witness fees and expenses—that would be part of the cost that would be assigned to the prevailing party?"

Senator Bottiger: "There is a statute that sets up, I believe it is ten dollars, and four cents a mile, is what you can recover for a witness fee. You have to prove you paid him."

Senator Rasmussen: "I recall a recent case in Pierce county where the judge was complaining because there were two hundred witnesses. So you could call any amount of witnesses sustaining your side and would be required to pay for them."

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, judges have a habit of calling you in to chambers and saying that 'you are taking too long, you told me three days, and now it looks as if you are going fifteen'; and they have a lot of tools available to them to keep the attorneys from doing that."

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3112, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 44; nays, 5.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE GOLTZ

President Pro Tempore Goltz: "The Chair would like to announce that I am chairing today because Lieutenant Governor Cherberg is at the dentist. I would also say that it has not gone unnoticed that the first time I chaired there was a motion immediately made to let everybody in this body chair this Senate. The second time I chaired, there were efforts made to have me chair again and it was not supported by my side of the aisle, but today, by virtue of a medical or dental problem with the Lieutenant Governor, I am back."

The bill was read the second time by sections.

Senator McDermott moved adoption of the committee amendment.
Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Senator McDermott, many of us have a concern about the cutting out of services, chiropractic services, dental services, podiatry services, and FAMCO for the poor. Many of us want to be assured that in the biennial budget we are not making any decisions in this proposed supplemental budget that will affect the policy decisions we make with respect to the biennial budget. Comments, please."

Senator McDermott: "Senator Talmadge, the substantive legislation and the budget which we are adopting here, contain a cutoff on the thirtieth of June on this withholding of the services which we have provided in the past.

"There is nothing in the law, nor is it my intention to end those services. It is merely a short-term way to save some money; we have cut out FAMCO, we have cut out a lot of things which I think, in the long run, we ought to have a debate about, whether we need the additional money to provide those. But I do not see this as making the final decision."

Further debate ensued.

Senator Fleming demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the committee amendment to Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 206.

mittee on Ways and Means (originally sponsored by Committee on Revenue and Representative Greengo):

Modifying provisions relating to state funds.
The report by the Committee on Ways and Means was read in the Senate today. The rules were suspended and the bill was placed on the second reading calendar. The report from the Committee on Ways and Means was signed out by Senators McDermott, Chairman; Gaspard, First Vice Chairman; Wojahn, Second Vice Chairman; Bauer, Fleming, Goltz, Hughes, Rasmussen, Ridder, Scott, Talmadge and Woody with the recommendation that it do pass with the following amendment:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Section 1. There is added to chapter 48.14 RCW a new section to read as follows:

(1) Every insurer with a tax obligation under RCW 48.14.020 shall make prepayment of the tax obligations under RCW 48.14.020 for the current calendar year's business, if the sum of the tax obligations under RCW 48.14.020 for the preceding calendar year's business is ten thousand dollars or more.

(2) The commissioner shall credit the prepayment toward the appropriate tax obligations of the insurer for the current calendar year under RCW 48.14.020.

(3) The minimum amounts of the prepayments shall be percentages of the insurer's tax obligation based on the preceding calendar year's business and shall be paid to the state treasurer through the commissioner's office by the due dates and in the following amounts:

(a) On or before June 15, forty-five percent;
(b) On or before September 15, twenty-five percent; and
(c) On or before December 15, twenty-five percent.

The commissioner may approve prepayments of lesser amounts if the insurer demonstrates, to the commissioner's satisfaction, that a reduction in current calendar year premium volume will result in a lesser tax liability than for the preceding year. Any approved revised prepayment schedule must equal ninety-five percent of the total tax liability for the current calendar year.

(4) The effect of transferring policies of insurance from one insurer to another insurer is to transfer the tax prepayment obligation with respect to the policies.

(5) On or before June 1 of each year, the commissioner shall notify each insurer required to make prepayments in that year of the amount of each prepayment and shall provide remittance forms to be used by the insurer. However, an insurer's responsibility to make prepayments is not affected by failure of the commissioner to send, or the insurer to receive, the notice or forms.

Sec. 2. Section 14.06, chapter 79, Laws of 1947 and RCW 48.14.060 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Any insurer failing to file its tax statement and to pay the specified tax or prepayment of tax on premiums (for more than thirty days after date due shall be liable to a penalty of twenty-five dollars for each additional day of delinquency) by the last day of the month in which the tax becomes due shall be assessed a penalty of five percent of the amount of the tax; and if the tax is not paid within forty-five days after the due date, the insurer shall be assessed a total penalty of ten percent of the amount of the tax; and if the tax is not paid within sixty days of the due date, the insurer shall be assessed a total penalty of twenty percent of the amount of the tax. In such event the tax may be collected by distraint, and the penalty recovered by any action instituted by the commissioner in any court of competent jurisdiction. The amount of any such penalty collected shall be paid to the state treasurer and credited to the general fund.

(2) At his discretion the commissioner may revoke the certificate of authority of any such delinquent insurer, such certificate of authority not to be reissued until all taxes, prepayments of tax, and penalties incurred by the insurer have been fully paid and the insurer has otherwise qualified for the certificate of authority.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. There is added to chapter 84.33 RCW a new section to read as follows:
A timber tax distribution guarantee account is established in the state treasury. Any interest earned on the investment of cash balances in this account shall be deposited in this account. If funds in the state timber tax reserve account are insufficient to make the distributions under RCW 84.33.080(4), each taxing district other than the state shall receive an amount from the timber tax distribution guarantee account to cover the insufficiency: PROVIDED, That a school district shall not receive an amount from the timber tax distribution guarantee account for that part of its state timber tax reserve account distribution which is attributable to a maintenance and operation levy.

Sec. 4. Section 8, chapter 294, Laws of 1971 ex. sess. as last amended by section 3, chapter 6, Laws of 1979 and RCW 84.33.080 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) On or before December 15 of each year commencing with 1972, the assessor of each timber county shall deliver to the treasurer of such county and to the department of revenue a schedule setting forth for each taxing district or portion thereof lying within such county:

(a) The value of timber as shown on the timber roll for such year;
(b) The aggregate dollar rate calculated pursuant to RCW 84.33.060 and actually utilized the immediately preceding October in extending real property taxes upon the tax rolls for collection in the following year;
(c) A "timber factor" which is the product of such aggregate dollar rate, the assessment ratio applied generally by such assessor in computing the assessed value of other property in his county and the appropriate portion listed below of the timber roll for such year ((a) above):

On or before December 31 of each year commencing with 1972, the department of revenue shall determine the proportion that each taxing district's timber factor bears to the sum of the timber factors for all taxing districts in the state, and shall deliver a list to the assessor and the treasurer of each timber county and to the state treasurer showing the factor and proportion for each taxing district.

(2) On the twentieth day of the second month of each calendar quarter, commencing February 20, 1974, the state treasurer shall pay to the treasurer of each timber county for the account of each taxing district such district's proportion and pay into the state general fund for the support of the common schools the state's proportion (determined in December of the preceding year pursuant to subsection (1) of this section) of the amount in state timber tax account A collected upon timber harvested in the preceding calendar quarter, but in no event shall any such quarterly payment to a taxing district, when added to such payments made to such district the previous quarters of the same year, exceed, respectively one-fourth, one-half, three-fourths, or the full amount of the timber factor for such district determined in December of the preceding year.

The balance in state timber tax account A, if any, on the twentieth day of the second month of each calendar quarter commencing February 20, 1975 and ending November 20, 1982 shall be transferred to the state timber tax reserve account.

(3) If the balance in state timber tax account A immediately prior to such twentieth day of the second month of each calendar quarter is not sufficient to permit a payment of one-fourth, one-half, three-fourths, or the full amount, as the case may be, which, when added to the payments made to any taxing district the previous quarters of the same year, will equal the timber factor for such district determined in December of the preceding year, the necessary additional amount shall be transferred from the state timber tax reserve account to state timber tax account A.

(4) ((If, after the transfer, if any, from the state timber tax account A (pursuant to subsection (2) of this section) in August of any year commencing with 1974, the balance in the state timber reserve account exceeds two million dollars, the amount of the excess shall be applied first, subject to legislative appropriation of funds allocated from the state timber reserve account.)) Funds in the state timber tax reserve account may be transferred by June 30, 1981, by the legislature for state purposes or may be appropriated by the legislature for activities undertaken by the department of revenue forest tax division and for the activities undertaken by the department of natural resources relating to classification of lands as required by this dollars.)) the department of revenue shall determine on or before December 31 of such year, an amount to be distributed to the taxing districts the following calendar year, which distribution shall be determined in the following manner: PROVIDED, That the amount of such excess reserve account distribution shall be limited to that amount which, when added to the total account A distribution for the same calendar year, will allow a percentage increase or decrease in total calendar year distributions equal to the percentage increase or decrease in excise tax collections between the preceding calendar year and the current calendar year:

(a) The department of revenue shall calculate a harvest factor and a harvest factor proportion for each taxing district, in the manner provided in subsection (5) of this section except that for years before 1978 there shall be used the aggregate value of timber harvested for as many quarters for which information is available;

(b) By multiplying the amount of such excess by the harvest factor proportion for each taxing district respectively, the department of revenue shall calculate the amount to be distributed to each local taxing district and to the state and shall certify such amounts to the respective county assessors and state;

(c) Along with each quarterly payment pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, the state treasurer shall pay, out of the state timber reserve account, to the treasurer of each timber county for the account of each local taxing district one-fourth of such district's portion (determined pursuant to (b) above) of such excess and the state treasurer shall pay into the state's general fund for the support of the common schools out of the state timber tax reserve account such additional one-fourth amount due the state.

chapter 84.52 RCW and actually utilized the immediately preceding October in extending real property taxes upon the tax rolls for collection the following year;

aggregate dollar rate;

(d) The proportion that each taxing district's harvest factor bears to the sum of the harvest factors for all taxing districts in the state.

For tax payments due for taxable activities occurring after December, 1981, these taxes are due and payable within five days following the end of the month in which the taxable activities occur. The payments so remitted shall be made along with a form which sets forth the amount of tax estimated by the taxpayer to be due and such other taxpayer account information as the department of revenue may require. A reconciliation report shall be submitted before the end of the next month succeeding each calendar quarter of each calendar year for the preceding calendar quarter setting forth the amount of gross sales, including nontaxable sales, taxable sales or activities, the amount of tax thereon, and such other information as the department may require, and the taxpayer shall remit therewith the balance owing, if any, of the tax due for the three months of the preceding quarter. The report shall set forth the amount of the payments made at the end of each month of the quarter and any balance due or credit due the taxpayer. For paying less than the total amount due in any month of the quarter, a penalty equal to ten percent of the amount underpaid shall be assessed unless the total of the amounts paid monthly is at least ninety percent of the amount due. This penalty for underpaying is in addition to any penalties applicable for failure to pay before penalty dates under RCW 82.32.090.

The department of revenue may relieve any taxpayer or class of taxpayers from the obligation of remitting monthly and may require the return to cover other longer reporting periods, but in no event may returns be filed for a period greater than one year. These tax returns are due and payable before the end of the next month succeeding each reporting period.

The department of revenue may also require verified annual returns from any taxpayer, setting forth such additional information as it may deem necessary to correctly determine tax liability.

Sec. 7. Section 82.32.090, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 1, chapter 179, Laws of 1971 ex. sess. and RCW 82.32.090 are each amended to read as follows:

If payment of any tax due is not received by the department of revenue by the ((last day of the month in which the tax becomes)) due date, there shall be assessed a penalty of five percent of the amount of the tax; and if the tax is not received by the last day of the month ((next succeeding the month)) in which the due date falls, there shall be assessed a total penalty of ten percent of the amount of the tax; and if the tax is not received by the last day of the ((second)) month next succeeding the month in which the due date falls, there shall be assessed a total penalty of twenty percent of the amount of the tax. No penalty so added shall be less than two dollars.

If payment of any tax is received within the first ten days of the month next succeeding the month in which the tax is payable, the amount of such payment shall be credited to, and shall be treated for all purposes as having been collected during, the fiscal year which includes the month preceding the month in which such due date falls. Effective June 30, 1985, and thereafter if the payment of any tax is received during the first fifteen days in the month in which the tax is payable, the amount of such payment shall be credited to, and shall be treated for all purposes as having been collected during, the fiscal year which includes the month preceding the month in which such due date falls.

If a warrant be issued by the department of revenue for the collection of taxes, increases, and penalties, there shall be added thereto a penalty of five percent of the amount of the tax, but not less than five dollars.
Notwithstanding the foregoing, the aggregate of penalties imposed under this chapter for failure to file a return, late payment of any tax, increase, or penalty, or issuance of a warrant shall not exceed twenty-five percent of the tax due, or seven dollars, whichever is greater.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. The following acts or parts of acts are each repealed:
(1) Section 82.04.490, chapter 15, Laws of 1961, section 45, chapter 278, Laws of 1975 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.04.490;

The bill was read the second time by sections.
Senator McDermott moved adoption of the committee amendment.
Debate ensued.
The motion by Senator McDermott carried and the committee amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator McDermott, the following committee amendment to the title was adopted:
On page 1, on line 1 of the title, after "state funds;" strike the remainder of the title and insert "amending section .14.06, chapter 79, Laws of 1947 and RCW 48.14.060; amending section 8, chapter 294, Laws of 1971 ex. sess. as last amended by section 3, chapter 6, Laws of 1979 and RCW 84.33.080; amending section 82.32.090, chapter 15, Laws of 1961 as last amended by section 1, chapter 179, Laws of 1971 ex. sess. and RCW 82.32.090; adding a new section to chapter 48.14 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 82.32 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 84.33 RCW; creating a new section; repealing section 82.04.490, chapter 15, Laws of 1961, section 45, chapter 278, Laws of 1975 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.04.490; repealing section 82.08.070, chapter 15, Laws of 1961, section 8, chapter 293, Laws of 1961, section 8, chapter 299, Laws of 1971 ex. sess. and RCW 82.08.070; repealing section 82.12.050, chapter 15, Laws of 1961, section 53, chapter 278, Laws of 1975 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.12.050; repealing section 82.16.070, chapter 15, Laws of 1961, section 14, chapter 293, Laws of 1961, section 56, chapter 278, Laws of 1975 1st ex. sess. and RCW 82.16.070; repealing section 1, chapter 70, Laws of 1975-'76 2nd ex. sess. and RCW 82.32.095; providing effective dates; and declaring an emergency."

On motion of Senator McDermott, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 209, as amended by the Senate, was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Guess: "Senator McDermott, you went over this rather fast. We did not have it in caucus and I have a question about section seven. Can you explain that to me?"
Senator McDermott: "It surprises me that you have not discussed this bill extensively over the last four days."

Senator Guess: "This is the first time we have seen it."

Senator McDermott: "This is essentially the part of the bill that advances the collection of the excise tax. I do not know what more you want to know about it. It is obviously a light bulb snatch. The more reaching back and pulling forward and making sure that the money is there to replace the accrual account as quickly as possible."

Senator Guess: "Is a person, is this going to make him go to the bank and borrow money to pay his taxes with?"

Senator McDermott: "As soon as that sales tax is collected, Senator Guess, it is the state's money; and this is saying that he is going to have to pay it to us a little earlier. It is really going to take away some float, but I think anybody who is running a good business knows very quickly what his tax obligation is and is prepared to pay it."

Senator Guess: "How about the company that has a big sale at the end of the month and they usually have, it is sort of a standard practice end-of-month sale; this will be on the 29th and 30th of the month. And these people sometimes take as many as, until the 20th, to really tally all of the sales that they have made. Those people who use charge cards and who operate businesses on accounts receivable are not going to get their money yet but they are going to have to pay it by the 15th. Is that what you are saying?"

Senator McDermott: "Well first of all, Senator Guess, it is an estimate but I checked with our consultants, secretary of the senate Sid Snyder who runs a little grocery store. He has electronic calculators or cash registers and all he has to do is go down and pull the tape out and look at it, and he knows immediately. And he can estimate what has happened on the basis of that, what he needs and he can easily do it. I am sure that a big operation like a big department store has had a big sale, would not have any problem using their electronic cash registers to obtain that data."

Senator Guess: "But they are going to have to go to the bank to borrow that money because when they make charges they do not get the money the next day. A lot of them do not, they send bills out and the post office being what it is today, it sometimes takes you four or five days to get a bill there; you write the check, then you put it back in the mail and so the company is really not going to get this money. So what you are doing is that you are going to make the companies go in and borrow money. Some of them are paying 22¾% for operating cash."

"Now is this smart business as far as the economic climate of the state of Washington is concerned?"

Senator McDermott: "Well Senator Guess, I have checked this; we had testimony before the committee; Governor Spellman, budget officers came up and said this is what they wanted to do, that they thought it was good business practice; and the Senate supported Governor Spellman's proposal for this tax."

Senator Guess: "This part of the Senate did not do it."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lee: "On page 10 where we are into the excise tax portion, notice that, I am now on line 17, 'for tax payments due for taxable activities occurring after December 1981, these taxes are due and payable within five days following the end of the month.'

"Now this is the taxing that you are going to begin at the end of this particular year. Is that correct?"

Senator McDermott: "You should point out to me the line again. You said 'five days'; I do not see five days there."
Senator Lee: "That is line 20."
Senator McDermott: "Oh, line 20, okay."
Senator Lee: "Those are for the taxes that are due and payable next year, actually in 1982. Is that correct?"
Senator McDermott: "This is a fiscal year . . . ."
Senator Lee: "All right. For tax payments due after December 1981 which has not arrived yet and will not for a few more months. So these are taxes that will be collected in 1982. That is where you are going to the five days, is that correct?"
Senator McDermott: "Yes. After 1981 that is reduced to five days, that is correct."
Senator Lee: "All right. Now the taxes that are due and payable after December of 1980, in other words the ones that would normally be due on the end of February you are advancing that date until the 15th, is that correct? For this year, for 1981?"
Senator McDermott: "Where are you reading?"
Senator Lee: "Line 15, 'payable within 15 following the end of the month.'"
Senator McDermott: "That is correct."
Senator Lee: "Okay, but the concern that I have at this moment, of course, is the date of passage of this particular bill. We are now at the 9th of February; are we saying then, that within six days, that those are going to have to be due and payable; and that the department of revenue will have to have out its new forms because the current forms are incorrect; you have the excise tax at the top, you have the sales tax in the middle, and the sales taxes are still on the old schedule."
Senator McDermott: "It would be my impression that Mr. Pascall of the revenue department who proposed this bill had thought that through carefully and I am sure that he . . . ."
Senator Lee: "I understand that he did propose the bill; but we are talking about the amendment, now, that the Senate has made to the bill, not to the original bill."
Senator McDermott: "If you will look on page 14 of the bill, line 18, it says that section 6, 7 and 8 of the act will take effect on July 1, 1981. So this section does not take effect until July 1."
Senator Lee: "All right, then none of this activity that we are talking about, the advance of the 15 days for six months and then the advance of the 5 days, takes place until after July of this year."
Senator McDermott: "That is correct."
Senator Lee: "Okay, thank you very much."
Senator McDermott: "July first."
Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lee: "Senator Bottiger, because I find your remarks very interesting, because it is my understanding and it was made clear by Senator McDermott, that none of this increased revenue, this revenue coming into the treasury at an earlier date, is going to take place until after this biennium is all over, until after July."
Senator Bottiger: "In a sense, Senator, there is a shift . . . ."
Senator Lee: "That is right, so therefore what we are proposing to do is to take the $82 million of the accrued revenue account and use that instead, during this particular, of the end of this biennium. How can that keep our bond rating good when we are doing nothing to replace it until the next biennium, if we are going to be using it Tuesday?"
Senator Bottiger: "As I understand it from, not being a member of that committee and repeating only what I have been told in caucus and by people interested, the bond people want to see a method set up for reaccruing that account, that we used it once but we are paying it back. This is one of the tools that they expected us to do to maintain that bond rating."

Senator Lee: "But we have a five-month gap before we begin that process, and that is the thing that concerns me a great deal."

Senator Bottiger: "I simply do not know the answer; Senator Shinpoch or Senator McDermott would be who I would yield to."

REMARKS BY SENATOR SHINPOCH

Senator Shinpoch: "I am not sure that I am the one to really discuss this; I really do not like this movement. If you recall we questioned Taller and Pascall for quite some time and the answer was that they are comfortable. That did not make me any more comfortable than I was before. They also indicated they had every living ex-director of the office of fiscal management, with the exception of Lee Buffington, in the world, working on this and this was the best they could come up with.

"And so I am not, Don Burroughs provided us with a flow chart that would indicate that we are not going to have the problem as long as we move to the fifth of the month. It is my understanding at least that the treasurer's office has indicated the fifth of the month is sufficient to have the money in, but I guess I really do not like any of this. I do not think it is very responsible but I am making an attempt to support our Governor."

REMARKS BY SENATOR LEE

Senator Lee: "I can understand the fifth of the month collection. What I am questioning is the great gap before we start that procedure, using up the money several months in advance before we begin any attempt whatsoever to begin the procedure; and it was also my understanding that there were recommendations that would have advanced that so that some of that could have been begun during this biennium, which I think would be a wise move."

REMARKS BY SENATOR SHINPOCH

Senator Shinpoch: "I suggested that to the department of revenue and they indicated all these massive problems they had of attempting to make this work because of the quarterly, make it work as of the, what is it, March 1, April 1 date? That it was simply necessary to go out and I guess I was not necessarily comfortable with that, either."

STATEMENT FOR THE JOURNAL

February 11, 1981.

From the desk of Senator Bob McCaslin
Regarding Senate Bill No. 3058

This legislation infringes on the right of free speech and press. How is it that we can legalize the sale of pornographic literature and films and any restriction is a restriction of free speech and press? Yet, it is legal to restrict the sale of term papers, thesis and dissertations.

Signed: SENATOR BOB McCASLIN

MOTION

On motion of Senator Bottiger, Senate Bill No. 3071 was made a special order of business for 11:45 a.m. today.
SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3080, by Judiciary Committee (originally sponsored by Senators Talmadge, Clarke, Newhouse and Wojahn):
Correcting an erroneous cross-reference in RCW 46.63.020(33).

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Talmadge, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3080 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 3080 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time in full.

On motion of Senator Bauer, the following amendment by Senators Bauer, Zimmerman and Talmadge was adopted:

On page 5, line 15, add a new section to read as follows:

"Sec. 6. Section 13, chapter 136, Laws of 1979 ex. sess. as amended by section 4, chapter 128, Laws of 1980 and RCW 46.63.110 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A person found to have committed a traffic infraction shall be assessed a monetary penalty. No penalty may exceed two hundred and fifty dollars for each offense unless authorized by this chapter or title.

(2) The supreme court may prescribe by rule a schedule of monetary penalties for designated traffic infractions.

(3) There shall be a penalty of twenty-five dollars for failure to respond to a notice of traffic infraction except where the infraction relates to overtime parking as defined by local law, ordinance, regulation, or resolution or failure to pay a monetary penalty imposed pursuant to this chapter. The monetary penalty for failure to respond to a notice of a traffic infraction relating to overtime parking as defined by local law, ordinance, regulation, or resolution shall be set by the local legislative body which originally enacted the local law, ordinance, regulation, or resolution creating the parking offense. The local court, whether a municipal, police, or district court may impose the monetary penalty set by the local legislative body. Such locally set monetary penalty is not subject to the assessments required by RCW 46.81.030 and 43.101.210 and related court rules.

(4) Monetary penalties provided in chapter 46.70 RCW which are civil in nature and penalties which may be assessed for violations of chapter 46.44 relating to size, weight, and load of motor vehicles are not subject to the limitation on the amount of monetary penalties which may be imposed pursuant to this chapter.

(5) Whenever a monetary penalty is imposed by a court under this chapter it is immediately payable. If a person is unable to pay at that time the court may, in its discretion, grant an extension of the period in which the penalty may be paid. If the penalty is not paid on or before the time established for payment the court shall notify the department of the failure to pay the penalty, and the department may not renew the person's driver's license until the penalty has been paid and the penalty provided in subsection (3) of this section has been paid."

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively.

On motion of Senator Bauer, the following amendment by Senators Bauer, Zimmerman and Talmadge to the title was adopted:

On page 1, line 7 of the title, after "42.16.020;" insert "amending section 13, chapter 136, Laws of 1979 ex. sess. as amended by section 4, chapter 128, Laws of 1980 and RCW 46.64.110;"

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3080 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.
ROLL CALL

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3100, by Senators Moore, Gould, Talmadgc, Shinpoch, Quigg and Woody:

Requiring both spouses to participate in the sale or encumbrance of a mobile home.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

Senator Talmadgc moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Kiskaddon and Talmadgc:

On page 2, line 3, after", or a” insert “community” and strike “used as a princi­pal residence”

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Hayner: "Senator Kiskaddon, I hope that there will not be any confu­sion by the insertion of the word 'community mobile home'. I assume what you are meaning is that it would be a mobile home which is community property. Is that correct?"

Senator Kiskaddon: "Yes."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Guess: "Senator Talmadgc, aren't we introducing an ambiguity by saying a 'community mobile home'?"

Senator Talmadgc: "No, I think Senator Kiskaddon's response to Senator Hayner's question was accurate. We are simply saying that the mobile home, community property mobile home, should be transferred in the way that we provide for in the community property law.

"I do not see that we are providing any ambiguity, Senator, because up above it on page 2 of the bill, there is a reference to community household goods, and so forth, to make it clear that we are talking about just those items that are community property, not those items that separate property brought into the marriage."

Senator Guess: "Thank you, Senator."

The motion by Senator Talmadgc carried and the amendment was adopted.

Senator Kiskaddon moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Kiskaddon and Talmadgc:

On page 2, beginning on line 22, after "homes" strike the period and all of the underlined material through "owners" on line 24 and insert:

": PROVIDED FURTHER, That in order to lawfully transfer ownership of a community mobile home, both spouses must sign the title certificate"
THIRTY-FIRST DAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1981

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Kiskaddon, I think you picked a couple of good bugs out of this bill. Did you have your amendments up there twenty-four hours before?"

Senator Kiskaddon: "No, we have been talking about them, but we did not actually have them on the desk twenty-four hours before."

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you, Senator Kiskaddon."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Bottiger, can you see the usefulness of being able to put an amendment up there before the twenty-four hours have expired?"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, let me assure that the knowledge and the substance of this amendment has been on the floor as long as the bill has. There have been six or seven versions of it attempted to be worked out; everybody knew about it and everybody understood what the goal was. So while the last exact language was not up there, several earlier drafts were."

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Bottiger, I congratulate you, you are an expert with double speech and double talk. Everybody did not know about it—I had no knowledge of it until it was in printed form on my desk and I thank you very much for agreeing to allow Senator Kiskaddon to evade the generally unknown rule."

The motion by Senator Kiskaddon carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Moore, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3100 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

A news release pertaining to the hearing shall be disseminated among printed and electronic media in the area where the property is located. SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3071, by Senators Talmadge, Clarke, Newhouse, Wojahn, Lee and Hayner (by Judicial Council request):

Implementing the constitutional amendment creating a judicial qualifications commission.
REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

January 15, 1981.

SENATE BILL NO. 3071, implementing the constitutional amendment creating a judicial qualifications commission (reported by Judiciary Committee):

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendments:

On page 1, line 28, after "section" strike ". . . " and insert "31"

On page 4, line 18, after "commission." strike the remainder of the section and insert "Statements made to the commission or its investigators or other employees are absolutely privileged in actions for defamation. This absolute privilege does not apply to statements made in any other forum."

On page 4, line 22, after "Sec. 10." strike everything down through "amended." on line 26 and insert "Except as provided in this section chapter 34.04 RCW shall not apply to the commission. The commission shall propose and adopt rules in accordance with RCW 34.04.020 through RCW 34.04.040 and RCW 34.04.050 through RCW 34.04.080 as now or hereafter amended."

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the committee amendments were adopted.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 4, line 12, after "contempt" insert ": PROVIDED, That before such punishment can be administered the person charged with contempt shall have the right to contest the charge and decide the issue by trial by jury"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Talmadge: "A point of order, Mr. President. I would raise the question of scope and object with respect to this amendment. I would like to speak to my point of order if I could."

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President, this particular section of the bill relates to the disclosure of information to the commission in any proceeding brought for discipline of a judge. Senator Pullen's amendment, although I agree with the direction Senator Pullen takes in it, is essentially a change in RCW 7 which provides for the penalties and procedures by which contempt is punishable. I think the amendment clearly is an attempt to amend that portion of RCW in Title 7 rather than relating to the specifics of the judicial qualifications commission."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Guess: "Senator Talmadge, the line that is quoted beginning on 11, 'Failure to obey the order of the court may be punished as contempt.'"

"Now, all the amendment does on the face of it that I see, and I am a layman, it just says how you get out of a contempt citation. Now, it says 'before such punishment can be administered, the person charged with contempt shall have the right to contest the charge and decide the issue by trial by jury.' It seems to me that is just plain ordinary common courtesy."

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, the way it works now is that any civil litigation, if you are ordered to produce records or produce information, and you choose not to do that, there are many sanctions that can be imposed, but one of those is contempt of court."
"But the punishment and the procedures for handling what is and what is not contempt of court, are specified in RCW Title 7. There is a specific section in the RCW that relates to contempt, how contempt is handled, and how it is punished.

"My point of order refers to the fact that this is, in effect, an attempt to amend RCW Title 7, rather than an attempt to deal with the specifics of that section relating to discovery before the judicial qualifications commission."

Senator Guess: "Senator, can you describe to me and the body how does a person solve his contempt situation then? What is Title 7 or whatever you are talking about, how does it do it?"

Senator Talmadge: "Senator Guess, it provides for a situation where a person is required to purge himself of contempt by obeying the lawful order of the court, or taking an appeal therefrom.

"There is a proviso in that RCW Title 7 for a hearing; and I do not believe it provides for a right to trial by jury in that situation. It has been one of those traditional common law things that has not allowed for trial by jury."

Senator Guess: "Well, is it not proper then where any section of law, such as we are enacting here, to give relief within that section? It seems to me that certainly when a person, and it is really germane to the issue right here, it says that a person shall be punished as contempt, then by gosh, I think we are duty-bound to let a guy know that if he is, he has got some relief in which way he goes."

Senator Talmadge: "My point of order, Senator, only relates to the fact that the mechanism and the punishment is specified elsewhere in the RCW, not here. This is a substantive change in RCW Title 7, attached to this particular statute."

RULING BY PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE GOLTZ

President Pro Tempore Goltz: "The President will rule that inasmuch as the amendment is a proviso to a totally new section in the bill and in the RCW, and inasmuch as the proviso relates entirely to the substance of the section in the bill, that it is in order and this body has the right to vote it up or vote it down."

The amendment by Senator Pullen was ruled in order.

Further debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendment was not adopted.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendments and that they be considered as one:

On page 4, line 17, after the first "performed" strike "in good faith" and insert "in accordance with the law"

At the end of line 17 and the beginning of line 18, after "performed" strike "in good faith" and insert "in accordance with the law".

Debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendments were not adopted.

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3071 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wilson: "Senator Talmadge, there has been a fair amount of talk regarding secrecy, employees being prohibited from talking with outsiders, exemptions from the public disclosure act, and so on.

"I wonder if you could briefly take us through the process which would happen, beginning when somebody decided to complain about a judge's behavior, ending with this resolution at the supreme court level and in particular, indicate to what extent will the public become aware of what is happening, and to what extent won't it, all the way through this process."
Senator Talmadge: "Yes, Senator. The process that is envisioned here is that a member of the public or anyone could file a complaint about the behavior of a particular judge. That complaint would be filed with the judicial qualifications commission as we have constituted it in the bill. The complaint would be investigated, there would be the opportunity to gather any records or information or witnesses with respect to that issue by the staff of the commission. The judge would have the opportunity to respond; and all of these proceedings would be confidential because the problem, very obviously is we have very excellent members of the bench in this state. The very fact that one of these kinds of complaints, even if it were entirely unfounded was filed, it could seriously hamper and harm the reputation of that judge.

"But the investigation would be ongoing; there would be a look into the particular allegations in the complaint; the commission might then meet on the complaint, decide whether or not to take action on it; and then if the commission felt that discipline was merited of the judge, they would have the opportunity to impose a range of discipline, not just removal from office, as is only allowed now in the constitution.

"The recommendation will be made by the commission to the supreme court for whether or not there should be any kind of discipline of the judge. And at that point the disciplinary action taken against the judge, if the supreme court decided to move, would be made public.

"It is something very similar to the kinds of procedures we have now for attorneys, and we in the bar, and frequently in the newspapers you will see that members of the bar have been disciplined and that is a matter of public record.

"But the complaint process and the handling of the complaint remains confidential so that people's reputations are not seriously hampered.

"In the state of California, one of the concerns that was expressed was that there was a process by which complaints were rendered against members of the judiciary. It was something that happened more out in the public than this provides for and as a result, there was a very serious deterioration of relationships between the judges on the California supreme court.

"Courts of appeal, the courts of appeal or the supreme court, are collegial bodies; they have to act as a group and where you have suspicions and antagonisms among the members, it is very difficult for those groups to do business.

"The purpose of this particular measure is to preserve the confidentiality, to set forth and allow the commission to adopt its own rules, subject to the administrative procedure kind of requirement of public notice and hearing, and then to handle complaints in the fashion that I think I have outlined."

Senator Wilson: "Mr. President, supposing the complaining party tells his local newspaper that he has filed thus-and-so complaint against a certain judge and the newspaper prints the article, is he in trouble or is the newspaper in trouble?"

Senator Talmadge: "What we have done, Senator, is in section 12 of the bill, provides that 'The commission shall establish rules for the confidentiality of its proceedings with due regard for the privacy interests of judges or justices who are the subject of an inquiry and the protection of persons who file complaints with the commission. Any person giving information to the commission ...' and so forth could be subject to a contempt proceeding in superior court for disclosing information in violation of commission rules.

"Essentially what we have said is, and I think what the constitutional amendment provides for, is that kind of situation should be dealt with by the rules of the judicial qualifications commission. It is something that was not provided for in the constitutional amendment for us to specify."

Senator Wilson: "Mr. President, without having to belabor this point, Senator Talmadge, an ordinary citizen feels that a judge is acting improperly and complains to the commission that is being established; and he tells some of his friends that he has complained to the commission and why he did.

"There is no reason to believe that this might not come to the attention of a media in the area which would call him up and say, 'Have you filed a complaint against the judge?' and he says 'Yes'; the media says 'On what grounds are you complaining?' and he tells them, tells the media. And I am really trying to find out now whether the commission, by rule or regulation, could reach out and impose sanctions against the individual whose situation I have been trying to describe. That is, punishing him in some way for simply telling anybody he wants to, why he has filed a complaint against a particular judge."

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, I do not want to speculate on how the commission would deal with that because as I think I indicated, that would be something subject to rules of the commission, but what I would anticipate would be that where the person has not filed the complaint with the commission, they are perfectly entitled to tell everybody and anybody whatever they want to about their concern about how a particular judge has handled their case, or any concern that they might have about a judge. Once the matter has been filed with the commission, I believe the intention is that the commission process take place and that at that point, the person is constrained to go with the commission and have the commission handle the problem that they have identified.

"The typical kind of problem might be, you have an allegation that a particular judge is no longer competent. That might be something you can wave around and say is true, but once the complaint is formally filed with the commission that the judge should be removed from office because he or she is incompetent, there should be an opportunity to have the process of the commission run its course."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Thank you, Mr. President. Further to answer Senator Wilson, I would suggest this is something like a grand jury procedure, that is, if anyone has knowledge of something that they consider to be wrongdoing, they have a perfect right to make whatever voluntary disclosure they wish to make of that particular situation.

"If however, it becomes the subject of a grand jury investigation, and they are then brought before the grand jury, or elect to go before the grand jury and make certain statements within that proceeding, then anything that takes place with respect to that proceeding becomes under the cloak of this confidentiality.

"And when this was discussed in committee, that comparison was made and it was felt that in substance, as far as the relationship between the press and the commission was concerned, it would be very similar to the relationship between the press and a grand jury proceeding. And I think that that is something that has been explored on both sides and is reasonably regarded as being satisfactory."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Talmadge. Senator Talmadge has been questioned quite a bit, maybe I ought to ask Senator Clarke to yield."

President Pro Tempore Goltz: "We have two people yielding at the same time which is, Senator Clarke."

Senator Clarke: "I defer to the chairman of the committee, Senator Talmadge."

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you Senator Clarke. Senator Talmadge."

Senator Talmadge: "Thank you Senator Rasmussen; but not 'thank you' Senator Clarke."
Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Talmadge, as I read this section 12 and I referred to it previously, and I think Senator Wilson being a former newspaperman, and may be again, we will probably be locked up. Or Jack Anderson would be locked up in this state under this law; columnist Jack Anderson, if he received any information and he published it.

"But the question that I want to ask now is, if somebody files a complaint against a judge; first, is the judge an elected official?"

Senator Talmadge: "Yes."

Senator Rasmussen: "In most instances; they want to be appointed but now they are elected.

"Is a judge any different than, well let us say Senator Walgren, Representative Bagnariol as an elected official?"

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, in response to your question, if you will read the language of the constitutional amendment, there is a provision in there for the confidentiality of the proceedings of the commission. That was the thing that the people voted on and overwhelmingly approved when they voted for this particular constitutional amendment."

Senator Rasmussen: "My question is, why should the judges be protected with this section, section 12, any more than any other elected official? Here everything is secret. There is no public disclosure, there is no access by the press at all; all actions by this section 12 are privileged. Nobody can touch it."

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, in response to your question, if you will read the language of the amendment, section 12, excuse me, one of the things that was discussed was the possibility of having someone who received the information, be subject to some kind of cloak of confidentiality. That is not provided for in that section. I think your concern about the press is just not in that particular language. The provision is for those people who come before the commission.

"We also talked about the problem of when a judge has to respond in essence in public, to someone making public charges about the judge after the commission proceedings have commenced, and the feeling was that the commission would provide for rule for the judge to respond to any public statement made by someone who was filing the complaint with the commission.

"The difficulty we have, Senator, and the difference we might have between what goes on in the case of a legislator and what goes on in the case of a judge, is you have entrusted to certain judicial officers in the court of appeals, in the supreme court, to act as a body. They act as three, panels of three in the court of appeals, or panels of nine in the supreme court. They depend very much on the fact that they work as a collegial body. Where you have a situation where there is not any strong collegial feeling there, it is very difficult for that body to do its business.

"It is also very difficult if you have someone making allegations about someone that are entirely unfounded, that those allegations are out there for consideration without having the confidentiality that is provided in the statute; and that the people wanted when they voted on the constitutional amendment."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, Senator Talmadge, I still do not understand why, if somebody were to file a complaint; I can understand that you are going to give them the privilege and they cannot be prosecuted if they file a complaint; but I cannot understand if the commission were to have the hearing, the judge is charged, and then again the commission says there is no substance to it, the judge is cleared, the same as any other individual; and I do not see the extra privilege that they need of the protection of all this secrecy."

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, I simply do not see it as a problem and I do not think it is an extra privilege."

REMARKS BY SENATOR QUIGG

Senator Quigg: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"As the resolution states so clearly, John Pearsall has proven for decades to be a truly dedicated and effective representative of the people of Grays Harbor county, not only as the county commissioner but also as a state legislator. His service in that area has been rewarded and will be noted tomorrow night in a gathering down in Grays Harbor, but he is going to be having a building that he worked so hard to put together and get his name put on it; and you know the timber economy as it is right now, or getting anything built is tough; but with the kind of forbearance that John Pearsall has exhibited, that kind of success has occurred in our area and we sincerely appreciate it.

"I urge your support of this resolution."

MOTION

SENATE RESOLUTION 1981-11

By Senator Talley:

WHEREAS, The citizens of Washington have an ingrained tradition, of professing aid and assistance to the citizens of the State of Alaska in times of crisis and need; and

WHEREAS, When Alaska found itself plagued with an extreme number of deposits of a shiny yellow metal substance littering its shores, streams and mountainsides, the ever-generous citizens of Washington not only made their way north by the thousands to clear this litter from the land of the Last Frontier, they also graciously hauled it out of Alaska by the ton; and

WHEREAS, When the waters of Alaska became clogged with salmon, crab and other edible marine creatures, the fishermen of Washington without hesitation rushed to Alaska to clean its waters of these creatures and, in the spirit of generosity and neighborliness, continue this practice to this day; and

WHEREAS, When the State of Alaska was in grave danger from great pools of black residue of dinosaurs and other decomposed prehistoric materials, the State of Washington benevolently sent men and materials to the great frozen north to build a huge disposal tube; and

WHEREAS, The appearance of vast amounts of invisible flammable materials in the State of Alaska caused the State of Washington unselfishly to seek many ways to transport this material away from the imperiled Alaskans; and

WHEREAS, The State of Washington, without regard for its own needs, has for many years served as a transportation center to move thousands of men and women to Alaska with the sole charge of removing postcards, souvenirs, artworks, crafts and hotel linens by the millions, lest they bother our brothers and sisters to the north; and

WHEREAS, The openhearted citizens of Washington have come to realize that still another plague faces the citizens of Alaska; and

WHEREAS, The State of Washington realizes that the current surplus of funds in the overburdened coffers of the State of Alaska is a source of great embarrassment and discomfiture to Alaska's citizens; and

WHEREAS, The Evergreen State can retain its green appellation and remove the red from the faces of our brothers and sisters to the north with a simple heartfelt gesture;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the citizens of the great and generous State of Washington offer to annex the State of Alaska and to share the Evergreen State's economic shortfall with our brothers and sisters of the Last Frontier; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, As a token of our good faith and kindheartedness, the citizens of the State of Washington will send to the frozen north the budget directors of the Washington State Department of Social and Health Services, the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Washington State Department of Transportation to provide timely and detailed instruction on how to avoid future excesses of revenues; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the citizens of Washington freely and unequivocally guarantee that with annexation of this State the citizens of the State of Alaska will never again be forced to face the crisis of surplus revenues.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hayner: "It appears to me that this is the worst delaying action I have ever seen at a time when this state is in almost emergency situation.

"I cannot believe that we are not addressing the problem of what to do with the supplemental budget. I understand there was a ways and means committee meeting this morning and nothing was accomplished whatsoever.

"It is true that we have returned to the House a partial budget which we knew at the time the House would not accept. And yet we have passed the deadline which was last Tuesday for the consideration of some of these matters. The office of financial management has already issued letters, or printed letters which are ready to go out very soon.

"I cannot believe that this body would hold up the process of determining what should be done about the supplemental budget. I had a school district call me this morning, one of the small school districts, saying 'We had $200,000 in reserve,' and they are now down to $56,000, and 'Can you give me some direction as to what is going to happen? Can you tell me, are we going to be on registered warrants next month?' And I was able to only say 'I do not know what the Senate Democrats are going to do.'

"I think it really behooves you to address this question. I think it is a very serious problem."

MOTION

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I move that House Bill 206 be referred to the committee on ways and means."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"In response to Senator Hayner, the governor is in Washington, D.C. on a ceremonial signing of a lease which could have been done, he took off and left; the House is on a rolling adjournment, they are not in session today; the Senate has worked late last night and early this morning on the question of the supplemental budget.

"We are now moving to put the House vehicle into ways and means so we can do some polishing on, hopefully, a compromise of the situation.

"I urge you to support me in the motion."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Clarke: "Where is House Bill 206 at the present time? Has the message from the House been read in?"
REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The Senate has received a message from the House concerning House Bill 206. It is presently on the desk of the secretary. The message has not been read as yet. Senator Clarke."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "If the message has not been read in, I respectfully suggest that the motion is out of order. When the message is read in, then we should respond to that message. And the matter is not before us until the message is read in."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Clarke, your point is well taken."

REMARKS BY SENATOR JONES

Senator Jones: "I would like to point out that the governor is here because normally you are not here if the governor is not here. And the governor is here, and returned last night after performing state business of importance."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Bottiger, the Senate returned to the fourth order of business.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

February 10, 1981.

Mr. President:
The House refused to concur in the Senate amendments to ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 206, and asks the Senate to recede therefrom, and said bill, together with the Senate amendments thereto is herewith transmitted.

VITO T. CHIECHI, Chief Clerk.

MOTION

Senator Bottiger moved that Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 206 be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

MOTION

Senator Clarke: "I move that the Senate do recede from its amendments and I refer to Reed's 247 with reference to the priority of motions as between the House and Senate, and the motion to recede, I submit is the proper motion."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Senator Hayner, I believe, has set forth the reason why we should take this action. I certainly think that it is of importance to all of the citizens of the state that we do act on this supplemental budget.

And what has happened is that we have been engaged in what amounts to political bickering when we should be taking care of the business of the state.

Now if the Senate does recede the bill will then be before the Senate and the Senate may then take whatever action it may deem proper; and I would suggest the proper action would be to pass the bill. I think that the merits have been well argued and there is no reason to further set forth the specific reasons although someone on our side may wish to make a further statement in that regard."

Senator Bluechel demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.
Senators Bottiger, Vognild and Rasmussen demanded a Call of the Senate. A Call of the Senate was ordered.

CALL OF THE SENATE
The Sergeant at Arms locked the doors of the Senate Chamber. The Secretary called the roll on the Call of the Senate, all members being present except Senator Ridder who was previously excused.

MOTION
On motion of Senator Bottiger, the Senate proceeded under the Call of the Senate.

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER
Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.
"The version that the House sent over, I want to remind you what you are voting on, has the question of the state bonding rate and whether it is affected by the money shifts made in the House. All of you that are concerned with the AA+ rating realize what you are voting on. It has some problems.
"Those of you who were in ways and means last night are now aware that the $79 million the House put in the education budget has a mistake in it; there was $9 million subtracted twice. So that is a problem that needs to be cured, as we are finding out as we are hearing the supplemental parts of the supplemental budget that has come over.
"We are also aware that there was an amendment put on the floor that takes $3½ million out, and then requires it be paid back in this biennium, so there is a cash flow problem in the House version of the supplemental budget.
"These are three things, three big things; you have McNeill Island, you have quite a few other small things that we are still checking into.
"But if you adopt the House supplemental budget, please be aware that you are, that is what you are voting on, the three large errors that we have identified so far.
"We are trying to work out a compromise to resolve these questions; those of us that are concerned about the education districts, like Evergreen, Bethel, Marysville, Federal Way, that simply cannot live with that mistake in the $79 million dollar level. We need to resolve these; we need to do them in an orderly procedure; that is why we would like to get the bill back in the ways and means committee and resolve the problems."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BLUECHEL
Senator Bluechel: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the Senate.
"Speaking to the three points that were brought up by Senator Bottiger, the budget bill does not affect the AA+ rating, that would be in revenue bills which are separate bills. In the area of education, this morning in testimony before the ways and means committee, the representative from the SPI office was not at all sure of whether there was an error or not. It was his opinion, if you look at one side of the question, OFM looks at the other side, and as far as they can tell, there is no error.
"On the cash flow problem the OFM has responded in committee that there is no cash flow problem.
"So I would submit that the budget as presented by the House and before us now, is adequate. If there is a problem, we at least do this. We solve the immediate problem of notices going out to a large number of people on services that will be cut if the budget is not passed. If there is any problem we can make minor adjustments in a second budget, because adjustments are very minor.

"So I would submit that it is the best interest of the state to recede from the Senate position and to pass the budget as is now."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the Senate.

"I would like to just point out one more thing and that is that the House sent this back to us with a vote of 71 to 24. That is not all Republicans, that has to be some Democrats who feel it is absolutely essential that we take some action and some responsible action. I think the House worked on this very conscientiously, they came up with something that we should all be able to accept. Obviously there are details that can be changed later. We know, for example, if we put $79 million dollars in there now for the education, they may need more in the next biennium, but at least they would have a message as to what they can expect for the future.

"I urge you to recede from this amendment."

REMARKS BY SENATOR FLEMING

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"I think we are trying to act responsibly. We ran the social and health services budget out here on the floor, that is where they said the crisis was. You indicated on that side that you were concerned about education and you still are. And I think what we are trying to do is be responsible. We want to send this bill back.

"We did have a hearing yesterday on the educational part of the budget. We think we have come to some kind of resolve as to what kind of dollars need to be out there and I think if we did that in that process, took care of those two major things that you have expressed a concern, brought that bill back out here, voted on that bill and sent it back over to the House, at least we will have given those people that message in the school districts that they need to know that we are in earnest and we believe that there is a problem out there, and that as far as the Senate is concerned, they can at least expect a certain bottom line; and I think that is what we would like to do."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Clarke that the Senate recede from its amendments to Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 206.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion by Senator Clarke failed by the following vote: Yeas, 24; nays, 24; excused, 1; President Cherberg voted no.

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, I would like to nominate for the office of president pro tem, Senator Sam C. "Mr. President and members of the Senate. Ever since his earlier election, I believe that Senator Goltz has had at least three opportunities, if not more, to preside over the affairs of this body; and despite certain misgivings which some of us shared at the time of his original election, I should think that every member here would have to agree Senator Goltz has presided ably, fairly and competently. He deserves to be retained in this position."

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the nominations for President Pro Tempore of the Senate were closed.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on election of the President Pro Tempore of the Senate. The nominees are Senator Sam C. Guess and Senator Barney Goltz.

"I want to take this opportunity to thank you for allowing me to preside very briefly as your president pro tem. I suspect it was the point of order raised by Senator Talmadge that did me in.
"But it is an honor to have served even briefly in this body as president pro tem, and I congratulate Senator Guess and wish him well."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.
"It isn't maybe too well known, but Senator Guess, you are now fourth in succession to the governor, and when we selected Barney Goltz we took that into very careful consideration."

