MESSAGES

December 7, 1993

The Honorable Mike Lowry
Governor, State of Washington
Legislative Building
Olympia, WA 98504

Dear Governor Lowry,

For the last 11 years, I have had the honor of serving as a member of the Washington State House of Representatives, representing the 37th Legislative District.

It is with mixed emotions that I hereby resign from the House of Representatives effective January 3, 1994, when I will be publicly sworn in as King County Executive.

My emotions are mixed because my experiences in the legislature have been most rewarding and enriching: forming coalitions with Democrats and Republicans to tackle some of the toughest issues facing our state; the frenetic pace of Olympia; and the great friendships with legislators from all parts of the state. But I am also excited to be the next King County Executive in a time when our region faces many new and difficult challenges.

I look forward in my new position to continuing to work with you to enhance the quality of life for the citizens of our region and state.

Sincerely,
Gary F. Locke
State Representative
37th Legislative District

Dear Governor Lowry:

I have greatly enjoyed serving in the House of Representatives and the people in the seventh legislative district have chosen me to go to the Senate, replacing the honorable and distinguished Senator Scott Barr.

Therefore, I understand it is necessary that I tender my resignation from the House of Representatives, effective January 10, 1994, in order to accept the appointment to the Senate. I look forward to working with you in the very important issues of the state in the upcoming session.

Sincerely,

MOTION

On motion of Representative Peery, the office of Chief Clerk was declared vacant.

ELECTION OF CHIEF CLERK

The Speaker announced that nominations were in order for Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

REMARKS

Representative Peery: Thank you Mr. Speaker. I'm honored today to nominate Marilyn Showalter as the next Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives. Marilyn has an impressive record and her integrity is impeccable. Without question Marilyn will serve the citizens of Washington and this institution with distinction. I believe there's no better way to know what Marilyn will do as Chief Clerk, than to look back at what she's done before today. A magna cum laude graduate with highest honors from Harvard College, a graduate of Harvard Law School, counsel to former Governor John Spellman, an adjunct professor of Law at the University of Puget Sound, acting executive officer of the State Sentencing Guidelines Commission, a respected counsel on the House Appropriations Committee, a King County Prosecuting Attorney and Deputy Chief Clerk and House Counsel for the past year. I've had the opportunity to work with Marilyn on several legislative matters, most recently the Commission on Ethics and Campaign Financing. Her work was very integral to completing that project and the recommendations before us. Again it is with great honor that I nominate Marilyn Showalter as the first elected woman Chief Clerk in the 104-year history of the House of Representatives.

Representative Ballard: Thank you Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to second the nomination of Marilyn Showalter for the position of Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives. I have given some thought to just why anyone would want the position of Chief Clerk and have reached the following conclusions:

- (10) Work in a relaxed atmosphere.
- (9) Requests are always made in a timely fashion.
- (8) The people that you work for are always calm and reasonable.
- (7) It's great training for later running a day care center.
- (6) A wonderful opportunity to meet the press.
- (5) Allows you to become an expert on phone systems.
- (4) Get to actually read what is in Reed's Rules.
- (3) Learn to recognize Media Digest Withdrawal Syndrome.
- (2) Parking - it's a big part of your life.
- (1) Just three letters: PDC

Mr. Speaker, with those thoughts I urge a unanimous ballot for Marilyn Showalter as our Chief Clerk. Thank you.

Representative Ogden: Thank you Mr. Speaker. Following up in a little different vein than the previous speaker, I'm pleased to second the nomination of Marilyn Showalter as Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives. I do so for all of the reasons that have been mentioned but I also do it for another reason. I know of the important role of the rostrum during the session, but let us not forget that the Chief Clerk is also the supervisor of all of the House staff. As employers, we should have a model personnel system that sets a positive example. Our professional, loyal and hardworking legislative staff know that we value and respect them. The Chief Clerk is responsible for carrying out that task. Marilyn has attended special workshops and had training in personnel administration. She will carry out that responsibility on our behalf and do it very well. On a more personal note, last year I had a bill in the closing hours. I had no less than ten amendments and Marilyn managed to keep them all straight. She will do well and she deserves our support.

Representative Foreman: Thank you Mr. Speaker. I'm happy to second this nomination. I've had the privilege of knowing Marilyn for over 25 years. I was able to go to both college and law school with her and I've been able to observe her work as a student, as an attorney, and here as a public servant for many years. She has the experience and what's most important at this time, the integrity to do an outstanding job in a very demanding position. Congratulations.

MOTION

On motion of Representative Peery, the nominations for Chief Clerk were closed.

MOTION

On motion of Representative R. Meyers, a unanimous ballot was cast for Ms. Marilyn Showalter as Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Justice Smith administered the oath of office to Chief Clerk Showalter.

REMARKS BY CHIEF CLERK SHOWALTER

Chief Clerk Showalter: Thank you for this honor. I have an abiding respect and affection for the House of Representatives and for you, its members, because you comprise the living and fundamental element of our form of government, representative democracy. I hope to earn your respect and, I hope affection, through hard work, fairness, honesty and dedication to this great institution. Thank you.

OATH OF OFFICE

The Speaker instructed the Sergeant at Arms to escort William Backlund to the rostrum to receive his oath of office.

Justice Utter administered the oath of office to Mr. Backlund. The Speaker and Secretary of State presented Representative Backlund with the certificate of appointment and he was escorted to his seat in the House Chamber.

SPEAKER'S PRIVILEGE

Speaker: Thank you Justice Utter, Justice Smith and Secretary of State Ralph Munro for you, as usual, excellent service on this occasion. We look forward to seeing you again in the chamber very soon. It's traditional for the Speaker to open a session by calling for everyone to work together in a spirit of bipartisan cooperation. I think that hardly seems necessary this year. Everyone knows that we face some very new realities and that we will need a very concerted bipartisan effort to meet those challenges that lie ahead. We have heard the voice of the people speak through the election in November and the people are calling for reforms. They are saying and demanding that we find solutions to the problems that we face and that we do it in a way that does not cost as much money. That's a very tall order. However we might have felt as individuals on the issue of 601 and 602 prior to November, we have a duty to obey the letter and spirit of the initiative now that it has passed and that means that we need to build the best legislation that we can with the resources that we have available. What we lack in material resources we'll need to make up with leadership and cooperation between the two parties. Fortunately, we have the advantage of a very clear focus this session. We know that we need to reduce the budget. We seem to have agreement on that. We know that we need to begin the transition to a future that has clear spending limitations. We have agreement on that. And we know that we need to do more to save our children from an increasingly violent world. We can't stop the violence in a single session. We agree on that. But by God we ought to work together as best we can to fashion a good bipartisan proposal that does what we can to reduce the incidence of violence. So I think there's some very positive signs that this will be a very productive short 60 day session, and I welcome your involvement. I would offer my distinguished colleague, Representative Ballard, an opportunity to also make some introductory comments.

Representative Ballard: Thank you Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House. We have 60 days to address some very vital issues and as the Speaker has pointed out in naming a number of these, we can only be successful in doing this in a bipartisan manner. We've had the privilege of doing some presentations the last few days and it's interesting our priority items are the same. The only small thing that we have to overcome is to make sure that we can come to an agreement on the details and that is going to take a lot of work. The minority party, Mr. Speaker, is ready and willing and will be here to take part in the debate when we offer some alternative thoughts as we go along that might not be entirely in line with what the majority party has but that's the way the system is designed, so we look forward to this session. Thank you very much.

The Speaker instructed the Sergeants at Arms of the House and Senate to escort the President of the Senate, Joel Pritchard; President Pro Tempore, Lorraine Wojahn; Vice President Pro Tempore, Al Williams; Majority Leader, Marc Gaspard; and Minority Leader, George Sellar to seats on the rostrum.

The Speaker invited the Senators to seats within the House Chamber.

The Speaker presented the gavel to President Pritchard.

APPOINTMENT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEES

The President of the Senate appointed Representatives Dellwo and Sheahan and Senators Smith and Nelson as a special committee to advise His Honor the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, James Anderson, that the Joint Session had assembled, and to escort him from the State Reception Room to the bar of the House of Representatives.

The President of the Senate appointed Representatives Morris, Eide and Tate and Senators Loveland, McAuliffe, Prince and Hochstatter as a special committee to escort the Supreme Court Justices from the State Reception Room to seats within the House Chamber.

The President of the Senate appointed Representatives Flemming, Cothorn and McMorris and Senators Owen and Smith as a special committee to escort the State Elected Officials from the State Reception Room to seats within the House Chamber.

The President of the Senate introduced the Supreme Court Justices and the State Elected Officials.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT PRITCHARD

President Pritchard: We are pleased to present the Supreme Court Justices here today and a special welcome back to our old friend Justice Jim Dolliver. Justice Dolliver, recuperated from medical difficulties, has been a member of the court since 1975. He served as Chief of Staff for Governor Dan Evans from 1964-75, and as Chief Justice in 1985-86, he is beloved by citizens across our state and it is a delight to have him back in these chambers. Justice Dolliver, we are very happy to see you here with us today. The President would also like to recognize Mrs. Barbara Dolliver in the north gallery, here today for Chief Justice Anderson's speech.

The President welcomed the Governor, Mike Lowry.

The Clerk of the House called the roll of the House and a quorum was present.

The Secretary of the Senate called the roll of the Senate and a quorum was present.

The President of the Senate called the Joint Session to order.

REMARKS BY PRESIDENT PRITCHARD

President Pritchard: It's a great pleasure for me to introduce the Chief Justice. We came to this body and sat in the back and naturally we were seat-mates in 1959. In those days, freshmen hardly talked or were hardly recognized and we were pretty silent through that session. That's the last time the Chief Justice was silent. It's good to see the Chief Justice and the Governor sitting side by side. It's not always been the case in our state. Back in 1856 Governor Stevens declared martial law and the Chief Judge by the name of Landers came down to Olympia and held the Governor in contempt and fined him $50.00. With that, the Governor threw the Chief Justice in jail and kept him there for three days. Finally they worked out their differences. So it's nice to see that today the members of our government, the different branches, are working together, because certainly, the issues and problems of our state call for that type of cooperation. Chief Justice Anderson was a coal miner, a combat infantryman, deputy prosecutor, trial lawyer, State Representative, State Senator, Court of Appeals, Chief Judge of Division 1 of his Court of Appeals, and Justice now and Chief Justice of the State of Washington Supreme Court. Chief Justice Anderson has had a very rich and long career in our state and in service to our state and I know we all look forward to the message he is bringing today on a subject that is so vital to all our state. Chief Justice James Anderson.

STATE OF THE JUDICIARY ADDRESS
BY CHIEF JUSTICE JAMES A. ANDERSON

Justice Anderson: Thank you Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, Senators, Representatives, Distinguished Public Officials and Guests.

I thank the Legislature for its kind invitation to present this first ever State of the Judiciary Address to a Joint Session of the Legislature.

As such, it is an historic occasion. I would hope that you might consider making it a regular event at least once a biennium. It could add greatly to the comity between the 3 branches of our state government: legislative, executive and judicial.

Needless to say, this occasion also brings back warm memories of the years when I once sat where you now sit. Those were pleasant years. In these chambers, I was taught Parliamentary Law and Procedure 101 by House Speaker John L. O'Brien. Then later, across the rotunda, I took a post graduate course in the same subject from that grand and gentle man, the late Governor John A. Cherberg, who was assisted in teaching the subject by the then Secretary of the Senate, now Senator, Sid Snyder. I also took a few seminars in State Budget 201 across the way in the Senate from a bright, knowledgeable young man who once staffed the Senate Ways and Means Committee, Mike Lowry, and to whom I administered the oath of Governor on this same podium just 1 year ago tomorrow.

What is the state of the State of Washington Judiciary?

Fundamentally, it is one of the very best state judicial systems in the United States -- if not, THE BEST. But it is noticeably bowed under the weight of ever increasing case filings, while at the same time absorbing heavy budget cuts in our relatively slim judicial budget. The judicial budget, as you will recall, is less than one half of one percent of the total state general fund budget!

Well you may ask, what is the cause of our burgeoning caseload? To which I would respond, "primarily four things: population growth; new laws enacted by the Legislature in response to public demand; a growing number of youthful offenders; and finally, of course, rampant drug crimes." A few weeks ago the Census Bureau announced that in the year ending last July 1st -- and I found this surprising in view of the state of our economy -- the population of our state grew by 2.2 percent, twice the national rate. More people; more litigation. As for the additional workload resulting from new legislation, permit me to remind you of a few of those enactments.

The Domestic Violence Prevention Act created a new cause of action in both superior and district courts. Those cases have had a dramatic impact on both of those courts. Because of the urgent nature of domestic violence cases, requests for protective orders must be heard immediately, often disrupting scheduled cases and delaying other litigants waiting to have their cases heard.

Another is the Sentencing Reform Act (SRA). "You do the crime, you serve the time." While the SRA provided equality in sentencing, it also spawned a huge increase in the number of trials and appeals in our courts. Criminal bench trials in superior court alone increased 16 percent in the 1 year period from 1991-1992. Defendants in criminal cases who find they cannot plea bargain, often feel that they have nothing to lose by going to trial and then appealing to a higher court -- usually at public expense because of their indigency. Much the same thing is true in Driving Under the Influence (DUI) cases, where the law seems to be changed each session and where penalties have become increasingly harsh.

Oftentimes also, new laws are required to pass constitutional muster, sometimes resulting in extensive litigation. An example of this is our state's unique Sexual Predator Law which our State Supreme Court recently upheld.

I could go on and on but I trust I have made my point.

As to the epidemic of youth crimes, Governor Lowry spoke eloquently to that yesterday in his State of the State Message. There is nothing I can add to his words. As to drug crimes, well, tragically they are there for all of us to see.

Washington courts are now processing about 2.5 million cases a year. In the foreseeable future, I do not anticipate any relief from the increasing caseloads. The President of the United States has announced that he is going to put 100,000 more police officers on the streets. I assume some of these new officers will be on the streets in our state. More officers; more arrests; more cases in our system. The same is true of the $13 million plus requested by the Governor to combat juvenile violence. That, too, will mean more cases in our judicial system, which has already experienced a 10 percent increase in the number of juvenile cases filed last year.

You are entitled to also ask, indeed demand, to know how well this state's judiciary is doing in handling its ever increasing caseload.

It is doing very well to my view -- but not nearly as well as we would like. The reason we are doing well at all is primarily due to the superb efforts of a well trained, highly professional and very competent bench. The 400 or more judges at all levels of our state court system are dedicated to performing their jobs well and doing so in the highest and best traditions of the judiciary.

I would be remiss if I didn't also add that the very rapidly growing number of women and minority judges in our state has been enormously helpful to our whole judicial system and the difficult job we have to do. In fact, my colleague Justice Barbara Durham, who will succeed me as Chief Justice next year, will be the first woman Chief Justice in our state's history. Beginning under the leadership of Justice Brachtenbach, when he was serving as Chief Justice, and continuing over the ensuing years, we developed the first successful automated judicial support system of any state in the nation. Computers have almost literally taken the place of pen and paper in much of the modern judiciary. We have had a steady stream of judicial administrators and judges from other states coming out here to "see how Washington does it". Our programs and policies have been adopted by other courts throughout the country. It is only this support system, along with hard working staffs, that have permitted our judges and courts to function as well as they have. But for that, we would have long since gone down for the third time.

I am well aware that the mere mention of the word "computer" raises the hackles on some of you. I, too, have some bitter memories, going back to my legislative days, about the financial hits the state has taken on failed computer programs. But consider this, if you will. A study and evaluation of state computer systems was just recently undertaken by the State Department of Information Services. In its 1992 report, "Information Technology in Washington State", the figures set out show that our Judicial Information System (JIS) is Number 1 in the number of people served, but only 16th in the number of people it employs and 16th in costs. Add to this that not one dollar of tax revenues was used to support JIS; it was entirely paid for out of court penalties and fines. In connection with JIS, I would like to mention an aspect of it which we have developed but which is not yet in every court that needs it. This is the District and Municipal Court Information System (DISCIS). DISCIS not only provides invaluable help to trial judges in managing their dockets and following up on fine collections, but it also greatly assists them in bringing repeat offenders to justice.

At a time when our citizens are becoming increasingly concerned about their personal safety, this latter point deserves more than passing mention. Permit me to explain. Several years ago, we began installation of DISCIS, which is essentially an integrated computer system for the courts, in counties and cities. It was to be installed first in our State's 80 largest district and municipal courts. Later, as funds permitted, it was to be put into other, smaller courts. A hallmark of this new and improved system was -- and is -- its ability to track offender records statewide. If a person is convicted of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs (DUI) in one jurisdiction, then later appears before a judge in another, that second judge can discover the defendant's previous record by simply turning on a computer, namely DISCIS. As you can well appreciate, this type of information is absolutely critical to a trial judge's bail and sentencing decisions.

