FIFTY SEVENTH LEGISLATURE - REGULAR SESSION

FIRST DAY

House Chamber, Olympia, Monday, January 14, 2002

The House of Representatives was called to order for the 2002 Regular Session of the Fifty Seventh Legislature at 12:00 Noon by Chief Clerk Cynthia Zehnder. The Clerk called the roll and a quorum was present.

The flags were escorted to the rostrum by the Joint Services Color Guard. The Chief Clerk led the chamber in the Pledge of Allegiance. The National Anthem was sung by Ronell Richardson. Prayer was offered by Mr. Joe Harris, St. Vincent De Paul, Seattle.

Mr. Harris: "Lord, you have brought us together today in the midst of trials and considerable difficulties. The tragedy of September 11th reminds us that we live in a frail and uncertain world that is often afflicted by evil events. The present recession with its attendant economic suffering makes problems in the State of Washington seem insoluble.

In this demanding and troublesome setting, give us the wisdom to know that we need to look beyond our own efforts and listen to the voices of friends and colleagues and finally to you, Lord, to learn the direction we must show to all the people of the State.

Give us compassion to realize that many who approach government for help are truly suffering.

Finally, grants us a sense of peace that we might realized that our efforts do aid all of the citizens of the State.

We ask for this help in the name of our Lord. Amen."

The Chief Clerk requested Representatives Carrell and Jackley to escort Justice Charles Johnson of the Supreme Court of the State of Washington to the Rostrum.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER

The Chief Clerk announced that nominations were in order for Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Representative Gombosky: ""Madam Chief Clerk, members of the House, honored guests, it is my privilege and honor to place the name of Representative Frank Chopp in nomination to be Speaker of the Washington State House of Representatives.

I want to talk about some of the qualities that I think Representative Chopp hold that would make him an outstanding leader for our State House of Representatives. Whether serving in the minority or under shared governance, Representative Chopp has been a continual advocate for constructive and innovative approaches to the many of the different policy challenges we face in Washington State. In 1997 as a new member of the House, I watched Representative Chopp on the House Appropriations Committee at a time when nationwide and in our own State, we considering changes to Federal welfare policy. The Welfare Reform Legislation that was passed during that year included a new program, an innovated approach that has been recognized by many national organizations as the community jobs program; a program that has literally turned welfare checks into pay checks for the some of the poorest citizens in our State. And at the same time provided them an opportunity to serve in many different community organizations to provide valuable services to many different aspects of the challenges that we face in our State.

This is one example of what Representative Chopp was able to do as a member of the minority party.

As Co-Speaker of the State House of Representatives there has been a lot of attention on many of the things we were able to address and a good deal of the attention on many things that we were not able to address. But a couple of the things we were able to address have received a significant amount of attention. Among those reforms to the State Unemployment Insurance laws that has provided valuable training to many people who are in declining industries throughout our State. And tax savings to numerous employers whether from urban areas, rural areas, from Eastern Washington or Western Washington. From the very beginning that I have been in this Chamber, Frank has advocated that the best way that we make public policy is by not pitting one group of citizens in our State against another. And not focusing on the differences that are often very real and often very important. But by recognizing that we share is much more important than what separates us. And it's that credo, that idea, that we share more than we don't but we have more in common than what we don't; let whether we are from urban areas, from rural areas, from suburban areas, from East or from West, the best public policy we make is when we work together for one Washington.

It is with that in mind that it is my pleasure to nominate Frank Chopp to be Speaker of the State House of Representatives.

Thank you, Madam Chief Clerk."

MOTIONS

On motion of Representative Kessler, the nominations for Speaker of the House were closed.

On motion of Representative Kessler, a unanimous ballot was cast for Representative Frank Chopp as Speaker of the House.

The Chief Clerk appointed Representative Gombosky to escort Speaker-elect Chopp to the Rostrum.

Justice Johnson administered the oath of office to Speaker Chopp.

SPEAKER'S REMARKS

Speaker Chopp: "Welcome again to the people's House. Thanks Jeff for your nominating speech. And thanks to my colleagues for electing me Speaker of the House.

Thanks also to Majority Leader Lynn Kessler, who three years ago joined with me to lead our caucus. You are a tremendous partner and an absolute joy to be around.

I'd also like to recognize my mom, my wife, Nancy, my son Narayan, my daughter Ellie, and members of my family.

Many say this will be the most challenging session in decades. Well, let's put things in perspective. Think of the challenges faced everyday by people across our state...

– The teacher helping his students meet the tough new academic standards.

- The engineer laid off from her job after 24 years with the company.
- The small business owner losing sleep worrying about cash flow.
- The farmer watching the latest bad news in the international markets.
- The father stuck in traffic stressed out about being late to pick up his daughter.
- The police chief dealing with the aftermath of another fatality on the state road nicknamed the "Highway of Death."
- The young sergeant defending our security in Afghanistan.

These are but a few of the challenges being talked about at the kitchen table, in homes across our state. So when we, in this House, address the challenges confronting us this session, let's keep in mind the challenges our people face each and every day. We have to make some tough choices – just like a family balancing their budget in lean times. Some things will have to wait. Some things we will do without. Some things will be done differently. We'll focus on what is truly essential. We will get through these hard times, while also working to give our people hope for a better future.

Government can't solve every problem. We need a practical balance that centers on the basics like education, economic opportunity, and getting us where we need to go. Our agenda for this session is an agenda for greater security, opportunity, and mobility.

Security: No right of the people is more basic than the right to feel free and safe in your own home, place of work, or school. But our old assumptions about security were shaken by September 11th. To ensure that our security is not taken for granted, we have created a Select Committee on Community Security. It will assess our needs, and make improvements where we must, in response to terrorism or natural disasters. And we will increase our community security without diminishing our individual liberties. Community security is important.

But if you ask people on the street, most would say they're more worried about financial security. And that's why opportunity is an essential part of our agenda.

From the adoption of our state constitution to the passage of Initiative 728, the people of Washington have made it clear that education is the paramount duty of state government. And parents, teachers, and students should know that we will protect the achievements being made in our schools. I-728 is achieving exactly what the people intended when they passed it. In Yelm, it has meant full-day kindergarten classes. In the Central Valley, class sizes are smaller. In Everett, it's reduced class sizes to less than 20 students in the early grades. In Raymond, preschool programs were tripled. In Spokane – 86 new classroom teachers were hired. Wherever you look, the people's mandate for better schools is being fulfilled.

Protecting these gains is only part of an opportunity agenda.

Workers who've been laid off are wondering when will they have a job again. By strengthening work-force training, doors to new opportunities will be open to them, and businesses will have the skilled workers they need to compete in today's global economy.

But even good training won't guarantee good jobs, unless thriving businesses have good jobs to offer. Ask any businessman or woman if we need to make Washington's business climate more competitive. The answer will be a resounding "Yes." They'll tell you that if you want to speed up economic recovery, reduce the time it takes to get a permit. We have to slash needless red tape -- without sacrificing the environment or other public goals. The Washington Competitiveness Council has proposed many reforms that will expand business and job opportunities. To focus through on these efforts, House Democrats have created a task force on competitiveness. And we will work for solutions that our businesses and workers need.

But as important as it is to improve the regulatory environment, the Council's top priority is a solution to our transportation crisis! No more urgent problem faces us! It's robbing time from families. It's robbing billions of dollars from Washington's businesses each year. And it is limiting opportunities. If we're going to create a better business climate, and improve the quality of life for our kids, then we must build our transportation system. It's a tall order, because a real transportation plan can't just be a revenue package. The public's made that clear. They want more efficiencies, greater value for their dollars, and more local control. As a first step, in the first week, we intend to have a vote on the efficiency reforms recommended by the Blue Ribbon Commission on Transportation. And we will work to provide regional tools to deal with regional gridlock.

But let's be realistic, folks. The transportation system we need cannot be built without more money. Anyone who says otherwise is misleading people. My hope is that we'll build for our future by remembering our past. For decades, transportation has been a bi-partisan effort. We have to recapture that spirit to succeed.

Let's remember that in the middle of the Great Depression – in times far worse than we face today – our parents and grandparents built the dams that power our state. Their vision helped Washington's farmers turn a desert into some of the most productive agricultural land in the world.

And it's worth remembering what Franklin Roosevelt said at the completion of the Bonneville Dam. He said: "Truly, in the construction of this dam, we have had our eyes on the future of the nation and we in America are wiser in using our wealth on projects like these which will give us more wealth, better living, and greater happiness for our children."

That's the kind of leadership and vision that built our great state, and that can make it greater still.

Three years ago, my caucus rejected the politics of division that pits east vs. west, rural vs. urban, business vs. labor. We made a commitment to working together for one Washington.

We can achieve great things together. For this session, each one of us has a choice. Either we can spend our time talking about how bad things are, or we can be working to make things better. We may represent different districts, with different concerns, and different viewpoints. But whether you're from Wenatchee or from Walla Walla, whether you live on Kessler Lane in Hoquiam, or on Petersville Road in Bremerton, we can rise to the occasion and see our whole state succeed.

– We are one House.

– We are one people.

– We are one Washington.

Thank you."

SPEAKER'S PRIVILEGE

Speaker Chopp: "My first day as a State Representative was also Clyde Ballard's first day as Speaker of this House. For seven years he has held the gavel or at least a part of the gavel and helped preside over this institution. Please join me expressing our appreciation for Representative Ballard."

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative Ballard: "Thank you, Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, it's good to be back after our short recess.

I must say, it is unusual to see so many new faces at the beginning of a 60-day session. So for those of you new to the House, allow me to let you in on a little secret about me that others here know all too well . . . You see . . . I'm from the Old School. Mr. Speaker, back in the Old School, we may not have had that "new math." But I do understand the difference between 49 and 48 and I also understand that it's more than simply a distance of 25 feet. Also in the Old School we always made sure we did something that I think is a great tradition and that is to offer congratulations to the new Speaker - Congratulations to you, Speaker Chopp for your success. And we hope for your success for this Session.

But though some of the roles may have changed we still have a great deal to accomplish together.

The citizens are watching to see if we can bring relief to our congested roads. They're watching to see if we can erase a billion-dollar deficit without hurting vulnerable citizens or compromising public safety. And they're waiting to see what we can do to bring jobs and opportunity back to communities throughout a state suffering from an economic decline.

They're watching. And frankly, whether it's fair or not many of them don't have high expectations that we as a Legislature will get the job done.

However, it's not because they believe the task at hand is insurmountable. I'm afraid it's because all too often they've lost faith in our ability to work together to solve problems.

But I stand before you with a more optimistic view.

You see, I believe it is in the face of the greatest challenges that true leadership can arise and emerge.

I believe the 2002 legislative session has an opportunity to demonstrate to the people of the State of Washington that we are true leaders. That we are able to listen both to them and to each other. That, while at times we will have our differences, we are able to work together in the best interests of those we represent. And, that in the end, we will come together on behalf of our entire state. People often ask me what do you want? My wish is that in the next 60 days, we prove to the citizens of Washington state that we are worthy of their trust.

Instead of broken promises, let's show them that we can keep our word.

Instead of telling them what we think is best for them, let's listen to the their concerns.

And rather than finger-pointing and excuses, let's deliver results. Mr. Speaker, I am committed and our caucus is committed, to working with you to get the job done. And while, come March 14, the skeptic and the cynic may be disappointed, the citizens won't be if we do this right.

Thank you Mr. Speaker."

ELECTION OF SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The Speaker announced that nominations were in order for Speaker Pro Tempore.

Representative Fromhold: "I would like to nominate Representative Val Ogden from the 49th District for the position of Speaker Pro Tempore. I am proud to speak on her behalf. She is my friend, mentor and the highly respected senior member of our southwest Washington delegation.

Representative Ogden is in her sixth term in the House of Representatives. As you know, she is a very effective member of this body. Most importantly, in our community, Representative Ogden is recognized for her leadership and involvement. She is the former Executive Director of the Clark County YWCA. Her community activities include being a board member of the Council for the Homeless, Clark County Mental Health Advisory Board and the Human Services Council. Nationally, she serves on the Executive Committee for the National Conference of State Legislatures and she is President of the National Order of Women Legislators.

Her honors and awards are extensive. Her recognition for those honors and positions is due to her fairness, integrity, and intelligence - all qualities she will bring to bear as the Speaker Pro Tempore of this House of Representatives.

She garners bi-partisan respect and support not only at home in the 49th District but also among this entire body. I ask for your support for her candidacy for Speaker Pro Tempore."

MOTIONS

On motion of Representative Kessler, the nominations for Speaker Pro Tempore were closed.

On motion of Representative Kessler, a unanimous ballot was cast for Representative Val Ogden as Speaker Pro Tempore of the House.

The Speaker called upon Representative Fromhold to escort Speaker Pro Tempore-elect Ogden to the Rostrum.

Justice Johnson administered the oath of office to Speaker Pro Tempore Ogden.

SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE'S REMARKS

Speaker Pro Tempore Ogden: "Thank you, Bill for that gracious nomination. I am honored to serve as Speaker Pro Tempore of the Washington House of Representatives.

I am pleased to have my family here with me today to share in this significant occasion. My husband Dan and my grandson David Martin from Helena, Montana have joined me.

As we fulfill our duties as Legislators, which takes us away from our homes for weeks during session, the support of our families is very important. I believe that it is appropriate, as I recognize my family, that I also recognize all the families who are here today, especially those family members who are here for our seven new legislators. Please stand. Please join me in giving them a heartfelt thank you.

As I was preparing my remarks for today, and trying to find the words to express my feelings and hopes for this next year, I was reminded of my favorite hymn. Let me share those words with you. 'We would be one in building for tomorrow, a nobler world than we have known today. We would be one in searching for that meaning which binds our hearts and points us on our way.

As one, we pledge ourselves to greater service, with love and justice, strive to make us free.' It is in this context that I make my remarks today.

Last year, when I accepted this office I quoted President Kennedy's challenge for a recommitment to public service as an honorable and esteemed value in our society. Today that commitment is still relevant. On September 11th we had a striking example of how important that commitment is. We saw public servants put their duty over and above their lives. If there is any good to come out of that tragedy, it is the recognition of the important role of government in a crisis. I see a rebuilding of trust between the citizens of this State and their elected representatives. We must continue to build on that trust. Showing leadership, making the hard decisions, listening to our constituents will enable us to do that. I am proud to join Speaker Chopp in that noble endeavor.

In closing I want to share with you a grace that I heard when I was in Scotland this summer.

'Let there be respect for the Earth, peace for its people, love in our lives, delight in the good, forgiveness for past wrongs, and from now on, a new start.'

Thank you."

STATE OF THE STATE GOVERNOR GARY LOCKE

Governor Gary Locke: "Mr. President; Mr. Speaker; Honorable Chief Justice of the Washington State Supreme Court; distinguished Justices of the Supreme Court; statewide elected officials; members of the Washington State Legislature; my wife, the First Lady of the State of Washington; members of the Consular Association; my fellow Washingtonians:

September 11 On a Tuesday morning last September, we awoke to what started as an ordinary day. We awoke to thoughts of the Mariners beating Anaheim, to the smell of brewing coffee, to the sounds of children scrambling down the stairs in those first days of a new school year.

But our peace and tranquility were shattered as we turned on the television sets to images of anguish and horror. Sounds and pictures of destruction, terror and suffering seared into our memories.

We will forever remember where we were and how we felt on September 11th -- witnessing the collapse of the World Trade Center towers live on television, even before the anchors could comprehend what was happening, the fear that cities across America were under attack, feelings of vulnerability, the loss of serenity in our daily lives.

So, we gather now in an age tarnished by the evils of a few, and yet invigorated by the goodness and decency of so many.

True Spirit of the American People - Within hours of the attacks, we witnessed the true spirit of the American people, surging up and washing over our despair.

In our state, we saw neighbors come together and stand guard at area mosques against acts of ignorance and bigotry. We saw our children create artwork and raise money for the families of the victims. We saw firefighters throughout Washington travel to Ground Zero in New York City to help in the rescue and recovery efforts among the twisted steel. And we saw members of our National Guard, who are specially trained to respond to any chemical, biological or nuclear threat, assist law enforcement here and in other states. And we saw state employees from our Department of Labor and Industries and the Emergency Management Division go to New York to aid in the recovery efforts.

Please join me in recognizing all of these brave men and women from our state, some of whom are with us here this afternoon: firefighters from the Tri-Cities, members of our National Guard and employees in the Department of Labor and Industries. Please stand and receive our salute and our thanks. Thank you for your dedication.

Let's also pause and thank all of our dedicated state and local public servants who each day labor to provide for the safety and security of all of our residents.

Twenty-four hours after the terrorist attacks, I was overwhelmed to see the sea of faces, 10,000 strong, at the Puyallup Fairgrounds singing patriotic songs but condemning discrimination. And then, two days later, more than 30,000 people gathered at the Westlake Center in Seattle, joining in a West Coast-wide minute of silence in tribute to the victims of September 11.

From the extraordinary outpouring of patriotism, prayer and generosity among children and adults, we understood that the anguish that flows from the terrorist attacks cements our character and unites our faith.

As a nation, we were wounded last year, but in the words of Abraham Lincoln, "we bound up our nation's wounds with the strength and resolve of our people."

We Must Draw Together and Labor in Common Cause for the Greater Good - In the face of adversity, we must draw together and labor in common cause for the greater good. Today we face forces unseen, but we accept those challenges with determination and optimism.

More than four decades ago, President Kennedy said, "In the long history of the world, only a few generations have been granted the role of defending freedom in its hour of maximum danger."

Eleven days ago, Green Beret Sergeant First Class Nathan Chapman, who lived with his wife and two young children in Puyallup, was the first combat fatality in Afghanistan. He served and died defending our freedom. And six days ago, Marine Sergeant Nathan Hays of Wilbur, Washington, was one of seven Marines killed in a U.S. military plane crash.

Let's observe a moment of silence for them and their families and friends. Imagine the state we could create if each of us captures just a small portion of their courage and energy and dedicates it to the greater good.

Trying Times - These are trying times. We find ourselves with a state economy and a state budget ravaged by war and a national economic recession. We'll pull through, just as we have in the past, but only by working together.

Better Future for Our State - I believe in a better future for our state. I believe that we're a resilient people. But, how well and how fast we respond depends on the foundations we lay in the months ahead.

2001 - Just last year, in 2001, we weathered an earthquake, a drought, tragic wildfires, an energy crisis, and the uprooting of the Boeing corporate headquarters. At times, our experience resembled the biblical "twelve plagues of Egypt" ... minus the locusts -- but our citizens persevered with courage and optimism.

Together, we averted an energy crisis by promoting conservation, by bringing more energy online and by planning strategically for our energy future.

Together, we responded quickly and effectively to our state's drought by purchasing water for farmers, by conserving, and reforming our outdated water laws.

Together, we continued to move people from welfare to work.

Together, we invested in smaller class sizes and targeted assistance to low-performing schools.

Together, we established the Competitiveness Council to identify ways to reinvigorate our business climate.

Build Upon Our Past Successes - We must build upon our past successes, to enhance our economic vitality, to preserve our way of life, and to put our people back to work.

Economic Recession - A study issued last week estimates that as many as 50,000 people in our state will lose their jobs as a direct result of the September 11th terrorist attacks. And our state has been one of the hardest hit by the national economic recession.

Today, we have laid-off aerospace workers struggling to pay their mortgages; today, we have aluminum workers in Spokane and Goldendale worried about college tuition for their children; today, we have recent college graduates unable to find work. Their stories transcend statistics.

State Budget - Just as thousands of families across our state have had to adjust their personal budgets in these tough economic times, so too must we rewrite our state budget.

I've proposed many state budgets as a legislator and governor, but believe me, this was the toughest. All of the programs that I have proposed for elimination or reduction provide valuable services to real people in every part of our state. My proposal narrows state government's role as a social services provider. But, it protects the most vulnerable children and vulnerable adults, for we must ensure that the safety net remains strong and intact.

The budget I'm proposing lays the foundation for our future. The half-a-billion dollars in proposed spending cuts will save more than that, more than a billion dollars in the next biennium.

In addition to reducing costs and preserving core services, we continue to improve business practices within state government and achieve millions of dollars in savings through efficiencies. And, we can balance our budget without a general tax increase.

Education Remains Our Paramount Duty - Education, of course, remains our paramount duty. Great public schools are the cornerstone for our state's long-term success. And that's why funding for basic education, class-size reduction and higher academic achievement simply cannot be compromised. And the planned enrollment increases in higher education must be maintained. Indeed, we must retrain even more workers so that when our economy improves -- and it will -- our workers will be ready for family-wage jobs.

Tough Decisions - But now is a time for tough decisions. We have a $1.25 billion deficit that we must address. I know many legislators have differing ideas on the solution. I pledge to work together with all of you to develop a fair, balanced and humane budget for the people of our state. Rewriting the budget is part of our constitutional charge: we are required to have a balanced budget.

If We Don't Act, Who Will? - But in so many areas, like transportation, education, clean and plentiful water, and economic revitalization, we must ask ourselves, "if we don't act, who will?" These problems won't fix themselves. We must rise to the challenge. We must accept the risks. We must act.

Transportation - Our transportation problems present us with just such a challenge. We all want Washington and our citizens to prosper. But we will not prosper with a transportation system that is broken, that chokes progress, that diminishes our competitiveness. Our businesses understand that. Our farmers understand that. Our families and our friends understand that.

Our state's Competitiveness Council determined that the single most important thing we can do to enhance our state's economy and quality of life is to enact a long-term transportation plan that fixes congestion.

We must not allow our economic future to grind to a halt on our broken streets and highways. And, whether we live in the country or the city, we must ensure the safety of our loved ones who now travel highways in desperate need of repair.

We tackled transportation last year. We failed. We did not get there. We must tackle it again this session. And this time we must act. We must provide statewide funding for transportation improvements in every part of our state and we must authorize regions to partner with the state to build projects faster and to meet unique transportation needs. We must act for the farmer in Eastern Washington, hauling his harvest to market. We must act for the commuter stewing in gridlock that robs her of time with family, time helping her children with homework, time enjoying life. We must act for the businesses that would grow in Washington state if it weren't for the traffic.

And there is no reason why we can't pass transportation reforms and efficiencies within the next few days and have it on my desk for signature.

Improving transportation provides lasting economic development in rural and urban counties, it reduces congestion, enhances safety and enables businesses to grow. Highway construction alone will create more than 20,000 new private-sector jobs throughout our state in the first few years.

We must act, because what's at stake is the future of our state.

Of course, we have other objectives.

