The Washington State Legislature

Pictorial Directory

43rd Session

1973

Daniel J. Evans
Governor

Daniel J. Evans, Republican, is the sixteenth governor of the State of Washington. He is the only governor in the state's history to have been elected for three terms.

Evans, a 47-year-old native of Seattle, was first elected to public office in 1956 as a state representative from King County's 43rd District. He served until his election as Governor in 1964. He was voted "Outstanding Freshman Legislator" in 1957. During the 1961 and 1963 sessions, he was the Republican floor leader.

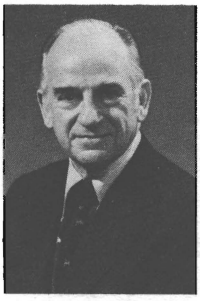

In the past eight years, Evans has held many leadership posts in the National Governors' Conference and in the Republican Governors' Association. He was chairman of the Western Governors' Conference from 1968 to 1969 and keynote speaker for the 1968 Republican National Convention. He was recently appointed by the President as a member of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

Evans was named "Public Official of the Year" for 1970 by the Washington Environmental Council. He received the Human Rights Award from the National Association of Intergroup Relations Officials in 1967, and he was the first person in the state and the first governor ever to receive the Scales of Justice Award from the National Council on Crime and Delinquency in 1968. He is a recipient of the "Silver Beaver" and "Silver Antelope" Awards given to adults for distinguished service to the Boy Scouts. Evans holds honorary Doctor of Laws degrees from five colleges and an honorary Doctor of Engineering degree from Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

Before becoming the state's chief executive, Evans was a partner in a Seattle civil and structural engineering firm. He is a civil engineering graduate of the University of Washington, having earned his degrees (a B.S. in 1948 and an M.S. in 1949) between tours of duty as a Navy officer in the Second World War and the Korean War.

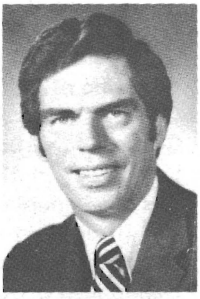

Evans is married to the former Nancy Ann Bell of Spokane. They have three children: Daniel, Jr., 12; Mark, 9; and Bruce, 6.
