ELECTION OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The President declared nominations to be open for President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: "Thank you, Mr. President. It is with great pride that I offer the name of A. L. "Slim" Rasmussen as President Pro Tempore for the Washington State Senate. We all know Slim in the Washington State Senate. He may be occasionally wrong, but we know he is never in doubt. It has been said that Slim can be unreasonable, but I have to say he is at least as reasonable as I am.

We do know that Slim is one of our more beloved members of the Washington State Senate. He is a man who has the courage of his convictions and is never fearful of expressing those convictions to us. His memory of the Washington State Senate, its practices and its people is almost legendary and is exceeded perhaps only by the President and by our Secretary of the Senate to be. Slim is gifted with that institutional memory which is special and he is a special member for us. He reminds us of one thing constantly that I think is very important. He reminds us of our constituents and he reminds us of the people of our state and that we should not forget those people. It is certainly with a great deal of pride and a great deal of pleasure that I offer the name of Senator A. L. "Slim" Rasmussen in nomination for President Pro Tempore of the Senate. I have to say it was an honor that Slim would ask me to make the nominating speech for him. Thank you."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, with a great deal of pride, I rise to second the nomination of Senator A.L. "Slim" Rasmussen as President Pro Tempore. Slim has served in this body for many years. He is a practical man and one in whom I think, we all have a great deal of faith and I look forward to his service in this position. Thank you."
MOTION

On motion of Senator Vognild, the nominations for President Pro Tempore were closed.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Zimmerman, Senator McCaslin was excused.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll and Senator A. L. "Slim" Rasmussen was elected President Pro Tempore of the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 48; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator McCaslin - 1.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed Senators Moore and Newhouse as a committee of honor to escort Senator Rasmussen to the rostrum.

Justice Jim Anderson of the Washington State Supreme Court administered the oath of office to Senator Rasmussen.

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "I just want to say thank you very much and I hope I justify your confidence in me. With the harmony that has been shown, we will have less than one hundred five days. We will shorten up this session and be on our way. Thank you."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Senator Rasmussen, and other honored members of the Senate, with your approval, the President would like to thank you for choosing such an outstanding individual to be President Pro Tempore. I also wish to congratulate Senator Rasmussen and I am looking forwarding with great interest to working with you, Slim. I wish you a very successful career as President Pro Tempore.

The committee of honor escorted Senator Rasmussen to his seat in the Senate Chambers and the committee was discharged.

ELECTION OF VICE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

REMARKS BY SENATOR BENDER

Senator Bender: "Mr. President, I would like to submit the name of Senator Al Bauer for Vice President Pro Tempore of the Senate. It is a great honor for me to place in nomination the name of Senator Albert Bauer. We go back a few years when he served as the Chairman for the House Education Committee and, of course at the age of twenty-three, he became my mentor in the area of education and I appreciate the work that he has done for the kids in our state. He has also served in the House as Caucus Chair for two terms, so he has played a role of leadership in both sides of the aisle. He is a man of conviction and courage. I wish he would teach me how to win an election by seventy percent instead of the ones I have had the last few times. It is a distinct honor that I place his name in nomination and I think he will do a tremendous job and give honor to this body. Thank you."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Vognild, the nominations for Vice President Pro Tempore were closed.
ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll and Senator Albert Bauer was elected Vice President Pro Tempore of the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 48; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator McCaslin - 1.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed Senators DeJamatt and Zimmerman as a committee of honor to escort Senator Bauer to the rostrum.

Justice Jim Anderson of the Washington State Supreme Court administered the oath of office to Senator Bauer.

REMARKS BY SENATOR BAUER

Senator Bauer: "Thank you very much. It is an honor to be nominated and elected for this position. I assure you that I will follow with strict adherence to the wisdom of our President and President Pro Tempore. If he thinks we can get it done in one hundred and five days, I think we will get it done in one hundred and five days or less."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President certainly thanks the members of the Senate for once again showing such excellent judgment in choosing Senator Albert Bauer as Vice President Pro Tempore."

The committee of honor escorted Senator Bauer to his seat in the Senate Chambers and the committee was discharged.

ELECTION OF SECRETARY OF THE SENATE

The President declared nominations to be open for Secretary of the Senate.

REMARKS BY SENATOR DEJARNATT

Senator DeJamatt: "Thank you, Mr. President. I'd like to place in nomination the name of Sid Snyder for Secretary of the Senate. Sid Snyder has become a legend around the Olympia scene—part of the legislative process for the better part of forty years. He has served with distinction in the House of Representatives as assistant Chief Clerk and has been a part of the Senate for around twenty years. Sid Snyder has operated his office, I think, with great efficiency recognized by the members of this body, by the members of the press and the constituency of the Senate. He has been successful in private business and he has brought that expertise here to the marble palace. He has served us well in the past and I know he will continue. It is a great honor for me to recognize one of my larger constituents and to nominate him to continue in his distinguished career. Thank you."

REMARKS BY SENATOR NEWHOUSE

Senator Newhouse: "Mr. President, I rise also to second the nomination of Sid Snyder for our Secretary. Having known him for over twenty-two years, when he formerly served in the House, when many of us started there, he is one of the most capable men we have ever known. We really need his expertise and I am happy to second his nomination."

REMARKS BY SENATOR RASMUSSEN

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President and members of the Senate, I just couldn't let this moment go by to say, 'I second all that has been said about Secretary of the Senate Snyder.' I want to thank his wife, Bette, for letting him take the job again. He has sometimes thought that he would like to sit out here in the Senate with us. However, he is doing a far more important job for the people of the state, serving there in back of the rostrum helping Governor Cherberg and whoever happens to be in the chair. He is a strong right hand and I think it is just nice that he is willing to come along and serve for another term. Both Sid and I learned the business at the hands of Sy Holcomb, former Chief Clerk of the House, who did a tremendous job and I think that you can't get a finer person to work with than Sid Snyder. I also think, Mr. President, he has organized a very efficient staff that serves very, very well to all of us. Thank you."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Vognild, the nominations for Secretary of the Senate were closed.

ROLL CALL

The Acting Secretary called the roll and Sid Snyder was elected Secretary of the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 48; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator McCaslin - 1.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE

The President appointed Senators Bender and Johnson as a committee of honor to escort Sid Snyder to the rostrum.

Justice Jim Anderson of the Washington State Supreme Court administered the oath of office to Sid Snyder.

REMARKS BY SID SNYDER

Sid Snyder: "Governor Cherberg, Justice Anderson, Senators DeJamatt, Newhouse and Rasmussen, I want to thank you all for your kind words. I hope you are saying as kind of things one hundred and five days from now. I think Senators Rasmussen and Bauer have kind of struck the note of getting out of here in one hundred and five days. I want to assure you that myself and all the members of our staff will do everything we can to help you along the way and see that you are back in your respective districts on the one hundred sixth day or at least by the first of May. That will give you a couple of days to clean up. Thank you very kindly."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President, once again, profusely thanks you for selecting Sid Snyder as Secretary of the Senate. The President truly relies on Sid for his wonderful knowledge and ability to handle this job. I don't think anyone could have selected a better man than Sid Snyder."

The committee of honor escorted Sid Snyder to his place on the rostrum and the committee was discharged.

ELECTION OF SERGEANT AT ARMS

The President declared nominations to be open for the office of Sergeant at Arms of the Senate.

REMARKS BY SENATOR OWEN

Senator Owen: "Mr. President, I would like to place in nomination the name of Orlando Scarpelli for the office of Sergeant at Arms for the Washington State Senate. It is a great honor for me to nominate Orlando Scarpelli for the position of Sergeant at Arms of the Washington State Senate. I like to compare Mr. Scarpelli to such men that I particularly admire such as five foot, four James Madison, the little giant Steven A. Douglas and Harry Truman who was not only short, but also a haberdasher. All these men were small in size, yet tall in stature and big in accomplishment, action and energy, as I am sure Ole will be as he continues to be Sergeant at Arms for the Senate. I urge your unanimous support."
REMARKS BY SENATOR STRATTON

Senator Stratton: "Thank you, Mr. President, and ladies and gentlemen of the Senate. It is an honor for me to second the nomination of Ole Scarpelli. I didn't know that was his first name, that is what the 'O' stands for. One only has to be a newcomer in this illustrious body to appreciate the many things that Ole, as our Sergeant at Arms, does for all of us. I am sure that we have all benefited from his kindnesses, his assistance and his literally helping us as we break into the daily activities of the Senate. I think we all agree that Ole has served us well and I am sure he will continue to serve us well. I urge your support of Ole. Thank you."

REMARKS BY SENATOR DECCIO

Senator Deccio: "Thank you Mr. President. I want to tell all of you Ole 'isa nica guy and he puts on a nica Chinese dinner.' I urge all of you to vote for him. Thank you."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Bender, the nominations for Sergeant at Arms were closed.

The Secretary called the roll and Ole Scarpelli was elected Sergeant at Arms of the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 48; excused, I.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President is more than delighted to have you select Ole Scarpelli as Sergeant at Arms. Ole always does a grand job and we look forward to another very successful session."

To recede
To insist
To adhere

These motions are in order as to any single amendment or to a series of amendments.
(See Reed’s Rules 247 through 254.)

A senate bill, passed by the house with amendment or amendments which shall change the scope and object of the bill, upon being received in the senate, shall be referred to an appropriate committee and shall take the same course as for original bills, unless a motion to ask the house to recede, to insist or to adhere is made prior to the measure being referred to committee.

BILLS COMMITTED FOR SPECIAL AMENDMENT

RULE 67. A bill may be committed with or without special instructions to amend at any time before taking the final vote.

CONFIRMATION OF GUBERNATORIAL APPOINTEES

RULE 68. When the names of appointees to state offices are transmitted to the Secretary of the Senate for senate confirmation, the communication from the governor shall be recorded and referred to the appropriate standing committee.

The standing committee, or subcommittee, pursuant to rule 42, shall require each appointee referred to the committee for consideration to complete the standard questionnaire to be used to ascertain the appointee’s general background and qualifications. The committee may also require the appointee to complete a supplemental questionnaire related specifically to the qualifications for the position to which he has been appointed.

The standing committee, or subcommittees, pursuant to rule 42, shall hold a public hearing on the appointment. The appointee may be required to appear before the committee on request. When appearing, the appointee shall be required to testify under oath or affirmation. The chairman of the committee or the presiding member shall administer the oath or affirmation in accordance with RCW 44.16. (See also Article 2, Sec. 6 of the State Constitution.)

Nothing in this rule shall be construed to prevent a standing committee, or subcommittee, pursuant to rule 42, upon a two-thirds vote of its members, from holding executive sessions when considering an appointment.

When the committee on rules presents the report of the standing committee before the senate, the question shall be the confirmation of the name proposed, and the roll shall then be called and the yeas and nays entered upon the journal. In the event a message is received from the governor requesting return of an appointment or appointments to the office of the governor prior to confirmation, the senate shall vote upon the governor’s request and the appointment or appointments shall be returned to the governor if the request is approved by a majority of the senators elected. (Article 13 of the State Constitution.)

STATE OF THE STATE ADDRESS
BY GOVERNOR BOOTH GARDNER

Governor Gardner: "Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Chief Justice, distinguished Justices of the Supreme Court, members of the Legislature, honored elected officials and fellow citizens of Washington State. At 10:00 a.m., under overcast skies, on January 8, thirty people gathered on the second floor of a two-story wood frame building, off Inteurban Drive in Everett, where a little-noted event took place of some significance to the many small businesses in this state who are trying to carve out a living. That morning the state announced the commencement of the Unified Business Identifier program for businesses registered to do business in the state of Washington. What that means simply is that instead of filling out fifty-five sheets of paper, they will now only fill out five. Instead of writing five checks, they only write one. Instead of coming to Olympia to file the papers, they can go to any of fifty offices throughout the state of Washington.

"That's more than just an indication of the state's desire to serve the public, it's another but important step to promote economic development in the state of Washington. That's our mission. Our mission is to help provide jobs for people and to take care of those who are unable to work while making sure that we maintain the unique environment which is so important to every one of us. It is a mission made more difficult by the world economy in which we live. That's where this talk begins today—a discussion of the economy in which we live, a discussion of this state's major tool for fighting and giving ourselves positions and a discussion of how we might pay for this with the unique twists in that discussion.

"We live in a world economy, as well as a national economy. We see factories leaving and we see products coming back more cheaply. We see high-paying jobs disappearing from mass production facilities. We see our welfare rolls in this state expanding without the ability to finance those rolls and pay for economic development at the same time. Already over one-half the money that we spend in this state goes for public education and the school-age population in this state is about to explode again—in a state which requires full funding of education. The growth in the elderly population is placing a tremendous strain on the state's finances. This is information that every one of you in this room could cite individually, but there are additional burdens on government which do not come to mind quite as quickly.

"First, the amount of money being cycled back to state by the federal government, with the exception of welfare money, has decreased by one-third. To put that in numbers, the federal government in recent years sent $90 billion dollars back to the fifty states. That figure has now gone to $60 billion dollars and declining, a significant impact on the states and more so on local governments in the areas of law enforcement and fire. The new tax reform at the federal level severely restricts the state's ability to finance capital improvements. In a recent court decision, just last year, it says that the federal government can force the state and local governments to comply with mandates regardless of the impact on state finances. Unfair? Sure it is, but those are the conditions in which everyone of us on this floor today find ourselves, and we have no choice but to cope.

"Because of this financial stress, governors and legislators become managers—more like a corporate environment than the traditional political environment. The first thing you do when you are a manager is look at your economy. Without a healthy economy, you can't provide jobs for your people or care for those who cannot work. Government has a responsibility for the ingredients of a healthy economy. That means we have to do long-range planning built around economic development. We have to define objectives and the means for determining those objectives. For example, we must plan affordable, high-quality health care for the people of this state and we must begin to address the problem of the growing numbers of people who do not have health insurance. We must continue our commitment to the future generations that they will have clean water. We need to act this year on the major recommendations of the Puget Sound Water Quality Authority.

"Every one of us in this room knows that one way or another we pay for poverty. We are addressing that problem in this state through a bold and creative welfare reform program. The heart of that program is getting rid of the disincentives for people to go back to work. Right now it sometimes costs people more money to go back to work than to stay home and collect welfare. That's just not right. Our goal is for people to be better off working than they are staying at home.

"Now, it's no accident or political whim that education is the top priority for the coming session. The people of this state have always known the importance of education. They knew that importance in 1889 when they adopted the Constitution of this state because Article IX says, 'The paramount duty of this state will be to provide education'—the strongest language of any Constitution of any state in this country. They knew the importance of it in 1895 when the Legislature adopted the John Rogers Barefoot Schoolboy Act, which became a national standard for state educational funding. The people of this state knew it in 1972 when Washington became the first state in this country to pass the Education For All Act providing education for handicapped children. They knew it in 1977 when the Legislature passed the Basic Education Act.

"The same holds today in 1987. Our standard of living, our quality of life and our status as a leader in this world all depend on our ability to meet the dramatic challenges faced by the changing world economy. Washington State is not the first state to come to this realization. In Tennessee, ten percent of the jobs were drying up each year, meaning 200,000 people were looking for work every twelve months. Facing that problem, a Republican Governor said, 'It becomes obvious to me that growing and keeping jobs meant having good skills, so the first thing we did was focus on better schools.' In Massachusetts, a Democratic Governor said, 'We found ourselves in the pits in the '70s; we were so busy doing all kinds of other things that we kind of forgot that the economic strength and vitality of the state was fundamental to everything else we wanted to do.' Their first priority included a heavy investment in state-supported schools. From there, they turned to the usual economic development tools of industrial revenue bonds, export assistance loans, and what have you, so there is a precedent.

"What about this state? Let's begin with higher education. In this state, we have not kept pace. Why? Because in the last ten years, only eight states in this country have committed a smaller percentage of their resources to higher education than we have. Our salaries, and our equipment, and our libraries have not kept pace, and the buildings themselves are falling into a serious state of disrepair. In our community colleges this year, we are going to launch a major effort to improve adult literacy. Why? Because there are more than 270,000 individuals in this state who are functionally illiterate. That means they can't read stop signs and they can't read simple directions on a TV dinner. They have trouble holding jobs. Higher education in this state used to represent over twenty percent of the state's general fund budget. It now represents fifteen percent and if we don't step up to the problem, that percentage will continue to decrease. By some measurements, such as test scores, Washington's K-12 system is doing well, but just like the rest of the nation, the proficiency of many of our students has fallen behind that of students in those countries that compete against us for economic livelihood.

"Other measurements bring us more disturbing results. One out of every four students who enters high school this year will drop out without graduating. If you want a translation for that, it's this, more than sixty percent of our prison inmates are high school dropouts. The abuse of drugs and alcohol in high schools, even in junior highs and grade schools, is startling. Because we have not addressed these concerns at their source, it dictates how we spend our money in this state. It means we spend money on prisons and welfare instead of education and economic development. I don't think there's one of us that doesn't recognize that the best way to deal with welfare and crime is to attack the problem at its root source. There are nearly 200,000 children living at or below poverty in the state of Washington. A baby whose mother can't afford medical care or adequate food is deprived of the chance for equal opportunity long before reaching the schoolhouse door. Children whose parents can't read or write face insurmountable barriers and there's nothing natural about the progression from grade school to high school to college, so the cycle of poverty continues.

"This year, it is time to break the poverty cycle and we can do that by investing in early childhood education, in Project Even Start, which helps parents understand a little about what their children will be learning in school and other carefully defined programs. It should be a simple decision. It may cost us $3,000 a child, but when you consider that the average cost to care for an adult can run as high as $25,000 in our prisons and other institutions, it seems to me that we ought to pay now instead of paying later.

"I believe it is extremely important to every one of us that we restructure the common school system of this state. Without going into detail, our proposal focuses on how teaching colleges, working with educational leaders, can uphold the higher standards for new teachers. It focuses on how schools can reach and meet the educational needs of a greater number of students from the disadvantaged to the gifted. Specifically, and follow this if you will, we focus on the quality of schoolwide performance by increasing the responsibility of teachers and principals, by providing them resources for inservice training and development, by making school funding and compensation simpler and fairer, by holding each school, and ultimately the system, accountable so that we can show the citizens of this state—based on facts, not faith—that their money is well spent. In short, we want to remove the shackles of bureaucracy and regulation that engulf our schools and let professional creativity and initiative take over.

"Which brings me to the last part of this speech. I'm going to talk about the issue of paying for excellence. We have designed a revenue proposal which was based on four objectives: raising money for education, promoting economic development, helping local governments meet their critical needs, and broadening the tax base, so we can avoid a recurrence of the financial problems which created the problems we are attempting to solve this session.

"Every one of us knows that we have one-hundred and five days to discuss taxes, so let me take the few minutes that are left and discuss those questions which are on the public's mind. I know, because I hear them all the time. The first one: The state doesn't have a funding problem, it has a spending problem. Let's talk about that. Frankly, we have both. We have a funding problem and a spending problem, because the spending in this state is dictated to us based on the basic needs of this state. Let's be specific. Ninety percent, approximately, of the state's general fund money goes in two directions. It goes for education and human services, for enrollment and caseloads. We know that approximately fifty percent goes for K-12 education and we have designed a program to deal with that. The next fifty percent goes for higher education and that system is in a world of hurt and we are going to stand up to that this session.

"Let's be very honest with ourselves. When we talk about spending reform, we're talking about human services. In a few minutes, I will discuss one area where we are going to take a look at where we can be more effective. In the aggregate, there are some good arguments that we are not meeting the needs of human service at this juncture. I honestly don't know many people who sleep well every night knowing there are others out there going without such basic needs as medical care. I'm just here to tell you very candidly that this state will not turn its back any more on those who need help. At the same time, through welfare reform, through job training, day care and literacy programs, we will do every thing we can to help people integrate back as contributing members of this society.

"The second thing we always hear: Why don't we live within our means? We can live within our means. We can run state government exactly as it is being run today, we won't be able to make any instrumental investments in anything and we will continue to slide toward mediocrity, but we can live within our means. Let me use a business analogy with you. In business, when times are tough, you don't squirrel your money away. You invest in product improvement and you hold your market position so that you can get increased market share when the economy turns. It's no different at the state level. We need to get positioned, to make an investment and have that investment working for us.

"Now the third thing we always hear: Let's cut waste in government. That is right and we are working at that in two fronts at least, small gains and big gains. The most direct means of finding waste and inefficiency is through our employees and through the Productivity Board Program. Our employees this year alone have identified $1.5 million in savings, simple little savings. Some people at the Department of Transportation figured out a better way to make highway transportation maps and saved the state over $200,000. Two ladies in the Department of Ecology mail room saved $12,000 when they figured a better way to do their business and took on a twenty percent workload increase at the same time. Small examples, but important examples and there are many, many more just like that. Every one of us knows that the biggest savings come from the top, from new legislation and major management initiatives such as you enacted last time which allowed us to take a $225 million deficit in industrial insurance bonds and move that fund to a surplus which it has today.

"We need to continue these opportunities. The Attorney General and I have joined forces to improve the state's ability to avoid costly court judgments. Potential savings—millions. The Department of Social and Health Services is revising a major welfare program to make sure that dollars intended for food and shelter don't end up being spent for alcohol. Potential savings—millions. We will continue this vigilance of attacking waste in every way that we can. We are going to initiate a program shortly, borrowed from the state of Minnesota, called STEP, which means, simply. Strive Toward Excellence in Performance. We are currently modifying this program for our own use and plan to have it in place soon.

"The discussion of the past few minutes was intentional. We can spend the next one-hundred and five days making excuses or we can face up to the responsibility for which we were elected, which is to maintain the standard of living in this state in the highly competitive world in which we live, to stop dead in its tracks the growth of a permanent underclass, which is to make an investment in our future to assure that this state has an outstanding educational system.

"As we enter 1987, I'm reminded that twenty-five years ago the city of Seattle hosted a World's Fair that many thought would bankrupt the city of Seattle. 'Seattle couldn't afford it,' we heard. 'Let somebody else take the risks,' critics said. Well, the critics were wrong. The people of Seattle took that risk and they tackled a task which must have seemed overwhelming at the time. I offer that example as a symbol of what we can accomplish when we put our minds, our hearts and our resources together and we work for a common good.

"In two short years this state will celebrate its one-hundredth anniversary. I'd like it to be said, at that time, that Washington is truly preparing itself for the second one-hundred years—economically, educationally and environmentally. I want it said that the Legislature, all of us in state government and throughout this state, have agreed that education is the key to the success of the Twenty-First Century, and we've done something about that. I want it said that we've had the foresight to invest real money in education in the confident hope of a long-term payoff. I want it said that we, in this state, are a national leader in providing for people in need. Not simply a handout which offers no hope, but a hand up that provides real opportunity for education, training and economic independence.

"Now, in closing, someday every one of us on this floor will be gone. I don't know what you want to leave behind you, but I'll tell you what I would like to leave behind. When I am gone, I would rather leave the children of this state an opportunity for a good education than anything else I can think of.

"And finally, Mr. Jones, whoever you are, you called me on one of the many talk shows I've been on and you read me the riot act for wanting to spend money on education and you said, 'Give me the answer in your state of the state address.' Here's your answer Mr. Jones, 'If you think education is expensive, try ignorance.'"

Section 1202 of Title 18 of the United States Code prohibits convicted felons from possessing any firearm unless that person shall receive a pardon together with an expressed authorization to receive, possess, or transport firearms.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Booth Gardner, Governor of the state of Washington, do hereby pardon Norman Louis Holt from that judgment and sentence of carnal knowledge of a female child under the age of eighteen years entered on May 13, 1949, by the Superior Court of Stevens County, Washington, and do hereby authorize Norman Louis Holt to receive, possess, or transport firearms.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

VETOES AND PARTIAL VETOES

April 4, 1986

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 3110, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to business and occupation taxation."

This legislation would allow the owners of amusement devices to deduct the amounts paid to persons providing store space from the owners' gross receipts. Proponents argue that this part of the income being generated by the devices is being taxed twice under current law, once as income to the owner, and again as income to the store.

The arguments supporting this exemption are not unique to the amusement device industry; they are typical of the problems with any system of gross receipts taxation and do not justify special tax treatment. Costs of doing business are generally not deducted from gross income. There are anti-pyramiding deductions for certain activities which are jointly provided or are provided through an agent/principal arrangement. However, businesses are not allowed to deduct rental payments for the rental of real property. The legislation obscures what are two separate and taxable activities: first, the generation of income to the owner from the devices, and second, the compensation to the premise owner for the license to use real property.
In vetoing this legislation, I want to emphasize the fact that the B&O tax is inherently an unfair tax, and to address its specific shortcomings on a piecemeal basis does little to offset its basic inequities. A comprehensive evaluation and restructuring of our business tax structure is a far more desirable means of addressing this issue.

Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 3110 is vetoed in its entirety.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 23, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5044, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the Department of Agriculture."

I am vetoing section 23 because of duplicate language contained in section 1 of Substitute House Bill No. 1355.

With the exception of section 23, the remainder of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5044 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Senate Bill No. 4506, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the state board of health."

Section 1 of this bill would require the Office of Financial Management to conduct a study of the feasibility of consolidating public health and environmental health functions into a single state agency. An extensive study of this issue has already been completed, conducted by a joint committee of the Legislature. Another study of this same topic is unnecessary and would be duplicative. I have, however, directed my Executive Cabinet to review these programs and to develop a plan for a more efficient and effective alignment of public health and environmental health services.

For this reason, I have vetoed this section. With the exception of section 1, Senate Bill No. 4506 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 8, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4596, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to community health services."

Section 8 of this bill requires that the Department of Social and Health Services undertake a study of possible reorganization of the department. The Secretary of Social and Health Services has been actively evaluating agency reorganization for some time, and a great deal has already been accomplished in this effort. Also, the Secretary is available to the Legislature at any time to review the reorganization plans and receive feedback. Therefore, this study requirement is unnecessary and would be duplicative of the work already in progress. For this reason, I have vetoed section 8.

With the exception of section 8, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4596 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 2, Senate Bill No. 4712, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to public records; amending RCW 40.14.020; adding a new section to Chapter 40.14 RCW; and making an appropriation."

This bill would establish a new program to record and document the experience of former state officials. In addition, a new statutory advisory committee would be created.
I have vetoed section 2 which creates a new statutory advisory committee. After reviewing this matter, I find that the purposes and functions of this bill can be fulfilled without creating, in statute, an additional advisory body.

With the exception of section 2, Senate Bill No. 4712 is approved. Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 46(43), Substitute Senate Bill No. 4486, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to local government."

I am vetoing section 46(43) because it would repeal a section of an existing law (RCW 85.20.120) that is also amended by section 36 of this bill.

With the exception of section 46(43), the remainder of Substitute Senate Bill No. 4486 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 55, 56 and 57, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 4917, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to banks and trust companies."

Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 4917 makes certain necessary modernization and housekeeping amendments to Title 30, RCW, dealing with commercial banks. It enables the state's banking code to keep pace with a rapidly changing banking environment.

While I support the intent and main substance of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill 4917, I must take exception to sections 55, 56 and 57. These sections would require the Department of General Administration's Division of Banking to provide the Legislature with a listing of financial institutions that are designated on a "watch list" by either the Federal Reserve System or the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency.

These provisions are imprudent and their enactment would have a substantially adverse effect on the Division of Banking's ability to supervise the banks that are subject to its jurisdiction and could cause significant harm to individual institutions.

First of all, according to the state Division of Banking, neither the Federal Reserve System nor the Comptroller of the Currency maintains anything called a "watch list" as referenced in section 56. The various regulatory agencies differentiate the degree of supervisory concern among the banks they supervise based on a number of factors. Thus, the federal information referenced as a "watch list" is ambiguous.

Moreover, proposed sections 55, 56 and 57 would undercut the essential cooperation needed between federal and state bank regulatory agencies with the onset of interstate banking and a rapidly-changing banking industry. The state's Division of Banking relies on the information it receives from the federal regulatory agencies on the basis of strict confidentiality. Without this confidentiality, which would be the effect of proposed sections 55, 56 and 57, the federal agencies would undoubtedly stop sharing bank regulatory information with the state.

Finally, one of the goals of our bank regulatory system is to closely supervise those institutions that are experiencing difficulty in order to restore their soundness and avert their closure. To make public any listing of financial institutions which may be experiencing difficulties would greatly, and perhaps needlessly, undermine public confidence in those institutions. Such an erosion of public confidence would undoubtedly cause some depositors to withdraw their funds, thereby exacerbating the bank's difficulties. This would be an unintended effect of sections 55, 56 and 57.

Therefore, with the exception of sections 55, 56 and 57, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 4917 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to the second sentence of section 2, Senate Bill No. 4675, entitled:
"AN ACT Relating to motor vehicle license plates."

Senate Bill No. 4675 would authorize the Director of the Department of Licensing to develop and issue a new centennial motor vehicle plate.

Section 2 permits a fleet of motor vehicles to apply for consecutive centennial license plates if they are available. The second sentence of this section defines a fleet of motor vehicles as a group of five or more vehicles registered in the same name and whose owner has been assigned a fleet identifier code by the Department. Currently, a fleet is defined as fifteen or more vehicles by administrative rule. Decreasing the number of vehicles in a fleet will create a significantly increased workload for the Department and the County Auditors, particularly because all fleet vehicles must be registered in December of each year and no funds were provided for the increased workload.

With the exception of the second sentence of section 2, Senate Bill No. 4675 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to a portion of section I, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4815, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to appropriations for projects recommended by the Public Works Board."

Substitute Senate Bill No. 4815 appropriated $17,052,093 to the Public Works Board from the Public Works Assistance Account for specific public works projects.

A proviso was attached to section I (page 1, lines 9 through 15) that prohibits public works loans from being made by the Public Works Board for projects in jurisdictions where the public utility tax, imposed by RCW 82.16.020, on refuse haulers cannot be passed through to the individuals who receive the service.

I have vetoed this proviso for two reasons. First, if the proviso is enacted, those jurisdictions that prohibit the pass-through could not receive the needed project loans as they have anticipated. The funds are available and should be distributed as planned so that the affected jurisdictions can initiate their construction projects in a timely manner. Further, the public utility tax imposed on refuse haulers has been replaced with a business and occupation tax and a retail sales tax with my approval of Substitute House Bill No. 1447, making this proviso ineffective and unnecessary. For this reason, I have vetoed the proviso in section I (page 1, lines 9 through 15).

With the exception of the section I proviso located on page 1, lines 9 through 15, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4815 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to one portion, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4572, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to shoreline management."

Section 1(3)(e)(vii) of this bill, on page 5, lines 22 through 26, would increase from $2,500 to $6,500 the value of shoreline docks exempted from the permit requirement of the Shoreline Management Act.

The change proposed to the definition in section 1(3)(e)(vii) would provide a blanket exemption from the permit and public review process for any dock with a value of up to $6,500. Since docks of this value can have a substantial impact on the environment, create neighborhood conflicts and interfere with navigation, I do not believe such an exemption from the process is appropriate. I am therefore vetoing this portion of Substitute Senate Bill No. 4572.

With the exception of section 1(3)(e)(vii), Substitute Senate Bill No. 4572 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.
To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 2, Senate Bill No. 4691, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the definition of child for industrial insurance purposes."

Section 2 of this bill would create a Chiropractic Advisory Committee to assist the Director of Labor and Industries. Boards, commissions, committees, task forces and similar entities have proliferated in this state, now numbering over 400 such bodies.

State agencies, moreover, generally have the authority to create ad hoc advisory groups as the need arises. This authority makes it unnecessary to create advisory boards in statute.

A Chiropractic Advisory Board to advise the Department of Labor and Industries already exists, created by the department by rule. The committee proposed in this legislation would expire on June 30, 1987; the existing committee can -- and probably should -- continue past that date. Furthermore, the existing committee can undertake the tasks specified in section 2 of this bill.

For these reasons, I have vetoed section 2.

With the exception of section 2, Senate Bill No. 4691 is approved.

Respectfully submitted.

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 10 and a portion of section 6, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4590, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to local government."

I fully support the intent of this legislation. It will provide local governments an additional opportunity to maximize the yield on their investments as well as provide the increased protection for public funds. However, language contained in section 10 would unduly restrict local governments' investment options. The repurchase agreement is a valuable cash management tool, the use of which should not be restricted without a corresponding benefit to local governments. The intent of section 10 would appear to be to require the delivery of securities to control of the local entity. However, failure to define the term "agent" renders this section meaningless and extraneous to the legislation. Therefore, I am vetoing section 10.

The last portion of section 6 after the word "Provided" is vetoed. This language conflicts with provisions of section 14 and would create confusion in the administration of the Act.

With the exception of a portion of section 6 and all of section 10, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4590 is approved.

Respectfully submitted.

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 5, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 4725, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to accountancy."

The intent of the new language in section 5 is to create a new fund in the state treasury for receipt of all fees collected by the Board of Accountancy. Unfortunately, the new account is not properly created. Additionally, there is no appropriation from the new account. If this language is not vetoed, all the fees which currently go into the Certified Public Accountant Examination Account would be diverted to the new account. Because the account is improperly created and there is no appropriation, failure to veto this section would leave the Board without operating funds. For these reasons, I am vetoing section 5.

With the exception of section 5, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 4725 is approved.

Respectfully submitted.

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 6, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3636, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to insurance."
This legislation accomplishes two things: it equalizes the premium tax rates between domestic and foreign insurers, and it provides a mechanism so that the Office of the Insurance Commissioner is funded by fees collected from the entities regulated by the Commissioner.

Section 6 states the purpose for imposing the fees is to "increase and improve the staff of the insurance commissioner." While it is certainly a top priority to ensure that the Commissioner has increased staff to properly regulate insurance companies in this time of increasing rates, the move to self-fund the office was not solely for the purposes stated in section 6. The funds provided by the fees imposed on commercial insurers, health care service contractors and health maintenance organizations will be the sole basis of funding the existing staff as well as any new staff authorized by the Legislature. For this reason, I have vetoed section 6 of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3636.

With the exception of section 6, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 3636 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to one portion, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 4790, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to sludge."

The last sentence of this bill requires the Department of Ecology to submit a report to the Legislature by January 1, 1987, regarding its implementation of "this chapter."

Although it appears that the intent of this language is to require a report on the implementation of this bill, the language legally requires a report on the entire Solid Waste Management chapter of the State Code.

To avoid any confusion, I have vetoed this sentence and have directed the Department to report to the Legislature by next January 1, regarding implementation of the bill.

With the exception of this sentence, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 4790 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 4 and 12, Engrossed Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 4626, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to the housing trust fund; and adding a new chapter to Title 43 RCW."

Section 4 of the bill allocates funds from the Housing Trust Fund to the Department of Community Development to administer the act. Until a financing source is established, the act Is merely a statement of intent without fiscal impact. I am vetoing this section because the allocation of funds is premature.

The advisory committee established in section 12 is no longer appropriate to the legislation as passed. The composition of the advisory committee should be based on the selection of the source of funding for the trust fund and the affected parties. Once the sources of funding are determined, an advisory committee representing those sources should be established.

While I am vetoing section 12, I will request the Director of the Department of Community Development to work with the appropriate committees of the Legislature in their efforts to evaluate emerging low-income housing needs and potential sources of revenue for the Housing Trust Fund.

With the exception of sections 4 and 12, Engrossed Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 4626 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 103(6), 201(2)(f), 206(5), 207(1), 209(2), 211(9) and 701(2), Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 4762 entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to fiscal matters."

The provisions I have vetoed and the reasons therefore are as follows:
Sections 103(6), 206(5) and 209(2) place significant and specific unfunded study requirements on various agencies. While each of the study topics warrant investigation, it is unreasonable to mandate such significant efforts without consideration of costs.

Section 201(2)(f) provides funds to reopen Firlands Correction Center. Firlands was closed as a result of programmatic and fiscal considerations which have not changed. The funds provided are insufficient to cover the cost of operating the facility in accordance with state standards.

Section 207(1) would prohibit responsible action by the Department of Social and Health Services to prevent the spread of AIDS.

Section 211(9) provides state General Fund monies to reimburse local fire districts for fire fighting services rendered on Department of Game lands. While I support reimbursement of local fire districts for services provided to state agencies, this cost is properly an obligation of the Department of Game and its dedicated funds. Financial segregation of Game Department activities should be continued until the Department is brought under executive control and a thorough review of its finances and programs indicates General Fund supplementation is appropriate.

Section 701(2) provides that monies from an existing appropriation to the Emergency Fund may be spent for law enforcement and social service problems arising from Expo '86. If the problems addressed by section 701(2) constitute an emergency, I will consider an allocation from the Emergency Fund. Otherwise, the Legislature should provide for these needs with a direct appropriation rather than limiting my ability to meet critical needs in state government.

In addition to the explanation of these vetoes, a comment is necessary regarding section 812. This section of the supplemental budget provides $210,000 from the General Fund and $210,000 in federal Game Funds for the purposes of rehabilitation work on the Barnaby Slough steelhead rearing pond. State funding for this project was terminated in 1981. The people of Skagit County have undertaken tremendous volunteer efforts to keep this project going and to preserve the steelhead resources of the area. Countless hours of labor and approximately $10,000 has been donated toward the operation of Barnaby Slough. It is only because of this impressive community effort that I am approving this provision. My decision to allow use of General Fund monies for this project should not be considered a precedent for any future General Fund support of the Game Department. The Department and the Commission should understand that access to these taxpayer funds will require the highest level of public accountability. The Department cannot have it both ways. If it wants to remain free of executive oversight, it should not have access to general taxpayer funds. The public has a proper right to far greater oversight of an agency to which its general tax dollars are allocated.

With the exception of sections 103(6), 201(2)(f), 206(5), 207(1), 209(2), 211(9) and 701(2), Engrossed Senate Substitute Bill No. 4762 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 2(2), Substitute Senate Bill No. 4418, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to irrigation."

Substitute Senate Bill No. 4418 is an important piece of legislation that maintains the state's strong commitment to the timely completion of the Yakima Irrigation enhancement project. The work on the Yakima project should proceed as called for in the bill.

The legislation also restates the Department of Agriculture's legitimate role as an advocate of water resources projects needed to help meet future agricultural water needs, and seeks to preserve the state's option to participate in the second half of a feasible Columbia Basin irrigation project.

Section 2 requires the Department of Agriculture to establish a committee to study water supply availability in the Columbia Basin area and make a preliminary report to the Governor and Legislature by January 1, 1987, with the final report by January 1, 1988.

The primary objective of the study is to develop a formal process to enable the state to maintain its option to participate in a feasible Columbia Basin project.

The Federal Bureau of Reclamation is in the initial stages of preparing its required Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) on the second half of the Columbia Basin project. The draft EIS is scheduled to be available for review and comment in December 1986, and will require a state response. The study timetable called for in section 2(2) could place the state in the untenable position of having to respond to the EIS and indicate a preferred project alternative as much as one full year in advance of completion of its own study.

Therefore, I am vetoing section 2(2) and asking the Director of the Department of Agriculture to develop a time schedule for activities, including dates for preliminary and final reports, and to inform the Legislature of the timetable. The timetable for the Columbia Basin water availability study should be consistent with the schedule for the Bureau of Reclamation's Environmental Impact Statement. That schedule calls for the draft EIS to be available for review in December 1986.

The committee specifically called for in section 2(1) would contain a number of key interest groups vital to the Columbia Basin project decision-making process. Other equally important interests—local government, recognized environmental organizations and Indian tribes—are absent. I am asking the Director of the Department of Agriculture to review the composition of the committee and to make certain that the entire range of interests and organizations necessary to make timely, objective decisions on appropriate participation in the Columbia Basin Project serve on the committee. The committee shall establish and maintain communications with the Governor and the Legislature.

A number of the issues identified for study in section 2(1) have already been at least partially addressed in past studies or ongoing assessments conducted by the state, the Bureau of Reclamation, the Bonneville Power Administration or the Northwest Power Planning Council. Section 2(1)(1) instructs the committee not to duplicate data being developed by the Bureau of Reclamation in its Environmental Impact Statement process. I am further directing the Department to ensure that the committee extends the mandate to avoid duplication, including duplication of previous or ongoing studies, to all elements of the study, not just those items enumerated in section 2(1)(1).

