RULING BY THE PRESIDENT

President Owen: “In ruling upon the point of order raised by Senator Holmquist Newbry as to the application of Initiative 1053 to Engrossed Substitute Senate Bill 5581, the President finds and rules as follows:

Procedural challenges to revenue bills have been relatively common since the enactment of Initiative 601, followed by Initiatives 960 and 1053. These challenges often have a significant impact on revenue legislation, as the result of each challenge determines the number of votes necessary for a matter to pass. The President has attempted to approach these challenges in a consistent manner, and strongly believes that consistency provides guidance to members and legislative staff in drafting legislation that increases revenue. Certainly, some of the challenges have been easier to decide than others. In this particular instance, excellent arguments have been made to support both sides of the ultimate question – whether this assessment is a tax or a fee – and the President believes that this is one of the more difficult decisions he has been called upon to make.

Substitute Senate Bill 5581 addresses the collection of revenue referred to as a ‘safety net assessment.’ The bill does two separate things: it reduces the Medicaid rates paid to nursing homes for the care of Medicaid eligible patients, and it collects an assessment to supplement those reduced rates. This challenge focuses on the collection and distribution of the assessment, arguing that it constitutes a tax under I-1053.

Generally, the bill imposes an obligation on licensed nursing homes to pay an assessment based on the number of beds in each facility, but only for those beds occupied by private pay and Medicaid patients. After federal funds are received and added to the assessments, those amounts are used to pay for the care of Medicaid patients in licensed nursing homes. The bill carefully excludes certain nursing homes from the obligation to pay the assessment, such as continuing care facilities, publicly-owned facilities, hospitals, and smaller nursing homes. However, to the extent that those facilities may have Medicaid patients, they will benefit from the increased rates provided by the assessments. For almost all individual nursing facilities, the amount paid and the benefit received will vary from one another, and these variances are likely to be significant.

Past rulings by the President have recognized that a measure may be appropriately described as a fee if there is a sufficient nexus between those paying the fee or tax, and the purpose for which the revenue is used. Several additional elements contribute to this analysis, such as the common elements linking members of the group obligated to pay, whether the amounts are paid into an account with limited purposes, and the specific purpose or purposes for which the revenue may be used.

The latter two elements – paying the funds into a limited account, and limiting the purpose for which the funds may be used – weigh in favor of this measure being considered a fee.

Admittedly, there is not a perfect symmetry between the individual institutions that may pay the assessment and those that receive the benefit of the increased Medicaid rates. The precise amounts paid will vary between nursing homes, and the Medicaid rate payments will also vary, because the mix of beds – private-pay and Medicaid – will be different for each institution and will also change over time for each individual institution.

But even though individual circumstances may vary, the President cannot ignore that the nursing home industry provides a broad range of vital services for Washington citizens, particularly elderly citizens. These services are paid for through private resources, Medicare, and Medicaid. Most nursing homes – although not all of them – have a mix of all three. Accordingly, the President views this bill as imposing an assessment on the licensed nursing home industry, and returning that assessment to each recipient.

For these reasons, the President believes this measure will take only a simple majority vote on final passage, and Senator Holmquist Newbry’s point is not well-taken.”