MOTION

VICE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

NOMINATION OF SENATOR GEORGE CLARKE

NOMINATION OF SENATOR DON L. TALLEY

MOTION

"Speaking on the motion which is more or less all-inclusive, this has been worked out with Senator Bottiger with the idea that this would give ample opportunity for the preparation and presentation of amendments, and the bill would then be considered by the body itself as it was before without the necessity of the delays of the committee of the whole and it is to be hoped that this will be a definite step to expedite the very essential passage of the supplemental budget; and I urge your support of the motion."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "What rule were you waiving at us?"

Senator Clarke: "What rule? Rule 58 which requires, normally, bills to be, to go through the committee of the whole, appropriations bill; that is the same procedure that was followed previously on your motion and we went along with it and we understand that you would like to have it the same way this time, and so would we, so we are asking for the waiver of the rule."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, I think that Senator Clarke is putting more than one subject in a motion or a bill, and he has me now, thoroughly confused. How many rules are we expected to waive? I would have no objection to waiving 58 but I would think that you should try for your two-thirds vote on the floor, as the rules provide."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Rasmussen, the President believes that it would be proper to place the four motions made by Senator Clarke one at a time."

The motion by Senator Clarke was divided.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendments were not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 24; nays, 25.

Voting nay: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallaghan, Gould, Guess, Haley, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Scott, Sellar, von Reichbauer, Zimmerman—25.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, I endorse Senator Haley’s speech but not his vote. I want to make that very clear; I thought he was supporting Voc-Tech schools."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Clarke: "Personal privilege does not extend to commenting upon any matter before the body that has been voted on as an issue."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Clarke’s remarks are well taken, Senator Rasmussen."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well Mr. President, I was led astray and Senator Clarke would never want that to happen."

Senator Clarke: "I hope it happens often."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, would Senator Clarke yield to a question, please?

*Senator Clarke, in helping speed up the consideration of House Bill 206, we extended some cooperation, and one of the things I thought we had an understanding is, that we would have a copy of your proposals so that we could offer amendments to it.

"We are having a very difficult time figuring out where to put our amendments and at what dollar level; and I was wondering, it is now forty-five minutes after we agreed to start working on this, where this proposed amendment is?"

(Senator Clarke yielded to Senator Scott)

Senator Scott: "The striking amendment contains all of the items we have discussed so far, Senator, and it requires seventy-five copies and the collator only does forty-five and so we needed fifteen minutes, starting about ten minutes ago."

Senator Bottiger: "So then, Senator Scott, about five minutes from now we could get the copy so that we could propose amendments to it; we would be able to know what level you were and how we could offer our amendments?"

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "In response to Senator Bottiger, I think that the issues which are presently being debated as amendments to the bill which is now before us, which you have a right to endeavor to perfect, in reality, cover much the same as the amendments which you would propose to put after the striking amendment; and we had endeavored, in a way, to give you this opportunity. There are, apparently, some mechanical difficulties which I think you would appreciate, as they have happened on both sides of the aisle. We are endeavoring to get this to you as soon as possible.
"If you would prefer, we could be at ease for a short period of time until the Scott amendments are prepared and I think that probably would save the time of the body; and if you so desire, we will be glad to put us at ease."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGGER

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, I think that would be an excellent suggestion; then we are not in a position of offering an amendment which Senator Scott says is already handled."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President wishes to point out that there are additional amendments pending."

MOTION

At 4:05 p.m., on motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate was declared to be at ease subject to the call of the President.

The President called the Senate to order at 5:10 p.m.

The Senate resumed consideration of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 206.

There being no objection, on motion of Senator McDermott, an amendment to page 5, line 19 on the desk of the Secretary of the Senate was withdrawn.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate commenced consideration of an amendment by Senator Scott to Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 206.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, what will be your ruling if an amendment is considered not in sequential order; in other words, will we be allowed to offer an amendment to one section and then go back to another section if they happen to come up out of order?"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Clarke: "May I ask Senator McDermott as to the reason he might have for offering amendments out of order. We want to give you every reasonable consideration, but why is it that you find it necessary not to proceed orderly?"

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"Senator Scott, or Senator Clarke, you have laid upon the desk an amendment of twenty-nine pages that the Senate has never seen before and are asking us to rush it through. We have, in forty-five minutes, written a number of amendments and we are still, our staff is still working on amendments to your striking amendment.

"In order to deal with the striking amendment, we are doing it as quickly as we can. We may not have every amendment up on the desk but we will continue to put them up there as quickly as we can."

REPLY BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, we would wish to give you every reasonable consideration, but we would reserve the right to raise the point of order if at any time we feel that your procedure is unreasonable."
MOTION

Senator Scott moved adoption of the following amendment:

Senator Hughes: "Senator McDermott, some of us view the comment made by Senator Clarke as an abrogation of legislative responsibility in giving blanket transfer authority. We supported it, that is a sound business practice. Would you suggest we extend this same courtesy to the superintendent of public instruction to administer common school funds?"

Senator McDermott: "Well, if it makes sense to give it to a bureaucrat who is appointed, it would certainly make sense to give it to somebody who is an elected official. I would think the superintendent of public instruction would be responsible; we ought to just give him his $2 billion (sic) dollars with no restrictions."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Moore: "Senator McDermott, I am always seeking 'alternatives' — ways to save money; alternatives that may be better for the individual and for society in general.

"Could you tell me what the alternative is to cutting chore services?"

Senator McDermott: "Well, at least for some of the people who receive chore services, the alternative is a nursing home. We spend, in this state, more than a quarter of a billion dollars; we spend about thirty dollars a day, nine hundred or more dollars per month to keep somebody in a nursing home.

"Chore services are much less expensive and much more humane, and it seems to me that this is a much better program than to force people into nursing homes."
Senator Moore: "Senator McDermott, the last figure that I had was that it costs about three-quarters as much to keep somebody in his or her own home than sending them to a nursing home. Is this, in your view, approximately right?"
Senator McDermott: "Yes."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hurley: "I did vote against the children and the food and the support, and things like this for those who are supposed to be raising their children, and they are employable. They are absolutely employable, and I know many people who are working night and day, maybe for a couple of jobs, that are raising their children because they do not want to be on welfare.

"I think this is an honorable position and if they are employable, why don't they go out and rake yards? Why don't they go out and mow lawns? Why don't they go out and do some of the things that some of us who live alone and cannot get that work done, would very much like to have done in our homes.

"And that is the reason I voted for the money for those people who are employable. I also voted against the mentally ill increases. They are destroying the mentally ill program. In Spokane they are sending those people out into apartments, into vague places where the parents do not even know where they are, cannot find them; if a parent would die they would say, 'What on earth is going to happen to my child because it is no longer institutionalized'; the state is no longer in charge and I have a hunch what they are trying to do is provide a model program that can be looked at, but you do not dare look behind the scenes at it, because they are losing these people on the streets and they are not taking care of them.

"If they are going to continue a program like that, you bet I am against it. And I urge you again, please vote for my amendment."

THIRTY-THIRD DAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1981

POINT OF INFORMATION
Senator Ridder: "Is this a point of personal privilege?"
Senator Hayner: "Yes."

POINT OF ORDER
Senator Bottiger: "If she is speaking on a point of personal privilege it is how it affects her individually; what she is doing is abusing the rule to make a speech on the motion."

"I would only point out, Mr. President . . . ."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY
Senator Hayner: "Is this personal privilege?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT
President Cherberg: "The President has not determined as yet whether it is or not, Senator Hayner.

"The President would like to read Rule 33. 'Any senator may rise to a question of privilege and explain a personal matter by leave of the president, but he/she shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations, . . .' Well, that has not transpired.

"Senator Peterson has been ordered to be out of his office by 9:30 this morning, tomorrow morning so that Senator von Reichbauer may have the office."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, it is my understanding that the proposed change has been on the desk for considerably more than that period of time."

MOTION

At 10:10 a.m., on motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate recessed until 11:02 a.m.

SECOND MORNING SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 11:02 a.m.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Clarke's remarks are well taken and that the Senate is presently on the eighth order of business, presentation of petitions, memorials, resolutions and motions.

"Senator Bottiger raised the point that proper notice of the rule change had not been given. The President will read that portion of Rule 35 which applies.

"'No standing rule or order of the senate shall be rescinded or changed without a majority vote of the members, and one day's notice of the motion thereof ...'

"The President believes that inasmuch as notice was given to the Secretary of the Senate, the Secretary of the Senate printed copies for each member and placed them on the desk of each individual Senator. The Senate was in session.

"Therefore the President believes that that does constitute one day's notice."
MOTION

Senator Clarke moved adoption of the following resolution:

SENATE RESOLUTION 1981-15

By Senators Hayner and Jones:
BE IT RESOLVED, That the permanent Senate Rules be amended as follows:
Rule 50. Any standing committee of the Senate may be relieved of further consideration of any bill by a \((\text{two-thirds})\) majority vote of the senators elected. The senate may then make such orderly disposition of the bill as they may direct by a majority vote of the members of the senate.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Clarke, extending this period of time for the introduction of bills is liable to create a flood of new bills and I think that every subject possible has been covered.

"Now I think as far as pride of authorship, it does not make any difference on who is on the bills. Do you have an idea of any new legislation or are you just, want to take all the bills back and strike the Democrats' names off and put the Republicans' on?"

Senator Clarke: "It is customary and the committee chairmen, the Democratic committee chairmen, have put in a whole lot of title only bills under their own names. Now frankly, it has been our feeling that perhaps some of those chairman who put it in would not be particularly happy with the changes that might be made in those bills under their prime sponsorship; and traditionally, the chairman of various committees have always had their own title only bills which were under their names which they could then use for more or less emergent matters that had not been considered prior to the time that they wanted to introduce a bill.

"It is a customary procedure and would merely, I think, facilitate the situation that we have here."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Shinpoch: "Would Senator Clarke yield to a question?"
Senator Shinpoch: "Would Senator Hayner yield?"
President Cherberg: "Senator Hayner declines. Senator Shinpoch."
Senator Shinpoch: "Well, if you are worried about it, all I was really going to ask you was that, during this time would the former chairpersons of the committee be allowed to withdraw their title only, so you won't be running revenue measures and things of that nature on their prime-sponsored bills.

"If it would not be too much trouble, you might respond to that, anyway."

Further debate ensued.
Senator Talmadge: "Would Senator Hayner yield to a question?"
President Cherberg: "Senator Hayner declines."
Further debate ensued.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Guess: "I wondered what order of business that the Senator was speaking under?"
Senator Talmadge: "Senator, I am speaking to adoption of senate floor resolution 1981-19 (sic)."
Senator Guess: "I would suggest you confine your remarks to the resolution, then."
Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"As I indicated, I intend to oppose senate floor resolution 1981-19 (sic), in particular because we have not seen a cutoff resolution from the House of Representatives to parallel the cutoff resolution that was adopted in the Senate. Perhaps one of the members of the Republican leadership could address the issue whether or not their colleagues in the House intend now, after all the wrangling for the last thirty-five days, to finally adopt a cutoff resolution."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "You have vastly more experience than I do, Mr. President, . . . than anyone on this floor, would it be possible for all of we Democratic sponsors, by motion, to withdraw our names from those bills that are of concern to the Republicans so that we may save the taxpayers some money, and institute then, the Republican names that they desire?

"I personally have no concern because our committee has always been very cooperative and it does not make any difference who is the sponsor; but I would like to do that, if possible, and I address that to the chair for your opinion."

Senator Clarke: "I submit that the question is not relevant to the matter presently before the Senate and is therefore out of order."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, speaking to the point of order as raised by Senator Clarke, we have before us a change in the rules which would indicate we are going to extend the time of introduction of bills for ten days more, making it forty-six days; as Senator Clarke has indicated, the whole purpose of this rule change is so that the Republicans may get their name on the bills as the Republican chairmen. And I was offering to expedite that so that we could save the taxpayers some money, Senator Clarke. It was your idea, I did not know why you wanted to extend the rules but it was your idea that the new chairmen would have their name on the bill."

Senators Hayner, Guess and Quigg demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Before putting the main question, the President should like to reply that inasmuch as senate floor resolution deals with the introduction of bills, that Senator Rasmussen’s remarks were relevant, Senator Clarke."

The motion by Senator Clarke carried and the resolution was adopted.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, the following resolution was adopted:

SENATE RESOLUTION 1981-19

By Senators Hayner and Jones:

BE IT RESOLVED, That the permanent Senate Rules be amended as follows:

"Rule 61. All bills, joint resolutions and joint memorials introduced shall be endorsed with a statement of the title and the name of the member introducing the same. Not more than three senators may sponsor a bill, except committee bills which shall be in accordance with the joint rules of the senate and house: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That any member desiring to introduce a bill, joint resolution or joint memorial shall file the same with the secretary of the senate by noon of the day before the convening of the session at which said bill, joint resolution or joint memorial is to be introduced: PROVIDED FURTHER, That all bills to be considered by the senate during a sixty day regular session shall be on the request list of the code reviser by 3:00 p.m. on the twenty-ninth day, or on the (thirtieth) fortieth day during a one hundred five day regular session, and shall be read in under the proper order of business no later than the thirty-third legislative day of a sixty day regular session, or on the (thirty) forty-sixth day of a one hundred five day regular session.

After the expiration of deadlines for bill introductions provided in this rule, no bill shall be introduced, except as the legislature shall direct by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each house, said vote to be taken by yeas and nays and entered upon the journal, or unless the same be at a special session: PROVIDED, That the time limitation for introduction of bills shall not apply to substitute bills reported by standing committees for bills pending before such committees and general appropriation and revenue bills."

Senator Rasmussen: "Is it possible for me to spread Governor Spellman's remarks on this budget in the journal as part of my remarks on the way that I am going to vote?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Clarke: "Under Rule 36, when the previous question is put and sustained, and the only action that may be taken is affirmative action upon the matter before the body; and parliamentary inquiry is not in order and I think that the remarks that Senator Rasmussen may make, are covered by the rules and should be taken up by him at some appropriate time."
REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Clarke, your remarks are well taken, but the President has always given a person the opportunity to ask a question; and the President therefore, at least in this particular instance, would like to reply to Senator Rasmussen.

"The President will answer your question later, Senator.
"The question before the Senate is the final passage . . ."
Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President . . ."
President Cherberg: "Senator, Rule 36 does require the President to put the main question immediately and that forecloses any further debate or question."
Senator Rasmussen: "I was going to ask the President about Rule 34, that he 'may protest against' any Senate action."
President Cherberg: "You will be given an opportunity . . ."
The bill was read the third time and placed on final passage.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 206, as amended by the Senate.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 206, as amended by the Senate, was ordered immediately transmitted to the House.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.
"I had intended to speak on the issue before us as a matter of debate on a bill as we have traditionally done in this Senate for the two years plus that I have been here. But today's activities have given me serious pause about how the new Republican majority can handle business here on the floor.
"Traditionally we have allowed free and open debate and that is part and parcel of the responsibility and activity of the minority. But if we are going to be clotured every time we stand up to debate, if we are going to be closed down by calls for the previous question before debate has failed to end of its own accord on the floor of the Senate, then I think we have a very, very serious situation confronting us.

"We saw some of it Friday night, we are seeing more of it today, and I certainly hope that this is not going to be the way we do business here in the Senate where we have traditionally accorded the minority and the majority the opportunity to speak freely and as long as they cared to on any issue, given the responsibility that all of us have as elected officials.

"Now I had intended to offer and to point out to the body that there are some very serious questions about the budget and I will not speak to those today.

"At this point I imagine there will be a call for the previous question or a point or order raised by one of the Republican leaders; but all I can say is this budget and those procedures are shameful. Shame, shame, shame."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "If there is any further demonstration, the only reason someone is permitted to stay in the chamber is because the President cannot identify the person who applauded. If there are any further demonstrations and the President can identify such person, they will be removed from the Senate chamber.

"The President expects an apology, or the Senate should expect an apology from some member of the press.

"Senator Hayner."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, this is the thirty-sixth day of our legislative session. On the twenty-fourth day this budget came over and we tried, as the then minority, to catch it on the fly and deal with it as soon as we could because we know that is an urgent matter."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, on what basis does Senator Hayner speak?"

Senator Hayner: "I am responding to Senator Talmadge's remarks."

Senator McDermott: "Is this on a point of personal privilege?"

Senator Hayner: "Yes."

Senator McDermott: "You did not ask the President."

Senator Hayner: "I now ask him."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President wishes to clarify a point at this time. Senator Talmadge, in a sense, was not speaking on a point of personal privilege, but rather one of protest, at least that is the opinion of the President. And therefore the President believes that Senator Hayner is entitled to respond. Senator Hayner."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "There have been twelve days passed since that time and the office of financial management has been trying to make a decision on whether to send out the notices; how to let people know who is going to be cut off; whether the $236 million dollars is going to be available.

"I think it is high time that we pass this budget. If anyone thinks that this is the last supplemental budget that is ever passed, I can remember very well a previous session when I was in the House of Representatives, when we had not one supplemental budget, not two, not three, not four—we had five supplemental budgets.

"So those of you who are so concerned about specific items, if you can justify them, I think there is a possibility that we will look at another supplemental budget before we get to the final document of our biennial budget."
"But the point is that we need to have a baseline. We need to know how much this supplemental budget is going to be before we can begin working on our biennial budget. And it is our goal to finish this session in one hundred and five days, which is what the people told us to do."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Ridder: "How can we tell if we are to have numerous supplemental budgets to follow? How can we be assured that this one is going to give us any indication? And if, indeed, we are going to be gagged as we have been today on any points of debate, it seems to me to be fruitless to talk about what the minority responsibility is.

"The courtesies have been extended by this majority to your minority, have far exceeded to those extended to us thus far."

MOTION

At 12:03 p.m., on motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate recessed until 1:30 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 1:30 p.m.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate returned to the fourth order of business.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

February 16, 1981.

Mr. President: The House has passed:
HOUSE BILL NO. 99,
ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 245, and the same are herewith transmitted.

VITO T. CHIECHI, Chief Clerk.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

February 13, 1981.

Mr. President: The House refused to concur in the Senate amendments to ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 209, and asks the Senate to recede therefrom, and said bill, together with the Senate amendments thereto is herewith transmitted.

VITO T. CHIECHI, Chief Clerk.

MOTION

Senator Scott moved the Senate do recede from its amendments to Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 209.
Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Scott, is this going to be, you are transferring money now out of these various checking accounts, credit cards; is this going to be enough money? I am looking at a Spellman quote; Spellman has let the legislators know what he thinks of the cut; and he will continue to do so, he says.

"He indicated he will lobby by going to the public if some changes aren't made; and he says 'I do not see any intransigencies at this point' he said, describing the attitude of the legislators. 'I could be proven wrong,' he said, 'and if so I will let you know.' Now he is indicating that the budget bill that we passed, and that is what he was talking about, was not going to be enough and he was going to go and lobby to the public, which he evidently must be doing right now because the bill is law; will be as soon as it hits his desk unless he vetoes it.

"But my question is, if he lobbies you, is this enough money that you are transferring from these various funds to make up this shortfall in the chore services and the rest of the services that were cut by the budget bill that we just passed, 206?"

Senator Scott: "Senator, delighted that you asked the question.

"There is $186 million dollars of general fund money here which will leave us with a $200,000 balance if nothing adverse happens between now and the first of July.

"In 206 you also transferred $540,000 from the GA facilities and services revolving fund; and $14,000 from the highway safety fund. Then this bill transfers the four accounts that I enumerated earlier: the timber tax reserve, the common school construction fund, the resource management DNR's reserve account, and the criminal justice training account which is a revolving account. And the answer is that it comes out to $236,613,000 which is exactly what we appropriated in 206."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, thank you Senator Scott. One further question. As I understand House Bill 206, we made some changes so department of social and health can within the department; but can the department of social and health shift that $300,000 that is in there, to buy computer services from that California firm? And can they also shift the murals off the wall that the $200,000 is in there for? It just kind of hurts me that we are going to put murals on the wall and buy computer services, and cut people off of chore services. I think that Governor Spellman is going to be lobbying against that."

Senator Scott: "Well, Senator, the reason that we are involved in these exchanges of funds and putting them in the general fund, is because those present who were formerly in the minority, refused, last spring, to create a $270 million dollar reserve fund which would not have put us, kept us from being in the predicament that we are in now.

"There is a great difference, I would point out, between credit card spending and drawing from different accounts that you have available to you.

"So if you are distressed by the need to do this, I am too, but you know the reason better than I."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Clarke: "Does that constitute a concession, Senator Rasmussen, that everything that Governor Spellman asks for, that you would go along with and approve?"

Senator Rasmussen: "I will yield to that question.

"Yes, he has shown unusually good, common sense in one respect in which he said he does not like cutting off the chore services and the rest of the service to the needy. But I am sure that he does not want any waste funds, and you have wrapped that in with that $300,000 computer contract; $200,000 for painting on the walls.

"So, yes I will support the Governor when he is with the people, and he is with the people this time. But the new majority is not with the people."
THIRTY-SIXTH DAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1981

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Shinpoch: "If the body was to move to recede from the Senate amendment to Substitute House Bill 209, would we then have Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill 209 in front of us, and would it be available for amendment?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "In reply to your inquiry, Senator Shinpoch, if the Senate were to recede from its amendment to Second Substitute House Bill No. 209, the measure then would be on final passage. It would be necessary to return the bill to second reading for the purpose of an amendment."

Further debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Scott carried. The Senate receded from its amendments to Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 209 on a rising vote.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 209 without the Senate amendments.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 209, without the Senate amendments, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 25; nays, 24.

Voting yea: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallagher, Gould, Guess, Haley, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Scott, Sellar, von Reichbauer, Zimmerman—25.

ENGROSSED SECOND SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 209, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 209 was ordered immediately transmitted to the House.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Williams: "Yes, Mr. President. I tried to do this on Friday and had tried to do this also earlier today, and each time circumstances were such that I was not able to; and I would simply ask that if people on that side of the aisle have any objection to my speaking on what I consider a personal privilege, I would like to do so.

"What I wanted to do is comment on the events of last Friday. I indicated that those events that affected me very much personally in several ways, as a Senator, but also as a citizen and I wanted to comment on that because I have a feeling that there has been an attempt to treat, at least on the floor, the events that happened last Friday in a rather commonplace manner. And I think those were very significant events, in fact, very unique to the state of Washington; in fact, they have not happened, perhaps the only comparable instance was once over in the House back in the early '60s."
"However, my comments are my own comments on this, but I think the events that occurred, there is a tendency to look at this event as a single-person action; and I would like to talk about that a little bit because I think, first of all, our political system is based on laws, first of all; secondly, it is based on institutional and cultural patterns; and thirdly it is based, to a certain extent, on personal or peer group relationships.

"In this particular instance, we have seen a person who has gone beyond the normal bounds of behavior; stepped outside of what I think are the reasonable practices and the normal bounds of action in this legislature and in this state. That is a circumstance, however, that, when an individual takes an action like that, that we really cannot control; it is an individual action.

"However, the thing that does concern me when a person takes an action of that sort, is to find that a group of people, in fact a group of people representing a party, have chosen to accept that action, to promote it, and in fact, then, to be parties to an action which is beyond the bounds of reasonable and justifiable and, what I think, are the proper actions in this state.

"In essence, a political party represented by you people over there on that side of the aisle, have chosen to go outside the bounds of regular actions for one reason only—for political power; for political power to control the destiny of this state, perhaps for the next decade, and you have done so without earning it at the polls. Since you could not win it in last November's election . . ."

President Cherberg: "For what purpose do you rise, Senator Hayner?"

Senator Hayner: "I question whether or not Senator Williams is staying within the point of personal privilege."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Hayner, the President has listened very carefully to what Senator Williams has said, and to this point has not heard Senator Williams discuss a question pending before the Senate. The President believes that Senator Williams is well within his prerogative to discuss a personal matter. Senator Williams."

Senator Williams: "Thank you, Mr. President."

"I only have a couple of comments left to make; but I do want to reemphasize the last comments that I made, and that is that the body of people that calls themselves 'Republicans' in this Senate, are now in power not because they won it at the election, in the election last November. And I have offense that because they did not win it then, they have been looking for every way possible to come to power, and have finally found it. I think that was a step that was taken outside the bounds of what we consider a democratic system; and I would ask you also to consider, in taking that action, to me that is one of the greatest measures of the character of the party that you represent.

"And what I am wondering now is, what is the next step?"

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate advanced to the fifth order of business.

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate read in the following House bills:

FIRST READING OF HOUSE BILL

HOUSE BILL NO. 99, by Representatives Smith, Flanagan, Nisbet, Dickie, Barr, Sanders, Isaacson, Fancher, Clayton and Hastings:

Modifying provisions relating to water rights reverted to the state.
MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, House Bill No. 99 was referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

FIRST READING OF HOUSE BILL

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 245, by Committee on Human Services (originally sponsored by Committee on Human Services and Representative Mitchell) (by Department of Social and Health Services request):
Modifying public assistance laws.

MOTION

Senator Clarke moved that Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 245 be referred to the Committee of the Whole Senate.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Did Senator Clarke move to suspend the rules?"

Senator Clarke: "Senate Rule 66 provides for that procedure, Senator. It does not need a suspension. Rule 66."

The motion by Senator Clarke carried. Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 245 was referred to the Committee of the Whole Senate.

Senator Clarke moved that the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, the bill was just placed on our desk, it just came over from the House. Is it your intent to run this without our having an opportunity to caucus on it or prepare any amendments, or anything of that nature?"

Senator Clarke: "If you would desire recess for caucus, I would be glad to so move. For how long about, Senator?"

MOTION

At 2:15 p.m., on motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate recessed to 2:45.

SECOND AFTERNOON SESSION

The President called the Senate to order at 2:45 p.m.

There being no objection, the Senate was declared to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order at 3:15 p.m.

Senator Clarke previously had moved that the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen: "Rule 67, 'Every bill shall be read on three separate days . . .' and I believe that is a constitutional requirement, Mr. President. And the other rule [Rule 35] I quote is 'No standing . . . order of the senate shall be rescinded or changed without a majority vote . . . and one day's notice . . .' so I do not know if we are changing the rules or not, but it would seem that we are not following the constitutional provisions of three separate days. The bill just arrived in the Senate from the House and has now been referred to the committee of the whole, but that does not constitute a separate day. That is Rule 67, Mr. President."
REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "We are aware of the three-day rule, Senator, but we thought it would expedite matters if we could work the bill today as a committee of the whole, and I understood that the request for a delay was so that your caucus could prepare whatever amendments you had, that you desired; and we granted that delay and we are now anxious to get to work on the bill and cannot see any particular reason for further delay."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, I might remind Senator Clarke that we tried to abide by the rules and the constitution, and not trample on the people's rights just because you happen to get into the majority by an unforeseen move. "And I am only quoting the same rules that you agreed to that we should abide by the rules."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Senator, we have no quarrel with abiding by the rules, nor with the concept that it is required that they be read on three separate days; and as a matter of fact, if you want to enforce the separate-day rules, is it your suggestion that we do nothing on the bill at all then, until tomorrow? And then we have a second reading on tomorrow, and then wait another day for a third reading?"

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "My suggestion would have been, if you had asked me, which you did not, would have been that we follow usual procedure, refer the bill to committee and then have it referred back to the committee, go to the rules, and then back on the floor. But you are apparently not wanting to do that; if you had asked me, I would have only suggested that to you."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Senator, I refer you again to Rule 66 which says that the first preference on referring a bill is to the committee of the whole senate. And we have abided by that rule and the bill is now before the committee of the whole Senate. It has been so referred and we would like to have the committee of the whole Senate proceed to work on it.

"I understand that you are now contending that the committee may not so work on it; Mr. President, I would urge a ruling that the Senate may proceed to work on it, which does not in any way violate the three-day concept."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "I only, Mr. President, raise the point of order that that is one of the reasons for the constitutional provision that the bill shall be read on three separate days, is that the people have some knowledge of legislation that is being proposed. And the bill is read in and then referred to the committee; the public generally would have a chance to appear before the committee and give testimony pro and con. And then on the third day the public, of course, would be excluded, but then the Senate would have action on it.

"It would seem we are proceeding in undue haste, the public has not even had a chance to appear before a committee. That is why the protection was written into the constitution; we are not legislating here just for ourselves, we are legislating and the public is supposed to have the opportunity to appear."
"That is why I asked you to rule on the point of order, Mr. President."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Senator McDermott has stated on the floor of this Senate several times in the last few days, that the very most important bill that we can pass is 245, and he has had hearings on that, Senator Rasmussen. Even though that bill was not before us, he has had hearings on that particular material; and so it is not new material, it is nothing more nor less than the implementation of 206 which we just passed. It places in the hands of the office of financial management the information on where they are to cut back, which programs are in line with 206.

"This is not unique. Now if you want to work the bill in the whole Senate and amend it, we will take that tack, but if you want to delay it further it means that the people out there will not know another day what is going to happen and that $236 million dollars in this supplemental budget will not be there for them."

REMARKS BY SENATOR McDERMOTT

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, to correct what Senator Hayner has said, we never heard this bill. The House was unable to get this bill out until today; the Senate never considers a bill until the House passes it.

"I would point out something to you which may be of some interest to people on your side, it certainly is to people on this side. We are all interested in having McNeil Island used as a penitentiary. This bill, if you look at the title page, is an act relating to social and health services and is all directly related to chapter 74; except for section 22 which says 'The department of social and health services is authorized to operate McNeil Island as a prison and correctional center for the care and custody of felons.'

"Now, all the legislation related to penitentiaries is in chapter 72.

"This bill has no severability clause and if I were one of the residents of Steilacoom, Washington that does not want McNeil Island used as a penitentiary and I had a bill passed here that had two subjects within it, public assistance and correctional institutions, I would immediately go to court and tie up the use of McNeil Island in a lawsuit so that it cannot be used because you passed it in a bill with two subjects. The constitution is clear on that point and you have before you a bill that deals with two subjects.

"Now I think that it is reasonable to take such a bill to committee, to hear it, and to make a reasonable decision.

"There is no emergency; there has never been an emergency. It was a manufactured emergency and there is no reason to ram this kind of legislation down the people's throat without a thorough airing of the plusses and minuses.

"I think that the democratic process is very badly served when you try to ram things through this way."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Clarke is on his feet; I am wondering whether they have had a change of heart over there. I would like to ask him a question. Will you yield, Senator Clarke?

"You made a statement a few minutes ago about delaying and I am just wondering, is this another new posture of the Republican side of the aisle, that whenever there is a caucus, that is to be considered as delaying tactics? I thought it was normally common courtesy, and you refer to us having a caucus delaying this issue that much longer."
REPLY BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "I do not recall ever having made such a statement that the caucus was called for the purpose of delaying. You asked for a caucus for the purpose of considering this bill and possible amendments; and my response was we would be very glad to accommodate you and allow you to have that caucus."

REMARKS BY SENATOR FLEMING

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President. Just a few minutes ago when you were talking to Senator Rasmussen, you spoke of not wanting to delay this, and you also indicated at that point in time, we have already delayed this a while for us to have a caucus, a few minutes ago, about three or four minutes ago. And so I just wanted to clarify that, because I knew in the past it has been afforded to each of us, you know, and it sounded like in the future there was going to be a delay."

REPLY BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Thank you, Mr. President. May I speak further? "My point, in reality, is that the bill has now been referred to the Senate as a committee of the whole which under Rule 66 can function exactly the same as the ways and means committee or any other committee to which the bill may have been referred. That is the purport of Rule 66.

"So if now you are taking a position that you wish an additional day as the Senate acting as the committee of the whole to consider and propose amendments to this bill, I do not think we would be inclined to have any objections.

"My only point is that we do think that it is important to get this supplemental budget and accompanying bill taken care of as soon as reasonably possible.

"Now I would like some response from the other side in that the bill is now before the committee of the whole and we will work it as a committee of the whole if—there is no necessity to refer it to any other committee, nor do the rules so provide.

"So if you wish to hold this until tomorrow, the idea that it would be worked tomorrow, that this would be regarded today as the first reading and that it be then considered tomorrow by this Senate sitting as a committee of the whole for second reading, kindly so state. I am not exactly sure what your position or proposal is."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "I wish to correct a statement that Senator Clarke has just made.

"Senator Clarke said that by referring the bill to a committee of the whole, that we are getting the same consideration that any other bill would get. And I would like to point out for Senator Clarke that he has completely forgotten the people.

"This legislation, this house bill arrived this morning. That is the first day. It was not referred to a regular committee so the public will have no chance to appear before this committee of the whole to testify.

"The bill vitally affects thousands of people in the state of Washington, Senator Clarke.

"In all other bills of major importance such as this, you heard Senator McDermott say it was never heard in the ways and means committee; it couldn't have been because we just got it from the House this morning.

"So what you are arguing is you are cutting the public off from a chance to appear before any committee. You are also violating the constitution which says the bill will be read on three separate days, so that the people may have the opportunity of knowing what is in the legislation. That is the sole purpose of it.

"So, yes, I do disagree with you and I am not delaying anything at all by quoting the rule because you yourself voted for that rule; you want the public to know, I am sure, what is in this legislation which cuts many people off of aid to the disabled and so forth. They should have their opportunity and that is all I am fighting for is for the people to have a chance to hear the bill.

"And I would hope that you would change your motion of a committee of the whole and send it to the regular committee so that it may be heard and the public testify.

"Mr. President, my point of order, I still stand by it."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Did you wish to talk on the point of order, Senator Ridder? Otherwise the President will rule on . . . ."

Senator Ridder: "We should move to a committee of the whole? Is that our point of order?"

President Cherberg: "The President in ruling upon the point of order proposed by Senator Rasmussen, believes that the remarks of Senator Rasmussen in regard to reading of a bill on three separate days, his remarks are well taken. However, Rule 66 does give the Senate the opportunity to resolve itself into the committee of the whole Senate if it so desires."

POINT OF INFORMATION

Senator Ridder: "Would Senator Clarke yield?"

President Cherberg: "Senator Clarke does not yield."

Senator Ridder: "He hasn't decided yet, well, I would bring to the view of the body, it seems to me in actuality the reason we are talking about having this in the committee of the whole as it comes immediately to the Senate, is that you folks do not have your committees yet. And I would suspect that had you been discussing urgent changes within the Senate, even prior to last Friday, that you would have been better prepared with your committees ready to move so that we might move this into the ways and means committee as we have done in the past on fairly short notice, and wheel it out on fairly short notice.

"I would hold that you are then, indeed, delaying; as you are accusing this side of the aisle of doing."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, responding very briefly. We are prepared to appoint the committees right now and go forward with them. The reason that there is a delay in appointment of committees is because we are giving your side of the aisle the opportunity to designate where you want to put your people.

"Now, if you want, on the other side, that we act right now, on dissolving all existing committees and reconstituting them, we would be very happy to accommodate you, right now."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, Senator Clarke.

"No, I did ask for the courtesy of having until Tuesday noon to select the new committees and I appreciate the courtesy shown to give us that time. Now it may not be that everybody in our caucus was aware that I have asked for that."
"As I read Rule 58, Senator, you will bring the bill out of the committee of the whole; it is really a quick trip through there because there is no sense for us to offer any amendments in the committee of the whole since this is not an omnibus appropriation bill, and a two-thirds vote, the yeas and the nays and nothing else applies, so we will get back out on the committee of the whole and offer our amendments. You are short-circuiting the one committee."

The motion by Senator Clarke carried. The Senate resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole for the purpose of considering Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 245.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Committee of the Whole President Pro Tempore Guess in the Chair.

Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 245 was considered in the Committee of the Whole and reported back to the Senate with the recommendation that it do pass. On motion of Senator Clarke, the report of the committee was adopted.

MOTION

At 3:40 p.m., on motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate was declared to be at ease.

The President called the Senate to order at 3:45 p.m.

MOTION

Senator Clarke moved the rules be suspended and Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 245 be placed on the second reading calendar for today.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen: "A motion to suspend the rules is not debatable."

Senator Clarke: "I believe that the rules say that a short explanation of the reason for asking for the suspension is in order and that is all I am asking Senator Hemstad to do."

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, it says the maker of a motion may have a brief explanation, and Senator Clarke is the maker of the motion, not Senator Hemstad. I still maintain my point of order."

Senator Clarke: "I think that I have the right to yield; if not, I would withdraw the motion and let Senator Hemstad make the motion, Senator, if that is what you want to do.

"Mr. President, I withdraw the motion and yield to Senator Hemstad for the purpose of making the motion and explaining it."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Rasmussen, your point of order is well taken; however, Senator Clarke's remarks are also well taken inasmuch as a brief explanation for the purpose of the motion can be made. "This also permits you or any other Senator to rebut."

MOTION

Senator Hemstad moved that the rules be suspended, Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 245 be placed on second reading calendar for today.

Senator McDermott rebutted the remarks by Senator Hemstad.

Senator Rasmussen demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Hemstad that the rules be suspended and Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 245 be placed on second reading calendar for today.
ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion failed by the following vote: Yeas, 25; nays, 24.

Voting yea: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallagher, Gould, Guess, Haley, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Scott, Sellar, von Reichbauer, Zimmerman—25.

The motion by Senator Hemstad failed to receive the required two-thirds majority. The bill was passed to second reading.

STATEMENTS FOR THE JOURNAL
WASHINGTON STATE SENATE

February 20, 1981.

MR. SID SNYDER
SECRETARY OF THE SENATE
SENATE CHAMBERS
OLYMPIA, WA 98504

Dear Sid:

We submit, for publication in the Senate Journal, the attached statements. We do so because the actions of the Majority have not allowed free and open debate in the halls of the Senate Chamber.

Sincerely,

/s/SENATOR GEORGE FLEMING CAUCUS CHAIRMAN

/s/SENATOR BRUCE WILSON
CAUCUS VICE CHAIRMAN

/s/SENATOR R. TED BOTTIGER
MINORITY LEADER

/s/SENATOR A. N. "BUD" SHINPOCH
ASSISTANT MINORITY LEADER

Senator R. Ted Bottiger, Minority Leader, submits for the Senate Journal the following:

"Senate Republicans, in flexing their Majority muscles cut off legitimate debate in the public forum (known as the Washington State Senate). There are many points which concern Democrats, but the following article from the Seattle Times of 2-16-81 summarizes many:

"GOP PLANS WELFARE CUTS; VETO POSSIBLE
"Governor dismayed by budget of new Republican majority

by Peter Rinearson
Times Olympia Bureau

OLYMPIA—Republicans expect to ram welfare cuts and other budget changes through the Legislature today, knocking aside objections by power-stripped Democrats."
But the Republican power plan, made possible because they picked up another seat in the State Senate on Friday, may fizzle in the face of a possible veto by Gov. John Spellman.

On Friday, the GOP governor told Republican legislative leaders that he finds their planned welfare cuts personally unacceptable. Spellman finds the cuts excessive and 'fundamentally repugnant to him as a human being', Spellman's press secretary, Paul O'Connor, said last night.

Spellman 'runs quite a risk if he does (veto the budget)', Senate Majority Leader Jeannette Hayner, Walla Walla Republican, warned last night. 'It would be another delay. In the meantime, you'd have programs which would have to be terminated.'

Senator Shinpoch, submits for publication in the Senate Journal the following:

"Republicans in the Senate gained a one-vote majority Friday when Senator Peter von Reichbauer of Vashon Island announced he was becoming a Republican. The GOP holds a 56-to-42 majority in the House, so von Reichbauer's conversion effectively turned the state over to complete Republican control.

"The Republicans' first goal is to whip a $236 million supplemental budget through both House and Senate, over the objections of Democrats who no longer have power to stop it. The supplemental budget, which is composed of two bills pertaining to spending and three pertaining to managing revenues, is to fund the state through the end of June, when a new two-year fiscal period begins.

"The budget reduces program levels in several areas, notably in welfare spending. For example, a program for short-term assistance to people who may be employable would be eliminated March 1.

"Republican legislative leaders expect to send the spending bills to Spellman late today. The revenue bills would follow as soon as possible.

Spellman last night said he'll make no decision on whether to veto the budget until all five bills reach his desk, O'Connor said. Spellman said he expects to receive the last of the five by tomorrow.

The governor will have little time to ponder a veto. Notices of reductions in welfare payments must in in the mail to recipients by Wednesday to meet the requirements of law.

O'Connor said the notices are being stuffed in envelopes and run through a postage meter.

Spellman is "disappointed" in the deep cuts planned in social programs by Republican leaders, O'Connor said. Spellman last month proposed cuts from present levels, but not of the magnitude contemplated by the conservative GOP leaders of the Legislature.

"His (Spellman's) view of the levels he sent to the House was that they were the absolute minimum, that he had trimmed as much as he could morally trim", O'Connor said.

Increases the Republican legislators are approving in education funding, while cutting money from "the poorest of the poor", have Spellman dismayed, O'Connor said. "He's almost shocked that so much money will go to education—beyond emergent need, really", the press secretary said.

The Republican rise to power in the Senate is causing temporary paralysis. All Senate committee meetings have been canceled, probably until Wednesday at the earliest, while Republicans line up their new committee chairmen and both parties reshuffle their committee members to reflect the new Republican majority.
Hayner said the Senate Republicans will waste no time shaping the Senate to their liking. "We're going to change the (operating) rules first thing in the morning", she said last night.

In the House, Minority Leader Dick King, Everett Democrat, will ask for rules changes, too. The "gag rules" imposed by Republicans on Democrats shouldn't be necessary any longer, because Republicans have unchallenged control of both chambers now, he said.

Some but not all of the rules Democrats dislike may be changed, said House Speaker Bill Polk, Mercer Island Republican.

"This concludes the submission of material begun by Senator Bottiger. Why the Majority party refuses to allow open discussion, on points such as mentioned in these four submissions, is unknown to the Minority. We feel as though the constituencies represented by all Democrats, and the 30th District because of the defection of the senator from that district, have also been gagged by the actions of the Majority."

MOTION

At 3:50 p.m., on motion of Senator Hayner, the Senate adjourned until 10:00 a.m., Tuesday, February 17, 1981.

JOHN A. CHERBERG, President of the Senate.
SIDNEY R. SNYDER, Secretary of the Senate.
The Senate was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by President Cherberg. The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators Gaspard, Talmadge, Vognild and Wilson. On motion of Senator Ridder, Senators Gaspard, Talmadge, Vognild and Wilson were excused.

The Color Guard, consisting of Pages Joann Siepp and Ray Moyer, presented the Colors. Reverend Ray Morrison, pastor of the First Church of the Nazarene of Olympia, offered the prayer.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

February 13, 1981.

Mr. President: The House has passed:
ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 11,
SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 43,
SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 58,
HOUSE BILL NO. 86,
HOUSE BILL NO. 181,
HOUSE BILL NO. 186,
HOUSE BILL NO. 190,
HOUSE BILL NO. 198, and the same are herewith transmitted.

VITO T. CHIECHI, Chief Clerk.

MOTIONS

Senator Clarke moved the Senate advance to the eighth order of business.
Senator Clarke: Mr. President, members of the Senate.
"We took no action on these yesterday and there is an additional list and in view of the thought that the time expiration would have expired, there is a long list of bills. And the suggested committees are on the list which are on your desk, and I am now giving notice that this afternoon I will move that they all be referred to the committees designated as a group.
"If, however, any member should want individual consideration as to any referral, kindly notify Senator Lee and I will then remove them from the initial mass motion and they will then be considered individually.
"So, at this time I move that further consideration be delayed until this afternoon."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "If there is no objection, upon motion by Senator Clarke of further deliberation, the introduction and first reading of bills, will be this afternoon.
Senator Clarke."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Thank you, Mr. President.
"Further, with respect to the proposed schedule for today, it is our intention to move to the eighth order and ask first that rules committee be relieved of 245, and that it be brought before the body for second reading.
"We would be glad to go to rules and ask rules to put the bill on the calendar but in view of what happened last time, in view of the fact that rules committee has not changed, unless there is some suggestion from the other side that rules would be willing to vote the bill out, we will not go through the needless procedure of going to rules and coming out again.
"Then after that bill has been considered for second reading, we will ask that ways and means be relieved of substitute House Bills 207 and 208, which will then, and that they be placed on the second reading calendar for consideration for amendments today.
"And that in substance will; then this afternoon will be the expiration of the time of our agreement with the other side of the aisle as to the submission of committee designations and the question of committee changes will be taken up then, this afternoon.
"So, Mr. President, at this time I move that we advance to the eighth order of business."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Clarke, you referred to House Bill 207 and 208 in the ways and means committee?"

Senator Clarke: "Yes."

Senator Rasmussen: "Have they been considered by the ways and means committee?"

Senator Clarke: "I am not aware of the extent to which they have been considered; that is up to that committee; they have been in that committee for a considerable period of time, Senator Rasmussen."

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Clarke, under instructions from the leadership of the Republican party at the present time, all committee meetings were cancelled from and as of Friday when Peter von Reichbauer defected from the Democrats and I do not think there has been any opportunity to hold committee meetings; and I merely thought maybe, maybe some of the Republican members might want to look at what is in those bills, too. In our pell-mell haste to move bills, it does not seem like they are getting the proper consideration

"I see you are questioning people to find out if they are the same question I have, that the bills have never been considered in committee, Senator Clarke, so maybe it is of some concern to some of your members."

REMARKS BY SENATOR NEWHOUSE

Senator Newhouse: "Perhaps we can relieve Senator Rasmussen's mind."

"Senator Rasmussen, you voted for House Bill 209 some weeks ago, and it included in it the provisions of both 207 and 208. The matter has been considered by the ways and means committee, both of them, and they were passed out in somewhat defective form. You will recall that we peeled them off of 209 yesterday so those things are properly before us."

REMARKS BY SENATOR McDERMOTT

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, just to correct Senator Newhouse.

"They were not passed out in defective form; they were corrected. The House passed bills that would put the state on warrants. We had the state treasurer up there testifying of the deleterious effects of such measures. And the reason they were passed out in that form was to protect the bond rating of the state of Washington.

"Now if you think that is defective, I suppose you like the credit card economy we are establishing here."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, in further answer to Senator Rasmussen, I think it is apparent that there is no member on this floor that is not well aware of the significance of those two bills. And we are desirous, and we think it is very much in the public interest, to accomplish the passage of the package of bills necessary to implement the supplemental budget; and that is why we are asking to accelerate.
"Now, in the event you feel you do need additional time, which frankly, we cannot see that you do, we would ask that the bills be placed upon the second reading calendar today, and if you would want an additional day in which to consider and prepare your amendments, we would be glad to hold those over until tomorrow, although we would do that only if you so request it, and we would want to first move them to the floor and get them on the second reading calendar."

REMARKS BY SENATOR SCOTT

Senator Scott: "Mr. President, I would respectfully submit that both bills were heard, commented on at some length in the ways and means committee, and the very quote that is used about that Jack Kiley gave, was given at that meeting; and I would also remind that Mr. Kiley's statement was, and it was verbally, a very fancy piece of footwork, that if you took the bills separately, he would raise questions; if you took them as an entity, as a whole, they represented an option dealing with our current fiscal crisis.

"I cannot see all the way across the room for the smoke, but those are the facts."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, Mr. President, in my question to Senator Clarke, was in relation to, had the bills officially been considered, and has the public had a chance to appear before . . . ?; when we move bills out of the committee, Senator Clarke, in this fashion as you have been attempting to do, very rapidly, they do not get the proper consideration. And I am mindful of the fact that Governor Spellman has said the same thing. He is worried about what you are doing up here in your haste; and we are worried, too, and that is why we are asking for the proper consideration."

The motion by Senator Clarke carried and the Senate advanced to the eighth order of business.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Committee on Rules was relieved of further consideration of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 245.

On motion of Senator Clarke, Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 245 was ordered placed on the second reading calendar for today.

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Committee on Ways and Means was relieved of further consideration of Substitute House Bill No. 207.

On motion of Senator Clarke, Substitute House Bill No. 207 was ordered placed on the second reading calendar for today.

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Committee on Ways and Means was relieved of further consideration of Substitute House Bill No. 208.

On motion of Senator Clarke, Substitute House Bill No. 208 was ordered placed on the second reading calendar for today.

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate returned to the sixth order of business.

SECOND READING

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 245, by Committee on Human Services (originally sponsored by Committee on Human Services and Representative Mitchell) (by Department of Social and Health Services request):

Modifying public assistance laws.

The bill was read the second time by sections.
Senator McDermott moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators McDermott and Wojahn:

On page 2, line 32, strike all of section I.

Senator McDermott asked Senator Scott to yield to a question. Senator Scott declined to yield.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talley: "Mr. President, I think I misunderstood Senator Scott; I would like to direct a question, and all I would need, is a 'yes' or 'no'. I think I misunderstood you, and I do not want a prolonged question or a prolonged answer.

"I would just like you to tell me if you said this, you thought in this budget there were funds to carry the chore services through the biennium?"

Senator Scott: "Mr. President, what I said was, that there was an additional $1.6 million dollars for chore services clients, to take them through the end of the biennium, in particular those with physical disability, the people with real problems.

"In this bill, and Senator Talley, I do not have the particular page reference at hand, but in this bill there is language that will allow the department to adjust away from lawn cutting and gutter cleaning, which are two of the types of help that have been provided through chore service wages now and restricted simply to cleaning houses, helping people in getting food on the table, and so forth.

"And that is why, another feature of this bill is necessary and that is allowing that money to get into the kinds of services that you have to have; you do not have to get your lawn cut right now; you do have to get food on the table."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bauer: "Thank you, Mr. President.

"I would like to follow up on Senator Talley's question. Senator Scott, what would be the next reduction in chore services provided for in 245, from what Governor Spellman had recommended? I understand he recommended $4 million dollars. How many dollars are in the chore service program to finish us out in the biennium?"

Senator Scott: "In new dollars, $1.6 million."

Senator Bauer: "How much difference is that from Governor Spellman's recommendation, then, totally?"

Senator Scott: "My memory is that it is just a little over $2 million."