DISCIS was built, tested and successfully installed in the initially targeted 80 courts at a total cost of just under $11 million -- about a third of what it cost to build some of the other, not-so-successful, state systems during the same period. But funds to put DISCIS into the 40 or more courts that now want them and need them -- like those in Port Orchard, Poulsbo, Kent and Walla Walla, for example, were sidelined by the budget cuts we took in 1992. As a result, judges in one of these smaller jurisdictions could well have a third or fourth time drunk-driving offender before them and not know it. The offender could "bail out", to offend again, perhaps even to injure or to kill. I hope that you will agree with me and the leadership of our state judiciary that it is absolutely essential to an effective judiciary to have this tool in every court that needs it.

In order to better manage our judicial system, we have also developed standards for the performance of our courts. Judges, court personnel, lawyers and other citizens are now testing these standards in 3 counties: Spokane, Thurston and Whatcom.

We have continually worked closely with the Legislature to reduce the costs of our jury system. Washington has been recognized by both the National Center for State Courts and the American Bar Association for its leadership in establishing jury standards.

For the reasons I have talked about, in many of our trial courts it is a constant war against court congestion and delay. Some significant battles have been won on this front.

In 1986, for example, in the Superior Court of the county where almost a third of our state's population live and work, the Superior Court in King County was facing as much as a 3 year delay in the trial of civil cases. Parenthetically, as you probably know, criminal cases must be given priority in trial settings; a defendant in custody has the right to be tried in 30 days, and if out on bail, within 60 days. After 7 years of volunteer help from judges across the state, and helped along by a small investment of state resources, that court has now substantially eliminated civil case delay. Currently, 90 percent of its cases are completed within 20 months of filing. Furthermore, 90 percent of King County's divorce and custody cases are resolved within just 13 months. These improvements -- these efficiencies, if you will, in the handling of the business of the taxpaying public -- were attained with only a minimum of additional taxpayer dollars. Again this was accomplished through the forceful leadership of the King County Superior Court bench, and with great assistance from the court's administrative staff and the King County Bar.

A case that we heard oral arguments on in my court yesterday is a case that will determine the outcome of several hundred pending driving under the influence (DUI) cases. The trial courts have issued conflicting rulings on the issues involved in that case so we will resolve the issues one way or the other. By our reaching down, as it were, to the trial courts and taking direct review of these cases, we have probably speeded up the review process by one or two years.

When our decision is handed down, it will also directly affect thousands of as yet untried DUI cases. Hopefully, whatever our decision, this will greatly relieve the huge backlog of DUI cases that has developed.

The Judiciary has done a great deal more than just process caseloads. We have acted in numerous other ways to improve the quality of justice administered in all of the courts of our state.

I have just recently been informed, for example, that the state court interpreter standards we developed here in Washington are now being used as the recommended model for other states to follow.

In the view of many in the court system, our state's judiciary leads the nation in its efforts to recognize cultural and gender diversity. Our Minority & Justice Commission, co-chaired by Justice Charles Z. Smith and Justice James M. Dolliver, and our Gender & Justice Task Force have also become national models.

I would like to take the liberty, if I may, to commend the Legislature's efforts, and those of the members of the Commission on Ethics in Government and Campaign Practices headed by Governor Lowry and Attorney General Gregoire, for what they are doing to establish enforceable ethical standards in government. As you know, the State Commission on Judicial Conduct, a majority of whose members are laypersons, has demonstrated that such an approach can help build citizen confidence in public officials.

The Judiciary, too, has been diligent in the matter of Ethics. In 1992, the Rules Committee of the Supreme Court, which I chaired, appointed a task force to review this state's somewhat aged Code of Judicial Conduct. This is the ethical code established by the Supreme Court under its rulemaking authority and whose canons establish the ethical rules which every judge in the state is required to abide by. That task force, which consists of judges of all levels of court appointed by their respective court associations, along with others such as lay members, are charged with reviewing the entire code, as well as other recommended judicial conduct codes, to see if our existing judicial code requires updating or can be improved in any way. This task force has held public hearings throughout the state and its report to our court is expected shortly.

Further in the ethical arena, the Supreme Court of this state has the ultimate responsibility within the state for the administration of lawyer discipline. In this connection we have adopted both an ethical code (Rules of Professional Conduct) and a procedural code (Rules For Lawyer Discipline), which each lawyer must follow or face discipline by the State Bar Association and the Supreme Court. The Rules for Lawyer Discipline have not been significantly modified since 1983, before the Bar so greatly increased in size. We now have some 18,400 lawyers licensed to practice law in this state. Last year, the State Bar Association and the Supreme Court jointly requested that the American Bar Association (ABA) completely review our bar discipline rules and procedures and recommend such changes and improvements as it felt were indicated.

I emphasize that this project was not engendered by any perceived problem in the lawyer discipline area, but rather was by way of evaluating and improving the current system. We have a good bar discipline system in this state. But again, it will benefit from updating and modernizing.

The ABA report has now been received. I am pleased at this time to announce the appointment of a 15-person task force of judges, lawyers and laypersons, for the purpose of fully reviewing the ABA report and recommendations, holding such hearings as are indicated and then to report back its recommendations for implementation to the Supreme Court. This task force will be jointly chaired by myself and Mr. Paul Stritmatter of Hoquiam, President of the Washington State Bar Association. I might also add that the other Supreme Court members of the task force will be Justice Charles Z. Smith and Justice Richard Guy.

Let me now talk a bit more about budgets, and particularly about the savings that we in the judiciary have instituted.

As I mentioned at the outset of my remarks, and would like to again emphasize, the judiciary's budget is less than 1/2 of 1% of all funds spent each year by the state.

All of us in the judiciary well recognize the need for continuing economy and fiscal responsibility in government. Hopefully, my presence here today demonstrates the willingness of the judiciary to work with you to initiate meaningful responses to taxpayer demands for efficiency and accountability in government.

The judiciary in Washington continues to respond to these demands.

Budget proposals you have before you at this session are reported by the press to represent the smallest biennial increase in state general fund expenditures in the last 20 years - 3.6 percent as compared to a previous biennial average increase of 10 1/2 percent.

But in the judicial branch of government, our general fund average annual increase has been far below those figures -- less than 1 percent per annum since 1989!

Members of the Legislature, during a period when the rest of state government was experiencing double digit general fund increases, the state judiciary's share of the general fund remained virtually unchanged.

We applaud recent initiatives by the Legislature to bring accountability to state spending, and the executive branch's creation of a special efficiency commission to ferret out unnecessary costs. We know this approach works; 2 years ago we initiated a similar program of our own. Let me share a few results of that program with you:

. . . Since the 1989-91 biennium, we have reduced our travel expenditures by more than 50 percent.

. . . By order, the Supreme Court imposed a cap on staff salaries at the level recommended by the Governor.

. . . In 1993, we eliminated several new programs at a savings of nearly $670,000 per biennium, and

. . . In 1993, we tightened our personal belts and recommended to the State Salary Commission that all judicial salaries be frozen at 1992 levels.

. . . In 1991 and 1992, we matched executive and legislative branch budget reductions cut for cut.

There are other day-to-day actions we have taken to create efficiencies and cost savings in the judicial branch. One example is that since 1991 we have provided support services for a law enforcement scheduling system in the Tacoma District Court. Basically this system allows the court to more efficiently schedule their cases to reduce the amount of overtime required for law enforcement officers to appear as witnesses. In fact, the new scheduling system has reduced Washington State Patrol overtime costs by 68 percent. Another example is that through an energy-saving program begun last year, we now save $1,200 a month in electrical costs.

Overall, this state's judiciary is a budget bargain. What low growth budget increases we have had, have been considerably lower than cost of living increases. New economies are being effected almost daily.

Consider also, each biennium our judicial information system tracks and collects more than $200 million in state and local revenues which you and local government subdivisions then get and are able to appropriate for such uses as you deem fit. The amount collected is double the budget of our entire judicial branch of government!

Our heavy budget cuts have not been without pain. The fondest ambition of my life has been to put a "literacy in the courts" program into effect during my term as Chief Justice. I have spent years planning for that. This simply cannot be done given the judiciary's present budgetary constraints. Senator Talmadge, some House Members and, of course, Governor Pritchard, who has long been active in this field, are working on much needed literacy legislation. I pass the torch to them, and pledge every bit of support I can muster to aid their efforts. Hopefully, in the not too distant future, everyone, and particularly juveniles, will be given a simple literacy test upon entering the criminal justice system, and can then be matched to a program in one of the many organizations in this state battling illiteracy. If a person cannot read a want ad or fill out an employment application, how in the world is he or she ever going to break their deadly cycle of recidivism?

Permit me to briefly discuss one final topic, which is as important to the Legislative branch of government as it is to the Judicial and Executive branches. This is something which is at the very core of our democratic form of government, the Separation of Powers Doctrine. It is something which we so much take for granted that it can sometimes be forgotten or overlooked. As William Shakespeare expressed it in his Sonnets: "Sweets grown common lose their dear delight."

I would like to cite you to "a case in point", as we are wont to say in my profession. The case is Washington State Motorcycle Dealers Ass'n v. State, 111 Wn.2d 667, a 1988 opinion of the State of Washington Supreme Court. Plaintiffs in that case sought a declaratory judgment invalidating Governor Booth Gardner's vetoes of numerous parts of the Motorcycle Dealers Franchise Bill. Our court held that under Article 3, Section 12 (62nd Amendment), the Veto Powers Clause of our State Constitution, gubernatorial vetoes of less than entire sections of nonappropriation bills are void. A number of the vetoes were thus declared invalid.

During the course of the Motorcycle Dealers opinion, the Court discussed the Separation of Powers Doctrine, and that is why I cite you to this case. We said as follows:

The importance of the case before us is that it deals directly with one of the cardinal and fundamental principles of the American constitutional system, both state and federal: the separation of powers doctrine. "It has been declared that the division of governmental powers into executive, legislative, and judicial represents probably the most important principle of government declaring and guaranteeing the liberties of the people, and preventing the exercise of autocratic power, and that it is a matter of fundamental necessity, and is essential to the maintenance of a republican form of government."

(Footnotes omitted. Italics mine.) This opinion is a part of the constitutional law of this state.

While as it happens I wrote the majority opinion for the Court which I just quoted, the Separation of Powers Doctrine language did not originate with me; it goes back centuries. James Madison, a principal author of the Constitution of the United States, expressed it more eloquently when he wrote this:

"The accumulation of all powers, legislative, executive, and judicial, in the same hands, whether of one, a few, or many, and whether hereditary, self-appointed, or elective, may justly be pronounced the very definition of tyranny."

(Italics mine.)

Part of your job and mine is to preserve open government and prevent the tyranny our forbearers sought to eliminate by recognizing, as well as abiding by, the separate powers and responsibilities entrusted to each of us by the people.

So when the push and pull of Olympia tempts you to trade all the phone calls and letters for a 40-hour week and a good book, remember that the people chose us -- not to promise but to produce, not to pacify but to protect, and not to compete but to cooperate.

Thank you for inviting me to share this time with you. It has been a genuine privilege and honor.

(B) Within the twelve months preceding the expiration of a member's term of office, identical mailings are limited as follows: One mailing mailed within thirty days after the start of the regular legislative session and one mailing mailed within sixty days after the end of the regular legislative session. For purposes of this rule, an identical mailing is a mailing of identical content in excess of two hundred pieces not mailed in response to a constituent contact.

(C) Within the twelve months preceding the expiration of a member's term of office, individual letters are limited as follows: A member may mail to an individual constituent a letter or other information, including the member's opinion, on a matter relevant to legislative business if the member has a reasonable belief that the constituent is interested in that matter.

(D) The total cost of each member's mailings, including production costs, printing costs, and postage, are limited by an annual expenditure level established by the house executive rules committee.

Representative Peery moved adoption of the resolution. Representative Peery spoke in favor of adoption of the resolution.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Representative Peery yielded to a question by Representative Ballard.

Representative Ballard: Representative Peery, what is the effect of Rule 32 contained in the resolution in relation to RCW 42.17.132?

Representative Peery: Thank you. The resolution is adopted under authority of Article II of our State Constitution and in particular under Section (9) of Article II. Under the Constitution, the Legislature has inherent authority to adopt rules governing its own proceedings. Where RCW 42.17.132 conflicts with these rules, these rules supersede the statute. I hasten to add however, that these rules are wholly consistent with what I believe to be the intent of RCW 42.17.132, and that is to limit mass-mailings at public expense in election years, but to permit the Legislature to carry on its essential and constitutional business.

Representative Ballard spoke in favor of the resolution.

The Speaker stated the question before the House to be final adoption of Resolution No. 4678.

ESHB 1771 Prime Sponsor, Committee on Fisheries & Wildlife: Taking measures to prevent the destruction of fish protection devices. Reported by Committee on Fisheries & Wildlife

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendment:
Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that salmonids and other fish are important to citizens of the state, and that numerous stocks of salmonids are declining in Washington. Certain regulatory protections exist for fish. One such protection is the statutory requirement that certain water diversions be screened. Another is that bypasses be constructed for fish passage. The legislature finds that such protective devices are being intentionally destroyed, damaged, or modified in ways that result in loss of fish, and that existing penalties are insufficient to prevent such damage. The legislature declares that measures must be taken to prevent destruction of screens in order to benefit the salmonid resources of the state.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. A new section is added to chapter 77.16 RCW to read as follows:

It is unlawful to intentionally destroy or damage fish guards, screens, or bypasses. It is also unlawful to unnecessarily modify such structures if the modification causes a substantial risk of death to fish. Unnecessary modification includes modification other than that necessary for maintenance and operation or research, provided such maintenance and operation or research is conducted in a manner to minimize risk of death to fish. The director may close a water diversion device if the director finds that the holder of the water right associated with the diversion has unlawfully destroyed, damaged, or modified, or caused to be unlawfully destroyed, damaged, or modified, a fish guard, screen, or bypass on the diversion and if such closure does not affect water availability for any other water user. If the unlawful destruction, damage, or modification by the water right holder results in the loss of fish, the director may close the diversion device if the closure does not affect water availability for any other water user. Proceedings under this section shall be in accordance with chapter 34.05 RCW. The water diversion device shall remain closed until the holder of the water right has repaired or replaced the fish guard, screen, or bypass to the satisfaction of the director. For the first offense, the director may levy a civil penalty of a minimum of two thousand five hundred dollars and not to exceed five thousand dollars. For each subsequent offense, the director may levy a civil penalty of a minimum of two thousand five hundred dollars and not to exceed ten thousand dollars.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. A new section is added to chapter 75.20 RCW to read as follows:

If fish are lost due to violations of section 2 of this act, the violator shall reimburse the state for the value of the fish, as determined by the director. Reimbursement moneys shall be deposited into the state general fund."

ESHB 1471 Prime Sponsor, Committee on Fisheries & Wildlife: Regulating the non-Puget Sound coastal commercial crab fishery. Reported by Committee on Fisheries & Wildlife

MAJORITY recommendation: Do pass with the following amendment:

Strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that the commercial crab fishery in coastal and offshore waters is overcapitalized. The legislature further finds that this overcapitalization has led to the economic destabilization of the coastal crab industry, and can cause excessive harvesting pressures on the coastal crab resources of Washington state. In order to provide for the economic well-being of the Washington crab industry and to protect the livelihood of Washington crab fishers who have historically and continuously participated in the coastal crab fishery, the legislature finds that it is in the best interests of the economic well-being of the coastal crab industry to reduce the number of fishers taking crab in coastal waters, to reduce the number of vessels landing crab taken in offshore waters, to limit the number of future licenses, and to limit fleet capacity by limiting vessel size.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) Effective January 1, 1995, it is unlawful to fish for coastal crab in Washington state waters or deliver coastal crab to a port in the state without a Dungeness crab--coastal or a Dungeness crab--coastal class B fishery license.

(2) A Dungeness crab--coastal fishery license is transferable. Such a license shall only be issued to a person who proved active historical participation in the coastal crab fishery by having designated, as of December 31, 1993, a vessel on the qualifying license that meets the following criteria:

(a) Made a minimum of eight coastal crab landings totaling a minimum of five thousand pounds per season in at least two of the four qualifying seasons identified in subsection (4) of this section, as documented by valid Washington state shellfish receiving tickets; and showed historical and continuous participation in the coastal crab fishery by having held one of the following licenses or their equivalents each calendar year beginning 1990 through 1993, and was designated on the qualifying license of the person who held one of the following licenses in 1994:

- (i) Crab pot—Non-Puget Sound license, issued under RCW 75.28.130(1)(b);
- (ii) Nonsalmon delivery license, issued under RCW 75.28.125;
- (iii) Salmon troll license, issued under RCW 75.28.110;
- (iv) Salmon delivery license, issued under RCW 75.28.113;
- (v) Food fish trawl license, issued under RCW 75.28.120; or
- (vi) Shrimp trawl license, issued under RCW 75.28.130; or

(b) Made a minimum of four landings of coastal crab totaling two thousand pounds during the period from December 1, 1991, to March 20, 1992, and made a minimum of eight crab landings totaling a minimum of five thousand pounds of coastal crab during each of the following periods: December 1, 1991, to September 15, 1992; December 1, 1992, to September 15, 1993; and December 1, 1993, to September 15, 1994. For landings made after December 31, 1993, the vessel shall have been designated on the qualifying license of the person making the landings.

