PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Zarelli: "Thank you Mr. President. Ladies and gentlemen of the Senate, if I could have your quick attention for a minute I would appreciate it. I wanted to share a couple of things. I have the privilege this week of having my daughter, the youngest of the Zarelli daughters, paging with the Senate this week. I wanted to share a couple of things with you. You know the beauty of the job that we've been blessed with is a couple of things. First of all we get to come up here and debate things, talk about things and we do that because we've been blessed by enough people to have sent us here. The second thing we get to do is what I'm doing right now, Mr. President, and that's take the opportunity, the mike, that all of us politicians love. In doing that, taking our special privilege, usually what we're able to do is share a little bit of us, share a little bit of our heart and that's why we do it and I think that's just as important to us being able to work together, is to get to know each other. And so what I want to share with you and my daughter's probably not liking me much right now because she'd really prefer to be somewhere else and I'm going to talk about her a little bit. What I want to share with you, is about a young lady, who at very young age came to our home, at two months old, and through a process went away and then came back as we adopted her several years ago. This young lady has been through a lot in her life. It's a lot of the things that we sit up here and debate regularly about children and what's in the best interest of children. Well, we've had that experience through foster parenting and as adoptive parents. The point I want to share with you is that these kids can overcome a lot because our daughter has had a lot put in front of her and has been able, with a lot of hard work and God's blessing, to overcome a whole lot in her life and that's why she's here with us today. So in front of all of you and in front of her, I just wanted to tell her that her mother and I are extremely proud of her for what she's overcome in her life and I wanted to do that in front of you all here today. Thank you Mr. President."

Mental disorder treatment.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Hargrove, Second Substitute Senate Bill No. 5763 was substituted for Senate Bill No. 5763 and the second substitute bill was placed on the second reading and read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Hargrove moved that the following striking amendment by Senators Hargrove and Stevens be adopted: Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"PART I GENERAL PROVISIONS

NEW SECTION. Sec. 101. The legislature finds that persons with mental disorders, chemical dependency disorders, or co-occurring mental and substance abuse disorders are disproportionately more likely to be confined in a correctional institution, become homeless, become involved with child protective services or involved in a dependency proceeding, or lose those state and federal benefits to which they may be entitled as a result of their disorders. The legislature finds that prior state policy of addressing mental health and chemical dependency in isolation from each other has not been cost-effective and has often resulted in longer-term, more costly treatment that may be less effective over time. The legislature finds that a substantial number of persons have co-occurring mental and substance abuse disorders and that identification and integrated treatment of co-occurring disorders is critical to successful outcomes and recovery. Consequently, the legislature intends to:

- (1) Establish a process for determining which persons with mental disorders and substance abuse disorders have co-occurring disorders;
- (2) Reduce the gap between available chemical dependency treatment and the documented need for treatment;
- (3) Improve treatment outcomes by shifting treatment, where possible, to evidence-based, research-based, and consensus-based treatment practices and by removing barriers to the use of those practices;
- (4) Expand the authority for and use of therapeutic courts including drug courts, mental health courts, and therapeutic courts for dependency proceedings;
- (5) Improve access to treatment for persons who are not enrolled in medicaid by improving and creating consistency in the application processes, and by minimizing the numbers of eligible confined persons who leave confinement without medical assistance;
- (6) Improve access to inpatient treatment by creating expanded services facilities for persons needing intensive treatment in a secure setting who do not need inpatient care, but are unable to access treatment under current licensing restrictions in other settings;
- (7) Establish secure detoxification centers for persons involuntarily detained as gravely disabled or presenting a likelihood of serious harm due to chemical dependency and authorize combined crisis responders for both mental disorders and chemical dependency disorders on a pilot basis and study the outcomes;
- (8) Following the receipt of outcomes from the pilot programs in subsection (7) of this section, implement a single, comprehensive, involuntary treatment act with a unified set of standards, rights, obligations, and procedures for adults and children with mental disorders, chemical dependency disorders, and co-occurring disorders;
- (9) Slow or stop the loss of inpatient and intensive residential beds and children's long-term inpatient placements and refine the balance of state hospital and community inpatient and residential beds;
- (10) Improve cross-system collaboration including collaboration with first responders and hospital emergency rooms, schools, primary care, developmental disabilities, law enforcement and corrections, and federally funded and licensed programs; and
- (11) Amend existing state law to address organizational and structural barriers to effective use of state funds for treating persons with mental and substance abuse disorders, minimize internal inconsistencies, clarify policy and requirements, and maximize the opportunity for effective and cost-effective outcomes.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 102. (1) The department of social and health services shall explore and report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2005, on the feasibility, costs, benefits, and time frame to access federal medicaid funds for mental health and substance abuse treatment under the following provisions:

- (a) The optional clinic provisions;
 - (b) Children's mental health treatment or co-occurring disorders treatment under the early periodic screening, diagnosis, and treatment provisions;
 - (c) Targeted case management, including a plan for coordination of various case management opportunities under medicaid.
- (2) The department shall provide the appropriate committees of the legislature with a clear and concise explanation of the reasons for reducing state hospital capacity and the differences in costs and benefits of treatment in state and community hospital treatment.

(3) The department may not reduce the capacity of either state hospital until at least an equal number of skilled nursing, residential, expanded services facility, or supported housing placements are available in the community to the persons displaced by the capacity reduction. The department shall retain sufficient capacity at the state hospital to address the cyclical need for hospitalization for persons moved to the community under a bed reduction program. For purposes of this section, "sufficient" means not less than one hospital bed for every ten beds created in the community unless the department can demonstrate conclusively to the legislature that a lesser ratio is sufficient.

(b) No person shall be presumed incompetent as a consequence of receiving an evaluation or voluntary or involuntary treatment for a mental disorder, under this chapter or any prior laws of this state dealing with mental illness. Competency shall not be determined or withdrawn except under the provisions of chapter 10.97 or 11.88 RCW.

(c) Any person who leaves a public or private agency following evaluation or treatment for mental disorder shall be given a written statement setting forth the substance of this section.

(2) Each person involuntarily detained or committed pursuant to this chapter shall have the right to adequate care and individualized treatment.

(3) The provisions of this chapter shall not be construed to deny to any person treatment by spiritual means through prayer in accordance with the tenets and practices of a church or religious denomination.

(4) Persons receiving evaluation or treatment under this chapter shall be given a reasonable choice of an available physician or other professional person qualified to provide such services.

(5) Whenever any person is detained for evaluation and treatment pursuant to this chapter, both the person and, if possible, a responsible member of his or her immediate family, personal representative, guardian, or conservator, if any, shall be advised as soon as possible in writing or orally, by the officer or person taking him or her into custody or by personnel of the evaluation and treatment facility where the person is detained that unless the person is released or voluntarily admits himself or herself for treatment within seventy-two hours of the initial detention:

(a) A judicial hearing in a superior court, either by a judge or court commissioner thereof, shall be held not more than seventy-two hours after the initial detention to determine whether there is probable cause to detain the person after the seventy-two hours have expired for up to an additional fourteen days without further automatic hearing for the reason that the person is a person whose mental disorder presents a likelihood of serious harm or that the person is gravely disabled;

(b) The person has a right to communicate immediately with an attorney; has a right to have an attorney appointed to represent him or her before and at the probable cause hearing if he or she is indigent; and has the right to be told the name and address of the attorney that the mental health professional has designated pursuant to this chapter;

The waiver of a privilege under this section is limited to records or testimony relevant to evaluation of the detained person for purposes of a proceeding under this chapter. Upon motion by the detained person or on its own motion, the court shall examine a record or testimony sought by a petitioner to determine whether it is within the scope of the waiver.

If the person so elects, the court shall immediately appoint an attorney to assist him or her.

Sec. 108. RCW 71.05.215 and 1997 c 112 s 16 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A person (~~found to be~~) who is gravely disabled or presents a likelihood of serious harm as a result of a mental or chemical dependency disorder or co-occurring mental and chemical dependency disorders has a right to refuse antipsychotic medication unless it is determined that the failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment and there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication in the best interest of that person.

(2) ~~((The department shall adopt rules to carry out the purposes of this chapter. These rules shall include:~~

~~(a) An attempt to obtain the informed consent of the person prior to administration of antipsychotic medication.~~

~~(b) For short term treatment up to thirty days, the right to refuse antipsychotic medications unless there is an additional concurring medical opinion approving medication.~~

~~(c) For continued treatment beyond thirty days through the hearing on any petition filed under RCW 71.05.370(7), the right to periodic review of the decision to medicate by the medical director or designee.~~

~~(d) Administration of antipsychotic medication in an emergency and review of this decision within twenty four hours. An emergency exists if the person presents an imminent likelihood of serious harm, and medically acceptable alternatives to administration of antipsychotic medications are not available or are unlikely to be successful; and in the opinion of the physician, the person's condition constitutes an emergency requiring the treatment be instituted prior to obtaining a second medical opinion.~~

~~(e) Documentation in the medical record of the physician's attempt to obtain informed consent and the reasons why antipsychotic medication is being administered over the person's objection or lack of consent.)~~ The physician must attempt to obtain the informed consent of an involuntary committed person prior to administration of antipsychotic medication and document the attempt to obtain consent in the person's medical record with the reasons that antipsychotic medication is necessary. If the physician determines that the patient is not able to provide informed consent, the physician may obtain informed consent from a person who is named as an agent in the patient's mental health advance directive executed pursuant to chapter 71.32 RCW, provided that the agent otherwise has authority under the directive to consent to the proposed medication.

(3) When a person is detained pursuant to RCW 71.05.150, or detained for involuntary treatment not to exceed fourteen days pursuant to RCW 71.05.240, the person may refuse antipsychotic medications unless there is an additional concurring medical opinion following an examination of the person that the medications are necessary pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. Medications administered under this subsection may not continue beyond the hearing conducted pursuant to RCW 71.05.320(1) and the petitioner shall notify the court of administration of involuntary medications under this subsection and provide the court with an opinion regarding whether continued involuntary administration of antipsychotic medication is medically necessary.

(4) If a person involuntarily committed under RCW 71.05.320(1) for up to ninety days, or for less restrictive alternative treatment not to exceed ninety days pursuant to RCW 71.05.240 refuses antipsychotic medications, the medications may not be administered unless the person has first had a hearing by a panel composed of a physician and two other persons. The two persons shall be selected from among the following: A physician, advanced registered nurse practitioner, psychologist, psychiatric nurse, physician's assistant, and the medical director of the facility. Recognizing that some facilities will not have three staff members of the required expertise who are not directly involved in the person's treatment, the panel shall be composed to the greatest extent possible of treatment providers who are not directly involved in the person's treatment at the time of the hearing.

(5) If a majority of the panel, including a psychiatrist if one is on the panel or another physician in the absence of a psychiatrist, determines that there is clear, cogent, and convincing evidence demonstrating that treatment with antipsychotic medications is medically appropriate, that failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment, and that there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication in the best interest of that person, the person may be medicated, subject to the provisions of subsections (6) through (8) of this section.

(6) Medication ordered pursuant to a decision of the panel may only be continued beyond seven days on an involuntary basis if the panel conducts a second hearing on the written record and a majority of the panel determines that there continues to be clear, cogent, and convincing evidence demonstrating that treatment with antipsychotic medications continues to be medically appropriate, that failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment, and that there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication in the best interest of that person.

(a) Following the second hearing, involuntary medication with antipsychotic medication may be continued if the treating psychiatrist certifies, not less than every fourteen days, that the medication continues to be medically appropriate and failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment, and that there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication in the best interest of that person.

(b) No administrative order for involuntary medication may be continued beyond one hundred eighty days, or the next commitment proceeding in the superior court, whichever comes first.

(7) The committed person may appeal the panel's decision to the medical director within twenty-four hours, excluding weekends and holidays, and the medical director must decide the appeal within twenty-four hours of receipt.

(8) The committed person may seek judicial review of the medical director's decision at the next commitment proceeding or by means of an extraordinary writ.

(9) Minutes of the hearing shall be kept and a copy shall be provided to the committed person.

(10) With regard to the involuntary medication hearing, the committed person has the right:

(a) To notice at least twenty-four hours in advance of the hearing that includes the intent to convene the hearing, the tentative diagnosis and the factual basis for the diagnosis, and why the staff believes that medication is necessary;

(b) Not to be medicated between the delivery of the notice and the hearing;

(c) To attend the hearing;

(d) To present evidence, including witnesses, and to cross-examine witnesses, including staff;

(e) To the assistance of a lay assistant, who is not involved in the case and who understands psychiatric issues;

(f) To receive a copy of the minutes of the hearing; and

(g) To appeal the panel's decision to the medical director.

(11) Antipsychotic medications may be administered in an emergency without the consent of the person pursuant to the provisions of RCW 71.05.370(3)(b) (as recodified by this act).

Sec. 109. RCW 71.05.370 and 1997 c 112 s 31 are each amended to read as follows:

~~((Insofar as danger to the individual or others is not created, each person involuntarily detained, treated in a less restrictive alternative course of treatment, or committed for treatment and evaluation pursuant to this chapter shall have, in addition to other rights not specifically withheld by law, the following rights, a list of which shall be prominently posted in all facilities, institutions, and hospitals providing such services:~~

~~(1) To wear his or her own clothes and to keep and use his or her own personal possessions, except when deprivation of same is essential to protect the safety of the resident or other persons;~~

~~(2) To keep and be allowed to spend a reasonable sum of his or her own money for canteen expenses and small purchases;~~

~~(3) To have access to individual storage space for his or her private use;~~

~~(4) To have visitors at reasonable times;~~

~~(5) To have reasonable access to a telephone, both to make and receive confidential calls;~~

~~(6) To have ready access to letter writing materials, including stamps, and to send and receive uncensored correspondence through the mails;~~

~~(7) Not to consent to the administration of antipsychotic medications beyond the hearing conducted pursuant to RCW 71.05.320(2) or the performance of electroconvulsant therapy or surgery, except emergency life saving surgery, unless ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction)) (1) A court of competent jurisdiction may order that a person involuntarily detained, or committed for inpatient treatment and evaluation or to treatment in a less restrictive alternative pursuant to this chapter be administered antipsychotic medications or the performance of electroconvulsant therapy or surgery pursuant to the following standards and procedures:~~

~~(a) The administration of antipsychotic medication or electroconvulsant therapy shall not be ordered by the court unless the petitioning party proves by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that ((there exists a compelling state interest that justifies overriding the patient's lack of consent to the administration of antipsychotic medications or electroconvulsant therapy, that the proposed treatment is necessary and effective, and that medically acceptable alternative forms of treatment are not available, have~~

~~not been successful, or are not likely to be effective))~~ treatment with antipsychotic medications is medically appropriate, that failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment, and that there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication or electroconvulsive therapy in the best interest of the person.

(b) The court shall make specific findings of fact concerning: (i) The existence of ~~((one or more compelling state interests))~~ the likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolonging the length of involuntary commitment; (ii) the necessity and effectiveness of the treatment; ~~((and))~~ (iii) the person's desires regarding the proposed treatment; and (iv) the best interests of the person.

(c) If the ~~((patient))~~ person is unable to make a rational and informed decision about consenting to or refusing the proposed ~~((treatment))~~ electroconvulsive therapy, the court shall make a substituted judgment for the patient as if he or she were competent to make such a determination.

~~((e))~~ (d) The person shall be present at any hearing on a request to administer antipsychotic medication or electroconvulsant therapy filed pursuant to this ~~((subsection))~~ section. The person has the right:

- (i) To be represented by an attorney;
- (ii) To present evidence;
- (iii) To cross-examine witnesses;
- (iv) To have the rules of evidence enforced;
- (v) To remain silent;
- (vi) To view and copy all petitions and reports in the court file; and
- (vii) To be given reasonable notice and an opportunity to prepare for the hearing.

(e) The court may appoint a psychiatrist, psychologist within their scope of practice, or physician to examine and testify on behalf of such person. The court shall appoint a psychiatrist, psychologist within their scope of practice, or physician designated by such person or the person's counsel to testify on behalf of the person in cases where an order for electroconvulsant therapy is sought.

~~((f))~~ (f) An order for the administration of antipsychotic medications entered following a hearing conducted pursuant to this section shall be effective for the period of the current involuntary treatment order, and any interim period during which the person is awaiting trial or hearing on a new petition for involuntary treatment or involuntary medication.

~~((g))~~ (2) Any person detained for a period of greater than ninety days pursuant to RCW 71.05.320~~((2))~~, who subsequently refuses antipsychotic medication, shall be entitled to the procedures set forth in ~~((RCW 71.05.370(7)))~~ subsection (1) of this section.

~~((h))~~ (3) Antipsychotic medication may be administered to a nonconsenting person detained or committed pursuant to this chapter without a court order:

(a) Pursuant to RCW 71.05.215~~((2))~~; or

(b) Under the following circumstances:

- (i) A person presents an imminent likelihood of serious harm;
- (ii) Medically acceptable alternatives to administration of antipsychotic medications are not available, have not been successful, or are not likely to be effective; and
- (iii) In the opinion of the physician with responsibility for treatment of the person, or his or her designee, the person's condition constitutes an emergency requiring the treatment be instituted before a judicial hearing as authorized pursuant to this section can be held.

If antipsychotic medications are administered over a person's lack of consent pursuant to (b) of this subsection, a petition for an order authorizing the administration of antipsychotic medications shall be filed on the next judicial day. The hearing shall be held within two judicial days. If deemed necessary by the physician with responsibility for the treatment of the person, administration of antipsychotic medications may continue until the hearing is held;

~~((8) To dispose of property and sign contracts unless such person has been adjudicated an incompetent in a court proceeding directed to that particular issue;~~

~~((9) Not to have))~~ (4) No court has the authority to order psychosurgery performed on ((him or her)) any person involuntarily detained, treated in a less restrictive alternative course of treatment, or committed for treatment and evaluation pursuant to this chapter under any circumstances.

(5) A petition for involuntary medication may be joined with a petition for involuntary treatment.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 206. (1)(a) When a county-designated crisis responder receives information alleging that a person, as a result of a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, presents a likelihood of serious harm or is gravely disabled, the county-designated crisis responder may, after investigation and evaluation of the specific facts alleged and of the reliability and credibility of any person providing information to initiate detention, if satisfied that the allegations are true and that the person will not voluntarily seek appropriate treatment, file a petition for initial detention. Before filing the petition, the county-designated crisis responder must personally interview the person, unless the person refuses an interview, and determine whether the person will voluntarily receive appropriate evaluation and treatment at either an evaluation and treatment facility, a detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider.

(b)(i)(A) Whenever it appears, by petition for initial detention, to the satisfaction of a judge of the superior court that a person presents as a result of a mental disorder, a likelihood of serious harm, or is gravely disabled, and that the person has refused or failed to accept appropriate evaluation and treatment voluntarily, the judge may issue an order requiring the person to appear within twenty-four hours after service of the order at a designated evaluation and treatment facility for not more than a seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment period; or

(B) Whenever it appears, by petition for initial detention, to the satisfaction of a judge of the superior court, district court, or other court permitted by court rule, that a person presents as a result of a chemical dependency, a likelihood of serious harm, or is gravely disabled, and that the person has refused or failed to accept appropriate evaluation and treatment voluntarily, the judge may issue an order requiring the person to appear within twenty-four hours after service of the order at a secure detoxification facility or other certified chemical dependency provider for not more than a seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment period.

(ii) The order issued under this subsection (1)(b) shall state the address of the evaluation and treatment facility, secure detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider to which the person is to report; whether the required seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment services may be delivered on an outpatient or inpatient basis; and that if the person named in the order fails to appear at the evaluation and treatment facility, secure detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider at or before the date and time stated in the order, the person may be involuntarily taken into custody for evaluation and treatment. The order shall also designate retained counsel or, if counsel is appointed from a list provided by the court, the name, business address, and telephone number of the attorney appointed to represent the person.

(c) The county-designated crisis responder shall then serve or cause to be served on such person, his or her guardian, and conservator, if any, a copy of the order to appear, together with a notice of rights and a petition for initial detention. After service on the person, the county-designated crisis responder shall file the return of service in court and provide copies of all papers in the court file to the evaluation and treatment facility or secure detoxification facility and the designated attorney. The county-designated crisis responder shall notify the court and the prosecuting attorney that a probable cause hearing will be held within seventy-two hours of the date and time of outpatient evaluation or admission to the evaluation and treatment facility, secure detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider. The person shall be permitted to remain in his or her home or other place of his or her choosing before the time of evaluation and shall be permitted to be accompanied by one or more of his or her relatives, friends, an attorney, a personal physician, or other professional or religious advisor to the place of evaluation. An attorney accompanying the person to the place of evaluation shall be permitted to be present during the admission evaluation. Any other person accompanying the person may be present during the admission evaluation. The facility may exclude the person if his or her presence would present a safety risk, delay the proceedings, or otherwise interfere with the evaluation.

(d) If the person ordered to appear does appear on or before the date and time specified, the evaluation and treatment facility, secure detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider may admit the person as required by subsection (3) of this section or may provide treatment on an outpatient basis. If the person ordered to appear fails to appear on or before the date and time specified, the evaluation and treatment facility, secure detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider shall immediately notify the county-designated crisis responder who may notify a peace officer to take the person or cause the person to be taken into custody and placed in an evaluation and treatment facility, a secure detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider. Should the county-designated crisis responder notify a peace officer authorizing the officer to take a person into custody under this subsection, the county-designated crisis responder shall file with the court a copy of the authorization and a notice of detention. At the time the person is taken into custody there shall commence to be served on the person, his or her guardian, and conservator, if any, a copy of the original order together with a notice of detention, a notice of rights, and a petition for initial detention.

(2) If a county-designated crisis responder receives information alleging that a person, as the result of:

(a) A mental disorder, presents an imminent likelihood of serious harm, or is in imminent danger because of being gravely disabled, after investigation and evaluation of the specific facts alleged and of the reliability and credibility of the person or persons providing the information if any, the county-designated crisis responder may take the person, or cause by oral or written order the person to be taken into emergency custody in an evaluation and treatment facility for not more than seventy-two hours as described in this chapter; or

(b) Chemical dependency, presents an imminent likelihood of serious harm, or is in imminent danger because of being gravely disabled, after investigation and evaluation of the specific facts alleged and of the reliability and credibility of the person or persons providing the information if any, the county-designated crisis responder may take the person, or cause by oral or written order the person to be taken into emergency custody in a secure detoxification facility for not more than seventy-two hours as described in this chapter.

(3) If the county-designated crisis responder petitions for detention of a person whose actions constitute a likelihood of serious harm, or who is gravely disabled, the evaluation and treatment facility, the secure detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider providing seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment must immediately accept on a provisional basis the petition and the person. The evaluation and treatment facility, the secure detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider shall then evaluate the person's condition and admit, detain, transfer, or discharge such person in accordance with this chapter. The facility shall notify in writing the court and the county-designated crisis responder of the date and time of the initial detention of each person involuntarily detained so that a probable cause hearing will be held no later than seventy-two hours after detention.

(4) A peace officer may, without prior notice of the proceedings provided for in subsection (1) of this section, take or cause the person to be taken into custody and immediately delivered to an evaluation and treatment facility, secure detoxification facility, other certified chemical dependency treatment provider only pursuant to subsections (1)(d) and (2) of this section.

(5) Nothing in this chapter limits the power of a peace officer to take a person into custody and immediately deliver the person to the emergency department of a local hospital or to a detoxification facility.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 207. (1) A person or public or private entity employing a person is not civilly or criminally liable for performing duties under this chapter if the duties were performed in good faith and without gross negligence.

(2) This section does not relieve a person from giving the required notices under RCW 71.05.330(2) or 71.05.340(1)(b), or the duty to warn or to take reasonable precautions to provide protection from violent behavior where the patient has communicated an actual threat of physical violence against a reasonably identifiable victim or victims. The duty to warn or to take reasonable precautions to provide protection from violent behavior is discharged if reasonable efforts are made to communicate the threat to the victim or victims and to law enforcement personnel.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 208. If the evaluation and treatment facility, secure detoxification facility, or other certified chemical dependency provider admits the person, it may detain the person for evaluation and treatment for a period not to exceed seventy-two hours from the time of acceptance. The computation of the seventy-two hour period excludes Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 209. Whenever any person is detained for evaluation and treatment for a mental disorder under section 206 of this act, chapter 71.05 RCW applies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 210. (1) A person detained for seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment under section 206 of this act or RCW 70.96A.120 may be detained for not more than fourteen additional days of involuntary chemical dependency treatment if there are beds available at the secure detoxification facility and the following conditions are met:

(a) The professional person in charge of the agency or facility or the person's designee providing evaluation and treatment services in a secure detoxification facility has assessed the person's condition and finds that the condition is caused by chemical dependency and either results in a likelihood of serious harm or in the detained person being gravely disabled, and the professional person or his or her designee is prepared to testify those conditions are met;

(b) The person has been advised of the need for voluntary treatment and the professional person in charge of the agency or facility or his or her designee has evidence that he or she has not in good faith volunteered for treatment; and

(c) The professional person in charge of the agency or facility or the person's designee has filed a petition for fourteen-day involuntary detention with the superior court, district court, or other court permitted by court rule. The petition must be signed by the chemical dependency professional who has examined the person.

(2) The petition under subsection (1)(c) of this section shall be accompanied by a certificate of a licensed physician who has examined the person, unless the person whose commitment is sought has refused to submit to a medical examination, in which case the fact of refusal shall be alleged in the petition. The certificate shall set forth the licensed physician's findings in support of the allegations of the petition. A physician employed by the petitioning program or the department is eligible to be the certifying physician.

(3) The petition shall state facts that support the finding that the person, as a result of chemical dependency, presents a likelihood of serious harm or is gravely disabled, and that there are no less restrictive alternatives to detention in the best interest of the person or others. The petition shall state specifically that less restrictive alternative treatment was considered and specify why treatment less restrictive than detention is not appropriate.

(4) A copy of the petition shall be served on the detained person, his or her attorney, and his or her guardian or conservator, if any, before the probable cause hearing.

(5)(a) The court shall inform the person whose commitment is sought of his or her right to contest the petition, be represented by counsel at every stage of any proceedings relating to his or her commitment, and have counsel appointed by the court or provided by the court, if he or she wants the assistance of counsel and is unable to obtain counsel. If the court believes that the person needs the assistance of counsel, the court shall require, by appointment if necessary, counsel for him or her regardless of his or her wishes. The person shall, if he or she is financially able, bear the costs of such legal service; otherwise such legal service shall be at public expense. The person whose commitment is sought shall be informed of his or her right to be examined by a licensed physician of his or her choice. If the person is unable to obtain a licensed physician and requests examination by a physician, the court shall appoint a reasonably available licensed physician designated by the person.

(b) At the conclusion of the probable cause hearing, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the person, as the result of chemical dependency, presents a likelihood of serious harm or is gravely disabled and, after considering less restrictive alternatives to involuntary detention and treatment, finds that no such alternatives are in the best interest of such person or others, the court shall order that the person be detained for involuntary chemical dependency treatment not to exceed fourteen days in a secure detoxification facility.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 211. If a person is detained for additional treatment beyond fourteen days under section 210 of this act, the professional staff of the agency or facility may petition for additional treatment under RCW 70.96A.140.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 212. The prosecuting attorney of the county in which an action under this chapter is taken must represent the petitioner in judicial proceedings under this chapter for the involuntary chemical dependency treatment of a person, including any judicial proceeding where the person sought to be treated for chemical dependency challenges the action.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 213. (1) Every person involuntarily detained or committed under this chapter as a result of a mental disorder is entitled to all the rights set forth in this chapter and in chapter 71.05 RCW, and retains all rights not denied him or her under this chapter or chapter 71.05 RCW.

(2) Every person involuntarily detained or committed under this chapter as a result of a chemical dependency is entitled to all the rights set forth in this chapter and chapter 70.96A RCW, and retains all rights not denied him or her under this chapter or chapter 70.96A RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 214. (1) When a county designated crisis responder is notified by a jail that a defendant or offender who was subject to a discharge review under RCW 71.05.232 is to be released to the community, the county designated crisis responder shall evaluate the person within seventy-two hours of release.

(2) When an offender is under court-ordered treatment in the community and the supervision of the department of corrections, and the treatment provider becomes aware that the person is in violation of the terms of the court order, the treatment provider shall notify the county designated crisis responder of the violation and request an evaluation for purposes of revocation of the less restrictive alternative.

(3) When a county designated crisis responder becomes aware that an offender who is under court-ordered treatment in the community and the supervision of the department of corrections is in violation of a treatment order or a condition of supervision that relates to public safety, or the county designated crisis responder detains a person under this chapter, the county designated crisis responder shall notify the person's treatment provider and the department of corrections.

(4) When an offender who is confined in a state correctional facility or is under supervision of the department of corrections in the community is subject to a petition for involuntary treatment under this chapter, the petitioner shall notify the department of corrections and the department of corrections shall provide documentation of its risk assessment or other concerns to the petitioner and the court if the department of corrections classified the offender as a high risk or high needs offender.

(5) Nothing in this section creates a duty on any treatment provider or county designated crisis responder to provide offender supervision.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 215. The secretary may adopt rules to implement this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 216. The provisions of RCW 71.05.550 apply to this chapter.

(2) The evaluation of the pilot programs shall include:

(a) Whether the county designated crisis responder pilot program:

(i) Has increased efficiency of evaluation and treatment of persons involuntarily detained for seventy-two hours;

(ii) Is cost-effective;

(iii) Results in better outcomes for persons involuntarily detained;

(iv) Increased the effectiveness of the crisis response system in the pilot catchment areas;

(b) The effectiveness of providing a single chapter in the Revised Code of Washington to address initial detention of persons with mental disorders or chemical dependency, in crisis response situations and the likelihood of effectiveness of providing a single, comprehensive involuntary treatment act.

(3) The reports shall consider the impact of the pilot programs on the existing mental health system and on the persons served by the system.

Sec. 218. RCW 71.05.550 and 1973 1st ex.s. c 142 s 60 are each amended to read as follows:

The department of social and health services, in planning and providing funding to counties pursuant to chapter 71.24 RCW, shall recognize the financial necessities imposed upon counties by implementation of this chapter ~~and chapter 70.-- RCW (sections 202 through 216 of this act)~~, and shall consider needs, if any, for additional community mental health services and facilities and reduction in commitments to state hospitals for the mentally ill accomplished by individual counties, in planning and providing such funding. The state shall provide financial assistance to the counties to enable the counties to meet all increased costs, if any, to the counties resulting from their administration of the provisions of chapter 142, Laws of 1973 1st ex. sess.

The chemical dependency case managers shall:

(a) Be trained in and use the integrated, comprehensive screening and assessment process adopted under section 701 of this act;

The pilot project shall provide support and evaluation of existing and established clubhouse programs. Clubhouse programs shall be evaluated on at least the following criteria:

(1) Number of members in independent, supported, or transitional employment, the stability of that employment, and the income to members as a result of employment;

The Washington state institute for public policy shall report to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2007.

PART III OMNIBUS INVOLUNTARY TREATMENT ACT

NEW SECTION. Sec. 301. Sections 302 through 374 of this act constitute a new chapter in Title 70 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 302. The legislature finds that mental disorders and the abuse of alcohol and other drugs have become a serious threat to the health of the citizens of the state of Washington and that the use of psychoactive chemicals is a prime factor in the current AIDS epidemic. The legislature also finds that some persons with mental disorders and substance abuse disorders have little or no insight into their condition and are unable or unwilling to seek treatment voluntarily. The legislature further finds that it is not always evident at the time of commitment that a person has co-occurring mental and substance abuse disorders but that treatment of the disabilities in isolation can lead to inappropriate or conflicting treatment plans that can substantially reduce the opportunity for the person to recover from his or her disorders. Therefore, a unified involuntary treatment act is necessary.

The provisions of this chapter are intended by the legislature:

(1) To establish a single involuntary treatment act with a uniform set of standards and procedures for persons with mental and substance abuse disorders;

(2) To adequately assess whether a person presents a likelihood of serious harm or a grave disability due to his or her disorder, including an assessment of any prior history or pattern of repeated hospitalizations or law enforcement interventions due to decompensation in his or her mental or substance abuse disorder. The consideration of prior mental history is particularly relevant in determining whether the person would receive, if released, such care as is essential for his or her health or safety;

- (3) To prevent inappropriate, indefinite commitment of mentally disordered and chemically dependent persons and to eliminate legal disabilities that arise from such commitment where possible;
- (4) To provide prompt evaluation and timely and appropriate treatment of persons with serious mental and substance abuse disorders;
- (5) To safeguard individual rights;
- (6) To provide continuity of care for persons with serious mental and substance abuse disorders, so that the procedures and services authorized in this chapter are integrated with those in chapter 71.24 RCW to the maximum extent possible to provide a continuum of care founded on evidence-based practices that support recovery, promote independent living, encourage persons to participate in education and employment to the maximum extent that they are able, reduce criminal involvement, and reduce family violence and cycles of child abuse and neglect leading to long-term use of the child welfare system;
- (7) To encourage the integrated use of all existing agencies, professional personnel, and public funds to prevent duplication of services and unnecessary expenditures;
- (8) To encourage, whenever appropriate, that services be provided within the community;
- (9) To promote the use of less restrictive alternatives to inpatient commitments for persons with disorders that can be controlled or stabilized in a less restrictive alternative. Within the guidelines stated in In Re LaBelle 107 Wn.2d 196 (1986), the legislature intends to encourage appropriate interventions at a point when there is the best opportunity to restore the person to or maintain satisfactory functioning; and
- (10) To protect the public safety.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 305. Persons who are developmentally disabled, impaired by chronic alcoholism or drug abuse, or suffering from dementia and who otherwise meet the criteria for detention or judicial commitment are not ineligible for detention or commitment based on this condition alone.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 306. Pursuant to the interlocal cooperation act, chapter 39.34 RCW, the department may enter into agreements to accomplish the purposes of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 307. All facilities, plans, or programs receiving financial assistance under RCW 70.96A.040 are subject to the provisions of RCW 70.96A.045 and 70.96A.047.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 308. To qualify as a designated crisis responder, a person must have received chemical dependency training as determined by the department and be a:

- (1) Psychiatrist, psychologist, psychiatric nurse, or social worker;
- (2) Person with a master's degree or further advanced degree in counseling or one of the social sciences from an accredited college or university and, who have in addition, at least two years of experience in direct treatment of persons with mental illness or emotional disturbance, such experience gained under the direction of a mental health professional;
- (3) Person who meets the waiver criteria of RCW 71.24.260, which waiver was granted before 1986;
- (4) Person who had an approved waiver to perform the duties of a mental health professional that was requested by the regional support network and granted by the department before July 1, 2001; or
- (5) Person who has been granted a time-limited exception of the minimum requirements of a mental health professional by the department consistent with rules adopted by the secretary.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 309. The prosecuting attorney of the county in which an action under this chapter is taken must represent the petitioner in judicial proceedings under this chapter for the involuntary chemical dependency treatment of a person, including any judicial proceeding where the person sought to be treated for chemical dependency challenges the action.

Department Responsibilities

NEW SECTION. Sec. 310. The department shall have the responsibility to determine whether all rights of persons recognized and guaranteed by the provisions of this chapter and the Constitutions of the state of Washington and the United States are, in fact, protected and effectively secured. To this end, the department shall assign appropriate staff who shall from time to time as may be necessary have authority to examine records, inspect facilities, attend proceedings, and do whatever is necessary to monitor, evaluate, and assure adherence to such rights. Such persons shall also recommend such additional safeguards or procedures as may be appropriate to secure individual rights set forth in this chapter and as guaranteed by the state and federal Constitutions.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 311. The department shall adopt such rules as may be necessary to effectuate the intent and purposes of this chapter, which shall include but not be limited to evaluation of the quality of the program and facilities operating pursuant to this chapter, evaluation of the effectiveness and cost effectiveness of such programs and facilities, and procedures and standards for certification and other action relevant to facilities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 312. The provisions of chapter 420, Laws of 1989 shall apply equally to persons in the custody of the department on May 13, 1989, who were found by a court to be not guilty by reason of insanity or incompetent to stand trial, or who have been found to have committed acts constituting a felony pursuant to RCW 71.05.280(3) and present a substantial likelihood of repeating similar acts, and the secretary shall cause such persons to be evaluated to ascertain if such persons are developmentally disabled for placement in a program specifically reserved for the treatment and training of persons with developmental disabilities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 313. By December 1, 2006, the department shall provide the appropriate committees of the legislature with a report identifying the types of facilities that will be certified for detention or commitment under this chapter including the locations and capacity of existing facilities and facilities under development, by type of facility, in a manner that indicates the geographic distribution of the available capacity.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 314. The department shall ensure that the provisions of this chapter are applied by the counties in a consistent and uniform manner. The department shall also ensure that, to the extent possible within available funds, the designated responders are specifically trained in adolescent chemical dependency and mental health issues, commitment laws, and the criteria for commitment.

Initial Detention

NEW SECTION. Sec. 315. (1)(a) When a designated responder receives information alleging that a person, as a result of a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both:

- (i) Presents a likelihood of serious harm; or the designated responder may, after investigation and evaluation of the specific facts alleged and of the reliability and credibility of any person providing information to initiate detention, if satisfied that the allegations are true and that the person will not voluntarily seek appropriate treatment, file a petition for initial detention. Before filing the petition, the designated responder must personally interview the person, unless the person refuses an interview, and determine whether the person will voluntarily receive appropriate evaluation and treatment at a certified facility.

(ii) Is gravely disabled;

(b)(i) Whenever it appears, by petition for initial detention, to the satisfaction of a judge of the superior court that a person presents, as a result of a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, a likelihood of serious harm, or is gravely disabled, and that the person has refused or failed to accept appropriate evaluation and treatment voluntarily, the judge may issue an order requiring the person to appear within twenty-four hours after service of the order at a certified facility for not more than a seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment period.

(ii) The order shall state the address of the certified facility to which the person is to report and whether the required seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment services may be delivered on an outpatient or inpatient basis and that if the person named in the order fails to appear at the certified facility at or before the date and time stated in the order, such person may be involuntarily taken into custody for evaluation and treatment. The order shall also designate retained counsel or, if counsel is appointed from a list provided by the court, the name, business address, and telephone number of the attorney appointed to represent the person.

(c) The designated responder shall then serve or cause to be served on such person, and his or her personal representative, guardian, or conservator, if any, a copy of the order to appear together with a notice of rights and a petition for initial detention. After service on the person, the designated responder shall file the return of service in court and provide copies of all papers in the court file to the certified facility and the designated attorney. The designated responder shall notify the court and the prosecuting attorney that a probable cause hearing will be held within seventy-two hours of the date and time of outpatient evaluation or admission to the certified facility. The person shall be permitted to remain in his or her home or other place of his or her choosing prior to the time of evaluation and shall be permitted to be accompanied by one or more of his or her relatives, friends, an attorney, a personal physician, or other professional or religious advisor to the place of evaluation. An attorney accompanying the person to the place of evaluation shall be permitted to be present during the admission evaluation. Any other person accompanying the person may be present during the admission evaluation. The facility may exclude the person if his or her presence would present a safety risk, delay the proceedings, or otherwise interfere with the evaluation.

(d) If the person ordered to appear does appear on or before the date and time specified, the evaluation and treatment facility may admit such person as required by section 317 of this act or may provide treatment on an outpatient basis. If the person ordered to appear fails to appear on or before the date and time specified, the evaluation and treatment facility shall immediately notify the designated responder who may notify a peace officer to take such person or cause such person to be taken into custody and placed in a certified facility. Should the designated responder notify a peace officer authorizing him or her to take a person into custody under the provisions of this subsection, he or she shall file with the court a copy of such authorization and a notice of detention. At the time such person is taken into custody there shall commence to be served on the person, and his or her personal representative, guardian, or conservator, if any, a copy of the original order together with a notice of detention, a notice of rights, and a petition for initial detention.

(2) When a designated responder receives information alleging that a person, as the result of a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, presents an imminent likelihood of serious harm, or is in imminent danger because of being gravely disabled, after investigation and evaluation of the specific facts alleged and of the reliability and credibility of the person or persons providing the information if any, the designated responder may take the person or cause, by oral or written order the person to be taken into emergency custody in a certified facility for not more than seventy-two hours as described in section 318 of this act.

(3) A peace officer may take the person or cause the person to be taken into custody and placed in a certified facility pursuant to subsection (1)(d) of this section.