With the exception of section 2(2), Substitute Senate Bill 4418 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 9(b), Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3182, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to retirement from public service."

Section 9(b) appropriates $2,800,000 for contribution to the pension trust fund for this biennium. The fiscal impact for the remaining provisions of this measure is $1,200,000 and therefore the appropriated amount is excessive.

The Department of Retirement Systems, in consultation with the Office of the State Actuary, will revise the employer contribution rate for the Public Employees and Teachers Systems so as to assure the appropriate cost of this legislation is collected by the system during this biennium.

With the exception of section 9(b), Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 3182 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1(6), Senate Bill No. 3397, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to game and game fish."

Section 1(6) of this bill would direct to the Game Fund, rather than to the Public Safety and Education fund, reimbursements to the state for the value of game animals taken illegally. These reimbursements were directed to the Public Safety and Education Fund by the 1984 Court Reform Act, which did away with a very cumbersome system of separate accounting for numerous small special purpose court collections. The unified and simplified system now in place is vastly superior to its predecessor. The change contemplated by this subsection would be a step backward toward the old system. Moreover, the change is unnecessary because the Game Department receives appropriations from the Public Safety and Education Fund.

For this reason, I have vetoed section 1(6) of Senate Bill No. 3397.

Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 1, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 4705, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to communications with minors for immoral purposes."
Minors should be protected from exposure to sexually explicit material. Unfortunately, the language used in section 1 of this measure is both broad and unclear, and poses serious problems for libraries. Library staff would have to begin policing minors who use their facilities, and this is not an appropriate role. Unfortunately, provisions which would have exempted libraries and their staff from having to enforce this provision were deleted from the bill.

Selection of books for public libraries has historically been the responsibility of local library boards. I am satisfied this system continues to provide adequate safeguards for communities. Additionally, there are materials used by professional counselors and caseworkers in working with sexually abused children which may be suspect under this section.

Also, the definition of "minor" in section 1 is changed to age eighteen, which puts it in conflict with RCW 9.68A.110 -- the defense section to RCW 9.68A.050 -- which still refers to the age of a minor as sixteen. This will create serious problems and make the law unenforceable.

With the exception of section 1, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 4705 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 1(4), 1(7) in part 2 and 16, Engrossed Senate Bill 4620, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to retail trading practices in the sale of motor vehicle fuels."

This legislation creates a separate franchise law that regulates the business relationship between motor fuel refiner-suppliers and motor fuel retailers.

The Legislature has devoted substantial time and effort to examining allegations that the major oil companies are employing predatory pricing and other unfair practices against the independent lessee-dealers to whom they supply gasoline and other products. These allegations are occurring during a period when the nature of retail gasoline marketing is undergoing significant changes. Preserving a market niche for independent lessee-dealers in this changing environment has been a major concern of the Legislature. Accordingly, Senate Resolution 1985-92 created a Select Committee to investigate these allegations and to submit its findings and recommendations to the Legislature. This legislation is largely a product of the Select Committee's work.

The Select Committee's findings are reflected in the major components of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 4620: (1) recognition and protection of lessee-dealers' franchise rights, (2) prohibitions against certain unfair trade practices and provision of legal remedies to address violations, (3) authorization for a study by the Attorney General to determine whether motor fuel refiner-suppliers are employing unfair price discrimination between their owner-operated retail outlets and their lessee-dealers in the wholesale price charged for fuel, and (4) prohibitions against motor fuel refiner-suppliers unfairly discriminating in the wholesale price of fuel charged to their motor-fuel retailers in the same five-mile marketing area.

I have carefully considered all of these elements, and I support essentially all but those provisions relating to refiner-supplier price discrimination against lessee-dealers in the same marketing area, as contained in section 2 of the legislation. While I can appreciate this as a thoughtful attempt to establish a way to address alleged unfair pricing practices, I am not convinced that section 2 is a workable means for ensuring a competitive gasoline market that protects the lessee-dealers or benefits the consumers.

Therefore, I am vetoing section 2, as well as section 1(4) which defines the "marketing area" applicable to section 2, and a portion of section 1(7) that exempts certain "motor fuel refiner-suppliers" from the jurisdiction of this legislation.

In addition, since no administrative remedies are provided in this legislation, I am also vetoing section 16 which is an unneeded reference to the Administrative Procedure Act.

I will be awaiting the results of the Attorney General's investigation of alleged unfair wholesale price discrimination employed by refiner-suppliers between their owner-operated stations and their independent lessee-dealers. This effort is to be completed by December 1, 1986. The civil investigative demand powers of the Attorney General should be effective in evaluating these alleged practices, which were the genesis of the Legislature's concern but which they were unable to document. Until these results are available, the legislation as approved should provide substantial protection for the investments and franchise rights of lessee-dealers.

With the exception of sections 1(4), 1(7) in part 2 and 16, Engrossed Senate Bill 4620 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

April 4, 1986
To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 2(8), Substitute Senate Bill No. 4627, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to cigarette wholesalers and retailers."

I strongly agree with the intent of Substitute Senate Bill No. 4627 to "increase competition by reducing government's role in price setting" of cigarettes. I believe that increased market competition benefits the consumer.

I also agree that the Unfair Cigarette Below Cost Act, the current law which is amended by this bill, should not be terminated in June 1986. Rather, I favor a phase-out of state cigarette price regulation as proposed in Substitute Senate Bill No. 4627, allowing the market to adjust to free market practices over a five-year period. State regulation would then terminate completely in 1991. This approach is consistent with the Legislative Budget Committee's conclusion in its mandated study of the Unfair Cigarette Below Cost Act. "that Chapter 19.91 RCW be extended in its current form and then be automatically phased out over a five-year period."

However, I'm concerned over a potential problem created by the bill's inconsistent treatment of cigarette manufacturers' discounts. Section 2(8) of the bill deletes the provision in current law which specifically authorizes wholesalers to pass cigarette manufacturers' cash discounts through to the retailer. Deleting this express authority granted to wholesalers in section 2(8) of the current law appears to create an ambiguity with regard to section 2(10) which is retained in current law by this bill. Section 2(10) specifies how the retailer shall account to the Department of Revenue for discounts received from cigarette wholesalers. The Department of Revenue would probably be required to rule on this ambiguity with the potential for litigation to resolve the issue.

As a policy matter, if wholesalers are not allowed to pass manufacturers' discounts to retailers, contrary to current law, the effect would be to increase the mandatory wholesale price of cigarettes. This situation would be entirely inconsistent with the intent of Substitute Senate Bill No. 4627, and the Legislative Budget Committee's recommendation, to deregulate state price controls.

In considering a veto of section 2(8), I recognize that the current law pertaining to the treatment of manufacturers' discounts does not have the same effect on all segments of the cigarette wholesaling industry. Nonetheless, the current law has been in effect since 1984, which has already provided a period for the industry to adjust to the discount provision. I believe that the interests of the consumer are best served by retaining the discount provisions of current law, and continuing the move towards market pricing for cigarettes. Therefore, I am vetoing section 2(8) of Substitute Senate Bill No. 4627, which restores the provisions of current law regarding manufacturers' discounts.

With the exception of section 2(8), Substitute Senate Bill No. 4627 has been approved.

Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to sections 1 and 2 in part of Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 4305, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to bail bonds."

This bill makes a number of changes relating to the legal processes for providing bail and appearance bonds.

Section 1 of this bill would relieve sureties of the responsibility of insuring the appearance of bonded defendants through the entire court hearing process by releasing the sureties' liability at conviction. Sureties would no longer remain liable until the sentencing hearing. This section reverses an effective long-standing policy. This section would also require that the defendant obtain a new bond for the period of time between conviction and sentencing with a resultant additional costs. If the defendant did not or could not get a new bond, the county would have to house the defendant in jail. These changes are undesirable from the standpoint of both the defendant and the county. Currently, the sureties can protect their interests by advising the court that a defendant will flee if found guilty and the bond should not be extended.

In section 2, I am vetoing the change proposed in the first sentence. The portion of section 2 that I am vetoing is the statement "or an amount less than that stated in the bond if recommended by the prosecuting attorney and approved by the court or approved by the court of its own motion." This change would allow a court to reduce the size of the forfeiture that must be made when the defendant fails to appear at court. Reducing the face value of the bond when the defendant fails to appear could undermine the incentive to bring defendants to justice, thereby weakening the criminal justice process.
For these reasons I have vetoed sections 1 and 2 in part of Re-engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 4305.

With the exception of the vetoed sections, Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 4305 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

April 4, 1986

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to part of section 1, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4525, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to legal representation of the legislature."

The Attorney General presently represents all the branches of government in Washington State — the Legislature, the Executive and the Judiciary. This bill would allow the Legislature, the House, the Senate, or any committee or entity which hires its own staff to retain council of their own choosing to represent them in judicial and administrative proceedings. This is a substantial policy change.

The portion of section 1 which I am vetoing results in limiting the authority to retain counsel to the House of Representatives and the Senate together. This allows the Legislature as an institution to retain counsel. Without this limitation, I believe this authority to hire counsel would be too broad.

With the exception of the language in section 1 granting the House, the Senate and the committees or entities of the Legislature which hire their own staff the authority to retain separately legal counsel, I am signing Substitute Senate Bill No. 4525.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

Referred to Committee on Rules.

To the Honorable, the Senate
of the State of Washington
Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval of sections 18 and 24, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4779, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to auctions."

The intent of this legislation is to retain the current licensing and bonding and trust accounts systems for auctioneers and add consumer protection by establishing standards for certain business practices and declaring that deviations from these practices constitute violations of the Consumers Protection Act.

Auctioneering is a growing industry in this state. The rapid growth of such service industries in which the service provider has substantial responsibilities for handling the merchandise and cash flow of clients frequently creates the potential for abuse. This legislation is intended to put in place appropriate protections for consumers before such abuses become a serious problem.

Section 18 of this legislation would establish a new Disciplinary Review Committee. This disciplinary committee is premature and would have no enforcement powers.

Section 24 of this legislation would forbid any regulation of auctioneers by cities and counties. This may interfere with the power of local governments to require business licenses and the payment of business taxes.

For the above reasons, sections 18 and 24 are vetoed.

With the exception of sections 18 and 24, Substitute Senate Bill No. 4779 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

To the Honorable, the Senate

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to section 2(3) and section 3(1), (2) and (4), Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 3487, entitled:

"AN ACT Relating to energy consumption in state agencies."

I have vetoed the amendatory language “and the total cost to accomplish those measures which are not included” from the last sentence in section 2(3). This language would require explanatory information regarding items not included in the biennial budget request. Such a provision would be contrary to traditional budgetary practice.
I have also vetoed 3(1), (2) and (4) which would require the Office of Financial Management to develop guidelines for budgeting and implementation of state agency energy conservation initiatives. It would be inappropriate for the Office of Financial Management to be involved in such detailed operational matters. Agency management must be allowed to prioritize among competing state goals if they are to be held accountable for achieving the desired results. Notwithstanding these vetoed provisions, I will direct the Office of Financial Management to develop budget guidelines for energy related items.

With the exception of section 2(3) and section 3(1), (2) and (4), Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 3487 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

BOOTH GARDNER, Governor

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Senator Talmadge, this is reported to be a housekeeping bill that would make rather technical changes in the law only or is there any substitutive language in it?"

Senator Talmadge: "I think Senator, you could say that it's a technical bill, but yet there is a substitutive provision, for example, that is cited in the bill description that you have before you. Substitutive in this sense, that it required a police chief of a municipality to prosecute violations of city ordinances before a police judge. The only problem is, we have eliminated the terminology of police judges and I do not think it is appropriate, for example, for a prosecuting function to be performed by

Senator Vognild: "Senator Nelson, is it your intent with the definition of 'executive action' here that the action be the movement of a bill, resolution, etc. to the body for action? In other words, 'executive action' defined as voting to pass a bill out, refer it to rules and that type of thing?"

Senator Nelson: "Yes, it is."

Senator Vognild: "Then it is not your intention that 'executive action' would cover the filing of a report if it was required by this body or the setting of an agenda of this type?"

Senator Nelson: "No it would not."

POINT OF INQUIRY

this body creates a committee or directs a committee to do something. I am refer-ing to the WPPSS study. In that case, we had our own budget, the authority to hire and fire and issue subpoenas. This rule would not prohibit a select body or a standing committee from taking those kinds of actions?"

Senator Nelson: "No, it would not."

adoption of the amendments by Senator Nelson.

However, a legislator does not have a personal interest which is in conflict with the proper discharge of legislative duties if no benefit or detriment accrues to the legislator as a member of a business, profession, occupation, or group, to a greater extent than to any other member of such business, profession, occupation, or group.

CODE OF ETHICS

In order to maintain legislative integrity and secure the public interest the following Code of Ethics is adopted for legislators:

(a) Actions which destroy independence of judgment as a legislator:

(1) A legislator shall not vote on or influence legislation in committee or on the floor of either house, where the legislator has a personal interest which is in conflict with the proper discharge of legislative duties.

(2) A legislator shall not accept any gratuity or compensation for services rendered in connection with legislative employment other than legislative salary.

(3) A legislator shall not ask, receive, or agree to receive anything of value upon any understanding that the legislator’s vote, opinion, judgment, or action will be influenced thereby.

(4) A legislator shall not solicit, receive, or accept a gift, favor or service under circumstances where it could be reasonably inferred that such action would influence the legislator in the discharge of legislative duties, or was a reward.

(5) A legislator shall not accept any remuneration other than legislative compensation for legislative advice or assistance.

(6) A legislator shall not appear before any department of state government for compensation that is contingent upon action by that department of state government unless the fee is set or approved by that department.

(b) Actions which involve undue influence upon any state agency, court, or governmental subdivision:

(1) A legislator shall not represent clients for compensation in proceedings or hearings before state agencies, boards or commissions involving claims of state employees.
(2) A legislator, singularly or through others, shall not use or attempt to use improper means to influence a state agency, board or commission.

(3) A legislator may use an official title or stationery in connection with a matter or proceeding before a state agency, board or commission, only if done without compensation, in connection with legislative duties.

(4) A legislator shall not represent any claimant for compensation in any claim placed before the legislature.

(5) A legislator shall not receive compensation for an appearance before a state agency as an expert witness.

(c) Actions which constitute an abuse of official position or a violation of public trust:

(1) A legislator shall not accept employment, or engage in any business, or be involved in any activity which one might reasonably expect would require the disclosure of privileged information gained by virtue of holding legislative office.

(2) A legislator shall not enter into any contract with a state agency involving services or property, unless the contract is made after public notice and competitive bidding; except in cases where public notice and competitive bidding are not required, the contract or agreement shall be filed with the Board of Ethics.

EMPLOYEE RESTRICTIONS

RULE 2. Section 1. A legislative employee shall not accept any gratuity or compensation for services rendered in connection with legislative employment other than legislative salary. Section 2. A legislative employee shall not use or attempt to use the employee's official position to (1) personally obtain any privilege, exemption, special treatment or any other thing of value, or (2) obtain any such benefit for others except as required to perform duties within the scope of employment.

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

The Honorable,
President of the Senate
The Legislature of the State of Washington
Olympia, Washington

Mr. President:

As required by Article II, Section 1, of the State Constitution and RCW 29.79.200, we herewith respectfully transmit the certification of the sufficiency of Initiative to the Legislature 92, a copy of the full, true and complete text of which was certified to you on January 12, 1987.

Sincerely,
RALPH MUNRO, Secretary of State

CERTIFICATION OF INITIATIVE TO THE LEGISLATURE 92

Pursuant to Article II, Section 1 of the Washington State Constitution, RCW 29.79-.200, and WAC 434-79-010, the office of the Secretary of State has caused the signatures submitted in support of Initiative to the Legislature 92 to be examined in the following manner:

1) It was determined that 219,716 signatures were submitted by the sponsors thereof. A random sample of 15,779 signatures was taken from those submitted;

2) Each sampled signature was examined to determine the following: a) if the signer was a registered voter of the state at the address indicated on the petition; b) if the signature was reasonably similar to the one appearing on the record of that voter; c) if the same signature appeared more than once in the sample. We found 13,999 valid signatures, 1,689 signatures invalid due to non-registration or improper form, and 91 pairs of duplicated signatures in the sample;

3) We calculated an allowance for the chance error of sampling (62) by multiplying the square root of the number of invalid signatures by 1.5;

4) We estimated the upper limit of the number of signatures on the initiative petition which were invalid (24,382) by dividing the sum of the number of invalid signatures in the sample and the allowance for the chance error of sampling by the sampling ratio;

5) We determined the maximum allowable number of pairs of signatures on the petition (29,087) by subtracting the sum of 110% of the number of signatures required by Article II, section 1 of the Washington State Constitution (166,247) and the estimate of the upper limit of the number of invalid signatures on the petition from the number of signatures submitted;

6) We determined the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample (150) by multiplying the square of the sampling ratio by the maximum allowable number of pairs of signatures on the initiative petition;

7) We determined the acceptable number of pairs of signatures in the sample (129) by subtracting 1.65 times the square root of the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample from the expected number of pairs of signatures in the sample; and

8) Since the number of pairs of signatures in the sample is less than the acceptable number of pairs of signatures in the sample, I hereby declare Initiative to the Legislature 92 to be sufficient.
IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the state of Washington to be affixed this fifteenth day of January, A.D., 1987.

(Seal)

RALPH MUNRO, Secretary of State

MOTION

On motion of Senator Vognild, the rules were suspended, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 8402 was advanced to third reading, the second reading consid­ered the third, and the resolution was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Senator Vognild, my question is on page 2, lines 9 through 12, where the resolution says that 'April 6, 1987, shall be the last day to read in com­mittee reports except budgets and matters necessary to implement budgets from the Ways and Means Committee.' That language seems somewhat vague and I was wondering if it was your intention that that would include any bill that has any fiscal impact whatsoever?"

Senator Vognild: "No, Senator, it does not. In fact, we changed the language hoping to tighten it up. If you will recall, the previous language was 'bills related to the budget.' That left open most any bill that had a fiscal impact. This is confined to bills that are necessary to implement the budget."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of Sep­enate Concurrent Resolution No. 8402.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 8402 was adopted on a voice vote.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Vognild, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 8402 was ordered immediately transmitted to the House of Representatives.

MOTION

At 10:15 a.m., on motion of Senator Vognild, the Senate adjourned until 10:00

JOHN A. CHERBERG, President of the Senate.

SID SNYDER, Secretary of the Senate.
The Senate was called to order at 10:00 a.m. by President Cherberg. The Secretary called the roll and announced to the President that all Senators were present except Senators Fleming and Rasmussen. On motion of Senator Bender, Senators Fleming and Rasmussen were excused.

The Sergeant at Arms Color Guard, consisting of Pages Holly Hirshfield and Matthew Chapman presented the Colors. Reverend Peter Mans, pastor of the Christian Reformed Church of Olympia, offered the prayer.

MOTION
On motion of Senator Vognild, the reading of the journal of the previous day was dispensed with and it was approved.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5016, by Senators Newhouse, Talmadge, Halsan and West (by request of Statute Law Committee)

Revising terminology resulting from the Rules of Appellate Procedure.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 5016 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf: "Senator Talmadge, I am not on the Judiciary Committee this year and I am really interested in this bill. I would like you to give us an example. I am really nervous about judge's rulings overruling our law and I am really concerned about that. I have a feeling that this is a case that if I really understood it thoroughly, and I had been on the Judiciary Committee, I wouldn't be concerned because I don't think they are writing law.

"I would like you to give an example of the kind of thing we are doing, and you know me pretty well and my views, are there any there that I would object to where they are going a little bit beyond and making the ruling that gets into law?"

Senator Talmadge: "I don't think so, Senator Metcalf. To be specific for example, right now there are really two forms of appellate review of earlier cases. There is appeal that is a matter of right where a judgment has actually been entered and there is something that is called discretionary review where somebody is appealing from say, a decision about whether or not you can have access to this kind of record or that kind of record. The statute talks in terms of an appeal in both instances. That was not intended. It was meant to be actual appeals when a judgment is entered, but discretionary review in other circumstances, so the courts can kind of look at the circumstance to see if it is something that is all that significant that it requires their involvement in what the lower court did.

"The language is basically something that has been used in the rules for about ten years now. I don't think there is anything of a substitutive nature that we are talking about. We retain for ourselves the right to set the time periods and all of the other more important requirements of the appeals process. The only thing I can think of is basically that kind of differentiation between appeals is a matter of right on discretionary review and that is something I think is appropriate. We have sanctioned it before."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Senate Bill No. 5016.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Senate Bill No. 5016 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 45; nays, 2; excused, 2.

Voting nay: Senators Barr, Deccio - 2.

There being no objection, the President advanced the Senate to the eighth order of business.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Newhouse, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 5017 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lee: "I wonder if someone might yield to a question on this issue? I realize this sounds like a trivia question. Nevertheless, what we are finally doing in our laws is changing the term 'Justice of the Peace' to 'District Court Judge' which we have used in all our recent legislation relating to salaries and so on. It is a good idea, because we want to be sure that they do get their salaries and it is proper. Do you have any idea where that original term 'Justice of the Peace' came from? I think maybe some people might be interested to know where that ancient and well-worn term comes from."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Lee, I don't know if it predates 'The Law West of the Pecos' or had something to do with mining law, but it was something that the West developed."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Senate Bill No. 5017.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Senate Bill No. 5017 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 46; absent, 2; excused, 1.

Absent: Senators Kreidler, Rinehart - 2.

Excused: Senator Rasmussen - 1.

SENATE BILL NO. 5017, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

MOTION

At 10:18 a.m., on motion of Senator Vognild, the Senate adjourned until 12:00 noon, Thursday, January 22, 1987.

Senator Warnke: "We heard the bill three times during the last session of the Legislature and heard the bill once more during the interim period. The bill has been heard four times so far in our committee."
Senator Vognild: "Senator, I would like to continue a little bit. Would you feel comfortable that your staff is quite well versed in the legalities of the bill?"
Senator Warnke: "I certainly hope they are."
Senator Vognild: "One last question, Senator, with the bill going to your committee, there seems to be some concern whether you would have a hearing. Would you, in fact, call a hearing on this bill?"
Senator Warnke: "I think that during the last session of the Legislature, we tried to hold a hearing on every bill that had any major importance at all and the same thing would happen this time."
Senator Vognild: "Thank you."

INTRODUCTION AND FIRST READING OF HOUSE BILL

HCR 4401 by Representatives Jacobsen, Nelson and P. King

Extending the joint select committee on telecommunications.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Vognild, the rules were suspended, House Concurrent Resolution No. 4401 was advanced to second reading and placed on the second reading calendar.

There being no objection, the President advanced the Senate to the sixth order of business.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5062, by Senators Talmadge, Newhouse, Halsan and Rasmussen (by request of Washington State Patrol)

Establishing information from another officer as probable cause to stop suspected traffic violators.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 5062 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Barr: "Senator Talmadge might want to comment in response to my concern about this bill. In thinking back about all of the court proceedings and the involvement about the breathalyzer test, for example, how hard it was to really get a conviction, I am inclined not to support this bill because of the potential for challenges in court and what would really be the end result in this. There has been quite a movement on to lessen court cases, but I am inclined to oppose this bill because it would open that door and not accomplish what we think it might. Senator Talmadge might want to respond to this, or someone else."

Senator Talmadge: "In response to Senator Barr's question, Mr. President, the purpose of this solely relates to the issue of probable cause to arrest. Understand that under present law, if an officer observes a traffic infraction or misdemeanor in progress, then the officer doesn't have to have a warrant to arrest, they can simply detain the individual. Under ordinary circumstances, the officer has to have a warrant to arrest someone just as an officer has to have a search warrant or something like that. Under this bill, this says that if an officer sees a traffic infraction or a misdemeanor in progress and is unable to arrest that individual, they could, for example, radio to another officer and say, 'This guy is cruising through town at one-hundred miles per hour, can you stop him?' If that guy were to slow down to the speed limit, the second officer couldn't, under present law, detain them even though the other officer had called and said this guy has been doing one-hundred before. Or, an officer in an aircraft observing someone on the street going one-hundred miles an hour, the officer in the aircraft would have to be the one to detain them and obviously, that can't be the case physically. This bill permits the officers to, in effect, advise other officers that someone has been in violation of a traffic infraction or misdemeanor and allows the second officer to stop them without the necessity of a warrant or having seen or been around the actual commission of the violation in progress. It does not take away from the requirement that the officer who observed the violation of law, be in court and testify to the fact that someone had violated the law."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Newhouse: "Senator Talmadge, is it the intent then that both officers in a situation that you just described, must be in court or just one in prosecuting the case?"
Senator Talmadge: "My understanding Senator, is that only the person who saw the violation take place need be there."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Senate Bill No. 5062.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Senate Bill No. 5062 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 37; nays, 8; absent, 1; excused, 3.

Voting yea: Senators Bailey, Bauer, Bender, Bluechel, Bottiger, Cantu, Conner, Craswell, Decio, DeJarnatt, Gaspard, Halsan, Hayner, Kiskaddon, Kreidler, McDonald, Metcalf, Moore, Nelson, Newhouse, Owen, Patterson, Pullen, Rasmussen, Rinehart, Saling, Seilar, Smitherman, Stratton, Talmadge, Tanner, Vognild, von Reichbauer, Warnke, Williams, Wojahn, Zimmerman - 37.

Absent: Senator Lee - 1.

SENATE BILL NO. 5062, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5089, by Senators Halsan, Vognild, Talmadge, Bailey, Stratton, Newhouse, Benitz, Kreidler, Bauer, Johnson, Gaspard and Moore

Prescribing penalties for homicide by abuse.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Talmadge, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5089 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5089 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended. Substitute Senate Bill No. 5089 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Senator Talmadge, first of all I would like to commend you and Senator Halsan for your excellent work on this bill. Senator Halsan referred to the word 'torture' and as I looked through the bill, I did not see a definition of the word 'torture' anywhere in the bill. I think you would agree it is important to have legal terms like that precisely defined wherever possible. For example, we do not want to have a bill declared unconstitutional because it was unconstitutionally vague. I was wondering if there is a definition of 'torture' in another location in the RCW's and if not, is there any legal understanding of what the word 'torture' might involve?"

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, there is not, to my recollection, an existing definition of 'torture' in the Revised Code of Washington. This was language that was submitted to us by the Washington Association of Prosecuting Attorneys and their feeling was, there needed to be an emphasis on a pattern of behavior that involved a conception of repeated assaults or 'torture' and by 'torture', I assume that we mean that which that term ordinarily would be understood to mean by any knowledgeable person considering the issue, that is some sort of practice of serious physical involvement of the victim by that pattern of conduct."

FURTHER REMARKS BY SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: "Thank you Mr. President. I would note that in addition to the remarks by Senator Halsan, which were exactly on target, that this is the first of a series of bills that this body will be considering with respect to the issue of children and child abuse. The Creekmore case for one reason or another, was a cathartic kind of case for the people in this state, but I have to tell you and I think people on the floor know that there are other Creekmore cases out there every single month in the state of Washington. They happen in places like Algona; they happen in eastern Washington; they happen in Whatcom county; they happen in Clark County; they happen all across this state.

"This particular case, because of the attractiveness of that young child and the heinous circumstances of that case, caused people to give profound attention to the problem of child abuse, but I note it is not isolated to this case and that this isn't the only thing we need to do to deal with the problem. To deal with the problem of child abuse effectively, we have to deal with the criminal law, as we have done in this bill and provide for criminal sanctions to those people who would so far exceed the boundaries of civilized behavior as to do this kind of harm to children. We also need to deal with issues like education, which I know Senator Bailey is very concerned about, and appropriate social services to people so that we can prevent this kind of illicit conduct from happening.

"The one additional thing I would note for the members, is that this bill also affects other than children. It provides for these kinds of penalties where you have a developmentally disabled person affected or someone who is a dependent adult. This is consistent with Senator Moore's bill last session that dealt with the issue of dependent adults and developmentally disabled people, so that anyone who engages in this kind of practice of abuse is going to be subject to these kinds of penalties and as Senator Halsan said, 'We made this as serious a crime as we can make it.' We don't want to have a prosecutor be faced with the problem, as Seth Dawson was in Snohomish county, with not being able to seek murder in the first degree against someone who did this kind of damage to a child, because the difficulty in the proof of the premeditation factor was present. This is very appropriate public policy, but we have to remember those other cases and the need to address the other levels of concern about this problem."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Talmadge, it is unfortunate that it takes so long to get around to doing things we should. You know, we first talked about child abuse back in 1981 and 1982, so it is good to see these things coming along. My question was, you specifically indicate a child or person under the age of sixteen. What about, I think you mentioned it, but I don't see it in the bill, those persons that are over the age of sixteen that are not capable, for example, someone with a developmental disability. Where in the bill does it take care of those?"

Senator Talmadge: "Looking at the substitute version of the bill, Senator, in Section 1, sub 1 of the bill, it also talks about causing the death of a child or person under the age of sixteen years, a developmentally disabled person or dependent adult. If you look down at sub 2, it references a dependent adult, meaning a person who, because of physical or mental disability or because of extreme advanced age, is dependent upon another person to provide the basic necessities of life. This is the definition, as I recall, that was used in the legislation last session that Senator Moore sponsored that provided for requirements of reporting with respect to dependent adults who were abused by people in an institutional setting."

Senator Deccio: "Thank you, I was looking at the original bill. My next question, about twenty years ago I think, in Yakima, there was a situation that was even worse than the Creekmore case where a youngster who was the age of four, was just a normal youngster full of spunk and the family was religious and they thought that he was possessed of the devil and the entire family contributed to the death over a period of two or three years. Finally, they would kick him like a football from one person to another and eventually after about three years, he died. Two questions; one, how do you deal with a multiple grievance like that and is there anything in the law which deals with maybe a situation going on for two or three years and finally resulting in the death of the individual?"

Senator Talmadge: "In response to that Senator Deccio, I think the answer is that that would clearly qualify for a pattern of assault or a pattern of 'torture' that this bill references specifically. As to who would be charged with the crime and who would be considered the accomplice, obviously, that would be a responsibility of the prosecutor, looking at the facts of the case and trying to determine who it was that really essentially took the lead in doing that kind of thing. I think your point is a good one in not only the Creekmore case, but cases like that. Of course, I think that many members of the Senate saw the case of the child who died because the parents withheld milk and other necessities of life from that child. There was a case in Algona, as I recall, about the same time as the Creekmore case where a child was abused to death, also. It didn't get the same kind of attention, but all of us here know there are other cases like the Creekmore case out there that need to be addressed along with the one that got so much attention.

Senator Deccio: "Thank you, Senator. I would like to continue, Mr. President, and I'll make it brief. For one who has followed this issue since I have been in the House and the Senate, I don't think there is a person on this floor that doesn't feel that this is a piece of legislation whose time has come and it is not the end of this kind of legislation. I think we need to do something in order to make sure that the Department was responsible in these instances, also members of the public—doctors, teachers, those people in a position to recognize early child abuse cases—are all going to play a part in getting a handle on this issue. We may never solve the problem of child abuse, but we can certainly, through education, through treatment and through penalties like this, at least make a dent in probably one of the greatest social problems that we've got in the United States today. I certainly add my voice to its approval."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5089.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5089 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 47; excused, 2.

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5089, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

There being no objection, the President returned the Senate to the first order of business.

MOTION

Senator Vognild, moved that the following amendment by Senators Vognild and Metcalf be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. Section 77, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as amended by section 12, chapter 8, Laws of 1953 ex. sess. and RCW 50.20.090 are each amended to read as follows:

An individual shall be disqualified for benefits for any week with respect to which the commissioner finds that (he) the individual's unemployment is due to a stoppage of work which exists because of a labor dispute at the factory, establishment, or other premises at which (he) the individual is or was last employed: PROVIDED, That this section shall not apply if it is shown to the satisfaction of the commissioner that:

1. (he) The individual is unemployed due to a lockout by his or her employer, except for lockouts by employers who are members of a multi-employer bargaining unit after one member of the multi-employer bargaining unit has been struck by its employees as a result of the multi-employer bargaining process if:

(a) The recognized or certified collective bargaining agent has notified the employer that the employees are willing to return to work, pending the ratification of a new collective bargaining agreement, under the terms and conditions contained in the employer's last contract offer made prior to the start of the lockout; or

(b) The employer's last offer amounts to a substantial deterioration of the terms and conditions of employment which existed prior to the termination of the last collective bargaining agreement between the employer and the individual's recognized or certified collective bargaining agent; and

((2)-(he)) The individual has been locked out for four or more weeks.

Benefits shall be payable to an otherwise eligible individual beginning with the fourth week in which the individual is unemployed due to a lockout.

This subsection (1) shall have no effect on and after December 27, 1987; or

2. (a) The individual is not participating in or financing or directly interested in the labor dispute which caused the stoppage of work, and

(((2)-(he)) (b) The individual does not belong to a grade or class of workers of which, immediately before the commencement of the stoppage, there were members employed at the premises at which the stoppage occurs, any of whom are participating in or financing or directly interested in the dispute: PROVIDED, That if in any case separate branches of work which are commonly conducted as separate businesses in separate premises are conducted in separate departments of the same premises, each such department shall, for the purpose of this subdivision, be deemed to be a separate factory, establishment, or other premises.

Sec. 2. Section 11, chapter 2, Laws of 1970 ex. sess. as last amended by section 1, chapter 42, Laws of 1985 and by section 2, chapter 270, Laws of 1985 and by section 1, chapter 299, Laws of 1985 and RCW 50.29.020 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

1. An experience rating account shall be established and maintained for each employer, except employers as described in RCW 50.44.010 and 50.44.030 who have properly elected to make payments in lieu of contributions, taxable local government employers as described in RCW 50.44.035, and those employers who are required to make payments in lieu of contributions, based on existing records of the employment security department. Benefits paid to any eligible individuals shall be charged to the experience rating accounts of each of (his) such individual's employers during (this) the individual's base year in the same ratio that the wages paid by each employer to the individual during the base year bear to the wages paid by all employers to that individual during that base year, except as otherwise provided in this section and in RCW 50.29.022.

2. The legislature finds that certain benefit payments, in whole or in part, should not be charged to the experience rating accounts of employers except those employers described in RCW 50.44.010 and 50.44.030 who have properly elected to make payments in lieu of contributions, taxable local government employers described in RCW 50.44.035, and those employers who are required to make payments in lieu of contributions, as follows:
(a) Benefits paid to any individuals later determined to be ineligible shall not be charged to the experience rating account of any contribution paying employer.

(b) Benefits paid to an individual under the provisions of RCW 50.12.050 shall not be charged to the account of any contribution paying employer if the wage credits earned in this state by the individual during his or her base year are less than the minimum amount necessary to qualify the individual for unemployment benefits.

(c) Benefits paid to an individual filing under the provisions of chapter 50.06 RCW shall not be charged to the experience rating account of any contribution paying employer.

(d) Benefits paid which represent the state's share of benefits payable under chapter 50.22 RCW shall not be charged to the experience rating account of any contribution paying employer.

(e) In the case of individuals who qualify for benefits under RCW 50.20.050 or 50.20.060, benefits based on wage credits earned prior to the disqualifying separation shall not be charged to the experience rating account of the contribution paying employer from whom that separation took place.

(i) Benefits paid to an individual as the result of a determination by the commissioner that no stoppage of work exists, pursuant to RCW 50.20.090, shall not be charged to the experience rating account of any contribution paying employer.

(ii) Benefits paid to an individual under RCW 50.20.090(1) for weeks of unemployment ending before the effective date of this 1987 section, shall not be charged to the experience rating account of any base year employer.

(g) In the case of individuals identified under RCW 50.20.015, benefits paid with respect to a calendar quarter, which exceed the total amount of wages earned in the state of Washington in the higher of two corresponding calendar quarters included within the individual's determination period, as defined in RCW 50.20.015, shall not be charged to the experience rating account of any contribution paying employer.

(h) Beginning July 1, 1985, a contribution-paying base year employer, not otherwise eligible for relief of charges for benefits under this section, may receive such relief if:

(i) The benefit charges result from payment to an individual who last left the employ of such employer voluntarily for reasons not attributable to the employer, or was discharged for misconduct connected with his or her work; and

(ii) The employer requests relief of charges in writing within thirty days following mailing to the last known address of the notification of the initial determination of such a claim, stating the date and reason for the last leaving; and

(iii) Upon investigation of the separation, the commissioner rules that the relief should be granted.

(i) Benefits paid to an individual who does not successfully complete an approved on-the-job training program under RCW 50.12.240 shall not be charged to the experience rating account of the contribution paying employer who provided the approved on-the-job training.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. This act applies to lockouts that were ongoing as of December 28, 1986, or that occurred on or after December 28, 1986.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, and safety, the support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect immediately.

REMARKS BY SENATOR VOGNILD

Senator Vognld: "Thank you, Mr. President. This amendment, as presented, deals with lockouts and is basically, a bill we have all seen on the floor before. I'll point out a couple of differences in it. There is a difference in the language on pages 18 through 24. This is language that deals with the four week delay time in the benefits. The language is a cleanup and clarification of language. It does nothing to change the language of the amendment that we've had here on the floor before. The major change in it is the sunset on page 2, line 25. The sunset date is December 27, 1987—a rather peculiar date in some ways, but due to the benefit week structure, you have to use a Sunday and that's why the 27th instead of the 31st. That was a requested change by a number of people on the floor and has been made.

"On page 5 of the bill, you will see that there are some changes in the way the benefits paid are charged to the employer. I believe that most people I have talked to on this floor have felt that we wanted to make this section of the bill as legal as we possibly could so there is no question about it. The Attorney General representing the Employment Security has recommended this change of language. It makes a change so that under the prior language, two weeks would have been charged to a pooling account. The balance would have been charged to the employer. Under this one, it will be approximately six weeks charged to the pooling account. The balance will be charged to the employers and any additional lockouts, from this point on, will be strictly charged to the employer. Which again, as I understand, is a requirement for the bill and, hopefully, to pass this bill."

MOTION

Senator Lee moved that the following amendments to the amendment be considered simultaneously and adopted:

On page 1, line 24, after "individual" strike "is" and insert "has been"

On page 1, line 25, after "unemployed" insert: "during the period December 28, 1986 through December 27, 1987"

On page 2, line 24, after "lockout", insert: "which was ongoing as of December 28, 1986, or which commenced prior to December 28, 1987"

On page 7, line 6, strike "occurred on or after December 28, 1986" and Insert "commenced prior to December 28, 1987"

REMARKS BY SENATOR LEE

Senator Lee: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen. I think that this is something that does not change the substance at all of the striking amendment that we have before us. What it does do, it takes the same dates that Senator Vognild has just described, December 28, 1986, through December 27, 1987, and it places them actually within the language of the bill. There are some people who are very uncomfortable with putting provisos in that are separate paragraphs because of the possibility there might be some kind of circumstance that would cause a veto of that particular portion. There is one other thing. If you want, look over on page 7, which is the last page, which I think is simply a clarifying piece. The way it now reads, there is no reference at all to the ending date. If this were read by itself, it would appear as though anything was applicable in this act after December 28, 1986, without saying, once again, that these kinds of incidents that would qualify would have had to be—also would have had to occur before December 28, 1987. I don't see that there is any problem. I think we should all be able to approve those additions."

REMARKS BY SENATOR VOGNILD

Senator Vognild: "Mr. President. I rise to speak against these amendments and I apologize that I haven't seen these particular amendments before. As I am looking at the amendment, I am quite concerned, on page 1, line 24, changing the word 'is' to 'has been.' I think that that perhaps, creates some possibility of some retroactive problems that we didn't anticipate or didn't want in this bill. I can see the situation where a person has been unemployed during this particular time and something else happens later in the year and they wind up with benefits that perhaps we didn't—maybe I should be speaking for it—I don't know. I am just concerned about the way that application goes together."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Senator Lee, is it the intention of these amendments to specifically place the effective date language in the body of a section of the bill, so that the Governor's veto power will be circumvented, in event the Governor chose to exercise it with respect to the later section in the amendment by Senator Vognild that sets forth the effective date?"

