NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The word "agency" used herein means and includes every state government office, officer, each institution, whether educational, correctional, or other, and every department, division, board and commission, except as otherwise provided in this act.

The phrase "agencies headed by elective officials" used herein shall mean those executive offices or departments of the state which are directly supervised, administered, or controlled by the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, superintendent of public instruction, commissioner of public lands, or insurance commissioner, but it shall not include those boards, commissions, or committees on which one or more of the above-named officials serve.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. In order to carry out the provisions of these appropriations and the state budget, the budget director, with the approval of the governor, may:

(1) Allot all or any portion of the funds herein appropriated or included in the state budget, to the various agencies by such periods as he shall determine and may place any funds not so allotted in reserve available for subsequent allotment: Provided, That the budget director shall not alter allotment requests filed with him, nor shall he place in reserve any funds, for the following: Agencies headed by elective officials; University of Washington; Washington State University; Central Washington State College; Eastern Washington State College; Western Washington State College; The Evergreen State College; Washington State Apple Advertising Commission; Washington State Fruit Commission; Washington Dairy Products Commission or any agricultural commodity commission created under the provisions of chapter 15.66 RCW; the legislative branch of state government including the legislative council, the legislative budget committee, the statute law committee, and any legislative interim committee; or the judicial branch of state government: Provided, however, That the aggregate of allotments for any agency shall not exceed the total of applicable appropriations and local funds available to the agency concerned. Nothing in this section or in chapter 328, Laws of 1959, shall prevent revision of any allotment when necessary to prevent the making of expenditures under appropriations in this act in excess of available revenues.

(2) Issue rules and regulations to establish uniform standards and business practices throughout the state service, including regulation of travel by officers and employees and the conditions under which per diem shall be paid, so as to improve efficiency and conserve funds.

(3) Prescribe procedures and forms to carry out the above.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. Receipts for purposes of this section shall include amounts realized within one calendar month following the close of a fiscal period and applicable to expenditures of that period. The amount of such payment shall be credited to and shall be treated for all purposes as having been collected during the fiscal period. Whenever possible, the receipt of federal or other funds which are not anticipated by the governor's budget or the legislature shall be used to support regular programs instead of using appropriated funds.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. Agencies are authorized to make refunds of erroneous or excessive payments and in the case of other refunds, which may be provided by law, without express appropriation therefor.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. Whenever allocations are made from the governor's emergency appropriation to an agency which is financed by other than general fund moneys, the budget director may direct the repayment of such allocated amount to the general fund from any balance in the fund or funds which finance such agency. Such amounts may be expended as a part of the original appropriation of the fund to which it belongs, without further or additional appropriation, subject to conditions and procedures prescribed by the budget director which shall provide for determination of full costs, disclosure of such reimbursements in the governor's budget, maximum interagency usage of data processing equipment and services and such restrictions as will promote more economical operations of state government without incurring continuing costs beyond those reimbursed. Such services may include, but shall not be limited to, a data processing service bureau in the Department of General Administration and further centralized payroll and vendor payment processing.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. In order to obtain maximum interagency use of aircraft, the Aeronautics Commission, in accordance with RCW 43.09.210 and RCW 39.34 is hereby authorized to lease, purchase or otherwise acquire suitable aircraft which shall be utilized for the purposes of the Aeronautics Commission and also by other state agencies which have a need for an aircraft to carry out agency assigned responsibilities: Provided, That the Aeronautics Commission is further authorized to enter into contractual agreements with other state agencies in order to acquire aircraft, establish rental rates for aircraft under their control, provide pilot services, aircraft maintenance and make such other provisions as necessary to provide aircraft and related services for multi-agency use: Provided further, That in order to achieve economy in the use of the appropriations contained within this act no state agency may purchase an aircraft or enter into a flying service or aircraft rental contract without first seeking such service from the Aeronautics Commission and without prior approval of the Budget Director.

Signed by Senators Durkan, Atwood and Dore; Representatives Goldsworthy, Saling and Brouillet.

MOTION

Mr. Goldsworthy moved that the House adopt the report of the Free Conference Committee on Substitute Senate Bill No. 151.

Representative Goldsworthy spoke in favor of the motion.

Mr. Goldsworthy: "Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House:

"A few days ago we had a minister here who during the morning prayer raised his eyes and said, 'Well here we go again.' I would say the same thing, only he was talking to different ears than I am talking to here, all right. But I still have that feeling of 'here we go again.' And I'm talking to a mean bunch of cats (especially on my side of the aisle) that make me a little reluctant to stand here and go through this budget one more time.

"Representative Saling, Representative Brouillet and I are here feeling something like the man who spent five hundred dollars to be cured of halitosis just to find out that no one liked him anyway. We find that no one likes a conference report on the budget.

"There's an old saying back in Rosalia that if you find a trout in the milk, you can assume it's been watered. So I stand here assuming that no one in this legislative body is going to like one bit the full conference report on the budget. There are certainly things in here that the three of us do not like.

"We met on the conference committee the first time, and, of course, there were three of us on the Republican side with our big, broad, Republican bovine faces just radiating honesty—apple-cheeked and this sort of thing—looking across the table at those mean, shifty, little red eyes of our opponents, and we started from that point.

"We had three objectives. The first one was to give everybody just what they wanted. The second was to balance this with our available income, and then come back here and get fifty votes. So we are at that point now. We pleased everybody, just about. We did balance pretty close with our income. And I'm assuming (not having talked with my leadership in the last thirty-five seconds) that we have the fifty votes, because we do have this thing up before us.

"First of all, we had to start this conference committee knowing we're spending some money, but we had to balance it with our available income. It's kind of like the man that went to the doctor and he had five dimes in his nose. And he says, 'Doc, I got these five dimes in my nose that I've had for about six months,' and the doctor says, 'Good heavens man, why didn't you come to me sooner?' and he said, 'Well I didn't need the money.' Don't pull my coattail, this is a pretty good audience. (Speaking to Representative Saling.)

"So as you can see, I'm not going to go into this budget, but we have to spend a little time, you know, to justify the five weeks we spent on the conference committee. I'm not going into the budget because Representative Brouillet has done a masterful job explaining everything to that side of the aisle. Representative Saling and I did a miserable job of explaining it on this side of the aisle. So I'm sure there is no reason to go into the facts and figures at this time.

"Representative Conner, many times, has gotten himself out of a bad situation with a good poem, and this sort of thing. I can remember when I was a cadet down in San Antonio a good many years ago, I did pretty well with a little poem that started out, 'Deep in the heart of a rose, I'll build a new world for you'—this sort of thing. I'm not going to give it to you clowns here, and I was younger then, too. But I would like to take some real liberties with Robert Browning, and I dedicate this to Representative Conner since he is real good at this sort of thing. But to take a little out of context and some real liberties, there is something I want to dedicate . . ."

The Speaker rapped the gavel.

Mr. Goldsworthy: "You mean I'm over my time?"

The Speaker: "I wonder if you would confine your remarks to the report of the Free Conference Committee."

Mr. Goldsworthy: "This, Mr. Speaker, is about the Free Conference Committee and it expresses better than I can how we feel."

The Speaker: "Then set it to music."

Mr. Goldsworthy: "Would you like to have this, Mr. Speaker? For the Journal? All right, this is it. This is the finale. This is how the three of us, coming to you people at this time, sort of go along with this. By Robert Browning:

" 'Fear death?—to feel the fog in my throat,

The mist in my face,

When the snows begin, and the blasts denote

I am nearing the place,

The power of the night, the press of the storm,

The post of the foe; (Now here's where it gets to you people)

Where he stands, the Arch Fear in a visible form, (that's you)

Yet the strong man must go: (speaking of us again)

For the journey is done and the summit attained, (that's the Free Conference Report)

And the barriers fall,

Though a battle's to fight ere the guerdon be gained,

The reward of it all. (fifty votes, Mr. Speaker) (back to the three of us again)

I was ever a fighter, so—one fight more,
 The best and the last!
 I would hate that death bandaged my eyes, and forebore,
 And bade me creep past.
 No! let me taste the whole of it, fare like my peers
 The heroes of old, (like us)
 Bear the brunt, in a minute pay glad life's arrears
 Of pain, darkness and cold. (that's you people again)
 For sudden the worst turns the best to the brave,
 The black minute's at end,
 And the elements' rage, the fiend-voices that rave,
 Shall dwindle, shall blend,
 Shall change, shall become first a peace out of pain.'

"And that, gentlemen, is the 'peace out of pain' when I see fifty green lights up there on the board. I hope you go along."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Mr. Goldsworthy yielded to question by Mr. O'Brien.

Mr. O'Brien: "Mr. Goldsworthy, I would like to know the fiscal impact of this total budget of yours. How many billions of dollars are we expending out of the general fund? Do you have anything like that, or is this all in a lighter vein?"

Mr. Goldsworthy: "Yes, Mr. O'Brien, we certainly do. I assumed you would ask this in your caucus before you got to the floor of the House, and I assume that you did ask this. Our capital appropriation bill that we passed through here was $50,324,000. The total of the operational budget is $2,188,975,021. That covers the total operational expenditures. We have other estimated expenditures which we do not have completely resolved yet, such as legislative interim committee expenses, legislative salaries (if I may use that word) and other areas. However, this is the total, general fund expense in this bill."

The motion by Mr. Goldsworthy that the House adopt the report of the Free Conference Committee on Substitute Senate Bill No. 151 was carried.

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES

May 10, 1969.

ENGROSSED SENATE BILL NO. 678, relating to unemployment compensation, reported by Committee on Labor and Employment Security.

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendments:

On page 2, beginning on line 22 following section 2, strike the remainder of the bill and substitute the following:

"Sec. 3. Section 33, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 2, chapter 8, Laws of 1953 ex. sess. and RCW 50.04.320 are each amended to read as follows:

"For the purpose of payment of contributions, 'wages' means the first three thousand six hundred dollars of remuneration paid by one employer during any calendar year to an individual in its employment under this title or the unemployment compensation law of any other state [After December 31, 1950.] If an employer (hereinafter referred to as a successor employer) during any calendar year acquires substantially all the operating assets of another employer (hereinafter referred to as a predecessor employer) or assets used in a separate unit of a trade or business of a predecessor employer, and immediately after the acquisition employs in his trade or business an individual who immediately prior to the acquisition was employed in the trade or business of such predecessor employer, then, for the purposes of determining whether the successor employer has paid remuneration equal to three thousand six hundred dollars to such individual during such calendar year, any remuneration paid to such individual by such predecessor during such calendar year and prior to such acquisition shall be considered as having been paid by such successor employer.

"For the purpose of payment of benefits, 'wages' means the remuneration payable by one or more employers to an individual for employment under this title during [one calendar] his base year.

“‘Remuneration’ means all compensation paid for personal services, including commissions and bonuses and the cash value of all compensation paid in any medium other than cash. The reasonable cash value of compensation paid in any medium other than cash and the reasonable value of gratuities shall be estimated and determined in accordance with rules prescribed by the commissioner.

“NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

“On or before the fifteenth day of June of each year an ‘average annual wage’ and an ‘average weekly wage’ shall be computed for the preceding calendar year from information for the preceding calendar year reported by all employers as defined in RCW 50.04.080 on employers’ contribution reports (including corrections thereof) filed within three months after the close of that year. The ‘average annual wage’ is the quotient derived by dividing total remuneration reported by all employers by the average number of workers reported for all months. The average annual wage thus obtained shall be divided by fifty-two to determine the ‘average weekly wage’: PROVIDED, That in computing the average annual wage and average weekly wage such amounts shall be computed to the nearest multiple of one dollar except that if the computed amount ends in fifty cents it shall be adjusted to the next higher multiple of one dollar.

“Sec. 5. Section 68, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 3, chapter 266, Laws of 1959 and RCW 50.20.010 are each amended to read as follows:

“An unemployed individual shall be eligible to receive waiting period credits or benefits with respect to any week only if the commissioner finds that:

“(1) He has registered for work at, and thereafter has continued to report at, an employment office in accordance with such regulation as the commissioner may prescribe, except that the commissioner may by regulation waive or alter either or both of the requirements of this subdivision as to individuals attached to regular jobs and as to such other types of cases or situations with respect to which he finds that the compliance with such requirements would be oppressive, or would be inconsistent with the purposes of this title;

“(2) He has filed an application for an initial determination and made a claim for waiting period credit or for benefits in accordance with the provisions of this title;

“(3) He is able to work, and is available for work in any trade, occupation, profession, or business for which he is reasonably fitted. To be available for work an individual must be ready, able, and willing, immediately to accept any suitable work which may be offered to him and must be actively seeking work pursuant to customary trade practices and through other methods when so directed by the commissioner or his agents;

“(4) He has been unemployed for a waiting period of one week; [and]

“(5) He has [within the base year been paid wages of not less than the minimum amount now or hereafter fixed by law as the minimum amount to be earned in order to allow the individual to receive unemployment benefits] for any benefit year beginning after July 5, 1969, earned wages during his base year of not less than twenty percent of the average annual wage as defined herein or has earned wages during his base year of eight hundred dollars and had employment in not less than twenty weeks, in said base year, in each of which he had earned wages of at least twenty percent of the average weekly wage: PROVIDED, That in computing the twenty percent, such figure shall be computed to the nearest multiple of one dollar, except that if the computed amount ends in fifty cents, it shall be adjusted to the next higher multiple of one dollar.

“(6) If the base year wages of the individual’s current benefit year, for any benefit year beginning after July 5, 1969, include wages earned prior to the establishment of a prior benefit year, the individual shall not be eligible for benefits unless he earned wages in the last six months of his base year equal to at least eight times his current weekly benefit amount or eight times the weekly benefit amount to which he would otherwise be entitled.

“Sec. 6. Section 80, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 2, chapter 321, Laws of 1959 and RCW 50.20.120 are each amended to read as follows:

“(1) Subject to the other provisions of this title benefits shall be payable to any eligible individual during [the] his benefit year in a maximum amount equal to the lesser of thirty times the weekly benefit amount (determined hereinafter) or one-third of the individual’s base year wages under this title: PROVIDED, That an otherwise eligible individual shall not be entitled to be paid benefits in any calendar quarter in an amount greater than the total amount of wages under this title earned in the highest of the two corresponding calendar quarters included within the period of the first eight of the last nine completed calendar quarters immediately preceding his current benefit year: PROVIDED, FURTHER, That this limitation shall not serve to restrict the payment of benefits to an individual:

“(a) In any quarter of his benefit year if in either of such two corresponding quarters he earned no wages because of illness or disability, or

“(b) If he had no earnings in subject employment under this Title during the four completed quarters immediately preceding the beginning of his base year, or

“(c) If his benefit determination is based, in total or in part, on earnings not subject to contributions under this Title, or if he had earnings not subject to contributions under this Title which would have been used in his benefit determination except for the fact that he had sufficient wages subject to contributions under this Title to entitle him to the maximum amount of benefits payable under this Title, and he can show to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that had such earnings been subject to contributions under this Title they would remove the restriction: PROVIDED, That if such earnings are insufficient to remove the restriction but would either by themselves or when added to wages earned under this Title serve to increase the limiting amount, they may be used to effect such increase: PROVIDED, FURTHER, That except as otherwise provided in this section an individual shall not be entitled to receive extended benefits during any calendar quarter in an amount greater than the total amount of wages under this Title earned in the highest of the two corresponding calendar quarters included within the period of the first eight of the last nine completed calendar quarters immediately preceding the benefit year which determines the amount of his extended benefit entitlement.

"(2) An individual's weekly benefit amount shall be [in a minimum] an amount [of seventeen dollars for the first one hundred twenty-five dollars or portion thereof in excess of seven hundred ninety-nine dollars and ninety-nine cents of base year wages, increasing one dollar for each one hundred twenty-five dollars or portion thereof of said individual's base year wages earned thereafter, with a maximum amount payable weekly of not more than forty-two dollars] equal to one twenty-fifth of the average of his total wages during the two quarters of his base year in which such total wages were highest, except that if such computed amount is less than seventeen dollars, the weekly benefit amount shall be deemed to be seventeen dollars. The maximum amount payable weekly shall be sixty-eight dollars: PROVIDED, That if any [maximum] weekly benefit amount computed herein is not a multiple of one dollar, it shall be adjusted to the nearest multiple of one dollar, except that if the computed amount ends in fifty cents, it shall be [carried] adjusted to the next higher multiple of one dollar.