Education - In education: Yes, our test scores are rising. But we must work to erase the growing disparity in achievement among ethnic groups. Education begins at home and that's why we must encourage more parental involvement. Because reading is the foundation of academic success, I will launch a major literacy and parental involvement campaign this spring, mobilizing the help of businesses, volunteers and non-profits.

Water - In water, we must build on our successes from last year and ensure safe, clean and abundant water for our growing communities, for farmers and for fish. I'm taking administrative action and submitting legislation to implement recommendations of our state's Competitiveness Council. Together we will forge ahead with tax simplification and streamlining our permitting process, but without compromising our environmental standards.

Anti-Terrorism Laws - Lastly, I'm proud that our state is better prepared than most to respond to any terrorist attack. But, we need stronger laws to prevent and prosecute terrorist acts, while at the same time ensuring our civil liberties. And I urge you to pass the legislation that our great Attorney General and I have submitted to you. And let's pass legislation mandating harsher penalties for those who commit crimes motivated by bigotry and hate.

No Ordinary Session, No Ordinary Time - Of course, we have other objectives. But I won't list them all today. For this is no ordinary session and this is no ordinary time. We live in an age of an invigorated initiative process, one that holds a mirror to citizens and elected officials alike. It's a cherished part of our state's governing process, but so, too, is the legislative process. We manifest a government of, by and for the people.

We Must Deliver - Ladies and gentlemen, if we want to reinforce faith in government by our citizens, we must deliver. I was moved by the patriotism, prayer and the generosity of the thousands of citizens across our state who assembled to memorialize the victims of terror. I was so proud that our citizens expressed solidarity with their Muslim neighbors. They renewed my faith that we can create great possibilities for our children and our grandchildren.

Enormous Challenges - We approach the enormous challenges before us, not because they're easy -- they're not -- but because they're right for our state. And they're right for future generations to come.

Partisanship Falls Away - Early, on that sad morning last September, one of the first lawmakers to come into my office and offer his support was House Co-Speaker Clyde Ballard. Minutes later, Senate Majority Leader Sid Snyder joined me to reassure Washingtonians over the radio and television that our state government was vigilant and "on the job." On that day we stood and came together not as Democrats and Republicans, but as Americans. The American people demand that, in matters of public service and the greater public good, partisanship falls away.

Volunteers for Public Service - Sergeant First Class Nathan Chapman volunteered for duty in Afghanistan. He volunteered and told his wife there was a 50/50 chance he would not come home. He served and died to protect our liberty and to ensure our freedom. We, too, volunteered. We volunteered for public office to serve the people of our state and to create a better way of life for our children and our grandchildren. Sergeant First Class Chapman and Sergeant Hays did their duty for love of our country. Now we must do our duty for the love of our state.

God Bless America Thank you, and God bless you. God bless America. God bless freedom-loving people all across the world."

The President thanked the Governor for his stirring remarks and asked the special committee to escort Governor and Mrs. Locke from the House Chamber.

The President asked the special committee to escort the State Elected Officials from the House Chamber.

The President asked the special committee to escort the Supreme Court Justices from the House Chamber.

On motion of Representative Kessler, the Joint Session was dissolved.

The President relinquished the chair to the Speaker.

The Speaker requested the Sergeant at Arms of the House and the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate escort President of the Senate Lieutenant Owen and members of the Washington State Senate from the House Chamber.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

MOTION

On motion of Representative Kessler, the House adjourned until 10:00 a.m., January 16, 2002, the 3rd Day of the Regular Session.

"PART I ESTABLISHMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

PERFORMANCE MEASURES

NEW SECTION. Sec. 101. LEGISLATIVE INTENT. The legislature finds that the efficient operation of the transportation system in Washington is of the utmost importance, and that the maximum return should be achieved for every taxpayer dollar invested. It is the intent of the legislature to establish policy goals for the operation of, performance of, and investment in, the state's transportation system. The policy goals will consist of the following benchmark categories. In addition to improving safety, public investments in transportation must support achievement of these and other priority goals:

No interstate highways, state routes, and local arterials may be in poor condition; no bridges may be structurally deficient, and safety retrofits must be performed on those state bridges at the highest seismic risk levels; traffic congestion on urban state highways must be significantly reduced and be no worse than the national mean; delay per driver must be significantly reduced and no worse than the national mean; per capita vehicle miles traveled will increase at a rate no greater than the increase in Washington's per capita income; administrative costs as a percentage of transportation spending must achieve the most efficient quartile nationally; and the state's public transit agencies shall achieve the median cost per vehicle revenue hour of peer transit agencies, adjusting for the regional cost-of-living.

These policy goals are the basis for establishment of detailed and measurable performance benchmarks.

It is the intent of the legislature that the transportation commission establish performance measures to ensure transportation system performance at local, regional, and state government levels, and the transportation commission should work with appropriate government entities to accomplish this.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 102. Section 101 of this act takes effect July 1, 2002.

PART II ALTERNATIVE DELIVERY PROCEDURES FOR CONSTRUCTION SERVICES

NEW SECTION. Sec. 201. The legislature finds that there is a pressing need for additional transportation projects to meet the mobility needs of Washington citizens. With major new investments approved to meet these pressing needs, additional work force assistance is necessary to ensure and enhance project delivery timelines. Implementing new and innovative procedures for delivering these transportation projects in the most efficient manner possible is required to accomplish them on a timely basis that best serves the public.

Sec. 202. RCW 41.06.380 and 1979 ex.s. c 46 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Nothing contained in this chapter (~~shall~~) prohibits any department, as defined in RCW 41.06.020, from purchasing services by contract with individuals or business entities if such services were regularly purchased by valid contract by such department prior to April 23, 1979(~~(= PROVIDED, That no such)~~).

(2) No contract referred to in subsection (1) of this section may be executed or renewed if it would have the effect of terminating classified employees or classified employee positions existing at the time of the execution or renewal of the contract except as provided in subsection (3) of this section.

(3) This chapter does not prohibit the department of transportation until January 1, 2003, from purchasing services for highway maintenance, including services that have customarily and historically been provided by employees in the classified service under this chapter, by contracting with individuals, nonprofit organizations, businesses, or other entities. After January 1, 2003, this chapter does not prohibit the department of transportation from purchasing services, including services that have customarily and historically been provided by employees in the classified service under this chapter, by contracting with individuals, nonprofit organizations, businesses, or other entities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 203. Provisions of a collective bargaining agreement adopted under chapter 41.06 RCW that are in effect on the effective date of this section and that conflict with RCW 41.06.380, as amended by section 202 of this act, will continue in effect until contract expiration, unless a superseding agreement resolving the conflict is executed by the parties before expiration.

After expiration, any new agreement executed between the parties must be consistent with RCW 41.06.380.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 204. On or before January 1, 2003, the secretary of transportation will report to the transportation committees of the house of representatives and senate on the current use of contracting out by the department and on further opportunities for contracting out within the department. In recommending programs that might be performed by the private sector, the secretary will place emphasis on programs that could be undertaken at a lower cost by the private sector than by state employees, and programs in which the use of the private sector could augment the department's work force in order to increase the department's capacity to complete projects as quickly as possible. The secretary may issue the report electronically by publishing it on the department's web site and by transmitting the report electronically to all members of the house of representatives and senate transportation committees.

PART III APPRENTICESHIP AND ADJUSTMENTS TO PREVAILING WAGE PROVISIONS

NEW SECTION. Sec. 301. (1) The legislature finds that a skilled technical work force is necessary for maintaining, preserving, and improving Washington's transportation system. The Blue Ribbon Commission on Transportation found that state and local transportation agencies are showing signs of a work force that is insufficiently skilled to operate the transportation system at its highest level.

(2) It is the intent of the legislature that the state prevailing wage process operate efficiently, that the process allow contractors and workers to be paid promptly, and that new technologies and innovative outreach methods be used to enhance wage surveys in order to better reflect current wages in counties across the state.

(3) To accomplish the intent of this section and in order to enhance the response of businesses and labor representatives to the prevailing wage survey process, the department shall undertake the following activities:

(a) Establish a goal of conducting surveys for each trade every three years;

(b) Actively promote increased response rates from all survey recipients in every county both urban and rural. The department shall provide public education and technical assistance to businesses, labor representatives, and public agencies in order to promote a better understanding of prevailing wage laws and increased participation in the prevailing wage survey process;

(c) Actively work with businesses, labor representatives, public agencies, and others to ensure the integrity of information used in the development of prevailing wage rates, and ensure uniform compliance with statutory requirements;

(d) Maintain a timely processing of intents and affidavits, with a target processing time no greater than seven working days from receipt of completed forms;

(e) Develop and implement electronic processing of intents and affidavits and promote the efficient and effective use of technology to improve the services provided by the prevailing wage program.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 302. A new section is added to chapter 49.04 RCW to read as follows:
The apprenticeship council shall work with the department of transportation, local transportation jurisdictions, local and state joint apprenticeships, representatives of transportation labor groups, and representatives of the state's universities and community and vocational colleges to establish technical apprenticeship opportunities specific to the needs of transportation. The council shall issue a report of findings and recommendations to the transportation committees of the legislature by December 1, 2002. The report must include, but not be limited to, findings and recommendations regarding the establishment of transportation technical training programs within the community and vocational college system and in the state universities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 303. A new section is added to chapter 47.01 RCW to read as follows:
The department of transportation shall work with local transportation jurisdictions and representatives of transportation labor groups to establish a human resources skills bank of transportation professionals. The skills bank must be designed to allow all transportation authorities to draw from it when needed. The department shall issue a report of findings and recommendations to the transportation committees of the legislature by December 1, 2002. The report must include, but not be limited to, identification of any statutory or administrative rule changes necessary to create the skills bank and allow it to function in the manner described.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 304. A new section is added to chapter 47.06 RCW to read as follows:
The state-interest component of the statewide multimodal transportation plan must include a plan for enhancing the skills of the existing technical transportation work force.

Sec. 305. RCW 47.80.030 and 1998 c 171 s 9 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Each regional transportation planning organization shall develop in cooperation with the department of transportation, providers of public transportation and high capacity transportation, ports, and local governments within the region, adopt, and periodically update a regional transportation plan that:

(a) Is based on a least cost planning methodology that identifies the most cost-effective facilities, services, and programs;

(b) Identifies existing or planned transportation facilities, services, and programs, including but not limited to major roadways including state highways and regional arterials, transit and nonmotorized services and facilities, multimodal and intermodal facilities, marine ports and airports, railroads, and noncapital programs including transportation demand management that should function as an integrated regional transportation system, giving emphasis to those facilities, services, and programs that exhibit one or more of the following characteristics:

(i) Crosses member county lines;

(ii) Is or will be used by a significant number of people who live or work outside the county in which the facility, service, or project is located;

(iii) Significant impacts are expected to be felt in more than one county;

(iv) Potentially adverse impacts of the facility, service, program, or project can be better avoided or mitigated through adherence to regional policies;

(v) Transportation needs addressed by a project have been identified by the regional transportation planning process and the remedy is deemed to have regional significance; and

(vi) Provides for system continuity;

(c) Establishes level of service standards for state highways and state ferry routes, with the exception of transportation facilities of statewide significance as defined in RCW 47.06.140. These regionally established level of service standards for state highways and state ferries shall be developed jointly with the department of transportation, to encourage consistency across jurisdictions. In establishing level of service standards for state highways and state ferries, consideration shall be given for the necessary balance between providing for the free interjurisdictional movement of people and goods and the needs of local commuters using state facilities;

(d) Includes a financial plan demonstrating how the regional transportation plan can be implemented, indicating resources from public and private sources that are reasonably expected to be made available to carry out the plan, and recommending any innovative financing techniques to finance needed facilities, services, and programs;

(e) Assesses regional development patterns, capital investment and other measures necessary to:

(i) Ensure the preservation of the existing regional transportation system, including requirements for operational improvements, resurfacing, restoration, and rehabilitation of existing and future major roadways, as well as operations, maintenance, modernization, and rehabilitation of existing and future transit, railroad systems and corridors, and nonmotorized facilities; and

(ii) Make the most efficient use of existing transportation facilities to relieve vehicular congestion and maximize the mobility of people and goods;

(f) Sets forth a proposed regional transportation approach, including capital investments, service improvements, programs, and transportation demand management measures to guide the development of the integrated, multimodal regional transportation system; ~~((and))~~

(g) Where appropriate, sets forth the relationship of high capacity transportation providers and other public transit providers with regard to responsibility for, and the coordination between, services and facilities; and

(h) Provides for training that enhances the skills of the existing technical transportation work force.

(2) The organization shall review the regional transportation plan biennially for currency and forward the adopted plan along with documentation of the biennial review to the state department of transportation.

(3) All transportation projects, programs, and transportation demand management measures within the region that have an impact upon regional facilities or services must be consistent with the plan and with the adopted regional growth and transportation strategies.

Sec. 306. RCW 39.12.015 and 1965 ex.s. c 133 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) All determinations of the prevailing rate of wage shall be made by the industrial statistician of the department of labor and industries. By January 1, 2003, the industrial statistician shall determine the prevailing rate of wage using a stratified random sampling method.

(2)(a) A stratified random sampling method must be used to the broadest extent possible.

(b) If it is determined by the industrial statistician, in consultation with the prevailing wage advisory committee established in subsection (4) of this section, that sample size, strata size, or other factors do not permit the effective use of a stratified random sampling method, an equally reliable statistical method may be used.

(3) In order to ensure a fair and scientifically accurate stratified random sampling survey, the industrial statistician shall consult with the prevailing wage advisory committee established in subsection (4) of this section regarding the necessary scientific methods, implementation parameters, and resource allocations.

(4) The director shall appoint a prevailing wage advisory committee composed of eleven members: Four members representing subject workers, each of whom must be appointed from a list of names submitted by a recognized statewide organization of employees, representing a majority of employees in a cross-section of state industries; four members representing subject employers, each of whom must be appointed from a list of names submitted by a recognized statewide organization of employers, representing a majority of employers in a cross-section of state industries; and three ex officio members, without a vote, two of whom will represent the counties, and the other representing the department. The member representing the department shall serve as chairperson. Labor, business, and county representatives must include representatives from both large and small entities. The committee shall, as necessary, report to the legislative committees dealing with commerce and labor regarding the implementation of this section.

(5) Subsections (2), (3), and (4) of this section expire December 31, 2003.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 307. A new section is added to chapter 39.12 RCW to read as follows:

(1) In establishing the prevailing rate of wage under RCW 39.12.010, 39.12.015, and 39.12.020, all data collected by the department may be used only in the county for which the work was performed.

(2) This section applies only to prevailing wage surveys initiated on or after August 1, 2002.

PART IV TRANSPORTATION PLANNING AND EFFICIENCY

Sec. 401. RCW 47.05.010 and 1993 c 490 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature finds that solutions to state highway deficiencies have become increasingly complex and diverse and that anticipated transportation revenues will fall substantially short of the amount required to satisfy all transportation needs. Difficult investment trade-offs will be required.

It is the intent of the legislature that investment of state transportation funds to address deficiencies on the state highway system be based on a policy of priority programming having as its basis the rational selection of projects and services according to factual need and an evaluation of life cycle costs and benefits ~~((and which))~~ that are systematically scheduled to carry out defined objectives within available revenue. The state must develop analytic tools to use a common methodology to measure benefits and costs for all modes.

The priority programming system ~~((shall))~~ must ensure preservation of the existing state highway system, relieve congestion, provide mobility for people and goods, support the state's economy, and promote environmental protection and energy conservation.

The priority programming system (~~(shall)~~) must implement the state-owned highway component of the statewide (~~(multimodal)~~) transportation plan, consistent with local and regional transportation plans, by targeting state transportation investment to appropriate multimodal solutions (~~(which)~~) that address identified state highway system deficiencies.

The priority programming system for improvements (~~(shall)~~) must incorporate a broad range of solutions that are identified in the statewide (~~(multimodal)~~) transportation plan as appropriate to address state highway system deficiencies, including but not limited to highway expansion, efficiency improvements, nonmotorized transportation facilities, high occupancy vehicle facilities, transit facilities and services, rail facilities and services, and transportation demand management programs.

Sec. 402. RCW 47.05.030 and 1998 c 171 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

The transportation commission shall adopt a comprehensive six-year investment program specifying program objectives and performance measures for the preservation and improvement programs defined in this section. In the specification of investment program objectives and performance measures, the transportation commission, in consultation with the Washington state department of transportation, shall define and adopt standards for effective programming and prioritization practices including a needs analysis process. The (~~(needs)~~) analysis process (~~(shall)~~) must ensure the identification of problems and deficiencies, the evaluation of alternative solutions and trade-offs, and estimations of the costs and benefits of prospective projects. The investment program (~~(shall)~~) must be revised biennially, effective on July 1st of odd-numbered years. The investment program (~~(shall)~~) must be based upon the needs identified in the state-owned highway component of the statewide (~~(multimodal)~~) transportation plan as defined in RCW 47.01.071(3).

(1) The preservation program (~~(shall)~~) consists of those investments necessary to preserve the existing state highway system and to restore existing safety features, giving consideration to lowest life cycle costing. The preservation program must require use of the most cost-effective pavement surfaces, considering:

- (a) Life-cycle cost analysis;
- (b) Traffic volume;
- (c) Subgrade soil conditions;
- (d) Environmental and weather conditions;
- (e) Materials available; and
- (f) Construction factors.

The comprehensive six-year investment program for preservation (~~(shall)~~) must identify projects for two years and an investment plan for the remaining four years.

(2) The improvement program (~~(shall)~~) consists of investments needed to address identified deficiencies on the state highway system to increase mobility, address congestion, and improve (~~(mobility,)~~) safety, support for the economy, and protection of the environment. The six-year investment program for improvements (~~(shall)~~) must identify projects for two years and major deficiencies proposed to be addressed in the six-year period giving consideration to relative benefits and life cycle costing. The transportation commission shall give higher priority for correcting identified deficiencies on those facilities classified as facilities of statewide significance as defined in RCW 47.06.140. Project prioritization must be based primarily upon cost-benefit analysis, where appropriate.

The transportation commission shall approve and present the comprehensive six-year investment program to the legislature in support of the biennial budget request under RCW 44.40.070 and 44.40.080.

Sec. 403. RCW 47.05.035 and 1993 c 490 s 4 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department and the commission shall use the transportation demand modeling tools developed under subsection (2) of this section to evaluate investments based on the best mode or improvement, or mix of modes and improvements, to meet current and future long-term demand within a corridor or system for the lowest cost. The end result of these demand modeling tools is to provide a cost-benefit analysis by which the department and the commission can determine the relative mobility improvement and congestion relief each mode or improvement under consideration will provide and the relative investment each mode or improvement under consideration will need to achieve that relief.

(2) The department will participate in the refinement, enhancement, and application of existing transportation demand modeling tools to be used to evaluate investments. This participation and use of transportation demand modeling tools will be phased in. The first phase will build upon the modeling work initiated by the four-county Puget Sound Regional Council, if modeling work is found by the department to satisfactorily predict demand and account for actual levels of usage by the public of various transportation modes.

(3) In developing program objectives and performance measures, the transportation commission shall evaluate investment trade-offs between the preservation and improvement programs. In making these investment trade-offs, the commission shall evaluate, using cost-benefit techniques, roadway and bridge maintenance activities as compared to roadway and bridge preservation program activities and adjust those programs accordingly.

(4) The commission shall allocate the estimated revenue between preservation and improvement programs giving primary consideration to the following factors:

~~((1))~~ (a) The relative needs in each of the programs and the system performance levels that can be achieved by meeting these needs;

~~((2))~~ (b) The need to provide adequate funding for preservation to protect the state's investment in its existing highway system;

~~((3))~~ (c) The continuity of future transportation development with those improvements previously programmed; and

~~((4))~~ (d) The availability of dedicated funds for a specific type of work.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 404. A new section is added to chapter 47.05 RCW to read as follows:

Before the department begins using the analytic tools developed to use a common methodology to measure benefits and costs for all modes referred to in RCW 47.05.010 and before the department begins using the demand modeling tools referred to in RCW 47.05.035, the department shall present these cost/benefit and demand modeling tools to the legislature for review and approval.

Sec. 405. RCW 47.06.130 and 1993 c 446 s 13 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department may carry out special transportation planning studies to resolve specific issues with the development of the state transportation system or other statewide transportation issues.

(2) The department shall conduct multimodal corridor analyses on major congested corridors where needed improvements are likely to cost in excess of one hundred million dollars. Analysis will include the cost-effectiveness of all feasible strategies in addressing congestion or improving mobility within the corridor, and must recommend the most effective strategy or mix of strategies to address identified deficiencies. A long-term view of corridors must be employed to determine whether an existing corridor should be expanded, a city or county road should become a state route, and whether a new corridor is needed to alleviate congestion and enhance mobility based on travel demand. To the extent practicable, full costs of all strategies must be reflected in the analysis. At a minimum, this analysis must include:

(a) The current and projected future demand for total person trips on that corridor;

(b) The impact of making no improvements to that corridor;

(c) The daily cost per added person served for each mode or improvement proposed to meet demand;

(d) The cost per hour of travel time saved per day for each mode or improvement proposed to meet demand; and

(e) How much of the current and anticipated future demand will be met and left unmet for each mode or improvement proposed to meet demand.

The end result of this analysis will be to provide a cost-benefit analysis by which policymakers can determine the most cost-effective improvement or mode, or mix of improvements and modes, for increasing mobility and reducing congestion.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 406. The legislature intends that funding for transportation mobility improvements be allocated to the worst traffic chokepoints in the state. Furthermore, the legislature intends to fund projects that provide systemic relief throughout a transportation corridor, rather than spot improvements that fail to improve overall mobility within a corridor.

Sec. 407. RCW 47.05.051 and 1998 c 175 s 12 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The comprehensive six-year investment program shall be based upon the needs identified in the state-owned highway component of the statewide multimodal transportation plan as defined in RCW 47.01.071(3) and priority selection systems that incorporate the following criteria:

~~((4))~~ (a) Priority programming for the preservation program shall take into account the following, not necessarily in order of importance:

~~((a))~~ (i) Extending the service life of the existing highway system, including using the most cost-effective pavement surfaces, considering:

(A) Life-cycle cost analysis;

(B) Traffic volume;

(C) Subgrade soil conditions;

(D) Environmental and weather conditions;

(E) Materials available; and

(F) Construction factors;

~~((b))~~ (ii) Ensuring the structural ability to carry loads imposed upon highways and bridges;

and

~~((e))~~ (iii) Minimizing life cycle costs. The transportation commission in carrying out the provisions of this section may delegate to the department of transportation the authority to select preservation projects to be included in the six-year program.