Senator Lee: "The intent is to make it less subject to a veto. Now, I think you are probably even more familiar than I may be with various court rulings. The most recent one has said, in the case of the motorcycle franchise bill, that when a Governor goes in and takes out little pieces of something that is in another paragraph, that that is beyond his item veto power. Let me propose another reason for putting them, in fact, in both sections. Let's say that section A, by the time it reaches his desk, is thought of as not being necessary and it is still there as far as section B is concerned."

Senator Talmadge: "But your intention is to adopt these amendments to affect the Governor's veto power should that be considered by the Governor?"

Senator Lee: "That is the purpose, to make a veto less attractive."
Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President, if I could continue? Thank you, Mr. President. I have concerns about these amendments. First, the concern that Senator Vognild raised, I think it is a legitimate one. There is some implication from the term 'has been' involved in a labor situation that would suggest that this bill would be keyed specifically to the Lockheed lockout and that alone. If that is, in fact, the intention of the amendment, then you have a problem with the notion of this legislation coming down to being special legislation and that is something that is constitutionally prohibited to us in this body. I would urge us not to adopt this amendment for that particular reason.

"As for the other amendments, I think that the effective date in this section is clear. It sets forth in the section, if it is the intention of the sponsors to put this language in the various sections to avoid the possibility of a gubernatorial veto, that also has problems. I think we have to rely on the intention of the Legislature here, which is to have the effective dates we have and not try to do this kind of thing to circumvent the Governor's constitutional authority or try to key this bill so narrowly to the Lockheed lockout that it is unconstitutionally narrow."

REMARKS BY SENATOR NEWHOUSE

Senator Newhouse: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen. I think the concerns raised about this amendment have very little validity. If you read the language of the first amendment, 'has been' and then follow through 'unemployed during the period' and then gives the beginning date of December 28, 1986. I don't think there is any possibility that it could go back beyond that and be retroactive. As for the possibility of including in any statute or bill we pass, some provision that makes it a little tougher for the Governor to item veto, the members who would say that is obnoxious, have done it themselves in other pieces of legislation, I am sure. I think we have the right to do that in protecting the very narrow agreements that we come up with at times."

REMARKS BY SENATOR WARNKE

Senator Warnke: "Thank you, Mr. President. speaking in opposition to the amendments. We have delicately worded this—I think it is about the fourth or fifth draft of this bill—for the past three weeks. In addition to which, some of the changes that you will find in here from the previous draft, is wording that we had and took over to the Employment Security Department to make sure that when we speak of weeks and dates, and beginning and ending dates, that all of it fits into the formulas by which Employment Security makes their calculations. We cleared this language in the draft with them last night and I would ask you to please leave the dates and language alone so that there is no question, once again, on the part of anyone, what we are talking about."

REMARKS BY SENATOR LEE

Senator Lee: "You know, I can't figure out why you are so nervous about this. I mean, you already have in the bill the particular date unless there is some reason you don't want to have it placed elsewhere. I am beginning to get suspicious and I wasn't before this.

"Now, if we talk about special legislation, it clearly would be special if we only limit it to thirty weeks. I mean, that is what unemployment benefits are. We made it for a full year and interestingly enough, an attorney said to me, 'You know they are talking about special legislation.' Have you ever read that part in the Constitution where it talks about what you can not do as far as special legislation? It's very interesting, because it is a list of specific kinds of things like: you can't come to a Legislature to get your name changed, or to allow a minor to buy property. There is no place that says anything about the particular issue that we are addressing now. There may be some case law of one kind or another, but in the entire discussion of all the ways in which we put it together, we have done it with a double purpose not only to be sure that it clearly applies to those workers in the Lockheed situation, but that if a similar situation that takes place anywhere within a one-year period, would also qualify. Now, I see some resistance to making that one-year period clear. That's the reason I am offering these amendments, so that it is clear."
REMARKS BY SENATOR VOGNILD

Senator Vognild: "Thank you Mr. President. Perhaps I can shed a little light on why there is some uncertainty on this part and resistance to this. As we have talked about this, and we, being a lot of different members on this floor, at different times for the past three weeks or there about. We have made numbers of changes. I have been criticized, perhaps justifiably, because at certain times amendments have come on this floor that certain people haven't time to study and analyze, look at, etc. These amendments came out here and, frankly, I didn't know they were coming. I had a meeting as late as 9:30 today to talk about what was happening. I was shown some amendments at that point in time and was prepared to handle them. These are coming with new amendments and I see that they do the bill absolutely no good. I do not believe that they put any protection in the bill. I think that if the illusion is trying to be drawn here, that somehow or other there is an agreement with the second floor—that something is going to happen with this bill—I can tell you, there is no agreement. The Governor very clearly has stated, he will not make an agreement to either veto or not veto any piece of legislation this body passes, a position that I support him in. I think that's where he should be. I am just going to urge that we defeat these amendments and let's get back to the bill as we have all been working on it for quite awhile."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendments by Senator Lee to the amendment by Senators Vognild and Metcalf.

Senator Sellar demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on adoption of the amendments by Senator Lee to the amendment by Senators Vognild and Metcalf.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion by Senator Lee failed and the amendments to the amendment were not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 23; nays, 24; excused, 2.

Voting yea: Senators Anderson, Bailey, Barr, Benitz, Bluechel, Cantu, Craswell, Deccio, Hayner, Johnson, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, McDonald, Metcalf, Nelson, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Saling, Sellar, von Reichbauer, West - 23.

MOTION

Senator Lee moved that the following amendment to the Vognild and Metcalf amendment be adopted:

On page 2, line 1, after "employees" insert: "who are members of the collective bargaining unit have voted on and rejected the last contract offer made prior to the start of the lockout and"

REMARKS BY SENATOR LEE

Senator Lee: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen. The issue that the workers, indeed, have voted on the last contract offer that was made prior to the lockout in this particular amendment, is one that mentions a very specific contract. Anything that had been offered prior to that time or subsequent to that time, doesn't count. It's just that last one and, indeed, there has been a vote taken. That is the case as far as the Lockheed workers are concerned. That vote did take place a week and a half, or something, ten days after the lockout occurred. So, this is not something that would disqualify them if it were adopted. I offered this as a suggestion of a number of members, who, though even some of us had certainly just assumed that would have taken place, knew of some instances where it had not and requested that this amendment be drawn so that it could be part of this piece of legislation."

REMARKS BY SENATOR WARNKE

Senator Warnke: "Thank you, Mr. President, speaking in opposition to the amendment. I have resisted all attempts on the part of both employees and employers throughout the negotiations of this bill, to inject ourselves in the collective bargaining process. An amendment like that, does not belong in unemployment compensation law. It belongs under 46 statute or it belongs under NLRB or it belongs in the collective bargaining agreements. It does not belong in an unemployment comp benefits package. If you are going to do something like this, the counter to that is that the employer then may not unilaterally implement his last and best offer. If the employees have to vote on their offer, then they can not put it into effect. There is the counter. You are not making that offer. It's placing this bill in the collective bargaining process and we don't want to be involved in that."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I can think of another counter offer. The last offer of the union has to be submitted to the shareholders of the corporation."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senator Lee to the amendment by Senators Vognild and Metcalf.

The motion by Senator Lee failed and the amendment to the amendment was not adopted.

MOTION

Senator Lee moved that the following amendment to the Vognild and Metcalf amendment be adopted:

On page 2, line 7, after "lockout; strike "or" and insert "and"

REMARKS BY SENATOR LEE

Senator Lee: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen, this is a substantive amendment. It is one on which reasonable people can certainly disagree, but one on which, and as far as its basic premise is concerned, I agree completely with what Senator Warnke says, that we should not be interjecting ourselves into labor/management agreements. Let me explain why, if we do not adopt the 'and' instead of the 'or' which I am proposing in this amendment, that we would, in fact, be doing that. The way the striking amendment now stands that we have before us, is that in the case of a lockout, if the agent for the collective bargaining unit went to the employer, whether they had a vote or not, because we turned that one down, and said, 'We are willing to go back to work for your last offer, pending further negotiations,' regardless of what that was. It could, in fact, have been a ten percent increase, but still unwilling to sign a contract. If the employer said, 'I can not do business unless I've got a contact, I've got federal contracts that I want to bid on and so on and I've got to have an agreement signed or else a non-union work force,' but what we are saying here, even if that happens, they offer them an increase in wages, but they don't want to sign a contract and a lockout occurs, they are qualified for benefits.

"However, if we put the 'and' in as I am suggesting, that occurrence could not take place. We would have the bill that covers the situation as far as Lockheed workers are concerned, wherein, they have said they are willing to go back to work even under a substantial deterioration in the contact and are still locked out.

"That's the kind of situation that we have as far as the Lockheed workers are concerned. It is that kind of a situation that I really think that the workers are in the kind of position where if they had not been a member of a labor organization, an individual, that's the terms under which the individual could qualify for unemployment benefits. They certainly couldn't qualify if they voluntarily quit and there wasn't a substantial deterioration. Unless we change that 'or' to 'and,' we will be saying to lockout workers, even if there isn't a substantial deterioration, that they can be entitled to benefits under a lockout situation, which has been instituted in order to try to get contracts signed and negotiations underway once again. This is crucial. As far as I am concerned, the bill is useless without that amendment."

REMARKS BY SENATORVOGNILD

Senator Vognild: "Thank you, Mr. President, I think that we are now discussing probably the most substantial amendment that we have out here and I think we need to know exactly what we are doing with this amendment and what we are doing with the bill, so let me start with the bill. The bill, as written, says that in order to draw benefits, several things must happen. The first one is that there must be a four week delay, mark that in your memory—there must be a four week delay. Every person that is involved in a locked out situation will face a four week delay—four weeks with no benefits. Then we come to the second criterion. The second criterion is, they must be willing to return to work at the last offer made. They must be willing to return to work at the last offer made. If they meet those two criteria, benefits would be available on the fifth week. If the offer, now we come to the third phase, if the offer by the employer is a substantial deterioration of benefits and/or conditions, generally ruled to be fifteen percent or more, then that can substitute for willing to work. Nothing will substitute for the four week delay.

"Take this scenario if you will: I work for a company, I do not belong to a union, I simply work there. My boss comes up to me and says, 'I am going to cut your wages by twenty percent' and I say to him, 'I can not work for that, I can not do it and I must leave.' I go and apply for benefits. I receive them after one week, a one week delay. I receive those benefits, no four week delay. I don't have to be willing to go back to work. I don't have to go back to work. I can get benefits.

"Now, I am going to take another job and I take this job and I happen in this case, to be a union employee. My boss comes up to me and says, 'Twenty percent reduction.' I, in connection with my other members, say 'I can not work for that.' The boss says, 'Okay, you're not working, you're locked out.' I go and apply for benefits. I am denied benefits. I can't draw them, period, so I go back and tell my boss, 'I'm willing to work for your last offer, I am willing to go back to work and work for your last offer, I want to continue to try to get a contract, but I will work for your last offer.' The boss says, 'No you won't. I won't take you back,' so I go back down and I apply for benefits and they say to me, 'Well, if you will come back at the end of four weeks, you will be qualified for benefits.' Remember, that first person qualified for benefits after seven days. Because I happen to be part of a bargaining unit, I have to wait the four weeks.

"What we are doing, if we adopt this amendment, is we are saying, that if you belong to a collective bargaining unit, you must meet three criteria—three criteria. If you do not, you only have to meet one. I don't see that that is fair. Now, I can probably carry that argument along, say we should not have the four weeks in there. So, why is the four weeks in there? There is some logic, I think, and I have a little problem with it, but basically I think I can see the logic in the four weeks because one individual, operating on his own, has less control of their destiny, you might say, in terms of negotiating with an employer, than a group does. We are sitting here, this side, reluctantly, saying we will accept the four weeks delay—four weeks without benefits, but it's just not reasonable to put all three criteria simply because we belong to a bargaining unit.

"This bill has a sunset, a sunset that a lot of us here on the floor think is a mistake, because we feel this will be coming back to visit us next year. Knowing that, I urge you even stronger to reject this amendment. Let's take a look at this thing, a good long look after we have had a year's experience to see if we need the bill at all and see if we need some kind of language changes in here. See if there is something else we can do to accomplish the one thing I think every member on this floor would agree with. What we want to accomplish is to drive the two units back together into negotiation to put these people back to work, so that not only they, but the economy survives as well. I urge you to vote no."

REMARKS BY SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate. Senator Vognild is probably more charitable about this amendment than he really needed to be. What it amounts to is discrimination based on union membership. There is something in the State and Federal Constitutions relating to equal protection of the law. Basically, that says, that Legislatures can classify for purposes of enacting legislation. We do it all the time, but when a court looks at how we classify and differentiate in the way that we have, they are going to look at the classes that we have set up in certain ways. If you classify on the basis of race or sex or certain other categorizations, the courts look at that with very strict scrutiny and usually doesn't accept those kinds of classifications that we have made. It also looks at certain other kinds of classifications, probably the type we have before us, on the basis of some rational basis, if there is some rational basis for making this kind of classification. The answer in this case is, clearly no.

"As Senator Vognild has pointed out, what you have is a classification of individuals based solely on union membership. You've got before you, what amounts to an amendment that will probably make this particular enactment unconstitutional on equal protection grounds and, I think, a serious mistake. I urge you to turn down this amendment, because you raise more problems than you solve by doing this kind of thing."

REMARKS BY SENATOR WARNKE

Senator Warnke: "Thank you, Mr. President, members of the Senate. In addition to the discriminatory aspects of this amendment, I wanted to remind you that the definition of substantial deterioration is fifteen percent by the Employment Security Department, when they make their determination. So, an employer could get around all of this bill by making a ten percent cut reduction to his employees.
Remember, the employees are already in the field, they are already locked out. I think that is even worse. That is a tool where we are giving the lines, upper and lower lines, in which an employer may make an offer to his employees to keep them from drawing unemployment compensation benefits. I think it's a bad amendment."

Senator Sellar demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on adoption of the amendment by Senator Lee to the amendment by Senators Vognild and Metcalf.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion by Senator Lee failed and the amendment to the amendment was not adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 23; nays, 24; excused, 2.

Voting yea: Senators Anderson, Bailey, Barr, Benitz, Bluechel, Canhu, Craswell, Deccio, Hayner, Johnson, Kiskaddon, Lee, McCaslin, McDonald, Metcalf, Nelson, Newhouse, Patterson, Pullen, Saling, Sellar, von Reichbauer, West - 23.

Voting nay: Senators Bauer, Bender, Bottiger, Conner, DeJarnatt, Fleming, Garrett, Gaspard, Halsan, Hansen, Kreidler, McDermott, Moore, Owen, Rasmussen, Rinehart,

MOTION

On motion of Senator Lee, and there being no objection, the following amendments on the desk were withdrawn:

On page 2, line 19, after "for", strike "four" and insert "seven"
On page 2, line 22, after "the", strike "fourth" and insert "seventh"
On page 7, after line 7, insert a new section as follows:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. The department of employment security shall report to the commerce and labor committees of the senate and the house of representatives by January 1, 1988, on the number of claimants receiving benefits and the total amount of benefits paid to date under this act."

REMARKS BY SENATOR LEE

Senator Lee: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen. These amendments were an attempt to get a bill that fully addresses the plight of the Lockheed workers. If one of them, indeed, had been adopted, there would have been substantial bipartisan support. It is clear, there is no attempt or any wish to do that and that was clearly communicated. To be sure that it was clear, I wrote it down and handed to the individuals concerned before this final vote was taken. I'm sorry. We tried our best. We will see what happens from now on."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, I want to set the record straight. We started out with a bill that was signed by bipartisan support introduced to solve the problem of lockouts. From that point on down, its been every day, there just has to be one more amendment, one more little amendment. Well, I have been saving them. We went from a no cut-off date, then to a two year cut-off date until an April 1st date, now a 12-27th cut-off date. Always, constantly, one more amendment you gotta give us before you’ll give us any votes.”

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senators Vognild and Metcalf.

The motion by Senator Vognild carried and the amendment was adopted.

MOTION

At 11:56 a.m., on motion of Senator Vognild, the Senate was declared to be at ease.

The Senate was called to order at 12:15 p.m. by President Cherberg.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Vognild, the rules were suspended. Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5059 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

REMARKS BY SENATOR METCALF

Senator Metcalf: “Thank you, Mr. President, and members of the Senate. I’m going to vote for this bill today and I think I would like to say why. I haven’t made any deals. Labor defeated me in the election of 1958 and 1964, specifically. That is history, but I haven’t forgotten it. I am for this bill, because I try to look at the larger picture. I have been watching history for a while. I’ve taught it and I think we should keep the larger picture in sight. I am sorry that it is going to delay lunch for five minutes, but I am going to go through this.

“Before the Civil War, wages were quite high comparatively in America, because everybody wanted to farm. They wanted to go and get their own land and you couldn’t get people to work in factories very easily. After the Civil War, as you know, there was a vast immigration sponsored by large corporations to an extent. Getting people to come to America for a noble motive partly, but also to have cheap labor and they did and they got enough people to come and labor was very cheap here. You know the rise, the painful slow rise of the labor unions. The playing field, at first, was tilted totally in favor of the large corporations. Over the years, from about a hundred years ago until about the 1920s, it slowly tilted back toward a level between labor and management.

“1932, it tilted suddenly in favor of labor, very pro-labor, the appointment to the NLRB and so forth. We saw fifty years where labor really dominated and the field was tilted very much in their favor and there were terrible injustices and corruption by big labor. I came into politics under this system and I vigorously joined the pro-business side, because I saw the field tilted in a way that I didn’t think was fair. I am trying to look for a level playing field. I’ve crossed picket lines in 1976 and 1978 and I look all the abuse and threats and I watched the damage to a fine school district, the Everett School District, just because of labor whipping up an issue.

“However, in recent years, the public sentiment is turning against big labor, against the misuse of their power. Vast changes are taking place in America. In recent years, we merger-mania in this country. The large are growing larger. The growing largeness of corporate America is something that I am concerned about. I don’t really believe it is in the interest of the people. I see the power moving toward the super-large multi-national corporations. I see it is moving against labor and I see labor membership falling, at least per capita, certainly. When Reagan made appointments to the NLRB, that tipped the balance from what it was—pro labor toward a pro-business stance and I applauded, because I still felt that this should be a level playing field. But something in the back of my mind disturbed me. Warning bells started to go off. I felt that this was not a trend I would like to see continue. I watched the air traffic control issue and when President Reagan took his action there, part of me cheered, but part of me felt deep concern. I decided I was going to watch this issue very closely and watch this balance. I have been watching closely and I don’t like what I see.

“Union busting has become an objective of some corporations. I don’t think that is in my interest: I don’t think it is in your interest and I certainly don’t think it is in the people’s interest. I am going to give you a specific case, because it is the one that I am closest to. You all know Joan Houchen who served in the House for a couple of years. Her husband was a Continental pilot for twenty-six years. He was a captain of a 747. His best year was $85,000. Continental was in financial troubles and they took a fifteen percent cut. They were negotiating a twenty-two percent cut when suddenly negotiations stopped and they wondered why. That week-end or a couple of days later Continental declared Chapter 11 Bankruptcy. After Chapter 11 Bankruptcy, the offer to them—the pilots and to the workers—was a fifty percent cut on top of their fifteen percent pay cut previously or under if you want to call it that. No further credit, they could keep their retirement, but no further credit toward their retirement system and they pay their own medical expenses. Now, that is what Ray Houchen was faced with. His salary then would have been from $85,000 to about $40,000 and no further credit toward his retirement and pay his own medical expenses.

"Now, that is union busting, folks. It did bust the union, but when I saw Ray Houchen, a conservative Republican, out at SeaTac Airport carrying a picket sign, I had to take a new look at what was happening in this world. Now, the NLRB's recent rule change made lockout a much more effective tool of management. The point is the field is tilting and we all agree on that, but is it nearing level or is it now tilting against labor? That's where the argument is and I don't know. I am no labor lawyer, but I do know what happens to people out there and I care very much about people and the people in my district. I believe the lockout can now be used differently. I have heard, and I can't prove it, but I believe that what Lockheed did, the lockout that they accomplished would have been illegal two years ago.

"We've all listened to both sides. I don't know where the truth is in this. It is my belief that the field has been unfairly tilted, that the lockout can now be used improperly against labor and I worry about that. I believe if this issue isn't settled by this Legislature or the next Legislature, we will see the lockout used in ways that we do not approve of.

"I guess I have little confidence in the vast multi-national corporations to have a social conscious for the best interest of the workers. I think they are committed to the bottom line, period. Now, smaller corporations and smaller business, that is different, but the super-large, you watch out, that is what we are seeing in America. We are seeing a trend that I don't think is in the interest of the people and I think we had better take a look at it. I think we are going to have to deal with this issue. I think we are going to have to deal with this issue. I believe if this issue isn't settled by this Legislature or the next Legislature, we will see the lockout used in ways that we do not approve of.

"Therefore, it is not just a bill to address the situation that we see where there is an international union, headquartered in Washington D.C. and a company headquartered in San Francisco and where arguments could be made that both of the big fellows made mistakes and that the workers are, in some cases, almost a pawn in this particular situation. If the amendment that put the 'and' in there had been adopted, I can assure you that it would have addressed the Lockheed situation and those similar to it that took place within the coming year and I would have voted for it, but I can not because this is not a Lockheed bill. This is a bill that changes entirely the balance in negotiations between management and their organized work forces. It, also, is a bill that does not address the economic realities that we are looking at.

"I think, something else I want to clarify, and this shouldn't be a surprise to anyone across the aisle. I know it is of no surprise to anyone on this side of the aisle that that 'and' was crucial in order to narrow the act. I informed your floor leader yesterday morning, we talked about it again this afternoon and early this morning and then once again, because I didn't want any misunderstanding of people saying that the two changes that were in there, were made at a Republican request. All of the earlier changes, the original sunset and some of those things, were made in order to get Democratic votes, so don't say all those changes were put in from the original bill just to satisfy people on this side of the aisle or that. You always ask for one more thing, because we have gotten to the place, where the one more thing has been identified and was rejected. I think that this may not be the last time we get a chance to negotiate and that with good will, we can, if further negotiations are necessary, take care of the situation and take care of the Lockheed workers, because that is what we want to do."

REMARKS BY SENATOR WARNKE

Senator Warnke: "Thank you Mr. President, members of the Senate. I suppose I am torn with the bill. It is apparently going to go down in defeat here, but I have heard a lot of talk in the last couple weeks about a level playing field. Let me make a couple comments to you by a pretty fair company manager by the name of H. Ross Petrol. He took a little company and built that corporation up until he was able to take on IBM, so he was fairly successful. In fact, he was so successful that other managers in other companies didn't like him. He was too damn good. You know what he said about a level playing field? He said, 'Management thinks a level playing field is when they own the bat, the balls and all of the bases, then the playing field is even.' You know what else he said? He said, 'You know the first thing that happens when a large company gets in trouble? They blame their employees. They never look at their marketing, they never look at their own management techniques, they don't look at supervisory load, they blame the employees, because they are the ones they can get at, and who wants to blame themselves?' Right. Well, we have addressed all of the issues in this bill. Everyone that we started out to. It certainly isn't one that I want, but all of the excuses I've heard for voting against this bill, the one I will tell you this about further negotiations, before I'm involved in them, they are going to be in good faith."

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President and members of the Senate. I have passed out to you a copy of the Laws of 1937 when unemployment compensation was first enacted. In those days, as we still sometimes do, there is a preamble clause to talk about what unemployment compensation was for and what it was about. It wasn't about labor law. It was about trying to prevent the social impacts to the whole economy of the state of Washington caused by people out of work. That's the bill we are amending. We are talking about what do we do when there are people out of work through no fault of their own. We are not talking about amending the labor law standards.

"Now, I am told that an employee who is getting $2,200.00 a month is going to stay out on strike longer if he can just get $150.00 a week. Now, that doesn't make a lot of sense. But it does make a lot of sense to the local fuel/oil dealer and to the banks and to the car dealers who are getting payments on some of the contractual obligations of these people. As we sit here and delay for a little while longer, until the House can send a bill over to us, until Senator Peterson can get back, a compromise that is designed not for Lockheed, but is designed to put some kind of playing field back into the system until we can get back down here next January. That's what it's about. All we are doing today, is delaying it a little bit longer."

REMARKS BY SENATOR NEWHOUSE

Senator Newhouse: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen. The lawyers say that the Legislature should not settle a lawsuit by legislative act. I think far more important than that, the Legislature should not settle a labor dispute by something like this or interfere in a labor dispute. A lot of us are concerned and we are not experts in labor law and we are getting involved in a terribly complex situation.

"You know, unemployment compensation is something that has become a social necessity in this day and age, paid for by the employer to tie over the employee when he is out of work through no fault of his own. To use unemployment compensation as, in effect, a tool in a labor dispute is something we haven't really allowed or wanted to get involved in. The sad fact is that if we pass this bill, it will probably help in the demise of Lockheed in the state of Washington and we are going to destroy the very jobs we would like to help. Now, we do hear in this situation that there will be negotiations resumed later this month without this bill. I hope so. I hope they do restart negotiations. I think we have proved by the amendment which Senator Lee described that this is not the way it is now designed to be a bill just to help the Lockheed people, but to change the rules of the game in labor disputes.

"You know, we are exporting jobs in this country. We are losing them because we are not competitive anymore. Our tax structure doesn't allow a corporation to rebuild its facilities and be more competitive with Japan or Korea or wherever. Our labor. I don't mean individually. I mean our labor force is no longer as productive and we don't have the advantage we used to have over years and years from the industrial revolution on. We're buying autos, TVs, computers, oil, from overseas to the point where we have a horrid deficit of payment that is going to destroy this country if we don't get it under control and that's why I think Lockheed is probably in the situation they are. Their wage rate was too high. They lost the competitive edge advantage that federal laws gave them. They want to bid on a big contract and, yet, I don't want to defend Lockheed because I think maybe they did treat their employees a little bit unfairly and I don't think their union has properly represented the employees in the state of Washington, because they are based in the southeastern part of the country and they are more attuned to their Gulf coast workers than they are to Washington workers and maybe these are a throw away. I worry about things like that.

"There any many in our caucus who would like to do something for these Lockheed employees, but not change the rules of the game as far as the labor disputes are concerned. That is what this bill, as written, is doing. It's going to a little bit anyway, but we'd like to get it where it is something to benefit those who have been, as we see it, mistreated a bit right now. Remember that bid coming up very soon—a big one—big for the state of Washington, big to Lockheed, obviously, and they will not have a labor contract so that they can effectively bid and have the assurance they can go to work and provide jobs for our state. I think by passing this bill, in this way, if it does go, we are helping destroy what business climate we have that can keep and attract jobs.

REMARKS BY SENATOR VOGNILD

Senator Vognild: "Thank you, Mr. President. I rise, I guess, somewhat sadly. I'm not sure if I'm speaking to the bill or if I am giving it an eulogy. It appears to be dead. We are standing here on this floor and we are debating things that really don't have that much bearing on whether this bill passes or not. I guess maybe I just feel like I have to put it in perspective. I have been somewhat involved in the negotiations on this bill and I have been constantly told, 'The sunset clause—the sunset clause—the sunset clause.' We put a sunset clause in. We moved the sunset clause. As late as last night, I was told, 'Yes.' In this case I will say, I was told, that the sunset clause was the key. It absolutely was the key. This was not a Senator that told me this. This was a lobbyist representing the business community. So, what did we do? We moved it again.

"You know, I guess I feel so bad because somewhere along the line in this test of strength, this test of power of who controls this floor, Republicans or Democrats, who controls the Senate, which Senate lobbyists control the Senate, that's the issue folks. Come on, let's admit it. It's what we are talking about here. We are not talking about Lockheed employees that are starving and losing their homes. We are trying to figure out who the heck controls this floor.

"Senator Newhouse, I'm sorry but that is the message I'm getting each and every time. I think good faith amongst a lot of us on the floor, and I am not faulting everyone involved that we have come to what should have been an agreement—what other people are telling us is an agreement—the agreement changes.

"I feel extremely sad that this bill will probably go down. More people will probably lose their homes. While we hassle it out to try to find out where the bottom line is and who gets to put the last period in. Angry? Yes, I am. I am angry because it was my belief that we gave to the opponents, the last word, the last period, with the last change. I made a tactical error and I freely admit it. What I should have done was left the sunset date of April. Come out on the floor, let you put up an amendment to go to April and then you would have won an amendment and perhaps there would have been some votes. Those of you, who I know want to vote for this bill, don't you realize that you won it? We made the mistake of changing it in the draft, but it was your amendment, at your request to go to December of 1987, and it's there.

"I wish I had it to do over. Hind sight is great. If I had it to do over again, we wouldn't have put that stuff in the draft. We would have come out here on the floor, let a couple of amendments hang and, perhaps, we'd have had the votes. It's tragic, I guess."

REMARKS BY SENATOR HAYNER

Senator Hayner: "Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen. I was not intending to speak on this issue, but Senator Vognild, no one speaks for this caucus but the leadership of this caucus or those who are given the authority. There were some who were given authority and we have kept very close tabs. No one else speaks for us. It is not a lobbyist. It is not any citizen out there. It is the leadership of this caucus.

"Now, if you wanted to know the answer to any of those questions, you would have received them from the leadership. No one came to George. No one came to me and asked that question. Let me just say, that we are very concerned, primarily, with taking care of those people who are out of work and need help. Now, it seems to me that you kind of changed the whole perspective on this. I think all of us are concerned about this. There are some people out there who can't meet their mortgage payments and I am concerned about that. That is the issue we were trying to solve. Now, you are saying, 'Yes, but along with it, we want to make all of these changes in the labor laws.' Well, we think it is inappropriate at this time. Emotions are running very, very high on this issue. It is much more appropriate to deal with that at another time and this bill, with our amendments, would have done what we thought was necessary to bring this at some level playing field. Not a level playing field. but certainly back to some area that wasn't totally out of reason.

"Economic development—we all give lip service to economic development in this state. It is very important to us. Our unemployment has gone back up to 8.2 percent, very concerning when the national average is below that and we seem to creep up. The income of our citizens is declining. Yet, what are we doing? We are constantly making it less attractive for business to come to this state, the businesses who create jobs. I want to just emphasize something else. We are never going to solve this problem by voting for labor or for management. Somewhere along the line management and labor are going to have to begin working together as they do in Japan and in Germany and Korea and some of these other places and if they aren't getting the message, we are going to export all of our manufacturing and many of our businesses and we will be left with service industries that pay very low salaries. That is not the kind of thing we want, so I say this is not a bill we want to pass today."

REMARKS OF SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: "You know, with all this discussion of playing fields. I feel somehow this whole discussion should be on the sports page instead of the news pages of the papers. Senator Hayner, I suppose it would be nice if we had the kind of cooperative arrangement to which you refer that exist in some countries, but note, Senator Hayner, that in those countries they also provide, literally, cradle to grave kinds of benefits for health and maternity and a whole array of other things..."
that I am yet to see a whole lot of support come bounding from your side of the aisle.

"I guess my point in all of this is, it's terrible to have an institutional memory. You know, we have dealt with the unemployment compensation issue at least on two or three occasions out here on the floor of the Senate over the last three or four years. One of the agreements that was struck in that effort, in that discussion, was to provide for no unemployment compensation benefits to workers who were on strike, but to provide unemployment compensation benefits to people who are locked out. That was the understanding in the course of those negotiations. That was exactly what was thought to have been accomplished in that legislation.

"Now, with this particular situation, with the changes to the NLRB to which Senator Metcalf has referred, and the interpretation of the law by the Department of Employment Security, an interpretation, I frankly have to tell you, that I don't agree with, unemployment compensation benefits have not been made available for people who are locked out in this controversy and other controversies, and that's unfair.

"I've heard what amounts to a whole series of speeches made for constituents back home to explain reasons for failing to vote for this bill and I suspect that a lot of people are going to have to make those kinds of speeches for awhile longer and I doubt that those speeches are going to wash with constituents who are not able to pay for food for their children, who are not able to make the kinds of payments on car and house and all the other necessities of life that Senator Bottiger has referred to. Those speeches just won't wash.

"What you asked for in the final analysis was a lot of agonizing over one word, over the word 'and.' Well, that little amendment 'and' would probably make the amendments unconstitutional. You are out there fighting for something that is violative of equal protection, that was discriminatory against labor unions, that probably would have run afoul of even the National Labor Relations Act, as the Reagan administration understands it, and simply would not have worked. It is a fascinating kind of argument for something that just couldn't cut it in terms of reality. The sad thing is, we have listened on and on and on about this particular issue and the fact of the matter is, the lockout has become a tool of management in a way that is unacceptable.

"Senator Metcalf is absolutely right. We can go on and on talking about playing fields and all the rest of the hoopla but, what you are going to do, by failing to pass this bill, is force a lot of people to either wait until a situation where Lockheed or any other employer, has replaced the entire work force, then those people will be entitled to unemployment compensation benefits. Senator Vognild says that even under the ruling, they won't even draw it then. You will probably force a fair number of these people into public assistance. Now, it's just not right to have this kind of thing happen. I remember and I think a lot of people out here remember, what amounted to an agreement that was achieved on those compromise unemployment compensation bills and that agreement now appears to have been reneged upon and that's a sad thing to see."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5059.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Reengrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5059 and the bill failed to pass the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 24; nays, 23; excused, 2.

If the proposition receives majority voter approval, the size of the county legislative authority shall be increased to five positions, three of which shall constitute a quorum to do business.

The two newly-created positions shall be filled at elections to be held in the next year. The county shall, as provided in this section, be divided into five legislative authority districts, so that each district shall comprise as nearly as possible one-fifth of the population of the county. No two members of the existing county legislative authority may, at the time of the designation of such districts, permanently reside in one of the five districts. The division of the county into five districts shall be accomplished as follows:

(1) The county legislative authority shall, by the second Monday of March of that year, adopt a resolution creating the districts;

(2) If by the second Tuesday of March of that year the county legislative authority has failed to create the districts, the prosecuting attorney of the county shall petition the superior court of the county to appoint a referee to designate the five commissioner districts. The referee shall designate such districts by no later than June 1st of that year. The two legislative authority districts within which no existing member of the county legislative authority permanently resides shall be designated as districts four and five.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 36.32 RCW to read as follows:
The terms of the persons who are initially elected to positions 4 and 5 under section 3 of this act shall be as follows:
(1) If the year in which the primary and general elections are held is an even-numbered year, the person elected to position 4 shall be elected for a two-year term, and the person elected to position 5 shall be elected for a four-year term;
(2) If the year in which the primary and general elections are held is an odd-numbered year, the person elected to position 4 shall be elected for a one-year term, and the person elected to position 5 shall be elected for a three-year term.
Each person elected pursuant to subsection (1) or (2) of this section shall take office immediately upon the issuance of a certificate of his or her election.
Thereafter, persons elected to commissioner positions 4 and 5 shall be elected for four-year terms and shall take office at the same time the other members of the county legislative authority take office.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. A new section is added to chapter 36.32 RCW to read as follows:
Vacancies on a county legislative authority consisting of five members shall be filled as provided in RCW 36.32.070, except that:
(1) Whenever there are three or more vacancies, the governor shall appoint one or more members until there are a total of three members;
(2) Whenever there are two vacancies, the three members shall fill one of the vacancies; and
(3) Whenever there is one vacancy, the four members shall fill the single vacancy.
Sec. 6. Section 36.32.070, chapter 4, Laws of 1963 and RCW 36.32.070 are each amended to read as follows:
Whenever there is a vacancy in the board of county commissioners, except as provided in section 5 of this act, it shall be filled as follows:
(1) If there are three vacancies, the governor of the state shall appoint two of the officers.
The two commissioners thus appointed shall then meet and select the third commissioner. If the two appointed commissioners fail to agree upon selection of the third after the expiration of five days from the day they were appointed, the governor shall appoint the remaining commissioner.
(2) Whenever there are two vacancies in the office of county commissioner, the governor shall appoint one commissioner, and the two commissioners then in office shall appoint the third commissioner. If they fail to agree upon a selection after the expiration of five days from the day of the governor's appointment, the governor shall appoint the third commissioner.
(3) Whenever there is one vacancy in the office of county commissioner, the two remaining commissioners shall fill the vacancy. If the two commissioners fail to agree upon a selection after the expiration of five days from the day the vacancy occurred, the governor shall appoint the third commissioner.
Sec. 7. Section 36.16.030, chapter 4, Laws of 1963 and RCW 36.16.030 are each amended to read as follows:
Except as provided elsewhere in this section, in every county there shall be elected from among the qualified voters of the county a county assessor, a county auditor, a county clerk, a county coroner, three county commissioners, a county prosecuting attorney, a county sheriff, and a county treasurer. In counties of the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth classes no coroner shall be elected and the prosecuting attorney shall be ex officio coroner. In ninth class counties no county auditor or assessor shall be elected. In even-numbered years the county clerk shall be ex officio county auditor, and the county treasurer shall be ex officio county assessor. Counties with a population greater than two hundred thousand may have five county commissioners as provided in RCW 36.32.010 and sections 3 through 5 of this act.

Debate ensued.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5020.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5020 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 41; nays, 5; excused, 3.

Voting nay: Senators Fleming, Moore, Smitherman, Talmadge, Wojahn - 5.

Excused: Senators Peterson, Stratton, Zimmerman - 3.

ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5020, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President, this is a historical day. We are one-fourth of the way through and we have reached our first cut-off resolution. This is the introduction of executive request bills—had to be in at noon today. Also, there is the informal cut-off for introduction of member's bills, so that committee chairmen can schedule the appropriate hearings at the appropriate times. Just a reminder, those bills that are introduced after today, there will have to be an awfully good reason why they will be scheduled for hearing as there would more likely be interim studies and reports."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bailey: "Senator Bottiger, I asked Senator Vognild yesterday if there was—because we did not realize that this was the informal cut-off—and we have several education bills that we will be preparing and have available for this body shortly, is this a hard and fast rule or will these bills be heard before committee?"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Bailey, when we were discussing with the House the change, both leadership from your caucus and ours were pretty emphatic with the House that we were going to have an informal hearing. We agree, if there is a good reason, you know if a mountain blows up or something like that, that rule is going to have to slide, but if you don’t have it in, you better hurry because we are going to get out of here in one-hundred and five days and late introduction of bills is the big reason we go over the time limit."

Senator Bailey: "If I might continue, Mr. President, Senator Bottiger, does this mean that we will have another week to get these bills in because we just received the Governor’s bills on education? It makes it very difficult—"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, I would hope not another week. Are you asking for another week at the end of the one-hundred five days? Well, in order to schedule and run this place to get out of here, you would have to set the hearings for the bills before the committees, so that we can hit the really first big cut-off date and that is out of the committee."

Senator Bailey: "We will get our bills in as soon as possible. Thank you."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Patterson: "Mr. President, thank you. I appreciate your comment Senator Fleming, but the fact remains that there are many members, and I think there are two members that I talked to this morning on your side of the aisle, that did not understand it exactly that way. I would also ask the majority leader, what is the status of a title-only bill that has no subject matter, but had been introduced as a title-only?"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, there is no constitutional prohibition against introducing title-only bills. They have been used traditionally down here longer than you and I have been here. I don’t think they are a good idea and if there is any merit to the House's argument for the introduction, it's that, but committee chairmen will introduce them so they don't get caught."

Further debate ensued.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Fleming: "Mr. President, a point of personal privilege. Mr. President and members of the body, I must speak to you and apologize regarding Substitute Senate Bill No. 5020. Senator McCaslin and I were communicating and I didn't get a chance to hear him regarding my remarks on the bill. He informed me that the amendment refers back to the law it was. Our original thought was that in the bill, people would be elected by districts in the primary and in the general election. The bill as it is, is my second alternative, but it provides as in the Seattle school district, that elections are by districts in the primary and county-wide in the general election. I wanted to apologize to those members who might have voted no, because of the comments that I made. It was a mix-up on my part and I apologize for that."

MOTION

At 11:53 a.m., on motion of Senator Vognild, the Senate recessed until 1:15 p.m.

The Senate was called to order at 1:15 p.m. by President Cherberg.