"Sec. 7. Section 83, chapter 35, Laws of 1945, as amended by section 5, chapter 215, Laws of 1951 and RCW 50.20.150 are each amended to read as follows:

"The applicant for initial determination, his most recent employing unit as stated by the applicant, and any other interested party which the commissioner by regulation prescribes, shall, if not previously notified within the same continuous period of unemployment, be given notice promptly in writing that an application for initial determination has been filed and such notice shall contain the reasons given by the applicant for his last separation from work. If, during his benefit year, the applicant becomes unemployed after having accepted subsequent work, and [files a claim for waiting period credit or] reports for the purpose of re-establishing his eligibility for benefits, a similar notice shall be given promptly to his then most recent employing unit as stated by him, or to any other interested party which the commissioner by regulation prescribes.

"Each base year employer shall be promptly notified of the filing of any application for initial determination which may result in a charge to his account.

"Sec. 8. Section 89, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as amended by section 18, chapter 214, Laws of 1949 and RCW 50.24.010 are each amended to read as follows:

"Contributions shall accrue and become payable by each employer for each calendar year in which he is subject to this title at the rate of two and seven-tenths percent of wages paid except as provided in sections 9 through 20 of this 1969 amendatory act.

"Contributions shall become due and be paid by each employer to the treasurer for the unemployment compensation fund in accordance with such regulations as the commissioner may prescribe, and shall not be deducted, in whole or in part, from the remuneration of individuals in employment of the employer. Any deduction in violation of the provisions of this section shall be unlawful.

"In the payment of any contributions, a fractional part of a cent shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to one cent.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"As used in this title:

"(1) 'Taxable payroll' means all remuneration paid by an employer or employers on which contributions are payable.

"(2) 'Rate year' means the calendar year next succeeding the date of rate determination.

"(3) 'Date of rate determination' means July 1st of any year.

"(4) (a) 'Eligible employer' means any employer whose account could have been charged with benefits throughout the thirty-six consecutive calendar month period immediately preceding the date of rate determination or could have been charged had the benefit charging provisions been in effect, except that no employer shall be deemed an eligible employer unless all contributions required under this title from him or his predecessors for the thirty-six month period immediately preceding the date of rate determination have been paid prior to September 1st immediately following the date of rate determination, except that,

"(b) any employer who has not been subject to the act for a period of time sufficient to be classified as an eligible employer under the provision of part (a) of this definition but whose account could have been charged with benefits throughout at least the twelve consecutive month period immediately preceding the date of rate determination shall be classified as an eligible employer, except that no employer shall be deemed an eligible employer unless all contributions required under this title from him or his predecessors for the twenty-four month period immediately preceding the date of rate determination have been paid prior to September 1st immediately following the date of rate determination.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"An experience rating account shall be established and maintained for each employer based on existing records of the employment security department and shall be effective beginning with July 1, 1966. Benefits paid to any eligible individual subsequent to June 30, 1966, shall be charged to the experience rating accounts of each of his employers during his base year in the same proportion that the wages paid by each employer to the individual during the base year bear to the wages paid by all employers to that individual during that year.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"(1) When, after July 1, 1969, an individual has been disqualified for benefits for misconduct connected with his work pursuant to RCW 50.20.060, benefits subsequently paid to him based on wages earned prior to the week of discharge or suspension from the employer from whom he was discharged or suspended shall not be charged to the experience rating account of any employer.

"(2) In addition, benefits paid subsequent to July 1, 1969, to an individual under the provisions of RCW 50.12.050 shall not be charged to the account of any employer if the wage credits earned in this state by the individual during his base year are less than the minimum amount to be earned in order to allow the individual to receive unemployment benefits.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"For the purpose of prorating benefit charges for periods of unemployment prior to July 2, 1967, 'wages' shall be construed to mean the wages reported by employers on the existing wage reports submitted for use in benefit computations. For the purpose of prorating benefit charges for periods of unemployment subsequent to July 2, 1967, 'wages' shall mean 'wages' as defined for the purpose of payment of benefits in RCW 50.04.320.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"For the rate year 1970 and each rate year thereafter (1) a benefit ratio shall be computed for each eligible employer. The computation of benefit ratios shall be extended to six decimal places and the remaining fraction, if any, disregarded. The benefit ratio for an employer shall be the quotient obtained by dividing the total benefits charged to his account during the thirty-six consecutive month period immediately preceding the date of rate determination by his taxable payroll for the same thirty-six month period as reported not later than August 31st immediately following the date of rate determination, except that (2) the benefit ratio for any eligible employer whose account has not been chargeable for a period of thirty-six months immediately prior to the date of rate determination shall be the quotient obtained by dividing total benefits charged to his account, prior to the date of rate determination, by his taxable payroll as set forth as follows: the taxable payroll shall be that reported by August 31st immediately following the date of rate determination, for the period beginning with the first day of the second calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which he becomes liable, and through the end of the quarter immediately preceding the date of rate determination.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"(1) An array shall be prepared of all eligible employers in order by benefit ratios. The array shall start with the employer having the lowest benefit ratio and progress through the employer having the highest benefit ratio. The array shall show for each employer (a) his benefit ratio, (b) his taxable payroll for the four calendar quarters ending with June 30th immediately preceding the computation date and reported by the following August 31st, and (c) a cumulative total consisting of the sum of his taxable payroll as identified above and such taxable payrolls of all other employers preceding him on the list.

"(2) All arrayed employers starting with those having the lowest benefit ratio, shall be grouped in accordance with the cumulative taxable payroll percentage limits for the tax schedule in effect. Fractions of a cent shall be dropped in computing taxable payroll limits. If this grouping results in the taxable payroll of an employer falling in two groups, such employer and any other employer or employers with the same benefit ratio shall be assigned the lower of the two applicable rates.

"(3) If, subsequent to the assignment of rates of contribution for any rate year, the benefit ratio of an employer is recomputed and changed, such employer shall be placed in that position in the array which he would have occupied had his corrected benefit ratio been shown in the array, but such altered position in the array shall not affect the position of any other employer.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"Effective with the rate year 1970 and each rate year thereafter contribution rates for eligible employers shall be those scheduled in Table I. The column of the schedule effective for a particular rate year is determined by the fund balance ratio, except that for rate year 1970 column B shall be effective.

"The fund balance ratio for any rate year is the percentage ratio of the balance in the unemployment compensation fund as of June 30th immediately preceding the date of rate determination for that rate year to total remuneration paid by all employers for the calendar year preceding the date of rate determination and reported by the following March 31st. The ratios which apply to each column are as follows:

"If at any date of rate determination the amount of money in the unemployment compensation fund is less than three and one-half percent of total remuneration paid by all employers during the preceding calendar year and reported on or before the March 31st following such year, contributions for the following rate year for all employers shall be payable at the rate of three percent.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"When an employer or prospective employer has acquired all or substantially all of the operating assets of an employer, or has acquired an operating department, section, division, or any substantial portion of the business or assets of any employer, which is clearly segregable and identifiable, for experience rating purposes, the payroll record and benefit charges of the transferring employer shall be divided between the transferring and acquiring employers in proportion to the payroll for the four preceding completed calendar quarters attributable to the operating assets retained and conveyed. The successor employer shall be liable for contributions on the acquired business from the date the transfer of the business occurred. The separate account of a predecessor or that part thereof which is transferred shall become the separate account or part of separate account as the case may be of the successor employer.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"Effective January 1, 1970, predecessor and successor employer contribution rates shall be computed in the following manner:

"(1) If the successor is an employer at the time of the transfer, his contribution rate shall remain unchanged for the remainder of the rate year in which the transfer occurs;

"(2) The contribution rate on any payroll retained by a predecessor employer shall remain unchanged for the remainder of the rate year in which the transfer occurs;

"(3) If the successor is not an employer at the time of the transfer and acquires the business of one employer or the businesses of two or more employers with the same rate, he shall pay contributions for the remainder of the rate year in which the transfer occurs, at the rate assigned to the predecessor employer or employers;

"(4) If the successor is not an employer at the time of the transfer and simultaneously acquires the businesses of two or more employers with different rates or contributions, his rate from the date the transfer occurred until the end of the rate year in which such transfer occurred, shall be a recomputed rate based on the combined experience of his predecessors as of the last day of the completed calendar quarter immediately preceding the quarter in which the transfer occurs;

"(5) In all cases, from and after January 1st following the transfer, the successor's rate of contribution for each rate year shall be based on his experience with taxable payrolls and benefits combined with the experience of his predecessor or predecessors, as of the regular date of rate determination for that rate year.

"(6) In all cases, from and after January 1 following the transfer, the predecessor's rate of contribution for each rate year shall be based on his experience with taxable payrolls and benefits, as of the regular date of rate determination for that rate year, excluding therefrom such experience as was credited to the successor under section 16 of this 1969 amendatory act.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"Within a reasonable time after the date of rate determination, each employer shall be notified of the total amount of benefits charged to his account during the twelve-month period immediately preceding the date of rate determination and, upon request, the amount of such charges with respect to each individual receiving unemployment benefits charged to his account.

"Within a reasonable time after the date of rate determination, each employer shall be notified of his rate of contribution as determined for the succeeding rate year.

"Any employer dissatisfied with the benefit charges made to his account or with his determined rate may file a request for review and redetermination with the commissioner within thirty days of the mailing of the notice to the employer, showing the reason for such request. Should such request for review and redetermination be denied, the employer may, within ten days of the mailing of such notice of denial, file with the appeal tribunal a petition for hearing which shall be heard in the same manner as a petition for denial of refund. The appellate procedure prescribed by this title for further appeal shall apply to all denials of review and redetermination under this section.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"The commissioner may redetermine any contribution rate if, within three years of the rate computation date, he finds that the rate as originally computed was erroneous.

"In the event that the redetermined rate is lower than that originally computed the difference between the amount paid and the amount which should have been paid on the employer's taxable payroll for the rate year involved shall be established as a credit against his tax liability; however, if the redetermined rate is higher than that originally computed the difference between the amount paid and the amount which should have been paid on the employer's taxable payroll shall be assessed against the employer as contributions owing for the rate year involved.

"The redetermination of an employer's contribution rate shall not affect the contribution rates which have been established for any other employer nor shall such redetermination affect any other computation made pursuant to this title.

"The employer shall have the same rights to request review and redetermination as he had from his original rate determination.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"Experience rating credits issued for the credit year beginning July 1, 1969, may be applied only against contributions which are payable on wages paid prior to January 1, 1970.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 21. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"An individual who has received the maximum amount allowable in his benefit year may, if otherwise eligible, draw 'extended benefits' in those weeks in his benefit year which begin in an 'extended benefit period' and, if his benefit year ends within such extended benefit period, in the next thirteen or fewer weeks which begin in such 'extended benefit period': PROVIDED, That the individual shall not draw such 'extended benefits' in any week during which he could establish entitlement to regular unemployment benefits under any state or federal law.

"If a federal enactment provides for reimbursing the state for certain benefits paid for weeks of extended unemployment, the extended benefits shall be made in the regular manner, and the reimbursements shall be credited to the unemployment compensation fund.

"(1) 'Extended benefits' are additional benefits payable at the weekly rate applicable for the individual during the benefit year for which he has received the maximum sum allowable. Extended benefits for an individual cannot exceed whichever is the lesser of thirteen times his weekly benefit amount or one-half his previous entitlement, and the combined total of his regular unemployment compensation plus his extended benefits cannot exceed thirty-nine times his weekly amount.

"(2) An 'extended benefit period' means a period commencing with the third calendar week immediately following any thirteen-week period (known for purposes of this section as the thirteen-week computation period) during which the average rate of insured unemployment is equal to or greater than one hundred twenty percent of the average of the rates of insured unemployment for the corresponding thirteen-week periods in each of the two preceding calendar years and ending with the third week immediately following any thirteen-week period during which such rate was less than one hundred twenty percent of the average rate of insured unemployment for the corresponding thirteen-week periods in each of the two preceding years: PROVIDED, That an extended benefit period shall not commence unless the yearly average insured unemployment rate as computed at the end of the thirteen-week computation period is equal to at least five percent. No extended benefit period shall be less than thirteen weeks in length and no extended benefit period shall commence at any time an extended benefit period is already in effect.

"(3) 'Insured unemployment' for any week as used for this computation means the number of weeks of unemployment claimed in Washington for that week, excluding weeks of unemployment claimed in connection with unemployment compensation programs which are exclusively federal and excluding any weeks claimed by an individual following the week in which benefits based on his original entitlement were exhausted.

"(4) 'Insured employment' means the average monthly employment reported by employers for a twelve-month period.

"(5) For purposes of this section the rate of 'insured unemployment for any week' is the ratio obtained by dividing insured unemployment for that week by insured employment for the twelve-month period ending six months immediately prior to the calendar quarter in which the week began.

"(6) Rates of insured unemployment shall be computed for each calendar week. After each week the insured unemployment rates for the thirteen consecutive weeks ending with that week shall be averaged and the average shall be compared with the average of the rates of insured unemployment for the corresponding thirteen-week periods of the two preceding years. After each week the insured unemployment rates for the fifty-two consecutive weeks ending with that week shall be averaged to yield a yearly average insured unemployment rate. The commissioner shall by regulation prescribe how corresponding weeks are to be determined. Computations involving division shall be carried to four decimal places.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 22. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"(1) Any payments which an individual has claimed, is receiving or has received under a government and/or a private retirement pension plan, to which a base year employer has contributed on behalf of such individual, shall be deemed remuneration under this title for the purpose of determining eligibility and the amount of weekly benefits to which such individual is entitled: PROVIDED, That in no event will Old Age and Survivors Insurance Benefits, under the provisions of Title II of the federal Social Security Act, as amended, serve to reduce an individual's weekly benefit amount in more than thirty weeks with respect to each of which, the individual is in claim status.

"(2) Payments claimed or received under a government and/or a private pension plan shall not be considered wages subject to contributions under this title nor shall such payments be considered in determining base year earnings of the individual.

"(3) In the event a retroactive retirement or pension payment covers a period in which an individual received benefits under the provisions of this title, the excess paid over the amount to which he would have been entitled had such retirement or pension payment been considered, as provided in subsection (1) above, shall be recoverable under RCW 50.20.190: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That any amounts which have been deducted from the weekly benefit amount by reason of the provisions of this section shall not be available for future benefits: PROVIDED, FURTHER, That no payments received on account of temporary or permanent disability rather than on account of age or length of service shall be considered compensation paid for personal services.

"Sec. 23. Section 3, chapter 286, Laws of 1955 and RCW 50.20.030 are each amended to read as follows:

"A [pregnant] woman [shall be presumed to be unable to work and unavailable for work if she left her most recent work voluntarily] who voluntarily quits work because of pregnancy shall be disqualified from benefits for the week in which she quits and thereafter through the terminal week of her pregnancy: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That in any event a pregnant woman shall be [ineligible to receive] disqualified from receiving benefits for any calendar week during the period beginning with the [tenth] seventeenth calendar week [before] immediately preceding the expected date of confinement, as determined by a doctor, and extending through the [fourth] sixth calendar week immediately following the week in which childbirth occurs.

"Sec. 24. Section 73, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 8, chapter 8, Laws of 1953 ex. sess. and RCW 50.20.050 are each amended to read as follows:

"An individual shall be disqualified [for] from benefits beginning with the first day of [for] the calendar week in which he has left work voluntarily without good cause connected with the work and [for the five calendar weeks which immediately follow such week] thereafter until he has obtained work and earned wages of not less than his suspended weekly benefit amount in each of five calendar weeks: PROVIDED, That disqualification under this section shall not extend beyond the twelfth calendar week following the week in which such individual left work: PROVIDED, FURTHER, That leaving work shall not be considered voluntary without good cause attributable to the employer or employing unit when it is caused by the illness or disability of the claimant and the claimant took all reasonable precautions in accordance with such regulation as the commissioner may prescribe to protect his employment status by having promptly notified his employer as to the reason for his absence and by promptly requesting reemployment when he is again able to resume employment.

"Sec. 25. Section 74, chapter 35, Laws of 1945, as last amended by section 9, chapter 8, Laws of 1953 first extraordinary session, and RCW 50.20.060 are each amended to read as follows:

"An individual shall be disqualified [for] from benefits [for] beginning with the first day of the calendar week in which he has been discharged or suspended for misconduct connected with his work and [for the five calendar weeks which immediately follow such week] thereafter until he has obtained work and earned wages of not less than his suspended weekly benefit amount in each of five calendar weeks.