~~((2))~~ (b) Priority programming for the improvement program (~~shall take into account~~) must be based primarily upon the following:

~~((a))~~ (i) Traffic congestion, delay, and accidents;

(ii) Location within a heavily traveled transportation corridor;

(iii) Synchronization with other potential transportation projects, including transit and multimodal projects, within the heavily traveled corridor; and

(iv) Use of benefit/cost analysis wherever feasible to determine the value of the proposed project.

(c) Priority programming for the improvement program may also take into account:

(i) Support for the state's economy, including job creation and job preservation;

~~((b))~~ (ii) The cost-effective movement of people and goods;

~~((e))~~ (iii) Accident and accident risk reduction;

~~((d))~~ (iv) Protection of the state's natural environment;

~~((e))~~ (v) Continuity and systematic development of the highway transportation network;

~~((f))~~ (vi) Consistency with local comprehensive plans developed under chapter 36.70A RCW;

~~((g))~~ (vii) Consistency with regional transportation plans developed under chapter 47.80

RCW;

~~((h))~~ (viii) Public views concerning proposed improvements;

~~((i))~~ (ix) The conservation of energy resources;

~~((j))~~ (x) Feasibility of financing the full proposed improvement;

~~((k))~~ (xi) Commitments established in previous legislative sessions;

~~((l))~~ (xii) Relative costs and benefits of candidate programs(~~(?)~~).

~~((m))~~ (d) Major projects addressing capacity deficiencies which prioritize allowing for preliminary engineering shall be reprioritized during the succeeding biennium, based upon updated project data. Reprioritized projects may be delayed or canceled by the transportation commission if higher priority projects are awaiting funding(~~(; and)~~).

~~((n))~~ (e) Major project approvals which significantly increase a project's scope or cost from original prioritization estimates shall include a review of the project's estimated revised priority rank and the level of funding provided. Projects may be delayed or canceled by the transportation commission if higher priority projects are awaiting funding.

~~((3))~~ (2) The commission may depart from the priority programming established under subsection~~(s)~~ (1) (~~and (2)~~) of this section: (a) To the extent that otherwise funds cannot be utilized feasibly within the program; (b) as may be required by a court judgment, legally binding agreement, or state and federal laws and regulations; (c) as may be required to coordinate with federal, local, or other state agency construction projects; (d) to take advantage of some substantial financial benefit that may be available; (e) for continuity of route development; or (f) because of changed financial or physical conditions of an unforeseen or emergent nature. The commission or secretary of transportation shall maintain in its files information sufficient to show the extent to which the commission has departed from the established priority.

((4)) (3) The commission shall identify those projects that yield freight mobility benefits or that alleviate the impacts of freight mobility upon affected communities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 408. The department of transportation shall report the results of its priority programming under RCW 47.05.051 to the transportation committees of the senate and house of representatives by December 1, 2003, and December 1, 2005.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 409. The legislature finds that roads, streets, bridges, and highways in the state represent public assets worth over one hundred billion dollars. These investments require regular maintenance and preservation, or rehabilitation, to provide cost-effective transportation services. Many of these facilities are in poor condition. Given the magnitude of public investment and the importance of safe, reliable roadways to the motoring public, the legislature intends to create stronger accountability to ensure that cost-effective maintenance and preservation is provided for these transportation facilities.

Sec. 410. RCW 35.84.060 and 1969 ex.s. c 281 s 26 are each amended to read as follows:

Every municipal corporation which owns or operates an urban public transportation system as defined in RCW 47.04.082 within its corporate limits, may acquire, construct, extend, own, or operate such urban public transportation system to any point or points not to exceed fifteen miles outside of its corporate limits: PROVIDED, That no municipal corporation shall extend its urban public transportation system beyond its corporate limits to operate in any territory already served by a privately operated auto transportation company holding a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the utilities and transportation commission.

As a condition of receiving state funding, the municipal corporation shall submit a maintenance management plan for certification by the transportation commission or its successor entity. The plan must inventory all transportation system assets within the direction and control of the municipality, and provide a preservation plan based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 411. A new section is added to chapter 36.56 RCW to read as follows:

As a condition of receiving state funding, a county that has assumed the transportation functions of a metropolitan municipal corporation shall submit a maintenance and preservation management plan for certification by the transportation commission or its successor entity. The plan must inventory all transportation system assets within the direction and control of the county, and provide a preservation plan based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 412. A new section is added to chapter 36.57A RCW to read as follows:

As a condition of receiving state funding, a public transportation benefit area authority shall submit a maintenance and preservation management plan for certification by the transportation commission or its successor entity. The plan must inventory all transportation system assets within the direction and control of the authority, and provide a preservation plan based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 413. A new section is added to chapter 46.68 RCW to read as follows:

During the 2001-2003 biennium, cities and towns shall provide to the transportation commission, or its successor entity, preservation rating information on at least seventy percent of the total city and town arterial network. Thereafter, the preservation rating information requirement shall increase in five-percent increments in subsequent biennia. The rating system used by cities and towns must be based upon the Washington state pavement rating method or an equivalent standard approved by the transportation commission or its successor entity.

Sec. 414. RCW 47.06.050 and 1993 c 446 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

The state-owned facilities component of the statewide transportation plan shall consist of:

(1) The state highway system plan, which identifies program and financing needs and recommends specific and financially realistic improvements to preserve the structural integrity of the state highway system, ensure acceptable operating conditions, and provide for enhanced access to scenic, recreational, and cultural resources. The state highway system plan shall contain the following elements:

(a) A system preservation element, which shall establish structural preservation objectives for the state highway system including bridges, identify current and future structural deficiencies based upon analysis of current conditions and projected future deterioration, and recommend program funding levels and specific actions necessary to preserve the structural integrity of the state highway system consistent with adopted objectives. Lowest life cycle cost methodologies must be used in developing a pavement management system. This element shall serve as the basis for the preservation component of the six-year highway program and the two-year biennial budget request to the legislature;

(b) A highway maintenance element, establishing service levels for highway maintenance on state-owned highways that meet benchmarks established by the transportation commission. The highway maintenance element must include an estimate of costs for achieving those service levels over twenty years. This element will serve as the basis for the maintenance component of the six-year highway program and the two-year biennial budget request to the legislature;

(c) A capacity and operational improvement element, which shall establish operational objectives, including safety considerations, for moving people and goods on the state highway system, identify current and future capacity, operational, and safety deficiencies, and recommend program funding levels and specific improvements and strategies necessary to achieve the operational objectives. In developing capacity and operational improvement plans the department shall first assess strategies to enhance the operational efficiency of the existing system before recommending system expansion. Strategies to enhance the operational efficiencies include but are not limited to access management, transportation system management, demand management, and high-occupancy vehicle facilities. The capacity and operational improvement element must conform to the state implementation plan for air quality and be consistent with regional transportation plans adopted under chapter 47.80 RCW, and shall serve as the basis for the capacity and operational improvement portions of the six-year highway program and the two-year biennial budget request to the legislature;

~~((e))~~ (d) A scenic and recreational highways element, which shall identify and recommend designation of scenic and recreational highways, provide for enhanced access to scenic, recreational, and cultural resources associated with designated routes, and recommend a variety of management strategies to protect, preserve, and enhance these resources. The department, affected counties, cities, and towns, regional transportation planning organizations, and other state or federal agencies shall jointly develop this element;

~~((d))~~ (e) A paths and trails element, which shall identify the needs of nonmotorized transportation modes on the state transportation systems and provide the basis for the investment of state transportation funds in paths and trails, including funding provided under chapter 47.30 RCW.

(2) The state ferry system plan, which shall guide capital and operating investments in the state ferry system. The plan shall establish service objectives for state ferry routes, forecast travel demand for the various markets served in the system, ~~((and))~~ develop strategies for ferry system investment that consider regional and statewide vehicle and passenger needs, support local land use plans, and assure that ferry services are fully integrated with other transportation services. The plan must provide for maintenance of capital assets. The plan must also provide for preservation of capital assets based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies. The plan shall assess the role of private ferries operating under the authority of the utilities and transportation commission and shall coordinate ferry system capital and operational plans with these private operations. The ferry system plan must be consistent with the regional transportation plans for areas served by the state ferry system, and shall be developed in conjunction with the ferry advisory committees.

Sec. 415. RCW 47.06.090 and 1993 c 446 s 9 are each amended to read as follows:

The state-interest component of the statewide multimodal transportation plan shall include an intercity passenger rail plan, which shall analyze existing intercity passenger rail service and recommend improvements to that service under the state passenger rail service program including depot improvements, potential service extensions, and ways to achieve higher train speeds.

For purposes of maintaining and preserving any state-owned component of the state's passenger rail program, the statewide multimodal transportation plan must identify all such assets and provide a preservation plan based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 416. A new section is added to chapter 81.112 RCW to read as follows:

As a condition of receiving state funding, a regional transit authority shall submit a maintenance and preservation management plan for certification by the transportation commission or its successor entity. The plan must inventory all transportation system assets within the direction and control of the transit authority, and provide a plan for preservation of assets based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 417. A new section is added to chapter 36.78 RCW to read as follows:
The board shall establish a standard of good practice for maintenance of transportation system assets. This standard must be implemented by all counties no later than December 31, 2007. The board shall develop a model maintenance management system for use by counties. The board shall develop rules to assist the counties in the implementation of this system. Counties shall annually submit their maintenance plans to the board. The board shall compile the county data regarding maintenance management and annually submit it to the transportation commission or its successor entity.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 418. Sections 401 through 405 of this act take effect July 1, 2002.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 419. If specific funding for sections 410, 411, and 413 of this act, referencing those sections by bill or chapter number, is not provided by June 30, 2002, in the omnibus appropriations act, those sections are null and void.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 420. Captions and part headings used in this act are not part of the law.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 421. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected."

Mr. Speaker:

The Senate has passed:

SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 5097,
ENGROSSED SECOND SUBSTITUTE SENATE BILL NO. 6140, and the same are herewith transmitted.

Tony M. Cook, Secretary

SENATE AMENDMENTS TO HOUSE BILL

January 26, 2002

Mr. Speaker:

The Senate has passed ENGROSSED SUBSTITUTE HOUSE BILL NO. 2304, with the following amendment(s):

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"PART I
ESTABLISHMENT OF TRANSPORTATION
PERFORMANCE MEASURES

NEW SECTION. Sec. 101. LEGISLATIVE INTENT. It is the intent of the legislature to establish policy goals for the operation, performance of, and investment in, the state's transportation system. The policy goals shall consist of, but not be limited to, the following benchmark categories, adopted by the state's Blue Ribbon Commission on Transportation on November 30, 2000. In addition to improving safety, public investments in transportation shall support achievement of these and other priority goals:

No interstate highways, state routes, and local arterials shall be in poor condition; no bridges shall be structurally deficient, and safety retrofits shall be performed on those state bridges at the highest seismic risk levels; traffic congestion on urban state highways shall be significantly reduced and be no worse than the national mean; delay per driver shall be significantly reduced and no worse than the national mean; per capita vehicle miles traveled shall be maintained at 2000 levels; the nonauto share of commuter trips shall be increased in urban areas; administrative costs as a percentage of transportation spending shall achieve the most efficient quartile nationally; and the state's public transit agencies shall achieve the median cost per vehicle revenue hour of peer transit agencies, adjusting for the regional cost-of-living.

These policy goals shall be the basis for establishment of detailed and measurable performance benchmarks.

It is the intent of the legislature that the transportation commission establish performance measures to ensure transportation system performance at local, regional, and state government levels, and the transportation commission should work with appropriate government entities to accomplish this.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 102. Section 101 of this act takes effect July 1, 2002.

PART II
ALTERNATIVE DELIVERY PROCEDURES FOR CONSTRUCTION SERVICES

NEW SECTION. Sec. 201. The legislature finds that there is a pressing need for additional transportation projects to meet the mobility needs of Washington citizens. With major new investments approved to meet these pressing needs, additional work force assistance is necessary to ensure and enhance project delivery timelines. Recruiting and retaining a high quality work force, and implementing new and innovative procedures for delivering these transportation projects is required to accomplish them on a timely basis that best serves the public. It is the intent of sections 203 and 204 of this act that no state employees will lose their employment as a result of implementing new and innovative project delivery procedures.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 202. A new section is added to chapter 47.28 RCW to read as follows: The definitions in this section apply throughout section 203 of this act and RCW 41.06.380 unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(1) "Construction services" means those services that aid in the delivery of the highway construction program and include, but are not limited to, real estate services and construction engineering services.

(2) "Construction engineering services" includes, but is not limited to, construction management, construction administration, materials testing, materials documentation, contractor payments and general administration, construction oversight, and inspection and surveying.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 203. A new section is added to chapter 47.28 RCW to read as follows:

(1) The department of transportation shall work with representatives of transportation labor groups to develop a financial incentive program to aid in retention and recruitment of employee classifications where problems exist and program delivery is negatively affected. The department's financial incentive program must be reviewed and approved by the legislature before it can be implemented. This program must support the goal of enhancing project delivery timelines as outlined in section 201 of this act. Upon receiving approval from the legislature, the department of personnel shall implement, as required, specific aspects of the financial incentive package, as developed by the department of transportation.

(2) Notwithstanding chapter 41.06 RCW, the department of transportation may acquire services from qualified private firms in order to deliver the transportation construction program to the public. Services may be acquired solely for augmenting the department's work force capacity and only when the department's transportation construction program cannot be delivered through its existing or readily available work force. The department of transportation shall work with representatives of transportation labor groups to develop and implement a program identifying those projects requiring contracted services while establishing a program as defined in subsection (1) of this section to provide the classified personnel necessary to deliver future construction programs. The procedures for acquiring construction engineering services from private firms may not be used to displace existing state employees nor diminish the number of existing classified positions in the present construction program. The acquisition procedures must be in accordance with chapter 39.80 RCW.

(3) Starting in December 2003, and biennially thereafter, the secretary shall report to the transportation committees of the legislature on the use of construction engineering services from private firms authorized under this section. The information provided to the committees must include an assessment of the benefits and costs associated with using construction engineering services, or other services, from private firms, and a comparison of public versus private sector costs. The secretary is authorized to act on these findings to ensure the most cost-effective means of service delivery.

Sec. 204. RCW 41.06.380 and 1979 ex.s. c 46 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Nothing contained in this chapter shall prohibit any department, as defined in RCW 41.06.020, from purchasing services by contract with individuals or business entities if such services were regularly purchased by valid contract by such department prior to April 23, 1979: PROVIDED, That no such contract may be executed or renewed if it would have the effect of terminating classified employees or classified employee positions existing at the time of the execution or renewal of the contract.

(2) Nothing contained in this chapter prohibits the department of transportation from purchasing construction services or construction engineering services, as those terms are defined in section 202 of this act, by contract from qualified private businesses as specified in section 203(2) of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 205. Sections 201 through 204 of this act and RCW 41.06.380(2) are null and void if new transportation revenues do not become law by January 1, 2003. Sections 201 through 204 of this act and RCW 41.06.380(2) are effective only for the period consistent with the new transportation revenues, after which time these provisions will expire.

PART III APPRENTICESHIP AND ADJUSTMENTS TO PREVAILING WAGE PROVISIONS

NEW SECTION. Sec. 301. (1) The legislature finds that a skilled technical work force is necessary for maintaining, preserving, and improving Washington's transportation system. The Blue Ribbon Commission on Transportation found that state and local transportation agencies are showing signs of a work force that is insufficiently skilled to operate the transportation system at its highest level. Sections 301 through 308 of this act are intended to explore methods for fostering a stronger industry in transportation planning and engineering.

(2) It is the intent of the legislature that the state prevailing wage process operate efficiently, that the process allow contractors and workers to be paid promptly, and that new technologies and innovative outreach methods be used to enhance wage surveys in order to better reflect current wages in counties across the state.

(3) The legislature finds that in order to enhance the prevailing wage process it is appropriate for all intent and affidavit fees paid by contractors be dedicated to the sole purpose of administering the state prevailing wage program.

(4) To accomplish the intent of this section and in order to enhance the response of businesses and labor representatives to the prevailing wage survey process, the department shall undertake the following activities:

(a) Establish a goal of conducting surveys for each trade every three years;

(b) Actively promote increased response rates from all survey recipients in every county both urban and rural. The department shall provide public education and technical assistance to businesses, labor representatives, and public agencies in order to promote a better understanding of prevailing wage laws and increased participation in the prevailing wage survey process;

(c) Actively work with businesses, labor representatives, public agencies, and others to ensure the integrity of information used in the development of prevailing wage rates, and ensure uniform compliance with requirements of sections 301 through 308 of this act;

(d) Maintain a timely processing of intents and affidavits, with a target processing time no greater than seven working days from receipt of completed forms;

(e) Develop and implement electronic processing of intents and affidavits and promote the efficient and effective use of technology to improve the services provided by the prevailing wage program.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 302. A new section is added to chapter 49.04 RCW to read as follows:
The apprenticeship council shall work with the department of transportation, local transportation jurisdictions, local and statewide joint apprenticeships, other apprenticeship programs, representatives of labor and business organizations with interest and expertise in the transportation work force, and representatives of the state's universities and community and vocational colleges to establish technical apprenticeship opportunities specific to the needs of transportation. The council shall issue a report of findings and recommendations to the transportation committees of the legislature by December 1, 2002. The report must include, but not be limited to, findings and recommendations regarding the establishment of transportation technical training programs within the community and vocational college system and in the state universities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 303. A new section is added to chapter 47.01 RCW to read as follows:
The department of transportation shall work with local transportation jurisdictions and representatives of transportation labor groups to establish a human resources skills bank of transportation professionals. The skills bank must be designed to allow all transportation authorities to draw from it when needed. The department shall issue a report of findings and recommendations to the transportation committees of the legislature by December 1, 2002. The report must include, but not be limited to, identification of any statutory or administrative rule changes necessary to create the skills bank and allow it to function in the manner described.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 304. A new section is added to chapter 47.06 RCW to read as follows:
The state-interest component of the statewide multimodal transportation plan must include a plan for enhancing the skills of the existing technical transportation work force.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 305. The department of labor and industries, in cooperation with the department of transportation, shall conduct an assessment of the current practices, including survey techniques, used in setting prevailing wages for those trades related to transportation facilities and transportation project delivery. The assessment must include an analysis of regional variations and stratified random sampling survey methods. A final report must be submitted to the governor and the transportation and labor committees of the senate and house of representatives by December 1, 2002.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 306. A new section is added to chapter 39.12 RCW to read as follows:
(1) In establishing the prevailing rate of wage under RCW 39.12.010, 39.12.015, and 39.12.020, all data collected by the department may be used only in the county for which the work was performed.

(2) This section only applies to prevailing wage surveys initiated on or after August 1, 2002.

Sec. 307. RCW 39.12.070 and 1993 c 404 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The department of labor and industries may charge fees to awarding agencies on public works for the approval of statements of intent to pay prevailing wages and the certification of affidavits of wages paid. The department may also charge fees to persons or organizations requesting the arbitration of disputes under RCW 39.12.060. The amount of the fees shall be established by rules adopted by the department under the procedures in the administrative procedure act, chapter 34.05 RCW. The fees shall apply to all approvals, certifications, and arbitration requests made after the effective date of the rules. All fees shall be deposited in the public works administration account. ~~((On the fifteenth day of the first month of each quarterly period, an amount equaling thirty percent of the revenues received into the public works administration account shall be transferred into the general fund.))~~ The department may refuse to arbitrate for contractors, subcontractors, persons, or organizations which have not paid the proper fees. The department may, if necessary, request the attorney general to take legal action to collect delinquent fees.

The department shall set the fees permitted by this section at a level that generates revenue that is as near as practicable to the amount of the appropriation to administer this chapter, including, but not limited to, the performance of adequate wage surveys, and to investigate and enforce all alleged violations of this chapter, including, but not limited to, incorrect statements of intent to pay prevailing wage, incorrect certificates of affidavits of wages paid, and wage claims, as provided for in this chapter and chapters 49.48 and 49.52 RCW. However, the fees charged for the approval of statements of intent to pay prevailing wages and the certification of affidavits of wages paid shall be no greater than twenty-five dollars.

Sec. 308. RCW 39.12.080 and 2001 c 219 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

The public works administration account is created in the state treasury. The department of labor and industries shall deposit in the account all moneys received from fees or civil penalties collected under RCW 39.12.050, 39.12.065, and 39.12.070. Appropriations from the account ~~((, not including moneys transferred to the general fund pursuant to RCW 39.12.070,))~~ may be made only for the purposes of administration of this chapter, including, but not limited to, the performance of adequate wage surveys, and for the investigation and enforcement of all alleged violations of this chapter as provided for in this chapter and chapters 49.48 and 49.52 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 309. Sections 301 through 308 and 310 of this act are null and void if new transportation revenues do not become law by January 1, 2003.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 310. The sum of nine hundred fifty thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated from the public works administration account to the department of labor and industries for the biennium ending June 30, 2003, to carry out the purposes of sections 306 through 308 of this act.

PART IV TRANSPORTATION PLANNING AND EFFICIENCY

Sec. 401. RCW 47.05.010 and 1993 c 490 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature finds that solutions to state highway deficiencies have become increasingly complex and diverse and that anticipated transportation revenues will fall substantially short of the amount required to satisfy all transportation needs. Difficult investment trade-offs will be required.

It is the intent of the legislature that investment of state transportation funds to address deficiencies on the state highway system be based on a policy of priority programming having as its basis the rational selection of projects and services according to factual need and an evaluation of life cycle costs and benefits ~~((and which))~~ that are systematically scheduled to carry out defined objectives within available revenue. The state must develop analytic tools to use a common methodology to measure benefits and costs for all modes.

The priority programming system ~~((shall))~~ must ensure preservation of the existing state highway system, relieve congestion, provide mobility for people and goods, support the state's economy, and promote environmental protection and energy conservation.

The priority programming system ~~((shall))~~ must implement the state-owned highway component of the statewide ~~((multimodal))~~ transportation plan, consistent with local and regional transportation plans, by targeting state transportation investment to appropriate multimodal solutions ~~((which))~~ that address identified state highway system deficiencies.

The priority programming system for improvements ~~((shall))~~ must incorporate a broad range of solutions that are identified in the statewide ~~((multimodal))~~ transportation plan as appropriate to address state highway system deficiencies, including but not limited to highway expansion, efficiency improvements, nonmotorized transportation facilities, high occupancy vehicle facilities, transit facilities and services, rail facilities and services, and transportation demand management programs.

