Rear Admiral Gary Mayes: “Good morning! Lieutenant Governor Habib, thank you for the kind introduction.

As Commander, Navy Region Northwest, it is my distinct honor and privilege to be here again on the floor of the Senate for Washington State Navy Day. I am so humbled.

The United States is and will always be a Maritime Nation, thus requiring a strong Navy to protect its shores and interest around the World. The State of Washington is a Maritime state and is home to the United States Navy’s 3rd largest Fleet concentration area.

Navy Region Northwest has over 192,000 Sailors, civilian employees, family members, retirees and contractors across the region.

Washington State’s second largest employment sector is defense, with over $12 billion infused into the state economy annually, the Navy accounts for approximately 60% of this total.

Your record of legislative support of the Navy and other services speaks for itself – you’ve continued to focus on legislation helping military families more easily become a part of Washington’s workforce and school system, helping veterans transition in to the civilian economy, and enable our Navy Operations and training to be more compatible with the surrounding communities. I appreciate all the work this august body does to make Washington an even better homeport for the Navy.

I brought with me today some of the Navy’s best of the best and their Commanding Officers. From Naval Hospital Bremerton, Captain Johannes Bailey and Command Master Chief James Reynolds with their Sailor of the Year Hospital Corpsman First Class Nicholas Geisinger; from Naval Station Everett, Captain Mark Lakamp and Command Master Chief Brian Wojcicki with their Sailor of the Year Master at Arms First Class Thomas Murphy; from Naval Air Station Whidbey Island Captain Geoff Moore and Command Master Chief Shane Cardon and their Sailor of the Year Navy, Navy Career Counselor First Class Rodney Scheppler and the Navy Region Northwest Staff Sailor of the Year is Religious Program Specialist First Class Myron Andrews.

Today, and every day, your Navy is operating around the world, and around the clock accomplishing its mission. Much of the Navy’s success in the Pacific can be directly attributed to the dedication and patriotism from the people of the great State of Washington. On behalf of the Navy, “Thank you Washington for the continued support of the United States Navy”.

Thank you.”