"Sec. 26. Section 129, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and RCW 50.32.130 are each amended to read as follows:

"No bond of any kind shall be required of any individual appealing to the superior court or to the supreme court from a commissioner's decision affecting such individual's application for initial determination or claim for waiting period credit or for benefits.

"[No appeal from a commissioner's decision by any other interested party shall be deemed to be perfected nor shall the court have jurisdiction thereof unless within the thirty day appeal period provided by this title for service and filing of notice of appeal the appellant shall first have deposited with the commissioner the sum theretofore determined by the commissioner to be due from such appellant, if any, together with interest thereon, if any, and in addition thereto shall have filed with the commissioner an undertaking in such amount and with such sureties as the superior court shall approve to the effect that appellant will pay all costs which may be adjudged against him in the prosecution of such appeal. At the option of the appellant such undertaking may be in a sum sufficient to guarantee payment of the amount previously determined by the commissioner to be due from the appellant, if any, together with interest, if any, in addition to an amount approved by the court as sufficient to pay all costs which may be adjudged against appellant in prosecution of such appeal, in which event the appellant shall not be required to deposit any sum with the commissioner as a condition precedent to the taking of an appeal to the superior court. In the event of an appeal to the supreme court, a deposit or undertaking shall be required of the appellant guaranteeing payment of all sums for which appellant may be adjudged liable, including costs. Such deposit or undertaking shall be approved by the superior court and filed with the clerk of the supreme court within the time allowed in civil cases for appeal to the supreme court. The jurisdictional requirements of this section are in addition to the provisions of this title relating to the service and filing of a notice of appeal.]

"Whenever an employer shall appeal from a commissioner's decision involving taxes, such employer shall not be required to make a cash deposit with the commissioner to insure payment of the amount of taxes due, plus interest and reasonable court costs, unless the commissioner determines that such employer's financial condition is unstable, and if so determined such employer shall be required to make such a cash deposit with the commissioner pending final judicial determination of the appeal.

"If such employer deems the commissioner's determination to be incorrect the reviewing court may, upon application and proof by the employer, allow such appeal to proceed without the necessity of the cash deposit being made.

"Sec. 3, Section 33, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 2, chapter 8, Laws of 1953 ex. sess. and RCW 50.04.320 are each amended to read as follows:

"For the purpose of payment of contributions, 'wages' means the [first three thousand dollars of] remuneration paid by one employer during any calendar year to an individual in its employment under this title or the unemployment compensation law of any other state in the amount specified in section 8 of this 1969 amendatory act. [After December 31, 1950.] If an employer (hereinafter referred to as a successor employer) during any calendar year acquires substantially all the operating assets of another employer (hereinafter referred to as a predecessor employer) or assets used in a separate unit of a trade or business of a predecessor employer, and immediately after the the acquisition employs in his trade or business an individual who immediately prior to the acquisition was employed in the trade or business of such predecessor employer, then, for the purposes of determining [whether the successor employer has paid remuneration equal to three thousand dollars] the amount of remuneration paid by the successor employer to such individual during such calendar year which is subject to contributions, any remuneration paid to such individual by such predecessor during such calendar year and prior to such acquisition shall be considered as having been paid by such successor employer.

"For the purpose of payment of benefits, 'wages' means the remuneration payable by one or more employers to an individual for employment under this title during [one calendar] his base year.

"'Remuneration' means all compensation paid for personal services, including commissions and bonuses and the cash value of all compensation paid in any medium other than cash. The reasonable cash value of compensation paid in any medium other than cash and the reasonable value of gratuities shall be estimated and determined in accordance with rules prescribed by the commissioner.

"Sec. 4, Section 68, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 3, chapter 266, Laws of 1959 and RCW 50.20.010 are each amended to read as follows:

"An unemployed individual shall be eligible to receive waiting period credits or benefits with respect to any week only if the commissioner finds that

"(1) he has registered for work at, and thereafter has continued to report at, an employment office in accordance with such regulation as the commissioner may prescribe, except that the commissioner may by regulation waive or alter either or both of the requirements of this subdivision as to individuals attached to regular jobs and as to such other types of cases or situations with respect to which he finds that the compliance with such requirements would be oppressive, or would be inconsistent with the purposes of this title;

"(2) he has filed an application for an initial determination and made a claim for waiting period credit or for benefits in accordance with the provisions of this title;

"(3) he is able to work, and is available for work in any trade, occupation, profession, or business for which he is reasonably fitted. To be available for work an individual must be ready, able, and willing, immediately to accept any suitable work which may be offered to him and must be actively seeking work pursuant to customary trade practices and through other methods when so directed by the commissioner or his agents;

"(4) he has been unemployed for a waiting period of one week; [and]

"(5) he has within [the] his base year [been paid] earned wages of not less than [the minimum amount now or hereafter fixed by law as the minimum amount to be earned in order to allow the individual to receive unemployment benefits] eight hundred dollars. If the base year wages of the individual's current benefit year, for any benefit year beginning after July 5, 1969, include wages earned prior to the establishment of a prior benefit year, the individual shall not be eligible for benefits unless he earned wages in the last six months of his base year equal to at least six times his current weekly benefit amount or six times the weekly benefit amount to which he would otherwise be entitled; and

"(6) he has for any benefit year beginning after July 5, 1969, had base year employment (or been on compensable leave) in not less than eighteen calendar weeks in each of which he earned wages of at least twenty dollars or has had six hundred hours of employment during his base year: PROVIDED, That for benefit years beginning prior to July 1, 1970, any unemployed individual who earned wages of twelve hundred dollars or more in his base year shall be deemed to have met the eligibility requirements of this subsection. If the wages of an individual are not based upon a fixed duration of time or if the individual's wages are paid at irregular intervals or in such manner as not to extend regularly over the period of employment, the wages for any week shall be determined in such manner as the commissioner may by regulation prescribe. Such regulation shall, so far as possible, secure results reasonably similar to those which would prevail if the individual were paid his wages at regular intervals.

"Sec. 5. Section 80, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as last amended by section 2, chapter 321, Laws of 1959 and RCW 50.20.120 are each amended to read as follows:

"(1) Subject to the other provisions of this title benefits shall be payable to any eligible individual during [the] his benefit year in a maximum amount equal to the lesser of thirty times the weekly benefit amount (determined hereinafter) or one-third of the individual's base year wages under this title.

"(2) An individual's weekly benefit amount shall be [in a minimum] an amount [of seventeen dollars for the first one hundred twenty-five dollars or portion thereof in excess of seven hundred ninety-nine dollars and ninety-nine cents of base year wages, increasing one dollar for each one hundred twenty-five dollars or portion thereof of said individual's base year wages earned thereafter, with a maximum amount payable weekly of not more than forty-two dollars] equal to one twenty-fifth of his total wages during that quarter of his base year in which such total wages were highest, except that if such computed amount is less than seventeen dollars, the weekly benefit amount shall be deemed to be seventeen dollars. The maximum amount payable weekly shall be determined as of each June 30th to apply to benefit years beginning in the twelve-month period immediately following such June 30th. The maximum amount payable weekly shall be fifty percent of the 'average weekly wage' for the calendar year preceding such June 30th: PROVIDED, That if any [maximum] weekly benefit or maximum benefit amount computed herein is not a multiple of one dollar, it shall be adjusted to the nearest multiple of one dollar, except that if the computed amount ends in fifty cents, it shall be [carried] adjusted to the next higher multiple of one dollar.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"On or before the fifteenth day of June of each year an 'average annual wage' and an 'average weekly wage' shall be computed for the preceding calendar year from information for the preceding calendar year reported by all employers as defined in RCW 50.04.080 on employers' contribution reports (including corrections thereof) filed within three months after the close of that year. The 'average annual wage' is the quotient derived by dividing total remuneration reported by all employers by the average number of workers reported for all months. The average annual wage thus obtained shall be divided by fifty-two to determine the 'average weekly wage'.

"Sec. 7. Section 83, chapter 35, Laws of 1945, as amended by section 5, chapter 215, Laws of 1951 and RCW 50.20.150 are each amended to read as follows:

"The applicant for initial determination, his most recent employing unit as stated by the applicant, and any other interested party which the commissioner by regulation prescribes, shall, if not previously notified within the same continuous period of unemployment, be given notice promptly in writing that an application for initial determination has been filed and such notice shall contain the reasons given by the applicant for his last separation from work. If, during the benefit year, the applicant becomes unemployed after having accepted subsequent work, and [files a claim for waiting period credit or] reports for the purpose of reestablishing his eligibility for benefits, a similar notice shall be given promptly to his then most recent employing unit as stated by him, or to any other interested party which the commissioner by regulation prescribes.

"Each base year employer shall be promptly notified of the filing of any application for initial determination which may result in a charge to his account.

"Within a reasonable time after the computation date, each employer shall be notified of the total amount of benefits charged to his account during the twelve-month period immediately preceding the computation date and, upon request, the amount of such charges with respect to each individual receiving unemployment benefits charged to his account.

"Within a reasonable time after the computation date each employer shall be notified of his rate of contribution as determined for the succeeding rate year.

"Any employer dissatisfied with the benefit charges made to his account or with his determined rate may file a request for review and redetermination with the commissioner within thirty days of the mailing of the notice to the employer, showing the reason for such request. Should such request for review and redetermination be denied, the employer may, within ten days of the mailing of such notice of denial, file with the appeal tribunal a petition for hearing which shall be heard in the same manner as a petition for denial of refund. The appellate procedure prescribed by this title for further appeal shall apply to all denials of review and redetermination under this section.

"Sec. 8. Section 89, chapter 35, Laws of 1945 as amended by section 18, chapter 214, Laws of 1949 and RCW 50.24.010 are each amended to read as follows:

"Contributions shall accrue and become payable by each employer for each calendar year in which he is subject to this title at the rate of two and seven-tenths percent of wages paid each employee, except for such rates as determined for qualified employers according to sections 9 through 15 of this 1969 amendatory act: PROVIDED, That if, as of any June 30th, the amount in the unemployment compensation fund is less than three and one-half percent of total remuneration paid by all employers during the preceding calendar year and reported on or before the March 31st following such year, contributions for the following calendar year for all employers shall be payable at the rate of three percent of wages paid.

"The amount of wages subject to tax for each individual shall be determined as follows:

"The first three thousand dollars of remuneration paid to an individual by an employer in a calendar year shall be taxable each year until a new amount is determined taxable according to the following schedule:

"Whenever the amount of money in the unemployment compensation fund, as of any June 30th, expressed as a percent of total remuneration paid by all employers during the preceding calendar year and reported on or before the following March 31st drops below the figure reported in column A below, the amount of an individual's remuneration subject to tax the following calendar year shall be the amount shown in column B, except that the amount subject to tax in any one year shall not be more than six hundred dollars above the amount that was subject the year before.

Column A	Column B
6.0%	$3,600
5.5%	4,200
5.0%	4,800

"After the amount taxable has been increased it will remain at the increased amount until such time as the above schedule calls for a further increase.

"Contributions shall become due and be paid by each employer to the treasurer for the unemployment compensation fund in accordance with such regulations as the commissioner may prescribe, and shall not be deducted, in whole or in part, from the remuneration of individuals in employment of the employer. Any deduction in violation of the provisions of this section shall be unlawful.

"In the payment of any contributions, a fractional part of a cent shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to one cent.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. As used in this chapter:

" 'Computation date' means July 1st of any year;

" 'Cut-off date' means September 30th next following the computation date;

" 'Rate year' means the calendar year immediately following the computation date;

" 'Experience rating year' is a twelve-month period beginning with July 1st of one calendar year and ending on June 30th of the following calendar year;

" 'Payroll' means all wages (as defined for contributions purposes) paid by an employer to individuals in his employment;

" 'Acquire' means the right to occupy or use the operating assets formerly in the possession of a predecessor employer whether that acquisition be by purchase, lease, gift, or by any legal process;

" 'Qualified employer' means: (1) Any employer as of the computation date who had some employment in the twelve-month period immediately preceding April 1st of the first of the three consecutive calendar years immediately preceding the computation date and who had no period of four or more consecutive calendar quarters in such three years for which he reported no employment, except that no employer shall be deemed a qualified employer unless all contributions required under this title from him or his predecessors for the thirty-six month period immediately preceding the computation date have been paid prior to the cut-off date; or (2) Any employer as of the computation date who has not been subject to this title for a period of time sufficient to be classified as a qualified employer under the provision of subdivision (1) of this paragraph but who had some employment in the twelve-month period immediately preceding April 1st of the first of the two consecutive calendar years immediately preceding the computation date and who had no period of four or more consecutive calendar quarters in such two years for which he reported no employment, except that no employer shall be deemed a qualified employer unless all contributions required under this title from him or his predecessors for the twenty-four month period immediately preceding the computation date have been paid prior to the cut-off date: PROVIDED, That when an employer or prospective employer has acquired all or substantially all of the operating assets of an employer, or has acquired an operating department, section, division, or any substantial portion of the business or assets of any employer, which is clearly segregable and identifiable for experience rating purposes, the payroll record and benefit charges of the transferring employer shall be divided between the transferring and acquiring employers in proportion to the payrolls for the four preceding completed calendar quarters attributable to the operating assets retained and conveyed. The successor employer shall be liable for contributions on the acquired business from the date the transfer occurred. The separate account of a predecessor or that part thereof which is transferred shall become the separate account or part of separate account as the case may be of the successor employer.

" 'Surplus' means the lesser of (1) that amount by which the moneys in the unemployment compensation fund as of June 30th immediately preceding the computation date exceeds four percent of total remuneration paid by all employers during the preceding calendar year and reported on or before the following March 31st, or (2) an amount equal to thirty one-hundredths of one percent of such remuneration paid by all employers during such preceding calendar year and reported on or before the following March 31st, except that beginning with the second computation of surplus after the amount of annual wages subject to tax reaches four thousand eight hundred dollars, forty-five one-hundredths shall be substituted for thirty one-hundredths in this subsection. No surplus shall be declared unless the amount determined is at least ten one-hundredths of one percent of remuneration paid by all employers during the preceding calendar year and reported on or before the following March 31st.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. An experience rating account shall be established and maintained for each employer based on existing records of the employment security department and shall be effective beginning with July 1, 1966. Benefits paid to any eligible individual subsequent to June 30, 1966, shall be charged to the experience rating accounts of each of his employers during his base year in the same ratio that the wages paid by each employer to the individual during the base year bear to the wages paid by all employers to that individual during that base year. However, benefits paid under the provisions of RCW 50.12.050 on the basis of wages paid or payable in more than one state shall not be charged to the account of any employer.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. For the purpose of prorating benefit charges for periods of unemployment prior to July 2, 1967, 'wages' shall be construed to mean the wages reported by employers on the existing wage reports submitted for benefit computations. For the purpose of prorating benefit charges for periods of unemployment subsequent to July 1, 1967, 'wages' shall mean 'wages' as defined for purpose of payment of benefits in section 3 of this 1969 amendatory act.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. For the rate year 1970 and each rate year thereafter an annual decrease quotient factor and a benefit charge-back factor shall be computed for each qualified employer, each to be determined as provided in subsections (1) and (2) hereof respectively:

"(1) To determine a qualified employer's average annual decrease quotient his payroll for the three experience rating years immediately preceding the computation date shall be listed in chronological order. The first annual decrease quotient shall be obtained by dividing any decrease in his payroll between the first and second of his experience rating years by the payroll for the first of such years, the division being carried to the fourth decimal place, with the remaining fraction, if any, disregarded. The second annual decrease quotient shall be obtained by dividing any decrease in his payroll between the second and third of the listed experience rating years by the payroll for the second listed year, the division being carried to the fourth decimal place, with the remaining fraction, if any, disregarded. The employer's average annual decrease quotient shall be obtained by adding his first and second decrease quotients, if any, and dividing by two. The employer's average annual decrease quotient shall determine the point value to be assigned to such employer as his annual decrease quotient factor in accordance with the following schedule.