Sec. 402. RCW 47.05.030 and 1998 c 171 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

The transportation commission shall adopt a comprehensive six-year investment program specifying program objectives and performance measures for the preservation and improvement programs defined in this section. In the specification of investment program objectives and performance measures, the transportation commission, in consultation with the Washington state department of transportation, shall define and adopt standards for effective programming and prioritization practices including a needs analysis process. ~~((needs))~~ analysis process ~~((shall))~~ must ensure the identification of problems and deficiencies, the evaluation of alternative solutions and trade-offs, and estimations of the costs and benefits of prospective projects. The investment program ~~((shall))~~ must be revised biennially, effective on July 1st of odd-numbered years. The investment program ~~((shall))~~ must be based upon the needs identified in the state-owned highway component of the statewide ~~((multimodal))~~ transportation plan as defined in RCW 47.01.071(3).

(1) The preservation program ~~((shall))~~ consists of those investments necessary to preserve the existing state highway system and to restore existing safety features, giving consideration to lowest life cycle costing. The preservation program must require use of the most cost-effective pavement surfaces, considering:

- (a) Life-cycle cost analysis;
- (b) Traffic volume;
- (c) Subgrade soil conditions;
- (d) Environmental and weather conditions;
- (e) Materials available; and
- (f) Construction factors.

The comprehensive six-year investment program for preservation ~~((shall))~~ must identify projects for two years and an investment plan for the remaining four years.

(2) The improvement program ~~((shall))~~ consists of investments needed to address identified deficiencies on the state highway system to increase mobility, address congestion, and improve ~~((mobility,))~~ safety, support for the economy, and protection of the environment. The six-year investment program for improvements ~~((shall))~~ must identify projects for two years and major deficiencies proposed to be addressed in the six-year period giving consideration to relative benefits and life cycle costing. The transportation commission shall give higher priority for correcting identified deficiencies on those facilities classified as facilities of statewide significance as defined in RCW 47.06.140. Project prioritization must be based primarily upon cost-benefit analysis, where appropriate.

The transportation commission shall approve and present the comprehensive six-year investment program to the legislature in support of the biennial budget request under RCW 44.40.070 and 44.40.080.

Sec. 403. RCW 47.05.035 and 1993 c 490 s 4 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department and the commission shall use the transportation demand modeling tools developed under subsection (2) of this section to evaluate investments based on the best mode or improvement, or mix of modes and improvements, to meet current and future long-term demand within a corridor or system for the lowest cost. The end result of these demand modeling tools is to provide a cost-benefit analysis by which the department and the commission can determine the relative mobility improvement and congestion relief each mode or improvement under consideration will provide and the relative investment each mode or improvement under consideration will need to achieve that relief.

(2) The department will participate in the refinement, enhancement, and application of existing transportation demand modeling tools to be used to evaluate investments. This participation and use of transportation demand modeling tools will be phased in.

(3) In developing program objectives and performance measures, the transportation commission shall evaluate investment trade-offs between the preservation and improvement programs. In making these investment trade-offs, the commission shall evaluate, using cost-benefit techniques, roadway and bridge maintenance activities as compared to roadway and bridge preservation program activities and adjust those programs accordingly.

(4) The commission shall allocate the estimated revenue between preservation and improvement programs giving primary consideration to the following factors:

~~((1))~~ (a) The relative needs in each of the programs and the system performance levels that can be achieved by meeting these needs;

~~((2))~~ (b) The need to provide adequate funding for preservation to protect the state's investment in its existing highway system;

~~((3))~~ (c) The continuity of future transportation development with those improvements previously programmed; and

~~((4))~~ (d) The availability of dedicated funds for a specific type of work.

Sec. 404. RCW 47.06.130 and 1993 c 446 s 13 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department may carry out special transportation planning studies to resolve specific issues with the development of the state transportation system or other statewide transportation issues.

(2) The department shall conduct multimodal corridor analyses on major congested corridors where needed improvements are likely to cost in excess of one hundred million dollars. Analysis will include the cost-effectiveness of all feasible strategies in addressing congestion or improving mobility within the corridor, and must recommend the most effective strategy or mix of strategies to address identified deficiencies. A long-term view of corridors must be employed to determine whether an existing corridor should be expanded, a city or county road should become a state route, and whether a new corridor is needed to alleviate congestion and enhance mobility based on travel demand. To the extent practicable, full costs of all strategies must be reflected in the analysis. At a minimum, this analysis must include:

(a) The current and projected future demand for total person trips on that corridor;

(b) The impact of making no improvements to that corridor;

(c) The daily cost per added person served for each mode or improvement proposed to meet demand;

(d) The cost per hour of travel time saved per day for each mode or improvement proposed to meet demand; and

(e) How much of the current and anticipated future demand will be met and left unmet for each mode or improvement proposed to meet demand.

The end result of this analysis will be to provide a cost-benefit analysis by which policymakers can determine the most cost-effective improvement or mode, or mix of improvements and modes, for increasing mobility and reducing congestion.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 405. The legislature intends that funding for transportation mobility improvements be allocated to the worst traffic chokepoints in the state. Furthermore, the legislature intends to fund projects that provide systemic relief throughout a transportation corridor, rather than spot improvements that fail to improve overall mobility within a corridor.

Sec. 406. RCW 47.05.051 and 1998 c 175 s 12 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The comprehensive six-year investment program shall be based upon the needs identified in the state-owned highway component of the statewide multimodal transportation plan as defined in RCW 47.01.071(3) and priority selection systems that incorporate the following criteria:

~~((1+))~~ (a) Priority programming for the preservation program shall take into account the following, not necessarily in order of importance:

~~((+))~~ (i) Extending the service life of the existing highway system, including using the most cost-effective pavement surfaces, considering:

(A) Life-cycle cost analysis;

(B) Traffic volume;

(C) Subgrade soil conditions;

(D) Environmental and weather conditions;

(E) Materials available; and

(F) Construction factors;

~~((b))~~ (ii) Ensuring the structural ability to carry loads imposed upon highways and bridges;
and

~~((e))~~ (iii) Minimizing life cycle costs. The transportation commission in carrying out the provisions of this section may delegate to the department of transportation the authority to select preservation projects to be included in the six-year program.

~~((2))~~ (b) Priority programming for the improvement program (~~shall take into account~~) must be based primarily upon the following:

~~((+))~~ (i) Traffic congestion, delay, and accidents;

(ii) Location within a heavily traveled transportation corridor;

(iii) Synchronization with other potential transportation projects, including transit and multimodal projects, within the heavily traveled corridor; and

(iv) Use of benefit/cost analysis wherever feasible to determine the value of the proposed project.

(c) Priority programming for the improvement program may also take into account:

(i) Support for the state's economy, including job creation and job preservation;

~~((b))~~ (ii) The cost-effective movement of people and goods;

~~((e))~~ (iii) Accident and accident risk reduction;

~~((d))~~ (iv) Protection of the state's natural environment;

~~((e))~~ (v) Continuity and systematic development of the highway transportation network;

~~((f))~~ (vi) Consistency with local comprehensive plans developed under chapter 36.70A RCW;

~~((g))~~ (vii) Consistency with regional transportation plans developed under chapter 47.80 RCW;

~~((h))~~ (viii) Public views concerning proposed improvements;

~~((i))~~ (ix) The conservation of energy resources;

~~((j))~~ (x) Feasibility of financing the full proposed improvement;

~~((k))~~ (xi) Commitments established in previous legislative sessions;

~~((l))~~ (xii) Relative costs and benefits of candidate programs;

~~((m))~~ (d) Major projects addressing capacity deficiencies which prioritize allowing for preliminary engineering shall be reprioritized during the succeeding biennium, based upon updated project data. Reprioritized projects may be delayed or canceled by the transportation commission if higher priority projects are awaiting funding(~~;~~ ~~and~~).

~~((n))~~ (e) Major project approvals which significantly increase a project's scope or cost from original prioritization estimates shall include a review of the project's estimated revised priority rank and the level of funding provided. Projects may be delayed or canceled by the transportation commission if higher priority projects are awaiting funding.

~~((3))~~ (2) The commission may depart from the priority programming established under subsection ~~(s)~~ (1) ~~(and (2))~~ of this section: (a) To the extent that otherwise funds cannot be utilized feasibly within the program; (b) as may be required by a court judgment, legally binding agreement, or state and federal laws and regulations; (c) as may be required to coordinate with federal, local, or other state agency construction projects; (d) to take advantage of some substantial financial benefit that may be available; (e) for continuity of route development; or (f) because of changed financial or physical conditions of an unforeseen or emergent nature. The commission or secretary of transportation shall maintain in its files information sufficient to show the extent to which the commission has departed from the established priority.

~~((4))~~ (3) The commission shall identify those projects that yield freight mobility benefits or that alleviate the impacts of freight mobility upon affected communities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 407. The department of transportation shall report the results of its priority programming under RCW 47.05.051 to the transportation committees of the senate and house of representatives by December 1, 2003, and December 1, 2005.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 408. The legislature finds that roads, streets, bridges, and highways in the state represent public assets worth over one hundred billion dollars. These investments require regular maintenance and preservation, or rehabilitation, to provide cost-effective transportation services. Many of these facilities are in poor condition. Given the magnitude of public investment and the importance of safe, reliable roadways to the motoring public, the legislature intends to create stronger accountability to ensure that cost-effective maintenance and preservation is provided for these transportation facilities.

Sec. 409. RCW 35.84.060 and 1969 ex.s. c 281 s 26 are each amended to read as follows:

Every municipal corporation which owns or operates an urban public transportation system as defined in RCW 47.04.082 within its corporate limits, may acquire, construct, extend, own, or operate such urban public transportation system to any point or points not to exceed fifteen miles outside of its corporate limits: PROVIDED, That no municipal corporation shall extend its urban public transportation system beyond its corporate limits to operate in any territory already served by a privately operated auto transportation company holding a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the utilities and transportation commission.

As a condition of receiving state funding, the municipal corporation shall submit a maintenance management plan for certification by the transportation commission or its successor entity. The plan must inventory all transportation system assets within the direction and control of the municipality, and provide a preservation plan based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 410. A new section is added to chapter 36.56 RCW to read as follows:

As a condition of receiving state funding, a county that has assumed the transportation functions of a metropolitan municipal corporation shall submit a maintenance and preservation management plan for certification by the transportation commission or its successor entity. The plan must inventory all transportation system assets within the direction and control of the county, and provide a preservation plan based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 411. A new section is added to chapter 36.57A RCW to read as follows:

As a condition of receiving state funding, a public transportation benefit area authority shall submit a maintenance and preservation management plan for certification by the transportation commission or its successor entity. The plan must inventory all transportation system assets within the direction and control of the authority, and provide a preservation plan based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 412. A new section is added to chapter 46.68 RCW to read as follows:

During the 2003-2005 biennium, cities and towns shall provide to the transportation commission, or its successor entity, preservation rating information on at least seventy percent of the total city and town arterial network. Thereafter, the preservation rating information requirement shall increase in five percent increments in subsequent biennia. The rating system used by cities and towns must be based upon the Washington state pavement rating method or an equivalent standard approved by the transportation commission or its successor entity.

Sec. 413. RCW 47.06.050 and 1993 c 446 s 5 are each amended to read as follows:

The state-owned facilities component of the statewide transportation plan shall consist of:

(1) The state highway system plan, which identifies program and financing needs and recommends specific and financially realistic improvements to preserve the structural integrity of the state highway system, ensure acceptable operating conditions, and provide for enhanced access to scenic, recreational, and cultural resources. The state highway system plan shall contain the following elements:

(a) A system preservation element, which shall establish structural preservation objectives for the state highway system including bridges, identify current and future structural deficiencies based upon analysis of current conditions and projected future deterioration, and recommend program funding levels and specific actions necessary to preserve the structural integrity of the state highway system consistent with adopted objectives. Lowest life cycle cost methodologies must be used in developing a pavement management system. This element shall serve as the basis for the preservation component of the six-year highway program and the two-year biennial budget request to the legislature;

(b) A highway maintenance element, establishing service levels for highway maintenance on state-owned highways that meet benchmarks established by the transportation commission. The highway maintenance element must include an estimate of costs for achieving those service levels over twenty years. This element will serve as the basis for the maintenance component of the six-year highway program and the two-year biennial budget request to the legislature;

(c) A capacity and operational improvement element, which shall establish operational objectives, including safety considerations, for moving people and goods on the state highway system, identify current and future capacity, operational, and safety deficiencies, and recommend program funding levels and specific improvements and strategies necessary to achieve the operational objectives. In developing capacity and operational improvement plans the department shall first assess strategies to enhance the operational efficiency of the existing system before recommending system expansion. Strategies to enhance the operational efficiencies include but are not limited to access management, transportation system management, demand management, and high-occupancy vehicle facilities. The capacity and operational improvement element must conform to the state implementation plan for air quality and be consistent with regional transportation plans adopted under chapter 47.80 RCW, and shall serve as the basis for the capacity and operational improvement portions of the six-year highway program and the two-year biennial budget request to the legislature;

~~((e))~~ (d) A scenic and recreational highways element, which shall identify and recommend designation of scenic and recreational highways, provide for enhanced access to scenic, recreational, and cultural resources associated with designated routes, and recommend a variety of management strategies to protect, preserve, and enhance these resources. The department, affected counties, cities, and towns, regional transportation planning organizations, and other state or federal agencies shall jointly develop this element;

~~((d))~~ (e) A paths and trails element, which shall identify the needs of nonmotorized transportation modes on the state transportation systems and provide the basis for the investment of state transportation funds in paths and trails, including funding provided under chapter 47.30 RCW.

(2) The state ferry system plan, which shall guide capital and operating investments in the state ferry system. The plan shall establish service objectives for state ferry routes, forecast travel demand for the various markets served in the system, ~~((and))~~ develop strategies for ferry system investment that consider regional and statewide vehicle and passenger needs, support local land use plans, and assure that ferry services are fully integrated with other transportation services. The plan must provide for maintenance of capital assets. The plan must also provide for preservation of capital assets based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies. The plan shall assess the role of private ferries operating under the authority of the utilities and transportation commission and shall coordinate ferry system capital and operational plans with these private operations. The ferry system plan must be consistent with the regional transportation plans for areas served by the state ferry system, and shall be developed in conjunction with the ferry advisory committees.

Sec. 414. RCW 47.06.090 and 1993 c 446 s 9 are each amended to read as follows:

The state-interest component of the statewide multimodal transportation plan shall include an intercity passenger rail plan, which shall analyze existing intercity passenger rail service and recommend improvements to that service under the state passenger rail service program including depot improvements, potential service extensions, and ways to achieve higher train speeds.

For purposes of maintaining and preserving any state-owned component of the state's passenger rail program, the statewide multimodal transportation plan must identify all such assets and provide a preservation plan based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 415. A new section is added to chapter 81.112 RCW to read as follows:

As a condition of receiving state funding, a regional transit authority shall submit a maintenance and preservation management plan for certification by the transportation commission or its successor entity. The plan must inventory all transportation system assets within the direction and control of the transit authority, and provide a plan for preservation of assets based on lowest life cycle cost methodologies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 416. A new section is added to chapter 36.78 RCW to read as follows:

The board shall establish a standard of good practice for maintenance of transportation system assets. This standard must be implemented by all counties no later than December 31, 2007. The board shall develop a model maintenance management system for use by counties. The board shall develop rules to assist the counties in the implementation of this system. Counties shall annually submit their maintenance plans to the board. The board shall compile the county data regarding maintenance management and annually submit it to the transportation commission or its successor entity.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 417. Sections 401 through 404 of this act take effect July 1, 2002.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 418. Sections 409 through 412, 415, and 416 of this act are null and void if new transportation revenues do not become law by January 1, 2003.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 419. Captions and part headings used in this act are not part of the law.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 420. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected."

- (3) Providing a transportation system that provides efficient mobility for persons and freight requires a shared partnership and responsibility between the state, local, and regional governments and the private sector; and
- (4) Timely construction and development of significant transportation improvement projects can best be achieved through enhanced funding options for governments at the county and regional levels, using already existing tax authority to address roadway and multimodal needs and new authority for regions to address critical projects of statewide significance.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 102. DEFINITIONS. The definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

(2) The members of the legislative authorities participating in planning under this chapter shall serve as the district coordinating committee. Members of the coordinating committee receive no compensation, but may be reimbursed for travel and incidental expenses as the coordinating committee deems appropriate.

The secretary of transportation, or the appropriate regional administrator of the department, as named by the secretary, shall serve on the committee as a nonvoting member.

(3) A regional transportation investment district coordinating committee may be entitled to state funding, as appropriated by the legislature, for start-up funding to pay for salaries, expenses, overhead, supplies, and similar expenses ordinarily and necessarily incurred in selecting transportation projects and funding for those projects under this chapter. Upon creation of a regional transportation investment district, the district shall within one year reimburse the state for any sums advanced for these start-up costs from the state.

(4) The coordinating committee shall conduct its affairs and formulate a regional transportation investment plan as provided under section 104 of this act, except that it shall elect an executive board of seven members to discharge the duties of the coordinating committee and formulate a regional transportation investment plan, subject to the approval of the full committee.

(5) At its first meeting, a regional transportation investment district coordinating committee may elect officers and provide for the adoption of rules and other operating procedures.

(6) Governance of and decisions by a regional transportation investment district coordinating committee must be by a sixty-percent weighted majority vote of the total membership.

(7) The coordinating committee may dissolve itself at any time by a two-thirds weighted majority vote of the total membership of the coordinating committee.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 104. COORDINATING COMMITTEE DUTIES. (1) A regional transportation investment district coordinating committee shall adopt a regional transportation investment plan providing for the selection, development, construction, and financing of transportation projects. The regional transportation investment plan should consider land use planning. The coordinating committee may coordinate its activities with the department, which shall provide services, data, and personnel to assist in this planning as desired by the coordinating committee. In addition, the coordinating committee shall coordinate with affected cities, towns, and other local governments that engage in transportation planning.

(2) The coordinating committee shall:

(a) Conduct public meetings that are needed to assure active public participation in the development of the plan;

(b) Adopt a plan proposing the creation of a regional transportation investment district and recommending transportation and local projects to improve mobility based on addressing transportation improvement projects that are consistent with the metropolitan plan; and

(c) Recommend sources of revenue authorized by section 105 of this act and a financing plan to fund selected transportation projects. The overall plan of the district must leverage the district's financial contributions so that the federal, state, local, and other revenue sources continue to fund major congestion relief and transportation capacity improvement projects in the district. A combination of local, state, and federal revenues may be necessary to pay for transportation projects, and the coordinating committee shall consider all of these revenue sources in developing a plan.

(3) Before adopting the plan, the coordinating committee, with assistance from the department, shall work with the lead agency to develop accurate cost forecasts for projects. This project costing methodology must be integrated with revenue forecasts in developing the plan and must at a minimum include estimated project costs in constant dollars as well as year of expenditure dollars, the range of project costs reflected by the level of project design, project contingencies, identification of mitigation costs, the range of revenue forecasts, and project and plan cash flow and bond analysis. The plan submitted to the voters must provide cost estimates for each project, including reasonable contingency costs. Plans submitted to the voters must provide that the maximum amount possible of the funds raised will be used to fund projects in the plan, including environmental improvements and mitigation, and that administrative costs be minimized. If actual revenue exceeds actual plan costs, the excess revenues must be used to retire any outstanding debt associated with the plan.

(4) If a county opts not to adopt the plan or participate in the regional transportation investment district, but a county with a population over one million five hundred thousand persons, either by itself or in conjunction with another contiguous county having a population over five hundred thousand persons chooses to continue to participate, then the coordinating committee may, within ninety days, redefine the regional transportation investment plan and the ballot measure to be submitted to the people to reflect elimination of a county or counties, and submit the redefined plan to the legislative authorities of the remaining county or counties for each county's decision as to whether to continue to adopt the redefined plan and participate. This action must be completed within sixty days after receipt of the redefined plan.

(5) Once adopted, the plan must be forwarded to the participating county legislative authority or authorities to initiate the election process under section 107 of this act. The coordinating committee shall at the same time provide notice to each city and town within the district, the governor, the chairs of the transportation committees of the legislature, the secretary of transportation, and each legislator whose legislative district is partially or wholly within the boundaries of the district.

(6) Before the county legislative authority or authorities may initiate the election process, within thirty days of receipt of a regional transportation investment plan, cities and towns within the county may act to disapprove the plan. The plan is disapproved if:

(a) The legislative authority of fifty percent or more of the cities and towns within the county vote to reject the plan; and

(b) The cities or towns voting to reject represent a minimum of fifty percent of the population of the cities and towns within the county.

(7) If the ballot measure is not approved by the voters within each county, the coordinating committee may redefine the selected projects, financing plan, and the ballot measure. The county legislative authority or authorities may approve the new plan and ballot measure, and may then submit the revised proposition to the voters within each county at the next election or a special election as prescribed in subsection (5) of this section. If no ballot measure is approved by the voters by the third vote, the coordinating committee is dissolved.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 105. TAXES AND FEES. (1) A regional transportation investment district coordinating committee may, as part of a regional transportation investment plan, recommend the imposition of some or all of the following revenue sources, which a regional transportation investment district may impose upon approval of the voters as provided in this chapter:

(a) A regional sales and use tax, as specified in section 504 of this act, of up to 0.5 percent of the selling price, in the case of a sales tax, or value of the article used, in the case of a use tax, upon the occurrence of any taxable event in the regional transportation investment district, except that the tax does not apply to sales or use of motor vehicles as defined in RCW 46.04.320;

(b) A local option vehicle license fee, as specified under section 508 of this act, of up to one hundred dollars per vehicle registration renewal in the district. As used in this subsection, "vehicle" means motor vehicle as defined in RCW 46.04.320. Certain classes of vehicles, as defined under chapter 46.04 RCW, may be exempted from this fee;

(c) A parking tax under RCW 82.80.030;

(d) A local motor vehicle excise tax under RCW 81.100.060; and

(e) An employer excise tax under RCW 81.100.030.

(2) Taxes and fees may not be imposed without an affirmative vote of the majority of the voters within the boundaries of the district voting on a ballot proposition as set forth in section 107 of this act. Revenues from these taxes and fees may be used only to implement the plan as set forth in this chapter. A district may contract with the state department of revenue or other appropriate entities for administration and collection of any of the taxes or fees authorized in this section.

(3) Existing statewide motor vehicle fuel and special fuel taxes, at the distribution rates in effect on January 1, 2001, are not intended to be altered by this chapter.

(4)(a) The state sales and use taxes imposed and collected under chapters 82.08 and 82.12 RCW, less any credits allowed under chapter 82.14 RCW, on initial construction for a project to be constructed under this chapter must be transferred to the project or identified as a credit on the project to defray costs or pay debt service on that project.

(b) This transaction is exempt from the requirements in RCW 43.135.035(4).