(4) A peace officer may, without prior notice of the proceedings provided for in subsection (1) of this section, take or cause such person to be taken into custody and immediately delivered to a certified facility or the emergency department of a local hospital:

(a) Only pursuant to subsections (1)(d) and (2) of this section; or

(b) When he or she has reasonable cause to believe that such person is suffering from a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both and presents an imminent likelihood of serious harm or is in imminent danger because of being gravely disabled.

(5) Persons delivered to certified facilities by peace officers pursuant to subsection (4)(b) of this section may be held by the facility for a period of up to twelve hours: PROVIDED, That they are examined by a mental health professional or chemical dependency professional within three hours of their arrival. Within twelve hours of their arrival, the designated responder must file a supplemental petition for detention, and commence service on the designated attorney for the detained person.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 316. Any facility receiving a person pursuant to section 315 of this act shall require a petition for initial detention stating the circumstances under which the person's condition was made known and stating that such officer or person has evidence, as a result of his or her personal observation or investigation, that the actions of the person for which application is made constitute a likelihood of serious harm, or that he or she is gravely disabled, and stating the specific facts known to him or her as a result of his or her personal observation or investigation, upon which he or she bases the belief that such person should be detained for the purposes and under the authority of this chapter.

If a person is involuntarily placed in a certified facility pursuant to section 315 of this act, on the next judicial day following the initial detention, the designated responder shall file with the court and serve the designated attorney of the detained person the petition or supplemental petition for initial detention, proof of service of notice, and a copy of a notice of emergency detention.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 317. Whenever the designated responder petitions for detention of a person whose actions constitute a likelihood of serious harm, or who is gravely disabled, the facility providing seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment must immediately accept on a provisional basis the petition and the person. The facility shall then evaluate the person's condition and admit, detain, transfer, or discharge such person in accordance with section 337 of this act. The facility shall notify in writing the court and the designated responder of the date and time of the initial detention of each person involuntarily detained in order that a probable cause hearing shall be held no later than seventy-two hours after detention.

The duty of a state hospital to accept persons for evaluation and treatment under this section shall be limited by chapter 71.24 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 318. If the certified facility admits the person, it may detain him or her for evaluation and treatment for a period not to exceed seventy-two hours from the time of acceptance as set forth in section 317 of this act. The computation of such seventy-two hour period shall exclude Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 319. If the person is not approved for admission by a facility providing seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment, and the person has not been arrested, the facility shall furnish transportation, if not otherwise available, for the person to his or her place of residence or other appropriate place. If the person has been arrested, the certified facility shall detain the person for not more than eight hours at the request of the peace officer in order to enable a peace officer to return to the facility and take the person back into custody.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 320. When a designated responder detains a person to a certified facility under this chapter, he or she shall make every effort to detain the person to the certified facility that is most appropriate to the person's condition.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 321. The legislature intends that, when evaluating a person who is identified under RCW 72.09.370(7), the professional person at the evaluation and treatment facility shall, when appropriate after consideration of the person's mental condition and relevant public safety concerns, file a petition for a ninety-day less restrictive alternative in lieu of a petition for a fourteen-day commitment.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 322. (1) When a designated responder is notified by a jail that a defendant or offender who was subject to a discharge review under section 339 of this act is to be released to the community, the designated responder shall evaluate the person within seventy-two hours of release.

(2) When an offender is under court-ordered treatment in the community and the supervision of the department of corrections, and the treatment provider becomes aware that the person is in violation of the terms of the court order, the treatment provider shall notify the designated responder and the department of corrections of the violation and request an evaluation for purposes of revocation of the less restrictive alternative.

(3) When a designated responder becomes aware that an offender who is under court-ordered treatment in the community and the supervision of the department of corrections is in violation of a treatment order or a condition of supervision that relates to public safety, or the designated responder detains a person under this chapter, the designated responder shall notify the person's treatment provider and the department of corrections.

(4) When an offender who is confined in a state correctional facility or is under supervision of the department of corrections in the community is subject to a petition for involuntary treatment under this chapter, the petitioner shall notify the department of corrections and the department of corrections shall provide documentation of its risk assessment or other concerns to the petitioner and the court if the department of corrections classified the offender as a high risk or high needs offender.

(5) Nothing in this section creates a duty on any treatment provider or designated responder to provide offender supervision.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 323. (1) If a person is referred to a designated responder under RCW 10.77.090(1)(d)(iii)(A), the designated responder shall examine the person within forty-eight hours. If the designated responder determines it is not appropriate to detain the person or petition for a ninety-day less restrictive alternative under section 324(4) of this act, that decision shall be immediately presented to the superior court for hearing. The court shall hold a hearing to consider the decision of the designated responder not later than the next judicial day. At the hearing the superior court shall review the determination of the designated responder and determine whether an order should be entered requiring the person to be evaluated at a certified facility. No person referred to a certified facility may be held at the facility longer than seventy-two hours.

(2) If a person is placed in an evaluation and treatment facility under RCW 10.77.090(1)(d)(iii)(B), a professional person shall evaluate the person for purposes of determining whether to file a ninety-day inpatient or outpatient petition under this chapter. Before expiration of the seventy-two hour evaluation period authorized under RCW 10.77.090(1)(d)(iii)(B), the professional person shall file a petition or, if the recommendation of the professional person is to release the person, present his or her recommendation to the superior court of the county in which the criminal charge was dismissed. The superior court shall review the recommendation not later than forty-eight hours, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, after the recommendation is presented. If the court rejects the recommendation to unconditionally release the person, the court may order the person detained at a certified facility for not more than a seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment period and direct the person to appear at a surety hearing before that court within seventy-two hours, or the court may release the person but direct the person to appear at a surety hearing set before that court within eleven days, at which time the prosecutor may file a petition under this chapter for ninety-day inpatient or outpatient treatment. If a petition is filed by the prosecutor, the court may order that the person named in the petition be detained at the certified facility that performed the evaluation under this subsection or order the respondent to be in outpatient treatment. If a petition is filed but the person fails to appear in court for the surety hearing, the court shall order that a mental health professional, a chemical dependency professional, or peace officer shall take such person or cause such person to be taken into custody and placed in a certified facility to be brought before the court the next judicial day after detention. Upon the person's first appearance in court after a petition has been filed, proceedings under sections 330 and 331 of this act shall commence. For a person subject to this subsection, the prosecutor or professional person may directly file a petition for ninety-day inpatient or outpatient treatment and no petition for initial detention or fourteen-day detention is required before such a petition may be filed.

The court shall conduct the hearing on the petition filed under this subsection within five judicial days of the date the petition is filed. The court may continue the hearing upon the written request of the person named in the petition or the person's attorney, for good cause shown. Such a continuance shall not exceed five additional judicial days. If the person named in the petition requests a jury trial, the trial shall commence within ten judicial days of the date of the filing of the petition. The burden of proof shall be by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence and shall be upon the petitioner. The person shall be present at such proceeding, which shall in all respects accord with the constitutional guarantees of due process of law and the rules of evidence pursuant to section 359 (8) and (9) of this act.

During the proceeding the person named in the petition shall continue to be detained and treated until released by order of the court. If no order has been made within thirty days after the filing of the petition, not including any extensions of time requested by the detained person or his or her attorney, the detained person shall be released.

(3) If a designated responder or the professional person and prosecuting attorney for the county in which the criminal charge was dismissed or attorney general, as appropriate, stipulate that the person does not present a likelihood of serious harm or is not gravely disabled, the hearing under this section is not required and the person, if in custody, shall be released.

(4) The person shall have the rights specified in section 359 (8) and (9) of this act.

Detention and Commitment (14 Day)

NEW SECTION. Sec. 324. A person detained for seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment may be detained for not more than fourteen additional days of involuntary intensive treatment or ninety additional days of a less restrictive alternative to involuntary intensive treatment if the following conditions are met:

(1) The professional staff of the agency or facility providing evaluation services has analyzed the person's condition and finds that the condition is caused by mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, and either results in a likelihood of serious harm, or results in the detained person being gravely disabled and are prepared to testify those conditions are met; and

(2) The person has been advised of the need for voluntary treatment and the professional staff of the facility has evidence that he or she has not in good faith volunteered; and

(3) The facility providing intensive treatment is certified to provide such treatment by the department; and

(4) The professional staff of the agency or facility or the designated responder has filed a petition for fourteen day involuntary detention or a ninety day less restrictive alternative with the court. The petition must be signed either by two physicians or by one physician and a mental health professional or chemical dependency professional, as appropriate, who have examined the person. If involuntary detention is sought the petition shall state facts that support the finding that the person, as a result of mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, presents a likelihood of serious harm, or is gravely disabled and that there are no less restrictive alternatives to detention in the best interest of the person or others. The petition shall state specifically that less restrictive alternative treatment was considered and specify why treatment less restrictive than detention is not appropriate. If an involuntary less restrictive alternative is sought, the petition shall state facts that support the finding that the person, as a result of mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, presents a likelihood of serious harm, or is gravely disabled and shall set forth the less restrictive alternative proposed by the facility; and

(5) A copy of the petition has been served on the detained person, his or her attorney and his or her personal representative, guardian, or conservator, if any, if the person is a minor, his or her parent, and if the person is under the supervision of the department of corrections, the department of corrections prior to the probable cause hearing; and

(6) The court at the time the petition was filed and before the probable cause hearing has appointed counsel to represent such person if no other counsel has appeared; and

(7) The court has ordered a fourteen day involuntary intensive treatment or a ninety day less restrictive alternative treatment after a probable cause hearing has been held pursuant to section 325 of this act; and

(8) At the conclusion of the initial commitment period, the professional staff of the agency or facility or the designated responder may petition for an additional period of either ninety days of less restrictive alternative treatment or ninety days of involuntary intensive treatment as provided in section 328 of this act; and

(9) If the hospital or facility designated to provide outpatient treatment is other than the facility providing involuntary treatment, the outpatient facility so designated has agreed to assume such responsibility.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 325. If a petition is filed for fourteen day involuntary treatment or ninety days of less restrictive alternative treatment, the court shall hold a probable cause hearing within seventy-two hours of the initial detention of such person as determined in section 318 of this act. If requested by the detained person or his or her attorney, the hearing may be postponed for a period not to exceed forty-eight hours. The hearing may also be continued subject to the conditions set forth in section 337 of this act or subject to the petitioner's showing of good cause for a period not to exceed twenty-four hours.

At the conclusion of the probable cause hearing, if the court finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the person, as the result of a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, presents a likelihood of serious harm, or is gravely disabled, and, after considering less restrictive alternatives to involuntary detention and treatment, finds that no such alternatives are in the best interests of such person or others, the court shall order that such person be detained for involuntary treatment not to exceed fourteen days in a facility certified to provide treatment by the department. If the court finds that the person, as the result of a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, presents a likelihood of serious harm, or is gravely disabled, but that treatment in a less restrictive setting than detention is in the best interest of such person or others, the court shall order an appropriate less restrictive course of treatment for not to exceed ninety days.

The court shall specifically state to the person and give the person notice in writing that if involuntary treatment beyond the fourteen day period or beyond the ninety days of less restrictive treatment is to be sought, the person will have the right to a full hearing or jury trial as required by section 330 of this act. The court shall also provide written notice that, where required under chapter 9.41 RCW, the person is barred from the possession of firearms.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 326. (1) Involuntary intensive treatment ordered at the time of the probable cause hearing shall be for no more than fourteen days, and shall terminate sooner when, in the opinion of the professional person in charge of the facility or his or her professional designee, (a) the person no longer constitutes a likelihood of serious harm, or (b) no longer is gravely disabled, or (c) is prepared to accept voluntary treatment upon referral, or (d) is to remain in the facility providing intensive treatment on a voluntary basis.

(2) A person who has been detained for fourteen days of intensive treatment shall be released at the end of the fourteen days unless one of the following applies: (a) Such person agrees to receive further treatment on a voluntary basis; or (b) such person is a patient to whom section 327 of this act is applicable.

Detention and Commitment (90/180 Day)

NEW SECTION. Sec. 327. At the expiration of the fourteen-day period of intensive treatment, a person may be confined for further treatment pursuant to section 331 of this act if:

(1) Such person after having been taken into custody for evaluation and treatment has threatened, attempted, or inflicted: (a) Physical harm upon the person of another or himself or herself, or substantial damage upon the property of another, and (b) as a result of mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both presents a likelihood of serious harm; or

(2) Such person was taken into custody as a result of conduct in which he or she attempted or inflicted physical harm upon the person of another or himself or herself, or substantial damage upon the property of others, and continues to present, as a result of mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, a likelihood of serious harm; or

(3) Such person has been determined to be incompetent and criminal charges have been dismissed pursuant to RCW 10.77.090 (4), and has committed acts constituting a felony, and as a result of a mental disorder or co-occurring mental and chemical dependency disorders, presents a substantial likelihood of repeating similar acts. In any proceeding pursuant to this subsection it shall not be necessary to show intent, willfulness, or state of mind as an element of the crime; or

(4) Such person is gravely disabled.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 328. (1) At any time during a person's fourteen day intensive treatment period, the professional person in charge of a treatment facility or his or her professional designee or the designated responder may petition the superior court for an order requiring such person to undergo an additional period of treatment. Such petition must be based on one or more of the grounds set forth in section 327 of this act.

(2) The petition shall summarize the facts which support the need for further confinement and shall be supported by affidavits signed by two examining physicians, or by one examining physician and examining mental health professional or chemical dependency specialist, as appropriate. The affidavits shall describe in detail the behavior of the detained person which supports the petition and shall explain what, if any, less restrictive treatments which are alternatives to detention are available to such person, and shall state the willingness of the affiant to testify to such facts in subsequent judicial proceedings under this chapter.

(3) If a person has been determined to be incompetent pursuant to RCW 10.77.090(4), then the professional person in charge of the treatment facility or his or her professional designee or the designated responder may directly file a petition for one hundred eighty day treatment under section 327(3) of this act. No petition for initial detention or fourteen day detention is required before such a petition may be filed.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 329. The petition for ninety day treatment shall be filed with the clerk of the superior court at least three days before expiration of the fourteen-day period of intensive treatment. At the time of filing such petition, the clerk shall set a time for the person to come before the court on the next judicial day after the day of filing unless such appearance is waived by the person's attorney, and the clerk shall notify the designated responder. The designated responder shall immediately notify the person detained, his or her attorney, if any, his or her personal representative, guardian, or conservator, if any, where the person is a minor, his or her guardian, the department of corrections where the person is under its supervision, and the prosecuting attorney, and provide a copy of the petition to such persons as soon as possible.

At the time set for appearance the detained person shall be brought before the court, unless such appearance has been waived and the court shall advise him or her of his or her right to be represented by an attorney and of his or her right to a jury trial. If the detained person is not represented by an attorney, or is indigent or is unwilling to retain an attorney, the court shall immediately appoint an attorney to represent him or her. The court shall, if requested, appoint a reasonably available licensed physician, psychologist, or psychiatrist, designated by the detained person to examine and testify on behalf of the detained person.

The court may, if requested, also appoint a professional person as defined in section 303 of this act to seek less restrictive alternative courses of treatment and to testify on behalf of the detained person. In the case of a developmentally disabled person who has been determined to be incompetent pursuant to RCW 10.77.090(4), then the appointed professional person under this section shall be a developmental disabilities professional.

The court shall also set a date for a full hearing on the petition as provided in section 330 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 330. The court shall conduct a hearing on the petition for ninety day treatment within five judicial days of the first court appearance after the probable cause hearing. The court may continue the hearing upon the written request of the person named in the petition or the person's attorney, for good cause shown, which continuance shall not exceed five additional judicial days. If the person named in the petition requests a jury trial, the trial shall commence within ten judicial days of the first court appearance after the probable cause hearing. The burden of proof shall be by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence and shall be upon the petitioner. The person shall be present at such proceeding, which shall in all respects accord with the constitutional guarantees of due process of law and the rules of evidence pursuant to section 359 (8) and (9) of this act.

During the proceeding, the person named in the petition shall continue to be treated until released by order of the superior court. If no order has been made within thirty days after the filing of the petition, not including extensions of time requested by the detained person or his or her attorney, the detained person shall be released.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 331. (1)(a) If the court or jury finds that grounds set forth in section 327 of this act have been proven and that the best interests of the person or others will not be served by a less restrictive treatment which is an alternative to detention, the court shall remand him or her to the custody of the department or to a facility certified by the department to provide treatment to persons committed under this chapter for a further period of intensive treatment not to exceed ninety days from the date of judgment: PROVIDED, That if the grounds set forth in RCW 71.05.280(3) are the basis of commitment, then the period of treatment may be up to but not exceed one hundred eighty days from the date of judgment in a facility certified by the department to provide treatment to persons committed under this chapter.

(b) If the committed person is developmentally disabled and has been determined incompetent pursuant to RCW 10.77.090(4), and the best interests of the person or others will not be served by a less-restrictive treatment which is an alternative to detention, the court shall remand him or her to the custody of the department or to a facility certified by the department to provide treatment to persons committed under this chapter. When appropriate and subject to available funds, treatment and training of such persons must be provided in a program specifically reserved for the treatment and training of developmentally disabled persons. A person so committed shall receive habilitation services pursuant to an individualized service plan specifically developed to treat the behavior which was the subject of the criminal proceedings. The treatment program shall be administered by developmental disabilities professionals and others trained specifically in the needs of developmentally disabled persons.

(c) If the committed person meets the admission requirements under section 505 of this act, the court may remand the person to an enhanced services facility.

(d) The department may limit admissions to these specialized programs in order to ensure that expenditures for services do not exceed amounts appropriated by the legislature and allocated by the department for such services. The department may establish admission priorities in the event that the number of eligible persons exceeds the limits set by the department. An order for treatment less restrictive than involuntary detention may include conditions, and if such conditions are not adhered to, the designated mental health professional, designated chemical dependency specialist, or developmental disabilities professional may order the person apprehended under the terms and conditions of section 336 of this act.

If the court or jury finds that grounds set forth in section 327 of this act have been proven, but finds that treatment less restrictive than detention will be in the best interest of the person or others, then the court shall remand him or her to the custody of the department or to a facility certified by the department to provide treatment to persons committed under this chapter or to a less restrictive alternative for a further period of less restrictive treatment not to exceed ninety days from the date of judgment: PROVIDED, That if the grounds set forth in section 327(3) of this act are the basis of commitment, then the period of treatment may be up to but not exceed one hundred eighty days from the date of judgment.

(2) The person shall be released from involuntary treatment at the expiration of the period of commitment imposed under subsection (1) of this section unless the superintendent or professional person in charge of the facility in which he or she is confined, or in the event of a less restrictive alternative, the designated mental health professional or developmental disabilities professional, files a new petition for involuntary treatment on the grounds that the committed person;

(a) During the current period of court ordered treatment: (i) Has threatened, attempted, or inflicted physical harm upon the person of another, or substantial damage upon the property of another, and (ii) as a result of a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, or as the result of a developmental disability, presents a likelihood of serious harm; or

(b) Was taken into custody as a result of conduct in which he or she attempted or inflicted serious physical harm upon the person of another, and continues to present, as a result of mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, or as the result of a developmental disability, a likelihood of serious harm; or

(c) Is in custody pursuant to RCW 71.05.280(3) and as a result of mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, or as the result of a developmental disability, presents a substantial likelihood of repeating similar acts considering the charged criminal behavior, life history, progress in treatment, and the public safety; or

(d) Continues to be gravely disabled.

If the conduct required to be proven in (b) and (c) of this subsection was found by a judge or jury in a prior trial under this chapter, it shall not be necessary to reprove that element. Such new petition for involuntary treatment shall be filed and heard in the superior court of the county of the facility which is filing the new petition for involuntary treatment unless good cause is shown for a change of venue. The cost of the proceedings shall be borne by the state.

The hearing shall be held as provided in RCW 71.05.310, and if the court or jury finds that the grounds for additional confinement as set forth in this subsection are present, the court may order the committed person returned for an additional period of treatment not to exceed one hundred eighty days from the date of judgment. At the end of the one hundred eighty day period of commitment, the committed person shall be released unless a petition for another one hundred eighty day period of continued treatment is filed and heard in the same manner as provided in this subsection. Successive one hundred eighty day commitments are permissible on the same grounds and pursuant to the same procedures as the original one hundred eighty day commitment.

(3) No person committed as provided in this section may be detained unless a valid order of commitment is in effect. No order of commitment can exceed one hundred eighty days in length.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 332. (1) If a minor is committed for one hundred eighty-day inpatient treatment and is to be placed in a state-supported program, the secretary shall accept immediately and place the minor in a state-funded long-term evaluation and treatment facility.

(2) The secretary's placement authority shall be exercised through a designated placement committee appointed by the secretary and composed of children's mental health specialists, including at least one child psychiatrist who represents the state-funded, long-term, evaluation and treatment facility for minors. The responsibility of the placement committee will be to:

(a) Make the long-term placement of the minor in the most appropriate, available state-funded evaluation and treatment facility, having carefully considered factors including the treatment needs of the minor, the most appropriate facility able to respond to the minor's identified treatment needs, the geographic proximity of the facility to the minor's family, the immediate availability of bed space, and the probable impact of the placement on other residents of the facility;

(b) Approve or deny requests from treatment facilities for transfer of a minor to another facility;

(c) Receive and monitor reports required under this section;

(d) Receive and monitor reports of all discharges.

(3) The secretary may authorize transfer of minors among treatment facilities if the transfer is in the best interests of the minor or due to treatment priorities.

(4) The responsible state-funded evaluation and treatment facility shall submit a report to the department's designated placement committee within ninety days of admission and no less than every one hundred eighty days thereafter, setting forth such facts as the department requires, including the minor's individual treatment plan and progress, recommendations for future treatment, and possible less restrictive treatment.

Detention and Commitment (CDMHP/CDCDS Responsibility)

NEW SECTION. Sec. 333. Whenever a designated responder or professional person is conducting an evaluation under this chapter, consideration shall include all reasonably available information and records regarding:

(1) Prior recommendations for evaluation of the need for civil commitments when the recommendation is made pursuant to an evaluation conducted under chapter 10.77 RCW;

(2) History of one or more violent acts;

(3) Prior determinations of incompetency or insanity under chapter 10.77 RCW; and

(4) Prior commitments under this chapter or chapter 70.96A, 71.05, or 71.34 RCW.

In addition, when conducting an evaluation for offenders identified under RCW 72.09.370, the designated responder or professional person shall consider an offender's history of judicially required or administratively ordered antipsychotic medication while in confinement.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 334. The department shall develop statewide protocols to be utilized by professional persons, and designated responders in administration of this chapter and chapter 10.77 RCW. The protocols shall be updated at least every three years. The protocols shall provide uniform development and application of criteria in evaluation and commitment recommendations, of persons who have, or are alleged to have, a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, and are subject to this chapter.

The initial protocols shall be developed not later than September 1, 2008. The department shall develop and update the protocols in consultation with representatives of designated responders, local government, law enforcement, county and city prosecutors, public defenders, the department of corrections, and groups concerned with mental and chemical dependency disorders. The protocols shall be submitted to the governor and legislature upon adoption by the department.

Modifications and Reviews

NEW SECTION. Sec. 335. In any proceeding under this chapter to modify a commitment order of a person committed to inpatient treatment under grounds set forth in section 327(3) or 331(2)(c) of this act in which the requested relief includes treatment less restrictive than detention, the prosecuting attorney shall be entitled to intervene. The party initiating the motion to modify the commitment order shall serve the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the criminal charges against the committed person were dismissed with written notice and copies of the initiating papers.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 336. (1)(a) When, in the opinion of the superintendent or the professional person in charge of the hospital or facility providing involuntary treatment, the committed person can be appropriately served by outpatient treatment prior to or at the expiration of the period of commitment, then such outpatient care may be required as a term of conditional release for a period which, when added to the inpatient treatment period, shall not exceed the period of commitment. If the hospital or facility designated to provide outpatient treatment is other than the facility providing involuntary treatment, the outpatient facility so designated must agree in writing to assume such responsibility. A copy of the terms of conditional release shall be given to the person, and if the person is a minor, the person's parent, the designated responder in the county in which the patient is to receive outpatient treatment, the department of corrections if the person is under supervision by the department of corrections, and the court of original commitment.

(b) Before a person committed under grounds set forth in RCW 71.05.280(3) or 71.05.320(2)(c) is conditionally released under (a) of this subsection, the superintendent or professional person in charge of the hospital or facility providing involuntary treatment shall in writing notify the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the criminal charges against the committed person were dismissed, of the decision to conditionally release the person. Notice and a copy of the terms of conditional release shall be provided at least thirty days before the person is released from inpatient care. Within twenty days after receiving notice, the prosecuting attorney may petition the court in the county that issued the commitment order to hold a hearing to determine whether the person may be conditionally released and the terms of the conditional release. The prosecuting attorney shall provide a copy of the petition to the superintendent or professional person in charge of the hospital or facility providing involuntary treatment, the committed person and, if the person is a minor, his or her parent, the attorney, if any, and personal representative, guardian, or conservator of the committed person, the department of corrections if the person is under its supervision, and the court of original commitment. If the county in which the committed person is to receive outpatient treatment is the same county in which the criminal charges against the committed person were dismissed, then the court shall, upon the motion of the prosecuting attorney, transfer the proceeding to the court in that county. The court shall conduct a hearing on the petition within ten days of the filing of the petition. The committed person shall have the same rights with respect to notice, hearing, and counsel as for an involuntary treatment proceeding, except as set forth in this subsection and except that there shall be no right to jury trial. The issue to be determined at the hearing is whether or not the person may be conditionally released without substantial danger to other persons, or substantial likelihood of committing criminal acts jeopardizing public safety or security. If the court disapproves of the conditional release, it may do so only on the basis of substantial evidence. Pursuant to the determination of the court upon the hearing, the conditional release of the person shall be approved by the court on the same or modified conditions or the person shall be returned for involuntary treatment on an inpatient basis subject to release at the end of the period for which he or she was committed, or otherwise in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

(2) The hospital or facility designated to provide outpatient care or the secretary may modify the conditions for continued release when such modification is in the best interest of the person. Notification of such changes shall be sent to all persons receiving a copy of the original conditions.

(3)(a) If the hospital or facility designated to provide outpatient care, the designated responder, or the secretary determines that:

- (i) A conditionally released person is failing to adhere to the terms and conditions of his or her release;
- (ii) Substantial deterioration in a conditionally released person's functioning has occurred;
- (iii) There is evidence of substantial decompensation with a reasonable probability that the decompensation can be reversed by further inpatient treatment; or
- (iv) The person poses a likelihood of serious harm.

Upon notification by the hospital or facility designated to provide outpatient care, or on his or her own motion, the designated responder or the secretary may order that the conditionally released person be apprehended and taken into custody and temporarily detained in a certified facility in or near the county in which he or she is receiving outpatient treatment.

(b) The hospital or facility designated to provide outpatient treatment shall notify the secretary or designated responder when a conditionally released person fails to adhere to terms and conditions of his or her conditional release or experiences substantial deterioration in his or her condition and, as a result, presents an increased likelihood of serious harm. The designated responder or secretary shall order the person apprehended and temporarily detained in a certified facility in or near the county in which he or she is receiving outpatient treatment. When the person is under the supervision of the department of corrections the designated responder shall also notify the department of corrections.

(c) A person detained under this subsection (3) shall be held until such time, not exceeding five days, as a hearing can be scheduled to determine whether or not the person should be returned to the hospital or facility from which he or she had been conditionally released. The designated responder or the secretary may modify or rescind such order at any time prior to commencement of the court hearing.

(d) The court that originally ordered commitment shall be notified within two judicial days of a person's detention under the provisions of this section, and the designated responder or the secretary shall file his or her petition and order of apprehension and detention with the court and serve them upon the person detained, and if the person is a minor, his or her parent, his or her attorney, personal representative, guardian, or conservator, if any, and the department of corrections, where the person is under its supervision, shall receive a copy of such papers as soon as possible. Such person shall have the same rights with respect to notice, hearing, and counsel as for an involuntary treatment proceeding, except as specifically set forth in this section and except that there shall be no right to jury trial. The issues to be determined shall be: (i) Whether the conditionally released person did or did not adhere to the terms and conditions of his or her conditional release; (ii) that substantial deterioration in the person's functioning has occurred; (iii) there is evidence of substantial decompensation with a reasonable probability that the decompensation can be reversed by further inpatient treatment; or (iv) there is a likelihood of serious harm; and, if any of the conditions listed in this subsection (3)(d) have occurred, whether the terms of conditional release should be modified or the person should be returned to the facility.

(e) Pursuant to the determination of the court upon such hearing, the conditionally released person shall either continue to be conditionally released on the same or modified conditions or shall be returned for involuntary treatment on an inpatient basis subject to release at the end of the period for which he or she was committed for involuntary treatment, or otherwise in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. Such hearing may be waived by the person, his or her counsel, his or her personal representative, guardian, or conservator, if any, and, where the person is a minor, his or her parent, but shall not be waivable unless all such persons agree to waive, and upon such waiver the person may be returned for involuntary treatment or continued on conditional release on the same or modified conditions.

(4) The proceedings set forth in subsection (3) of this section may be initiated by the designated responder or the secretary on the same basis set forth therein without requiring or ordering the apprehension and detention of the conditionally released person, in which case the court hearing shall take place in not less than five days from the date of service of the petition upon the conditionally released person.

Upon expiration of the period of commitment, or when the person is released from outpatient care, notice in writing to the court which committed the person for treatment shall be provided.

(5) The grounds and procedures for revocation of less restrictive alternative treatment shall be the same as those set forth in this section for conditional releases.

(6) In the event of a revocation of a conditional release, the subsequent treatment period may be for no longer than the actual period authorized in the original court order.

Treatment Provider Responsibilities

NEW SECTION. Sec. 337. Each person involuntarily detained and accepted or admitted at a certified facility shall, within twenty-four hours of his or her admission or acceptance at the facility, be examined and evaluated by a licensed physician who may be assisted by a physician assistant according to chapter 18.71A RCW or an advanced registered nurse practitioner according to chapter 18.79 RCW and a mental health professional or chemical dependency professional, as appropriate, and shall receive such treatment and care as his or her condition requires including treatment on an outpatient basis for the period that he or she is detained, except that, beginning twenty-four hours prior to a trial or hearing pursuant to section 325, 330, 331, 336, 360, or 361 of this act, the person may refuse psychiatric medications, but may not refuse: (1) Any other medication previously prescribed by a person licensed under Title 18 RCW; or (2) emergency lifesaving treatment, and the person shall be informed at an appropriate time of his or her right of such refusal. The person shall be detained up to seventy-two hours if, in the opinion of the professional person in charge of the facility, or his or her professional designee, the person presents a likelihood of serious harm or is gravely disabled. A person who has been detained for seventy-two hours shall, no later than the end of such period, be released unless referred for further care on a voluntary basis or detained pursuant to court order for further treatment as provided in this chapter.

If, after examination and evaluation, the licensed physician and mental health professional determine that the initial needs of the person would be better served by placement in an alternate facility, then the person shall be referred to that facility.

A certified facility admitting or accepting any person pursuant to this chapter whose physical condition reveals the need for hospitalization shall assure that such person is transferred to an appropriate hospital for evaluation or admission for treatment. Notice of such fact shall be given to the court, the designated attorney, and the designated responder and where the person is a minor, his or her parent, and the court shall order such continuance in proceedings under this chapter as may be necessary, but in no event may this continuance be more than fourteen days.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 338. At the time a person is involuntarily admitted to a certified facility, the professional person in charge or his or her designee shall take reasonable precautions to inventory and safeguard the personal property of the person detained. A copy of the inventory, signed by the staff member making it, shall be given to the person detained and where the person is a minor, his or her parent. It shall, in addition, be open to inspection to the person's attorney, guardian, or conservator, if any, and any responsible relative, subject to limitations, if any, specifically imposed by the detained person. For purposes of this section, "responsible relative" includes the spouse, parent, adult child, or adult brother or sister of the person. The facility shall not disclose the contents of the inventory to any other person without the consent of the person or order of the court.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 339. (1) When a state hospital admits a person for evaluation or treatment under this chapter, the state hospital shall consult with the appropriate corrections and chemical dependency personnel and the appropriate forensic staff at the state hospital to conduct a discharge review to determine whether the person presents a likelihood of serious harm and whether the person is appropriate for release to a less restrictive alternative, if the person has a history of one or more violent acts and:

- (a) Has been transferred from a correctional facility; or
- (b) Is or has been under the authority of the department of corrections or the indeterminate sentence review board.

(2) When a state hospital returns a person who was reviewed under subsection (1) of this section to a correctional facility, the hospital shall notify the correctional facility that the person was subject to a discharge review pursuant to this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 340. Nothing in this chapter shall prohibit the professional person in charge of a treatment facility, or his or her professional designee, from permitting a person detained for intensive treatment to leave the facility for prescribed periods during the term of the person's detention, under such conditions as may be appropriate.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 341. No indigent patient shall be conditionally released or discharged from involuntary treatment without suitable clothing, and the superintendent of a state hospital shall furnish the same, together with such sum of money as he or she deems necessary for the immediate welfare of the patient. Such sum of money shall be the same as the amount required by RCW 72.02.100 to be provided to persons in need being released from correctional institutions. As funds are available, the secretary may provide payment to indigent persons conditionally released pursuant to this chapter consistent with the optional provisions of RCW 72.02.100 and 72.02.110, and may adopt rules and regulations to do so.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 342. A certified facility shall provide for adequate and appropriate treatment of a person committed to its custody. A person committed under this section may be transferred from one certified facility to another if transfer is medically advisable.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 343. (1) Before a person committed under grounds set forth in section 327(3) of this act is released because a new petition for involuntary treatment has not been filed under section 331(2) of this act, the superintendent, professional person, or designated responder responsible for the decision whether to file a new petition shall in writing notify the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the criminal charges against the committed person were dismissed, of the decision not to file a new petition for involuntary treatment. Notice shall be provided at least forty-five days before the period of commitment expires.

(2)(a) Before a person committed under grounds set forth in section 327(3) of this act is permitted temporarily to leave a treatment facility pursuant to section 340 of this act for any period of time without constant accompaniment by facility staff, the superintendent, professional person in charge of a treatment facility, or his or her professional designee shall in writing notify the prosecuting attorney of any county of the person's destination and the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the criminal charges against the committed person were dismissed. The notice shall be provided at least forty-five days before the anticipated leave and shall describe the conditions under which the leave is to occur.

(b) The provisions of section 344(2) of this act apply to proposed leaves, and either or both prosecuting attorneys receiving notice under this subsection may petition the court under section 344(2) of this act.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize detention of a person unless a valid order of commitment is in effect.

(4) The existence of the notice requirements in this section will not require any extension of the leave date in the event the leave plan changes after notification.

(5) The notice requirements contained in this section shall not apply to emergency medical transfers.

(6) The notice provisions of this section are in addition to those provided in section 345 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 344. (1) Nothing in this chapter shall prohibit the superintendent or professional person in charge of the hospital or facility in which the person is being involuntarily treated from releasing him or her prior to the expiration of the commitment period when, in the opinion of the superintendent or professional person in charge, the person being involuntarily treated no longer presents a likelihood of serious harm.

Whenever the superintendent or professional person in charge of a hospital or facility providing involuntary treatment pursuant to this chapter releases a person prior to the expiration of the period of commitment, the superintendent or professional person in charge shall in writing notify the court which committed the person for treatment.

(2) Before a person committed under grounds set forth in section 327(3) or 331(2)(c) of this act is released under this section, the superintendent or professional person in charge shall in writing notify the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the criminal charges against the committed person were dismissed, of the release date. Notice shall be provided at least thirty days before the release date. Within twenty days after receiving notice, the prosecuting attorney may petition the court in the county in which the person is being involuntarily treated for a hearing to determine whether the person is to be released. The prosecuting attorney shall provide a copy of the petition to the superintendent or professional person in charge of the hospital or facility providing involuntary treatment, the committed person and his or her attorney, personal representative, guardian, or conservator, if any, the department of corrections if the person is under its supervision, and where the person is a minor, his or her parent. The court shall conduct a hearing on the petition within ten days of filing the petition. The committed person shall have the same rights with respect to notice, hearing, and counsel as for an involuntary treatment proceeding, except as set forth in this subsection and except that there shall be no right to jury trial. The issue to be determined at the hearing is whether or not the person may be released without substantial danger to other persons, or substantial likelihood of committing criminal acts jeopardizing public safety or security. If the court disapproves of the release, it may do so only on the basis of substantial evidence. Pursuant to the determination of the court upon the hearing, the committed person shall be released or shall be returned for involuntary treatment subject to release at the end of the period for which he or she was committed, or otherwise in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 345. (1)(a) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, at the earliest possible date, and in no event later than thirty days before conditional release, final release, authorized leave under section 343(2) of this act, or transfer to a facility other than a state mental hospital, the superintendent shall send written notice of conditional release, release, authorized leave, or transfer of a person committed under section 327(3) or 331(2)(c) of this act following dismissal of a sex, violent, or felony harassment offense pursuant to RCW 10.77.090(4) to the following:

- (i) The chief of police of the city, if any, in which the person will reside;
- (ii) The sheriff of the county in which the person will reside; and
- (iii) The department of corrections, if the person is under its supervision.

(b) The same notice as required by (a) of this subsection shall be sent to the following, if such notice has been requested in writing about a specific person committed under section 327(3) or 331(2)(c) of this act following dismissal of a sex, violent, or felony harassment offense pursuant to RCW 10.77.090(4):

(i) The victim of the sex, violent, or felony harassment offense that was dismissed pursuant to RCW 10.77.090(4) preceding commitment under section 327(3) or 331(2)(c) of this act or the victim's next of kin if the crime was a homicide;

(ii) Any witnesses who testified against the person in any court proceedings; and

(iii) Any person specified in writing by the prosecuting attorney.

Information regarding victims, next of kin, or witnesses requesting the notice, information regarding any other person specified in writing by the prosecuting attorney to receive the notice, and the notice are confidential and shall not be available to the person committed under this chapter.

(c) The thirty-day notice requirements contained in this subsection shall not apply to emergency medical transfers.

(d) The existence of the notice requirements in this subsection will not require any extension of the release date in the event the release plan changes after notification.

(2) If a person committed under section 327(3) or 331(2)(c) of this act following dismissal of a sex, violent, or felony harassment offense pursuant to RCW 10.77.090(4) escapes, the superintendent shall immediately notify, by the most reasonable and expedient means available, the chief of police of the city, the sheriff of the county in which the person resided immediately before the person's arrest, and the department of corrections if the person is subject to its supervision. If previously requested, the superintendent shall also notify the witnesses and the victim of the sex, violent, or felony harassment offense that was dismissed pursuant to RCW 10.77.090(4) preceding commitment under section 327(3) or 331(2)(c) of this act or the victim's next of kin if the crime was a homicide. In addition, the secretary shall also notify appropriate parties pursuant to section 363(18) of this act. If the person is recaptured, the superintendent shall send notice to the persons designated in this subsection as soon as possible but in no event later than two working days after the department learns of such recapture.

(3) If the victim, the victim's next of kin, or any witness is under the age of sixteen, the notice required by this section shall be sent to the parent or legal guardian of the child.

(4) The superintendent shall send the notices required by this chapter to the last address provided to the department by the requesting party. The requesting party shall furnish the department with a current address.

(5) For purposes of this section the following terms have the following meanings:

(a) "Violent offense" means a violent offense under RCW 9.94A.030;

(b) "Sex offense" means a sex offense under RCW 9.94A.030;

(c) "Next of kin" means a person's spouse, parents, siblings, and children;

(d) "Felony harassment offense" means a crime of harassment as defined in RCW 9A.46.060 that is a felony.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 346. In addition to any other information required to be released under this chapter, the department is authorized, pursuant to RCW 4.24.550, to release relevant information that is necessary to protect the public, concerning a specific person committed under section 327(3) or 331(2)(c) of this act following dismissal of a sex offense as defined in RCW 9.94A.030.