At 1:15 p.m., the President declared the Senate to be at ease.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Zimmerman: "Mr. President, a point of personal privilege. Before the dairy princesses leave, I thought it would be appropriate to suggest to this group, that from a personal standpoint, there are counties that have their county fairs and there is a custom in Clark County that we have a cheesecake contest in which cheesecakes are baked and they have the State Senator or legislator have the opportunity to be one of the judges. It makes for a very great afternoon and one that, obviously, has a considerable benefit to your girth. It also shows a variety from which you can have cheesecakes made. I would suggest you try to establish that within your own community.

"The second part of my point of personal privilege was simply to explain that while I was out of the state last week, you did some legislation here and you did have some things accomplished, but I want you to know and this is serious, there were three thousand people from one hundred twenty countries around the world, that gathered for that three day seminar. They had amongst them, at our table for example, a Lebanese couple, an Israeli man, a woman from Tunisia, a man from Jamaica, and then two younger people, one of the students at Denver and then a student working in Washington D.C., just at one table.

"The main speaker happened to be Elizabeth Dole, but on the same program they did have Albert Gore, a Senator from Tennessee who is a Democrat, speaking. They had a Representative, Dan Daniels, so it was very bipartisan and yet a very, very, cooperative event, an event that truly was a very moving one. I want you to know that while there, we also had a chance to visit with your congressmen and my congressman, Representative Don Bonker and some of the others that you all know and have had conversations with in the past. It was worthwhile. I am glad that, at least at this point, you have not done any devastating things, because of the cooperation that has been such a part of this session and we hope it will continue.

MOTION
On motion of Senator Williams, the following resolution was adopted:

SENATE RESOLUTION 1987-8611

by Senators Rasmussen, Williams, Bauer, Barr, Benitz, Tanner, DeJamatt, Vognild and Zimmerman

WHEREAS, The Bonneville Power Administration proposed on December 29, 1986, to increase its electric rates by as much as fifteen percent; and

WHEREAS, The Bonneville Power Administration also has proposed a possible second rate increase in 1988 of up to 10 percent; and
WHEREAS. Many electric utilities that buy power from the Bonneville Power Administration have expressed concern over the proposed rate increases and their effect on local economies; and

WHEREAS. There is considerable concern that such rate increases would further reduce the Bonneville Power Administration's sales and enlarge the current electricity surplus, especially since oil and gas prices in the Pacific Northwest have dropped twenty-five to forty-five percent in the past year; and

WHEREAS. The Senate recognizes that the Bonneville Power Administration has an obligation to make scheduled payments to the federal treasury in full and on time and that the Pacific Northwest region has firmly committed itself to such repayments; and

WHEREAS. The proposed rate increases are in part the result of plans to increase the Bonneville Power Administration's program spending by some $334 million per year, or fifteen percent; and

WHEREAS. The Senate is concerned that the Bonneville Power Administration receive any rate increase necessary to maintain its financial health and meet its obligations, but that any rate increase be held to the minimum sufficient to accomplish this goal; and

WHEREAS. Some of the Bonneville Power Administration's costs are beyond the agency's direct control and can be addressed only by Congress, such as increases in ratepayer-funded costs of the Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation; and

WHEREAS. The Bonneville Power Administration's proposed budget contains risk mitigation measures that might be unnecessary with an annual rate review process; and

WHEREAS. Further scrutiny might reveal other areas where the Bonneville Power Administrations's budget could be reduced without affecting the long-term costs of power;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Senate express its concern that the Bonneville Power Administration's proposed budget be given careful scrutiny, that the Bonneville Power administration be required to demonstrate that any rate increase is necessary to meet its payments to the federal treasury and costs beyond the agency's direct control and that an annual rate review be considered to reduce the need for budget contingencies; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be immediately transmitted by the Secretary of the Senate to each member of Congress from the states of Washington, Idaho, Oregon and Montana.

WHEREAS. This same week has also been declared "Vocational Education Week" nationally, as determined by President Ronald Reagan and the United States Congress; and

WHEREAS. The economic vitality of this state is directly related to the skills of its trained work force; and

WHEREAS. Washington State's school districts, vocational technical institutes, skills centers, community colleges, community-based organizations and private training agencies provide the technical education and training programs to individuals seeking to acquire and update their employable skills; and

WHEREAS. Both business and labor cooperate in and benefit from the vocational education and training in Washington; and
WHEREAS, Over four million dollars is spent for the vocational education and training of over two-hundred and fifty thousand people annually in Washington, just in the public educational institutions alone;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Washington State Senate recognize and honor the efforts of the thousands of individuals who plan, direct, implement and benefit from the state’s vocational education and training programs, which improve the quality of life for each of us, for our entire state, and during the entire year, but especially during “Vocational Education Week”.

before us a striking amendment and I think the intention was to take the striking amendment and consider the various amendments, such as Senator Rinehart's, as amendments to the striking amendment. If it would be possible—if Senator Rinehart... could withdraw this particular amendment and allow me to move the adoption of the striking amendment—then she could move the adoption of her amendment to the striking amendment, we could proceed in that fashion. That would be preferable, if that would be possible, Mr. President."

REMARKS BY SENATOR PULLEN

Senator Pullen: "I think there are other amendments to the bill, if I'm not mistaken—to the basic bill. Traditionally, we pick perfecting amendments first. I think that if we took a striking amendment first, then anyone who has perfecting amendments would be precluded the opportunity to perfect. Also, it is conceivable, after the perfecting amendments are adopted, if any are, that could change the bodies feeling with regard to whether we want to consider a striking amendment."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "Your remarks are well taken Senator Pullen, but it is up to the Senate as to what they desire."

Sec. 401. Section 1, chapter 119, Laws of 1974 ex. sess. and RCW 48.21.160 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature recognizes that chemical dependency is a disease and, as such, warrants the same attention from the health care industry as other similarly serious diseases warrant; the legislature further recognizes that (only Very infrequently do) health insurance contracts and contracts for health care services include inconsistent provisions providing benefits for the treatment of chemical dependency. In order to assist the many citizens of this state who suffer from the disease of chemical dependency, and who are presently effectively precluded from obtaining adequate coverage for medical assistance under the terms of their health insurance contract or health care service contract, the legislature hereby declares that provisions providing benefits for the treatment of chemical dependency rendered to the insured by an alcoholism or drug treatment facility which is an approved treatment facility under RCW 69.54.030 or 70.96A.020(2).

Sec. 404. Section 4, chapter 119, Laws of 1974 ex. sess. as amended by section 14, chapter 266, Laws of 1975 1st ex. sess. and RCW 48.44.240 are each amended to read as follows:

Each group contract for health care services which is delivered or issued for delivery or renewed, on or after January 1, 1975, and which insures for hospital or medical care shall contain provisions providing benefits for the treatment of chemical dependency rendered to the insured by an alcoholism or drug treatment facility which is an approved treatment facility under RCW 69.54.030 or 70.96A.020(2).

PART V

ABATEMENT

NEW SECTION. Sec. 501. Every building or unit within a building used for the purpose of unlawfully manufacturing, delivering, selling, storing, or giving away any controlled substance as defined in chapter 69.50 RCW, legend drug as defined in chapter 69.41 RCW, or imitation controlled substances as defined in chapter 69.52 RCW, and every building or unit within a building wherein or upon which such acts take place, is a nuisance which shall be enjoined, abated, and prevented, whether it is a public or private nuisance.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 502. Any complaint filed under this chapter shall be verified or accompanied by affidavit.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 503. Upon a sufficient showing on a motion for a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction, the court shall grant such preliminary equitable relief as is necessary to prevent the continuance or recurrence of the nuisance pending final resolution of the matter on the merits.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 504. No temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction may issue under this chapter except upon the giving of security by the applicant, in such sum as the court deems proper, for the payment of such costs and damages as may be incurred or suffered by any party who is found to have been wrongfully restrained or enjoined. No security may be required of the state of Washington, municipal corporations, or political subdivisions of the state of Washington.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 505. An action under this chapter shall have precedence over all other actions, except prior matters of the same character, criminal proceedings, election contests, hearings on temporary restraining orders and injunctions, and actions to forfeit vehicles used in violation of the uniform controlled substances act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 506. (1) If the complaint under this chapter is filed by a citizen, it shall not be dismissed by the citizen for want of prosecution except upon a sworn statement made by the citizen and the citizen's attorney, if the citizen has one, setting forth the reasons why the action should be dismissed, and by dismissal ordered by the court.

(2) In case of failure to prosecute the action with reasonable diligence, or at the request of the plaintiff, the court, in its discretion, may substitute any other citizen consenting thereto for the plaintiff.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 507. If the existence of the nuisance is established in the action, an order of abatement shall be entered as part of the final judgment in the case. Plaintiff's costs in the action, including those of abatement, are a lien upon the building or unit within a building. The lien is enforceable and collectible by execution issued by order of the court.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 508. An intentional or wilful violation of a restraining order, preliminary injunction, or order of abatement under this chapter is punishable as a contempt of court by a fine of not less than two hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than one nor more than six months, or by both.
NEW SECTION. Sec. 509. Any final order of abatement issued under this chapter shall:
(1) Direct the removal of all items subject to seizure and forfeiture pursuant to RCW 69.50-505 from the building or unit within a building, and direct their disposition pursuant to the forfeiture provisions of RCW 69.50.505;
(2) Provide for the immediate closure of the building or unit within a building against its use for any purpose, and for keeping it closed for a period of one year unless released sooner as provided in this chapter; and
(3) State that while the order of abatement remains in effect the building or unit within a building shall remain in the custody of the court.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 510. In all actions brought under this chapter, the proceeds and all moneys forfeited pursuant to the forfeiture provisions of RCW 69.50.505 shall be applied as follows:
(1) First, to the fees and costs of the removal and sale;
(2) Second, to the allowances and costs of closing and keeping closed the building or unit within a building;
(3) Third, to the payment of the plaintiff's costs in the action; and
(4) Fourth, the balance, if any, to the owner of the property.
If the proceeds of the sale of items subject to seizure and forfeiture do not fully discharge all of the costs, fees, and allowances, the building or unit within a building shall then also be sold under execution issued upon the order of the court, and the proceeds of the sale shall be applied in like manner.

No building or unit within a building may be sold pursuant to this section unless the court finds and concludes that the owner of the building or place had actual or constructive knowledge or notice of the existence of the nuisance, however, this shall not be construed as limiting or prohibiting the entry of any final order of abatement providing for the immediate closure of the building or unit within a building pursuant to this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 511. (1) If the owner of the building or unit within a building has not been guilty of any contempt of court in the proceedings, and appears and pays all costs, fees, and allowances, that are a lien on the building or unit within a building and files a bond in the full value of the property, to be ascertained by the court, with sureties, to be approved by the court, conditioned that the owner will immediately abate any such nuisance that may exist at the building or unit within a building and prevent it from being a nuisance within a period of one year thereafter, the court shall, if satisfied of the owner's good faith, order the building or unit within a building to be delivered to the owner, and the order of abatement cancelled so far as it may relate to the property.
(2) The release of property under this chapter does not release it from any judgment, lien, penalty, or liability to which it may be subject.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 512. Whenever the owner of a building or unit within a building upon which the act or acts constituting the contempt have been committed, or the owner of any interest therein, has been guilty of a contempt of court, and fined in any proceedings under this chapter, the fine is a lien upon the building or unit within a building to the extent of his or her interest in it. The lien is enforceable and collectible by execution issued by order of the court.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 513. The abatement of a nuisance under this chapter does not prejudice the right of any person to recover damages for its past existence.

er's good faith, order the building or unit within a building to be delivered to the owner, and the order of abatement cancelled so far as it may relate to the property.

(2) The release of property under this chapter does not release it from any judgment, lien, penalty or liability to which it may be subject, except as provided in subsection (1)."

Debate ensued.
Senator Deccio: "Senator Bottiger, I think I go along with what you are trying to do. Would there be a provision in the law, if this amendment passed, if the person who owned the house was in some way involved with the activities even though it was a rental house?"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator, the amendment says, 'Within a building, if the court finds that the owner'—and if I can leave out a few words—'had no actual or constructive knowledge of the existence of the nuisance.' Now, if he is getting $6,000 a month for a $600 a month house, I would suggest he had some knowledge of what was going on, but the court would have to find that he knew, or should have known what was going on."

Senator Deccio: "Thank you, Senator Bottiger. We don't have $6,000 rental houses, but I'll tell you some of the rents they are getting for those kinds of occupancies in Yakima, it just makes you wonder what does go on there. So, I'm glad that's in there. Thank you."

Further debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5070 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Nelson: "Senator Talmadge, we've covered a good deal of the sections and the parts of this measure throughout the debate this morning, but the one part that has been of concern to many, is Part IV, dealing with treatment. For the record, I'd like to ask a question regarding that particular Part IV of the bill. If we enact this measure, will we create a new mandated benefit for the treatment of dependency on a controlled substance?"

Senator Talmadge: "Senator Nelson, no. This legislation does not create a new benefit. If you refer to Section 402, for example, you will note that the benefit is for the treatment of the disease of chemical dependency which can be either alcoholism, or dependency on a controlled substance, or both. We have not created a new benefit. We have simply redefined what is covered by the existing single benefit. For example, assuming the benefit is $5,000, that benefit is to cover the treatment of alcoholism, or chemical dependency, or both. In effect, people who have not previously been able to get coverage for chemical dependency, will be permitted to get coverage for chemical dependency, under this provision."

Further debate ensued.

Senator Bailey moved that Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5070 be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Nelson: "Senator Talmadge, on page 2 of this measure, Subsection 5, I think Senator, we realize that many battered woman are fearful of further abuse to their children or to themselves if they report some suspected abuse. Would the requirements to report, as quoted here, 'as soon as reasonably possible,' allow a battered woman to report suspected abuse, after she has taken steps to secure the safety of the children and herself?"

Senator Talmadge: "Yes, Senator Nelson. The prosecutor would need to consider any mitigating circumstances which would include, a battered woman's need to get her children and herself to safety before she is able to report a suspected abuse. The intention is that she do that as soon as possible, but she would be protected from being compelled to report in a circumstance where she was subject to potential battering."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Senator Talmadge, if a person were witnessing a neighbor spanking his or her child, would the neighbor have to report this to the authorities under the terms of this bill?"

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, it would be only in circumstances that suggested the child was being subjected to abuse. If there were the usual kinds of spanking situation, I think not. However, if the person saw the neighbor, for example, taking some sort of object to the child, a serious object to the child, engaging in a certain set of circumstances where it was clear to that individual, as a reasonable person observing the situation, that the child was being abused, then the individual would have to make some sort of telephone call as soon as possible."

SENATE BILL NO. 5040, by Senator Rasmussen
Requiring the rectification of boundary discrepancies prior to plat approval.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Halsan moved the following amendment by Senators Halsan and McCaslin be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"Sec. 1. Section 6, chapter 271, Laws of 1969 ex. sess. as amended by section 3, chapter 134, Laws of 1974 ex. sess. and RCW 58.17.060 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislative body of a city, town, or county shall adopt regulations and procedures, and appoint administrative personnel for the summary approval of short plats and short subdivisions, or revision thereof. Such regulations shall be adopted by ordinance and may contain wholly different requirements than those governing the approval of preliminary and final plats of subdivisions and may require surveys and monumentations and shall require filing of a short plat for record in the office of the county auditor: PROVIDED, That such regulations must contain a requirement that land in short subdivisions may not be further divided in any manner within a period of five years without the filing of a final plat: PROVIDED FURTHER, That such regulations are not required to contain a penalty clause as provided in RCW 36.32.120 and may provide for wholly injunctive relief.

Ordinances requiring surveys may permit short plat approval before commencement of the survey, contingent upon completion of the survey, prior to filing the short plat. If the survey reveals a discrepancy in boundary lines, the short plat shall not be given final approval until the discrepancy has been rectified and the title has been quieted."

NEW SECTION, Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 58.17 RCW to read as follows:

No plat shall be approved by any city, town, or county where the survey required under RCW 58.17.060 or 58.17.160 reveals a discrepancy in boundary lines until the discrepancy has been rectified and the title has been quieted."

Debate ensued.
POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bluechel: "Senator Halsan, as I read your amendment, it seems to indicate that short platting is a two-step procedure. Is that correct in all counties and cities, including charter counties, or is it a one-step procedure?"

Senator Halsan: "Under the present practice, depending on the county, the survey may or may not be required, depending on whether the county legislative authority has, in fact, requested or required that to be done. The part that you see as being, potentially, a two-step procedure, is the part that facilitates the short platting and allows the developer, or a person who wishes to short plat, to request approval of that and find out whether it is going to be approved before they invest in maybe thousands of dollars in a survey. It would allow the developer, or the person requesting a short plat, to get approval before they spend a great deal of money. It is not really two steps, but it allows conditional approval."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Barr: "Senator Halsan, I just wonder if the last words on your amendment 'and the title quieted,' isn't going to open up the door and go so far beyond what you are worrying about in the surveys, I doubt if you even need that on there—'that the title be quieted'—because that could be interpreted to mean that it would have to be quieted for a lot of other reasons than what you are addressing in this amendment. I would suggest that you just drop that off, unless you have a good reason for it to be on there. That opens up Pandora's Box for an awful lot of confusion, it seems to me."

Senator Halsan: "Senator Barr, I think in answer to your question in the first instance and for legislative intent and in the second instance, that the idea is that if there is a discrepancy that arises in the course of the application for a short plat, the discrepancy in the boundary line should be cleared up before, in fact, the plat is approved. I think that anyone wishing to buy a piece of property and finds out there is a wrong property line in the process of getting a short plat, would do that as a matter of course before they put their money in to the situation.

"As I say, for purposes of legislative intent, 'the title quieted,' is a term used relative to when there is a boundary line and you get that shifted to where it should be and that is all ironed out legally, you are quieting the title as to that. Your concern as to whether the title should be quieted relative to all other matters or clouds upon the title is not the intent of this particular bill—that quieting of the title as to that property line, that might be a discrepancy. For purposes of legislative intent, that is what we intend to do."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the adoption of the amendment by Senators Halsan and McCaslin.

The motion by Senator Halsan carried and the amendment was adopted.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Halsan, the following title amendment was adopted:

On page 1, line 1 of the title, after "land," strike the remainder of the title and insert "amending RCW 58.17.060; and adding a new section to chapter 58.17 RCW."

On motion of Senator Halsan, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5040 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Vognild, the rules were suspended. Substitute Senate Bill No. 5046 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

REMARKS BY SENATOR BOTTIGER

Senator Bottiger: "Mr. President and members of the Senate, Senate Bill 5046 comes about as a result of complaints that were received about riders that were put on insurance policies—medical insurance policies—that had the effect of excluding a great deal of what we would normally hope would be covered, because the insured had a prior injury of some kind. In one case, it was a back injury resulting in a fused disk, then the rider covered any injury of the back to be suffered in the future. It just went too far and the committee wrote a substitute bill to narrow it down and basically, it requires the insurance company to consider lifting the waiver after a five year period of time—it expired when there was no medical treatment whatsoever relating to the waivered condition. I think it resolves what may be a small problem in a proper way."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5046.

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5046 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 43; absent, 3; excused, 3.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Rasmussen moved that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 2, line 15, after "checks" insert "credit cards"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Hansen: "Slim, I agree with everything you have said, but is this the vehicle that you want to add it to? This is the Department of Licensing on licensing your automobile. You are talking about real estate transactions, on paying your taxes on the real estate. Now, will this cover, by putting it on this, is this going to achieve what you are trying to achieve?"

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you, Senator Hansen, we'll attach that to the other bill that comes along. This is a start and you have to start some place. It's only a small start and by the way, when you go to buy your license now days, it's not cheap, so it will help."

Senator Hansen: "I know that excise tax has been pretty steep."

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you, Senator Hansen. I think it's a good start."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Rasmussen, I have not been following this like I should have, but the word credit card immediately makes me think that some credit card companies discount."

Senator Rasmussen: "You mean like the Sears Roebuck Discover charge where they don't charge you for the card?"

Senator Deccio: "American Express discounts, most of them discount."

Senator Rasmussen: "The way the credit card works and they have varying rates, they charge the merchant 3 percent or 4 percent and then they charge you, also. This would not allow them to make that charge. This merely says that if the county auditor or the license department will accept the credit card and they have the agreement with the credit card people. I'm saying that our county auditor did do that for years until the state auditor ruled there was no law permitting it. This will permit it and the state cannot pay the discount that the ordinary merchant is charged."
Senator Deccio: Thank you.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senator Rasmussen.

The motion by Senator Rasmussen carried and the amendment was adopted.

(h) Beginning July 1, 1985, a contribution-paying base year employer, not otherwise eligible for relief of charges for benefits under this section, may receive such relief if:

(b) A grant of up to eight thousand dollars per year may be made under this section to those eligible stations operating at least twelve hours per day, three hundred sixty-five days each year, with transmitting facilities not fully developed under federal communications commission rules.

(c) A grant of up to five thousand dollars per year may be made under this section to those eligible stations operating less than twelve hours per day, three hundred sixty-five days each year, with transmitting facilities developed to the maximum combination of effective radiated power and antenna height possible under the station's federal communications commission license.

(d) A grant of up to one thousand five hundred dollars per year may be made under this section to those eligible stations not meeting the requirements of (a), (b), or (c) of this subsection.

(3) Funding received under this section is specifically for the support of public broadcast operations and facilities improvements which benefit the general community. No funds received under this section may be used for any other purposes by licensees of eligible stations.

On motion of Senator McDermott, the rules were suspended. Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5285 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Patterson: "Senator McDermott, I note in the synopsis of the bill that there is no reference made to our public educational broadcast operations of which there are several in this state and I wondered whether or not this bill would affect them in any way? Would they have to change their mode of operation? How does it affect Spokane, for example? They have an educational station, and I am just wondering what impact this would have on them?"

Senator McDermott: "Senator Patterson, I am sorry I don't have the list of the stations here on the floor, but all the public broadcast stations, both public schools and television stations—we're talking radio and television both—would all receive some money on the basis that is set up in this bill for distribution. It would not change the way they operate. It would just be some operating subsidy. It is really, as Senator Lee suggests, the big stations have a much easier time raising money than some of the small stations do and we give them a boost and give kids and give communities an opportunity to have public stations that are having a great deal of difficulty at this point."

Senator Patterson: "Can you identify the formula of distribution of whatever money that the Ways and Means Committee would make available?"

Senator McDermott: "Senator, in the amendment that Senator Deccio and I just added, this talks about the grant of up to $10,000 per year which may be made to those eligible stations operating at least twelve hours a day, three hundred sixty-five days a year and it limits their transmitting capacities and so forth. It's really a distribution on the basis of the power of the station and the size of it. Each station in this state would get something. Nobody gets left out and the next one is a grant of $8,000 that would be made to eligible stations operating twelve hours a day. $5,000 to those operating less than twelve hours a day, so we are talking about school stations and other things. These are very small subsidies for stations operated in the public sector."

Senator Patterson: "Many of the schools do not operate the number of hours that are referred to in there."

Senator McDermott: "Actually Senator, subsection (c), line 28, says that a grant up to $5,000 may be made to those eligible stations operating less than twelve hours per day, so they get $5,000 even if they were not operating twelve hours a day."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator McDermott, is this a luxury we could do without?"

Senator McDermott: "Senator Rasmussen, some of your questions seem like softball pitches, but I'm afraid we are going with it. The public broadcast system is an alternative to the commercial system which I think deserves to be kept alive in this country. The commercial system is designed to maximize profit and nothing else. The public system operates to provide information on a balanced basis and they have done a fairly good job in this respect. I think it is not a luxury, but a real necessity in a democracy that there be something besides profit-oriented broadcast systems. A minimum, little teeny subsidy would not end the free enterprise system as you and I have come to love it and know it."

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you, Senator McDermott. You have satisfied me. This little teeny subsidy isn't going to keep anybody alive, but it is going to give a little bait so we will have more stations started. I noticed that Senator McDermott took the appropriation out of the bill where it was quite glaring and I asked him at that time if it was coming in the back door and he wouldn't say, 'yes or no,' but I would agree with those who have spoken before that maybe there comes a time when we should say 'no.'"

"This is a new program and I think it was one of the renowned Senators in Washington D.C., who said, 'a million here, a million there and pretty soon you get" a billion and then it starts to count up.’ I would suggest that we say, ‘no,’ and not start up any new programs. We have enough needs right now that we can’t supply — absolutely necessary needs. I, personally, am going to vote no and agree with those who have said this is something we can do without.”

Further debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Wojahn, the rules were suspended. Senate Bill No. 5227 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.
POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Wojahn, just to reiterate the question that was asked in committee, as I understand it, and I guess I am just asking you for a yes or no. Is there anything in this bill that gives the Department any new power to collect, or is it just dealing with present statute and consolidating, as you had indicated?"

Senator Wojahn: "It does not give any new power to the Department for collection and it is not substantive at all. It's simply administrative."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Moore: "Senator Wojahn, does this legislation, in any way, have anything to do with financial responsibility?"

Senator Wojahn: "No. It does not. It simply puts under one title of state government, all of the elements of recovery statutes. It does not have anything substantive at all—no liability."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Senate Bill No. 5227.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Zimmerman: "Mr. President, a point of personal privilege. We just had a little ceremony, an interesting ceremony, in which we honored the Apple Blossom Court from Wenatchee in eastern Washington. There is a point of personal consideration I think we need to recognize. There is an area down along the Columbia River in Klickitat county that has the Mount Adams Orchard and the Sundale Orchard that produce some of the greatest apples in the state of Washington and we never seem to get involved. Senator Lee has suggested and I think we will want to make a personal point that for those from that part of the state, we will consider an apple harvest day—an apple harvest festival. The blossoms are fine, the blossoms are beautiful, but the harvest is what really counts, so keep in mind that there may be an opportunity in the future to honor such a day for the Sundale Orchards and the Mount Adams Orchards, and others in that part of the state, because they too contribute immensely to this great industry in eastern Washington."

MOTION

Senator Metcalf moved that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, line 17, after "aquaculturists" insert "; PROVIDED. That no site may be made available until all necessary permits and approvals have been obtained from local governments and state agencies with land use or shoreline management jurisdiction over the potential site"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Kiskaddon: "Senator Owen, assuming that the problems are really taken care of, would it really do any harm to doubly take care of it?"
Senator Owen: "No, except that the wording of the amendment says that, 'you can't make the site available.' In other words, what the bill does is, it requires the Department of Natural Resources to go out and identify the sites, working with local jurisdictions, that they feel are acceptable to site a pen rearing project. That's okay, but you can't get the permit until the sites have been made available to get the permit and this says, 'you can not make the site available until you get the permit,' so it's a little backwards here. I am saying it's not necessary because you have to go through all the shorelines processes and environmental processes before you can site an aquaculturists project."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Newhouse: "Senator Bottiger, they are going to start cleaning up right away. If they load that stuff on the trucks, you mean they are going to haul it now to Arlington, Oregon?"

Senator Bottiger: "I'd have to yield to Senator Vognild or Senator Nelson. The amendment sounds to me like, if it's defined as hazardous—is that what they defined it? Then that is where it has to go and if your house burns down or my law office burns down, it sounds to me like until they do it, then that is where it has to go and that's frustrating."

Senator Newhouse: "I am very concerned about that and I hate to pass a bill that allocates money for that purpose. If they are going to be hauling fill material from Everett to Arlington, Oregon, its worse than stupid, I think."

Further debate ensued.

Senator McDermott: "Yes, Senator Bottiger, it is. That is a fairly standard amount for a Constitutional amendment election."

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5170, by Senators Hansen, Barr, Gaspard, Bauer, Bailey, Benitz and Patterson

Changing provisions relating to agricultural fees and assessments.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Hansen, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5170 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5170 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

On motion of Senator Hansen, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5170 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: Senator Hansen, in the original bill, I don't know whether it's in the substitute or not, instructs them to spend fifty percent of the fees collected annually for testing and improvement of fruit trees. Does that go to the experimental farms for Washington State University?

Senator Hansen: Yes, it does.

Senator Rasmussen: It's directed into there?

Senator Hansen: That's what it's for.

Senator Rasmussen: Under the collection of fees, is that in the state treasury now to be appropriated, or where does it go?

Senator Hansen: No, it's supposed to go to the Department of Agriculture in their nursery tree fund.

Senator Rasmussen: This group does not have a commission themselves, a nursery commission?

Senator Hansen: No, I don't believe they do.

Senator Rasmussen: Like the apple commission and wheat commission? Okay, thank you, Senator Hansen.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Lee: Senator Hansen, we've had this bill back and forth between us a number of times when they first raised their fees from $25 up to $100 for everybody and then they discovered that there were a bunch of little folks that raised just one sort of thing—maybe they raised begonias, or cactus, or something and were swept up into this particular thing. We came back and we had a two-tiered fee and now that's being completely eliminated and we are saying a fee may be established by the Director by rule. The question I would like to ask you is, was there discussion in your committee that possibly this very special kind of procedure—the root stock, the fruit trees and so on—should be a separate category from the small nursery dealer, almost the backyard specialist who has just one sort of thing? The thing that happened to us when they raised the fee so high, made it apply to that type of nurseryman, as well as the fruit stock person that requires a lot more inspection, they just plain didn't—they were completely lost as far as the state was concerned and they quit licensing and went underground. What is to stop this from happening once again?

Senator Hansen: Well, the nursery people who came to us and asked for this other are the nursery dealers who are regulated by the Department of Agriculture, and the nursery dealer licenses are required and the fees for such licenses are set by statute. Retail licenses range from $25 to $100 based on the gross business of the sale. Wholesale licenses range from $50 to $100 based on the gross business sales.
The statute delineates the necessity of license if both retail and wholesale businesses are conducted on the same premises. The gross business sales are determined either by the estimate for the new licensee or the preceding year's sales for the existing license. In addition, the license fees, and annual assessments at one percent are levied on the gross sales price of the wholesale market for all of the fruit trees, fruit tree seedlings, fruit tree root stock sold within the state or shipped from the state, so I really don't think we are touching them."

Senator Lee: "Wait a minute. You're reading the background; you're reading the existing statute. The new one that we have before us today crosses out all of that—every bit of it and simply says that a fee shall be established by the Director by rule."

Senator Hansen: "Up to the limits they have authorized by statute."

Senator Lee: "But in the statute, I've got it here in front of me, that is all crossed out and it is all removed. There is nothing in here in any of the new language that shows any differential in fees between the very specialized kinds of things you are mentioning and the very vital and the need for special kinds of attention of the fruit stock."

Senator Hansen: "I think, to be honest, I can't answer the question you are asking. I think they have come in and they have captured the market on the fruit tree industry and what they are trying to do is raise their own tax to be sure they hold that market that they hold in the United States today. Your question relates to the other folks, so at this time, I can't—."

Senator Lee: "Well, Senator Hansen, would it be all right if we put this down one bill, so you and I could talk a little bit on this?"

Senator Hansen: "Sure."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Lee, further consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5170 was deferred.

There being no objection, the President advanced the Senate to the eighth order of business.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Hansen, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5124 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: “Senator Hansen, in the summary of the bill, I notice that the minimum insurance limits for tow truck operators are reduced from $250,000 to $100,000.”

Senator Hansen: “Yes, when you take in the rural areas, there isn’t enough business and by the time they pay the insurance bond, there is no one left over there running tow trucks, so this is an attempt, in the rural areas, to have a viable tow truck industry in other areas outside of the metropolitan area.”

FURTHER REMARKS BY SENATOR TALMADGE

Senator Talmadge: “Mr. President, members of the Senate, I would have a concern about this bill insofar as you reduce the limits of liability that would be applicable to a tow truck operator. I can understand and appreciate the work that the Transportation Committee has attempted to accomplish here in dealing with the process by which tow truck operators deal with towed vehicles and how that is to take place. However, what you do by reducing the limits of liability for tow truck operators is make available—I guess make unavailable—to people the opportunity to collect, if a tow truck operator is negligent and does serious damage to someone out on the roads of the state of Washington. I think that may be a mistake. I appreciate the concern about liability insurance costs and I suppose I could hasten to add here, that maybe the Tort Reform Act of 1986, didn’t do that which some people thought in the area of tow truck liability premiums. The fact of the matter is, that if you reduce the limits of liability for tow truck operators from $250,000 to $100,000, there are going to be some people who might be seriously injured by negligent operation of tow trucks, who are going to be uncompensated for those kinds of injuries and you will expose tow truck operators’ personal assets—their homes, their businesses, and so forth—to collection rather than have the victims get recourse against their insurance policy. I think that is a mistake. I am going to vote no.”

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5124.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5124 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 38; nays, 9; excused, 2.

On motion of Senator Hansen, the rules were suspended. Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5210 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: “Maybe Senator Metcalf would comment, I notice in our index that the short title of this bill is Water Rights Federal Reserve and I was wondering if there was anything in here dealing with funny money?”

Senator Metcalf: “Thank you, Mr. President and members of the Senate. I saw the title and I was sort of nervous on that myself. I have looked at it thoroughly and I fully support Senator Hansen. This is a good bill and I think we should pass it.”

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5210.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5570, by Senators Kreidler, Bluechel, Bottiger and Stratton

Providing for regulation of incinerator residues.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Kreidler, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5570 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5570 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

Senator Kreidler moved that the following amendment by Senators Kreidler and Bluechel be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

“NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature recognizes that raw garbage poses significant environmental and public health risks. The legislature has recognized that mixed municipal solid waste incineration constitutes a higher waste management priority than the land disposal of untreated mixed municipal solid waste due to its reduction of waste volumes and environmental health risks. The legislature further recognizes that incineration serves as an intermediate technology to further enable implementation of the other higher management priorities of waste reduction and recycling.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 70.95 RCW to read as follows:
Ash residues resulting from the operation of incinerator facilities handling mixed municipal solid waste, including solid waste from residential, commercial, and selected industrial establishments which would otherwise be regulated as a hazardous waste under chapter 70.105
RCW, shall be regulated by the department of ecology pursuant to the provisions of this section as a "special waste" and shall not constitute a "dangerous waste" or "extremely hazardous waste" as set forth in chapter 70.105 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 70.95 RCW to read as follows:
(1) Prior to disposal of "special wastes," owners and/or operators of mixed municipal solid waste incinerator facilities must develop and implement plans for managing the special wastes. These plans shall:
(a) Set forth procedures for the protection of public health, the environment, and employee safety, for all aspects relating to the management of the special wastes;
(b) Require submittal to the department of ecology of annual reports setting forth the results of a testing program to monitor the toxic chemical and physical properties of the special wastes or treated special wastes as necessary to ensure the adequacy of the procedures set forth in the plans submitted pursuant to this section; and
(c) Comply with such requirements as may be established by rule by the department of ecology under chapter 70.95 RCW for management of special wastes.
(2) Prior to disposal of any special waste, each plan developed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall be submitted to the department of ecology for review and approval. Such approval shall be contingent upon the department of ecology finding that the plan adequately addresses the items specified under subsection (1) of this section. Such approval may be con-tioned upon additional requirements necessary to protect human health and the environment, including, but not limited to, special handling requirements, waste segregation or other potential treatment techniques such as neutralization, detoxification, or solidification/stabilization.
(3) The department shall take action to approve, reject, or approve with conditions, the plan submitted pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. Such actions shall occur within ninety days of submittal of the plan by the owner or operator and failure of the department to so act shall constitute approval. The owner or operator may appeal any denial of approval, or con-tditions placed upon approval, to the pollution control hearings board pursuant to the provisions of chapter 43.21B RCW, except that such appeal shall be expedited by the board to the maximum extent possible.
(4) Each plan approved pursuant to subsection (3) of this section shall be incorporated Into the permit issued under chapter 70.95 RCW for the solid waste facility or facilities that manage the special waste.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 70.105 RCW to read as follows:
This chapter does not apply to special wastes regulated under chapter 70.95 RCW: PRO-VIDED, That nothing herein shall affect the department's authorities pursuant to this chapter to implement and enforce the federal resource conservation and recovery act, 42 U.S.C. Sec. 6901 et seq., if such "special wastes" constitute hazardous waste pursuant to the terms of that federal act.

MOTION

The Senate was called to order at 11:17 a.m. by President Cherberg.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5531 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5531.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5531 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 48; excused, 1.

Excused: Senator Peterson - 1.

ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 5531, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

There being no objection, the Senate resumed consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5570 and the pending amendment by Senators Kreidler and Bluechel, deferred earlier today.

MOTION

Senator Saling moved that the following amendments by Senators Saling, West and McCaslin to the Kreidler and Bluechel amendment be considered simultaneously and adopted:

On page 1, line 27 of the amendment by Senator Kreidler, before "Ash residues" insert "(1)"

On page 2, after line 6, insert the following subsection:

"(2) (a) In those counties in which a sole source aquifer has been determined to exist by the administrator of the environmental protection agency prior to January 1, 1987 and pursuant to the safe water drinking act, 42 U.S.C. Sec. 300h-3(e), ash residues as described in subsection (1) of this section shall be regulated as a "hazardous waste" under chapter 70.105 RCW, unless the owners and/or operators of mixed municipal solid waste incinerator facilities can determine that such ash residues do not exhibit characteristics consistent with the definitions of "dangerous waste" or "extremely hazardous waste" as provided in RCW 70.105.010(5) and RCW 70.105.010(6) and the tests for these wastes contained in the dangerous waste regulations of the Washington Administrative Code 173-303.

(b) At such time that the owners and/or operators of mixed municipal solid waste incinerator facilities determine that such ash residues do not constitute hazardous waste under chapter 70.105 RCW, the ash residues shall be regulated by the department of ecology pursuant to the provisions of subsection (1) of this section."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Kreidler, you spoke of raw garbage. I don't think Senator McCaslin's amendment is saying that you can't incinerate, does it?"

Senator Kreidler: "No, it does not, Senator."

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, that's what was bothering me. You keep talking about raw garbage and he's talking about incineration, but to let the Department of Ecology make sure that it is not extra hazardous--the remains of the incineration."

Senator Kreidler: "Senator, what I am speaking to is the fact that this particular amendment stands to be interpreted as a serious impediment to the alternative of moving toward incineration, which leaves us with our only other viable alternative, which is putting raw garbage in the ground. The only thing you are going to do and I should add this point, the priorities that have been established already in statute are such that waste reduction and recycling are the number one priority. The number three on there would be the alternative of turning to incineration. Those are going to be the priority list of how we are going to get rid of waste, but if you essentially put impediments in the alternative of using incineration, which I contend this particular amendment begins that process—by establishing the Spokane exemption—we're obviously going to turn the clock back and make it much more difficult to do something to protect the environment in the future.

Senator Rasmussen: "Thank you. I don't read all of that into the amendment. I think I'll support it."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendments by Senators Saling, West and McCaslin to the amendment.

The motion by Senator Saling failed and the amendments to the amendment were not adopted.

MOTION

Senator West moved that the following amendment to the amendment by Senators Kreidler and Bluechel be adopted:

On page 3, line 36, after "approval." Insert the "If the department finds good cause to take additional time for processing the application, in which case the department shall send to the operator or owner, in writing, the department's reasons for delaying such action on the application."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottlger: "Senator Vognild, has the Department finally decided what to do with the ash from the community college up in Everett?"

Senator Vognild: "Senator Bottlger, to the best of my knowledge, it is still headed down south at a cost of $85,000."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Bluechel, have you ever heard that saying, 'haste makes waste?' That is true. Thank you for your answer."

Senator Bluechel: "Thank you, Senator. Senator Rasmussen, the haste in this case is to get rid of the waste."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senator West to the amendment.

The motion by Senator West failed and the amendment to the amendment was not adopted.

MOTION

Senator Warnke moved that the following amendment to the amendment by Senators Kreidler and Bluechel be adopted:

On page 4, after line 19 of the amendment by Senators Kreidler and Bluechel, insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. Nothing in this 1987 act shall allow a solid waste incineration facility to use hazardous chemical wastes as fuel or to allow the disposal, by incineration, of hazardous chemical wastes."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Senator Kreidler, I'm looking in RCW 70.105.010 which lists definitions and I see definitions there that include dangerous wastes, extremely hazardous waste, pesticides, hazardous household substances, and hazardous substances. I do not see a definition for hazardous chemical waste. Could you define for me what is meant by 'hazardous chemical waste?'"