(c) Government entities constructing projects under this chapter shall report to the department of revenue the amount of state sales or use tax covered under this subsection (4).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 106. PERFORMANCE CRITERIA FOR REGIONAL PROJECT SELECTION. (1) The coordinating committee shall consider the following criteria for selecting transportation and local projects to improve corridor performance:

(a) Reduced level of congestion and improved safety;

(b) Improved travel time;

(c) Improved air quality;

(d) Increases in daily and peak period person and vehicle trip capacity;

(e) Reductions in person and vehicle delay;

(f) Improved freight mobility; and

(g) Cost-effectiveness of the investment.

(2) These criteria represent only minimum standards that must be considered in selecting transportation improvement projects. The board shall also consider rules and standards for benchmarks adopted by the transportation commission or its successor.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 107. SUBMISSION OF PLAN TO THE VOTERS. Two or more contiguous county legislative authorities, one of which has a population over one million five hundred thousand persons, or a single county as authorized in section 104 of this act, upon receipt of the regional transportation investment plan under section 104 of this act, may certify the plan to the ballot, including identification of the tax options necessary to fund the plan. County legislative authorities may draft a ballot title, give notice as required by law for ballot measures, and perform other duties as required to put the plan before the voters of the proposed district for their approval or rejection as a single ballot measure in each county that both approves formation of the district and approves the plan. Counties must negotiate interlocal agreements necessary to implement the plan. The electorate will be the voters voting within the boundaries of each participating county. A simple majority of the total persons voting on a single ballot measure to approve the plan, establish the district, and impose the taxes and fees is required for approval within each county. The district must be formed if the voters of a county with a population of more than one million five hundred thousand approve formation. The district must also include other counties if the voters of those counties approve formation. The district's boundaries must be contiguous with the county or counties where formation was approved.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 108. CERTIFICATION OF FORMATION. If the voters approve the plan, including creation of a regional transportation investment district and imposition of taxes and fees, the district will be declared formed. The county election officials of participating counties shall, within fifteen days of the final certification of the election results, publish a notice in a newspaper or newspapers of general circulation in the district declaring the district formed, and mail copies of the notice to the governor, the secretary of transportation, the executive director of the regional transportation planning organization, and the county treasurer who is serving as the district treasurer. A party challenging the procedure or the formation of a voter-approved district must file the challenge in writing by serving the prosecuting attorney of the participating counties and the attorney general within thirty days after the final certification of the election. Failure to challenge within that time forever bars further challenge of the district's procedure or the valid formation.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 109. BOARD COMPOSITION. (1) The governing board of a district consists of the members of the legislative authority of each member county, acting ex officio and independently. The secretary of transportation or the appropriate regional administrator of the department, as named by the secretary, shall also serve as a nonvoting member of the board.

(2) A sixty-percent majority of the weighted votes of the total board membership is required to submit to the counties a modified plan under section 114 of this act or any other proposal to be submitted to the voters. The counties, may, with majority vote of each county legislative authority, submit a modified plan or proposal to the voters.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 110. BOARD ORGANIZATION. The board shall adopt rules for the conduct of business. The board shall adopt bylaws to govern district affairs, which may include:

- (1) The time and place of regular meetings;
- (2) Rules for calling special meetings;
- (3) The method of keeping records of proceedings and official acts;
- (4) Procedures for the safekeeping and disbursement of funds; and
- (5) Any other provisions the board finds necessary to include.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 111. BOARD'S POWERS AND DUTIES. (1) The governing board of the district is responsible for the execution of the voter-approved plan. The board shall:

- (a) Impose taxes and fees authorized by district voters;
- (b) Enter into agreements with state, local, and regional agencies and departments as necessary to accomplish district purposes and protect the district's investment in projects;
- (c) Accept gifts, grants, or other contributions of funds that will support the purposes and programs of the district;
- (d) Monitor and audit the progress and execution of projects to protect the investment of the public and annually make public its findings;
- (e) Pay for services and enter into leases and contracts, including professional service contracts;
- (f) Hire no more than ten employees, including a director or executive officer, a treasurer or financial officer, a project manager or engineer, a project permit coordinator, and clerical staff; and
- (g) Exercise other powers and duties as may be reasonable to carry out the purposes of the district.

(2) It is the intent of the legislature that existing staff resources of lead agencies be used in implementing this chapter. A district may coordinate its activities with the department, which shall provide services, data, and personnel to assist as desired by the regional transportation investment district. Lead agencies for projects that are not state facilities shall also provide staff support for the board.

- (3) A district may not acquire, hold, or dispose of real property.
- (4) A district may not own, operate, or maintain an ongoing facility, road, or transportation system.

(5) A district may accept and expend or use gifts, grants, or donations.

(6) It is the intent of the legislature that administrative and overhead costs of a regional transportation investment district be minimized. For projects costing up to fifty million dollars, administrative and overhead costs may not exceed three percent of the total construction and design project costs per year. For projects costing more than fifty million dollars, administrative and overhead costs may not exceed three percent of the first fifty million dollars in costs, plus an additional one-tenth of one percent of each additional dollar above fifty million. These limitations apply only to the district, and do not limit the administration or expenditures of the department.

(7) A district may use the design-build procedure for projects developed by it. As used in this section "design-build procedure" means a method of contracting under which the district contracts with another party for that party to both design and build the structures, facilities, and other items specified in the contract. The requirements and limitations of RCW 47.20.780 and 47.20.785 do not apply to the projects under this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 112. TREASURER. The regional transportation investment district, by resolution, shall designate a person having experience in financial or fiscal matters as treasurer of the district. The district may designate the treasurer of a county within which the district is located to act as its treasurer. Such a treasurer has all of the powers, responsibilities, and duties the county treasurer has related to investing surplus funds. The district shall require a bond with a surety company authorized to do business in this state in an amount and under the terms and conditions the district, by resolution, from time to time finds will protect the district against loss. The district shall pay the premium on the bond.

In addition to the account established in section 501 of this act, the treasurer may establish a special account, into which may be paid district funds. The treasurer may disburse district funds only on warrants issued by the district upon orders or vouchers approved by the district.

If the treasurer of the district is the treasurer of a county, all district funds must be deposited with a county depository under the same restrictions, contracts, and security as provided for county depositories. If the treasurer of the district is some other person, all funds must be deposited in a bank or banks authorized to do business in this state qualified for insured deposits under any federal deposit insurance act as the district, by resolution, designates.

The district may provide and require a reasonable bond of any other person handling moneys or securities of the district, but the district shall pay the premium on the bond.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 113. DEBT AND BONDING. The district may borrow money, but may not issue any debt of its own for more than two years' duration. A district may issue notes or other evidences of indebtedness with a maturity of not more than two years. A district may, when authorized by the plan, enter into agreements with the lead agencies to pledge taxes or other revenues of the district for the purpose of paying in part or whole principal and interest on bonds issued by the lead agency. The contracts pledging revenues and taxes are binding for the term of the agreement, but not to exceed twenty-five years, and no tax pledged by an agreement may be eliminated or modified if it would impair the pledge of the agreement.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 114. PROJECT OR PLAN MODIFICATION--ACCOUNTABILITY.

(1) If a project cost exceeds its original cost by more than twenty percent as identified in the plan:

(a) The board shall, in coordination with the county legislative authorities, submit to the voters in the district a ballot measure that redefines the scope of the project, its schedule, or its costs. If the voters fail to approve the redefined project, the district shall terminate work on that project, except that the district may take reasonable steps to use, preserve, or connect any improvement already constructed. The remainder of any funds that would otherwise have been expended on the terminated project must first be used to retire any outstanding debt attributable to the plan and then may be used to implement the remainder of the plan.

(b) Alternatively, upon adoption of a resolution by two or more participating counties:

(i) The counties shall submit to the voters in the district a ballot measure that redefines the scope of the plan, its projects, its schedule, or its costs. If the voters fail to approve the redefined plan, the district shall terminate work on that plan, except that the district may take reasonable steps to use, preserve, or connect any improvement already constructed. The remainder of any funds must be used to retire any outstanding debt attributable to the plan; or

(ii) The counties may elect to have the district continue the project without submitting an additional ballot proposal to the voters.

(2) To assure accountability to the public for the timely construction of the transportation improvement project or projects within cost projections, the district shall issue a report, at least annually, to the public and copies of the report to newspapers of record in the district. In the report, the district shall indicate the status of project costs, project expenditures, revenues, and construction schedules. The report may also include progress towards meeting the performance criteria provided under this chapter.

(3) The legislature finds that public confidence in transportation construction projects is essential and that programs to improve quality, efficiency, and effectiveness of public functions must be enhanced. To this end:

(a) The joint legislative audit and review committee shall collaborate with the department of transportation to develop performance audit criteria for projects and public agencies funded under this chapter. In developing criteria, the committee and the department shall consult with and seek input from elected officials and professionals with a background in performance management and consider already developed best practices or audit criteria used by government or nongovernmental organizations;

(b) Subsequent to the development of performance audit criteria, the committee shall:

(i) Conduct performance audits of projects, systems, and agencies funded by this act;

(ii) Report findings, recommendations, and monitor best practice implementation; and

(iii) Provide public recognition for outstanding effort.

(c) For purposes of this subsection (3), "performance audit" means an objective systematic assessment, survey, or directed self-assessment of state government or any of its agencies, programs, functions, or activities in order to help public officials demonstrate public accountability. Performance audits include, but are not limited to: (i) Quality and process management practices; (ii) independent and effective internal audit functions; (iii) internal and external customer satisfaction; (iv) program and periodic program reviews; (v) financial and fiscal productivity and efficiency; and (vi) legal, regulatory, and procedural compliance.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 115. STATE DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION ROLE. (1) The department shall designate an office or division of dedicated staff and services whose primary responsibility is to coordinate the design, preliminary engineering, permitting, financing, and construction of projects under consideration by a regional transportation investment district coordinating committee or that are part of a regional transportation investment plan being implemented by a regional transportation investment district.

(2) All of the powers granted the department under Title 47 RCW relating to highway construction may, at the request of a regional transportation investment district, be used to implement a regional transportation investment plan and construct transportation projects.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 116. STATE OWNS IMPROVEMENTS TO STATE FACILITIES. Any improvement to a state facility constructed under this chapter becomes and remains the property of this state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 117. COUNTY JOINING DISTRICT. (1) A county with a population under five hundred thousand persons and that is part of a regional transportation planning organization with a county with a population greater than one million five hundred thousand persons may vote to join a regional transportation investment district.

(2) The county shall use the planning process set forth in this chapter except that it will be as a single county coordinating committee to develop the plan and a single county, voting separately to join the district. A plan developed by the coordinating committee must provide that all revenues generated from within the county will be expended on projects that benefit the county.

(3) If approved by the voters, the county will become part of the district and the governing board of the district will be adjusted accordingly.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 118. DISSOLUTION. Within thirty days of the completion of the construction of the project or series of projects forming the regional transportation investment plan, the district shall terminate day-to-day operations and exist solely as a limited entity that oversees the collection of revenue and the payment of debt service or financing still in effect, if any. The district shall accordingly adjust downward its employees, administration, and overhead expenses. Any taxes and fees imposed under an approved plan terminate when the financing or debt service on the project or series of projects constructed is completed and paid, thirty days from which point the district shall dissolve itself and cease to exist. If there is no debt outstanding, then the district shall dissolve within thirty days from completion of construction of the project or series of projects forming the regional transportation investment plan. Notice of dissolution must be published in newspapers of general circulation within the district at least three times in a period of thirty days. Creditors must file claims for payment of claims due within thirty days of the last published notice or the claim is extinguished.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 119. OTHER REGIONS. The legislature finds that regional solutions to the state's transportation needs are of paramount concern. The legislature further recognizes that different areas of the state will need the flexibility to fashion local solutions to their transportation problems, and that regional transportation systems may evolve over time. Areas of the state outside of King, Snohomish, and Pierce counties are eligible for grants from the state of no more than one hundred fifty thousand dollars to study and develop regional transportation models. Regions electing to participate in this pilot program may form interlocal agreements within their regions and must develop a model that can be used within their region. Regions receiving these grants shall report to the transportation committees in the senate and house of representatives on the positive and negative aspects of the model as well as costs associated with it no later than June 30, 2003.

II. JOINT BALLOT WITH RTA

NEW SECTION. Sec. 201. JOINT BALLOT MEASURE. At the option of the coordinating committee, and with the explicit approval of the regional transit authority, the participating counties may choose to impose any remaining high capacity transportation taxes under chapter 81.104 RCW that have not otherwise been used by a regional transit authority and submit to the voters a common ballot measure that creates the district, approves the regional transportation investment plan, implements the taxes, and implements any remaining high capacity transportation taxes within the boundaries of the regional transportation investment district. Collection and expenditures of any high capacity transportation taxes implemented under this section must be determined by agreement between the participating counties or district and the regional transit authority electing to submit high capacity transportation taxes to the voters under a common ballot measure as provided in this section. If the measure fails, all such unused high capacity transportation taxes revert back to and remain with the regional transit authority. A project constructed with this funding is not considered a "transportation project" under section 102 of this act and may include development of a monorail.

Sec. 202. RCW 81.104.140 and 1992 c 101 s 25 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Agencies authorized to provide high capacity transportation service, including transit agencies and regional transit authorities, and regional transportation investment districts acting with the agreement of an agency, are hereby granted dedicated funding sources for such systems. These dedicated funding sources, as set forth in RCW 81.104.150, 81.104.160, and 81.104.170, are authorized only for agencies located in (a) each county with a population of two hundred ten thousand or more and (b) each county with a population of from one hundred twenty-five thousand to less than two hundred ten thousand except for those counties that do not border a county with a population as described under (a) of this subsection. In any county with a population of one million or more or in any county having a population of four hundred thousand or more bordering a county with a population of one million or more, these funding sources may be imposed only by a regional transit authority or a regional transportation investment district. Regional transportation investment districts may, with the approval of the regional transit authority within its boundaries, impose the taxes authorized under this chapter, but only upon approval of the voters and to the extent that the maximum amount of taxes authorized under this chapter have not been imposed.

(2) Agencies planning to construct and operate a high capacity transportation system should also seek other funds, including federal, state, local, and private sector assistance.

(3) Funding sources should satisfy each of the following criteria to the greatest extent possible:

- (a) Acceptability;
- (b) Ease of administration;
- (c) Equity;
- (d) Implementation feasibility;
- (e) Revenue reliability; and
- (f) Revenue yield.

(4) Agencies participating in regional high capacity transportation system development are authorized to levy and collect the following voter-approved local option funding sources:

(a) Employer tax as provided in RCW 81.104.150, other than by regional transportation investment districts;

- (b) Special motor vehicle excise tax as provided in RCW 81.104.160; and
- (c) Sales and use tax as provided in RCW 81.104.170.

Revenues from these taxes may be used only to support those purposes prescribed in subsection (10) of this section. Before the date of an election authorizing an agency to impose any of the taxes enumerated in this section and authorized in RCW 81.104.150, 81.104.160, and 81.104.170, the agency must comply with the process prescribed in RCW 81.104.100 (1) and (2) and 81.104.110. No construction on exclusive right of way may occur before the requirements of RCW 81.104.100(3) are met.

(5) Authorization in subsection (4) of this section shall not adversely affect the funding authority of transit agencies not provided for in this chapter. Local option funds may be used to support implementation of interlocal agreements with respect to the establishment of regional high capacity transportation service. Except when a regional transit authority exists, local jurisdictions shall retain control over moneys generated within their boundaries, although funds may be commingled with those generated in other areas for planning, construction, and operation of high capacity transportation systems as set forth in the agreements.

(6) Agencies planning to construct and operate high capacity transportation systems may contract with the state for collection and transference of voter-approved local option revenue.

(7) Dedicated high capacity transportation funding sources authorized in RCW 81.104.150, 81.104.160, and 81.104.170 shall be subject to voter approval by a simple majority. A single ballot proposition may seek approval for one or more of the authorized taxing sources. The ballot title shall reference the document identified in subsection (8) of this section.

(8) Agencies shall provide to the registered voters in the area a document describing the systems plan and the financing plan set forth in RCW 81.104.100. It shall also describe the relationship of the system to regional issues such as development density at station locations and activity centers, and the interrelationship of the system to adopted land use and transportation demand management goals within the region. This document shall be provided to the voters at least twenty days prior to the date of the election.

(9) For any election in which voter approval is sought for a high capacity transportation system plan and financing plan pursuant to RCW 81.104.040, a local voter's pamphlet shall be produced as provided in chapter 29.81A RCW.

(10) Agencies providing high capacity transportation service shall retain responsibility for revenue encumbrance, disbursement, and bonding. Funds may be used for any purpose relating to planning, construction, and operation of high capacity transportation systems and commuter rail systems, personal rapid transit, busways, bus sets, and entrained and linked buses.

III. CITY MVET FOR MONORAIL

NEW SECTION. Sec. 301. A new section is added to chapter 81.104 RCW to read as follows:

MVET FOR CITY MONORAIL. (1) The legislature finds that there is a need for large cities, with populations of five hundred thousand or more, at their option, to develop, construct, and operate intracity monorail systems within their boundaries to facilitate the movement of people and mitigate traffic congestion in highly urbanized areas.

(2) For the sole purposes of developing, constructing, or operating an intracity monorail system within its boundaries, a city with a population of five hundred thousand or more may, with voter approval, impose a motor vehicle excise tax, at a rate approved by the voters, but not exceeding one percent of the value of every motor vehicle owned by a person residing within the city and on the state sales and use taxes paid under the rate in RCW 82.08.020(2) on retail car rentals within the city. No tax may be imposed on vehicles licensed under RCW 46.16.070 except vehicles with an unladen weight of six thousand pounds or less, RCW 46.16.079, 46.16.085, or 46.16.090.

Before the effective date of the resolution or ordinance imposing the tax, cities imposing a tax under this section shall contract the administration and collection to the state department of licensing and department of revenue, as appropriate, which shall deduct an amount, as provided by contract, for administration and collection expenses incurred by the department. All administrative provisions in chapters 82.03, 82.32, and 82.44 RCW, insofar as they apply to state motor vehicle excise taxes, also apply to taxes imposed under this section. All administrative provisions in chapters 82.03, 82.08, 82.12, and 82.32 RCW, insofar as they apply to state sales and use taxes, also apply to taxes imposed under this section.

IV. HIGHWAYS OF STATEWIDE SIGNIFICANCE

Sec. 401. RCW 47.05.021 and 1998 c 245 s 95 and 1998 c 171 s 5 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

LEGISLATURE MAY DESIGNATE HIGHWAYS OF STATEWIDE SIGNIFICANCE. (1) The transportation commission is hereby directed to conduct periodic analyses of the entire state highway system, report thereon to the chairs of the transportation committees of the senate and house of representatives, including one copy to the staff of each of the committees, biennially and based thereon, to subdivide, classify, and subclassify according to their function and importance all designated state highways and those added from time to time and periodically review and revise the classifications into the following three functional classes:

(a) The "principal arterial system" shall consist of a connected network of rural arterial routes with appropriate extensions into and through urban areas, including all routes designated as part of the interstate system, which serve corridor movements having travel characteristics indicative of substantial statewide and interstate travel;

(b) The "minor arterial system" shall, in conjunction with the principal arterial system, form a rural network of arterial routes linking cities and other activity centers which generate long distance travel, and, with appropriate extensions into and through urban areas, form an integrated network providing interstate and interregional service; and

(c) The "collector system" shall consist of routes which primarily serve the more important intercounty, intracounty, and intraurban travel corridors, collect traffic from the system of local access roads and convey it to the arterial system, and on which, regardless of traffic volume, the predominant travel distances are shorter than on arterial routes.

(2) In making the functional classification the transportation commission shall adopt and give consideration to criteria consistent with this section and federal regulations relating to the functional classification of highways, including but not limited to the following:

(a) Urban population centers within and without the state stratified and ranked according to size;

(b) Important traffic generating economic activities, including but not limited to recreation, agriculture, government, business, and industry;

(c) Feasibility of the route, including availability of alternate routes within and without the state;

(d) Directness of travel and distance between points of economic importance;

(e) Length of trips;

(f) Character and volume of traffic;

(g) Preferential consideration for multiple service which shall include public transportation;

(h) Reasonable spacing depending upon population density; and

(i) System continuity.

(3) The transportation commission or the legislature shall designate state highways of statewide significance under RCW 47.06.140(~~(, and)~~). If the commission designates a state highway of statewide significance, it shall submit a list of such facilities for adoption by the ((1999)) legislature. This statewide system shall include at a minimum interstate highways and other statewide principal arterials that are needed to connect major communities across the state and support the state's economy.

(4) The transportation commission shall designate a freight and goods transportation system. This statewide system shall include state highways, county roads, and city streets. The commission, in cooperation with cities and counties, shall review and make recommendations to the legislature regarding policies governing weight restrictions and road closures which affect the transportation of freight and goods.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 402. A new section is added to chapter 47.05 RCW to read as follows:
DESIGNATION OF STATE ROUTE NUMBER 509 AND CROSSBASE HIGHWAY. (1) The legislature designates that portion of state route number 509 that runs or will run from state route number 518 in the north to the intersection with interstate 5 in the south as a state highway of statewide significance.

(2) The legislature designates state route number 704 from state route number 5 to state route number 161 as a state highway of statewide significance.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 403. A new section is added to chapter 47.17 RCW to read as follows:

Sec. 509. RCW 81.100.010 and 1990 c 43 s 12 are each amended to read as follows:

DISTRICT AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE HIGH-OCCUPANCY VEHICLE TAXES. The need for mobility, growing travel demand, and increasing traffic congestion in urban areas necessitate accelerated development and increased utilization of the high-occupancy vehicle system. RCW 81.100.030 and 81.100.060 provide taxing authority that counties or regional transportation investment districts can use in the near term to accelerate development and increase utilization of the high-occupancy vehicle system by supplementing available federal, state, and local funds.

Sec. 510. RCW 81.100.030 and 1991 c 363 s 153 are each amended to read as follows:

DISTRICT AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE HIGH-OCCUPANCY VEHICLE EMPLOYER TAX.

(1) A county with a population of one million or more, or a county with a population of from two hundred ten thousand to less than one million that is adjoining a county with a population of one million or more, and having within its boundaries existing or planned high-occupancy vehicle lanes on the state highway system, or a regional transportation investment district for capital improvements, but only to the extent that the tax has not already been imposed by the county, may, with voter approval impose an excise tax of up to two dollars per employee per month on all employers or any class or classes of employers, public and private, including the state located in the agency's jurisdiction, measured by the number of full-time equivalent employees. In no event may the total taxes imposed under this section exceed two dollars per employee per month for any single employer. The county or investment district imposing the tax authorized in this section may provide for exemptions from the tax to such educational, cultural, health, charitable, or religious organizations as it deems appropriate.

