

BRIEFING REPORT:

2020 How Washington Compares

HOW WASHINGTON COMPARES TO OTHER STATES

About the Report

National data compares Washington to other states

JLARC staff prepared this reference guide for Washington legislators to illustrate how Washington compares to other states in five broad areas:

1. Population size, economy, health, and environment
2. Government spending and debt
3. Education costs and spending
4. Taxes and revenue
5. Public assistance, transportation, and public safety spending

This report presents information from national datasets. Our intent is to make these public data sources more accessible and interactive.

Data sources and notes

Data in this report comes from the U.S. Census Bureau, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the National Association of State Budget Officers, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Federal Highway Administration, and other national data sources.

How to read the data

This report presents national data in an interactive format.

- Maps are shaded to highlight the top 25% and bottom 25% states for each comparison.
- Data from prior years is not adjusted for inflation.
- The 50-state average shown in each table weights each state equally and excludes the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. Per capita amounts are calculated using mid-year population estimates from the U.S. Census Bureau.

Government spending and debt

12. Per capita federal grants (Federal FY18)
Source: USAspending.gov; U.S. Census Bureau, Annual Estimates of the Resident Population.
Note: Federal grants are funds that are awarded to a non-federal entity for a defined public or private purpose in which services are not rendered to the federal government. Includes cooperative agreements.
13. Per capita federal expenditures (Federal FY18)
Source: USAspending.gov; U.S. Census Bureau, Annual Estimates of the Resident Population.
Note: Federal expenditures in the state consist of contracts, grants, direct payments, federally funded insurance programs, loans/guarantees, and all other reimbursable, contingent, intangible, and indirect financial assistance. USAspending.gov data is complete for federal grants and contracts but not for the retirement benefits, non-retirement benefits, and salaries for federal employees. Therefore, data presented here does not include all federal spending in a state.