Attorneys and Courts

NEW SECTION. Sec. 347. Attorneys appointed for persons pursuant to this chapter shall be compensated for their services as follows: (1) The person for whom an attorney is appointed shall, if he or she is financially able pursuant to standards as to financial capability and indigency set by the superior court of the county in which the proceeding is held, bear the costs of such legal services; (2) if such person is indigent pursuant to such standards, the costs of such services shall be borne by the county in which the proceeding is held, subject however to the responsibility for costs provided in section 331(2) of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 348. In any judicial proceeding for involuntary commitment or detention, or in any proceeding challenging such commitment or detention, the prosecuting attorney for the county in which the proceeding was initiated shall represent the persons or agencies petitioning for commitment or detention and shall defend all challenges to such commitment or detention: PROVIDED, That the attorney general shall represent and provide legal services and advice to state hospitals with regard to all provisions of and proceedings under this chapter except in proceedings initiated by hospitals seeking fourteen day detention.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 349. When any court orders a person to receive treatment under this chapter, the order shall include a statement that if the person is, or becomes, subject to supervision by the department of corrections, the person must notify the treatment provider and the person's mental health and chemical dependency treatment information must be shared with the department of corrections for the duration of the offender's incarceration and supervision, under RCW 71.05.445. Upon a petition by a person who does not have a history of one or more violent acts, the court may, for good cause, find that public safety would not be enhanced by the sharing of this person's information.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 350. In each county the superior court may appoint the following persons to assist the superior court in disposing of its business: PROVIDED, That such positions may not be created without prior consent of the county legislative authority:

(1) One or more attorneys to act as involuntary treatment commissioners; and

(2) Such investigators, stenographers, and clerks as the court shall find necessary to carry on the work of the involuntary treatment commissioners.

The appointments provided for in this section shall be made by a majority vote of the judges of the superior court of the county and may be in addition to all other appointments of commissioners and other judicial attaches otherwise authorized by law. Involuntary treatment commissioners and investigators shall serve at the pleasure of the judges appointing them and shall receive such compensation as the county legislative authority shall determine. The appointments may be full or part-time positions. A person appointed as an involuntary treatment commissioner may also be appointed to any other commissioner position authorized by law.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 351. The judges of the superior court of the county by majority vote may authorize involuntary treatment commissioners, appointed pursuant to RCW 71.05.135, to perform any or all of the following duties:

(1) Receive all applications, petitions, and proceedings filed in the superior court for the purpose of disposing of them pursuant to this chapter;

(2) Investigate the facts upon which to base warrants, subpoenas, orders to directions in actions, or proceedings filed pursuant to this chapter;

(3) For the purpose of this chapter, exercise all powers and perform all the duties of a court commissioner appointed pursuant to RCW 2.24.010;

(4) Hold hearings in proceedings under this chapter and make written reports of all proceedings under this chapter which shall become a part of the record of superior court;

(5) Provide such supervision in connection with the exercise of its jurisdiction as may be ordered by the presiding judge; and

(6) Cause the orders and findings to be entered in the same manner as orders and findings are entered in cases in the superior court.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 352. A record of all applications, petitions, and proceedings under this chapter shall be maintained by the county clerk in which the application, petition, or proceeding was initiated.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 353. In any judicial proceeding in which a professional person has made a recommendation regarding whether a person should be committed for treatment under this chapter, and the court does not follow the recommendation, the court shall enter findings that state with particularity its reasoning, including a finding whether the state met its burden of proof in showing whether the person presents a likelihood of serious harm or grave disability.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 354. In making a determination of whether there is a likelihood of serious harm in a hearing conducted under section 325 or 331 of this act, the court shall give great weight to any evidence before the court regarding whether the person has: (1) A recent history of one or more violent acts; or (2) a recent history of one or more commitments under this chapter or its equivalent provisions under the laws of another state which were based on a likelihood of serious harm. The existence of prior violent acts or commitments under this chapter or its equivalent shall not be the sole basis for determining whether a person presents a likelihood of serious harm.

For the purposes of this section "recent" refers to the period of time not exceeding three years prior to the current hearing.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 355. In determining whether an inpatient or less restrictive alternative commitment under the process provided in section 327 or 331 of this act is appropriate, great weight shall be given to evidence of a prior history or pattern of decompensation and discontinuation of treatment resulting in: (1) Repeated hospitalizations; or (2) repeated peace officer interventions resulting in juvenile offenses, criminal charges, diversion programs, or jail admissions. Such evidence may be used to provide a factual basis for concluding that the person would not receive, if released, such care as is essential for his or her health or safety.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 356. The supreme court of the state of Washington shall adopt such rules as it shall deem necessary with respect to the court procedures and proceedings provided for by this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 357. (1) When making a decision under this chapter whether to require a less restrictive alternative treatment, the court shall consider whether it is appropriate to include or exclude time spent in confinement when determining whether the person has committed a recent overt act.

(2) When determining whether an offender is a danger to himself or herself or others under this chapter, a court shall give great weight to any evidence submitted to the court regarding an offender's recent history of judicially required or administratively ordered involuntary antipsychotic medication while in confinement.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 358. The venue for proceedings under this section is the county in which person to be committed resides or is present.

Individual Rights and Medications

NEW SECTION. Sec. 359. (1)(a) Every person involuntarily detained or committed under the provisions of this chapter shall be entitled to all the rights set forth in this chapter, which shall be prominently posted in the facility, and shall retain all rights not denied him or her under this chapter except as chapter 9.41 RCW may limit the right of a person to purchase or possess a firearm or to qualify for a concealed pistol license.

(b) No person shall be presumed incompetent as a consequence of receiving an evaluation or voluntary or involuntary treatment for a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, under this chapter, chapter 70.96A, 71.05, or 71.34 RCW, or any prior laws of this state dealing with mental illness. Competency shall not be determined or withdrawn except under the provisions of chapter 10.97 or 11.88 RCW.

(c) Any person who leaves a public or private agency following evaluation or treatment for a mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, shall be given a written statement setting forth the substance of this section.

(2) Each person involuntarily detained or committed pursuant to this chapter shall have the right to adequate care and individualized treatment.

(3) The provisions of this chapter shall not be construed to deny to any person treatment by spiritual means through prayer in accordance with the tenets and practices of a church or religious denomination.

(4) Persons receiving evaluation or treatment under this chapter shall be given a reasonable choice of an available physician or other professional person qualified to provide such services.

(5) Whenever any person is detained for evaluation and treatment pursuant to this chapter, both the person and, if the person is a minor, his or her parent, or if possible, a responsible member of his or her immediate family, his or her personal representative, guardian, or conservator, if any, shall be advised as soon as possible in writing or orally, by the officer or person taking him or her into custody or by personnel of the certified facility where the person is detained that unless the person is released or voluntarily admits himself or herself for treatment within seventy-two hours of the initial detention:

(a) That a judicial hearing in a superior court, either by a judge or court commissioner thereof, shall be held not more than seventy-two hours after the initial detention to determine whether there is probable cause to detain the person after the seventy-two hours have expired for up to an additional fourteen days without further automatic hearing for the reason that the person is a person whose mental disorder, chemical dependency disorder, or both, presents a likelihood of serious harm or that the person is gravely disabled;

(b) That the person has a right to communicate immediately with an attorney; has a right to have an attorney appointed to represent him or her before and at the probable cause hearing if he or she is indigent; and has the right to be told the name and address of the attorney that the mental health professional or chemical dependency professional, as appropriate, has designated pursuant to this chapter;

(c) That the person has the right to remain silent and that any statement he or she makes may be used against him or her;

(d) That the person has the right to present evidence and to cross-examine witnesses who testify against him or her at the probable cause hearing; and

(e) That the person has the right to refuse psychiatric medications, including antipsychotic medication beginning twenty-four hours prior to the probable cause hearing.

(6) When proceedings are initiated under section 315 (2), (3), or (4)(b) of this act, no later than twelve hours after such person is admitted to the certified facility the personnel of the certified facility or the designated responder shall serve on such person and if the person is a minor, the person's parent, a copy of the petition for initial detention and the name, business address, and phone number of the designated attorney and shall forthwith commence service of a copy of the petition for initial detention on the designated attorney.

(7) The judicial hearing described in subsection (5) of this section is hereby authorized, and shall be held according to the provisions of subsection (5) of this section and rules promulgated by the supreme court.

(8) At the probable cause hearing the detained person shall have the following rights in addition to the rights previously specified:

(a) To present evidence on his or her behalf;

(b) To cross-examine witnesses who testify against him or her;

(c) To be proceeded against by the rules of evidence;

(d) To remain silent;

(e) To view and copy all petitions and reports in the court file.

(9) The physician-patient privilege or the psychologist-client privilege shall be deemed waived in proceedings under this chapter relating to the administration of antipsychotic medications. As to other proceedings under this chapter, the privileges shall be waived when a court of competent jurisdiction in its discretion determines that such waiver is necessary to protect either the detained person or the public.

The waiver of a privilege under this section is limited to records or testimony relevant to evaluation of the detained person for purposes of a proceeding under this chapter. Upon motion by the detained person or on its own motion, the court shall examine a record or testimony sought by a petitioner to determine whether it is within the scope of the waiver.

The record maker shall not be required to testify in order to introduce medical or psychological records of the detained person so long as the requirements of RCW 5.45.020 are met except that portions of the record which contains opinions as to the detained person's mental state must be deleted from such records unless the person making such conclusions is available for cross-examination.

(10) Insofar as danger to the person or others is not created, each person involuntarily detained, treated in a less restrictive alternative course of treatment, or committed for treatment and evaluation pursuant to this chapter shall have, in addition to other rights not specifically withheld by law, the following rights:

(a) To wear his or her own clothes and to keep and use his or her own personal possessions, except when deprivation of same is essential to protect the safety of the resident or other persons;

(b) To keep and be allowed to spend a reasonable sum of his or her own money for canteen expenses and small purchases;

(c) To have access to individual storage space for his or her private use;

(d) To have visitors at reasonable times;

(e) To have reasonable access to a telephone, both to make and receive confidential calls, consistent with an effective treatment program;

(f) To have ready access to letter writing materials, including stamps, and to send and receive uncensored correspondence through the mails;

(g) To discuss treatment plans and decisions with professional persons;

(h) Not to consent to the administration of antipsychotic medications beyond the hearing conducted pursuant to section 331 of this act, or the performance of electroconvulsant therapy or surgery, except emergency life-saving surgery, unless ordered by a court under section 361 of this act;

(i) Not to have psychosurgery performed on him or her under any circumstances;

(j) To dispose of property and sign contracts unless such person has been adjudicated an incompetent in a court proceeding directed to that particular issue.

(11) Every person involuntarily detained shall immediately be informed, and if the person is a minor, his or her parent shall be informed, of his or her right to a hearing to review the legality of his or her detention and of his or her right to counsel, by the professional person in charge of the facility providing evaluation and treatment, or his or her designee, and, when appropriate, by the court. If the person so elects, the court shall immediately appoint an attorney to assist him or her.

(12) A person challenging his or her detention or his or her attorney shall have the right to designate and have the court appoint a reasonably available independent physician or licensed mental health professional to examine the person detained, the results of which examination may be used in the proceeding. The person shall, if he or she is financially able, bear the cost of such expert information, otherwise such expert examination shall be at public expense.

(13) Nothing contained in this chapter shall prohibit the patient from petitioning by writ of habeas corpus for release.

(14) Nothing in this chapter shall prohibit a person committed on or prior to January 1, 1974, from exercising a right available to him or her at or prior to January 1, 1974, for obtaining release from confinement.

(15) The court shall inform the person whose commitment or recommitment is sought and, if the person is a minor, his or her parent, of his or her right to contest the application, be represented by counsel at every stage of any proceedings relating to his or her commitment and recommitment, and have counsel appointed by the court or provided by the court, if he or she wants the assistance of counsel and is unable to obtain counsel. If the court believes that the person needs the assistance of counsel, the court shall require, by appointment if necessary, counsel for him or her regardless of his or her wishes. The person shall, if he or she is financially able, bear the costs of such legal service; otherwise such legal service shall be at public expense. The person whose commitment or recommitment is sought shall be informed of his or her right to be examined by a licensed physician of his or her choice. If the person is unable to obtain a licensed physician and requests examination by a physician, the court shall employ a licensed physician.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 360. (1) A person who is gravely disabled or presents a likelihood of serious harm as a result of a mental or chemical dependency disorder or co-occurring mental and chemical dependency disorders has a right to refuse antipsychotic medication unless it is determined that the failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment and there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication in the best interest of that person.

(2) The physician must attempt to obtain the informed consent of an involuntary committed person prior to administration of antipsychotic medication and document the attempt to obtain consent in the person's medical record with the reasons that antipsychotic medication is necessary. If the physician determines that the patient is not able to provide informed consent, the physician may obtain informed consent from a person who is named as an agent in the patient's mental health advance directive executed pursuant to chapter 71.32 RCW, provided that the agent otherwise has authority under the directive to consent to the proposed medication.

(3) When a person is detained pursuant to section 315 of this act, or detained for involuntary treatment not to exceed fourteen days pursuant to section 324 of this act, the person may refuse antipsychotic medications unless there is an additional concurring medical opinion following an examination of the person that the medications are necessary pursuant to subsection (1) of this section. Medications administered under this subsection may not continue beyond the hearing conducted pursuant to section 331 of this act and the petitioner shall notify the court of administration of involuntary medications under this subsection and provide the court with an opinion regarding whether continued involuntary administration of antipsychotic medication is medically necessary.

(4) If a person involuntarily committed pursuant to section 331(1) of this act for up to ninety days, or for less restrictive alternative treatment not to exceed ninety days pursuant to section 324 of this act, refuses antipsychotic medications, the medications may not be administered unless the person has first had a hearing by a panel composed of a physician and two other persons. The two persons shall be selected from among the following: A physician, advanced registered nurse practitioner, psychologist, psychiatric nurse, physician's assistant, and the medical director of the facility. Recognizing that some facilities will not have three staff members of the required expertise who are not directly involved in the person's treatment, the panel shall be composed to the greatest extent possible of treatment providers who are not directly involved in the person's treatment at the time of the hearing.

(5) If a majority of the panel, including a psychiatrist if one is on the panel or another physician in the absence of a psychiatrist, determines that there is clear, cogent, and convincing evidence demonstrating that treatment with antipsychotic medications is medically appropriate, that failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment, and that there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication in the best interest of that person, the person may be medicated, subject to the provisions of subsections (6) through (8) of this section.

(6) Medication ordered pursuant to a decision of the panel may only be continued beyond seven days on an involuntary basis if the panel conducts a second hearing on the written record and a majority of the panel determines that there continues to be clear, cogent, and convincing evidence demonstrating that treatment with antipsychotic medications continues to be medically appropriate, that failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment, and that there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication in the best interest of that person.

(a) Following the second hearing, involuntary medication with antipsychotic medication may be continued if the treating psychiatrist certifies, not less than every fourteen days, that the medication continues to be medically appropriate and failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment, and that there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication in the best interest of that person.

(b) No administrative order for involuntary medication may be continued beyond one hundred eighty days, or the next commitment proceeding in the superior court, whichever comes first.

(7) The committed person may appeal the panel's decision to the medical director within twenty-four hours excluding weekends and holidays and the medical director must decide the appeal within twenty-four hours of receipt.

(8) The committed person may seek judicial review of the medical director's decision at the next commitment proceeding or by means of an extraordinary writ.

(9) Minutes of the hearing shall be kept and a copy shall be provided to the committed person.

(10) With regard to the involuntary medication hearing, the committed person has the right:

(a) To notice at least twenty-four hours in advance of the hearing that includes the intent to convene the hearing, the tentative diagnosis and the factual basis for the diagnosis, and why the staff believes that medication is necessary;

(b) Not to be medicated between the delivery of the notice and the hearing;

(c) To attend the hearing;

(d) To present evidence, including witnesses, and to cross-examine witnesses, including staff;

(e) To the assistance of a lay assistant, who is not involved in the case and who understands psychiatric issues;

(f) To receive a copy of the minutes of the hearing; and

(g) To appeal the panel's decision to the medical director.

(11) Antipsychotic medications may be administered in an emergency without the consent of the person pursuant to section 361 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 361. (1) A court of competent jurisdiction may order that a person involuntarily detained, or committed for inpatient treatment and evaluation or to treatment in a less restrictive alternative pursuant to this chapter be administered antipsychotic medications or the performance of electroconvulsant therapy or surgery pursuant to the following standards and procedures:

(a) The administration of antipsychotic medication or electroconvulsant therapy shall not be ordered by the court unless the petitioning party proves by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that treatment with antipsychotic medications is medically appropriate, that failure to medicate may result in a likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolong the length of involuntary commitment, and that there is no less intrusive course of treatment than medication or electroconvulsive therapy in the best interest of the person.

(b) The court shall make specific findings of fact concerning: (i) The existence of the likelihood of serious harm or substantial deterioration or substantially prolonging the length of involuntary commitment; (ii) the necessity and effectiveness of the treatment; (iii) the person's desires regarding the proposed treatment; and (iv) the best interests of the person.

(c) If the person is unable to make a rational and informed decision about consenting to or refusing the proposed electroconvulsive therapy, the court shall make a substituted judgment for the patient as if he or she were competent to make such a determination.

(d) The person shall be present at any hearing on a request to administer antipsychotic medication or electroconvulsant therapy filed pursuant to this section. The person has the right:

(i) To be represented by an attorney;

(ii) To present evidence;

(iii) To cross-examine witnesses;

(iv) To have the rules of evidence enforced;

(v) To remain silent;

(vi) To view and copy all petitions and reports in the court file; and

(vii) To be given reasonable notice and an opportunity to prepare for the hearing.

(e) The court may appoint a psychiatrist, psychologist within their scope of practice, or physician to examine and testify on behalf of such person. The court shall appoint a psychiatrist, psychologist within their scope of practice, or physician designated by such person or the person's counsel to testify on behalf of the person in cases where an order for electroconvulsant therapy is sought.

(f) An order for the administration of antipsychotic medications entered following a hearing conducted pursuant to this section shall be effective for the period of the current involuntary treatment order, and any interim period during which the person is awaiting trial or hearing on a new petition for involuntary treatment or involuntary medication.

(2) Any person detained for a period of greater than ninety days pursuant to section 331 of this act, who subsequently refuses antipsychotic medication, shall be entitled to the procedures set forth in subsection (1) of this section.

(3) Antipsychotic medication may be administered to a nonconsenting person detained or committed pursuant to this chapter without a court order:

(a) Pursuant to section 360 of this act; or

(b) Under the following circumstances:

(i) A person presents an imminent likelihood of serious harm;

(ii) Medically acceptable alternatives to administration of antipsychotic medications are not available, have not been successful, or are not likely to be effective; and

(iii) In the opinion of the physician with responsibility for treatment of the person, or his or her designee, the person's condition constitutes an emergency requiring the treatment be instituted before a judicial hearing as authorized pursuant to this section can be held.

If antipsychotic medications are administered over a person's lack of consent pursuant to (b) of this subsection, a petition for an order authorizing the administration of antipsychotic medications shall be filed on the next judicial day. The hearing shall be held within two judicial days. If deemed necessary by the physician with responsibility for the treatment of the person, administration of antipsychotic medications may continue until the hearing is held.

(4) No court has the authority to order psychosurgery performed on any person involuntarily detained, treated in a less restrictive alternative course of treatment, or committed for treatment and evaluation pursuant to this chapter under any circumstances.

(5) A petition for involuntary medication may be joined with a petition for involuntary treatment.

Financial Responsibility

NEW SECTION. Sec. 362. (1)(a) In addition to the responsibility provided for by RCW 43.20B.330, any person, or his or her estate, or his or her spouse, or the parents of a minor person who is involuntarily detained pursuant to this chapter for the purpose of treatment and evaluation outside of a facility maintained and operated by the department shall be responsible for the cost of such care and treatment.

(b) In the event that a person is unable to pay for such treatment or in the event payment would result in a substantial hardship upon the person or his or her family, then the county of residence of such person shall be responsible for such costs. If it is not possible to determine the county of residence of the person, the cost shall be borne by the county where the person was originally detained.

(c) The department shall, pursuant to chapter 34.05 RCW, adopt standards as to:

(i) Inability to pay in whole or in part;

(ii) A definition of substantial hardship; and

(iii) Appropriate payment schedules. Such standards shall be applicable to all county mental health administrative boards.

(d) Financial responsibility with respect to department services and facilities shall continue to be as provided in RCW 43.20B.320 through 43.20B.360 and 43.20B.370.

(2) If the person has not paid or is unable to pay for treatment or payment would result in a substantial hardship on the person or his or her family, the program is entitled to any payment:

(a) Received by the person or to which he or she may be entitled because of the services rendered; and

(b) From any public or private source available to the program because of the treatment provided to the person.

(3) The department shall not refuse admission for diagnosis, evaluation, guidance, or treatment to any applicant because it is determined that the applicant is financially unable to contribute fully or in part to the cost of any services.

(4)(a) The department may limit admissions of such applicants or modify its programs in order to ensure that expenditures for services or programs do not exceed amounts appropriated by the legislature and are allocated by the department for such services or programs. The department may establish admission priorities in the event that the number of eligible applicants exceeds the limits set by the department.

(b) The department is authorized to allocate appropriated funds in the manner that it determines best meets the purposes of this chapter. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to entitle any person to services authorized in this chapter, or to require the department or its contractors to reallocate funds in order to ensure that services are available to any eligible person upon demand.

I recognize that unauthorized release of confidential information may subject me to civil liability under the provisions of state law.

(b) Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to prohibit the compilation and publication of statistical data for use by government or researchers under standards, including standards to assure maintenance of confidentiality, set forth by the secretary of the department of social and health services.

The records and files maintained in any court proceeding pursuant to this chapter shall be confidential and available subsequent to such proceedings only to the person who was the subject of the proceeding or his or her attorney. In addition, the court may order the subsequent release or use of such records or files only upon good cause shown if the court finds that appropriate safeguards for strict confidentiality are and will be maintained.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 364. Except as provided in section 345 of this act, when any disclosure of information or records is made as authorized by sections 363 through 368 of this act, or pursuant to RCW 71.05.390 or 70.96A.150, the physician in charge of the patient or the professional person in charge of the facility shall promptly cause to be entered into the patient's medical record the date and circumstances under which said disclosure was made, the names and relationships to the patient, if any, of the persons or agencies to whom such disclosure was made, and the information disclosed.

The information shall remain confidential.

(f) Within the treatment facility where the patient is receiving treatment, confidential information may be disclosed to persons employed, serving in bona fide training programs, or participating in supervised volunteer programs, at the facility when it is necessary to perform their duties.

(g) Within the department as necessary to coordinate treatment for mental illness, developmental disabilities, alcoholism, or drug abuse of persons who are under the supervision of the department.

(h) To a licensed physician who has determined that the life or health of the person is in danger and that treatment without the information contained in the treatment records could be injurious to the patient's health. Disclosure shall be limited to the portions of the records necessary to meet the medical emergency.

(i) To a facility that is to receive a person who is involuntarily committed under this chapter or upon transfer of the person from one treatment facility to another. The release of records under this subsection shall be limited to the treatment records required by law, a record or summary of all somatic treatments, and a discharge summary. The discharge summary may include a statement of the patient's problem, the treatment goals, the type of treatment which has been provided, and recommendation for future treatment, but may not include the patient's complete treatment record.

PART V RESOURCES

NEW SECTION. Sec. 501. Sections 502 through 525 of this act constitute a new chapter in Title 70 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 502. The legislature finds that there are persons with mental disorders, including organic or traumatic brain disorders, and combinations of mental disorders with other medical conditions or behavior histories that result in behavioral and security issues that make these persons ineligible for, or unsuccessful in, existing types of licensed facilities, including adult residential rehabilitation centers, boarding homes, adult family homes, group homes, and skilled nursing facilities. The legislature also finds that many of these persons have been treated on repeated occasions in inappropriate acute care facilities and released without an appropriate placement or have been treated or detained for extended periods in inappropriate settings including state hospitals and correctional facilities. The legislature further finds that some of these persons present complex safety and treatment issues that require security measures that cannot be instituted under most facility licenses or supported housing programs. These include the ability to detain persons under involuntary treatment orders or administer court ordered medications.

Consequently, the legislature intends to establish a new type of facility licensed by the department of social and health services as an enhanced services facility with standards that will provide a safe, secure treatment environment for a limited population of persons who are not appropriately served in other facilities or programs.

The court shall hold a hearing to consider the decision of the county designated mental health professional not later than the next judicial day. At the hearing the superior court shall review the determination of the county designated mental health professional and determine whether an order should be entered requiring the person to be evaluated at an evaluation and treatment facility. The superior court shall review the recommendation not later than forty-eight hours, excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, after the recommendation is presented. If the court rejects the recommendation to unconditionally release the individual, the court may order the individual detained at a designated evaluation and treatment facility for not more than a seventy-two hour evaluation and treatment period and direct the individual to appear at a surety hearing before that court within seventy-two hours, or the court may release the individual but direct the individual to appear at a surety hearing set before that court within eleven days, at which time the prosecutor may file a petition under this chapter for ninety-day inpatient or outpatient treatment. If a petition is filed by the prosecutor, the court may order that the person named in the petition be detained at the evaluation and treatment facility that performed the evaluation under this subsection or order the respondent to be in outpatient treatment. If a petition is filed but the individual fails to appear in court for the surety hearing, the court shall order that a mental health professional or peace officer shall take such person or cause such person to be taken into custody and placed in an evaluation and treatment facility to be brought before the court the next judicial day after detention. The court may continue the hearing upon the written request of the person named in the petition or the person's attorney, for good cause shown, which continuance shall not exceed five additional judicial days. If the person named in the petition requests a jury trial, the trial shall commence within ten judicial days of the date of the filing of the petition. The burden of proof shall be by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence and shall be upon the petitioner. The person shall be present at such proceeding, which shall in all respects accord with the constitutional guarantees of due process of law and the rules of evidence pursuant to RCW ((71.05.250)) 71.05.360 (8) and (9).

During the proceeding the person named in the petition shall continue to be detained and treated until released by order of the court. If no order has been made within thirty days after the filing of the petition, not including any extensions of time requested by the detained person or his or her attorney, the detained person shall be released.

(3) If a county designated mental health professional or the professional person and prosecuting attorney for the county in which the criminal charge was dismissed or attorney general, as appropriate, stipulate that the individual does not present a likelihood of serious harm or is not gravely disabled, the hearing under this section is not required and the individual, if in custody, shall be released.

(4) The individual shall have the rights specified in RCW ((71.05.250)) 71.05.360 (8) and (9).

(A) Outpatient services;

(B) Emergency care services for twenty-four hours per day;

The information system shall not include individual patient's case history files. Confidentiality of client information and records shall be maintained as provided in this chapter and in RCW 71.05.390, ~~((71.05.400, 71.05.410,))~~ 71.05.420, ~~((71.05.430,))~~ and 71.05.440. The design of the system and the data elements to be collected shall be reviewed by the work group appointed by the secretary under section 5(1) of this act and representing the department, regional support networks, service providers, consumers, and advocates. (7) Each certified regional support network and licensed service provider shall file with the secretary, on request, such data, statistics, schedules, and information as the secretary reasonably requires. A certified regional support network or licensed service provider which, without good cause, fails to furnish any data, statistics, schedules, or information as requested, or files fraudulent reports thereof, may have its certification or license revoked or suspended.

(8) The secretary may suspend, revoke, limit, or restrict a certification or license, or refuse to grant a certification or license for failure to conform to: (a) The law; (b) applicable rules and regulations; (c) applicable standards; or (d) state minimum standards.

(9) The superior court may restrain any regional support network or service provider from operating without certification or a license or any other violation of this section. The court may also review, pursuant to procedures contained in chapter 34.05 RCW, any denial, suspension, limitation, restriction, or revocation of certification or license, and grant other relief required to enforce the provisions of this chapter.

(10) Upon petition by the secretary, and after hearing held upon reasonable notice to the facility, the superior court may issue a warrant to an officer or employee of the secretary authorizing him or her to enter at reasonable times, and examine the records, books, and accounts of any regional support network or service provider refusing to consent to inspection or examination by the authority.

(11) Notwithstanding the existence or pursuit of any other remedy, the secretary may file an action for an injunction or other process against any person or governmental unit to restrain or prevent the establishment, conduct, or operation of a regional support network or service provider without certification or a license under this chapter.

(12) The standards for certification of evaluation and treatment facilities shall include standards relating to maintenance of good physical and mental health and other services to be afforded persons pursuant to this chapter and chapters 71.05 and 71.34 RCW, and shall otherwise assure the effectuation of the purposes of these chapters.

(13)(a) The department, in consultation with affected parties, shall establish a distribution formula that reflects county needs assessments based on the number of persons who are acutely mentally ill, chronically mentally ill, severely emotionally disturbed children, and seriously disturbed. The formula shall take into consideration the impact on counties of demographic factors in counties which result in concentrations of priority populations as set forth in subsection (5)(b) of this section. These factors shall include the population concentrations resulting from commitments under chapters 71.05 and 71.34 RCW to state psychiatric hospitals, as well as concentration in urban areas, at border crossings at state boundaries, and other significant demographic and workload factors.

(b) The formula shall also include a projection of the funding allocations that will result for each county, which specifies allocations according to priority populations, including the allocation for services to children and other underserved populations.

(c) After July 1, 2003, the department may allocate up to two percent of total funds to be distributed to the regional support networks for incentive payments to reward the achievement of superior outcomes, or significantly improved outcomes, as measured by a statewide performance measurement system consistent with the framework recommended in the joint legislative audit and review committee's performance audit of the mental health system. The department shall annually report to the legislature on its criteria and allocation of the incentives provided under this subsection.

(14) The secretary shall assume all duties assigned to the nonparticipating counties under chapters 71.05, 71.34, and 71.24 RCW. Such responsibilities shall include those which would have been assigned to the nonparticipating counties under regional support networks.

The regional support networks, or the secretary's assumption of all responsibilities under chapters 71.05, 71.34, and 71.24 RCW, shall be included in all state and federal plans affecting the state mental health program including at least those required by this chapter, the medicaid program, and P.L. 99-660. Nothing in these plans shall be inconsistent with the intent and requirements of this chapter.

(15) The secretary shall:

(a) Disburse funds for the regional support networks within sixty days of approval of the biennial contract. The department must either approve or reject the biennial contract within sixty days of receipt.

(b) Enter into biennial contracts with regional support networks. The contracts shall be consistent with available resources. No contract shall be approved that does not include progress toward meeting the goals of this chapter by taking responsibility for: (i) Short-term commitments; (ii) residential care; and (iii) emergency response systems.

(c) Allocate one hundred percent of available resources to the regional support networks in accordance with subsection (13) of this section. Incentive payments authorized under subsection (13) of this section may be allocated separately from other available resources.

(d) Notify regional support networks of their allocation of available resources at least sixty days prior to the start of a new biennial contract period.

(e) Deny funding allocations to regional support networks based solely upon formal findings of noncompliance with the terms of the regional support network's contract with the department. Written notice and at least thirty days for corrective action must precede any such action. In such cases, regional support networks shall have full rights to appeal under chapter 34.05 RCW.

(16) The department, in cooperation with the state congressional delegation, shall actively seek waivers of federal requirements and such modifications of federal regulations as are necessary to allow federal medicaid reimbursement for services provided by free-standing evaluation and treatment facilities certified under chapter 71.05 RCW. The department shall periodically report its efforts to the appropriate committees of the senate and the house of representatives.

ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 5962, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "In ruling upon the point of inquiry raised by Senator Schoesler that Senate Bill 5794 takes a two-thirds vote on final passage under statutes enacted by Initiative Number 601 because it increases revenue, the President finds and rules as follows:

The President begins by examining the language of I-601, codified at RCW 43.135.035, which states:

'[A]ny action or combination of actions by the legislature that raises state revenue... may be taken only if approved by a two-thirds vote of each house...'

There is no doubt that enactment of this measure could eventually result in additional revenue to the state. Application of I-601 is more, however, than a simple function of arithmetic. The question for our purposes is not simply whether or not additional money is expected by the state; rather, it is whether the legislature has taken actions which are raising new revenue or collecting revenue that is due.

The application of state cigarette taxes to tribes has been the subject of much debate and litigation. While a final disposition of this litigation is properly a matter for the courts, the President notes that this body is faced with a unique interplay between the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of government. At some level, litigation in the courts has established that state cigarette tax may be collected on non-tribal member purchases of tobacco products from tribal facilities or members. What has been lacking is a mechanism to collect this tax.

The bill before us provides a mechanism by which a settlement of this litigation may be implemented, allowing the Governor to negotiate with the Puyallup Tribe of Indians to collect a tax on tobacco products, some portion of which will then be sent by the Tribe to the state. The state will realize estimated income of about $17 million per biennium that it had previously not collected, but this is not a new tax. Instead, this is simply a mechanism by which the state will settle with the Tribe on a debt that is owed, as has been determined at least in part by the courts.

This is similar to the state employing additional tax agents at the Department of Revenue to look into back taxes owed: such an action could definitely result in increased revenue to the state, but it is a matter of enforcement and collection, not authorization of new revenues. Likewise, this bill essentially empowers the Governor to try and collect on a debt that is owed, it is not an action of the Legislature to raise state revenue. The 2002 ruling to which Senator Schoesler referred, by contrast, expanded a tax to a new class of taxpayers. The measure before us neither creates a new tax nor expands the class of taxpayers to which it applies. For these reasons, I-601's supermajority provisions are not triggered, and Senator Schoesler's point is not well-taken. Only a simple majority vote of this body is needed for final passage of this measure.

There being no objection, the Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 5794 which had been deferred on the previous day.

Senator Prentice spoke in favor of passage of the bill.

MOTION

Senator Kline moved that the following striking amendment by Senators Kline and Esser be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The people of Washington state adopted the cleanup priority act as Initiative 297 in November 2004. The legislature finds that the intent of Initiative 297 is clearly stated in the intent and policy sections of the cleanup priority act as passed by the voters. The cleanup priority act makes the cleanup of contamination the top priority at sites with hazardous or mixed waste contamination. The cleanup priority act should be interpreted by the courts consistent with the clear intent of the voters, and the findings and clarifications in this act.

The legislature further finds that nothing in the cleanup priority act is intended to, or has the effect of, preventing the movement of waste from one facility or unit within a site to another as part of an approved cleanup order, agreement, or plan, or pursuant to permits. Because the term facility is used in different ways in different statutes, rules, and regulations, the legislature finds that it is desirable to clarify that the cleanup priority act does not prevent the movement or transfer of waste within a site to accomplish cleanup of the site. The legislature finds that the cleanup priority act does not increase the universe of substances that are subject to regulation by the state as hazardous or mixed wastes. The legislature finds that the cleanup priority act does not regulate radioactive materials, medical isotopes, other radioactive substances, or facilities exclusively regulated by the United States pursuant to the federal atomic energy act 42 U.S.C. Sec. 2011 et seq.

The legislature further finds that this chapter is not intended, nor may it be interpreted, to adversely affect the transportation, manufacturing, storage, or use of any hazardous substance or radioactive materials necessary for medical research, medical treatment, or manufacturing or industrial processes.

The legislature further finds that the cleanup priority act does not regulate the materials or facilities used in the processing of radioactive substances, including those with nonradioactive components, to produce radioactive isotopes for beneficial use, such as calibrations, research, and medical use. In accordance with this finding, the cleanup priority act is not intended to, and shall not be interpreted to, regulate those radioactive or otherwise hazardous materials that may be imported to Washington state, or generated within the state, to be processed for the production of beneficial products, such as medical isotopes.

It is in the interest of the state to clarify as quickly as possible that the cleanup priority act does not impact any business operation, or federal or private facility, that was not intended to be impacted by the cleanup priority act. Consistent with the intent of the voters, the legislature finds that the universe of regulated hazardous or dangerous wastes was not expanded by the passage of the cleanup priority act. Because court action has prevented the normal role of the department of ecology from issuing defining or interpretive rules, the legislature finds that adoption of the amendments to the cleanup priority act will ensure that the intent of the cleanup priority act is understood and clarified for the courts as well as for businesses or cleanup operations without delay.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "The President can fondly remember when Senator Wojahn served here there was another Senator, Ray Moore. Senator, Ray Moore would often times refer to her as the Norse Goddess of somewhere I don't think I want to, well. 'Terror' is right. She was very aggressive but also very effective. It is a great privilege for me ask Senator Wojahn if she would like to address the Senate. Thank you."

REMARKS BY LORRAINE WOJAHN

Lorraine Wojahn: "I don't think that I have ever been more moved in my life and if I were ever moved to tears it would right now because I can finally can see the frustration of, a bill that I tried to get passed for thirty-two years in this state legislature. I never quite made it. It was always out there, there were people out there that couldn't read and once, a long time ago, I saw a paper that was written what a dyslexic child saw when they tried to read this paper. You couldn't make it out, everything was distorted. From that day on I attempted to do something about it but there never seemed to be enough money in the budget to take care of that. I remembered once I got sixty thousand dollars for another door to learning in Tacoma that was working with this program and I was over joyed and then they didn't know to access the money. I had to show them how to do that. I think that every child in the state of Washington who suffers from dyslexia thanks you as I thank you for your vote today and I thank you for the forty-eight voting yes and there were no no's even among the distaff side over here of the other aisle. Thank you all for voting yes on the dyslexic bill and thank you for inviting me to be with you today and good luck in your future deliberations. Thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Thibaudeau: "If I could add my words to the welcome back to Senator Wojahn whom I've worked with and learned from for a number of years. I have to say I have to admire the Lt. Governor for forbidding her to speak or vote. In the good old days, he would never have done that. Just a very quick anecdote. In caucus, our caucus some years ago, she couldn't be there but was announce in a certain position. Some brave sole questioned it and said, 'What, are you all afraid of her?' and everybody said 'Yes'. If you wonder why she was called 'the Norse Goddess of Terror' perhaps that will explain a little bit but it was also because she got so many bills through. Trauma, somebody is saying. I think the trauma wasn't her, the trauma was the trauma bill. There was so many to speak about that I couldn't go into them all. So welcome back and thank you so much for doing what you've done for this state."

Notwithstanding the 'shalls', quote and unquote, and 'must; quote and unquote language in the bill. Is your intent that this bill provide encouragement and direction to allow state agencies to promote efforts to increase access to and more opportunities for physical activities; such as walking, biking, running, hiking and all communities around the state? The second part of that question is: Furthermore, is it your intent that nothing in this bill should be construed as mandating changes and policy in planning with regard to land use or transportation plans but rather encourage more cooperation among agencies state and local governments in planning their communities."

Senator Franklin: "With sections six back in and Senator, this bill is intended to give clear direction and encouragement to state agencies and to counties, cities, and towns in their land use and transportation planning efforts to consider supporting healthy environments and make it easier for all Washington residents to be physically active."

"Furthermore, this bill is not intended to mandate changes by state agencies or local government to their land use elements or transportation elements in any plans, but encourage thereby benefitting those who engage themselves in active living and supporting healthy communities and with section six being back in that will take care of all of this in the colloquy."

Senator Johnson: "Well, section six is out by amendment, so am I to conclude then, that your answer does not apply to the bill as amended."