Counties or investment districts may contract with the state department of revenue or other appropriate entities for administration and collection of the tax. Such contract shall provide for deduction of an amount for administration and collection expenses.

(2) The tax shall not apply to employment of a person when the employer has paid for at least half of the cost of a transit pass issued by a transit agency for that employee, valid for the period for which the tax would otherwise be owed.

(3) A county or investment district shall adopt rules ~~((which))~~ that exempt from all or a portion of the tax any employer that has entered into an agreement with the county or investment district that is designed to reduce the proportion of employees who drive in single-occupant vehicles during peak commuting periods in proportion to the degree that the agreement is designed to meet the goals for the employer's location adopted under RCW 81.100.040.

The agreement shall include a list of specific actions that the employer will undertake to be entitled to the exemption. Employers having an exemption from all or part of the tax through this subsection shall annually certify to the county or investment district that the employer is fulfilling the terms of the agreement. The exemption continues as long as the employer is in compliance with the agreement.

If the tax authorized in RCW 81.100.060 is also imposed ~~((by the county))~~, the total proceeds from both tax sources each year shall not exceed the maximum amount which could be collected under RCW 81.100.060.

Sec. 511. RCW 81.100.060 and 1998 c 321 s 34 are each amended to read as follows:

DISTRICT AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE HIGH-OCCUPANCY VEHICLE MOTOR VEHICLE EXCISE TAX. A county with a population of one million or more and a county with a population of from two hundred ten thousand to less than one million that is adjoining a county with a population of one million or more, having within their boundaries existing or planned high-occupancy vehicle lanes on the state highway system, or a regional transportation investment district for capital improvements, but only to the extent that the surcharge has not already been imposed by the county, may, with voter approval, impose a local surcharge of not more than 13.64 percent on the state motor vehicle excise tax paid under RCW 82.44.020(1) on vehicles registered to a person residing within the county and on the state sales and use taxes paid under the rate in RCW 82.08.020(2) on retail car rentals within the county or investment district. A county may impose the surcharge only to the extent that it has not been imposed by the district. No surcharge may be imposed on vehicles licensed under RCW 46.16.070 except vehicles with an unladen weight of six thousand pounds or less, RCW 46.16.079, 46.16.085, or 46.16.090. The excise tax under this section applies only to renewal of vehicle registrations.

Counties or investment districts imposing a tax under this section shall contract, before the effective date of the resolution or ordinance imposing a surcharge, administration and collection to the state department of licensing, and department of revenue, as appropriate, which shall deduct an amount, as provided by contract, for administration and collection expenses incurred by the department. All administrative provisions in chapters 82.03, 82.32, and 82.44 RCW shall, insofar as they are applicable to ~~((state))~~ motor vehicle excise taxes, be applicable to surcharges imposed under this section. All administrative provisions in chapters 82.03, 82.08, 82.12, and 82.32 RCW shall, insofar as they are applicable to state sales and use taxes, be applicable to surcharges imposed under this section.

If the tax authorized in RCW 81.100.030 is also imposed ~~((by the county))~~, the total proceeds from tax sources imposed under this section and RCW 81.100.030 each year shall not exceed the maximum amount which could be collected under this section.

Sec. 512. RCW 82.80.030 and 1990 c 42 s 208 are each amended to read as follows:

DISTRICT AUTHORITY TO IMPOSE PARKING TAX. (1) Subject to the conditions of this section, the legislative authority of a county ~~((or))~~, city, or district may fix and impose a parking tax on all persons engaged in a commercial parking business within its respective jurisdiction. The jurisdiction of a county, for purposes of this section, includes only the unincorporated area of the county. The jurisdiction of a city, or district includes only the area within its ~~((incorporated))~~ boundaries. If a city or county has imposed a tax under this section, the district may not impose a tax in those areas where a tax has already been imposed.

(2) In lieu of the tax in subsection (1) of this section, a city ~~((or))~~, a county in its unincorporated area, or a district may fix and impose a tax for the act or privilege of parking a motor vehicle in a facility operated by a commercial parking business.

The city ~~((or))~~, county, or district may provide that:

- (a) The tax is paid by the operator or owner of the motor vehicle;
- (b) The tax applies to all parking for which a fee is paid, whether paid or leased, including parking supplied with a lease of nonresidential space;
- (c) The tax is collected by the operator of the facility and remitted to the city ~~((or))~~, county, or district;
- (d) The tax is a fee per vehicle or is measured by the parking charge;
- (e) The tax rate varies with zoning or location of the facility, the duration of the parking, the time of entry or exit, the type or use of the vehicle, or other reasonable factors; and
- (f) Tax exempt carpools, vehicles with handicapped decals, or government vehicles are exempt from the tax.

(3) "Commercial parking business" as used in this section, means the ownership, lease, operation, or management of a commercial parking lot in which fees are charged. "Commercial parking lot" means a covered or uncovered area with stalls for the purpose of parking motor vehicles.

(4) The rate of the tax under subsection (1) of this section may be based either upon gross proceeds or the number of vehicle stalls available for commercial parking use. The rates charged must be uniform for the same class or type of commercial parking business.

(5) The county ~~((or))~~, city, or district levying the tax provided for in subsection (1) or (2) of this section may provide for its payment on a monthly, quarterly, or annual basis. Each local government may develop by ordinance or resolution rules for administering the tax, including provisions for reporting by commercial parking businesses, collection, and enforcement.

(6) The proceeds of the commercial parking tax fixed and imposed by a city or county under subsection (1) or (2) of this section shall be used strictly for transportation purposes in accordance with RCW 82.80.070. The proceeds of the parking tax imposed by a district must be used as provided in chapter 36.-- RCW (sections 101 through 118, 201, and 501 of this act).

Sec. 513. RCW 82.80.070 and 1991 c 141 s 4 are each amended to read as follows:

REQUIRES THAT LOCAL OPTION TAXES IMPOSED BY DISTRICT BE USED FOR DISTRICT PROJECTS. (1) The proceeds collected pursuant to the exercise of the local option authority of RCW 82.80.010, 82.80.020, 82.80.030, and 82.80.050 (hereafter called "local option transportation revenues") shall be used for transportation purposes only, including but not limited to the following: The operation and preservation of roads, streets, and other transportation improvements; new construction, reconstruction, and expansion of city streets, county roads, and state highways and other transportation improvements; development and implementation of public transportation and high-capacity transit improvements and programs; and planning, design, and acquisition of right of way and sites for such transportation purposes. The proceeds collected from excise taxes on the sale, distribution, or use of motor vehicle fuel and special fuel under RCW 82.80.010 shall be used exclusively for "highway purposes" as that term is construed in Article II, section 40 of the state Constitution.

(2) The local option transportation revenues shall be expended for transportation uses consistent with the adopted transportation and land use plans of the jurisdiction expending the funds and consistent with any applicable and adopted regional transportation plan for metropolitan planning areas.

(3) Each local government with a population greater than eight thousand that levies or expends local option transportation funds, is also required to develop and adopt a specific transportation program that contains the following elements:

(a) The program shall identify the geographic boundaries of the entire area or areas within which local option transportation revenues will be levied and expended.

(b) The program shall be based on an adopted transportation plan for the geographic areas covered and shall identify the proposed operation and construction of transportation improvements and services in the designated plan area intended to be funded in whole or in part by local option transportation revenues and shall identify the annual costs applicable to the program.

(c) The program shall indicate how the local transportation plan is coordinated with applicable transportation plans for the region and for adjacent jurisdictions.

(d) The program shall include at least a six-year funding plan, updated annually, identifying the specific public and private sources and amounts of revenue necessary to fund the program. The program shall include a proposed schedule for construction of projects and expenditure of revenues. The funding plan shall consider the additional local tax revenue estimated to be generated by new development within the plan area if all or a portion of the additional revenue is proposed to be earmarked as future appropriations for transportation improvements in the program.

(4) Local governments with a population greater than eight thousand exercising the authority for local option transportation funds shall periodically review and update their transportation program to ensure that it is consistent with applicable local and regional transportation and land use plans and within the means of estimated public and private revenue available.

(5) In the case of expenditure for new or expanded transportation facilities, improvements, and services, priorities in the use of local option transportation revenues shall be identified in the transportation program and expenditures shall be made based upon the following criteria, which are stated in descending order of weight to be attributed:

(a) First, the project serves a multijurisdictional function;

(b) Second, it is necessitated by existing or reasonably foreseeable congestion;

(c) Third, it has the greatest person-carrying capacity;

(d) Fourth, it is partially funded by other government funds, such as from the state transportation improvement board, or by private sector contributions, such as those from the local transportation act, chapter 39.92 RCW; and

(e) Fifth, it meets such other criteria as the local government determines is appropriate.

(6) It is the intent of the legislature that as a condition of levying, receiving, and expending local option transportation revenues, no local government agency use the revenues to replace, divert, or loan any revenues currently being used for transportation purposes to nontransportation purposes. The association of Washington cities and the Washington state association of counties, in consultation with the legislative transportation committee, shall study the issue of nondiversion and make recommendations to the legislative transportation committee for language implementing the intent of this section by December 1, 1990.

(7) Local governments are encouraged to enter into interlocal agreements to jointly develop and adopt with other local governments the transportation programs required by this section for the purpose of accomplishing regional transportation planning and development.

(8) Local governments may use all or a part of the local option transportation revenues for the amortization of local government general obligation and revenue bonds issued for transportation purposes consistent with the requirements of this section.

(9) Subsections (1) through (8) of this section do not apply to a regional transportation investment district imposing a tax or fee under the local option authority of this chapter. Proceeds collected under the exercise of local option authority under this chapter by a district must be used in accordance with chapter 36.-- RCW (sections 101 through 118, 201, and 501 of this act). Proceeds collected under RCW 82.80.010 by a district must be used exclusively for "highway purposes," as that term is construed under Article II, section 40 of the Washington state Constitution.

Sec. 514. RCW 82.80.080 and 1998 c 281 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

LOCAL OPTION TAX REVENUE DISTRIBUTION. (1) The state treasurer shall distribute revenues, less authorized deductions, generated by the local option taxes authorized in RCW 82.80.010 and 82.80.020, levied by counties to the levying counties, and cities contained in those counties, based on the relative per capita population. County population for purposes of this section is equal to one and one-half of the unincorporated population of the county. In calculating the distributions, the state treasurer shall use the population estimates prepared by the state office of financial management and shall further calculate the distribution based on information supplied by the departments of licensing and revenue, as appropriate.

(2) The state treasurer shall distribute revenues, less authorized deductions, generated by the local option taxes authorized in RCW 82.80.010 and 82.80.020 levied by qualifying cities and towns to the levying cities and towns.

(3) The state treasurer shall distribute to the district revenues, less authorized deductions, generated by the local option taxes under RCW 82.80.010 or fees under section 508 of this act levied by a district.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 515. A new section is added to chapter 82.80 RCW to read as follows:

NEW SECTION. Sec. 602. TERMINATION OF DISTRICTS. Regional transportation investment districts and their powers and duties are terminated on June 30, 2006. However, nothing in this section may be construed as impairing a district created before June 30, 2006, from continuing to collect approved revenues and make payment on projects or debt incurred.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 603. CODIFICATION. Sections 101 through 118, 201, and 501 of this act constitute a new chapter in Title 36 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 604. SEVERABILITY. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 605. NULL AND VOID. This act is null and void if a transportation revenue act containing new or additional revenue does not become law by December 31, 2002."

The legislature further declares that there is a growing necessity to provide for the increasing need of the state and its citizens for water for industrial, agricultural, residential, social, economic, recreational, environmental, and other needs and to plan, coordinate, restore, and regulate the utilization of our water resources in a manner that ensures that the public interest is protected.

(4) All rules and all pending business before the department of ecology pertaining to the powers, functions, and duties transferred shall be continued and acted upon by the commission. All existing contracts and obligations shall remain in full force and shall be performed by the commission.

(5) The transfer of the powers, duties, functions, and personnel of the department of ecology shall not affect the validity of any act performed before the effective date of this section.

(6) If apportionments of budgeted funds are required because of the transfers directed by this section, the director of financial management shall certify the apportionments to the agencies affected, the state auditor, and the state treasurer. Each of these shall make the appropriate transfer and adjustments in funds and appropriation accounts and equipment records in accordance with the certification.

(7) This section does not alter any existing collective bargaining unit or the provisions of any existing collective bargaining agreement until the agreement has expired or until the bargaining unit has been modified by action of the personnel resources board as provided by law.

On page 4, after line 23, insert the following:

"Sec. 8. RCW 82.08.050 and 2001 c 188 s 4 are each amended to read as follows:

(1)(a) The tax hereby imposed shall be paid by the buyer to the seller, and each seller shall collect from the buyer the full amount of the tax payable in respect to each taxable sale in accordance with the schedule of collections adopted by the department pursuant to the provisions of RCW 82.08.060. The tax required by this chapter, to be collected by the seller, minus the amount retained by the seller for administration as provided in subsection (2) of this section, shall be deemed to be held in trust by the seller until paid to the department, and any seller who appropriates or converts the tax collected to his or her own use or to any use other than the payment of the tax to the extent that the money required to be collected is not available for payment on the due date as prescribed in this chapter shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

(b) In case any seller fails to collect the tax herein imposed or having collected the tax, fails to pay it to the department in the manner prescribed by this chapter, whether such failure is the result of his or her own acts or the result of acts or conditions beyond his or her control, he or she shall, nevertheless, be personally liable to the state for the amount of the tax, unless the seller has taken from the buyer in good faith a properly executed resale certificate under RCW 82.04.470 or a copy of a direct pay permit issued under RCW 82.32.087.

(c) The amount of tax, until paid by the buyer to the seller or to the department, shall constitute a debt from the buyer to the seller and any seller who fails or refuses to collect the tax as required with intent to violate the provisions of this chapter or to gain some advantage or benefit, either direct or indirect, and any buyer who refuses to pay any tax due under this chapter shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. The tax required by this chapter to be collected by the seller shall be stated separately from the selling price in any sales invoice or other instrument of sale. On all retail sales through vending machines, the tax need not be stated separately from the selling price or collected separately from the buyer. For purposes of determining the tax due from the buyer to the seller and from the seller to the department it shall be conclusively presumed that the selling price quoted in any price list, sales document, contract or other agreement between the parties does not include the tax imposed by this chapter, but if the seller advertises the price as including the tax or that the seller is paying the tax, the advertised price shall not be considered the selling price.

(d) Where a buyer has failed to pay to the seller the tax imposed by this chapter and the seller has not paid the amount of the tax to the department, the department may, in its discretion, proceed directly against the buyer for collection of the tax, in which case a penalty of ten percent may be added to the amount of the tax for failure of the buyer to pay the same to the seller, regardless of when the tax may be collected by the department; and all of the provisions of chapter 82.32 RCW, including those relative to interest and penalties, shall apply in addition; and, for the sole purpose of applying the various provisions of chapter 82.32 RCW, the twenty-fifth day of the month following the tax period in which the purchase was made shall be considered as the due date of the tax.

(2) Each seller shall retain, as reimbursement for the costs associated with collection and administration under this section, the following amounts each reporting period:

(a) 1.05 percent of the tax collected under this section on the first forty thousand dollars of reimbursable sales per month in the reporting period; and

(b) 0.50 percent of the tax collected under this section on reimbursable sales greater than forty thousand dollars but less than seven hundred thousand per month in the reporting period.

(3) No reimbursement is allowed under this section for taxable sales of seven hundred thousand dollars or more per month in the reporting period.

(4) As used in this section "reimbursable sale" means any sale subject to tax under RCW 82.08.020, other than sales defined in RCW 82.04.050(2)(b).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. A new section is added to chapter 82.04 RCW to read as follows:

This chapter does not apply to amounts retained by a seller for administration under RCW 82.08.050(2).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. Sections 8 and 9 of this act take effect October 1, 2003."

POINT OF ORDER

Representative Hatfield requested a scope and object ruling on amendment (049) to Substitute House Bill No. 2735.

SPEAKER'S RULING

Mr. Speaker: "Representative Hatfield, your point is well taken."

Representative Holmquist moved the adoption of amendment (055):

On page 3, after line 3, insert the following:

"Sec. 4. RCW 36.70A.040 and 2000 c 36 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) Each county that has:

(a) Both a population of fifty thousand or more and, until May 16, 1995, has had its population increase by more than ten percent in the previous ten years or, ~~((on or after))~~ beginning May 16, 1995, through June 30, 1998, has had its population increase by more than seventeen percent in the previous ten years; or

(b) On or after July 1, 1998, has both a population of sixty thousand or more and has had its population increase by more than seventeen percent in the previous ten years, and the cities located within such county, and any other county regardless of its population that has had its population increase by more than twenty percent in the previous ten years, and the cities located within such county, shall ~~((conform with all of the requirements of this chapter))~~ plan under this section. However, the county legislative authority of such a county with a population of less than fifty thousand population may adopt a resolution removing the county, and the cities located within the county, from the requirements ~~((of adopting comprehensive land use plans and development regulations under this chapter))~~ to plan under this section if this resolution is adopted and filed with the department by December 31, 1990, for counties initially meeting this set of criteria, or within sixty days of the date the office of financial management certifies that a county meets this set of criteria under subsection (5) of this section. For the purposes of this subsection, a county not currently planning under this chapter is not required to include in its population count those persons confined in a correctional facility under the jurisdiction of the department of corrections that is located in the county.

Once a county meets either of these sets of criteria, the requirement to ~~((conform with all of the requirements of this chapter))~~ plan under this section remains in effect, even if the county no longer meets one of these sets of criteria.

(2) The county legislative authority of any county that does not meet either of the sets of criteria established under subsection (1) of this section may adopt a resolution indicating its intention ~~((to have subsection (1) of this section apply to))~~ that the county plan under this section. Each city, located in a county that ~~((chooses to plan))~~ adopts a resolution under this subsection, shall ~~((conform with all of the requirements of this chapter))~~ plan under this section. Once such a resolution has been adopted, the county and the cities located within the county remain subject to all of the requirements of this ~~((chapter))~~ section, unless the county removes itself, and the cities located within the county, from the requirement to plan under this section under the procedures in subsection (8) of this section.

(3) Any county or city that is initially required to ~~((conform with all of the requirements of this chapter))~~ plan under ~~((subsection (1) of))~~ this section shall take actions under this chapter as follows:

(a) The county legislative authority shall adopt a countywide planning policy under RCW 36.70A.210; (b) the county and each city located within the county shall designate critical areas, agricultural lands, forest lands, and mineral resource lands, and adopt development regulations conserving these designated agricultural lands, forest lands, and mineral resource lands and protecting these designated critical areas, under RCW 36.70A.170 and 36.70A.060; (c) the county shall designate and take other actions related to urban growth areas under RCW 36.70A.110; (d) if the county has a population of fifty thousand or more, the county and each city located within the county shall adopt a comprehensive plan under this chapter and development regulations that are consistent with and implement the comprehensive plan on or before July 1, 1994, and if the county has a population of less than fifty thousand, the county and each city located within the county shall adopt a comprehensive plan under this chapter and development regulations that are consistent with and implement the comprehensive plan by January 1, 1995, but if the governor makes written findings that a county with a population of less than fifty thousand or a city located within such a county is not making reasonable progress toward adopting a comprehensive plan and development regulations the governor may reduce this deadline for such actions to be taken by no more than one hundred eighty days. Any county or city subject to this subsection may obtain an additional six months before it is required to have adopted its development regulations by submitting a letter notifying the department of community, trade, and economic development of its need prior to the deadline for adopting both a comprehensive plan and development regulations.

(4) Any county or city that is required to ~~((conform with all the requirements of this chapter))~~ plan under this section, as a result of the county legislative authority adopting its resolution of intention under subsection (2) of this section, and the county has not removed itself, and the cities located within the county, from the requirement to plan under this section under the procedures in subsection (8) of this section, shall take actions under this chapter as follows: (a) The county legislative authority shall adopt a countywide planning policy under RCW 36.70A.210; (b) the county and each city that is located within the county shall adopt development regulations conserving agricultural lands, forest lands, and mineral resource lands it designated under RCW 36.70A.060 within one year of the date the county legislative authority adopts its resolution of intention; (c) the county shall designate and take other actions related to urban growth areas under RCW 36.70A.110; and (d) the county and each city that is located within the county shall adopt a comprehensive plan and development regulations that are consistent with and implement the comprehensive plan not later than four years from the date the county legislative authority adopts its resolution of intention, but a county or city may obtain an additional six months before it is required to have adopted its development regulations by submitting a letter notifying the department of community, trade, and economic development of its need prior to the deadline for adopting both a comprehensive plan and development regulations.

(5) If the office of financial management certifies that the population of a county that ~~((previously had not been required to))~~ does not plan under ((subsection (1) or (2) of)) this section has changed sufficiently to meet either of the sets of criteria specified under subsection (1) of this section, and where applicable, the county legislative authority has not adopted a resolution removing the county from these requirements as provided in subsection (1) of this section, the county and each city within such county shall take actions under this chapter as follows: (a) The county legislative authority shall adopt a countywide planning policy under RCW 36.70A.210; (b) the county and each city located within the county shall adopt development regulations under RCW 36.70A.060 conserving agricultural lands, forest lands, and mineral resource lands it designated within one year of the certification by the office of financial management; (c) the county shall designate and take other actions related to urban growth areas under RCW 36.70A.110; and (d) the county and each city located within the county shall adopt a comprehensive land use plan and development regulations that are consistent with and implement the comprehensive plan within four years of the certification by the office of financial management, but a county or city may obtain an additional six months before it is required to have adopted its development regulations by submitting a letter notifying the department of community, trade, and economic development of its need prior to the deadline for adopting both a comprehensive plan and development regulations.

(6) A copy of each document that is required under this section shall be submitted to the department at the time of its adoption.

(7) Cities and counties planning under this chapter must amend the transportation element of the comprehensive plan to be in compliance with this chapter and chapter 47.80 RCW no later than December 31, 2000.

(8) The county legislative authority of any county with a population of less than fifty thousand that is required to plan by reason of adopting a resolution under subsection (2) of this section, and any county with a population of less than fifty thousand that at any time has had the authority to remove itself from the requirements of this chapter by adoption of a resolution under subsection (1) of this section, may remove the county and the cities located within the county from the requirement to plan under this section under the procedures in this subsection.

(a) By December 31, 2002, the county legislative authority, by majority vote, may adopt a resolution stating its intent to remove the county, and the cities located within the county, from the requirement to plan under this section and submit the resolution to the cities located within the county.