Senator Kreidler: "Senator Pullen, 'hazardous chemical wastes' would be wastes that would certainly be ones that would be classified in such a way that they would be normally placed in Arlington—would be incinerated in a hazardous waste incinerator and the like. This amendment, after discussion with the mover of the amendment, Senator Warnke, clearly has no intention at all to address what would normally be considered solid waste and is only looking toward those exceptions that would be truly hazardous types of material, like I was saying, that would be incinerated and deposited in very special types of procedures outside of what would normally be dealing with solid waste."
Further debate ensued.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senator Warnke to the amendment.
The motion by Senator Warnke failed and the amendment to the amendment was not adopted.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senators Kreidler and Bluechel.
The motion by Senator Kreidler carried and the amendment was adopted.

MOTIONS
On motion of Senator Kreidler, the following title amendment was adopted:
On page I, line I of the title, after "residues," strike the remainder of the title and insert "adding new sections to chapter 70.95 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 70.105 RCW; and creating a new section."

On motion of Senator Kreidler, the rules were suspended. Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5570 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.
Debate ensued.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5570.

ROLL CALL
The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5570 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 39; nays, 7; absent, 2; excused, 1.

Establishing a pilot program to enhance student teaching.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Bauer, the following Committee on Education amendment was adopted:

*NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature recognizes that strong teacher preparation programs are fundamentally important to the success of the state's entire educational system and that clinical field experiences are critical to the success of the teacher preparation programs. The legislature believes that schools, school districts, and the colleges and universities mutually benefit from cooperative relationships to provide prospective teacher candidates with appropriate and necessary student teaching experiences. The legislature further believes that prospective teacher candidates should have field experiences and student teaching opportunities which are, to the extent reasonably possible, reflective of the diversity existing between schools and school districts state-wide.

The legislature intends to establish a temporary grant program to support innovative approaches to providing prospective teachers with a variety of student teaching experiences and to provide school districts state-wide with increased access to student teachers.

*NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) The state board of education shall establish the requirements for a two-year pilot program to enhance the student teaching component of teacher preparation programs to support innovative ways to expand student teaching experiences for prospective teacher candidates and to expand opportunities for student teacher placements in school districts throughout the state. The state board shall adopt necessary rules under chapter 34.04 RCW to carry out this program.

(2) In developing the pilot program requirements, the state board shall include a requirement that each grant application be jointly developed through a process including participation by school building and school district personnel, teacher preparation program personnel, program unit members, and other personnel as appropriate. Primary administration for each grant project shall be the responsibility of one or more of the cooperating grant project participants, as determined by the grant project participants.

*NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. As used in sections 1 through 5 of this act, the term "student teaching" includes all field experiences and opportunities for observation, tutoring, micro-teaching, and extended practicums; clinical and laboratory experiences; and internship experiences in educational settings.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) The superintendent of public instruction is authorized to award grant funding on a competitive grant basis.
(2) Each grant application shall include provisions for providing appropriate and necessary training in observation and supervision and assistance skills and techniques for each participating school district cooperating teacher, and other building or district personnel who may be participants in a team concept to support the student teacher, and for each individual who is affiliated with a teacher preparation program or programs as a field-based supervisor of student teachers.
(3) In developing the grant proposals, grant requestors are encouraged but not required to consider such models or model components as:
(a) Contracting or otherwise cooperating with an educational service district to base a supervisor or supervisors in the educational service district to supervise student teachers placed into school districts located within the educational service district;
(b) Contracting or otherwise cooperating with a community college district to base a supervisor or supervisors in the community college district to supervise student teachers placed into school districts located within the boundaries of the community college district;
(c) Training cooperating teachers to serve also as the supervisor for participating institutions;
(d) Contractual or other cooperative arrangements between teacher preparation programs to allow one institution to serve a geographic area of the state not normally served by that institution; and
(e) Contractual or other cooperative arrangements between two or more teacher preparation programs to jointly serve a geographic area of the state not normally served by the institutions.
(4) In approving grant applications for funding, the state board of education shall assure that no more than one grant project is approved such project shall be of a nature as suggested in subsection (3)(a) of this section. The state board shall also give priority consideration to approving grant projects as suggested in subsection (3)(b) and (e) of this section.
(5) The state board of education shall give priority consideration to approving grant applications designed to involve unserved or underserved school districts and shall assure, to the extent possible, that the grant projects approved for funding reflect a geographic sampling of the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. Any compensation provided to certificated school district employees pursuant to the pilot program established under sections 1 through 6 of this act shall not be deemed compensation for the purposes of salary lid compliance under RCW 28A.58.095.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. The state board of education shall evaluate the pilot projects and submit a report to the legislature not later than January 1, 1990, including findings and recommendations.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. This act shall expire January 1, 1990.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. The sum of two hundred fifty thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated from the general fund to the superintendent of public instruction for the biennium ending June 30, 1989, to carry out the purposes of this act.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Rasmussen moved that the following amendment by Senators Rasmussen, Gaspard, Wojahn, Bottiger and Smitherman be adopted:

On page 2, after line 19, insert the following:

"Sec. 2. Section 1, chapter 21, Laws of 1975 1st ex. sess. as last amended by section 286, chapter 7, Laws of 1984 and RCW 47.56.725 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department is hereby authorized to enter into a continuing agreement with Pierce, Skagit, and Whatcom counties pursuant to which the department shall, from time to time, direct the distribution to each of the counties the amounts authorized in subsection (2) of this section in accordance with RCW 46.68.100.

(2) The department is authorized to include in each such continuing agreement a provision for the distribution to each such county funds to reimburse the county for ((fifty)) eighty percent of the deficit incurred during each previous fiscal year in the operation and maintenance of the ferry system owned and operated by the county, commencing with the fiscal year ending June 30, 1976. The total amount to be reimbursed to Pierce, Skagit, and Whatcom counties collectively shall not exceed five hundred thousand dollars in any biennium. Each county agreement shall contain a requirement that the county shall maintain tolls on its ferries at levels sufficient to produce aggregate annual revenues at least equal to the annual revenue of the county’s ferry system in calendar year 1975.

(3) The annual fiscal year deficit, if any, shall be determined by Pierce, Skagit, and Whatcom counties subject to review and approval of the department. The annual fiscal year deficit is defined as the total of operations and maintenance expenditures less the sum of ferry toll revenues and that portion of fuel tax revenue distributions which are attributable to the county ferry as determined by the department. Distribution of the amounts authorized by subsection (2) of this section by the state treasurer shall be directed by the department upon the receipt of properly executed vouchers from each county."

Renumber the sections consecutively.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bluechel: "Senator Rasmussen, the amendment here raises the distribution from the fund, and I’m not sure which fund this is and that is one of the questions, from fifty percent to eighty percent for the ferry subsidy for Pierce, Skagit and Whatcom counties. Is this general fund or highway fund money, how much is involved and what’s the total fiscal cost of this amendment?"

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Bluechel, the fund is from the highway fund. We were not tempted to tap the general fund because the general fund is hard up. The eighty percent is the same amount as Wahkiakum County was asking for as an increase from the fifty percent. The dollar amount would not be known until the Transportation Commission reviewed the figures and comes up with what would be the deficit that they were financing. I couldn’t tell you that, but it is for a state purpose. It never used to be because McNeil Island Penitentiary was run by the federal government. Now, McNeil Island is a state prison and whenever they have extra loads to go over there, they have the ferry system that can take it over--well most of the prisoners, yes, and prisoners from King County. Senator Bottiger advised me, so it would be of great interest to the King County people to support this.

"I can’t tell you what the exact figure is, but the county has been operating this ferry for a large number of years and it has the same purpose, a state purpose, as the Wahkiakum ferry. I don’t know what the figure is for the Wahkiakum ferry, but they are proposing to raise the amount up from fifty percent to eighty percent, exactly the same and would serve a very good state purpose."

Senator Bluechel: "Senator Rasmussen, you have done a very good job of avoiding the issue and I am wondering whether anybody really knows, on this floor, just what the difference between the fifty percent and eighty percent subsidy is in this particular case? The second question is, are the funds available from the highway fund? I would think until we know that answer, we really shouldn't vote for the bill."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Vognild: "Mr. President, a point of order. I raise the question of scope and object on the amendment. While the amendment may well have good solid arguments, I would bring the President's attention to the fact that this bill is entitled, 'An act relating to Puget Island-Westport Ferry.' Additionally, if you read into the bill, it determines that it deals only with that particular ferry run. I would suggest that the amendment is beyond the scope and object and should be submitted as a separate bill, so that the merits of those arguments might be considered by the committee."

Further debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Bottiger, further consideration of Senate Bill No. 5159 was deferred.

SECOND READING

Every person licensed to practice midwifery shall register with the director of licensing annually and pay an annual renewal registration fee determined by the director ((as provided in RCW 43.24.086)) on or before the licensee's birth anniversary date. The license of the person shall be renewed for a period of one year. Any failure to register and pay the annual renewal registration fee shall render the license invalid. Debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senator Moore.

The motion by Senator Moore carried and the amendment was adopted.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Moore, the following title amendment was adopted:

On motion of Senator Moore, the rules were suspended. Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5178 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Moore, I am looking at two amendments that I have here on my desk, both listed as second drafts and I don't find the part—on page 10, line 18, that says, 'in which within seven calendar days from the payment in good funds of any portion of the purchase price.' What are 'good funds'?

Senator Moore: "Senator Rasmussen, 'good funds' means that the buyer has put up his money and it has been guaranteed by some bank or it's conceivable that he could put it up in cash."

Senator Rasmussen: "The second question, Senator Moore, has to do with the $500,000 exemption for those that make less than $500,000 in transaction profit. Are they allowed to be exempted?"

Senator Moore: "Yes, they are. Any brokerage firm doing business in this area, legitimately, will probably do——a tiny company would do $500,000 in a month and many companies do $500,000 in a day."

Senator Rasmussen: "$500,000 gross profit?"

Senator Moore: "$500,000 gross profit."

POINT OF INQUIRY
Senator Zimmerman: "Senator Gaspard, in Section 2, it says, 'a student is not eligible for an award under this section if the student is pursuing a degree in theology.' What was the reason for that part of the bill?"

Senator Gaspard: "Yes, Senator Zimmerman. In our view, it was necessary for the separation of the church and state issue."

Senator Zimmerman: "Theology is not being taught in any of the public institutions of this state? I mean philosophy is taught; I am concerned about your narrowing of the bill—interpreting that particular phrase. Is not there, those of you who know more of curriculum, do they not teach theology at the University of Washington?"

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Zimmerman, I don't know off hand, but I am not aware if there is a degree in theology."
Senator Zimmerman: "That particular part—we just noticed this part, not being on the committee."

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Zimmerman, when we drafted the bill with the code reviser, it was their suggestion and private institutions agreed with it. If you want to set the bill over and try to get an answer to this question, that's fine with us."
Senator Zimmerman: "Would you mind doing that? Fine."

Further debate ensued.

MOTION
On motion of Senator Pullen, further consideration of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5558 was deferred.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE
Senator Zimmerman: "Members of the Senate, some of us had to be absent for a while yesterday morning, so I was not here at the time the resolution was taken up on the floor regarding Trooper James Gain of Clark County. I wanted to say a word in his regard simply because two years ago in December of 1985, Trooper Gain was called on to take me—he gave me a ride which I needed, essentially, to get back to Clark County—and I had the opportunity to visit with him on the trip from Cowlitz to Clark County. I found him to be an incredibly bright, interesting and very, very able person. We discussed a wide variety of subjects and I also learned a great deal about the Washington State Patrol that I had not known. I had not known that he had served here in Olympia at the very time that some of us—a few of us—came to the Legislature in 1967. That was the first year we were here. He was working the mansion as a cadet trooper at that time.

"He was one of those typically tall and amazingly big, impressive men, so it was with deep sadness that we learned of his tragic death early this week and I am sorry I was not able to be present yesterday in terms of this particular resolution. I did want you to recognize and have recognized, of course, his funeral being today, that there is the opportunity for people who wish, to help in terms of the Washington State Trooper Association in Vancouver. I found him to be an incredible man and I just wanted to add my words to the memory of this particular individual who served the state so well."

There being no objection, the Senate resumed consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5401, deferred on second reading earlier today.

MOTION

Senator Craswell moved that the following amendment by Senators Craswell and Stratton be adopted:

On page 2, beginning on line 22, after "treatment" strike all material through "law," on line 23 and insert ". Decisions regarding the withholding or withdrawal of life-sustaining treatments are exclusively regulated by this chapter."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Vognild, further consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5401 was deferred.

SECOND READING

Eliminating certain restrictions on purchase of beer by licensed beer retailers.
The bill was read the second time.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Warnke, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5265 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

That is what I meant by seemingly we have the support generally of all parties. Now, I understand and I know where these amendments are coming from, but the final determination was up to the committee. The bill, as amended, did receive the majority of the committee’s support. Senator Pullen: "Well, Senator Newhouse, as you very well know, this whole area of death with dignity is fraught with all kinds of questions and I suspect it is not possible to write an amendment or even write a law that carries rules for every specific situation. MOTION

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 5054 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Garrett, I am looking at this and thinking about the insider trading scandals that are going on. I am just wondering if those people who work for the county have privileged information that would allow a county employer or county officer to have an edge on a member of the public who was also interested in having the opportunity of obtaining the property?"

Senator Garrett: "In the first place, of course, Senator Deccio, no elected county official or county employee would take advantage of anything like that. Even if they had the opportunity, they wouldn't do it.

"In the second place, the sale is at a public auction after it is advertised. The thought of the committee and those of us who took a great deal of time to research and study, looking into all aspects of what this bill might really accomplish for local government, as well as the tax paying public, we came to the conclusion that it would be of considerable advantage for the county taxpayers because in most instances, the county officials and the employees would probably be better qualified and have more money, because of a generous salary and the things that they have—they would be in a position to possibly bid higher. Consequently, the county would realize, probably, a lot more money from this. So, with all of our research, we came to the conclusion that there really would be an advantage to the taxpayers in the county. Now, I know you expected a much longer answer than this, but that's about all the information that I have."

Further debate ensued.

If the court authorizes an adoption, the court may set qualifications for those interested in adopting the animal and the adoption process shall be open to the public. If an animal is to be sold, it shall be sold at public auction. Proceeds from the sale shall be applied as follows: (a) First, to the fees and costs of the removal and sale; (b) second, to the costs of caring for the animal; and (c) third, the balance, if any, to the owner of the animal.

(2) Persons caring for an animal pending trial shall be ineligible to adopt that animal.

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively.

Senator Moore moved that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 3, after line 33, insert the following:

·NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The legislature finds and declares that certain research activities using animals constitute cruelty as provided in RCW 16.52.010. The legislature further finds and declares that the animal care committee of the University of Washington authorizes many such research activities and that such decisions should be made in open public meetings. Therefore, the animal care committee of the university is hereby subject to chapter 42.30 RCW, the open public meetings act.
POINT OF ORDER

Senator Hansen: "Mr. President, a point of order. I move this is out of the scope and object of the bill we have before us. I believe this was brought up in the total hearings that we had and Senator Moore was guaranteed that we would put a study together to go to the University. The problem with opening any research college up for the rank and file of every environmentalist would be unconscionable. What's one man's cruelty is a matter of doing business in another man's language, so this does expand the scope and object of the bill. We are talking about animals in the private sector out there, not in the research college."

On motion of Senator Vognild, further consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5608 was deferred.

I’ve always taken my check home and I paid it directly to my wife as did many people on the floor. I think you are taking advantage of the men with that kind of description. It might be for those with a divorce, for those people with the death of a spouse, or a disability. I am sure the homemakers were getting paid all the time with whomever was working. If my wife was working, she’d give the check to me and I’d give it to her. So, it’s a fair exchange."

Senator McDermott: "Senator Newhouse, we are ultimately going to have to come to some resolution to that conflict. You are correct in picking it up. It is something that will ultimately be resolved. I am not sure the portability bill is going to make it all the way to the Governor’s desk, so I thought that it was reasonable that we send along a bill that I am quite certain, will make the Governor’s desk."

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5181 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Tanner, this bill has a lot of merit and I'm all for it. Part of it that's bothering me is, how do you define 'trash?' One person's trash is another person's treasure and that's why a lot of us go down to the Salvation Army looking for treasure. I am concerned because if I were to come and dump a load of aluminum cans, somebody might say that is trash, yet it's very valuable and the same goes for newspapers—they are collecting those now. What type of definition do you have for the trash that is not permitted?"

Senator Tanner: "Senator Rasmussen, I thank you for asking that question and only charging me $10 for asking it. The definition that is used in the bill including trash, includes, but is not limited to, items that have deteriorated to the extent that they are no longer of monetary value or of use for the purposes they were intended.

"Garbage, including organic matter or litter, in or around a receptacle, is not allowed. The definition that's in there was worked quite a bit and is about the best definition we could come up with. I agree with you that there is a problem with defining trash in terms of what's valuable to one person, may not be to another. One of the primary purposes of this bill was to allow, and in fact, require that a notice be posted on these receptacles that it is a criminal penalty to dispose of trash in there and that, along with a couple fairly visible prosecutions, are believed to be the major deterrent to this problem as opposed to, for instance, a long series of prosecutions. I think the existence of the statute and the notice posted on the container, will do the most good."

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Tanner, thank you for that explanation. One question on the posting on the boxes. Are they going to define what trash they will accept and what they won't?"
Senator Tanner: "There was some discussion of identifying a container as accepting, for instance, clothing versus other things like newspapers and I think the testimony was that most often, that is done anyway. The notices that will be posted on these containers will be large and make it very clear that it is illegal to dump any trash in them."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5181.

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5181 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 48; excused, 1.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bolliger: "Senator Barr, I understand this bill is that those people in that situation would like to keep the advantage they had of not having laid-off a lot of people?"

Senator Barr: "Yes, that's true."

Senator Bolliger: "In our law office, every once in a while we have a partner subtracted, but we have a very good experience rating so we don't pay any penalties and it's not fair, just because you change your name by adding a new partner, to have to pay higher penalties."

Senator Barr: "That's exactly right. If they go along and haven't laid-off any people then they change their name and the new rate is quite a bit higher, then they do not have, under current law, the opportunity to use their experience rating from before in their old name."

Senator Bolliger: "Do you see any difference if they say, had a contract with a labor union and they changed their name and then wanted to get out of the contract?"

Senator Barr: "I can't relate that to the situation at all."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Halsan, the rules were suspended. Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5301 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.
Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Halsan, I would hope that it's not the intent of the Senate that a dog who chases other dogs off the owner's property would be considered to be a potentially dangerous dog, because, at least with my dog, on occasion catches up with the dog he is chasing off and gives them a nip. I notice we are saying, 'means any dog that when unprovoked.' Usually, he is unprovoked other than somebody comes into the yard. It goes on to say, 'inflicts bites on a human or domestic animal.' I hope it is not our intent to—"

Senator Halsan: "It is not the intent of the legislation to do that. I would note that, in fact, there are provisions in there that willful trespassers do not bring a dog within the gamut of the act if, in fact, they are in the course of a willful trespass. There are also provisions relative to guard work of dogs and that would, as well, be potentially very easy to argue as being a provoked act by the animals. No, it is not the intent of the language to cover that situation. However, if your dog went onto other peoples' property and was chasing animals there, that might be a different story."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5301.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5834, by Senators Gaspard, Bailey, Bauer and Benitz
Changing common school curriculum requirements to include science with an emphasis on the environment.

The bill was read the second time.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Gaspard, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 5834 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Patterson: "Senator Gaspard, there's no indicated fiscal impact on this bill and as I read the language, environmental science will become a part of basic education in this state. The question of qualified teachers and whether or not there will be requirements for additional teachers in order to meet the now added environmental science program, I just wonder if anyone has taken a look at the potential additional cost to the total system? I was just wondering if you have done that?"

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Patterson, I have before me a fiscal note prepared. Let me read part of that note to you. 'This has no fiscal impact on the Superintendent of Public Instruction's Office, because curriculum guidelines for science have already been developed.' These guidelines include environmental science."

Senator Patterson: "My question is, having qualified teachers in the area of environmental science. I'm in support of the legislation. I am merely trying to point out that this will make it part of basic education and there will be some additional costs. I support the concept, but I think that we should at least raise the flag, at this point in time, to say there are going to be in the future some major additional costs—that each school in this state will be required to offer, as part of the mandatory curriculum, and that will cost additional dollars. I just wanted to point that out."

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Patterson, in further response, for the last three years that this issue has been before us, we have not had any opposition from any of the school districts at all. Certainly, if the school districts are not supplying the type of materials that might be needed for environmental science, there might be some costs involved in supplying that material. It's my understanding that most school districts are and I'm not aware of any that aren't, because it hasn't been brought to our attention."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator DeJarnatt: "Senator Gaspard, is the intent of this to have something that is beyond the regular prescribed science classes, or are these units to be incorporated within presently taught science programs?"

Senator Gaspard: "Senator DeJarnatt, I would say it is to be included within the current units. It would not necessarily establish any new units."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Gaspard, Senator DeJarnatt touched on something on what my question was. Is this law really needed? Let me go a little further with that. How many hours of environmental science does this require? Let me explain why I am asking this question, Senator Gaspard, while you are thinking over the answer. I recall hearing a very lively discussion in our caucus and this is not revealing anything to the other side. In our caucus, it was suggested that maybe we pass the bill and stop doing so much regulating and let the schools get back to educating. I think you can recall that—you participated. Here we are passing another regulation and that is why I ask you, is it needed? Senator DeJarnatt indicated there is study of science, geography and related subjects and here we are telling them they have to go into environmental science. Well, everyone is for it, just like motherhood. Can you explain why we need the law?"
FIFTY-NINTH DAY, MARCH 11, 1987 581

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Rasmussen, if the criteria that you should use to judge whether or not this bill is necessary in order to prevent the fall of western civilization, I guess then, no, it's not necessary, but certainly it's important for a number of people and that is why it was brought to us. It makes some, I think, common sense approaches to our curriculum in high schools and I think it makes sense. We can argue and debate whether or not you want to include environmental sciences. It will probably not do a great deal to change the major school districts operations, but it is one bill that is the result of a task force of which both the environmental groups and industry has recommended to us to make the change."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Senate Bill No. 5834.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Kreidler, the rules were suspended, Senate Bill No. 5939 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McDonald: "Senator Smitherman, what exactly is meant by 'on-site sewage systems'? Are you talking about septic tanks or are you talking about something for a much larger community?"

Senator Smitherman: "Senator McDonald, there are a number of systems that have been tested in Europe, for example. I could give some brand names, but I don't think that would be appropriate. These systems are actually self-contained systems that are supposed to, in some cases, treat sewage on-site to secondary standards and the only thing that comes out of those systems then, is almost like clear water. They have to be cleaned though occasionally, at least once a year in everyone that I've seen, but there are a number of different systems that are available."

Senator McDonald: "Are we talking about single family dwellings or are you talking about more extensive?"
Senator Smitherman: "In the case of Gig Harbor, there is a system that has been installed and it is for a multiple unit and one that has also been installed for a business. It's possible for these units to handle up to—the ones that I've seen and materials I've read on it—up to one hundred units of residential dwellings, some even larger, I guess."

Further debate ensued.

On page 1, line 22, after "dollars" insert, Any appeal taken by a party who requested the exercise of jurisdiction by the small claims department shall be de novo to the district court.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Halsan, the present limit is one thousand dollars? Is that correct?"

Senator Halsan: "That's correct, Senator Deccio."

Senator Deccio: "If a case is taken to small claims court and the—let me put this in the first person. If I sue you in small claims court and the Judge finds that I am correct and you have to pay and you don’t pay, then what is the process?"

Senator Halsan: "The process would be that the judgment of the small claims court would have to be, basically, transmitted into the district court before there could be garnishment or attachment proceedings allowed."

Senator Deccio: "Okay, there would be further action that you would have to take in order to do what the Judge said had to be done?"

Senator Halsan: "Yes."

Senator Deccio: "What happens in Superior Court with the same kind of process? If I sue you for over one thousand dollars and take you to Superior Court and you don’t pay, then what’s the process?"

Senator Halsan: "Same thing happens, but you have a seventy dollar filing fee and you wait a lot longer to go to trial. By the way, Senator Talmadge did mention if you want a lien on someone's real property, you have to do that through Superior Court because it affects real property."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senator Halsan.

The motion by Senator Halsan carried and the amendment was adopted.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Halsan, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5307 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.
Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Smitherman: "Thank you, Mr. President and members of the Senate. In signing on Senator Rasmussen's amendment and agreeing to support the amendment, there might have been something that I overlooked. Usually, when you are dealing with the LID, the actual percentage of property ownership by any individual in the area is taken into consideration in terms of the formation of that district. What happens is really by property ownership more than it is by the number of individuals who live in an area, for example. The percentage of property ownership does count. I guess what I am wondering and I will ask Senator Rasmussen. Senator Rasmussen, under this provision, would that mean that a guy who owned a very small parcel could have the same vote value as a person who owned acres in that area? Perhaps the guy who owns acres wants something done and the guy who owns a very small parcel wants nothing done and on the basis of our amendment, would that mean that they would be declared equal in vote value?"

Senator Rasmussen: "Yes, they would be. One man, one vote—the rule we follow all throughout the United States. They would have the right of a vote. What frequently happens, Senator Smitherman, is somebody will come in and not own just one acre, he'll own fifty or one hundred acres and he says, 'Yes, I'll put in that improvement,' but every other little homeowner around there, he can't afford that. The developer won't pay that little homeowner's share. He doesn't care whether they lose their home or not. That's what the purpose is, to give some protection."

Senator Smitherman: "Mr. President, if I might continue. In dealing with the LIDs, I think it was purposefully set up on the basis of property ownership, because in terms of assessments that are made, they are made by the amount of property that you have and I'm not certain that, again in joining with Senator Rasmussen, that I did the correct thing. As Senator Bottiger and others have asked you to do, please consider very carefully what you are doing here. It is the unravelling of a very major system."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Vognild, and there being no objection, further consideration of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 5307 was deferred.

SECOND READING

An appointee who is rejected by the senate shall not"

On motion of Senator Halsan, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5025 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.
Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf: "Senator Talmadge, your amendment came sort of fast and you were saying that that was the intent of the committee, but it's entirely different than what the bill says. Don't we have a constitutional requirement to have Senate confirmation in some cases?"

Senator Talmadge: "I think we do in some rare instances, Senator. That may be true."

Senator Metcalf: "Well then, can you have a constitutional requirement for confirmation and then just not act and be deemed confirmed? Would that meet the constitutional requirement of ayes and nays?"

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, I think my sense is that we can deal with the issue of advise and consent in whatever way we deem appropriate as a Senate body. You will note that we have, in times past, under the Clarke rule, permitted the confirmation of a whole series of gubernatorial appointments in a single vote."

Further debate ensued.

The motion by Senator Rasmussen carried and the Senate commenced reconsideration of the amendment on page 1, line 16.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Smitherman, the following amendments by Senators Smitherman, Rasmussen and McCaslin to the amendment by Senators Rasmussen, McCaslin, Johnson and Smitherman were considered simultaneously and adopted:

On page 2, line 30 of the amendment by Senator Rasmussen et. al., which begins on line 16, after "the" strike "people residing" and insert "owners of land"

On page 2, line 32, of the amendment by Senator Rasmussen et. al., which begins on line 16, after "district," strike everything down to and including "district" on line 34 and insert "if the owners of at least fifty-one percent of the area of land within the limits of the district to be created"

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senators Rasmussen, McCaslin, Johnson and Smitherman, as amended.

The amendment, as amended, was adopted.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Halsan, the rules were suspended. Reengrossed Senate Bill No. 5307 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.
The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Reengrossed Senate Bill No. 5307. Debate ensued.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Reengrossed Senate Bill No. 5307 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas. 37; nays. 12.

REENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 5307, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

There being no objection, the President returned the Senate to the sixth order of business.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5495, by Senators Stratton, McDonald, DeJarnatt, Patterson, West, Saling and Barr

Revising provisions relating to taking food fish for personal use.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Owen, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5495 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5495 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

Senator Metcalf moved that the following amendment by Senators Metcalf, Rasmussen and Benitz be adopted:

On page 1, after line 19, insert the following:

"(4) No license fees shall be required or collected under this section from any person unless the Department of Fisheries and tribal Indians agree to a procedure which results in the same license fees being collected from Indian citizens."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Hansen: "Senator Owen, you know I only get over here once in a while to go fishing in our Puget Sound waters, but I come over here to fish for salmon. Low and behold, I generally end up with more bottom fish than I do salmon. Am I going to have to turn those fish loose or are you expecting everyone that buys a salmon license to also buy a bottom fish license at the same time?"

Senator Owen: "Senator, in order to get the salmon punch card, you have to have the personal use license. If this bill passes, the personal use license will allow you to fish for the bottom fish, so if, in fact, you came over here to fish for salmon, you'd have to have a punch card, which you have to have presently, but you also, with this bill, would have to have a personal use license which allows you to fish for all of them, including the bottom fish."

Senator Hansen: "A recommendation—wouldn't it be better to just raise your salmon license fee three dollars or five dollars or whatever it's going to be, so that it would all be in one bunch?"

Senator Owen: "Senator Hansen, we are dealing with the amendment right now and not final passage of the bill, but I will respond to that anyway. The committee had followed the trend in the bottom fishery. We documented some historic trends on that and it looked like, potentially—potentially—a threat to the resource, because there is a decline in the amount of fish that are being landed when there has been a tremendous increase in pressure on the resource. It was felt that in order to respond to that, we needed the revenue to do that and the personal use license would do that and you tie it to the marine fish, not just salmon, so you include marine fish, bottom fish and salmon."

Further debate ensued.
SIXTIETH DAY, MARCH 12, 1987

MOTION TO LIMIT DEBATE

Senator Bottiger moved that the members of the Senate be allowed to speak only once and be limited to three minutes on each motion or amendment, except that the mover of the motion shall be allowed to open and close debate and that members be prohibited from yielding their time, and also that this motion shall remain in effect through March 20, 1987.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Rasmussen: "Mr. President, a point of order. I thought we were considering the bill and Senator Bottiger is proposing a change in the rules and I think that would be out of order at this time."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Cherberg: "The President will present the motion after the bill has been voted on."

Further debate on the amendment by Senators Metcalf, Rasmussen and Benitz on page 1, line 19, ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf: "Senator Owen, perhaps I'm wrong, but as I read this, this would be a New Section (4) on line 19, under Section 1, which deals only with the annual personal use license. Presently in law, we have the salmon punch card; we have the licenses. If Section 1 were rendered ineffective, how could that possibly affect Section 2 of the bill, which is there--Section 3 which has all of the other things for salmon in it? That's already in the bill."

Senator Owen: "The reason is, Senator, because if you don't create a New Section--it doesn't matter anyway--you create subsection (4) and you reference all of Section 1. All of Section 1 references—if you read subsection (3), 'It is unlawful to fish for or possess food fish without the licenses, punchcards and stamps required by this chapter.' That's part of Section 1. subsection (2) says, 'A two-consecutive-day combined personal use license and punchcard shall be issued,' etc. subsection (1) of Section 1 says, 'An annual personal use license is required for a person sixteen years of age or older to fish for, take,' etc. That's why."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senators Metcalf, Rasmussen and Benitz.

The motion by Senator Metcalf failed and the amendment was not adopted on a rising vote.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Owen, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5495 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5495.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5495 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 30; nays, 19.

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5495, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.
There being no objection, the Senate resumed consideration of the motion by Senator Bottiger to limit debate to three minutes, deferred earlier today.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Senator Bottiger, I think your motion is timely and appropriate. My question that I have concerns the way this has been applied in the past and I think it's kind of been applied erratically with regard to the issue of asking questions of legislative intent. May a person speak on a bill and then if he has a genuine question to try to determine legislative intent, may he then ask another Senator to yield to a question?"

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Pullen, I don't make that ruling. The Lieutenant Governor does. I would object if it was being abused and raise a point of order. If it wasn't, I'd probably sit here quietly."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Bottiger to limit debate.

The motion by Senator Bottiger carried and debate will be limited to three minutes through March 20, 1987.

President Pro Tempore Rasmussen assumed the chair.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5720, by Senators Gaspard, Patterson, Barr, Bailey, Bauer and Hansen

Revising the authority for cooperative agreements between or among school districts.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Gaspard, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5720 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5720 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

On motion of Senator Gaspard, the following amendment by Senators Gaspard and Patterson was adopted:

On page 1, following line 15, insert a new subsection to read as follows:

"(3) Such rules, for the purposes of school district compliance with RCW 28A.58.095 during the 1986-1987 school year and any year thereafter, shall treat participating districts that adopt a single salary schedule as one district. Such salary schedule shall be adopted pursuant to local collective bargaining agreement(s). The superintendent of public instruction shall, solely for the purposes of compliance with RCW 28A.58.095: (a) Calculate a derived base salary that reflects the placement of all employees on that salary schedule of the participating school district providing the greatest salary; and, (b) use the highest average annual insurance benefit costs of the participating school districts, or the amount authorized for such purposes in the operating appropriations act in effect at the time, whichever is greater."

Renumber the remaining subsections accordingly.

On motion of Senator Gaspard, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5720 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

The President Pro Tempore declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5720.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5720 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 49.

EN GROSSED SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5720, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.
There being no objection, the President Pro Tempore advanced the Senate to the seventh order of business.

There being no objection, the Senate resumed consideration of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5025, deferred on third reading and final passage earlier today.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5025 was returned to second reading and read the second time.

On motion of Senator Talmadge, the following amendments were considered simultaneously and adopted:

- On page 1, line 27, after "occur" strike "no later than fifteen days"
- On page 1, line 28, after "session" insert "unless the appointment is made in the last fifteen days of session"
- On page 2, line 1, after "made" insert "in the last fifteen days of session or"

Senator Talmadge moved that the following amendments be considered simultaneously and adopted:

- On page 2, line 23, after "2" insert "(b)"
- On page 2, line 28, after "2" insert "(b)"

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf: "Senator Talmadge, I have not checked the Constitutional amendment carefully. How does that affect the amendment that you offered which says, 'An appointee who is not rejected, is deemed confirmed?'"

Senator Talmadge: "These two amendments, Senator Metcalf, do not affect that issue at all. In subsection (b) of Section 2, there is a sentence that says, 'Final Senate action on an appointment shall take place no later than ninety days after the receipt of the appointment.' If we were not able to call ourselves in for a one day session, as is contemplated in that Constitutional amendment, we could not meet that ninety day requirement. That's the only portion of Section (2) that would be conditional on the passage of the Constitutional amendment and I wanted to make that clear with these two amendments. It does not affect the issue that you and I have talked about, whether or not we would deem the nominee rejected or confirmed which is something, I suspect, we may take up in a moment."

The President Pro Tempore declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendments by Senator Talmadge on page 2, lines 23 and 28.

The motion by Senator Talmadge carried and the amendments were adopted.

NOTICE FOR RECONSIDERATION

Having voted on the prevailing side, Senator Metcalf moved to reconsider the vote by which the amendment by Senator Talmadge on page 2, line 7, was adopted earlier today.

COMMENTS TO SSB 5090

Introduction

This new Administrative Procedure Act (APA) replaces much of chapter 34.04 RCW and chapter 28B.19 RCW. For the reasons discussed in this introductory comment and in comments to various sections, there is a need to make positive changes in the administrative branch of state government.

State agencies administer state government. On a day-to-day basis, state agencies are the hands of state government which directly touch each citizen. The heads of government—Legislature, governor, and courts—determine the general laws and programs. But it is agency hands which administer the distribution of the actual benefits to citizens and regulate the conduct of citizens. The confidence and respect which citizens have for state government depends directly upon how citizens are treated at the hands of government.

In the last twenty-five years, the number of agencies, the tasks given to agencies, and the discretionary power delegated to agencies has greatly increased. As state government does more for its citizens, agencies have been expanded or created to implement legislative requirements. Aspects of consumer protection, environmental protection, regulation of business, safety and health standards, and unemployment compensation are among the many tasks delegated to agencies. Thus, numerous aspects of the life of each citizen have been placed in the hands of agencies.

It is an unavoidable fact of government that agencies are often given almost limitless objectives to implement on a limited budget. Agencies are faced with determining specific means and specific priorities for specific situations involving specific citizens. Agency decisions are tough decisions because reasonable people will disagree over ends, means, and priorities. More importantly, agency decisions are tough decisions because they are not theoretical; the hand of government reaches out to give or withhold a benefit to a specific individual or group of citizens, or to directly regulate the conduct of a citizen or business.

A fundamental principle of our democratic system of government is the concept of checks and balances. The three branches of government—legislative, executive, and judicial—check and balance the exercise of government power by each other branch to assure that the people are protected. In addition, the people hold the ultimate check on government exercise of power in the ability to elect their legislators, executives, or judges.

Scholars have commented that administrative agencies do not conceptually fit very well into this system. The administrators of a single administrative agency are granted special powers to make rules (legislative), to enforce the law (executive), and to adjudicate rights and obligations of individual citizens (judicial). Furthermore, administrators are normally not elected by the people.

However, administrative agencies are necessary to modern government. Government cannot operate without agencies to flesh out and carry into effect the general policies and standards established by elected representatives. The goal, therefore, is to continue to develop a system of checks and balances to restrain and confine administrative power while maintaining the agencies' ability to perform their vitally necessary functions. In 1950 the United States Supreme Court noted:

"It must not be forgotten that the administrative process and its agencies are relative newcomers in the field of law and that it has taken and will continue to take experience and trial and error to fit this process into our system of government." United States v. Morton Salt Co., 338 U.S. 632, 642 (1950).

The purpose of an Administrative Procedure Act is to govern the procedure by which agencies make decisions and by which agency decisions are subject to review by the branches of state government. An Administrative Procedure Act does not concern itself with the substance of those decisions. In a sense, an Administrative Procedure Act is like a constitution for the administrative processes of government. If the administrative processes of state government, as well as the legislative, executive, and judicial processes, are to be, and appear to be, democratic and fair, then citizens must, where appropriate, have access to effective participation in agency decision-making and must have some avenue of recourse to check abuses of administrative power.

The new Administrative Procedure Act is an attempt to improve administrative government. The new Administrative Procedure Act aims to achieve increased democracy, fairness, and public confidence in government by emphasizing the following characteristics in the administrative system.

Uniformity. Citizens and businesses must deal with many different agencies, and with different branches or offices of the same agency. If citizens are faced with a different set of procedures at each different agency or branch, then a citizen or his attorney will have to learn new rules for dealing with each agency or office. Learning new procedural rules for each agency or branch discourages a citizen's involvement and, if an attorney is engaged, increases a citizen's expense. The act goes far to establish a uniform set of procedures for all agencies.

Accessibility. Citizens and businesses must plan their lives around agency decisions. A benefit recipient must plan based upon whether the agency will or will not provide a benefit. A business must plan based upon whether the agency will or will not regulate business conduct. One way an agency announces its intentions is to adopt, after citizen involvement, formal rules. However, agency intentions are sometimes set forth in the form of interpretations or policy statements that do not have the status of rules and that may not be as readily accessible to the public as are rules. The act encourages agencies to publish such interpretations and policies to the public, while allowing agencies to freely change their interpretations and policies as circumstances require. When an agency announces its intentions, even if tentative, the citizens affected are better able to plan their lives. Certainty is not guaranteed, but uncertainty as to where a citizen stands with respect to his government is reduced. The citizen and business then have some idea what to expect from state government.
Responsiveness. Citizens and businesses are affected not only by agency action, but also by agency inaction. If a citizen or business has a legitimate claim to agency action and the agency simply does nothing and remains silent, confidence in government is not furthered. The agency likely has valid reasons for inaction, such as a limited budget that it has determined to use on higher priority matters. However, citizens should be entitled to an answer to their claims and questions, even if the answer is that no action is being taken because of lack of funds. The act requires that agencies make a simple, unelaborate response to legitimate citizen petitions.