"The annual decrease quotient of an employer who qualifies with payrolls for fewer than three experience rating years shall be obtained by dividing any decrease of the employer's payroll in the experience rating year immediately preceding the computation date from the payroll in the preceding experience rating year by the amount of the payroll in such preceding experience rating year, such division being carried to the fourth decimal place, with the remaining fraction, if any, disregarded. This annual decrease quotient shall be deemed to be his average annual decrease quotient and shall determine the point value to be assigned to such employer as his annual decrease quotient factor in accordance with the following schedule:

Annual Decrease Quotient	Point Value
0.0000-0.0124	10
0.0125-0.0249	9
0.0250-0.0374	8
0.0375-0.0499	7
0.0500-0.0749	6

0.1500-0.1999	3
0.2000-0.2499	2
0.2500 or more	1

"(2) The charge-back ratio for an employer shall be the quotient obtained by dividing the total benefits charged to his account during the thirty-six consecutive month period immediately preceding the computation date by his taxable payroll for the same thirty-six month period as reported not later than August 31st immediately following the computation date, except that the charge-back ratio of any employer whose account has been chargeable for a period of fewer than thirty-six months immediately prior to the computation date shall be the quotient obtained by dividing total benefits charged to his account, prior to the computation date, by his taxable payroll set forth as follows: The taxable payroll shall be that reported by August 31st immediately following the computation date, for the period beginning with the first day of the second calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which he became liable, and through the end of the calendar quarter immediately preceding the computation date. The charge-back ratios shall be extended to four decimal places, with the remaining fraction, if any, disregarded. The charge-back ratios so obtained shall determine the point value to be assigned each employer as his charge-back factor in accordance with the following schedule:

Charge-Back Ratios	Point Value
Less than 0.001	10
0.0001-0.0039	9
0.0040-0.0079	8
0.0080-0.0119	7

0.0220-0.0239	3
0.0240-0.0269	2
0.2070 and over	1

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. The annual decrease-quotient point value for each employer shall be added to his charge-back point value and this sum shall designate his rate class. For the rate year 1970 and each rate year thereafter the contribution rate for each qualified employer shall be the 'class rate' determined for that class into which the employer is placed by application of this section.

"(1) A 'class weight' shall be assigned to each rate class as follows:

Rate Class	Class Weight
20	9.0
19	8.5
18	8.0
17	7.5
16	7.0
15	6.5
14	6.0
13	5.5
12	5.0
11	4.5
10	4.0
9	3.5
8	3.0
7	2.5
6	2.0
5	1.5
4	1.0

"(2) A 'class product' for each rate class shall be obtained by dividing the total of the taxable payrolls for the experience rating year immediately preceding the computation date for all qualified employers in the rate class by the total of the taxable payrolls of all qualified employers for such experience rating year, such division being carried to the fourth decimal place, and multiplying the quotient by the class weight for that rate class.

"(3) The surplus to be credited to each rate class shall be the product obtained by multiplying the surplus to be credited to all employers by the quotient of the class product for the class divided by the sum of the class products for all classes. No portion of the surplus shall be credited to rate class 2.

"(4) A 'class credit factor' shall be obtained for each rate class by dividing the portion of the surplus assigned to the class by the sum of the payrolls of all employers in that class for the experience rating year immediately preceding the computation date, such division being carried out to the fourth decimal place and the remaining fraction, if any, disregarded.

"(5) The 'class rate', expressed as a percent, for each rate class shall be derived by subtracting the class credit factor for that rate class from .0270 and multiplying this result by one hundred.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. Effective January 1, 1970, predecessor and successor employer contribution rates shall be computed in the following manner:

"(1) If the successor is an employer at the time of the transfer, his contribution rate shall remain unchanged for the remainder of the rate year in which the transfer occurs.

"(2) The contribution rate on any payroll retained by a predecessor employer shall remain unchanged for the remainder of the rate year in which the transfer occurs.

"(3) If the successor is not an employer at the time of the transfer and acquires the business of one employer or the businesses of two or more employers with the same rate, he shall pay contributions for the remainder of the rate year in which the transfer occurs, at the rate assigned to the predecessor employer or employers.

"(4) If the successor is not an employer at the time of the transfer and simultaneously acquires the business of two or more employers with different contribution rates, his rate from the date the transfer occurred until the end of the rate year in which such transfer occurred, shall be a recomputed rate based on the combined experience of his predecessors as of the last day of the completed calendar quarter immediately preceding the quarter in which the transfer occurred, computed in accordance with such regulations as the commissioner may prescribe.

"(5) In all cases, from and after January 1 following the transfer, the successor's contribution rate for each rate year shall be based on his experience with payrolls and benefits combined with the experience of his predecessor or predecessors, as of the regular computation date for that rate year.

"(6) In all cases, from and after January 1 following the transfer, the predecessor's contribution rate for each rate year shall be based on his experience with payrolls and benefits, as of the regular computation date for that rate year, excluding therefrom such experience as was credited to the successor under other provisions of this title.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"The commissioner may redetermine any contribution rate if, within three years of the rate computation date, he finds that the rate as originally computed was erroneous.

"In the event that the redetermined rate is lower than that originally computed the difference between the amount paid and the amount which should have been paid on the employer's taxable payroll for the rate year involved shall be established as a credit against his tax liability; however, if the redetermined rate is higher than that originally computed the difference between the amount paid and the amount which should have been paid on the employer's taxable payroll shall be assessed against the employer as contributions owing for the rate year involved.

"The redetermination of an employer's contribution rate shall not affect the contribution rates which have been established for any other employer nor shall such redetermination affect any other computation made pursuant to this title.

"The employer shall have the same rights to request review and redetermination as he had from his original rate determination.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"One-half the amount of experience rating credit to which an employer is determined to be entitled for the credit year beginning July 1, 1969, may be applied against contributions payable by him on wages paid in that credit year prior to January 1, 1970. The remaining half of the experience rating credit to which he is determined to be entitled for the credit year beginning July 1, 1969, and any credits not usable because they are in excess of the contributions due on wages paid during the period beginning July 1, 1969, and ending December 31, 1969, shall be canceled.

"Sec. 17. Section 3, chapter 286, Laws of 1955 and RCW 50.20.030 are each amended to read as follows:

"A [pregnant] woman [shall be presumed to be unable to work and unavailable for work if she left her most recent work voluntarily] who leaves work voluntarily because of pregnancy shall be ineligible for benefits during the period of her pregnancy: PROVIDED, HOWEVER, That in any event a pregnant woman shall be ineligible to receive benefits for any calendar week during the period beginning with the [tenth] seventeenth calendar week [before] immediately preceding the expected date of confinement, as determined by a doctor, and extending through the [fourth] sixth calendar week immediately following the week in which childbirth occurs.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"An individual who retires from his most recent employment for any reason other than having attained the compulsory retirement age established by a labor-management agreement or employer rule shall be disqualified for benefits from the calendar week in which he retires and for each successive week thereafter until he has obtained work and earned wages therefor of not less than his suspended weekly benefit amount in each of five weeks.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. There is added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW a new section to read as follows:

"An individual who has received the maximum amount allowable in his benefit year may, if otherwise eligible, draw 'extended benefits' in those weeks in his benefit year which begin in an 'extended benefit period' and, if his benefit year ends within such extended benefit period, in the next thirteen or fewer weeks which begin in such 'extended benefit period': PROVIDED, That the individual shall not draw such 'extended benefits' in any week during which he could establish entitlement to regular unemployment benefits under any state or federal law.

"If a federal enactment provides for reimbursing the state for certain benefits paid for weeks of extended unemployment, the extended benefits shall be made in the regular manner, and the reimbursements shall be credited to the unemployment compensation fund.

"(1) 'Extended benefits' are additional benefits payable at the weekly rate applicable for the individual during the benefit year for which he has received the maximum sum allowable. Extended benefits for an individual cannot exceed whichever is the lesser of thirteen times his weekly benefit amount or one-half his previous entitlement, and the combined total of his regular unemployment compensation plus his extended benefits cannot exceed thirty-nine times his weekly amount.

"(2) An 'extended benefit period' means a period commencing with the third calendar week immediately following any thirteen-week period (known for purposes of this section as the thirteen-week computation period) during which the average rate of insured unemployment is equal to or greater than one hundred twenty percent of the average of the rates of insured unemployment for the corresponding thirteen-week periods in each of the two preceding calendar years and ending with the third week immediately following any thirteen-week period during which such rate was less than one hundred twenty percent of the average rate of insured unemployment for the corresponding thirteen-week periods in each of the two preceding years: PROVIDED, That an extended benefit period shall not commence unless the yearly average insured unemployment rate as computed at the end of the thirteen-week computation period is equal to at least four percent. No extended benefit period shall be less than thirteen weeks in length and no extended benefit period shall commence at any time an extended benefit period is already in effect.

"(3) 'Insured unemployment' for any week as used for this computation means the number of weeks of unemployment claimed in Washington for that week, excluding weeks of unemployment claimed in connection with unemployment compensation programs which are exclusively federal and excluding any weeks claimed by an individual following the week in which benefits based on his original entitlement were exhausted.

"(4) 'Insured employment' means the average monthly employment reported by employers for a twelve-month period.

"(5) For purposes of this section the rate of 'insured unemployment for any week' is the ratio obtained by dividing insured unemployment for that week by insured employment for the twelve-month period ending six months immediately prior to the calendar quarter in which the week began.

"(6) Rates of insured unemployment shall be computed for each calendar week. After each week the insured unemployment rates for the thirteen consecutive weeks ending with that week shall be averaged and the average shall be compared with the average of the rates of insured unemployment for the corresponding thirteen-week periods of the two preceding years. After each week the insured unemployment rates for the fifty-two consecutive weeks ending with that week shall be averaged to yield a yearly average insured unemployment rate. The commissioner shall by regulation prescribe how corresponding weeks are to be determined. Computations involving division shall be carried to four decimal places.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. Sections 9 through 15 of this 1969 amendatory act shall be added to chapter 35, Laws of 1945 and to Title 50 RCW, and shall constitute a new chapter in said Title 50 RCW.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 21. Sections 10, 11, 12, 15 and 16, chapter 286, Laws of 1955 and RCW 50.28.010 through 50.28.030, 50.28.050 and 50.28.060, and section 3, chapter 235, Laws of 1949 as last amended by section 13, chapter 286, Laws of 1955 and RCW 50.28.040 are each hereby repealed. Such repeals shall not be construed as affecting any existing right to any redetermination, correction, or pending appeal involving any experience rating credit determination or redetermination.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 22. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, and safety, the support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect July 6, 1969: PROVIDED, That sections 3 and 8 of this 1969 amendatory act shall not take effect until January 1, 1970."

ROLL CALL

The clerk called the roll on the adoption of the amendments by Mr. Charette to the committee amendment to Engrossed Senate Bill No. 687, and the amendments were lost by the following vote: Yeas, 46; nays, 51; absent or not voting, 2.

Voting yea: Representatives Adams, Anderson, Backstrom, Bagnariol, Beck, Bottiger, Bozarth, Brouillet, Ceccarelli, Charette, Chatalas, Conner, Copeland, DeJarnatt, Evans, Farr, Fleming, Francis, Gallagher, Garrett, Grant, Haussler, Heavey, Hurley, Jolly, Kalich, King, Kink, Litchman, Marsh, Martinis, Marzano, May, McCaffree, McCormick, Merrill, Moon, O'Brien, Perry, Randall, Rosellini, Savage, Sawyer, Sprague, Thompson, Wojahn-46.

Voting nay: Representatives Amen, Barden, Benitz, Berentson, Bledsoe, Bluechel, Brown, Chapin, Clark (Newman H.), Clarke (George W.), Conway, Cunningham, Curtis, Flanagan, Gladder, Goldsworthy, Harris, Hatfield, Hawley, Hoggins, Hubbard, Juelling, Julin, Kirk, Kiskaddon, Kopet, Kuehnlé, Leckenby, Leland, Lynch, Mahaffey, Mentor, Morrison, Newhouse, North, O'Dell, Pardini, Richardson, Saling, Schumaker, Scott, Shera, Smythe, Spanton, Swayze, Veroske, Wanamaker, Whetzel, Wolf, Zimmerman, Mr. Speaker—51.

Absent or not voting: Representatives Jastad, Murray—2.

The Speaker declared the question before the House to be the adoption of the committee amendment to Engrossed Senate Bill No. 687.

Debate ensued, Representative Morrison speaking in favor of the amendment, and Representative Bottiger speaking against it.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Mr. Morrison yielded to question by Mr. Moon.

Mr. Moon: "Representative Morrison, you mentioned that the maximum benefits under this proposed amendment are sixty-eight dollars. Are there any minimum benefits?"

Mr. Morrison: "Yes, the minimum benefit amount remains at seventeen dollars, which is one of the highest in the nation and which has been all along."

Mr. Moon: "My other question is, Is it possible under this amendment for a conscientious worker who becomes unemployed, through no fault of his own, who would under his own initiative and own desire wish to be reemployed, to be excluded from the benefits of unemployment compensation?"

Mr. Morrison: "It depends on the conditions under which he left his employment, Representative Moon. If he socked the boss in the nose, he'd have to reenter the labor market in order to requalify."

Mr. Moon: "No, I'm talking about the conscientious worker—the one about whom the employer has no complaints."

Mr. Morrison: "I think the only basis on which he could be disqualified would be under the comparable quarter provision just discussed by Representative Bottiger. However, one minor error made by Representative Bottiger is that it requires three years of unemployment in one particular quarter for him not to be able to receive any benefits, and then in the quarter he can receive benefits equal to his total wages received in a comparable quarter in any of the two previous years. So we really have pretty well eliminated the chance of the woods being closed down, or a major snowstorm, or other conditional problems relating directly to the level of unemployment."

Mr. Moon: "Then am I to understand he is only able to receive unemployment compensation for the like quarter that he would have been unemployed in the previous three years?"

Mr. Morrison: "No, you have that twisted. It is just the opposite of that. He is able to receive compensation in any quarter for which he had some work experience in any of the past two years. If he worked at all, he probably would receive as much in benefits as he would under any program."

Mr. Moon: "It seems to me, then, that it is possible that a conscientious worker, who would want to be employed, and who is a good worker and gets along favorably with his boss, could possibly (under some circumstances, quite probably) be excluded from receiving the benefits of unemployment compensation that he had not only contributed to, but also to which his employer had contributed. I would think this would be a very undesirable feature."

Mr. Morrison: "There is one error. The employee does not contribute to the program, and the chances, as you say, are possible but rather unlikely."

Representative Savage spoke against adoption of the committee amendment.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker recognized Mr. Juelling on a point of order.

Mr. Juelling: "I think you ruled several days ago that we are now under the three-minute rule."

The Speaker: "This is true. I have been a little bit lenient on this matter, but I would hope the members keep their remarks down to a minimum so we can move this along."

Representative Savage continued his remarks in opposition to the committee amendment.

Representative Charette spoke against adoption of the committee amendment.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Mr. Morrison yielded to question by Mr. Sprague.

Mr. Sprague: "This is a very complex problem, but it is my understanding that the benefits would be raised from forty-two dollars to sixty-eight dollars. If I've done my arithmetic right, this is approximately a sixty percent increase in the present maximum benefit. Is that right?"

Mr. Morrison: "That's right."

Mr. Sprague: "You also said that the cost to industry was going to be three percent more if the present experience on unemployment in the state continues. Is that correct?"

Mr. Morrison: "Yes."

Mr. Sprague: "Therefore, the increase (and presumably there is a relationship between the premiums and the benefits) in benefits to unemployed workers would be somewhere around three percent at the maximum, less whatever it costs for administration. Would this be a logical conclusion from your previous answers?"

Mr. Morrison: "No, Representative Sprague, it is impossible to relate those two percentages because three percent additional cost to industry is based on the total taxable wages involved, and the number of people now on the unemployment rolls is going to move on up, so a very few people are receiving a large percentage increase and the total cost to industry at the present level of unemployment is relatively minor because so many do contribute to the program. A much better indication of this is to look at the higher rates of unemployment in which you find the cost to industry. We are still talking about the same maximum and the same formula for determining the amount of benefits, but we find the cost to industry going on up. At the extreme point the increase in costs to sixteen million dollars probably represents at least a fifteen to seventeen percent increase overall."

Mr. Sprague: "Just one more question. I understand, then, from this bill that the benefits received by the unemployed worker would be less than presently is the case under existing legislation. Is that correct?"