(b) If the county has two or more cities, the county and the cities located within the county are no longer subject to the requirement to plan:

(i) If within sixty days of submission of the resolution of intent, a majority of the cities adopt resolutions concurring in the resolution of the county; or

(ii) If the cities do not concur within sixty days under (b)(i) of this subsection, if a resolution removing the county and the cities located within the county from the requirement to plan under this section is submitted to and approved by a majority of the registered voters in the county at the next general election.

(c) If the county has one city, the county and the city located within the county are no longer subject to the requirement to plan:

(i) If within sixty days of submission of the resolution of intent, the city adopts a resolution concurring in the resolution of the county; or

(ii) If the city does not concur within sixty days under (c)(i) of this subsection, if a resolution removing the county and the city located within the county from the requirement to plan under this section is submitted to and approved by a majority of the registered voters in the county at the next general election.

(d) A county, and the cities located within the county, that are no longer required to plan under this section remain subject to the requirements for the designation and protection of critical areas and the designation of natural resource lands under RCW 36.70A.060(2), 36.70A.170, and 36.70A.172.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. A new section is added to chapter 36.70A RCW to read as follows:
If a resolution is adopted or approved under RCW 36.70A.040(8) removing the county and the cities located within the county from the requirement to plan under this chapter, any claim pending before a board or court that relates to the requirement to plan under this chapter is moot and the claim shall be dismissed."

POINT OF ORDER

Representative Hatfield requested a scope and object ruling on amendment (055) to Substitute House Bill No. 2735.

SPEAKER'S RULING

Mr. Speaker: "Representative Hatfield, your point is well taken."

Representative McMorris moved the adoption of amendment (050):

On page 3, line 4, after "Sec. 4." strike everything through "immediately." on line 7 and insert "Sections 1 and 2 of this act are necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and take effect immediately."

On page 3, line 8, after "Sec. 5." strike "This act expires" and insert "Sections 1 and 2 of this act expire"

On page 3, after line 8, insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. The legislature finds that many small businesses in the state are frustrated by the complexity of the regulatory system. The Washington Administrative Code containing agency rules now fills twelve volumes, and appears to be growing each year. While the vast majority of small businesses make a good faith attempt to comply with applicable laws and rules, many find it extremely difficult to keep up with agencies' issuance of new rules and requirements. Therefore, state agencies are directed to make a good faith attempt to notify businesses affected by rule changes that may subject noncomplying businesses to penalties. Further, the legislature finds that requiring the governor's signatures on new agency rules will promote accountability and reduce future regulatory burdens on small businesses. Finally, the legislature finds that small businesses lack the resources that state agencies routinely use in defending administrative rules that may have been adopted unlawfully, without regard to proper administrative procedures, or which exceed an agency's statutory authority. The legislature therefore finds that it is necessary to place the burden of demonstrating that new administrative rules are adopted in a lawful manner upon the adopting agency.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. A new section is added to chapter 34.05 RCW to read as follows:

Within two hundred days of the effective date of a rule that imposes additional requirements on businesses the violation of which subjects the business to a penalty, assessment, or administrative sanction, an agency shall make a good faith effort to notify businesses affected by the rule of the requirements of the rule and how to obtain technical assistance to comply. For purposes of this section, "good faith" means: (1) The agency at least notifies businesses in the standard industrial classifications or their successor identified in the rule-making file as businesses affected by the rule that are registered with the department of revenue; or (2) for rules imposing additional requirements only on persons or firms licensed, registered, or operating under a permit, the agency notifies those persons or firms holding the license, registration, or permit. The notification must announce the rule change, briefly summarize the rule change, and include a contact for more information. Notification may be by individual notice, agency bulletins or newsletters, or any other means that will reasonably inform affected businesses. Failure to notify a specific business under this section does not invalidate a rule or waive the requirement to comply with the rule.

Sec. 8. RCW 34.05.360 and 1988 c 288 s 311 are each amended to read as follows:

The order of adoption by which each rule is adopted by an agency shall contain all of the following:

- (1) The signature of the governor;
- (2) The date the agency adopted the rule;
- ~~((2))~~ (3) A concise statement of the purpose of the rule;
- ~~((3))~~ (4) A reference to all rules repealed, amended, or suspended by the rule;
- ~~((4))~~ (5) A reference to the specific statutory or other authority authorizing adoption of the rule;
- ~~((5))~~ (6) Any findings required by any provision of law as a precondition to adoption or effectiveness of the rule; and
- ~~((6))~~ (7) The effective date of the rule if other than that specified in RCW 34.05.380(2).

Sec. 9. RCW 34.05.570 and 1995 c 403 s 802 are each amended to read as follows:

- (1) Generally. Except to the extent that this chapter or another statute provides otherwise:
 - (a) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section and except that an agency bears the burden of demonstrating that the agency action was authorized by law, the burden of demonstrating the invalidity of agency action is on the party asserting invalidity;
 - (b) The validity of agency action shall be determined in accordance with the standards of review provided in this section, as applied to the agency action at the time it was taken;
 - (c) The court shall make a separate and distinct ruling on each material issue on which the court's decision is based; and
 - (d) The court shall grant relief only if it determines that a person seeking judicial relief has been substantially prejudiced by the action complained of.
- (2) Review of rules. (a) A rule may be reviewed by petition for declaratory judgment filed pursuant to this subsection or in the context of any other review proceeding under this section. In an action challenging the validity of a rule, the agency shall be made a party to the proceeding.
- (b) The validity of any rule may be determined upon petition for a declaratory judgment addressed to the superior court (i) of Thurston county, (ii) of the county of the petitioner's residence or principal place of business, or (iii) in a county where property owned by the petitioner and affected by the contested rule is located, when it appears that the rule, or its threatened application, interferes with or impairs or immediately threatens to interfere with or impair the legal rights or privileges of the petitioner. The declaratory judgment order may be entered whether or not the petitioner has first requested the agency to pass upon the validity of the rule in question. When the validity of a rule is challenged, after the petitioner has identified the defects in the rule, the burden of going forward with the evidence is on the agency.

(c) In a proceeding involving review of a rule, the court shall declare the rule invalid only if it finds that: The rule violates constitutional provisions; the rule exceeds the statutory authority of the agency; the rule was adopted without compliance with statutory rule-making procedures; or the rule is arbitrary and capricious.

(3) Review of agency orders in adjudicative proceedings. The court shall grant relief from an agency order in an adjudicative proceeding only if it determines that:

(a) The order, or the statute or rule on which the order is based, is in violation of constitutional provisions on its face or as applied;

(b) The order is outside the statutory authority or jurisdiction of the agency conferred by any provision of law;

(c) The agency has engaged in unlawful procedure or decision-making process, or has failed to follow a prescribed procedure;

(d) The agency has erroneously interpreted or applied the law;

(e) The order is not supported by evidence that is substantial when viewed in light of the whole record before the court, which includes the agency record for judicial review, supplemented by any additional evidence received by the court under this chapter;

(f) The agency has not decided all issues requiring resolution by the agency;

(g) A motion for disqualification under RCW 34.05.425 or 34.12.050 was made and was improperly denied or, if no motion was made, facts are shown to support the grant of such a motion that were not known and were not reasonably discoverable by the challenging party at the appropriate time for making such a motion;

(h) The order is inconsistent with a rule of the agency unless the agency explains the inconsistency by stating facts and reasons to demonstrate a rational basis for inconsistency; ((~~or~~))

(i) The order is arbitrary or capricious; or

(j) The order is based on a de facto rule.

(4) Review of other agency action.

(a) All agency action not reviewable under subsection (2) or (3) of this section shall be reviewed under this subsection.

(b) A person whose rights are violated by an agency's failure to perform a duty that is required by law to be performed may file a petition for review pursuant to RCW 34.05.514, seeking an order pursuant to this subsection requiring performance. Within twenty days after service of the petition for review, the agency shall file and serve an answer to the petition, made in the same manner as an answer to a complaint in a civil action. The court may hear evidence, pursuant to RCW 34.05.562, on material issues of fact raised by the petition and answer.

(c) Relief for persons aggrieved by the performance of an agency action, including the exercise of discretion, or an action under (b) of this subsection can be granted only if the court determines that the action is:

(i) Unconstitutional;

(ii) Outside the statutory authority of the agency or the authority conferred by a provision of law;

(iii) Arbitrary or capricious; ((~~or~~))

(iv) Taken by persons who were not properly constituted as agency officials lawfully entitled to take such action; or

(v) Based on a de facto rule.

Sec. 10. RCW 28A.300.040 and 1999 c 348 s 6 are each amended to read as follows:

In addition to any other powers and duties as provided by law, the powers and duties of the superintendent of public instruction shall be:

"Sec. 4. RCW 90.48.465 and 1998 c 262 s 16 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department shall establish annual fees to collect expenses for issuing and administering each class of permits under RCW 90.48.160, 90.48.162, and 90.48.260. An initial fee schedule shall be established by rule within one year of March 1, 1989, and thereafter the fee schedule shall be adjusted no more often than once every two years. Except as specified under subsection (6) of this section, this fee schedule shall apply to all permits, regardless of date of issuance, and fees shall be assessed prospectively. Except as specified under subsection (6) of this section, all fees charged shall be based on factors relating to the complexity of permit issuance and compliance and may be based on pollutant loading and toxicity and be designed to encourage recycling and the reduction of the quantity of pollutants. Except as specified under subsection (6) of this section, fees shall be established in amounts to fully recover and not to exceed expenses incurred by the department in processing permit applications and modifications, monitoring and evaluating compliance with permits, conducting inspections, securing laboratory analysis of samples taken during inspections, reviewing plans and documents directly related to operations of permittees, overseeing performance of delegated pretreatment programs, and supporting the overhead expenses that are directly related to these activities.

(2) The annual fee paid by a municipality, as defined in 33 U.S.C. Sec. 1362, for all domestic wastewater facility permits issued under RCW 90.48.162 and 90.48.260 shall not exceed the total of a maximum of fifteen cents per month per residence or residential equivalent contributing to the municipality's wastewater system. The department shall adopt by rule a schedule of credits for any municipality engaging in a comprehensive monitoring program beyond the requirements imposed by the department, with the credits available for five years from March 1, 1989, and with the total amount of all credits not to exceed fifty thousand dollars in the five-year period.

(3) The department shall ensure that indirect dischargers do not pay twice for the administrative expense of a permit. Accordingly, administrative expenses for permits issued by a municipality under RCW 90.48.165 are not recoverable by the department.

(4) In establishing fees, the department shall consider the economic impact of fees on small dischargers and the economic impact of fees on public entities required to obtain permits for storm water runoff and shall provide appropriate adjustments.

(5) The fee for an individual permit issued for a dairy farm as defined under chapter 90.64 RCW shall be fifty cents per animal unit up to one thousand one hundred sixty-seven dollars for fiscal year 1998 and one thousand two hundred fourteen dollars for fiscal year 1999. The fee for a general permit issued for a dairy farm as defined under chapter 90.64 RCW shall be fifty cents per animal unit up to eight hundred seventeen dollars for fiscal year 1998 and eight hundred fifty dollars for fiscal year 1999. Thereafter, these fees may rise in accordance with the fiscal growth factor as provided in chapter 43.135 RCW.

(6) If a commercial or industrial permittee, operating under a permit issued under either RCW 90.48.160 or 90.48.260, operates for one year without violating the conditions of the permit, that permittee qualifies for a three percent reduction in the fees charged by the department under this chapter for each consecutive year in which the permittee has not violated the permit conditions. The baseline for calculating the reductions is the permit fee charged by the department in 2000, or the latest year in which the permittee was found to have violated the conditions of the permit. For purposes of calculating fees for 2003, the department shall make the reductions retroactive to year 2000 for all permittees that have not violated the conditions of their permits since 2000. If, during the preceding year, a permittee is found to have violated the conditions of the permit, the department shall recalculate the permit fees for the next calendar year based on its current schedule of fees developed under this section.

(7) All fees collected under this section shall be deposited in the water quality permit account hereby created in the state treasury. Moneys in the account may be appropriated only for purposes of administering permits under RCW 90.48.160, 90.48.162, and 90.48.260.

~~((7))~~ (8) Beginning with the biennium ending June 30, 1997, the department shall present a biennial progress report on the use of moneys from the account to the legislature. The report will be due December 31st of odd-numbered years. The report shall consist of information on fees collected, actual expenses incurred, and anticipated expenses for the current and following fiscal years."

(1) In addition to any termination provisions contained in an environmental excellence program agreement, a director of an agency may terminate an environmental excellence program agreement in whole or in part with respect to a legal requirement administered by that agency, if the director finds: (a) That after notice and a reasonable opportunity to cure, the covered facility is in violation of a material requirement of the agreement; (b) that the facility has repeatedly violated any requirements of the agreement; (c) that the operation of the facility under the agreement has caused endangerment to public health or the environment that cannot be remedied by modification of the agreement; or (d) that the facility has failed to make substantial progress in achieving the voluntary goals identified under RCW 43.21K.050(4), and these goals are material to the overall objectives of the agreement.

(2) A director of an agency terminating an environmental excellence program agreement in any respect must provide each of the parties to the agreement with a written notice of that action specifying the extent to which the environmental excellence program agreement is to be terminated, the factual and legal basis for termination, and a description of the opportunity for judicial review of the decision to terminate the environmental excellence program agreement.

(3) If a director terminates less than the entire environmental excellence program agreement, the owner or operator of the covered facility may elect to terminate the entire agreement as it applies to the facility.

(4) If a director decides to terminate an environmental excellence program agreement because the facility has not been able to meet the legal requirements established under the agreement, or because operation of the facility under the agreement has caused endangerment to public health or the environment, as provided in subsection (1)(c) of this section, the director may establish in the notice of termination: (a) Practical interim requirements for the facility that are no less stringent than the legal requirements that would apply to the facility in the absence of the agreement; and (b) a practical schedule of compliance for meeting the interim requirements. The interim requirements and schedule of compliance shall be subject to judicial review under the provisions of RCW 43.21K.090(4). The facility must comply with the interim requirements established under this subsection after they are final and no longer subject to judicial review until applicable permits or permit modifications have been issued under RCW 43.21K.100."

"Sec. 4. RCW 90.54.020 and 1997 c 442 s 201 are each amended to read as follows:

Utilization and management of the waters of the state shall be guided by the following general declaration of fundamentals:

(1) Uses of water for domestic, stock watering, industrial, commercial, agricultural, irrigation, hydroelectric power production, mining, fish and wildlife maintenance and enhancement, recreational, and thermal power production purposes, and preservation of environmental and aesthetic values, and all other uses compatible with the enjoyment of the public waters of the state, are declared to be beneficial.

(2) Allocation of waters among potential uses and users shall be based generally on the securing of the maximum net benefits for the people of the state. Maximum net benefits shall constitute total benefits less costs including opportunities lost.

(3) The quality of the natural environment shall be protected and, where possible, enhanced as follows:

(a) Perennial rivers and streams of the state shall be retained with base flows necessary to provide for preservation of wildlife, fish, scenic, aesthetic and other environmental values, and navigational values. Lakes and ponds shall be retained substantially in their natural condition. Withdrawals of water which would conflict therewith shall be authorized only in those situations where it is clear that overriding considerations of the public interest will be served.

(b) Waters of the state shall be of high quality. Regardless of the quality of the waters of the state, all wastes and other materials and substances proposed for entry into said waters shall be provided with all known, available, and reasonable methods of treatment prior to entry. Notwithstanding that standards of quality established for the waters of the state would not be violated, wastes and other materials and substances shall not be allowed to enter such waters which will reduce the existing quality thereof, except in those situations where it is clear that overriding considerations of the public interest will be served. Technology-based effluent limitations or standards for discharges for municipal water treatment plants located on the Chehalis, Columbia, Cowlitz, Lewis, or Skagit river shall be adjusted to reflect credit for substances removed from the plant intake water if:

(i) The municipality demonstrates that the intake water is drawn from the same body of water into which the discharge is made; and

(ii) The municipality demonstrates that no violation of receiving water quality standards or appreciable environmental degradation will result.

(4) The development of multipurpose water storage facilities shall be a high priority for programs of water allocation, planning, management, and efficiency. The department, other state agencies, local governments, and planning units formed under section 107 or 108 of this act shall evaluate the potential for the development of new storage projects and the benefits and effects of storage in reducing damage to stream banks and property, increasing the use of land, providing water for municipal, industrial, agricultural, power generation, and other beneficial uses, and improving stream flow regimes for fisheries and other instream uses.

(5) Adequate and safe supplies of water shall be preserved and protected in potable condition to satisfy human domestic needs.

(6) Multiple-purpose impoundment structures are to be preferred over single-purpose structures. Due regard shall be given to means and methods for protection of fishery resources in the planning for and construction of water impoundment structures and other artificial obstructions.

(7) Federal, state, and local governments, individuals, corporations, groups, and other entities shall be encouraged to carry out practices of conservation as they relate to the use of the waters of the state. In addition to traditional development approaches, improved water use efficiency and conservation shall be emphasized in the management of the state's water resources and in some cases will be a potential new source of water with which to meet future needs throughout the state.

(8) Development of water supply systems, whether publicly or privately owned, which provide water to the public generally in regional areas within the state shall be encouraged. Development of water supply systems for multiple domestic use which will not serve the public generally shall be discouraged where water supplies are available from water systems serving the public.

(9) Full recognition shall be given in the administration of water allocation and use programs to the natural interrelationships of surface and ground waters.

(10) Expressions of the public interest will be sought at all stages of water planning and allocation discussions.

(11) Water management programs, including but not limited to, water quality, flood control, drainage, erosion control and storm runoff are deemed to be in the public interest.

(12) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, any legal requirement under subsection (3)(b) of this section is superseded and replaced in accordance with the terms and provisions of an environmental excellence program agreement, entered into under chapter 43.21K RCW."

Correct the title.

~~(((1) The question whether the bonds shall be issued, as provided in RCW 28A.530.010, shall be determined at an election to be held pursuant to RCW 39.36.050. If a majority of the votes cast at such election favor the issuance of such bonds, the board of directors must issue such bonds: PROVIDED, That if the amount of bonds to be issued, together with any outstanding indebtedness of the district that only needs a simple majority voter approval, exceeds three eighths of one percent of the value of the taxable property in said district, as the term "value of the taxable property" is defined in RCW 39.36.015, then three fifths of the votes cast at such election must be in favor of the issuance of such bonds, before the board of directors is authorized to issue said bonds.~~

~~(2))~~ The resolution adopted by the board of directors calling ~~((the))~~ an election ~~((in subsection (1) of this section))~~ shall specify the purposes of the debt financing measure, including the specific buildings to be constructed or remodeled and any additional specific purposes as authorized by RCW 28A.530.010. If the debt financing measure anticipates the receipt of state financing assistance under chapter 28A.525 RCW, the board resolution also shall describe the specific anticipated purpose of the state assistance. If the school board subsequently determines that state or local circumstances should cause any alteration to the specific expenditures from the debt financing or of the state assistance, the board shall first conduct a public hearing to consider those circumstances and to receive public testimony. If the board then determines that any such alterations are in the best interests of the district, it may adopt a new resolution or amend the original resolution at a public meeting held subsequent to the meeting at which public testimony was received."

After completion and final acceptance of each project or discrete segment thereof, the agreement shall provide for state ownership of the transportation systems and facilities and lease to the private entity unless the state elects to provide for ownership of the facility by the private entity during the term of the agreement.

The state shall lease each of the demonstration projects, or applicable project segments, to the private entities for operating purposes for up to fifty years.

(4) The department may exercise any power possessed by it to facilitate the development, construction, financing operation, and maintenance of transportation projects under this chapter. Agreements for maintenance services entered into under this section shall provide for full reimbursement for services rendered by the department or other state agencies. (5) The plans and specifications for each project constructed under this section shall comply with the department's standards for state projects. A facility constructed by and leased to a private entity is deemed to be a part of the state highway system for purposes of identification, maintenance, and enforcement of traffic laws and for the purposes of applicable sections of this title. Upon reversion of the facility to the state, the project must meet all applicable state standards. Agreements shall address responsibility for reconstruction or renovations that are required in order for a facility to meet all applicable state standards upon reversion of the facility to the state.

(6) For the purpose of facilitating these projects and to assist the private entity in the financing, development, construction, and operation of the transportation systems and facilities, the agreements may include provisions for the department to exercise its authority, including the lease of facilities, rights of way, and airspace, exercise of the power of eminent domain, granting of development rights and opportunities, granting of necessary easements and rights of access, issuance of permits and other authorizations, protection from competition, remedies in the event of default of either of the parties, granting of contractual and real property rights, liability during construction and the term of the lease, authority to negotiate acquisition of rights of way in excess of appraised value, and any other provision deemed necessary by the secretary.

(7) The agreements entered into under this section may include provisions authorizing the state to grant necessary easements and lease to a private entity existing rights of way or rights of way subsequently acquired with public or private financing. The agreements may also include provisions to lease to the entity airspace above or below the right of way associated or to be associated with the private entity's transportation facility. In consideration for the reversion rights in these privately constructed facilities, the department may negotiate a charge for the lease of airspace rights during the term of the agreement for a period not to exceed fifty years. If, after the expiration of this period, the department continues to lease these airspace rights to the private entity, it shall do so only at fair market value. The agreement may also provide the private entity the right of first refusal to undertake projects utilizing airspace owned by the state in the vicinity of the public-private project.

(8) Agreements under this section may include any contractual provision that is necessary to protect the project revenues required to repay the costs incurred to study, plan, design, finance, acquire, build, install, operate, enforce laws, and maintain toll highways, bridges, and tunnels and which will not unreasonably inhibit or prohibit the development of additional public transportation systems and facilities. Agreements under this section must secure and maintain liability insurance coverage in amounts appropriate to protect the project's viability and may address state indemnification of the private entity for design and construction liability where the state has approved relevant design and construction plans.

(9) Agreements shall include a process that provides for public involvement in decision making with respect to the development of the projects.

(10)(a) In carrying out the public involvement process required in subsection (9) of this section, the private entity shall proactively seek public participation through a process appropriate to the characteristics of the project that assesses and demonstrates public support among: Users of the project, residents of communities in the vicinity of the project, and residents of communities impacted by the project.

(b) The private entity shall conduct a comprehensive public involvement process that provides, periodically throughout the development and implementation of the project, users and residents of communities in the affected project area an opportunity to comment upon key issues regarding the project including, but not limited to: (i) Alternative sizes and scopes; (ii) design; (iii) environmental assessment; (iv) right of way and access plans; (v) traffic impacts; (vi) tolling or user fee strategies and tolling or user fee ranges; (vii) project cost; (viii) construction impacts; (ix) facility operation; and (x) any other salient characteristics.