(3) A Dungeness crab--coastal class B fishery license is not transferable. Such a license shall be issued to persons who do not meet the qualification criteria for a Dungeness crab--coastal fishery license, if the person is the registered owner, as of December 31, 1993, of a vessel that made a minimum of four landings totaling a minimum of two thousand pounds of coastal crab, documented by valid Washington state shellfish receiving tickets, during at least one of the four qualifying seasons, and if the person has participated continuously in the coastal crab fishery by having held one or more of the licenses listed in subsection (2) of this section in each calendar year subsequent to the qualifying season in which qualifying landings were made through 1994. Dungeness crab--coastal class B fishery licenses cease to exist after December 31, 1997, and the continuing license provisions of RCW 34.05.422(3) are not applicable.

(4) The four qualifying seasons for purposes of this section are:

- (a) December 1, 1988, through September 15, 1989;
- (b) December 1, 1989, through September 15, 1990;
- (c) December 1, 1990, through September 15, 1991; and
- (d) December 1, 1991, through September 15, 1992.

(5) For purposes of this section and section 4 of this act, "coastal crab" means Dungeness crab (cancer magister) taken in all Washington territorial and offshore waters south of the United States-Canada boundary and west of the Bonilla-Tatoosh line (a line from the western end of Cape Flattery to Tatoosh Island lighthouse, then to the buoy adjacent to Duntz Rock, then in a straight line to Bonilla Point of Vancouver island), Grays Harbor, Willapa Bay, and the Columbia river.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The legislature finds that some persons may have seriously planned to enter the commercial crab fishery, but were unable to fulfill the landing requirements because the vessel under construction was not completed in sufficient time to make the qualifying landings.

(1) A person who cannot demonstrate participation in the coastal crab fishery under section 2 of this act shall be awarded a Dungeness crab--coastal fishery license if:

(a) The person, as of December 31, 1993, has designated a vessel on the qualifying license that was in the process of being constructed for the purpose of being employed in the Washington coastal crab fishery on March 20, 1992. For purposes of this section, "construction" means having the keel laid, and "for the purpose of being employed in the Washington coastal crab fishery" means the vessel is designed to retrieve crab pots mechanically and has a live well; and

(b) The vessel landed both five thousand pounds of coastal crab into a Washington port before September 15, 1993, and five thousand pounds of coastal crab in eight landings between December 1, 1993, and September 15, 1994, or else the vessel under construction is a replacement vessel for a lost vessel that, had it not been lost, would have contributed to the eligibility of the applicant for a Dungeness crab--coastal fishery license.

(2) All applications for Dungeness crab--coastal fishery licenses under this section shall be subject to review by the advisory review board in accordance with RCW 75.30.060. The board shall recommend to the director whether such applications should be accepted.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. (1) An Oregon resident who can show historical and continuous participation in the Washington state coastal crab fishery by having held a nonresident Non-Puget Sound crab pot license issued under RCW 75.28.130 each year from 1990 through 1994, and who has delivered a minimum of eight landings totaling five thousand pounds of crab into Oregon during any two of the four qualifying seasons as provided in section 2(4) of this act as evidenced by valid Oregon fish receiving tickets, shall be issued a nonresident Dungeness crab--coastal fishery license valid for fishing in Washington state waters north from the Oregon-Washington boundary to United States latitude forty-six degrees thirty minutes north. Such license shall be issued upon application and submission of proof of delivery.

(2) This section shall become effective contingent upon reciprocal statutory authority in the state of Oregon providing for equal access for Washington state coastal crab fishers to Oregon territorial coastal waters north of United States latitude forty-five degrees fifty-eight minutes north, and Oregon waters of the Columbia river.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) The following restrictions apply to vessel designations and substitutions on Dungeness crab--coastal fishery licenses and Dungeness crab--coastal class B fishery licenses:

(a) The holder of the license may not designate on the license a vessel the hull length of which exceeds ninety-nine feet, nor may the holder change vessel designation if the hull length of the vessel proposed to be designated exceeds the hull length of the currently designated vessel by more than ten feet;

(b) If the hull length of the vessel proposed to be designated is comparable to or exceeds by up to one foot the hull length of the currently designated vessel, the department may change the vessel designation no more than once in any two consecutive Washington state coastal crab seasons unless the currently designated vessel is lost or in disrepair such that it does not safely operate, in which case the department may allow a change in vessel designation;

(c) If the hull length of the vessel proposed to be designated exceeds by between one and ten feet the hull length of the currently designated vessel, the department may change the vessel designation no more than once in any five consecutive Washington state coastal crab seasons, unless a request is made by the license holder during a Washington state coastal crab season for an emergency change in vessel designation. If such an emergency request is made, the director may allow a temporary change in designation to a leased or rented vessel, if the hull length of the leased or rented vessel does not exceed by more than ten feet the hull length of the currently designated vessel.

(2) For the purposes of this section, "hull length" means the length of a vessel's hull as shown by United States coast guard documentation or marine survey, or for vessels that do not require United States coast guard documentation, by manufacturer's specifications or marine survey.

Sec. 6. RCW 75.28.044 and 1993 sp.s. c 17 s 45 are each amended to read as follows:

This section applies to all commercial fishery licenses, delivery licenses, and charter licenses, except for emergency salmon delivery licenses.

(1) The holder of a license subject to this section may substitute the vessel designated on the license or designate a vessel if none has previously been designated if the license holder:

(a) Surrenders the previously issued license to the department;

(b) Submits to the department an application that identifies the currently designated vessel, the vessel proposed to be designated, and any other information required by the department; and

(c) Pays to the department a fee of thirty-five dollars.

(2) Unless the license holder owns all vessels identified on the application described in subsection (1)(b) of this section or unless the vessel is designated on a Dungeness crab--coastal or a Dungeness crab--coastal class B fishery license, the following restrictions apply to changes in vessel designation:

(a) The department shall change the vessel designation on the license no more than four times per calendar year.

(b) The department shall change the vessel designation on the license no more than once in any seven-day period.

Sec. 7. RCW 75.28.046 and 1993 c 340 s 9 are each amended to read as follows:

This section applies to all commercial fishery licenses, delivery licenses, and charter licenses, except for whiting--Puget Sound fishery licenses and emergency salmon delivery licenses.

(1) The license holder may engage in the activity authorized by a license subject to this section. With the exception of Dungeness crab--coastal fishery class B licensees licensed under section 2(3) of this act, the holder of a license subject to this section may also designate up to two alternate operators for the license. Dungeness crab--coastal fishery class B licensees may not designate alternate operators. A person designated as an alternate operator must possess an alternate operator license issued under section 23 of this act and RCW 75.28.048.

(2) The fee to change the alternate operator designation is twenty-two dollars.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. Except as provided under section 12 of this act, after December 31, 1995, a Dungeness crab--coastal fishery license may only be issued to a person who held the license in 1995, or has had the license transferred to the person. Once a license is issued, renewal is contingent on continuous holding of the license; however where the failure to hold a license continuously is the result of license suspension, the license may be renewed if the person whose license is suspended held a Dungeness crab--coastal fishery license in the year before license suspension.

Sec. 9. RCW 75.28.130 and 1993 sp.s. c 17 s 40 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) This section establishes commercial fishery licenses required for shellfish fisheries and the annual fees for those licenses. The director may issue a limited-entry commercial fishery license only to a person who meets the qualifications established in applicable governing sections of this title.

Where a fishery license has been established for a particular species, gear, geographical area, or combination thereof, a more general fishery license may not be used to take shellfish in that fishery.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. A surcharge of fifty dollars shall be collected with each Dungeness crab--coastal fishery license issued under RCW 75.28.130 until June 30, 2000, and with each Dungeness crab--coastal class B fishery license issued under RCW 75.28.130 until December 31, 1997. Moneys collected under this section shall be placed in the Dungeness crab appeals account hereby created in the state treasury. Expenditures from the account shall only be used for processing appeals related to the issuance of Dungeness crab--coastal fishery licenses.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. (1) It is unlawful for Dungeness crab--coastal fishery licensees to take Dungeness crab in the waters of the exclusive economic zone westward of the states of Oregon or California and land crab taken in those waters into Washington state unless the licensee also holds the licenses, permits, or endorsements, required by Oregon or California to land crab into Oregon or California, respectively.

(2) This section becomes effective only upon reciprocal legislation being enacted by both the states of Oregon and California. For purposes of this section, "exclusive economic zone" means that zone defined in the federal fishery conservation and management act (16 U.S.C. Sec. 1802) as of the effective date of this section or as of a subsequent date adopted by rule of the director.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. If fewer than one hundred twenty-five persons are eligible for Dungeness crab--coastal fishery licenses, the director may accept applications for new licenses. Additional licenses issued shall be sufficient to maintain a maximum of one hundred twenty-five licenses in the Washington coastal crab fishery. If additional licenses are to be issued, the director shall adopt rules governing the notification, application, selection, and issuance procedures for new Dungeness crab--coastal fishery licenses, based on recommendations of the review board established under RCW 75.30.050.

Sec. 13. RCW 75.30.050 and 1993 c 376 s 9 and 1993 c 340 s 27 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) The director shall appoint three-member advisory review boards to hear cases as provided in RCW 75.30.060. Members shall be from:

- (a) The salmon charter boat fishing industry in cases involving salmon charter licenses or angler permits;
- (b) The commercial salmon fishing industry in cases involving commercial salmon fishery licenses;
- (c) The commercial crab fishing industry in cases involving dungeness crab--Puget Sound fishery licenses;
- (d) The commercial herring fishery in cases involving herring fishery licenses;

(e) The commercial Puget Sound whiting fishery in cases involving whiting--Puget Sound fishery licenses;

(f) The commercial sea urchin fishery in cases involving sea urchin dive fishery licenses;

(g) The commercial sea cucumber fishery in cases involving sea cucumber dive fishery licenses; ~~((and))~~

(h) The commercial ocean pink shrimp industry (Pandalus jordani) in cases involving ocean pink shrimp delivery licenses; and

(i) The commercial coastal crab industry in cases involving Dungeness crab--coastal and Dungeness crab--coastal class B fishery licenses.

(2) Members shall serve at the discretion of the director and shall be reimbursed for travel expenses as provided in RCW 43.03.050, 43.03.060, and 43.03.065.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. The director may reduce the landing requirements established under section 2 of this act upon the recommendation of an advisory review board established under RCW 75.30.050, but the director may not entirely waive the landing requirement. The advisory review board may recommend a reduction of the landing requirement in individual cases if in the board's judgment, extenuating circumstances prevented achievement of the landing requirement. The director shall adopt rules governing the operation of the advisory review board and defining "extenuating circumstances." In defining extenuating circumstances, special consideration shall be given to individuals who can provide evidence of lack of access to capital based on past discrimination due to race, creed, color, sex, national origin, or disability.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. The coastal crab industry shall prepare a gear reduction plan to stabilize the coastal crab industry in Washington. The industry shall submit the plan to the department of fish and wildlife by June 30, 1996. The department shall evaluate the plan and submit it to the legislature by December 31, 1996.

Sec. 16. RCW 75.28.125 and 1993 sp.s. c 17 s 39 and 1993 c 376 s 3 are each reenacted and amended to read as follows:

(1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, it is unlawful to deliver with a commercial fishing vessel food fish or shellfish taken in offshore waters to a port in the state without a ~~((non-salmon))~~ nonlimited entry delivery license. As used in this section, "food fish" does not include salmon. As used in this section, "shellfish" does not include ocean pink shrimp or coastal crab. The annual license fee for a ~~((non-salmon))~~ nonlimited entry delivery license is one hundred ten dollars for residents and two hundred dollars for nonresidents.

(2) Holders of salmon troll fishery licenses issued under RCW 75.28.110, salmon delivery licenses issued under RCW 75.28.113, crab pot fishery licenses issued under RCW 75.28.130, food fish trawl--Non-Puget Sound fishery licenses issued under RCW 75.28.120, Dungeness crab--coastal fishery licenses, ocean pink shrimp delivery licenses, and shrimp trawl--Non-Puget Sound fishery licenses issued under RCW 75.28.130 may deliver food fish or shellfish taken in offshore waters without a ~~((non-salmon))~~ nonlimited entry delivery license.

(3) A ~~((non-salmon))~~ nonlimited entry delivery license authorizes no taking of food fish or shellfish from state waters.

Sec. 17. RCW 75.28.113 and 1993 sp.s. c 17 s 36 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) It is unlawful to deliver salmon taken in offshore waters to a place or port in the state without a salmon delivery license from the director. The annual fee for a salmon delivery license is three hundred eighty dollars for residents and six hundred eighty-five dollars for nonresidents. The annual surcharge under RCW 75.50.100 is one hundred dollars for each license. Holders of (~~non~~salmon) nonlimited entry delivery licenses issued under RCW 75.28.125 may apply the (~~non~~salmon) nonlimited entry delivery license fee against the salmon delivery license fee.

(2) Only a person who meets the qualifications established in RCW 75.30.120 may hold a salmon delivery license issued under this section.

(3) A salmon delivery license authorizes no taking of salmon or other food fish or shellfish from the waters of the state.

(4) If the director determines that the operation of a vessel under a salmon delivery license results in the depletion or destruction of the state's salmon resource or the delivery into this state of salmon products prohibited by law, the director may revoke the license under the procedures of chapter 34.05 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. (1) Section 10 of this act is added to chapter 75.28 RCW.

(2) Sections 2 through 5, 8, 11, 12, 14, and 15 of this act are each added to chapter 75.30 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 20. Sections 1 through 14 and 16 through 19 of this act shall take effect January 1, 1995."

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3 (1) For purposes of health care coverage for seasonal workers in the state of Washington, the select committee on seasonal employment is hereby created composed of five members appointed as follows:

(a) Two shall be from the Washington State Senate, one from the majority caucus and one from the minority caucus to be appointed by the President of the Senate;

(b) Two shall be from the Washington State House of Representatives, one from the majority caucus and one from the minority caucus to be appointed by the Speaker of the House; and

(c) One shall be the director of Washington state department of agriculture.

(2) Members of the committee shall serve without compensation for their services but shall be reimbursed for their expenses by their respective agencies.

(3) The select committee shall have the following responsibilities:

(a) Define "seasonal employer" and "seasonal employee";

(b) Conduct an analysis of the financial impact of health insurance coverage on seasonal employees and their employers, including analysis of the extent to which existing funding sources that currently subsidize health services costs for low-income seasonal workers can be utilized, and the feasibility of establishing a centralized pool or depository to finance such coverage;

(c) Determine the extent to which the coverage mechanisms of this chapter should be modified, if at all, to meet the unique characteristics and needs of seasonal employees and their employers.

(d) Consider in its deliberations the following:

(i) That seasonal employees shall have the same base level of benefits, and be subject to the same point of service cost-sharing and premium contribution policies as other employees, consistent with the income-sensitive requirements developed by the commission pursuant to RCW 43.72.130;

(ii) That employers and employees should contribute to the costs of health benefits coverage for seasonal employees and their dependents at a rate that is as affordable for seasonal employees and their employers as for nonseasonal employers and employees. The minimum hourly rate paid by seasonal employers towards their seasonal employees' health insurance coverage shall not have the effect of increasing the employers' monthly contribution toward seasonal employees' health insurance coverage to more than the required fifty percent of the cost of the lowest priced uniform benefits package. The minimum hourly payment rate shall be calculated on the basis of a one hundred twenty hour month, and shall be paid by employers on the first thirty hours of each week worked by a seasonal employee;

(iii) That every effort shall be made to minimize the administrative burden on seasonal employees and seasonal employers; and

(iv) That no new state agency shall be created.

(e) Utilize in its deliberations the following principles in development of a mechanism to determine the date upon which an employer's participation under RCW 43.72.220 begins.