Senator Bauer: "Less. So it is about fifty percent of Governor Spellman's recommendation for chore services?"

Senator Scott: "In a purely fiscal sense, Senator Bauer, but as I just pointed out, the provisions in 245 also allow the department to put the manpower that is purchased with the extra money, into essential specific services and away from the somewhat broader definitions that have allowed that, those efforts to go for gutter cleaning and lawn mowing and the grocery buying, and in some of the secondary types of activities and focus it on house cleaning, food preparation, and things that are absolutely essential to disabled people.

"So I think that you have to look at two things: one, the amount of money added; secondly, the better focus with which it is going to be channeled."

Senator Bauer: "Thank you for that, Senator Scott."

"Is the term 'gravely ill', is that a qualification for who those recipients might be after April? 'Gravely ill', is that a criteria for receiving chore services after April?"

Senator Scott: "Well, Senator, I will have to refer you to the page in 245 where the entire list of definitions is given; and that is just one of them. You might be called a baseline. There are also a number of other ways that these chore service clients can qualify.

"'Chore services means . . . performing light work, household tasks, or personal care which eligible persons are unable to do for themselves because of frailty or other conditions.' It also includes 'but are limited to . . . keeping the client and home safe and clean, preparation of meals, and other tasks as determined by the department.' And the 'as determined' of course, is the focusing fact of the amendment."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Bauer, you made mention that you sent out this letter in regards to chore services. Did you get approval from Senator Jones to send that out?"

Senator Bauer: "Well, the first one I did not have to have approved; we were in the majority at that time. The second one I slipped out Monday in the mail before this scrutiny took place, apparently."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Ridder: "Senator Scott, I want to be sure I understand correctly what the premise is on the chore services. At the present time, it is my understanding that if we have someone who has fifty percent of the average income of the state who is applying for chore services, they are eligible. Is that correct?"

Senator Scott: "It is my understanding, Senator, is that it is thirty-seven percent; fifty-seven percent is of the state median wage is correct. It is a little more than fifty percent. Under the revised standards, it is thirty percent. That is $21,000 a year which would be $6,000 for a family of two, or something like half of that for a single individual."

Senator Ridder: "Okay. My understanding, in rough figures, is that someone who now has an income of something over five hundred dollars a month, will not be eligible unless they are reduced to the point of approximately two hundred and fifty dollars a month. Is that accurate?"

Senator Scott: "That is essentially correct."

Senator Ridder: "The first category will retain chore services for two months, for the sixty days."

Senator Scott: "That is right."

Senator Ridder: "Then that two hundred and fifty dollars additional income that they have will disqualify them for any kind of chore services, at least through the remainder of this biennium."

Senator Scott: "That is true, Senator, but it is also true that the chore services that are delivered with the additional $1.6 million, will be focused on the things that I read in 245 on the bottom of page 16 and the top of page 17; that is, it will not be going for yard work and secondary kinds of services; so to say there is a direct correlation between the dollar amounts you cited and the amount of service rendered, is not entirely true, either."

Senator Ridder: "I notice it is a bit more general and I would refer to Senator Moore's comments about the department. 'Safe and clean and preparation of meals' is fairly limited. Sure, you have taken out, well, I don't know, wood chopping is fairly important this time of year, especially with your dependence on the energy grant; lawn care, simple household repairs, does that include the toaster, the door that does not close, that kind of thing? It seems to me that you are, indeed, going back to Governor Spellman's injunction not to balance the budget on the backs of the poor; and indeed, upon their stomachs, at this point."

Senator Scott: "Senator, with all respect I would point out that when Senator McDermott's edition of the supplemental budget came out, at the levels that the Governor had suggested to the House, the House bill also had an amount in excess of $15 million dollars above what he had suggested for K-12; and during that same period, the staff mix factor was considered and another $8 million dollars was added into the K-12 side over here for meeting our obligations in that area.
"We used up our money."

REMARKS BY SENATOR McDERMOTT

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, I do not know if Senator Scott is speaking on the amendment or making a polemic about some other bill; I did not know we had school matters in this."

REMARKS BY SENATOR SCOTT

Senator Scott: "I am answering Senator Ridder, Senator, as to why the amendment, the concerns that she is now addressing, and we tried to address but were voted down; we offered amendments for an additional $7.4 million dollars to address some of the things you are talking about. That money is now spent."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Ridder: "I would not like to have it assumed in any manner that I should be setting my concerns for those who are unable to help themselves against the concerns of education. We did not come to the point of having the opportunity to vote upon the amendments, the supplemental budget for education, and I would not want, in any way, to have it construed that I should set one concern, concern for one segment against another. That may be true for others but not for me."

Senator McDermott demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senators McDermott and Wojahn to page 2, line 32.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 21; nays, 25; excused, 3.

Voting yea: Senators Bauer, Bottiger, Charnley, Conner, Fleming, Goltz, Hansen, Hughes, Hurley, Lysen, McDermott, Moore, Peterson, Rasmussen, Ridder,

Voting nay: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallaghan, Gould, Guess, Haley, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Scott, Sellar, von Reichbauer, Zimmerman—25.

Senator Shinpoch moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators
Shinpoch, McDermott and Conner:

On page 3, line 24, after "receive" strike "((or are not receiving))" and insert "or are not receiving"

Debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Shinpoch failed and the amendment was not adopted.

Senator Shinpoch moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators
Shinpoch, McDermott and Conner:
On page 3, line 25, after "assistance" strike all material through line 29 and insert ": PROVIDED, That general assistance shall be granted temporarily to any person eligible for and receiving supplemental security income whose need, as defined in this section, is not met by such supplemental security income grant because of separation from a spouse"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talley: "Senator Shinpoch, I cannot believe what you say. Are you suggesting these people might live together in sin?"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Charnley: "Senator Lee, I just wanted to check with you on this particular item, that the bill dealing with home rule, of course, had been referred to local government; and this, of course, is a home rule charter.

"I understand that constitutions and elections generally deals with amendments to the constitution, but I would like to suggest that it might be better to have this one start in local government where that topic has been discussed over the past year, and then maybe if the decision would be made to rerefer it.*

Senator Lee: "Senator Charnley, we did talk to the committee chairmen involved in this particular matter. One of the procedures we would like to try is that all of the joint resolutions that are constitutional amendments, will have their turn in the constitutions and elections committee, and we just felt it would be a faster procedure rather than to hear it, rerefer it, and have it heard a second time.

"It could very well be that we could work out something with some of the members of local government to participate in those hearings because of their past experience."

Senator Charnley: "Well, I appreciate that courtesy. This is a rather important issue to local government."

Senator Lee: "I think that is a reasonable request."

The motion by Senator Lee carried. Senate Joint Resolution No. 120 was referred to the Committee on Constitutions and Elections.

Modifying provisions on excise tax collections.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

Senator Bottiger moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Bottiger and McDermott:

On page 3, line 13, strike all of section 3.

Renumber the remaining sections.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Quigg, do you know what the benefits to the Boeing company is on this amendment?"

Senator Quigg: "Senator Bottiger, I suspect that the benefit to the Boeing company on this amendment would be nominal compared to the cost of the annual percentage rate penalty that you proposed on the earlier amendment that amounts to a 240% annual interest rate."

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Quigg, you are now talking about airplanes and insurance companies. The last bill dealt with insurance companies. This bill deals with sales and use tax credits. The 'Mom and Pop' store will get four dollars a year credit.

"My question is, do you know what Weyerhaeuser and Boeing will get?"

Senator Quigg: "Senator Bottiger, I am sure that they would be turning that money over in this economy as would the 'Mom and Pop' store. I do not begrudge the 'Mom and Pop' store the four dollars and if the Boeing company were to move away, I am sure we would find that to be an awful encumbrance on our economy around here as well."
"The fact is that we have a matter here that is just simply going to get out of hand if we have people putting up 240% annual interest rate burdens on the small taxpayer around here. I think that it is one thing that we should realize."

Further debate ensued.

Senator Bottiger demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senators Bottiger and McDermott to page 3, line 13.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 22; nays, 25; excused, 2.

MOTION

Senator Scott moved the rules be suspended, Substitute House Bill No. 208, as amended by the Senate, be advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill be placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

There being no objection, on motion of Senator Scott, the motion was withdrawn.

And I would simply point out to the members of the Republican coalition that we will be keeping a tally of how many times during the course of this session, you chose to cut us off in the course of debate.

"In debate it is the responsibility of the minority to point out problems or concerns with respect to any legislation, and it becomes increasingly difficult to perform that valued and necessary function when, in the course of debate, calls for the previous question are made."

VITO T. CHIECHI, Chief Clerk.

The President signed: SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 206.

On motion of Senator Bottiger, the following amendment by Senator Quigg was adopted:

Voting nay: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallagher, Gould, Guess, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Newhouse, Quigg, Sellar, Zimmerman—16.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, I notice Senator Jones and Senator Sellar approaching the bar during roll call. I think that is prohibited by the rules."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Your remarks are well taken, Senator."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Well, I agree one hundred percent with Senator Bottiger and it would seem to me it would be appropriate to interrupt a roll call to raise a point of order to object to people being down at the front desk. Would not that be correct? Because otherwise how would it be possible to insure that the rules were enforced?"

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President believes the rule specifically states that a roll call cannot be interrupted except for the purpose of a call of the Senate.

"If there were a fire or a bomb, the President might interrupt it."

Senator Hurley moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Hurley, Goltz and McDermott:

On page 2, line 15 after "(1)" delete everything from and including "Council" through and including "act." on line 17 and insert:

"No council member may have other employment for which compensation is received. However, nothing in this subsection prohibits a member from receiving compensation for infrequent activities which do not prevent the member from devoting full attention to essential council activities. This subsection shall not apply after the council has adopted the regional conservation and electric power plan if the council has declared that subsequent activities will not require full time participation of the members."

Debate ensued.
POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Gould, as I understand, and just briefly reading the Federal law, the number of states that appoint delegates to the Pacific Northwest Power Commission, these people will only be setting policy and is it the intention that they hire an executive director? I read some place where they are going to have two hundred employees, although Congress has not made the appropriation yet. And I do not know what they are going to use the two hundred employees for. It was my understanding that this board would merely be a policy-setting board to make sure that all states would be treated fairly, and that somebody else would do the actual enforcement, I do not know whether it is the Bonneville authority or who would do that. Could you explain? Or somebody that has been on the committee."

Senator Gould: "I will yield to Senator Williams."

Senator Williams: "Yes. Senator Rasmussen, as I understand it, at least, the role of the council actually is going to be determined by the council itself. If it chooses to be just a policy body and rely totally on staffing which they may arrange for in any number of ways, then that will be their determination, as I understand it. They may also elect to take a much more active part in the process of the responsibilities that they have. I think that is one of the things that no state, and including the Federal legislation, has attempted to actually set out, and left that determination actually to the council itself."

Further debate ensued.

Senator Jones demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senators Hurley, Goltz and McDermott.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 17; nays, 30; excused, 2.

Voting nay: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Bottiger, Charnley, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallagher, Gould, Guess, Hansen, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Rasmussen, Scott, Sellar, Talley, von Reichbauer, Williams, Zimmerman—30.

On motion of Senator Gould, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3041 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3041, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 44; nays, 3; excused, 2.

Voting yea: Senators Bauer, Benitz, Bluechel, Bottiger, Charnley, Clarke, Conner, Craswell, Deccio, Fleming, Fuller, Gallagher, Gaspard, Goltz, Gould, Guess, Hansen, Hayner, Hemstad, Hughes, Hurley, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, Lysen, McCaslin, Metcalf, Moore, Newhouse, Patterson, Peterson, Pullen, Quigg, Rasmussen, Scott, Sellar, Shinpoch, Talley, Talmadge, von Reichbauer, Williams, Wilson, Wojahn, Woody, Zimmerman—44.

Voting nay: Senators McDermott, Pullen, Ridder—3.

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3041, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Gould, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3041 was ordered immediately transmitted to the House.

MOTION

Senator Clarke moved that the following adjustments be made in today's second reading calendar: Senate Bills 3004, 3114, 3006, 3252, 3009, 3033, 3098, 3263 and SJR 108 be placed at the end of the calendar in that order.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Shinpoch: "Are we about to vote on whether to move Senate Bill 3263 and SJR 108 to the bottom of the calendar?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Yes, Senator Shinpoch."

Senator Shinpoch demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, I did not understand what Senator Clarke said. You said you were not going to have things in their order of importance but in their order of orderly procedure; and I do not know what that means, maybe you could set that out for us; because I remember all the talks that you people gave us last year about the fact that we ought to consider redistricting and get it out of the way so that we could get on with the people's business, and now you want to have it on the calendar day after day? Is that orderly?"

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, if we followed the procedure which was set by the now minority, we had no idea what was going to happen to the various bills on the calendar. There was no attempt whatsoever to follow the order; they pick 'em from the bottom, they pick 'em from the middle; now you are saying, in substance, that we should have no flexibility whatsoever. What we are endeavoring to do is to give you as much advance notice as possible as to the order in which the majority decides to consider the calendar.

"Now we could make this motion at any time and shift at any time; as a matter of fact, the arrangement, the sequence that we are now giving you is in an effort to be cooperative. We as a majority, and we might as well serve notice on you right now, if at any time we feel that it is to the benefit of this body to change that order, we will do so by majority vote; but we will have our own reasons for doing so.

"Now if you do not want us to endeavor to cooperate by giving you advance, the list in which we, in the absence of some other consideration coming up, as far as we are concerned, are going to consider these bills, we will just go back to the former procedure that you had, pay no attention whatsoever to the order in which these things are placed on the calendar but proceed to pull them and consider them at our own convenience.

"Now I just call attention and would like to have you think back as to the procedure before; never has there been a situation where the majority has felt that they were bound to consider the bills in the order as set forth."
REMARKS BY SENATOR GASPARD

Senator Gaspard: "Mr. President, and members of the Senate.

"This is supposed to be a deliberative body doing the people's business, and I do not think the people's business is to give threats to any particular party on this floor."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, members of the Senate, particularly Senator Clarke.

"I share your criticism of some, how the Senate proceeded in the past session. But I do not think you can say that of this session or of this, the majority that served here up until about a week ago, or until last Friday, anyhow.

"We had proceeded in the orderly procedure. We had instituted requests for amendments in advance; we did sit in rules and talk about blocking bills together so everybody would know how the procedure would be. And we performed.

"So I presume you are talking about some prior sessions when many of us were not here."

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"To put it bluntly, I guess the concern that is expressed by the members on this side is that this is simply a prelude to rereferring these bills back to the rules committee, or back to the committee of origin, and not taking up the issue of a redistricting commission at all.

"This could be the first step and we have no assurances from the other side that they are going to take these bills up, once they place them down at the bottom of the calendar, where I think they would like to have them rest permanently.

"I would hope, at least from Senator Clarke and perhaps some other members on that side, that they would give us those kinds of assurances that should, in fact, they prevail with their twenty-five votes, that these measures will, in fact, be considered out here on the floor where they can be debated in front of the public; that they can be considered in full public view and a public vote taken."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President. As far as Senate Bill 3263 is concerned, we have asked for an attorney general opinion as to the constitutionality of that. We believe, and we have had several lawyers look at it carefully, that it is unconstitutional. That is one of the reasons for putting that bill at the bottom.

"The next bill, there are several members in our caucus who are interested in amendments to SJR 108, and that is the reason for putting that bill at the bottom.

"If you do not want us to notify you as to the order, that is just fine, and we will take them wherever we find them."

REMARKS BY SENATOR WOODY

Senator Woody: "Thank you, Mr. President.

"Up until last Friday I was chairman of the constitution and elections committee in the Senate; and . . .

President Cherberg: "For what purpose does Senator Clarke rise?"

Senator Clarke: "Well, I think, if Senator Woody would yield for just a minute. I think we all would like to get some lunch and if the Senate would consider, I would withdraw my motion with the idea that we can debate this at the next working day when all of us have had time to maybe think a little more and cool down. Now if Senator Woody still wants to make some remarks, it is fine, but I would like to withdraw my motion for the reasons stated."

President Cherberg: "If there is no objection, the motion is withdrawn. Senator Woody."

Senator Woody: "Thank you.

"Senator Clarke, I simply wish to ask if there is a question or a potential question about the unconstitutionality of Senate Bill 3263 which did pass through our committee and if you have, in fact, asked for an attorney general's opinion on a particular provision in that bill, I would appreciate—and I think other members of our caucus would appreciate—having your concerns in a written form and perhaps the question that you asked the attorney general's office for our review also, so that we could possibly consider an amendment to this bill that might resolve the problem, without holding it at the bottom of the calendar indefinitely. Thank you."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, the motion to place Senate Bill 3263 and Senate Joint Resolution 108 at the end of the calendar for today was withdrawn.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President, when a member is in the course of speaking on the floor, can another member interrupt in the course of those remarks if the original speaker did not yield the floor?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Another member can raise the point of order, Senator."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"Because my signature is on the now infamous documents confiscated by the Republican coalition early Monday morning, I think this was immoral, I think it was uncalled for, and I now request from the Republican coalition that those documents be returned.

"It is my understanding that the Republican coalition has made copies of these documents for presentation to the public disclosure commission. The Republican coalition has had time, adequate time, to review or screen, whatever terminology that they used in expressing why they confiscated these documents, and I would like to request that those documents be returned now.

"You will also receive this request in writing and I hope that my request would be adhered to."

REMARKS BY SENATOR JONES

Senator Jones: "Those letters are in the hands of the public disclosure commission, Senator Fleming, and they have been placed for their scrutiny and their opinion, an advisory opinion on whether these are not, in fact, partisan political mailings.

"As you know these were not directed into your district or Senator Bottiger's district.
"And you speak of the late hours, I guess we wonder why this type of printing has to take place during the late hours. And I believe you mentioned the late hours."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Would Senator Jones yield to a question? Perhaps if I asked the question then he could decide.

"Senator, when was Senator von Reichbauer's letters printed, the 'pray for me' letters? When was the order placed?"

Senator Clarke: "What order of business are we, and what is before the Senate? Personal privilege on the part of Senator Fleming, and I think that had been concluded."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, I would suggest that Senator Bottiger would have a right to speak on a personal privilege since his name was also on those documents."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Fleming, in reply to your point of order, Senator Bottiger certainly has the opportunity to speak upon a point of personal privilege; however, Senator Bottiger did not request it. Do you so request, Senator?"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, to continue my remarks.

"It is a well-established practice in this Senate that the mailings that we are referring to are done at the convenience of the print shop and used to fill in time.

"The first priority, at least it used to be, was this; the second were committee reports and things of that nature, and when other time was available, the letters, the questionnaires and the other items of the Senate were printed. And I trust that that has not changed.

"Early on in this session, a request was made to me, that there be a no-discrimination between when material was printed in the print shop, that it was first come, first served on the placement of the order, and a suggestion was made that that had not been the practice in the past. And we immediately directed the print shop that first come, first served was the order, and that they were not to deviate from that.

"So material is printed, since there is an employee there twenty-four hours a day, first come, first served.

"Now I would inquire as to whether that same rule applied and how many letters were bounced down so that Senator von Reichbauer's 'pray for me' letter could be printed.

"I would further request or suggest that maybe a policy ought to be established as to what time . . . ."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Newhouse: "I would suggest that the member is not speaking to a point of personal privilege, that he is talking about order of business, things that should either be discussed with the rules committee or on the eighth order on motions."

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, since I have a request up there for printing that got delayed, I think it is a point of personal privilege."
"I think we will be presenting a rule change tomorrow which will try to lay out some orderly procedure and some method whereby it can be challenged, both by the minority and the majority party, but not just one gets to pick and censor the material of the other.

"But that rule change will have no prior restraint in it. If you submit something or I submit something and it is challenged, the information will be brought to the person challenged and be able to raise his point and then he will decide whether he should proceed. But we will discuss that tomorrow."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the Senate.

"We have already made it very clear that we want the executive officer, the secretary of the Senate, to make the decision on what material is permissible to be printed and therefore we have asked the . . ."

President Cherberg: "For what purpose do you rise, Senator Williams?"

Senator Williams: "Under what procedure is Senator Hayner speaking?"

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, I was trying to respond to Senator Bottiger."

President Cherberg: "The President was going to remark that we might just as well let it all hang out, so Senator Hayner . . ."

Senator Hayner: "That is why we took the material to the public disclosure commission so that they could give us some guidance; and we have also requested and the secretary of the Senate is going to write a letter also, because he would like to have some guidelines by which this is determined.

"And as far as the first in, first out, I think we will try to abide by that; I do not think that the Democrats did, but it is certainly our hope that we can."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, responding to Senator Jones, as it relates to my remarks, and maybe a question or two if he so chooses to answer.

"Should I, from your remarks, understand that we will get, in writing, until the resolution that might be proposed by Senator Bottiger, we will get, in writing, this policy of yours that you now say is a policy of yours, and am I to understand that, as a result of Senator Hayner's comments, I will no longer have to call you or write you to ask whether I can send out, whether something meets your approval, but that approval will come from Sid Snyder's office; and if, in fact, that is the case, are you also indicating to me that that was not the policy when the infamous documents were confiscated?"

Senator Jones: "May I refer to the reference of 'infamous documents' which are the words of Senator Fleming, I might point out. And I well agree with him at this point.

"There has been a screening process in place; but now I find that in the documents in question, neither the secretary of the Senate nor Millie was able to look at those documents; they came with a memorandum signed by Dale Woods on Sunday, were delivered on Sunday and the memorandum references to 'I'll pick them up early in the morning.'

"That is a portion of my concern that we may never have seen that letter nor have known its origin. I might also point out that, and you may correct me if it is true, that in the duplication of these letters which you presented to the press, at which you called a press conference, you brought this all to light rather than handling it in what we hoped would be a fairly quiet manner with an advisory opinion from the public disclosure commission."
There was no intention on our part to call a press conference. As a matter of fact, the press asked us why we did not. And my reaction was, it was not our intention...

Senator Fleming: "Senator Jones . . ."
Senator Jones: "I am not through responding, Senator . . ."
Senator Fleming: "Sorry, Senator."
Senator Jones: ". . . and you have interrupted my train of thought, too, as well.

It seems to me that I recall Senator Gordon Sandison who occupied my position, my responsibilities, and I am a person who works late around here; I used to move around here and I would find Gordon looking around here to make sure that the security guards were awake at some extremely later hours; and any contention that early in the morning, after all I believe the night shift was supposed to start at eleven, the person who was supposed to be there had not reported; I had asked the secretary of the Senate to go with me but he went home, ill.

When we did get up there, waited a couple of hours; it was Sunday night, I was a little tired, I have, as noted in the paper and in the reports that if indeed these were being printed, that they should be taken and put into my office where you or Senator Bottiger could come over and discuss them.

And there was a call made in the morning to Senator Hayner. We told them they were here, told him, excuse me, Senator Bottiger, that the letters were there and we thought we would turn them over to the advisory opinion of the public disclosure commission.

That is my intent, that was my purpose. I think the continuing screening process that's being placed through a person who was under Sid Snyder's, the secretary of the Senate's supervision, will continue. She did not have an opportunity to look at this and I think the secretary of the Senate took this upon faith. I think it would have been questioned if he had had the opportunity to look at it. In view of that, I thought it would be well that someone did not think that I had a nightmare and somehow imagined this.

Senator Fleming: "Senator Jones, I appreciate your comments and I hope that your train of thought is still continuing.

I would just say that I do not recall Senator Gordon Sandison confiscating anything from the Republicans. I would also suggest that there might be any number of reasons why you would not have called a press conference if you had confiscated some material in the wee hours of the morning.

Secondly, it concerns me since we did bring it up to your attention which you are aware of anyway, it concerns me that there is a Guess' letter that was not also sent to the PDC.

So my purpose for rising was to speak to that personal privilege because my name was on those documents. I disagree with you totally and I would just say that I would hope by your comments, that this body and others listening would not take those comments of yours about 'screening process' to say that we had and will continue, or had in place, a screening process. I think you were using the wrong terminology.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President believes that an open and free discussion has been permitted and would appreciate some direction from the leadership of both sides as to whether this discussion should be continued."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, I understand Senator Newhouse has one brief question to ask, and I would agree that I think this has progressed far beyond the usual idea of personal privilege and that, both sides, should exercise restraint and cut this off."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Then the President will permit Senator Newhouse to express his remarks and then, if a rebuttal is required, to call upon Senator Talmadge who is endeavoring to get the floor, also. Is that agreeable? Senator Newhouse."

POINT OF INQUIRY.

Senator Newhouse: "Senator Jones, you brought into the discussion the name of an employee of this Senate, Mr. Woods. "Would this be the same Mr. Woods who was detected conducting a covert telephone poll some years ago in a political campaign?"

Senator Jones: "The same Dale Woods—plural."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Am I to understand that Senator Talmadge is merely to comment on the last question and answer exchange and that we had terminated the other discussion."

President Cherberg: "That is the President's understanding. Senator Talmadge."

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President, to put it briefly whatever happened with respect to Mr. Woods is water over the dam; but I would submit to the body that prior restraint is prior restraint, censorship is censorship; breaking and entering is breaking and entering; and all of those things are devices that are forbidden us by the first amendment to the constitution and that . . . these kinds of problems."

REMARKS BY SENATOR JONES

Senator Jones: "I deeply resent 'breaking in'; that office is open; it is the Senate printing room; it was not the province of, at that time, the minority or the majority; it was an open room; always has been an open room. I resent the term 'breaking in' deeply, and 'prior restraint' and every other technical term that Talmadge can whip up."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President actually believes that every member of the Senate deep down under hopes that the atmosphere of the Senate will soon be more amicable. Therefore, the President really believes the discussion should end at this point."

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3210, by Senators Rasmussen and Jones (by State Treasurer request):

Modifying provisions on warrants.
MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Rasmussen, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3210 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 3210 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time in full.

On motion of Senator Rasmussen, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3210 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lysen: "Senator Rasmussen, in looking at the treasurer's report here for December, '80, and it shows a current investments, declared surplus of $501 million dollars. How is it possible we have a surplus at the same time we are worried about going on warrants? They invested this money . . . ."

Senator Rasmussen: "That shows a surplus in all funds that are invested, but they are not available for paying employees' warrants. That is charged out against the various agencies."

Senator Lysen: "It also shows the debts of the general fund of $388 million dollars. Is that what we are concerned about? That has been running that way, oh since the first part of last year."

Senator Rasmussen: "Yes, that is a very real concern, and that is, unless we take this limit off, then if it was necessary and the banks refused to accept the warrants without discounting them, that is one of the reasons we want to keep that general fund sound."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 3210, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 42; nays, 2; absent or not voting, 2; excused, 3.

Voting nay: Senators Lysen, McDermott—2.

Absent or not voting: Senators Hurley, Williams—2.

Excused: Senators Deccio, Gallagher, Vognild—3.

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3210, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

The President appointed Senators Hayner, Jones, Fleming and Bottiger as a committee of honor to escort the guests to the rostrum.

The President gave certificates to the guests designating them as Honorary Distinguished Citizens, Ambassadors of Good Will and Washington Generals.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Vognild: "Thank you, Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"I would like to say 'thank you' to all the members who have expressed their concerns over my recent illness. As you can see, I am here today; I am not going to stay. The doctor has discharged me from the hospital, has asked me to go home and spend approximately a week recuperating. There was no heart attack, there was no heart damage. It was strictly a flu that I let go too long, and if any of the rest of you are fighting with that, I urge you to be extremely careful. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Fleming: "I do not know, Mr. President, whether it would have been in order to introduce me along with Senator Ridder, depending on what my colleagues on the other side of the aisle have in store for me during redistricting. They might be mine, too."
REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator, the President agrees that that was, indeed, a remark of a personal privilege nature."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Goltz: "Mr. President, members of the Senate.
"I have conferred this morning with Senator Bluechel and Senator Jones about moves which are occurring to take members from certain offices and put them other places.

"And when the events of last Friday occurred, we understood there would be a minimum of disruption to the members, but however, I was aware that I would be moving from the president pro tem's office at some time in the near future. Apparently that event will occur some time this weekend.

"Now I have not been told exactly where I am going to go. I thought I might stay somewhere on the third floor of this building, perhaps, say, somewhere on the fourth floor of this building, but where in hell is Tenino?

"Actually, it appears that I am going to be in an undesignated area on the fourth floor of the public lands building, somewhere in the neighborhood of the communications center. I think after we clean up... the dusting for the fingerprints and remove the tape from the locks, that I will be ready to be in business next Monday.

"When I look at the options and the moves which I saw, and I am pleased to see that the number is being considerably reduced, it really looked like the choreographer for 'Fruit Basket Upset' had taken over the moves for the time being.

"Now the cost of this just has to be very great. I do not think we ought to fool ourselves that we are getting by for peanuts; we are really spending hundreds, and even thousands of dollars on the kinds of things which are occurring: to reprint stationery, reprint the floor chart, pay the moving cost, the phone costs, and so on. It is a very disruptive and expensive business."
"Nor has it gone unnoticed that while senior members from our side of the aisle have been asked to move into remote and less desirable offices, your new freshman member, the Friday defector, has gotten one of the choice offices in this building, previously occupied by one of our members who had sixteen years of seniority and was a committee chairman. Now is that part of the deal?

"You could have moved him into the Republican suite in the office vacated by the new president pro tem, but I understand he refused to go.

"What right of refusal does he have that none of the rest of us have? Or did other Republicans in that suite not want him with his TV surveillance camera and his demanding nature?

"Now that he had done his treachery, you do not have to worry about him defecting back, because we do not want him."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "I just wanted to make a very brief statement in response.

"It is true that we have had to make some changes, but most of them were necessary because of changes in ways and means staff, because of changes in moving our people near the energy offices, and so forth.

"We have kept them to an absolute minimum. I do not believe that we could have moved any fewer people.

"And I think you should recognize, Senator Goltz, that there are only four Republicans on the fourth floor of this building, and I understand there are about twelve Democrats. We have not moved any of those out; we have, there obviously will have to be one go out, and that is because we do not have any extra offices. Senator Jones and I are staying in our offices; we are not asking at this time for your caucus room. It is true there needs to be a change in stationery; I think that would have been imperative.

"There isn't a lot of money being spent on this; as a matter of fact, the employees who are on our staff and who are being paid the same amount, there is no overtime or anything of that sort, will be making the move this weekend. They are on seven days a week, as you know. The only expense, really, will be for the tele­phones of those offices that we change; that is all.

"And I think that is a very minimum."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, a point of personal privilege."

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, I think we are overdoing this personal privilege situation and it was handled, I think, by the President very well yesterday. Of necessity, as the President has said, let us let it all hang out, but . . .

"There comes a time, I think . . . "

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I have been interrupted on a point of personal privilege."

Senator Clarke: "Yes, your point of order as to whether . . . "

Senator Bottiger: "Right."

Senator Clarke: " . . . point of order with respect to the scope of personal privilege presentation.

"What I was about to say was that I think we should . . . "

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, point of order. How can he comment on my point of personal privilege until I have made it?"

Senator Clarke: "Go ahead and make it."

President Cherberg: "Senator Bottiger."

Senator Bottiger: Mr. President, a point of personal privilege.
"Mr. President, I do not like symbolism, I do not like being left in the majority leader's office and then have other members of this caucus disrupted, and then have you say to the press, 'Look we did not move them.'

"Senator Fleming and I both transmitted to you an offer to be moved, and if you want to put some of your senior members down there, we will take the offices on the fourth floor."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President wishes to read Rule 33. 'Any senator, may rise to a question of privilege and explain a personal matter by leave of the president, but he/she shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations, nor shall any question of personal privilege permit any senator to introduce any person or persons in the galleries: PROVIDED, That the president upon notice received may acknowledge the presence of any distinguished person or persons.'

"The President is one who believes that any member of the Senate is entitled to speak on a point of personal privilege at any time. The President believes, that the pertinent sentence here is 'shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations.'

"It is impossible for the President to determine what is personal privilege, or what is not. The only thing the President can determine is that if no pending question is discussed, that the person, a member can say almost anything he so desires as long as he does not impugn the motives or character of any other member of the Senate.

"If the members of the Senate wish the President to deny the privilege of personal privilege, the President should be entitled to direction on that matter."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Fleming: "I am speaking on a point of personal privilege, because it personally affects me and I also have to respond to something that Senator Hayner said which also affects me personally, and also the one that has been involved on our side with the movement of the offices."

President Cherberg: "Thank you, Senator Fleming. The President will permit this, and then a rebuttal and hope that that will conclude the matter. Senator Fleming."

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, I can appreciate the other side of the aisle having to move chairmen from offices that other chairmen who are no longer chairmen were housed in. But I do have to take exception to the fact that, with Senator Goltz, you mentioned, Senator Hayner, that you only have 'x' number of people in this building versus how many we have. I think if you would check the seniority list we probably deserve to honor the tradition as we have in the past, you will see that we have more senior people up there.

"But in tradition and fair play, we have never, on your side or on our side, kicked a senior member out of this building. And that is what is happening with Senator Goltz; and you know and I know it probably would not have happened had one of your members, the new member that has come over to your side, had not pitched a tantrum. We would have been very easy to change offices, having Senator Guess move down to Senator Goltz' office, Senator Goltz moving up to the office that Senator Peterson now holds, and that individual who came over there, moving in to Senator Guess'. That would have been the normal thing.

"But on my personal side of it, I did demand, Saturday morning, of Senator Hayner, that they are now in the majority, we are now in the minority; they are calling the shots. We wanted to move Sunday morning to whatever offices they had that they wanted to put us into; and Senator Bottiger and I still request to be moved as soon as possible, this weekend if necessary, to whatever offices you have in mind for us."

REBUTTAL BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, we were very anxious not to make any more moves than were necessary. It is true that Senator Fleming indicated to me that they would be willing to be moved; we did not think that was necessary, we thought it was unnecessary, so we did not make that move.

"I really believe that the minority is making a mountain out of a mole hole here, because the truth of the matter is, as I repeat, we have only four offices on the fourth floor and they have twelve."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, a point of extraordinary privilege.

"Yesterday on the floor, a reference was made to an employee of the Senate, and a statement made that he had been found guilty by the public disclosure commission of unethical conduct. And I have here before me and I read, with the consent of the Senate: 'Moved by Mr. Scanlon and seconded by Mr. Ross, that after considering all the testimony offered and the evidence presented, the commission, in the matter of the Senate Democratic caucus telephone poll, does not disclose the violation of RCW 42.17.130. This matter should be referred to the state auditor.'

"There was no violation by Mr. Woods of the Public Disclosure Commission.

"I think Mr. Woods is entitled to an apology from Senator Newhouse."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Just like to comment that I fail to see how that has to do with anything with Senator Bottiger, his personal privilege."

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate returned to the fourth order of business.

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate commenced consideration of the House message on Senate Concurrent Resolution 103.

However, a legislator does not have a personal interest which is in conflict with the proper discharge of legislative duties if no benefit or detriment accrues to the legislator as a member of a business, profession, occupation, or group, to a greater extent than to any other member of such business, profession, occupation, or group.

(2) A legislator shall not enter into any contract with a state agency involving services or property, unless the contract is made after public notice and competitive bidding; except in cases where public notice and competitive bidding are not required, the contract or agreement shall be filed with the Board of Ethics.

EMPLOYEE RESTRICTIONS

Section 2. A legislative employee shall not use or attempt to use the employee's official position to (1) personally obtain any privilege, exemption, special treatment or any other thing of value, or (2) obtain any such benefit for others except as required to perform duties within the scope of employment.

MOTION

Senator Clarke moved the Senate do concur in the House amendment to Senate Concurrent Resolution 103, the joint rules, with the exception of New Rule 37 and ask the House to recede therefrom.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Clarke, with the exception of this one rule, the other changes, as I read them, within the rules, are really minor. There are some day changes, and I think one item was about enrollment of bills, the process for enrollment of bills.

"And other than this, this is the only major item."

Senator Clarke: "That is my understanding. I also understand that the House is receptive to receding from 37, so I would assume that if we pass these and send it back to the House that we will then have joint rules."

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Clarke, one further question.

"This was the only item, to your knowledge, that I objected to, is that correct?"

Senator Clarke: "As far as I can recall."

Senator Bottiger: "So it is now your caucuses' position that my position was correct in negotiating with the House?"

Senator Clarke: "We are glad to find out that on some occasions, on reflection, we find that your position may have been well taken."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Will Senator Guess yield to a question? Senator Guess, are you going to send out a newsletter that says I was right, and Polk was wrong, and you now agree with me?"

Senator Guess: "Monday, sir."

The motion by Senator Clarke carried. The Senate concurred in the House amendment to Senate Concurrent Resolution 103 with the exception of the amendment to New Rule 37 and asks the House to recede therefrom.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate advanced to the sixth order of business.
On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate commenced consideration of the measures on the second reading calendar for today.

This section applies only when appeal of the judgment is by trial de novo in superior court. The city shall have the right to file an amended complaint in superior court."

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3069, by Senators Talmadge, Clarke, Newhouse and Wojahn (by Judicial Council request):

Providing for sentencing after appeals from police court.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 3069, as amended by the committee earlier today.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Pullen, Rasmussen, Lee, Zimmerman, McCaslin, Craswell, Lysen, Hurley, Metcalf, Quigg, Peterson, Gallaghan, Talley, Benitz, Vognild, Scott, Haley, Guess and Sellar:

On page 1, line 11, following the language added by the Judiciary Committee amendment, insert the following: "If a defendant is convicted in a police court proceeding and is sentenced to any term of imprisonment, the defendant shall be entitled to a trial de novo in superior court notwithstanding the provisions of Rules for Appeal of decisions of Courts of Limited Jurisdiction (Rule 1.1)."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wilson: "Senator Pullen, I have a sympathy for the intent of this amendment. The reason I am rising, as you may have guessed, pertains to initiative 62.

"Obviously, the counties would pay the cost of the additional trials which could well result from adoption of this amendment. As far as I know, its provisions might even include the numerous situations that come up with respect to drunk drivers who now face an imprisonment of one night.

"An effort is being made during the current legislative session to develop the ground rules for applying section 6 of initiative 62. We are hopeful that these will be approved by the legislature shortly, so that when questions regarding additional impact on local government come up, that each will have some ground rules to go by. We do not yet have them.

"I guess my question then, is whether or not the 62 implications have been considered with respect to placing an additional financial obligation on counties, without putting up the money as is required in section 6 of initiative 62; and secondly, whether that is a fair alliance between the two subjects. You have asked for a local government fiscal note on the ramifications of the amendment because there is a process in place now to seek such a fiscal note."

Senator Pullen: "I thank you, Senator Wilson, for your excellent question.

"I, personally, after researching this very carefully, do not believe it comes under the purview of initiative 62, partly because there is no new program involved here now. Local governments are responsible for funding a portion of the superior court costs. Those costs will fluctuate from time to time for various reasons. In this case it is a very hypothetical situation, whether there would be any additional jury trials at all; and in the event that there were, it is not a new program, it is just simply an application of the current jury trial requirement at the superior court level."

The motion by Senator Pullen carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Hemstad, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3069 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Senator Hansen moved the following amendments be considered and adopted simultaneously:

On page 1, line 10, after "any" and before "highway" insert "federal interstate", and after "highway" strike "or county road"

On page 1, after "thereof," on line 10, insert "and on the approval of the sheriff of the affected county,"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wilson: "Senator Guess, I am just trying to keep track of this bill and as I understand it now, Senator Hansen's amendment has limited its application to Federal interstate highways in section 1. With section 3, and also he has deleted the patrol's authority over county roads; but in section 3 we still have a reference to county roads, and I wonder just where we are in this bill."

Senator Guess: "Senator Wilson, as so often happens, four amendments do not have the opportunity of having been thoroughly looked at, and you have pointed out something that I think I would like to move that the bill be placed on second reading calendar for Monday."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Guess, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3232, as amended by Senator Hansen, was ordered held for further consideration on February 23, 1981.

On motion of Senator Guess, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3233 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Guess, something unusual has been taking place in terms of these bills, I was just wondering.

"Are you or are you not, the chairman of transportation . . . ?"

Senator Guess: "I am not the chairman of the committee."

Senator Fleming: "Oh, I am sorry. The reason I was asking because I have noticed over the last few days, and I know the wealth of knowledge that you have in transportation, that the prime sponsor of most of these transportation bills, and the one who is listed as chairman, is not handling any of these transportation bills on the floor; and I was just wondering, you know, it is sort of unusual, that's all."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3233, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 42; nays, 4; excused, 3.

Senator Gould: "I think they came to my office, too; not all, nobody came to my office, not all 250. I understand."
Senator Rasmussen: "Is that the subject of the meeting, the hearing today?"
Senator Gould: "Yes, it is. Right."

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Sellar, when someone is investigating an accident report, obviously it is of value to have what the state patrol officer said he thinks happened; he is seldom personally there. But it is also valuable to have what the driver said happened.

"Now how would an attorney or an insurance adjuster or something get the information as to what each of the drivers said?"

Senator Sellar: "I am not sure I can answer that question, Senator. How do you get it now?"

Senator Bottiger: "From the state patrol because under the old law, both drivers' copy of the accident report was sent to the state patrol."

Senator Sellar: "And this would preclude that?"

Senator Bottiger: "As I read the bill; perhaps the chairman of the committee could tell me how it works."

Senator Sellar: "I would assume that information would be available to you under this new bill the same as it would be on the old."

Senator Bottiger: "Well, that is not what it says. It says, if the state patrol investigates the report, or the accident, then you need not send the drivers' reports to the state patrol."

Senator Sellar: "Perhaps, Mr. President, we could move this bill down one so that Senator Bottiger could find out the answer to his question."

POINT OF INQUIRY
Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Patterson, this is not taking out the previous twenty-four hour delay. You recall that we had a lot of trouble with these wrecker pick-ups going out and getting the cars before the owner even had a chance to get back. What is the time now?"

Senator Patterson: "Forty-eight hours and all these lots will be posted so that the individuals involved would have an opportunity to know what will happen. These lots will be posted accordingly. And it does not amend that twenty-four hours."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lysen: "Senator Patterson, I guess I would like to have it simplified for me. What is the present law and what is this, how does this exactly change it in terms of who it applies to? Would this apply to a private parking lot operator such as Mr. Diamond or anybody like that . . .

"That is one question. The second part is, if you are in a public place like a hotel parking lot, you are not paying, you are stuck over there for over twenty-four hours or forty-eight hours."

Senator Patterson: "In both cases this bill does not apply in either case. This bill only applies to those parking lots that are operated by the state of Washington under the jurisdiction of the state patrol."

REMARKS BY SENATOR SELLAR

Senator Sellar: "Yes, thank you, Mr. President.
"There was a question arose on this, where these accident reports would be available under this new bill. And the answer to that question is that if the accident was investigated by an officer, that that report then would be filed with the local jurisdiction whether it be city or county, the duplicate would be sent to the department of licensing; and of course anyone that had access to those records could see those accident reports at the local jurisdiction rather than the state patrol."
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Senate Bill No. 3234.

Permitting hotel, restaurant, and club patrons to remove wine from the premises.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

January 26, 1981.

SENATE BILL No. 3057, permitting hotel, restaurant, and club patrons to remove wine from the premises (reported by Committee on Commerce and Labor):

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendments:

On page 1, line 18, after "premises" and before "in" insert "recorked and recapped"

On page 2, line 17, after "premises" and before "in" insert "recorked and recapped"

On motion of Senator Charnley, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3057 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talley: "Senator Charnley, we know there is a law on the books that says you cannot travel with an open bottle, or a bottle with a broken seal. Now, this would be an official seal that would show that, placed on by the restaurant or wherever you bought that wine?"

Senator Charnley: "Well, Senator Talley, the state of Washington does not have a law saying that a person cannot have, cannot travel with an open bottle. This is true in other states; this state is not so.

"However, that is the reason for the amendment, is that it be recapped or recorked.

"My suggestion is that people that would pick a bottle up and take it that way, would put it in the trunk or in some safe place in the car."
REMARKS BY SENATOR QUIGG

Senator Quigg: Mr. President, in further response to Senator Talley's question, the Washington state patrol was present at the hearing and testified that Senator Talley's concern was also the concern of some other members of the committee. And that this bill did not cause the problem of which you speak and at they felt that it was, if handled in a recorked or recapped, that language was included, that it would not have a problem with this bill.

"Further, they felt that if the contents of the bottle were in the bottle instead of in the driver, it would be a lot safer and they concurred with the bill."

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALLEY

Senator Talley: "Senator Quigg, you know if there is an accident, that is one thing that will come out in the report, that you had an open seal or a broken seal bottle in that car."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3057, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 46; nays, 2; excused, 1.

WHEREAS, Today the United States contributes to the defense and social welfare of South Korea; and

WHEREAS, The United States has allowed itself to become a great market for South Korean products, contributing to our balance of trade deficit; and especially

WHEREAS, This trade between South Korea and the State of Washington has doubled in the last two years to over $700 million in 1979 alone, making South Korea this State's third largest nation-of-trade; and

WHEREAS, The present leaders of that country have shown an incredible disregard for democratic processes, and for the human and political rights of their citizens; and
WHEREAS, The South Korean government continues with the imprisonment of over one thousand church leaders, politicians, students and professors whose only crime has been to speak out for democracy; and
WHEREAS, The granting of sister-port status implies that we condone the repressive and anti-democratic regime in South Korea, and deepens our economic ties to that regime; and
WHEREAS, A positive decision on the part of the Port of Seattle Commissioners would amount to a deepening of our economic involvement with the current repressive government of South Korea; and
WHEREAS, The Port Districts of this State and their powers are directly derived from the Washington State Legislature;
NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, By the Washington State Senate that the Port of Seattle be encouraged not to grant sister-port status to Pusan until the regime in South Korea evidences a commitment to humane and democratic principles of government.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, the letters that Senator Fleming and I wrote and which were confiscated and sent to the public disclosure commission, have now been released by the public disclosure commission, and I take it from a comment from Senator Jones, would be returned to us.

"My point of personal privilege is the evils of prior restraint. Obviously, now, the value of those letters has greatly diminished by the delay in time. The evil of prior restraint is that somebody else decides what will be debated and what will be said.

"And I rise, Mr. President, to hope that this Senate never again engages in prior restraint, censorship, or the confiscation of letters or materials of either of us.

"You, Senator Guess, and I have written some pretty harsh things about each other over the years; my hide is thick enough, I hope yours is, too."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Ladies and gentlemen of the Senate.

"The public disclosure commission did not rule on whether the mailings were unlawful; what they said was — I am responding to Senator Bottiger which I think is very appropriate. What they said was, it was up to the legislature to determine whether the mailings under the law, RCW 42.17.130, were proper or improper. We have suggested to the facilities and operations committee, that we begin today to draft very carefully those guidelines which the secretary of the Senate is very desirous of having.

"I might also point out that we also sent a letter to the auditor, and with a caveat we are returning the letters to you that we still believe them to be illegal and improper."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, speaking in terms of the letters that Senator Hayner had addressed, I guess I would have some concern, Senator Hayner, I would not like the impression to be left on this floor, that, indeed, those letters were illegal. That is your opinion. They have been run through the proper authorities and it is indicated at this time that they were not illegal and I would like to make sure that, at least they did not have judgment over those, so as far as the public is concerned we did not have an illegal act.

"Secondly I would also like to ask the question of you, Senator Hayner, or Senator Jones; you indicated that we would, you would be considering a procedure, and I guess I would like to know whether, in fact, this procedure that you are going to set forth is it going to be an open and fair procedure where we will have actual input or will this be just a rubber stamp of what Senator Jones has indicated in the past, as high-minded and Republican standards?"
REMARKS BY SENATOR JONES

Senator Jones: "Responding to Senator Fleming, I believe I did come over to your desk and make mention to you that there would be an open facilities and operations committee meeting today; that is a novelty in itself. And we would present to you, suggested guidelines which you would have input and at that time, we would again meet in a series of meetings to determine what are proper uses of state facilities for mailing.

"Let me further add that the assistant attorney general today in his decision by the public disclosure commission, stated it does not mean action by Democratic mailings was not unlawful. And that took place in the meeting."

Senator Fleming: "Does it mean . . .?"

Senator Jones: "I do not think I am through; I wonder if Senator Fleming could take his seat and wait . . . ."

"We will have a meeting. As we are aware we moved it up at the request of some of the Democratic Senators because it is going to go a little late in the evening. We intend to have a meeting for approximately an hour to dispose of the business before facilities and operations and discuss some of the normal business plus the state personnel policy and of course, the matter of future mailings."

REMARKS BY SENATOR FLEMING

Senator Fleming: "Just quickly to respond to Senator Jones, Mr. President.

*His inference that the operations and facilities has not been an open and fair meeting, I take exception to that.

"I talked to past members, . . . okay . . . ."

REMARKS BY SENATOR JONES

Senator Jones: "I did not mean any inference to that. I am sorry. I apologize. And I will always, in public, Senator Fleming. I would expect one myself."

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3196, by Senators Wojahn, Jones, Talmadge, Sellar and Hayner:

Increasing the bond requirement for notaries public.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Hemstad, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 3196 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wilson: "Senator Wojahn, you have commented on the increased cost that would be involved; however, particularly in small towns we often tend to run short of notaries and they are a handy device to have available, and I would not want to see anything happen that would, at all significantly, increase the cost to people who are willing to serve as notaries.

"I wonder, therefore, so that we could get some of this into the record, if you could comment as specifically as you can, with respect to the increased cost a notary would experience as a result of passage of this bill."