Senator Franklin: "The colloquy that we just have had, it was written prior to section six being taken out. So therefore it covered the entire bill so that is why I said what I said."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Mulliken: "Well, I'm just going to let some of you know that with Senator Benson, I worked with Senator Benson in that other place we don't talk about over here and I can tell you he's always been pretty good at a baptism by fire and I think he just did that. Anyway, some other things about Senator Benson that I think are really important for all of us to be aware of is that he's quite an athlete and a sports fan. It is little known that it's been known that he played a little bit of basketball and rumor has it he likes to hang out at the Davenport Hotel in downtown Spokane and sign autographs as John Stockton. Ok, well you might not know that Senator Benson was also on the swim team in high school and he thought about trying out for the Olympics, but Senator please keep the old speedos swim suite at home. We'll just take your word for it, that you're a good swimmer. But he is still active in the local sports community in Spokane so to practice keeping calm and collected when dealing with lobbyists on either side of any issue he serves as a court marshal for Spokane's hoopfest tournament and that work keeps him in mid-session, mediating shape. But a little known fact about Senator Benson is that he is also known as the killer bee, you know, Benson 'B', I don't think he's heard that one today, until today. One of the fun things about Brad and Jill is that they owned an ice cream parlor before, well even his early years in the legislature and so the next time that he wants to put an amendment on your bill, tell him you'd like to have two scoops. Maybe that's what we should have just had. Anyway, one of the other background items about Senator Benson is he is a banker. He's a great background banker, we all respect his knowledge in banking. Rumor has is that he also works payday lenders in the interim. So if you a little advance on your per diem check you might stop by his desk. Well, as one of Senator Benson's guest we understand he's going to use his fantastic connection at the Spokesman review to arrange for a great personal profile on every member in the Senate. Thank you. Senator Benson is a former surfer dude from Southern California, so Senator McCaslin he thinks one of your bills is 'narley' don't be alarmed and Senator Roach if he yells 'cowabunga' when you walk by don't think he's trying to impose a critical area or ordinance on you. Senator Benson is a member of the National Guard, we hear he sits in the back of the B-52's but we don't have any idea what he does. Some of us think he chose the rear because all the guys in the front are made to jump out first. That wasn't real funny. Ok, we are very pleased that Senator Benson began his run for the Senate and that he signed on to Senator Esser's patented and Dr. Atkins approved extreme house member make-over plan. Although you are looking a little more normal these days than last summer. But I would like to welcome Senator Benson to the House, or Senate and he's doing a great job. I'm very excited that he's joined us over here. He's a wonderful member for our caucus and for the Washington State Senate. Welcome."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Esser: "I want to thank Senator Mulliken for bringing to our attention that the Senator from the 6th District just spoke. I hadn't heard much from that section of the floor and after two months into the session its nice to know that you'll be doing a little bit of work with us before Sine Die, Senator. I do believe he's a wonderful and welcome addition to the Senate. He's a real sentimentalist, a real romantic and I think of an incident last week, I can't help but get a little bit misty eyed. Mr. President, if I may avail myself of a tissue. Thank you. I'm reminded of last week on the night of his 21st anniversary, the Senator brought his lovely and wonderful wife as a present to join us on poker night and I just think that was a wonderful gesture on his part. I am concerned however, one of the items you'll notice in your package, little piece of paper that says 'I owe you. Compliments of Senator Brad Benson'. Now this was suppose from Spokane, I've been looking forward to receiving Spokandy all session long. This to me, Mr. President, this looks like securization. I think that my candy has been securitized and while that might be acceptable on the other side of the aisle, that I consider to be totally unacceptable and I hope that is not the case. All joking aside it's great to have my old friend from the House joining us. He is a great American, he's provided great service to our country in the Air National Guard. He does serve, as Senator Mulliken mentioned, on B-52's which I think is a terrifying prospect for the enemies of the United States, but not quite of frightful a prospect as those who have heard him sing "Love Shack" by the B-52's on Karaoke night on Thursday's. So, none the less welcome, Senator. It's great to have you here."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Benson: "Well, in my own defense, first of all I have to say that while it is true that on our 21st anniversary I did take my wife to play Texas holdum with some other Senators. I also took her to Karaoke afterwards, so it wasn't just poker. So, anyway but I do want to say I've got a little gift for you that's on your desk. I'm sorry it's not more, I do apologize for the IOU. I have to say that sometimes I really look to the leadership to the Democratic caucus because if it wasn't for Senator Kastama telling me that I was suppose to have a gift the first time I spoke I probably would of spoken three weeks ago. So I called back to my friend Spokandy and we're having, there a little bigger than that, but there basically a molded chocolate bar. So I ordered them and I've been calling them like every few days, 'Is it ready yet? Is it ready yet? So as soon as it's ready, I'll be bring it to you so at least you can look at this, probably don't taste it, it won't taste that good. Hopefully something soon will taste good. Now, I have to say a couple of things about Spokane. First of all, I have to say that I am not a native Spokanite. My former Senator, Jim West, used to make comments to me and some of you will appreciate this. He used to say to me, 'You know, Brad, you've come a long way for someone whose not from Spokane.' I used to say 'You'd go a lot farther, if you'd follow my lead.' Those of you who know former-Senator, Jim West, now Mayor West, can understand just how much he appreciated a comment like that. Anyway, having not been from Spokane but moved there. I'm reminded of a time when I was a little kid back in Kansas visiting relatives and we were at a family, visiting them, and I asked them 'How am I related to you?' They said 'You're not related, we're better than relatives, we're friends.' So, I'm kind of like, I'm better than a native, I'm someone who chose to come to Spokane. Now, another little tid bit, I don't know how many people in here know this. Spokane is a native American word and it means, it's the name of the tribe, the Spokane Tribe, it means 'children of the sun' and just for people who didn't know that, Spokane is exactly opposite of Seattle. We have a two hundred sixty five days of sun and one hundred days of inclement weather and Seattle has one hundred days of sun and two hundred sixty five in inclement weather so when you got some tourist dollars to spend and you need a sunny place to get away to, Spokane is the place. Couple of other things, I've got to talk about the basketball. In Spokane, basketball is a huge, huge sport and it's true that I played a little bit of basketball when I was younger. It's also true that I stink, so but I have friends that are good basketball players. In fact a lot of my friends went and played college basketball and weren't at all surprised that I never got any offers. Anyway, basketball stands for a few things and first of all we got to talk about the best basketball team in Washington, bar none, even though there's a couple other ok teams. Gonzaga University, who I expect will very shortly be named number three in one of the regionals and will do a whole lot better. So that's a big part of our basketball. We've also got to talk about the High School B tournament. For people here who are from a small town, the B tournament is the crown jewel of Spokane. It's an opportunity for us to host people from small communities all over the state and if you ever get a chance, whether your from a big city or a little town, to come over to Spokane and experience the B tournament. It is just a great, great thing. Many times I'll go up to Tacoma and watch the A play-offs and that's a lot of fun and it's great basketball. The B tournament is like the whole town shows up and it is event for people to come to the B tournament. So, if you ever just want to experience that small town America in kind of all one big thing, the B tournament is a great place to be there. Also it was mentioned earlier that I'm a hoop fest. I have a great job with hoop fest. I used to be the coordinator of all of the courts. Like five hundred different courts and it was a really hard job and I pulled my hair out every weekend and one time they asked me if I wanted to be the qualifications marshall. What do you think the qualifications marshall is? Well, it's a really nice way of saying, I'm the guy who goes and kicks people out of the tournament. So, and I got to tell you its not as bad as it would sound. Most of the time by the time that I get there people know they're out of the tournament. So they're not surprised to see me. I also brought you a pen that says, 'Spokane, Near nature, Near perfect.' I think that's what it says. Yeah, it does say that and I have to give you an example of how that's true. I live inside the city limits in Spokane, in northwest part of town. Less than five minutes from my home, by car, it's about a fifteen minute bike ride there's the little Spokane river with a trail that goes down it. The trail has painted hundreds of year old Indian paintings on the rocks and as you go down that trail, I have seen a moose, I've seen turkey, I've seen great blue heron's, I've seen bald eagles and I've seen foxes and it is a tremendous, tremendous place. One last thing, also I'm in the Guard, this thing says support our troops, I hope you wear or put it on your car for the next couple of months. Thank you very much."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McCaslin: "I move that the body adopt the three minute rule on responses to first speeches."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Brandland: "I have been dreading this day. Since the first day that I joined Brad in Financial Institutions because, regardless of the bill, Brad is always talking and always asking questions and folks, the dam has broken. This is the beginning of a very dreadful experience. So please brace yourselves for the rest of this session"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Honeyford: "I move that we assess tribute from all speakers before they speak before the Senate."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. (1) The legislature finds that public buildings can be built and renovated using high-performance methods that save money, improve school performance, and make workers more productive. High-performance public buildings are proven to increase student test scores, reduce worker absenteeism, and cut energy and utility costs.

(2) It is the intent of the legislature that state-owned buildings and schools be improved by adopting recognized standards for high-performance public buildings and allowing flexible methods and choices in how to achieve those standards. The legislature also intends that public agencies and public school districts shall document costs and savings to monitor this program and ensure that economic, community, and environmental goals are achieved each year, and that an independent performance review be conducted to evaluate this program and determine the extent to which the results intended by this chapter are being met.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Department" means the department of general administration.

(2) "High-performance public buildings" means high-performance public buildings designed, constructed, and certified to a standard as identified in this chapter.

When the LEED silver standard is determined to be not practicable for a project, then it must be determined if any LEED standard is practicable for the project. If LEED standards or the Washington sustainable school design protocol are not followed for the project, the public school district or public agency shall report these reasons to the department.

(6) "Public agency" means every state office, officer, board, commission, committee, bureau, department, and public higher education institution.

Reviews conducted under (ii) of this subsection shall be performed in as many selected counties as time and staffing permit. Reviews conducted as a result of mandatory recounts shall be performed between the time the unofficial returns are complete and the time the recount is to take place, if possible.

(b) In addition to conducting reviews under (a) of this subsection, the election review staff shall also conduct such a review in a county (~~periodically~~) at least once in each three-year period, in conjunction with a county primary or special or general election, at the direction of the secretary of state or at the request of the county auditor. If staffing or budget levels do not permit a three-year election cycle for reviews, then reviews must be done as often as possible. If any resident of this state believes that an aspect of a primary or election has been conducted inappropriately in a county, the resident may file a complaint with the secretary of state. The secretary shall consider such complaints in scheduling periodic reviews under this section.

(c) Before an election review is conducted in a county, the secretary of state shall provide the county auditor of the affected county and the chair of the state central committee of each major political party with notice that the review is to be conducted. When a periodic review is to be conducted in a county at the direction of the secretary of state under (b) of this subsection, the secretary shall provide the affected county auditor not less than thirty days' notice.

(2) Reviews shall be conducted in conformance with rules adopted under RCW 29A.04.630. In performing a review in a county under this chapter, the election review staff shall evaluate the policies and procedures established for conducting the primary or election in the county and the practices of those conducting it. As part of the review, the election review staff shall issue to the county auditor and the members of the county canvassing board a report of its findings and recommendations regarding such policies, procedures, and practices. A review conducted under this chapter shall not include any evaluation, finding, or recommendation regarding the validity of the outcome of a primary or election or the validity of any canvass of returns nor does the election review staff have any jurisdiction to make such an evaluation, finding, or recommendation under this title.

(3) The county auditor or the county canvassing board shall respond to the review report in writing, listing the steps that will be taken to correct any problems listed in the report. The secretary of state shall visit the county before the next state primary or general election to verify that the county has taken the steps they listed to correct the problems noted in the report.

(4) The county auditor of the county in which a review is conducted under this section or a member of the canvassing board of the county may appeal the findings or recommendations of the election review staff regarding the review by filing an appeal with the board created under RCW 29A.04.510.

Sec. 4. RCW 29A.04.611 and 2004 c 271 s 151 are each amended to read as follows:

Sec. 5. RCW 29A.40.091 and 2004 c 271 s 135 are each amended to read as follows:

The county auditor shall send each absentee voter a ballot, a security envelope in which to seal the ballot after voting, a larger envelope in which to return the security envelope, and instructions on how to mark the ballot and how to return it to the county auditor. The instructions must clearly inform the voter that it is illegal to vote if he or she is not a United States citizen; it is illegal to vote if he or she has been convicted of a felony and has not had his or her voting rights restored; and, except as otherwise provided by law, it is illegal to cast a ballot or sign an absentee envelope on behalf of another voter. The instructions that accompany an absentee ballot for a partisan primary must include instructions for voting the applicable ballot style, as provided in chapter 29A.36 RCW. The larger return envelope must contain a declaration by the absentee voter reciting his or her qualifications and stating that he or she has not voted in any other jurisdiction at this election, together with a summary of the penalties for any violation of any of the provisions of this chapter. The return envelope must provide space for the voter to indicate the date on which the ballot was voted and for the voter to sign the oath. A summary of the applicable penalty provisions of this chapter must be printed on the return envelope immediately adjacent to the space for the voter's signature. The signature of the voter on the return envelope must affirm and attest to the statements regarding the qualifications of that voter and to the validity of the ballot. For out-of-state voters, overseas voters, and service voters, the signed declaration on the return envelope constitutes the equivalent of a voter registration for the election or primary for which the ballot has been issued. The voter must be instructed to either return the ballot to the county auditor by whom it was issued or attach sufficient first class postage, if applicable, and mail the ballot to the appropriate county auditor no later than the day of the election or primary for which the ballot was issued.

If the county auditor chooses to forward absentee ballots, he or she must include with the ballot a clear explanation of the qualifications necessary to vote in that election and must also advise a voter with questions about his or her eligibility to contact the county auditor. This explanation may be provided on the ballot envelope, on an enclosed insert, or printed directly on the ballot itself. If the information is not included, the envelope must clearly indicate that the ballot is not to be forwarded and that return postage is guaranteed.

Sec. 6. RCW 29A.40.110 and 2003 c 111 s 1011 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The opening and subsequent processing of return envelopes for any primary or election may begin ~~((on or after the tenth day before the primary or election))~~ upon receipt. The tabulation of absentee ballots must not commence until after 8:00 p.m. on the day of the primary or election.

(2) All received absentee return envelopes must be placed in secure locations from the time of delivery to the county auditor until their subsequent opening. After opening the return envelopes, the county canvassing board shall place all of the ballots in secure storage until after 8:00 p.m. of the day of the primary or election. Absentee ballots that are to be tabulated on an electronic vote tallying system may be taken from the inner envelopes and all the normal procedural steps may be performed to prepare these ballots for tabulation.

(3) Before opening a returned absentee ballot, the canvassing board, or its designated representatives, shall examine the postmark, statement, and signature on the return envelope that contains the security envelope and absentee ballot. They shall verify that the voter's signature on the return envelope is the same as the signature of that voter in the registration files of the county. For registered voters casting absentee ballots, the date on the return envelope to which the voter has attested determines the validity, as to the time of voting for that absentee ballot if the postmark is missing or is illegible. For out-of-state voters, overseas voters, and service voters, the date on the return envelope to which the voter has attested determines the validity as to the time of voting for that absentee ballot. For any absentee ballot, a variation between the signature of the voter on the return envelope and the signature of that voter in the registration files due to the substitution of initials or the use of common nicknames is permitted so long as the surname and handwriting are clearly the same.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. A new section is added to chapter 29A.40 RCW to read as follows:

If the canvassing board, or its designated representatives, determines that the signature on the absentee or provisional ballot return envelope does not match the signature as it appears on the voter's original registration record, the county auditor shall notify the voter no later than three days after discovery of the mismatched signature by telephone or in writing, that the ballot cannot be processed because the signature on the return envelope does not match the signature as it appears on the voter's registration card. The county auditor shall also send the voter a new voter registration form and advise the voter that, in order for the ballot to be processed, the voter must update his or her signature by either filling out a new registration form and mailing it back to the auditor's office so that it arrives not later than the day before the certification of the primary or election; or appearing in person at the auditor's office not later than the day before certification of the primary or election and filling out a new registration form.

If the voter neglects to sign the affidavit on the absentee or provisional return envelope, the auditor shall notify the voter, no later than three days after discovery of the unsigned envelope either by telephone or in writing, that the ballot will not be processed unless the voter appears in person and signs the affidavit on the return envelope not later than the day before certification of the primary or election. As an alternative to personal appearance, the auditor may provide the voter with a copy of the return envelope affidavit and require the voter to sign the copy of the affidavit and mail it back to the auditor so that it arrives no later than the day before certification of the primary or election.

A voter may not cure a missing or mismatched signature for purposes of counting the ballot in a recount.

A record must be kept of all ballots with mismatched signatures, and must include the date on which the voter was contacted or the notice was mailed, as well as the date on which the voter signed the envelope, a copy of the envelope, or a new registration form. These records are public records under chapter 42.17 RCW once the election has been certified by the county canvassing board under RCW 29A.60.190.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. A new section is added to chapter 29A.44 RCW to read as follows:

Provisional ballots must be issued, along with a provisional ballot outer envelope and a security envelope, to voters as appropriate under RCW 29A.04.008. The provisional ballot outer envelope must include a place for the voter's name; registered address, both present and former if applicable; date of birth; reason for the provisional ballot; the precinct number and the precinct polling location at which the voter has voted; and a space for the county auditor to list the disposition of the provisional ballot. The provisional ballot outer envelope must also contain a declaration as required for absentee ballot outer envelopes under RCW 29A.40.091; a place for the voter to sign the oath; and a summary of the applicable penalty provisions of this chapter. The voter shall vote the provisional ballot in secrecy and, when done, place the provisional ballot in the security envelope, then place the security envelope into the outer envelope, and return it to the precinct election official. The election official shall ensure that the required information is completed on the outer envelope, have the voter sign it in the appropriate space, and place the envelope in a secure container. The official shall then give the voter written information advising the voter how to ascertain whether the vote was counted and, if applicable, the reason why the vote was not counted.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. A new section is added to chapter 29A.44 RCW to read as follows:

Any person desiring to vote at the polls at any primary or election is required to provide identification to the election officer before signing the poll book. The identification required in this section can be satisfied by providing a voter's registration card, or any current and valid government-issued photo identification, including but not limited to a driver's license, state identification card, passport, tribal identification card, or military identification card. Any individual who desires to vote in person but cannot provide identification as required in this section shall be issued a provisional ballot.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. A new section is added to chapter 29A.60 RCW to read as follows:

Before certification of the primary or election, the county auditor must examine and investigate all received provisional ballots to determine whether the ballot can be counted. The auditor shall provide the disposition of the provisional ballot and, if the ballot was not counted, the reason why it was not counted, on a free access system such as a toll-free telephone number, web site, mail, or other means. A provisional ballot cannot be further investigated if the voter did not sign the provisional ballot envelope or if the signature on the envelope does not match the signature as it appears on the voter's registration card until the voter signs or updates his or her signature affidavit. The auditor must notify the voter in accordance with section 7 of this act when the envelope is unsigned or when the signatures do not match.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. A new section is added to chapter 29A.60 RCW to read as follows:

If inspection of the ballot reveals a physically damaged ballot or ballot that may be otherwise unreadable or uncountable by the tabulating system, the county auditor may refer the ballot to the county canvassing board or duplicate the ballot if so authorized by the county canvassing board. A ballot may be duplicated only if the intent of the voter's marks on the ballot is clear and the electronic voting equipment might not otherwise properly tally the ballot to reflect the intent of the voter. Ballots must be duplicated by teams of two or more people working together. When duplicating ballots, the county auditor shall take the following steps to create and maintain an audit trail of the action taken:

- (1) Each original ballot and duplicate ballot must be assigned the same unique control number, with the number being marked upon the face of each ballot, to ensure that each duplicate ballot may be tied back to the original ballot;
- (2) A log must be kept of the ballots duplicated, which must at least include:
 - (a) The control number of each original ballot and the corresponding duplicate ballot;
 - (b) The initials of at least two people who participated in the duplication of each ballot; and
 - (c) The total number of ballots duplicated.

Original and duplicate ballots must be sealed in secure storage at all times, except during duplication, inspection by the canvassing board, or tabulation.

Sec. 12. RCW 29A.60.021 and 2004 c 271 s 147 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) For any office at any election or primary, any voter may write in on the ballot the name of any person for an office who has filed as a write-in candidate for the office in the manner provided by RCW 29A.24.311 and such vote shall be counted the same as if the name had been printed on the ballot and marked by the voter. ~~((For a partisan primary in a jurisdiction using the physically separate ballot format, a voter may write in on a party ballot only the names of write-in candidates who affiliate with that major political party.))~~ No write-in vote made for any person who has not filed a declaration of candidacy pursuant to RCW 29A.24.311 is valid if that person filed for the same office, either as a regular candidate or a write-in candidate, at the preceding primary. Any abbreviation used to designate office(s) or position(s) ~~(or political party shall))~~ will be accepted if the canvassing board can determine, to ~~(their)~~ its satisfaction, the voter's intent.

(2) The number of write-in votes cast for each office must be recorded and reported with the canvass for the election.

(3) A write-in vote for an individual candidate for an office whose name appears on the ballot for that same office is a valid vote for that candidate as long as the candidate's name is clearly discernible, even if other requirements of RCW 29A.24.311 are not satisfied and even if the voter also marked a vote for that candidate such as to register an over vote. These votes need not be tabulated unless: (a) The difference between the number of votes cast for the candidate apparently qualified to appear on the general election ballot or elected and the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes is less than the sum of the total number of write-in votes cast for the office plus the over votes and under votes recorded by the vote tabulating system; or (b) a manual recount is conducted for that office.

(4) Write-in votes cast for an individual candidate for an office whose name does not appear on the ballot need not be tallied ~~((if))~~ unless the total number of write-in votes and under votes recorded by the vote tabulation system for the office is ~~((not))~~ greater than the number of votes cast for the candidate apparently ~~((nominated))~~ qualified to appear on the general election ballot or elected ~~((and the write-in votes could not have altered the outcome of the primary or election. In the case of write-in votes for statewide office or for any office whose jurisdiction encompasses more than one county, write-in votes for an individual candidate must be tallied whenever the county auditor is notified by either the office of the secretary of state or another auditor in a multicounty jurisdiction that it appears that the write-in votes could alter the outcome of the primary or election)).~~

~~((4))~~ (5) In the case of write-in votes for a statewide office(s) or any office whose jurisdiction(s that) encompasses more than one county, ~~((if the total number of write-in votes and under votes recorded by the vote tabulation system for an office within a county is greater than the number of votes cast for a candidate apparently nominated or elected in a primary or election, the auditor shall tally all write-in votes for individual candidates for that office and notify the office of the secretary of state and the auditors of the other counties within the jurisdiction, that the write-in votes for individual candidates should be tallied))~~ write-in votes for an individual candidate must be tallied when the county auditor is notified by either the secretary of state or another county auditor in the multicounty jurisdiction that it appears that the write-in votes must be tabulated under the terms of this section. In all other cases, the county auditor determines when write-in votes must be tabulated. Any abstract of votes must be modified to reflect the tabulation and certified by the canvassing board. Tabulation of write-in votes may be performed simultaneously with a recount.

Sec. 13. RCW 29A.60.050 and 2003 c 111 s 1505 are each amended to read as follows:

Whenever the precinct election officers or the counting center personnel have a question about the validity of a ballot or the votes for an office or issue that they are unable to resolve, they shall prepare and sign a concise record of the facts in question or dispute. These ballots shall be delivered to the canvassing board for processing. A ballot is not considered rejected until the canvassing board has rejected the ballot individually, or the ballot was included in a batch or on a report of ballots that was rejected in its entirety by the canvassing board. All ballots shall be preserved in the same manner as valid ballots for that primary or election.

Sec. 14. RCW 29A.60.070 and 2003 c 111 s 1507 are each amended to read as follows:

The county auditor shall produce cumulative and precinct returns for each primary and election and deliver them to the canvassing board for verification and certification. The precinct and cumulative returns of any primary or election are public records under chapter 42.17 RCW.

Cumulative returns for state offices, judicial offices, the United States senate, and congress must be electronically transmitted to the secretary of state immediately.

Sec. 15. RCW 29A.60.180 and 2003 c 111 s 1518 are each amended to read as follows:

Each registered voter casting an absentee ballot will be credited with voting on his or her voter registration record only if the ballot was counted. Absentee ballots must be retained for the same length of time and in the same manner as ballots cast at the precinct polling places.

Sec. 16. RCW 29A.60.190 and 2004 c 266 s 18 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) On the tenth day after a special election or primary and on the ~~((fifteenth))~~ twentieth day after a general election, the county canvassing board shall complete the canvass and certify the results. The secretary of state may adopt rules to provide that Thanksgiving day, and the day after Thanksgiving day, are not counted in establishing the twenty-day certification deadline. Each absentee ballot that was returned before the closing of the polls on the date of the primary or election for which it was issued, and each absentee ballot with a postmark on or before the date of the primary or election for which it was issued and received on or before the date on which the primary or election is certified, must be included in the canvass report.

(2) At the request of a caucus of the state legislature, the county auditor shall transmit copies of all unofficial returns of state and legislative primaries or elections prepared by or for the county canvassing board to either the secretary of the senate or the chief clerk of the house of representatives.

Sec. 17. RCW 29A.60.210 and 2003 c 111 s 1521 are each amended to read as follows:

Whenever the canvassing board finds during the initial counting process, or during any subsequent recount thereof, that there is an apparent discrepancy or an inconsistency in the returns of a primary or election, or that election staff has made an error regarding the treatment or disposition of a ballot, the board may recanvass the ballots or voting devices in any precincts of the county. The canvassing board shall conduct any necessary recanvass activity on or before the last day to certify or recertify the results of the primary ((or)) election, or subsequent recount and correct any error and document the correction of any error that it finds.

Sec. 18. RCW 29A.60.250 and 2003 c 111 s 1525 are each amended to read as follows:

As soon as the returns have been received from all the counties of the state, but not later than the thirtieth day after the election, the secretary of state shall ~~((make a))~~ canvass ~~((of such of the returns as are not required to be canvassed by the legislature and make out a statement thereof, file it in his or her office, and transmit a certified copy to the governor))~~ and certify the returns of the general election as to candidates for state offices, the United States senate, congress, and all other candidates whose districts extend beyond the limits of a single county. The secretary of state shall transmit a copy of the certification to the governor, president of the senate, and speaker of the house of representatives.

Sec. 19. RCW 29A.64.021 and 2004 c 271 s 178 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) If the official canvass of all of the returns for any office at any primary or election reveals that the difference in the number of votes cast for a candidate apparently nominated or elected to any office and the number of votes cast for the closest apparently defeated opponent is less than two thousand votes and also less than one-half of one percent of the total number of votes cast for both candidates, the county canvassing board shall conduct a recount of all votes cast on that position.

(a) Whenever such a difference occurs in the number of votes cast for candidates for a position the declaration of candidacy for which was filed with the secretary of state, the secretary of state shall, within three business days of the day that the returns of the primary or election are first certified by the canvassing boards of those counties, direct those boards to recount all votes cast on the position.

(b)(i) For statewide elections, if the difference in the number of votes cast for the apparent winner and the closest apparently defeated opponent is less than one (~~hundred fifty~~) thousand votes and also less than one-fourth of one percent of the total number of votes cast for both candidates, the votes shall be recounted manually or as provided in subsection (3) of this section.

(ii) For elections not included in (b)(i) of this subsection, if the difference in the number of votes cast for the apparent winner and the closest apparently defeated opponent is less than one hundred fifty votes and also less than one-fourth of one percent of the total number of votes cast for both candidates, the votes shall be recounted manually or as provided in subsection (3) of this section.

(2) A mandatory recount shall be conducted in the manner provided by RCW 29A.64.030, 29A.64.041, and 29A.64.061. No cost of a mandatory recount may be charged to any candidate.

(3) The apparent winner and closest apparently defeated opponent for an office for which a manual recount is required under subsection (1)(b) of this section may select an alternative method of conducting the recount. To select such an alternative, the two candidates shall agree to the alternative in a signed, written statement filed with the election official for the office. The recount shall be conducted using the alternative method if: It is suited to the balloting system that was used for casting the votes for the office; it involves the use of a vote tallying system that is approved for use in this state by the secretary of state; and the vote tallying system is readily available in each county required to conduct the recount. If more than one balloting system was used in casting votes for the office, an alternative to a manual recount may be selected for each system.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. A new section is added to chapter 29A.60 RCW to read as follows:

No later than thirty days after final certification, the county auditor shall prepare and make publicly available at the auditor's office or on the auditor's web site, an election reconciliation report that discloses, at a minimum, the following information: The number of ballots counted; the number of voters credited with voting; the number of provisional ballots issued; the number of provisional ballots counted; the number of provisional ballots rejected; the number of absentee ballots issued; the number of absentee ballots counted; the number of absentee ballots rejected; the number of federal write-in ballots counted; the number of ballots sent to overseas voters and the number of such ballots that were counted; and any other information the auditor determines to be necessary to the process of reconciling the number of votes counted with the number of voters credited with voting.

Sec. 21. RCW 29A.64.030 and 2003 c 111 s 1603 are each amended to read as follows:

An application for a recount shall state the office for which a recount is requested and whether the request is for all or only a portion of the votes cast in that jurisdiction of that office. The person filing an application for a manual recount shall, at the same time, deposit with the county canvassing board or secretary of state, in cash or by certified check, a sum equal to twenty-five cents for each ballot cast in the jurisdiction or portion of the jurisdiction for which the recount is requested as security for the payment of any costs of conducting the recount. If the application is for a machine recount, the deposit must be equal to fifteen cents for each ballot. These charges shall be determined by the county canvassing board or boards under RCW (~~29A.64.080~~) 29A.64.081.

The county canvassing board shall determine ((a)) the date, time, and ((a)) place or places at which the recount will be conducted. (~~This time shall be less than three business days after the day upon which the application was filed with the board; the request for a recount or directive ordering a recount was received by the board from the secretary of state; or the returns are certified which indicate that a recount is required under RCW 29A.64.020 for an issue or office voted upon only within the county.~~) Not less than two days before the date of the recount, the county auditor shall mail a notice of the time and place of the recount to the applicant or affected parties and, if the recount involves an office, to any person for whom votes were cast for that office. The county auditor shall also notify the affected parties by either telephone, fax, e-mail, or other electronic means at the time of mailing. At least three attempts must be made over a two-day period to notify the affected parties or until the affected parties have received the notification. Each attempt to notify affected parties must request a return response indicating that the notice has been received. Each person entitled to receive notice of the recount may attend, witness the recount, and be accompanied by counsel.

Proceedings of the canvassing board are public under chapter 42.30 RCW. Subject to reasonable and equitable guidelines adopted by the canvassing board, all interested persons may attend and witness a recount.

Sec. 22. RCW 29A.64.061 and 2004 c 271 s 180 are each amended to read as follows:

Upon completion of the canvass of a recount, the canvassing board shall prepare and certify an amended abstract showing the votes cast in each precinct for which the recount was conducted. Copies of the amended abstracts must be transmitted to the same officers who received the abstract on which the recount was based.

If the nomination, election, or issue for which the recount was conducted was submitted only to the voters of a county, the canvassing board shall file the amended abstract with the original results of that election or primary.

If the nomination, election, or issue for which a recount was conducted was submitted to the voters of more than one county, the secretary of state shall canvass the amended abstracts and shall file an amended abstract with the original results of that election. The secretary of state may require that the amended abstracts be certified by each canvassing board on a uniform

An affidavit of an elector under subsections (1) and (3) (~~(above)~~) of this section when relating to a primary election must be filed with the appropriate court no later than the second Friday following the closing of the filing period for nominations for such office and shall be heard and finally disposed of by the court not later than five days after the filing thereof. An affidavit of an elector under subsections (1) and (3) of this section when relating to a general election must be filed with the appropriate court no later than three days following the official certification of the primary election returns and shall be heard and finally disposed of by the court not later than five days after the filing thereof. An affidavit of an elector under subsection (6) of this section shall be filed with the appropriate court no later than ten days following the ~~((issuance of a certificate of election))~~ official certification of the election as provided in RCW 29A.60.190, 29A.60.240, or 29A.60.250 or, in the case of a recount, ten days after the official certification of the amended abstract as provided in RCW 29A.64.061.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The uniform application of election laws, rules, and procedures is of paramount importance to the citizens of this state. It is the intent of the legislature to make the position of county auditor, and of the chief elections official, however named, in all counties an elective office. This act therefore applies to all counties, including without limitation counties operating under a home rule charter.

Sec. 2. RCW 29A.04.216 and 2004 c 271 s 104 are each amended to read as follows:

The county auditor, as chief elections officer, of each county shall be ex officio the supervisor of all primaries and elections, general or special, and it shall be the county auditor's duty to provide places for holding such primaries and elections; to appoint the precinct election officers and to provide for their compensation; to provide the supplies and materials necessary for the conduct of elections to the precinct election officers; and to publish and post notices of calling such primaries and elections in the manner provided by law. The notice of a primary held in an even-numbered year must indicate that the office of precinct committee officer will be on the ballot. The auditor shall also apportion to each city, town, or district, and to the state of Washington in the odd-numbered year, its share of the expense of such primaries and elections. This section does not apply to general or special elections for any city, town, or district that is not subject to RCW 29A.04.321 and 29A.04.330, but all such elections must be held and conducted at the time, in the manner, and by the officials (with such notice, requirements for filing for office, and certifications by local officers) as provided and required by the laws governing such elections.

Sec. 3. RCW 36.16.030 and 1996 c 108 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

Except as provided elsewhere in this section, in every county there shall be elected from among the qualified voters of the county a county assessor, a county auditor, a county clerk, a county coroner, three county commissioners, a county prosecuting attorney, a county sheriff and a county treasurer, except that in each county with a population of less than forty thousand no coroner shall be elected and the prosecuting attorney shall be ex officio coroner. Whenever the population of a county increases to forty thousand or more, the prosecuting attorney shall continue as ex officio coroner until a coroner is elected, at the next general election at which the office of prosecuting attorney normally would be elected, and assumes office as provided in RCW ((~~29.04.170~~)) 29A.20.040. In any county where the population has once attained forty thousand people and a current coroner is in office and a subsequent census indicates less than forty thousand people, the county legislative authority may maintain the office of coroner by resolution or ordinance. If the county legislative authority has not passed a resolution or enacted an ordinance to maintain the office of coroner, the elected coroner shall remain in office for the remainder of the term for which he or she was elected, but no coroner shall be elected at the next election at which that office would otherwise be filled and the prosecuting attorney shall be the ex officio coroner. In a county with a population of two hundred fifty thousand or more, the county legislative authority may replace the office of coroner with a medical examiner system and appoint a medical examiner as specified in RCW 36.24.190. A noncharter county may have five county commissioners as provided in RCW 36.32.010 and 36.32.055 through 36.32.058."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that a person's right to privacy with respect to his or her vote for an elective office is of the highest importance, and it is the duty of the legislature to do everything within the constitutional limitations of its power to protect that privacy. It is the intent of the legislature to protect each person's vote by disallowing the practice of altering, defacing, removing, covering, or destroying by any means a vote of a citizen.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 29A.04 RCW to read as follows:

"Mark of identification" means any mark, symbol, sign, spot, dot, or speck placed on a ballot that either does not follow the rules of the voting procedure provided for in the voting directions or has the potential to link a ballot to a particular voter. A vote for a candidate on a ballot that fully adheres to the rules of the voting procedure provided for in the voting directions is not a mark of identification.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 29A.04 RCW to read as follows:

"Ballot enhancement" is the process of adding, modifying, or covering marks of identification on a ballot to ensure that the electronic voting equipment will tally the votes on the ballot in the manner intended by the voter, or as directed by the canvassing board."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. A new section is added to chapter 29A.60 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Ballots may not be enhanced, as defined in section 3 of this act. If a ballot is rejected by a tabulating machine during the tallying or machine recount process, the ballot must be separated from all other validly tabulated ballots and later considered by the canvassing board. If the voter did not follow the rules of the voting procedure provided for in the voting directions, the canvassing board is prohibited from inferring intent or enhancing or duplicating a ballot and must reject the ballot as invalid. Any mark of identification, as defined in section 2 of this act, on a ballot, invalidate the ballot.

(2) A ballot may not be enhanced or duplicated for any reason."

(a) The course was taken with high school students, if the academic level of the course exceeds the requirements for seventh and eighth grade classes, and the student has successfully passed by completing the same course requirements and examinations as the high school students enrolled in the class; or

(b) The academic level of the course exceeds the requirements for seventh and eighth grade classes and the course would qualify for high school credit, because the course is similar or equivalent to a course offered at a high school in the district as determined by the school district board of directors.

(5) Students who have taken and successfully completed high school courses under the circumstances in subsection (4) of this section shall not be required to take an additional competency examination or perform any other additional assignment to receive credit.

(6) At the college or university level, five quarter or three semester hours equals one high school credit."

(1) A voter whose registration has been made inactive under this chapter and who offers to vote at an ensuing election before two federal elections have been held must be allowed to vote a regular ballot and the voter's registration restored to active status.

(2) A voter whose registration has been properly canceled under this chapter shall vote a provisional ballot. The voter shall mark the provisional ballot in secrecy, the ballot placed in a security envelope, the security envelope placed in a provisional ballot envelope, and the reasons for the use of the provisional ballot noted.

(3) Upon receipt of such a voted provisional ballot the auditor shall investigate the circumstances surrounding the original cancellation. If he or she determines that the cancellation was in error, the voter's registration must be immediately reinstated, and the voter's provisional ballot must be counted. If the original cancellation was not in error, the voter must be afforded the opportunity to reregister at his or her correct address, and the voter's provisional ballot must not be counted.

(4) The names and addresses of provisional voters is not a matter of public record, and no one other than an election officer may contact an individual provisional voter. The election officer shall contact the voter via first class mail within forty-eight hours of discovery and shall inform the voter of relevant deadlines.

When the right of a person has been challenged under RCW 29A.08.810 or 29A.08.830(2), the challenged person shall be permitted to vote a provisional ballot, which shall be placed in a sealed envelope separate from other voted ballots. In precincts where voting machines are used, any person whose right to vote is challenged under RCW 29A.08.810 or 29A.08.830(2) shall be furnished a provisional paper ballot, which shall be placed in a sealed envelope after being marked. Included with the ~~((challenged))~~ provisional ballot shall be (1) an affidavit filed under RCW 29A.08.830 challenging the person's right to vote or (2) an affidavit signed by the precinct election officer and any third party involved in the officer's challenge and stating the reasons the voter is being challenged. The sealed provisional ballots ~~((of challenged voters))~~ shall be transmitted at the close of the election to the canvassing board or other authority charged by law with canvassing the returns of the particular primary or election. The county auditor shall notify the challenger and the challenged voter, by certified mail, of the time and place at which the county canvassing board will meet to rule on ~~((challenged))~~ provisional ballots. If the challenge is made by a precinct election officer under RCW 29A.08.810, the officer must appear in person before the board unless he or she has received written authorization from the canvassing board to submit an affidavit supporting the challenge. If the challenging officer has based his or her challenge upon evidence provided by a third party, that third party must appear with the challenging officer before the canvassing board, unless he or she has received written authorization from the canvassing board to submit an affidavit supporting the challenge. If the challenge is filed under RCW 29A.08.830, the challenger must either appear in person before the board or submit an affidavit supporting the challenge. The challenging party must prove to the canvassing board by clear and convincing evidence that the challenged voter's registration is improper. If the challenging party fails to meet this burden, the ~~((challenged))~~ provisional ballot shall be accepted as valid and counted. The canvassing board shall give the challenged voter the opportunity to present testimony, either in person or by affidavit, and evidence to the canvassing board before making their determination. All ~~((challenged))~~ provisional ballots must be determined no later than the time of canvassing for the particular primary or election. The decision of the canvassing board or other authority charged by law with canvassing the returns shall be final. Challenges of absentee ballots shall be determined according to RCW 29A.40.140.

Sec. 7. RCW 29A.08.830 and 2003 c 111 s 255 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Any registered voter may request that the registration of another voter be canceled if he or she believes that the voter does not meet the requirements of Article VI, section 1 of the state Constitution or that voter no longer maintains a legal voting residence at the address shown on his or her registration record. The challenger shall file with the county auditor a signed affidavit subject to the penalties of perjury, to the effect that to his or her personal knowledge and belief another registered voter does not actually reside at the address as given on his or her registration record or is otherwise not a qualified voter and that the voter in question is not protected by the provisions of Article VI, section 4, of the Constitution of the state of Washington. The person filing the challenge must furnish the address at which the challenged voter actually resides.

(2) Any such challenge of a voter's registration and right to vote made less than thirty days before a primary or election, special or general, shall be administered under RCW 29A.08.820. The county auditor shall notify the challenged voter and the precinct election officers in the voter's precinct that a challenge has been filed, provide the name of the challenger, and instruct both the precinct election officers and the voter that, in the event the challenged voter desires to vote at the ensuing primary or election, a ~~((challenged))~~ provisional ballot will be provided. The voter shall also be informed that the status of his or her registration and the disposition of any ~~((challenged))~~ provisional ballot will be determined by the county canvassing board in the manner provided by RCW 29A.08.820. If the challenged voter does not vote at the ensuing primary or election, the challenge shall be processed in the same manner as challenges made more than thirty days prior to the primary or election under RCW 29A.08.840."

On page 11, beginning on line 20 of the amendment, strike all of section 8, and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. (1) Provisional or questionable ballots must not be tallied until the validity of the ballot or the voter has been confirmed and, if so, the ballots will be processed in similar manner to absentee ballots. A provisional ballot is issued to a person seeking to vote in a polling place under the following circumstances:

(a) The name of the voter does not appear in the poll book and:

- (i) The voter's registration was canceled but the voter questions the validity of the cancellation;
- (ii) The status of the voter's registration cannot be determined at that time; or
- (iii) The voter is registered and assigned to another polling place or jurisdiction;

(b) The voter's name is in the poll book but there is an indication that the voter was issued an absentee ballot, and the voter wishes to vote at the polls; or

(c) Other circumstances as determined by the precinct election official.

(2) The precinct election official shall issue a provisional ballot outer envelope and a security envelope to the voter eligible for a provisional ballot. The voter shall vote the ballot in secrecy and, when done, place the ballot in the security envelope, then place the security envelope with the ballot in it in the provisional ballot outer envelope and return it to the precinct election official. The precinct election official shall ensure that the required information is completed on the outside of the outer envelope and have the voter sign it in the appropriate space, and place it in a secure container designated for provisional ballots only.

(3) When the provisional ballot, including provisional ballots from other counties or states, are received in the elections center, the circumstances surrounding the provisional ballot must be investigated before certification of the primary or election. A provisional ballot cannot be tallied if the registered voter did not sign either the poll book or the provisional ballot envelope.