Mr. Morrison: "No, that is not at all true. Again, the sixty-eight dollar figure is only a maximum, but below that point, the benefits are derived from a formula which is one twenty-fifth of the average of the two high quarters. That formula, when you chart it out, and I have a graph here of which I perhaps should have made copies for all of you, shows that this is more than a middle ground between the positions of labor and the present law. The present law is based on a formula which for every one hundred dollar increase in earnings in the base year, there is one dollar twenty-five cents added to the weekly benefit amount. This schedule is completely unrealistic and unfair to most workers. Many people now do not qualify. In fact the average payment to workers now is only thirty-three dollars per week. The new formula—the new program proposed under the amendment before us—gives a substantial increase all the way along to workers, not just in the maximum amount, but all the way along. It is a substantial increase, particularly to those persons who have a fairly good earning capacity during the year."

Further debate ensued, Representatives Anderson and Grant speaking against adoption of the committee amendment, and Representative Newhouse speaking in favor of it.

The committee amendment to Engrossed Senate Bill No. 678 was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Morrison, the committee amendments to the title were adopted.

On motion of Mr. Newhouse, the rules were suspended, the second reading considered the third, and Engrossed Senate Bill No. 678, as amended by the House, was placed on final passage.

Mr. King demanded an oral roll call and the demand was sustained.

Debate ensued, Representatives Bledsoe and Clark (Newman H.) speaking in favor of passage of the bill, and Representatives O'Brien and Savage speaking against it.

Mr. Chatalas demanded the previous question and the demand was sustained.

ROLL CALL

The clerk called the roll on the final passage of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 678, as amended by the House, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 52; nays, 45; absent or not voting, 2.

Voting yea: Representatives Amen, Barden, Benitz, Berentson, Bledsoe, Bluechel, Brown, Chapin, Clark (Newman H.), Clarke (George W.), Conway, Cunningham, Curtis, Evans, Farr, Flanagan, Gladder, Goldsworthy, Harris, Hatfield, Hawley, Hoggins, Hubbard, Jueling, Julin, Kirk, Kiskaddon, Kopet, Kuehnle, Leland, Lynch, Mahaffey, Mentor, Morrison, Newhouse, North, O'Dell, Pardini, Richardson, Saling, Schumaker, Scott, Shera, Smythe, Spanton, Swayze, Veroske, Wanamaker, Whetzel, Wolf, Zimmerman, Mr. Speaker—52.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

Office of the Governor, May 8, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am returning herewith without my approval as to certain items, Engrossed House Bill No. 635, entitled:

"An Act relating to education."

Part IV of this bill enacts a State of Washington Student Financial Aid program to assist needy and disadvantaged students domiciled in Washington. The bill provides that grants may be made available in order to permit qualifying students to attend the public or private accredited colleges, universities, community colleges or vocational technical institutes of their choice.

I endorse the basic objectives of this bill to create a well designed program which will provide financial aid to needy students in order to make available adequate educational opportunity to all of our citizens. Because of the relationship of Engrossed House Bill 635 to the provisions of the budget and other pending legislation certain technical item vetoes are required in order to perfect this bill.

Engrossed Senate Bill 243 has passed the Legislature. It creates a Council on Higher Education and is charged with the responsibility of overall planning for higher education in the state. Engrossed House Bill 132 has passed the House and is presently pending in the Senate. By the terms of that bill the functions of the Higher Education Facilities Commission and the administration of the student financial aid program are assigned to the nine citizen members of the Council on Higher Education who for such purposes are designated as the Commission on Higher Education. The Conference Committee report on the budget also assumes that the functions of the Higher Education Facilities Commission will be transferred to the Commission on Higher Education within the Council on Higher Education.

For these reasons and on the assumption of the passage of House Bill 132, I have vetoed the following conflicting provisions in Engrossed House Bill No. 635:

Subsection 3 of section 8 and all of section 9 which define and create the Washington State Student Financial Aid Commission, the functions of which under House Bill 132 will be assigned to the Commission on Higher Education; and sections 21 and 22 and the proviso to section 23 which will either be superseded by the provisions of House Bill 132 or are now not relevant because of the veto of section 9 of this act. I have also vetoed section 25 which declares an emergency. Since House Bill 132 does not contain an emergency clause and these two bills must be considered together it is desirable that their effective dates be as nearly as possible the same date.

With the exception of the vetoed items the remainder of the bill is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

MOTION

On motion of Mr. Bledsoe, Engrossed House Bill No. 635 and the message from the Governor were ordered transmitted to the Secretary of State.

Office of the Governor, May 8, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE, THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I return herewith without my approval as to one item, Engrossed House Bill No. 183, entitled:

"An Act providing for a court of appeals; for the election, composition, terms of office and retirement of its judges."

Section 12 of this bill contains a $1,000,000 appropriation. Section 2 of the conference version of the budget also contains a $1,000,000 appropriation for the appellate court. In order to bring Engrossed House Bill No. 183 into conformity with the action of the conference committee on the budget, I have vetoed section 12. The remainder of Engrossed House Bill No. 183 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

MOTION

On motion of Mr. Newhouse, Engrossed House Bill No. 183 and the message from the Governor were ordered transmitted to the Secretary of State.

"(1) For year 1941 and each calendar year thereafter a tax, computed as provided in this chapter, shall be imposed upon the privilege of transferring property by gift during such calendar years, by any individual resident or nonresident of the state of Washington; which tax shall apply whether the transfer is in trust or otherwise, whether the gift is direct or indirect, and whether the property is real or personal, tangible or intangible; as to residents of this state, the tax shall apply to the transfer by gift of any property whatsoever, excepting only property, real or tangible personal, permanently located outside this state; but, in the case of a nonresident, shall apply to a transfer only if the property is real or tangible personal, permanently located within the state of Washington; the tax shall not apply to a transfer made on or before March 21, 1941.

"(3) The tax shall not apply to a transfer of property in trust where the power to revert in the donor title to such property is vested in the donor, either alone or in conjunction with any person not having a substantial adverse interest in the disposition of such property or the income therefrom, but the relinquishment or termination of such power (other than the donor's death) shall be considered to be a transfer by the donor by gift of the property subject to such power, and any payment of the income therefrom to a beneficiary other than the donor shall be considered to be a transfer by the donor of such income by gift."

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON:

Part I. General

NEW SECTION. Section 1. Every school district by action of its board of directors shall adopt annual salary schedules and reproduce the same by printing, mimeographing or other reasonable method, which shall be the basis for salaries for all certificated employees in the district.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. No certificated employee shall be required to perform duties not described in the contract unless a new or supplemental contract is made, except that in an unexpected emergency the board of directors or school district administration may require the employee to perform other reasonable duties on a temporary basis.

No supplemental contract shall be subject to the continuing contract provisions of Titles 28, 28A or 28B.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The responsibility for further review of the senior college concept and its adaptability to the state's system of higher education shall be mandated to the Council on Higher Education, and with the cooperation of the Interim Committee on Higher Education, if established by the forty-first session of the Legislature, and report the results of such a study to the forty-second session of the Legislature.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. The Interstate Agreement on Qualifications of Educational Personnel is hereby enacted into law and entered into by this state with all other states legally joining therein in the form substantially as follows:

The contracting states solemnly agree that:

Article I

1. The states party to this Agreement, desiring by common action to improve their respective school systems by utilizing the teacher or other professional educational person wherever educated, declare that it is the policy of each of them, on the basis of cooperation with one another, to take advantage of the preparation and experience of such persons wherever gained, thereby serving the best interests of society, of education, and of the teaching profession. It is the purpose of this Agreement to provide for the development and execution of such programs of cooperation as will facilitate the movement of teachers and other professional educational personnel among the states party to it, and to authorize specific interstate educational personnel contracts to achieve that end.

2. The party states find that included in the large movement of population among all sections of the nation are many qualified educational personnel who move for family and other personal reasons but who are hindered in using their professional skill and experience in their new locations. Variations from state to state in requirements for qualifying educational personnel discourage such personnel from taking the steps necessary to qualify in other states. As a consequence, a significant number of professionally prepared and experienced educators is lost to our school systems. Facilitating the employment of qualified educational personnel, without reference to their states or origin, can increase the available educational resources. Participation in this compact can increase the availability of educational manpower.

Article II

As used in this Agreement and contracts made pursuant to it, unless the context clearly requires otherwise:

1. "Educational personnel" means persons who must meet requirements pursuant to state law as a condition of employment in educational programs.

2. "Designated State official" means the education official of a state selected by that state to negotiate and enter into, on behalf of his state, contracts pursuant to this Agreement.

3. "Accept," or any variant thereof, means to recognize and give effect to one or more determinations of another state relating to the qualifications of educational personnel in lieu of making or requiring a like determination that would otherwise be required by or pursuant to the laws of a receiving state.

4. "State" means a state, territory, or possession of the United States; the District of Columbia; or the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

5. "Originating State" means a state (and the subdivision thereof, if any) whose determination that certain educational personnel are qualified to be employed for specific duties in schools is acceptable in accordance with the terms of a contract made pursuant to Article III.

6. "Receiving State" means a state (and the subdivisions thereof) which accept educational personnel in accordance with the terms of a contract made pursuant to Article III.

Article III

1. The designated state official of a party state may make one or more contracts on behalf of his state with one or more other party states providing for the acceptance of educational personnel. Any such contract for the period of its duration shall be applicable to and binding on the states whose designated state officials enter into it, and the subdivisions of those states, with the same force and effect as if incorporated in this Agreement. A designated state official may enter into a contract pursuant to this Article only with states in which he finds that there are programs of education, certification standards or other acceptable qualifications that assure preparation or qualification of educational personnel on a basis sufficiently comparable, even though not identical to that prevailing in his own state.

2. Any such contract shall provide for:

(a) Its duration.

(b) The criteria to be applied by an originating state in qualifying educational personnel for acceptance by a receiving state.

(c) Such waivers, substitutions, and conditional acceptances as shall aid the practical effectuation of the contract without sacrifice of basic educational standards.

(d) Any other necessary matters.

3. No contract made pursuant to this Agreement shall be for a term longer than five years but any such contract may be renewed for like or lesser periods.

4. Any contract dealing with acceptance of educational personnel on the basis of their having completed an educational program shall specify the earliest date or dates on which originating state approval of the program or programs involved can have occurred. No contract made pursuant to this Agreement shall require acceptance by a receiving state of any persons qualified because of successful completion of a program prior to January 1, 1954.

5. The certification or other acceptance of a person who has been accepted pursuant to the terms of a contract shall not be revoked or otherwise impaired because the contract has expired or been terminated. However, any certificate or other qualifying document may be revoked or suspended on any ground which would be sufficient for revocation or suspension of a certificate or other qualifying document initially granted or approved in the receiving state.

6. A contract committee composed of the designated state officials of the contracting states or their representatives shall keep the contract under continuous review, study means of improving its administration, and report no less frequently than once a year to the heads of the appropriate education agencies of the contracting states.

Article IV

1. Nothing in this Agreement shall be construed to repeal or otherwise modify any law or regulation of a party state relating to the approval of programs of educational preparation having effect solely on the qualification of educational personnel within that state.

2. To the extent that contracts made pursuant to this Agreement deal with the educational requirements for the proper qualification of educational personnel, acceptance of a program of educational preparation shall be in accordance with such procedures and requirements as may be provided in the applicable contract.

Article V

The party states agree that:

1. They will, so far as practicable, prefer the making of multi-lateral contracts pursuant to Article III of this Agreement.

2. They will facilitate and strengthen cooperation in interstate certification and other elements of educational personnel qualification and for this purpose shall cooperate with agencies, organizations, and associations interested in certification and other elements of educational personnel qualification.

Article VI

The designated state officials of any party state may meet from time to time as a group to evaluate progress under the Agreement, and to formulate recommendations for changes.

Article VII

Nothing in this Agreement shall be construed to prevent or inhibit other arrangements or practices of any party state or states to facilitate the interchange of educational personnel.

Article VIII

1. This Agreement shall become effective when enacted into law by two states. Thereafter it shall become effective as to any state upon its enactment of this Agreement.

2. Any party state may withdraw from this Agreement by enacting a statute repealing the same, but no such withdrawal shall take effect until one year after the governor of the withdrawing state has given notice in writing of the withdrawal to the governors of all other party states.

3. No withdrawal shall relieve the withdrawing state of any obligation imposed upon it by a contract to which it is a party. The duration of contracts and the methods and conditions of withdrawal therefrom shall be those specified in their terms.

Article IX

This Agreement shall be liberally construed so as to effectuate the purposes thereof. The provisions of this Agreement shall be severable and if any phrase, clause, sentence, or provision of this Agreement is declared to be contrary to the constitution of any state or of the United States, or the application thereof to any government, agency, person, or circumstance is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this Agreement and the applicability thereof to any government, agency, person, or circumstance shall not be affected thereby. If this Agreement shall be held contrary to the constitution of any state participating therein, the Agreement shall remain in full force and effect as to the state affected as to all severable matters.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The "designated state official" for this state under Article II of section 4 above shall be the superintendent of public instruction, who shall be the compact administrator and who shall have power to promulgate rules to carry out the terms of this compact. The superintendent of public instruction shall enter into contracts pursuant to Article III of the Agreement only with the approval of the specific text thereof by the state board of education.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. True copies of all contracts made on behalf of this state pursuant to the Agreement as provided in section 4 above shall be kept on file in the office of the superintendent of public instruction. The superintendent of public instruction shall publish all such contracts in convenient form.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. The board of trustees of each community college district shall adopt for each community college under its jurisdiction written policies on granting leaves to employees of the district and those colleges, including but not limited to leaves for attendance at official or private institutions and conferences, sabbatical leaves for academic personnel, leaves for illness, injury, bereavement and emergencies, with such compensation as the board of trustees may prescribe, except that the board shall grant to all such persons annual leave with full compensation for illness, injury, bereavement and emergencies as follows:

(1) For persons under contract to be employed, or otherwise employed, for at least three quarters, at least fifteen days, commencing with the first day on which work is to be performed;

(2) Such leave entitlement may be accumulated after the first three-quarter period of employment at a minimum rate of five days per quarter for full time employees up to a maximum of one hundred eighty days, and may be taken at any time;

(3) Leave for illness, injury, bereavement and emergencies heretofore accumulated pursuant to law, rule, regulation or policy by persons presently employed by community college districts and community colleges shall be added to such leave accumulated under this section;

(4) Except as otherwise provided in this section or other law, accumulated leave under this section not taken at the time such person retires or ceases to be employed by community college districts or community colleges shall not be compensable;

(5) Accumulated leave for illness, injury, bereavement and emergencies under this section shall be transferred from one community college district or community college to another, to the state board for community college education, to the state superintendent of public instruction, to any county or intermediate school district, to any school district, or to any other institutions of higher learning of the state; and

(6) Leave accumulated by a person in a community college district or community college prior to leaving that district or college may, under the policy of the board of trustees, be granted to such person when he returns to the employment of that district or college.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. The superintendent of public instruction is directed to develop, prepare and make available information as follows:

(1) A budgetary study of the fiscal impact which would result from payment to substitute teachers, who are on a continuing basis of twelve or more days within any calendar month, at a rate of pay commensurate with their training and experience and at a per diem salary in proportion to the salary for which that teacher would be eligible as a full time teacher;

(2) A study showing the percentage of high school graduates who go on to an institution of higher education, including community colleges, the distribution of such students, and the percentage thereof which continue in higher education through the various grades or years thereof; and

The legislative budget committee, in conjunction with the joint interim committee on higher education and the joint committee on education is directed to undertake a joint study into the entire field of vocational education within the state of Washington, including its programs, aims, administration, conformity to state and federal laws, and its effectiveness within the state.

In the performance of its duties, the legislative budget committee is authorized to use the services of recognized leaders in the field of labor and management and to pay the necessary traveling expenses of such persons, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 43.04 RCW, while they are engaged in the business of the study.

For the purpose of paying the expenses authorized above, there is hereby appropriated to the legislative budget committee for the biennium ending June 1, 1971 the sum of two thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the traveling expense of such member.

A preliminary report of such study shall be prepared for the members of the legislature prior to January 1, 1970. A final report of such study, including any recommended legislation, shall be prepared for distribution to the members of the legislature prior to January 1, 1971.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. The board of directors of any school district shall have authority to authorize the expenditure of funds for the purpose of preparing and distributing information to the general public to explain the instructional program, operation and maintenance of the schools of the district: PROVIDED, That nothing contained herein shall be construed to authorize preparation and distribution of information to the general public for the purpose of influencing the outcome of a school district election.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. The code reviser is directed to add the provisions of section 13 to Title 28 RCW until Title 28A and 28B RCW become effective, at which time he shall add it thereto.