(i) The clear legislative intent of this chapter is to minimize any adverse economic impact of employer participation on small employers, as evidenced by establishment of the small business advisory committee in RCW 43.72.060, establishment of the small firm financial assistance program in RCW 43.72.240, the requirement in RCW 43.72.140 that a small business economic impact statement be prepared by the commission, and phased-in implementation of employer participation requirements based on employer size;

(ii) The unique nature of seasonal industries results in great variations in the number of individuals employed in those industries over the course of a year. Any mechanism developed by the commission shall attempt to address this issue in a manner that: Minimizes the potential for peaks and valleys in employment to disproportionately influence the date upon which an employer's participation under RCW 43.72.220 begins; does not result in overcounting or undercounting qualified employees; and ensures equitable treatment of employers and employees across industries;

(f) Consider any unique issues related to health services access and delivery to seasonal employees.

(4) The select committee shall report its recommendation to the legislature by January 1, 1995 and shall be terminated on January 15, 1995."

For purposes of this chapter:

(1) "Child" and "juvenile" means any individual under the age of eighteen years;

(2) "Dependent child" means any child:

(a) Who has been abandoned; that is, where the child's parent, guardian, or other custodian has evidenced either by statement or conduct, a settled intent to forego, for an extended period, all parental rights or all parental responsibilities despite an ability to do so;

(b) Who is abused or neglected as defined in chapter 26.44 RCW by a person legally responsible for the care of the child;

(c) Who has no parent, guardian, or custodian capable of adequately caring for the child, such that the child is in circumstances which constitute a danger of substantial damage to the child's psychological or physical development; or

(d) Who has a developmental disability, as defined in RCW 71A.10.020 and whose parent, guardian, or legal custodian together with the department determines that services appropriate to the child's needs can not be provided in the home. However, (a), (b), and (c) of this subsection may still be applied if other reasons for removal of the child from the home exist;

(3) "Guardian ad litem" means a person, appointed by the court to represent the best interest of a child in a proceeding under this chapter, or in any matter which may be consolidated with a proceeding under this chapter. A "court-appointed special advocate" appointed by the court to be the guardian ad litem for the child, or to perform substantially the same duties and functions as a guardian ad litem, shall be deemed to be guardian ad litem for all purposes and uses of this chapter;

(4) "Guardian ad litem program" means a court-authorized volunteer program, which is or may be established by the superior court of the county in which such proceeding is filed, to manage all aspects of volunteer guardian ad litem representation for children alleged or found to be dependent. (1) To aid the court in its decision on disposition, a social study, consisting of a written evaluation of matters relevant to the disposition of the case, shall be made by the person or agency filing the petition. The study shall include all social records and may also include facts relating to the child's cultural heritage, and shall be made available to the court. The court shall consider the social file, social study, guardian ad litem report, the court-appointed special advocates report, if any, and any reports filed by a party at the disposition hearing in addition to evidence produced at the fact-finding hearing. At least ten working days before the disposition hearing, the department shall mail to the parent and his or her attorney a copy of the agency's social study and proposed service plan, which shall be in writing or in a form understandable to the parents or custodians. In addition, the department shall provide an opportunity for parents to review and comment on the plan at the community service office. If the parents disagree with the agency's plan or any part thereof, the parents shall submit to the court at least twenty-four hours before the hearing, in writing, or signed oral statement, an alternative plan to correct the problems which led to the finding of dependency. This section shall not interfere with the right of the parents or custodians to submit oral arguments regarding the disposition plan at the hearing.

(2) In addition to the requirements set forth in subsection (1) of this section, a predisposition study to the court in cases of dependency alleged pursuant to RCW 13.34.030(2) (b) or (c) shall contain the following information:

(a) A statement of the specific harm or harms to the child that intervention is designed to alleviate;

(b) A description of the specific programs, for both the parents and child, that are needed in order to prevent serious harm to the child; the reasons why such programs are likely to be useful; the availability of any proposed services; and the agency's overall plan for ensuring that the services will be delivered;

(c) If removal is recommended, a full description of the reasons why the child cannot be protected adequately in the home, including a description of any previous efforts to work with the parents and the child in the home; the in-home treatment programs which have been considered and rejected; the preventive services, including those authorized under RCW 74.14C.070, designed to address the causes of the dependency that have been provided and have failed to resolve the problem, unless the safety of the child cannot be protected adequately in the home; and the parents' attitude toward placement of the child;

(d) A statement of the likely harms the child will suffer as a result of removal. This section should include an exploration of the nature of the parent-child attachment and the meaning of separation and loss to both the parents and the child;

(e) A description of the steps that will be taken to minimize harm to the child that may result if separation occurs; and

(f) Behavior that will be expected before determination that supervision of the family or placement is no longer necessary.

Sec. 3. RCW 74.14C.070 and 1992 c 214 s 9 are each amended to read as follows:

After July 1, 1993, the secretary of social and health services, or the secretary's regional designee, may transfer funds appropriated for foster care services to purchase family preservation services and other preventive services for children at imminent risk of foster care placement. The secretary shall notify the appropriate committees of the senate and house of representatives of any transfers under this section. The secretary shall include caseload, expenditure, cost avoidance, identified improvements to the foster care system, and outcome data related to the transfer in the notification."

On page 2, line 9, after "74.15 RCW" insert ", only after a finding that preventive services, including those authorized under RCW 74.14C.070, designed to address the causes of the dependency have been provided and have failed to resolve the problem, unless the safety of the child cannot be protected adequately in the home"

SPEAKER'S RULING

Representative Jones has raised a point of order to the scope and object of amendment number 969 by Representative Mielke.

In ruling on the point of order, the Speaker finds that House Bill No. 2485 is a measure which caps the amount that workers in the construction industry may be charged for the employee's share of the industrial insurance medical aid premium. Amendment No. 969 limits the provisions of the bill by specifying that only those workers who agree in writing not to bring third party negligence actions under Title 51 RCW are eligible for the cap.

Therefore, the Speaker finds that the amendment does not change the scope and object of the underlying bill and that the point of order is not well taken.

On motion of Representative Peery, House Bill No. 2485 was deferred.

The Speaker declared the House to be at ease.

The Speaker (Representative R. Meyers presiding) called the House to order.

POINT OF ORDER

Representative Leonard: Mr. Speaker, I would like a ruling on the scope and object of the amendment by Representative Heavey to Second Substitute House Bill No. 2798.

SPEAKER'S RULING

Representative Leonard has raised a point of order to the scope and object of amendment number 996 by Representative Heavey.

In ruling on the point of order, the Speaker finds that Second Substitute House Bill No. 2798 is a measure which makes changes to public assistance and amends Title 74 RCW. Amendment No. 996 amends the Uniform Parentage Act found in Chapter 26.26 RCW.

The Speaker therefore finds that the proposed amendment does change the scope and object of the bill and that the point of order is well taken.

The bill was ordered engrossed. On motion of Representative Peery, the rules were suspended, the second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

The Speaker stated the question before the House to be final passage of Engrossed Second Substitute House Bill No. 2798.

Representatives Sommers, Leonard, Cooke, Wolfe, Wineberry, Brown, Thibaudeau, Kessler, Mielke and J. Kohl spoke in favor of passage of the bill.

MOTION

Representative Ballard moved that the comments made by Representative Sommers be spread upon the Journal. The motion was carried.

Representative Sommers: It is clearly time for welfare reform in this state. It is clearly time for welfare reform in this country. I believe that we are a good position, a strong position to show leadership in welfare reform. We have a great deal of research about our welfare population. This proposal is built on that research, not on anecdotes. We know that some 52 percent of welfare recipients in this state were teen mothers. We also know that about 35 percent of the individuals came from a welfare family, so that we have here as elsewhere inter-generational welfare. These are facts that we must face, and we have tried to fashion a proposal, a rational analyzed research proposal that would face up to those facts. I will mention just a few of the major components of the bill. First, it calls for a new culture in the welfare offices and by that we mean the attitude, the expectations that public assistance is a transition to employment. It is not to be a way of life, it not to be long- term. It is to be a safe net for temporary periods. We want welfare social workers, intake workers, counselors and so on to be trained to accept that job. We're hoping, we're expecting we will be funding the provision in the offices of educational material, both for the adults and for the small children, to try to teach to use the time that they spend waiting in those offices for teaching, for informing. So we're hoping for a new culture. There are two populations that are particularly critical, that are critical to any reform and any real change. The one is the parent, and the second is the person who is the long-term recipient, whether teen parent or non teen parent. I'll just mention how we try to deal with those two populations in this bill. For the individuals who are on for long periods of time, and in this bill that would be after three years in the last five-year period, it would require them to enter into an employability contract in which they would hopefully come prepared for work. Perhaps take part-time work, take classes for readiness to work, perhaps finish high school, perhaps take vocational training. After the end of that period, after they had been on welfare for at least four years, there is then a real work incentive. They would have their benefits reduced by ten percent, in the next year if they were not working. It's very different from the two years and out, what we're saying there would be a four-year transition period or they would be on for at least four years and then they would be expected to work or they would begin to lose part of their benefits. They could however, go to work part-time and make up that difference through wages without undergoing the usual dollar-for-dollar reduction in the benefits. It's a very clear message, it gives a lot of time for people to adjust but hopefully the signal, the expectation will be clear. Briefly to the challenge of teen parents, this bill would require that teen parents live in the parental household or with a relative or guardian or in a protective payee status. The concept here is we do not want to encourage 17 years old and younger to leave the household. The policy here, the belief here is that 15, 16 is very young, and they are not yet ready to be nurturing parents in most cases. And they would be required to live in a supervised setting with some adult supervision. We also include a portion which really intends to reach out to high school students and middle school students, and that is the idea of grants, to school districts, to schools for abstinence programs which would be designed by the students themselves. I've seen this happen in a very informal basis in the middle school in my own district where the kids said what they thought should be the message and why women should wait for sexual activity and why they shouldn't get pregnant and why they should wait until they are ready to really take care of children. We need teens talking to teens and that's the idea behind this proposal. I want to say thank you to the many people who worked on this. I think it is a strong bill, we had good cooperation, bi-partisan and both the Human Services Committee and Appropriations Committee working on the bill. The last thing I want to say, is that I see this as a new contract, I see it as a contract and a policy about making women independent. I believe that welfare is a state of dependence and it traps women in a state of dependence. Dependence on government, which is not really the goal that I would hope for young and not so young women. I believe that women might be able see themselves as self determinant, that they can determine their own situation, their own future. We hear all too often that these young women do not see themselves as agents of change, but the passive recipient of the action of another. This is a culture that must be changed. And I hope we take that step with this proposal.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative Backlund: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is indeed an honor to reflect upon the life and accomplishments of this great man. For Lincoln came from a humble background; similar to many of us. A backwoods politician who looked beyond everyday problems around him; Lincoln stepped forward with courage and conviction. He made just and honest decisions for the people he served.

The respect and trust Lincoln earned came not so much from his ideological views, but from the quality of leadership he offered. Lincoln's ability to inspire and lead the citizens of this nation was exceptional. He had the wisdom, courage and faith to make decisions that very often were unpopular among his peers.

You see; Lincoln did not want to divide the nation. But he had to choose between compromise and standing firm for what he believed was right. His decisions were not made in an arrogant or defiant manner. Instead, he stood in a humble and forgiving way, with confidence that he was right.

This is a lesson, a lesson that should be practiced by all of us. Lincoln's success, both as a leader and as a politician resulted from his ability to attract support from a broad spectrum of people.

As a leader, he did not limit his exposure to those within his own party, or those who had different ideological views. His willingness to reach out to people of varied views and attitudes were characteristics of his leadership.

Lincoln cut through the smoke screens and he made courageous decisions which set him apart from those of mediocrity, or those who let the world shape their tomorrow.

Lincoln was able to do this with the citizens of his day. And he was successful as a politician and as a leader. These same characteristics are ones that should be embraced by all of us today.

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that:

(1) In times of decreasing revenues and increasing demands, it is critically important to ensure the efficient use of scarce financial resources by avoiding overlap and duplication of effort among watershed-based planning efforts;

(2) Comprehensive planning for the management of natural resources on a watershed basis is desirable because it has the potential to address multiple concerns in an integrated and efficient manner;

(3) Implementation of watershed-based planning may be complicated by multiple land ownerships, different management missions and objectives, different ways of collecting information, and legal constraints such as federal and state antitrust statutes;

(4) Many different entities, including federal, state, and local governments, tribes, and landowners are already conducting watershed-based planning, research, and monitoring programs;

(5) There exists a compelling need for coordination of these various watershed-based planning efforts and for a consistent process for collecting and sharing information and data among all interested parties; and

(6) There also exists a compelling need to identify regional natural resource goals and objectives as a clear direction for future planning efforts.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. (1) State agencies involved in watershed-based natural resource planning efforts shall coordinate their planning and implementation processes. These cooperating state agencies shall include, but not be limited to, the departments of natural resources, agriculture, ecology, fish and wildlife, health, and community, trade, and economic development; the Puget Sound water quality authority; and the office of the governor. These agencies will meet as a group and include at those meetings representatives of federal agencies, local governments, tribes, private landowners, environmental groups, and other interested parties.

(2) The commissioner of public lands shall coordinate discussions of watershed-based natural resource planning among these various parties. The department of natural resources will provide a reasonable level of staff support for the work of the group.

(3) On or before December 15, 1994, the department of natural resources shall prepare a report for the legislature based on the group's discussions and findings. At a minimum this report shall include:

(a) Identification of barriers to coordination and cooperation in watershed-based planning and management of natural resources;

(b) Recommendations on the collection, storage, and maintenance of information in watershed analysis, planning, monitoring, and research programs. These recommendations could lead to the establishment of protocols governing data collection and information exchange;

(c) Identification of actual and potential overlap and duplication of effort in watershed-based natural resource planning efforts;

(d) Identification of gaps of coverage in existing and proposed watershed planning projects; and

(e) Examination of the possible establishment of a central depository and of a process for periodically updating and distributing information on watershed-based natural resource planning efforts.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. The governor shall establish a process which yields: (1) the identification of strategies for developing cooperative watershed-based planning efforts, which shall in turn lead to identification of regional, results-oriented goals and objectives for the management of natural resources in the state of Washington; (2) the identification of approaches for coordinating and financing the implementation of watershed-based plans; and (3) recommendations for on-going, program-level coordination of watershed-based natural resource planning and management activities.. In developing this process, the legislature encourages the governor to seek input from all interested parties. By December 15, 1995, the governor shall submit his recommendations to the legislature for possible adoption as state policy."

On page 1, strike everything after the enacting clause and insert the following:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. It is in the best interests of the citizens of the state of Washington to insure the highest degree of environmental protection while allowing the proper development and use of its natural resources, including its mineral resources. Metals mining can have significant positive and adverse impacts on the state and on local communities. The purpose of this chapter is to assure that metals mineral mining or milling operations are designed, constructed, and operated in a manner that promotes both economic opportunities and environmental and public health safeguards for the citizens of the state. It is the intent of the legislature to create a regulatory framework which yields, to the greatest extent possible, a metals mining industry that is compatible with these policies.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 2. The definitions set forth in this section apply throughout this chapter.

(1) "Metals mining and milling operation" means a mining operation extracting from the earth precious or base metal ore and processing the ore by treatment or concentration in a milling facility. It also refers to an expansion of an existing operation or any new metals mining operation if the expansion or new mining operation is likely to result in a significant, adverse environmental impact pursuant to the provisions of chapter 43.21C RCW. The extraction of dolomite, sand, gravel, and aggregate and the smelting of aluminum are not metals mining and milling operations regulated under this chapter.

(2) "Heap leach extraction process" means the process of extracting base or precious metal ore by percolating solutions through ore in an open system and includes reprocessing of previously milled ore. The heap leach extraction process does not include leaching in a vat or tank.

(3) "In situ extraction" means the process of dissolving base or precious metals from their natural place in the geological setting and retrieving the solutions from which metals can be recovered.

(4) "Regulated substances" means any materials regulated under a waste discharge permit pursuant to the requirements of chapter 90.48 RCW and/or a permit issued pursuant to chapter 70.94 RCW.