(4) When it is determined that the ballot is to be counted, the ballot must be processed in a manner similar to an absentee ballot except the provisional ballot outer envelopes must be retained separately from the absentee ballot return envelopes. The manual inspection of the ballots as required in WAC 434-261-070 or its successor must also be carried out.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. At a minimum, the following information will be required to be printed on the outer provisional ballot envelope:

(1) An oath for the voter to sign, as required by the Help America Vote Act, which must be included in substantially the following form:

"I affirm that I am a registered voter in the jurisdiction in which I am appearing and in which I wish to vote; and that I am eligible to vote in this election.";

(2) Name and signature of voter (must be the same as on the oath);

(3) Voter's registered address both present and former, if applicable;

(4) Voter's date of birth;

(5) Reason for the provisional ballot;

(6) Precinct and polling place at which voter has voted;

(7) Sufficient space to list disposition of the ballot after review by the county auditor.

No provisional ballot may be rejected for lack of the information described in this section as long as the voter provides a valid signature and sufficient information to determine eligibility.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. (1) Upon receipt of the provisional ballot, including provisional ballots from other counties or states, the auditor must investigate the circumstances surrounding the provisional ballot before certification of the primary or election. A provisional ballot cannot be counted if the registered voter did not sign both the poll book and the provisional ballot envelope.

(a) If there is no record of the voter ever having been registered, the voter must be offered the opportunity to register, but the provisional ballot for the current election will not be counted.

(b) If the voter was previously registered and later canceled and the auditor determines that the cancellation was in error, the voter's registration will be immediately restored and the provisional ballot counted.

(c) If the auditor determines that the cancellation was not in error, the voter must be given the opportunity to reregister at the voter's correct address, but the provisional ballot for the current election will not be counted.

(2) If the voter is a registered voter but has voted a ballot other than the one that the voter would have received at his or her designated polling place, the auditor must ensure that only those votes for the positions or measures for which the voter was eligible to vote are counted, which may require coordination with other county auditors.

(3) If the voter is a registered voter in another county or state, the auditor shall forward the ballot and a corresponding voter guide, or other means by which the ballot can be interpreted including rotation if applicable, within five business days after election day to the supervisor of elections for the county for which the voter resides. If the provisional ballot envelope is not signed by the voter, a copy of the poll book page must be included. If the county is not known, it must be forwarded to the secretary of state, or counterpart, for the state in which the voter resides.

(4) If the auditor finds that an absentee voter who voted a provisional ballot at the polls has also voted an absentee ballot in that primary or election, the provisional ballot will not be counted.

(5) The auditor shall prepare a tally displaying the number of provisional ballots received, the number found valid and counted, the number rejected and not counted, and the reason for not counting the ballots, as part of the canvassing process and presented to the canvassing board before the certification of the primary or election.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. When the disposition of the provisional ballot determines that the provisional ballot is to be counted, the provisional ballot must be processed in a manner similar to an absentee ballot as provided in chapters 29A.40 and 29A.60 RCW except the outer provisional ballot envelopes must be retained separately from the absentee ballot return envelopes. The manual inspection of the ballots as required in WAC 434-261-070 or its successor must also be carried out.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. The secretary of state shall establish a free access system, such as a toll-free telephone number or an internet web site, that any individual who casts a provisional ballot may access to discover whether the vote of that individual was counted, and, if the vote was not counted, the reason why the vote was not counted. The secretary of state shall establish and maintain reasonable procedures necessary to protect the security, confidentiality, and integrity of personal information collected, stored, or otherwise used by the free access system established under this section. Access to information about an individual provisional ballot must be restricted to the individual who cast the ballot.

Sec. 13. RCW 29A.40.050 and 2003 c 111 s 1005 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) As provided in this section, county auditors shall provide special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballots to be used for state primary or state general elections. An auditor shall provide a special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballot only to a registered voter who completes an application stating that she or he will be unable to vote and return ~~((a regular))~~ an absentee ballot by normal mail delivery within the period provided for ~~((regular))~~ absentee ballots.

The application for a special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballot may not be filed earlier than ninety days before the applicable state primary or general election. The special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballot will list the offices and measures, if known, scheduled to appear on the state primary or general election ballot. The voter may use the special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballot to write in the name of any eligible candidate for each office and vote on any measure.

(2) With any special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballot issued under this section, the county auditor shall include a listing of any candidates who have filed before the time of the application for offices that will appear on the ballot at that primary or election and a list of any issues that have been referred to the ballot before the time of the application.

(3) Write-in votes on special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballots must be counted in the same manner provided by law for the counting of other write-in votes. The county auditor shall process and canvass the special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballots provided under this section in the same manner as ~~((other))~~ absentee ballots under this chapter and chapter 29A.60 RCW.

(4) A voter who requests a special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballot under this section may also request an absentee ballot under RCW 29A.40.020(4). If the ~~((regular))~~ absentee ballot is properly voted and returned, the special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballot is void, and the county auditor shall reject it in whole when special ~~((absentee))~~ provisional ballots are canvassed.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. In addition to the material required by RCW 29A.40.091, each county auditor shall include with any special provisional ballot mailed the following information:

(1) Short title. This section may be cited as the "Washington Taxpayer and Citizen Protection Act."

(2) Findings and declaration. The legislature finds that illegal immigration is causing economic hardship to this state and that illegal immigration is encouraged by public agencies within this state that provide public benefits without verifying immigration status. The legislature further finds that illegal immigrants have been given a safe haven in this state with the aid of identification cards that are issued without verifying immigration status, and that this conduct contradicts federal immigration policy, undermines the security of our borders, and demeans the value of citizenship. Therefore, the legislature finds that the public interest of this state requires that all public agencies within this state cooperate with federal immigration authorities to discourage illegal immigration.

(3) Form of registration. In addition to the requirements of RCW 29A.08.010, the form of registration provided by the secretary of state or county auditor must include a statement that the applicant must submit evidence of United States citizenship with the application and that the county auditor or secretary of state shall reject the application if no evidence of citizenship is attached.

(4) The county auditor or secretary of state shall reject any application for registration that is not accompanied by satisfactory evidence of United States citizenship. Satisfactory evidence of citizenship includes any of the following:

(a) The number of the applicant's Washington state driver's license or Washington state identification card issued by the department of licensing, but only if the department indicates on the applicant's driver's license or identification card that the applicant has provided satisfactory proof of United States citizenship;

(b) A legible photocopy of the applicant's birth certificate that verifies citizenship to the satisfaction of the county auditor or secretary of state;

(c) A legible photocopy of pertinent pages of the applicant's United States passport identifying the applicant and the applicant's passport number or presentation to the county auditor or the secretary of state of the applicant's United States passport;

(d) A presentation to the county auditor or secretary of state of the applicant's United States naturalization documents or the number of the certificate of naturalization. If only the number of the certificate of naturalization is provided, the applicant must not be included in the registration rolls until the number of the certificate of naturalization is verified with the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service by the county auditor or secretary of state;

(e) Other documents or methods of proof that are established under the federal Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986; or

(f) The applicant's Bureau of Indian Affairs card number, tribal treaty card number, or tribal enrollment number.

(5) Notwithstanding subsection (4) of this section, any person who is registered in this state on the effective date of this section is deemed to have provided satisfactory evidence of citizenship and may not be required to resubmit evidence of citizenship unless the person is changing voter registration from one county to another or reregistering to vote.

(6) Proof of voter registration from another state or county is not satisfactory evidence of citizenship.

(7) After a person has submitted satisfactory evidence of citizenship, the county auditor or secretary of state shall indicate this information in the person's permanent voter file. After two years, the county auditor or secretary of state may destroy all documents that were submitted as evidence of citizenship."

The county auditor shall send each absentee voter a ballot, a security envelope in which to seal the ballot after voting, a larger envelope in which to return the security envelope, and instructions on how to mark the ballot and how to return it to the county auditor. The instructions that accompany an absentee ballot for a partisan primary must include instructions for voting the applicable ballot style, as provided in chapter 29A.36 RCW. The absentee voter's name and address must be printed on the larger return envelope, which must also contain a declaration by the absentee voter reciting his or her qualifications and stating that he or she has not voted in any other jurisdiction at this election, together with a summary of the penalties for any violation of any of the provisions of this chapter. The declaration must clearly inform the voter that it is illegal to vote if he or she is not a United States citizen; it is illegal to vote if he or she has been convicted of a felony and has not had his or her voting rights restored; and, except as otherwise provided by law, it is illegal to cast a ballot or sign an absentee envelope on behalf of another voter. The return envelope must provide space for the voter to indicate the date on which the ballot was voted and for the voter to sign the oath. A summary of the applicable penalty provisions of this chapter must be printed on the return envelope immediately adjacent to the space for the voter's signature. The signature of the voter on the return envelope must affirm and attest to the statements regarding the qualifications of that voter and to the validity of the ballot. The return envelope must also have a secrecy flap that the voter may seal that will cover the voter's signature and return address. For out-of- state voters, overseas voters, and service voters, the signed declaration on the return envelope constitutes the equivalent of a voter registration for the election or primary for which the ballot has been issued. The voter must be instructed to either return the ballot to the county auditor by whom it was issued or attach sufficient first class postage, if applicable, and mail the ballot to the appropriate county auditor no later than the day of the election or primary for which the ballot was issued.

If the county auditor chooses to forward absentee ballots, he or she must include with the ballot a clear explanation of the qualifications necessary to vote in that election and must also advise a voter with questions about his or her eligibility to contact the county auditor. This explanation may be provided on the ballot envelope, on an enclosed insert, or printed directly on the ballot itself. If the information is not included, the envelope must clearly indicate that the ballot is not to be forwarded and that return postage is guaranteed."

MOTION

On motion of Senator Eide, the Senate advanced to the sixth order of business.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Haugen: "Well today we're going to be doing a series of transportation bills and for some of us this is going to be really kind of a special day because we're going to go and go to a service for Ruth Fisher who was the transportation queen of the House. I think we'll make her proud today because you'll find that we work in a very bi-partisan way over here and most of our bills will be passing out of here rather rapidly. She was an extraordinary person who sometimes questioned the Senate but we're going to prove to her today that the Senate can do it's work and do it rapidly. I think it's kind of ironic that we're doing license plate bills today because most of you know that she hated these things. She did have a soft spot in her heart and finally gave in so today we'll be doing those. But today as we work on transportation let's not forget that great lady who got us where we are today in transportation as far as public transportation and regional governments. She was really an extraordinary individual, a little rough around the edges at times but she really was a sweetheart and we all love her and going to miss her greatly."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McCaslin: "This could be the longest speech I've ever made in twenty-five years, so bear with me. One thing that I posse that no one other on this floor is twenty-fives years on this floor. Senator Deccio could of caught up with me, but he went home for four years to be a county commissioner. Something bothered me last night and I didn't get to sleep until after three o'clock and I woke up about five twenty-two. You know I have one of those LED clocks and unfortunately you roll over and you can read the time. What bothered me to keep me awake-because of twenty-five years, not much bothers me on the floor - the majority leader pointed out, and I'm not implying she's imputed our motives or impugned our motives. All I'm saying is, she mentioned the fact that we put forward twenty-two amendments and we passed six. Now, I can't read her mind so I don't know why she said that. That's not too bad, I think that's about twenty-seven percent passage. Now the reason it bothered me is I've got to go back to 1981. None of you were here. Senator Deccio was here, but I'm not sure that he remembers it. No pun intended Senator. This body, I don't know if the President was here as a Senator then, I don't think he was. I think you were in the House, sir. We went into a committee of the whole. Honest. I don't know if there is a record of it in the Journal, but we went to the committee of the whole and we was in the majority, so we allowed the minority to go into the committee of the whole. Now, in the committee of the whole, as you all know, no votes are recorded. So why did we go into the committee of the whole? We went into the committee of the whole to allow the Democrats not to offer amendments but actually to move new bills. Bills that had not been through the process. Aren't we kind? I mean this is serious. I don't know how many hours we spent. Motion after motion for taxes, because then we were a billion dollars in the hole. So after twenty-five we gain, we've now 2.2 billion in the hole. So I sat through that, never uttered a word, I was learning, I was a freshman then. Senator Weinstein's stays here as long as I have, you'll be leaving in 2030. Just think about that Senator. 2030 I don't know how old you'll be but you'll be twenty-five years older. Anyway it bothered me that the amendments were brought up because that's the part of the minority plays. We learned from the Democrats. We had one Senator then, I think he come in a year before I did. We called him 'Captain Amendment.' He was a brilliant guy. He offered amendment after amendment after amendment after amendment. I don't think we called for the previous question, we listened intently. We may not have liked it, but that's the role of the minority, is to bring up amendments. I'm sorry it bothered anyone over there. It didn't bother me because in twenty-five years I'm not sure I've offered five amendments on this floor. If I have offered five that's .5 per year so you can't blame me for offering amendments. Although I offered one and it carried. I was shocked. I was absolutely shocked. I almost fell out of my chair, Senator Kastama. I just went upstairs to the fourth floor in memory lane, I looked at the '81 pictures. Fifteen have passed away, I haven't yet, you may think I have but I haven't passed away yet including our beloved President Cherberg. Terrific guy, I loved him dearly. So I think you and I are privileged. Each one of us are one out of six million. Think about that. You're one out of six million. We're forty-nine out of six million. We hold a special place in state government. Each of us should be extremely proud of what we've achieved and what we're doing for a hundred or a hundred-twenty-thousand people. We're doing the best we can. We're just trying to get there with a different philosophy and a different avenue. Now, we've had two senators last night saying we impugned or imputed their motives. For them I apologize; if you really think we impugned your motives. Your motives are the same as ours. Really. It's the same. You may not think so. We all want to do good for the public and for the state of Washington. So I don't think we'll impunge or impute your motives. I don't think you did Senator. Because there's a Christian love we share in here for each of us. Right Senator? Amen to you. Anyway that bothered me. I only got a few hours sleep. I don't know why that bothered me, most things don't bother me, otherwise I wouldn't of been here so long. Don't pay any attention to the cob webs from my desk to me, because I actually move around once in a while and try to think things out. But anyway, that bothered me, I didn't get any sleep. I hope it doesn't come up again, but there'll be other nights like that. In '81 I think we were here one night, I got to bed at 5:30 in the morning. We went to one, two, three, four, five o'clock in the morning. Why did we do that? Because the minority kept offering amendment after amendment after amendment after amendment and we voted them down. Most to the counts in 1981 were 25-24, 25-24. You folks stuck together and we stuck together and that's just the process. There's no use getting upset about it. There's no use getting mad at anyone. We just have to accept it and move on. I'm delighted to be here. I really am and I hope that your all delighted and wish everyone here the best. Thank you Mr. President."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Deccio: "I was going to speak against the motion but I didn't have a chance to. Senator McCaslin offered... you see he's so full of himself. Senator McCaslin actually offered eight amendments and they were all defeated."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McAuliffe: "I like to take this opportunity Senator McCaslin, to thank you for sharing the institutional memory that you have for this place. It brings a great deal of respect to the work we do and to the institution itself. Thank you."

WHEREAS, The Ventures have recorded over 3000 songs and released over 250 albums, including 14 top 100 singles in the 1960s; and

WHEREAS, Having sold over 90 million albums world-wide, with such hits as "Walk Don't Run," "Perfidia," "Lullaby of the Leaves," "Diamond Head," "2,000 Pound Bee," and a version of the Hawaii Five-O theme song, the Ventures have become the world's all-time #1 rock instrumental group; and

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "The President has the great privilege and honor to being able to introduce these incredible musicians and contributors to rock and roll from right here in the state of Washington. To my left, playing drums, is Leon Taylor. Leon's dad Mel Taylor played with the Ventures for many, many years. On guitar is Don Wilson, also cared for by Senator Rasmussen's daughter at Tacoma General Hospital. All the way to my right is Nokie Edwards, he played bass and lead guitar, and then Bob Bogle who also played bass and lead guitar, if I remember correctly. Now, I got to tell you a little story about Bob. In 1960, Bob was working on this capital building as a mason. He was working in masonry. He was approached by some law enforcement officers. They came up to him, of course him wondering why he was being approached by law enforcement officers. They merely wanted to know if was one of the Ventures, he said 'Yes, he was' and they asked for autographs. One week later, he was in New York and they were on American Bandstand. We just finished one-hundred million dollar project on this beautiful building that you helped care for in the 1960's. Ladies and Gentlemen, the Ventures."

REMARKS BY DON WILSON

Don Wilson: "Well, first I want to say you people are absolutely wonderful and thank you so much. It's quite an honor to be before you here today, especially knowing your busy schedule, you've taken time out to honor us today. Absolutely great. You know I always and don't worry, we're never going to do any rap, ok. We've done a lot of music trends, but that's not one of them. I think it's a oxymoron rap music, I don't think so. Anyway, there's probably a lot of people who go for rap, I don't know, we just don't. We'll never do it. Anyway, you know I always tells people, we're kind of the Rodney Dangerfield's of the rock world. You know, we just don't seem to get any respect but you know we have done many things, many firsts and as was told earlier all the things that should be recognized by the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and we've been passed up now for about twenty years we've been eligible. I don't know if it goes on your merits or who you know or whatever. I just don't know but obviously it's not on your merits. We're either going to get in the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame or we're going to make them so mad. But anyway, on behalf, oh and, by the way I don't know if you know this, but we've known, and we call him 'Brad' because we have deserved that. We've known each other now, Ventures and Brad Owen, for about fifteen years, so yeah we've known each other a long time. As a matter of fact when we went out on the road when he was a state senator, he opened for us. He and his group and we got to know him that way and we've been friends ever since. But on behalf of Nokie Edwards, Bob Bogle, Leon Taylor, myself, Don Wilson, thank you so much."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "In order to continue the effort to try to get The Ventures into their deserved place in the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, there's going to be a concert tonight at the Premier Club in Seattle where we're going to rally together and show our support for these great musicians."

"The person that is the primary impetus behind this whole effort, that is working very, very hard, from 97.3 KBSG 'Golden Oldies,' from the racks and stacks of the best on wax, one of the great guys, he's a great mid-day personality on 97.3, I'd like to introduce, in our gallery today, Mr. Mark Christopher."

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Benton: "I know that some of you might think, 'Well, gee this is only effects the folks in Seattle and no folks at Sea Tac.' I would say that that's not true unfortunately, if it were true then I wouldn't be standing right now. It affects everybody that comes to the great state of Washington, that flies into Seattle. And what were asking the folks here on the floor today to do is to vote for a tax increase to help private companies build new facilities. Quite frankly, I think that's wrong. I also think its unconstitutional and the fact of the matter is, if we keep raising these fees on rental cars, people are going to start renting cars in Portland and driving to Seattle. I mean there's already significant fees on rental cars in Seattle. Well, gee, a tax on those folks that have come here and it doesn't tax our citizens per se. My argument against that is it costs us a lot of money. When people start adding up the cost of what the hotel tax, the sales tax, the gas tax and now your going to add another very hefty fee on the one that is already is heavily taxed, rental cars. It will eventually affect the tourist that come to Washington state and so that will hurt all the business. We have to be competitive with other markets that draw tourism. If you think that tourist don't check on these things, you're wrong. They do. They look to see how much their vacation is going cost and especially if they come here once and they turn in their rental car, they go, 'Wow.' They get whacked with a twenty or thirty dollar fee in addition to all the other taxes, then they won't come here again. So, I ask you to take careful look at this. If the rental car companies, I know they've testified in favor of it; if they want to build a new facility there to help rent more of their cars and make is easier for their customers, then why aren't they paying for it? Why are we asking the citizens of the state and taxpayers that come and rent the cars to pay for this facility? And finally, Mr. President, I'd like to ask for a ruling on the constitutional question as to whether or not this is public support of a private enterprise, which is specifically forbidden in the Washington state constitution?"

Senators Doumit and Morton spoke in favor of adoption of the striking amendment.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Senator Roach: "Will Senator Doumit yield to a question? I'm reading in the background. It says that if you're a solid waste company and you are, it says, it essentially says here if you are in a city, the city's regulations take effect. But the way I'm reading this, if you happen to be in a county then we're asking the state to do the regulation. My question to you is: 'Why wouldn't it fall naturally, if your picking up refuse in a county, that the county, one of the thirty-nine counties would not be the regulations as the cities are allowed to do?'"

Senator Doumit: "Currently I don't know of any counties that do that type of regulations. That they, the state, do it for them. The cities do handle waste in a different manner and I would have to do more research to give you a better answer than that."

Senator Roach: "Thank you, thank you Senator."

(2) Parents who lack resources for shelter, clothing, and transportation are less likely to obtain employment or have the ability to adequately provide for their children's physical and emotional well-being and educational success.

(3) Washington's temporary assistance for needy families helps financially struggling families find jobs, keep their jobs, get better jobs, and build a better life for their children through the WorkFirst program.

(4) Participation in the WorkFirst program through temporary assistance for needy families is an important step towards self-sufficiency and decreased long-term reliance on governmental assistance.

(5) Removing this barrier to participation in temporary assistance for needy families and WorkFirst will serve to strengthen families and communities throughout the state.

(6) Preventing even one percent of these individuals from reoffending by extending economic and employment opportunities will result in law enforcement and correctional savings that substantially exceed the cost of temporary assistance for needy families and WorkFirst services.

Sec. 2. RCW 74.08.025 and 2004 c 54 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Public assistance may be awarded to any applicant:

The benefit level under this subsection shall be in effect for the first twelve months a recipient is on temporary assistance for needy families in Washington state.

(3) Any person otherwise qualified for temporary assistance for needy families who is assessed through the state alcohol and substance abuse program as drug or alcohol-dependent and requiring treatment to become employable shall be required by the department to participate in a drug or alcohol treatment program as a condition of benefit receipt.

~~(4) ((In order to be eligible for temporary assistance for needy families benefits, any applicant with a felony conviction after August 21, 1996, involving drug use or possession, must: (a) Have been assessed as chemically dependent by a chemical dependency program approved under chapter 70.96A RCW and be participating in or have completed a coordinated rehabilitation plan consisting of chemical dependency treatment and vocational services; and (b) have not been convicted of a felony involving drug use or possession in the three years prior to the most current conviction.~~

Voting yea: Senators Benson, Benton, Berkey, Brandland, Brown, Carrell, Deccio, Delvin, Doumit, Eide, Esser, Fairley, Finkbeiner, Franklin, Fraser, Hargrove, Haugen, Hewitt, Honeyford, Jacobsen, Johnson, Kastama, Keiser, Kline, Kohl-Welles, McAuliffe, McCaslin, Morton, Mulliken, Oke, Parlette, Pflug, Poulsen, Prentice, Pridemore, Rasmussen, Regala, Roach, Rockefeller, Schmidt, Schoesler, Sheldon, Shin, Spanel, Stevens, Swecker, Thibaudeau, Weinstein and Zarelli - 49

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5789, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "In ruling upon the point of inquiry raised by Senator Benton that Senate Bill 5584 takes a two-thirds vote on final passage under statutes enacted by Initiative Number 601 because it imposes a tax, the President finds and rules as follows:

The President has long differentiated between taxes and fees for purposes of I-601 provisions, but a brief review of this precedent is instructive. A "tax" raises revenue for general government purposes. By contrast, a "fee" is charged to a specific class of payors to provide for a specific service, program, or facility. The analysis does not turn on whether a measure calls a specific revenue increase a tax or fee, but rather upon the nexus between the class of those paying and the purpose for which the funds are to be used.

In this case, only those renting cars from an airport will pay this fee. The fee proceeds will be used only to design and construct consolidated rental car facilities at airports, and to provide shuttle service between airport terminals and those facilities. No other class of persons will be paying this amount, and no funds raised by the fee will be used for any purpose other than those specifically related to airport rental car facilities. As a result, this revenue is properly characterized as a fee and not a tax.

For these reasons, I-601's supermajority provisions are not triggered, and Senator Benton's point is not well-taken. Only a simple majority vote of this body is needed for final passage of this measure.

There being no objection, the Senate resumed consideration of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5584 which had been deferred earlier in the day.

MOTION

Senator Benton moved that the rules be suspended and that Substitute Senate Bill No. 5584 be returned to second reading for the purposes of amendment.

Senators Haugen and Eide spoke against the motion.

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the motion by Senator Benton to suspend the rules and return Substitute Senate Bill No. 5584 to second reading for the purposes of amendment. The motion by Senator Benton failed and Substitute Senate Bill No. 5584 was not returned to second reading by voice vote.

POINT OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Senator Jacobsen: "I understand that the rule is in effect that every member can only speak one time on the bill and I think Senator Benton spoke earlier, and if, he did he certainly went on for long enough."

The President declared the question before the Senate to be the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5584. Senators Benton and Swecker spoke against passage of the bill.

ROLL CALL

The Secretary called the roll on the final passage of Substitute Senate Bill No. 5584 and the bill passed the Senate by the following vote: Yeas, 31; Nays, 18; Absent, 0; Excused, 0.

SECOND READING

SENATE BILL NO. 5513, by Senators Haugen, Shin, Kohl-Welles, Rasmussen, Fairley and Prentice

Restructuring certain transportation agencies.

MOTION

On motion of Senator Haugen, Substitute Senate Bill No. 5513 was not substituted for Senate Bill No. 5513 and the substitute bill was not adopted.

The measure was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Haugen moved that the following striking amendment by Senator Haugen be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that it is in the interest of the state to restructure the roles and responsibilities of the state's transportation agencies in order to improve efficiency and accountability. The legislature also finds that continued citizen oversight of the state's transportation system remains an important priority. To achieve these purposes, the legislature intends to provide direct accountability of the department of transportation to the governor, in his or her role as chief executive officer of state government, by making the secretary of transportation a cabinet-level official. Additionally, it is essential to clearly delineate between the separate and distinct roles and responsibilities of the transportation commission and the department of transportation. Finally, consolidating the research and audit functions of the state's transportation agencies under a single citizen-governed entity, the transportation commission, will better serve the state.

Departmental Governance

Sec. 2. RCW 43.17.020 and 1995 1st sp.s. c 2 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

Before a motion for dismissal shall be acted on by the commission, the secretary shall be granted a hearing on formal written charges before the full commission. An action by the commission to remove the secretary shall be final))~~ at the pleasure of the governor.

Sec. 8. RCW 47.05.021 and 2002 c 56 s 301 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The (~~(transportation commission is hereby directed to)~~) department shall conduct periodic analyses of the entire state highway system, report (~~(thereon)~~) to the commission and the chairs of the transportation committees of the senate and house of representatives, (~~(including one copy to the staff of each of the committees, biennially and based thereon,)~~) any subsequent recommendations to subdivide, classify, and subclassify (~~(according to their function and importance)~~) all designated state highways (~~(and those added from time to time and periodically review and revise the classifications)~~) into the following three functional classes:

(a) The "principal arterial system" shall consist of a connected network of rural arterial routes with appropriate extensions into and through urban areas, including all routes designated as part of the interstate system, which serve corridor movements having travel characteristics indicative of substantial statewide and interstate travel;

(b) The "minor arterial system" shall, in conjunction with the principal arterial system, form a rural network of arterial routes linking cities and other activity centers which generate long distance travel, and, with appropriate extensions into and through urban areas, form an integrated network providing interstate and interregional service; and

(c) The "collector system" shall consist of routes which primarily serve the more important intercounty, intracounty, and intraurban travel corridors, collect traffic from the system of local access roads and convey it to the arterial system, and on which, regardless of traffic volume, the predominant travel distances are shorter than on arterial routes.

(2) ~~((In making the functional classification))~~ The transportation commission shall adopt ~~((and))~~ a functional classification of highways. The commission shall consider the recommendations of the department and testimony from the public and local municipalities. The commission shall give consideration to criteria consistent with this section and federal regulations relating to the functional classification of highways, including but not limited to the following:

- (a) Urban population centers within and without the state stratified and ranked according to size;
- (b) Important traffic generating economic activities, including but not limited to recreation, agriculture, government, business, and industry;
- (c) Feasibility of the route, including availability of alternate routes within and without the state;
- (d) Directness of travel and distance between points of economic importance;
- (e) Length of trips;
- (f) Character and volume of traffic;
- (g) Preferential consideration for multiple service which shall include public transportation;
- (h) Reasonable spacing depending upon population density; and
- (i) System continuity.

(3) The transportation commission or the legislature shall designate state highways of statewide significance under RCW 47.06.140. If the commission designates a state highway of statewide significance, it shall submit a list of such facilities for adoption by the legislature. This statewide system shall include at a minimum interstate highways and other statewide principal arterials that are needed to connect major communities across the state and support the state's economy.

(4) The transportation commission shall designate a freight and goods transportation system. This statewide system shall include state highways, county roads, and city streets. The commission, in cooperation with cities and counties, shall review and make recommendations to the legislature regarding policies governing weight restrictions and road closures which affect the transportation of freight and goods.

Sec. 9. RCW 47.05.030 and 2002 c 5 s 402 are each amended to read as follows:

The transportation commission shall adopt a comprehensive ~~((six-year))~~ ten-year investment program specifying program objectives and performance measures for the preservation and improvement programs defined in this section. In the specification of investment program objectives and performance measures, the transportation commission, in consultation with the Washington state department of transportation, shall define and adopt standards for effective programming and prioritization practices including a needs analysis process. The analysis process must ensure the identification of problems and deficiencies, the evaluation of alternative solutions and trade-offs, and estimations of the costs and benefits of prospective projects. The investment program must be revised ~~((biennially, effective on July 1st of odd-numbered years))~~ based on directions by the office of financial management. The investment program must be based upon the needs identified in the state-owned highway component of the statewide transportation plan as defined in RCW 47.01.071(3).

(1) The preservation program consists of those investments necessary to preserve the existing state highway system and to restore existing safety features, giving consideration to lowest life cycle costing. The preservation program must require use of the most cost-effective pavement surfaces, considering:

- (a) Life-cycle cost analysis;
- (b) Traffic volume;
- (c) Subgrade soil conditions;
- (d) Environmental and weather conditions;
- (e) Materials available; and
- (f) Construction factors.

The comprehensive ~~((six-year))~~ ten-year investment program for preservation must identify projects for two years and an investment plan for the remaining ~~((four))~~ eight years.

(2) The improvement program consists of investments needed to address identified deficiencies on the state highway system to increase mobility, address congestion, and improve safety, support for the economy, and protection of the environment. The ~~((six-year))~~ ten-year investment program for improvements must identify projects for two years and major deficiencies proposed to be addressed in the ~~((six-year))~~ ten-year period giving consideration to relative benefits and life cycle costing. The transportation commission shall give higher priority for correcting identified deficiencies on those facilities classified as facilities of statewide significance as defined in RCW 47.06.140. Project prioritization must be based primarily upon cost-benefit analysis, where appropriate.

The transportation commission shall approve and present the comprehensive ~~((six-year))~~ ten-year investment program to the governor and the legislature ~~((in support of the biennial budget request under RCW 44.40.070 and 44.40.080))~~ as directed by the office of financial management.

Sec. 10. RCW 47.05.035 and 2002 c 5 s 403 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department ~~((and the commission))~~ shall use the transportation demand modeling tools developed under subsection (2) of this section to evaluate investments based on the best mode or improvement, or mix of modes and improvements, to meet current and future long-term demand within a corridor or system for the lowest cost. The end result of these demand modeling tools is to provide a cost-benefit analysis by which the department ~~((and the commission))~~ can determine the relative mobility improvement and congestion relief each mode or improvement under consideration will provide and the relative investment each mode or improvement under consideration will need to achieve that relief.

(2) The department will participate in the refinement, enhancement, and application of existing transportation demand modeling tools to be used to evaluate investments. This participation and use of transportation demand modeling tools will be phased in.

(3) In developing program objectives and performance measures, the ~~((transportation commission))~~ department shall evaluate investment trade-offs between the preservation and improvement programs. In making these investment trade-offs, the ~~((commission))~~ department shall evaluate, using cost-benefit techniques, roadway and bridge maintenance activities as compared to roadway and bridge preservation program activities and adjust those programs accordingly.

(4) The ~~((commission))~~ department shall allocate the estimated revenue between preservation and improvement programs giving primary consideration to the following factors:

(a) The relative needs in each of the programs and the system performance levels that can be achieved by meeting these needs;

(b) The need to provide adequate funding for preservation to protect the state's investment in its existing highway system;

(c) The continuity of future transportation development with those improvements previously programmed; and

(d) The availability of dedicated funds for a specific type of work.

(5) The commission shall review the results of the department's findings and shall consider those findings in the development of the ten-year program.

Sec. 11. RCW 47.05.051 and 2002 c 189 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The comprehensive ~~((six-year))~~ ten-year investment program shall be based upon the needs identified in the state-owned highway component of the statewide multimodal transportation plan as defined in RCW 47.01.071(3) and priority selection systems that incorporate the following criteria:

(a) Priority programming for the preservation program shall take into account the following, not necessarily in order of importance:

(i) Extending the service life of the existing highway system, including using the most cost-effective pavement surfaces, considering:

(A) Life-cycle cost analysis;

(B) Traffic volume;

(C) Subgrade soil conditions;

(D) Environmental and weather conditions;

(E) Materials available; and

(F) Construction factors;

(ii) Ensuring the structural ability to carry loads imposed upon highways and bridges; and

(iii) Minimizing life cycle costs. The transportation commission in carrying out the provisions of this section may delegate to the department of transportation the authority to select preservation projects to be included in the ~~((six-year))~~ ten-year program.

(b) Priority programming for the improvement program must be based primarily upon the following, not necessarily in order of importance:

(i) Traffic congestion, delay, and accidents;

(ii) Location within a heavily traveled transportation corridor;

(iii) Except for projects in cities having a population of less than five thousand persons, synchronization with other potential transportation projects, including transit and multimodal projects, within the heavily traveled corridor; and

(iv) Use of benefit/cost analysis wherever feasible to determine the value of the proposed project.

(c) Priority programming for the improvement program may also take into account:

(i) Support for the state's economy, including job creation and job preservation;

(ii) The cost-effective movement of people and goods;

(iii) Accident and accident risk reduction;

(iv) Protection of the state's natural environment;

(v) Continuity and systematic development of the highway transportation network;

(vi) Consistency with local comprehensive plans developed under chapter 36.70A RCW including the following if they have been included in the comprehensive plan:

(A) Support for development in and revitalization of existing downtowns;

(B) Extent that development implements local comprehensive plans for rural and urban residential and nonresidential densities;

(C) Extent of compact, transit-oriented development for rural and urban residential and nonresidential densities;

(D) Opportunities for multimodal transportation; and

(E) Extent to which the project accommodates planned growth and economic development;

(vii) Consistency with regional transportation plans developed under chapter 47.80 RCW;

(viii) Public views concerning proposed improvements;

(ix) The conservation of energy resources;

(x) Feasibility of financing the full proposed improvement;

(xi) Commitments established in previous legislative sessions;

(xii) Relative costs and benefits of candidate programs.

(d) Major projects addressing capacity deficiencies which prioritize allowing for preliminary engineering shall be reprioritized during the succeeding biennium, based upon updated project data. Reprioritized projects may be delayed or canceled by the transportation commission if higher priority projects are awaiting funding.

(e) Major project approvals which significantly increase a project's scope or cost from original prioritization estimates shall include a review of the project's estimated revised priority rank and the level of funding provided. Projects may be delayed or canceled by the transportation commission if higher priority projects are awaiting funding.

(2) The commission may depart from the priority programming established under subsection (1) of this section: (a) To the extent that otherwise funds cannot be utilized feasibly within the program; (b) as may be required by a court judgment, legally binding agreement, or state and federal laws and regulations; (c) as may be required to coordinate with federal, local, or other state agency construction projects; (d) to take advantage of some substantial financial benefit that may be available; (e) for continuity of route development; or (f) because of changed financial or physical conditions of an unforeseen or emergent nature. The commission or secretary of transportation shall maintain in its files information sufficient to show the extent to which the commission has departed from the established priority.

(3) The commission shall identify those projects that yield freight mobility benefits or that alleviate the impacts of freight mobility upon affected communities.

Transportation Policy Institute

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. A new section is added to chapter 47.01 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The transportation policy institute is established within the transportation commission. The institute shall conduct research, prepare studies, and periodically submit recommendations to the legislature, governor, and transportation commission regarding transportation policy issues of statewide significance.

To this end, the purposes of the institute include:

(a) To conduct research on transportation policy and programs for the governor, the legislature, the transportation commission, and the transportation performance audit board;

(b) To educate and promote the dissemination of transportation research to the public, and to state and local government policymakers including legislators and associated staff; and

(c) To serve as a repository of federal, state, local, and private transportation research on financing and programming.

(2) The institute is governed by a board of directors composed of (a) the chairs and ranking minority members of the transportation committees of the legislature, or their designees, (b) the chair and vicechair of the transportation commission, and (c) the secretary of transportation. The executive director of the Washington state transportation center shall serve on the board as an ex officio nonvoting member. The staff coordinators of the transportation committees of the house and senate shall serve on the board as ex officio nonvoting members. The board of directors shall establish the research priorities of the institute. The board shall meet periodically and may schedule regular meetings during the legislative interim. The board may adopt rules and procedures necessary for its orderly operation. To the extent funds are appropriated, the transportation commission shall provide staff support to the institute, and the transportation commission administrator shall also serve as administrator for the institute. The administrator, subject to the approval of the commission, may contract with and consult with private independent professional and technical experts to conduct studies directed by the institute.

(3) The institute may establish working groups to conduct specific research in order to report back to the institute regarding recommendations as appropriate. The institute may appoint to a working group any member of the transportation committees of the legislature, or any nonlegislators, as deemed appropriate.

(4) Legislative members of the institute and its working groups will receive allowances while attending meetings of the institute, including working group meetings, and while engaged in other authorized business of the institute, as provided in RCW 44.04.120. Nonlegislative members of the institute and its working groups will receive allowances as provided in RCW 43.03.050 and 43.03.060.

Federal funds that are administered by the department of transportation and are passed through to municipal corporations or political subdivisions of the state and moneys that are received as total reimbursement for goods, services, or projects constructed by the department of transportation are removed from the transportation budget. To process and account for these expenditures a new treasury trust account is created to be used for all department of transportation one hundred percent federal and local reimbursable transportation expenditures. This new account is nonbudgeted and nonappropriated. At the same time, federal and private local appropriations and full-time equivalents in subprograms R2, R3, T6, Y6, and Z2 processed through this new account are removed from the department of transportation's 1997-99 budget.

The department of transportation may make expenditures from the account before receiving federal and local reimbursements. However, at the end of each biennium, the account must maintain a zero or positive cash balance. In the twenty-fourth month of each biennium the department of transportation shall calculate and transfer sufficient cash from either the motor vehicle fund or the multimodal transportation account to cover any negative cash balances. The amount transferred is calculated based on expenditures from each fund. In addition, any interest charges accruing to the new account must be distributed to the motor vehicle fund and the multimodal transportation account.

The department of transportation shall provide an annual report to the ~~((legislative))~~ senate and house transportation committees and the office of financial management on expenditures and full-time equivalents processed through the new account. (c) Other reimbursable activities as recommended by the ~~((legislative))~~ senate and house transportation committees and approved by the office of financial management.

(3) Moneys received as reimbursement for expenditures under subsection (2) of this section must be deposited into the account.

(4) No appropriation is required for expenditures from this account. This fund is not subject to allotment procedures provided under chapter 43.88 RCW.

(5) Only the secretary of transportation or the secretary's designee may authorize expenditures from the account.

(6) It is the intent of the legislature that this account maintain a zero or positive cash balance at the end of each biennium. Toward this purpose the department may make expenditures from the account before receiving reimbursements under subsection (2) of this section. Before the end of the biennium, the department shall transfer sufficient cash to cover any negative cash balances from the motor vehicle fund and the multimodal transportation account to the miscellaneous transportation programs account for unrecovered reimbursements. The department shall calculate the distribution of this transfer based on expenditures. In the ensuing biennium the department shall transfer the reimbursements received in the miscellaneous transportation programs account back to the motor vehicle fund and the multimodal transportation account to the extent of the cash transferred at biennium end. The department shall also distribute any interest charges accruing to the miscellaneous transportation programs account to the motor vehicle fund and the multimodal transportation account. Adjustments for any indirect cost recoveries may also be made at this time.

(7) The department shall provide an annual report to the ~~((legislative))~~ senate and house transportation committees and the office of financial management on the expenditures and full-time equivalents processed through the miscellaneous transportation programs account. - (2) Identifies the goals for public transit and the roles of federal, state, regional, and local entities in achieving those goals;
- (3) Recommends mechanisms for coordinating state, regional, and local planning for public transportation;
- (4) Recommends mechanisms for coordinating public transportation with other transportation services and modes;
- (5) Recommends criteria, consistent with the goals identified in subsection (2) of this section and with RCW 82.44.180 (2) and (3), for existing federal authorizations administered by the department to transit agencies; and
- (6) Recommends a statewide public transportation facilities and equipment management system as required by federal law.