Senator Wojahn: "Well, again the increased cost as far as the license is concerned, is very minimal. It would amount to approximately to $2.50 a year, and over a four-year span, the maximum probably about $10.00, so it would increase the amount from $30.00 for four years to $40.00 for four years. And the reason that the amount is low according to information that I have, is that there are very few claims, very low loss experience in the state of Washington and therefore it has never been necessary to increase the amount to a great, substantial amount of money."
Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Wojahn, as you just stated to Senator Wilson, that the losses are very low, what would be the reason for increasing from a thou­sand to ten thousand dollars to bond?"

Senator Wojahn: "Well, because a person really does not have any protection on a transfer of ownership on a car or some of the elements that a notary does, sometimes involving a substantial amount of money, a thousand dollars would not cover that. Therefore the bonded amount needs to be greater in order to protect the consumer, and to assure the honesty of the notary public and it would also protect the notary. "Are you asking why the bond should be raised from a thousand to ten thousand, or why the amount is only thirty dollars now for four years, and would be increased to forty?"

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, I guess my question is, notaries of course, they will notarize hundred thousand, two hundred thousand, million dollar deals. A ten thousand bond is a drop in the bucket. The only thing that the notary is doing, of course, is assuring those people; he is not guaranteeing the deal, he is assuring that the people that come before him, he knows who they are and they have voluntarily signed the agreement.

"That is my question; I see no reason at all for raising the bond and I have had several notaries talk to me about it and they fail to understand.

"Did the notaries themselves come and ask for this?"

Senator Wojahn: "Yes, there have been, and plus the other area is that if there were fraud involved on a transfer of ownership say on a used car, and the car was worth $88,000 [sic] and you were only covered to the bonding capacity and the notary authorized the signature and assumed that everything was in proper order, and it was not, it would be much better for the $8,000 to be replaced than it would be for a thousand dollars, which would never begin to cover the cost."

Senator Rasmussen: "Are you aware of anybody that ever sued a notary?"

Senator Wojahn: "No."

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you, Senator Wojahn."

Senator Wojahn: "I guess there is a list here, Senator Rasmussen, I am told, from Senator Shinpoch; I don't happen to have it, but I can get it for you. But it seems to me we should either raise the bonded amount or cancel out a notary public, the need for a notary public, because they are certainly not able to accommodate the public at present."

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 3196, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 26; nays, 22; excused, 1.

"This does and, I would be willing and would offer an oral amendment to be no more than three because that was my intention originally."

By Senators Clarke, Hayner and Jones:

BE IT RESOLVED, That the rules of the Senate be amended to read as follows:

1. Indecorous conduct, boisterous or unbecoming language will not be permitted in the senate at any time.

2. In cases of breach of decorum or propriety, any senator, officer, or other person shall be liable to such censure or punishment as the senate may deem proper, and if any senator be called to order for offensive or indecorous language or conduct, the person calling the senator to order shall report the language excepted to which shall be taken down or noted at the secretary's desk. No member shall be held to answer for any language used upon the floor of the senate if business has intervened before exception to the language was thus taken and noted. (See also Art. 2, Sec. 9, State Constitution.)

3. If any senator in speaking, or otherwise, transgresses the rules of the senate, the president shall, or any senator may, call that senator to order, and a senator so called to order shall resume his/her seat and not proceed without leave of the senate, which leave, if granted, shall be upon motion "that he/she be allowed to proceed in order," when, if carried, he/she shall confine themselves to the question under consideration.

4. No senator shall be absent from the senate without leave, except in case of accident or sickness, and if any senator or officer shall be absent his or her per diem shall not be allowed or paid, and no senator, officer, or employee shall obtain leave of absence or be excused from attendance without the consent of a majority of the members present.

5. In the event of a motion or resolution to censure or punish a senator in any manner the senator so liable shall be allowed to answer to and vote on such motion or resolution. An election or vote by the senate on a motion to censure or punish a senator in any manner shall require a two-thirds vote of all senators elected or appointed to the senate and shall be taken by yeas and nays and the votes shall be entered upon the journal.
Senator Hughes: "Is additional debate allowed on this, Mr. President?"

President Cherberg: "Yes, certainly, Senator."

Senator Hughes continues: "Mr. President, members of the Senate. This is perhaps one of the most historic days in the history of the Washington state legislature. An effort, attempt is being presented to this body which clearly violates over two hundred years of legislative history. The United States Constitution and the state Constitution are identical on this issue. The creator, the author of the censorship procedures of the United States House of Representatives, the United States Senate, is Thomas Jefferson. And Jefferson, who was certainly known as a champion of individual rights, states very clearly in Hinds' book on precedents, that this is a basic fundamental power of any legislative body. "The two-thirds provision in both the state Constitution and in the Federal Constitution apply only to expulsion. There is no precedent for raising the simple majority punishment procedure of contempt or disorderly conduct for what we see occurring here now. Is some special privilege being afforded? Are two hundred years of legislative law to be cast out to provide an artificial barrier for conduct which may well be contemptuous and disorderly? "I ask that you take not the short, immediate view, but the long view and that you look carefully at the words of Thomas Jefferson and you look carefully at two hundred years of legislative history."

Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President, on the desks of the members there is a senate floor resolution designated 1981—28 that specifically refers to the gentleman from the thirtieth district who is occupying the chair of state Senator in the state Senate. "Mr. President, my question is very specific. Can that gentleman vote on the question of the rule before us? Senate floor resolution 26, 1981—26 and 1981—27, insofar as it affects him personally by virtue of the existence of senate floor resolution 1981—28?"

Senator Newhouse: "I would submit, on the point of inquiry, that this resolution or any changes affect every Senator on the floor, not any specific Senator."

Senator Clarke: "Also on the point of parliamentary inquiry, that matter is not now before the body and it is improper to request a parliamentary inquiry with respect to a future matter when we are now considering another one."

Senator Bottiger: "Speaking to the point of order, I think it is apparent to everybody what is going on, it is most certainly apparent to the press. I do not think we are questioning anybody."
"Now the real question here is, can, because a resolution was prepared and it became known that it was being prepared, can a rule change now interrupt the process of the consideration of . . ."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Jones: "I believe Senator Bottiger was speaking to a point of order, and in fact, it was a parliamentary inquiry."

SENIOR BOTTIGER CONTINUES

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I was trying to aid the Chair in making a decision. The arguments preceding mine were for that purpose, I presume. Now it would appear clear that the attempt to change the rules in light of the proposed censure resolution, is a clear attempt to prohibit the majority, excluding the person under consideration, from making that determination.

"Now if the Chair would care, I would make a motion that we pass this matter over until tomorrow to allow the Chair time to do some research, some of the briefs which we have already submitted to him."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Talmadge has raised a point of inquiry, rather than a point of order.

"The President, in ruling upon the various points raised, believes that a challenge of this type is in order inasmuch as this measure is before the Washington State Senate.

"The President will respectfully refer the members to senate rule 21. It states in part, 'No senator shall be allowed to vote . . . upon any question upon which he or she is in any way personally or directly interested. . .' The censorship of a member is quite clearly a question in which the member being censured is personally and directly interested.

"The language of senate rule 21 is mandatory in that it strictly prohibits voting under such circumstances. The President therefore rules that Senator Peter von Reichbauer is not entitled to vote upon resolution number 1981—26, or any matter relating thereto."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Clarke: "Pursuant to rule 32, I respectfully appeal the decision of the Chair."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Talmadge: "The Chair has ruled that the gentleman occupying the chair of the Senator from the 30th district is not entitled to vote on any matter relating to the censure issue or to any of the subsidiary issues related thereto. Would he be entitled to vote on an appeal to the Chair from the decision?"

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President would consider such a motion to be related."
APPEAL FROM RULING BY THE CHAIR

Senator Clarke: "Appeal the last decision of the Chair under rule 32 and request a vote of the body thereon."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "That is true."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Talmadge: "I raise the same point of order I raised earlier. I believe that the appeal from the appeal from the appeal from the appeal is still the same issue and relates to the same central question."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Under the rules, the Chair is required to place the order... place the question before the body."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President will put your motion in just a minute, Senator."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "It is not clear to me, I would ask Senator Clarke to yield to a question."

Senator Clarke refused to yield; Senator Jones refused to yield; Senator Hayner refused to yield.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Clarke: "There is a matter before the body which is to be determined prior to recognition of any other Senator."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The question before the Senate, the President said he was going to put the question, Senator. "The President has always permitted a discussion on each point of order raised."

SENATOR RASMUSSEN CONTINUES

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, the question that I was going to ask Senator Clarke or Senator Jones or Senator Hayner or any one of the proponents, was, are they challenging the rule as printed? In the rule book, I would say that the President has made a very clear restatement of rule 21 and I do not understand the request for an appeal from the Chair, because the rule is right there and it plainly says what the President stated. He has not made any appeal on his own on a very vague question. He ruled on the rule as we have all worked with it for many, many years and that is the question I was going to ask the Senators who seem to, well I detect a strange hesitancy of whether they want to appeal what is printed here. I don't think there is any question in anybody's mind, it is clear and it is understandable. I would hope that somebody... responsible party would have an answer."

Senator Shinpoch: "Mr. President, is a roll call automatic on an appeal?"
FORTY-SIXTH DAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1981

President Cherberg: "The roll call is not automatic."
Senator Shinpoch: "I would respectfully request a roll call."
The demand for the roll call was sustained.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "In view of the ruling of the Chair, may I make a parliamentary inquiry as to whether Senator von Reichbauer's name will be called on the roll call?"

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Bottiger, Senator von Reichbauer's name will not be called."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "On what right does the Chair presume to prevent a Senator from voting until the body has made a determination with respect to the ruling of the Chair? That is the prerogative of the majority to determine, not the exclusive prerogative of the Chair. If the Chair so rules, the Chair has then usurped the right of the majority of the body to proceed in order as it desires to do."

REMARKS BY SENATOR NEWHOUSE

Senator Newhouse: "I would suggest that the ruling of the Chair is entirely wrong, that Senate Floor Resolution 28 is before us."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President ruled on Senate Floor Resolution 26, Senator Newhouse."

REMARKS BY SENATOR NEWHOUSE

Senator Newhouse: "The only way that you can get the name of any member of the Senate involved in this discussion, is by some means getting a resolution that is not before us into the discussion which you have done by saying that Floor Resolution 28 is involved."

REMARKS BY SENATOR SHINPOCH

Senator Shinpoch: "Mr. President, in response to Senator Newhouse, I think it would be a general consensus of the body, be the general consensus of the public that there would be only one member in this body that 26 could conceivably be designed to protect. I know of no other member of this body that needs extraordinary measures that upsets two hundred years of history in order to buy protection. I think it is very clear what 26 is designed to do. I think the President has made a proper ruling."

APPEAL FROM RULING BY THE CHAIR

Senator Clarke: "In order that there be no question about the record, I also appeal the last purported ruling of the President which would disenfranchise a member of the Senate from voting so that whatever ruling the President may make which would have the effect of preventing a vote, I appeal."
REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "I would also like to respond to Senator Rasmussen who asked a question with respect to rule 21. And that is really the rule with which we disagree with your interpretation. The rule says that no Senator shall be allowed to vote except when within the bar or upon any question upon which he or she is in any way personally or directly interested. Mr. President, the court has said that has to be a pecuniary interest, a pecuniary interest. This is not that. This is not involved with that and I think that is an inaccurate interpretation of this particular rule and that is what we are objecting to."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Bottiger: "I raise a point of order as to the last point of order, or appeal to the Chair, and in response to Senator Hayner, there are other than pecuniary interests that are prohibited by the clear language of that rule."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, the pecuniary interest of course would indicate that there was a very viable interest. Senator von Reichbauer is the only Democrat that has held a chairmanship. He has also changed his regular office that the rest of us had, to a much larger office. He is now getting very special treatment by the rules, so I don't think there is any question—speaking to the point of order, Mr. President . . . ."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President has permitted free and open discussion . . . ."

SENATOR RASMUSSEN CONTINUES

Senator Rasmussen: "... as just recently raised by Senator Hayner that there was no viable interest. I would say that he has received far more than monetary consideration and has put himself in the power of controlling the whole Republican party which is certainly a very pecuniary interest.

"The supreme court decision which has indicated that people that trade their vote are subject to recall, and I raised that issue earlier in the session and many of you got copies of the supreme court decision; and there is no question on this floor of the Senate; it is very obvious to all of us that a deal has been made. We have not seen all the ramifications of that deal as yet, and now in order to protect the deal that was made, the pecuniary interest as raised by Senator Hayner, they are attempting to do a very dangerous thing . . . proposing the rules change. And I would say that the President has ruled exactly as the constitution provides, exactly as our Senate rules provide, that where a Senator has a particular interest, he has to reveal it to the body and the Senate does have that particular interest."

REMARKS BY SENATOR JONES

Senator Jones: "In response to Senator Rasmussen, there was one other Democrat granted a chairmanship, Senator Rasmussen, and that is the President of the Senate, Lieutenant Governor John Cherberg. He was also granted chairmanship of rules."
REMARKS BY SENATOR HEMSTAD

Senator Hemstad: "Speaking to the issue of the P.O. to the body of the Chair's ruling. Senate Floor Resolution 1981—26 is clearly a general application, applying to every person in this body. It does not apply to any particular member of this body, therefore the Chair's ruling is clearly wrong."

At 11:30 a.m., the President declared the Senate to be at ease.
At 11:32 a.m., the President declared the Senate to be in order.

If a district has not entered into a contract to carry out the functions authorized by this section within five years of the effective date of this act, it shall not thereafter be authorized to enter into such a contract."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I raise the point of order if the amendment expands the scope and object of the bill, if I may speak to it.

"Mr. President, using Senator Guess' own argument, he has, in the object of the bill, stripped away all of the language of the bill and inserted a two very simple paragraphs that allow people to do what they can already do now. In other words, by his amendment he reverts us back to the original law and I think that very clearly expands the scope and object of the bill within the prior rulings of the Senate."

REMARKS BY SENATOR GUESS

Senator Guess: "Mr. President, it is true that the bill, the amendment as I have offered, will put this in the hands of free enterprise and the other way the bill was written, would create a governmental, another level of government agencies. The total impact of the amendment will just say that the locals can create local heating districts, but the sale of the power has to be done the wholesale level and, it does not put the government into business in another way."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3033, together with the amendment by Senator Guess and the Point of Order raised by Senator Bottiger, was ordered held for further consideration on March 2, 1981.

On motion of Senator von Reichbauer, Senate Bill No. 4316 was rereferred to the Committee on Transportation.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Williams: "Senator Hayner, in regards to the comments I made earlier about courtesies of the language that is put on various bills and resolutions of members, is it going to be a practice of your side of the aisle to do that in the future? We have, many of us introduced title only bills and so forth, which, you know in a delightful game of retribution and so forth, many of us could end up with bills that completely turn the meaning of what the original intent was; and as we saw here just a moment ago. Is it going to be a practice of your side of your aisle to do that in the future?"
Senator Hayner: "Well, we are certainly going to give you every courtesy we can, Senator Williams. I think you raise that objection when and if you feel as though you have been violated."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BLUECHEL

Senator Bluechel: "In further answer to Senator Williams' question, I took the amendment that was passed to Senator McDermott. He declined to accept it with his name on it and said 'You run the amendment,' so we were doing exactly what Senator McDermott suggested. He said 'You run the amendment and see where it goes.'"

There being no objection, the Senate returned to the fourth order of business.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

MOTION

Senator Gould moved the Senate do concur in the House amendment to page 2, beginning on line 19 of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3041. Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Goltz: "Mr. President, would Senator Clarke yield to a question? Or would Senator Gould yield to a question?

"I am trying to find out, Senator Gould or whoever else can answer, I thought I needed, maybe someone with more legal background.

"As I look at the requirement of the appointment, it says 'with the consent of the Senate' in section 3. And over in section 4, the section that we are dealing with now, it appears that we are qualifying the consent of the Senate by establishing the legal parameters within which such an appointee can truly serve the state of Washington.

"My question is, you know, what kind of a legal cloud hangs over a person who is not covered by the consent of the Senate, if that appointment goes on indefinitely without some parameter?"

REMARKS BY SENATOR GOULD

Senator Gould: "I yield to Senator Clarke on that."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "In answer to Senator Goltz, that would be governed by our present confirmation statute. What the amendment that is being stricken requires action on the confirmation within a specified period of time. Under our present procedure the Senate may make its own determination as to the timing within which it brings the matter up for confirmation vote or nonconfirmation vote."

President Cherberg: "Senator Goltz still has the floor."

Senator Goltz: "Senator Clarke, what I am trying to establish is the legal parameters within which these people are serving on a council for the state of Washington, along with representation from other states. Is it not likely that if we have unconfirmed appointees serving indefinitely, that they are thereby serving under a cloud which is not described in the statutes sufficiently to cover them under those circumstances?"

Senator Clarke: "Senator, my answer to that would be that I think the precedent is pretty well settled under our present law, that once the governor makes an appointment which is subject to Senate confirmation, the person so appointed is immediately empowered to act, and that actually the only authority the Senate has, in substance, is one of future rejection so that the person so acting during the interim between which the governor appoints and the Senate considers the confirmation or nonconfirmation, the person may act, during that period, with full powers of office and I think there is ample precedent for this; there have been rather numerous instances where appointees have gone for several years before being brought before the Senate for confirmation or nonconfirmation and, as far as I know, there has never been a question but what the action taken by those appointees during that period was entirely legal."

REMARKS BY SENATOR GOULD

Senator Gould: "Mr. President, I hope, in an effort, to close debate and briefly, I would like to let those know who are concerned that I intend to have hearings on these appointments as soon as possible after they are appointed, that is, within the time we get the information they have required to offer to the Senate and to the committee.

"I also intend to push for action by this body, either for or against, but before the end of this session, so that we will take that action."

Senator Wilson demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the motion by Senator Gould that the Senate do concur in the House amendment to page 2, beginning on line 19.

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, I think that it is important to remind the Republican members of this body that their Governor and our Governor, of course, Governor Spellman, said once again he has been trampled on by the herd upstairs. And I would hope that some day that Governor Spellman is going to take the herd in hand and keep them under control.

"He does not like this present power bill. He wanted to maintain the nonpartisan attitude that we have tried to, that Senator Bottiger had worked on with him, and apparently he was not able to reason with unreasonable people. You have not always been that unreasonable and I would hope that the words of warning that your Governor's offered over the TV at the news conference, he's very unhappy with the way you are acting up here in overriding his wishes."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Thank you, Mr. President.

"Very interesting to see Senator Rasmussen's change of posture with respect to what particular governor happens to be there, or whether he's in agreement with us personally or whether he is not.

"I think he is noted on this floor for either violently opposing the governor, or just as . . . vehemently supporting the governor; and I think it depends completely upon Senator Rasmussen's own particular viewpoint at the time which he seeks to support by, in effect, using the governor, either in an adverse capacity or a supportive capacity.

"Then, Senator, we appreciate your remarks with respect to the governor and we think we can handle our relationship with the governor without too much help from you."
MESSAGE FROM THE HOUSE

March 3, 1981.

Mr. President: The House has receded from its amendment to ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3041, on page 2, line 30 of the engrossed bill, being page 2, line 23 of the printed bill, and has passed the bill with the remaining House amendments, and the same is herewith transmitted.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3041, as amended by the House, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT

The President signed: HOUSE BILL NO. 103.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

Office of the Governor, February 27, 1981.

TO THE HONORABLE, THE SENATE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I have the honor to advise you that on February 27, 1981, Governor Spellman approved the following Senate bills entitled:

Senate Bill No. 3209: Relating to the state treasurer.
Substitute Senate Bill No. 3210: Relating to the state treasurer.
Senate Bill No. 3531: Relating to Western Washington University.

Sincerely,

MARILYN SHOWALTER Counsel.
MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate advanced to the sixth order of business.

On motion of Senator Clarke, at the request of Senator Woody, Senate Bill No. 3263 and Senate Joint Resolution No. 108 were ordered held for consideration on March 4, 1981.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3000, by Senators von Reichbauer, Clarke, Bottiger, Hayner, Sellar, Goltz, Talmadge and Jones (by request of Select Committee on Confirmation of Appointments):

Modifying provisions relating to confirmation of gubernatorial appointees.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

February 3, 1981.

SENATE BILL NO. 3000, modifying provisions relating to confirmation of gubernatorial appointees (reported by Committee on Constitutions and Elections):

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendment:

On page 2, line 23, strike all of subsection (1) and insert "Gubernatorial appointees subject to senate confirmation may continue serving unless their appointment is rejected by vote of the senate or returned to the governor in accordance with section 1 of this act. An appointee whose appointment is rejected shall not be reappointed to the same position for a period of one year from the date of rejection."

Signed by: Senators Woody, Chairman; Fuller, Gould, Moore, Peterson, Ridder.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Pullen, the committee amendment was not adopted.

Senator Gould moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 2, after line 32, insert:

"(3) Nominees to the Northwest Electric Power and Conservation Planning Council shall be considered appointees subject to this section."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Goltz: "Senator Gould, I notice that your amendment makes reference, in the last line, as being subject to this section.

"Did you mean chapter, or do you really mean section, because under the word 'section,' I believe it only applies to the section which it is in and that is section 2, I am wondering whether you mean chapter or section?"

Senator Gould: "I guess I would have to defer on that; I didn't double check that in the language and if you could hold up for just a few seconds I will make sure that that is the appropriate way to do it."

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Clarke, Senate Bill No. 3000, together with the pending amendment by Senator Gould, was ordered held for further consideration following Senate Bill No. 3252.
On motion of Senator Clarke, Senate Bill No. 3114 was ordered held at the end of the second reading calendar due to the illness of the sponsor.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3252, by Senators Charnley, Gallagher, Ridder and Hughes:

Requiring approval and use of child safety restraints in vehicles.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Patterson, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 3252 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gallaghan: "Senator Charnley, there is some question in my mind, I am a strong supporter of this but that we not get into such a situation where one company is the sole manufacturer of a restraint. The intent of this, I think, is honorable; I support it . . . well, but there is some question about what the intent is, to let some company or some safeguard that the company doesn't get exclusive rights to sell these types of devices?"

Senator Charnley: "Thank you, Senator Gallaghan. I can assure you that the intent of the sponsors and the supporters of this, and I believe the intent of the legislature, is that the rules which will be established, shall very clearly be rules formed in a way that would allow all forms of correctly designed and various types of child restraints be made available to the public, so the public does, indeed, have a choice.

"I appreciate the question very much."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Charnley, I note on page 1, lines 18 and 19, 'parent or legal guardian of a child less than five years old, when the parent or legal guardian is operating anywhere in the state his or her own motor vehicle registered under' . . . RCW 46. That obviously would say that it has to be an automobile registered in this state; out-of-state cars driving on our highways without restraint would not, the state patrol would not be able to fine them, ticket them and then fine them. Is that correct?"

Senator Charnley: "That is quite correct, Senator Rasmussen. This bill deals only with state residents, as you described."

Senator Rasmussen: "Then the other question would be related to 'his or her own.' If I were driving my brother's car I would not have to have children in restraint, because I did not own the car?"

Senator Charnley: "That is also quite correct."

Senator Rasmussen: "How would the state patrol be able to tell the difference? Or the local police?"

Senator Charnley: "I presume the state patrol, if that became a question, in the two states where this law is now in effect under similar language, the only time that really the police become involved is in investigating an accident, and in investigating accident, determining the ownership; that would be part of the questions they would normally check at any rate. And I think that would be the . . ."
law in the books so that they could help encourage people to use this type of protection. I would point out to you that in terms of the infractions, the first one is only a warning and the second one is only a thirty dollar fine, both of which are much cheaper or, thirty dollars is about the same cost as the cost of a child restraint and device. And I think this is what we are trying to do here, is a reasonable law that will call people's attention to the necessity and desirability of using them."

Senator Rasmussen: "One more question, Senator Charnley, please."
"Being a parent of four children and bringing my wife home from the hospital, we usually carried the baby in arms, I driving and my wife carrying the baby. That would then become illegal under this law?"

Senator Charnley: "Senator Rasmussen, I could only most emphatically say 'yes,' that is not a safe way to carry a child. In the case where there is nobody using, the adult is not using a seat restraint of some form, then the adult becomes an additional force that essentially crushes the child between him or her and the dashboard. Holding a child, statistics show holding a child in the arms and carrying it that way is very, very dangerous, and you are quite correct, a parent or somebody holding it is not a child restraint."

Senator Rasmussen: "Of course, Senator Charnley, this does not relate to restraints for adults, only for children?"

Senator Charnley: "That is quite correct. The reason a small child, one to five, needs to have some form of well-designed child restraint, is that it is almost as dangerous, or probably as dangerous, to put a small child—I think Dr. Haley could confirm this for me—in a seat belt because their bone structure is different and the seat belt would cause serious internal injury even though the seat belt kept them in the seat. So it is not proper to use a regular seat belt for a small child. That is why restraints of different types should be designed and used."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Charnley, the violations under this proposed bill, would they become part of the driver's profile, the driver's record?"

Senator Charnley: "This is a traffic violation; yes, they would."

Senator Gaspard: "And that record would then be available to the insurance companies for determination of insurance coverage?"

Senator Charnley: "As you well know Senator Gaspard, that is the present law, yes."

Senator Gaspard: "One other question. If an individual is stopped for speeding and the child is not using the child restraint, can they also be cited for violation under this section?"

Senator Charnley: "That would be up to the arresting officer."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Clarke, just because you are an attorney, I wanted to ask you a question, I thought perhaps you are one of the few who could answer."
"The way you read this bill, if one spouse has the youngster out in the car and doesn't comply with the law and that youngster is killed, would that, could that lead to a lawsuit on the part of the other half of the marriage, to bring suit against his or her own spouse?"

Senator Clarke: "Responding to the question, of course anybody can bring a lawsuit whether it's well-founded or not. But it is also true that violation of any statute is negligence per se. In other words, that establishes the fact of negligence so that if injury results from that negligence, then suit may be brought on behalf of anyone so injured, relying upon that particular act of negligence."

Further debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 3252, and the bill failed to pass the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 23; nays, 25; excused, 1.

Voting nay: Senators Benitz, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gaspard, Gould, Guess, Hansen, Hayner, Jones, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Peterson, Pullen, Quigg, Rasmussen, Sellar, Talley, von Reichbauer, Wilson, Woody—25.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

SENATE BILL NO. 3252, having failed to receive the constitutional majority, was declared lost.

NOTICE OF RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Senator Gaspard served notice that he would, on the next working day, move for reconsideration of Senate Bill No. 3252 which failed to pass.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3158, by Senators Talmadge, Jones, Bottiger, Talley, Hayner and Clarke:

Making changes in the tort law with emphasis on product liability law.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

February 3, 1981.

SENATE BILL NO. 3158, making changes in the tort law with emphasis on product liability law (reported by Judiciary Committee):

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendments:

On page 3, line 14, after "A product" strike "sellar" and insert "seller"

On page 5, line 22, after "circumstances." insert "This duty is satisfied if the manufacturer exercises reasonable care to inform product users."

On page 6, line 5, after "that" strike "chapter" and insert "title"

On page 7, line 12, after "fact" insert "(2) When the injury-causing aspect of the product was, at the time of manufacture, in compliance with a specific mandatory government contract specification relating to design or warnings, this compliance shall be an absolute defense. When the injury-causing aspect of the product was not, at the time of manufacture, in compliance with a specific mandatory government specification relating to design or warnings, the product shall be deemed not reasonably safe under Section 4(1) of this amendatory act."

On page 8, line 1, after "claims" strike "accruing" and insert "arising"
Signed by: Senators Talmadge, Chairman; Bottiger, Clarke, Hemstad, Hughes, Newhouse, Pullen, Shinpoch, Woody.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the committee amendments were considered and adopted separately with the exception of the amendments to page 7 which were considered and adopted together.

Senator Lysen moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 8, line 10, strike all the language beginning on line 10 down to and including the period on line 14.

Renumber the subsections accordingly.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lysen: "Well, we are talking about the shifting of the burden of proof; I guess I would like to ask Senator Bottiger if he would yield to question?

"Senator Bottiger, so that the twelve years really doesn't mean very much in the sense that the jury has to decide this anyway, whether or not the product can reasonably be expected to last more than twelve years.

"And what is required in terms of that shifting of the burden of proof? Under present statutes, the manufacturer or the retailer, or both, have to decide, have to prove, that it wasn't intended to last more than twelve years; and under this twelve-year provision in this new statute, that burden would now shift to the plaintiff, or the injured party. The burden of proof would be on them and their attorney—is that right?"

Senator Bottiger: "That is right, Senator Lysen, but the answer demands an explanation. And if I can use an example. Let's take an airplane, the Boeing 707 or a DC-10. It's more than twelve years old. It's easy to prove that 707s are used all over the world and they are thirty years old; that would be very easy and in that particular case it would be no difficulty at all.

"If you got down to a sewing machine, that might be a little bit more difficult and what the plaintiff would have to do is come in and show that these sewing machines, these commercial machines, are used substantially more than twelve years. You have then met your burden of proof.

"Under existing law you don't have to do anything; so we are changing the law to say that after that twelve-year period, you have to show that they have a customer-useful life of more than the twelve-year period."

Senator Lysen: "If I may continue one further question, possibly, Senator Bottiger.

"What about the fact that, say, let's use an automobile. It's value, I have a Mustang, a '64 Mustang that's over twelve years old and it is obviously less reliable than it was when it was new, so the manufacturer, should something go wrong, the manufacturer's liability, every year that car gets older, would be declining; and wouldn't the jury bring that into concern under its deliberations? Wouldn't it consider that, that at a certain point the liability would be diminished substantially because even though I am still using that automobile which is sort of a classic in some ways, is not the intended use was probably not that long.

"So the manufacturer's liability is much less, if any, than say a Pinto that had the problem here in the last couple of years."

Senator Bottiger: "It would get harder, the older the car gets, but your Mustang and my daughter's Mustang are still very popular; you go down and get the list from the department of licensing; how many of them are there out there? Submit that to the jury as evidence that it has a useful life in excess of twelve years. Then it would be a jury question and they would decide."
Senator Lysen: "So in this particular example, what does the twelve-year cutoff really do? If it's in or if it's out, in the example of the automobile? . . . in terms of the burden of proof and how it affects the jury?"

Senator Bottiger: "I don't think an automobile is a good example, but you get into a piece of production equipment, a shear press, a sewing machine, something that is designed and admittedly lapped (sic) and people buy it, understanding that it has a useful life. Pretty common, a typewriter has a useful life commercially, of five years. Everybody understands that. When you get into some of your drill presses and your sewing machines and things like that, it gets a little bit more difficult."

"Now there is a concession here, there is no question from existing law, saying that the burden will shift to the point even he will have to prove it."

The motion by Senator Lysen failed and the amendment was not adopted.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Newhouse, an amendment was adopted on page 5, line 22, which reads 'After circumstances, insert 'this duty is satisfied if the manufacturer exercises reasonable care to inform product users.'"

"I am minded of the cases we've had recently in Seattle, not related to product liability but related to ethics in the lawyers' profession where they were selling peoples' homes for $150 and they posted a reasonable notice on the doors of the house."

"What I am wondering was, you modified that paragraph there to say 'exercise reasonable care to inform product users.' What would you assume would be 'reasonable care,' putting notice in the triple A, or, I am thinking of automobiles; or putting a notice in the Journal of Commerce or what would constitute 'reasonable notice'?"

Senator Newhouse: "Senator Rasmussen: To look up above where sub (c) starts, it develops where the manufacturer learns, or should have learned after a product was manufactured that there was a danger. And I think the type of warning that should be given in that case, when he could no longer be printing a sign 'beware' or 'danger' or something on that order on the product itself, while it was being manufactured, he would either have to arrange to put such a sign on the product or to send a letter addressed directly to the user or the purchaser that a danger has been discovered and that . . . specific warning to the individual who bought the product."

Senator Rasmussen: "That would be your interpretation of it?"

Senator Newhouse: "That would be right."

Senator Rasmussen: "Of course somebody else might say 'we just put a little notice in the magazine and that's enough.'"

Senator Newhouse: "I agree, and I am just one member of committee and not chairman of the committee that considered it; but I know that they did consider this matter very completely; the language is agreed to by all the several parties who participated in developing this bill."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Answering Senator Rasmussen's question, the question of what constitutes 'reasonable care,' Senator, would be up to the jury to determine, so as to whether there was reasonable care exercised to give that notice."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3158 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.
Senator Newhouse: "Senator Bottiger, first question, do sections 4 and 5 provide the exclusive standards of liability for manufacturers and other product sellers with respect to product liability claims?"

Senator Bottiger: "I believe it does, yes."

Senator Newhouse: "Does this then mean that recovery for design defects or inadequate product warnings will no longer be possible under the theory of strict products liability but instead will be determined under the standards of negligence as provided in section 4(1)?"

Senator Bottiger: "Yes it does, and in the draft committee report and in the synopsis provided by the committee, this is explained in full. Copies of that report have been filed with the committee clerk and with the Secretary of the Senate."

Senator Newhouse: "Thank you. One more question. Is the statute of limitations provision in section 7(3) intended to overrule our Supreme Court's decision in Ohler vs. Tacoma General Hospital, in which it was held that the statute of limitations does not begin to run until the plaintiff has discovered each and every element of his or her cause of action?"

Senator Bottiger: "Yes, the discovery rule would apply only to the discovery of the harm and its cause. In this context, 'discovery of the cause' merely means the discovery that the product was casually connected with the harm. It does not mean the discovery of the nature of the defect of the product."

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Newhouse, one of the committee amendments deals with the subject of mandatory government contract specifications. Would you explain what exactly is meant by a mandatory government contract specification?"

Senator Newhouse: "A mandatory government contract specification is one which is developed by the government and imposed upon the contractor as part of a contract between the government and contractor for production of a product. It would not cover contract specifications developed following negotiations or discussions between the government and the contractor. These latter kinds may be mandatory in the sense that compliance is required under the contract but they are not mandatory as that term is used in this section."

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, would the defense provided in this section apply if the product produced for the government is at some point marketed commercially?"

Senator Newhouse: "No. The defense only covers product liability claims resulting from products produced under the terms of the contract."

Debate ensued.

Senator Guess: "Senator Bottiger, the last statement that you made has a good bit of bearing on one of the items I used the last time the bill was before the body. And that is a piece of machinery had a switch on it that was covered with a small hood. From the time the original purchaser of the piece of machinery bought it and then sold it, there were four owners. Somewhere in that line of transfer of the piece of machinery, the small hood was inadvertently knocked off and left off of the piece of machinery. Finally, some twelve years after the piece of machinery was put into service, an accident occurred because of an inadvertence of the mechanic using the machine, hit the starter switch.

"Now you say that the contribution will be shared. How could you share, how does the law allow that the responsibility for knocking that hood off is shared?"
Senator Bottiger: "Senator, I would have to research that question. I just don't know. We can look it up and be able to give you an opinion on it, but off the top of my head, I don't know."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3158, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 42; nays, 6; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 3158, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

Following is the report as referred to by Senator Bottiger in replying to questions by Senator Newhouse on Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3158. This report was given to the Secretary of the Senate for inclusion in the Senate Journal.

SENATE SELECT COMMITTEE ON TORT AND PRODUCT LIABILITY REFORM

DRAFT

FINAL REPORT

Senator Phil Talmadge, Chairman

Senator Del Bausch
Senator Ted Bottiger
Senator George Clarke
Senator Jeannette Hayner
Senator John Jones
Senator Don Talley

December, 1980

FORMATION OF SELECT COMMITTEE

The Senate Select Committee on Tort and Product Liability Reform was formed on July 6, 1979, pursuant to the provisions of Senate Resolution 1979–140. The following members were appointed to serve on the Select Committee: Senator Phil Talmadge, Chairman, Senator Del Bausch, Senator Ted Bottiger, Senator George Clarke, Senator Jeannette Hayner, Senator John Jones and Senator Don Talley. The Select Committee was directed to report its findings and recommendations to the Senate prior to the commencement of the 1980 Regular Session of the Legislature which it did by preparation of an Interim Report dated January 18, 1980. The issuance of this Final Report is the culmination of the Select Committee's work over the past year and a half.

HISTORY OF LEGISLATIVE ACTION ON TORT AND PRODUCT LIABILITY REFORM IN WASHINGTON STATE
The issue of tort and product liability reform began gaining momentum at the state level in 1976. During that year, testimony on the issue was received by both House and Senate Committees, and in the fall the Insurance Commissioner—Elect formed a statewide product liability task force. Legislation drafted by the task force (HB 1162/SB 2744) was submitted to both houses of the 45th Legislature in February, 1977. Hearings were held on the legislation in both the House and the Senate, but it was not enacted into law.

Three other product liability related bills were introduced in 1977, all more limited in scope than HB 1162/SB 2744. The bills dealt with insurance reporting requirements, defining liability insurance, and revising liability rate setting laws. Also introduced in 1977 were two tort reform bills sponsored by the State Judicial Council dealing separately with the issues of contribution and comparative fault.

Subsequent to the 45th legislative session, in 1977, the House Judiciary Committee held interim hearings on the issue of product liability and tort reform. As a result of those hearings, several members of the Committee introduced HB 241 in 1979 during the 46th legislative session. This bill dealt with both product liability and general tort reform. The bill received a hearing in the House only. Other related legislation introduced in the House in 1979 included HB 403, dealing with insurance reporting requirements, and HB 843, another comprehensive product liability and tort reform measure.

Product liability legislation introduced in the Senate in 1979 included SB 3073, sponsored by Senator Phil Talmadge, which was modeled after a preliminary draft of the Model Uniform Product Liability Act proposed by the United States Department of Commerce. Also introduced in the Senate were SB 2677 and SB 2875 dealing with contribution and governmental affirmative defenses.

The primary focus of legislative activity during the 46th legislative session was SB 2333, which could also be characterized as a comprehensive product liability and tort reform measure. The bill received several hearings in both the House and the Senate and was amended substantially by each body. Different versions were approved by the House and Senate, but since the two houses were not able to reach an agreement on the exact language, the bill did not receive final approval.

As a response to the continuing product liability controversy, the Senate Select Committee on Tort and Product Liability was formed pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 140.

SELECT COMMITTEE OBJECTIVES

One of the first tasks facing the Committee was to develop its basic goals and objectives. The Committee, being aware of the controversy generated by the product liability and tort reform proposal considered in the 1979 session, decided that it was essential that it undertake a thorough and objective study of the issues raised by that bill. It felt that the debate concerning Senate Bill 2333 had been marred by a rash of charges and countercharges concerning the demonstrated need for, and the impact of, changes in the tort system proposed by the bill. Therefore, the Committee felt that one of its most important functions would be to serve as a forum for the full and open debate of product liability and tort reform issues.

An important consideration in developing goals and objectives was the fact that the scope of the Committee's inquiry included both product liability reform and tort reform. It would thus be important to distinguish between those issues which would only impact product liability law from those which would impact the entire tort system. This would become more important when the possible ramifications of various changes in the legal system were being considered.

Because of the magnitude of the study, the Committee indicated that it would resist any efforts to panic it into recommending unwise legislation. The Committee pointed out that it was primarily a study committee set up to examine the merits of various product liability and tort reform proposals. In the end, it would only recommend legislation which had been demonstrated to be necessary or desirable.

In order to assist it in carrying out its responsibilities under the Senate Resolution, the Committee directed its staff to gather information about product liability and tort reform legislation in other states. Staff was specifically directed to examine the final report and findings of the Federal Interagency Task Force on Product Liability and the work of its successor group, the U.S. Department of Commerce Task Force on Product Liability and Accident Compensation.

The primary efforts of the Committee, however, were directed toward assessing the need for product liability and tort reform in the state of Washington. To that end, the Committee invited persons with expertise in the various areas that it was studying to give the Committee the benefit of their views. These persons included legal practitioners, business and insurance industry representatives, government regulators, court administrators, and academicians.

As a general approach, the Committee determined that the first phase of its activities would concentrate on the insurance aspects of the problem, specifically to determine the extent of the problem as to the availability and affordability of product liability insurance coverage. The Committee would then attempt to determine whether the problem in the insurance area was the result of underwriting practices in the industry or the result of the current state of the tort law. Its findings on these points would be important in determining the kinds of changes in the legal system that would be considered in the second phase of its study.

SUMMARY OF SELECT COMMITTEE ACTIVITIES

Prior to the commencement of public hearings in September, 1979, Senator Talmadge directed staff to survey larger insurance companies in this state to determine their product liability experience in an effort to discover if a crisis in product liability insurance exists at the present time.

During the time that this survey was being conducted, the Select Committee held its first public hearing on September 8 in Seattle. The purpose of the hearing was to receive background information on the history of product liability and on recent developments at the federal level. Professor Richard Settle from the University of Puget Sound Law School and Professor Victor E. Schwartz, Chairman of the United States Department of Commerce Task Force on Product Liability and Accident Compensation, were the featured speakers. Professor Settle gave an overview of the development of tort law in the area of product liability nationwide. Professor Schwartz's comments generally dealt with efforts at the federal level in dealing with product liability. Specifically, his testimony covered: 1) the conclusions drawn from the Department of Commerce's 18-month interagency study on product liability conducted in 1976–77; 2) proposed legislation at the federal level developed by the Commerce Department entitled "The Product Liability Risk Retention Act of 1979;" and 3) a summary of the preliminary draft of the Department of Commerce's Model Uniform Product Liability Act.

At this meeting, testimony was also received from Ron Bland, President of the Washington State Trial Lawyers' Association, Charles Kimbrough, President of the Washington Association of Defense Counsel, and Hugh McGough, also of the Washington Association of Defense Counsel. Their comments reflected the plaintiff's and defendant's perspective on the issue of product liability respectively.

The second public hearing of the Select Committee was held on October 5 in Olympia. The purpose of this hearing was to present the Select Committee with an overview of the complex process of insurance rate making procedures both generally and as they relate to product liability insurance. Mr. Ed Lazarek and Mr. Bernie Galiley from the Insurance Services Offices in San Francisco described the formulas, conditions, and data bases utilized by ISO in recommending rates in the property casualty area. Also at this hearing, staff outlined briefly for the Select Committee the questionnaire that was sent to insurance companies to solicit their product liability experience and the number and quality of responses received to date. SAFECO, one of the companies which had provided a fairly complete response, was asked by the Select Committee to explain its response, its rate making procedures, and how it is improving those procedures.

The third public hearing of the Select Committee was held on October 20 in Seattle. The agenda for this hearing included a discussion by Bob Higley of the Insurance Commissioner's Office, on regulatory oversight of the rate making process, and staff presentations on: 1) industry responses to the Select Committee's product liability insurance survey; 2) product liability reporting statutes in effect in other states; and 3) pooling and risk retention groups, including a discussion of the pro­

The fourth public hearing, held on November 16 in Olympia, was a staff briefing of the Select Committee on tort aspects of the product liability issue which included the current status of the law in Washington State as well as other states, and a review of the Model Uniform Product Liability Act proposed by the United States Department of Commerce.

The fifth public hearing was held on December 7 in Olympia for the sole purpose of receiving public testimony on the work of the Select Committee thus far, and on product liability and tort reform in general. Representatives from the following groups presented testimony at this meeting: Seattle Consumer Action Network;
Washington State Bar Association, Tort Reform Task Force; Washington State
Trial Lawyers' Association; and Yarder Manufacturers Association.

Professor Schwartz returned to Washington State for a hearing on December 29 in order to answer questions which had arisen on the meaning of certain provisions in the Model Uniform Product Liability Act.

The seventh public hearing was held on June 27, 1980, after the close of the 1980 Regular Legislative Session. The purpose of the hearing was twofold. Cleary Cone, Chair of the Washington State Bar Association's Task Force on Product Liability, presented the Select Committee with a first draft of its proposed product liability act. Ron Bland from the Washington State Trial Lawyers' Association tested on the Trial Lawyers' reaction to the Bar's proposal. The hearing also dealt with the relationship between product liability and the workplace injury. Staff gave a briefing on third party actions under the Industrial Insurance Act and recent efforts to amend that law. Virginia Bins, Assistant Attorney General was present representing the Department of Labor and Industries.

At the July 25 hearing, the Select Committee's staff gave an overview of the draft product liability act. Interested parties were encouraged to review the draft and to testify at an upcoming hearing to be held in the fall. Preliminary comments on the draft were made at this hearing by Pat Long representing PACCAR, Cleary Cone representing the Washington State Bar Association's Product Liability Task Force, Jan Peterson representing the Washington State Trial Lawyers' Association, and Ed Dawson.

The purpose of the hearing held on October 10, 1980 was to solicit public comment on the Select Committee's draft product liability act. Prior to the commencement of testimony, staff explained several amendments of a clarifying nature that had been made to the draft. Testimony was received from the following interested groups: Seattle Consumer Action Network, Safeco Corporation, Association of Washington Business, Independent Business Association, PACCAR, American

SELECT COMMITTEE RESOURCE MATERIAL

Interagency Task Force on Product Liability
The Select Committee has depended heavily on two national studies in its examination of the product liability issue. By far the most extensive and authoritative examination of the product liability issue was conducted over an 18-month period by the Federal Interagency Task Force on Product Liability. The final report of the Task Force was issued in 1977 and has provided a reliable source of data for the Committee as well as a firm foundation against which to compare the Committee's own findings.

The Task Force identified three principal causes of the product liability problem—product liability insurance rate making procedures, manufacturing practices, and the tort-litigation system. The Task Force concluded that "the product liability problem is based on a confluence of causes and that it will only be resolved if each cause is properly addressed" (Executive Summary for the Final Report of the Federal Interagency Task Force on Product Liability, page 6).

Model Product Liability Legislation

As a result of the work of the Federal Interagency Task Force, the Department of Commerce developed model legislation for adoption by the states. After extensive public comment on its initial draft, the Commerce Department's final version was issued on October 31, 1979. The Model Uniform Product Liability Act, which suggests a variety of changes to many traditional tort law concepts, has received considerable attention by the Committee. The Model Act will continue to be a primary focus of the Committee as it continues its study of the product liability issue in Washington.

ISO Closed Claims Survey

In response to the growing concern about rising product liability insurance costs during 1975–76, the Insurance Services Office, an independent insurance industry statistical and rate making organization, conducted a nationwide study of product liability claims closed between July 1, 1976 and March 15, 1977. Twenty-three insurers were asked to contribute information to the study.

While there are a number of concerns with the figures reported in the ISO survey (for example, claims closed without payment are not included and dollar figures were "trended" to allow for future projections), a number of significant facts regarding product liability claims emerge from the ISO's study.

Workplace injuries account for 11 percent of the number of individuals receiving bodily injury payments, but these claims represent 42 percent of the claims dollars paid. This reflects the severity of industrial accidents and suggests the importance of the relationship between a state workers' compensation system and product liability.

The problem of the "long tail" in product liability claims is often cited in support of a statute of repose on product liability claims. The ISO study indicates that injuries accounting for 81 percent of payments occur within three years of purchase of the product and over 90 percent within six years. This raises questions regarding the need and effectiveness of a statute of repose.

Transaction costs, including litigation expenses, add to the cost of product liability insurance according to ISO data. As reported by the twenty-three insurers, defense costs amount to 35 percent of bodily injury payments and 48 percent of property damage payments.

Activity in Other States

Washington, of course, is not alone in its concern regarding the product liability issue, and the Committee has attempted to determine the level and direction of product liability and tort reform activity in other states, most of which having occurred over the last three years. Seventeen states have enacted some type of reporting requirements of product liability insurance costs, often in a manner similar to that currently utilized for medical malpractice in Washington. These laws all into four basic categories of reporting: 1) notice of cancellation, nonrenewal or change in coverage; 2) closed claims; 3) financial/statistical data; and 4) general information.

Recently, the National Association of Insurance Commissioners has adopted a supplementary form relating to product liability insurance to be used in conjunction with the annual statement submitted by all insurance companies to the State Insurance Commissioner. Representatives from Washington's Insurance Commissioner's Office have indicated that this new supplemental form will be required of insurance companies doing business in Washington beginning in 1980.

Representatives from ISO have testified that the statistical reporting procedures which ISO requires of its client companies are currently being refined to provide more refined classification details. These new procedures, which will reflect data on all types of product liability insurance ((manual), (a) rated and commercial multi-peril), should contribute to a more accurate picture of the data upon which premiums—and premium increases—are based. This, in turn, may result in a more complete picture of the history of the product liability crisis, as well as a firmer base upon which to recommend changes in industry and regulatory practices.

Nineteen states have adopted some measure of tort reform in response to the product liability issue. Activity has generally been concentrated in seven areas: 1) definition of a product liability action; 2) statutes of limitation/repose; 3) state of the art defense; 4) duty to warn; 5) governmental standards; 6) product modification and alteration; and 7) subsequent design changes.

MAJOR FINDINGS

From its inception, the Committee has recognized that the concerns generated during the discussions surrounding SB 2333 in the 1979 session involved issues which went beyond the narrow scope of product liability and included proposed reforms of the tort system in general. As such, the Committee has attempted to indicate clearly that the scope of its inquiry included both general tort reform and, in particular, product liability tort reform. In doing so it has considered the language of model proposals such as the Uniform Comparative Fault Act, the Uniform Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors Act, as well as the Uniform Product Liability Act.

The Committee has solicited testimony from a broad range of groups and individuals interested in its study. Comments, suggestions, proposals and critiques have been received from consumers, manufacturers, retailers, insurers, and the plaintiff and defendant bars. Additionally, the Select Committee has attempted to compile independent data on product liability insurance practices, product liability related judgments, and activity and proposals for reform in other states.

As a result of this total investigation over the past eighteen months, the Committee offers the following findings.

Insurance Practices

As part of its initial inquiry into product liability insurance practices, the Committee developed a questionnaire which was sent to eighteen insurance companies offering product liability insurance in Washington State. Companies were asked to respond to questions in three broad areas: 1) volume of business, as reflected by the number of policies and premium dollar value of those policies; 2) profitability, as reflected by dollar profit and loss figures and loss/premium ratios; and 3) claims and litigation experience. Information was requested covering the years 1973–78.