(5) "To mitigate" means (a) to avoid the adverse impact altogether by not taking a certain action or parts of an action; (b) to minimize adverse impacts by limiting the degree or magnitude of the action and its implementation, by using appropriate technology or by taking affirmative steps to avoid or reduce impacts; (c) to rectify adverse impacts by repairing, rehabilitating, or restoring the affected environment; (d) to reduce or eliminate adverse impacts over time by preservation and maintenance operations during the life of the action; (e) to compensate for the impact by replacing, enhancing, or providing substitute resources or environments; or (f) to monitor the adverse impact and take appropriate corrective measures.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 3. Metals mining and milling operations are subject to the requirements of this chapter in addition to the requirements established in other statutes and rules.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 4. The department of ecology shall require each applicant submitting a checklist pursuant to chapter 43.21C RCW for a metals mining and milling operation to disclose the ownership and each controlling interest in the proposed operation. The applicant shall also disclose all other mining operations within the United States which the applicant operates or in which the applicant has an ownership or controlling interest. In addition, the applicant shall disclose and may enumerate and describe the circumstances of (1) any past or present bankruptcies involving the ownerships and their subsidiaries, (2) any abandonment of sites regulated by the model toxics control act, chapter 70.105D RCW, or other similar state remedial cleanup programs, or the federal comprehensive environmental response, compensation, and liability act, 42 U.S.C. Sec. 9601 et seq., as amended, (3) any penalties in excess of ten thousand dollars assessed for violations of the provisions of 33 U.S.C. Sec. 1251 et seq. or 42 U.S.C. Sec. 7401 et seq., and (4) any previous forfeitures of financial assurance due to noncompliance with reclamation or remediation requirements. This information shall be available for public inspection and copying at the department of ecology. Ownership or control of less than ten percent of the stock of a corporation shall not by itself constitute "ownership" or a "controlling interest" under this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. (1) An environmental impact statement must be prepared for any proposed metals mining and milling operation. The department of ecology shall be the lead agency in coordinating the environmental review process under chapter 43.21C RCW and in preparing the environmental impact statement, except for uranium and thorium operations regulated under Title 70 RCW.

(2) As part of the environmental review of metals mining and milling operations regulated under this chapter, the applicant shall provide baseline data adequate to document the premining conditions at the proposed site of the metals mining and milling operation. The baseline data shall contain information on the elements of the natural environment identified in rules adopted pursuant to chapter 43.21C RCW.

(3) The department of ecology, after consultation with the department of fish and wildlife, shall incorporate measures to mitigate significant probable adverse impacts to fish and wildlife as part of the department of ecology's permit requirements for the proposed operation.

(4) In conducting the environmental review and preparing the environmental impact statement, the department of ecology shall cooperate with all affected local governments to the fullest extent practicable.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 6. The department of ecology will appoint a metals mining coordinator. The coordinator will maintain current information on the status of any metals mining and milling operation regulated under this chapter from the preparation of the environmental impact statement through the permitting, construction, operation, and reclamation phases of the project or until the proposal is no longer active. The coordinator shall also maintain current information on postclosure activities. The coordinator will act as a contact person for the applicant, the operator, and interested members of the public. The coordinator may also assist agencies with coordination of their inspection and monitoring responsibilities.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 7. (1) State agencies with the responsibility for inspecting metals mining and milling operations regulated under this chapter shall conduct such inspections at least quarterly.

(2) The legislature encourages state agencies with inspection responsibilities for metals mining and milling operations regulated under this chapter to explore opportunities for cross-training of inspectors among state agencies and programs. This cross-training would be for the purpose of meeting the inspection responsibilities of these agencies in a more efficient and cost-effective manner. If doing so would be more efficient and cost-effective, state agency inspectors are also encouraged to coordinate inspections with federal and local government inspectors as well as with one another.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 8. (1) The metals mining account is created in the state treasury. Expenditures from this account are subject to appropriation. Expenditures from this account may only be used for (a) the additional inspections of metals mining and milling operations required by section 7 of this act and (b) the metals mining coordinator established in section 6 of this act.

(2) (a) As part of its normal budget development process and in consultation with the metals mining industry, the department of ecology shall estimate the costs required for the department to meet its obligations for the additional inspections of metals mining and milling operations required by chapter . . . , Laws of 1994 (this act). The department shall also estimate the cost of employing the metals mining coordinator established in section 6 of this act.

(b) As part of its normal budget development process and in consultation with the metals mining industry, the department of natural resources shall estimate the costs required for the department to meet its obligations for the additional inspections of metals mining and milling operations required by chapter . . . , Laws of 1994 (this act).

(3) Based on the cost estimates generated by the department of ecology and the department of natural resources, the department of revenue shall establish the amount of a fee to be paid by each active metals mining and milling operation regulated under this chapter. The fee shall be established at a level to fully recover the direct and indirect costs of the agency responsibilities identified in subsection (2) of this section. The amount of the fee for each operation shall be proportional to the number of visits required per site. Each applicant for a metals mining and milling operation shall also be assessed the fee based on the same criterion. The department of revenue may adjust the fees established in this subsection if unanticipated activity in the industry increases or decreases the amount of funding necessary to meet agencies' inspection responsibilities.

(4) The department of revenue shall collect the fees established in subsection (3) of this section. All moneys paid to the department of revenue from these fees shall be deposited into the metals mining account.

(5) This section shall take effect July 1, 1995 unless the legislature adopts an alternative approach based on the recommendations of the metals mining advisory group established in section 26 of this act.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 9. (1) In the processing of an application for an initial waste discharge permit for a tailings facility pursuant to the requirements of chapter 90.48 RCW, the department of ecology shall consider site-specific criteria in determining a preferred location of tailings facilities of metals mining and milling operations and incorporate the requirements of all known available and reasonable methods in order to maintain the highest possible standards to insure the purity of all waters of the state in accordance with the public policy identified by RCW 90.48.010.

In implementing the siting criteria, the department shall take into account the objectives of the proponent's application relating to mining and milling operations. These objectives shall consist of, but not be limited to, (a) operational feasibility, (b) compatibility with optimum tailings placement method, (c) adequate volume capacity, (d) availability of construction materials, and (e) an optimized embankment volume.

(2) To meet the mandate of subsection (1) of this section, siting of tailings facilities shall be accomplished through a two-stage process that consists of a primary alternatives screening phase, and a secondary technical site investigation phase.

(3) The primary screening phase will consist of, but not be limited to, siting criteria based on considerations as to location as follows:

(a) Proximity to the one hundred year flood plain, as indicated in the most recent federal emergency management agency maps;

(b) proximity to surface and ground water;

(c) topographic setting;

(d) identifiable adverse geologic conditions, such as landslides and active faults;

(e) visibility impacts of the public generally and residents more particularly.

(4) The department of ecology, through the primary screening process, shall reduce the available tailings facility sites to one or more feasible locations whereupon a technical site investigation phase shall be conducted by the department for the purpose of verifying the adequacy of the remaining potential sites. The technical site investigations phase shall consist of, but not be limited to, the following:

(a) soil characteristics;

(b) hydrologic characteristics;

(c) a local and structural geology evaluation, including seismic conditions and related geotechnical investigations;

(d) a surface water control analysis;

(e) a slope stability analysis.

(5) Upon completion of the two phase evaluation process set forth above, the department of ecology shall issue a site selection report on the preferred location. This report shall address the above criteria as well as analyze the feasibility of reclamation and stabilization of the tailings facility. The siting report may recommend mitigation or engineering factors to address siting concerns. The report shall be developed in conjunction with the preparation of and contained in an environmental impact statement prepared pursuant to chapter 43.21C RCW. The report may be utilized by the department of ecology for the purpose of providing information related to the suitability of the site and for ruling on an application for a waste discharge permit.

(6) The department of ecology may, at its discretion, require the applicant to provide the information required in either phase one or phase two as described in subsections (3) and (4) of this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 10. (1) In order to receive a waste discharge permit from the department of ecology pursuant to the requirements of chapter 90.48 RCW or in order to operate a metals mining and milling tailing facility, an applicant proposing a metals mining and milling operation regulated under this chapter must meet the following additional requirements:

(a) Any tailings facility shall be designed and operated to prevent the release of pollution and must meet the following standards:

(i) Operators shall apply all known available and reasonable technology to limit the concentration of potentially toxic materials in the tailings facility to assure the protection of wildlife and human health.

(ii) The tailings facility shall have a containment system that includes an engineered liner system, leak detection and leak collection elements, and a seepage collection impoundment to assure that a leak of any regulated substance under chapter 90.48 RCW will be detected before escaping from the containment system. The design and management of the facility must ensure that any leaks from the tailings facility are detected in a manner which allows for remediation pursuant to chapter 90.48 RCW. The applicant shall prepare a detailed engineering report setting forth the facility design and construction. The applicant shall submit the report to the department of ecology for its review and approval of a design as determined by the department. Natural conditions, such as depth to ground water or net rainfall, shall be taken into account in the facility design, but not in lieu of the protection required by the engineered liner system.

(iii) The toxicity of mine or mill tailings and the potential for long-term release of regulated substances from mine or mill tailings shall be reduced to the greatest extent practicable through stabilization, removal, or reuse of the substances.

(iv) The closure of the tailings facility shall provide for isolation or containment of potentially toxic materials and shall be designed to prevent future release of regulated substances contained in the impoundment.

(b) The applicant must develop a waste rock management plan approved by the department of ecology and the department of natural resources which emphasizes pollution prevention. At a minimum, the plan must contain the following elements:

(i) An accurate identification of the acid generating properties of the waste rock;

(ii) A strategy for encapsulating potentially toxic material from the environment, when appropriate, in order to prevent the release of heavy metals and acidic drainage; and

(iii) A plan for reclaiming and closing waste rock sites which minimizes infiltration of precipitation and runoff into the waste rock and which is designed to prevent future releases of regulated substances contained within the waste rock.

(c) If an interested citizen or citizen group so requests, the metals mining and milling operator or applicant shall work with the department of ecology and the interested party to make arrangements for citizen observation and verification in the taking of required water samples. While it is the intent of this subsection to provide for citizen observation and verification of water sampling activities, it is not the intent of this subsection to require additional water sampling and analysis on the part of the mining and milling operation or the department. The citizen observation and verification program shall be incorporated into the applicant's, operator's, or department's normal sampling regimen and shall occur at least once every six months. The results from these and all other relevant water sampling activities shall be kept on file with the relevant county and shall be available for public inspection during normal working hours.

(d) An operator or applicant for a metals mining and milling operation must complete a voluntary reduction plan in accordance with RCW 70.95C.200.

(2) Only those tailings facilities constructed after the effective date of this act must meet the requirement established in subsection (1) (a) of this section. Only those waste rock holdings constructed after the effective date of this act must meet the requirement established in subsection (1) (b) of this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 11. (1) The department of ecology and the department of natural resources shall not issue necessary permits to an applicant for a metals mining and milling operation until the applicant has deposited with the department of ecology a performance security which is acceptable to both agencies based on the requirements of subsection (2) of this section. This performance security may be:

(a) Bank letters of credit acceptable to both agencies;

- (b) A cash deposit;
- (c) Negotiable securities acceptable to both agencies;
- (d) An assignment of a savings account;
- (e) A savings certificate in a Washington bank; or
- (f) A corporate surety bond executed in favor of the department of ecology by a corporation authorized to do business in the state of Washington under Title 48 RCW and acceptable to both agencies.

The agencies may, for any reason, refuse any performance security not deemed adequate.

(2) The performance security shall be conditioned on the faithful performance of the applicant or operator in meeting the following obligations:

(a) Satisfactory compliance with the laws of the state of Washington pertaining to metals mining and milling operations and with the related rules and permit conditions established by state and local government with respect to those operations as defined in RCW 78.44.031(17) and the construction, operation, reclamation, and closure of a metals mining and milling operation;

(b) Postclosure environmental monitoring as determined by the department of ecology and the department of natural resources; and

(c) Provision of sufficient funding for cleanup of potential problems revealed during or after closure.

(3) The department of ecology and the department of natural resources shall jointly adopt rules for determining the amount of the performance security, requirements for the performance security, requirements for the issuer of the performance security, and any other requirements necessary for the implementation of this section.

(4) The department of ecology and the department of natural resources, acting jointly, may increase or decrease the amount of the performance security at any time to compensate for any alteration in the operation that affects meeting the obligations in subsection (2) of this section. At a minimum, the agencies shall jointly review the adequacy of the performance security every two years.

(5) Liability under the performance security shall be maintained until the obligations in subsection (2) of this section are met to the satisfaction of the department of ecology and the department of natural resources. Liability under the performance security may be released only upon written notification by the department of ecology, with the concurrence of the department of natural resources.

(6) Any interest or appreciation on the performance security shall be held by the department of ecology until the obligations in subsection (2) of this section have been met to the satisfaction of the department of ecology and the department of natural resources. At such time, the interest shall be remitted to the operator. However, if the applicant or operator fails to comply with the obligations of subsection (2) of this section, the interest or appreciation may be used by either agency to comply with the obligations.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 12. The department of ecology may, with staff, equipment, and material under its control, or by contract with others, remediate or mitigate any impact of a metals mining and milling operation when it finds that the operator or permit holder has failed to comply with relevant statutes, rules, or permits, and the operator or permit holder has failed to take adequate or timely action to rectify these impacts.

If the department intends to remediate or mitigate such impacts, the department shall issue an order to submit performance security requiring the permit holder or surety to submit to the department the amount of moneys posted pursuant to this act. If the amount specified in the order to submit performance security is not paid within twenty days after issuance of the notice, the attorney general upon request of the department shall bring an action on behalf of the state in a superior court to recover the amount specified and associated legal fees.

The department may proceed at any time after issuing the order to submit performance security to remediate or mitigate adverse impacts.

The department shall keep a record of all expenses incurred in carrying out any remediation or mitigation activities authorized under this section, including:

- (1) Remediation or mitigation;
- (2) A reasonable charge for the services performed by the state's personnel and the state's equipment and materials utilized; and
- (3) Administrative and legal expenses related to remediation or mitigation.

The department shall refund to the surety or permit holder all amounts received in excess of the amount of expenses incurred. If the amount received is less than the expenses incurred, the attorney general, upon request of the department of ecology, may bring an action against the permit holder on behalf of the state in the superior court to recover the remaining costs listed in this section.

If the department of natural resources finds that reclamation has not occurred according to the standards required under chapter 78.44 RCW in a metals mining and milling operation, then the department of natural resources may cause reclamation to occur pursuant to RCW 78.44.240. Upon approval of the department of ecology, the department of natural resources may reclaim part or all of the metals mining and milling operation using that portion of the surety posted pursuant to this act that has been identified for reclamation.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 13. (1) The legislature finds that the construction and operation of large-scale metals mining and milling facilities may create new job opportunities and enhance local tax revenues. However, the legislature also finds that such operations may also result in new demands on public facilities owned and operated by local government entities, such as public streets and roads; publicly owned parks, open space, and recreation facilities; school facilities; and fire protection facilities in jurisdictions that are not part of a fire district. It is important for these economic impacts to be identified as part of any proposal for a large-scale metals mining and milling operation. It is then appropriate for the county legislative authority to balance expected revenues, including revenues derived from taxes paid by the owner of such an operation, and costs associated with the operation to determine to what degree any new costs require mitigation by the metals mining applicant.

(2) An applicant for a large-scale metals mining and milling operation regulated under this chapter must submit to the relevant county legislative authority an impact analysis describing the economic impact of the proposed mining operation on local governmental units. For the purposes of this section, a metals mining operation is "large-scale" if, in the construction or operation of the mine and the associated milling facility, the applicant and contractors at the site employ more than thirty-five persons during any consecutive six-month period. The relevant county is the county in which the mine and mill are to be sited, unless the economic impacts to local governmental units are projected to substantially affect more than one county. In that case, the impact plan must be submitted to the legislative authority of all affected counties. Local governmental units include counties, cities, towns, school districts, and special purpose districts.

(3) The economic impact analysis shall include at least the following information:

- (a) A timetable for development of the mining operation, including the opening date of the operation and the estimated closing date;
- (b) The estimated number of persons coming into the impacted area as a result of the development of the mining operation;
- (c) An estimate of the increased capital and operating costs to local governmental units for providing services necessary as a result of the development of the mining operation; and
- (d) An estimate of the increased tax or other revenues accruing to local government units as a result of development of the mining and milling operation.

(4) The county legislative authority of a county planning under chapter 36.70A RCW may assess impact fees under chapter 82.02 RCW to address economic impacts associated with development of the mining operation. The county legislative authority shall hold at least one public hearing on the economic impact analysis and any proposed mitigation measures.

(5) The county legislative authority of a county which is not planning under chapter 36.70A RCW may negotiate with the applicant on a strategy to address economic impacts associated with development of the mining operation. The county legislative authority shall hold at least one public hearing on the economic impact analysis and any proposed mitigation measures.

(6) The county legislative authority must approve or disapprove the impact analysis and any associated proposals from the applicant to address economic impacts to local governmental units resulting from development of the mining operation. If the applicant does not submit an adequate impact analysis to the relevant county legislative authority or if the county legislative authority does not find the applicant's proposals to be acceptable because of their failure to adequately mitigate adverse economic impacts, the county legislative authority shall refuse to issue any permits under its jurisdiction necessary for the construction or operation of the mine and associated mill.

(7) The requirements established in this section apply to metals mining operations under construction or constructed after the effective date of this act.