In developing the state public transportation plan, the department shall involve local jurisdictions, public and private providers of transportation services, nonmotorized interests, and state agencies with an interest in public transportation, including but not limited to the departments of community, trade, and economic development, social and health services, and ecology, the office of the superintendent of public instruction, the office of the governor, and the office of financial management.

The department shall submit ~~((an initial report))~~ to the ~~((legislative))~~ senate and house transportation committees by December ~~((1, 1993, and shall provide annual))~~ 1st of each year, reports summarizing the plan's progress ~~((each year thereafter)).~~

Sec. 125. RCW 47.06A.020 and 1999 c 216 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

- (1) The board shall:
 - (a) Adopt rules and procedures necessary to implement the freight mobility strategic investment program;
 - (b) Solicit from public entities proposed projects that meet eligibility criteria established in accordance with subsection (4) of this section; and
 - (c) Review and evaluate project applications based on criteria established under this section, and prioritize and select projects comprising a portfolio to be funded in part with grants from state funds appropriated for the freight mobility strategic investment program. In determining the appropriate level of state funding for a project, the board shall ensure that state funds are allocated to leverage the greatest amount of partnership funding possible. After selecting projects comprising the portfolio, the board shall submit them as part of its budget request to the office of financial management and the legislature. The board shall ensure that projects submitted as part of the portfolio are not more appropriately funded with other federal, state, or local government funding mechanisms or programs. The board shall reject those projects that appear to improve overall general mobility with limited enhancement for freight mobility.

The board shall provide periodic progress reports on its activities to the office of financial management and the ~~((legislative))~~ senate and house transportation committees.

- (2) The board may:
 - (a) Accept from any state or federal agency, loans or grants for the financing of any transportation project and enter into agreements with any such agency concerning the loans or grants;
 - (b) Provide technical assistance to project applicants;
 - (c) Accept any gifts, grants, or loans of funds, property, or financial, or other aid in any form from any other source on any terms and conditions which are not in conflict with this chapter;
 - (d) Adopt rules under chapter 34.05 RCW as necessary to carry out the purposes of this chapter; and
 - (e) Do all things necessary or convenient to carry out the powers expressly granted or implied under this chapter.
- (3) The board shall designate strategic freight corridors within the state. The board shall update the list of designated strategic corridors not less than every two years, and shall establish a method of collecting and verifying data, including information on city and county-owned roadways.

(4) ~~((From June 11, 1998, through the biennium ending June 30, 2001,))~~ The board shall utilize threshold project eligibility criteria that, at a minimum, includes the following:

(a) The project must be on a strategic freight corridor;

(b) The project must meet one of the following conditions:

(i) It is primarily aimed at reducing identified barriers to freight movement with only incidental benefits to general or personal mobility; or

(ii) It is primarily aimed at increasing capacity for the movement of freight with only incidental benefits to general or personal mobility; or

(iii) It is primarily aimed at mitigating the impact on communities of increasing freight movement, including roadway/railway conflicts; and

(c) The project must have a total public benefit/total public cost ratio of equal to or greater than one.

(5) From June 11, 1998, through the biennium ending June 30, 2001, the board shall use the multicriteria analysis and scoring framework for evaluating and ranking eligible freight mobility and freight mitigation projects developed by the freight mobility project prioritization committee and contained in the January 16, 1998, report entitled "Project Eligibility, Priority and Selection Process for a Strategic Freight Investment Program." The prioritization process shall measure the degree to which projects address important program objectives and shall generate a project score that reflects a project's priority compared to other projects. The board shall assign scoring points to each criterion that indicate the relative importance of the criterion in the overall determination of project priority. After June 30, 2001, the board may supplement and refine the initial project priority criteria and scoring framework developed by the freight mobility project prioritization committee as expertise and experience is gained in administering the freight mobility program.

(6) It is the intent of the legislature that each freight mobility project contained in the project portfolio submitted by the board utilize the greatest amount of nonstate funding possible. The board shall adopt rules that give preference to projects that contain the greatest levels of financial participation from nonprogram fund sources. The board shall consider twenty percent as the minimum partnership contribution, but shall also ensure that there are provisions allowing exceptions for projects that are located in areas where minimal local funding capacity exists or where the magnitude of the project makes the adopted partnership contribution financially unfeasible.

(7) The board shall develop and recommend policies that address operational improvements that primarily benefit and enhance freight movement, including, but not limited to, policies that reduce congestion in truck lanes at border crossings and weigh stations and provide for access to ports during nonpeak hours.

Sec. 126. RCW 47.10.790 and 1985 c 406 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) In order to provide funds for the location, design, right of way, and construction of selected interstate highway improvements, there shall be issued and sold upon the request of the Washington state transportation commission, a total of one hundred million dollars of general obligation bonds of the state of Washington to pay the state's share of costs for completion of state route 90 (state route 5 to state route 405) and other related state highway projects eligible for regular federal interstate funding and until December 31, 1989, to temporarily pay the regular federal share of construction of completion projects on state route 90 (state route 5 to state route 405) and other related state highway projects eligible for regular interstate funding in advance of federal-aid apportionments under the provisions of 23 U.S.C. Secs. 115 or 122: PROVIDED, That the total amount of bonds issued to temporarily pay the regular federal share of construction of federal-aid interstate highways in advance of federal-aid apportionments as authorized by this section and RCW 47.10.801 shall not exceed one hundred twenty million dollars: PROVIDED FURTHER, That the transportation commission shall ~~((consult with the legislative transportation committee prior to the adoption of))~~ adopt plans for the obligation of federal-aid apportionments received in federal fiscal year 1985 and subsequent years to pay the regular federal share of federal-aid interstate highway construction projects or to convert such apportionments under the provisions of 23 U.S.C. Secs. 115 or 122.

(2) The transportation commission~~((, in consultation with the legislative transportation committee,))~~ may at any time find and determine that any amount of the bonds authorized in subsection (1) of this section, and not then sold, are no longer required to be issued and sold for the purposes described in subsection (1) of this section.

Sec. 127. RCW 47.10.801 and 1999 c 94 s 13 are each amended to read as follows:

Secs. 115 or 122: PROVIDED, That the total amount of bonds issued to temporarily pay the regular federal share of construction of federal-aid interstate highways in advance of federal-aid apportionments as authorized by this section and RCW 47.10.790 shall not exceed one hundred twenty million dollars: PROVIDED FURTHER, That the transportation commission shall ~~((consult with the legislative transportation committee prior to the adoption of))~~ adopt plans for the obligation of federal-aid apportionments received in federal fiscal year 1985 and subsequent years to pay the regular federal share of federal-aid interstate highway construction projects or to convert such apportionments under the provisions of 23 U.S.C. Secs. 115 or 122;

(c) Ten million dollars for state highway improvements necessitated by planned economic development, as determined through the procedures set forth in RCW 43.160.074 and 47.01.280.

(2) The amount of bonds authorized in subsection (1)(a) of this section shall be reduced if the transportation commission ~~((, in consultation with the legislative transportation committee,))~~ determines that any of the bonds that have not been sold are no longer required.

(3) The amount of bonds authorized in subsection (1)(b) of this section shall be increased by an amount not to exceed, and concurrent with, any reduction of bonds authorized under subsection (1)(a) of this section in the manner prescribed in subsection (2) of this section.

(4) The transportation commission may decrease the amount of bonds authorized in subsection (1)(c) of this section and increase the amount of bonds authorized in subsection (1)(a) or (b) of this section, or both by an amount equal to the decrease in subsection (1)(c) of this section. The transportation commission may decrease the amount of bonds authorized in subsection (1)(c) of this section only if the legislature appropriates an equal amount of funds from the motor vehicle fund - basic account for the purposes enumerated in subsection (1)(c) of this section.

Sec. 128. RCW 47.10.802 and 1986 c 290 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

Upon request being made by the transportation commission, the state finance committee shall supervise and provide for the issuance, sale, and retirement of the bonds authorized by RCW 47.10.801 in accordance with chapter 39.42 RCW. The state finance committee may obtain insurance, letters of credit, or other credit facility devices with respect to the bonds and may authorize the execution and delivery of agreements, promissory notes, and other obligations for the purpose of insuring the payment or enhancing the marketability of the bonds. Promissory notes or other obligations issued under this section shall not constitute a debt or the contracting of indebtedness under any constitutional or statutory indebtedness limitation if their payment is conditioned upon the failure of the state to pay the principal of or interest on the bonds with respect to which the promissory notes or other obligations relate. The state finance committee may authorize the issuance of short-term obligations in lieu of long-term obligations for the purposes of more favorable interest rates, lower total interest costs, and increased marketability and for the purposes of retiring the bonds during the life of the project for which they were issued.

Sec. 129. RCW 47.17.850 and 1984 c 7 s 139 are each amended to read as follows:

A state highway to be known as state route number 906 is established as follows:

Beginning at a junction with state route number 90 at the West Summit interchange of Snoqualmie Pass, thence along the alignment of the state route number 90 as it existed on May 11, 1967, in a southeasterly direction to a junction with state route number 90 at the Hyak interchange.

~~((The legislative transportation committee, the house and senate transportation committees, and the department shall undertake appropriate studies to evaluate state route number 906 to determine whether or not it should permanently remain on the state system.))~~

Sec. 130. RCW 47.26.167 and 1991 c 342 s 62 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature recognizes the need for a multijurisdictional body to review future requests for jurisdictional transfers. The board is hereby directed, beginning September 1, 1991, to receive petitions from cities, counties, or the state requesting any addition or deletion from the state highway system. The board is required to utilize the criteria established in RCW 47.17.001 in evaluating petitions and to adopt rules for implementation of this process. The board shall forward to the ~~((legislative))~~ senate and house transportation committees by November 15 each year any recommended jurisdictional transfers.

Sec. 131. RCW 47.26.170 and 1994 c 179 s 16 are each amended to read as follows:

Each county having within its boundaries an urban area and cities and towns shall prepare and submit to the transportation improvement board arterial inventory data required to determine the long-range arterial construction needs. The counties, cities, and towns shall revise the arterial inventory data every four years to show the current arterial construction needs through the advanced planning period, and as revised shall submit them to the transportation improvement board during the first week of January every four years beginning in 1996. The inventory data shall be prepared pursuant to guidelines established by the transportation improvement board. As information is updated, it shall be made available to the commission ~~((and the legislative transportation committee)).~~

Sec. 132. RCW 47.46.030 and 2002 c 114 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The secretary or a designee shall solicit proposals from, and negotiate and enter into agreements with, private entities to undertake as appropriate, together with the department and other public entities, all or a portion of the study, planning, design, construction, operation, and maintenance of transportation systems and facilities, using in whole or in part public or private sources of financing.

The public-private initiatives program may develop up to six demonstration projects. Each proposal shall be weighed on its own merits, and each of the six agreements shall be negotiated individually, and as a stand-alone project.

(2) If project proposals selected prior to September 1, 1994, are terminated by the public or private sectors, the department shall not select any new projects, including project proposals submitted to the department prior to September 1, 1994, and designated by the transportation commission as placeholder projects, after June 16, 1995, until June 30, 1997.

The department, in consultation with the legislative transportation committee, shall conduct a program and fiscal audit of the public-private initiatives program for the biennium ending June 30, 1997. The department shall submit a progress report to the legislative transportation committee on the program and fiscal audit by June 30, 1996, with preliminary and final audit reports due December 1, 1996, and June 30, 1997, respectively.

The department shall develop and submit a proposed public involvement plan to the 1997 legislature to identify the process for selecting new potential projects and the associated costs of implementing the plan. The legislature must adopt the public involvement plan before the department may proceed with any activity related to project identification and selection. Following legislative adoption of the public involvement plan, the department is authorized to implement the plan and to identify potential new projects.

The public involvement plan for projects selected after June 30, 1997, shall, at a minimum, identify projects that: (a) Have the potential of achieving overall public support among users of the projects, residents of communities in the vicinity of the projects, and residents of communities impacted by the projects; (b) meet a state transportation need; (c) provide a significant state benefit; and (d) provide competition among proposers and maximum cost benefits to users. Prospective projects may include projects identified by the department or submitted by the private sector.

Projects that meet the minimum criteria established under this section and the requirements of the public involvement plan developed by the department and approved by the legislature shall be submitted to the Washington state transportation commission for its review. ~~((The commission, in turn, shall submit a list of eligible projects to the legislative transportation committee for its consideration.))~~ Forty-five days after the submission to the ~~((legislative transportation committee))~~ commission of the list of eligible projects, the secretary is authorized to solicit proposals for the eligible project.

(3) Prior to entering into agreements with private entities under the requirements of RCW 47.46.040 for any project proposal selected before September 1, 1994, or after June 30, 1997, except as provided for in subsections ~~((42))~~ (11) and ~~((43))~~ (12) of this section, the department shall require an advisory vote as provided under subsections (5) through ~~((40))~~ (9) of this section.

(4) The advisory vote shall apply to project proposals selected prior to September 1, 1994, or after June 30, 1997, that receive public opposition as demonstrated by the submission to the department of original petitions bearing at least five thousand signatures of individuals opposing the project collected and submitted in accordance with the dates established in subsections ~~((42))~~ (11) and ~~((43))~~ (12) of this section. The advisory vote shall be on the preferred alternative identified under the requirements of chapter 43.21C RCW and, if applicable, the national environmental policy act, 42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq. The execution by the department of the advisory vote process established in this section is subject to the prior appropriation of funds by the legislature for the purpose of conducting environmental impact studies, a public involvement program, local involvement committee activities, traffic and economic impact analyses, engineering and technical studies, and the advisory vote.

(5) In preparing for the advisory vote, the department shall conduct a comprehensive analysis of traffic patterns and economic impact to define the geographical boundary of the project area that is affected by the imposition of tolls or user fees authorized under this chapter. The area so defined is referred to in this section as the affected project area. In defining the affected project area, the department shall, at a minimum, undertake: (a) A comparison of the estimated percentage of residents of communities in the vicinity of the project and in other communities impacted by the project who could be subject to tolls or user fees and the estimated percentage of other users and transient traffic that could be subject to tolls or user fees; (b) an analysis of the anticipated traffic diversion patterns; (c) an analysis of the potential economic impact resulting from proposed toll rates or user fee rates imposed on residents, commercial traffic, and commercial entities in communities in the vicinity of and impacted by the project; (d) an analysis of the economic impact of tolls or user fees on the price of goods and services generally; and (e) an analysis of the relationship of the project to state transportation needs and benefits.

(6)(a) After determining the definition of the affected project area, the department shall establish a committee comprised of individuals who represent cities and counties in the affected project area; organizations formed to support or oppose the project; and users of the project. The committee shall be named the public-private local involvement committee, and be known as the local involvement committee.

(b) The members of the local involvement committee shall be: (i) An elected official from each city within the affected project area; (ii) an elected official from each county within the affected project area; (iii) two persons from each county within the affected project area who represent an organization formed in support of the project, if the organization exists; (iv) two persons from each county within the affected project area who represent an organization formed to oppose the project, if the organization exists; and (v) four public members active in a statewide transportation organization. If the committee makeup results in an even number of committee members, there shall be an additional appointment of an elected official from the county in which all, or the greatest portion of the project is located.

(c) City and county elected officials shall be appointed by a majority of the members of the city or county legislative authorities of each city or county within the affected project area, respectively. The county legislative authority of each county within the affected project area shall identify and validate organizations officially formed in support of or in opposition to the project and shall make the appointments required under this section from a list submitted by the chair of the organizations. Public members shall be appointed by the governor. All appointments to the local involvement committee shall be made and submitted to the department of transportation no later than January 1, 1996, for projects selected prior to September 1, 1994, and no later than thirty days after the affected project area is defined for projects selected after June 30, 1997. Vacancies in the membership of the local involvement committee shall be filled by the appointing authority under (b)(i) through (v) of this subsection for each position on the committee.

(d) The local involvement committee shall serve in an advisory capacity to the department on all matters related to the execution of the advisory vote.

(e) Members of the local involvement committee serve without compensation and may not receive subsistence, lodging expenses, or travel expenses.

(7) The department shall conduct a minimum thirty-day public comment period on the definition of the geographical boundary of the project area. The department, in consultation with the local involvement committee, shall make adjustments, if required, to the definition of the geographical boundary of the affected project area, based on comments received from the public. Within fourteen calendar days after the public comment period, the department shall set the boundaries of the affected project area in units no smaller than a precinct as defined in RCW ~~((29.01.120))~~ 29A.04.121.

(8) The department, in consultation with the local involvement committee, shall develop a description for selected project proposals. After developing the description of the project proposal, the department shall publish the project proposal description in newspapers of general circulation for seven calendar days in the affected project area. Within fourteen calendar days after the last day of the publication of the project proposal description, the department shall transmit a copy of the map depicting the affected project area and the description of the project proposal to the county auditor of the county in which any portion of the affected project area is located.

~~(9) ((The department shall provide the legislative transportation committee with progress reports on the status of the definition of the affected project area and the description of the project proposal.~~

~~(10))~~ Upon receipt of the map and the description of the project proposal, the county auditor shall, within thirty days, verify the precincts that are located within the affected project area. The county auditor shall prepare the text identifying and describing the affected project area and the project proposal using the definition of the geographical boundary of the affected project area and the project description submitted by the department and shall set an election date for the submission of a ballot proposition authorizing the imposition of tolls or user fees to implement the proposed project within the affected project area, which date may be the next succeeding general election to be held in the state, or at a special election, if requested by the department. The text of the project proposal must appear in a voter's pamphlet for the affected project area. The department shall pay the costs of publication and distribution. The special election date must be the next date for a special election provided under RCW ~~((29.13.020))~~ 29A.04.330 that is at least sixty days but, if authorized under RCW ~~((29.13.020))~~ 29A.04.330, no more than ninety days after the receipt of the final map and project description by the auditor. The department shall pay the cost of an election held under this section.

~~((11))~~ (10) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the department may contract with a private developer of a selected project proposal to conduct environmental impact studies, a public involvement program, and engineering and technical studies funded by the legislature. For projects subject to this subsection, the department shall not enter into an agreement under RCW 47.46.040 prior to the advisory vote on the preferred alternative.

~~((12))~~ (11) Subsections (5) through ~~((10))~~ (9) of this section shall not apply to project proposals selected prior to September 1, 1994, that have no organized public opposition as demonstrated by the submission to the department of original petitions bearing at least five thousand signatures of individuals opposing the project, collected and submitted after September 1, 1994, and by thirty calendar days after June 16, 1995.

~~((13))~~ (12) Subsections (5) through ~~((10))~~ (9) of this section shall not apply to project proposals selected after June 30, 1997, that have no organized public opposition as demonstrated by the submission to the department of original petitions bearing at least five thousand signatures of individuals opposing the project, collected and submitted by ninety calendar days after project selection.

Sec. 133. RCW 47.46.040 and 2002 c 114 s 16 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The secretary or a designee shall consult with legal, financial, and other experts within and outside state government in the negotiation and development of the agreements.

(2) Agreements may provide for private ownership of the projects during the construction period. After completion and final acceptance of each project or discrete segment thereof, the agreement may provide for state ownership of the transportation systems and facilities and lease to the private entity unless the state elects to provide for ownership of the facility by the private entity during the term of the agreement.

The state may lease each of the demonstration projects, or applicable project segments, to the private entities for operating purposes for up to fifty years.

(3) The department may exercise any power possessed by it to facilitate the development, construction, financing operation, and maintenance of transportation projects under this section. Agreements for maintenance services entered into under this section shall provide for full reimbursement for services rendered by the department or other state agencies. Agreements for police services for projects, involving state highway routes, developed under agreements shall be entered into with the Washington state patrol. The agreement for police services shall provide that the state patrol will be reimbursed for costs on a comparable basis with the costs incurred for comparable service on other state highway routes. The department may provide services for which it is reimbursed, including but not limited to preliminary planning, environmental certification, and preliminary design of the demonstration projects.

(4) The plans and specifications for each project constructed under this section shall comply with the department's standards for state projects. A facility constructed by and leased to a private entity is deemed to be a part of the state highway system for purposes of identification, maintenance, and enforcement of traffic laws and for the purposes of applicable sections of this title. Upon reversion of the facility to the state, the project must meet all applicable state standards. Agreements shall address responsibility for reconstruction or renovations that are required in order for a facility to meet all applicable state standards upon reversion of the facility to the state.

(5) For the purpose of facilitating these projects and to assist the private entity in the financing, development, construction, and operation of the transportation systems and facilities, the agreements may include provisions for the department to exercise its authority, including the lease of facilities, rights of way, and airspace, exercise of the power of eminent domain, granting of development rights and opportunities, granting of necessary easements and rights of access, issuance of permits and other authorizations, protection from competition, remedies in the event of default of either of the parties, granting of contractual and real property rights, liability during construction and the term of the lease, authority to negotiate acquisition of rights of way in excess of appraised value, and any other provision deemed necessary by the secretary.

(6) The agreements entered into under this section may include provisions authorizing the state to grant necessary easements and lease to a private entity existing rights of way or rights of way subsequently acquired with public or private financing. The agreements may also include provisions to lease to the entity airspace above or below the right of way associated or to be associated with the private entity's transportation facility. In consideration for the reversion rights in these privately constructed facilities, the department may negotiate a charge for the lease of airspace rights during the term of the agreement for a period not to exceed fifty years. If, after the expiration of this period, the department continues to lease these airspace rights to the private entity, it shall do so only at fair market value. The agreement may also provide the private entity the right of first refusal to undertake projects utilizing airspace owned by the state in the vicinity of the public-private project.

(7) Agreements under this section may include any contractual provision that is necessary to protect the project revenues required to repay the costs incurred to study, plan, design, finance, acquire, build, install, operate, enforce laws, and maintain toll highways, bridges, and tunnels and which will not unreasonably inhibit or prohibit the development of additional public transportation systems and facilities. Agreements under this section must secure and maintain liability insurance coverage in amounts appropriate to protect the project's viability and may address state indemnification of the private entity for design and construction liability where the state has approved relevant design and construction plans.

(8) Agreements entered into under this section shall include a process that provides for public involvement in decision making with respect to the development of the projects.

(9)(a) In carrying out the public involvement process required in subsection (8) of this section, the private entity shall proactively seek public participation through a process appropriate to the characteristics of the project that assesses and demonstrates public support among: Users of the project, residents of communities in the vicinity of the project, and residents of communities impacted by the project.

(b) The private entity shall conduct a comprehensive public involvement process that provides, periodically throughout the development and implementation of the project, users and residents of communities in the affected project area an opportunity to comment upon key issues regarding the project including, but not limited to: (i) Alternative sizes and scopes; (ii) design; (iii) environmental assessment; (iv) right of way and access plans; (v) traffic impacts; (vi) tolling or user fee strategies and tolling or user fee ranges; (vii) project cost; (viii) construction impacts; (ix) facility operation; and (x) any other salient characteristics.

(c) If the affected project area has not been defined, the private entity shall define the affected project area by conducting, at a minimum: (i) A comparison of the estimated percentage of residents of communities in the vicinity of the project and in other communities impacted by the project who could be subject to tolls or user fees and the estimated percentage of other users and transient traffic that could be subject to tolls or user fees; (ii) an analysis of the anticipated traffic diversion patterns; (iii) an analysis of the potential economic impact resulting from proposed toll rates or user fee rates imposed on residents, commercial traffic, and commercial entities in communities in the vicinity of and impacted by the project; (iv) an analysis of the economic impact of tolls or user fees on the price of goods and services generally; and (v) an analysis of the relationship of the project to state transportation needs and benefits.

The agreement may require an advisory vote by users of and residents in the affected project area.

(d) In seeking public participation, the private entity shall establish a local involvement committee or committees comprised of residents of the affected project area, individuals who represent cities and counties in the affected project area, organizations formed to support or oppose the project, if such organizations exist, and users of the project. The private entity shall, at a minimum, establish a committee as required under the specifications of RCW 47.46.030(6)(b) (ii) and (iii) and appointments to such committee shall be made no later than thirty days after the project area is defined.

(e) Local involvement committees shall act in an advisory capacity to the department and the private entity on all issues related to the development and implementation of the public involvement process established under this section.

(f) The department and the private entity shall provide the (~~legislative transportation committee and~~) local involvement committees with progress reports on the status of the public involvement process including the results of an advisory vote, if any occurs.

(10) Nothing in this chapter limits the right of the secretary and his or her agents to render such advice and to make such recommendations as they deem to be in the best interests of the state and the public.

Sec. 134. RCW 79A.05.125 and 1999 c 301 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department of transportation shall negotiate a franchise with a rail carrier to establish and maintain a rail line over portions of the Milwaukee Road corridor owned by the state between Ellensburg and Lind. The department of transportation may negotiate such a franchise with any qualified rail carrier. Criteria for negotiating the franchise and establishing the right of way include:

(a) Assurances that resources from the franchise will be sufficient to compensate the state for use of the property, including completion of a cross-state trail between Easton and the Idaho border;

(2) The franchise may provide for periodic review of financial arrangements under the franchise.

The Washington utilities and transportation commission may enter into an agreement or arrangement with a duly authorized representative of the state of Idaho, for the purpose of granting to operators of commercial vehicles that are properly registered in the state of Idaho, the privilege of operating their vehicles in this state within a designated area near the border of their state without the need for registration as required by chapter 81.80 RCW if the state of Idaho grants a similar privilege to operators of commercial vehicles from this state. The initial designated area shall be limited to state route 195 from the Idaho border to Lewiston, and SR 12 from Lewiston to Clarkston. ~~((The utilities and transportation commission shall submit other proposed reciprocal agreements in designated border areas to the legislative transportation committee for approval.))~~

Sec. 136. RCW 81.104.110 and 1998 c 245 s 165 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature recognizes that the planning processes described in RCW 81.104.100 provide a recognized framework for guiding high capacity transportation studies. However, the process cannot guarantee appropriate decisions unless key study assumptions are reasonable.

To assure appropriate system plan assumptions and to provide for review of system plan results, an expert review panel shall be appointed to provide independent technical review for development of any system plan which is to be funded in whole or in part by the imposition of any voter-approved local option funding sources enumerated in RCW 81.104.140.

(5) The panel shall carry out the duties set forth in subsections (6) and (7) of this section until the date on which an election is held to consider the high capacity transportation system and financing plans. ~~((Funds appropriated for expenses of the expert panel shall be administered by the department of transportation.))~~

(6) The expert panel shall review all reports required in RCW 81.104.100(2) and shall concentrate on service modes and concepts, costs, patronage and financing evaluations.

(7) The expert panel shall provide timely reviews and comments on individual reports and study conclusions to the department of transportation, the regional transportation planning organization, the joint regional policy committee, and the submitting lead transit agency. In the case of counties adjoining another state or Canadian province, the expert review panel shall provide its reviews, comments, and conclusions to the representatives of the adjoining state or Canadian province.

(8) The ~~((legislative transportation committee))~~ local authority planning under this chapter shall contract for consulting services for expert review panels. The amount of consultant support shall be negotiated with each expert review panel by the ~~((legislative transportation committee))~~ local authority and shall be paid from ~~((appropriations for that purpose from the high capacity transportation account))~~ within the local authority's existing resources.

- (c) An unofficial state economic and revenue forecast based on pessimistic economic and revenue projections.

(2) The supervisor shall submit forecasts prepared under this section, along with any unofficial forecasts provided under RCW 82.33.010, to the governor and the members of the committees on ways and means and the chairs of the committees on transportation of the senate and house of representatives ~~((and the chair of the legislative transportation committee))~~, including one copy to the staff of each of the committees, on or before November 20th, February 20th in the even-numbered years, March 20th in the odd-numbered years, June 20th, and September 20th. All forecasts shall include both estimated receipts and estimated revenues in conformance with generally accepted accounting principles as provided by RCW 43.88.037.

(3) All agencies of state government shall provide to the supervisor immediate access to all information relating to economic and revenue forecasts. Revenue collection information shall be available to the supervisor the first business day following the conclusion of each collection period.

(4) The economic and revenue forecast supervisor and staff shall co-locate and share information, data, and files with the tax research section of the department of revenue but shall not duplicate the duties and functions of one another.

(5) As part of its forecasts under subsection (1) of this section, the supervisor shall provide estimated revenue from tuition fees as defined in RCW 28B.15.020.

Sec. 138. RCW 82.70.060 and 2003 c 364 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

The commute trip reduction task force shall determine the effectiveness of the tax credit under RCW 82.70.020, the grant program in RCW 70.94.996, and the relative effectiveness of the tax credit and the grant program as part of its ongoing evaluation of the commute trip reduction law and report to the ~~((legislative))~~ senate and house transportation committees and to the fiscal committees of the house of representatives and the senate. The report must include information on the amount of tax credits claimed to date and recommendations on future funding between the tax credit program and the grant program. The report must be incorporated into the recommendations required in RCW 70.94.537(5).

(1) The proceeds collected pursuant to the exercise of the local option authority of RCW 82.80.010, ~~((82.80.020,))~~ 82.80.030, and 82.80.050 (hereafter called "local option transportation revenues") shall be used for transportation purposes only, including but not limited to the following: The operation and preservation of roads, streets, and other transportation improvements; new construction, reconstruction, and expansion of city streets, county roads, and state highways and other transportation improvements; development and implementation of public transportation and high-capacity transit improvements and programs; and planning, design, and acquisition of right of way and sites for such transportation purposes. The proceeds collected from excise taxes on the sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel and special fuel under RCW 82.80.010 shall be used exclusively for "highway purposes" as that term is construed in Article II, section 40 of the state Constitution.

(2) The local option transportation revenues shall be expended for transportation uses consistent with the adopted transportation and land use plans of the jurisdiction expending the funds and consistent with any applicable and adopted regional transportation plan for metropolitan planning areas.

(3) Each local government with a population greater than eight thousand that levies or expends local option transportation funds, is also required to develop and adopt a specific transportation program that contains the following elements:

(a) The program shall identify the geographic boundaries of the entire area or areas within which local option transportation revenues will be levied and expended.

(b) The program shall be based on an adopted transportation plan for the geographic areas covered and shall identify the proposed operation and construction of transportation improvements and services in the designated plan area intended to be funded in whole or in part by local option transportation revenues and shall identify the annual costs applicable to the program.

(c) The program shall indicate how the local transportation plan is coordinated with applicable transportation plans for the region and for adjacent jurisdictions.

(d) The program shall include at least a six-year funding plan, updated annually, identifying the specific public and private sources and amounts of revenue necessary to fund the program. The program shall include a proposed schedule for construction of projects and expenditure of revenues. The funding plan shall consider the additional local tax revenue estimated to be generated by new development within the plan area if all or a portion of the additional revenue is proposed to be earmarked as future appropriations for transportation improvements in the program.

(4) Local governments with a population greater than eight thousand exercising the authority for local option transportation funds shall periodically review and update their transportation program to ensure that it is consistent with applicable local and regional transportation and land use plans and within the means of estimated public and private revenue available.

(5) In the case of expenditure for new or expanded transportation facilities, improvements, and services, priorities in the use of local option transportation revenues shall be identified in the transportation program and expenditures shall be made based upon the following criteria, which are stated in descending order of weight to be attributed:

- (a) First, the project serves a multijurisdictional function;
- (b) Second, it is necessitated by existing or reasonably foreseeable congestion;
- (c) Third, it has the greatest person-carrying capacity;

(d) Fourth, it is partially funded by other government funds, such as from the state transportation improvement board, or by private sector contributions, such as those from the local transportation act, chapter 39.92 RCW; and

- (e) Fifth, it meets such other criteria as the local government determines is appropriate.

(6) It is the intent of the legislature that as a condition of levying, receiving, and expending local option transportation revenues, no local government agency use the revenues to replace, divert, or loan any revenues currently being used for transportation purposes to nontransportation purposes. ~~((The association of Washington cities and the Washington state association of counties, in consultation with the legislative transportation committee, shall study the issue of nondiversion and make recommendations to the legislative transportation committee for language implementing the intent of this section by December 1, 1990.))~~

(7) Local governments are encouraged to enter into interlocal agreements to jointly develop and adopt with other local governments the transportation programs required by this section for the purpose of accomplishing regional transportation planning and development.

(8) Local governments may use all or a part of the local option transportation revenues for the amortization of local government general obligation and revenue bonds issued for transportation purposes consistent with the requirements of this section.

(9) Subsections (1) through (8) of this section do not apply to a regional transportation investment district imposing a tax or fee under the local option authority of this chapter. Proceeds collected under the exercise of local option authority under this chapter by a district must be used in accordance with chapter 36.120 RCW.

Sec. 140. RCW 90.03.525 and 1996 c 285 s 1 and 1996 c 230 s 1617 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) The rate charged by a local government utility to the department of transportation with respect to state highway right of way or any section of state highway right of way for the construction, operation, and maintenance of storm water control facilities under chapters 35.67, 35.92, 36.89, 36.94, 57.08, and 86.15 RCW, shall be thirty percent of the rate for comparable real property, except as otherwise provided in this section. The rate charged to the department with respect to state highway right of way or any section of state highway right of way within a local government utility's jurisdiction shall not, however, exceed the rate charged for comparable city street or county road right of way within the same jurisdiction. The legislature finds that the aforesaid rates are presumptively fair and equitable because of the traditional and continuing expenditures of the department of transportation for the construction, operation, and maintenance of storm water control facilities designed to control surface water or storm water runoff from state highway rights of way.

(2) Charges paid under subsection (1) of this section by the department of transportation must be used solely for storm water control facilities that directly reduce state highway runoff impacts or implementation of best management practices that will reduce the need for such facilities. By January 1st of each year, beginning with calendar year 1997, the local government utility, in coordination with the department, shall develop a plan for the expenditure of the charges for that calendar year. The plan must be consistent with the objectives identified in RCW 90.78.010. In addition, beginning with the submittal for 1998, the utility shall provide a progress report on the use of charges assessed for the prior year. No charges may be paid until the plan and report have been submitted to the department.

(3) The utility imposing the charge and the department of transportation may, however, agree to either higher or lower rates with respect to the construction, operation, or maintenance of any specific storm water control facilities based upon the annual plan prescribed in subsection (2) of this section. ~~((If a different rate is agreed to, a report so stating shall be submitted to the legislative transportation committee.))~~ If, after mediation, the local government utility and the department of transportation cannot agree upon the proper rate, ~~((and after a report has been submitted to the legislative transportation committee and after ninety days from submission of such report.))~~ either may commence an action in the superior court for the county in which the state highway right of way is located to establish the proper rate. The court in establishing the proper rate shall take into account the extent and adequacy of storm water control facilities constructed by the department and the actual benefits to the sections of state highway rights of way from storm water control facilities constructed, operated, and maintained by the local government utility. Control of surface water runoff and storm water runoff from state highway rights of way shall be deemed an actual benefit to the state highway rights of way. The rate for sections of state highway right of way as determined by the court shall be set forth in terms of the percentage of the rate for comparable real property, but shall in no event exceed the rate charged for comparable city street or county road right of way within the same jurisdiction.

(4) The legislature finds that the federal clean water act (national ~~((pollution [pollutant]))~~ pollutant discharge elimination system, 40 C.F.R. parts 122-124), the state water pollution control act, chapter 90.48 RCW, and the highway runoff program under chapter ~~((90.70))~~ 90.71 RCW, mandate the treatment and control of storm water runoff from state highway rights of way owned by the department of transportation. Appropriations made by the legislature to the department of transportation for the construction, operation, and maintenance of storm water control facilities are intended to address applicable federal and state mandates related to storm water control and treatment. This section is not intended to limit opportunities for sharing the costs of storm water improvements between cities, counties, and the state.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Schmidt: "Thank you Mr. President. We have an honored guest with us today that's going to be allowed to address us for just a few minutes. We know our schedules are very tight. It's my honor and my pleasure to introduce to you Brigadier General Oscar Hilman. General Hilman was our Brigade Commander for about approximately 3.5 thousand National Guards soldiers that are just now finishing their term in Iraq. As most of you know also, General Hilman was responsible for the flag that we have here in the back of the chambers. He had sent it to us. It was the flag that was flown over camp Anaconda, which is our Brigade headquarters there in Iraq for many of our state residents. I don't have time to go into a personal story but General Hilman and I go back about thirteen years. We've known each other a long time. We've served each other in various capacities and I've always considered both him and his wife, Patty, as very good friends and I think it's an honor to have you here today, sir. We're glad to have you back home and we thank you for how you've represented all of us, the citizens in the state of Washington as being the commander of our citizen-soldiers as they were serving in a time like this. Welcome."

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "Brigadier General Hilman assumed his duties as the Commander of the 81st armor Brigade on May 15, 2002 as the Brigade Commander. He's responsible for the readiness and mobilization preparedness of the separate heavy Brigade consisting of two army battalions, one mechanized infantry battalion, one direct support artillery battalion, one combat engineer battalion, one forward support battalion, one military intelligence company, one calvary troop, one air defense artillery and a headquarters and headquarters company. He began his very distinguished career in 1969. I'm very proud and honored to have this highly respected, decorated soldier with us today. General Hilman has just been noted, just returned from Iraq to lead the 81st Armor Brigade. It's my great privilege to be able to present him to you. General Hilman."

REMARKS BY GENERAL HILMAN

General Hilman: "Thank you very much. Mr. President, honorable members of the Washington State Senate. I am honored to be here today and I want to share with you with a profound sense of pride and accomplishment that these citizen-soldiers of the Washington Army National Guard and 81st Brigade and Combat Team, of successfully serving our nation and our state during Operation Iraqi Freedom two. Just a little over a year ago the 81st Brigade combat Team responding to a call to our nation, a symbol of our 'Evergreen State.' It was the largest call up since World War II. We arrived in Theatre with 3200 men and women from Washington state, augmented with proud soldiers from Minnesota and California, bringing our total strength to 4,000 soldiers in Saudi, Kuwait and Iraq. We took with us 1,200 vehicles, Abram tanks, Bradley fighting vehicles, and about over 300 Humvees. I'm privileged and proud to serve as the Commanding General of the 81st Brigade. It is reflected of what we strive to achieve. To serve our nation and our state. During the twelve months in Iraq, the 81st Brigade Combat Team represented Washington state with valor and noteworthy accomplishment. Our direct efforts to secure Iraq we're realized on June 28, with the early transfer of severingty and perhaps our greatest accomplishment was the first democratic election occurred on January 30. During our combat tour in Iraq, the 81st Brigade soldiers conducted 9,075 combat patrols, seventy-seven combat raids, 197 searches and succeeded in 162 combat engagements. I'm here to report to you that we accomplished our mission with professionalism, honor and pride and a job well done. Our success, however, came with the ultimate sacrifice of loss of nine soldiers, three from Washington state, five from California and one from Michigan. We mourn with the loss of these soldiers and we all continue to serve with honor and pride as testament to this patriotism. Most of the 81st Brigade soldiers are home now. We look forward to full return of our soldiers by April 3. After completing our demobilization at Fort Lewis, the soldiers will enjoy much-deserved time with their families. The soldiers will also return to their traditional National Guard roles in civilian employment within the next two to three months. This combat tour was a challenging and significant experience with the citizen-soldiers of Washington state. I'm proud to stand here today to salute you, the Legislature, the Governor and our citizens for their outstanding support. Your warm welcome is also greatly appreciated by the men and women of the 81st Brigade soldiers and we thank you so much."

The department of labor and industries shall prepare master documents that provide informational material about:

(1) Construction lien laws and available safeguards against real property lien claims. The material shall include methods of protection against lien claims, including obtaining lien release documents, performance bonds, joint payee checks, the opportunity to require contractor disclosure of all potential lien claimants as a condition of payment, and lender supervision under RCW 60.04.200 and 60.04.210. The material shall also include sources of further information, including the department of labor and industries and the office of the attorney general.

(2) The basics of lien law relating to owner-occupied residential improvements and new construction projects, including a list of available safeguards against real property lien claims, which the homeowner must consider, reject, or select. Before any building permit may be issued for the construction of a new owner-occupied single-family residence or for the improvement to an owner-occupied single-family residence for an amount in excess of one thousand dollars, if the construction will involve the services of a prime contractor, the permit issuing agency shall not issue any permit until the homeowner has personally, and not through an agent, acknowledged receipt of the document. When the homeowner completes the document by making selections, as indicated in the document, and submits it to the agency, the permit issuing agency shall maintain a copy of the completed document in the file of the permit issuing agency relating to the homeowner's permit application. The document shall be in substantially the following form and shall also include information describing the scope and limits of state contractor bonding requirements, the provisions of this act, and the availability of further information, including the department of labor and industries and the office of the attorney general.