Flexibility. Citizens and businesses, as well as agencies themselves, should be subjected to formal procedural requirements only to the extent called for by the circumstances of the particular situation. This is especially so in adjudicative proceedings. A matter that can be settled should be by a conference; a matter involving no factual disputes should be decided after a brief hearing. Only a matter that needs a trial should be trial-like. A matter that starts as an adjudicative proceeding may be found to involve a community and to be more appropriately resolved by rule making. In short, proceeding should be convertible as circumstances develop, consistent with fairness.

Participation. Citizen participation in government decision-making is the essence of democracy. Generally, citizens participate in government when they have a voice in the debate preceding legislation and when they have recourse to the courts when they legitimately believe rights are infringed. Chapter 34.04 RCW has long provided procedural mechanisms for citizen participation in agency rule making and for recourse to the courts. The act enhances citizen participation principally through the avenues of procedural uniformity, accessibility, and responsiveness. Uniform procedures remove the burden of learning new rules for each agency and make citizen participation easier. Access to agency interpretations and policies brings focus to citizen input. Responsiveness to citizen petition makes visible agency priorities and allows citizen involvement in setting those priorities. Additionally, a citizen should in most cases be able to participate without engagement of an attorney or lobbyist.

An Administrative Law Task Force was formed in 1980 by the Board of Governors of the Washington State Bar Association, at the recommendation of its Administrative Law Section, to investigate the need for legislation dealing with the administrative process. The Task Force was composed of four attorneys and one nonattorney, aided by numerous other persons with a broad spectrum of experience with administrative processes of government. In 1981, the Task Force proposed legislation, ultimately enacted as chapter 34.12 RCW, creating an Office of Administrative Hearings. Before this legislation, administrative law judges (ALJs) who presided at agency adjudicative hearings were employed by and under the supervision of each agency. Under chapter 34.12 RCW, the ALJs are employed by the Office of Administrative Hearings and are independent of the agency. Such independence promotes fairness in administrative hearings that adjudicate individual rights and duties; this independence, in analogy to the judicial branch of government, provides a check and balance on agency power.

The Task Force, after a three-year process of research and public comments, determined that there was a need to adopt a new Administrative Procedure Act (APA) for the state of Washington. Previous drafts of this act were widely circulated to agencies, attorneys, and other groups. Their determination of need paralleled that of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, which published a new Model State Administrative Procedure Act (1981). The current APA, chapter 34.04 RCW, was originally enacted in 1959, and has been amended several times. The current APA is based upon the former model act of the Commissioners which was finalized a quarter of a century ago in 1961. The Task Force, in proposing a new APA to the Legislature, was greatly influenced by the Model Act (1981), by the analysis of Professor Kenneth Culp Davis in his book DISCRETIONARY JUSTICE (La. St. Univ. Press, 1969), and by the comments of agencies, attorneys, and citizens of Washington State. The Legislature has undertaken to consider and to balance divergent views.

The Commissioners on Uniform State Laws have expressed the need for a new APA as follows:
"The case for a complete revision of the Conference's 1961 Model Act is very strong. State administrative law has grown enormously in size and complexity since 1961. In the last twenty years, there has also been a great deal of experience with the provisions of the Model Act as enacted in the several states, and also a great deal of state legislative experimentation with additional or different administrative procedure requirements. Scholars in the field have also been especially active during the last twenty years, proposing new solutions to old problems as well as new evaluations of old solutions.

...a new Model State Administrative Procedure Act must also adequately reflect the tremendous recent growth in state government in general and of state administrative agencies in particular. In the last twenty years, vast social changes in the United States have greatly increased and altered the functions of state government. For example, in 1961 issues such as environmental preservation, energy conservation, and safety in the workplace were rarely even considered by the Legislatures of the states. Yet today, these issues are so important that most states have separate agencies to deal with them. The number and extent of public welfare programs has also grown since 1961. States now usually have several large agencies administering such benefactory programs, which raise some new and difficult procedural questions. This growth in state government, and change in the nature of its responsibilities must, therefore, be reflected in the provisions of any new Model Act.

A new Model Act must also reflect certain judicial developments of the last twenty years. In many state courts there has been a distinct shift away from an earlier insistence on clear standards in legislative delegations of authority to administrative agencies. Instead, many state courts now permit legislative delegations of authority to administrative agencies subject to only very general statutory standards, if those delegations are also surrounded by adequate procedural safeguards, such as those found in a well-drafted and comprehensive administrative procedure act. This, too, has heightened the significance of state administrative procedure acts and the adequacy of their provisions. Any new Model Act will have to deal with this enlarged importance of the contents of such state acts. It will also have to reflect the drastically changing nature of due process requirements announced during the last twenty years in the decisions of the United States Supreme Court.

In Washington State, legislative delegation of broad powers to agencies under general statements of purpose is common. In order to limit the exercise of this broad power and to assure fair treatment to citizens, the Washington courts have judicially created principles such as the "appearance of fairness doctrine." The courts have also created other standards for judicial review which have lacked the consistency and predictability necessary to guide both agencies and citizens affected by agencies. New concepts are needed.

The new act is based to a large extent, but not exclusively on, the Commissioners' Model APA (1981). The act, like the Commissioners' Model Act (1981), is more detailed than the current chapter 34.04 RCW and the former model act. This detail is necessary to effectuate basic principles. For example, the phrase "reasonable notice is required" is simple. But what is reasonable notice? It is 5 days, 10 days, 20 days, or what? Detail is necessary to specify what is reasonable in each situation. The necessity for more detail is explained by the Commissioners as follows:

"There are several reasons for this. First, virtually all state administrative procedure acts are much more detailed than the 1961 Revised Model Act. Second, the states badly need and want guidance on this subject in more detail than the earlier act provided. Third, substantial experience under the acts of the several states suggests that much more detail than is provided in the earlier Model Act is in fact necessary and workable in light of current conditions of state government and society....

"...Yet, that somewhat greater detail in this proposed act is drafted so as to assure a fair balance between the urgent need for efficient, economical, and effective government on the one hand, and a responsible administrative process in which persons may adequately protect their interests against improper or unwise government action on the other."
The Legislature believes that this act should and will result in an increase in public confidence in administrative agencies and the administrative process. The Legislature realizes that the act places new requirements on agencies. The Legislature appreciates the input it has received from agencies, and has sought to accommodate agency concerns in the balance leading to the new requirements. These new requirements take the form of increased citizen participation and fairness, to improve the quality of agency action and enhance acceptance of that action by those persons affected by it. The ultimate purpose of the act is better administrative rules, better decisions, less litigation, and increased public confidence in government.

PART I.
GENERAL PROVISIONS

1 COMMENT

The definition of "agency" is taken from the Model Act (1981) and is broader than the definition contained in RCW 34.04.010(1). In the interest of subjecting as many state governmental units as possible to the provisions of the new APA, the definition of "agency" omits the language of the current RCW 34.04.010(1), which includes only those agencies "authorized by law to make rules or to determine contested cases." The definition excludes the governor, the Legislature, the courts, and in most situations the attorney general. The last sentence is taken by the Model Act (1981) from the Federal APA and is intended to avoid difficulties in determining which is "the agency" when one governmental unit is within or subject to another; both are agencies.

The Legislature, after much consideration, elected not to include municipal and quasi-municipal agencies, such as school districts, sewer districts, city planning commissions, and the like under the APA. Municipal agencies have as much, if not more, of an impact on the lives of citizens as state agencies. The needs for checks and balances on agency discretion, for uniform procedures, for effective citizen participation, and for meaningful review of agency action are as great with municipal agencies as with state agencies. Comments received by the Legislature indicate a need for uniform administrative procedures for municipal agencies, although most comments suggest that such procedures should be embodied in separate legislation.

The definition of "agency action" is based upon the Model Act (1981). Such a definition is not included in the current chapter 34.04 RCW. A definition of agency action is included in the Federal APA; however, the federal definition is restricted to any agency actions that can be categorized as the making of a "rule" or an "order." The definition of "agency action" in the Model Act (1981) and in the new APA is broadened to include other duties, functions, or activities which the agency is required to perform. Additionally the definition of "agency action" specifically includes an agency's failure to act when required to do so. The aim is to minimize situations where an agency may avoid determinations of rights and duties, both generally and in particular cases, simply by doing nothing. Under the current chapter 34.04 RCW, a citizen affected by the agencies' failure to perform has no administrative recourse, but must resort to special remedies in the courts.

The effect of the new definition of "agency action" is that an agency's performance, including nonperformance, will be subject to judicial review, subject to limitations under other provisions of the new APA. Thus, citizens who are adversely affected by agency action or inaction will have greater opportunity for court review so long as they meet the requirements of this Act allowing review. The Act does not permit the courts to become administrators making administrative decisions; but, the courts may be called upon to move the agency to act as required by law.

The Legislature is also not unmindful that the cause of some agency inaction, or limited action, is the failure to appropriate adequate moneys to fund the programs that agencies have been given to administer. Inadequate funding requires an agency to make difficult budget decisions to allocate scarce resources. However, when the Legislature has included definitive agency action, that action must be performed. If lack of money is the cause of inaction, the agencies should be open in presenting this reason in Justification of their limited action or inaction.
Since the definition of "agency action" incorporates the terms "rule" and "order," the definitions of these terms should be consulted. The limits on judicial review of agency action, which further confine the concept, are set forth in other provisions of the new APA.

The definition of "agency head" is new and is taken from the Model Act (1981). For some purposes in the APA, the agency itself is distinguished from the agency head.

The definition of "license" is from the Model Act (1981). A similar definition is included in the current RCW 34.04.010(4) and (5). See the comment below.

The definition of "order" is from the Model APA (1981). Although there is no such definition in the current chapter 34.04 RCW, a similar concept is dealt with by the term "contested case" in RCW 34.04.010(3). An "order" includes only legal determinations made by an agency that are of particular application because addressed to particular, named and specified persons. Any agency action determining any legal right, duty, privilege, or immunity of particular, identified individual or individuals is an "order." This is to be compared to the definitions of "rule" and "order of adoption" of a rule, which deal with decisions of general applicability.

The term "entry" of an order is used in preference to such terms as issuance, rendering, and deciding, which have ambiguous meanings in current practice. The term "filing" is defined as the time when a document is received by the agency at the place it designates, to determine whether documents are timely filed with the agency, in the same manner that filing is made with the court. This rule will maintain the burden of assuring that filing is accomplished in a timely manner upon the person who is seeking to make the filing.

The definition of "rule" is virtually identical to the definition in the current RCW 34.04.010(2). Prior drafts of this act contained a much more inclusive definition taken from the Model Act (1981), defining a rule as any agency "statement of general applicability" that sets forth law, policy, or requirements of the agency. Prior drafts then established different classes of rules with different rule-making procedures. Based upon agency concerns that the Model Act definition and procedures would not work in practice, the Legislature chose to maintain the current definition of rule, and to add new classifications of nonrule interpretation and policy statements.

The definitions of "interpretive statement" and "policy statement" are new. One of the major complaints by persons dealing with agencies is that agencies avoid making open public "rules" by use of nonpublic "interpretive" and "policy" statements. An agency by internal memoranda, word-of-mouth, or a course of conduct, lets its staff know how it expects staff members to decide in certain circumstances of general applicability. However, the person dealing with the agency is not privy to these "interpretive" or "policy" statements, and does not know what to expect. The complaint is made that agencies operate by a "secret law," when it could and should be operating under written rules that have been subject to open, public rule-making procedures. The whole idea behind our democratic concept of a "government of law, not men" presupposes that the governed know or have access to the laws or rules applied by the government. This complaint about "secret law" is widespread and deeply felt. In the words of Professor Davis, "secret law ... has no place in a decent system of justice." DISCRETIONARY JUSTICE, p. 110.

On the other hand, agency personnel have legitimately indicated that it often takes some time and experimenting before the agency is in a position to determine what the final content of a rule should be. During this period, flexible policy statements allow the agency to make decisions while adjusting to changing factual situations, new knowledge, or increased experience. Once the agency is more certain as to what is required, then and only then is it in a position to adopt a rule that is fully binding.

This act balances both positions by providing that agencies are encouraged to make written interpretive and policy statements, by providing that all such statements must be published and available to the public, but by providing that such statements are not rules that unconditionally bind the agency. The objective is to encourage agencies to announce their opinions, approaches, and likely courses of action, without sacrifice of agency flexibility when a rule is not feasible.

The other definitions in section 1 are taken from the Model Act (1981). They make terminology of the APA more precise and less subject to dispute.

2 COMMENT

This provision makes it clear that the act is procedural only. It prescribes procedures an agency must follow in performing its tasks, but the act does not determine the tasks. The act does not grant substantive authority, but merely governs the exercise of authority granted by other statutes. Specifically, the act does not require an agency to adopt substantive rules in the absence of a statute requiring such adoption, and thus it does not convert agency discretionary rule making into mandatory rule making. Nor does the act create any right to an adjudicative hearing or proceeding; such right must be based upon some other provision of law or constitution. Nor does the act require that any agency use an administrative law judge. The act is entirely procedural. Other statutes may impose additional procedures. Furthermore, as in the current RCW 34.04.940, subsequent legislation may change the act as to any agency only by express provision.

3 COMMENT

This section sets forth the limited activities of certain agencies that, for the time being, are exempt from the provisions of this act because of their unique duties and functions.

4 COMMENT

This provision is the same as RCW 34.04.930 and 34.04.931.

5 COMMENT

This provision is from the Model Act (1981) and incorporates standard notions of waiver. Rights under the act would be waivable by a person in the same way that rights under civil statutes are normally waivable.

6 COMMENT

This section is from the Model Act (1981). Its purpose is to encourage settlements as a matter of public policy. The current RCW 34.04.090(4) provides that in contested cases, informal dispositions may be made by settlement agreement. This section provides that agencies have a duty to attempt to settle cases, and requires that they adopt rules to do so. Settlement is more economical and efficient than adjudication.

7 COMMENT

This section is taken from the Model Act (1981). Its purpose is to allow the agency flexibility so long as it does not substantially prejudice a party's rights. For example, an agency involved in an adjudication proceeding with a person could decide, based upon the number of persons attempting to intervene or upon some other reason, that the issue could better be decided in a rule-making proceeding. This section would allow conversions. Or, for example, a formal adjudication proceeding could be converted into a brief, informal adjudicatory proceeding. The purpose of this section is to allow the agency to match the proper proceeding to the specific problem. Agencies will not be hamstrung by having to pick one procedural category over another; they can convert from one to another depending upon the need.

8 COMMENT

A goal of this act is uniformity of procedure from agency to agency. It is recognized that absolute uniformity is not practicable. The purpose of this section is to allow agencies by rule to vary from the time limits imposed by other sections of this chapter under the circumstances specified in this section.

Subsection (2) is intended to be applicable to small agencies, principally boards of commissioners. Such boards meet sporadically; for example, two or three times per year. Such boards have a limited staff. If these agencies are to perform their duties, they require deviation for the normal time limits imposed in other sections of this chapter.

Subsection (3) is intended to be applicable to all agencies. Any variation from the time limits of other sections must be necessary to the performance by the agency of its duties. This subsection allows agencies considerable latitude in adopting time limits to particular circumstances and to permit a certain degree of experimentation. At the same time agencies are encouraged to comply with the statutory time limits whenever possible, in aid of uniformity, simplicity, and clarity.

Subsection (7) requires reasonable and adequate notice of variations from the time limits of other sections of this chapter. Such notice requirement is not met merely by publication of the rule adopting the variations. A pertinent time limit must be communicated in the context of a specific proceeding to the persons affected by the proceeding. Not all time limits need be, or should be, communicated in a particular situation; a person need be informed only of imminent time limits that affect the next stage of the proceeding. The subsection envisions agency flexibility in providing notice. An agency might provide a citation to rules in its initial pleading. Alternatively, the agency could provide notice of the next relevant time limit at each stage of a proceeding. Other methods are possible, so long as they adequately inform an affected person of the time limits that are applicable in the proceeding.

PART II.
PUBLIC ACCESS TO AGENCY RULES

9 COMMENT

This provision is taken from the Model Act (1981) and from the current RCW 34.04.050 through 34.04.058.

10 COMMENT

As previously discussed in the introductory comment and the comment to section I, whenever agencies have and maintain written interpretive or policy statements that are used by agency staff to determine or guide agency action, then such statements should be available to the public. Nonpublished "secret law" has no place in a democratic system of government. This section recognizes that in practice many interpretive and policy statements are made "in the field" by supervisory personnel and not by an agency's governing commission or head. This section also recognizes that in practice interpretive and policy statements may not be uniform among branches or offices of the same agency. Uniformity is desirable, but interpretive and policy statements are by nature tentative and experimental, and precede uniform rules. The objective is to encourage agencies to make public their current opinions, approaches, and likely courses of action early in the formulation process. As discussed by Professor Davis, openness precedes fairness in priority, because openness is the most effective check on arbitrariness. As Professor Davis asks, "Can the picture be beautiful if nobody is allowed to see it?"

The comments on indexing of orders are also applicable to subsection (2) of this section.

11 COMMENT

This section is designed to insure public access to important agency orders. Subsection (1)(a) essentially duplicates the requirement in RCW 34.04.020(3). The remainder of the section is aimed at developing a useful index of agency proceedings so that citizens have easy access to authoritative agency expressions of policy. Subsection (1)(b) requires the agency to maintain a name and subject index of written final orders which discuss and resolve issues presented by the parties. Although the index is not required until the effective date of this section, agencies are encouraged to include in the index orders issued before the effective date. Subsection (3) allows agencies to use outside services, such as commercial preparers, to prepare the index, but the agency must still make that index available for inspection and copying on the same terms as if it had prepared the index itself.

The agency may not rely on an order to the detriment of a person when that decision has not be indexed. Where the person has actual timely knowledge of the order, this restriction does not apply. However, it is important to note that the indexing requirement is prospective only. While indexing past orders may have some benefit, the benefit would be greatly outweighed by the significant cost and ambiguity it would add to the implementation of the act.

12 COMMENT

This section is a variation on an old theme. The current RCW 34.04.080 provides that an agency "may issue a declaratory ruling," but does not set forth any standards or limits on the exercise of the agency’s discretion to do so. Despite successful use of similar provisions by some federal agencies, very few Washington state agencies have undertaken to issue declaratory rulings. Prior drafts of the act provided that an agency "shall" enter a declaratory order or give a written answer as to why it would not issue an order. In response to concerns that agencies might be overwhelmed with petitions, the section has been extensively revised to specify specific standards for petitions and to specify types of reasons for which an agency may decline to enter a declaratory order. An agency may further limit circumstances under which it will enter orders by adopting rules tailored to the agency.

The new section affirmatively requires that agencies make declaratory orders or, if they refuse to do so, to state reasons for such refusal. As stated by the Commmissioners of the Model Act (1981), the "purpose of the proceeding is to provide an inexpensive and generally available means by which persons may obtain fully reliable information as to the applicability of agency administered law to their particular circumstances."

An example of the speed and economy of a declaratory order procedure is the business person subject to regulation by an agency. The business person wants to engage in certain conduct, but does not know if the agency will declare the conduct unlawful. Using the declaratory order procedure, the business person can describe the specifics of what he or she proposes to do and then can ask the agency to declare the described conduct lawful. If the agency declares the conduct lawful, then the business person can proceed with certainty. If the agency declares the conduct unlawful, then the business person may modify his or her conduct accordingly or can appeal the decision. In the absence of a declaratory order procedure, or the agency’s unwillingness to use such procedure, the business person must decide to proceed under a cloud of uncertainty that his or her conduct may be declared unlawful after the fact with resultant damages or penalties, or decide not to take the risk of proceeding at all. Under the mandatory declaratory order process, uncertainty and risk are minimized in advance.

Under the act the agency must make declaratory orders unless it gives legiti-mate reasons or it has adopted rules describing those circumstances under which it will not do so, or unless in a particular case it states a proper reason not to do so.
The agency’s rules and reasons for refusing to grant a declaratory order must be consistent with the public interest and with the policy of this chapter encouraging declaratory orders. The agency’s rules and reasons for denying declaratory orders will be subject to judicial review as "agency action." If the courts find the rules or reasons to be improper, because beyond agency authority or an abuse of discretion, then the court would remand to the agency with instruction to change its rules or to enter a declaratory order, or both. The court itself would not enter the declaratory order.

The Model Act Commissioners and the Legislature recognize that the obligation to respond to petitions for declaratory orders may place burdens on the agencies. On the other hand, an agency’s refusal to make declaratory orders places these substantial burdens on citizens, as in our foregoing example of the business person. The agency, however, can control this burden through rules excluding declaratory orders in proper circumstances, through general rule making that covers general situations, and through conversion procedures for changing declaratory order proceedings into adjudication proceedings or rule-making proceedings.

13 COMMENT

This section has been substantially redrafted. The preliminary drafts incorporated the Model Act (1981) provision requiring agencies to, "(a) as soon as feasible and to the extent practicable, adopt rules... that set forth appropriate standards, principles, and procedural safeguards the agency will apply to the law it administers. This was the Model Act's attempt to deal with the problem of "secret law," i.e. an agency's application of nonpublic interpretations and policies to citizens, without the citizen's advance knowledge of the standards to which the agency would hold the citizen accountable. State agencies strongly objected to such "required rule making" on grounds that it would result in proliferation of inflexible rules and would in practice be unworkable. In response to agency comments, the Legislature has eliminated required rule making, but in other sections of the act has encouraged agencies to set forth their interpretations and policies in publicly available statements that do not have the status of rules.

The section retains the Model Act (1981) requirement that an agency as soon as feasible supersede "case law" with rule making. First, affected members of the public have notice and an opportunity to participate in rule making, while such opportunity is limited when the agency acts on a case-by-case basis. Second, law and policy expressed in the form of rules is more readily accessible, visible, and understandable to the public than case precedents. Third, rules are more easily monitored by the Legislature and those who would check and balance agency discretion. As the drafters of the Model Act (1981) state: "Only by the enactment of a statutory provision of the type recommended here, therefore, can agencies be forced to codify in rules principles of law or policy.... Without such provision they will be free, in many situations, to make their most controversial policies on a case-by-case basis in adjudications, and thereby avoid on a permanent basis rule-making procedures...." (Emphasis in original.)

The section also specifically provides that an agency order based upon "case law" is lawful, and is not invalidated, because prior to the order it would have been feasible for the agency to have undertaken rule making. The remedy under this section is to petition for rule making.

14 COMMENT

Some agencies produce interpretative and policy statements to guide staff in undertaking agency action. The act requires that such written statements be indexed and available to the public. The purpose of this section is to encourage agencies to make publicly known their current opinions, approaches, and courses of action, without binding agencies to the formalities of rule making and rules. In the words of Professor Davis, "When an agency knows what it is doing, it should say in some form what it is." DISCRETIONARY JUSTICE, p. 102. Once publicly disclosed, such interpretations and policies are available to guide citizen action as well as agency action. Citizen action may take the form of participation in government through a give-and-take exchange with the agency or a legislator. Citizen action may take the form of compliance once citizens understand what an agency is doing, and the agency conduct no longer appears arbitrary or discriminatory. Democracy is built on the premise that good comes from exposure to public scrutiny. Interpretative and policy statements are not rules, and are thus subject to change by the agency at any time based on a fair and rational basis.

This section allows flexibility to the agencies. It often takes some time and experimenting before an agency is in a position to determine what the final content of a rule should be. During this period, flexible interpretations or policy statements allow the agency to make decisions while adjusting to changing factual situations, newly acquired knowledge, or increased experience. Once an agency is more certain as to what is required, then and only then is it in a position to adopt a rule that is fully binding. The Task Force would point out, as Professor Davis has discussed, agency rules and statements do not necessarily have to take the form of generalized statements, but can take the form of hypothetical fact statements and resolutions thereof.

Agencies need flexibility. On the other hand, persons subject to or affected by agency action must be able to place fair and reasonable reliance on agency interpretations and policies. Therefore, although interpretative and policy statements are not fully binding such as rules adopted with full notice and public comment procedures, they do have binding effect to the extent that there is no fair and rational basis for deviation from them on a case-by-case basis, and to the additional extent that deviation does not produce relative individual hardship.
should not unduly restrict the flexibility of agencies. Since an agency's statement is only the agency's opinion—albeit an important opinion from a practical standpoint—as an opinion it is subject to contest, and the fairness, rationality, and relative hardship standards must be read in this light.

15 COMMENT

This section is taken from the Model Act (1981). The current RCW 34.04.022 provides that the Chief Administrative Law Judge shall promulgate uniform procedural rules for contested cases governing all agencies, and provides that the Chief ALJ may allow "variations" for particular agencies from the uniform rules if there are "demonstrable needs for variations." See also RCW 34.12.080. The Legislature feels strongly about the desirability of uniform rules applying to all agencies. Indeed, the degree of greater detail in the act reflects this concern. However, because of the great variety of tasks given to agencies, absolute uniformity is an ideal difficult to reach in practice. The Chief Administrative Law Judge has found it difficult to "promulgate" uniform rules. Therefore, the act provides that the Chief ALJ shall adopt "model rules" of procedure which each agency must adopt to the extent practicable, giving reasons for any variation. Each agency is thus allowed flexibility, but its action is subject to review. The Chief ALJ's model rules would include all aspects of agency action, not merely adjudication.

PART III.
RULE-MAKING PROCEDURES

16 COMMENT

This provision is designed to allow and encourage agencies to secure the broadest possible public comment on potential rules by allowing it to announce the topic of a future rule and receive comment to assist it in making its first draft before formal publication in the state register. This provision is not intended to preclude agencies from gathering information from any source and in any matter which is not currently prohibited by law.

Earlier drafts would have provided for appointment of committees, but would have required annual publication of their memberships. In response to comments, the Task Force deleted the publication requirement but added a requirement that each agency designate a person as a rules coordinator, to know what is happening with rules, and have that person's name published. The agencies presently designate a person informally to communicate with the Code Reviser's office, so this provision would impose no added burden. The purpose for publication of the committee membership seemed to be to allow access and make information available; this provision will do the same in a simpler and easier manner.

The inclusion here of an exemption from judicial review emphasizes the narrow scope of such exemptions under the act.

17 COMMENT

The purpose of this section is to ensure the availability of information about each proposed rule proceeding at an early stage in the rule-making process, and to ensure a history of the proceeding. In response to comments, the Legislature made the provision less bureaucratic, more workable, and easier to meet.

An assumption implicit in this section is that there will be an occasion for oral comment in every rule-making proceeding. Present practice is to do so in about 95 percent of all cases, and making the provision mandatory would not impose an undue burden. Doing so does afford substantial economies: it allows for standardized procedures; it eliminates a possible duplicating notice requirement—first for publication, second for the time and place of the public airing. It allows deletion of the provisions for keeping records of persons seeking the oral hearings; it removes a substantial burden from persons who may offer valuable comment; it encourages citizen participation in government and will not render the process more burdensome for agencies.

The standard for compliance by an agency with subsection (1) is good faith. An agency may by rule define more specifically when a particular rule has reached a stage where it is "being prepared by the agency for proposal."
18 COMMENT

This provision requires notice in the state register 20 days before the occasion for public comment and consideration of the proposal. It has been modified from the earlier draft to delete a cost-benefit analysis, which the Legislature has already rejected; it also shortens the minimum notice time to 20 days from 30 to allow a speedier process and to conform more closely with current practice.

The provision in subsection (1) requiring a brief description of any changes the proposal would make in existing rules is not intended to be an elaborate recitation of all changes, but an abbreviated summary, perhaps not dissimilar from the state voters' pamphlet descriptions of change in laws resulting from initiative or referendum.

Subsection (1)(c) requires that the full text of a proposed rule or amendment be included in the register, consistent with current law and practice.

The purpose of subsection (1)(e) is to provide reasonable notice to substantially affected groups. Its purpose is not to require agencies to anticipate every possible consequence of the proposal or to identify every person it may indirectly affect. It requires only good faith compliance by agencies.

19 COMMENT

This section requires the agency to receive oral and written comment on a proposed rule until the specified time expires. It clarifies the earlier draft to allow an extension of time for comments or a continuance of the public session; it eliminates the Model Act (1981) proposal that agencies adopt rules for the conduct of occasions for oral comment in favor of a broad statement that the proceeding is legislative in character and that it should be reasonably conducted to allow interested persons the opportunity to present comment.

The section also provides that although the agency head (the term includes all members of a multi-person board or commission) can appoint any person to act as presiding officer, if the agency head is not present at substantially all the oral proceeding then the presiding officer shall prepare a summary of comments for the agency head. This provision loosely parallels the current chapter 34.12 RCW and is aimed at assuring that the agency head at least sees a summary of comment before acting on a proposed rule. The agency head may but is not required to request an administrative law judge from the Office of Administrative Hearings to preside at the rule-making hearing.

The summarizing memorandum of subsection (3) is intended to be the presiding official's good faith effort to summarize points made in presentations at the rule-making hearing for consideration by the agency head. It is recognized that the agency head normally does not listen to a recording or read a transcript of the hearing presentations. Therefore, if the hearing itself is not to be a useless act, a summary of points must be prepared for review by the agency head. A written summary, available to a participant on request, assures that the summary will reflect, with reasonable accuracy, what occurred at the hearing. Again, the standard of accuracy is a good faith effort to summarize.

20 COMMENT

This section requires the agency to wait until the time for receiving oral and written comments has expired before adopting a proposed rule. It also establishes a 180-day period, after publication of the text in the state register, for a proposal's existence. Current practice is that virtually all rules get through the process in that time, although the present statute provides a year before proposals are considered abandoned. RCW 34.04.048(2). If the process for a rule is particularly slow and the time runs out, republication of the notice in the register would keep the proceeding open.

21 COMMENT

The purpose of this section is to ensure the adequacy of the public comment process and that the rules actually adopted are those upon which the public has had the opportunity to comment. This section states the rule that an agency may not adopt a different rule from the one which has been noticed; it is consistent with existing law. See RCW 34.04.025(2). It does provide some standards for telling when a substantial difference has occurred, which both agencies and courts may find helpful.

22 COMMENT
This provision follows current law, RCW 34.04.027.

23 COMMENT
The Model Act (1981) proposed a new standard for adopting emergency rules that would have made it easier to use the emergency process and would have allowed selective disregard of various procedural provisions. Several comments were received objecting to that approach, principally from governmental lawyers. This section is now substantially identical with current statute, except that it expressly places the burden on the agency to establish good cause for an emergency rule.

24 COMMENT
The purpose of this section is to require the agency to think about the purpose for each of the rules that it adopts and to make the statement available for public understanding. This section requires the statement within 30 days after adoption of the rule, to allow the agency time to prepare the statement in light of evidence it considers, and in allowing the statement as a part of the agency’s rule-making record rather than as a part of the rule itself. Compare the provision in RCW 34.04-.045. Subsection (2) is identical to provisions of RCW 34.04.025(3).

Prior drafts incorporated a subsection that limited the basis for the validity of the rule to reasons set forth in the explanatory statement, or amendment thereto. The purpose of this proposed subsection was to allow public consideration of and opportunity for comment on the reasons for a rule. Agencies, however, express concern that the proposed section would be used to invalidate rules with legitimate basis simply because the agency failed to anticipate changes in the legal status of reasons, stated or unstated. A valid rule is valid, regardless of the reason stated in the explanatory statement. Although there was considerable debate, the previously proposed subsection has been eliminated.

25 COMMENT
This section requires that the order adopting the rule contain the date of its adoption, the concise statement of purpose, a reference to authority under which the adoption is made, any required findings, and the rule’s effective date if other than statutory. An earlier draft would have required this material to be in the rule itself. However, the information is more appropriately included in the order of adoption and is not necessary to be included in the rulebooks.

26 COMMENT
This section specifically allows the incorporation by reference of published material into agency rules. It sets out standards for availability of the material and clearly states the judicial rule of the state that only the referenced version, and not later promulgations by the original issuer, are incorporated.

27 COMMENT
This section requires each agency to maintain a record of the rules that it is processing. It is contemplated that this record will be the agency’s file of information about the rule, copies of notices, etc., and material important to the agency consideration of the proposal, such as public comments. The requirement is merely to compile in one convenient place such materials. Subsection (3) excludes internal agency memoranda, as does RCW 42.17.310(1)(i) from which the language of subsection (3) is taken, on the ground that public policies in promoting full internal discussion outweigh the need for public scrutiny.

Subsection (2)(c) has generated comments from agencies concerned that if an agency leaves some written material out of the record, the omission can be made the basis of a court challenge to the validity of the rule. Thus, these comments express the fear that agencies will have to include in the record everything that might possibly be considered important. This is not the intent. The purpose of this provision is communication with the public. An average citizen reviewing the record should be able to ascertain the basis for the rule. The agency need do no more than act in good faith. Subsection (4) specifically provides that the record need not be the exclusive basis for agency action.

28 COMMENT

This section provides that all rules proposed by publication after the effective date of the act must be accomplished in substantial compliance with the requirements of the act. It provides specifically that inadvertent failure by an agency to mail a notice to a person who asked for it doesn’t constitute grounds for invalidating a rule. The section also maintains the existing two-year statute of limitations for challenging the validity of a rule based on failure to comply with procedures of the act.

29 COMMENT

This section requires filing of rules.

30 COMMENT

This section provides that rules become effective 30 days after filing with the code reviser, except as otherwise noted. Earlier drafts would have provided effect 30 days after publication, a change from current practice. It is felt that this provision will allow more timely effect than the earlier draft but will not restrict public notice. The standards for earlier or later effective dates are set out.

Subsections (2) and (3) allow immediate effect upon stated conditions, a change from current law. This draft recognizes that at this point in the rule-making process there has been full public comment and that there are circumstances where immediate effect will be in the public interest. The circumstance is distinguishable from emergency rules, which are given only temporary effect because there has been no opportunity for public comment.

31–33 COMMENT

These sections are mechanical in nature and are designed to parallel existing law and to simplify the operation of the rule-making system.

34 COMMENT

This section is similar to present RCW 34.04.060. It requires agencies to establish rules for petitions for rule making, then, if a petition is received, either deny it within 60 days, stating reasons, or start a rule-making proceeding.

PART IV. ADJUDICATIVE PROCEEDINGS

35 COMMENT

This section, which is based on the Model Act (1981), provides the linkage between the definition of “order” in section 1 and the various types of adjudicative proceedings established in subsequent provisions. As is true under RCW 34.04.010(3), the ability or responsibility of an agency to conduct such proceedings will be dependent upon its enabling legislation or, in some cases, upon the constitutional rights of persons to a hearing. As noted by the commissioner’s comment to the related provision of the Model Act (1981), “(a) few state APA’s make an adjudicative hearing available without the need to be ‘required by law,’ but only in limited situations. Some other state APA’s make adjudicative hearings available in a broad category of situations without the need to be ‘required by law.’” After considering comments to an earlier draft, which followed the lead of the second group of states mentioned, the present approach was determined to be more sound and workable.

Subsequent sections do depart from present law, which, along with the majority of state APA’s, describes only a single type of adjudicative proceeding. It should be noted, however, that neither this section nor any of the following sections purport to specify or determine which type of adjudicative proceeding is required in any particular situation. The question addressed is, rather, whether an adjudicative proceeding need be conducted at all. Subsequent provisions enable agencies to determine whether the proceeding shall be a formal, brief, or emergency proceeding and ongoing proceedings may be converted from one type to another as necessitated by changed circumstances. Subsequent sections have also been designed with recognition of the fact that in most adjudications, particularly those involving benefit agencies, the citizen involved does not have an attorney. The presiding officer has discretion to match degree of formality to need for formality.

The justification for providing a variety of procedures is that, without them, many agencies will either attempt to obtain enactment of statutes to establish procedures specifically designed for such agencies, or proceed "informally" in a manner not spelled out by any statute. As a consequence, wide variations will occur from one agency to another, producing unnecessary complexity and uncertainty for citizens, agency personnel, lawyers, and reviewing courts.

Under RCW 34.04.090 (3) and (4), agencies are granted general authority to make summary and informal dispositions. Nevertheless, this has not provided a sufficiently clear statement of rights to avoid litigation over the question. See, e.g., ASARCO v. Air Quality Coalition, 92 Wn.2d 685, 601 P.2d 501 (1979). A commissioner's comment notes that four other states have found it useful in their APA's to describe at least the procedural rudiments of less than formal adjudication. The Task Force believes, along with many who commented favorably, that the establishment of a general framework for various types of adjudicative proceedings will eliminate the need for and minimize the likelihood of further debate over this issue. Comments received in response to earlier drafts have stressed the need for careful and possibly continuing attention to the interplay between the provisions in this and following sections and chapter 34.12 RCW, governing the Office of Administrative Hearings. Most adjudicative proceedings are conducted before independent administrative law judges appointed by the Office of Administrative Hearings. Much discretion to flexibly match the formality of the proceeding to the circumstance of the particular case has been left to the administrative law judge.

36 COMMENT

This section states when an agency may and when an agency shall commence adjudicative proceedings. This section does not expand the scope of an agency's authority as specified by the statute granting such authority. Section 35 and this section leave the agency with conventional "prosecutorial discretion" on the question of when to issue complaints, or when to commence proceedings such as prosecutions or investigations. No special procedural requirements are imposed on an agency making such decisions, although the agency's discretion on such matters is somewhat limited by section 37 which requires that before an agency denies an application to commence a proceeding, it must furnish the applicant a written statement of its reasons. It is assumed that such a decision will be reviewable as final agency action according to whatever standards the courts are using to review exercise of such discretion. The statute does not affect the scope of that review, other than to insist that the agency explain its reasons.

37 COMMENT

The combined effect of section 35 and this section imposes no procedures upon an agency that decides not to conduct an adjudicative proceeding in response to an application, except to give a written notice of dismissal, with a brief statement of reasons and of any available administrative review. Such decisions, while not governed by the adjudicative procedures of this act, are subject to limited judicial review as "agency action."

38 COMMENT

Subsection (2) establishes time limits and notification requirements for agency applications for orders, other than declaratory orders.

39 COMMENT

This provision is similar in its content to RCW 34.04.170, and is adapted from the 1961 Revised Model Act, section 14(c), regarding license revocation, suspension, etc. By requiring "an appropriate adjudicative proceeding in accordance with this act or other statute," the provision makes clear that it has no application to an agency that does not have independent authority to conduct adjudicative proceedings.

40 COMMENT

This section addresses the question of who may preside over adjudicative proceedings, and deals also with the disqualification of an individual presiding officer and the appointment of substitutes. An agency is not required to use an administrative law judge to preside at an adjudicative proceeding. The agency head or one or more members of the agency head may preside. Although the Model Act (1981) provides an optional provision removing agency discretion and requiring that an administrative law judge from the independent hearing agency will preside, present law which allows agencies to make this determination is not disturbed. See, e.g., RCW 34.12.040.

Subsection (2) also preserves current law. Under RCW 34.12.020(4), certain agencies have been exempted from the requirement to utilize independent administrative law judges in the event the agency head or members of the agency head do not preside as hearing officers. These exempted agencies may employ other persons as presiding officers. The reason for such exemption is that the exempt agencies function to review orders or actions of other agencies and, therefore, have already been vested with an independent status by the Legislature to serve as a check on abuse of discretion by the agency whose order or conduct is reviewed. The exempt agencies are the pollution control hearings board, the shorelines hearings board, the forest practices appeals board, the environmental hearings office, the board of industrial insurance appeals, the state personnel board, the higher education personnel board, the public employment relations commission, the personnel appeals board, and the board of tax appeals.

41 COMMENT

This section is taken from the Model Act (1981). It provides detail not found in the 1961 Revised Model Act or in chapter 34.04 RCW. It is not a source of authority for nonlawyers to advise or represent parties to agency proceedings. Neither does it prohibit such functions by nonlawyers if permitted by law.

It is recognized that, particularly with respect to agencies dispensing benefits, most citizens who deal with agencies are not represented by attorneys.