Responses were received from fifteen companies. Many companies chose to respond on a model product liability questionnaire prepared by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, and others who responded on the form submitted by the Committee did so only partially. Companies professed a great deal of difficulty in responding to the Committee's questionnaire. Especially troublesome, according to many of the companies, was the request that information be reported for each of the different types of product liability insurance written—monoline, comprehensive general liability and commercial multi-peril. Companies also reported that retrieval of claims and litigation information was a difficult problem, and the Committee received very few responses on the questions covering those areas.

Data prior to 1977 was generally not reported, and the figures which were received for the 1973–76 period are difficult to interpret since the method of compiling information often was not consistent among the various companies responding. Because of the variability which permeated both the manner in which the companies responded and the extent and depth of their responses, it is difficult to draw meaningful conclusions from the Committee questionnaire. A few observations, however, can be made.

The interagency study and testimony received by the Committee from representatives of ISO, support statements made by manufacturers that premiums for product liability insurance skyrocketed between 1974 and 1976, thereby generating what came to be known as the "product liability crisis." The Committee study also supports this conclusion. Most of the companies responding to the questionnaire utilized ISO ratemaking, and in 1974–75 ISO submitted increase in excess of 75 percent in its rates for bodily injury and property damage. These increases are reflected in premium figures for the Washington companies. Of the ten companies responding to question No. 6 (dollar value of policies) eight companies showed dramatic premium increases between 1974 and 1976.

According to statements of industry representatives and information contained in the interagency study, product liability losses exceeded premiums generally for all companies during 1973–75. Responses to the Committee questionnaire also tend to indicate that the years prior to 1975 were typically unprofitable in the product lines for responding companies. However, as new rates began to be reflected after 1975, most companies' profitability figures improved greatly, and only two of the eight companies responding to question No. 7 (loss/premium ratios) showed a loss/premium ratio in excess of generally acceptable levels for the years 1977 and 1978.

Apparently, then, there does not appear to be a severe problem regarding the availability of product liability insurance in Washington. Rather, the problem continues to be one of affordability. Indicative of this, the MAP–WASH program has received very few requests from individuals unable to secure coverage and has successfully placed all those who sought its assistance.

Because very few companies supplied data for questions 11 and 12 (claims and litigation experience) it is difficult to make any statements as to these items. However, it would appear that by far the greatest number of product liability claims are closed for amounts under $10,000. The ISO study supports this, having concluded that in Washington during the closed claims study period, the average bodily injury claim (untrended) amounted to $4,329, not including loss adjustment expenses ($8,458 if trended for severity).

Because of the way product liability insurance is marketed and the current method of maintaining policy information, it is very difficult to obtain accurate information on all product liability policies. There is evidence that steps are now being taken, however, by both state regulators and the insurance industry, to develop more complete and reliable data retrieval systems to allow greater accuracy in the rate making process. Beginning in 1980, the Insurance Commission requires that information regarding product liability losses be reported annually for any policy in which the premium for product liability is separately stated. Such a method of reporting will not, however, reflect much of the data for comprehensive or commercial multi-peril policies, since product liability premiums are not separately stated in such policies. Because a substantial amount of product liability insurance is sold in this way, there may be a need for additional reporting in order to obtain a more complete picture of the product liability situation in the future. The Washington State Trial Lawyers' Association has stated that insurance reporting legislation should be enacted prior to the adoption of any tort reform. It is the position of the Committee, however, that at this time it is advisable to monitor the information generated through the Insurance Commissioner's Office before requiring additional reporting procedures.

Product Liability Reform

Sections 2 through 7 of the Act deal with that portion of tort law relating to harm resulting from defective products. As an outgrowth of the concerns with the rapid increase in product liability insurance premiums, a number of commentators have expressed the view that because of the national character of product manufacturing and marketing, the product liability system is particularly sensitive to the lack of uniformity among jurisdictions as to standards and procedures governing recovery.

This was a primary concern of The Legal Study of The Interagency Task Force on Product Liability and led to the development of a Model Uniform Product Liability Act by the U.S. Department of Commerce Task Force on Product Liability and Accident Compensation for consideration by the states.

The Committee has utilized the UPLA as a focal point for its consideration of product liability tort reform, and, to a great extent, the final proposal of the Committee closely adheres to its substance, if not its precise language, in four key areas.

(a) Single Cause of Action

Historically, one of the most confusing areas in product liability tort law involves the variety of causes of actions, including negligence, warranty and strict liability, available to the plaintiff seeking recovery for injuries allegedly resulting from a defective product. In order to ensure his greatest chance of recovery, plaintiff typically pleads all three causes, even though he may not offer proof on all three. Testimony before the Committee reflected general agreement that the creation of a single cause of action, termed a "product liability claim" in the UPLA, eliminates this confusion and should be adopted.

(b) Standards of Liability for Manufacturers

In the words of the official analysis of Section 104 of the UPLA, no single product liability issue has generated more controversy than the question of defining the basic standards of responsibility to which product manufacturers are to be held. With its adoption of Section 402A of the Restatement, the Washington court has purported to extend strict liability to manufacturers of defective products, regardless of the nature of the defect. Seattle–First National Bank v. Tabert, 86 Wn. 2d 145 (1975). The notion of strict liability, with its disregard of evidence of the manufacturer's exercise of care, has generated heated discussion among commentators and practitioners, and concern and confusion regarding the precise nature of the basic elements in the proof and defense of liability has been reflected in testimony before the Committee.

The extension of strict liability for defects in construction or for breach of warranty, by and large, has not been challenged, since, as the drafters of the UPLA concluded, "strict liability for defective construction can be absorbed within the existing liability insurance system ...[and] the consumer has the right to expect that a product will live up to the manufacturer's representations."

The issue of strict liability for design and warning/instruction defects is more difficult. The Washington court, while terming the liability in such cases as one of strict liability, has articulated a test which upon closer analysis involves the balancing of factors more akin to negligence. Seattle–First National Bank v. Tabert, supra ; Teagle v. Fisher & Porter Co., 89 Wn. 2d 149 (1977). It is arguable that what the court has done is to create a negligence standard for the determination of whether a design or warning/defect exists, which when proved results in imposition of strict liability. However, such a two-pronged analysis has not been clearly articulated and may, in fact, be nothing more than an exercise in semantics. The continued use of both strict liability and negligence terminology has resulted in what the drafters of UPLA refer to as "a foggy area that is neither true strict liability nor negligence. The result has been the creation of a wide variety of legal 'formulae,' unpredictability for consumers, and instability in the insurance market." The Washington State Trial Lawyers and representatives of some consumer groups have argued strenuously for the retention of strict liability in all product liability cases, and have asked for a legislative adoption of Section 402A. Their position is based upon the belief that as between the innocent, unknowing consumer and the manufacturer who is rewarded economically for placing the product into the stream of commerce, the law should protect the consumer from all defects which cause harm, regardless of their nature and over which he has no control. The defense bar, represented primarily by spokesmen from the Association of Washington Business, counters that basic fairness inherent in traditional tort concepts argues in favor of the consideration of traditional negligence concepts of duty, including the exercise of all due care, and breach of that duty before liability attaches.

The Committee believes that the current Washington test reflects essentially a negligence standard in design and warning/instruction cases, and agrees with the UPLA that the "application of uncertain strict liability principles in the areas of design and duty to warn places a whole product line at risk; therefore a firmer liability foundation is needed." Recognizing that there is not unanimity among those interested in this issue, the Select Committee nevertheless believes that the adoption of a negligence standard will help create this "firmer liability foundation."

(c) Standards of Liability for Non-Manufacturing Product Sellers

There has been general agreement before the Committee that the current liability exposure of the "passive" retailer under current rules of joint and several liability throughout the distribution chain is not justified, and the concept of the limited protection afforded to the non-manufacturing product seller in Section 105 of the UPLA has been adopted by the Committee.

Concern has been addressed regarding in what situations the normal rules of joint and several should be applied to non-manufacturing product sellers. The Association of Washington Business has argued for limited exposure, while the Washington State Trial Lawyers has asked for language which assures recovery in the greatest number of situations where a manufacturer may be "unreachable." The Select Committee has determined that the greatest possibility of leaving a plaintiff without a means of recovery occurs when a potentially liable manufacturer is insolvent, judgment-proof, or not subject to service of process. Further, the Select Committee believes that in those instances in which a non-manufacturing product seller is so intertwined with the manufacturer process or adopts the product as its own, the non-manufacturing product seller has, in a sense, waived his right to immunity and should be subject to a manufacturer's liability. Thus, the Committee has chosen to adopt the concept formulated in the UPLA and agrees with the language used in the product liability proposal of the Washington Bar Association's Task Force on Product Liability.

(d) Statutes of Repose/Limitation

Of greatest concern to product insurers is the length of time a product seller is subject to liability for harm resulting from a product defect, and they contend that the potential "long tail" of exposure is the primary factor influencing rate-setting. As a result, insurers have argued for certainty in the length of time of exposure, professing less concern regarding the actual time period selected. The closed claim survey conducted by the Insurance Services Office during 1975-76 determined that 83.5 percent of injuries from defective products occur within ten years of manufacture, raising questions about the validity of insurers' fears of actual losses. However, an insurer's perception of potential claims, whether substantiated or not, very likely is reflected in rates.

In order to bring some certainty to the issue of exposure but at the same time reflecting its concern in preserving those claims based upon product use which is reasonable in light of its unique characteristics, the Select Committee has determined that a complete bar after an arbitrary time period is not justified, and has instead adopted the approach taken in the UPLA.

By the adoption of a "useful safe life" concept, Washington joins a growing number of states which have chosen to place some limitation upon the ability to bring a product liability action on older products. The Committee approves of the creation of the rebuttable presumption utilized in the UPLA, which may prevent a claim more than twelve years from the date of delivery. Because the Committee believes that the claimant should be given a reasonable opportunity to overcome the presumption, it has chosen to adopt a "preponderance of the evidence" standard, rather than the more difficult "clear and convincing" approach used in the UPLA. In adopting the twelve-year presumption, the Committee recognizes that any period of time it selects will be perceived by some as purely arbitrary, and the Washington State Trial Lawyers Association, on some occasions, has argued against any presumption, believing that the concept of the "useful safe life" provides adequate guidance for the trier of fact. It is the Committee's belief that the adoption of the lesser standard to overcome the presumption mitigates any harshness the twelve-year presumption may impose upon the claimant.

The Committee has carefully selected language relating to the statute of limitation in order to modify the discovery rule announced in Ohler v. Tacoma General Hospital, 92 Wn. 2d 507 (1979). Because the discovery of all the essential elements of the cause of action is, practically speaking, beyond the understanding of the average layperson until he chooses to seek legal counsel, the Ohler rule unjustifiably extends the period during which an action may be brought. In utilizing the language "time of discovery of the harm and its cause," the Committee intends to recreate a more reasonable and meaningful statute of limitations as to product liability claims.

Comparative Fault

The issue before the Committee here was whether the comparative principles embodied in our Comparative Negligence Act, RCW 4.22, should be applied in all tort actions regardless of the degree of fault involved. The 1973 Comparative Negligence Act was by its terms limited to negligence actions in which contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff was involved. The primary purpose of the Act was to eliminate the total bar to recovery which plaintiff's contributory negligence had in the past presented. Instead of completely barring any recovery the Act provided the plaintiff's recovery would be reduced in proportion to the percentage of negligence attributable to the plaintiff.

The 1973 Act, however, did not address those situations in which a degree of fault higher than simple negligence was involved on either side. For example, what would be the result if either the plaintiff or defendant, or both, were guilty of gross negligence, recklessness, or willful and wanton misconduct or the defendant strictly liable in tort? A literal reading of the statute would seem to limit its application to cases in which the only fault involved was simple negligence (or possibly gross negligence).

Under the case law at the time of the adoption of the 1973 Act, plaintiff's contributory negligence would not bar or diminish recovery where the defendant was guilty of willful and wanton misconduct. Adkisson v. Seattle, 42 Wn. 2d 676 (1953). However, plaintiff's contributory willful and wanton conduct would bar recovery even if the defendant was guilty of the same type of conduct. Sorensen v. Estate of McDonald, 78 Wn. 2d 103 (1970).

The effect of adoption of the 1973 Act on most of these situations has not yet been litigated. In the one situation that has, the State Supreme Court has held that a plaintiff's contributory negligence is not a bar or damaging reducing factor in a strict liability lawsuit. Seay v. Chrysler Corp., 93 Wn. 2d 319 (1980).

A major goal of this tort reform movement has been to arrive at a fairer apportionment of fault in tort actions. There has been growing dissatisfaction with the all-or-nothing recovery rules under the prior law. In view of this, there is considerable support for the position that comparative principles should be applied regardless of the degree of fault involved on either side. This is the position taken in the 1977 Uniform Comparative Fault Act (UCFA) and the Uniform Product Liability Act (UPLA).

The Committee has determined that in order to accomplish a fairer apportionment of fault in tort actions the relative fault of all parties to the action should be compared and the plaintiff's recovery reduced by his or her percentage of fault. While it concedes that there may be some conceptual or theoretical difficulties in comparing differing degrees of fault (e.g., comparing the "apples" of contributory negligence with the "oranges" of strict liability, as the argument has often been presented), the Committee does not feel juries will have any practical problem in making such a comparison and that the principle of fairness to all the parties requires that such a comparison be made.

The Committee's position on this issue has been supported by virtually all of the groups participating in the process. It is consistent with the position of the State Bar Association Task Force on Product Liability and Tort Reform as reflected in their draft bill. The only qualified opposition come from the Washington State Trial Lawyers Association who felt that it should be limited to product liability actions and not applied to all tort actions.

Joint and Several Liability

One of the most, if not the most, controversial issue that has been involved in the legislative consideration of product liability proposals in the past three years has been whether the rule on joint and several liability should be completely or partially abrogated. In this state, joint and several liability attaches where two or more tortfeasors have jointly or concurrently committed acts of negligence resulting in a single, indivisible harm to the injured party. The effect of the imposition of joint and several liability is that each tortfeasor is liable for the entire harm caused and the injured may sue one or all to obtain full recovery. This rule was unaffected by the enactment of the Comparative Negligence Act. Seattle-First National Bank v. Shoreline Concrete Co., 91 Wn. 2d 230 (1978).

The product liability bill considered in the 1979 session would have retained joint and several liability only where parties were acting in concert or in a relationship justifying imposition of vicarious liability or where provided by statute or where plaintiff was free of any contributory fault (ESB 2333 Sec. 2). This provision, and the bill as a whole, was supported by the Association of Washington Business and various representatives of the insurance industry.

Any attempt to even partially abrogate the rule of joint and several liability has been strongly opposed by the State Bar Association Task Force, the Washington State Trial Lawyers, and the Seattle Consumer Action Network. The rule which is clearly designed to facilitate full recovery by the plaintiff for his or her damages is grounded both in practical and policy considerations. See, Seattle-First National Bank v. Shoreline Concrete, supra, at 234–239.

Retention of joint and several liability has been recommended by the drafters of both the Uniform Comparative Fault Act and the Uniform Product Liability Act. Four states have abrogated the rule as part of their comparative negligence act (Vermont, New Hampshire, Nevada and Kansas) and two others will not apply it as to defendants whose percentage of fault is less than the plaintiff’s contributory fault (Texas and Oregon). The rule, however, continues to be applied in an overwhelming majority of states.

The Committee believes that the rule on joint and several liability should continue to be recognized in this state. It concedes that the effect of this rule may be to require a partially at fault defendant to pay more than his or her share of the joint defendants’ liability in certain cases. This unfairness should be ameliorated in most cases by the creation of a right of contribution among tortfeasors. In those cases where it is not, the Committee feels that a defendant rather than the plaintiff should bear the burden of that unfairness.

Contribution Among Joint Tortfeasors

Under current Washington law a jointly and severally liable wrongdoer who pays more than his or her proportionate share of the joint liability may not seek contribution from another jointly and severally liable wrongdoer. Wenatchee Wenoka Growers Assn. v. Krack Corp., 89 Wn. 2d 847 (1978). Washington, in other words, is one of the minority of jurisdictions in this country which still does not recognize a right of contribution among joint tortfeasors.

The rule denying a right of contribution among joint tortfeasors which was derived from an 18th century English case, was once almost universally followed in this country. The principal policy argument behind this rule as that the judicial system should not be used by a wrongdoer to seek relief from his or her own wrongdoing. There has been, quite understandably, growing dissatisfaction with the harshness of the rule. It does not seem fair to force one wrongdoer to shoulder the entire liability when another wrongdoer is capable of contributing.

A majority of states have now recognized a right of contribution among tortfeasors. Thirty-four have done so through legislation and four by judicial decision. A majority of those enacting legislation has enacted either the 1939 or 1955 version of the Uniform Contribution Among Tortfeasors Act. These uniform acts have been superceded by the 1977 Uniform Comparative Fault Act. The contribution aspects of that act also served as the basis for the contribution provisions of the Uniform Product Liability Act. The UCFA and UPLA provide for contribution among joint tortfeasors based upon the comparative fault of the tortfeasors. This right may be entered in the original action or a separate action.

The Committee has determined that there should be a right of contribution among joint tortfeasors. There appear to be no persuasive reasons for refusing to recognize such a right. This position has been supported by all of the interest groups throughout the hearing process.

Worker Compensation

The Select Committee considered extensively the relationship between product liability and third party actions under the present worker compensation system during its discussions of the Model Uniform Product Liability Act and during its hearing on June 27, 1980.

The worker compensation system has been described as a compromise between the rights of the employer and the rights of the employee. Employee recovery under the system represents the extent of the employer's liability. The employee, in exchange for relinquishing his common law right to sue his employer, receives a guaranteed sum certain without the expense or delay usually associated with personal injury actions. The employee's recovery from worker compensation is, however, generally less than what a jury or court would find the value to be. The employee, however, is compensated whether or not there is employer fault.

Many workplace injuries involve a product manufactured by a third party and while an employee may not bring an action against his employer, he may seek recovery in addition to that provided by the worker compensation system against the third party that manufactured or sold the piece of equipment on which he was injured. It is this interface between worker compensation and product liability that the Committee examined.

In Washington, the interaction of product liability and worker compensation results in an at-fault manufacturer of a workplace product being held jointly and severally liable for the entire amount of the employee's injury. The manufacturer has no right to seek contribution or indemnity from the employer as the employer is protected from third party suits by the worker compensation statute. Employee fault is also not a damage reducing factor in Washington in those third party cases based on strict liability. The Department of Labor and Industries and self-insured employers are entitled to recover all or a portion of their lien benefits paid to date from the third party judgment. In the usual case, where the third party action is brought by the worker, the Department may recover its lien after payment of the employee's attorney's fees and costs and then 25 percent of the remaining balance is paid to the employee. If there are sufficient funds remaining, the Department may recover its lien. The worker, after the Department has paid its lien, is then entitled to whatever balance remains. The Department is not obligated to pay future benefits until the accrued amount of such benefits equals the remaining balance. Note that under current law, no determination of employee or employer fault is made.

The Select Committee discussed previous efforts made to amend the third party action statute as well as other states' approaches to dealing with the relationship between product liability and worker compensation. The Select Committee concluded that changes to the worker compensation third party action statute should only be made after a careful analysis of the impact of such changes on the entire worker compensation system. It felt that this analysis could better be performed by the Joint Committee on Workers' Compensation, and the Select Committee recom­ mands that the Joint Committee make such an analysis. The Select Committee will be forwarding a copy of this final report to the Joint Committee and will be available to provided any needed assistance.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF DRAFT BILL

Section 1. Preamble
The preamble establishes that this legislation should be viewed as a continuation of the Legislature's attempts "to bring about needed reforms" in the tort law, and specifically "to create a fairer and more equitable distribution of liability among parties at fault."

The bill's reforms touch many aspects of tort law, but, in particular, sections 2 through 7 relate specifically to the product liability tort law issues. Throughout the Select Committee's hearings, spokesmen for product sellers and product liability insurers maintained that the current judicially-created tort system fails to allocate responsibility among those responsible for harm with resulting detrimental costs to consumers particularly and to society generally. While evidence does not support all these concerns, the Select Committee has determined that adjustments are needed within the tort system in particular areas in order "to treat the consuming public, the product seller, the product manufacturer, and the product insurer in a balanced fashion in order to deal with these problems."

Section 2. Definitions
The definitions contained in this section relate to the product liability aspects of the bill and are taken substantially from the Uniform Product Liability Act (UPLA) as proposed by the Task Force on Product Liability and Accident Compensation of the U.S. Department of Commerce.
(1) Product Seller. Anyone in the regular chain of commercial distribution, other than the occasional seller, is included within the definition of "product seller." The bill, however, establishes a number of exceptions.

The seller of real property is not included in the definition of "product seller" unless the seller is involved in the mass production and sale of standardized dwellings. Recovery may be had, of course, under applicable real estate law and, for example, nothing in this act affects the potential liability of a seller of real estate under any implied warranty of habitability recognized by Washington courts. Sellers of improvements upon real property are included and, for example, the manufacturer of a defective sliding glass door may be liable under this act for harm proximately resulting from it.

A provider of professional services is not included, but recovery could be sought under traditional malpractice or other legal theory.

Those who commercially sell used products are not included unless the product is not "in essentially the same condition as when it was acquired for resale." Whether a product is "in essentially the same condition as when it was acquired for resale" is necessarily a factual determination which must be made on a case-by-case basis. If it is determined that the seller of the used product is essentially a "remanufacturer," the seller will be subject to liability under Section 4 of the act.

(2) Manufacturer. The definition of a manufacturer is a broad one and is intended to include all those who initiate and carry out the process of production. Of significance are one who remanufactures and one who holds himself out as a manufacturer. Consistent with the policy underlying Section 5 of the act, a product seller who performs minor assembly in accordance with the instructions of a manufacturer is not included in the definition as a result of such assembly, and liability may only attach under the provisions of Section 5.

(3) Product. The definition of "product" is intended to be all-inclusive and covers all goods, wares, merchandise, or commodities, and their component parts, capable of delivery for introduction into trade or commerce. A specific exemption is provided for human tissue and organs, including blood, and recovery from harm resulting from their use will be governed by other applicable law.

(4) Product liability claim. An essential element in this act is the consolidation of the various theories under which actions for product liability are brought. The act creates a single cause of action, termed a "product liability claim," and for purposes of pleading, individual theories of liability need not be pleaded separately. Because actions based upon fraud, intentional harm, or a violation of the Consumer Protection Act are not included within the definition of a product liability claim, recovery under those theories will continue to be governed under other applicable law.

(5) Claimant. Recovery may be had under this act by any person or entity which suffers harm, including those not in privity with the product seller, bystanders as well as product users.

(6) Harm. The Select Committee has chosen not to utilize the definition of "harm" contained in the UPLA, and instead has adopted a broad definition allowing for the continued development of the concept through case law. The term does not include direct or consequential economic loss under the Uniform Commercial Code, and recovery for such loss will continue to be governed by the provisions of Chapter 62A RCW. Other types of economic loss, such as wage loss, are included in the term "harm" for purposes of this act.

Section 3. Scope
Existing law is modified only to the extent that it conflicts with the provisions of this act. In light of this, the provisions of the act provide the exclusive remedy for harm resulting from defective products which fall within its scope. For example, recovery for failure to provide adequate warnings or instructions under a theory of strict product liability will no longer be possible since Section 4 (1) provides that liability in such a case shall be determined under standards of negligence. By the same token, because direct or consequential economic loss traditionally covered by the provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code is specifically excluded from the definition of "harm," the legal standards governing liability for such loss remain unaffected by this act.

Section 4. Liability of Manufacturers

This section establishes the standards of liabilities for manufacturers of defective products. The Select Committee has determined that a distinction should be made between defects resulting from construction and because a product did not conform to the manufacturer's express or implied warranties and those resulting from design or inadequate warnings or instructions.

Subsection (1) of this section establishes a negligence standard where the harm results from defective design or inadequate warnings or instructions. Subparagraphs (a) and (b) and subsection (3) set out those factors which the trier of fact shall consider in determining if liability has been established. The "consumer expectation" test, enunciated in subsection (3) and currently utilized by the Washington court, was criticized in the comments to Section 104 of the UPLA as taking "subjectivity to its most extreme end." Instead, in design cases, the UPLA adopts a test which balances the likelihood and seriousness of the harm against the burden to produce a safer product and the effect of such a design on the usefulness of the product. Factors examined under such a balancing test are similar to those suggested by the Washington court in analyzing the consumer expectation test, Seattle-First National Bank v. Tabert, 86 Wn. 2d 145 (1975), and therefore can be harmonized with the consumer expectation test. Thus, both tests are adopted here as relevant considerations which the trier of fact should consider.

Similarly, in cases involving warnings or instructions, the trier of fact is directed to engage in a comparison between the likelihood and seriousness of harm and whether or not adequate warnings or instructions could have been provided. This determination should be made in conjunction with an analysis of the expectations of the ordinary consumer.

A separate paragraph is devoted to the unique situation where a claimant alleges that harm resulted from the manufacturer's failure to provide adequate warnings or instructions after the product was manufactured. In order to demonstrate that the manufacturer was negligent, a claimant is required to show that the manufacturer learned or should have learned about a product's dangerous condition after it was manufactured and that the manufacturer failed to act in a manner which a reasonably prudent manufacturer would have acted. The reasonable expectations of the ordinary consumer should also be considered by the trier of fact in this situation.

A manufacturer will be held strictly liable where a claimant establishes that the harm proximately resulted from a construction or warranty defect. Again, the act sets out factors which the trier of fact must consider in making such a determination. If the factual requirements contained in subparagraphs (a), (b) or (c) are met, when examined in light of subsection (3), liability attaches, regardless of the care exercised by the manufacturer.

An argument may be made that in a particular factual setting an allegation of a design defect is essentially the same as a breach of implied warranty of merchantability under RCW 62A.2-314, and therefore should be evaluated under a strict liability standard. It is the intent of the Select Committee, however, that while the elements of merchantability may be part of a prima facie showing that a design defect exists, liability for harm resulting from such a defect should be controlled by the negligence standards of subsection (1) of this section.

Section 5. Liability of Product Sellers Other Than Manufacturers
One of the complaints most frequently expressed before the Legislature during the whole course of the product liability discussion over the past few years has been the alleged inequity of holding the non-manufacturing product seller liable for product defects over which it had no control by application of the concept of joint and several liability throughout the chain of distribution. This section addresses that concern and relieves a non-manufacturing product seller of such liability except in certain limited situations.

If the non-manufacturing product seller was negligent, it will bear the burden of liability under the standards governing negligence. Further, if such a product seller expressly warranted that a product is safe, it will be subject to liability under Section 4 (2) of the act; however, no independent liability arises for a breach of an implied warranty, which is more appropriately reserved for the manufacturer.

The traditional rules of joint and several liability will be applied, however, in certain situations outlined in subsection (2). As to subparagraphs (a) and (b), it is the intent of the Select Committee that liability will be imputed to the non-manufacturing product seller only if the claimant is unable to reach each manufacturer which otherwise might be liable in the particular circumstances addressed in the relevant subparagraph.

Section 6. Evidentiary Rules

A particularly confusing and unsettled area of the law in Washington and other jurisdictions is the admissibility of certain types of evidence by plaintiff and defendant in meeting their respective burdens of proof. The drafters of the UPLA attempted to resolve this problem through the creation of a set of complex factual determinations and presumptions. The Select Committee has determined, instead, to rely upon the inherent ability of the trier of fact to reach a just decision based upon the greatest amount of evidence available. Therefore, a simple rule is established in this section that the trier of fact may consider evidence of industry custom, technological feasibility, and nongovernmental, legislative or administrative standards.

Section 7. Length of Time Product Sellers are Subject to Liability

This section places limitations on the right to bring a product liability action tied both to the length or time between the date of delivery to the first consumer and the date of injury (statute of repose) and the length of time between the date of injury and the commencement of the action (statute of limitations). It is patterned closely after Section 110 of the Uniform Product Liability Act.

Statutes of limitation are familiar features of our legal system. Statutes of repose, on the other hand, are new concepts developed specifically to deal with problems felt to be peculiar to the product liability area.

Statute of Repose

Product sellers have often expressed concern over the possibility of the imposition of liability based upon an injury caused by an old product. They feel it is difficult to establish the nonexistence of a construction or design defect in a product which may have been manufactured some time in the past. This open-ended situation also affects insurance rates since most product liability insurance is written on a claims-made basis which means that the liability insurer at the time a claim is made is liable regardless of the date of manufacture of the product. Product liability premiums, therefore, must take into account the possibility of claims on products manufactured many years ago.

The limited data available shows that the concern about older products may be exaggerated. The ISO Closed Claim Survey found that over 97 percent of product-related incidents occurred within six years of the time the product was purchased. In the capital goods area, 83.5 percent of all bodily accidents occurred within ten years of the date of manufacture. Nevertheless, there has been considerable interest in placing limitations on the liability of product sellers as to older products.
Of the twenty-six states which have enacted product liability legislation, eighteen have included a statute of repose to limit a claimant's ability to bring an action on older products. The length of time of the statute of repose varies from five to ten years. In some cases, the running of the period is a complete bar to any action while in others it is a rebuttable presumption of nondefectiveness.

The advantage of the statute which sets an absolute cutoff date is fairly obvious. It establishes a date certain after which a claim on a product may not be brought. The problem is that the length of the statute of repose may not bear any relation to the useful life of the product. The reasonable expected life of the product will necessarily vary considerably.

To accommodate this variety of useful expected life, the Committee's statute of repose is tied to a useful safe life concept. The useful safe life begins at the time of delivery of the product and extends for the time during which the product would normally be likely to perform or be stored in a safe manner. The act does contain a twelve-year presumption on useful safe life. This means that the product is presumed to be beyond its useful safe life twelve years from the date of delivery. That presumption, however, may be rebutted by the claimant with the burden of proof being a preponderance of the evidence.

The Committee selected a burden of proof to a preponderance of the evidence rather than the UPLA's higher clear, cogent and convincing evidence to equalize the burden as to product sellers and claimants in this section. It will be noted that the burden of proof on a product seller to prove a useful safe life of twelve years or less is also a preponderance of the evidence. Had the UPLA's approach been followed they would have been unequal. The use of a rebuttable twelve-year presumption of usefulness should create a degree of certainty in the law without depriving the claimant of the ability to demonstrate that, in fact, the product was still in a useful condition at the time of the injury.

A significant concept in the useful safe life area is the term "time of delivery." As to new products, it refers to the time of delivery of a product to its first purchaser or lessee who is not engaged in the business of either selling such products or using them as component parts of another product to be sold—in other words, to the first consumer. The act also addresses the remanufactured product. In those cases where a manufacturer will modify or update a product to such an extent that it can be considered a remanufactured product, the time of delivery runs from the delivery of that remanufactured product to the first consumer.

The draft act provides for situations where a product seller may be liable for harm caused beyond a product's useful safe life. The first is if the product seller warranted that the product could be used safely for a longer period of time, in which case the warranted period would establish the statute of repose time period. The second situation is if the seller intentionally misrepresented facts about the product or concealed information and that conduct was a proximate cause of the claimant's harm. There is no good reason to protect a product seller in this situation since his actions have denied the consumer important information which may put him on guard against potential problems presented by older products. The third situation is where the harm was caused by prolonged exposure to defective products. The clearest case covered by this exception would be harms caused by prolonged exposure to radiation, chemicals or drugs. This exception is, however, broad enough to cover other situations where harm is caused by prolonged exposure to products with hidden defects.

Statute of Limitation

Product liability actions must be brought within three years of the date of discovery of the harm and its cause. This discovery rule is intended to modify the discovery rule pronounced in Ohler v. Tacoma General Hospital, 92 Wn. 2d 507 (1979), which stated that the date of discovery meant the discovery of all of the essential elements of the cause of action, including duty, breach, causation, and damages. The concern about the Ohler formulation is that in practical terms it could mean that the statute of limitations would not begin running until the claimant consulted with an attorney since concepts of duty, breach and causation are uniquely legal concepts which a layperson would not ordinarily be expected to appreciate.

A special provision is made so that the time periods of the section do not include the period under which a claimant is under a legal disability as defined by RCW 4.16.190. This would protect minors during the period of minority and persons under a guardianship, as well as others covered by that statute.

Section 8. Effective Contributory Fault

This is the first of several sections dealing with tort law in general. The mandate of the Committee as set out in the study resolutions in 1979 and 1980 clearly directed the Committee to consider the need for changes in tort law in general and changes in product liability law, which is a subdivision of tort law. While the impetus for the formation of the Committee in 1979 was the controversy over the product liability bill considered that session, it is often forgotten that that bill was not limited to product liability law and, in fact, proposed rather substantial changes in tort law in general. This is not to say that the connection between the two subjects is altogether arbitrary. The remaining sections of this bill deal with the subject of comparative fault and contribution among tortfeasors, subjects which are frequently involved in product liability actions.

This section would replace the current comparative negligence statute, RCW 4.22.010, which was enacted in 1973. Prior to the 1973 act, a plaintiff whose own negligence contributed to the injury was completely barred from recovering any damages against a negligent defendant. In other words a plaintiff who was not at fault could recover all his damages while a plaintiff who was, for example 10 percent at fault could recover nothing. That act was intended to correct this all-or-nothing feature of the law.

The 1973 act, however, did not address those situations where degrees of fault other than negligence were involved, degrees of fault such as gross negligence, recklessness, willful and wanton misconduct and strict liability. For example, would the comparative principles be applied if the plaintiff was contributorily negligent but the defendant was reckless?

The courts have answered only a few of these questions. Under two pre-1973 act cases, which may still be good law, plaintiff's contributory negligence would not bar or diminish recovery where defendant was guilty of willful and wanton misconduct, Adkisson v. Seattle, 42 Wn. 2d 676 (1953), but plaintiff's contributory willful and wanton misconduct could bar recovery even if the defendant was guilty of the same type of misconduct, Sorensen v. Estate of McDonald, 78 Wn. 2d 103 (1970). More recently in Seay v. Chrysler Corp., 93 Wn. 2d 319 (1980), the court held that the plaintiff's contributory negligence is not a damage reducing factor in a strict liability lawsuit.

This bill essentially extends the comparative principles of the current comparative negligence statute to all tort actions involving contributory fault. The comparative principles will be applied whether or not the contributory fault was a bar or damage reducing factor under the prior law.

Doctrines such as the last clear change doctrines which were sometimes used to overcome the complete bar of contributory fault are eliminated since contributory fault is no longer a bar. In these cases, the comparative principles would be applied regardless of who might have had to absorb all of the loss under prior law.

Section 9. Definition of Fault

This section defines the key term "fault" which is used in the preceding section on contributory fault, the contribution sections and elsewhere in the act. It is based upon the Uniform Comparative Fault Act definition with some modifications.
The definition is intended to encompass all degrees of fault in tort actions short of intentionally caused harm. This would include negligence, gross negligence, recklessness, willful and wanton misconduct and strict liability. Additionally it includes misuse of a product, breach of warranty, unreasonable assumption of risk and unreasonable failure to avoid an injury or to mitigate damages. The idea is to permit the trier of fact to consider all the conduct short of what would be considered an intentional tort and make a reduction of the plaintiff's recovery for his or her share. In making its determination the trier of fact may take into consideration both the nature of conduct and the causal relationship between that conduct and the harm. This will mean, for example, that plaintiff's contributory negligence may not reduce recovery as much in a strict liability action as it would in a negligence action.

Section 10. Nonimputation of Fault Between Spouses

This section of the draft act amends the second section of the 1973 Comparative Negligence Act which was designed to abrogate the common law rule imputing the negligence of one spouse to the other so as to bar the latter's action for damages against a third party. The purpose of this amendment is to conform this section to the expansion of the comparative negligence law to cover comparative fault situations.

The amendment also clears up an ambiguity in the original act as to whether the negligence could not be imputed to "bar" or "diminish" a recovery in an action by the other spouse. The original act read that negligence could not be imputed to bar recovery which would seem to be a superfluous provision since contributory negligence would no longer be a bar to recovery under the preceding section. The presumed intent of this provision, then, was that negligence could not be imputed to diminish recovery and this amendment so provides.

The amendment also makes the section apply to actions for damages to property.

Finally, the amendment does permit imputation of fault in a wrongful death action. This is appropriate since wrongful death actions are in a sense derivative actions and the contributory fault of the decedent spouse should be taken into account in determining the amount of the surviving spouse's recovery.

Section 11. Nature of Liability

This section codifies the current rule on joint and several liability. The rule on joint and several liability has long been recognized and followed in this state. Seattle-First National Bank v. Shoreline Concrete, 91 Wn. 2d 230 (1978). A primary purpose of the tort law is to ensure full recovery for an injured party from parties at fault. The rule of joint and several liability is a key provision in protecting that purpose. The claimant's own fault will affect the total recovery by the operation of the contributory fault reduction principle in Section 8. The claimant's right to recover from any of the jointly and severally liable defendants, however, should be facilitated. Apportionment of liability among defendants will be accomplished through the contribution sections which follow.

Section 12. Right of Contribution

This section creates a right of contribution between or among two or more persons who are jointly and severally liable to a claimant. Washington is one of the minority of states which has not abrogated the common law rule denying a right of contribution among multiple tortfeasors. The State Supreme Court has refused to abandon the rule against contribution on the grounds that the recent cases in which the alternative was presented to the court did not comprehensively address all of the various issues that need to be addressed in establishing a right of contribution. Wenatchee Wenoka Growers Assn. v. Krack, 89 Wn. 2d 847 (1978). This section and the following section provide the rules necessary to guide the court in setting up a procedure.
The Committee believes that with the creation of the right to contribution a party defendant will be able to join another party who may be liable for contribution in the original action under current Civil Rule 14, relating to third party practice. This means that a defendant will not be bound by the plaintiff's choice of defendants. It is in the interests of judicial economy to have all of the liability issues determined in one action. The judge will naturally continue to have authority to require separate trials as to issues or parties where justice requires.

This section also essentially eliminates the doctrine of implied indemnity between active and passive tortfeasors. Under current law where the active/passive analysis can be applied, the entire liability can be shifted from the passive tortfeasor to the active tortfeasor. Rufener v. Scott, 46 Wn. 2d 240 (1955); Nelson v. Sponberg, 51 Wn. 2d 37 (1957). The implied indemnity doctrine thus is another form of the "all-or-nothing" rule which is being departed from in this bill which favors comparative fault principles.

A party who settles with the claimant is entitled to seek contribution from other liable parties if in settling with the claimant the liability of party against whom contribution is sought has been extinguished and to the extent that the amount paid in settlement was reasonable at the time of settlement.

Section 13. Enforcement of Contribution

This section sets out the procedure for enforcing the right of contribution against another liable party. It addresses both the situation where the comparative fault of the two parties involved has previously been established by the court and where the comparative fault of the two parties has not been previously established. In those cases where it has been established, the parties seeking contribution must commence the contribution action within one year after the judgment which established the comparative fault has been rendered. In those cases where the comparative fault has not already been established, the party may enforce the right of contribution whether or not a judgment has been rendered against the parties seeking contribution or the party against whom contribution is sought. This means that neither party need have a defendant in the lawsuit brought by the claimant. All that is required to start an action for contribution is that the party must allege that he has paid more than his proportionate share of the fault. The party seeking contribution must have either discharged the common liability within the statute of limitations and commenced an action for contribution within one year of that payment, or have agreed while the action was pending to discharge that liability and within one year both paid the claimant and commenced this action for contribution.

Section 14. Effect of Release

This section differs from the Uniform Comparative Fault Act in that the final judgment of the claimant is reduced by the amount paid for a release (unless the amount paid was unreasonable at the time the release was granted) instead of the comparative fault of the released party as determined in the lawsuit. This approach was decided upon in order not to discourage parties from settling with claimants. It was a concern of the Committee that if a released party could not be guaranteed that he would not be subject to additional liability at some point in the future depending upon some comparative fault apportionment, it would discourage parties from entering into such releases.

The bill does not establish any standards for determining whether the amount paid for the release was reasonable or not. It is felt that the courts can rule on this issue without specific guidance from the Legislature. The reasonableness of the release will depend on various factors including the provable liability of the released parties and the liability limits of the released party's insurance.

There is a legitimate concern that claimants will enter into "sweetheart" releases with certain favored parties. To address this problem, the section requires that the amount paid for the release must be reasonable at the time the release was entered into. Furthermore, it requires parties desiring to enter into such releases to give five days notice to all other parties of the terms of the release. A special provision allowing the court to shorten that notice period for good cause is included to accommodate eve of trial settlements. The potential release party must also secure court approval that the amount paid for the release was reasonable.

The release granted to one party does not discharge any other parties liable upon the same claim unless the release so provides. Under current Washington law, the release of a concurrent tortfeasor does not release other concurrent tortfeasors unless 1) the claimant intended to release all tortfeasors, or 2) the release constituted a satisfaction of the entire obligation. Callan v. O'Neill, 20 Wn. App. 32 (1978). The release of one joint tortfeasor, however, releases all tortfeasors regardless of an expressed reservation in the release that it shall not apply to other tortfeasors. White Pass Co. v. Saint John, 71 Wn. 2d 156 (1967).

Section 15. Applicability

In order to avoid the question of retroactive versus prospective application of the act, this section clearly states that the act applies to all claims accruing on or after the effective date of the act. An exception to this rule is a partial retroactive application in the case of actions for contribution involving actions which have not gone to trial as of the effective date of the act. In these cases, a right of contribution would still exist except as to a party which has obtained a release prior to the effective date of the act.

Section 16. Legislative Directive

The act will be codified in two different parts of the Revised Code of Washington. Sections 2 through 7 which deal only with the product liability area will be codified in Title 7 which concerns special proceedings and actions. Sections 8 and 9 and 11 through 14 will be codified in Chapter 4.22 RCW which is the current comparative negligence chapter.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 3000.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3000, by Senators von Reichbauer, Clarke, Bottiger, Hayner, Sellar, Goltz, Talmadge and Jones (by request of Senate Select Committee on Confirmation of Appointments):

Modifying provision relating to confirmation of gubernatorial appointees.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 3000. Earlier today the committee amendment was not adopted. Senator Gould had moved adoption of an amendment.

There being no objection, on motion of Senator Gould, the amendment was withdrawn.

Senator Gould moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 17, following line 26, add a new section as follows:

"NEW SECTION Sec. 22. There is added to chapter 43 RCW a new section to read as follows:

The appointments by the governor to the Pacific Northwest Electrical Power and Conservation Planning Council created pursuant to chapter 43 (sections 1 through 5, chapter ___ (ESSB 3041), Laws of 1981), shall be subject to the advice and consent of the senate."

Renumber remaining sections consecutively.
Senator McDermott: "Senator Gould, my question is, is it your intention that the first appointment made to this power council be covered by this bill?"

Senator Gould: "It is my intention that the power council appointments be covered by the bill, yes."

Senator McDermott: "The ones that will be made as a result of the bill which we passed this morning? The first set?"

Senator Gould: "Yes."

Senator McDermott: "Okay, thank you."

Senator Fleming: "Senator Gould, I know it might be a tough question for you to answer, and if you can, I would appreciate it. This amendment is going on this bill; this bill is going over to the House. "Would it be your intention when this bill comes back without this amendment on it to vote against concurring or staying with your position as you are at this present time? I don't know if it is a good question, but we had a little situation like that on the northwest power bill and I am just wondering." Senator Gould: "It is my intention that the northwest power council appointees be considered part of this bill, if this passes in time, prior to the appointments. Beyond that, I cannot say what is going to happen to the bill . . . ."

Senator Fleming: "... minds do change and I am just saying, would it be your inclination to vote against the bill coming back over from the House, if your amendment is not on it?"

(No reply by Senator Gould)

Further debate ensued.

Senator Woody demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senator Gould.

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment was adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 48; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

Senator Metcalf moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 17, line 27, strike all of section 22 and insert the following:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 22. This act shall be submitted to the people for their adoption and ratification, or rejection, at a special election hereby ordered by the legislature, which election shall be held in conjunction with the next succeeding general election to be held in this state, all in accordance with Article II, section 1 of the state Constitution, as amended, and the laws adopted to facilitate the operation thereof."

Debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Metcalf failed and the amendment was not adopted on a rising vote.

On motion of Senator Gould, the following amendment to the title was adopted:
(On page 2, line 12 of the title, following "RCW;" insert "adding a new section to chapter 43. __ RCW;"

On motion of Senator von Reichbauer, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3000 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3000, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 48; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—I.

ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 3000, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Woody: "Thank you, Mr. President. Fellow members, I would like to say that yesterday, on a strictly partisan vote, the time line provisions for the gubernatorial confirmation process were stricken from the Pacific Northwest Power and Conservation Planning Council bill, upon the insistence of the House of Representatives.

"Today, by a unanimous, and for a change, bipartisan vote in this body, these provisions have been included in Senate Bill 3000."
"I would like to express to this body the hope that the House of Representatives will get a strong message of intent from the Senate on this issue and will not attempt to strike these provisions from Senate Bill 3000. Thank you."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "I have just . . . that the personal privilege does not extend to comments upon matters that are before the legislature and that was what the comments had to do with."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Charnley: "Mr. President, a brief comment of personal privilege, please."

President Cherberg: "Senator Charnley."

Senator Clarke: "Motion to adjourn is before the body."

President Cherberg: "The President has not put the motion as yet, Senator."

Senator Clarke: "The motion has been made, Mr. President."

President Cherberg: "Yes, but the President has not put it. It is not a motion until the President puts it, Senator Clarke. Senator Charnley."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Charnley: "Thank you, Mr. President. I just wish to respectfully request from the majority side that when we get a list of bills which are rereferred, that if possible, we could be given that list a few minutes before they are made.

"The . . . comments from the chair is always 'if there is no objection, this will be made.' We have no opportunity to make that objection if we wish to, and it would be helpful if we could have that list before us."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "Thank you, Senator Charnley.

"That is a reasonable request and we will endeavor to comply with it."

At 12:58 p.m., the motion by Senator Hayner carried and the Senate adjourned until 11:00 a.m., Wednesday, March 4, 1981.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "In ruling upon the Point of Order raised by Senator Bottiger on the amendment proposed by Senator Guess, the President finds that Senate Bill No. 3033 is a measure which allows local governments and port and public utility districts to develop district heating systems.

"The amendment proposed by Senator Guess substantially amends the bill by providing that such heating systems may only be developed by private businesses.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Moore: "I just received some rather bad news. Today the Western State Hospital was denied accreditation. Now there are no specific guidelines as laid down by the accreditation committee. However, it is a very prestigious group. It is made up of a representative from the American Medical Association, the American Dental Association, the American Hospital Association, and a member of the college of physicians, and one from the college of surgeons.

"Now it is generally thought by this group that somewhere in the neighborhood of ten hundred and fifty employees at Western Hospital would be within a framework that would work for accreditation. The problem seems to be that we do not have enough registered nurses nor enough licensed nurses at the institution; and with the proposed cut of perhaps as many as a hundred and twenty-five more, and I have spoken with the hospital this morning, spoken with the superintendent; and you know, he is more than distressed, and the reason I am speaking on this at this time is that I want everybody in the Senate, and hopefully those in the House, to give serious consideration because you know we are known as the most livable state. And believe me, when we sink down to the point where we do not have accreditation of our institutions, we are not in a 'most livable' situation. And I want to impress upon you that this is one of the most critical areas in which we need to spend money in the state.

"Thank you for your time."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Gould, the appointment of Edward W. Sheets as Director of the State Energy Office was confirmed.

APPOINTMENT OF EDWARD W. SHEETS

The Secretary called the roll. The appointment was confirmed by the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 45; nays, 1; absent or not voting, 2; excused, 1.

Absent or not voting: Senators Metcalf, Talley—2.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3237, by Senators McDermott, Jones, Fleming, Patterson, von Reichbauer, Gould, Talmadge and Gaspard:

Authorizing university tuition and fee exemptions for students receiving athletic scholarships.
MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Benitz, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3237 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 3237 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time in full.

Senator Lysen moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 1, line 9, after "law," insert "with the approval of the respective faculty senates or faculty governing bodies."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lysen: "Senator Benitz, what is the fiscal impact of this bill? How much money are we talking about which will be lost to the university, the university's . . . ."

Senator Benitz: "Senator Lysen, I believe that is not concerned with the amendment. We will address it later on."

Senator Lysen: "Well, I guess . . . let me continue, Mr. President. I think this is really the substance. I am all for giving scholarships for athletes, but the question is 'Who is going to pay?' There is no free lunch; somebody, somewhere in our university programs is going to have to suffer or pay the price of this subsidy and I just feel it should be broad-based university decision, and this is a mechanism, a legal statutory mechanism where we can involve the faculty by requiring their approval. And they will come under vigorous debate inside their own faculty senate on which way to go on it; and they may very well approve it; but that would be quite important.

"But the important thing is their participation in it and the precedent it sets at the university level.

"Now I haven't had an opportunity to lobby the members on this whatsoever, so may be hitting some of you rather cold; but I think the concept is a good one and it is a sound one and it should be implemented and approved."

REMARKS BY SENATOR PATTERSON

Senator Patterson: "Thank you, Mr. President.

"Members of the Senate, in responding to your amendment, those of us that have had an opportunity to be associated with an institution of higher learning are well aware that the board of regents, in making a decision such as this, are going to counsel with every element of that university before the decision is made; but I think it is important for us to also recognize that they must have final authority.

"And the way that your amendment is drafted, it says that it 'must be approved by' or it is not going to take effect and I think the mechanisms of trying to accomplish anything, you cannot relieve the final responsibility from the trustees or the board of regents in making a decision of this magnitude."

The motion of Senator Lysen failed and the amendment was not adopted.