(8) The provisions of chapter 82.02 RCW shall apply to new mining and milling operations.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 14. (1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, any aggrieved person may commence a civil action on his or her own behalf:

(a) Against any person, including any state agency or local government agency, who is alleged to be in violation of a law, rule, order, or permit pertaining to metals mining and milling operations regulated under this act;

(b) Against a state agency if there is alleged a failure of the agency to perform any nondiscretionary act or duty under state laws pertaining to metals mining and milling operations; or

(c) Against any person who constructs a metals mining and milling operation without the permits and authorizations required by state law.

The superior courts shall have jurisdiction to enforce metals mining laws, rules, orders, and permit conditions, or to order the state to perform such act or duty, as the case may be. In addition to injunctive relief, a superior court may award a civil penalty when deemed appropriate in an amount not to exceed ten thousand dollars per violation per day, payable to the state of Washington.

(2) No action may be commenced:

(a) Under subsection (1)(a) of this section:

(i) Prior to sixty days after the plaintiff has given notice of the alleged violation to the state, and to any alleged violator of a metals mining and milling law, rule, order, or permit condition; or

(ii) If the state has commenced and is diligently prosecuting a civil action in a court of the state or of the United States or is diligently pursuing authorized administrative enforcement action to require compliance with the law, rule, order, or permit. To preclude a civil action, the enforcement action must contain specific, aggressive, and enforceable timelines for compliance and must provide for public notice of and reasonable opportunity for public comment on the enforcement action. In any such court action, any aggrieved person may intervene as a matter of right.

(b) Under subsection (1)(b) of this section prior to sixty days after the plaintiff has given notice of such action to the state.

(3)(a) Any action respecting a violation of a law, rule, order, or permit condition pertaining to metals mining and milling operations may be brought in the judicial district in which such operation is located or proposed.

(b) In such action under this section, the state, if not a party, may intervene as a matter of right.

(4) The court, in issuing any final order in any action brought pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, may award costs of litigation, including reasonable attorney and expert witness fees, to any prevailing party, wherever the court determines such award is appropriate. The court may, if a temporary restraining order or preliminary injunction is sought, require the filing of a bond or equivalent security in accordance with the rules of civil procedure.

(5) A civil action to enforce compliance with a law, rule, or order may not be brought under this section if any other statute, or the common law, provides authority for the plaintiff to bring a civil action and, in such action, obtain the same relief, as authorized under this section, for enforcement of such law, rule or order. Nothing in this section restricts any right which any person, or class of persons, may have under any statute or common law to seek any relief, including relief against the state or a state agency.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 15. A milling facility which is not adjacent to or in the vicinity of the metals mining operation producing the ore to be milled and which processes precious or base metal ore by treatment or concentration is subject to the provisions of sections 1 through 9, 10(1) (a), (c) and (d), 11 through 14, and 18 through 24 of this act. The smelting of aluminum does not constitute a metals milling operation under this section.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 16. (1) Until June 30, 1996, there shall be a moratorium on metals mining and milling operations using the heap leach extraction process. The department of natural resources and the department of ecology shall jointly review the existing laws and regulations pertaining to the heap leach extraction process for their adequacy in safeguarding the environment and shall report their findings to the legislature by December 30, 1994.

(2) Metals mining using the process of in situ extraction is permanently prohibited in the state of Washington.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 17. The department of ecology will work with the metals mining industry and relevant federal, state and local governmental agencies to identify areas of regulatory overlap among regulators of mining and milling operations. The department will also identify possible solutions for eliminating or reducing regulatory overlap. The department will report back to the legislature on its findings and possible solutions by January 1, 1995.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 18. A new section is added to chapter 70.94 RCW to read as follows:

If a metals mining and milling operation is issued a permit pursuant to this chapter, then it will be subject to special inspection requirements. The department of ecology shall inspect these mining operations at least quarterly in order to ensure that the operation is in compliance with the conditions of any permit issued to it pursuant to this chapter. The department shall conduct additional inspections during the construction phase of the mining and milling operation in order to ensure compliance with this chapter.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 19. A new section is added to chapter 70.105 RCW to read as follows:

If a metals mining and milling operation is issued a permit pursuant to this chapter, then it will be subject to special inspection requirements. The department of ecology shall inspect these mining operations at least quarterly in order to ensure that the operation is in compliance with the conditions of any permit issued to it pursuant to this chapter. The department shall conduct additional inspections during the construction phase of the mining operation in order to ensure compliance with this chapter.

Sec. 20. RCW 90.03.350 and 1987 c 109 s 91 are each amended to read as follows:

Any person, corporation or association intending to construct or modify any dam or controlling works for the storage of ten acre feet or more of water, shall before beginning said construction or modification, submit plans and specifications of the same to the department for examination and approval as to its safety. Such plans and specifications shall be submitted in duplicate, one copy of which shall be retained as a public record, by the department, and the other returned with its approval or rejection endorsed thereon. No such dam or controlling works shall be constructed or modified until the same or any modification thereof shall have been approved as to its safety by the department. Any such dam or controlling works constructed or modified in any manner other than in accordance with plans and specifications approved by the department or which shall not be maintained in accordance with the order of the department shall be presumed to be a public nuisance and may be abated in the manner provided by law, and it shall be the duty of the attorney general or prosecuting attorney of the county wherein such dam or controlling works, or the major portion thereof, is situated to institute abatement proceedings against the owner or owners of such dam or controlling works, whenever he or she is requested to do so by the department.

A metals mining and milling operation regulated under chapter . . . , Laws of 1994 (this act) is subject to additional dam safety inspection requirements due to the special hazards associated with failure of a tailings pond impoundment. The department shall inspect these impoundments at least quarterly during the project's operation and at least annually thereafter for the postclosure monitoring period in order to ensure the safety of the dam or controlling works. The department shall conduct additional inspections as needed during the construction phase of the mining operation in order to ensure the safe construction of the tailings impoundment.

Sec. 21. RCW 90.48.090 and 1987 c 109 s 127 are each amended to read as follows:

The department or its duly appointed agent shall have the right to enter at all reasonable times in or upon any property, public or private, for the purpose of inspecting and investigating conditions relating to the pollution of or the possible pollution of any of the waters of this state.

The department shall have special inspection requirements for metals mining and milling operations regulated under chapter . . . , Laws of 1994 (this act). The department shall inspect these mining and milling operations at least quarterly in order to ensure compliance with the intent and any permit issued pursuant to this chapter. The department shall conduct additional inspections as needed during the construction phase of these mining operations in order to ensure compliance with this chapter.

Sec. 22. RCW 78.44.161 and 1993 c 518 s 25 are each amended to read as follows:

The department may order at any time an inspection of the disturbed area to determine if the miner or permit holder has complied with the reclamation permit, rules, and this chapter.

The department shall have special inspection requirements for metals mining and milling operations regulated under chapter . . . , Laws of 1994 (this act). The department shall inspect these mining operations at least quarterly in order to ensure that the permit holder is in compliance with the reclamation permit, rules, and this chapter. The department shall conduct additional inspections as needed during the construction phase of these mining operations in order to ensure compliance with the reclamation permit, rules, and this chapter.

Sec. 23. RCW 78.44.087 and 1993 c 518 s 15 are each amended to read as follows:

The department shall not issue a reclamation permit until the applicant has deposited with the department an acceptable performance security on forms prescribed and furnished by the department. A public or governmental agency shall not be required to post performance security nor shall a permit holder be required to post surface mining performance security with more than one state(~~(, local, or federal))~~ or local agency.

This performance security may be:

- (1) Bank letters of credit acceptable to the department;
- (2) A cash deposit;

- (3) Negotiable securities acceptable to the department;
- (4) An assignment of a savings account;
- (5) A savings certificate in a Washington bank on an assignment form prescribed by the department;
- (6) Assignments of interests in real property within the state of Washington; or
- (7) A corporate surety bond executed in favor of the department by a corporation authorized to do business in the state of Washington under Title 48 RCW and authorized by the department.

The performance security shall be conditioned upon the faithful performance of the requirements set forth in this chapter and of the rules adopted under it.

The department shall have the authority to determine the amount of the performance security using a standardized performance security formula developed by the department. The amount of the security shall be determined by the department and based on the estimated costs of completing reclamation according to the approved reclamation plan or minimum standards and related administrative overhead for the area to be surface mined during (a) the next twelve-month period, (b) the following twenty-four months, and (c) any previously disturbed areas on which the reclamation has not been satisfactorily completed and approved.

The department may increase or decrease the amount of the performance security at any time to compensate for a change in the disturbed area, the depth of excavation, a modification of the reclamation plan, or any other alteration in the conditions of the mine that affects the cost of reclamation. The department may, for any reason, refuse any performance security not deemed adequate.

Liability under the performance security shall be maintained until reclamation is completed according to the approved reclamation plan to the satisfaction of the department unless released as hereinafter provided. Liability under the performance security may be released only upon written notification by the department. Notification shall be given upon completion of compliance or acceptance by the department of a substitute performance security. The liability of the surety shall not exceed the amount of security required by this section and the department's reasonable legal fees to recover the security.

Any interest or appreciation on the performance security shall be held by the department until reclamation is completed to its satisfaction. At such time, the interest shall be remitted to the permit holder; except that such interest or appreciation may be used by the department to effect reclamation in the event that the permit holder fails to comply with the provisions of this chapter and the costs of reclamation exceed the face value of the performance security.

Except as provided in this section, no other state agency or local government shall require performance security for the purposes of surface mine reclamation and only one agency of government shall require and hold the performance security. The department may enter into written agreements with federal agencies in order to avoid redundant bonding of surface mines straddling boundaries between federally controlled and other lands within Washington state.

~~((Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, nothing shall preclude the department of ecology from requiring a separate performance security for metallic minerals or uranium surface mines under any authority if any that may be presently vested in the department of ecology relating to such mines.))~~ The department and the department of ecology shall jointly require performance security for metals mining and milling operations regulated under chapter . . . , Laws of 1994 (this act).

Sec. 24. RCW 78.44.131 and 1993 c 518 s 20 are each amended to read as follows:

The need for, and the practicability of, reclamation shall control the type and degree of reclamation in any specific instance. However, the basic objective of reclamation is to reestablish on a continuing basis the vegetative cover, slope stability, water conditions, and safety conditions suitable to the proposed subsequent use consistent with local land use plans for the surface mine site.

Each permit holder shall comply with the minimum reclamation standards in effect on the date the permit was issued and any additional reclamation standards set forth in the approved reclamation plan. The department may modify, on a site specific basis, the minimum reclamation standards for metals mining and milling operations regulated under chapter . . . , Laws of 1994 (this act) in order to achieve the reclamation and closure objectives of that chapter. The basic objective of reclamation for these operations is the reestablishment on a continuing basis of vegetative cover, slope stability, water conditions, and safety conditions.

Reclamation activities, particularly those relating to control of erosion and mitigation of impacts of mining to adjacent areas, shall, to the extent feasible, be conducted simultaneously with surface mining, and in any case shall be initiated at the earliest possible time after completion of surface mining on any segment of the permit area.

All reclamation activities shall be completed not more than two years after completion or abandonment of surface mining on each segment of the area for which a reclamation permit is in force.

The department may by contract delegate enforcement of provisions of reclamation plans to counties, cities, and towns. A county, city, or town performing enforcement functions may not impose any additional fees on permit holders.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 25. Sections 1 through 16 of this act shall constitute a new chapter in Title 78 RCW.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 26. (1) The department of ecology shall establish a metals mining advisory group, to be comprised of members representing the metals mining industry, the environmental community, the department of ecology, the department of fish and wildlife, and the department of natural resources.

(2) The metals mining advisory group will focus on the following tasks:

(a) A review of the adequacy of the cost-accounting methods of the departments of ecology and natural resources in accurately identifying the costs associated with the additional inspection requirements established in this act;

(b) Establishing a set of success measures to be used to evaluate the implementation of the new coordinator role established in this act;

(c) Examination of possible new inspection requirements for the department of fish and wildlife and a means to fund any new requirements; and

(d) Identification and evaluation of the alternative bases for allocating the costs that may be necessitated by chapter . . . , Laws of 1994 (this act).

(3) The advisory group shall report its findings and its preferred alternative among the options identified in subsection (2)(d) of this section to the legislature by January 1, 1995.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 27. If any provision of this act or its application to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act or the application of the provision to other persons or circumstances is not affected.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 28. This act is necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety, or support of the state government and its existing public institutions, and, with the exception of sections 6 through 8, shall take effect immediately.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 29. Sections 6 through 8 shall take effect July 1, 1995."

Representatives Dunshee and Stevens spoke in favor of the adoption of the amendment. The amendment was adopted.

The bill was ordered engrossed. With consent of the House, the rules were suspended, second reading considered the third, and the bill was placed on final passage.

The Speaker (Representative R. Meyers presiding) stated the question before the House to be final passage of Engrossed Substitute House Bill No. 2521.

Representatives Dunshee, McMorris, Pruitt and Dyer spoke in favor of passage of the bill.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Representative Dunshee yielded to a question by Representative Pruitt.

Representative Pruitt: Thank you Mr. Speaker. Representative Dunshee, we are aware that there are currently EIS documents and permit applications being prepared on different mining proposals. Is it the intent of this legislation to have the Department of Ecology to delay action on any proposals until the provisions of the bill are implemented?"

Representative Dunshee: No Mr. Speaker. Agencies must proceed with all current proposals with all possible speed. The effective date of this legislation is of no consequence to them in implementing today's laws. They should not postpone any action, not postpone any review.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Representative Dunshee yielded to a question by Representative Dyer.

Representative Dyer: "Thank you Mr. Speaker. On New Section, Section 14, line 26, there is some discussion of an aggrieved person may commence a single action on his or her own behalf. Is it the intent of this legislation to broaden or to limit those people in standing as an aggrieved person?"

Representative Dunshee: "You should check with the person sitting just behind you who told me what that word meant in legalese. And I'm sorry I don't remember his district. This was an agreed upon word by all sides, and not being a lawyer, sorry about that, I can't answer in legalese."

On page 1, line 5, after "finds" strike all material through "immediately." on line 15 and insert "and declares that:

A 1991 legislative study, conducted by Booz.Allen, Hamilton and M. Rosenblatt and Son, examining the Washington State Ferries' management of its vessel refurbishment and construction program, resulted in recommendations for improvements and changes in the vessel refurbishment and construction program. These legislatively adopted recommendations encourage and support input by Washington State Ferries' engineers in the development of refurbishment and new construction project requirements.

The recommendations of the Booz.Allen study have been applied to the construction of the Jumbo Class Mark II ferries through the appointment of a Jumbo Class Mark II Steering Committee comprised of current state ferry engineers responsible for the design, operation, and maintenance of state ferry vessels.

The Steering Committee, in carrying out the recommendations of the Booz. Allen study, has determined that the procedure for the procurement of equipment, parts, and supplies for the Jumbo Class Mark II ferry vessels authorized by RCW 47.60.770 through 47.60.778, must take into consideration, in addition to life-cycle cost criteria, criteria that are essential to the operation of a public mass transportation system responsive to the needs of Washington State Ferries' users, and that assess the reliability, maintainability, and performance of equipment, parts, and supplies to be installed in the Jumbo Mark II ferries.

The construction of the new Jumbo Class Mark II ferry vessels authorized by RCW 47.60.770 through 47.60.778 is critical to the welfare of the state and any delay in the immediate construction of the ferries will result in severe hardship and economic loss to the state and its citizens. Recognizing these findings, it is the intent of the legislature that the vessel construction should not be delayed further because of the acquisition of a propulsion system, or any component of it, for the ferries, and to authorize the department of transportation to acquire all components of a complete propulsion system as soon as possible so that planned construction of the Jumbo Class Mark II ferry vessels can proceed immediately.

The purpose of this chapter is to authorize the use, by the department, of supplemental, alternative contracting procedures for the procurement of a propulsion system, and the components thereof, for the Jumbo Class Mark II ferries; and to prescribe appropriate requirements and criteria to ensure that contracting procedures for such procurement serve the public interest."

On page 3, line 10, after "(6)" strike the remainder of the subsection and insert the following:

"The criteria to select the most advantageous diesel engine under subsection (5) (b) (ii) shall consist of life-cycle cost factors weighted at thirty percent; and operational factors weighted as follows: reliability at twenty-five percent, maintainability at twenty-five percent, and engine performance at twenty percent. For purposes of this subsection, the cost factors shall consist of the costs for engine acquisition and warranty, spare parts acquisition and inventory, fuel efficiency and lubricating oil consumption, and commonality. The reliability factors shall consist of the length of service and reliability record in comparable uses, user verifications of manufacturer's reliability claims, and mean time between overhauls. The maintainability factors shall consist of spare parts availability, the usual time anticipated to perform typical repair functions, the quality of engine maintenance documentation, and the quality of factory training programs for ferry system maintenance staff. The performance factors shall consist of engine compatibility with ship design, load change responsiveness, and air quality of exhaust and engine room emissions."