SENATE AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL

May 9, 1969.

Mr. Speaker: The Senate has passed SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 352 with the following amendments:

On page 1, line 3 of the title, after "82.04.435" insert "; and declaring an emergency"

On page 1 after "read as follows:" in line 7, strike the remainder of the bill and insert the following:

"In computing tax under this chapter there may be credited against the amount of the tax the following items:

"As to persons engaging in activities defined in RCW 82.04.120 (the definition of the term 'to manufacture'), an amount not to exceed the tax actually paid under chapter 82.08 RCW (Retail Sales Tax) or chapter 82.12 RCW (Use Tax) by such persons or their lessors or their contract vendors, on materials, labor and services in the construction [or major improvement of buildings, structures or other improvements to real property that are essential to or an integral part of a factory, mill or manufacturing plant when such factory, mill or manufacturing plant is used or to be used in the business of manufacture for sale or commercial or industrial use of any articles, substances or commodities: PROVIDED, That this credit shall be allowable only against tax payable by the manufacturer and measured by the value of products or gross proceeds of sales of articles, substances or commodities manufactured in this state: PROVIDED FURTHER, That this credit shall be allowable only against any tax payable which is attributable to manufacturing which involves the use of such construction or improvements: PROVIDED FURTHER, That notwithstanding the foregoing no tax credit claimed shall be deducted on any return until such claim has been approved by the department of revenue or until ninety days after such claim has been submitted to the department of revenue for approval: AND PROVIDED FURTHER, That this credit shall not be allowable for tax paid on purchases of material, labor or services on which the supplier thereof became entitled to compensation prior to July 1, 1964.

"The term 'major improvement' means and includes only construction or fixtures which constitute real property which adds substantially and directly to the size or productive capacity of the factory, mill or manufacturing plant] of new buildings or the enlarging of existing buildings directly used in such activities. Where a building is used partly for manufacturing and partly for other purposes the applicable tax credit shall be determined by apportionment of the costs of construction under such rules as the department of revenue shall provide. For purposes of this section the term 'buildings' shall mean and include only those structures used to house or shelter manufacturing activities, including the usual lighting, heating, ventilating and sanitary plumbing facilities. The term shall include plant offices and warehouses or other storage facilities for the storage of raw materials or finished goods when such facilities are essential to and an integral part of a factory, mill or manufacturing plant, but shall not include manufacturing or industrial fixtures or equipment such as tanks, conveyor systems, cranes, industrial machinery and related facilities irrespective of whether or not such fixtures or equipment are affixed to the realty. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the term 'buildings' shall also include potlines and furnaces used directly in the manufacturing of metals. The phrase 'construction of buildings' refers only to new or enlarged buildings and not to the repair or renovation of existing buildings.

"This credit shall be allowable only against tax payable by the manufacturer and measured by the value of products or gross proceeds of sales of articles, substances or commodities manufactured in this state, and shall be allowable only against any tax payable which is attributable to manufacturing occurring in the particular factory, mill or manufacturing plant in which such buildings are located.

"No tax credit claimed shall be deducted on any return until such claim has been approved by the department of revenue or until ninety days after such claim has been submitted to the department of revenue for approval. This credit shall not be allowable for tax paid on purchases of material, labor or services on which the supplier thereof became entitled to compensation prior to July 1, 1964 or subsequent to January 1, 1971: PROVIDED, That the credit shall be allowable for the tax paid on such purchases pursuant to any contract entered into prior to January 1, 1971 if such tax is paid on such contract purchases prior to July 1, 1972.

"Any credits granted prior to July 1, 1969 pursuant to this section shall not be affected by this 1969 amendatory act.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. This 1969 amendatory act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, the support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and shall take effect July 1, 1969."

and the same is herewith transmitted. DONALD R. WILSON, Acting Secretary.

MOTION

Mrs. McCaffree moved that the House concur in the Senate amendments to Substitute House Bill No. 352.

Debate ensued, Representatives McCaffree, Backstrom and Whetzel speaking in favor of the motion, and Representatives Pardini, Curtis and Veroske speaking against the motion.

Mr. Wolf demanded an electric roll call and the demand was sustained.

Representative Leckenby spoke against the motion to concur in the Senate amendments.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Mr. Whetzel yielded to question by Mr. Gladder.

Mr. Gladder: "Representative Whetzel, don't you think there is something that is just a bit morally wrong about luring, enticing and encouraging plants to come into this state on a favorable basis and then all of a sudden saying, 'Well now, look, we have you here, we shall now renege?'"

Mr. Whetzel: "Mr. Gladder, I would agree with you if this amendment did anything like that, but those businesses that have started to take the credits on the Intalco amendment for their facilities will be able to continue regardless of this amendment. The amendment does not permit new credits in the future. Let's take Intalco itself, the plant that this bill was particularly designed for. It is going to be able to continue to writeoff that equipment with this tax credit and this has no effect on it whatsoever. I think the important thing which we should bear in mind here is that this would not be a very responsible thing, having passed the budget that we have, to put it out of balance by not concurring with this amendment."

Representative Moon spoke in favor of the motion to concur in the Senate amendments to Substitute House Bill No. 352.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Mr. Whetzel yielded to question by Mr. Chatalas.

Mr. Chatalas: "Mr. Whetzel, did the Seattle Times, which has been doing business in Seattle for almost a hundred years, get this discount or rebate, as we call it, on their expansion?"

Mr. Whetzel: "I certainly don't have any knowledge about that, Mr. Chatalas."

Mr. Chatalas: "How about the Seattle Post-Intelligencer which is expanding now? I understand they are entitled to these tax credits. Do you think this is fair?"

Mr. Whetzel: "Mr. Chatalas, any business that qualifies is certainly entitled to this credit until such time as this legislative body says they shall not receive a new credit, and this, I understand, is what the Senate amendment does. But any business that qualifies to establish a credit will be able to take that over the period of time in which they are writing off the credit against their sales and B & O tax."

Representative Chatalas spoke in favor of the motion to concur in the Senate amendments.

The Speaker (Mr. Copeland presiding) stated the question before the House to be the motion by Mrs. McCaffree to concur in the Senate amendments to Substitute House Bill No. 352.

FINAL PASSAGE OF HOUSE BILL AS AMENDED BY SENATE

The Speaker (Mr. Copeland presiding) stated the question before the House to be the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 352, as amended by the Senate.

ROLL CALL

The clerk called the roll on the final passage of Substitute House Bill No. 352, as amended by the Senate, and the bill passed the House by the following vote: Yeas, 64; nays, 27; absent or not voting, 8.

Voting yea: Representatives Adams, Amen, Anderson, Backstrom, Bagnariol, Barden, Beck, Bottiger, Brouillet, Brown, Ceccarelli, Chapin, Charette, Chatalas, Clark (Newman H.), Clarke (George W.), Conner, Cunningham, DeJarnatt, Evans, Farr, Fleming, Francis, Gallagher, Garrett, Goldsworthy, Grant, Hatfield, Haussler, Hoggins, Hubbard, Hurley, Jolly, King, Kink, Kirk, Kiskaddon, Leland, Lynch, Marsh, Martinis, Marzano, McCaffree, McCormick, Mentor, Merrill, Moon, Morrison, Newhouse, North, O'Brien, O'Dell, Randall, Saling, Savage, Sawyer, Scott, Spanton, Sprague, Thompson, Wanamaker, Whetzel, Wojahn, Zimmerman-64.

Substitute House Bill No. 352, as amended by the Senate, having received the constitutional majority, was declared passed. There being no objection, the title of the bill was ordered to stand as the title of the act.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

Having voted against concurrence with Senate amendments to Substitute House Bill No. 352 and against final passage, I would explain my position as follows:

The subject act known as the Intalco Act has encouraged expansion of existing commerce and industry as well as bringing in new enterprises. This process has stimulated our economy. The results have benefited all. There have been more jobs, more income to investors, more income to taxing bodies, thus generally improved conditions. It has served as a good investment. The loss of tax income to the state has produced dividends far in excess of these losses.

Present economic conditions in some parts of the state continue to need stimulation. The Intalco bill would provide some assistance.

Areas of the state that are currently enjoying a high degree of economic activity need continuing development to minimize the cyclical dips that will occur from time to time.

To depend on future adoption of Intalco-type stimulants will have to wait for legislative sessions. There will be delays that will allow the economic dips to deepen before improvement is realized. There will be loss of jobs that could be preserved if we had a continuing supportive policy.

The fact that all areas of society are dependent on favorable economic conditions would suggest our common interest in this matter. We should have retained the Intalco Act for our general well-being. I supported, by voice and vote, retention, but, unfortunately, we lost this fine act. WILLIAM S. LECKENBY, 31st District.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. For the purposes of sections 13 through 20 of this 1969 amendatory act:

(1) "Minor" means any person under the age of eighteen years;

(2) "Erotic material" means printed material, photographs, pictures, motion pictures, and other material the dominant theme of which taken as a whole appeals to the prurient interest of minors in sex; which is patently offensive because it affronts contemporary community standards relating to the description or representation of sexual matters or sadomasochistic abuse; and is utterly without redeeming social value;

(3) "Person" means any individual, corporation, or other organization;

(4) "Dealers", "distributors", and "exhibitors" mean persons engaged in the distribution, sale, or exhibition of printed material, photographs, pictures, or motion pictures.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. (1) When it appears that material which may be deemed erotic is being sold, distributed, or exhibited in this state, the prosecuting attorney of the county in which the sale, distribution, or exhibition is taking place may apply to the superior court for a hearing to determine the character of the material with respect to whether it is erotic material.

(2) Notice of the hearing shall immediately be served upon the dealer, distributor, or exhibitor selling or otherwise distributing or exhibiting the alleged erotic material. The superior court shall hold a hearing not later than five days from the service of notice to determine whether the subject matter is erotic material within the meaning of section 13 of this 1969 amendatory act.

(3) If the superior court rules that the subject material is erotic material, then, following such adjudication:

(a) If the subject material is written or printed, the court shall issue an order requiring that an "adults only" label be placed on the publication, if such publication is going to continue to be distributed. Whenever the superior court orders a publication to have an "adults only" label placed thereon, such label shall be impressed on the front cover of all copies of such erotic publication sold or otherwise distributed in the state of Washington. Such labels shall be in forty-eight point bold face type located in a conspicuous place on the front cover of the publication. All dealers and distributors are hereby prohibited from displaying erotic publications in their store windows, on outside newsstands on public thoroughfares, or in any other manner so as to make them readily accessible to minors.

(b) If the subject material is a motion picture, the court shall issue an order requiring that such motion picture shall be labeled "adults only". The exhibitor shall prominently display a sign saying "adults only" at the place of exhibition, and any advertising of said motion picture shall contain a statement that it is for adults only. Such exhibitor shall also display a sign at the place where admission tickets are sold stating that it is unlawful for minors to misrepresent their age.

(c) Failure to comply with a court order issued under the provisions of this section shall subject the dealer, distributor, or exhibitor to contempt proceedings.

(d) Any person who, after the court determines material to be erotic, sells, distributes, or exhibits the erotic material to a minor shall be guilty of violating sections 13 through 20 of this 1969 amendatory act, such violation to carry the following penalties:

(i) For the first offense a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not more than six months;

(ii) For the second offense a gross misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or imprisoned not more than one year;

(iii) For all subsequent offenses a felony and upon conviction shall be fined not more than five thousand dollars, or imprisoned not less than one year.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. In any prosecution for violation of section 14 of this 1969 amendatory act, it shall be a defense that:

(1) If the violation pertains to a motion picture, the minor was accompanied by a parent, parent's spouse, or guardian; or

(2) Such minor exhibited to the defendant a draft card, driver's license, birth certificate, or other official or an apparently official document purporting to establish such minor was over the age of eighteen years; or

(3) Such minor was accompanied by a person who represented himself to be a parent, or the spouse of a parent, or a guardian of such minor, and the defendant in good faith relied upon such representation.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. (1) It shall be unlawful for any minor to misrepresent his true age or his true status as the child, stepchild or ward of a person accompanying him, for the purpose of purchasing or obtaining access to any material described in section 13 of this 1969 amendatory act.

(2) It shall be unlawful for any person accompanying such minor to misrepresent his true status as parent, spouse of a parent or guardian of any minor for the purpose of enabling such minor to purchase or obtain access to material described in section 13 of this 1969 amendatory act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. No retailer, wholesaler, or exhibitor is to be deprived of service from a wholesaler or wholesaler-distributor of books, magazines, motion pictures or other materials or subjected to loss of his franchise or right to deal or exhibit as a result of his attempts to comply with this statute. Any publisher, distributor, or other person, or combination of such persons, which withdraws or attempts to withdraw a franchise or other right to sell at retail, wholesale or exhibit materials on account of the retailer's, wholesaler's or exhibitor's attempts to comply with sections 13 through 20 of this 1969 amendatory act shall incur civil liability to such retailer, wholesaler or exhibitor for threefold the actual damages resulting from such withdrawal or attempted withdrawal.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. Nothing in sections 13 through 20 of this 1969 amendatory act shall apply to the circulation of any such material by any recognized historical society or museum, the state law library, any county law library, the state library, the public library, any library of any college or university, or to any archive or library under the supervision and control of the state, county, municipality, or other political subdivision.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. The provisions of sections 13 through 20 of this 1969 amendatory act shall not apply to acts done in the scope of his employment by a motion picture operator or projectionist employed by the owner or manager of a theatre or other place for the showing of motion pictures, unless the motion picture operator or projectionist has a financial interest in such theatre or place wherein he is so employed or unless he caused to be performed or exhibited such performance or motion picture without the knowledge and consent of the manager or owner of the theatre or other place of showing.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. The provisions of sections 13 through 20 of this 1969 amendatory act shall be exclusive.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 21. If any provision of this 1969 amendatory act, or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provisions to other persons or circumstances, is not affected.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The Speaker recognized Mr. Leland on a point of personal privilege.

Mr. Leland: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to call the attention of the members to the kit that was delivered to your desks today which contains a selected series of informative booklets or pamphlets on various phases and activities of the highway and transportation program in this state. Particularly, I would like to call your attention to two or three items that might be helpful. One is a directory of all the various department heads, district engineers and just about anyone you might want to call to get specific information. It includes, in many instances, not only the business phone but the residential phone so in an emergency you may reach them in the evening. Also, I would like to call attention to the fact that you have two booklets—'Better Highways for Washington' and 'Better Highways for Washington II.' One is the Allinson Report and the other is the Price-Waterhouse Report. This is the extensive study that was discussed several times, will be up for evaluation and discussion in the next two years, and will be coming before the legislature two years from now for possible adoption. This and other items in the kit are self-explanatory and I hope will be of benefit. Many people from time to time in the legislature have indicated they wished they had a kit that gathered together the most pertinent booklets and facts of highway and department operation so they would have it in one group. If you will take this, with the briefing document that was given you the other day, a copy of the highway omnibus bill which has been passed by both houses and which has been included here, and a final report which will be mailed to you shortly, you will have a pretty good 'thumbnail' sketch at any time you want to check in your kit to get some answers. I hope it proves of value to the members."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The Speaker recognized Mr. Hawley on a point of personal privilege.

Mr. Hawley: "Almost a month ago, you all received an invitation from the Westport Charter Association for a visit to Westport on May 22 and 23. To you who have been there, this certainly means something. To fish off the coast of Washington at Westport, Ilwaco, Neah Bay, LaPush and other places, is really a privilege. We have something they have nowhere else in the entire United States. The Westport Charter Association will provide everything you need. All you have to do is get yourselves there by 5:00 p.m. on May 22. You will have a one-hour social gathering, and then you will have probably one of the finest fish smorgasbords you have ever had which will be provided by the various fisheries people of the state of Washington. The next morning you are going to have to buy your own breakfast, but you will board the charter boats and go out in the ocean fishing, which is one of the finest experiences there is. Charter boat fishing in the state of Washington is a large recreational industry. People come here from all over the United States. When you get home you will receive an R.S.V.P. invitation, so if you cannot go, or if you are going, please answer. They are mailing them out tonight and you will receive the invitation at your homes. I can assure you this will be one of the most pleasant experiences you could have and will show you the great recreational value that ocean fishing is to our state, which has only been preserved by the action of this legislature over the past twenty years. Thank you."