On motion of Senator Benitz, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3237 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 3237 and the bill failed to pass the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 21; nays, 27; excused, 1.
Voting yea: Senators Bauer, Bluechel, Bottiger, Clarke, Conner, Fleming, Fuller, Gaspard, Goltz, Gould, Guess, Hansen, Hayner, Hughes, Jones, Newhouse, Patterson, Peterson, Ridder, Talley, von Reichbauer—21.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3237, having failed to receive the constitutional majority, was declared lost.

NOTICE OF RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Senator McDermott served notice that he would, at the appropriate time, move for reconsideration of the vote by which Substitute Senate Bill No. 3237 failed to pass the Senate.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Bauer: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"It certainly is my pleasure and privilege here today on this floor, to recognize with you, a group of fifth and sixth grade students who have been participating in the political process, probably before but at least since the election time.

"They brought in members of both political parties into their classroom and interviewed them and made an assessment of their talents and their commitments. They made up scrapbooks.

"Today they have come here to visit you, to observe. In addition to that, they are all wearing red ribbons to express their patriotic zeal for us and others in the nation to do something about the MIA situation.

"Senator Zimmerman and I and others here sponsored a resolution, a memorial, and this body passed it unanimously to help get the MIAs back.

"In addition to that they have a large piece of paper that they all wrote their names on, urging this body to quickly approve Senate Bill 3108 which is the Martin Luther King holiday bill. They have a little special interest in that, of course, in addition to their dedication to quality and good government, recognition of great people in our history.

"So it was with that that I am pleased to have this opportunity to be among you in recognizing these young people who are, and teachers and parents who are good examples of what good education can do for our state, and we commend them for that, and I thank you very much for the opportunity."

MOTION

At 12:20 p.m., on motion of Senator Hayner, the Senate adjourned until 11:00 a.m., Thursday, March 5, 1981.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Metcalf: "Thank you, Mr. President, I rise to a point of personal privilege.
"I rise today to fulfill a long-standing obligation to the Senate and the things that are being passed out here are in response to that. I would like to tell you I spent half an hour, whipped these up last night and baked them myself, but that isn't really true. My wife really did enjoy doing this and they are fresh-baked butterhorns.
"I would relate to you one comment; I don't know how your spouse feels about your participation in politics, but if my wife had veto power, I would not be back in politics and I think that many wives feel the same way.
"She did say, though, as I left, 'If, by some fluke I ever run for the Senate and get elected,' she says, 'I've already paid my obligation,' because she did bake these.
"I appreciate the opportunity to bring them to you, I hope you enjoy them."

CONFIRMATION OF GUBERNATORIAL APPOINTMENT

On motion of Senator Benitz, the appointment of Gordon Sandison as a member of the Board of Trustees, Western Washington University, was confirmed.

APPOINTMENT OF GORDON SANDISON

The Secretary called the roll. The appointment was confirmed by the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 46; absent or not voting, 2; excused, 1.

Absent or not voting: Senator Goltz—1.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT

The President signed: SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3041.

STATEMENT FOR THE JOURNAL

March 5, 1981.

On the issue of voting on the confirmation of Gordon Sandison as a trustee of Western Washington University, Gubernatorial Appointment 407, I absented myself from voting because there may be a conflict of interest. As a part-time employee at Western Washington University, on leave of absence without pay while serving in the Legislature, I believe it improper to vote to confirm a person who has direct control and supervision over that part-time employment.

This action is in no way meant to cast any doubt or lack of confidence on the qualifications of Gordon Sandison to serve in this important capacity.

Signed: H. A. "Barney" Goltz, Senator, 42nd District.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Clarke, Senate Bill No. 3263 and Senate Joint Resolution No. 108 were ordered held for consideration on March 6, 1981.
On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate commenced consideration of Senate Joint Memorial No. 105.

SECOND READING

SENATE JOINT MEMORIAL NO. 105, by Senators Hurley, Conner, Sellar, Lee, Scott, Deccio, Lysen, Hansen, Rasmussen, Wilson, Metcalf, McCaslin, Pullen, Craswell, Benitz, Hayner, Fuller, Quigg, Peterson, Haley, Talley, Clarke, Patterson, Gallagher, Vognild and Moore:

Requesting Congress to amend the Constitution to require a balanced federal budget.

MOTION

Senator Clarke: "I move that the Senate do now consider SJM 105."

President Cherberg: "Senate Joint Memorial 105, if there is no objection, the Secretary will please read the last line of the measure."

Secretary: "The union."

President Cherberg: "An amendment. The Secretary will please read."

Secretary: "By Senators McDermott, Haley, Gaspard, Ridder, Williams, Gould, Hughes, and others. Strike all of the language down to and including the period on line 10, page 3."

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, with the consent of the body I think the amendment on page 2, line 27, is perfecting that section and therefore ought to be considered before the one on page 2, line 20, which is a striking amendment."

President Cherberg: "The Secretary advises that you are absolutely correct, Senator McDermott. The Secretary will please read."

Senate Amendment to Senate Joint Memorial 105, by Senators McDermott, Wojahn:

On page 2, after line 27, insert:

"THAT, this application by the legislature specifically requests that constitutional convention called for herein not be allowed to consider or amend amendments to the Constitution of the United States numbered 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 14 and 19."

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, members of the Senate. This amendment is offered because I have great concern over the issue of allowing the Congress to call a convention to deal with a single subject. There are many diverse opinions on this. It is clearly not an issue that has been resolved in the past and there are very good constitutional lawyers who say that once called the convention can deal with everything.

"The process of putting together our Constitution was not an easy one and it seems to me the work of the founding fathers on these amendments which I have specified—I could have put them all in but—I put these in because they are the ones that I, personally, feel strongest about: the right of free speech, the right to keep and bear arms, to secure your home from unwarranted search and seizure, the right to be accused, speedy trial, trial by jury, due process, women's suffrage—I think those issues have been decided for this country and I do not think that we should send out of this body anything that is in the least bit ambiguous about our attitudes about those particular subjects.

"I think that they do not require further discussion and I think a simple statement by this legislature, that these issues, specifically, we want to leave no question in the supreme court's mind when this issue is brought before them, because if they have a constitutional convention and if subjects other than a balanced budget amendment are considered, as well they might. I want there to be a basis on which the supreme court can deal with these specific amendment. For that reason I offer this amendment and urge your adoption of it."
Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I request a roll call vote."

President Cherberg: "Senator Bottiger, the President will place your demand in just a moment. Senator Clarke."

Senator Clarke: "In response to the remarks by Senator McDermott, the proposal as now drafted specifically restricts consideration to one subject and if, as Senator McDermott has suggested, this should be ruled, for some reason that I do not think it would be, but the possibility always exists that it be ruled to be improper and that the matter be wide open, I think exactly the same result would occur with respect to the adoption of Senator McDermott's amendment, because either it's wide open or it is not.

"So I would urge the defeat of the proposed amendment and permit the matter to be passed with the restriction that it is solely to consider this one element."

Senator Hurley: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"First of all, I would like to make the point that this is a model memorial. It was presented to this legislature and to all the other legislatures in the nation as a model bill and it is my contention because I have worked on these before, not just this type, but one a long time ago. And the intention then was that we pass the memorial without amendment.

"If there is an amendment, and this is the tactic of the opponents of the memorial, if there is an amendment, this could very well be thrown out by Congress. Congress might say, 'it doesn't say exactly what all the rest of them are saying and so we are not going to consider this with the other thirty states that have passed this memorial.'

"I have been led to believe that the memorial is in the same form as this that was presented to our legislature.

"I would like to make one further point on the McDermott amendment. There's a provision on the top of page 3 that says explicitly that 'this application and request be deemed null and void, rescinded, and of no effect in the event that such convention were not limited to such specific and exclusive purpose.' Well, it's peculiar that Senator McDermott feels that if this paragraph doesn't limit the consideration, that his paragraph should, then, limit the consideration. I think it is a contradictory amendment, it contradicts his own argument. And so I ask you to vote it down."

Senator Gould: "In response to Senator Hurley's comments, I call to your attention a copy of The Seattle Times' editorial which I asked to be distributed, of Monday, March 2.

"About the third paragraph down, if I just may read a sentence: 'The petition to Congress would be declared null and void if the constitutional convention were called and its participants attempted to go beyond the stated purpose, but that would be long after the fact.'

"I also call your attention to one other sentence that's in, two paragraphs down that says, 'In short there are few if any safeguards to insure that the desired goal would be achieved or to protect against excessive tampering with a document that has served this country well for nearly two hundred years.'"

Senator Pullen: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"Also speaking against the amendment and concurring in the remarks of Senator Hurley, there may be a serious danger if we adopt this amendment in that it could possibly be construed as allowing unlimited spending or the fact that we are not going to balance the budget, possibly, in those areas dealing with those particular amendments.

"So there is a risk that even if it does not invalidate our resolution, and Senator Hurley is quite correct, if we make the language too different from the ones that have already passed, it could invalidate the entire resolution."
"But more than that, even if this were accepted, it possibly could have the effect of allowing a balanced budget only in those areas that are not set forth in the amendment. So I would urge you to vote 'no' on this particular measure."

Senator Metcalf: "Thank you, Mr. President."

"Members of the Senate, I too, rise to speak against the amendment. I would like to comment, though, on another fact. When you look at the amendment, the process, whatever might be done by any convention has to come back to be ratified by thirty-eight states; and I do not share Senator McDermott's fear of the state legislature and his distrust of them. I think that if anything is done to tamper with that document that would not be in the best interest of people, you can bet the state legislatures of America would rise up and not ratify it.

"So this is only the first step of a process that would wind up in the legislatures of the various states. We have nothing to fear, I believe, from the legislatures of the states, elected by the people. I urge you to vote down the amendment."

Senator Wojahn: "Mr. President. It seems to me that we're really not deciding here what we want in the state of Washington unless we do accept this amendment.

"We don't need to follow like lemmings, every other state in the Union. I think the state of Washington has been rather independent in its approach to legislation; as a matter of fact, some of our legislation, we lead the nation. We have developed the ideas. There is an idea in financial institutions and insurance proposed by Senator Haley that is outstanding on uninsured motorists, and I think that these are the things that we have to be proud of.

"And I believe that this amendment is absolutely necessary. In the first place, all of these amendments that are proposed here were adopted 'way back in early, early parts of the country, 1791, for all of them except the fourteenth which was adopted in 1868; and in 1920 was the nineteenth amendment. So that the process has been very orderly; it's been done by bits and pieces with a lot of thought. But it's been done without a constitutional convention.

"If we open up the Constitution, which we can do under this proposal, then we are going to be endangered, in my opinion, because there are so many problems out there, that people perceive to be problems, that there is going to be a lot of haranguing and a lot of discussion and I have a feeling that the intent of this amendment is going to be lost. There is going to be the liberty amendment, people there wanting to repeal the Federal income tax, dissolve the U.S. Supreme Court, there are going to be other areas of amendments that particular interested groups are attempting to achieve, and they are going to be part of the process, and they are going to be in there, lobbying for the things they want and may well forget that the purpose of the whole thing is to call for a balanced budget.

"You know all we really need to talk about is to tell the Federal government to stop spending money; that's the simple way to do it.

"Seems to me that we've survived on a Constitution that was developed many, many years ago, and it has survived the test of time. And I think that one thing is really important, this was talked about on the floor the other day, about Thomas Jefferson. A great man, I think we'd all recognize that and admit to that. And the things that he had put on his tombstone, I think are really great. He didn't say, he was asked before he died what he wanted, and I think it was customary to tell people what you wanted on your tombstone. He had two things that he put down that he wanted: 'The drafter of the Constitution of the United States and the Bill of Rights,' and the 'perpetrator' or 'starter' or the 'developer of the University of Virginia.' He did not even mention that he was a President of the United States; he didn't think that was important. He had done other things that were far more important.
"Let's not tamper with something that is precise and orderly. Let's do it properly and let's ask for the thing we want and not ask for a, or let it be interpreted as something that which we may achieve, a lot of things we don't want."

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"With the permission of the body, I would like to move an oral amendment. That oral amendment would add amendment 13 and 15. May I speak to that?"

President Cherberg: "Senator Fleming has moved the adoption of an oral amendment. The Secretary will please read the amendment."

Senator Fleming moved adoption of the following amendment to the amendment by Senators McDermott and Wojahn:

On the last line of the amendment and before "14" insert "13" and before "19" insert "15"

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"I recognize that I could go through this Constitution and point out several other constitutional amendments that we would not want tampered with but I just thought maybe, just glancing through here, based upon the fact that if in fact, this amendment would carry, and if in fact this scenario would carryout that we have here today, that I thought also, further, on things that are taking place around the nation and the mood of certain organizations within this country, I thought that the thirteenth amendment, abolition of slavery, would be added to this, and also the fifteenth amendment which deals with negro suffrage.

"I just think that if it would not harm this amendment, that all . . . those two were added."

President Cherberg: "The question is the adoption of the oral amendment. As many as are in favor will say 'aye;' as many as are opposed will say 'no.' The ayes appear to have it. The oral amendment is adopted.

"The question is the adoption of the amendment as orally amended. As many as are in favor will say 'aye;' Senator Bottiger has demanded a roll call."

The roll call was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senators McDermott and Wojahn, as amended by Senator Fleming.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment, as amended, was adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 24; nays, 24; excused, 1. The President voted Yea.

Voting nay: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallagher, Guess, Hayner, Hurley, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Scott, Sellar, von Reichbauer, Wilson, Zimmerman—24.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

President Cherberg: "Further amendments? An amendment, the Secretary will please read."

Senate amendment to Senate Joint Memorial No. 105 by Senators McDermott, Haley, Gaspard, Wojahn, Bottiger, Goltz, Hemstad, Ridder, Williams, Vognild, Gould, Charnley, Lysen, Bauer, Hughes and Fleming:

On page 2, beginning on line 20, strike all the language down through the period on page 3, line 10.

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, I move the adoption of the amendment.

"Mr. President, in offering the first amendment, I was trying to perfect what I fear to be a bad convention. I really prefer this amendment more than the first amendment in that it strikes the question of a constitutional convention at all. It says that the Congress shall propose a balanced budget amendment and I think that's sufficient; to take the risk of a constitutional amendment and I have taken the liberty of putting on each member's desk a memo sent to me by Joe Dear of The People for Fair Taxes. In the third paragraph of that, he says 'the supporters of the convention route have repeatedly assured us that there is an overwhelming consensus among constitutional law scholars,' and I apologize for the spelling, 'that a constitutional convention can be effectively limited in the issues that it may pursue. I think it is simply wrong to assert that there is any such overwhelming consensus.'

"Now I think that there is no one on this floor who is not in favor of the concept of a balanced budget. We don't want runaway inflation, we don't want runaway big government. But to open up the Constitution of the United States for that single amendment seems to me one of the most irresponsible things we could do. I think there is a way to handle it without allowing for the convention and for that reason I offer this amendment which would take away the possibility of a convention."

Senator Haley: Mr. President, and members of the Senate.

"Speaking in favor of this amendment, I am terrified by the idea of a constitutional convention. I think that there are many people in Congress who would love such a thing and I think it's a trend right now, especially in the U.S. Senate, is that they would support having a constitutional convention.

"I think that there are those who would like to lead us down the primrose path so that the convention could be opened up for other subjects that many of us would not like it opened up to. I think it would be absolutely inevitable that there would be a lot of pressure to open up a constitutional convention to other subjects than this.

"So for that reason I urge a 'yes' vote on this amendment."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator McDermott, as I understand, if this resolution is to be passed and we have already protected several amendments to the Constitution by the adoption of previous amendments, if this were adopted, Congress has the alternative of proposing the constitutional amendment theirselves, with a debt limit, or calling a constitutional convention."

Senator McDermott: "Senator Rasmussen, my intention, by this amendment, to take away the possibility of calling a constitutional convention, it would place on the Congress the burden of offering an amendment on a balanced budget."

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you, that is what I wanted you to say, Senator McDermott."

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"Speaking against the amendment. What Senator McDermott's amendment would do, is, of course, take away any possible club that we have of telling the Congress 'You either do this or you have to call a constitutional convention.' Now I'm sure that Senator McDermott is very sincere in taking this part out, but that's the club part, that's the part that says 'You act.' There is an overwhelming consensus that we are in deep trouble; the debt was, I think as of yesterday, was $950 billion, gone up $2 billion since yesterday and we are presently servicing the debt in January with $6,216,000,000 interest alone on the debt, with which we could do a lot. If we had that interest to work with we could do a lot in providing jobs and helping the poor and those that can't work.

"So speaking against the amendment, I think that you, you're really destroying the memorial, destroying the intent of the people that want the debt limited, that want a balanced budget and in fact, I think the people would support strong measures by the Congress to make a special tax to reduce the debt. We've been going for years and years and years saying that 'We'll base the budget on full employment.' You know and I know that we've gone through ten of the best years that we've ever had as far as people making money, people having large incomes, and that Congress has not recognized that; they are still dealing back in 1932 and saying 'We're in a depression.' Well, we worked ourselves around to where we are right on the point of another depression, and I think it takes a strong measure like this to tell Congress 'Get down to business, balance the budget,' and so I would urge that you vote against this amendment."

Senator Bottiger demanded a roll call vote and the demand was sustained.

Senator Hurley: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

'I'd like to speak in opposition to the amendment. The requirement of the constitutional convention, in my mind, is the enforcement part of this memorial. It tells Congress 'If you're not able to do the job, if you're not able to get out there and control the budget, then step aside and let somebody who can, do the job.'

'Now this has never happened. Congress has never had to call a constitutional convention and I would presume that it probably never would. Congress is very jealous of its authority, just the same as this legislature is jealous of its authority. When we are presented with an initiative by the people, that initiative says 'Do something about this situation; you haven't done it and you either do it or you let us do it by this initiative.' Well, this legislature, especially in the instance of the shorelines management act, had the alternative of putting another measure on the ballot; and it is the opinion of experts, constitutional experts, that this is what would happen, Congress would see that our state might be thirty-one, they would only have to have three more states and they would get busy and start to do something about it, so their authority would not be eroded.

'Now in answer to Senator McDermott's expert, I have an expert of my own. James Stansy, congressional staff expert on constitutional conventions, has said to those who fear a runaway convention, it need only be observed that the only group threatening to run away with it so far is Congress itself. Clearly, what Mr. Stansy means, is that Congress will attempt to insure its own dominance over any convention. It will employ two tactics in doing this; first, when thirty-four states do apply for a convention, Congress will do its best to avoid calling it; second, Congress finally, might be compelled to call a convention and it will restrict the convention as much as possible, so it doesn't erode their authority, of course.

'Mr. Stansy concludes that there is little doubt that Congress will be the final master of convention action.

'Now a constitutional convention can't change the Constitution by itself; it's an only proposed amendment. If a constitutional convention proposes a different amendment from what Congress has decided they want to approve, Congress could refuse to send this amendment for ratification to the states. It could also subject it to the rule by Federal court; and finally we have one further guarantee, thirty-eight states have to ratify this. So I would think that there are enough provisions built in to protect against a runaway constitutional convention and it even says that 'Please don't count our state'; it's going to be null and void if we can't limit the consideration of this constitutional convention.

'So I believe that the amendment is unnecessary and I hope you will oppose it."

Senator Hughes: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate.

'I guess the crux of the arguments put forth today is that this is a very safe and a very sound way of telling Congress to do its job. I wish I could agree with that.

'It's not a very safe, it's not a very sound way. In the history of this country, in the twenty-six previous amendments that were adopted, this club of requiring Congress to call a convention or else, has never been used. We protected an awful lot of personal rights and dignities; we've insured an awful lot over two hundred years and we've done it without using the club of 'If you don't call a convention, then you are going to have a constitutional convention, if you don't pass an amendment, you are going to have a constitutional convention.'

"This is a club, and believe me, Congress is going to swing back if we throw it at them, if we can even contain it to one single subject.

"I think we are making a very bad mistake; if you want to deliver a message to Congress, pass this resolution without a call for a constitutional convention. They are very perceptive people back there; they look at the ballot box, they look in the messages, but don't endanger some guarantees that have been given to us over two hundred years with a tactic that never before has been used in our history."

Senator Hemstad: "Mr. President, members of the body.

"Speaking in favor of the amendment. The references in the memorandum to Gerald Guenther and Lawrence Tribe I think are exactly correct. These two professors are the two most knowledgeable and prestigious persons in the country with regard to constitutional law. I agree entirely with their comments, that there is no standard of certainty whatsoever as to whether a constitutional convention, once called, could be limited.

"We have no precedent in this country to deal with the issue, at least since our Constitution was adopted. However, there is one precedent and that is our own Constitution. In 1789 when the constitutional convention was held, that convention was called to deal with deficiencies in the Articles of Confederation. The system was not working and the purpose of that convention was to come up with amendments to the Articles of Confederation; once assembled, however, our constitutional convention concluded that the Articles would not work at all, and they proceeded to write an entirely new Constitution.

"So the only precedent we have in the entire American history, is one that goes exactly contrary to those who assert that it can be limited.

"Now I am not afraid of having a national debate about calling a constitutional convention; I think it might, in fact, be healthy and it may even be desirable to hold such a convention. But if it is to be done, it seems to me it should be done with everyone knowing what's going to happen and with an understanding of what the potential issues are that can be undertaken, namely the entire issue of what our Constitution should look like, not under the, sort of Russian roulette of adopting this kind of proposal and then taking the risks of what our supreme court will do with an issue that is entirely without precedence in our history."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senator McDermott and others to page 2, beginning on line 20.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 22; nays, 26; excused, 1.

Voting nay: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller,

President Cherberg: "Further amendments."

Senate Amendment to Senate Joint Memorial No. 105, by Senator Bottiger:
On page 2, line 18, after "year" insert "except capital expenditures"

Senator Bottiger: Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"The slip I passed out to you has line 19 on it, that's an error, it's line 18.
"Now, I'd like to discuss with you just a little bit, the hypocrisy of what we purport to do here today, and explain the difference between the Federal expenditure budget system and that of our own. If we claim that we have a balanced budget, and we claim that, it's because of the way we define our balanced budget. We do not include within our balanced budget, capital expenditures. We borrow money to buy those things and yet we say we have a balanced budget.

"If you will read carefully the words of this memorial, you will discover that all expenditures, both capital and ordinary maintenance expenditures, are included within the language of the proposed constitutional amendment. So we are really being hypocritical, we and all the other thirty states that have passed this memorial, because in fact, none of us have, under these terms, a balanced budget.

"Now what do we do with the funds that we borrow? Not only us but all of the political subdivisions of this state—we build schools on borrowed money; we build highways and ferries and transit systems on borrowed money. We build, our cities built Kingdomes on borrowed money. And the reason we do that is we spread out over the life of that facility, the cost of the facility for those that use it. Some of the things we buy we will never live to fully use. Our children will use them and we make a valid judgment decision that that is the best way to do it.

"Now how can we be hypocritical and say to the Federal government that "You're different; we don't expect you to apply to the same standards and the same systems we do; we want you to pay for everything in the year you buy or build it.' The aircraft carriers, the cruise missiles, the parks; all of the rest of the things the Federal government purchases with money which are capital expenditures within our own definition.

"Why do we do this memorial? We do it because we are political hypocrites. We have found a sexy political issue to embarrass another unit of government, and we are going to do that; but if we were honest we would adopt this amendment and allow the Federal government in defining a balanced budget, to use exactly the same definition we do when we go home and tell our people that we have a balanced budget."

Senator Clarke: "Thank you, Mr. President. I would submit that there's a very substantial difference between the Federal budget and the state budget, in that the relationship between capital expenditures and what are regarded as normal maintenance expenditures, are entirely different.

"The capital budget of the Federal government is a relatively small situation with regard to the balance of the budget, and while Senator Bottiger's observation might be quite valid with respect to a state budget, I think that with his amendment, the entire resolution would become entirely meaningless and in reality, if it were adopted, it would accomplish substantially nothing."

Senator Hurley: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

I think Senator Bottiger has managed to find a great big fat loophole to propose in this memorial. I think the bill itself provides for the situation that Senator Bottiger is talking about. On page 2, line 16 it says in particular it requires this constitutional amendment 'in the absence of a national emergency . . .

"Well, I think if we couldn't build cruise ships, and if we couldn't defend our state and if we couldn't provide many of the items that he has already mentioned, of course it would be an emergency, a nationwide emergency. And I don't think that anybody that is supporting this amendment wants an emergency of this kind. We don't want our situation in our nation to be in a dangerous position, but I suppose it would be up to Congress to determine what that national emergency is.

"I think that his concerns are taken care of in the memorial and I agree with Senator Clarke (I sometimes do), and I hope that you will oppose the amendment."

Senator Bluechel: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the Senate.
"Speaking to the points brought up by Senator Bottiger, the first point is that we do pay for the capital purchases, we pay the principal and interest on a regular schedule to balance our budget. The second item which we do not have the capacity to do and which the Federal government does, is that if they are unbalanced in any, they merely print money to cover that unbalance. We can't do that, and that is precisely the point that we are trying to get at, is to make the Federal government fiscally sound."

Senator Fleming demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"Speaking against the amendment as offered by Senator Bottiger. What we are trying to do is send a message to Congress and I think Senator Bottiger has forgotten that the people of the state of Washington sent a message to us. The people sent a message to us by initiative 62 that we could not load unlimited debt on the municipalities. But in addition to that, the people, by the adoption of amendment 60 which had the concerns of Senator Bottiger and everybody on this floor, that we were getting ourselves into an unmanageable debt situation; and by that amendment we put a limit, a limit on the total amount of debt that we could incur, within the earnings shown by three-year average for the state.

"Now what he would do is say that 'Well, but we want to exclude this.' Congress has unlimited power and Congress is financing many, many projects entirely outside of the budget that people know nothing about, even the members of Congress because there are so many they can't keep track of them.

"So I would say that we don't need that amendment as proposed by Senator Bottiger; let us send them a clear message that the people of the state of Washington are demanding, as they did of us, that we control our expenditures, use the money wisely, but keep it within the ability of the people to pay.

"So I would urge you to vote 'no' against this amendment."

Senator Hughes: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"If the intention of this body is to control revenue, this measure will not do that. This is not a spending control measure; this is a balanced budget proposal. You may say, 'Well, Congress will not raise the taxes.' I would suggest to you that over 75% of the national debt is a result of war, World War II, World War I, Korea, Viet Nam, et cetera.

"If you really want to control spending, let's pass a resolution outlawing war. It's about as effective as this resolution.

"Senator Bottiger has made some very clear points about the hypocrisy of a resolution that we sent to Congress, when we don't even apply the same standards to ourselves. I think a lot of us have gotten in a trap; the public wants more responsibility from Congress; I would agree. That does not mean that the Congress should be sent a simplistic measure that is not really a revenue control measure, that has no constitutional or historical precedent. And if ever there was a simplistic solution to a complex problem, what we see occurring today is a classic example. And I hope some of us will look beyond the political attractiveness of this to the real impact of this resolution."

Senator Quigg: "Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"The unprecedented condition this country finds itself in now, I think is the reason we find such a welling of support for this kind of a measure.

"People who have worked hard all their lives and saved, find those savings eroded embarrassingly to the point where they are worthless. They are made fun of by the inflated money that they are required to take to try to buy the most basic services; when they had planned to really have a retirement they could depend on, they are impoverished because they took the time to save for retirement that a money-printing Federal government trying to put out enough Monopoly money to stay ahead of the deficits that they were creating, was putting these people deeper and deeper in the hole.

"That's the kind of precedent we find ourselves dealing with and I think it's the kind of precedent that Senator Hemstad mentioned earlier, the Articles of Confederation were getting to be a little problematic years ago, unprecedented; so they got together and did something about it.

"I think we are fortunate in this case to have put the focus on the problem. The problem is, a budget balanced with funny money; and it may be funny in Washington, D.C. but it's not funny when you go to the store with it, you find out that it doesn't buy anything. And you can't figure out why. Well, the reason why is, because some benevolent press operator back in the mint is picking your pocket, the 1200 rpm or whatever it is they set the $20 dollar bill machine at or any of the rest of those, assuming they use the currency, that's no counting using a little bit of sleight-of-hand between the treasury and the Federal Reserve Board; they don't even have to print that stuff, they can do it with book entry.

"Well, we're dealing with some real pros; some pros in Washington that have set about in this country an unprecedented inflation machine to devour any incentive and any of the wealth that hard-working people have put away to provide for themselves and their families. And I think this sends back a very clear message, that that unprecedented theft has got to come to an end. I think that it is a message that those folks have to hear loud and clear; there's indications it's leaking through. Last November it was an indication that it is starting to come through, but I think we should keep that full court press on."

Senator Gould: "Members of the Senate. I don't think anybody here wants to say to the government, 'Spend more.' I don't think that's the issue. We all want to say, 'Hold back, stop, don't gain, and cut back.'

"It's not a matter of whether we want to say it, but how we want to say it. We can all get some wonderful political mileage out of making big rhetorical speeches about what's happening to the economy. We all know that; we all believe it; and we can get some political gains by 'sending a message back to Congress' this way. That's true. But is this the way to do it? In my mind, the alternative is not telling them to balance the budget no matter how big it is and raising taxes to meet it, but in my mind the way to, the way to really put a hold on this spending at the Federal level is to tie it to, say twenty—one percent of the gross national product. That is the real way to attack the problem."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Hughes: "Senator Quigg, I hope I didn't misinterpret your words when I heard the word 'thievery,' and 'robbing the poor.'

"As you well know, President Reagan took a Carter budget and added an additional $30 billion dollars . . . deficit.

"Are you stating that you believe that President Reagan whose fiscally conservative stature, I think is well recognized, is the leader of this operation; or is it perhaps when an individual gets in a position of recognizing the tremendous crisis that this country faced in the area of military weakness? I think we have already seen some positive results from just a suggestion of increased military spending; the Soviets seem very willing to address us."

Senator Clarke: "Well the Senator was asking to yield to a question; it sounds to me like he is making a speech, and with all due regard, the question and answer goes into our journal; others do not. And I would suggest, Senator, that you withdraw your request for a question and then go ahead and make whatever remarks you want to, but I don't think it should be in the journal."

Senator Hughes: "What if I just wrap up the question which I believe is a question, not a speech?"
"Senator Quigg, do you believe that the President of the United States is adding to this deficit or is there some reason that he has added to the national debt?"

Senator Quigg: "Senator Hughes, my remarks as they relate to the recent election, I think if you remember my remarks they were that Washington is following a trend in a way of thinking that this country is developing once again in leading Washington on. I realize that the new administration, a lot of the new folks back there are not going to take the helm of the ship of state and then put it over so hard that they are going to capsize it.

"But I do think they are hearing this message, a message that was sent out loud and clear that recent election, and a message that comes through loud and clear with the measure we have before us.

"So I think it's a reasonable change in course; it's a major one, it's a half century ago in the other way, and it's a half century that's cost the individual and institutions in this country horribly. Deep, personal, individual losses and I am not talking about dollars and cents, I'm just talking about the ability to get by. Every time you get a little closer to the goal line, somebody moves it back on you; and they do it in some awfully insidious ways.

"This says 'enough is too much.'"

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"I sit here and listen to this rhetoric long enough without saying anything. Let's face the fact whether it's a balanced budget or whether, what's going on in this nation. We do have some deep problems. We have some problems that we cannot solve with the quick-fix solution. Those people that were elected last November, all the way from the top, from the White House down to the state house are beginning to realize that there's no quick fix.

"And for us to continue to try to do this with rhetoric, do this with the electronic media, I think we are fooling ourselves.

"One of the most dangerous things that is happening in this nation at this point in time, and it ties closely with what you are talking about on this Federal budget without joining in the right manner; and that is, in times of crisis in years before now this nation has stood up and been counted. This nation had looked at what happened and we tried to resolve it in an appropriate manner; namely, one of the things that had happened in the past we tried to root out the evil. We tried to say 'Yes, we've got problems, we've looked at the haves; they have not paid their fair share, let's see if we can get them to pay a little more, to try to resolve our problem.'

"For some reason or other through the mass media and through a quick-fix idea, we have, all of a sudden now, come to certain phenomenon where the beginning of the frustration of not going upward, of not going upward, beginning of the frustration of beginning to go downward, and we've got to change that. We can't do it with rhetoric.

"So I suggest to you that even though you are talking about a Federal budget, you are not talking about the economy as a whole; I think it all ties in, and I think what we're going here is not the way to do it and if you wanted to do it, you could send your message back there and I think if, in fact, they heard, Senators, what the message is from the people, then I think that message alone would be sufficient."

Senator Hansen: "Mr. President, I have sat here and listened to all this rhetoric; I think it's time to call for the question."

President Cherberg: "Do you move the previous question, Senator Hansen?"

Senators Hansen, Quigg and Jones demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

Senator McDermott: "Pursuant to the rules, I believe on my amendment I can close argument."

President Cherberg: "Unless the previous question has been determined."
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senator Bottiger to page 2, line 18.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 22; nays, 26; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

President Cherberg: "Further amendments."

Senator Gaspard: Mr. President, I move the adoption of the amendment.

"Mr. President and members of the Senate.

I think through the debate we have come to realize that the uncertainties of a constitutional convention are enormous. They come to realize that even the best of our constitutional scholars are undecided and divided on the issue of whether or not a constitutional convention can be limited in scope.

This memorial is a threat and history has indicated to us that actions in response to threats like this, are later regretted. We all believe in participatory democracy or we wouldn't be here. I think that maybe we should consult the people of the state of Washington on this measure. How many of the constituents of your legislative district know of or even understand the consequences of a call for a constitutional convention? This memorial will have far-reaching and enormous effects on the people of this state, more so than the effects it will have on this legislature.

If this memorial is so important to us, then I think that it's time that we let the citizens of this state have their say. And as Senator Hemstad said before, we should start a national debate on this memorial, on this issue, then I say let's start the national debate here in the state of Washington.

Senator Hurley: Mr. President and members of the Senate.

I believe this amendment is redundant and unnecessary. The people of this state, I hope, are going to get a chance to vote on this as time goes by, and I hope not too much time goes by.

I think this amendment would be delaying, because we wouldn't be able to count our state until after the people would approve this memorial in the next election.

In all the history of my experience, I've never seen a memorial presented to the people for their ratification. After all, a memorial is kind of a 'wish list.' We tell Congress 'We wish that you would do this, please,' and to put this wish in front of the people is just a little peculiar. It has another amusing quality to it and that is, to place it in front of the people would probably be assured of passage, resoundingly. That might be one way for sure to get it passed, for that matter.
"The people in my area have been telling me and some of the rest of us from Spokane, 'We are just a little bit worried about what the state has been doing about its spending,' and they have been appealing to us for a number of years to quit the spending and to try to control the tax situation and this year, for the first time, we are making a serious effort to do this.

"The only thing I have against this amendment is that it would be delaying. I think the results would be astounding and amusing and delightful."

Senator Clarke: "Thank you, Mr. President. Joining with Senator Hurley, I can't but think that the motivation for this amendment has some question as to sincerity. I think time is of the essence...

President Cherberg: "For what purpose does Senator Gaspard rise?"

IMPUGNING MOTIVES

Senator Gaspard: "Mr. President, I believe he is violating the rules of this body. I think he is impugning my motives for offering this amendment."

Senator Clarke: "I am questioning the motivation and I think that's a matter of proper debate. An amendment..."

President Cherberg: "Senator Gaspard."

Senator Gaspard: "Will you please rule on the rules before the Senate whether Senator Clarke is out of order?"

Senator Goltz: "I would like to raise the same point of order and request you rule on that, also."

SPEAKING TO POINT OF ORDER

Senator Clarke: "Speaking to the point of order, Mr. President, I think one of the proper questions for debate is that quite often amendments are put up for the purpose of delay or other than the exclusive purpose of the merits of the amendment, and I think that there is no impugning or no intent to impugn by suggesting in the course of argument, that one of the motivations for the placing of an amendment might be that of delay."

Senator Goltz: "Mr. President, to help you rule on my point of order, I want to assure Senator Clarke my intent, my motivation is not to delay."

Senator Gaspard: "I would wish to assure that too, and I still think that Senator Clarke is out of order."

Senator Clarke: "I withdraw the statement in order that the President not be called upon to rule."

President Cherberg: "Is there any objection to Senator Clarke's proposal?"

"Hearing no objections, the remarks are withdrawn."

Senator Clarke: "Thank you."

"What I wish to state is that I personally have no question whatsoever as to what the vote would be in the event that this were referred to the people. And I think that they have already, rather plainly expressed that, in the last election. They have evidenced an extreme concern with the balancing of the Federal budget. And time is of the essence so that regardless of the intent or motivation, the sole effect of the adoption of this amendment if passed, would, in substance be a delay. And it is important that this matter be gotten to Congress at the earliest possible moment.

"So for that reason I speak against the amendment."

Senator Goltz: "Mr. President, members of the Senate."

"I had not intended to speak on this amendment or on this memorial but I do think there are two issues in the memorial; one issue is the balancing of the Federal budget, and as I say, I've heard it said in this body today and I've said it myself, I think there is no greater objective that the Congress of the United States should have then to balance the Federal budget. I think we all know what the problems of an unbalanced budget cause.

"The other issue in this memorial is the issue of a constitutional convention and I think here the people of the state of Washington and I think we should have serious concerns about whether or not a Federally called constitutional convention will deal with that issue and that issue alone, or whether we will put this nation through a wringer of trying to repeal the bill of rights or other parts of that Constitution.

"So I think the people have a great faith in this and I would urge that we refer this to the people so that between now and election time, we can debate within this state the meaning of this memorial."

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, in response to Senator Clarke, I think there is one other reason for considering this amendment and supporting it, and that is that we want our government to be deliberative. People voted in November for a new government; they elected a new President, they elected a Republican Senate, they have changed this state's government, but they do not know what the effects of that will be. And before they call for a balanced budget or call for a constitutional convention for that purpose, they ought to have the opportunity to see what a balanced budget really means for this country.

"It's very simple with slick phrases and good advertising, to convince people that they ought to buy more Coca Cola or something else; but until they have the actual experience or living with the effects of what Mr. Reagan's economic policies mean to this country, I think they ought to have a little bit of time to look at that; then they can decide whether they think a balanced budget is really what they want.

"I think that that is the reason, at least in a democracy we believe that there's no harm in discussion. We believe that that's the way it ought to be determined, not to railroad it through without people really understanding what they're buying."

Senator Newhouse: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen.

"I am going to vote for this amendment. I don't think any other way would we have got your agreement to submit this idea to the people of the state so they can express their opinions. I have no doubt as to how they are going to vote. I think it's a great idea. I think the effect of the resolution will have been carried by passing both Houses and putting this amendment on is just an added emphasis by the people of the state to the Congress which will come along later."

Senator Fleming demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

Senator Lysen: "I'd like to just express, join with Senator Newhouse in this amendment and say that I think it's an excellent idea. I am a sponsor of this resolution but to have a full-fledged public debate as we go into an unprecedented step in over two hundred years, or almost two hundred years, would be a very healthy thing; and I think some of the concerns that people have about a balanced budget are very legitimate and I think my own party has to stand up to this, that the Roosevelt coalition, the idea of Keynesian economics and pump priming has been carried too far. We've got to get back on course here and it's a threat, primarily a threat to working people, that their money no longer has any purchasing power and the goods that they have to buy are beyond their grasp.

"So I think a full-fledged public debate on this would be excellent, being back to the responsible course of action here."

Senator Quigg: "Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"Just following up a little bit on some of the figures that Senator Rasmussen mentioned earlier. While we've been about this, the interest on the debt... about $123 million, around $3 billion dollars a day. The delay of this, of course, has substantial implications when you figure the money in that magnitude."

Senator Hurley: "Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"Although I am going to vote 'no' against this amendment because I believe that no amendment should be attached to this memorial, I'm really afraid that it might endanger the passage because it would be attached as it goes to Congress whether that makes any effect or not I wouldn't want it to be endangered.

"But I'd like to make the comment that by fall, most of the people in the state will be pretty aware of the situation the state of Washington is in in regard to its debt in relation to the Washington Public Power Supply System endearingly known as 'Woops' [WPPSS], and with all the letters going out in explanation of how we got into this mess, what it is going to mean to the rate payers, how it's going to be a debt on them for the next thirty years, what happened to the management anyway? I think they'll be pretty likely to vote in droves, probably fight their way to the polls, to vote 'yes' on this because I think next fall they are going to be just a little bit more aware of what debt is all about."

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, just speaking briefly to what Senator Hurley said, I would be glad to put WPPSS right on, on the ballot right next to this.

"But secondly, I would like to just ask Senator Quigg, I am not sure on this last amendment, was he speaking for the amendment or against the amendment? He did not indicate."

Senator Quigg: "In answer to Senator Fleming's inquiry, the amendment had a delaying effect that I just wanted to let the body realize the impact of that delay, and that is why I will be opposing the amendment; in fact, the last little discussion has been worth about $2 billion dollars; we probably ought to get on with it."

Senator Metcalf: "Speaking against the amendment, just one point that I'm not sure. I did not realize this until I checked on it. I believe that any referendum that we submit to the voters would not go on the ballot this fall, I think it would be November 1982; and perhaps we should have that checked out, but I believe that that is true; so we'd be delaying it more than a year."

Senator Pullen: "Thank you, Mr. President and members of the Senate.

"It would go on this year's ballot, I am quite certain of that, so there's some degree of timing is there, but I just wanted to point out another objection that I wanted to bring out.

"We can refer anything to the people and this sounds democratic to do so, but we have to remember that every ballot issue that goes on the ballot, costs money, a great deal of money; in fact the cost now is in five figures, six figures, it's over a hundred thousand now.

"So at a time when our budget is what it is, I don't, myself, want to submit anything to the people that we don't absolutely have to, some referendums we have to submit to the people, some constitutional amendments, initiatives are out of our hands. But this is not out of our hands and a vote to submit this to the people, and if it goes to the people, according to figures that the secretary of state's office has given us, the cost of a constitutional amendment which has requirements on it to publish it in every legal newspaper in the state and many other requirements associated with alerting the people as to what's on the ballot, this particular referendum to put this constitutional convention to the people, will cost in six figures, about a hundred thousand dollars; and in a normal year when budget is not so tight, maybe we ought to do it; but budget is just too tight this year."

Senator Goltz: "Mr. President, I request a roll call."

President Cherberg: "A roll call has already been sustained."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Quick question. Senator Pullen, am I to understand that you indicated that your, in your opinion and your feelings and your actions are such that you would not like to offer a referendum to a measure that did not necessarily have to go to the people? Is that what you said? Or that you have not done that in the past and you will not do that in the future?"
Senator Pullen: "No, Senator Fleming. Of course it's important to pick and choose and in the past, I have supported such referenda causes, and in the future I will also, I am certain.

"But I am pointing out that this is a very tight year, budgetwise, and I think we should be very cautious about submitting something to the people in a year where money is so tight when we don't have to do so and when we can be almost certain that the people are going to vote for it in any event."

Senator Fleming: "Senator Pullen, one last question.

"I think the last biennium was a tight year, this is a tight year, and am I to understand that you will not be offering any referendums this year?"

Senator Pullen: "I doubt it very seriously."

Senator Gaspard: "Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"I'd like to make a couple of points. First of all, this is a little bit more than a 'wish list.' I guess if we don't get it, we've got a hammer to go along with it.

"I really would question why we aren't supporting this. What do we have to fear? The people? I think the people's judgment has been quite good in the past and I expect it to continue to be so. I think the real benefit of this amendment will allow the people to participate and to understand two questions: A constitutional convention, and a balanced budget.

"I am very fearful, and I hope it doesn't happen, but I think they'll have something far more on their minds other than inflation. They'll be concerned about unemployment."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendment by Senators Gaspard, Goltz and Haley to page 3, line 10.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendment was adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 27; nays, 21; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

Senator Clarke: "I move that the rules be suspended and that SJM 105 be advanced to second reading; second reading be considered the third, and the same be placed on final passage.

"Thank you. I hope that the issue has been thoroughly explored."

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I think, over the course of this session, I will be reminding you of, as we bring out bond issues and proposals for fish hatcheries and all of the rest of the things, that you should apply the same test to yourselves as you are expecting Congress to apply to them. There is no logical difference between a capital budget and bonded debt for us as there is for the, the way this is written; now you could have amended that to allow some compromise within a 'balanced Federal budget' — you chose not to do it.

"And so as the highway bonds come out and the fish hatchery bonds come out, I may point out your inconsistencies."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lysen: "Senator Bottiger, did you intend to include the WPPSS' bond in this concern that we have been talking about the last two years?"
Senator Bottiger: "No, Senator Lysen, I don't. You see, I understand that the spreading of the costs over the lifetime period of the particular article you are buying, whether it be a school building or a railroad bridge or a transit system or a Kingdome, I understand that. I think the same thing applies when you put in a cruise missile system or buy a Boeing series of airplanes or a battleship or something of that nature, that that cost ought to spread over the lifetime of the article. That is only good, sound fiscal management."

Senator Deccio: "Thank you, Mr. President. Responding to Senator Bottiger's comment, 'spread it out over the life of the project,' in the case of WPPSS nobody lives that long."

Senator Hurley: "I guess I'm one that thinks that maybe there are a couple of things that I could add to the argument today.

"I do feel that this memorial has been one of the most important things that we will have considered during this session. We have a Federal debt that is completely out of control. It took one hundred and seventy-three years from 1789 to 1962 for the Federal budget to reach one hundred billion dollars; and it took only nine more years after that to double that budget. This year the Federal budget is six times bigger than it was in 1962, and it just seems that with the Federal debt at $900 billion dollars and $60 million to be paid on the interest by the taxpayers, it seems to me that it's too bad to have a delay. We ought to place this before Congress immediately.

"The polls, the national polls, indicate there is strong support throughout the nation for this amendment. The 1979 Gallup poll, which was conducted on a national basis, found that 84% favor, if there is a provision for a national emergency, and there is, and only 5% opposed this type of amendment.

"I think our passage of this amendment would urge the beginning of responsibility to Congress; and I hope that you will pass it."

Senator Metcalf: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"Much of the debate against this measure which took place during the amendments, missed the point; you've said 'All we need to do is send the message to Congress.' The fact is, this has been used to defend the irresponsible spending for years; we've been sending messages in one way or another and it hasn't worked; they continue to overspend and just print the money to make up the difference.

"I take issue with Senator Bottiger because he talks about some of the borrowing that we do; they don't borrow money, we haven't even had enough courage there, to cover, to pay the interest on the debt. We create the money to pay the interest on the debt even. We're dropping about a billion a week, Federal government going into debt about a billion a week, little more, little less, depending on the year. And how is that debt, it isn't borrowed money; it's basically created money and that's what we are trying to get at. The economic survival of this nation depends upon getting that shop there in order and this is the best thing that the state legislature can do to help them get control of an uncontrollable situation."

Senator Scott: "Mr. President, do you, too, believe that the issue has been fully explored?"

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen.

"It's inconceivable to me that anyone on the floor of this Senate would vote 'no' on this bill. I can remember very well in 1973 when we were considering the equal rights amendment and many of us voted for that for one reason, not because we were so entranced by that particular amendment, but because in the fall election just previous to that, we had had a state equal rights amendment; and we could see exactly what our people thought, in our various districts, and I know that was the controlling reason why I voted for it because in my district, 51% voted for the state equal rights amendment."
"Now we have had all kinds of polls in this country over the last few years; we've had Gallup polls, we've had New York Times polls, we've had CBS' polls, on and on, to see what the people felt about a balanced Federal budget. And in one of the Gallup polls of so-called 'informed' individuals, that is, those who had heard of this issue or had read about it and knew something about it, 75% of them said 'This was absolutely essential.' And in every poll, every poll taken, 67%, over 67% said 'Yes.'

"Now it seems to me this is a mandate to us. We often have to vote according to our conscience or according to our intelligence because we don't know how the people at home feel, or we don't know how the people in the country, as a whole, feel. But on this issue we do know; it's been made very clear to us.

"And I would like to know where we would be today if we didn't have a requirement for a balanced budget in this state. I think it would be a very serious matter.

"And I want to address one more thing. The statement has been made around these halls that President Reagan does not support the Federal balanced-budget amendment; so I made a call to the White House this morning because I wasn't absolutely sure. I didn't get through to the President but Congressman Dick Lugar of Indiana did call—Senator. And he is very close to the President and has been very interested in this issue. He said they are very interested in who is trying to sabotage or cause this embarrassment, that President Reagan's stand is that he definitely favors the amendment to the Constitution. If anything has ever been said, he feels it was that the President does not feel it appropriate to interfere in the advocacy of the passage of the petition because it is a state project—states' rights, and I certainly admire him for that.

"But the message came through very loud and clear, he definitely is in favor of the amendment to the Constitution."

Senator Hughes: Mr. President, there's an old proverb that 'Actions speak louder than words.' The facts are the President added to the national debt, $30 billion dollars more than the previous administration.

"I think I can now support this measure because we are putting it to the people and I would suggest that the great poll is the ballot box. I've seen many polls that have indicated one thing, but when the people voted, the results were very different. I am very confident we'll have an open discussion of this issue, and perhaps some of the myths that have been presented that this is a revenue-controlling measure which it isn't; that this is something that could be put into action right now which I doubt; and that this really serves the interest of the poor, and perhaps the greatest myth of all, that government is the sole source of inflation. That myth just seems to be dominant in this body today. We'll find out there are many other sources of inflation not connected with the government.

"So let's present it to the people. Let's give the people the opportunity to listen to this issue and vote on it. I feel very confident that this is the proper way to go."

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, members of the Senate.

"Senator Hayner, it was Mr. Regan who is the Secretary of the Treasury, that indicated that the proposed constitutional amendment as written, would cause a fiscal disaster to the Federal government; and I rely on his expertise.