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 5. The legislature finds that it has allowed state agencies to adopt administrative rules without sufficient guidance from the legislature, relying on general grants of authority rather than specific legislative policy direction. It is therefore the intent of the legislature in this act to lessen reliance on general grants of authority, limit agency rule making to those matters specifically authorized by the legislature, and that grants of rule-making authority be narrowly construed.

This could end up costing the taxpayers and the state of Washington, individually, millions of dollars. It might help us to defer some of our costs, but clearly, the little guy could get wiped out by this amendment.

Representative R. Meyers: Yes. In that decision, the Court described a "middle level" of intensity of judicial scrutiny and concluded that this middle level, between a de novo review and a strictly procedural review, was the appropriate standard to be used in reviewing agency rule making. It is the intent of this legislation that agency compliance with the new rule adoption requirements in the bill be judged according to this standard.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative McMorris: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. February 15th was Susan B. Anthony Day, the anniversary of her birth, and I would like to make some remarks in favor of that, honoring that. Susan B. Anthony, born in 1820, was one of the greatest names and guiding forces in the story of women's efforts to gain the right to vote. Her first campaign to win women the right to vote was a petition to the New Yorks Legislature in 1854. In ten weeks with 50 volunteers, one from each of New York's counties, they had collected 6,000 signatures. It was the first of nearly 500 separate campaigns to get state legislatures to submit suffrage amendments. Perhaps the most colorful display of her remarkable courage occurred in 1872 when she decided she was going to vote and no one was going to stand in her way. On November 5 at 7:00 a.m. she appeared at the polling place and demanded a ballot; in a note that day to a confidant she wrote, "Well, I've gone and done it, positively voted the Republican ticket, straight, this morning at 7:00 a.m.." Susan B. Anthony never lived to see her dream fulfilled, she died in 1906. Four years later, the State of Washington ended a fourteen year deadlock and carried the suffrage amendment. I'm proud to say that Washington was among the first six states in the nation to do so. Susan B. Anthony was a woman of considerable vision, integrity, courage and commitment. It is with sincere pleasure that I join in honoring her today. Thank you.

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative Brough: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We all honor Susan B. Anthony on the 15th of February only we were somewhat involved on that day, if you will recall. The story I like most about her is when they hauled her off to jail, having cast her ballot in 1872. She made the police officer pay her streetcar fare, because she said "by jove, if you're taking me off to jail, it's your responsibility to pay the fare on the streetcar." This woman was a magnificent woman of courage, of intellect and of vision and it's always a pleasure for me in the middle of February to ask that we honor our sweethearts, the day after that, to honor a leader in the suffragist movement. Her motto and on the masthead of her newspaper, "Failure is impossible" this is the motto that she lived her life by and one that I think we can all adhere to. Thank you very much.

The Speaker declared the House to be at ease.

The Speaker (Representative King presiding) called the House to order.

There being no objection, the House advanced to the eleventh order of business.

Sec. 2. RCW 28B.15.012 and 1993 sp.s. c 18 s 4 are each amended to read as follows:
Whenever used in chapter 28B.15 RCW:

(1) The term "institution" shall mean a public university, college, or community college within the state of Washington.

(2) The term "resident student" shall mean: (a) A financially independent student who has had a domicile in the state of Washington for the period of one year immediately prior to the time of commencement of the first day of the semester or quarter for which the student has registered at any institution and has in fact established a bona fide domicile in this state primarily for purposes other than educational; (b) a dependent student, if one or both of the student's parents or legal guardians have maintained a bona fide domicile in the state of Washington for at least one year immediately prior to commencement of the semester or quarter for which the student has registered at any institution; (c) a student classified as a resident based upon domicile by an institution on or before May 31, 1982, who was enrolled at a state institution during any term of the 1982-1983 academic year, so long as such student's enrollment (excepting summer sessions) at an institution in this state is continuous; (d) any student who has spent at least seventy-five percent of both his or her junior and senior years in high schools in this state, whose parents or legal guardians have been domiciled in the state for a period of at least one year within the five-year period before the student graduates from high school, and who enrolls in a public institution of higher education within six months of leaving high school, for as long as the student remains continuously enrolled for three quarters or two semesters in any calendar year; ~~((e))~~ (e) a student who is the spouse or a dependent of a person who is on active military duty stationed in the state; or (f) a student who meets the requirements of section 1 of this act: PROVIDED, That a nonresident student enrolled for more than six hours per semester or quarter shall be considered as attending for primarily educational purposes, and for tuition and fee paying purposes only such period of enrollment shall not be counted toward the establishment of a bona fide domicile of one year in this state unless such student proves that the student has in fact established a bona fide domicile in this state primarily for purposes other than educational.

(3) The term "nonresident student" shall mean any student who does not qualify as a "resident student" under the provisions of RCW 28B.15.012 and 28B.15.013. A nonresident student shall include:

(a) A student attending an institution with the aid of financial assistance provided by another state or governmental unit or agency thereof, such nonresidency continuing for one year after the completion of such semester or quarter.

(4) The term "domicile" shall denote a person's true, fixed and permanent home and place of habitation. It is the place where the student intends to remain, and to which the student expects to return when the student leaves without intending to establish a new domicile elsewhere. The burden of proof that a student, parent or guardian has established a domicile in the state of Washington primarily for purposes other than educational lies with the student.

(5) The term "dependent" shall mean a person who is not financially independent. Factors to be considered in determining whether a person is financially independent shall be set forth in rules and regulations adopted by the higher education coordinating board and shall include, but not be limited to, the state and federal income tax returns of the person and/or the student's parents or legal guardian filed for the calendar year prior to the year in which application is made and such other evidence as the board may require."

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 102. HEALTHY FAMILIES--WASHINGTON PROGRAM. (1) The department of health shall coordinate and fund community-based projects providing screening, tracking, and the delivery of appropriate primary prevention services to infants and toddlers and their families. The program shall be known as the healthy families--Washington program and shall have a goal of helping families and communities promote healthy child development, reduce preventable illnesses and disabilities, and reduce child abuse and neglect in Washington state.

(2) Participation by parents in the healthy families--Washington program shall be voluntary.

(3) Parents who elect to participate in the healthy families--Washington program shall receive education and support services only after signing a voluntary written authorization. The parents shall be informed of their right to withdraw their decision to participate in the healthy families--Washington program at any time of their choosing.

(4) Program criteria shall be established by the department of health in consultation with the family policy council established pursuant to chapter 70.190 RCW, and with private and public groups involved in child abuse and neglect prevention and shall reflect the following principles:

(a) Family policy principles enunciated by the family policy council;

(b) Flexibility in program design and implementation to accommodate unique community characteristics and needs;

(c) Services are offered, subject to the availability of funding, to infants and their families where a screening has revealed the infant meets one or more risk factors related to a biological, environmental, or psychosocial risk factor; and

(d) Increased coordination of existing services to prospective parents and parents of newborn children.

(5) The department of health shall establish a sliding fee scale for the provision of services under sections 102 through 104 of this act.

(6) For the purposes of sections 102 through 104 of this act "parent" means the birth or adoptive parent, or the legal guardian of a child.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 103. HEALTHY FAMILIES-WASHINGTON PROGRAM SITES--REQUIREMENTS. (1) Each community-based healthy families--Washington program site shall be designed to promote healthy child development and to reduce the incidence of preventable illnesses, disabilities, and child abuse and neglect in the defined community.

(2) Program participation by parents shall be voluntary. In offering or providing services, every effort shall be made to coordinate with and utilize other programs that fund or provide any of the services referenced in subsection (3) of this section. The primary focus for expenditure of healthy families--Washington program funds should be development of a coordinated system of family support services for parents of newborn children in the community who meet eligibility criteria, provision of visits at locations comfortable for parents and provision of services referenced in subsection (3) of this section that are not currently funded from other sources.

(3) Each program site shall make the following services available to families in the defined community:

(a) Screening prior to or soon after the birth of a child to determine whether an infant meets one or more risk factors related to a biological, environmental, or psychosocial risk factor;

(b) Visits for expectant or new parents of infants identified pursuant to (a) of this subsection and their parents, who have voluntarily signed a written authorization to participate, at a location with which the parent is comfortable. Visits shall be conducted by professionals or paraprofessionals under rules established by the department of health. If a professional or paraprofessional is not available to conduct the visit, volunteers may be used to the extent that they meet minimum competency standards established by the department of health. At the initial visit, areas of concern shall be identified in consultation with the parents;

(c) Linking each family with a primary care provider for the infant, tracking the infant's utilization of well-child health services, and providing reminders to participating families when a well-child visit has been missed;

(d) Parenting education and skills development;

(e) Parenting and family support information and referral;

(f) Parent support groups;

(g) Service coordination for individual families, and assistance with accessing services, provided in a manner that ensures that individual families have only one individual or agency to which they look for service coordination. Where appropriate for a family, service coordination may be conducted through interdisciplinary or interagency teams.

(4) The department of health shall evaluate each program site. The evaluation shall include an analysis of the impact of program services on the rate of child abuse and neglect in the community served by the program. The department of health shall report to the appropriate committees of the house of representatives and senate on the effectiveness of the healthy families--Washington program and whether funding should be continued or terminated. The department of health shall report its findings on December 1, 1998.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 104. HEALTHY FAMILIES-WASHINGTON PROGRAM SITES--APPLICATIONS. In developing and designing each healthy families--Washington program site, the department shall:

(1) Actively involve entities in the community of the program site with a demonstrated interest in healthy child development and family support activities;

(2) Actively involve parents who are not affiliated with entities providing child development or family support services;

(3) Identify a lead agency in each site, which may be a private nonprofit or public agency, that will be responsible for fiscal and administrative coordination of the program site;

(4) Identify the entities that will be providing the services described in section 103(3) of this act to participating families through the program;

(5) Develop statistics for each program site, with the assistance of the department of social and health services, on the rate of childhood immunization, preventable illnesses and disabilities, and child abuse and neglect over at least the past five years;

"Sec. 106. RCW 74.14A.020 and 1983 c 192 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

The ~~((department of social and health services))~~ efforts of state agencies participating in the family policy council, as provided in RCW 70.190.010, individually and collectively, shall address the needs of children and their families, including emotionally disturbed ((and)) children with special health care needs, developmentally disabled, and mentally ill children, potentially dependent children, and families-in-conflict by:

(1) Serving children and families as a unit in the least restrictive setting available and in close proximity to ((the)) family homes, consistent with the best interests and special needs of the child;

(2) Developing and implementing comprehensive, preventive, and early intervention social and health services that demonstrate the ability to delay or reduce the need for out-of-home placements and ameliorate problems before they become chronic or severe;

(3) Ensuring that appropriate social and health services are provided to the family unit both prior to the removal of a child from the home and after ~~the~~ family ~~((reunification))~~ is reunited;

~~((3) Developing and implementing comprehensive, preventive, and early intervention social and health services which have demonstrated the ability to delay or reduce the need for out-of-home placements and ameliorate problems before they become chronic or severe;))~~

(4) Ensuring that the safety and best interests of the child are the paramount considerations when making placement and service delivery decisions;

(5) Recognizing the interdependent and changing nature of families and communities, building upon inherent family strengths, maintaining families' dignity and respect, and tailoring programs to their specific circumstances;

(6) Being sensitive to family and community culture, norms, values, and expectations, ensuring that all services are accessible and are provided in a culturally competent and relevant manner, and ensuring participation of racial and ethnic minorities at all levels of service planning, delivery, and evaluation efforts;

(7)(a) Developing coordinated ~~((social and health))~~ services for children and families which:

~~((a))~~ (i) Identify problems experienced by children and their families early and provide services which are adequate in availability, appropriate to the situation, and effective;

~~((b))~~ (ii) Seek to bring about meaningful change before family situations become irreversibly destructive and before disturbed psychological behavioral patterns and health problems become severe or permanent;

~~((c))~~ (iii) Serve children and families in their own homes thus preventing unnecessary out-of-home placement or institutionalization;

~~((d))~~ (iv) Focus resources on ~~((social and health))~~ problems as they begin to manifest themselves rather than waiting for chronic and severe patterns of illness, criminality, and dependency to develop which require long-term treatment, maintenance, or custody;

~~((e))~~ (v) Reduce duplication of and gaps in service delivery;

~~((f))~~ (vi) Improve planning, budgeting, and communication among ~~((all units of the department))~~ state and local agencies and private organizations serving children and families; and

~~((g) Develop)~~ (vii) Use outcome standards for measuring the effectiveness of ~~((social and health))~~ services for children and families.

(b) In developing services under this subsection, local communities shall be partners with the state in planning, developing, implementing, and administering support systems that are tailored to their unique needs.

Sec. 107. RCW 70.190.005 and 1992 c 198 s 1 are each amended to read as follows:

The legislature finds that a primary goal of public involvement in the lives of children has been to strengthen the family unit.

However, the legislature recognizes that traditional two-parent families with one parent routinely at home are now in the minority. In addition, extended family and natural community supports have eroded drastically. The legislature recognizes that public policy assumptions must be altered to account for this new social reality. Public effort must be redirected to expand, support, and strengthen ~~((, and help refashion family))~~ families' and ~~((community associations))~~ communities' efforts to care for children.

The legislature finds that a broad variety of services for children and families has been independently designed over the years and that the coordination and cost-effectiveness of these services will be enhanced through the adoption of ~~((a common))~~ an approach ~~((to their delivery))~~ that allows communities to design and coordinate services to meet their local needs. The legislature further finds that the most successful programs for reaching and working with at-risk families and children treat individuals' problems in the context of the family, offer a broad spectrum of services, are flexible in the use of program resources, and use staff who are trained in crossing traditional program categories in order to broker services necessary to fully meet a family's needs.

The legislature further finds that eligibility criteria, expenditure restrictions, and reporting requirements of state and federal categorical programs often create barriers toward the effective use of resources for addressing the multiple problems of at-risk families and children.

The purposes of this chapter are (1) to modify public policy and programs to empower communities to support and respond to the needs of individual families and children ~~((and))~~; (2) to improve the responsiveness of services for children and families at risk by facilitating greater coordination and flexibility in the use of funds by state and local services agencies; (3) to more effectively utilize state, regional, and local funds currently available for services to children and families by breaking down programmatic and administrative barriers, increasing collaboration among all child-serving systems, reducing duplication of services and coordinating services provided to individual children and their families; (4) to build upon local efforts already in place to accomplish the purposes of sections 106 through 126 of this act; (5) to bring together representatives of a broad range of local agencies, organizations, and individuals to develop an integrated children and family services system at the local level; (6) to provide data on unmet need and emerging issues that may require further state and local action; and (7) to partially decentralize and reconfigure children and family services, which may include those currently administered by the department of social and health services, the department of community, trade, and economic development, the department of health, the employment security department, and the office of the superintendent of public instruction.

Sec. 108. RCW 70.190.010 and 1992 c 198 s 3 are each amended to read as follows:

Unless the context clearly requires otherwise, the definitions in this section apply throughout this chapter.

(1) "Comprehensive plan" or "plan" means a two-year plan that identifies achievable outcomes for children and families, examines available resources and unmet needs ~~((for)), and designs an integrated system of services for children and families, as provided in section 113 of this act, for a city with a population in excess of one hundred fifty thousand, an Indian tribe, a county or a multicounty area~~~~((, barriers that limit the effective use of resources, and a plan to address these issues that is broadly supported))~~.

2. Community Family Councils

NEW SECTION. Sec. 110. ESTABLISHMENT OF COMMUNITY FAMILY COUNCILS.

A community family council shall be established according to the following process:

(1) No later than July 1, 1994, the county legislative authority of each county in the state shall convene a meeting of a diverse group of individuals interested in designing and providing coordinated services to children and their families. At a minimum, representatives of the following groups shall be invited: Parents, youth, people of color, Indian tribes, existing children's commissions, coalitions or task forces, community organizations providing support to families, such as churches and neighborhood associations, community mobilization coalitions or task forces, business, labor, local economic development and job training programs, housing organizations, local law and justice councils, juvenile courts, children and family services providers, regional support networks, county developmental disabilities boards, county drug and alcohol boards, school districts, community action agencies, cities or towns, local offices of state agencies, local health departments and districts, and any other entity that contracts with the state or local government to provide services to children and their families. If a county fails to convene a meeting by July 1, 1994, the family policy council may authorize an alternative local organization to convene the meeting.

