ATTEST:

Melani Hay, Clerk of the Council

The Speaker called upon Representatives Jacobsen and Zahn to escort retired Justice Mary Yu of the Supreme Court of the State of Washington to the rostrum.

OATH OF OFFICE

Justice Mary Yu administered the Oath of Office to the newly elected Members of the House of Representatives.

Speaker Jenkins thanked Justice Yu for her many years of service to the state of Washington.

OPENING REMARKS

Speaker Jenkins: "Thank you, Chairman Peters, for welcoming us all to the ancestral homeland of the Squaxin Island Tribe. It is an honor to have you here, and to continue our work advancing our government-to-government relationship with Washington's sovereign tribes. Thank you, Pastor Thomas, for opening our session with a moment of reflection and inspiration to guide our work. And thank you, Elizabeth, for the gift of song today in our national anthem.

I would like to welcome our newest member, Representative Zach Hall. Zach's commitment to the work of this institution goes back to his time here previously as a legislative assistant for the same district he now represents. I know he will continue to serve the people of the 5th legislative district with dedication and compassion in this new role.

Before I begin my remarks, I want to take a moment to remember the late Sen. Bill Ramos, who also represented the 5th legislative district, as well as our late Speaker Emeritus Frank Chopp. Their sudden and unexpected passings last year impacted us all deeply, but their work as members of this legislature leaves a profound impact.

I would also like to acknowledge the recent tragic death of Trooper Tara-Marysa Guting, who was killed last month responding to a traffic collision in my district. Please join me in a moment of silence for these three individuals who left us much too soon.

Thank you.

Members of the House and Washingtonians from every region of the state – We begin the 2026 legislative session with much of our good work from previous sessions now threatened by the actions of a federal administration with far different policy goals than the majority of Washingtonians. I wish it were not so.

In all our recent forecasts from the Economic Revenue Forecast Council, we have seen a recurring theme:

President Trump's tariffs are causing higher inflation, more economic uncertainty, and greater price increases to Washington's families. This is impacting affordability, and people are feeling it in every corner of the state. From declining state revenues for programs and services that help Washington families, to rising costs for food, transportation, construction and more.

It's been six months since President Trump signed HR 1 into law. The impact of this legislation on Washington is ugly. Nearly 300,000 Washington residents are seeing an immediate spike in their health insurance premiums – including many self-employed Washingtonians and those whose jobs don't provide health insurance. Around 180,000 Washingtonians – families with children, people with disabilities, elderly people in long-term care – will lose their Medicaid coverage in a few short months.

And let me be very clear: these folks are losing their Medicaid directly as a result of actions in the other Washington. While we had to make some difficult decisions ourselves last year to balance our state budget, not a single person lost Medicaid coverage as a result. By contrast this legislature, under Democratic leadership, has worked to make health care more accessible and affordable for more people. We said yes to Medicaid expansion so more Washingtonians could be insured. We worked to strengthen the individual market to provide more choices for people. Together, we brought our statewide uninsured rate from a high of 14 percent in 2013 to below five percent – a number which is now certain to rise again because of the Trump Administration's actions. We've now been irresponsibly and inconceivably handed an incredibly expensive problem that will have dire ramifications for the people of this state.

But it's not just about health care. Food assistance for 900,000 Washingtonians is threatened. Counties with the highest number of people at risk of losing this critical lifeline include our most populous counties like mine, Pierce, but also Yakima and Benton and Cowlitz and Spokane Counties.

Our climate progress is threatened. The legislature passed the landmark Climate Commitment Act in 2021, and voters approved it in 2024. Now the Trump Administration's actions threaten credits that Washington households use to purchase heat pumps and electric vehicles. Revoking these credits and denying funds for clean energy projects that support a sustainable, healthy future for our state is totally contrary to our values as Washingtonians.

Speaking of our values, we have long been a state that welcomes immigrants and refugees, and celebrates the rich diversity of our communities. From passing the Keep Washington Working Act, to increasing oversight of private detention facilities, to strengthening hate crime laws, we stand up for our neighbors and stand firm against actions that violate people's civil rights or seek to deny somebody's humanity. The actions of the federal government have statewide impacts that require every one of us to work together on solutions that align with Washington's values.