42 COMMENT

Although agencies are presently given permissive authority to conduct extra-hearing conferences under RCW 34.04.090(9)(i), agencies should be more strongly encouraged to make such a procedure generally available and, where it is made available, to provide by rule for the notice and other procedures to be followed. Subsection (1) makes clear that an agency may, but need not, use the procedures established (as Model Rules) under section 13 by the Chief Administrative Law Judge. Where warranted by variations in agency responsibilities, the agency may by rule establish its own differing procedures.

In preliminary drafts, specific and detailed notice and other procedural requirements were proposed. After further deliberation, and following in-depth consultation with numerous agency spokespersons, the Legislature has been forced to conclude that its earlier approach may in some cases discourage agencies from using procedures for settlement or simplification of issues. It therefore has opted for this more flexible approach. However, the Legislature continues to feel that relatively comprehensive notice is appropriate to assist the parties (many of whom will frequently be representing themselves) and to assist the presiding officer in ascertaining whether the case can be settled or converted to another type of proceeding. Agencies are therefore urged to give particular attention to these considerations.

With respect to those situations in which an agency acts only as the hearing agency for another, it is not intended that such agency be required to comply with this section.

Subsection (2), taken from the Model Act (1981), expressly adapts the procedural innovation whereby a presiding officer may conduct all or part of the pre-hearing conference by telephone, television, or other electronic means. The phrase "and where the rights of the parties will not be prejudiced thereby;" has been added to subsection (1) and, to the second sentence of the same subsection, the word "effectively." These changes, which were also made to section 48, with respect to similar procedures in the subsequent hearing, reflect a consensus that the economic and other benefits of emerging technology should not be elevated above the rights of parties for whom more direct and immediate involvement may be of significant benefit.

43 COMMENT

This section is comparable to RCW 34.04.090(1). The Legislature has determined that the Model Act (1981) provision, assigning the responsibility for this function to the presiding officer, is neither necessary nor practicable. Thus, the agency's role is retained.

The purpose and function of the notice is to identify the time and place of hearing, to provide whatever information is available at the time notice is given as to the participants in the hearing, and to provide some general information as to the subject matter or issues to be involved and as to the nature of the hearing. The notice is not a bill of particulars. Subsections (2)(g) and (3) are similar to RCW 34.04.090(1)(d). Language has been added to clarify that the agency is not required to attempt to set forth the matters asserted by other parties, and to provide express authority for the existing practice of attaching a copy of the request for an adjudicative proceeding. The latter technique is a useful and pragmatic means to provide as much information to all parties as possible when the initiating party's assertions are not understood. The notice also is to identify the nature of the hearing; that is, whether it is an emergency hearing, brief adjudicatory hearing, or other type of hearing established by agency rule. The remedy for lack of specificity in the notice is a request for a more definite and detailed statement.

44 COMMENT

This section makes a distinction between the items that the presiding officer shall permit (subsection (1)), and those that the presiding officer may permit (subsection (2)). Because presentation of many of the matters listed in subsection (1) is often made orally, the opportunity to "file" as provided in the Model Act (1981) did not seem quite adequate. Also, to make clear that responding to as well as presenting such matters should be guaranteed as well, the word "file" has been substituted in subsection (1) for the phrase "submit and respond to."

The authority placed in the presiding officer by subsection (2) to limit the parties' use of briefs and proposals is substantial. It is appropriate, however, to prevent the dilatory behavior which can result from the unrestricted right of parties to submit various motions and pleadings. The presiding officer is given discretion to flexibly yet fairly tailor the need to the circumstances.

45 COMMENT

The Model Act (1981) version, which provides for a proposed default order, has been modified so that a single order may suffice. Language has also been added to make clear that the notice of default may be combined with or incorporated into another dispositive order. This permits the protective features of the provision to be accommodated in an economical fashion, within the procedures currently employed by some agencies. Careful consideration was given to comments urging that the grounds for vacating a default be specified. However, this is an area best left to the presiding officer's or the agency's discretion.

46 COMMENT

The present law does not address the question of intervention, except for any implications that may be drawn from the broad authority granted by RCW 34.04.090 to "regulate the course of the hearing." If a petitioner satisfies the standards of subsection (1), the presiding officer may grant the petition to intervene upon making the determination described in that subsection.

The Legislature intends that intervention be treated in the model rules, and contemplates that agencies may adopt rules governing intervention for particular types of proceedings.
47 COMMENT

This section, though taken from the Model Act (1981) is similar in its content to RCW 34.04.105(2). In accordance with several comments, the Model Act (1981) version has been modified so as to continue present law and practice permitting the attorneys for parties to issue subpoenas.

Prehearing discovery is left to the discretion of the presiding officer, subject to statutory standards and any rules of the agency involved. This contrasts with the civil rules applicable to superior courts which leave discovery principally to the discretion of the parties and their attorneys.

Discovery is left entirely to the presiding officer unless the agency involved has adopted rules dealing with discovery. It is recognized that agencies face many different situations and that different levels and forms of discovery are appropriate to different types of situations. Any agency, therefore, is allowed to adopt rules limiting discovery in situations where limitation is appropriate. The Legislature contemplates that model rules will include discovery in different situations. Any agency rules on discovery will be adopted only after public participation in rule-making proceedings, and any agency rules will have to comply with basic due process standards of fairness.

The Legislature emphasizes that prehearing and hearing proceedings should be as informal as possible. Any discovery must be viewed in this context. Discovery should not be allowed unless it meets the conditions of subsection (3).

48 COMMENT

This section touches several critical issues concerning hearsay evidence — a type of evidence that may be important in some cases. First, the issue as to whether hearsay evidence is admissible (treated in section 49). Second, whether an order can rest on hearsay evidence alone (treated in section 51). Finally, the related matter of the extent of the right of cross-examination, since the admission and use of hearsay can abridge that right.

RCW 34.04.100 provides that reliable hearsay can be admitted, and that it can be given “probative effect.” There is no express statement about whether, on judicial review, an order based only on reliable hearsay can stand, but this seems clearly implied. The right of cross-examination is absolute, at least so far as the right to cross-examine witnesses who testify. Nothing is said in the current Washington APA about the right to cross-examine authors of reports introduced as “hearsay” evidence, where the authors do not appear as witnesses.

As stated above, the Model Act (1981) somewhat limits the present right of cross-examination: such examination is required only where necessary for full disclosure of relevant facts. The advantage of the Model Act language is that it permits the presiding officer to limit cross-examination when it is being used for dilatory purposes. The Model Act proposals are sound.

49 COMMENT

Subsections (1) and (2) are consistent with current law, though they are more explicit. The subsections provide power for the presiding officer to exclude unnecessary evidence and to recognize existing privileges. As to the admissibility of hearsay, the Model Act (1981) proposal (which makes it always admissible) is modified to allow exclusion of hearsay when it is not generally reliable. The standard uses language repeated in section 52, below, and is generally consistent with RCW 34.04.100(1).

The first sentence of subsection (2) cites the Washington Rules of Evidence and requires use of the Rules as guidelines. It is thought that in complex cases where such Rules are most applicable, this reference can assist in making evidentiary rulings consistent and predictable. In simpler and more informal proceedings, on the other hand, this reference should not be used to create needless formality.

Note that the first sentence of subsection (2) is made subject to subsection (1). This seems useful to underscore the admissibility of reliable hearsay in administrative proceedings.

In contrast, the second sentence of subsection (2) would make the Washington Rules of Evidence, and their prohibitions on hearsay, applicable in certain limited situations, such as adjudicative proceedings in workers' compensation cases before the board of industrial insurance appeals.

50 COMMENT

This section, taken from the Model Act (1981), provides more detail than RCW 34.04.115, which addresses the same general subject matter. Subsection (1) has been modified to apply only to internal communications, leaving external communications for the following subsection. In response to comments to a prior draft, language has also been added to make it clear that communications with legal counsel are not prohibited. The word "willful" has been deleted from the first line of the Model Act (1981) version of subsection (7). Though not addressed in the statute, it is the consensus that violation of these provisions by agency personnel should be grounds for disciplinary sanctions.

51 COMMENT

This section is taken from the Model Act (1981), and addresses concerns presently enunciated in RCW 34.04.115. In response to comments, the language has been modified to make it as clear as possible that agency heads are not disqualified by reason of their having authorized investigations or having made probable cause determinations.

52 COMMENT

This section, though based on the Model Act (1981), has been significantly modified to accord with present law as well as with related Legislature concerns.

Subsection (1)(c) is applicable only to agencies that are exempt from chapter 34.12 RCW. An example is the Public Employee Relations Commission acting in a unit clarification dispute between a public employer and an employee or union. The presiding officer gathers facts and then transmits the record to the executive director who makes an initial decision. Because the Legislature is concerned that the official entering the initial or final order has not observed the witnesses, the presiding officer is to include in the record the presiding officer's comments upon witness demeanor where relevant to the issues involved. The Legislature stresses that subsection (1)(c) is exceptional.

Subsection (2) has been adapted from section 557 of the Federal APA to describe the contents of the orders. The second sentence on demeanor evidence has been added to facilitate the operation of section 53(4), which requires the agency on internal review of initial orders to give appropriate respect to such findings. The requirement that every proposed finding must be responded to in the order was deleted.

Subsection (3) states the reasonable-person standard of evidence and makes explicit that orders can be based on such evidence even if technically hearsay. The third sentence contains a proviso assuring that hearsay evidence will not be the exclusive basis for an order if better evidence is reasonably obtainable. That notion is drawn from WAC 1-08-520 and from CHIMELA V. MOTOR VEHICLES, 88 Wn.2d 385 (1977), which permits an award to be based on hearsay alone so long as it is "the best evidence reasonably obtainable, having due regard for its necessity, availability and trustworthiness." This is a middle position between the rather more generous attitude toward hearsay in the Model Act (1981) and the less generous "residuum rule" laid down in the early workman's compensation cases, and currently adopted by rule by the Employment Security Department (see WAC 192-09-135).

Two changes are made to the Model Act version of subsection (4). First, the introductory phrase in this section is an effort to state the sentiment that agency expertise should be used only where it exists — a principle that sounds obvious but which all feel is sometimes overlooked. As an aid to monitoring the principle, a requirement was that when an agency uses its expertise to evaluate the evidence, it must explicitly so state. It was concluded that such a requirement would be burdensome or ineffective. Whenever possible, however, the agency should identify such use of its expertise as part of its explanation of the evidence.

Second, the Legislature changed the reference in the Model Act from the presiding officer's experience to the agency's expertise, on the theory that expertise put to this critical use should be the official agency experience, not the personal experience a particular presiding officer may have had. It is assumed that any relevant personal experience of a presiding officer will be to some extent involved in the decision in any event.

53 COMMENT

This section allows delegating or even dispensing with internal review by agency rule. Dispensing with internal review has the effect of making the initial order of the presiding officer the final agency order, subject to immediate judicial review. This can both increase the responsibility of the administrative law judge and speed up the final resolution of the dispute. If the reviewing officer causes a transcript to be prepared at the agency’s expense of all or part of the proceeding, the existence of the transcript should be made known to parties to the proceeding, and it should be made available for inspection to the parties. A party should receive a copy upon payment of the copying cost.

54 COMMENT

The present APA mentions a stay granted by the agency or ordered by the court only in context of judicial review. RCW 34.04.130(3). This section, based on the Model Act (1981), makes a general provision for a stay in the context of the administrative proceeding. For example, a stay may be granted during reconsideration after a motion for reconsideration. See also section 76, on stay and other temporary remedies pending judicial review.

55 COMMENT

This issue of reconsideration is obliquely referenced in RCW 34.04.130(1). The provisions suggested by the Model Act (1981) have been rewritten. Reconsideration is made available only for final orders. Also, the requirements in the Model Act for more elaborate findings, conclusions, and reasons before a petition is granted have been deleted. Generally, reconsideration should not be used to reargue the case, but only to correct obvious mistakes. Hence, more elaborate process seems unnecessary.

Subsection (2) requires a petition to be disposed of by the same person or persons who entered the final order, if reasonably available. Availability is not limited to physical availability. For example, if the person who made the final order leaves office, by resignation or because the term of office ends, that person is unavailable. This subsection contemplates that the petition can be disposed of in normal circumstances by telephone or other means that does not require the physical meeting at a specific time and place of a multimember decision-making body.

56 COMMENT

This section is derived from the Model Act (1981), and has no counterpart in chapter 34.04 RCW. It does not apply to situations where a specific statute allows a de novo adjudication before the superior agency.

57 COMMENT

This section distinguishes between the effective date of an order and the time when it can be enforced. It also sets the time when an initial order becomes a final order.

58 COMMENT

This is an expanded version of 1961 Revised Model Act section 9(a), and RCW 34.04.090(5). See also sections 81, 82, and 83 on the record for judicial review, which may in limited circumstances include new evidence in addition to that contained in the agency record.

59 COMMENT

This authorizes summary proceedings for emergencies, a matter not fully addressed in chapter 34.04 RCW. This description of emergency procedures is helpful in insuring that they are available when needed, will contain the maximum notice and opportunity for hearing consistent with the public interest, and will be somewhat uniform among the agencies. No significant changes are made to the Model Act (1981) version.

60 COMMENT

This section establishes a summary adjudicative proceeding to deal with matters that may require or otherwise merit a hearing, but which do not warrant a full, formal hearing. This should be distinguished from the summary order or informal disposition proceedings now authorized by RCW 34.04.090 (3) and (4). Here, while there may be facts at issue, and while a strictly informal disposition may not be appropriate, the level of process should be relaxed to reflect the limited public or private interests involved.

The Model Act (1981) version specified categories of cases, including, for example, denial of admission to an educational institution or a disciplinary report against a prisoner. This approach has been rejected for a generalized description of the situations to be covered.

61 COMMENT

The procedures in this section are based on the Model Act (1981). Permitting persons who are not administrative law judges to preside (see subsection (1)(d)) is, on balance, desirable in aid of efficiency, though it is recognized that such a system appears a little less fair and may be less fair than procedures using independent hearing officers. This is limited only to brief adjudicative proceedings; see section 40 for requirements in other situations.

62 COMMENT

If a provision of law (including an agency rule) precludes administrative review, a party can seek judicial review of the order resulting from brief adjudicative proceedings. The intent of this section, as explained by the commissioner’s comment to the Model Act (1981), “is to vest discretion in agencies, unless otherwise provided by statute, to adopt rules precluding administrative review.” This discretion is exercised by agency adoption of a rule precluding internal appeal.

63 COMMENT

The Model Act (1981) provision has been generally followed, though shortened. In general, the requirements for statements of findings, conclusions, and policies have been replaced with a simpler requirement that the agency provide a brief written statement of the reasons for its decision—a change which seems more apt for these informal proceedings.

64 COMMENT

Subsection (2) permits the agency to use nonrecord information in its decision. This flexibility is regarded as perhaps useful in the limited setting of these informal hearings, but it recognizes there is risk in permitting the decision-maker to go off the record.

PART V.
JUDICIAL REVIEW AND CIVIL ENFORCEMENT

COMMENT

Part V of the act collects in one place a variety of provisions dealing with the relationship between courts and administrative agencies. In addition, a number of judicial doctrines that have developed in connection with judicial review are codified here for purposes of clarity and consistent treatment. As a byproduct, citizens unfamiliar with “case law” are able to access doctrines in this statute itself. Part V deals with questions such as: What is reviewable, when review is available, who may seek review, where review can be obtained, how review is accomplished, and, finally, what review consists of, in terms of both the grounds for invalidity and the type of relief which is available?

The purpose of judicial review is to check and balance the power of administrative agencies; more specifically, (1) to confine agency action within the limits of authority granted by the Legislature and within constitutional limits, and (2) to prompt an agency out of a failure to act when the Legislature has required an agency to act. The purpose of judicial review is not to merely substitute a court for the agency head. Within the limits of agency authority and required action, the agency has discretion to make rules, interpret statutes, make policy, make orders in adjudicative cases, and to undertake other legitimate action. Courts are to become involved in agency action only when an agency exceeds the limits, and only then to the extent necessary to confine the agency to its limits.

65 COMMENT

This section establishes one exclusive method for judicial review. The section has been modified in response to comments received to make clear that the rules of civil procedure apply where they are consistent with provisions of the statute. Earlier drafts contained a subsection providing that other laws would supersede this Act to the extent that their provisions afforded a greater measure of relief. In response to criticism that the language was vague, unnecessary, and would lead to confusion, the subsection was deleted and replaced by the present subsection (3). Its purpose is to deal with those situations where de novo review is statutorily authorized. For example, other statutes currently allow judicial review de novo on the record by a jury of appeals of workers' compensation orders of the board of industrial appeals. Also, other statutes currently allow judicial review de novo of orders of the board of tax appeals which result from "informal" proceedings under those statutes.

66 COMMENT

This section creates a right of judicial review of agency action.

67 COMMENT

The original version of this section provided that review of final action would be conducted in the Court of Appeals rather than in the Superior Courts. The theoretical justification for the use of the Court of Appeals was that judicial review was, after all, an appellate proceeding, consisting of a review of a record compiled elsewhere. Thus in the federal system, most review of administrative action takes place in the Court of Appeals, not the District Courts, and many states provide for similar appellate court reviews.

There were complications however. Among them was the concern that the Superior Courts are more conveniently located than the Court of Appeals and that the Superior Court in Thurston county is now experienced at agency review. A more fundamental concern has to do with the workload of the Court of Appeals. The 1981 Report of the Office of the Court Administrator suggests that of the three levels of courts in our system, the Court of Appeals has the heaviest workload. Even with a disposition rate which is the highest in the Court's history, the rate of pending cases continues to grow. The reason is the increase in Superior Court business, which is the source of all appellate business. That business, in turn, seems destined to grow even further. The result, concludes the administrator: heavy caseload problems for the Court of Appeals in future years.

A number of comments received on the initial draft echoed these concerns. The Legislature concluded that review should remain in the Superior Courts.

The Legislature is of the opinion that appeals from agency action should not be subject to the arbitration procedures of Superior Courts. First, Superior Court review is based upon the written record before the agency and thus there are no witnesses to see and hear and, normally, no facts to find. Second, the issues appealed often will involve public policies which should be subject to review by an elected, full-time public officer, i.e. a judge.

68-70 NO COMMENT

71 COMMENT

This section identifies the persons who are entitled to seek judicial review of administrative action. The law of standing is voluminous and unsettled. The effort here is to channel some of that doctrine within somewhat narrower banks in aid of clarity and predictability. The Task Force is aware that the terms used here to circumscribe the class of plaintiffs are general terms and that much judicial interpretation is left. Nevertheless, the standards stated are much narrower than the prevailing judicial principles. The existing APA, for example, treats the matter in one phrase, entitling "any person aggrieved" to judicial review. There was no adverse comment on the section. One consequence of this section and section 72, is to limit persons appealing agency failure to act.

72 COMMENT

This section is one of several dealing with the timing of judicial review. Here the focus is on the administrative remedies a petitioner must first exhaust. As is the case with the law of standing, the law of exhaustion is large and inconsistent. The existing statute does not address the question and the effort here is to provide some narrowing of the judicial discretion in the hopes of achieving more clarity and better predictability.

The provision requires that relevant administrative remedies be exhausted before judicial review except in three categories of cases. In earlier drafts, the court would have been permitted to relieve a petitioner of the requirement to exhaust based upon a balance of the harms and the adequacy of administrative remedies. In response to agency comment, however, the Task Force has greatly narrowed the court's discretion. The petitioner must now show that the pursuit of further agency remedies would not affect the agency's action, including failure to act. Alternatively, petitioner must show that postponement of review would cause grave and irreparable harm and have no substantial public benefit.

It is the intention of the Legislature that this section set forth in statutory form existing case law. It is not the intention of the Legislature to expand judicial prerogative beyond existing case law. Agency commentators are validly concerned that this provision not be used to bypass agency process. Only in rare situations should a court entertain relief before exhaustion of administrative remedies.

73 COMMENT

This section duplicates the current RCW 34.04.070 (1) and (2) on declaratory judgments on the validity of a rule.

74 COMMENT

This section also relates to limiting of judicial review and prescribes the times at which petitions for review must be filed. In general, judicial review of orders must be filed within 30 days while judicial review of rules could occur at any time. In response to agency requests, language has been added to clarify that the agency must be served within the time for filing.

75 COMMENT

This section spells out in detail what has to be contained in a petition for review. The model act commentaries suggest that the section might serve as a guide to unrepresented persons who wish to seek judicial review and also might facilitate review itself by insuring that appropriate material is before the court. One comment on this section inquired about whether responsive pleadings were either permitted or required. The present APA does not address the question except in its provision that the agency shall certify the record to the court within 30 days of the time of the filing of the petition. A similar provision occurs in this proposal at section 80, discussed below.

76 COMMENT

This section regularizes judicially developed law concerning the granting of stays while judicial review is pending. The section authorizes the agency to grant a stay on appropriate terms.

Provisions in earlier drafts allowing the court to grant unspecified temporary remedies, have been deleted in response to comments. The court now has only three options: Reversal, denial of the stay, or granting of the stay on appropriate terms.

The existing APA does not provide for agency stays unless they are authorized in other statutes, but it does provide for agency stays in that circumstance. One commentator suggested that agency stays were superfluous and that judicial stays were adequate. A limited provision for agency stays of the kind contained in the draft would be useful. Agency stays are common with federal agencies.

The section provides that the agency can stay its action when necessary because of a substantial threat to the public health or safety. In such a case, a court may not overturn the agency action unless the four stated conditions are present. These four elements come from the Virginia Petroleum Jobbers case (259 F.2d 921 (D.C. Circuit, 1958)).

Another comment observed that the effect of this section was to introduce some uniformity into the agency treatment of stays. (The comment was intended as a criticism.) It would seem that specifying the criteria for stays and the relationship between administrative and judicial stays are areas where uniformity would be specifically helpful. Finally, there was some criticism of the existing law for having inadequate standards. This section is an effort to meet the needs for more specific standards.

An agency denial of a stay is not judicially reviewable. The remedy of the petitioner is to petition the court for a judicial stay. The court can determine for itself whether or not to grant a stay. Review of the agency denial would be superfluous.

This section addresses the court’s authority to rule upon new issues raised on judicial review, a matter not addressed by the present statute. In earlier drafts, the court was permitted to rule upon the new issues, under the circumstances stated, without any recourse to further agency deliberation. After consideration of adverse comments, changes were made to allow, and finally, to require, a remand when the stated circumstances are shown to exist.

This section insures that the judicial review of agency fact-finding will be confined to the factual record that was present before the agency, as supplemented by any additional evidence permitted under the act.

This section deals with taking new evidence during judicial review. Ordinarily, judicial review of agency action will be on the basis of the record compiled before the agency and there is no need for the taking of new evidence at the judicial review stage. However, there will occasionally arise the need for such evidence, and this section is intended to identify those occasions and regulate the kinds of evidence that can be received.

Subsection (1) permits the taking of new evidence that bears on the propriety of the constitution of the decision-making body or upon improper motives or unlawful procedures. The subsection also permits the taking of new evidence generally in cases heard below on an informal basis, i.e., cases not required to be determined on the record.

Subsection (2) authorizes the court to remand to the agency for further evidentiary development when thought necessary by the court. Comment on this section went essentially to matters of clarity and several modifications in aid of that goal were adopted.

This section identifies the contents of the agency record that is to be reviewed. Two matters are of special interest. First, subsection (3) provides that the agency shall charge the petitioner with the costs of preparing transcripts but that a failure by the petitioner to pay does not relieve the agency from their responsibility for preparation and transmittal to the court. This is an alternative provision in the Model Act (1981) that was included by the Task Force on the theory that a fair disposition of the proceeding on the merits is the ultimate goal of judicial review whether or not costs of this sort can be later recovered by the agency. One commentator believed this provision was unwise and that unless the preparation of the transcript is conditioned upon payment of its cost, the cost would rarely be recovered.
A second comment noted that it is the practice of some agencies to transmit the record exclusive of the transcript until a court date is set to save the expense of preparing a transcript in the many cases which are settled before trial. This is a useful practice, and the language of subsection (4) has been modified to include authority for a "shortened record."

81 COMMENT

This section describes the grounds upon which courts can set aside agency action. There is a sense in which this section is central to the entire new APA since it deals with the ultimate relationship between the courts and the administrative agencies.

Subsection (1) states the conventional rule that the burden of proof is on the party seeking review.

Subsection (2) requires that the court deal fully with all issues upon which the court's decision is based, although it does not require a court to respond to every argument raised in the petition.

Subsection (3) states the grounds for granting judicial relief. Subsection (3)(g) originally authorized the court to strike down agency action that was "motivated by an improper purpose." This was a difficult provision. On the one hand, improperly motivated agency action should be subject to full judicial review. On the other hand, authorizing motivation as a criterion might invite voluminous attacks on agency action. Moreover, resolving questions of motive might require the sort of examination of agency states of mind that would be destructive of the integrity of the agency decisional process. The Legislature explicitly identified these problems and invited commentators to address them. As expected, several people objected to any inquiry into agency motivation, on the grounds that it was irrelevant, or dangerous. The Legislature, though still regarding the question as a close one, concluded to proceed with the general thrust of the proposal. The provision was modified in response to comments received to focus on the more objective relationship of reasons to authority, rather than the more subjective matter of motive. Note that if this provision been eliminated, something of the same sort could have been obtained under the authority granted in subsection (3)(k) below to set aside agency action that is "arbitrary or capricious." The preference for subsection (3)(g) is based on the thought that if a court is going to inquire into such matters, perhaps explicit authority to do so would be useful.

Subsection (3)(h) deals with the scope of review of agency determinations of fact. Essentially, the draft adopts the "substantial evidence" rule which appears in the federal Administrative Procedure Act and in the Model Act (1981). The test is also used by appellate courts in reviewing trial courts. The substantial evidence test provides that an agency finding of fact is to be upheld by a court on review if there is evidence in the record from which a reasoning mind could have arrived at the findings. The draft as formulated clearly provides that in making this assessment of the factual adequacy of the order, the record is to be viewed as a whole.

This test is regarded as a somewhat deferential test, since the judge is not to set aside an agency finding merely because he or she might have drawn a different conclusion from the evidence; even in that case, the judge is to affirm the agency if it is possible to say that a reasonable person could have reached the conclusion the agency reached.

The original Washington act used the substantial evidence test, but was amended in 1967 to substitute the "clear error" test. The difference between these tests is not well understood, but most commentators believe that the clear error test provides for a little more intensive judicial review than does the substantial evidence test. That seems to have been the intent of the 1967 amendment to the Washington act since the proponents of the change were urging that courts take more responsibility for the factual adequacy of agency findings.

It is not possible to say with assurance whether the Washington courts have interpreted the amended Washington act with this shading in mind. But in one of the court's latest discussions of the matter (Franklin County v. Sellers, 97 Wn.2d 317 (1982)), it is clear that the Washington court regards a certain deference to agency fact-finding appropriate. Since that is the result of the substantial evidence test.
and since the test is widely understood in the federal and many state settings, the test seemed appropriate.

The act permits the use of the substantial evidence test in any factual areas where a court finds it helpful.

Subsections (3)(i) and (3)(j) deal with the scope of judicial review for matters other than strictly legal questions, applications of statutory terms, and questions of fact. These sections are more elaborate than the existing Washington statute, but probably do not add any new components to the ordinary kind of judicial review now available. They serve rather (as is common with many sections of the act) to codify existing judicial practice in aid of clarity and predictability.

Subsection (3)(i) authorizes the court to strike agency adjudications that are inconsistent with agency rules. Subsection (3)(j) authorizes the court to set aside agency adjudications that are inconsistent with prior agency decisions in like cases, except where the agency has explained the inconsistency and provided some rational basis for it. Subsection (3)(k) authorizes the court to strike any agency action that is arbitrary or capricious, a standard that exists in the present Washington act.

A comment suggested that subsection (3)(h), (i), and (j) would put too great a burden on agencies with high-volume caseloads and that we would be better off just to stick with subsection (3)(k), with its arbitrary and capricious standard. As indicated above, the provisions of subsection (3)(h), (i), and (j), do now represent the better judicial practice in judicial review and spelling those principles out seemed helpful for the purpose of clarity and consistency. It is not intended that they add any new burdens to agencies. For example, subsection (3)(j) requires an agency to decide cases consistently with prior like cases unless some explanation for a change in policy is

This section specifies the kinds of relief which the court can provide. Language contained in earlier drafts, which gave the court broad discretion to fashion remedies in accordance with the exigencies of the situation, has been deleted in response to strong agency objection. However, the court's power to modify an agency decision without remand has been retained in those cases where to do otherwise would be impracticable or unduly prolong the receipt of relief.

This section provides for civil enforcement of agency rules or orders.

This section authorizes private parties to seek enforcement of agency orders under very limited conditions. Those conditions include limits on who may bring such petitions and on the timing of the petitions. The section is drafted with substantial respect for the agency's enforcement discretion. Essentially, under subsection (3), the plaintiff must demonstrate that the discretion is being abused before a court will enforce agency action at a private party's request. Perhaps the most significant limitation on judicial authority to order agencies to enforce actions is that the authority extends only to agency orders and not to rules. There was some discussion of broadening this section to authorize private parties to seek enforcement of agency rules, but it was decided to leave the section as it is.

One change was made in response to the comment which pointed out that the act as originally submitted authorized an action if the agency was found to be in violation of any of the grounds stated in section 81(3). This includes action that is inconsistent with prior action. The result of this language is to freeze agency enforcement philosophy so that it would be difficult to change. Rather than impose such a drag on possible modification of an agency's enforcement views, the section was amended to include only the more general standard of section 81(3)(k), namely the arbitrary and capricious standard.
85 COMMENT

This section identifies the kinds of issues that can be raised by a defendant in resisting agency enforcement. In the absence of special statutory provisions, it would seem that the validity of an agency action is a condition of judicial authority to enforce the action. Hence, the issue of the order's legality could be raised in defense in a judicial proceeding to enforce the agency's order. On the other hand, when there is a statutory provision for direct judicial review of the agency action, some courts have concluded that defenses could not be raised in enforcement proceedings. This result seems especially likely where the authority for judicial review is said to be "exclusive." 310 F.2d 417 (5th Circuit, 1962). Some federal statutory provisions (The Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. 45(c), 45(g)) provide that upon expiration of the time allowed for filing a review petition, the agency's order "shall be final." Many federal review systems are patterned after this model. The result is that a defendant who does not seek direct judicial review of an order may not attack the order in subsequent enforcement proceedings.

The original draft provided that any of the grounds of section 81 may be raised by way of defense in an enforcement proceeding. Some objections were received, expressing the view that enforcement should be a summary process and that those with legal objections to the agency order should seek review directly rather than ignoring the order and waiting for an enforcement proceeding.

The draft was amended in response to this comment to limit defenses to issues of constitutionality and/or jurisdiction.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Metcalf: "Senator Talmadge, I'm not an attorney and I don't know what the words mean when it says, 'It is a complete defense to an action for damages for personal injury or wrongful death'—I am reading on page 25 of the bill—'if the person injured or killed was under the influence of intoxicating liquor.' What does it mean when it says, 'a complete defense?'"

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, that is meant to indicate that the defense can plead that as an affirmative defense that would exonerate them from any liability to the plaintiff."

Senator Metcalf: "So, if you're intoxicated at the time you cause injury, or death, you can use that as a defense? I'm reading on page 25, Section 1001, Part X."

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, in response to that question, specifically, it requires that such intoxication be the proximate cause of the injury or death and that the trier of fact, find that the person was more than fifty percent at fault. This is a rewriting of the intoxication defense that was present in the 1986 Act. You might recall in the debate on this issue that we placed the fifty percent provision in the area relating to proximate cause. Some of us argued out here on the floor that proximate cause can't be anything less than zero or one-hundred percent. It's either or. What was intended by the drafters of the section relating to intoxication was that if the intoxication was more than fifty percent of the fault, then a complete defense to the plaintiff's claim was present. That's what this particular section makes clear. It's simply a rewriting to make clear and to make, I think, proper what was done by the last Legislature in its Tort Reform Act."

Senator Metcalf: "Okay, in other words, we are not changing the wording about complete defense, we are just changing and adding, 'at the time of the occurrence causing the injury or death.' You know as a non-lawyer, I don't really understand why we're saying, and maybe I'm wrong, why we are saying, 'if you are intoxicated, you have some sort of a defense for what you did.' It seems to me, you should be punished for what you did and in addition maybe, get something for being drunk."

Senator Talmadge: "Senator, you've got the wrong person. A complete defense is what's available to the defendant who is being sued by the drunk. So, if you were someone who went to a tavern, for example, and consumed a dozen beers and went out on the highway and because of your intoxication, ran into someone else and you then sued someone else, the person who was sued would be entitled to raise the defense and say, 'You can't recover, because you were drunk.'"

Senator Metcalf: "Okay. Thank you very much. That answers my question."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 6048.

Senator McDonald: “Senator Owen, in adopting your amendment to my amendment, was it your intent to have penalties assessed in the event of a strike?”

Senator Owen: “My amendment was in no way intended to have the court not consider penalties. I definitely did not mean for the amendment to imply that. I do expect that the court would assess penalties, but I feel they should assess them as they deem appropriate and if, in fact, it would be more than what was in your amendment and the court deemed that appropriate, then I think that’s what it should be.”

MOTION

On motion of Senator Gaspard, the rules were suspended, Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5225 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Zimmerman: “Senator Gaspard, could you be a little more explicit on how this bill will really make an impact on students in the community colleges?”

Senator Gaspard: “Well, I’ll try. That is a rather wide open question. Under the Meet and Confer Law, it can be interpreted—you can sit down and have a cup of coffee and that would satisfy the requirements of law and need go no further with your employer organizations, or you can have some good faith bargaining that many schools now do. This will put collective bargaining, in good faith, on the statutes and will require the two parties to come together, in good faith, to agree mutually, on the terms and conditions that are allowed under collective bargaining. I think we will set some certainty that students will know that both sides are talking and that both sides can reach agreement.”

Senator Zimmerman: “Senator Gaspard, that’s going to help them in terms of their educational process, according to what you are saying. Can you tell us, do you have an idea of how many new potential members do we have then in WEA from this bill?”

Senator Gaspard: “Senator Zimmerman, I have not concerned myself with those type of issues. I have no idea.”

Senator Zimmerman: “Would you be able to tell how many new trustees have been appointed to the community colleges in the last three years?”

Senator Gaspard: “Senator Zimmerman, we have, if I remember correctly, twenty-three community college districts and if you’d like me to give that information to you, how many have been appointed in the last three years. I’ll be glad to do it. I certainly don’t know that off the top of my head.”

Senator Zimmerman: “I don’t mean to put you on the spot in that regard, but I would be appreciative of that material at some point for historical purposes. Thank you.”

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Cantu: “Senator Gaspard, I am trying to get clarification on Section 5 which deals with the section on binding arbitration. Traditionally, one excludes interest items from binding arbitration on bills such as this. Now, the bill states that it applies to ‘interpretation or application, including, but not limited to.’ Now when we say ‘including, but not limited,’ that opens a great deal. My question specifically, Senator Gaspard, is binding arbitration applicable to interest items under this bill—items dealing with money, salaries, those types of things—traditionally what most people refer to as interest arbitration, items that deal with money?”

Senator Gaspard: “I believe that would be my interpretation.”

Senator Cantu: “My concern is that we are putting ourselves in the hands of a third party then if we have interest arbitration on wages. My question is, are we putting ourselves into the hands of a third party then to grant monies above and beyond maybe what is appropriated by the Legislature? I am not sure that it’s clear in my mind how Section 5, if it applies to money, is going to be interpreted.”
Senator Gaspard: "Senator Cantu, I’ve looked at this very carefully. As a matter of fact, I stepped out to check with staff. What is your definition of interest issues, I don’t read that in the language here, then, no."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: "Senator Gaspard, you indicated that you didn’t concern yourself with the dues enhancement with the WEA. Do you agree that the passage of this bill would greatly enhance the dues collecting ability through new memberships by the WEA?"

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Deccio, I have no way of knowing that and I don’t think that should be considered as a reason to go for or against this bill. If you’d like to use those types of arguments on the floor to support or to oppose a bill, then I suggest you do it, rather than trying to enter the question and answer period into the journal."

Senator Deccio: "Senator Gaspard, I don’t want to impugn your motives, but I do feel you are probably being a little naive when you don’t recognize the fact that the WEA has other motives other than just trying to do something better for education. I have been on a community college board for seven and one-half years and I think that the tools that have been in place since that time have done very well on the part of the teaching staff.

As far as having the broad support of all the people that you indicated in the groups, I’ve done some checking myself and I find that the State Board for Community College Education is split on this issue, that it does not have the unanimous support of its President and I’ve checked with a couple of my trustees in Yakima and they were hardly aware of the fact that this bill even exists. I guess it’s going to pass, but in its passing I think all of you need to be reminded—to use an old cliche—'this is the nose in the tent.' Down the road you are going to see that the original purpose of this bill, which was to include four year institutions, will be added somewhere down the line. That didn’t pass last year, didn’t pass the year before, but with the passage of this bill, it will sometime come to that conclusion."

Senator Gaspard: "Mr. President, in order to again respond to Senator Deccio’s question, there are other employee organizations other than the Washington Education Association. I might also point out again, that this agreed bill was reached through an agreement by the State Board for Community Colleges, the employee organizations and also there is a task force that involved two presidents and two trustees. I am surprised you are making the remarks you are about the camel under the tent."

Senator Deccio: "Mr. President, if I may, I guess the difference between us, Senator Gaspard, I am not being naive on the subject, but with that, I am certainly going to vote against this bill."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Pullen: "Senator Craswell, did I understand you to say that you offered an amendment in committee that would have precluded the teaching of unpatriotic subject matter and that amendment was defeated in committee?"

Senator Craswell: "Yes, that's right. I just have to believe that those who are promoting the bill agree that they should be allowed to teach unpatriotic material."
POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Saling: "Senator Fleming, is there a cost to this bill?"

Senator Fleming: "Yes, there is a cost to the bill."

Senator Saling: "What is the amount?"

Senator Fleming: "My understanding at this time, the Superintendent of Public Instruction already has in his budget something like $95,000 or $100,000. The total of the program as it is drawn up is supposed to be in the neighborhood of $290,000 or something of that nature. My understanding is that—we hope this bill, as it goes through the process, will be considered one of the more important pieces of education that will come out this session. If this body feels as though that this is as important as many other things, then we will fund it to a certain level. If this body feels they don't, then this body will probably fund it only at the level that they feel it should be."

Senator Saling: "Thank you, Senator. Did you say the Superintendent had about $80,000 or $90,000 now?"

Senator Fleming: "I think in his proposed budget for the upcoming biennium—"

Senator Saling: "I see a $295,000 figure here. Is that part of the bill?"

Senator Fleming: "The $295,000 is a part of the bill and a part of that $295,000 would be a part of that; that's in the Superintendent's budget."

Further debate ensued.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Warnke, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5515 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5515 and the second substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

On motion of Senator Warnke, the rules were suspended, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5515 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Deccio: Senator Warnke, the last licensing bill that I voted for caused me some real problems with one of my clients in Yakima who was in the leasing business. He was denied a license by the Department of Licensing because he did not have a showroom. Now, I know there are a lot of people who are in the boat leasing business. How would this apply to them in the same situation? Excuse me, the problem existed when they repossessed vehicles they had on lease.

Senator Warnke: I don't believe this bill speaks to the lease. This bill speaks to though—that the dealer must have an office. It does not say that he must have a display area because, obviously, many of the boats are on the water. One of the problems they have found over the last year with the present act is that dealers, once they are licensed, are given dealer decals. When they stick those on the boats and sell the boats, there are a lot of boats running around with dealer decals on them that are not licensed and not paying any license fees. That is one of the main things this bill is after.

Senator Deccio: Could I safely say for the record then that this will not be the intent of this legislation to deny a license for those people who are in the leasing business?

Senator Warnke: That is certainly not my intent, Senator.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Nelson: Senator Warnke, I can't find in here exactly what the $314,000 that is the appropriation of this measure is going to be used for by the Department of Licensing. Could you explain what the $314,000 is for?