Dear Homeowner:

You must complete the items below and select from the options below what protection, if any, you want against potential lien claims on your property as a result of the construction work for which you are contracting. If your contractor fails to pay subcontractors, suppliers, or laborers or neglects to make other legally required payments, those who are owed money can file a lien against your property for payment, even if you have paid your contractor in full. Anyone filing a valid lien claim may force the sale of your property to recover the unpaid amount. This is true if you have hired a contractor to build a new home or are buying a newly built home. It is also true when you remodel or improve your property.

People who supply materials or labor ordered by your contractor are permitted by law to file a lien only if they do so within ninety days of cessation of performance or delivery of materials. The time frame is spelled out in RCW 60.04.091.

If you enter into a contract to buy a newly built home, you may not receive a notice of a lien based on a claim by a contractor or material supplier. You should inquire of your lender and title insurer about title insurance coverage for liens that may arise from the construction of your home, but that are not recorded until after you take possession of your home. Be aware that a lien may be claimed even though you have not received a notice. Before making final payment on the project, obtain a completed lien release form from each contractor and material supplier. A sample of this release of lien form is available from the department of labor and industries, contractor registration section.

You have final responsibility for seeing that all bills are paid even if you have paid your contractor in full.

If you are dealing with a lending institution, ask your loan officer what precautions the lending institution takes to verify that subcontractors and material suppliers are being paid when mortgage money is paid to your contractor. You may want to request lender supervision if your lending institution is providing interim or construction financing.

If you receive a notice to enforce a lien, take the notice seriously. Let your contractor know you have received the notice. Find out what arrangements are being made to pay the sender of the notice.

When in doubt, or if you need more details, consult your attorney. When and how to pay your contractor is a decision that requires serious consideration. Washington law, RCW 18.27.114, requires contractors to give you this disclosure statement if your contract exceeds one thousand dollars.

Complete the following information, select below how you want to protect yourself from possible lien claims on your property, and inform your contractor of your selections or discuss your selections with your contractor.

I, (owner's name)

am agreeing to have (contractor's name)

perform the following construction work (basic description)

at (location of your property using an address, legal description or approximate address) in the amount of $ including all federal, state, and local taxes, and this amount may be adjusted only if authorized by me in writing.

To protect myself against possible lien claims in the future for this work, I (select one):

..... will only issue checks made payable jointly, naming the contractor and the subcontractor or supplier as payees.

..... will only issue checks to the contractor and subcontractors in the amounts equal to the amounts for which lien releases that release all lien rights to those amounts, as provided by RCW 60.04.071, have been provided to me by each lien claimant requesting payment.

..... want the contractor to post a bond to assure both performance of this construction work and payment to all subcontractors and suppliers in the amount of (select one) . . . the total contract amount . . . in the amount of $ (Note: Your contractor may add the cost of this bond to your contract price.)

..... will be using as an escrow agent to disburse construction funds and to protect my interests. (NOTE: Before making this selection, find out whether the escrow agent you plan to use will protect you against liens when disbursing payments. If you are interested in using this alternative, consult your attorney.)

..... want this contractor to set up a trust account for all funds I pay to this contractor, and the trust funds must be disbursed in accordance with our construction agreement to subcontractors and suppliers.

..... DO NOT want any of the above protections from potential lien claims against my property as a result of this construction work.

In addition to the above selection, I choose ONE of the following: . . . WANT . . . DO NOT WANT the prime residential contractor to disclose all potential lien claimants as a condition of payment. (NOTE: A lien claimant must, under RCW 60.04.091, mail by certified or registered mail or by personal service a copy of the claim of lien to the owner within fourteen days of the time the lien is recorded. While an action is ongoing, the law, RCW 60.04.151, allows an owner to withhold from this prime residential contractor the amount of money for which a claim is recorded by a subcontractor, supplier, or laborer.)

More information about contractors is available by visiting the department of labor and industries on the Internet at www.LNI.wa.gov/SCS/contractors/ or by calling the contractor registration hotline at 1-800-647-0982. (3) The period provided for recording the claim of lien is a period of limitation and no action to foreclose a lien shall be maintained unless the claim of lien is filed for recording within the ninety-day period stated. The lien claimant shall give a copy of the claim of lien to the owner or reputed owner by mailing it by certified or registered mail or by personal service within fourteen days of the time the claim of lien is filed for recording. Sec. 5. RCW 60.04.250 and 1990 c 81 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The department of labor and industries shall prepare master documents that provide informational material about:

(1) Construction lien laws and available safeguards against real property lien claims. The material shall include methods of protection against lien claims, including obtaining lien release documents, performance bonds, joint payee checks, the opportunity to require contractor disclosure of all potential lien claimants as a condition of payment, and lender supervision under RCW 60.04.200 and 60.04.210. The material shall also include sources of further information, including the department of labor and industries and the office of the attorney general.

(2) The basics of lien law relating to owner-occupied residential improvements and new construction projects. Before any building permit may be issued for the construction of a new owner-occupied single-family residence or for the improvement to an owner-occupied single-family residence for an amount in excess of one thousand dollars, if the construction will involve the services of a prime contractor, the permit issuing agency shall not issue any permit until the homeowner has personally, and not through an agent, acknowledged receipt of the document. When the homeowner completes the document by making selections, as indicated in the document, and submits it to the agency, the permit issuing agency shall maintain a copy of the completed document in the file of the permit issuing agency relating to the homeowner's permit application. The document shall be in substantially the following form and shall also include information describing the scope and limits of state contractor bonding requirements, the provisions of this act, and the availability of further information, including the department of labor and industries and the office of the attorney general.

Dear Homeowner:

The construction work for which you are contracting can subject you to significant financial responsibilities that may be affected by the actions of others. For example, if your contractor fails to pay subcontractors, suppliers, or laborers or neglects to make other legally required payments, those who are owed money can file a lien against your property for payment, even if you have paid your contractor in full. Anyone filing a valid lien claim may force the sale of your property to recover the unpaid amount. This is true if you have hired a contractor to build a new home or are buying a newly built home. It is also true when you remodel or improve your property.

People who supply materials or labor ordered by your contractor are permitted by law to file a lien only if they do so within ninety days of cessation of performance or delivery of materials. The time frame is spelled out in RCW 60.04.091.

If you enter into a contract to buy a newly built home, you may not receive a notice of a lien based on a claim by a contractor or material supplier. You should inquire of your lender and title insurer about title insurance coverage for liens that may arise from the construction of your home, but that are not recorded until after you take possession of your home. Be aware that a lien may be claimed even though you have not received a notice. Before making final payment on the project, obtain a completed lien release form from each contractor and material supplier. A sample of this release of lien form is available from the department of labor and industries, contractor registration section.

You have final responsibility for seeing that all bills are paid even if you have paid your contractor in full.

If you are dealing with a lending institution, ask your loan officer what precautions the lending institution takes to verify that subcontractors and material suppliers are being paid when mortgage money is paid to your contractor. You may want to request lender supervision if your lending institution is providing interim or construction financing.

If you receive a notice to enforce a lien, take the notice seriously. Let your contractor know you have received the notice. Find out what arrangements are being made to pay the sender of the notice.

When in doubt, or if you need more details, consult your attorney. When and how to pay your contractor is a decision that requires serious consideration. Washington law, RCW 18.27.114, requires contractors to give you this disclosure statement if your contract exceeds one thousand dollars.

(NOTE: A lien claimant must, under RCW 60.04.091, mail by certified or registered mail or by personal service a copy of the claim of lien to the owner within fourteen days of the time the lien is recorded. While an action is ongoing, the law, RCW 60.04.151, allows an owner to withhold from this prime residential contractor the amount of money for which a claim is recorded by a subcontractor, supplier, or laborer.)

More information about contractors is available by visiting the department of labor and industries on the Internet at www.LNI.wa.gov/SCS/contractors/ or by calling the contractor registration hotline at 1-800-647-0982. You may also call your local department of labor and industries office. See listings under "Washington state of" in the government section or the white pages of the telephone book.

Sec. 6. RCW 18.27.020 and 1997 c 314 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

- (1) Every contractor shall register with the department.
- (2) It is a gross misdemeanor for any contractor to:
 - (a) Advertise, offer to do work, submit a bid, or perform any work as a contractor without being registered as required by this chapter;
 - (b) Advertise, offer to do work, submit a bid, or perform any work as a contractor when the contractor's registration is suspended or revoked;
 - (c) Use a false or expired registration number in purchasing or offering to purchase an advertisement for which a contractor registration number is required; or
 - (d) Transfer a valid registration to an unregistered contractor or allow an unregistered contractor to work under a registration issued to another contractor.
- (3) It is not unlawful for a general contractor to employ an unregistered contractor who was registered at the time he or she entered into a contract with the general contractor, unless the general contractor or his or her representative has been notified in writing by the department of labor and industries that the contractor has become unregistered.
- (4) All (~~misdemeanor~~) actions under this chapter shall be prosecuted in the county where the infraction occurs.
- (5) A person is guilty of a separate gross misdemeanor for each day worked if, after the person receives a citation from the department, the person works while unregistered, or while his or her registration is suspended or revoked, or works under a registration issued to another contractor. A person is guilty of a separate gross misdemeanor for each worksite on which he or she violates subsection (2) of this section. Nothing in this subsection applies to a registered contractor.
- (6) The director by rule shall establish a two-year audit and monitoring program for a contractor not registered under this chapter who becomes registered after receiving an infraction or conviction under this chapter as an unregistered contractor. The director shall notify the departments of revenue and employment security of the infractions or convictions and shall cooperate with these departments to determine whether any taxes or registration, license, or other fees or penalties are owed the state.

Sec. 7. RCW 18.27.040 and 2001 c 159 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

- (1) Each applicant shall file with the department a surety bond issued by a surety insurer who meets the requirements of chapter 48.28 RCW in the sum of twelve thousand dollars if the applicant is a general contractor and six thousand dollars if the applicant is a specialty contractor. If no valid bond is already on file with the department at the time the application is filed, a bond must accompany the registration application. The bond shall have the state of Washington named as obligee with good and sufficient surety in a form to be approved by the department. The bond shall be continuous and may be canceled by the surety upon the surety giving written notice to the director. A cancellation or revocation of the bond or withdrawal of the surety from the bond automatically suspends the registration issued to the registrant until a new bond or reinstatement notice has been filed and approved as provided in this section. The bond shall be conditioned that the applicant will pay all persons performing labor, including employee benefits, for the contractor, will pay all taxes and contributions due to the state of Washington, and will pay all persons furnishing labor or material or renting or supplying equipment to the contractor and will pay all amounts that may be adjudged against the contractor by reason of breach of contract including negligent or improper work in the conduct of the contracting business. A change in the name of a business or a change in the type of business entity shall not impair a bond for the purposes of this section so long as one of the original applicants for such bond maintains partial ownership in the business covered by the bond.

(2) At the time of initial registration or renewal, the contractor shall provide a bond or other security deposit as required by this chapter and comply with all of the other provisions of this chapter before the department shall issue or renew the contractor's certificate of registration. Any contractor registered as of July 1, 2001, who maintains that registration in accordance with this chapter is in compliance with this chapter until the next renewal of the contractor's certificate of registration.

(3) Any person, firm, or corporation having a claim against the contractor for any of the items referred to in this section may bring suit upon the bond or deposit in the superior court of the county in which the work was done or of any county in which jurisdiction of the contractor may be had. The surety issuing the bond shall be named as a party to any suit upon the bond. Action upon the bond or deposit brought by a residential homeowner for breach of contract by a party to the construction contract shall be commenced by filing the summons and complaint with the clerk of the appropriate superior court within two years from the date the claimed contract work was substantially completed or abandoned. Action upon the bond or deposit brought by any other authorized party shall be commenced by filing the summons and complaint with the clerk of the appropriate superior court within one year from the date the claimed labor was performed and benefits accrued, taxes and contributions owing the state of Washington became due, materials and equipment were furnished, or the claimed contract work was substantially completed or abandoned. Service of process in an action against the contractor, the contractor's bond, or the deposit shall be exclusively by service upon the department. Three copies of the summons and complaint and a fee adopted by rule of not less than twenty dollars to cover the costs shall be served by registered or certified mail, or other delivery service requiring notice of receipt, upon the department at the time suit is started and the department shall maintain a record, available for public inspection, of all suits so commenced. Service is not complete until the department receives the fee and three copies of the summons and complaint. The service shall constitute service on the registrant and the surety for suit upon the bond or deposit and the department shall transmit the summons and complaint or a copy thereof to the registrant at the address listed in the registrant's application and to the surety within two days after it shall have been received.

(4) The surety upon the bond shall not be liable in an aggregate amount in excess of the amount named in the bond nor for any monetary penalty assessed pursuant to this chapter for an infraction. The liability of the surety shall not cumulate where the bond has been renewed, continued, reinstated, reissued or otherwise extended. The surety upon the bond may, upon notice to the department and the parties, tender to the clerk of the court having jurisdiction of the action an amount equal to the claims thereunder or the amount of the bond less the amount of judgments, if any, previously satisfied therefrom and to the extent of such tender the surety upon the bond shall be exonerated but if the actions commenced and pending at any one time exceed the amount of the bond then unimpaired, claims shall be satisfied from the bond in the following order:

- (a) Employee labor and claims of laborers, including employee benefits;
- (b) Claims for breach of contract by a party to the construction contract;
- (c) Registered or licensed subcontractors, material, and equipment;
- (d) Taxes and contributions due the state of Washington;
- (e) Any court costs, interest, and ~~((attorney's [attorneys]))~~ attorneys' fees plaintiff may be entitled to recover. The surety is not liable for any amount in excess of the penal limit of its bond.

A payment made by the surety in good faith exonerates the bond to the extent of any payment made by the surety.

(5) The total amount paid from a bond or deposit required of a general contractor by this section to claimants other than residential homeowners must not exceed one-half of the bond amount. The total amount paid from a bond or deposit required of a specialty contractor by this section to claimants other than residential homeowners must not exceed one-half of the bond amount or four thousand dollars, whichever is greater.

(6) The prevailing party in an action filed under this section against the contractor and contractor's bond or deposit, for breach of contract by a party to a construction contract, is entitled to costs, interest, and reasonable attorneys' fees. The surety upon the bond is not liable in an aggregate amount in excess of the amount named in the bond nor for any monetary penalty assessed pursuant to this chapter for an infraction.

(7) If a final judgment impairs the liability of the surety upon the bond so furnished that there is not in effect a bond in the full amount prescribed in this section, the registration of the contractor is automatically suspended until the bond liability in the required amount unimpaired by unsatisfied judgment claims is furnished.

(8) In lieu of the surety bond required by this section the contractor may file with the department a deposit consisting of cash or other security acceptable to the department.

(9) Any person having filed and served a summons and complaint as required by this section having an unsatisfied final judgment against the registrant for any items referred to in this section may execute upon the security held by the department by serving a certified copy of the unsatisfied final judgment by registered or certified mail upon the department within one year of the date of entry of such judgment. Upon the receipt of service of such certified copy the department shall pay or order paid from the deposit, through the registry of the superior court which rendered judgment, towards the amount of the unsatisfied judgment. The priority of payment by the department shall be the order of receipt by the department, but the department shall have no liability for payment in excess of the amount of the deposit.

(10) The director (~~may~~) shall require an applicant applying to renew or reinstate a registration or applying for a new registration to file a bond of (~~up to three~~) at least two times, but not more than five times the normally required amount, if the director determines that;

(a) An applicant, or a previous registration of a corporate officer, owner, or partner of a current applicant, has had in the past five years a total of six final judgments in actions under this chapter involving a residential single-family dwelling on two or more different structures; or

(b) The applicant engages in the new construction, repair, alteration, or remodel of the single-family residence or appurtenant garage of any residential homeowner, as defined in RCW 60.04.031(7), and the applicant, or a previous registration of a corporate officer, owner, or partner of a current applicant, or the employee with the greatest executive, management, physical, or actual control over the accounting or disbursement of funds received by the contractor from residential homeowners have been party to a filing instituted pursuant to section 3 of this act, where a claim against the party or parties has been jointly made by a residential homeowner and a potential lien claimant.

(11) The director may adopt rules necessary for the proper administration of the security.

(1) A bargaining unit of employees covered by this chapter existing on June 13, 2002, shall be considered an appropriate unit, unless the unit does not meet the requirements of (a) and (b) of this subsection. The commission, after hearing upon reasonable notice to all interested parties, shall decide, in each application for certification as an exclusive bargaining representative, the unit appropriate for certification. In determining the new units or modifications of existing units, the commission shall consider: The duties, skills, and working conditions of the employees; the history of collective bargaining; the extent of organization among the employees; the desires of the employees; and the avoidance of excessive fragmentation. However, a unit is not appropriate if it includes:

(3) The exclusive bargaining representatives certified to represent the bargaining units existing on June 13, 2002, shall continue as the exclusive bargaining representative without the necessity of an election.

~~((3))~~ (4) If a single employee organization is the exclusive bargaining representative for two or more units, upon petition by the employee organization, the units may be consolidated into a single larger unit if the commission considers the larger unit to be appropriate. SENATE BILL NO. 5477, by Senators Kline, Brandland, Hargrove, Esser, Fairley, Kastama, Shin, Pridemore, Weinstein, Haugen, Berkey, Prentice and Rockefeller Revising sentencing procedures for exceptional sentences.

The measure was read the second time.

MOTION

Senator Kline moved that the following striking amendment by Senator Kline be adopted:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. It is the intent of the legislature to restore the ability to impose an aggravated sentence lost by the superior court as a result of the decision of the United States supreme court in Blakely v. State of Washington, 542 U.S. ... (2004). The legislature finds that as the seriousness level of the crime and the criminal history of the offender increase, the need for an individualized and informed assessment of the circumstances of the crime, the offender, and the victim, by the judiciary, is necessary for justice to be obtained. The legislature further finds that the exercise of the judiciary's sentencing discretion over a broader range based upon the assessment of these circumstances is consistent with the policies supporting Washington's sentencing reform act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 9.94A RCW to read as follows:

(1) For offenders convicted of a violent offense, the upper limit of the standard sentencing range shall be advisory only. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the maximum sentence that a court may impose for a violent offense is the maximum sentence for the current offense under chapter 9A.20 RCW, or twice the upper limit of the standard sentencing range, whichever is less. This provision shall not apply to any offender sentenced under RCW 9.94A.712 or section 7 of this act.

(2) In making its determination of the sentence length to be imposed, the court shall consider the risk assessment prepared by the department of corrections, the presentence report and other materials provided by the offender, and any information provided by the victim or victims of the crime.

(3) A sentence imposed under this section shall be a determinate sentence unless it is imposed on an offender sentenced under RCW 9.94A.712. The sentence may be appealed by the offender or the state as set forth in RCW 9.94A.585 (2) through (6).

Sec. 3. RCW 9.94A.480 and 2002 c 290 s 16 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) A current, newly created or reworked judgment and sentence document for each felony sentencing shall record any and all recommended sentencing agreements or plea agreements and the sentences for any and all felony crimes kept as public records under RCW 9.94A.475 shall contain the clearly printed name and legal signature of the sentencing judge. The judgment and sentence document as defined in this section shall also provide additional space for the sentencing judge's reasons, if any, for going either above or below the presumptive or advisory sentence range for any and all felony crimes covered as public records under RCW 9.94A.475. Both the sentencing judge and the prosecuting attorney's office shall each retain or receive a completed copy of each sentencing document as defined in this section for their own records.

(2) The sentencing guidelines commission shall be sent a completed copy of the judgment and sentence document upon conviction for each felony sentencing under subsection (1) of this section and shall compile a yearly and cumulative judicial record of each sentencing judge in regards to his or her sentencing practices for any and all felony crimes involving:

(a) Any violent offense as defined in this chapter;

(b) Any most serious offense as defined in this chapter;

(c) Any felony with any deadly weapon special verdict under RCW 9.94A.602;

(d) Any felony with any deadly weapon enhancements under RCW 9.94A.533 (3) or (4), or both; and/or

(e) The felony crimes of possession of a machine gun, possessing a stolen firearm, drive-by shooting, theft of a firearm, unlawful possession of a firearm in the first or second degree, and/or use of a machine gun in a felony.

(3) The sentencing guidelines commission shall compare each individual judge's sentencing practices to the standard ~~((~~¶~~))~~, presumptive, or advisory sentence range for any and all felony crimes listed in subsection (2) of this section for the appropriate offense level as defined in RCW 9.94A.515 or 9.94A.518, offender score as defined in RCW 9.94A.525, and any applicable deadly weapon enhancements as defined in RCW 9.94A.533 (3) or (4), or both. These comparative records shall be retained and made available to the public for review in a current, newly created or reworked official published document by the sentencing guidelines commission.

(4) Any and all felony sentences which are either above or below the standard ~~((~~¶~~))~~, presumptive, or advisory sentence range in subsection (3) of this section shall also mark whether the prosecuting attorney in the case also recommended a similar sentence, if any, which was either above or below the standard, presumptive, or advisory sentence range and shall also indicate if the sentence was in conjunction with an approved alternative sentencing option including a first-time offender waiver, sex offender sentencing alternative, or other prescribed sentencing option.

(5) If any completed judgment and sentence document as defined in subsection (1) of this section is not sent to the sentencing guidelines commission as required in subsection (2) of this section, the sentencing guidelines commission shall have the authority and shall undertake reasonable and necessary steps to assure that all past, current, and future sentencing documents as defined in subsection (1) of this section are received by the sentencing guidelines commission.

Sec. 4. RCW 9.94A.505 and 2002 c 290 s 17, 2002 c 289 s 6, and 2002 c 175 s 6 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) When a person is convicted of a felony, the court shall impose punishment as provided in this chapter.

(2)(a) The court shall impose a sentence as provided in the following sections and as applicable in the case:

(i) Unless another term of confinement applies, the court shall impose a sentence within the standard sentence range established in RCW 9.94A.510 or 9.94A.517;

(ii) RCW 9.94A.700 and 9.94A.705, relating to community placement;

(iii) RCW 9.94A.710 and 9.94A.715, relating to community custody;

(iv) RCW 9.94A.545, relating to community custody for offenders whose term of confinement is one year or less;

(v) RCW 9.94A.570, relating to persistent offenders;

(vi) RCW 9.94A.540, relating to mandatory minimum terms;

(vii) RCW 9.94A.650, relating to the first-time offender waiver;

(viii) RCW 9.94A.660, relating to the drug offender sentencing alternative;

(ix) RCW 9.94A.670, relating to the special sex offender sentencing alternative;

(x) RCW 9.94A.712, relating to certain sex offenses;

(xi) RCW 9.94A.535, relating to exceptional sentences;

(xii) RCW 9.94A.589, relating to consecutive and concurrent sentences;

(xiii) Section 2 of this act relating to violent offenses.

(b) If a standard sentence range has not been established for the offender's crime, the court shall impose a determinate sentence which may include not more than one year of confinement; community restitution work; until July 1, 2000, a term of community supervision not to exceed one year and on and after July 1, 2000, a term of community custody not to exceed one year, subject to conditions and sanctions as authorized in RCW 9.94A.710 (2) and (3); and/or other legal financial obligations. The court may impose a sentence which provides more than one year of confinement if the court finds reasons justifying an exceptional sentence as provided in RCW 9.94A.535.

(3) If the court imposes a sentence requiring confinement of thirty days or less, the court may, in its discretion, specify that the sentence be served on consecutive or intermittent days. A sentence requiring more than thirty days of confinement shall be served on consecutive days. Local jail administrators may schedule court-ordered intermittent sentences as space permits.

(4) If a sentence imposed includes payment of a legal financial obligation, it shall be imposed as provided in RCW 9.94A.750, 9.94A.753, 9.94A.760, and 43.43.7541.

(5) Except as provided under RCW 9.94A.750(4) and 9.94A.753(4), a court may not impose a sentence providing for a term of confinement or community supervision, community placement, or community custody which exceeds the statutory maximum for the crime as provided in chapter 9A.20 RCW.

(6) The sentencing court shall give the offender credit for all confinement time served before the sentencing if that confinement was solely in regard to the offense for which the offender is being sentenced.

(7) The court shall order restitution as provided in RCW 9.94A.750 and 9.94A.753.

(8) As a part of any sentence, the court may impose and enforce crime-related prohibitions and affirmative conditions as provided in this chapter.

(9) The court may order an offender whose sentence includes community placement or community supervision to undergo a mental status evaluation and to participate in available outpatient mental health treatment, if the court finds that reasonable grounds exist to believe that the offender is a mentally ill person as defined in RCW 71.24.025, and that this condition is likely to have influenced the offense. An order requiring mental status evaluation or treatment must be based on a presentence report and, if applicable, mental status evaluations that have been filed with the court to determine the offender's competency or eligibility for a defense of insanity. The court may order additional evaluations at a later date if deemed appropriate.

(10) In any sentence of partial confinement, the court may require the offender to serve the partial confinement in work release, in a program of home detention, on work crew, or in a combined program of work crew and home detention.

(11) In sentencing an offender convicted of a crime of domestic violence, as defined in RCW 10.99.020, if the offender has a minor child, or if the victim of the offense for which the offender was convicted has a minor child, the court may, as part of any term of community supervision, community placement, or community custody, order the offender to participate in a domestic violence perpetrator program approved under RCW 26.50.150.

Sec. 5. RCW 9.94A.530 and 2002 c 290 s 18 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The intersection of the column defined by the offender score and the row defined by the offense seriousness score determines the standard sentence range (see RCW 9.94A.510, (Table 1) and RCW 9.94A.517, (Table 3)). The additional time for deadly weapon findings or for ~~((those offenses enumerated))~~ other adjustments as specified in RCW 9.94A.533~~((4) that were committed in a state correctional facility or county jail))~~ shall be added to the entire standard sentence range. The court may impose any sentence within the range that it deems appropriate. All standard sentence ranges are expressed in terms of total confinement.

(2) In determining any sentence other than a sentence above the standard range, the trial court may rely on no more information than is admitted by the plea agreement, or admitted, acknowledged, or proved in a trial or at the time of sentencing, or proven pursuant to section 7 of this act. Acknowledgement includes not objecting to information stated in the presentence reports. Where the defendant disputes material facts, the court must either not consider the fact or grant an evidentiary hearing on the point. The facts shall be deemed proved at the hearing by a preponderance of the evidence, except as otherwise specified in section 7 of this act.

(3) In determining any sentence above the standard sentence range, the court shall follow the procedures set forth in section 7 of this act. Facts that establish the elements of a more serious crime or additional crimes may not be used to go outside the standard sentence range except upon stipulation or when specifically provided for in RCW 9.94A.535(2) (d), (e), (g), and (h).

Sec. 6. RCW 9.94A.535 and 2003 c 267 s 4 are each amended to read as follows:

The court may impose a sentence outside the standard sentence range for an offense if it finds, considering the purpose of this chapter, that there are substantial and compelling reasons justifying an exceptional sentence. Facts supporting aggravated sentences, other than the fact of a prior conviction, shall be determined pursuant to the provisions of section 7 of this act.

Whenever a sentence outside the standard sentence range is imposed, the court shall set forth the reasons for its decision in written findings of fact and conclusions of law. A sentence outside the standard sentence range shall be a determinate sentence ~~((unless it is imposed on an offender sentenced under RCW 9.94A.712. An exceptional sentence imposed on an offender sentenced under RCW 9.94A.712 shall be to a minimum term set by the court and a maximum term equal to the statutory maximum sentence for the offense of conviction under chapter 9A.20 RCW)).~~

If the sentencing court finds that an exceptional sentence outside the standard sentence range should be imposed, the sentence is subject to review only as provided for in RCW 9.94A.585(4).

A departure from the standards in RCW 9.94A.589 (1) and (2) governing whether sentences are to be served consecutively or concurrently is an exceptional sentence subject to the limitations in this section, and may be appealed by the offender or the state as set forth in RCW 9.94A.585 (2) through (6).

~~((The following are illustrative factors which the court may consider in the exercise of its discretion to impose an exceptional sentence. The following are illustrative only and are not intended to be exclusive reasons for exceptional sentences.))~~

(1) Mitigating Circumstances - Court to Consider

The court may impose an exceptional sentence below the standard range if it finds that mitigating circumstances are established by a preponderance of the evidence. The following are illustrative only and are not intended to be exclusive reasons for exceptional sentences.

(a) To a significant degree, the victim was an initiator, willing participant, aggressor, or provoker of the incident.

(b) Before detection, the defendant compensated, or made a good faith effort to compensate, the victim of the criminal conduct for any damage or injury sustained.

(c) The defendant committed the crime under duress, coercion, threat, or compulsion insufficient to constitute a complete defense but which significantly affected his or her conduct.

(d) The defendant, with no apparent predisposition to do so, was induced by others to participate in the crime.

(e) The defendant's capacity to appreciate the wrongfulness of his or her conduct, or to conform his or her conduct to the requirements of the law, was significantly impaired. Voluntary use of drugs or alcohol is excluded.

(f) The offense was principally accomplished by another person and the defendant manifested extreme caution or sincere concern for the safety or well-being of the victim.

(g) The operation of the multiple offense policy of RCW 9.94A.589 results in a presumptive sentence that is clearly excessive in light of the purpose of this chapter, as expressed in RCW 9.94A.010.

(h) The defendant or the defendant's children suffered a continuing pattern of physical or sexual abuse by the victim of the offense and the offense is a response to that abuse.

(2) Aggravating Circumstances - Considered and Imposed by the Court

The trial court may impose an aggravated exceptional sentence without a finding of fact by a jury under the following circumstances:

(a) The defendant and the state both stipulate that justice is best served by the imposition of an exceptional sentence outside the standard range, and the court finds the exceptional sentence to be consistent with and in furtherance of the interests of justice and the purposes of the sentencing reform act.

(b) The defendant's prior unscored misdemeanor or prior unscored foreign criminal history results in a presumptive sentence that is clearly too lenient in light of the purpose of this chapter, as expressed in RCW 9.94A.010.

(c) The defendant has committed multiple current offenses and the defendant's high offender score results in some of the current offenses going unpunished.

(d) The failure to consider the defendant's prior criminal history which was omitted from the offender score calculation pursuant to RCW 9.94A.525 results in a presumptive sentence that is clearly too lenient.

(3) Aggravating Circumstances - Considered By A Jury - Imposed by the Court

Except for circumstances listed in subsection (2) of this section, the following circumstances are an exclusive list of factors that can support a sentence above the standard range. Such facts should be determined by procedures specified in section 7 of this act.

- (a) The defendant's conduct during the commission of the current offense manifested deliberate cruelty to the victim.
- (b) The defendant knew or should have known that the victim of the current offense was particularly vulnerable or incapable of resistance (~~due to extreme youth, advanced age, disability, or ill health~~).
- (c) The current offense was a violent offense, and the defendant knew that the victim of the current offense was pregnant.

(d) The current offense was a major economic offense or series of offenses, so identified by a consideration of any of the following factors:

- (i) The current offense involved multiple victims or multiple incidents per victim;
- (ii) The current offense involved attempted or actual monetary loss substantially greater than typical for the offense;
- (iii) The current offense involved a high degree of sophistication or planning or occurred over a lengthy period of time;

or

(iv) The defendant used his or her position of trust, confidence, or fiduciary responsibility to facilitate the commission of the current offense.

(e) The current offense was a major violation of the Uniform Controlled Substances Act, chapter 69.50 RCW (VUCSA), related to trafficking in controlled substances, which was more onerous than the typical offense of its statutory definition: The presence of ANY of the following may identify a current offense as a major VUCSA:

(i) The current offense involved at least three separate transactions in which controlled substances were sold, transferred, or possessed with intent to do so;

(ii) The current offense involved an attempted or actual sale or transfer of controlled substances in quantities substantially larger than for personal use;

(iii) The current offense involved the manufacture of controlled substances for use by other parties;

(iv) The circumstances of the current offense reveal the offender to have occupied a high position in the drug distribution hierarchy;

(v) The current offense involved a high degree of sophistication or planning, occurred over a lengthy period of time, or involved a broad geographic area of disbursement; or

(vi) The offender used his or her position or status to facilitate the commission of the current offense, including positions of trust, confidence or fiduciary responsibility (e.g., pharmacist, physician, or other medical professional).

(f) The current offense included a finding of sexual motivation pursuant to RCW 9.94A.835.

(g) The offense was part of an ongoing pattern of sexual abuse of the same victim under the age of eighteen years manifested by multiple incidents over a prolonged period of time.

(h) The current offense involved domestic violence, as defined in RCW 10.99.020, and one or more of the following was present:

(i) The offense was part of an ongoing pattern of psychological, physical, or sexual abuse of the victim manifested by multiple incidents over a prolonged period of time;

(ii) The offense occurred within sight or sound of the victim's or the offender's minor children under the age of eighteen years; or

(iii) The offender's conduct during the commission of the current offense manifested deliberate cruelty or intimidation of the victim.

~~(i) ((The operation of the multiple offense policy of RCW 9.94A.589 results in a presumptive sentence that is clearly too lenient in light of the purpose of this chapter, as expressed in RCW 9.94A.010.~~

~~(j) The defendant's prior unscored misdemeanor or prior unscored foreign criminal history results in a presumptive sentence that is clearly too lenient in light of the purpose of this chapter, as expressed in RCW 9.94A.010.~~

~~((k))~~ The offense resulted in the pregnancy of a child victim of rape.

~~((l))~~ (j) The defendant knew that the victim of the current offense was a youth who was not residing with a legal custodian and the defendant established or promoted the relationship for the primary purpose of victimization.

~~((m))~~ (k) The offense was committed with the intent to obstruct or impair human or animal health care or agricultural or forestry research or commercial production.

~~((n))~~ (l) The current offense is trafficking in the first degree or trafficking in the second degree and any victim was a minor at the time of the offense.

(m) The offense involved a high degree of sophistication or planning.

(n) The defendant used his or her position of trust, confidence, or fiduciary responsibility to facilitate the commission of the current offense.

(o) The defendant committed a current sex offense, has a history of sex offenses, and is not amenable to treatment.

(p) The offense involved an invasion of the victim's privacy.

(q) The defendant demonstrated or displayed an egregious lack of remorse.

(r) The offense involved a destructive and foreseeable impact on persons other than the victim.

(s) The defendant committed the offense to obtain or maintain his or her membership or to advance his or her position in the hierarchy of an organization, association, or identifiable group.

(t) The defendant committed the current offense shortly after being released from incarceration.

(u) The current offense is a burglary and the victim of the burglary was present in the building or residence when the crime was committed.

(v) The offense was committed against a law enforcement officer who was performing his or her official duties at the time of the offense, the offender knew that the victim was a law enforcement officer, and the victim's status as a law enforcement officer is not an element of the offense.

(w) The defendant committed the offense against a victim who was acting as a good samaritan.

(x) The defendant committed the offense against a public official or officer of the court in retaliation of the public official's performance of his or her duty to the criminal justice system.

(y) The victim's injuries substantially exceed the level of bodily harm necessary to satisfy the elements of the offense. This aggravator is not an exception to RCW 9.94A.530(2).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. A new section is added to chapter 9.94A RCW to read as follows:

(1) At any time prior to trial or entry of the guilty plea if substantial rights of the defendant are not prejudiced, the state may give notice that it is seeking a sentence above the standard sentencing range. The notice shall state aggravating circumstances upon which the requested sentence will be based.

(2) The facts supporting aggravating circumstances shall be proved to a jury beyond a reasonable doubt. The jury's verdict on the aggravating factor must be unanimous, and by special interrogatory. If a jury is waived, proof shall be to the court beyond a reasonable doubt, unless the defendant stipulates to the aggravating facts.

(3) Evidence regarding any facts supporting aggravating circumstances under RCW 9.94A.535(3) (a) through (y), shall be presented to the jury during the trial of the alleged crime, unless the state alleges the aggravating circumstances listed in RCW 9.94A.535(3) (e)(iv), (h)(i), (o), or (t). If one of these aggravating circumstances is alleged, the trial court may conduct a separate proceeding if the evidence supporting the aggravating fact is not part of the res geste of the charged crime, if the evidence is not otherwise admissible in trial of the charged crime, and if the court finds that the probative value of the evidence to the aggravated fact is substantially outweighed by its prejudicial effect on the jury's ability to determine guilt or innocence for the underlying crime.

(4) If the court conducts a separate proceeding to determine the existence of aggravating circumstances, the proceeding shall immediately follow the trial on the underlying conviction, if possible. If any person who served on the jury is unable to continue, the court shall substitute an alternate juror.

(5) If the jury finds, unanimously and beyond a reasonable doubt, one or more of the facts alleged by the state in support of an aggravated sentence, the court may sentence the offender pursuant to RCW 9.94A.535 to a term of confinement up to the maximum allowed under RCW 9A.20.021 for the underlying conviction if it finds, considering the purposes of this chapter, that the facts found are substantial and compelling reasons justifying an exceptional sentence.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and takes effect immediately."

"Sec. 1. RCW 90.56.005 and 2004 c 226 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The legislature declares that ~~((the increasing reliance on))~~ water borne transportation as a source of supply for oil and hazardous substances poses special concern for the state of Washington. Each year billions of gallons of crude oil and refined petroleum products are transported as cargo and fuel by vessels on the navigable waters of the state. These shipments are expected to increase in the coming years. Vessels transporting oil into Washington travel on some of the most ~~((unique))~~ valuable and special marine environments in the United States. These marine environments are a source of natural beauty, recreation, and economic livelihood for many residents of this state. As a result, the state has an obligation to ensure the citizens of the state that the waters of the state will be protected from oil spills.

(2) The legislature finds that prevention is the best method to protect the ~~((unique))~~ valuable and special marine environments in this state. The technology for containing and cleaning up a spill of oil or hazardous substances is ~~((in the early stages of development))~~ at best only partially effective. Preventing spills is more protective of the environment and more cost-effective when all the response and damage costs associated with responding to a spill are considered. Therefore, the legislature finds that the primary objective of the state is to ~~((adopt))~~ achieve a zero spills strategy to prevent any oil or hazardous substances from entering waters of the state.

(3) The legislature also finds that:

(a) Recent accidents in Washington, Alaska, southern California, Texas, Pennsylvania, and other parts of the nation have shown that the transportation, transfer, and storage of oil have caused significant damage to the marine environment;

(b) Even with the best efforts, it is nearly impossible to remove all oil that is spilled into the water, and average removal rates are only fourteen percent;

(c) Washington's navigable waters are treasured environmental and economic resources that the state cannot afford to place at undue risk from an oil spill; ~~((and))~~

(d) The state has a fundamental responsibility, as the trustee of the state's natural resources and the protector of public health and the environment to prevent the spill of oil; and

(e) In section 5002 of the federal oil pollution act of 1990, the United States congress found that many people believed that complacency on the part of industry and government was one of the contributing factors to the Exxon Valdez spill and, further, that one method to combat this complacency is to involve local citizens in the monitoring and oversight of oil spill plans. Congress also found that a mechanism should be established that fosters the long-term partnership of industry, government, and local communities in overseeing compliance with environmental concerns in the operation of crude oil terminals. Moreover, congress concluded that, in addition to Alaska, a program of citizen monitoring and oversight should be established in other major crude oil terminals in the United States because recent oil spills indicate that the safe transportation of oil is a national problem.

(4) In order to establish a comprehensive prevention and response program to protect Washington's waters and natural resources from spills of oil, it is the purpose of this chapter:

(a) To establish state agency expertise in marine safety and to centralize state activities in spill prevention and response activities;

(b) To prevent spills of oil and to promote programs that reduce the risk of both catastrophic and small chronic spills;

(c) To ensure that responsible parties are liable, and have the resources and ability, to respond to spills and provide compensation for all costs and damages;

(d) To provide for state spill response and wildlife rescue planning and implementation;

(e) To support and complement the federal oil pollution act of 1990 and other federal law, especially those provisions relating to the national contingency plan for cleanup of oil spills and discharges, including provisions relating to the responsibilities of state agencies designated as natural resource trustees. The legislature intends this chapter to be interpreted and implemented in a manner consistent with federal law;

(f) To provide broad powers of regulation to the department of ecology relating to spill prevention and response;

(g) To provide for an independent (~~oversight board~~) oil spill advisory council to review on an ongoing basis the adequacy of oil spill prevention, preparedness, and response activities in this state; and

(h) To provide an adequate funding source for state response and prevention programs.

Sec. 2. RCW 90.56.010 and 2000 c 69 s 15 are each amended to read as follows:

"PART I - FINDINGS AND INTENT

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that:

(1) Timely disclosure to voters of the identity and sources of funding for electioneering communications is vitally important to the integrity of state, local, and judicial elections.