POINT OF INQUIRY

Mr. Chatalas: "Mr. Hawley, could you tell us when we should take our pills so we won't get seasick?"

Mr. Hawley: "We have arranged with Representative Jastad who is on the committee to have all the pills for you people who need them."

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The Speaker recognized Mr. Beck on a point of personal privilege.

Mr. Beck: "With the consent of the Chairman of the Transportation Committee, I would like to elaborate a little on the information kit you got from the Transportation Committee. There is a lot of reading material in there. I don't know if you will find time to read it all, but there is one thing I would like to call to your attention. We spent three-quarter million dollars to get the Allinson and the Price-Waterhouse Reports. The reason the study was made was because in the next twenty years we are going to need fourteen and three-quarter billion dollars to keep our highways abreast of the increasing number and usage of automobiles on our highways. In that same period of time, we are only going to have about ten and one-half billion dollars revenue. In other words, we are short about four billion dollars to meet our needs in the next twenty years. Now, at the next session of the legislature we are going to have a priority plan, which is going to be thousands of miles of highway juggled around from the state system, into the county road system and the city street system. I do hope you will find time to study the Allinson and Price-Waterhouse Reports. It is urgent to the state."

POINT OF INFORMATION

The Speaker recognized Mr. Bledsoe on a point of information.

Mr. Bledsoe: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A brief comment about the proposed schedule for the balance of the day: We have been informed that the Senate has recessed until 7:30 p.m. It is our proposal that we will recess until 8:00 p.m., allowing the Senate time to return. We will then process what legislation they send to us, and in the meantime work on the balance of the calendar that is before us. Representative Goldsworthy intends to call an Appropriations Committee meeting immediately after recess for the purpose of considering the supplemental budget. Hopefully, we can have all business taken care of by midnight tonight."

MOTION

On motion of Mr. Bledsoe, the House recessed until 8:00 p.m.

EVENING SESSION

The Speaker (Mr. Wolf presiding) called the House to order at 8:00 p.m.

The clerk called the roll and all members were present except Representative Murray who was excused.

MOTION

On motion of Mr. Bledsoe, the House reverted to the eighth order of business for the purpose of considering resolutions.

RESOLUTIONS

HOUSE RESOLUTION NO. 69-142, by Representatives Cunningham, Chapin and Scott:

WHEREAS, The Governor has indicated his intention to call an extraordinary session of the 41st legislature, in January 1970; and

WHEREAS, The primary purpose of said extraordinary session is to reevaluate the financial affairs of the State of Washington, for the second year of the 1969-1971 biennium and to consider situations demanding emergency action; and

WHEREAS, The short period of time between the adjournment of the first extraordinary session and the convening of the second extraordinary session makes it highly unlikely that interim committees will have completed all of their studies and recommendations by January 1970; and

WHEREAS, It is the desire of the House of Representatives, and it is in the best interest of the people of this state, to minimize the expense of state government and the length of the session consistent with accomplishing the stated purposes of said extraordinary session;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, By the House of Representatives that:

- (1) The second extraordinary session of the 41st legislature be limited to thirty days; and
- (2) Only bills relating to budget, revenue and taxation, recommendations of interim committees, executive and departmental requests and emergency measures shall be considered.

Mr. Cunningham moved adoption of the resolution.

Debate ensued, Representative Cunningham speaking in favor of the resolution, and Representative Moon speaking against it. Representative Moon requested that his remarks be inserted in the journal.

The resolution was adopted.

The Speaker (Mr. Wolf presiding) declared the House to be at ease.

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

I would like to request that my remarks against this resolution be placed in the Journal of the House:

This resolution really throws the check and balance system that we operate under out the window. No doubt, the Governor would really like this resolution passed. Under this resolution if a second special session were called in 1970, we would consider only any and all interim committee requests; any and all departmental requests; and any and all executive requests. But we would not be able to consider any request from an individual legislator or any subject that might be considered important by the majority of this body or by the majority of the Washington State Senate.

I think it is time we keep the legislative process on the third floor of the legislative building. I don't object to influence from the Governor or any executive department but when the Governor begins to dominate the legislative process, I begin to object. This is what this resolution will do. Executive domination has been responsible for some of the legislative failures of this session. Legislative business should be legislative business. If we reconvene in an extraordinary session in January, 1970, we cannot be sure what the problems will be. We cannot now know whether we may have legislative agreement in special areas where we have failed to agree in this legislative session other than in the area of budget and revenue and taxation, and it is possible that the problems that have prevented the passage of important legislation dealing with unemployment compensation may be solved between now and January, 1970.

This resolution cuts the heart from our system of checks and balances between the legislative and executive branches of state government.

We, in the legislature, should be entitled to look at all problems and not be restricted by the mandates of this House Floor Resolution. As a point of order, it should be a House Concurrent Resolution since a resolution from this House cannot bind the Washington State Senate.

I urge your support in defeat of this resolution.

CHARLES MOON, 39th District.

The Speaker called the House to order.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGES ON HOUSE BILLS VETOED AND PARTIALLY VETOED

March 25, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.
(Through the Secretary of State)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am filing herewith to be transmitted to the House of Representatives at the next session of the legislature, without my approval as to certain items, SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 24, entitled:

"An Act relating to railroad grade crossings; creating a grade crossing protective fund."

This bill establishes a procedure for identifying needed railroad crossing warning devices and creates a grade crossing protective fund to provide for the state's share of the cost of this program. Since 1961 the Utilities and Transportation Commission has had the authority to allocate to cities and counties funds necessary to defray the costs of installing warning signals. However, no appropriations have been made for this purpose. As a result, there has been no significant increase in the number of warning signals installed at railroad crossings. The primary effect of this bill is to provide state funds for the installation and maintenance of adequate warning signals at railroad crossings. I am in agreement with this principle.

Section three of the act calls for the railroad, upon completion of the installation of a crossing signal, to submit its claim for reimbursement for the cost of installation to the state auditor and authorizes the auditor to make such audit as he deems necessary. These provisions are inconsistent with the Budget and Accounting Act.

I am certain that the legislature did not intend to alter established procedures under the Budget and Accounting Act. I have therefore vetoed these provisions.

Section 4 provides that the act shall be operative within the limits of all cities, towns and counties, except first-class cities. Section 5 states, "This 1969 amendatory act shall be operative within the limits of all cities, towns and counties, including cities of the first class." These two sections are obviously inconsistent. Reading the bill, it is clear that the legislature intended that it apply only to railroad crossings within the boundaries of first-class cities that the city specifically designates. I have therefore vetoed section 5, which is totally inconsistent with this intent.

With the exception of those certain items in section 3 and all of section 5, which I have vetoed, the remainder of Substitute House Bill No. 24 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.
(Through the Secretary of State)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am filing herewith to be transmitted to the House of Representatives at the next session of the Legislature, without my approval as to one item, HOUSE BILL NO. 52 entitled:

"An Act relating to motor vehicles."

This bill was introduced at the request of the Washington State Patrol and amends the "rules of the road." Under current law, a driver is authorized to exceed the speed limit to pass a vehicle driving at less than the legal speed limit. As introduced, the bill was designed to provide that this exception shall apply only on highways having one lane of traffic in each direction.

An additional item was added to the bill making it also permissible to exceed the speed limit when it is necessary to move to an exit on a multi-lane highway. This item creates a substantial safety hazard.

Traffic safety experts advise that such a maneuver is substantially more dangerous than slowing slightly to move into an exit lane. This provision authorizes a virtually unlimited speed for a substantial distance while an auto is attempting to pass a string of cars to move to an outside exit lane.

In addition, and equally important, the provision permitting a driver to exceed a speed limit in order to move to the outside lane for the purpose of exiting from the freeway will have a deleterious effect on enforcement of the speed laws on our highways. Under the law, not only must proscribed criminal conduct be proven beyond a reasonable doubt, but the provisions must be plain and unambiguous. The item added to the bill by amendment for multi-lane highway travel is not in the best interests of the state.

With the exception of the item discussed in this letter, which I have vetoed, the remainder of House Bill No. 52 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

March 8, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I return without my approval as to one item, HOUSE BILL NO. 127 entitled:

"An Act relating to the common schools and the support thereof; authorizing the sale of limited obligation bonds and the use of the proceeds for needed common school plant facilities, modernization of existing common school facilities; providing ways and means to pay said bonds; making appropriations; and declaring an emergency."

This is an emergency school bond construction bill providing for the issuance of $26,400,000 in bonds and appropriating $5,755,446 to the state board of education to provide common school plant facilities and modernization of existing common school plant facilities.

Section 7 provides that funds appropriated for the purposes of the act shall be allotted by the state board of education. After the bill passed the House, the Senate added a proviso to the effect that the state board of education may not discriminate either individually or by classification as to non-high school districts in the apportionment of the funds authorized by this emergency act. This would require that non-high school districts receive bond funds if they qualify as emergency districts.

Under present law the allocation of school building funds is the responsibility of the state board of education. The exercise of this power through appropriate rules and regulations is one of the most important functions of the board. The proviso deprives the board of education of a significant part of its responsibility to allocate funds among school districts.

If the legislature intends to withdraw from the board of education this duty, it should consider whether this principle should apply to all state school bond issues and not merely to the funds authorized by this act. Such a step should be taken only after the most careful consideration and in accordance with the normal legislative processes.

Elimination of this proviso from the act does not deprive any non-high district of the opportunity to apply for emergency funds. Elimination of the proviso does restore the responsibility for the allocation of funds for school construction to the board of education.

With the exception of the item in Section 13, which I have vetoed for the reasons set forth above, the remainder of the bill is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.
(Through the Secretary of State)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am filing herewith to be transmitted to the House of Representatives at the next session of the legislature, without my approval as to one section, ENGROSSED HOUSE BILL NO. 132, entitled:

"An Act relating to higher education; creating a commission on higher education."

This bill designates the nine citizen members of the Council on Higher Education, as provided in Senate Bill No. 243, as a Commission on Higher Education. The commission is charged with the responsibilities of administering the student financial aid program and the functions previously administered by the Higher Education Facilities Commission.

Section 10 of the bill appropriates $117,208 for the purpose of carrying out the functions previously administered by the Higher Education Facilities Commission. Since this sum is included in the budget as an appropriation through the Council on Higher Education to the commission, I have vetoed Section 10 of this bill.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

April 17, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am returning herewith without my approval ENGROSSED HOUSE BILL NO. 168, entitled:

"An Act relating to intoxicating liquor."

This bill enables a domestic brewer to own an interest in a distillery and permits a distiller to own an interest in a domestic brewery.

Engrossed Senate Bill No. 341, the Liquor Board omnibus bill, as amended and subsequently passed by both houses of the legislature, contains essentially the same provisions as Engrossed House Bill No. 168. In fact, all of the purposes of Engrossed House Bill No. 168 are accomplished by the enactment of Engrossed Senate Bill No. 341. In order to prevent the confusion that would result from both bills becoming effective, I have vetoed Engrossed House Bill No. 168.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

May 8, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I return herewith without my approval as to one item, ENGROSSED HOUSE BILL NO. 183, entitled:

"An Act providing for a court of appeals; for the election, composition, terms of office and retirement of its judges."

Section 12 of this bill contains a $1,000,000 appropriation. Section 2 of the conference version of the budget also contains a $1,000,000 appropriation for the appellate court. In order to bring Engrossed House Bill No. 183 into conformity with the action of the conference committee on the budget, I have vetoed section 12. The remainder of Engrossed House Bill No. 183 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

March 25, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.
(Through the Secretary of State)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am filing herewith to be transmitted to the House of Representatives at the next session of the Legislature, without my approval as to one item, HOUSE BILL NO. 203 entitled:

"An Act relating to accountancy; providing standards for C.P.A. licensees."

This bill amends the qualifications for a license for a certified public accountant and increases the license fees for certified and licensed public accountants and for candidates for examination.

Section 9 of the bill contains a clause providing that the enactment of the act shall not effect those persons licensed as certified public accountants prior to the effective date of this 1969 act. While the intent of this "grandfather" clause was to assure that presently licensed accountants would not be affected by the qualification standards of this act, the legal effect is to relieve them from the obligation of paying increased license fees. This is not in keeping with the intent of the act. I have therefore vetoed section 9.

With the exception of section 9 which I have vetoed for the reasons set forth above, the remainder of the bill is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

May 3, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I return herewith without my approval as to one section, ENGROSSED HOUSE BILL NO. 314, entitled:

"An Act relating to the education of motor vehicle drivers; prescribing certain penalty assessments for the financing thereof; renaming the driver education account of the general fund as the traffic safety education account of the general fund in the state treasury."

Under RCW 46.68.041, one dollar of the driver's license fee is transferred to the driver education account. Section 11 of Engrossed House Bill No. 314 changes the name of the account to which this dollar is allocated from the driver education account to the traffic safety education account.

Senate Bill No. 287, adopted by the first session of the 41st Legislature raised the driver's license fee to $5.00. This bill is now Chapter 99, Laws of 1969. Section 9 of Chapter 99 provided for the allocation of the new $5.00 driver's license fee.

Section 11 of Engrossed House Bill No. 314 neither mentions the amendment to RCW 46.68.041 by Chapter 99 nor provides for the allocation of the increased driver's license fee.

In order to avoid the confusion resulting from both these amendments to the same section from becoming effective and the danger that section 9 of Chapter 99, Laws of 1969, would thereby be repealed by implication, I have vetoed section 11 of Engrossed House Bill No. 314. Since section 5 of Engrossed House Bill No. 314 specifically changes the name of the "driver education account" to the "traffic safety education account," my veto will not affect the practical operation of the bill.

With the exception of Section 11 which I have vetoed, the remainder of Engrossed House Bill No. 314 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

DANIEL J. EVANS

Governor.

April 24, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am returning herewith, without my approval as to one item, HOUSE BILL NO. 341 entitled:

"An Act relating to inferior courts."

This bill raises the range of salaries for part-time justices of the peace in the state.

Subsection 1 provides that the annual salaries of part-time justices of the peace shall be set by the county commissioners in each county in accordance with the minimum and maximum salaries provided for in the bill except that "special salary adjustments as determined in accordance with subsection 2 of this section shall be added thereto. . . ." In the Senate, the bill was amended to eliminate subsection 2.

I have therefore vetoed this reference.

The remainder of House Bill No. 341 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,

DANIEL J. EVANS

Governor.

March 25, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.
(Through the Secretary of State)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I return without my approval as to two items, HOUSE BILL NO. 346 entitled:
"An Act relating to beef and beef products and the sale and promotion thereof; creating a state beef commission; levying assessments; and declaring an emergency."

This is a bill creating a state agency for the purpose of promoting the sale of beef and research for beef producing livestock in this state.

The beef commission would be subject to the same constitutional limitations as any other state agency created by the legislature.

New Section 8, subsection 13, grants the beef commission all the powers and authority granted a corporation under the provisions of RCW 23A.08.020 of the general corporation statutes. In addition to the power to issue stock and pay dividends, the use of the words "all powers" of a corporation include certain powers of corporation to loan money to its employees. This would be in conflict with Article 8, section 5 of the state constitution which states that the credit of the state shall not be given or loaned, or in aid of any individual, association, company, or corporation. While I appreciate the intent of the sponsors of the bill in giving the new commission broad powers to accomplish its purposes, I am concerned that the grant of all of the powers of a corporation is too broad to afford adequate protection for the contributors to the fund supporting the commission.

Section 18, page 9, of the bill provides for a refund of any assessment upon application within 60 days.

I do not consider this section to be adequate legislation for the following reasons:

The sponsors of this measure applied the assessment at each point of sale, for the express purpose of insuring that all segments of the industry from producer to packer would share in the support of the program.

In my judgment the refund clause in operation will be unfair to the small producer or handler. The small amount of money involved for the small producer at 10 cents a head would make it impractical to go through the procedure of claiming the refund. It would, however, be worthwhile for the large producer or handler.

Furthermore, the uncertainty of income because of the refund clause would make it difficult to budget and maintain commission programs.

With the new Tree Fruit Research Commission, approved by this Legislature, there are now 12 agricultural commodity commissions in this state. None of the 12 has a recovery clause. Neither the 1955 nor the 1961 Agricultural Enabling Act permits a recovery clause on the assessment.

