PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Hawkins: "Thank you, thank you Mr. President. And, as excited as I am and pleased as I am about a bipartisan passage of the state's capital budget, I am even more excited, as I know you are too, about the NCAA tournament. So, I just wanted to take a brief moment here to talk about the most exciting and the most electrifying player in the NCAA right now. And much to your chagrin, I'm not talking about Drew Timme. I'm talking about my constituent, Wenatchee's Hailey Van Lith who plays for Louisville and who helped her team against Texas by scoring 21 points and making it to the Sweet Sixteen. And I wasn't much of an NCAA basketball fan, I'm more of a wrestler, so I watched the NCAA wrestling tournament, but over the past few years, rather than just checking in to the NCAA tournament at the Final Four stage, I've been watching it earlier and earlier because of Hailey. So, a few years ago they had a heat-breaking loss to Stanford, and they got out of the tournament. I think Stanford went on to win the national championship that year. Last year Hailey helped her team make it to the Final Four. And now the Sweet Sixteen is, 'Guess where it is?' They are playing at Climate Pledge Arena tonight. 7:00 p.m. against Ole Miss. I can't make it to that game. I am hoping they make it to the Elite Eight so I can cheer them on. But I just wanted to say she is a great, not only a great basketball player but an excellent student. One of Cashmere High School's very best and I am sure the Senate will share in my support for her and wish her and her team the very best. Thank you Mr. President."

President Heck: "Once again that is far beyond the bounds of the point of personal privilege. Senator Padden, for what purpose do you rise?"

Senator Padden: "A point of personal privilege Mr. President."

President Heck: "I am going to allow a little leeway on this one."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Padden: "I thought you might. Thank you Mr. President. And of course, last night in a tremendous game, one of the most exciting games, the Gonzaga Bulldogs faced their old nemesis the UCLA Bruins, so it was a vindication here for the last few games with UCLA. I mean you can go back to when Adam Morrison was in almost despair when they lost. But since then when Jalen Suggs hit the winning shot and then last night the win at the last second with only six seconds to go and so tomorrow at 5:45 they play the Connecticut Huskies for a spot in the Final Four. But it's been so exciting. They were the underdogs last night and they came through so hats off to the Zags and hopefully they win some more. Thank you Mr. President."

President Heck: "Point well taken."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Senator Wellman: "Thank you so much sir. It has been my pleasure to serve on our Washington Arts Commission for the last six years and as you know our state is home to many military bases. A significant number of military service people live in our state and call this place home. What you may not know Mr. President is that we, uniquely in the United States have had a program of recognizing that the arts are really very crucial in addressing PTSD and many of the things that our military service people come back with, having endured some pretty hardships around the world. And so, we have established a wellness arts in the military grant program and that is ongoing and we have funded it this year. I'm proud of this program and as I said it is unique in the United States and I am so proud of the state of Washington for stepping up for our military service people. Thank you Mr. President."

MOTION

At 1:24 p.m., on motion of Senator Pedersen, the Senate adjourned until 12:30 p.m. Monday, March 27, 2023.