(2) Electioneering communications that identify political candidates for state, local, or judicial office and that are distributed sixty days before an election for those offices are intended to influence voters and the outcome of those elections.

(3) The state has a compelling interest in providing voters information about electioneering communications in political campaigns concerning candidates for state, local, or judicial office so that voters can be fully informed as to the: (a) Source of support or opposition to those candidates; and (b) identity of persons attempting to influence the outcome of state, local, and judicial candidate elections.

(4) Nondisclosure of financial information about advertising that masquerades as relating only to issues and not to candidate campaigns fosters corruption or the appearance of corruption. These consequences can be substantially avoided by full disclosure of the identity and funding of those persons paying for such advertising.

(5) The United States supreme court held in McConnell et al. v. Federal Elections Commission, 540 U.S. 93, 124 S.Ct. 619, 157 L.Ed.2d 491 (2003) that speakers seeking to influence elections do not possess an inviolable free speech right to engage in electioneering communications regarding elections, including when issue advocacy is the functional equivalent of express advocacy. Therefore, such election campaign communications can be regulated and the source of funding disclosed.

(6) The state also has a sufficiently compelling interest in preventing corruption in political campaigns to justify and restore contribution limits and restrictions on the use of soft money in RCW 42.17.640. Those interests include restoring restrictions on the use of such funds for electioneering communications, as well as the laws preventing circumvention of those limits and restrictions.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. Based upon the findings in section 1 of this act, this act is narrowly tailored to accomplish the following and is intended to:

(1) Improve the disclosure to voters of information concerning persons and entities seeking to influence state, local, and judicial campaigns through reasonable and effective mechanisms, including improving disclosure of the source, identity, and funding of electioneering communications concerning state, local, and judicial candidate campaigns;

(2) Regulate electioneering communications that mention state, local, and judicial candidates and that are broadcast, mailed, erected, distributed, or otherwise published right before the election so that the public knows who is paying for such communications;

(3) Reenact and amend the contribution limits in RCW 42.17.640 (6) and (14) and the restrictions on the use of soft money, including as applied to electioneering communications, as those limits and restrictions were in effect following the passage of chapter 2, Laws of 1993 (Initiative No. 134) and before the state supreme court decision in Washington State Republican Party v. Washington State Public Disclosure Commission, 141 Wn.2d 245, 4 P.3d 808 (2000). The commission is authorized to fully restore the implementation of the limits and restrictions of RCW 42.17.640 (6) and (14) in light of McConnell et al. v. Federal Elections Commission, 540 U.S. 93, 124 S.Ct. 619, 157 L.Ed.2d 491 (2003). The United States supreme court upheld the disclosure and regulation of electioneering communications in political campaigns, including but not limited to issue advocacy that is the functional equivalent of express advocacy;

(4) Authorize the commission to adopt rules to implement this act.

PART II - ELECTIONEERING COMMUNICATIONS

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) A payment for or promise to pay for any electioneering communication shall be reported to the commission by the sponsor on forms the commission shall develop by rule to include, at a minimum, the following information:

(a) Name and address of the sponsor;

(b) Source of funds for the communication, including:

(i) General treasury funds. The name and address of businesses, unions, groups, associations, or other organizations using general treasury funds for the communication, however, if a business, union, group, association, or other organization undertakes a special solicitation of its members or other persons for an electioneering communication, or it otherwise receives funds for an electioneering communication, that entity shall report pursuant to (b)(ii) of this subsection;

(ii) Special solicitations and other funds. The name, address, and, for individuals, occupation and employer, of a person whose funds were used to pay for the electioneering communication, along with the amount, if such funds from the person have exceeded two hundred fifty dollars in the aggregate for the electioneering communication; and

(iii) Any other source information required or exempted by the commission by rule;

(c) Name and address of the person to whom an electioneering communication related expenditure was made;

(d) A detailed description of each expenditure of more than one hundred dollars;

(e) The date the expenditure was made and the date the electioneering communication was first broadcast, transmitted, mailed, erected, distributed, or otherwise published;

(f) The amount of the expenditure;

(g) The name of each candidate clearly identified in the electioneering communication, the office being sought by each candidate, and the amount of the expenditure attributable to each candidate; and

(h) Any other information the commission may require or exempt by rule.

(2) Electioneering communications shall be reported as follows: The sponsor of an electioneering communication shall report to the commission within twenty-four hours of, or on the first working day after, the date the electioneering communication is broadcast, transmitted, mailed, erected, distributed, or otherwise published.

(3) Electioneering communications shall be reported electronically by the sponsor using software provided or approved by the commission. The commission may make exceptions on a case-by-case basis for a sponsor who lacks the technological ability to file reports using the electronic means provided or approved by the commission.

(4) All persons required to report under RCW 42.17.065, 42.17.080, 42.17.090, and 42.17.100 are subject to the requirements of this section, although the commission may determine by rule that persons filing according to those sections may be exempt from reporting some of the information otherwise required by this section. The commission may determine that reports filed pursuant to this section also satisfy the requirements of RCW 42.17.100 and 42.17.103.

(5) Failure of any sponsor to report electronically under this section shall be a violation of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) An electioneering communication made by a person in cooperation, consultation, or concert with, or at the request or suggestion of, a candidate, a candidate's authorized committee, or their agents is a contribution to the candidate.

(2) An electioneering communication made by a person in cooperation, consultation, or concert with, or at the request or suggestion of, a political committee or its agents is a contribution to the political committee.

(3) If an electioneering communication is not a contribution pursuant to subsection (1) or (2) of this section, the sponsor shall file an affidavit or declaration so stating at the time the sponsor is required to report the electioneering communication expense under section 3 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) The sponsor of an electioneering communication shall preserve all financial records relating to the communication, including books of account, bills, receipts, contributor information, and ledgers, for not less than five calendar years following the year in which the communication was broadcast, transmitted, mailed, erected, or otherwise published.

(2) All reports filed under section 3 of this act shall be certified as correct by the sponsor. If the sponsor is an individual using his or her own funds to pay for the communication, the certification shall be signed by the individual. If the sponsor is a political committee, the certification shall be signed by the committee treasurer. If the sponsor is another entity, the certification shall be signed by the individual responsible for authorizing the expenditure on the entity's behalf.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. Part headings used in this act are not any part of the law.

(2) The code reviser must change the subchapter heading "Political Advertising" to "Political Advertising and Electioneering Communications" in chapter 42.17 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. This act takes effect January 1, 2006."

POINT OF ORDER

Senator Roach: "I believe that the striking amendment before us exceeds the scope and object of the underlying bill in violation of Senate Rule 66. Substitute Senate Bill No. 5034 defines "electioneering communications" as those made within sixty days of an election which clearly identified a candidate and have a fair market value of about 5,000 dollars or more. The bill requires that electioneering communications be reported electronically to the public disclosure commission within twenty-four hours of the communication being made public. The substitute also restores contribution limits and restrictions on the use of soft money. The striking amendment includes all of the provisions from the substitute but adds a critical new section. Section twelve has no connection to soft money contribution limits or to electioneering communications. Under current law, when an employer or other entity withholds wages he or she may not divert a position of an employee's wages for contributions to political committees or for use for political contributions except upon the written request of an employee. Section twelve of this striking amendment removes the statutory requirement for the entity withholding contributions to maintain the employee's written request and other documents and to keep them open for public inspection for three years. This appears to have no connection to electioneering communications and I submit to you that the striking amendment exceeds the scope and object of Senate Bill No. 5034 and respectfully ask for a ruling thereon."

Senator Kastama spoke against the point of order.

"Sec. 1. RCW 70.150.040 and 1989 c 175 s 136 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislative authority of a public body may secure services by means of an agreement with a service provider. Such an agreement may obligate a service provider to perform one or more of the following services: Design, finance, construct, own, operate, or maintain water pollution control facilities by which services are provided to the public body. Service agreements and related agreements under this chapter shall be entered into in accordance with the following procedure:

(1) The legislative authority of the public body shall publish notice that it is seeking to secure certain specified services by means of entering into an agreement with a service provider. The notice shall be published in the official newspaper of the public body, or if there is no official newspaper then in a newspaper in general circulation within the boundaries of the public body, at least once each week for two consecutive weeks. The final notice shall appear not less than ~~((sixty))~~ thirty days before the date for submission of proposals. The notice shall state (a) the nature of the services needed, (b) the location in the public body's offices where the requirements and standards for construction, operation, or maintenance of projects needed as part of the services are available for inspection, and (c) the final date for the submission of proposals. The legislative authority may undertake a prequalification process by the same procedure set forth in this subsection.

(2) The request for proposals shall (a) indicate the time and place responses are due, (b) include evaluation criteria to be considered in selecting a service provider, (c) specify minimum requirements or other limitations applying to selection, (d) insofar as practicable, set forth terms and provisions to be included in the service agreement, and (e) require the service provider to demonstrate in its proposal to the public body's satisfaction that ~~((a public body's annual costs will be lower under its proposal than they would be if the public body financed, constructed, owned, operated, and maintained facilities required for service))~~ it is in the public interest to enter into the service agreement and that the service agreement is financially sound and advantageous to the public body from the standpoint of annual costs, quality of services, experience of the provider, reduction of risk, and other factors.

(3) The criteria set forth in the request for proposals shall be those determined to be relevant by the legislative authority of the public body, which may include but shall not be limited to: The respondent's prior experience, including design, construction, or operation of other similar facilities; respondent's management capability, schedule availability, and financial resources; cost of the service; nature of facility design proposed by respondents; system reliability; performance standards required for the facilities; compatibility with existing service facilities operated by the public body or other providers of service to the public body; project performance warranties; penalty and other enforcement provisions; environmental protection measures to be used; and allocation of project risks. The legislative authority ~~((shall))~~ may designate persons or entities within or outside the public body (a) to assist it in issuing the request for proposals to ensure that proposals will be responsive to its needs, and (b) to assist it in evaluating the proposals received. ~~((The designee shall not be a member of the legislative authority.))~~

(4) After proposals under subsections (1) through (3) of this section have been received, the legislative authority ~~((s))~~ or its designee shall determine, on the basis of its review of the proposals, whether one or more proposals have been received from respondents which are (a) determined to be qualified to provide the requested services, and (b) responsive to the notice and evaluation criteria, which shall include, but not be limited to, cost of services. These chosen respondents may, at the discretion of the public body, be aggregated into a short list of qualified respondents, who shall be referred to as the selected respondents in this section. The legislative authority or its designee shall conduct a bidder's conference to include all these selected respondents to assure a full understanding of the proposals. The bidder's conference shall ~~((also allow the designee to))~~ make these selected respondents aware of any changes in the request for proposal. Any information related to revisions in the request for proposal shall be made available to all these selected respondents. Any selected respondent shall be accorded a reasonable opportunity for revision of its proposal prior to commencement of the negotiation provided in subsection (5) of this section, for the purpose of obtaining best and final proposals.

(5) After such conference is held, the legislative authority or its designee may negotiate with the selected respondent whose proposal it determines to be the most advantageous to the public body, considering the criteria set forth in the request for proposals. If negotiations are conducted by the designee, the legislative authority shall continue to oversee the negotiations and provide direction to its designee. If the negotiation is unsuccessful, the legislative authority may ~~((authorize the designee to))~~ commence negotiations with any other selected respondent. On completion of this process, ~~((the designee shall report to))~~ and after the department of ecology review and comments as provided for in subsection (9) of this section, and after public hearing as provided for in subsection (10) of this section, the legislative authority ~~((on his or her recommendations and the reasons for them))~~ may approve a contract with its chosen respondent.

(6) Any person aggrieved by the legislative authority's approval of a contract may appeal the determination to an appeals board selected by the public body, which shall consist of not less than three persons determined by the legislative authority to be qualified for such purposes. Such board shall promptly hear and determine whether the public body entered into the agreement in accordance with this chapter and other applicable law. ~~((The hearing shall be conducted in the same manner as an adjudicative proceeding under chapter 34.05 RCW.))~~ The board shall have the power only to affirm or void the agreement.

(7) Notwithstanding the foregoing, where contracting for design services by the public body is done separately from contracting for other services permitted under this chapter, the contracting for design ~~((of water pollution control facilities))~~ services shall be done in accordance with chapter 39.80 RCW.

(8) ~~((A))~~ If a public body elects to enter into an agreement whereby the service provider will own all or a portion of the water pollution control facilities it constructs, the service agreement shall include provision for an option by which a public body may acquire at fair market value facilities dedicated to such service.

(9) Before any service agreement is entered into by the public body, it shall be reviewed ~~((and approved))~~ by the department of ecology to ensure ~~((that))~~ consistency with the purposes of chapters 90.46 and 90.48 RCW ((are implemented)).

The department of ecology has thirty days from receipt of the proposed service agreement to complete its review and provide the public body with comments. A review under this section is not intended to replace any additional permitting or regulatory reviews and approvals that may be required under other applicable laws.

(10) Prior to entering into any service agreement under this chapter, the public body must have made written findings, after holding a public hearing on the proposal, that it is in the public interest to enter into the service agreement and that the service agreement is financially sound and advantageous compared to other methods.

(11) Each service agreement shall include project performance bonds or other security by the service provider which in the judgment of the public body is sufficient to secure adequate performance by the service provider.

SENATE BILL NO. 5168, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "In ruling upon the point of inquiry raised by Senator Esser that Senate Bill 5069 takes a two-thirds vote on final passage under statutes enacted by Initiative Number 601 because it imposes a tax, the President finds and rules as follows:

As with many I-601 issues, the question before us turns on the difference between a "tax" and a "fee." A "tax" raises revenue for general government purposes. By contrast, a "fee" is charged to a specific class of payors to provide for a specific service, program, or facility.

"In this case, a program is created whereby two cents per hour, in the form of a premium, is charged each employee, and the funds collected are placed into a specific account. The proceeds from the account may be spent by the Director of the Department of Labor & Industries for family leave purposes.

"It is worth noting that neither the terming of the funds collected nor their deposit into a specific account is controlling for this analysis. Instead, what is key to this determination is whether the funds are being collected from a specific group for a specific purpose relating to that same group. Here, only employees are paying into a program whereby only those same employees are eligible to take family leave for which they may be paid from funds collected under this program. It is true that participation is mandatory, and it is also true that not every employee may, at a given point in time, have family for which leave might be taken. Fees and taxes are both mandatory, so this point is not decisive. Likewise, while an employee's specific family circumstances may change, his or her eligibility does not: any employee who meets the criteria for family leave may take that leave.

"Finally, the President notes that the funds raised under this program are not used for general government purposes, but only for the discrete family leave program established by the measure. For these reasons, the premium to be collected is properly characterized as a fee and not a tax. I-601's supermajority provisions are not triggered, and Senator Esser's point is not well-taken. Only a simple majority vote of this body is needed for final passage of this measure."

Senators Keiser, Oke, Franklin, Kohl-Welles and Thibaudeau spoke in favor of passage of the bill.

Senators Benson, Hewitt and Stevens spoke against passage of the bill.

The President declared that at least two additional senators joined the demand.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Thibaudeau: "I misstated something. My husband was making $8,000 a year and not $8,000 a month. I just wanted you all to know that."

RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "In ruling upon the point of order raised by Senator Roach that striking amendment 351 is beyond the scope and object of the underlying bill, the President finds and rules as follows:

The substitute bill relates to electioneering communications. It defines electioneering communications, requires that payments made for such communications need to be reported electronically to the PDC, and makes such contributions subject to contribution limitations.

The striking amendment does all of these things that were in the original bill and the substitute, but it also adds an additional section, Section 12, which deletes subsection (4) of RCW 42.17.680. This subsection relates to maintaining permission records for employers or labor organizations which withhold wages for political contributions. Neither this subject nor even this RCW were covered by the substantive provisions of the bill. For these reasons, the amendment is beyond the scope and object of the bill and not properly before us. Senator Roach's point is well-taken."

"PART I - FINDINGS AND INTENT

NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that:

(1) Timely disclosure to voters of the identity and sources of funding for electioneering communications is vitally important to the integrity of state, local, and judicial elections.

(2) Electioneering communications that identify political candidates for state, local, or judicial office and that are distributed sixty days before an election for those offices are intended to influence voters and the outcome of those elections.

(3) The state has a compelling interest in providing voters information about electioneering communications in political campaigns concerning candidates for state, local, or judicial office so that voters can be fully informed as to the: (a) Source of support or opposition to those candidates; and (b) identity of persons attempting to influence the outcome of state, local, and judicial candidate elections.

(4) Nondisclosure of financial information about advertising that masquerades as relating only to issues and not to candidate campaigns fosters corruption or the appearance of corruption. These consequences can be substantially avoided by full disclosure of the identity and funding of those persons paying for such advertising.

(5) The United States supreme court held in McConnell et al. v. Federal Elections Commission, 540 U.S. 93, 124 S.Ct. 619, 157 L.Ed.2d 491 (2003) that speakers seeking to influence elections do not possess an inviolable free speech right to engage in electioneering communications regarding elections, including when issue advocacy is the functional equivalent of express advocacy. Therefore, such election campaign communications can be regulated and the source of funding disclosed.

(6) The state also has a sufficiently compelling interest in preventing corruption in political campaigns to justify and restore contribution limits and restrictions on the use of soft money in RCW 42.17.640. Those interests include restoring restrictions on the use of such funds for electioneering communications, as well as the laws preventing circumvention of those limits and restrictions.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. Based upon the findings in section 1 of this act, this act is narrowly tailored to accomplish the following and is intended to:

(1) Improve the disclosure to voters of information concerning persons and entities seeking to influence state, local, and judicial campaigns through reasonable and effective mechanisms, including improving disclosure of the source, identity, and funding of electioneering communications concerning state, local, and judicial candidate campaigns;

(2) Regulate electioneering communications that mention state, local, and judicial candidates and that are broadcast, mailed, erected, distributed, or otherwise published right before the election so that the public knows who is paying for such communications;

(3) Reenact and amend the contribution limits in RCW 42.17.640 (6) and (14) and the restrictions on the use of soft money, including as applied to electioneering communications, as those limits and restrictions were in effect following the passage of chapter 2, Laws of 1993 (Initiative No. 134) and before the state supreme court decision in Washington State Republican Party v. Washington State Public Disclosure Commission, 141 Wn.2d 245, 4 P.3d 808 (2000). The commission is authorized to fully restore the implementation of the limits and restrictions of RCW 42.17.640 (6) and (14) in light of McConnell et al. v. Federal Elections Commission, 540 U.S. 93, 124 S.Ct. 619, 157 L.Ed.2d 491 (2003). The United States supreme court upheld the disclosure and regulation of electioneering communications in political campaigns, including but not limited to issue advocacy that is the functional equivalent of express advocacy;

(4) Authorize the commission to adopt rules to implement this act.

PART II - ELECTIONEERING COMMUNICATIONS

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) A payment for or promise to pay for any electioneering communication shall be reported to the commission by the sponsor on forms the commission shall develop by rule to include, at a minimum, the following information:

(b) Source of funds for the communication, including:

(ii) Special solicitations and other funds. The name, address, and, for individuals, occupation and employer, of a person whose funds were used to pay for the electioneering communication, along with the amount, if such funds from the person have exceeded two hundred fifty dollars in the aggregate for the electioneering communication; and

(f) The amount of the expenditure;

(g) The name of each candidate clearly identified in the electioneering communication, the office being sought by each candidate, and the amount of the expenditure attributable to each candidate; and

(h) Any other information the commission may require or exempt by rule.

(2) Electioneering communications shall be reported as follows: The sponsor of an electioneering communication shall report to the commission within twenty-four hours of, or on the first working day after, the date the electioneering communication is broadcast, transmitted, mailed, erected, distributed, or otherwise published.

(3) Electioneering communications shall be reported electronically by the sponsor using software provided or approved by the commission. The commission may make exceptions on a case-by-case basis for a sponsor who lacks the technological ability to file reports using the electronic means provided or approved by the commission.

(4) All persons required to report under RCW 42.17.065, 42.17.080, 42.17.090, and 42.17.100 are subject to the requirements of this section, although the commission may determine by rule that persons filing according to those sections may be exempt from reporting some of the information otherwise required by this section. The commission may determine that reports filed pursuant to this section also satisfy the requirements of RCW 42.17.100 and 42.17.103.

(5) Failure of any sponsor to report electronically under this section shall be a violation of this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) An electioneering communication made by a person in cooperation, consultation, or concert with, or at the request or suggestion of, a candidate, a candidate's authorized committee, or their agents is a contribution to the candidate.

(2) An electioneering communication made by a person in cooperation, consultation, or concert with, or at the request or suggestion of, a political committee or its agents is a contribution to the political committee.

(3) If an electioneering communication is not a contribution pursuant to subsection (1) or (2) of this section, the sponsor shall file an affidavit or declaration so stating at the time the sponsor is required to report the electioneering communication expense under section 3 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) The sponsor of an electioneering communication shall preserve all financial records relating to the communication, including books of account, bills, receipts, contributor information, and ledgers, for not less than five calendar years following the year in which the communication was broadcast, transmitted, mailed, erected, or otherwise published.

(2) All reports filed under section 3 of this act shall be certified as correct by the sponsor. If the sponsor is an individual using his or her own funds to pay for the communication, the certification shall be signed by the individual. If the sponsor is a political committee, the certification shall be signed by the committee treasurer. If the sponsor is another entity, the certification shall be signed by the individual responsible for authorizing the expenditure on the entity's behalf.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Shin: "During the discussion the simple majority, I stood up seven times wanting to speak, but without success. If I don't speak really bad I think I'll cry so I'm going to say it. Ladies and gentlemen, United States of America was number one in the world during World War II, Korean War and Viet Nam war because of our quality education. Today, unfortunately the United States is slipping behind. As you know I did travel a lot overseas. Until twelve years ago, we still maintained number one. Today, we're number ninth in the world. That saddens me. I congratulate home school studies. I'm a home school myself too. I came to this country when I was eighteen, I could start ABC, GED and PHD. What is happening in our country bothers me. I'd like to remind our members of the Senate and also the parents, education is the prime importance of our job. Educating our children depends on us. Without our support, whether you're a homeowner or a resident of an apartment, education is the prime responsibility of the generation today because the 21st Century we are looking for thinkers not the makers and thinking people come from great education. Now that I have made speech, thank you for listening."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Prentice: "I've got a happier point of personal privilege. Former page of mine is in the news today. Bryce Fisher was just signed to the Sea hawks and he is the son of a constituent of mine. Remember Richard Fisher? Who was our Sergeant at Arms, who I worked with thirty-some years ago when he was a state trooper and I was the emergency nurse at Valley Medical and Bryce was a page here for me and I just thought, be sure that you read it in the paper. Thanks."

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature recognizes that child care providers provide valuable services for the families of Washington state and are an important part of ensuring the healthy growth and development of young children. It also recognizes the importance of ensuring that operators of child day-care centers and family day-care providers are providing safe and quality care and operating in compliance with minimal standards.

The legislature further recognizes that parents, as consumers, have an interest in obtaining access to information that is relevant to making informed decisions about the persons with whom they entrust the care of their children. The purpose of this act is to establish a system, consistent throughout the state, through which parents, guardians, and other persons acting in loco parentis can obtain certain information about child care providers.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 74.15 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The department shall establish and maintain a toll-free telephone number, and an interactive web-based system through which persons may obtain information regarding child day-care centers and family day-care providers. This number shall be available twenty-four hours a day for persons to request information. The department shall respond to recorded messages left at the number within two business days. The number shall be published in reasonably available printed and electronic media. The number shall be easily identifiable as a number through which persons may obtain information regarding child day-care centers and family day-care providers as set forth in this section.

(2) Through the toll-free telephone line established by this section, the department shall provide information to callers about: (a) Whether a day-care provider is licensed; (b) whether a day-care provider's license is current; (c) the general nature of any enforcement against the providers; (d) how to report suspected or observed noncompliance with licensing requirements; (e) how to report alleged abuse or neglect in a day care; (f) how to report health, safety, and welfare concerns in a day care; (g) how to receive follow-up assistance, including information on the office of the family and children's ombudsman; and (h) how to receive referral information on other agencies or entities that may be of further assistance to the caller.

(3) Beginning in January 2006, the department shall print the toll-free number established by this section on the face of new licenses issued to child day-care centers and family day-care providers.

(4) This section shall not be construed to require the disclosure of any information that is exempt from public disclosure under chapter 42.17 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 74.15 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Every child day-care center and family day-care provider shall prominently post the following items, clearly visible to parents and staff:

(a) The license issued under this chapter;

(b) The department's toll-free telephone number established by section 2 of this act;

(c) The notice of any pending enforcement action. The notice must be posted immediately upon receipt. The notice must be posted for at least two weeks or until the violation causing the enforcement action is corrected, whichever is longer;

(d) A notice that inspection reports and any notices of enforcement actions for the previous three years are available from the licensee and the department; and

(e) Any other information required by the department.

(2) The department shall disclose, upon request, the receipt, general nature, and resolution or current status of all complaints on record with the department after the effective date of this act against a child day-care center or family day-care provider that result in an enforcement action.

This section shall not be construed to require the disclosure of any information that is exempt from public disclosure under chapter 42.17 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. A new section is added to chapter 74.15 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Every child day-care center and family day-care provider shall have readily available for review by the department, parents, and the public a copy of each inspection report and notice of enforcement action received by the center or provider from the department for the past three years. This subsection only applies to reports and notices received on or after the effective date of this act.

(2) The department shall make available to the public during business hours all inspection reports and notices of enforcement actions involving child day-care centers and family day-care providers consistent with chapter 42.17 RCW. The department shall include in the inspection report a statement of the corrective measures taken by the center or provider.

Sec. 5. RCW 74.15.130 and 1998 c 314 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) An agency may be denied a license, or any license issued pursuant to chapter 74.15 RCW and RCW 74.13.031 may be suspended, revoked, modified, or not renewed by the secretary upon proof (a) that the agency has failed or refused to comply with the provisions of chapter 74.15 RCW and RCW 74.13.031 or the requirements promulgated pursuant to the provisions of chapter 74.15 RCW and RCW 74.13.031; or (b) that the conditions required for the issuance of a license under chapter 74.15 RCW and RCW 74.13.031 have ceased to exist with respect to such licenses. RCW 43.20A.205 governs notice of a license denial, revocation, suspension, or modification and provides the right to an adjudicative proceeding.

(2) In any adjudicative proceeding regarding the denial, modification, suspension, or revocation of a foster family home license, the department's decision shall be upheld if there is reasonable cause to believe that:

(a) The applicant or licensee lacks the character, suitability, or competence to care for children placed in out-of-home care, however, no unfounded report of child abuse or neglect may be used to deny employment or a license;

(b) The applicant or licensee has failed or refused to comply with any provision of chapter 74.15 RCW, RCW 74.13.031, or the requirements adopted pursuant to such provisions; or

(c) The conditions required for issuance of a license under chapter 74.15 RCW and RCW 74.13.031 have ceased to exist with respect to such licenses.

(3) In any adjudicative proceeding regarding the denial, modification, suspension, or revocation of any license under this chapter, other than a foster family home license, the department's decision shall be upheld if it is supported by a preponderance of the evidence.

(4) The department may assess civil monetary penalties upon proof that an agency has failed or refused to comply with the rules adopted under the provisions of this chapter and RCW 74.13.031 or that an agency subject to licensing under this chapter and RCW 74.13.031 is operating without a license except that civil monetary penalties shall not be levied against a licensed foster home. Monetary penalties levied against unlicensed agencies that submit an application for licensure within thirty days of notification and subsequently become licensed will be forgiven. These penalties may be assessed in addition to or in lieu of other disciplinary actions. Civil monetary penalties, if imposed, may be assessed and collected, with interest, for each day an agency is or was out of compliance. Civil monetary penalties shall not exceed seventy-five dollars per violation for a family day-care home and two hundred fifty dollars per violation for group homes, child day-care centers, and child-placing agencies. Each day upon which the same or substantially similar action occurs is a separate violation subject to the assessment of a separate penalty. An agency that continues to operate following a license revocation is subject to the maximum penalty for each day of operation following the revocation. The department shall provide a notification period before a monetary penalty is effective and may forgive the penalty levied if the agency comes into compliance during this period. The department may suspend, revoke, or not renew a license for failure to pay a civil monetary penalty it has assessed pursuant to this chapter within ten days after such assessment becomes final. Chapter 43.20A RCW governs notice of a civil monetary penalty and provides the right of an adjudicative proceeding. The preponderance of evidence standard shall apply in adjudicative proceedings related to assessment of civil monetary penalties.

(5)(a) The department may place a child day-care center or family day-care provider on nonreferral status or stop placement status if the center or provider has failed or refused to comply with this chapter or rules adopted under this chapter or an enforcement action has been taken. The nonreferral status or stop placement status may continue until the department determines that: (i) No enforcement action is appropriate; (ii) a complaint is not founded or valid; or (iii) a corrective action plan has been successfully concluded. The department shall then remove the center or provider from nonreferral status and provide appropriate notice to the public and private child care resource and referral agencies.

(b) The department shall notify appropriate public and private child care resource and referral agencies of the department's decision to take an enforcement action against the center or provider.

(6) Whenever an enforcement action is taken, the department shall notify the child care agency subject to the action in writing by personal service within ten business days.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. A new section is added to chapter 74.15 RCW to read as follows:

(1) Every licensed child day-care center shall, at the time of licensure or renewal and at any inspection, provide to the department proof that the licensee has day-care insurance as defined in RCW 48.88.020, or is self-insured pursuant to chapter 48.90 RCW.

(2)(a) Every licensed family day-care provider shall, at the time of licensure or renewal either:

(i) Provide to the department proof that the licensee has day-care insurance as defined in RCW 48.88.020, or other applicable insurance; or

(ii) Provide written notice of their insurance status to parents with a child enrolled in family day care.

(i) Notify the department when coverage has been terminated;

(ii) Post at the day-care home, in a manner likely to be observed by patrons, notice that coverage has lapsed or been terminated;

(iii) Provide written notice to parents that coverage has lapsed or terminated within thirty days of lapse or termination.

(c) Liability limits under (a)(i) of this subsection shall be the same as set forth in RCW 48.88.050.

(d) The department may take action as provided in RCW 74.15.130 if the licensee fails to notify the department when coverage has been terminated as required under (b) of this subsection.

(e) A family day-care provider holding a license under this chapter on the effective date of this act is not required to be in compliance with this subsection until the time of renewal of the license or until January 1, 2006, whichever is sooner.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Finkbeiner: "Thank you Mr. President and ladies and gentlemen of the Senate. First off I want to thank all of you who have been running these resolutions through the Pro Forma sessions. We passed the Senate rule, I know, that it took some of the load off our shoulders, but I know it eats into your lunches and eats into your time and I just want to thank you for allowing us to run these at this time. They mean a lot to a lot of people as this resolution means a lot to a lot of the folks in the area that I come from. The second thing I wanted to do give a specific thanks to someone up there whose really added a great deal to the Senate over the years and it was really a pleasure to work with her on the NCSL and so many other issues. Pam, our loss is the Attorney General's gain, and really appreciate all that you've done for the Senate and all that you've helped me out with and all that you've done for the state. I just wanted to say, thank you."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Eide: "Well I too, would like to stand and thank Pam. You're a beautiful, dynamic, wonderful woman and I've had the extreme pleasure of getting to know you. I'm sorry to see you go but, however, very happy for you to go on to what you want to do. I just want to make sure that, I always told myself don't stand up and speak when your going to cry but you give me your phone number so we can keep in touch and we can go to coffee, but you're the best."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Kohl-Welles: "I also rise to extend my appreciation to Pam. She has been an incredible, incredible person to have here in the Senate and it's hard to imagine that she's actually leaving us. She's always been able to step up to the plate and do it very quickly. I've been working with her on our NCSL Host Committee and she not only did everything capably, extremely capably but so enthusiastically. Last minute things that we had to pull together, especially in Utah, in Salt Lake City last July. I hear from Legislators and staff as well as NCSL staff that they've never known there to be such a fabulous booth that we had last year in Salt Lake City and I give the credit to that to Pam. Also we had very little time to pull together a meeting and reception and lunch for visiting officials from Sweden right at the end of session last year. I had the pleasure to work with Pam and she out did herself on this as well. We just had an extraordinary luncheon. We appreciated it very much, as well, the President of the Senate for being there and speaking and providing necessary funds to help out with that. It was really Pam who put everything together so I congratulate you Pam. I wish you were not leaving us though, I really do. Congratulations."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Franklin: "Ladies and Gentlemen of the Senate. It is appropriate that we pause at this moment in time to pay tribute to the women who through history have made grand contributions to many aspects of American life including a wonderful state of Washington. To name maybe just a few, maybe three of these women Mother Joseph, Julia Butler Hansen who served in the Legislature and also in Congress and Sakakawea. It is also fitting to do this because March is women's history month. However, in another vane what you might have been anticipating is the third Red Hat Day here on the hill. The third. It is an outcome and based on a poem that is titled "Wanting" by Jenny Joseph that was born in 1932. This red hat society founder who is Sue Ellen Cooper. I would say that it was not planned. I would say that it was maybe through just mere accident. She bought a red fedora hat in 1997 in Tucson, Arizona thrift shop and what she did gave them and then she began to give red hats to friends for birthday gifts and that grew and what she did was got them together and went to Tea Room and encouraged them to wear purple and then, can you imagine it just took off. It has grown to more than 850,000 women world wide who celebrate and wear red hats and purple. It's a take off on aging. How women are suppose to act as they grow older. It is not one in which it is organized, your not suppose to be organized.?You are to have fun. You are to laugh and today you may see some of those red hatters sitting up there with us today. These of course, in our, we get very busy here in the Legislature and a lot of times we don't find time for laughter and comedy. We are very sedate and, of course, you men are not left out because your day will come also. Mr. President, if you would allow me, may I read Jenny Joseph's poem, you've heard it before but I think it's very funny.

And what it says is 'When I am old and old women I shall wear purple with a red hat which doesn't go and doesn't suit me and I shall spend my pension on brandy and summer gloves and satin sandals and say 'We've no money for butter,' I shall sit on the pavement when I'm tired and gobble up samples in shops and press alarm buttons and run my stick along the public railings and make up for the sobriety of my youth. I shall go out in my slippers in the rain. 'Can you imagine that?' and pick up the flowers in other people's garden and learn to spit. You can wear terrible shirts and grow fat that certainly impacts our obesity legislation doesn't it?- and eat three pounds of sausages at a go or only bread and pickles for a week and hoard pens and pencils and beer mats and things in boxes. But now we must have clothes that keep us dry and pay our rent and not swear in the streets and set a good example for the children. We must have friends for dinner, 'Oh those dinner parties' and read the papers in order to get the news, but maybe I ought to practice a little so people who know me are not too shocked and surprised when suddenly I am old and start to wear purple. Ladies of the Senate. You may now have the opportunity to put on your red hats and put on your purple scarves and you then may take over."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McCaslin: "Senator Franklin, I want to warn all you ladies that there's already a movement a foot over here. Senator Honeyford came to me and said, 'You suppose the President would allow cowboy hat day? So once we get organized, the few men Democrats that are left over there, and we better hurry, the whole place will be jammed over there. But anyway we will start of movement in the Republican caucus for Cowboy Hat Day. We will notify you few fellows left over there when we start this and we'll get the type of cowboy hat. I'm sure the President will allow this, being so broad minded."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "I am allowing this!"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator McCaslin: "This you allow? Then you should allow cowboy hats so. We'll let you know fellows."

REPLY BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: "Although Senator, I understand that Senator Franklin would not mind if you wanted to wear a red hat as well."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Fraser: "I would like to thank Senator Franklin for being our red hat leader and providing a day where we can both have fun and reflect on growing older. I found a reflection to share with you. 'One of the many things nobody ever tells you about middle age is that it's such a nice change from being young.'"

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Jacobsen: "I also think it's a suitable function for the Senate. As I understand it the root word for Senate comes from the Latin for sen, which means old. So Senate and senile have the same root word. It must have been in the early roman, I'm just guessing at this, but I think in the early roman culture was equivalent of the counsel of the elders. The wiser ones have decided state policy so it's a suitable here. The other thing I did want to mention this morning in the Heritage Caucus we had a nice presentation on the Hansen House. Her son, Julie Butler Hansen's son, donated her house to the Wahkiakum County Foundation and if you're ever down in that part of Washington it's going to be open for tours sometimes. Also, papers will be available there and so on. It would be, if you ever get down, Senator Doumits part of the state, stop by and see the Julia Butler Hansen House."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Rasmussen: "Well, I first would like to say to Senator McCaslin, when he talked about the gentlemen wearing cowboy hats. I think it would be very fitting because you do never grow up and the boy would be perfect and the cow that stands for itself. Anyway I would like to recognize my wonderful friends that I grew up with, raised my kids with. We had fun all through school, all through our families being getting together and these are great athletic supporters of Eatonville and my wonderful, wonderful friends that have been my foundation and my backbone to everything that I do and my enjoyment in life. I owe to these wonderful ladies from Eatonville. There my dearest wonderful friends. I am so pleased and proud that they are here to share this day with all of us. We have lots of fun, we have lot more fun to have. This is a great time of life. Thank you."

SENATE RESOLUTION

By Senators Honeyford and Fraser

WHEREAS, In 1852, Olympia became the county seat of a newly organized county called Thurston; and
WHEREAS, On November 27, 1853, Governor Isaac Stevens selected Olympia as the temporary territorial capital because, among other reasons, it was host to the customs office and first newspaper in the territory, The Columbian; and
WHEREAS, On January 10, 1855, the territorial legislature made Olympia its permanent capital; and
WHEREAS, In the 1859-1860 legislative session, a bill came before the territorial legislature calling for Vancouver to become the permanent capital of the Washington Territory, and it was the territorial council that saved Olympia's capital status with a 5-4 vote; and
WHEREAS, In December of 1860, the Capital Relocation Act, which moved the capital to Vancouver, passed both houses without debate, however, in that same session a referendum also passed the assembly asking the voters to choose the location of the capital in the next election; and
WHEREAS, On July 8, 1861, by referendum Olympia was decided the clear winner with 1,239 signatures; and
WHEREAS, In December of 1861, a 2-1 majority of the territorial supreme court found that both statutes were missing enacting clauses and dates of passage, and without an enacting clause, the court found the removal act void and that the referendum held precedence; and
WHEREAS, On July 4, 1889, the state constitutional convention opened in Olympia, and delegates to the constitutional convention supported a referendum on the capital which would be voted on with adoption of the state Constitution; and
WHEREAS, On October 1, 1889, Olympia prevailed over Yakima and Ellensburg with a vote total of 25,490, however, not even the third direct vote of the people prevented further capital location controversies; and
WHEREAS, In 1899, Governor John Rogers vetoed a bill that would have mandated completion of the Capitol Building in Olympia, suggesting the purchase of the newly finished Thurston County Courthouse as a temporary solution; and

WHEREAS, Even with the purchase of the Thurston County Courthouse in 1901, another attempt was made to move the seat of government via a bill that passed both houses and putting yet another referendum on the state ballot that asked whether the capital should be moved to Tacoma or remain in Olympia; and

WHEREAS, With the completion of the Legislative Building in 1927, the Washington State Legislature finally met in a permanent Capitol Building, 73 years after the first territorial legislature convened;

That conversation never happened and nothing like that was ever said by me. I hope every person in this chamber understands that, that would never happen. That's not how I deal with this. Remember, last year when I got up and I spoke on behalf of the budget – I voted for the budget. We produced thirty-six votes out of the chamber. Every answer I ever got when I approached the chair at that time was: 'Will you vote for the budget if I consider it?' I thought all issues were suppose to be decided on their merit and that's how they're trying to be considered now. We had the chance to have dealt with amendments last night. We left at a quarter to six. There was no reason for that to happen. We should have dealt with those ... I guess that's enough."

Senator McAuliffe: "Yes, the K-12 finance study will have a chair selected by the Governor and then there will be an advisory group that will work through all of the issues that discuss or reconfigure basic education and the funding for K-12. So there will be currently an advisory group looking at all the issues that impact basic education and bilingual education is part of basic ed."

Senator Roach: "On the issue of bilingual education, maybe they'll be a subcommittee, I don't know. I would like to see that there is a divergence of thought on any of these committees that are established that would make directives to our education system. One of my main concerns about the education hierarchy in the establishment is, there is no divergence of thought. It's a group of individuals who already come to the table with a closed mind, with an agenda. What I'd like to see is some new thought brought in and that we be open minded when we talk about very important things when it comes to education, such as whether not bilingual strung out over three or more years is the right thing for our children."

Senator McAuliffe: "We would be sure that your message is carried to the advisory committee. Thank you."