With the exception of those certain items in Sections 8 and 18 which I have vetoed, the remainder of House Bill No. 346 is approved.

Sincerely,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

April 25, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I return herewith without my approval as to one item, HOUSE BILL NO. 356, entitled:

"An Act relating to deposit and investment of public funds."

Section 3 of the act designates the State Finance Committee as the Washington Public Deposit Protection Commission. The section further provides that meetings of the Commission shall be held at least once a month, and more frequently whenever called by the chairman after notice thereof.

The Commission will be required to meet as often as is necessary to perform its function. The requirement of a monthly meeting is artificial and has no relationship to the actual work required of the Commission. I have therefore vetoed from section 3 the item requiring meetings at least once each month. The remainder of the bill is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

March 25, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.
(Through the Secretary of State)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am filing herewith to be transmitted to the House of Representatives at the next session of the Legislature, without my approval as to several items, HOUSE BILL NO. 388, entitled:

"An Act relating to transportation."

In 1965 the Legislature adopted an act that required charter party carriers to obtain an annual permit from the Utilities and Transportation Commission. House Bill No. 388 amends this 1965 act and requires that these passenger carriers obtain certificates of public convenience and necessity from the Commission.

I am in agreement with the purpose of the bill to change the permit system to a system that requires the carriers to obtain certificates of convenience and necessity for their operations. This is in keeping with the concepts of transportation regulation. However, the bill contains unnecessarily restrictive provisions that are contrary to the public interest and serve only the private interests of existing carriers.

Section 5 requires an applicant for a certificate to establish reasonable fitness and financial responsibility to offer charter transportation services. However, all persons holding permits under the present act must be issued a certificate of public convenience and necessity without regard to these standards.

Further, no charter party carrier of passengers initially issued a certificate may be restricted as to point of origin or destination in the state. On the other hand, all holders of certificates issued more than three months after the effective date of the act are limited to a service area no larger than a radius of forty air miles from the home terminal. All holders of existing permits will be given a Class A certificate. All new applicants will receive Class B certificates.

This section unnecessarily discriminates between existing permit holders and persons desiring to establish new passenger charter services. The discrimination extends not only to the issuance of the permit, but to the area that these possible competitors are permitted to serve.

Section 6 authorizes the commission to issue certificates upon finding that the public convenience and necessity require the proposed transportation service. I have vetoed language in this section that is unnecessarily restrictive and adds little to the statute that the requirement of public convenience and necessity does not convey. I have also vetoed the provision authorizing the commission to place such restrictions on new certificates as may reasonably be necessary to protect any existing charter party carrier of passengers. I do not consider this a reasonable criterion for limitations upon certificates.

I have vetoed section 12 in order to make the act consistent with the other items vetoed.

The bill still contains the required measures in order for the Utilities and Transportation Commission constructively to regulate the industry, but with greater flexibility than that allowed by the original bill. I consider this to be more in the public interest.

With the exception of those items which have been vetoed for the reasons stated above, the remainder of House Bill No. 388 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

May 23, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.
(Through the Secretary of State)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am filing herewith to be transmitted to the House of Representatives at the next session of the legislature, without my approval as to certain items, ENGROSSED SECOND SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 480, entitled:

"An Act relating to education."

This bill contains various amendments and additions to the Community College Act passed by the 1967 legislature.

Section 5 of the bill amends RCW 28.85.060 which describes the powers and duties of the director of the state system of community colleges. By the provisions of Section 5 the director with the approval of the college board is authorized to employ necessary assistant directors of major staff divisions and their confidential secretaries who will serve at his pleasure. While it is appropriate that the assistant directors of major staff divisions should be exempt from the state civil service law, the exemption of confidential secretaries for these assistant directors is in conflict with the objectives of the civil service law. I have accordingly vetoed the item in Section 5 which would exempt confidential secretaries from the provisions of the civil service law.

Section 7 of the bill amends RCW 28.85.100 which describes the procedure for the appointment of members of the board of trustees for each community college district. Under the 1967 Act nominating committees composed of legislators residing within the boundaries of the community college districts nominated trustee candidates for consideration for appointment by the Governor. While this procedure may have been appropriate in 1967 when the community college system was created it is objectionable on a continuing basis.

There is a substantial disparity among the various districts as to the number of legislators who will participate in the nominating process. As a result, this mechanism provides no assurance that the nominations will represent a cross section of the community college districts. Rather, it may tend on a long-range basis to inject partisanship into the selection process. Just as the boards of regents and boards of trustees of the state universities and colleges are appointed directly by the Governor, so also should the trustees of the community colleges. Finally, to the extent that a governor is actually limited in selecting trustees to those nominees submitted by legislative nominating committees, such a procedure does not conform with Article 13 of the State Constitution which requires that educational trustees of state institutions shall be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. I have therefore vetoed the item in Section 7 which would continue the legislative nominating committees.

Because the bill contains correlative provisions of the 1969 education code, I have also vetoed the equivalent provisions in those sections.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

May 23, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.
(Through the Secretary of State)

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am filing herewith to be transmitted to the House of Representatives at the next session of the legislature, without my approval as to certain items, REENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 582, entitled:

"An Act relating to revenue and taxation; adding new chapters to chapter 15, Laws of 1961 and Title 82 RCW; adding a new section to chapter 15, Laws of 1961 and Title 82 RCW; authorizing the establishment of local taxing districts; empowering local taxing districts and cities and towns and counties to levy a retail sales and use tax; and amending certain statutes enumerated in the title of the bill."

This bill is a comprehensive revision of Washington's tax structure which will take effect only if the people approve a constitutional amendment restricting basic property tax levies to one percent of true and fair value of property and authorizing a state income tax. The bill is designed to accomplish two principal objectives:

(1) To make state and local taxes more equitable, particularly with respect to lower income families and certain businesses which bear a disproportionate burden under present tax law, without shifting tax burdens from business to individuals or vice versa; and

(2) To produce sufficient revenues for additional state school support so that school districts can sharply reduce special property tax levies.

Because of the importance of this legislation to the financial well-being of the state and its local school districts, the House of Representatives took great care to develop a bill which could not be subjected to serious attack on constitutional grounds.

The Senate also gave serious consideration to this bill, and adopted a substantial number of amendments. Most of the Senate amendments strengthen the bill and are consistent with its objectives. However, other amendments were hastily considered and adopted on the floor of the Senate in a form which undermines the broad objectives of the bill; one series of amendments threatens the constitutionality of the act.

I do not disapprove of the concepts contained in any of the provisions which are vetoed; and I invite the legislature to reconsider these amendments at a special session to be held prior to the election at which the proposed constitutional amendment will be submitted to the people.

The provisions of the bill which I have vetoed are as follows:

Local Government Sales and Use Tax. I have vetoed sections 72 through 90 and corresponding references to these provisions which were added to the title of the bill by Senate amendments. This series of amendments which was intended to give local governmental bodies the power to levy sales and use taxes, may invalidate the entire act under the provisions of Article 2, Section 19 of the State Constitution which provides:

"No bill shall embrace more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title."

One purpose of this provision is to apprise both the legislature and the public of the subject of the bill without being misleading as to its contents. On several occasions, the state Supreme Court has invalidated legislation in which the title describes some of the provisions of the bill without describing all of them.

The original bill contained the broad title "Revenue and Taxation" without any attempt to "index" the many interrelated revisions of state and local taxes contained in the bill. Most legislative enactments contain such a title to avoid creating a constitutional question. However, when the Senate added sections 72 through 90, it also amended the title to describe the substance of these sections. The pertinent portions of the amended title of the bill, set forth on page one of this message, clearly show how misleading the title has become. The only new statutes described relate to the local sales and use taxes. No mention is made of the major portion of the bill—the state income tax.

It is obvious that no member of the legislature has been misled by this title. Probably no bill has been as thoroughly discussed in committees, party caucuses, and on the floor of both houses. At a time when the title was constitutionally acceptable the bill was passed by the House of Representatives and considered at length by the Senate on first and second reading.

I have exercised my veto power as Governor to prevent the public from being misled by the title and to preserve this major legislative enactment from constitutional question.

Deduction of Medical Expenses. I have vetoed subsection (9) of Section 7 which would have allowed an individual to deduct certain medical expenses in computing his taxable income. This amendment to the bill was also added on the floor of the Senate, probably with the very laudable intention of assisting taxpayers experiencing major medical expenses; however, the provision actually permits the deduction of up to $150 of the premium cost of medical insurance, even if the taxpayer had no other medical expenses whatsoever. Such an expense is an ordinary personal expense incurred by almost everyone. To provide for expenses such as these the House of Representatives simplified the state income tax by allowing each individual a $1,000 personal exemption (which is doubled for individuals over 65 years of age or who are blind). These personal exemptions are designed to be higher than the combined personal exemption and standard deduction allowed on the federal tax return and take the place of each taxpayer's usual personal deductions. Thus a major portion of the benefits of this Senate amendment will actually duplicate relief for taxpayers already provided in the bill.

The Department of Revenue estimates that in the first biennium in which the income tax is collected, this amendment would reduce state revenues (and the state's ability to relieve special levies) by more than $18 million. Most of this amount is attributable to the availability of this deduction to all taxpayers—not just those with substantial medical expenses.

I approve of the objective of this Senate amendment, but relief for taxpayers with extraordinary medical expenses can be provided without seriously impairing state revenues by limiting the scope of medical deductions. I recommend that the legislature consider such a provision at the next legislative session.

Income Tax Credit for Personal Property Taxes on Business Inventories. I have vetoed subsection (5) of Section 16 which would have permitted businesses to credit against income tax increasing percentages of the personal property taxes paid on business inventories. I am aware that the imposition of a personal property tax on business inventories works a substantial hardship on certain types of businesses, and I approve of the legislature's attempt to readjust taxes on business so as to provide some relief from the inventory tax. The House of Representatives also recognized this problem and provided for a credit of 10% of the tax on business inventories against the business and occupation tax. It also recognized that this credit would reduce the revenues produced by the comprehensive tax bill and thus provided a business and occupation tax rate which took this revenue loss into account. The Senate, however, has provided for an extension of this credit to a point where it will ultimately allow a business to credit against income taxes one hundred percent of the personal property tax on business inventories without providing any additional revenue to compensate for this loss.

Although this bill is designed to make the taxes on business more equitable, no responsible studies of Washington tax structure have indicated that taxes on business in the aggregate are out of proportion to similar taxes prevailing in other states. For this reason, the compromise measure which passed the House of Representatives was designed to make no shift in the ultimate tax burden to individual taxpayers. The Senate's adoption of this amendment without providing compensating revenue in other forms of business taxes will ultimately shift approximately a hundred million dollars per biennium of taxes from business to individual taxpayers. If this amendment were to remain in the bill, over a period of years the state would be unable to meet its commitment to reduce special levies, with the result that property taxes or other forms of taxation would inevitably increase to replace the revenue lost by the inventory tax credit.

I believe the legislature should further study the inventory tax problem and at its next session provide relief from these taxes in a manner which will not shift the tax burden to individuals and will meet the revenue needs of the state.

Since the House of Representatives has provided for business and occupation taxes at a sufficient level to offset a continuing 10% inventory tax credit against the business and occupation tax, I have also vetoed certain language in Section 40 added by the Senate amendment.

Limitation on Special Levies. I have vetoed Section 70 which would require approval of 66% of the voters of a school district in order to authorize special school levies for maintenance and operation purposes in excess of 14 mills. I sympathize with the purpose of this amendment which is to provide the people with reasonable assurance that special school levies will be cut to reasonable amounts when the proceeds of the income tax are available for additional school support. However, I consider this limitation to be totally unworkable under our present school apportionment formula.

Developing a school apportionment formula which provides each school district of the state with sufficient funds is a difficult task, and can only be undertaken after a thorough investigation of the relative costs, curriculum, and resources of the various school districts of the state. Such a comprehensive study has been authorized by House Bill No. 893 creating a temporary special levy study commission. By the terms of that statute the commission is required to submit a report to the Governor and the legislature prior to the special session of the legislature to be held in January 1970. It is my hope that the information developed by this commission will permit the legislature to revise the system of furnishing state support to schools so that no district will be required to resort to high special levies.

With the exception of the items set forth above, which I have vetoed, Reengrossed Substitute House Bill No. 582 is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

April 15, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am returning herewith without my approval as to one item, ENGROSSED HOUSE BILL NO. 606, entitled:

"An Act relating to horse racing."

This bill authorizes the racing commission to license race meets which are non-profit, of six days or less, and having a total annual handle of $200,000 or less. Section 1 of the bill amends the definition of "race meet." The amendments are not designed to make any substantive changes but are rather technical improvements to the original wording.

In the regular session, the legislature passed House Bill No. 617, now chapter 22, Laws of 1969. This act added "appaloosa horse racing" to the definition of "race meet." Engrossed House Bill No. 606 makes no mention of this earlier bill. While not demonstrably inconsistent, the printing of both of the sections in the code will cause unnecessary confusion.

The amendment to the definitions contained in RCW 67.16.010 is not necessary for the purpose of Engrossed House Bill No. 606. In order to save the confusion of printing both sections in the Revised Code of Washington, I have vetoed section 1 of Engrossed House Bill No. 606.

The remainder of the bill is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

May 8, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am returning herewith without my approval as to certain items, ENGROSSED HOUSE BILL NO. 635, entitled:

"An Act relating to education."

Part IV of this bill enacts a State of Washington Student Financial Aid program to assist needy and disadvantaged students domiciled in Washington. The bill provides that grants may be made available in order to permit qualifying students to attend the public or private accredited colleges, universities, community colleges or vocational technical institutes of their choice.

I endorse the basic objectives of this bill to create a well designed program which will provide financial aid to needy students in order to make available adequate educational opportunity to all of our citizens. Because of the relationship of Engrossed House Bill No. 635 to the provisions of the budget and other pending legislation certain technical item vetoes are required in order to perfect this bill.

Engrossed Senate Bill No. 243 has passed the Legislature. It creates a Council on Higher Education and is charged with the responsibility of overall planning for higher education in the state. Engrossed House Bill No. 132 has passed the House and is presently pending in the Senate. By the terms of that bill the functions of the Higher Education Facilities Commission and the administration of the student financial aid program are assigned to the nine citizen members of the Council on Higher Education who for such purposes are designated as the Commission on Higher Education. The Conference Committee report on the budget also assumes that the functions of the Higher Education Facilities Commission will be transferred to the Commission on Higher Education within the Council on Higher Education.

For these reasons and on the assumption of the passage of House Bill No. 132, I have vetoed the following conflicting provisions in Engrossed House Bill No. 635:

Subsection 3 of section 8 and all of section 9 which define and create the Washington State Student Financial Aid Commission, the functions of which under House Bill No. 132 will be assigned to the Commission on Higher Education; and sections 21 and 22 and the proviso to section 23 which will either be superseded by the provisions of House Bill No. 132 or are now not relevant because of the veto of section 9 of this act. I have also vetoed section 25 which declares an emergency. Since House Bill No. 132 does not contain an emergency clause and these two bills must be considered together it is desirable that their effective dates be as nearly as possible the same date.

With the exception of the vetoed items the remainder of the bill is approved.

Respectfully submitted,
DANIEL J. EVANS
Governor.

April 17, 1969.

TO THE HONORABLE,
THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:

I am returning herewith without my approval as to one item SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 724, entitled:

"An Act relating to poultry and poultry products including turkey."

This bill establishes labeling requirements for poultry products. Section 1 requires that poultry or poultry products, including turkey, that has been frozen and then thawed must be labeled to advise prospective buyers of this fact.

Section 2 requires that all turkeys must bear a label showing whether they are graded or ungraded, and if graded, the label must show the grade. The bill does not require that all turkeys be graded.

As a practical matter, this requirement cannot be met. More than 85 percent of the turkeys consumed in Washington are grown and prepared for marketing outside the state. Nearly all imported turkeys are frozen before shipment into Washington. All turkeys in interstate commerce are labeled, and turkeys which are graded are presently labeled as such. If a turkey is ungraded no grade will appear on the label. To require an additional label on ungraded imported turkeys would place an extraordinary and unnecessary burden on local dealers without giving any additional protection to the consumer and would serve no useful purpose. I have therefore vetoed from section 2 of the bill the item that requires the label to state "whether such turkey is graded or ungraded."

Respectfully submitted,

DANIEL J. EVANS

Governor.