(2) At the initial meeting of the consortium, a representative of the family policy council or its participating state agencies shall present an overview of sections 106 through 126 of this act, including its purpose and philosophy, and the role and responsibilities of community family councils. The consortium convened under subsection (1) of this section shall:

(a) Determine the membership of the community family council. A community family council shall consist of not less than nine, nor more than twenty-five members. The chair of the council shall be chosen as provided in subsection (3) of this section. Of the remaining members: One-fourth shall represent citizens, including parents, youth, business, religious institutions, and neighborhood associations; one-fourth shall represent local government; one-fourth shall represent children and family service providers; and one-fourth shall be individuals with demonstrated involvement in children's issues. Membership of the community family council shall be culturally diverse and adequately reflect the racial and cultural composition of the community. Community family council members shall serve a term of three years and until their successors are designated by the council. No member may serve in excess of two consecutive terms. Initial membership terms shall be staggered. Members shall not be compensated for the performance of their duties as members of the council, but may be reimbursed for essential travel and per diem expenses to ensure performance of the council's duties.

(b) Solicit nominations for community family council members from the various groups represented at the meeting. Each group to be represented shall select its own representatives. If, however, a particular group whose representation is required on the community family council cannot agree on a nominee or is not represented at the meeting, the consortium shall select the nominee.

(3) The community family council chosen under subsection (2) of this section shall:

(a) Define the jurisdiction of the community family council to include a county, multicounty area, a city with a population in excess of one hundred fifty thousand, or a tribal government. If a city or tribal government forms its own community family council, its comprehensive plan shall describe how it will be coordinated with the plan of the county in which it is located. Community family councils may break down into smaller geographic areas for development of community specific plans, which shall then be incorporated into the jurisdiction-wide comprehensive plan.

(b) Choose a chair from among the council's membership. The chair shall be a lay person.

(c) Designate a lead agency or entity. The lead agency shall be primarily responsible for coordinating development and implementation of the comprehensive plan, and shall serve as the fiscal agent for receipt and administration of any funds received from the children and family services fund established in section 117 of this act. The lead agency also shall be responsible for initial efforts to resolve disputes within community family councils. If resolution of such a dispute cannot be achieved at the community level, the dispute shall be mediated as provided in section 116 of this act. Funds expended by a lead agency for administration shall not exceed the greater of:

(i) Five percent of funds received from the children and family services fund or of funds allocated to programs for which modifications have been authorized by the legislature under section 120 of this act;

(ii) Up to ten percent of funds received from the children and family services fund or of funds allocated to programs for which modifications have been authorized by the legislature under section 120 of this act, upon a showing by the lead agency that good cause exists to exceed the five percent limitation, and upon approval by the family policy council; or

(iii) The minimum fixed dollar amount for administration established by the family policy council.

(4) The family policy council shall have final approval authority of the designated membership, chair, lead agency, and jurisdiction of each community family council to ensure that the requirements of this section have been met. The family policy council shall act upon a community family council's request for approval within ninety days of receipt of such request. If a community family council is unable to reach consensus on its membership, chair, lead agency, or jurisdiction by January 1, 1995, the family council shall designate such membership, chair, lead agency, or jurisdiction, following consultation with appropriate persons or organizations in the affected county or counties. If the family policy council finds that a particular geographic area is not included in the jurisdiction of any community family council, the family policy council may require one or more of the community family councils in closest proximity to the identified geographic area to extend their jurisdiction to include all or part of such area.

(5) All meetings of the community family council are subject to the open public meetings act under chapter 42.30 RCW.

(6) The first meeting of the community family council shall occur no later than October 1, 1994.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 111. DEVELOPMENT AND IMPLEMENTATION OF COMPREHENSIVE PLANS. (ii) Available services that do not function effectively and why those services do not function effectively;

(iii) Duplication of available services;

(iv) Needed services that are unavailable; and

(v) Facilities in which services for children and families are or could be located, including but not limited to school buildings.

If a jurisdiction served by a community family council has conducted a needs assessment that substantially meets the requirements of this subsection through utilization of recent and relevant data, an additional needs assessment shall not be required;

(e) Prepare the comprehensive plan and such later amendments to the plan as are necessary, as provided in sections 112 and 113 of this act. Prior to finalization of the comprehensive plan, the council shall hold a public hearing to solicit oral and written comments on the draft plan. A summary of the public response regarding the appropriateness and effectiveness of the comprehensive plan shall be submitted to the family policy council with the plan;

(f) Submit the comprehensive plan to the legislative authority of each county, city, town, or tribal government within the council's jurisdiction for review prior to submission to the family policy council. The legislative authority of a county, city, or town with population in excess of five thousand shall hold a public hearing to solicit comments on the plan. NEW SECTION. Sec. 112. ENSURE PUBLIC PARTICIPATION. Each community family council shall establish procedures providing for early and continuous public participation in the development and amendment of comprehensive plans. The procedures shall provide for broad dissemination of proposals, opportunity for written comments, public meetings after effective notice, provision for scheduled open public discussion at each community family council meeting, and consideration of and response to public comments. Community family councils are encouraged to establish task forces, work groups, or other advisory committees to broaden public participation in their efforts.

NEW SECTION. Sec. 113. COMPREHENSIVE PLAN COMPONENTS. (iv) How funding for existing services will be coordinated to create more flexibility; and

(v) How children and families will benefit from the restructuring of children and family services proposed in the plan, with specific attention to the defined outcome standards;

"Sec. 309. RCW 49.12.121 and 1993 c 294 s 9 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department may at any time inquire into wages, hours, and conditions of labor of minors employed in any trade, business, or occupation in the state of Washington and may adopt special rules for the protection of the safety, health, and welfare of minor employees. Minor employees enrolled in an approved vocational education program are permitted to operate equipment necessary for the occupation, trade, or industry as long as the minor has completed training on equipment that is similar to the equipment used in the occupation, trade, or industry. However, the rules may not limit the hours per day or per week, or other specified work period, that may be worked by minors who are emancipated by court order.

(2) The department shall issue work permits to employers for the employment of minors, after being assured the proposed employment of a minor meets the standards for the health, safety, and welfare of minors as set forth in the rules adopted by the department. No minor person shall be employed in any occupation, trade, or industry subject to this 1973 amendatory act, unless a work permit has been properly issued, with the consent of the parent, guardian, or other person having legal custody of the minor and with the approval of the school which such minor may then be attending. However, the consent of a parent, guardian, or other person, or the approval of the school which the minor may then be attending, is unnecessary if the minor is emancipated by court order.

(3) The minimum wage for minors shall be as prescribed in RCW 49.46.020."

POINT OF ORDER

Representative King: I would ask for a ruling on the scope and object of the amendment by Representative Schoesler to Second Substitute House Bill No. 2319.

SPEAKER'S RULING

Representative King, in ruling on your point of order the Speaker finds that Second Substitute House Bill No. 2319 is an act relating to the prevention of youth violence. It includes provisions for the prevention of child abuse and neglect, for community-based violence prevention programs, for school discipline and safety, and for job training programs for at-risk youth.

While the bill is a broad one, encompassing youth violence prevention, it is not so broad as to encompass every topic dealing with minors. Amendment number 1111 offered by Representative Schoesler would add Title 49, labor regulations to the bill. It would amend the child labor laws to allow certain employees to operate some types of equipment while on the job. There appears to be no direct connection to at-risk youth or to the prevention of youth violence. The Speaker therefore finds that the proposed amendment does change the scope and object of the underlying bill and that the point of order is well taken.

With the consent of the House, Representative Schoesler withdrew amendment number 1112 to Second Substitute House Bill No. 2319.

Representative Schoesler moved adoption of the following amendment by Representative Schoesler:

On page 53, after line 20, insert the following:

"Sec 309. RCW 49.12.121 and 1993 c 294 s 9 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) The department may at any time inquire into wages, hours, and conditions of labor of minors employed in any trade, business, or occupation in the state of Washington and may adopt special rules for the protection of the safety, health, and welfare of minor employees. However, the rules may not limit the hours per day or per week, or other specified work period, that may be worked by minors who are emancipated by court order.

(2) The department shall issue work permits to employers for the employment of minors, after being assured the proposed employment of a minor meets the standards for the health, safety, and welfare of minors as set forth in the rules adopted by the department. No minor person shall be employed in any occupation, trade, or industry subject to *this 1973 amendatory act, unless a work permit has been properly issued, with the consent of the parent, guardian, or other person having legal custody of the minor and with the approval of the school which such minor may then be attending. However, the consent of a parent, guardian, or other person, or the approval of the school which the minor may then be attending, is unnecessary if the minor is emancipated by court order.

(3) The department shall, during school weeks, allow an increase in the hours per day or per week, or other specified work period, that may be worked by minors during school weeks in relationship to the reduced number of mandatory school attendance days in a week.

(4) The minimum wage for minors shall be as prescribed in RCW 49.46.020."

POINT OF ORDER

Representative King: I would ask for a ruling on the scope and object of the amendment by Representative Schoesler to Second Substitute House Bill No. 2319.

SPEAKER'S RULING

Representative King, in ruling on your point of order the Speaker finds that Second Substitute House Bill No. 2319 is an act relating to the prevention of youth violence. It includes provisions for the prevention of child abuse and neglect, for community-based violence prevention programs, for school discipline and safety, and for job training programs for at-risk youth.

While the bill is a broad one, encompassing youth violence prevention, it is not so broad as to encompass every topic dealing with minors.

Amendment number 1180 by Representative Schoesler also adds Title 49, labor regulations, to the bill. It would amend the child labor laws to restrict the authority of the Department of Labor and Industries to regulate work hours of minors during certain times of the year. The connection to at-risk youth, and the prevention of youth violence is tangential at best.

The Speaker therefore finds that the proposed amendment does change the scope and object of the underlying bill and that the point of order is well taken.

POINT OF INQUIRY

Representative Padden: Mr. Speaker, on your ruling I just want to make sure. Are you saying that having a job for youth does not have anything to do with youth violence?

Mr. Speaker: Representative Padden, the amendment is not drawn to at-risk youth. It is much broader than that.

Representative Wineberry moved adoption of the following amendment by Representative Wineberry:

On page 63, line 26, after "communities." insert "In awarding the grants, the department shall give priority to programs in community empowerment zones as defined in section 310 of this act."

Representative Wineberry again spoke in favor of the adoption of the amendment. The amendment was not adopted.

Representative Ogden moved adoption of the following amendment by Representative Ogden :

On page 70, after line 22, strike all of section 327 and insert:

"NEW SECTION. Sec. 327. (1) For the period beginning July 1, 1994, the department of community, trade, and economic development may award grants and loans to eligible organizations for the development of facilities that provide housing and related supportive services for homeless, unaccompanied youth. As used in this section, "eligible organizations" means organizations eligible for assistance under chapter 43.185 RCW.

(2) The requirements of RCW 43.185.050, 43.185.070, 43.185.080, 43.185.090, and 43.185.120 shall apply to grants or loans made under this section.

(3) The department of community, trade, and economic development, in cooperation with the department of social and health services and department of health, shall develop a plan to address the housing and supportive service needs of homeless, unaccompanied youth using existing federal, state, and local resources and programs. In developing the housing and supportive services plan required under this subsection, the departments may consult with homeless youth service providers, homeless or at-risk youth, and low-income housing organizations.

(4) This section shall expire July 1, 1995.

Any person violating this section is guilty of a class C felony, punishable under chapter 9A.20 RCW.

Sec. 112. RCW 9.41.090 and 1988 c 36 s 2 are each amended to read as follows:

(1) In addition to the other requirements of this chapter, no ~~((commercial seller shall))~~ dealer may deliver a pistol to the purchaser thereof until:

(a) The purchaser produces a valid concealed pistol license and the ~~((commercial seller))~~ dealer has recorded the purchaser's name, license number, and issuing agency, such record to be made in triplicate and processed as provided in subsection ~~((4))~~ (5) of this section; ~~((or))~~

(b) The ~~((seller))~~ dealer is notified in writing by the chief of police of the municipality or the sheriff of the county that the purchaser ~~((meets the requirements of))~~ is eligible to possess a pistol under RCW 9.41.040 and that the application to purchase is granted. However, if the purchaser is under twenty-one years of age, the dealer shall deliver the pistol to the purchaser unloaded and securely wrapped; or

(c) Five ~~((consecutive))~~ business days ~~((including Saturday, Sunday and holidays)),~~ meaning days on which state offices are open, have elapsed from the time of receipt of the application for the purchase thereof as provided herein by the chief of police or sheriff designated in subsection ~~((4))~~ (5) of this section, and, when delivered, said pistol shall be securely wrapped and shall be unloaded. However, if the purchaser does not have a valid permanent Washington driver's license or state identification card or has not been a resident of the state for the previous consecutive ninety days, the waiting period under this subsection (1)(c) shall be up to sixty days.

(2)(a) Except as provided in (b) of this subsection, in determining whether the purchaser meets the requirements of RCW 9.41.040, the chief of police or sheriff, or the designee of either, shall check with the Washington state patrol electronic data base, the department of social and health services electronic data base, and with other agencies or resources as appropriate, to determine whether the applicant is ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to own, possess, or control a pistol.

(b) Once the system is established, a dealer shall use the national instant criminal background check system, provided for by the Brady Handgun Control Act (H.R. 1025, 103rd Cong., 1st Sess. (1993)), to make criminal background checks of applicants to purchase pistols. However, a chief of police or sheriff, or a designee of either, shall continue to check the department of social and health services' electronic data base and with other agencies or resources as appropriate, to determine whether applicants are ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to own, possess, or control a pistol.

(c) Information obtained under this subsection (2) shall be used exclusively to determine the eligibility of a person to own, possess, or control a pistol, and shall not be made available for public inspection except by the person who is the subject of the information.

(3) In any case under subsection (1)(c) of this section where the applicant has an outstanding warrant for his or her arrest from any court of competent jurisdiction for a felony or misdemeanor, the ((seller)) dealer shall hold the delivery of the pistol until the warrant for arrest is served and satisfied by appropriate court appearance. The local jurisdiction for purposes of the sale shall confirm the existence of outstanding warrants within seventy-two hours after notification of the application to purchase a pistol is received. The local jurisdiction shall also immediately confirm the satisfaction of the warrant on request of the ((seller)) dealer so that the hold may be released if the warrant was for ((a crime other than a crime of violence)) an offense other than an offense making a person ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to possess a pistol.

((3)) (4) In any case where the chief or sheriff of the local jurisdiction has reasonable grounds based on the following circumstances: (a) Open criminal charges, (b) pending criminal proceedings, (c) pending commitment proceedings, (d) an outstanding warrant for ((a crime of violence, or (e) an arrest for a crime of violence)) an offense making a person ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to possess a pistol, or (e) an arrest for an offense making a person ineligible under RCW 9.41.040 to possess a pistol, if the records of disposition have not yet been reported or entered sufficiently to determine eligibility to purchase a pistol, the local jurisdiction may hold the sale and delivery of the pistol beyond five days up to thirty days in order to confirm existing records in this state or elsewhere. After thirty days, the hold will be lifted unless an extension of the thirty days is approved by a local district court or municipal court for good cause shown. An applicant shall be notified of each hold placed on the sale by local law enforcement and of any application to the court for additional hold period to confirm records or confirm the identity of the applicant.

((4)) (5) At the time of applying for the purchase of a pistol, the purchaser shall sign in triplicate and deliver to the ((seller)) dealer an application containing his or her full name, address, place of birth, and the date and hour of the application; the applicant's driver's license number or state identification card number; and a description of the weapon including, the make, model, caliber and manufacturer's number; and a statement that the purchaser is eligible to own a pistol under RCW 9.41.040.

The application shall contain a warning substantially as follows:

CAUTION: Although state and local laws do not differ, federal law and state law on the possession of firearms differ. If you are prohibited by federal law from possessing a firearm, you may be prosecuted in federal court. State permission to purchase a firearm is not a defense to a federal prosecution.

The purchaser shall be given a copy of the department of fish and wildlife pamphlet on the legal limits of the use of firearms, firearms safety, and the fact that local laws and ordinances on firearms are preempted by state law and must be consistent with state law.

The ~~((seller))~~ dealer shall, by the end of the business day, sign and attach his or her address and deliver the original of the application and such other documentation as required under subsection (1) of this section to the chief of police of the municipality or the sheriff of the county of which the ~~((seller))~~ dealer is a resident. The ~~((seller))~~ dealer shall deliver the pistol to the purchaser following the period of time specified in this section unless the ~~((seller))~~ dealer is notified in writing by the chief of police of the municipality or the sheriff of the county, whichever is applicable, denying the purchaser's application to purchase and the grounds thereof. The application shall not be denied unless the purchaser fails to meet the requirements specified in RCW 9.41.040. ~~((The chief of police of the municipality or the county sheriff shall maintain a file containing the original of the application to purchase a pistol.))~~

The chief of police of the municipality or the sheriff of the county shall retain or destroy applications to purchase a pistol in accordance with the requirements of 18 U.S.C. Sec. 922.