(c) If the affected project area has not been defined, the private entity shall define the affected project area by conducting, at a minimum: (i) A comparison of the estimated percentage of residents of communities in the vicinity of the project and in other communities impacted by the project who could be subject to tolls or user fees and the estimated percentage of other users and transient traffic that could be subject to tolls or user fees; (ii) an analysis of the anticipated traffic diversion patterns; (iii) an analysis of the potential economic impact resulting from proposed toll rates or user fee rates imposed on residents, commercial traffic, and commercial entities in communities in the vicinity of and impacted by the project; (iv) an analysis of the economic impact of tolls or user fees on the price of goods and services generally; and (v) an analysis of the relationship of the project to state transportation needs and benefits.

The agreement may require an advisory vote by users of and residents in the affected project area.

(d) In seeking public participation, the private entity shall establish a local involvement committee or committees comprised of residents of the affected project area, individuals who represent cities and counties in the affected project area, organizations formed to support or oppose the project, if such organizations exist, and users of the project. The private entity shall, at a minimum, establish a committee as required under the specifications of RCW 47.46.030(6)(b) (ii) and (iii) and appointments to such committee shall be made no later than thirty days after the project area is defined.

(f) The department and the private entity shall provide the legislative transportation committee and local involvement committees with progress reports on the status of the public involvement process including the results of an advisory vote, if any occurs.

(11) Nothing in this chapter limits the right of the secretary and his or her agents to render such advice and to make such recommendations as they deem to be in the best interests of the state and the public.

The department of corrections shall supply appropriate security and custody services without charge to the participating firms.

Inmates who work in free venture industries shall do so at their own choice. They shall be paid a wage comparable to the wage paid for work of a similar nature in the locality in which the industry is located, as determined by the director of correctional industries. If the director cannot reasonably determine the comparable wage, then the pay shall not be less than the federal minimum wage.

An inmate who is employed in the class I program of correctional industries shall not be eligible for unemployment compensation benefits pursuant to any of the provisions of Title 50 RCW until released on parole or discharged.

(2) CLASS II: TAX REDUCTION INDUSTRIES. Industries in this class shall be state-owned and operated enterprises designed to reduce the costs for goods and services for tax-supported agencies and for nonprofit organizations. The industries selected for development within this class shall, as much as possible, match the available pool of inmate work skills and aptitudes with the work opportunities in the free community. The industries shall be closely patterned after private sector industries but with the objective of reducing public support costs rather than making a profit. The products and services of this industry, including purchased products and services necessary for a complete product line, may be sold to public agencies, to nonprofit organizations, and to private contractors when the goods purchased will be ultimately used by a public agency or a nonprofit organization. Clothing manufactured by an industry in this class may be donated to nonprofit organizations that provide clothing free of charge to low-income persons. Correctional industries products and services shall be reviewed by the correctional industries board of directors before offering such products and services for sale to private contractors. The board of directors shall conduct a yearly marketing review of the products and services offered under this subsection. Such review shall include an analysis of the potential impact of the proposed products and services on the Washington state business community. To avoid waste or spoilage and consequent loss to the state, when there is no public sector market for such goods, byproducts and surpluses of timber, agricultural, and animal husbandry enterprises may be sold to private persons, at private sale. Surplus byproducts and surpluses of timber, agricultural and animal husbandry enterprises that cannot be sold to public agencies or to private persons may be donated to nonprofit organizations. All sales of surplus products shall be carried out in accordance with rules prescribed by the secretary.

Security and custody services shall be provided without charge by the department of corrections.

Inmates working in this class of industries shall do so at their own choice and shall be paid for their work on a gratuity scale which shall not exceed the wage paid for work of a similar nature in the locality in which the industry is located and which is approved by the director of correctional industries.

Subject to approval of the correctional industries board, provisions of (~~RCW 41.06.380 prohibiting contracting out work performed by classified employees~~) section 11 of this act shall not apply to contracts with Washington state businesses entered into by the department of corrections through class II industries.

(3) CLASS III: INSTITUTIONAL SUPPORT INDUSTRIES. Industries in this class shall be operated by the department of corrections. They shall be designed and managed to accomplish the following objectives:

(a) Whenever possible, to provide basic work training and experience so that the inmate will be able to qualify for better work both within correctional industries and the free community. It is not intended that an inmate's work within this class of industries should be his or her final and total work experience as an inmate.

(b) Whenever possible, to provide forty hours of work or work training per week.

(c) Whenever possible, to offset tax and other public support costs.

Supervising, management, and custody staff shall be employees of the department.

All able and eligible inmates who are assigned work and who are not working in other classes of industries shall work in this class.

Except for inmates who work in work training programs, inmates in this class shall be paid for their work in accordance with an inmate gratuity scale. The scale shall be adopted by the secretary of corrections.

(4) CLASS IV: COMMUNITY WORK INDUSTRIES. Industries in this class shall be operated by the department of corrections. They shall be designed and managed to provide services in the inmate's resident community at a reduced cost. The services shall be provided to public agencies, to persons who are poor or infirm, or to nonprofit organizations.

Inmates in this program shall reside in facilities owned by, contracted for, or licensed by the department of corrections. A unit of local government shall provide work supervision services without charge to the state and shall pay the inmate's wage.

The department of corrections shall reimburse participating units of local government for liability and workers compensation insurance costs.

Inmates who work in this class of industries shall do so at their own choice and shall receive a gratuity which shall not exceed the wage paid for work of a similar nature in the locality in which the industry is located.

(5) CLASS V: COMMUNITY SERVICE PROGRAMS. Programs in this class shall be subject to supervision by the department of corrections. The purpose of this class of industries is to enable an inmate, placed on community supervision, to work off all or part of a community service order as ordered by the sentencing court.

Employment shall be in a community service program operated by the state, local units of government, or a nonprofit agency.

To the extent that funds are specifically made available for such purposes, the department of corrections shall reimburse nonprofit agencies for workers compensation insurance costs.

If an agreement is reached for the elimination of noncompliance, the agreement shall be reduced to writing and an order shall be issued by the commission setting forth the terms of the agreement. The noncomplying state agency, institution of higher education, or state patrol shall make a good faith effort to conciliate and make a full commitment to correct the noncompliance with any action that may be necessary to achieve compliance, provided such action is not inconsistent with the rules adopted under RCW 41.06.150(~~((21))~~) (19) and 43.43.340(5), whichever is appropriate.

Members of the Washington Management Service may not participate in collective bargaining. The DOP is no longer required to conduct salary and fringe benefit surveys for employees other than the State Patrol. Eliminates the PAB and transfers authority to hear appeals to the WPRB. It is the intent of the legislature that this chapter apply to these types of civil actions while preserving adequate rights and remedies for property owners who bring and maintain such actions.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter.

(1) "Action" means any civil lawsuit or action in contract or tort for damages or indemnity brought against a construction professional to assert a claim, whether by complaint, counterclaim, or cross-claim, for damage or the loss of use of real or personal property caused by a defect in the construction of a residence or in the substantial remodel of a residence. "Action" does not include any civil action in tort alleging personal injury or wrongful death to a person or persons resulting from a construction defect.

(2) "Association" means an association, master association, or subassociation as defined and provided for in RCW 64.34.020(4), 64.34.276, 64.34.278, and 64.38.010(1).

(3) "Claimant" means a homeowner or association who asserts a claim against a construction professional concerning a defect in the construction of a residence or in the substantial remodel of a residence.

(4) "Construction professional" means an architect, builder, builder vendor, contractor, subcontractor, engineer, or inspector, including, but not limited to, a dealer as defined in RCW 64.34.020(12) and a declarant as defined in RCW 64.34.020(13), performing or furnishing the design, supervision, inspection, construction, or observation of the construction of any improvement to real property, whether operating as a sole proprietor, partnership, corporation, or other business entity.

"Homeowner" includes, but is not limited to, a subsequent purchaser of a residence from any homeowner.

(6) "Residence" means a single-family house, duplex, triplex, quadraplex, or a unit in a multiunit residential structure in which title to each individual unit is transferred to the owner under a condominium or cooperative system, and shall include common elements as defined in RCW 64.34.020(6) and common areas as defined in RCW 64.38.010(4).

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. (1) In every construction defect action brought against a construction professional, the claimant shall, no later than forty-five days before filing an action, serve written notice of claim on the construction professional, by registered mail or personal service. The notice of claim shall state that the claimant asserts a construction defect claim against the construction professional and shall describe the claim in reasonable detail sufficient to determine the general nature of the defect and the problems resulting from the defect.

(2) Within twenty-one days after service of the notice of claim, the construction professional shall serve a written response on the claimant by registered mail or personal service. The written response shall:

(a) Propose to inspect the residence that is the subject of the claim and to complete the inspection within a specified time frame. The proposal shall include the statement that the construction professional shall, based on the inspection, offer to remedy the defect, compromise by payment, or dispute the claim;

(b) Offer to compromise and settle the claim by monetary payment without inspection. A construction professional's offer under this subsection (2)(b) to compromise and settle a homeowner's claim may include, but is not limited to, an express offer to purchase the claimant's residence that is the subject of the claim, and to pay the claimant's reasonable relocation costs; or

(c) State that the construction professional disputes the claim and will neither remedy the construction defect nor compromise and settle the claim.

(3)(a) If the construction professional disputes the claim or does not respond to the claimant's notice of claim within the time stated in subsection (2) of this section, the claimant may bring an action against the construction professional for the claim described in the notice of claim without further notice.

(b) If the claimant rejects the inspection proposal or the settlement offer made by the construction professional pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, the claimant shall serve written notice of the claimant's rejection on the construction professional. After service of the rejection, the claimant may bring an action against the construction professional for the construction defect claim described in the notice of claim. If the construction professional has not received from the claimant, within thirty days after the claimant's receipt of the construction professional's response, either an acceptance or rejection of the inspection proposal or settlement offer, then at anytime thereafter the construction professional may terminate the proposal or offer by written notice to the claimant, and the claimant may thereafter bring an action against the construction professional for the construction defect claim described in the notice of claim.

(4)(a) If the claimant elects to allow the construction professional to inspect in accordance with the construction professional's proposal pursuant to subsection (2)(a) of this section, the claimant shall provide the construction professional and its contractors or other agents reasonable access to the claimant's residence during normal working hours to inspect the premises and the claimed defect.

(b) Within fourteen days following completion of the inspection, the construction professional shall serve on the claimant:

(i) A written offer to remedy the construction defect at no cost to the claimant, including a description of the additional construction that the construction professional has determined from the inspection will be necessary to remedy the defect described in the claim, and a timetable for the completion of such construction;

(ii) A written offer to compromise and settle the claim by monetary payment pursuant to subsection (2)(b) of this section; or

(iii) A written statement that the construction professional will not proceed further to remedy the defect.

(c) If the construction professional does not proceed further to remedy the construction defect within the agreed timetable, or if the construction professional fails to comply with the provisions of (b) of this subsection, the claimant may bring an action against the construction professional for the claim described in the notice of claim without further notice.

(d) If the claimant rejects the offer made by the construction professional pursuant to (b)(i) or (ii) of this subsection to either remedy the construction defect or to compromise and settle the claim by monetary payment, the claimant shall serve written notice of the claimant's rejection on the construction professional. After service of the rejection notice, the claimant may, in accordance with this chapter, bring an action against the construction professional for the construction defect claim described in the notice of claim. If the construction professional has not received from the claimant, within thirty days after the claimant's receipt of the construction professional's response, either an acceptance or rejection of the offer made pursuant to (b)(i) or (ii) of this subsection, then at anytime thereafter the construction professional may terminate the proposal or offer by written notice to the claimant, and the claimant may thereafter bring an action against the construction professional for the construction defect claim described in the notice of claim.

(5)(a) Any claimant accepting the offer of a construction professional to remedy the construction defect pursuant to subsection (4)(b)(i) of this section shall do so by serving the construction professional with a written notice of acceptance within a reasonable time period after receipt of the offer, and no later than thirty days after receipt of the offer. The claimant shall provide the construction professional and its contractors or other agents reasonable access to the claimant's residence during normal working hours to perform and complete the construction by the timetable stated in the offer.

(b) The claimant and construction professional may, by written mutual agreement, alter the extent of construction or the timetable for completion of construction stated in the offer, including, but not limited to, repair of additional defects.

(6) Any action commenced by a claimant prior to compliance with the requirements of this section shall be subject to dismissal without prejudice, and may not be recommenced until the claimant has complied with the requirements of this section.

(7) Nothing in this section may be construed to prevent a claimant from commencing an action on the construction defect claim described in the notice of claim if:

(a) The construction professional fails to perform the construction agreed upon, fails to remedy the defect, or fails to perform by the timetable agreed upon pursuant to subsection (2)(a) or (5) of this section; or

(b) Notwithstanding the completion of the construction agreed upon, the claimant later discovers latent construction defects that the claimant attributes to the construction professional, but that were not discoverable by a reasonable person at the time of such completion. Any claimant who intends to bring an action for such latent construction defects may do so only after complying with the requirements of this section.

(8) Prior to commencing any action alleging a construction defect, or after the dismissal of any action without prejudice pursuant to subsection (6) of this section, the claimant may amend the notice of claim to include construction defects discovered after the service of the original notice of claim but not discoverable by a reasonable person at the time of the original claim, and must otherwise comply with the requirements of this section for the additional claims. The service of an amended notice of claim shall relate back to the original notice of claim for purposes of tolling the statute of limitations. Claims for defects discovered after the commencement or recommencement of an action may be added to such action only after complying with the requirements of this section with respect to such subsequently discovered defects.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) In every action brought against a construction professional, the claimant, including a construction professional asserting a claim against another construction professional, shall file with the court and serve on the defendant a list of known construction defects in accordance with this section.

(2) The list of known construction defects shall contain a description of the construction that the claimant alleges to be defective. The list of known construction defects shall be filed with the court and served on the defendant within thirty days after the commencement of the action or within such longer period as the court in its discretion may allow.

(3) The list of known construction defects may be amended by the claimant to identify additional construction defects as they become known to the claimant.

(4) The list of known construction defects must specify, to the extent known to the claimant, the construction professional responsible for each alleged defect identified by the claimant.

(5) If a subcontractor or supplier is added as a party to an action under this section, the claimant making the claim against such subcontractor or supplier shall serve on the defendant the list of construction defects in accordance with this section within thirty days after service of the complaint against the subcontractor or supplier or within such period as the court in its discretion may allow.

For purposes of this section, "action" has the same meaning as set forth in section 2 of this act.

(b) The board of directors shall substantially comply with the provisions of this section.

(2)(a) Prior to the service of the summons and complaint on any defendant with respect to an action governed by this section, the board of directors shall mail or deliver written notice of the commencement or anticipated commencement of such action to each homeowner at the last known address described in the association's records.

(b) The notice required by (a) of this subsection shall state a general description of the following:

(i) The nature of the action and the relief sought; and

(ii) The expenses and fees that the board of directors anticipates will be incurred in prosecuting the action.

(3) Nothing in this section may be construed to:

(a) Require the disclosure in the notice or the disclosure to a unit owner of attorney-client communications or other privileged communications;

(b) Permit the notice to serve as a basis for any person to assert the waiver of any applicable privilege or right of confidentiality resulting from, or to claim immunity in connection with, the disclosure of information in the notice; or

(c) Limit or impair the authority of the board of directors to contract for legal services, or limit or impair the ability to enforce such a contract for legal services.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. (1) The construction professional shall provide notice to each homeowner upon entering into a contract for sale, construction, or substantial remodel of a residence, for which the cost of the remodel exceeds half of the appraised value of the existing residence, of the construction professional's right to offer to cure construction defects before a homeowner may commence litigation against the construction professional. Such notice shall be conspicuous and may be included as part of the underlying contract signed by the homeowner. In the sale of a condominium unit, the requirement for delivery of such notice shall be deemed satisfied if contained in a public offering statement delivered in accordance with chapter 64.34 RCW.

(2) The notice required by this subsection shall be in substantially the following form:

CHAPTER 64.-- RCW (sections 1 through 7 of this act) CONTAINS IMPORTANT REQUIREMENTS YOU MUST FOLLOW BEFORE YOU MAY FILE A LAWSUIT FOR DEFECTIVE CONSTRUCTION AGAINST THE SELLER OR BUILDER OF YOUR HOME. FORTY-FIVE DAYS BEFORE YOU FILE YOUR LAWSUIT,

YOU ARE NOT OBLIGATED TO ACCEPT ANY OFFER MADE BY THE BUILDER OR SELLER. THERE ARE STRICT DEADLINES AND PROCEDURES UNDER STATE LAW, AND FAILURE TO FOLLOW THEM MAY AFFECT YOUR ABILITY TO FILE A LAWSUIT.

(3) This chapter shall not preclude or bar any action if notice is not given to the homeowner as required by this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed to hinder or otherwise affect the employment, agency, or contractual relationship between and among homeowners and construction professionals during the process of construction or remodeling and does not preclude the termination of those relationships as allowed under current law. Nothing in this chapter shall negate or otherwise restrict a construction professional's right to access or inspection provided by law, covenant, easement, or contract.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. A new section is added to chapter 15.17 RCW to read as follows:

To provide uniformity in the marketplace and to protect consignors of apples, the director shall revise state standards for grades and packs of apples. The director shall adopt revisions to the standards for grades and packs of apples that will clarify the standards in such a way that they will be applied consistently among warehouses and commission merchants. That is, these revisions must provide a level of uniformity that will ensure that the apples of a particular variety, grade, and pack sold from one warehouse will be the same as the apples of the same variety, grade, and pack sold from any other warehouse. For this purpose, the director shall invite a grades and packs committee that is widely recognized within the horticultural industry as representing the interests of the industry regarding grades and packs of apples to recommend by consensus revisions to the standards that it believes will provide that uniformity. If the industry committee recommends such revisions by committee consensus by January 1, 2004, the director shall immediately initiate rule making and give great weight to proposing and adopting the recommendations of the committee. If the committee does not make the recommendations by committee consensus by January 1, 2004, the director shall adopt revisions to the standards the director believes will provide such uniformity by January 1, 2005.

Sec. 2. RCW 20.01.440 and 1991 c 109 s 23 are each amended to read as follows:

Every commission merchant shall retain a copy of all records covering each transaction for a period of three years from the date thereof, which copy shall at all times be available for, and open to, the confidential inspection of the director and the consignor, or authorized representative of either. Upon the request of the consignor or the authorized representative of the consignor, the information shall be rendered to the consignor or the authorized representative; however, for a pooling arrangement, the information to be rendered is the information that must be rendered under RCW 20.01.370 or, upon final remittance, the information that must be transmitted under RCW 20.01.370. In the event of any dispute or disagreement between a consignor and a commission merchant arising at the time of delivery as to condition, quality, grade, pack, quantity, or weight of any lot, shipment or consignment of agricultural products, the department shall furnish, upon the payment of a reasonable fee therefor by the requesting party, a certificate establishing the condition, quality, grade, pack, quantity, or weight of such lot, shipment, or consignment. Such certificate shall be prima facie evidence in all courts of this state as to the recitals thereof. The burden of proof shall be upon the commission merchant to prove the correctness of his or her accounting as to any transaction which may be questioned.

Nothing in this chapter may be construed as preventing the reporting of information required to be reported under section 5 of this act, the publication of such information, or the availability of such information for public inspection as required by section 5 of this act.

Sec. 3. RCW 20.01.370 and 1991 c 109 s 20 are each amended to read as follows:

Every commission merchant taking control of any agricultural products for sale as such commission merchant, shall promptly make and keep for a period of three years, beginning on the day the sale of the product is complete, a correct record showing in detail the following with reference to the handling, sale, or storage of such agricultural products:

- (1) The name and address of the consignor.
- (2) The date received.
- (3) The quality and quantity delivered by the consignor, and where applicable the dockage, tare, grade, size, net weight, or quantity.
- (4) An accounting of all sales, including dates, terms of sales, quality and quantity of agricultural products sold, and proof of payments received on behalf of the consignor.
- (5) The terms of payment to the producer.
- (6) An itemized statement of the charges to be paid by consignor in connection with the sale.
- (7) The names and addresses of all purchasers if said commission merchant has any financial interest in the business of said purchasers, or if said purchasers have any financial interest in the business of said commission merchant, directly or indirectly, as holder of the other's corporate stock, as copartner, as lender or borrower of money to or from the other, or otherwise. Such interest shall be noted in said records following the name of any such purchaser.
- (8) A lot number or other identifying mark for each consignment, which number or mark shall appear on all sales tags and other essential records needed to show what the agricultural products actually sold for.
- (9) Any claim or claims which have been or may be filed by the commission merchant against any person for overcharges or for damages resulting from the injury or deterioration of such agricultural products by the act, neglect or failure of such person and such records shall be open to the inspection of the director and the consignor of agricultural products for whom such claim or claims are made.

Before a commission merchant may handle an agricultural product in a pooling arrangement or accounting, the consignor must have agreed in writing to allow the pooling.

Where a pooling arrangement is agreed to in writing between the consignor and commission merchant, the reporting requirements of subsections (4), (5), (6), and (8) of this section shall apply to the pool rather than to the individual consignor or consignment and the records of the pool shall be available for inspection by any consignor to that pool and, upon the request of the consignor, shall be rendered to the consignor.

For individual accounting, the commission merchant shall transmit a copy of the record required by this section to the consignor on the same day the final remittance is made to the consignor as required by RCW 20.01.430. For a consignor who is participating in a pooling arrangement, the commission merchant shall, on the same day final remittance and accounting are made to the consignor as required by RCW 20.01.430, transmit to the consignor a summary of the records which are available for inspection by any consignor to that pool.

Nothing in this chapter may be construed as preventing the reporting of information required to be reported under section 5 of this act, the publication of such information, or the availability of such information for public inspection as required by section 5 of this act.

Sec. 4. RCW 20.01.420 and 1991 c 109 s 22 are each amended to read as follows:

When requested by a consignor, a commission merchant shall promptly make available to the consignor or to the director all records of the ongoing sales of the consignor's agricultural products showing the amount sold, the selling price, and any other information required under RCW 20.01.370. Upon the request of the consignor, such information as must be rendered to the consignor under RCW 20.01.370 shall be rendered to the consignor and, upon final remittance, such information as must be transmitted to the consignor under RCW 20.01.370 shall be rendered to the consignor.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. A new section is added to chapter 20.01 RCW to read as follows:

Each commission merchant shall report to the department by the tenth day of each month the volume of fruit imported into the United States that was received by and the volume of such fruit that was packed and sold by the commission merchant during the previous month and the sale prices of such sales. The department shall ensure that the information it receives under this section is readily available for public inspection. The department shall provide the information to the Washington state