"The problem of Federal spending is real; and I don't think there's anybody on this floor that is advocating the continuation of the present Federal fiscal spending policy. That isn't the point; the point is as you wrote this constitutional amendment, you have created a bottleneck; you have created a literal disaster if the thing ever gets adopted. And that's where the opposition is coming from. Had this been a memorial to Congress urging them to balance the budget, it would have passed with forty-nine votes. . . . that isn't what this is and that's the concern that's being expressed here."
Senator Ridder: "Mr. President, Senator Hayner, in her opening remarks indicated it was inconceivable to her that anyone would now vote against this. I would simply say that referring bad legislation to the people does not make it good legislation. I opposed it in the first place, you have two things here together that I consider are not appropriate and I will continue to vote against it."

President Cherberg: "The Secretary will please call the roll on the final passage of Senate Joint Memorial No. 105."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Joint Memorial No. 105 and the memorial passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 38; nays, 10; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

ENGROSSED SENATE JOINT MEMORIAL NO. 105, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

MOTION

Senator Clarke: "I move that Senate Joint Memorial 105 be immediately transmitted to the House."

President Cherberg: "If there is no objection, the measure will be immediately transmitted to the House."

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

On motion of Senator Sellar, prior notice having been given by Senator McDermott, the Senate moved to reconsider the vote by which Substitute Senate Bill No. 3237, authorizing university tuition and fee exemptions for students receiving athletic scholarships, failed to pass the Senate on March 4, 1981.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Vognild: "Senator Patterson, you and I had a discussion about tuition. I expressed by concern that the tuition-paying student is going to be paying on the basis of a percentage of cost.

"My concern was that the loss of revenue potential from this bill would increase the overall cost and thus increase the percentage that the tuition-paying student would pay.

"I believe that you had an answer for me."

Senator Patterson: "Senator Vognild, in response to your question, this is a waiver bill, a waiver of tuition and fees that would apply to the title 9, the women's athletic program. So it is money that you do not collect and it would not impact an increase in the tuition and fees."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 3237, on reconsideration.
ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 3237, and the bill passed the Senate, on reconsideration, by the following vote: Yeas, 28; nays, 18; absent or not voting, 2; excused, 1.

Absent of not voting: Senators Scott, Shinpoch—2.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3237, having received the constitutional majority, on reconsideration, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

Having given prior notice, Senator Gaspard moved the Senate reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 3252, requiring approval and use of child safety restraints in vehicles, failed to pass the Senate on March 3, 1981.

Senator Fleming demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Ridder, Senator Shinpoch was excused.

On motion of Senator Bluechel, Senator Scott was excused.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Charnley, I know it's not necessary but I think it might be in order, is there some particular reason that we are reconsidering this? Are we going to just reconsider the vote as the bill is, or are we going to try to move it back to second reading and put some kind of amendment on there or just what, if it's in order?"

Senator Charnley: "Thank you, Senator Fleming. Yes, we hope that the body will support the move to reconsider and then we will ask to have the bill moved to second reading for the purpose of amendment.

"Appreciate your support."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Gaspard that the Senate reconsider the vote by which the Senate failed to pass Senate Bill No. 3252 on March 3, 1981.

FIRST READING OF HOUSE BILL

ENGROSSED HOUSE BILL NO. 604, by Committee on Ways and Means and Representatives Chandler, Wang, Granlund, Galloway and Rust:
Modifying provisions relating to public assistance.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Hayner, the rules were suspended, Engrossed House Bill No. 604 was advanced to the second reading calendar for immediate consideration by the whole Senate.
The bill was read the second time by sections.
Senator McDermott moved the following amendments be considered and adopted simultaneously:

On page 1, line 9, after "assistance" insert "," and at the beginning of line 10, strike "and"
On page 2, line 17 after "1981," insert "(c) unemployable persons who are not eligible for general assistance pursuant to the standards adopted in Substitute House Bill No. 245, chapter ___, Laws of 1981."
On page 2, line 20, strike "two hundred sixty thousand" and insert "one million four hundred and twenty thousand"

POINT OF INFORMATION

President Cherberg: "For what purpose does Senator Scott rise?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Scott: "I would raise the question of scope and object on the amendment. We are talking about AFDC as well as an appropriation change which is beyond the scope of the bill which has to do with nursing home patients only."
At 11:18 a.m., the President declared the Senate to be at ease.
At 11:43 a.m., the President called the Senate to order.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Prior to ruling upon the point of order presented by Senator Scott, the President erred in not permitting Senator McDermott to speak upon the amendment prior to the raising of the point of order. Senator McDermott."
Debate ensued.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "In ruling upon the Point of Order raised by Senator Scott, the President finds that House Bill 604 is a measure which relates to state funded medical services.

"The amendment proposed by Senator McDermott simply adds an additional group of people that will be eligible for state funded medical services.

"The President therefore finds that the proposed amendment does not expand the scope and object of the bill and that the Point of Order is not well taken."

The amendments by Senator McDermott were ruled to be in order.
Further debate ensued.
Senator Rasmussen demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendments by Senator McDermott.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendments were not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 22; nays, 25; excused, 2.

Voting nay: Senators Benitz, Bluechel, Clarke, Craswell, Deccio, Fuller, Gallagher, Gould, Guess, Haley, Hayner, Hemstad, Jones, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, Metcalf, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Quigg, Scott, Sellar, von Reichbauer, Zimmerman—25.

Senator McDermott moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 2, beginning on line 17, insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. State payment for medical care services shall not be provided to residents of any skilled nursing home, intermediate care facility, or intermediate care facility for the mentally retarded unless the facility agrees in writing that it will refrain from charging private patients ineligible for medical assistance rates for similar services which exceed by more than ten percent those rates which are approved by the department for medical assistance recipients under chapter 74.46 RCW. If the nursing home has no rates set under chapter 74.46 RCW, then the nursing home shall agree in writing that it will refrain from charging private patients rates for similar services which exceed by more than ten percent the state-wide average of rates approved by the department for medical assistance recipients: PROVIDED, That the nursing home may exceed the ten percent differential to the extent that it: (1) charges private patients a higher rate for a private room when requested by private patients and (2) charges for special services, as determined by rule of the department, which are not included in the daily medical assistance rate if medical assistance recipients are charged separately on the same basis."

Renumber the remaining sections accordingly.
Senator Fleming moved adoption of the following amendment to the amend­ment by Senator McDermott:
   After the last line of the McDermott amendment to page 2, beginning on line 17, add "This shall take effect on July 1, 1982."
   Debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER
   Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, I raise the question of scope and object on this amendment."
   President Cherberg: "On the amendment to the amendment?"
   Senator Hayner: "No, the amendment."
   President Cherberg: "Action has to be taken on the adoption of the amendment to the amendment, Senator Hayner, and after that action, then the President shall recognize you or Senator Scott or anyone to raise the point.
   "The President wishes to clarify that a point of order relating to scope and object may be raised at any time during the discussion of an amendment."
   The motion by Senator Fleming failed and the amendment to the amendment was not adopted on a rising vote.

POINT OF ORDER
   Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, I now raise the question of scope and object and I'd like to speak to that.
   "I believe that Senator McDermott has made it quite clear that the issue here is entirely different from the basic issue of the bill which is to cover these families on medical-only people in the nursing homes.
   "This raises the question of whether we should be charging private patients the same amount as public patients and I think that's a real issue that we need to address ourselves to; but it certainly does not fit under this bill."
   Further debate ensued.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT
   President Cherberg: "In ruling upon the Point of Order raised by Senator Hayner, the President finds that the amendment proposed by Senator McDermott to House Bill 604 adds an entirely new section to the bill which places a restriction on how nursing homes are to charge their private patients.
   "The President therefore rules that the proposed amendment does expand the scope and object of the bill and the Point of Order is well taken."
   The amendment by Senator McDermott was ruled out of order.
   On motion of Senator Hayner, the rules were suspended, Engrossed House Bill No. 604 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY
   Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, I rise to support this bill although I would like to ask Senator Scott a question, and that is, where would the money come from."
   "We have been hearing that there is no end of the shortage and all of a sudden we have money for this supplemental and now a third one is coming for corrections and for a variety of other places; and I would appreciate your telling us where the money is coming from."
   Senator Scott: "Senator, now that the administration has changed, the economy is improving every day."
Senator Moore: "Mr. President, I would like to ask if Senator Deccio would yield to a question, but I don't see him on the floor. I'm sure this is unprecedented."

President Cherberg: "Senator Deccio yield to a question?"

Senator Moore: "Senator Deccio, I just inquired if you would yield to a question?"

Senator Deccio declined to yield.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed House Bill No. 604, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 47; excused, 2.

ENGROSSED HOUSE BILL NO. 604, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, Senate Bill No. 3263 and Senate Joint Resolution No. 108 were ordered held for consideration on March 9, 1981.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3007, by Senators Hansen, Guess and Hughes:
Regulating private family day care homes.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 3007. On March 4, 1981, an amendment by Senators Deccio and Hansen was moved for adoption. On motion of Senator Shinpoch, the measure was held for further consideration at a later time.

Following is the amendment moved for adoption on March 4, 1981 by Senator Deccio:

On page 4, line 7, after "provider" beginning with "inspection" strike everything down to and including "hazards." on line 10 and insert "an annual inspection of family day-care homes for the sole purpose of insuring compliance with the requirements of RCW 48.48.140."

Debate ensued.

Senator Ridder demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on adoption of the amendment by Senators Deccio and Hansen.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Guess: "Mr. President, very reluctantly raise the scope and object on the amendment as offered by Senator Kiskaddon.

"Speaking on the point, Mr. President and members of the Senate, if you would examine these thirteen pages of material, sixteen pages of material has been laid on your desk, you'll find that it goes 180 degrees counter to the intent of the bill before us, Senate Bill 3007. It establishes a commission, it would provide for a registration fee that is not provided in the other bill; it provides for regional committees; it requires that the regional committees meet bimonthly to draw up rules and regulations; it keeps the department in the field, and they have proven to be totally inadequate to do a job. They've proven in the past year, or three years actually, to be, live up to the worst definition that you can come unto, of 'bureaucracy,' and I think to go in the direction that this amendment would offer would be in contravention to good government; and so I urge, Mr. President, that you rule that it does increase the scope and object of the bill."

Debate ensued.
There being no objection, on motion of Senator Guess, the Point of Order was withdrawn.
Further debate ensued.
The motion by Senator Kiskaddon failed and the amendment was not adopted on a rising vote.
On motion of Senator Deccio, the following amendment by Senators Deccio and Hansen to the title was adopted:
On page 1, line 3 of the title, after "74.15.020;" insert "amending section 1, chapter 50, Laws of 1980 and RCW 48.48.140;"
On motion of Senator Hansen, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill
No. 3007 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Vognild: "Senator Deccio, section 3 as amended by your amendment, appears to me to say that the only time the fire marshal may inspect the family day care, is when requested by the provider. Was that your interpretation or your intent?"

Senator Deccio: "No, Senator Vognild, it is not. It would not preclude the fire department from going in and making the kinds of inspections to deal with some of the problems Senator Ridder spoke of—the cleanliness, other fire safety, fire hazards that exist; this merely says that in addition to those things, that the local municipality would deal with, but they would also have to have fire protection device."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RIDDER

Senator Ridder: "In response to Senator Vognild's question, I would like to read the section 3 as it now appears and see if that does indeed agree with the statements that Senator Deccio made about other things than the smoke alarm being provided. 'The local fire marshal shall make or cause to be made at the request of the family day care provider, an annual inspection of family day care homes for the sole purpose of insuring compliance with the requirements of RCW 48.48.140.'"

REMARKS BY SENATOR DECCIO

Senator Deccio: "Mr. President, in response to Senator Ridder's remarks, the amendment does not say that the local fire marshal cannot come in on a routine basis and do the same things that they are doing now.
"It says that if they do have smoke detectors that they must be inspected, at least inspected annually. I'd like to reiterate that for the record again."

REMARKS BY SENATOR FLEMING

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President. I'd like to reiterate what Senator Ridder said:
The local fire marshal shall make or cause to be made at the request of the family.'
That means that if the family day care provider asks them to come, they can. If they do not request them and the first marshal comes up to their door, they could tell him to go, you know where.
"So don't say that they could come in and inspect, only at the request of those providers."

STATEMENT FOR THE SENATE JOURNAL

March 18, 1981.

SUBJECT: Local Costs Resulting from Passage of SB-3007

Senate Bill 3007 deregulates "Private Family Day Care Homes". It replaces state licensing and inspection with local inspections and state registration. Local inspections are required by Sections 3 and 4 of ESB 3007 to be performed by the fire marshal and health department.

The Washington State Senate had available a state agency fiscal note when it considered this legislation. However a local government fiscal note which had been requested when the bill was in Rules did not arrive before the Senate acted on the bill. Available on March 11, 1981 the Local Government Fiscal Note indicates that the mandatory inspections required by Sections 3 and 4 will cost local agencies (statewide) annually between $60,000 and $4,000,000.

The signators of this statement believe that it is a responsibility of the State of Washington, due to enactment of Initiative 62, to assume the costs of these inspections. State expenditures will be reduced by approximately $1.2 million/biennium, and these funds can be used to pay for the local costs. Of course any costs above these state fiscal note figures would indicate that deregulation was not fiscally sound.

Signed: Senator Bruce Wilson
Senator R. Ted Bottiger
Senator Donn Charnley

I was going to ask whether consideration of those pension systems, to your knowledge?"

Modifying procedures for dependent children.
The bill was read the second time by sections.
On motion of Senator Hemstad, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 3189 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Guess: "Senator Bottiger, last summer a parent called me, very distraught, because they had wanted a child back but the child had been diverted. Then the caseworker told the parent that if they didn't give the support that was ordered, then they would take the home away from the parents in order to enforce the demand that they support the child in a foster home. Is this true?"
Senator Bottiger: "Senator Guess, there's a million horror stories about what I would call 'over-zealous caseworkers.' If that parent had been attempting reconciliation and been trying to get reunited with his child, it's my understanding of the law now, and it would not change with the passage of this bill, that that parent cannot be required to make support payment. And at least that is our intent; and my point is the deletion here is not intended to change that because it's covered in another section."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 3189, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 45; nays, 1; excused, 3.

Voting nay: Senator Pullen—1.

SENATE BILL NO. 3189, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3188, by Senators Talmadge, Hayner, Bottiger, Zimmerman and Woody):

Modifying procedures for families in conflict.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Hemstad, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3188 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 3188 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time in full.

Senator Hemstad moved the following amendments by Senators Hemstad, Clarke and Hayner be considered and adopted simultaneously:

On page 3, line 31, after "RCW 13.32A.050" insert "(1) or (2)"

On page 3, line 34, section 3 after "(consents)" insert "unless: (a) the juvenile's conduct or emotional condition conveys the juvenile's fear or apprehension for his or her health, welfare or safety should he or she be returned home; or (b) in the judgment of the officer, circumstances exist which lead to a reasonable belief that returning the juvenile home will jeopardize his or her health, welfare or safety; or (c) in the judgment of the officer, it is not practical to return the juvenile home; or (d) in the judgment of the officer, it is not in the best interest of the family to return the juvenile home"

On page 4, line 5 after "(2)" strike all of the material down to and including "home" on line 7 and insert "((If, in the judgment of the law enforcement officer, it is not practical nor in the best interests of the family to take the juvenile home)) If a juvenile is taken into custody under RCW 13.32A.050(1) or (2) and is not returned home or is taken into custody under RCW 13.32A.050(3) or (4)"
Senator Vognild: "Senator Hemstad, I was going to come and talk to you and ask you if you would yield. Would you yield to a question I consider friendly? Thank you.

"I believe that this bill will take care of the concern that happened in Snohomish county. We had a 15-year old that had beaten his mother up, had threatened to burn the house down; actually, more threats than that.

"In attempting to resolve this, I brought a number of people together, including the members of DSHS and the sheriff's department, and they informed me, under the law, that they could not remove that child from the home, and that the child's rights were to enter the home at any time.

"Now, I believe that this bill, if I read it correctly, the amendment here that appears to take care of that problem; would you clarify that for me, please?"

Senator Hemstad: "Well, this amendment, I think, deals with a relatively narrow aspect of a very complex set of issues; and it deals only with the situation where basically the parents, for example, are concerned that the runaway child should be returned home, or it has been brought to the officer's attention that there is a runaway child on the street, and he picks that child up. And then the question is, 'What does he do with that child right at that moment, and what kind of evaluation or judgment does he apply?'

"Now the testimony from the police community was that the best way to deal with that was, if there was a sense of fear being conveyed by the child, that the child should not be taken home that night, and the matter should be straightened out the next morning.

"The question that you raise, raises other kinds of concern that this particular amendment here does not necessarily deal with. I am certain, however, that there is now structured into this law, the capacity to provide a protection to a family from an abusive child, if that's the way to phrase it. For example, in the next bill there is machinery now pushed into the law that will allow the court to impose contempt powers upon a child, to force that child to meet the standards that ultimately a juvenile court would be imposing on a child.

"The law has been insufficient in this area, but now I think has been substantially beefed up in all four of the bills that will have been adopted here."

Senator Vognild: "One further question, if I may. I just briefed through this bill and I didn't see it, but in one of these bills don't we have the procedure now that in effect, allows the parents to, I think the term that they used was 'divorce the child?' Under law, right now, the child can, in effect divorce his parents any time he wishes; but the parent is absolutely powerless to get away from the responsibility. Is that in one of the other laws, or one of the other bills, I mean?"

Senator Hemstad: "Well, if the child is ultimately determined, for example, if a child was placed under a guardianship mechanism, the parents would at that point, lose their direct responsibility for the child in that sense; or if the child is in a criminal situation, is actually, there is imposed upon him a criminal sanction. The family is not going to have further responsibility for that situation; or a child who is a runaway could be sent to an alternative residential placement for a period of time, for example, to disengage the child from the family. All three of those different kinds of techniques and tools are available to the juvenile court system now, to deal with some of these difficult problems of family/child relationships. It depends upon which category the child will now find himself in when it is brought to the attention of the juvenile court and then the discretion of the judge in using those different powers available to it."
POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Hemstad, I have been trying to determine what your proposed amendment, you are proposing to amend on page 3, line 34?"

Senator Hemstad: "That is correct."

Senator Rasmussen: "But you already have on page 4, on line 7, the same provision and it's written considerably shorter, which says, 'If, in the judgment of the law enforcement officer, it is not practical nor in the best interests of the family or the juvenile's safety to take the juvenile home, the law enforcement officer shall take the juvenile to a designated crisis . . . center . . . '

"What does your amendment do that is not already in there?"

Senator Hemstad: "Senator, the language you have just quoted is stricken in the third of the three amendments that are being considered as a single amendment in this case. In other words, that language is taken out; if you will look at the third amendment you'll see how it is then replaced with substitute language, which refers back to the interconnection with the new underlying language which is the middle amendment."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, that's what my question was. Why do you, it's very simply put there in the bill and you're striking it from the bill and adding quite a long and detailed reasons why the officer should not be, should not take the child home. Now that's one of the problems of course that they have right at the present time. The officers will not pick them up because there's nothing they can do and you are extending that, where you have a number of reasons in here, and I don't know how the officer is going to determine that all in the space of the time that he's going to pick up that juvenile."

Senator Hemstad: "I believe I will yield to Senator Bottiger who would like to further answer your question."

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Rasmussen, there comes a time and place when somebody has to make a decision and in this particular situation you have a runaway or even a child that might turn himself in to the police department, and ask for some protection.

"As I read this amendment, and I support the amendment, we have said that the person who is on the spot will have to make a decision, and we give him some guidelines as to what decision he makes. If, when he takes the child home, here is the mother, with both eyes blackened, saying 'Please don't put that kid back in my house,' okay, the police officer would make a judgment; he'd make a call and say that this child should not be forced back in his parents' home, he is the aggressor.

"Or if he's convinced that, from the child, the child has been abused and he's going to have to make a judgment call, then he takes the child to the crisis center.

"Now there is simply nobody else to do it and so we are relying, or asking the police officers to make those kinds of calls which, in their professional ability, they are already trained to do.

"And Senator, I would disagree with you when police officers have told you and I, that under the former code that they couldn't do anything about runaways. I simply disagree with that; they could have, under the prior code, done something about runaways, but they choose not to do it. This statute makes it very clear that they are to do it and it tries to give them some guidelines under the amendment."

The motion by Senator Hemstad carried and the amendments were adopted.

On motion of Senator Hemstad, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3188 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.
POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wilson: "Senator Hemstad, your closing remark related to requiring that there be, I guess at least one crisis residential center in each county. The question arises, who would be paying for that, and how much might it cost, and whether this is a matter that would fall under section 6 of initiative 62?"

Senator Hemstad: "Senator Wilson, the costs are the responsibility of the department of social and health services, and there is a fiscal note connected with the bill but it is basically a supplementation of the existing system."

Senator Wilson: "It is placing no additional fiscal responsibility on local government?"

Senator Hemstad: "No, it's a state responsibility."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McDermott: "I was about to follow Senator Wilson with a question which you half-answered, Senator Hemstad. Would you yield to a question and tell us what the fiscal note on this bill is?"

Senator Hemstad: "Yes. The fiscal note for the further elaboration on those crisis residential centers is, for the first year, $89,000; the same for the second, for a total biennial obligation of $179,000; a 6-year commitment of $538,000."

Senator McDermott: "Did the fiscal note deal with the question of the extension from seventy-two hours to seven days on all the holds?"

Senator Hemstad: "Senator McDermott, the final form of the bill, the substitute bill, returns it to the standard of seventy-two hours, with the possible addition of not counting weekends, so there is no significant measurable impact in that regard. The bill as originally drafted called for seven days, but it is now seventy-two hours again."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Hemstad, the bill requires, in the case of a child that's placed in a home, that, assume what the parents could reasonably pay for the support of the child. In the event they do not pay, then they can get judgment. Is that correct?"

Senator Hemstad: "I believe that is correct."

Senator Rasmussen: "Then my other question would be, we recently had a series of newspaper reports about judgments in King county where they have been, not alone in King county but other counties, where attorneys without too high ethics have been moving in on these judgments and selling the home because of a judgment. This would be possible also under this, where they have received a judgment for nonsupport?"

Senator Hemstad: "Senator, there is a bill on the second reading calendar that we'll get to here shortly, that completely restructures the concern that you are addressing and I am confident it will no longer be a problem when it passes this legislature here in the next few days."

"Senator Rasmussen: "Well thank you; I wouldn't want to have a home sold so that the juvenile, when it did get out of detention, whatever the reason, would not be able to have a home to come to. Glad to hear that you have another bill coming."

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3188, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 46; nays, 2; excused, 1.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Jones: "Yes, Mr. President, as a point of personal privilege, I'd like to address the fact, for the benefit of those in the gallery, that we are now working on a consent calendar. Things seem to be moving probably a little more rapidly than they have on the earlier bills, and these are generally bills that have been reviewed by the leadership of both caucuses and then run by the caucuses themselves and have very few amendments in the way of committee amendments and are generally of no controversy; and that's why we are moving along with this rapidity.

"I thought it would be to the benefit of those who are observing us up in the galleries. Thank you."

President Cherberg: "Thank you, Senator Jones."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Craswell, in the amendment and it is not new law but it's old and my question would be, 'Superintendent of public instruction, by rule or regulation.' Now you put the funds into the treasurer's control, and then the superintendent, by rule or regulation.

"What's the difference between a rule or a regulation?"

Senator Craswell: "It was the intent of the amendment, as I recall, to require that the same rules and reg . . . there is no difference between rules and regulations, if that was your question."

Senator Rasmussen: "That was my one question.

"And the other one is, it would be related to it, we have been for many sessions, arguing over whether we should review the regulations by the various departments and here we are extending it again in the case of money in the treasurer's office to the superintendent of public instruction and that is new."

Senator Craswell: "I believe it's the intent that the same rules and regulations apply to these separate funds as they did to the original fund, which was under the old, the same rules that we had previously will now extend to the new account."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Bottiger, the judge in Whatcom county said that he could not get a jury up there and he is going to move the jury from Pierce county. Which county bears the cost?"

Senator Bottiger: "Whatcom county."
Senator Rasmussen: "Whatcom county bears all the cost of putting the jurors up up there?"

Senator Bottiger: "They would bear the cost if it was transferred to Pierce county and tried down here. They would still have to pay the costs; the crime occurred in Whatcom county, that's the county that would pay the cost."

Senator Rasmussen: "My other question would be, are they transporting one hundred and five called jurors so that they can pick from that up there in Whatcom county, or are they just taking twelve tried and true people they know would be good jurors?"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, I understand that they had, the jury selection occurred in Pierce county and it's not twelve, but they took two alternates with them."

SENATE BILL NO. 3318, by Senators Patterson, Wilson, Fuller and Charnley:

Authorizing the use of hotel/motel tax receipts for other capital purposes.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

February 24, 1981.

SENATE BILL NO. 3318, authorizing the use of hotel/motel tax receipts for other capital purposes (reported by Committee on Local Government):

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendment:

On page 4, beginning on line 12, after "community" strike all of the material down to and including "purposes" on line 15.

Signed by: Senators Zimmerman, Chairman; Charnley, Gould, Lee, McCaslin, Talley, Wilson.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Zimmerman, the committee amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Zimmerman, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3318 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Patterson, I understand that the small cities and counties are going to sell bonds out on the bond market, incur debt, and they are going to pay it back with the hotel tax. Do you think this bothers or affects inflation or any of those problems?"
Senator Patterson: "That's a good question, Senator. Thank you."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Patterson, the concern I have over this bill is that it will open up competition between what the purpose of the tax was originally intended for, and small cities to develop parks. I wouldn't like to see that. In your mind do you see this bill creating a problem for the development of convention and visitors' business by, in effect, having part of these funds sidetracked for the purposes that the bill intends it to be used for in addition to what it was originally intended for?"

Senator Patterson: "The answer is 'no,' I do not see it as a problem. Any project that would be authorized by a community has to be by ordinance of the city and if that city has made a commitment, and I presume you might think in terms of Yakima for example, that made a commitment to use these tax dollars for a major project, such as you have in Yakima; then it would be up to that city to make the determination in making a shift to other purposes, which I am sure would not happen, where the money was already being dedicated for bond issues, and the bond covenants would hold."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Patterson, to your knowledge has the hotel/motel convention bureau, the people that are most involved in promoting travel and tourism and what this deal was originally set up to do, to help promote, are they in support of this measure?"

Senator Patterson: "No."

Senator Fleming: "Secondly, was it your intent, by striking the committee amendment, or would you know by those people who offered the committee amendment, was it their intent not only to use this money to build parks but also to be able to operate them?"

Senator Patterson: "I think the amendment in the committee specifically said that you could not use these tax dollars for the purpose of operation."

Senator Fleming: "My understanding by striking all the language from 12 down, you are striking, unless I am misreading it somewhere else, you are striking the verbiage that says, 'These taxes shall not be levied, nor revenues expended, for the purpose of operating any municipal . . . facility.' So by striking that language, I think that you are allowing them to do that, unless I missed it somewhere."

Senator Patterson: "No, I think if you'll, on line 15 . . ."

Senator Fleming: "Okay, down through 'purposes', okay. . . ."

Senator Patterson: "'These taxes shall not' . . . got it?"

Senator Fleming: "Okay, all right."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Shinpoch: "Senator Patterson, I wonder if you would inform the body of exactly how this tax works. It seems to me like I have somewhere in the back of my mind that this becomes a credit against the tax of the state, that you just declare that you are going to do revenue bonds and that money which is normally transmitted to the state, then gets diverted to this. Do I understand that correctly?"

Senator Patterson: "Yes, you do."

Senator Shinpoch: "That it's simply, what this is, is some $800,000 more to come out of the state general fund, that if we do not pass this bill, will be in the state general fund available for chore services and things of that nature?"
Senator Patterson: "Well Senator Shinpoch, I'd like to respond in this way. Ninety-four percent of the money that's currently being collected, is being dedicated currently to places like the Kingdome, the facilities over in Spokane, and other large cities; and it's been dedicated to the retirement of bond issues.

"This question should have been raised a long time ago as to whether or not these facilities should have been built out of this particular tax. Now 94% of the money's gone and the fiscal impact on this bill, as I understand from my colleagues, that it's about 800, if every city that has not now used this as a resource for these facilities, it would be an impact on the general fund budget of $840,000.

"But that's in the event that every city that does not now collect this tax were to put it into effect; but I would submit that there are very few cities that will probably utilize it, and it would be spread over a much longer period of time than the currently dedicated 94% of the money that's being collected for facilities such as the Kingdome."

Senator Shinpoch: "Thank you, Senator Patterson. I think that what you told us was that there's six percent of the cities which do not have a convention facility or something of that nature and would never be able to do it this way, to expend the money, but you want some way to take that other million or so every biennium out of the state general fund for something, therefore you have expanded it to include the development and improvement of park facilities and other capital improvements. And I think capital improvements can be anything.

"So I guess that I kind of have some, I guess I'm remiss, I don't understand how it ever got on a consent calendar to begin with. And anything that's taking another 800 or a million dollars out of the general fund when we're already so short, I guess I have some problems understanding how your side got this on a consent calendar, and how our side left it on there; and that's the real issue, I suppose, but I simply have to speak against the bill and I must tell you that I spoke against the last time that this bill was expanded, taking additional monies out of the general fund, and I still feel the same way about it.

"I guess that I would like some time to start thinking about what it is that we're doing, that when we set up something that says that all the locals have to do is just to declare 'Yes, we want this million dollars out of your local fund, out of your funds for us to use.' There's something wrong with that. If we intend to provide specific monies to the local agencies, well then why don't we do it up front? Why don't we declare it? 'This is what we are going to do and we are going to spend this kind of money' instead of hiding it. And that's what this kind of a bill does, and I suppose there's six percent less and somebody can't stand that."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Patterson, ask you one more? I have a very specific example in my district. Yakima, which has the convention center, of course, operates the facility. Union Gap has a few motels in their district, but of course they are not part of Yakima. They very reluctantly give a few dollars out the taxes they collect in order to take care of the Yakima facility. The mayor of Union Gap asked me if it was possible if the motel/hotel tax could be used to finance parks. I said, 'No, I didn't think so, I really wouldn't want to see that happen.' And I guess under this bill that's probably just what would happen.

"So I have a particular problem in my own district.""
"I think, you know, you have a nice arrangement but this bill may preclude their making a gift to you for that purpose."

Senator Deccio: "Well, no, I guess maybe you didn't understand what I said, there were three or four motels in Union Gap, Yakima foots the whole bill, does all the work, but yet Union Gap gets the advantage out of the hotel/motel taxes which they just keep, while Yakima has to carry the full load of the convention facility on their backs. So it's really Union Gap that is the beneficiary of this thing; I think that they ought to support the convention center because if the convention center wasn't there, their motels would be empty; they wouldn't be able to get the money to even use for parks."

Senator Patterson: "It certainly is a difficult local problem, Senator."

Further debate ensued.

FIfty-Seventh Day, March 9, 1981

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Quigg: "Senator Wojahn, does the state, through the enactment of this bill, take on any more or less responsibility for the solvency and the viability of the institutions affected than we have right now?"

Senator Wojahn: "No, because it's simply a parity in equality bill because the assets are there. I think the twenty-eight Federal savings and loans have 7.4 million in assets as of December, '80; and the twenty state charters had 2.1 billion as of that date; and there is no problem. And all the authorities of granting of any of these powers is vested in the commissioner of banking so that he is going to be super cautious in doing anything, I am sure."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Wojahn, I'm sure it's quite obvious but why is there a need for an emergency clause on this measure?"

Senator Wojahn: "Because sometimes they would be functioning under the new monetary control and deregulation act of 1980, and there will be rules and regulations drafted by the federal, under the Federal bill, that will go in the Federal registry. This would give the commissioner of banking the right to review those rules and regs, and if they were appropriate to our state, then they could be triggered in when we were not in session to do that."

Senator Fleming: "Would this have anything to do with allowing them to operate or not operate under certain situations that would involve interest rates, higher or lower?"

Senator Wojahn: "No, that's all, they are controlled by the federals, anyway; most Federal savings and loans are under the Federal savings and loan insurance program, and they are granted certain powers under that, anyway. So they would not have anything to do with interest rates."

On motion of Senator Clarke, Senate Bill No. 3263 and Senate Joint Resolution No. 108 were ordered held for consideration on March 11, 1981.

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate commenced consideration of Senate third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

SECOND READING

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 105, by Senators Talmadge, Hemstad, Woody and Moore:
Adopting the juvenile disposition standards of the department of social and health services.

The resolution was read the second time in full.
On motion of Senator Hemstad, the rules were suspended, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 105 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the resolution was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Hemstad, why are we not putting their recommendations into law? Now they are going to review again. Wouldn't it be much better if they put it into law rather than have regulations, the WACs?"
Senator Hemstad: "Well Senator Rasmussen, the changes will be included in the WACs as you reference. To put all of that into state law would seem to be unreasonable because of their detail and their elaborateness."
"The original statute did not contemplate that that be done."
Senator Rasmussen: "If they are that elaborate and hard to understand, maybe they ought to be revised somewhat more so that you could easily understand them when they are put into law. Usually all . . . you have something to go by; and that's why I fail to understand this as you indicate is going to be a continuing process."
Senator Hemstad: "This is an authority delegated by the legislature, pursuant to state law, to the Department of Social and Health Services, to elaborate on the standards that are included in state law. And if you don't like that system, then you should be proposing a change in the statutes which authorizes them to proceed in this manner."
Senator Rasmussen: "Well, I frankly don't like it yet. And the only way to do now is vote 'no.' But I would like to hear somebody else say that they like it very much."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the Senate.
"Senator Rasmussen, I don't like it a bit either and I am going to vote 'no' on this because I didn't originally support this point system which the Department of Social and Health Services has developed. I think it's one that the parents and the students work to their own advantage; they make fun of it, they don't know where they are. It's a question of how many points you have and then you are put in a certain category.
"I personally believe that, when you are dealing with juveniles, you should leave a great deal of the discretion to the court, because I think what we are trying to do is to take them out of the system and to improve their rehabilitation and so forth; and every time you put them into this kind of a system, I think you do just the opposite."
ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 105 and the resolution passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 25; nays, 23; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator Talmadge—1.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 105, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3120, by Senators Talmadge, Hayner and Bottiger:

Modifying provisions relating to the organized crime intelligence unit.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Clarke, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3120 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 3120, and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time in full.

Senator Clarke moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Clarke and Shinpoch:

On page 4, line 2, following "board." strike all material down to and including "terms."

On page 4, line 9 and insert:

"Four of the members of the board shall be retired judges of courts of record. No member shall hold any other governmental position while serving on the board. After the initial term, the term of each member shall be four years. In order to accomplish a staggered termination date the initial terms to be designated by the Governor shall be:

One member for a one-year term
Two members for a two-year term
Two members for a three-year term, and
Two members for a four-year term.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Clarke, that provision of not holding any other position, would that prohibit them serving as judge pro tem? They call up a lot of these judges to serve in the absence or sickness of other judges and I wondered if that provision was something you considered?"

Senator Clarke: "It is possible that that might possibly be included in any governmental position and perhaps, I would have no objection to having an amendment to the amendment right after 'position,' between 'position' and 'while,' 'except that a pro tem judge' if you would like to have that put in there."

Senator Rasmussen: "I think that would be a good provision. I would see no reason for prohibiting him serving pro tem."

Senator Clarke: "I would agree and I would move the oral amendment, between 'position' and 'while', so it will read, '... hold any other governmental position except pro tem judge while serving on the board.' I would move the adoption of the oral amendment."

On motion of Senator Clarke, the following amendment to the amendment was adopted:

On line 3 of the new material added by the amendment, after "position" insert "except pro tem judge"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Clarke, as this bill, and I'm sorry I may have missed the meeting when we finally brought it out of committee, but as I understood, at least in this or in earlier versions, if one of the members of the board was under investigation, the other members did not have to tell him about it. Is that still in this draft?"

Senator Clarke: "That was in, Senator, that was in an earlier drafted version for the purpose of retaining the confidentiality. However, in view of the fact that there is a prohibition against any member holding any governmental position, it was felt that it was unnecessary to go the route that you are suggesting."

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Clarke, the fact that he isn't holding a governmental position at the time he is appointed to the board, or while he is serving, does not mean he could not have just been holding a governmental position. And for that reason I'm concerned about this amendment."

Debate ensued.

On motion of Senator Clarke, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3120, together with the pending amendment by Senators Clarke and Shinpoch as amended by Senator Clarke, was ordered held for further consideration on March 11, 1981.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Charnley: "Senator Kiskaddon, I guess the thing I'm just concerned about, have we left in here language which brings to effect or causes effect the point of the legislation and that was to assure the confidentiality? This is what I would like to be assured of."

Senator Kiskaddon: "Yes, the confidentiality is assured."

The motion by Senator Deccio carried and the amendment was adopted.

Senator Metcalf: "Right."

Senator Rasmussen: "That's correct, then. All right, Associated student body funds are a compulsory assessment on the student that is attending the particular educational institution."

Senator Metcalf: "In high schools, I don't believe they are compulsory, at least not in the high school where I teach; I don't believe they are compulsory there."
"They have a ticket that you buy that gets you into all the games, but they are not compulsory. I think they are in colleges, I don’t believe they are in high schools. Correct me if I’m wrong. . . ."

Senator Rasmussen: "Is this strictly limited to high schools?"

Senator Metcalf: "Yes, this is, to my knowledge, yes, I’m sure it is."

Senator Rasmussen: "The reason I’m asking that question, if it is a compulsory fee, they should raise their money entirely outside of the associated student body fund, and I think that, in effect, they are pretty much compulsory. And any time that you have that type of a fee, the money should only be used for public purposes of the school."

Senator Metcalf: "Again, I don’t believe these are compulsory fees; but basically we’re not talking about that, we are talking about special fund raising drives that various clubs that come under this rule have, that’s the ones we are talking about—special fund raising drives that they have which now they cannot use those for the purposes that their fund raising drives purport."

SENATE BILL NO. 3129, by Senators Moore and McCaslin:

Making dental examiners board members and employees immune from legal suits.

REPORT OF STANDING COMMITTEE

February 9, 1981.

SENATE BILL NO. 3129, making dental examiners board members and employees immune from legal suits (reported by Committee on Social and Health Services):

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendment:

On line 10, after "employees" and before "of" insert "and staff"

Signed by: Senators Moore, Chairman; Talmadge, Vice Chairman; Kiskaddon, McCaslin.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Deccio, the committee amendment was adopted.

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 1, line 6, at the beginning of the line, strike "Members" and insert "Except in cases of gross negligence, members"

MOTION

Senator Clarke moved that Senate Bill No. 3129, together with the adopted committee amendment and the pending amendment by Senator Pullen, be placed at the end of the second reading calendar for today.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Goltz: "Senator Pullen, in the language of the bill itself, the phrase 'in good faith' appears on line 9. It seems to me the drafters of this section clearly had in mind nothing that would be covered by your particular amendment. You could hardly be in a situation of gross negligence while you are acting in good faith, could you?"

Senator Pullen: "You certainly could; and in fact that's the problem we have with the involuntary commitment act in this state right now in which mental health officers have come in to some communities and they've strappd good, law-abiding citizens down to stretchers and carted them off to the nearest hospital, without the benefit of an attorney, and have held them there for five days; and at the end of that five days, in many cases, they've turned them loose and they've said 'there's nothing wrong with you.' Well, maybe there was nothing wrong with them before they strapped them down to the stretcher, but after the five days in the hospital, who knows what their condition would be?
“So yes, there have been cases of gross negligence in the case of mental health officers and the involuntary commitment act; and that same act has those very same words ‘in good faith’ and there would be exactly no difference between that act and this one, as far as I am concerned.”

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Moore: "With your permission Senator Clarke, I would like to ask Senator Pullen a question, if that is satisfactory to you, Senator.

"You know, when we talk about the involuntary commitment act, we are talking about gross negligence. Now how do you relate gross negligence to this bill?"

Senator Pullen: "Well, that's a very good question, and I believe that is one reason why we should take a very close look at it. For one thing, it also has criminal liability set forth in the statute and that is one of my big worries: why criminal liability? I can hardly think of a single circumstance where we've ever exempted people from criminal liability, and so I think we should take a very close look at it for that reason."

The motion by Senator Clarke carried. Senate Bill No. 3129 was ordered placed at the end of the yellow reading calendar.

Implementing law relating to payment of school district personnel.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

Senator Gaspard moved the following amendments by Senators Gaspard, Bauer, McDermott, Vognild, Wojahn, Ridder, Fleming, Lysen and Conner be considered and adopted simultaneously:
On page 1, section 1, line 16, after the word "employees" strike "((, and fix, alter, allow and order paid their salaries and compensation));" and insert ", and fix, alter, allow and order paid their salaries and compensation: PROVIDED, That the amount or percentage provided by the legislature for salary and compensation increases shall be a part of those amounts of dollars appropriated by the legislature pursuant to RCW 28A.41.130; whenever a school district shall increase its average compensation levels above that amount specifically provided by the legislature in its biennial operating budget and/or supplemental budget, then such additional compensation increases shall be solely the financial responsibility of said school district, and shall not be calculated by the state when determining the average employee compensation levels of the various school districts: PROVIDED FURTHER, That the house and senate education committees shall jointly conduct a study regarding the effects of the aforesaid proviso in this subsection on school finance and basic education and shall especially consider other alternatives designed to enhance local control and the provisions of chapters 41.56 and 41.59 RCW, and report thereon to the 1982 session of the legislature;"

On page 3, beginning on line 21, strike sections 2, 3 and 4 and renumber the remaining sections consecutively.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Senator Gould: "In an effort to give this amendment a fair hearing, would Senator Gaspard yield?"

Senator Gaspard: "Mr. President, I'd like to make a statement about yielding to questions and a precedence has been set by the new coalition. They have not yielded questions without first having the question asked, and I guess I will continue that precedent."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gould: "In that vein, my question is, you did state that special levy money could not be used for any salary increases above the state allocation, would you go that far?"

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Gould, this amendment does not affect the current statute or current language in our laws relating to special levies and the use of special levies for general salary increases. There is a prohibition in our law right now for that."

Debate ensued.

Senator Fleming demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McDermott: "Now if Senator Scott were willing to yield to a question, I would like to know whether the budget will be written so that districts cannot do anything in terms of increased salaries to their employees for one class or another. In other words, can beginning teachers be given more than, say 6% or 7% or whatever we provide, or once we set the percentages, does that leave no flexibility at the local level?"

Senator Scott: "Senator McDermott, in response to your question, I haven't taken the proposals in the K-12 area to caucus yet, and I'm not at liberty to say. I say, secondly, that what we are able to do hinges in great part as to whether this amendment hangs or not."
"If we are, have to look forward to more obligations over which we have no control in the form of pensions and fringe benefits and other things the state is obligated to as a result of salaries that will set higher than we set, provided for in the apportionment bill, we will have very little latitude anywhere."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on the amendments by Senators Gaspard, Bauer, McDermott, Vognild, Wojahn, Ridder, Fleming, Lysen and Conner.

No member shall hold any other governmental position except pro tem judge while serving on the board. After the initial term, the term of each member shall be four years. In order to accomplish a staggered termination date the initial terms to be designated by the governor shall be:

One member for a one-year term;

Senator Rasmussen moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 7, after line 32, insert the following:

"Sec. 7. Section 24, chapter 64, Laws of 1895 as last amended by section 3, chapter 98, Laws of 1977 ex. sess. and RCW 6.12.050 are each amended to read as follows:

Homesteads may be selected and claimed in lands and tenements with the improvements hereon, as defined in RCW 6.12.010, regardless of area but not exceeding in net value, of both the lands and improvements, the sum of ((twenty)) forty thousand dollars. The premises thus included in the homestead must be actually intended or used as home for the claimant, and shall not be devoted exclusively to any other purpose."

Renumber the sections consecutively.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Hemstad: "I raise a Point of Order, Mr. President, that the amendment is beyond the scope and object of the bill."
"Speaking to the Point of Order, the bill deals with changes in the garnishment law. This amendment pertains to the homestead exemptions, and is an entirely different issue. There is a different bill that will be in front of this body shortly that deals with the matter that the Senator is concerned about."

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment:
On line 7, after "any" insert "civil" and after "action" strike ", civil or criminal,"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Pullen, isn't the language that now exists in the bill referring to 'good faith,' isn't that standard language in most all statutes that we use as a normal procedure?"

Senator Pullen: "I wouldn't necessarily call it 'standard,' Senator Deccio. It is possible that it may occur elsewhere in the RCWs but of course that doesn't make it right."

The motion by Senator Pullen carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Pullen, the amendment to page 1, line 9, on the desk of the Secretary of the Senate, was withdrawn.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3183, by Senators Talmadge, Hemstad, Wojahn and Sellar:

Revising laws relating to proceedings after judgments against debtors.

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 3183. On March 11, 1981, an amendment by Senator Hemstad was adopted. Senator Rasmussen had moved adoption of the following amendment and a Point of Order had been raised by Senator Hemstad:

On page 7, after line 32, insert the following:

"Sec. 7. Section 24, chapter 64, Laws of 1895 as last amended by section 3, chapter 98, Laws of 1977 ex. sess. and RCW 6.12.050 are each amended to read as follows:

Homesteads may be selected and claimed in lands and tenements with the improvements thereon, as defined in RCW 6.12.010, regardless of area but not exceeding in net value, of both the lands and improvements, the sum of (twenty) forty thousand dollars. The premises thus included in the homestead must be actually intended or used as a home for the claimant, and shall not be devoted exclusively to any other purpose."

Renumber the sections consecutively.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President in ruling upon the Point of Order as raised by Senator Hemstad, the President finds that Senate Bill No. 3183 is a measure which deals with property which is exempt from execution and garnishment.

"The amendment proposed by Senator Rasmussen deals with homesteads which is a class of property exempt from execution.

"The President therefore finds that the proposed amendment does not expand the scope and object of the bill and that the Point of Order is not well taken."

The amendment by Senator Rasmussen was ruled to be in order.

Debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, Senate Bill No. 3183, as amended, was ordered held for further consideration on March 13, 1981.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3114, by Senators Talmadge and Hayner:

Modifying provisions relating to attorneys' fees.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the following amendment was adopted:

On page 2, line 9, after "dollars")" insert "incurred after the making of the final offer of settlement by the prevailing party"

Senator Talmadge moved adoption of the following amendment:

On page 2, line 19, strike all of section 4.

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively.

Debate ensued.
POIN OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Senator Hemstad, how would you frame an offer of settlement which is the mechanism that has been provided for in this bill, in an action in equity, say, involving an injunction? How could one be the prevailing party and not the prevailing party; how would you frame that offer of settlement?"

Senator Hemstad: "I do not believe that the offer of settlement... applied, the situation involving an injunctive action."

The motion by Senator Talmadge carried and the amendment was adopted on a rising vote.

On motion of Senator Pullen, the following amendment by Senators Pullen and Woody was adopted:

On page 2, line 11, after "action" insert the following:

": PROVIDED, HOWEVER, There shall be no award of attorneys' fees to the state of Washington or any political subdivision thereof, in any action instituted by any natural person or his or her marital community"

Senator Pullen moved adoption of the following amendment by Senators Pullen and Woody:

On page 2, line 23, after "court" and before the period insert "; PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That payment of attorneys' fees shall be mandatory when the prevailing party is a natural person or his or her marital community and the nonprevailing party is the state of Washington or any political subdivision thereof"

Debate ensued.

POIN OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Talmadge, I need a little bit more understanding of this amendment. Now 'provided, however, that payment of attorneys' fees shall be mandatory when the prevailing party is a natural person or his or her marital community and the nonprevailing party the state of Washington or any political subdivisions thereof.'

"It seems to me that we are already paying to the Evergreen Legal Services, many instances. That's state money; is that correct?"

Senator Talmadge: "And some Federal money, yes."

Senator Rasmussen: "And some Federal money. And so that the prevailing party, how would they collect on that?"

Senator Talmadge: "They collect, Senator..."

Senator Rasmussen: "Do they pay it back to the state?"

Senator Talmadge: "You can recover attorneys' fees in civil litigation if you have a statute that says you can get them if there's a contract between the parties that allows you to get them, or if there is some recognized ground of equity that allows it.

"What this bill does is create a statutory right for attorneys' fees. What Senator Pullen's amendment does is carve out a new exception that says 'aside from any offers of settlement communicated between the parties, where you have litigation between a party and the state of Washington and that party is a "natural person" and they win and the state loses, the natural person gets fees.'"

POIN OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Pullen, your amendment would be related to individuals?"

Senator Pullen: "Yes, that is correct."

Senator Rasmussen: "And would be related to persons that has won his case but doesn't have any means of paying his attorney?"
Senator Pullen: "Well, it wouldn't necessarily apply just to that but to the situation where he has won his case against the state of Washington, and then the state of Washington must pay those attorneys' fees."

The motion by Senator Pullen failed and the amendment was not adopted.

Senator Rasmussen moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 4, line 2, insert the following additional section:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. There is added to chapter 34.04 RCW a new section to read as follows:

An agency which appeals under RCW 34.04.130 or 34.04.140 a final judgment of the superior court or a duly constituted hearing board in favor of any person or organization other than another agency or governmental entity shall be required to pay all reasonable attorneys' fees and court costs, as awarded by the court, of such person or organization in answering the appeal."

Renumber the sections following consecutively, and correct internal references accordingly.

Debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Rasmussen carried and the amendment was adopted on a rising vote.

Senator Talmadge moved adoption of the following amendment:
On page 4, line 5, add a new section following section 9 as follows:

"NEW SECTION.* Sec. 10. This act shall take effect on January 1, 1982 and shall apply to all cases pending in the trial courts as of that date."

Renumber the remaining section consecutively.

Debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Talmadge carried and the amendment was adopted on a rising vote.

On motion of Senator Rasmussen, the following amendments to the title by Senators Rasmussen and Talmadge were adopted:
In line 12 of the title, after "RCW;" insert "adding a new section to chapter 34.04 RCW;"

On page 1, line 12 of the title, after "RCW;" strike "and", and on line 15, after "4.84.020" insert "; and providing an effective date"

On motion of Senator Hemstad, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3114 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wojahn: "Senator Talmadge, this bill is in effect in Alaska, is it not?"

Senator Talmadge: "Alaska's is automatic; if you happen to be the prevailing party, you automatically get attorneys' fees whether or not any offers of settlement were communicated."

Senator Wojahn: "The question I want to ask, and this is an actual case that did occur in Alaska. A Washington citizen was killed in Alaska and apparently the family went to Alaska in order to bring suit to recover damages because of the death. And their attorney was required by, because he felt, to protect the family, to file the case in both the Federal court and also the state court, on the chance that one of them would be thrown out. If, (it was, I understand, thrown out of one of those courts), if it had been thrown out of the second court for lack of jurisdiction, then would the family have been required to pay the attorney the fees that were, the attorneys' fees even though the case was not settled?"

Senator Talmadge: "Well, it depends on the nature of the dismissal. Frequently the judge will have the suit dismissed and there'll be no cost significance attached to the dismissal. In some instances, yes, there is a dismissal of the lawsuit and costs are also awarded. Depends on the discretion of the trial court judge. I think it does so particularly in the Alaska system."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Clarke: "Senator Talmadge, do you know whether or not the Plaintiffs' Attorneys' Organization has taken a position on this bill?"

Senator Talmadge: "I do."

Senator Clarke: "And do you know what that position is?"

Senator Talmadge: "They oppose the bill."

Senator Clarke: "Very well. Ladies and gentlemen of the Senate. Senator Talmadge has endeavored, in effect, to say that this is a bill which, that is, the opposition of which, would supposedly benefit big business; yet the Plaintiffs' Attorneys' Organization, who traditionally represent the small litigant, have gone on record in opposition to the bill. I just wanted to point that out because Senator Talmadge knew that and yet, in effect, he's telling you that the people who oppose it are other than the people who are, in reality, opposing it."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Talmadge, Senator Clarke has indicated that some of the people that are opposed to this bill are the Plaintiffs' Lawyers' Association, or whatever that might be; and you have indicated that in maybe most instances, the people that would be affected by this would be the people that those plaintiffs' attorneys are serving, or representing on behalf of; and I guess what I would like to know, did the plaintiffs, to your knowledge, the Plaintiffs' Association of Attorneys or whatever it's called, give any reasons why they were against this bill, if this bill was supposed to help their clients?"

Senator Talmadge: "In testifying before the judiciary committee, the Washington State Trial Lawyers' Association simply indicated that they opposed the bill, as did the insurance industry.

"We have a unique situation here where Senator Clarke is arguing for the Washington State Trial Lawyers' Association, and I'm arguing for business; but I think the basic reason why the trial lawyers had a concern about this bill, is that they feel that the bill might impinge on the concept of the contingent-fee contract. Right now plaintiffs' lawyers take a case on a contingent fee contract. You have heard about that concept before. Now what that means is they agree to the case, they agree to pay the costs out of their pocket, and then if they prevail, they get 33% of the recovery, or 40% of the recovery or whatever.

"If litigants are aware that there is a possibility that they can recover their attorneys' fees, many plaintiffs' lawyers are concerned that they may impact or impinge on their ability to work with that contingent-fee contract concept. I don't know that they spoke to that particular point directly in talking to any members of the Senate, but I believe that's probably the basic reason why they don't like the bill, or the concept of awarding costs and fees to the prevailing party."

Senator Fleming: "Could I further impose on you, Senator Talmadge?"

"And so from your explanation of the bill and why you are supporting it, and so forth, on this floor, what you're saying is that this bill would just give an additional tool in that arena to deal with; it would not eliminate contingent fees, they would just have another, the plaintiffs themselves would just have another avenue to go through this process in terms of either contingencies or recovering damages?"

Senator Talmadge: "That's my belief."

Further debate ensued.
MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3114 was ordered placed on the third reading calendar for March 13, 1981.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, I want to raise a point of parliamentary inquiry." President Cherberg: "The Senator will please state his point."

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, on the basis of a newspaper article which appeared in, this morning's Seattle Post Intelligencer, and in order to preserve the stability of the institution of the Senate, I would like to ask a question, Mr. President."

President Cherberg: "For what purpose does Senator Clarke rise?"

Senator Clarke: "Well, if he wants to make a parliamentary inquiry, that is in order; it didn't sound to me like that is what he is doing."

Senator McDermott: "My question, Mr. President, is, when this Senate initially convenes as a publicly elected body, determines its membership, elects its officers . . . ."

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President . . . ."

Senator McDermott: " . . . selects its committees. . . ."

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President . . . ."

President Cherberg: "Senator Clarke."
Senator Clarke: "The parliamentary inquiry has to do with a matter presently before the Senate, and if it is not, I would suggest that it is out of order."

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, may I speak, well, I'll let you . . ."

Senator Clarke: "I'm asking the question as to whether the parliamentary inquiry . . ."

Senator McDermott: "Yes, it does, Senator Clarke. . .

Senator Clarke: " . . . has to do with something presently before the body."

Senator McDermott: "Yes it does."

Senator Clarke: "What is that that is presently before the body that . . .

Senator McDermott: "Senator Clarke, the organization of the Washington State Senate, I think is fundamental to the passage of every single bill. This is a fundamental parliamentary question I am raising."

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, if he wishes to ask a specific question relating to the organization of the Senate, then we can make a determination as to whether it is in order; but I do not think that it should be prefaced by some sort of a speech."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, I think it is pretty difficult for us to determine what Senator Clarke is asking unless we hear what the speaker is going to ask."

President Cherberg: "Senator McDermott, will you please state your question."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, my question is this: when this Senate initially convenes as a publicly elected body; determines its membership, elects its officers, selects its committee chairmen, membership and staff, adopts its permanent rules or relies on the permanent rules of the previous biennium and notifies the House of Representatives and the Governor that it is organized and ready to conduct the public business; then for the sake of the institutional stability and integrity of this Senate as a public body, is this Senate permanently organized for the biennium so as to efficiently and orderly accomplish the public business?"

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Clarke: "Mr. President, Point of Order. The inquiry does not relate to a matter currently before the presiding officer for determination and is therefore out of order."

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, may I speak?"

President Cherberg: "Senator McDermott."

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President. It seems to me, Senator Clarke, that it is a little bit difficult to rule out a question of the fundamental organization of the Senate as not affecting every single issue that we do on this floor; and for you to say that a parliamentary inquiry about the organization of the Senate is out of order, is almost laughable."

Senator Clarke: "Well, Mr. President, there is nothing before the President to make a ruling at the present time; and this is a wide objective inquiry as to a possible philosophy, and I think it is definitely out of order at the present time. Points of order must be restricted to matters that are currently before the presiding officer for determination. There is no specific question before the presiding officer for determination which relates to the inquiry made by Senator McDermott."
REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Hate to disagree with my good friend Senator Clarke, but parliamentary inquiries occupy a peculium of position. They are the nature of privileged motions and are indulged in at the pleasure of the presiding officer, to enable the assembly to understand the effects of the proposed action. The presiding officer always answers them unless the answer would anticipate the decision of a point of order which he may have preferred to discuss before deciding, so the parliamentary inquiry has a special privilege and it allows the presiding officer, if he wishes, to have time to decide the question raised by the parliamentary inquiry, Senator Clarke. This is from Reed's Rules and I would think that they are in order and that the presiding officer should have that right."

Senator Clarke: "I might ask Senator Rasmussen what proposed action is presently before the body which, in reading from rules, reads 'The point of inquiry must be made with respect to some proposed action presently before the body,' and there is no proposed action presently before the body as to which a point of inquiry may be raised."

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Clarke, we started out with a motion to reconsider and then we got into a parliamentary inquiry to find out whether we're proceeding in the right direction, and with the organization of the Senate which is a very important question to be asked."

Senator Newhouse: "In answer to Senator Rasmussen, there is no reconsideration before us. Notice of reconsideration was given, the President has announced it, no longer before us, it will be on Monday."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Fleming: "Did you announce the notice of . . ."

President Cherberg: "The President announced that Senator Hurley had given notice of reconsideration and that Senator Hurley would move, on the next working day to reconsider the vote by which the measure was lost."

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, may I explain my point of parliamentary inquiry?"

President Cherberg: "The President would like to make a remark . . ."

Senator McDermott: "I respectfully accept the remark."

President Cherberg: "There is no question in the President's mind that you have made a very important and complex inquiry; and the President believes that it is a question that should be very carefully researched and to carefully try to determine a proper answer. With the consent of the Senate, the President would prefer to have the privilege of deferring answering until some time next week."

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, may I make some remarks that I would hope would be a part of your consideration as the maker, the raiser of the point?"

President Cherberg: "If there is no objection . . . the President believes there will be an objection. Senator Clarke."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McDermott: "Mr. President, since it is now the determined policy of the majority to not allow the raiser of a point, parliamentary inquiry, to make his remarks, I would request permission to place in the journal, my remarks."

President Cherberg: "The rules provide that you may do so, Senator."

STATEMENT FOR THE JOURNAL

On the Parliamentary Inquiry of March 13, 1981:
Whether the Senate, once initially organized, is then permanently organized for the biennium

Washington State follows the national legislative model of our founding fathers. The Senate has been structured to be more deliberative and stable, the House more immediately responsive to the people. The Senate is smaller in number, longer in terms which are staggered. Its presiding officer is elected for four years. Its members are part–time and it meets for a limited period. Therefore, organizational integrity and stability are essential to the accomplishment of its purpose and to the perpetuity of free government.

Historically, there has never been a reorganization. Coalitions have formed initially and later on substantive issues, but not on reorganization. There is no specific constitutional provision, state statute or rule providing for reorganization.

"Permanent organization for the biennium" is a fundamental constitutional principle which has never been violated. It is supported by the constitutional provisions for legislative vacancy which provide for party and governmental continuity. It prevents no member(s) from voting and politically aligning when and as they see fit. It does prevent the chaos, economic waste and disruption of shifts and rumored shifts during a close majority.

The question is constitutional (Art. 1 Sec. 32 Wash. Const.). In the best interest of Washington State, it should be answered in the affirmative.

Signed: Senator Jim McDermott

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3150, by Senators Zimmerman, Bauer and Wilson:
Modifying library district boundary provisions.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Zimmerman, Substitute Senate Bill No. 3150 was sub­ stituted for Senate Bill No. 3150 and the substitute bill was placed on second read­ ing and read the second time in full.
On motion of Senator Zimmerman, the following amendment was adopted:
On page 2, after line 10, insert the following:
"Sec. 2. Section 8, chapter 119, Laws of 1935 as last amended by section 3, chapter 122, Laws of 1965 and RCW 27.12.190 are each amended to read as follows:
The management and control of a library shall be vested in a board of either five or seven trustees as hereinafter in this section provided. In
In counties and rural county library districts five trustees shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners. In a regional library district a board of either five or seven trustees shall be appointed by the joint action of the legislative bodies concerned. In intercounty rural library districts a board of either five or seven trustees shall be appointed by the joint action of the boards of county commissioners of each of the counties included in a district. The first appointments for boards comprised of but five trustees shall be for terms of one, two, three, four, and five years respectively, and thereafter a trustee shall be appointed annually to serve for five years. The first appointments for boards comprised of seven trustees shall be for terms of one, two, three, four, five, six, and seven years respectively, and thereafter a trustee shall be appointed annually to serve for seven years. No person shall be appointed to any board of trustees for more than two consecutive terms. Vacancies shall be filled for unexpired terms as soon as possible in the manner in which members of the board are regularly chosen. A library trustee shall not receive a salary or other compensation for services as trustee, but necessary expenses actually incurred shall be paid from the library funds. A library trustee in the case of a city or town may be removed only by vote of the legislative body. A trustee of a county library or a rural county library district library may be removed for just cause by the county commissioners after a public hearing upon a written complaint stating the ground for removal, which complaint, with a notice of the time and place of hearing, shall have been served upon the trustee at least fifteen days before the hearing. A trustee of an intercounty rural library district may be removed by the joint action of the board of county commissioners of the counties involved in the same manner as provided herein for the removal of a trustee of a county library.

Renumber the sections consecutively.

On motion of Senator Zimmerman, the following amendment to the title was adopted:

On page 1, line 3 of the title, after "27.12.010;" insert "amending section 8, chapter 119, Laws of 1935 as last amended by section 3, chapter 122, Laws of 1965 and RCW 27.12.190;"

On motion of Senator Zimmerman, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3150 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Shinpoch: "Senator Zimmerman, can the annexation of a, let us say city library or town, is that a unilateral action or does it require their concurrence?"

Senator Zimmerman: "It requires a vote of the people to be able to do this; it's a matter of an election approval of both, of the whole group has to be a vote on it, it is a voted situation, not something that happens without the concurrence of both."

Senator Shinpoch: "The thrust of my question, is, can it be a one-sided, can it be a grab by one, by the county library of a city library, can they come in and force a vote if the legislative body of that city did not desire to do that?"

Senator Zimmerman: "We have particularly left out cities above 100,000 so that there would be no, actually no concern . . . ."

Senator Shinpoch: "I don't have one of those, my concern is one like 26,000 and one was 31,000. Could the county library district come in and force a vote even if the legislative body of the city, or, under 100,000, not desire to join the county library?"

Senator Zimmerman: "It is my understanding they cannot do that."

APPOINTMENT OF HECTOR LUIS TORRES

The Secretary called the roll. The appointment was confirmed by the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 49.

MOTION

Senator Gould moved the Senate confirm the appointment of Robert W. Bratton as Chairman of the Utilities and Transportation Commission.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lysen: "Senator Gould, I was trying to recall in testimony before the committee; as I recall, I am not absolutely sure I am correct; I would like your memory on this.

"Did Mr. Bratton say that he favored construction work in progress, be placed in statute like House Bill 435 which we had the struggle over before? I recall that, my recollection was that he did indicate he was. Is that correct?"

Senator Gould: "I really don't recall; perhaps one of the other members can. I do not recall that question."

Senator Lysen: "I think it is quite important that we find this out because if it is a policy issue when utility rates are going to be going up in dramatic proportions in the course of his term, that we know his view on that. I guess I would ask that, unless that question can be answered, that it be held until we can find out an answer."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Gould: "Senator Lysen, you were at the committee hearing; did you ask the question?"
Senator Lysen: "I was at one of the hearings; he appeared twice. We did get into that at some point but he wasn't, as I recall, aware of what the term even meant at the time and we tried to become informed on that issue. I guess if we are going to go ahead here, I would urge that we, well I guess I am going to ask the body that this be held . . . we can find that out."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Guess: "Senator Lysen, would you state your question about the gentleman?"

Senator Lysen: "The question, Senator Guess, is 'does the nominee for the chairmanship of the utilities and transportation here in the state of Washington, support construction work in progress, the billing of bills, utilities for the amount of money they have invested, before the power is sold?' As you are aware of, be placed into the statutes right now since the . . . rule is that it is up to the discretion of the commission to take each case on a case-by-case basis. We had a bill here before the legislature a few years ago which would have made it mandatory, if you may recall House Bill 435.

"And I would . . ."

Senator Guess: "Senator Lysen, I would say that it would be eminently unfair to any commissioner coming on a commission to engage him into a discussion on whether or not he opposes or does not oppose a matter that is not before the legislature. If the legislature so chooses to pass the bill, then I think it will do so in its own wisdom; but it seems to me that to condition the approval of somebody that has the approval of the committee, is certainly not productive of good relations."

Senator Lysen: "Well, I am proceeding here in the best fashion I can, Senator Guess, trying to represent my views and my constituency and I think that if it hadn't been for Chairman Brazier a few years ago, taking a very definite and forthright stand on that issue, I think the bill would have passed before. So I think it is quite important that we know this because it is a very important policy question that the ratepayers and most citizens of this state are going to have to endure, this very important issue."

REMARKS BY SENATOR GOULD

Senator Gould: "Senator Lysen, I was just informed by the staff that the question was never asked as whether it should be in law, but when it was asked as his personal feeling on the issue, he said it should be taken on a case-by-case basis. And that was his response."

REMARKS BY SENATOR LYSEN

Senator Lysen: "Thank you very much. That is the response I would hope that he would make."

The motion by Senator Gould carried.

INVOCATION
by Father William Treacy
Our Lady of the Lake Catholic Church, Seattle

"May God's peace and compassion be with you, the family members, fellow legislators, and friends of those whom you recall in this memorial service. It is my privilege, for which I am grateful, to ask God to be with us in this memorial service. Many times these members voted in these chambers on various issues. Today they call us to cast a vote for them. It is a single issue vote; one of the more important votes we can cast, one of the most crucial votes they ever cast, too. It is this: We are asked to vote in the inner sanctuaries of our hearts as we recall their memories to affirm the belief that they are still alive—more fully alive than ever—sharing in the mystery of a new spring with a God who renews our earth each year.

"Almighty God, Giver of Life, we see the evidence of Your power and might in the magnificent blossoms appearing on the hitherto bare branches of our trees. New life is literally bursting out all over after the death of winter. Give to each of us the assurance that death is for the winter for which we passed towards a new and eternal spring. As we honor these loved ones today in this memorial service, they call us to cast a unanimous vote along nonpartisan lines, without regard to church or creed, that the last of life is truly the best for which the first was made. For peace and hope to sustain us along the road of life to comfort us in moments like this, we thank You, God. Amen."

MEMORIAL TRIBUTE
by Representative John L. O'Brien

"We are assembled today to pay a fitting tribute to the lives and services of distinguished former members of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the State of Washington, who have passed from among us during the last two years. The Forty-seventh Legislative Session of the State of Washington conveys its respect on behalf of the people of our state to these deceased legislators who once sat in the hallowed chambers of the House and Senate, answered roll calls on sometimes critical and perplexing measures, attended committee meetings, and at all times served to the best of their ability to make our state a better place to live. They have passed to their eternal reward; however, their achievements, records and valued services are recorded in the journals of the Senate and House and are a permanent part of the history of the state of Washington. We express our sympathy to the bereaved families and friends and share with them on this occasion the happy memories of the legislators who served beyond their call of duty and responsibilities, loved the state of Washington and left a legacy of dedicated public service that will remain always in our hearts."

by Reverend Richard Hart, M. Div.
Senior Pastor, First Baptist Church, Olympia

"Heavenly Father, as we have acknowledged with grateful hearts the memory of those who have served the people of the State of Washington, we have been reminded once more that life is a unique gift from Your creative power, and we give thanks. As their lives reached out to others, grant to each of us the wisdom, grace and courage to give our life to others in Your name. As we affirm the victory of life over death, both now and eternally, we pray that we may also experience that special blessing which comes from knowing that at least for this day we have labored together.

In the Name of Christ, our Lord, Amen."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 3214, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 49.

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3214, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3221, by Senators Goltz, Jones and Charnley:
Exempting certain students from other states from nonresident portion of tuition and fees where admitted to University of Washington dental school under contracts with certain other western states.

The bill was read the second time by sections.

On motion of Senator Benitz, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 3221 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Goltz, what I am wondering is why this requires special legislation when under the WICHE agreement, why, this is already permitted?"

Senator Goltz: "Well, there are other ways of handling this kind of an arrangement. This arrangement is somewhat different from the WICHE arrangement. This arrangement is a direct contract between the participating states, and the participating states would sooner participate in this form. What they do, is they contract with a number of students, for example in the state of Utah, who will be required to come back to the state of Utah to provide dental services in that state.

"Under the WICHE arrangement that is not necessarily true."

Senator Rasmussen: "What you are saying then, we should abolish WICHE and go with individual state agreements."

Senator Goltz: "I think we should allow both programs to exist, but they are for different purposes and serve different needs."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wojahn: "Senator Goltz, is this going to mean that because we're taking in students from other states that we're going to deny slots to students in the state of Washington? We have been through this with the medical program and we slugged it out and we lost when it was vetoed by the Governor . . . .

"Now I want to know, is this going to deny a Washington state student, dentistry student, the right to take dentistry at the University of Washington?"

Senator Goltz: "Senator Wojahn, I think, in all fairness, it has to be said that there are a limited number of spots at the University of Washington for dental students. I'm not sure of the exact number. I believe it is something in the neighborhood of 125. When at slot is taken, these slots will be limited from, people from outside of the state of Washington. It will, of course, make it impossible for a Washington student to have that slot.

"The program, however, is backed by the U.S. Federal government with the assumption that the regional resources at the University heavily supported by the Federal government, should be extended to other states in the region."

(2) When any full deposit of bail is made by a person who is not in custody and who is charged with a misdemeanor or gross misdemeanor, the person making the deposit shall also deposit a sufficient amount to include the assessment required by this section. A person upon whom an assessment has been levied is entitled to a refund of the assessment if the person is acquitted or the charges are withdrawn.

(3) The assessment imposed under this section shall be divided in the following manner:

(a) One-half shall be deposited in the crime victim compensation fund and shall be allocated to the payment of claims made under chapter 7.68 RCW;

(b) One-half shall be deposited in the county victims assistance fund hereby created in the state treasury. Moneys deposited in the fund shall be administered by the department of labor and industries for allocation exclusively to comprehensive county programs for crime victims and witnesses.

These moneys shall be used to assist other victims of crime and shall not revert to the general fund.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. Sections 3 through 5 of this act shall constitute a new chapter in Title 7 RCW.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Scott: "Senator Gaspard, what is the history in other states about the collection of these monies? Presumably, a good proportion of these people have been feeling the heat and some of them aren't going to have twelve dollars, and who decides who doesn't pay in events like that? What are the mechanics of it?"

Senator Gaspard: "In cases where the victim, or the offender may not have the money, that when they do go out on work release or prison industries, that they do have to pay that money to the work that they would provide."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, Senate Bill No. 3301, together with the pending amendment by Senators Gaspard, Pullen, Lee, Zimmerman and Talmadge, was ordered placed at the beginning of the second reading calendar for March 17, 1981.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Kiskaddon, you took out 'his or her designee' in the upper parts of the bill. Why didn't you take it out on the lower portion also on line 31?"

Senator Kiskaddon: "The whole purpose of the bill was to make it possible for some parts of this process for the superintendent to have someone else sit in on the hearing rather than himself. So we only took it out on the final decision-making where a certificate would actually be revoked, that we said, 'Mr. Superintendent, you must do that.'

"The rest of the process, we were leaving it up to the designee. I think Senator Gaspard, when he describes the purpose of the bill, can make that more clear."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Kiskaddon, I guess my only question would be, Senator, why didn't you incorporate all these bills into one substitute bill? They are all Title 28A and I know how everybody wants to save money."

Senator Kiskaddon: "Well, these particular bills were put in and out of the committee as they came in before I became chairman. So I didn't have any part of that decision-making process."
REMARKS BY SENATOR GASPARD

Senator Gaspard: "Mr. President, in order to respond to Senator Rasmussen, I might point out that these are all superintendent of public instruction bills and we thought that each of them should have been handled separately and we did so."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, I should point out that the superintendent of public instruction takes the biggest portion of the state's budget; he should be very cognizant of saving money."

If any of the revenue from any such special excise tax shall have been pledged by any municipality to secure the payment of any bonds as herein authorized, then as long as that pledge shall be in effect the legislature shall not withdraw from the municipality the authority to levy and collect the tax. After August 11, 1969, any municipality is authorized to pledge that the tax authorized by RCW 35.58.273 shall be levied, collected and applied as provided by law to pay or secure the payment of any bonds issued by such municipality after such date but before May 14, 1979, for authorized public transportation purposes."

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3514, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3532, by Senators Metcalf and Peterson:
Permitting the use of renewed vehicle license for a full twelve-month period.
The bill was read the second time by sections.
On motion of Senator Patterson, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 3532 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Patterson: "Senator Metcalf, as we all know when you license your vehicle, you also have an excise tax that picks up the actual, the major portion of that bill is the excise tax which is a tax in lieu of a property tax.
"I am wondering whether or not this bill also includes the excise tax?"
Senator Metcalf: "It was not my intent to do that, but I can't answer the question specifically. If anyone would like to hold the bill over to check that, we certainly can but that was not my intent. It does seem, however, that if the person buys the vehicle on the date that he gets the vehicle and pays for a year, the excise tax was licensed, he should get a year, a twelve-months' period. That's the intent of the bill.
"There will be a small fiscal impact for this bill, of course, but it is relatively small; I don't remember exactly what it is."
Senator Patterson: "I really was not referring to the small loss as far as the registration fee is concerned. I am concerned that who pays, whose property is it at that point in time, and whether or not the property tax or the excise tax is also going to be deferred and passed with no payment for that back year."
Senator Metcalf: "Okay, thank you very much. I see the point that you are making. It seems to me that it would be unfair to charge the new owner with the property tax on that vehicle for the period of time before he bought it. I think that that is unfair and I would not like to see that."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, perhaps if I state the question slightly different, Senator Patterson's point and my point would be understood.
"I have got a horse trailer and a camper and other things that are used only in the summer; and if, by constantly switching titles between my daughters, I could have, only have to pay for, in a sense, one-third of a year. There would be a substantial fund if you consider the excise tax as well, because we just wouldn't renew until we got into the trailering season."
Senator Metcalf: "Well, I had tried to write the bill in such a way as to solve a very real problem that we had. I had not thought of ways to beat the state out of some money. If anyone has an amendment they would like to offer or to hold the bill over a day and look at it again to be sure we are not doing some of the things that Senator Bottiger has, it seems to me, raised a point that we'd better answer. And I have no objection to holding the bill until we can answer that question."
Senator Bottiger: "Senator, there are a lot of people out trying to beat the state out of money."
POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Hansen: "Senator Bottiger, while you are transferring this horse trailer and the trailer and the car from one daughter to the other, how are you going to get past the sales tax that has to go with each one of those transfers?"

Senator Bottiger: "That is within a family, I don't think you have to pay the sales tax."

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Clarke, Senate Bill No. 3532 was ordered held on the third reading calendar for March 17, 1981.

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate commenced consideration of Engrossed House Concurrent Resolution No. 3.

SECOND READING

ENGROSSED HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 3, by Represent-ative Nelson (G.):

Cut-off dates for the 47th Legislature are established.
The resolution was read the second time in full.

On motion of Senator Hayner, the rules were suspended, Engrossed House Concurrent Resolution No. 3 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the resolution was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Hayner, in our caucus I was asked a question, I didn't have an answer to it.

"Why are the Democrats going down one weekend and the Republicans another? Is there something that our side will be told that you won't or something that your side will be told that we won't? Why don't we go down, say the Senate one weekend and the House the other weekend so that everybody's told the same things by the Rose Institute?"

Senator Hayner: "Well, I feel very sure that everyone is going to be told the same thing. I think it was just a, someone made the decision that the Democrats would go one weekend, the Republicans would go the next. I don't see anything wrong with that."

REMARKS BY SENATOR SHINPOCH

Senator Shinpoch: "Well-Senator Hayner, I enjoy good relationships with the Republicans and I would love to go with them at the same time so that we know that we're all hearing exactly the same thing."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Hayner, not knowing how many are going to go and how far they are going to go, there apparently is no limit; but it would seem to me that knowing the stringent condition that the budget is in and the concerns the Republicans have, and having listened to you say that we are going to get the same message, wouldn't it be possible that they could transmit that message either by communication known as 'paper,' or have one individual come up here to the capitol and deliver the message? Or doesn't that have enough 'oomph?' Really, I am asking for information because I know how serious you are, and we are too, about saving money."
Senator Hayner: "There are only four people going from the Senate and four from the House from each caucus which doesn't seem unreasonable. The information cannot be brought to us; we need to go to them because we just don't have the time to have all of that equipment and the software and everything brought to us. That is the reason for going down there. I don't think it's an unreasonable expenditure; it's something we are charged to do in the Constitution; and it's very important that we have this done by 1982 before the '82 election."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wojahn: "Would Senator Hayner yield to a question? "Would anyone over there yield? "Where is everyone going? Everyone is talking about going somewhere. Where are you going? Are you going to Florida? Are you going to go to Hawaii? Are you going to go to California? Or are you going to go down the street in Olympia? That's what I would like to know."

Senator Hayner: "It's to Claremont College where the Rose Institute is located and the Rose Institute is the only group in the United States that has the software for redistricting."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Hughes: "Senator Hayner, I am wondering if your position, the position of your caucus, is the same as it was a year ago on this issue, redistricting commission versus the state legislature doing it?"

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, I don't think this has anything to do with the issue before us."

Further debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed House Concurrent Resolution No. 3, and the resolution passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 25; nays, 24.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate advanced to the eighth order of business.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side and having given prior notice, Senator Hurley moved the Senate reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 166 failed to pass the Senate on March 13, 1981.
MOTIONS
Senator Fleming moved the Senate recess until 1:00 p.m.
At 12:30 p.m., on motion of Senator Clarke, the Senate recessed until 1:30 p.m.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion for reconsideration by Senator Hurley on the failure of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 166 to pass the Senate on March 13, 1981.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY
Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, as I read rule 31, once the motion has been made it would now be in order to make a motion to make a special order of business on the motion to reconsider for a time and date certain."
President Cherberg: "Yes, Senator, that is possible."

MOTION
Senator Bottiger moved the motion by Senator Hurley to reconsider the vote by which Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 166 failed to pass the Senate on March 13, 1981 be made a special order of business immediately after convening on March 18, 1981.
Debate ensued.
Senator Fleming demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.
Further debate ensued.
On motion of Senator Fleming, the motion by Senator Bottiger was amended.
The motion by Senator Hurley would be made a special order of business immediately after convening on March 19, 1981.
Further debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER
Senator Newhouse: "If I were to cite rule 118 in rules, that the motion to postpone to a day certain is debatable, but we may not debate the merits of the main question."
President Cherberg: "What rule did you refer the President to, Senator?
"Senator Hughes and members of the Senate. Senator Newhouse's point of order is well taken. You will have to confine your remarks to the motion itself."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY
Senator Hughes: "Then Mr. President, would it be inappropriate to respond to the questions or concerns that Senator Hurley . . . asked this body to address, is that correct?"
President Cherberg: "The motion is merely to make the measure a special order of business on Thursday."
Senator Hughes: "I would just agree that Thursday would be more of an appropriate date."

POINT OF ORDER
Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, did Senator Hurley or did she not ask a member on the floor a question to respond to reasoning for the day of special consideration?"
President Cherberg: "The President will have to check the minutes, Senator. "The minute clerk advises the President that Senator Hurley did not ask the question, Senator Fleming."

POINT OF INFORMATION

Senator Lysen: "Seeing the two o'clock schedule, the energy committee is going to meet to consider a $308 million dollar change order for Peter Kiewit at WPPSS. I was wondering, is this, how does this figure in terms of that? How much money, is this more money or less money than that change order? And if it is less money, I guess I'd like to get prepped for that committee meeting at two o'clock when we look at that $308 million dollar change order."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Bottiger, as amended by Senator Fleming, that the motion for reconsideration by Senator Hurley be made a special order of business immediately after convening on March 19, 1981.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion by Senator Bottiger, as amended by Senator Fleming, carried by the following vote: Yeas, 25; nays, 24.

Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 166 was made a special order of business immediately following convening on March 19, 1981. The motion by Senator Hurley to reconsider the vote by which the measure failed on March 13, 1981 will be the matter before the Senate at that time.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woody: "Senator Lee, 119, what is the subject of 119?"
Senator Lee: "119 is a redistricting commission bill. It is a bill sponsored by Senator Metcalf and Senator Metcalf wishes to have that in his committee."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Lee, 3704, that says 'state government title only' and you sent it to judiciary. What is that?"
Senator Lee: "It's a title only bill . . ."
Senator Fleming: " . . . sponsored by whom?"
Senator Lee: "Sponsored by Senator Rasmussen. Senator Bluechel asked Senator Rasmussen if he could work with him on putting some language in that particular bill that would be properly heard by the judiciary committee."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Fleming: "Senator Lee, I wish it were possible, when you are going to make these referrals to these committees, that your side could let our side know ahead of time, because we don't know what's going on."
Senator Lee: "Senator Fleming, the next two that I have are title only bills."
Senator Fleming: "But I still say it would be nice if we knew that you were going to refer these ahead of time so we won't have to jump up and ask certain questions."
Senator Lee: "Okay. The next two are title only bills that are being requested that are sponsored by the person who is the chairman of the committee. He's asking that it be referred."
Senator Fleming: "Is that too much to ask?"
Senator Lee: "No, I am just giving you the reply. We will do the best we can."

REMARKS BY SENATOR CLARKE

Senator Clarke: "We would be glad to comply with that; the only reason these have not been submitted to you in advance because they were title onlys and for that reason we didn't think you'd be that interested. We would be glad to submit title onlys also in the future."
Senator Fleming: "Well, to my knowledge we didn't know about the ones that were not title only ahead of time, so I was just wondering if all of them that you referred, we'd know ahead of time. It would help us."
Senator Clarke: "We will be glad to comply with that request."
President Cherberg: "On motion by Senator Lee with the approval . . . Senator Woody."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Woody: "Senator Lee, 3615, I wasn't listening. Did you explain what 3671 was?"
Senator Lee: "3671 is a title only bill by Senator Metcalf on redistricting committee."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Zimmerman, there are a number of people from my district that have property down there in the area that has been damaged; they either lost the land or it's covered with mud and they tell me there has been no action taken to assist them in any way whatsoever. Is that true?"

Senator Zimmerman: "I'm sure there are individuals who have situations where they have had no action take place. I am sure there are some of those instances, yes. They are attempting to process throughout the entire state because obviously Ritzville, eastern Washington areas that have also had problems, they, too, have been considered. I am not sure of the extent; Senator Talley may have more specifics. I just know that of the eighty-six million that has been obligated as far as FEMA was concerned, that they have only used twenty-seven million of that fund.

"And I know that there is at least fifteen million dollars of obligations that cities and counties have that have not yet been met. So we know there is a considerable amount yet to be used and Senator Talley may give some details."

Senator Rasmussen: "Our concern, Senator Talley, would be that this money not alone be directed to municipalities and government agencies but that it go to help some of these people."

Senator Talley: "Well, Senator, we hope to do that . . . some of this money but at the present time we still have to dig a ditch to get the mud out and water out because all we have down there now, is, we have a 500-foot-wide ditch, fifty feet deep, that we hope doesn't flood and drown everybody below it there."

Senator Rasmussen: "So the need continues . . ."

Senator Talley: "The ditch is filling up at all times and there are millions of yards of sediment that is still to come down."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Substitute House Joint Memorial No. 4.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute House Joint Memorial No. 4 and the memorial passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 48; absent or not voting, 1.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Pullen, states in the digest, provision added to the original bill stating 'additional referendum petitions must be printed on paper of good quality—good writing quality.' Would that exclude using newspaper?"

Senator Pullen: "Senator Rasmussen, the bill specifically states that newsprint will be acceptable and I believe that that is a very reasonable provision to put into the law, because for the last decade, almost, many sponsors have been publishing their initiative petitions in newspapers and have been collecting signatures in that way.

"The secretary of state has been accepting such petitions printed on newsprint and has had no problem with that particular type of paper."

Senator Rasmussen: "You will be allowed to continue, then; that, 'good writing quality' that doesn't indicate the newspapers?"

Senator Pullen: "Well Senator Rasmussen, because people have been using newsprint that has not caused any problem and because the Constitution does not put any restrictions on what kind of paper the proponents could use, we certainly don't want to penalize any sponsor who may have to collect signatures on newsprint."

Senator Rasmussen: "And it is the intention, then, that newsprint will be usable?"

Senator Pullen: "Yes, line 12 and 13 of the bill specifically indicate that newsprint is acceptable."

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Talmadge, in certain cases, alcohol-related cases where they stay, when they go under treatment, would this include attempting to elude the police pursuit if he was under the influence of alcohol, that it would not suspend his license?"

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, in the last session of the legislature we made eluding a police vehicle a class C felony. I think if they were convicted of the eluding of a police vehicle under this statute, it would be counted for purposes of the habitual traffic offender count of three offenses.

"Now whether or not that took place when they were under a stay order from the court, I don't think it would make much difference. If they were told it would make a difference, and I am sorry, if they were convicted of a violation, it is existing law now that if they are convicted of a violation, they can have that conditional licensure removed and it wouldn't make any difference under this bill—it is already existing law that if they are convicted of another offence during the prime of the conditional licensure, they will have that licensure removed."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Senate Bill No. 3102, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 48; nays 1.

VITO T. CHIECHI, Chief Clerk.

SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT

The President signed: SUBSTITUTE HOUSE JOINT MEMORIAL NO. 4.

There being no objection, the Senate returned to the sixth order of business.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3372, by Senator Newhouse:
Increasing penalties for telephone or telegraph fraud.
The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 3372. On March 16, 1981, three amendments had been moved for adoption by Senator Woody.
Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Wilson: "Senator Newhouse, I realize I am talking partly about your amendment, rather than the one before it; but I would have to say for the good of the body that I think the comparison sheet that Senator Woody distributed places issues in perspective very clearly. And I think it would be helpful to the body if you, at least orally, could tell us what would appear on this sheet regarding your amendment."

Senator Newhouse: "May I then, Senator Wilson, address the center section, the proposed Senate Bill 3372. In that one I would say in that line where it $250 to $1500 dollars and then over $1500, I would strike that digest language and just say 'over $250 is a class C felony.' There would be no class B felony if this amendment is defeated and my amendment is adopted."

Further debate ensued.
The motion by Senator Woody failed and the amendments were not adopted.
On motion of Senator Newhouse, the following amendment was adopted:
On page 1, beginning on line 26, after "felony" strike all material down through "felony" on line 28.

On page 1, line 22, after "dollars" strike "in the aggregate" and insert "((in-the-aggregate))"
On page 1, line 25, after "dollars" strike "in the aggregate" and insert "((in-the-aggregate))"
On page 1, line 27, after "dollars" strike "in the aggregate" and insert "((in-the-aggregate))"
On page 1, line 28, after "felony." insert "Whenever any series of transactions which constitute a violation of subsection (1) of this section are a part of a common scheme or plan, the transactions may be aggregated in one count and the sum of the value of all said transactions shall be the value considered in determining the penalty involved."
Debate ensued.
The motion by Senator Woody failed and the amendments were not adopted on a rising vote.

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3372 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3372, and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 38; nays, 11.

ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 3372, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

NOTICE OF RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Senator Woody gave notice that she would, on the next working day, move for reconsideration of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3372 that passed the Senate today.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hughes: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate.
"I've been instructed, Mr. President and members of the Senate, by the Honorable Senator O'Quigg and the Honorable Senator O'Hurley to make a brief but succinct presentation to this body about the significance of St. Patrick's day to the Irish.

"Now I promise to keep it relatively brief because Senator O'Talmadge has warned me that he's had about all the Irish he can take before lunch. But I think there are some significant comments that should be made.

"Father, who was here earlier, made some comments when he was asked the questions about the sadness and the tragedy that is associated with the Irish, and that's part of their character. There is also a great deal of joy associated with the Irish. And I'd like to complete a quote that Father began to you, and that was that 'Great Gaels of Ireland are truly the men that God made mad, for all their wars are merry and all their songs are sad.'

"I'd like to highlight a couple of things in Irish history that may point out the sadness and the joy of the Irish. In the mid-nineteenth century, a terrible famine hit Ireland. One-quarter of the people starved to death, and they starved to death because the controlling power, the controlling government of another nation, said it was tragic that these people would starve, but to feed them would upset the Manchester principles of economics. That was a cold and callous decision that was made.

"The Irish fought for their independence on Easter Sunday in the year 1916; that rebellion was short, but it was glorious. Sixteen of the eighteen leaders were swiftly and brutally executed by the British. One of them, a Mr. James Connolly, was dying from his wounds and he couldn't even stand; so he was strapped to his chair and shot and executed. One of the British soldiers who was in the firing squad found this so offensive, and he wrote one of the most moving poems against violence that you'll ever have a chance to read, and any of you interested, I'll provide copies of that later.

"Ireland is the country of Robert Emmett, Daniel O'Connell, Charles Stewart Parnell, and Eamon de Valera—a lot of great heroes. My own favorite hero is a man by the name of Patrick Sarsfield. Patrick Sarsfield fought England and was defeated by the English in his own country and he fled with some Irishmen who were called 'The Wild Geese,' and they went and they saved France in a battle with England and defeated the English. Sarsfield was mortally wounded in the battle and his last words were 'I am pleased that I could do this, but oh, were this for my Ireland.'

"Some of you may not know the origin of St. Patrick's day. An Irish general by the name of Sullivan entered Boston Harbor and the British immediately evacuated it. In Boston it is known as 'Evacuation Day,' but the Irish decided it needed another meaning and they found out that he'd used the password of St. Patrick and the origin of it is that on March 17, 1776, the British evacuated Boston and the American troops under an Irish general took control.

"I'd like to talk about the contributions of some of the Irish people. John Barry, Irish-American who was the father of the American navy. In sports, the name of John L. Sullivan, James Corbett, James J. Braddock, Connie Mack, John McGraw, John McCarthy. In the area of religious leaders, Cardinals Gibbons; a man by the name of Hughes, of all names; Cushing, Bishop Sheen are known to most of us.

"In the arts perhaps the Irish have made their second greatest contribution. Irish writers like O'Casey, Yeats, Joyce and Shaw are well-known. But so are their Irish-American counterparts, men like Eugene O'Neill, George M. Cohan, F. Scott Fitzgerald.

"But I think of all the arenas that the Irish have contributed the most is in the political arena; and I think it is not terribly ironic that the two longest-serving members of the Washington state legislature, John O'Brien in the House of Representatives and Senator Margaret Hurley in the Senate, not as a member serving in the Senate but in total service in the legislature. Both are of Irish descent. And when you go through the names of Irish-Americans in politics, you come up with the names of Al Smith, Mayors Curley of Boston, Jimmie Walker of New York, Daley of Chicago. The Roosevelt brain trust was basically made up of many solid Irish contributors, Thomas Corcoran, attorney general Walsh, postmaster general Farley. In the United States Senate, such names as Walsh, Clark, Gene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy; and perhaps the most significant of all the Irish-American politicians, President John F. Kennedy.

"Those of us who are Irish like to point to John F. Kennedy as the man who most possessed the attributes that we find admirable in the Irish. I think any of you who remember President Kennedy remember that tremendous wit, that style, that grace and that critical intelligence.

"So the Irish, I think have an expression of warmth and greeting that says, where I think their hearts are and I am going to paraphrase it: 'May the road rise up to meet you, may the wind be always at your back. May the rains fall gently in your field, and until we meet again, may God hold you softly in the palm of His hand.'

"Now, I wasn't going to do this but my wife said I had better end with a couple of jokes. I am going to put on a bit of the brogue and I've been promised by Senators O'Fleming and McDermott that they would laugh even if they didn't know when the punch line came.

"The first one deals with an Irish agricultural minister who was addressing a group of farmers and as was the case, the farmers were heckling him. And as he spoke louder, the heckling got louder. And one of them finally yelled out, 'Mr. Minister, how many toes does a pig have?' And the minister instantly shot back 'Take off your shoes and count.'

"Well, they'll get better, I promise you. (Sally, you did say this was going to work, right?)

"There was another senior Irish Senator who had written into his will that when he died, he wanted all of his colleagues, particularly his political opponents, to attend his funeral and to dance on his grave. There was a P.S. in his will. He wanted to be buried at sea.

"One final one and I think this may be fit for all of us who are freshmen memers. There was a freshman Senator who was elected an Irishman, and he wanted to impress the first visitor who came into his office so he got there early before everybody else, set up his office; and he saw a young man approaching, so he immediately picked up the phone and carried on about a five- or six-minute conversation, imaginary of course, talking to the President. The young man very quietly, very patiently waited. He then put down the phone; he said 'I'm sorry to delay you, but it was a very important phone call. What can I do for you?' He said, "Oh, it is no problem, Senator, I am here from the phone company, I am here to install the phone.'

"Thank you, and I hope you all enjoy St. Patrick's day."

On motion of Senator Clarke, Senate Joint Resolution No. 133 will be considered on March 19, 1981.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talley: "Senator Clarke, we have bills on this calendar that were on the calendar before this consent calendar was brought out. You are not going to take them first?"

Senator Clarke: "Senator, it is my understanding that the purpose of forming a consent calendar is to endeavor to get non-controversial bills out of the way, and those which will not take a considerable amount of time. We do hope to work on the yellow calendar tomorrow."

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 3388, by Committee on Local Govern­ment (originally sponsored by Senators Zimmerman, Charnley, Fuller, Gould, Lee, McCaslin, Talley and Wilson):
Authorizing county transportation authorities to provide public ambulance ser­vices upon voter approval.
The Senate resumed consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 3388. On March 16, 1981, the following amendment by Senator Quigg had been moved for adoption:
On page 3, after line 34, insert the following:
"Sec. 3. Section 14, chapter 255, Laws of 1969 ex. sess. as amended by section 3, chapter 175, Laws of 1979 ex. sess. and RCW 35.58.279 are each amended to read as follows:
All taxes levied and collected under RCW 35.58.273 shall be credited to a special fund in the treasury of the municipality imposing such tax. Such taxes shall be levied and used solely for the purpose of paying all or any part of the cost of acquiring, constructing, equipping or operating a publicly owned mass transportation system, or contracting for the services thereof, or to pay or secure the payment of all or part of the principal of or interest on any general obligation bonds or revenue bonds issued for public transportation capital purposes and until withdrawn for use, the moneys accumulated in such fund or funds may be invested by the treasurer of such municipality in the manner authorized by the legislative body of the municipality.
No municipality may use any of the proceeds of the taxes levied and collected under RCW 35.58.273 for the purpose of financing ambulance services nor shall the expenditure of sales and use tax authorized pursuant to RCW 82.14.045 for ambulance services be counted as locally generated tax revenues for apportionment and distribution of the proceeds of the motor vehicle excise tax authorized pursuant to RCW 35.58.273, in the manner prescribed by chapter 82.44 RCW as now or here­after amended."
If any of the revenue from any such special excise tax shall have been pledged by any municipality to secure the payment of any bonds as herein authorized, then as long as that pledge shall be in effect the legislature shall not withdraw from the municipality the authority to levy and collect the tax. After August 11, 1969, any municipality is authorized to pledge that the tax authorized by RCW 35.58.273 shall be levied, collected and applied as provided by law to pay or secure the payment of any bonds issued by such municipality after such date but before May 14, 1979, for authorized public transportation purposes.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Quigg: "Senator Bottiger, your research, did you find whether this provision would apply to any other ambulance service providers other than those in Grays Harbor County?"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Quigg, I'm satisfied that the language of the bill and the language of the amendments apply only to the Grays Harbor Transportation Authority and don't cover the PTBAs located elsewhere in the state."

The motion by Senator Quigg carried and the amendment was adopted.

On motion of Senator Quigg, the following amendment to the title was adopted:

On page 1, line 5 of the title after "36.57.040" and before the period, insert "; and amending section 14, chapter 255, Laws of 1969 ex. sess. as amended by section 3, chapter 175, Laws of 1979 ex. sess. and RCW 35.58.279."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Deccio: "In response to Senator Sellar's comment that Wenatchee grew the most beautiful apples in the world, the reason I am taking so long to respond is I had to do a little research and I found out that the Wenatchee trees were actually grafts from Yakima trees and that's how they get the beautiful trees they have, which means, I guess, that in order for Wenatchee to have the beautiful apples that they grow, they have to resort to graft."

Senator Sellar: "Only Deccio would admit that Yakima has the graft."

There being no objection, the Senate advanced to the seventh order of business.

THIRD READING

SENATE BILL NO. 3532, by Senators Metcalf and Peterson:

Permitting the use of a renewed vehicle license for a full twelve-month period.
The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 3532 which was held on third reading from March 16, 1981.

The bill was read the third time and placed on final passage.

REMARKS BY SENATOR METCALF

Senator Metcalf: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate.

In answer to Senator Patterson's question on the floor, his question was whether or not the previous owner would be liable for the excise tax, (this is on a relicensed vehicle), under present law he is not. If he's going to be, if he's not going to be using the car, he's not required to license it, and the excise tax is included in the license fee.

"Senate Bill 3532 does not provide for this liability either. The intent of the legislation was to see that the new owner would not be required to pay back taxes. The responsibility for back taxes are currently waived if the vehicle registration has been expired for more than twelve months.

"There is a fiscal impact on the state; it is $37,000 and I think that this is something that we can do in good conscience. Actually, if a person pays to license his car for twelve months, he should get twelve months' license, and that's all that this bill does."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Senate Bill No. 3532.

It originally started under the direction of the Federal government. POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Senator Pullen, as you indicated, this bill or a bill similar to it, did pass the Senate last session. And I wonder if you could detail for us any differences that might exist between this particular proposed legislation and the legislation that did, in fact, pass the Senate last session."

Senator Pullen: "Yes, I can. Actually this one doesn't go quite as far as the one last year did. In the law it also sets forth certain misdemeanors that are inherently dangerous that can also qualify for the five-year sentence. And in the bill that passed the Senate last year, we had a number of misdemeanors in there that are not in this particular bill. And the reason we took them out was, we felt there were some misdemeanors under the criminal code, while potentially dangerous, are broad enough that someone who might inadvertently be armed with a firearm, could end up getting a mandatory sentence when they didn't deserve it. And we did not want that to happen, so we took out of this bill crimes like reckless endangerment which are so broad that someone could inadvertently end up with a five-year mandatory sentence.

"So this one is not quite as broad as the bill that passed the last session."