Senator Warnke: We have listed all the rates in the fiscal note that is available to you. If you want me to give one to you. On the expenditures, the bill was originally $322,000 and was worked back down to $314,000 for decals, employee support, communications, printing, DP services, legal services, travel, inspectors going out, obviously, employee office equipment, a personal computer for the additional people that are coming in—2.3 FTEs, a clerk typist—three of them, a hearings examiner—two of them, staff required to implement this bill, 2.3 vehicle service investigators. I would be glad to give you a copy of the fiscal note, if you would like.

Senator Nelson: Mr. President, members of the Senate. I know when we first established the boating excise tax it was the intent that the boaters, and I am now assuming, the dealers would carry the expense of the implementation of the act. I am not sure, although I've read in the analysis that apparently we are going to catch up here somewhere along the line, where the fees paid by the dealers are supposed to reimburse this amount. The thing that concerns me is, I can't imagine why we're not having the fees set at a level at the initiation of the act to carry on the support that's now been described to the body for the need of the FTEs, and the computers, and the inspections, and the other action of this measure.

"I am concerned about that from the standpoint of cross subsidizing, taking money out of the general fund or whatever is going to be the case. In fact, as I read this bill, that is exactly what it is, removing $314,000 from the general fund to get the thing kicked off and I'm not so sure when we pay it back."

Senator Warnke: "Senator, in the bill the Department is directed to make it self-sustaining to raise the required fees, so they are not taking money out of the general fund."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5515.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator DeJamatt, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5845 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5845 and the second substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

Senator Barr moved that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 2, beginning on line 18, strike all material down to and including "this act." on page 3, line 19

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Patterson: "Senator Owen, I notice that after this bill arrived over at Ways and Means—we had cut the original appropriation from six million to three and we felt like we were really going overboard to do that. Then it gets to Ways and Means and the total appropriation is eliminated, as I understand. You know, we are talking about policy now and a policy that cannot be backed up with the dollars to do it. I am concerned. I think the section that you are referring to here that is being amended is the key to the dollars. In other words, the need for dollars. Can you respond to me on what value we will have in the state of Washington if we pass this legislation without an appropriation?"

Senator Owen: "That is a very good question, Senator Patterson, because without the appropriation, there will be no bill. The bill may pass, but you won't be able to implement it. It would be impossible to do so. In my mind, and I think you recognize that also. In the Ways and Means Committee, many bills come out this way that originally had an appropriation on them and the idea was that as we were dealing with the budget, we would determine what that appropriation should be and put it in there.

"I happen to concur with you that we, as a policy body—the Natural Resources Committee—should be able to make those determinations and should be able to have them supported in the Ways and Means Committee. It turned out to be a policy and a regular practice towards the end of the cut-off to delete the appropriations and deal with it directly in the budget, so there is intention to deal directly with it in the budget. If it’s not, nothing will happen with this bill, because they won’t be able to do anything with the bill."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senator Barr.

The motion by Senator Barr failed and the amendment was not adopted.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Patterson: "Senator Kreidler, I am confused by the summary which indicates that you eliminated the general fund appropriation by eliminating some safety programs and then on the next page—'an appropriation of 1.9 million from the general fund.' I am confused as to whether there is an appropriation or not."

Senator Kreidler: "Senator Patterson, if you would take a look—I take it back—I was quickly going to point out that if you would take a look at the effects of the substitute, the need for general fund appropriation is eliminated. Evidently, that printing of the appropriation referenced the initial draft, but as you can see from the effects of the proposed substitute which was adopted, it carries no funding responsibility."
Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Anderson: "Senator Conner, in reading this bill, Section 2 calls for a facility conducting ship refueling and bunkering operations or the lightering of petroleum products shall have containment and recovery equipment readily available. Would the co-op that they have between the Anacortes and Bellingham refineries—the co-op suffice for this equipment or do they need to have that equipment on site?"

Senator Conner: "Well, in the oil spill we had in Port Angeles, we didn't have any wind for about four days and so we had a lot of fog and there wasn't a wind to be blowing that oil to the east or to the west, but it did come ashore in the area. It took some time for them to bring the equipment up from California and it took several days to get the equipment from Anacortes and up into the Bellingham area. We had the oil industry people working on this along with the Department of Ecology and there was the feeling that we needed to be looking at this and trying to do something about it, because it does take a considerable amount of time to bring that equipment from Anacortes or Bellingham to the Port Angeles area when you have an oil spill."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Anderson, did they also tell you that in four foot waves their equipment won't work at all?"
Senator Anderson: "No, they didn't mention when they can use their equipment."

When the public utility district is coextensive with the limits of such county, then, at the first election of commissioners and until any change shall have been made in the boundaries of public utility district commissioner districts, one public utility district commissioner shall be chosen from each of the three county commissioner districts of the county in which the public utility district is located if the county is not operating under a "Home Rule" charter. When the public utility district comprises only a portion of the county, with boundaries established in accordance with chapter 54.08 RCW, or when the public utility district is located in a county operating under a "Home Rule" charter, three public utility district commissioner districts, numbered consecutively, having approximately equal population and boundaries, following ward and precinct lines, as far as practicable, shall be described in the petition for the formation of the public utility district, which shall be subject to appropriate change by the county legislative authority if and when they change the boundaries of the proposed public utility district, and one commissioner shall be elected from each of said public utility district commissioner districts. In all five commissioner districts an additional commissioner at large shall be chosen from each of the two at large districts. No person shall be eligible to be elected to the office of public utility district commissioner for a particular district commissioner district unless he is a registered voter of the public utility district commissioner district or at large district from which he is elected.

Except as otherwise provided, the term of office of each public utility district commissioner other than the commissioners at large shall be six years, and the term of each commissioner at large shall be four years. Each term shall be computed in accordance with RCW 29.04.170 following the commissioner's election. One commissioner at large and one commissioner from a commissioner district shall be elected at each general election held in an even-numbered year for the term of four years and six years respectively. All candidates shall be voted upon by the entire public utility district.

When a public utility district is formed, three public utility district commissioners shall be elected at the same election at which the proposition is submitted to the voters as to whether such public utility district shall be formed. If the general election adopting the proposition to create the public utility district was held in an even-numbered year, the commissioner residing in commissioner district number one shall hold office for the term of six years; the commissioner residing in commissioner district number two shall hold office for the term of four years; and the commissioner residing in commissioner district number three shall hold office for the term of two years. A vacancy in the office of public utility district commissioner shall occur by death, resignation, removal, conviction of a felony, nonattendance at meetings of the public utility district commission for a period of sixty days unless excused by the public utility district commission, by any statutory disqualification, or by any permanent disability preventing the proper discharge of his duty. In the event of a vacancy in said office, such vacancy shall be filled at the time of the general election held in the next even-numbered year, by appointment of the remaining commissioners. If more than one vacancy exists at the same time in a three commissioner district, or more than two in a five commissioner district, a special election shall be called by the county canvassing board upon the request of the remainder, or, that failing, by the county election board, such election to be held not more than forty days after the occurring of such vacancies.

A majority of the persons holding the office of public utility district commissioner at any time shall constitute a quorum of the commission for the transaction of business, and the concurrence of a majority of the persons holding such office at the time shall be necessary and shall be sufficient for the passage of any resolution, but no business shall be transacted, except in usual and ordinary course, unless there are in office at least a majority of the full number of commissioners fixed by law.

The boundaries of the public utility district commissioners' district may be changed only by the public utility district commission, and shall be examined every ten years to determine substantial equality of population, but said boundaries shall not be changed oftener than once in four years, and only when all members of the commission are present. Whenever territory is added to a public utility district, the boundaries of the public utility district commissioners' districts shall be changed to include such additional territory. The proposed change of the boundaries of the public utility district commissioners' district must be made by resolution and after public hearing. Notice of the time of a public hearing thereon shall be published for two weeks prior thereto. Upon a referendum petition signed by ten percent of the qualified voters of the public utility district being filed with the county auditor, the county legislative authority shall submit such proposed change of boundaries to the voters of the public utility district for their approval or rejection. Such petition must be filed within ninety days after the adoption of resolution of the proposed action. The validity of said petition shall be governed by the provisions of chapter 54.08 RCW.

Sec. 2. Section 1, chapter 101, Laws of 1983 and RCW 54.04.035 are each amended to read as follows:

In addition to other powers authorized in Title 54 RCW, public utility districts may annex territory as provided in this section.

The boundaries of a public utility district may be enlarged and new contiguous territory added pursuant to the procedures for annexation by cities and towns provided in RCW 35.13-.015 through (35.13.160) 35.13.110. The provisions of these sections concerning community municipal corporations, review boards, and comprehensive plans, however, do not apply to public utility district annexations. For purposes of conforming with such procedures, the public utility district is deemed to be the city or town and the board of commissioners is deemed to be the city or town legislative body.

Annexation procedures provided in this section may only be used to annex territory not located in another public utility district) that is both: (1) contiguous to the annexing public utility district; and (2) located within the service area of the annexing public utility district. As used in this section, a public utility district's "service area" means those areas whether located within or outside of the annexing public utility district's boundaries that were generally served with electrical energy by the annexing public utility district on January 1, 1987. Such service area may, or may not, (be) have been recognized in an agreement made under chapter 54.48 RCW, but no area may be included within such service area that was generally served with electrical energy on January 1, 1987, by another public utility district as defined in RCW 54.48.010. An area proposed to be annexed may be located in the same or a different county as the annexing public utility district.

If an area proposed to be annexed is located within the boundaries of another public utility district, annexation may be initiated only upon petition of registered voters residing in the area in accordance with RCW 35.13.020 and adoption by the boards of commissioners of both districts of identical resolutions stating (a) the boundaries of the area to be annexed, (b) a determination that annexation is in the public interest of the residents of the area to be annexed as well as the public interest of their respective districts, (c) approval of annexation by the board, (d) the boundaries of the districts after annexation, (e) the disposition of any assets of the districts in the area to be annexed, (f) the obligations to be assumed by the annexing district, (g) apportionment of election costs, and (h) that voters in the area to be annexed will be advised of lawsuits that may impose liability on the annexed territory and the possible impact of annexation on taxes and utility rates.

If annexation is approved, the area annexed shall cease to be a part of the one public utility district at the same time that it becomes a part of the other district. The annexing public utility district shall assume responsibility for providing the area annexed with the services provided by the other public utility district in the area annexed.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 54.04 RCW to read as follows:

When territory has been added to a public utility district in accordance with RCW 54.04-
.035, the supervisor of elections and other officers of the county in which the public utility district first operated shall coordinate elections, the levy and collection of taxes, and other necessary duties with the appropriate county officials of the other county."

On motion of Senator Halsan, the rules were suspended, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5492 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Zimmerman: "Senator Bailey, would you give us a specific example of some particular organization that you feel has abused this inability to be looked at from a standpoint of open meetings?"

Senator Bailey: "Thank you, Senator Zimmerman. I wouldn't want to give a specific name of an organization, but a case that came to my knowledge in the 39th District was one of a group that had public state money and was a nonprofit organization and they were not allowing nonmembers or people to participate in what happened at their meetings during the discussions of the use of state money. We thought that this should be looked into because people should have an opportunity, when they are dealing with state money, to participate or at least listen to what's going on in the meeting and these are closed meetings."

Senator Zimmerman: "Responding in that sense, Senator Bailey, I guess I am concerned as to what this could be doing in terms of the total matter of nonprofit groups that are serving the public. I think the fact that you have--some of you, I am sure have served on nonprofit organizational boards--what I am saying is, there are groups like a group that serves in terms of youth organizations where they are working with people who have had to be thrown out of their homes and they're now being served by group homes. There are groups of alcoholic nonprofit organizations that, obviously, get government help and I don't know any of these that are not allowing people to come in and sit in and listen to their board meetings. We have never had any problem of that sort when I served on those.

'I was concerned—we don't seem to worry about people's individual money. If we give out welfare money, we don't try to follow that individual money. Those people are allowed to spend it without our scrutiny and I'm concerned a little bit as to the impact we might ultimately get in terms of nonprofit, volunteer memberships on boards and serving. I think there could be abuses maybe as Senator Bailey has alluded to, but I am not sure we want to go into a state law that would require that this—actually it's going to be a study of the committee I guess we will be looking at and maybe that's a lesser degree, but I am concerned about the chilling effect it may have on such organizations and people serving on boards.'

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5492.

On motion of Senator McDermott, the rules were suspended. Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5533 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Patterson: "Senator DeJarnatt, the amendment we just adopted stripping out the money, I wonder if you have been in conversation with the Ways and Means Committee as to how much money will be made available to conduct the study? I am concerned, once again as we discussed earlier today, apparently the policy of our committee was that we would like to see four hundred thousand dollars put into that program to at least give it a chance. I just wonder if there is some kind of a commitment or some determination has been made by any member of the Ways and Means Committee as to whether there will actually be any appropriation in the budget to accommodate this act?"

Senator DeJarnatt did not respond.

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Patterson, as one member of the Ways and Means Committee, when push comes to pull and there are hungry people, they won't be out there in the ocean spending four hundred thousand dollars looking for oil or looking for why we shouldn't. That's just from one member of the Ways and Means Committee—and there are many on the floor. Senator Fleming has poor housing and wants to get housing for the poor, so there are a lot of things to consider."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on final passage of Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill No. 5533.

ROLL CALL

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5854, by Senators Kreidler, Moore, Metcalf and Deccio

Providing for regulation of retirement care communities.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Kreidler, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5854 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5854 and the substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

On motion of Senator Kreidler, the rules were suspended. Substitute Senate Bill No. 5854 was advanced to third reading, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Nelson: "Senator Kreidler, there is a lot in this bill and I can appreciate all the work that went into it insofar as there's a requirement that within each retirement community now that there be a community council or resident council, I guess we call it. This has to be provided and that also in Section 20 that it now mandates that every retirement community shall offer an opportunity to participate in a group long-care supplemental insurance plan. There are a lot of other obligations in here upon the retirement community management as well as the Insurance Commissioner, so I figured there had to be some requirement for money and I noticed in Section 23 that there is an appropriation section but it's blank and I'd like to have you perhaps offer to the body what is the proposed amount of appropriation that we are now going to be providing to the Department of Social and Health Services to carry out the purposes of this act?"

Senator Kreidler: "Senator Nelson, like many of the bills that have gone through here, that is probably one of the things, potentially, that could have been struck relative to the exact amount—the appropriation section—but leaving it blank accomplishes the same purpose. That would have something that would have to be funded separately through the budget bill as it goes through here, but it would be approximately $125,000 in that particular range for the coming biennium."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Zimmerman: "Senator Kreidler, were the retirement centers, were there many of them involved in any sense with this proposal—Westley Gardens, Westley Foundation, Bayview Manor, those kinds of organizations? They were involved? You are saying they were involved to the extent they had an opportunity to work out this bill? You are nodding your head, but I'd really like to have a sound of affirmative that says, 'yes.' I meant simply whether there was the involvement with these organizations that, obviously, they are going to have to raise rates to cover many of these things as Senator Nelson has alluded to."

Senator Kreidler: "Senator Zimmerman, yes, there was a very extensive interim study group that was put together—a task force—as I pointed out, for the State Health Coordinating Council in conjunction with the State Area Agency on Aging, putting together this task force group that studied extensively over the last two years. Involved very extensively with that group, were Chuck Hawley's group which is the nonprofit organization, the benevolent organizations and so forth. He was playing a particularly active role. Believe me all of the groups and organizations involved in the study have had an extensive input and modifications were made time and time again to try to accommodate concerns of one group or another as they expressed them in order to balance this as carefully as possible."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Moore, I was intrigued with this tremendous debt that the Internal Revenue has assessed against somebody and I thought maybe you could explain it. Would you explain that? It doesn't mention that in the bill. I just read it thoroughly."
Senator Moore: "This was one of the things, Senator, that came out in the testimony and they asked for an extra six years in order to pay off the IRS because they will actually be in a deficit position, actuarially for the next six years until they get this bill to the IRS paid off, which, I believe, is three-quarters of a million dollars a year. It goes back a number of years. I am not privy to the details."

On motion of Senator Vognild, further consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No.
5854 was deferred.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Vognild: "Senator Tanner, I am reading the digest here and it seems to indicate that travel expenses and time loss in connection with medical treatment are removed from the law. Is that a correct statement?"

Senator Tanner: "Thank you for the question, Senator Vognild. No, the description in the book is misleading. The original bill actually added to the reimbursement for travel that was allowed to the worker. The substitute bill puts us right back to status quo in current law where we are right now. So, this substitute bill makes no change whatsoever in the travel reimbursement to a worker."

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the amendments, as amended, were adopted by the following vote: Yeas, 35; nays, 14.

MOTION

Senator Pullen moved that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 1, beginning on line 5, insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The Washington state legislature finds that the constitutional right to keep and bear arms is a fundamental freedom which should be protected, nurtured, and expanded. The legislature also finds that the founding fathers of our state and country very much wanted to have firearms in the hands of ordinary citizens as a means of protecting freedom and deterring potential despots from undermining our constitutional republic by force.

Quotes from the founding fathers clearly support these legislative findings. For example, George Washington said, "Firearms stand next in importance to the constitution itself ... From the hour the pilgrims landed to the present day, events, occurrences and tendencies prove that to ensure peace, security and happiness, the rifle and pistol are equally indispensable ... The very atmosphere of firearms anywhere and everywhere restrains evil influence—they deserve a place of honor with all that's good ..." Thomas Jefferson said, "No free man shall ever be debarred the use of arms." Patrick Henry stated, "The great object is that every man be armed ... Everyone who is able may have a gun."

Clearly, the founding fathers realized that firearms in the hands of ordinary citizens would on occasion result in sad consequences, such as the death of an innocent person through criminal behavior or a tragic accident. However, they also knew that these relatively few deaths would be far more than offset by the many lives saved as a result of the right to bear arms helping to preserve freedom. They knew that the few lives lost through criminal behavior or accidents would be negligible compared to the large number of lives lost whenever freedom is destroyed and a tyrannical government is established. History has shown our founding fathers to be very wise indeed. While citizens in the United States have experienced unprecedented freedom, the rest of the world has witnessed six million Jews murdered by Adolf Hitler, fifteen million Russians slaughtered by Joseph Stalin, and an estimated sixty million Chinese murdered in communist China, none of whom were allowed to possess firearms.

As a result of these lessons from history, it is the intent of the legislature to promote freedom and protect public safety by enacting the "Firearm Civil Rights Act of 1987" and imposing stiff civil and criminal penalties on any person or public official who unlawfully or unconstitutionally interferes with the right of a citizen to keep and bear arms.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "Firearms Civil Rights Act of 1987."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) A person shall be guilty of denial of firearms civil rights if he or she is a public official and:

(a) Denies or causes the denial of the issuance or renewal of a concealed pistol license to an applicant who is qualified under this chapter or other state laws; or

(b) Requests the applicant to provide additional information beyond that required by RCW 9.41.070 or causes the request to be made; or

(c) Confiscates or orders forfeiture of a citizen's firearms without authority under state statutes or without due process of law or sets the policy for such confiscation or forfeiture; or

(d) Prohibits a commercial seller from delivering a firearm to a purchaser without good cause, lawful authority under state statutes, or due process of law or causes such prohibition to be made; or

(e) Orders a commercial seller to delay delivery of a firearm to a purchaser beyond the usual five-day limit specified in RCW 9.41.090 without good cause, lawful authority under state statutes, or due process of law or causes the order to be made.
(2) The fact or claim that a public official was acting under the direction of a superior is not a defense to an action under subsection (1) of this section.

(3) This section applies both to employees who violate a provision of this section and to any employers or supervisors who require or order an employee to violate a provision of this section.

(4) Denial of firearm civil rights is a gross misdemeanor.

For the purposes of this section, public official means any person employed by any state or local governmental entity and includes local government elected officials.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A person whose firearm civil rights have been denied under section 3 of this act shall be awarded civil damages equal to five thousand dollars for each violation plus attorney fees and compensation for loss of income, loss of wages, loss of fringe benefits, transportation expenses, communication expenses, and all other costs associated with efforts to regain the person's firearms civil rights and seek civil remedies. The civil remedies may be sought regardless of whether or not criminal charges are filed pursuant to section 3 of this act; and the petitioner's case shall not be prejudiced by the fact that criminal charges were not filed. The civil action may be brought in the county where the violation occurred or in Thurston county at the discretion of the petitioner.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The attorney general may bring a civil or criminal action for violation of section 3 of this act.

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President, I raise the point of order on scope and object. The amendment is an amendment relating to civil rights in a bill that is designed to deal with the issue of firearms in specific. I believe the amendment by Senator Pullen expands both the scope and the object of the legislation. Mr. President, if additional time is needed for the chair to formulate a ruling on that issue, I would ask that Substitute Senate Bill No. 5710 hold its place on the calendar."

Further debate ensued.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Bottiger, further consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5710 was deferred.

SECOND READING

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively and correct internal references accordingly.

On page 21, after line 19, insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 38. All classified employees employed in connection with the powers, duties, and functions transferred are transferred to the jurisdiction of the department of public health and environment. All employees classified under chapter 41.06 RCW, the state civil service law, are assigned to the department of public health and environment to perform their usual duties upon the same terms as formerly, without any loss of rights, subject to any action that may be appropriate thereafter in accordance with the laws and rules governing state civil service.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 39. Nothing contained in this act may be construed to alter any existing collective bargaining unit or the provisions of any existing collective bargaining agreement until the agreement has expired or until the bargaining unit has been modified by action of the personnel board as provided by law."

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively and correct internal references accordingly.

MOTION

Senator Talmadge moved that the following amendment be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The departments of social and health services and ecology were created in 1970. At that time, the legislature recognized that the protection of the natural environment and the protection of the public health as it relates to the environment were closely interrelated activities. The enabling statutes, RCW 43.21A.140 and 43.20A.140, directed each agency to consult with the other "in order that to the fullest extent possible, agencies concerned with the preservation of life and health, and agencies concerned with the protection of the environment may integrate their efforts and endorse policies in common."

Increasing awareness of incidents involving air, water, and land pollution resulting in health problems have caused citizens to be confused about the responsibility of the departments of ecology and social and health services.

Examples of areas in which both agencies have responsibilities include: Toxic and hazardous waste disposal; ground water contamination affecting drinking water; radioactive material handling and disposal; and pollution of Puget Sound resulting in shellfish area closures.

The purpose of this act is to consolidate the department of social and health services offices of radiation protection and environmental health programs at the state level within the department of ecology, while retaining in local government those functions presently performed by local boards of health and implementing local health agencies.

The department of ecology shall coordinate the functions transferred by this act with its existing programs and with the programs of the local boards of health to eliminate duplicative regulatory programs in a manner consistent with the policies and requirements of state law.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The offices of radiation protection and environmental health programs of the department of social and health services, with appropriate elements of the office of public health laboratories and epidemiology as provide direct support to the offices of radiation protection and environmental health programs, shall be transferred to the department of ecology. The effective date of this transfer shall be July 1, 1988.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A transition team shall be formed to develop a plan for orderly and efficient transfer of duties and staff from the department of social and health services offices of radiation protection and environmental health programs to the department of ecology. The transition team shall consist of the director of the department of ecology and the secretary of social and health services or their designees. In addition, the two agency directors shall appoint two representatives of the local public health field, two representatives of the radiation protection field, and two representatives of the environmental community to serve on the transition team. The transition team shall also include a representative of the attorney general's office.

The plan shall include:

1. Recommendations relating to special needs required to effect a smooth, timely, and efficient transfer and implementation of this act;
2. An analysis of the impact of the transfer on programs administered by local health agencies, including recommendations for improving state and local coordination;
3. A comprehensive organizational assessment of the department of ecology and the reporting relationships of the offices of radiation protection and environmental health programs within the agency, along with recommendations to ensure that public environmental health is given appropriate emphasis; and
4. A review of existing statutes pertaining to the department of social and health services and the state board of health. The plan shall identify appropriate revisions needed to reflect the transfer of responsibilities contained in this act. The plan shall also consider the creation of a new state department of public health and environment.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 39. Nothing contained in this act may be construed to alter any existing collective bargaining unit or the provisions of any existing collective bargaining agreement until the agreement has expired or until the bargaining unit has been modified by action of the personnel board as provided by law."

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively and correct internal references accordingly.
NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. All rules of the department of social and health services and the state board of health that are administered by the offices of radiation protection and environmental health programs, or local health departments with technical support provided by the office of environmental health programs, in effect on the effective date of the transfer shall become rules of the department of ecology.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. A task force shall be established to assess the feasibility of creating a separate cabinet-level public health agency in state government. Members of the task force shall be chosen by the governor: PROVIDED, That the secretary of social and health services shall be a member of the task force. Eight members shall be appointed representing local public health officials, health service providers from the public sector, the private nonprofit sector, and the private for-profit sector actively engaged in the provision of health services in the state. The governor shall strive to appoint members with expertise in mental health, adult health services, drug and alcohol treatment, epidemiology, birth defects, genetic services, communicable disease treatment, child and maternal health services, and home health services, and others representing the health care community whom the governor deems appropriate. The task force shall:

(1) Compile and review work previously conducted in relation to the relocation of public health elements of the department of social and health services;

(2) Identify inherent problems with the current state health agency structure as it relates to providing services to the state's citizens; and

(3) Report to the legislature not later than December 15, 1987, with recommendations on the feasibility of creating a separate state agency to address public health issues. The report shall include: (a) A thorough assessment of the benefits and disadvantages to be realized in a separate agency; (b) logical components of a separate agency; (c) necessary changes in the reporting relationship between the state and local health agencies; (d) the impact of a transfer on health service providers in the private sector, private nonprofit sector, and the private for-profit sector; and (e) additional components deemed appropriate by the task force.”

An appointee rejected by the senate may not"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McCaslin: "Senator Talmadge, if the Governor appoints someone and we do not confirm him and the session is over, then he no longer serves, then the Governor could immediately reappoint him? Is that correct?"

Senator Talmadge: "That's correct."

Senator McCaslin: "Then he would serve out until the next session?"

Senator Talmadge: "That's right."

Senator McCaslin: "Then we could go through these gymnastics again."

Senator Talmadge: "Yes."

Senator McCaslin: "Then Senator Newhouse is right. We better work on this a little further."

Senator Talmadge: "Well, I don't disagree with what Senator Newhouse is suggesting with respect to the Senate rule. But, I believe that the provisions that are contained in the bill about time deadlines for committee consideration and by full Senate consideration of nominees, coupled with this make for more of an incentive for the Senate to consider and deal with gubernatorial appointees, than is the case under existing law."

Senator McCaslin: "Thank you, Senator Talmadge. I think we are moving forward again in neutral."

The President Pro Tempore declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the revised amendment by Senator Talmadge.

"The President, therefore, finds that the proposed amendment does not change the scope and object of the bill and that the point of order is not well taken."

Further debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Vognild, on the amendment where it spells out that $40,000 is appropriated and it's coming from the general fund, this would be all they could spend as long as that is the appropriation we make. It would seem like if they would expend that much and it was worthwhile, it's certainly a very cheap way of getting the answers out to the people."

Senator Vognild: "Senator, I recognize the $40,000 appropriation, but in Section 1, it says that each office shall provide the information. In Section 2, it says that the Employment Security Department shall be responsible for distribution. I have forgotten how many employment security offices there are in the state, but I am sure—Senator Warnke might be able to help me—I am sure it's in the hundreds and you are dealing here with a mandate in one area and an appropriation of forty in the other. The mandate will override the appropriation and we will be spending employment security money on this bill. I am very sure."

Senator McDermott: "Senator Deccio, too much."

Senator Halsan: "The amount was blank dollars."

Senator Deccio: "Well, I know they are kidding, of course. I saw the amount, but let's take a look at how things get started around here. In 1985, a group called the Washington State Seismic Safety Council was formed and the purpose was to review methods and procedures to educate the public about earthquakes, recommend goals and priorities and gather and analyze information about earthquakes. That was what they were supposed to do. Now they come back in this session, now they want an appropriation to determine for health, safety and welfare the condition of all the public buildings across the state of Washington and they even have included all buildings built after—the proposed substitute deleted any building constructed after 1988—they even want to include those.

"Man, we've got a boondoggle going here and guess who were the only ones who testified in favor of it—were the people from the Seismic Department at the University of Washington. Now, you can go ahead and vote for this. Even after they find out whether these buildings across the state can't withstand an earthquake, what are we going to do about it? I am sure most of them can't stand it. This building couldn't stand it. I'm sure most of the others couldn't, so what's going to happen? They're going to come back and they are going to ask for a whole bundle of bucks to do something with all the public buildings all across the state of Washington. Then, we have another budget buster on our hands. I know it sounds—it sounds like a real worthy cause, but it's a jobs bill and this is one jobs bill I am going to vote against."

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Smitherman: "It is my understanding that the original settlement covered all properties when you talked about the reinsurance. It's my understanding now, that the reinsurance program would only apply to residential property owners in that area. I need a little clarification on that. Senator Gaspard, would you yield on that? Did you understand that this program now is addressing basically the reinsurance of residential properties and it doesn't, in fact, cover commercial property?"

Senator Gaspard: "Senator Smitherman, this bill before us really deals with two types of problems. The property that—the old river bed property of the Puyallup River and secondly, the tidelands area which is in the Port of—or city of Tacoma. The reinsurance program will only apply to the former river bed owners. It does not distinguish between residential or commercial."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator McDonald: "Senator Bluechel, that was heavily debated in the committee and it's my clear understanding that, no, by striking the intent language, we indeed said, we are not liable and are admitting nothing."

Senator Bluechel: "Senator McDonald, the second question. What is the maximum value of the title reinsurance that it would take to cover this particular problem?"
Senator McDonald: "My understanding, Senator Bluechel, is that the language of this bill only covers the Puyallup River bed—the old Puyallup River bed and that the maximum is somewhere in the neighborhood of three to five million dollars."

Debate ensued.
SIXTY-FOURTH DAY, MARCH 16, 1987

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Talmadge: "Senator Hansen, could you define what 'lawyer talk' is?"

Senator Hansen: "To me, that's something that when I read it, it means one thing and when you read it, it means something else. They can add more to it. So, I thought it was plain and simple the way we had it first, but when Charlie Roe got through with me, I was definitely confused, so I said, 'Well, if that's what it has to be, let's put it in words that both you and I understand.'"

On page 4, after line 26, insert the following:

"Local exchange company" means a telecommunications company providing local exchange telecommunications service.

"Department" means the department of social and health services.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Williams, as you well know, the little charges that have been put on ever since deregulation is making it nearly impossible for the average citizen to maintain service. What do you anticipate the surcharge would be? Of course, the surcharge would be on top of all of the rest of the little increases we've had—the higher the increases go, the more the surcharge, I presume."

Senator Williams: "Right. The cost of the surcharge to Washington ratepayers would be between seven and twelve cents a month, depending on the threshold level. As we understand it, it would not exceed twelve cents a month for the average ratepayer."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senators Williams and Benitz.

The motion by Senator Williams carried and the amendment was adopted.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Williams, the following amendment by Senators Williams and Benitz was adopted:

On page 5, after line 31, insert the following:

"(4) The implementation of lifeline service is a major policy change in available telecommunications service. The implementation of lifeline service will aid in achieving the stated goal of universal telephone service."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The legislature finds that universal telephone service is an important policy goal of the state. The legislature further finds that recent changes in the telecommunications industry, such as federal access charges, raise concerns about the ability of low-income persons to continue to afford access to local exchange telephone service. Therefore, the legislature finds that it is in the public interest to take steps to mitigate the effects of these changes on low-income persons.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. Lifeline assistance shall be available to participants of department programs set forth in section 9 of this act. Lifeline assistance shall consist of the following components:

1. A discount on service connection fees of fifty percent as set forth in section 8 of this act.
2. A waiver of deposit requirements on local exchange service, as set forth in section 8 of this act.
3. A discounted flat rate lifeline service rate for local exchange service, which shall be subject to the following conditions:
   a. The commission shall establish a single lifeline service rate for all local exchange companies operating in the state of Washington. The lifeline service rate shall include any federal end user access charges and any other charges necessary to obtain local exchange service.
   b. The commission shall, in establishing the lifeline service rate, consider all charges for local exchange service, including federal end user access charges, mileage charges, extended area service, and any other charges necessary to obtain local exchange service.
   c. The lifeline service rate shall only be available to eligible customers subscribing to the lowest available local exchange flat rate service, where the lowest local exchange flat rate, including any federal end user access charges and any other charges necessary to obtain local exchange service, is greater than the lifeline service rate.
   d. The cost of providing the lifeline service shall be paid, to the maximum extent possible, by a waiver of all or part of the federal end user access charge and, to the extent necessary, from the lifeline fund created by section 5 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. Costs associated with lifeline telephone service shall be recovered through a lifeline surcharge on all other switched access lines. The lifeline surcharge shall be applied equally to all residential and business access lines not to exceed sixteen cents per month. All money collected from the lifeline surcharge shall be transferred to a lifeline fund administered by the department. Local exchange companies shall bill the fund for their expenses incurred in offering lifeline telecommunications services, including administrative and program expenses. The department shall disburse the money to the local exchange companies. The department shall recover its administrative costs from the fund.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. The commission and the department may adopt any rules necessary to implement sections 3 through 10 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. Lifeline service shall be limited to one residential access line per eligible household.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. Local exchange companies shall file tariffs with the commission which waive deposits on local exchange service for eligible subscribers and which establish a fifty percent discount on service connection fees for eligible subscribers. The remaining portion of the connection fee to be paid by the subscriber shall be expressly payable by installment fees spread over a period of months. A subscriber may, however, choose to pay the connection fee in a lump sum. Costs associated with the waiver and discount shall be accounted for separately and recovered from the lifeline fund. Eligible subscribers shall be allowed one waiver of a deposit and one discount on service connection fees per year.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. Participants in the following department programs are eligible for lifeline assistance: Aid to families with dependent children, chore services, food stamps, supplemental security income, refugee assistance, and community options program entry system (COPES). The department shall notify the participants of their eligibility.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. The energy and utilities committees of the legislature shall review the results of the lifeline program and shall explore by December 15, 1989, whether additional lifeline measures are warranted.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. Sections 3 through 10 of this act are each added to chapter 80.36 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. Sections 3 through 10 of this act shall expire December 31, 1989, unless extended by the legislature.*

On motion of Senator Wojahn, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5452 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5452 and the second substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

Senator McDonald moved that the following amendment by Senators McDonald and Vognild be adopted:

On page 2, line 14, after "one hundred" strike "eighty-five" and insert "fifty"

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Rasmussen: "Senator Wojahn, at the one hundred fifty percent level, wouldn't we be able to serve more families than at the one hundred eighty-five percent?"

Senator Wojahn: "The whole thing, Slim, is that we are not going to serve all of the families anyway. After six years, this program will generate enough money to serve sixty-five percent of the state. Now, some of these women at a one hundred fifty percent of poverty are much more endangered and their baby is endangered and they could not come under this service even though there were people at one hundred fifty percent that were not as seriously endangered, so we need to keep this at one hundred eighty-five percent.

"The income level would be for a family of four at $1,694.00 per month. That's very, very little and these people have no health insurance, so we need to raise that to one hundred eighty-five percent. Additionally, the WIC program—all of the programs dealing with maternal and family health that are with the federal guidelines are used—are at one hundred eighty-five percent poverty. Why should the state of Washington go down to one hundred fifty percent and not serve the most fragile of the people?"

Further debate ensued.

Senator Rasmussen demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the roll call on adoption of the amendment by Senators McDonald and Vognild.
ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll and the motion by Senator McDonald carried and the amendment was adopted by the following vote: Yeas. 28; nays. 19; absent. 1; excused. 1.

Debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senators McDonald and Vognild.

Excused: Senator McDermott - 1.

ENGROSSED SECOND SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5452, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5252, by Senators Bailey, Saling, Gaspard, Lee, Kiskaddon, von Reichbauer, Zimmerman, Bender, Rinehart, Bauer, Smitherman, Vognild, Nelson, Johnson and Moore

Establishing a primary prevention program for child abuse and neglect.

MOTIONS

On motion of Senator Gaspard, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5252 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5252 and the second substitute bill was placed on second reading and read the second time.

Senator Pullen moved that the following amendment be adopted:

On page 2, after line 10, insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) A task force on education on the problems of child sexual abuse is created. The task force shall consist of not less than twelve members. The governor shall appoint the members of the task force choosing one person each representing: Child protective service workers, law enforcement officers, judges, health care providers, prosecutors, defense attorneys, counselors working with abusers, counselors working with abused children, school counselors, educators, citizens interested and involved in child sexual abuse prevention, and citizens interested and involved in supporting parents' rights. Members of the task force shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed for travel expenses as provided in RCW 43.03.050 and 43.03.060.

(2) The task force shall develop a course to educate child protective service workers, law enforcement officers, judges, health care providers, prosecutors, defense attorneys, counselors working with abusers, counselors working with abused children, school counselors, educators, citizens interested and involved in child sexual abuse prevention, and citizens interested and involved in supporting parents' rights about the profile of an offender who sexually abuses children and the short-term and long-term effects of sexual abuse on a child and the child's family. An outline of the prospective course shall be developed within six months after the effective date of this section. The course shall be completed by June 30, 1988.

(3) The task force shall develop a plan for the distribution of the course throughout the state and shall include in the plan methods to encourage the use of the course.

(4) This section shall expire June 30, 1988.

Renumber the remaining sections consecutively and correct any internal references accordingly.

Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Bottiger: "Senator Pullen, I have no objection to the amendment and I understand that Senator Gaspard has none either, but I wonder if you can explain to me the difference between a task force and a commission? I see that this task force gets compensation, that they meet and that they are subject to the RCWs that you've cited. I am just wondering whether those people who are keeping track of the commissions ought to add this or not—add this to their list?"

Senator Pullen: "No, Senator Bottiger, they should not add it to their list. Your question, however, is a good one and I am very, very happy that you are doing your best to try to keep such a group from proliferating. This particular group does expire next year, so it will not be a burden on government and, in fact, will be a big help in solving the child abuse problem."

Further debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the amendment by Senator Pullen.

The motion by Senator Pullen carried and the amendment was adopted.

MOTION

Senator Craswell moved that the following amendment by Senators Craswell, Tanner, Smitherman, Pullen, McDonald, Owen, Vognild, Metcalf and Stratton be adopted:

On page 6, after line 21. Insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. A new section is added to chapter 74.15 RCW to read as follows:

As a condition of licensure of a child care facility under this chapter, corporal punishment is prohibited except that spanking with the flat of the hand on the buttocks in a manner that does not result in bruises or other physical harm shall be permitted when other methods of discipline are found to be ineffective. The use of such amounts of physical restraint as may be reasonable and necessary to:

(1) Protect persons on the premises from physical injury;

(2) Obtain possession of a weapon or other dangerous object; and

(3) Protect property from serious damage shall not be construed to constitute corporal punishment.

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Talmadge: "Mr. President, a point of order. I believe the amendment offered by Senator Craswell, et al, expands the scope and object of Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5252. The bill is a bill relating to an educational program—a curriculum for child abuse prevention. The amendment offered by Senator Craswell is an amendment that deals with the licensure of various child care agencies. For that reason, I believe the amendment expands the scope and object of the bill."

Debate ensued.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be adoption of the first amendment by Senators Creswell, Stratton, Nelson and Owen on page 3, line 6. Debate ensued.

POINT OF INQUIRY
Senator Bolliger: "Senator Lee, my concern is that best interest is the standard that we've used in domestic relations for sometime and as we change to safety, what would be your understanding of a parent who did not take their children to a dentist and the school nurse indicated that the children needed to go to a dentist, but the parent, for whatever reason, just didn't bother? Would that pertain to safety? Would we still be in a situation where the Department could, at least, have some standing to consider of whether that child should be removed from the home?"

Senator Lee: "Quite possibly. If they didn't take them to the dentist and there is nothing wrong with their teeth, then it's not a safety issue. I agree that this language is often used in the settlement in divorce courts and so on when you're talking about best interests, but here we are talking about removing a child from their parents through the action of the state, not some kind of dissolution process."

Senator Rasmussen demanded a roll call and the demand was sustained.