This session will be incredibly challenging. As federal funding is cut off for health care, for food, for clean energy credits, as the state has to shoulder hundreds of millions of dollars to comply with red tape the Trump administration is now mandating for wasteful changes to Medicaid and food assistance, as the uncertainty around tariffs hits our trade-dependent economy especially hard, as we recover from the unprecedented, catastrophic flooding in parts of our state last month, our ability to protect those values is hampered by an outdated tax structure that's bad for working families and businesses. I don't tend to live in the problems, but the problems are so big right now that we have to be realistic about the impacts on our work here. That's why we must be crystal clear about the challenges we are facing.

Still, we need to be focused on the job the people sent us here to do, which is to protect the good things we have accomplished together, to continue to make progress where we can, and reject bad things whether they come from this Washington or the other Washington. We will spend every minute over the next 60 days doing these things, and these things only. We need to protect the hard work we've been doing to improve relationships between law enforcement and communities. When trust erodes, that work is threatened. In the last few sessions, we've made significant investments in public safety, resulting in 21 classes and nearly 600 new law enforcement officers graduating from our regional training academies since May of 2023. We got good news recently that both violent and property crimes in our state are down, as they are nationally.

But last week, a mother in Minneapolis, Renee Nicole Good, was shot by a masked ICE agent. And last summer, former Minnesota House Speaker Melissa Hortman and her husband were assassinated at their home by someone impersonating law enforcement. We must be able to see and believe the law enforcement officers who approach us, because there's too much at risk if we can't. Masks are being used to obscure identities, to escalate tensions, to stoke fears, to deny public transparency, and to shield government from accountability. That can't happen here.

That's why tomorrow the House will be hearing a bill that will prohibit law enforcement officers — including federal immigration agents operating in Washington — from wearing face-concealing masks while interacting with the public. Protecting Washingtonians also means ensuring robust regulations around people's data, including how it is collected and who has access to it. As we continue to make sure law enforcement has the tools they need to do their jobs, we need to ensure these tools do not create mistrust or cause harm to the communities they serve.

Surveillance tools like FLOCK cameras, which are already in use by some cities and counties in our state, should be regulated so that people can be confident the data is not shared with federal agencies that want to use it to target and harass communities. Legislation has been introduced to do just that and we should act on it, because protecting Washingtonians means standing up to Federal overreach.

We saw that when the Trump Administration told our Secretary of State to hand over private voter data. Secretary Hobbs stood up for every voter and said, "You can have the public data, but you will not get Washingtonians' private voter data." Thank you Secretary Hobbs. And thank you to Governor Furgeson and Attorney General Brown for always standing up for Washingtonians against this Federal overreach.

Finally, in terms of protecting our people, that means protecting the very basics. Last session, we passed a two-year budget that prioritized food, health and shelter — the things we need to survive. We weren't able to progress as much as we wanted, but we tried hard to avoid cuts that would have taken us backward as a state. I expect our approach to be very similar with this year's supplemental budget. Each of us has a wish list of things we would like to be able to do, but the headwinds I mentioned earlier are strong and they mean that tough choices will need to be made. The impacts of HR 1 have consequences for our state budget. We will be required to spend more of our state dollars to receive less federal dollars, as outrageous as that sounds.

Protecting food, health and shelter will continue to be a priority for us, whether it's helping with Affordable Care Act subsidies so we minimize Washingtonians increased costs for health care coverage, maintaining food assistance to those who will otherwise go hungry, or protecting access to reproductive health care even as the federal government slashes funding for it. So yes, we're going to work hard to protect these and other things. And where we can, we will not only protect — we will make progress. We will be persistent in forging solutions. Washingtonians always are, even in the toughest of times.

We can't do anything about the Trump Administration's tariffs, which are impacting affordability. As state lawmakers, that's out of our hands. But we can come together and find ways to hold down costs for Washingtonians for things that are within our purview. We can protect access to preventive health care for services without out-of-pocket expenses for patients, regardless of what actions the federal government may take. We can take steps to reduce the costs associated with housing, increasing the supply of affordable housing in Washington. We can make sure energy costs that data centers drive are not paid by Washington households. These are just some of the examples of things we can do.

One of the biggest ways we could impact affordability is ensuring our tax code works better and is more fair. Our current system rests most heavily on those Washingtonians with the least ability to afford it.

It's time for us to rebalance our tax code so it meets the needs of all the people of our state, including working people and businesses.

We are in the thick of some very tough times, but it's important to remember that nothing in politics is permanent. Nothing good. Nothing bad. Our job has always been to end the bad things as fast as possible and to build on the good things. That job feels more urgent today than it has in many of our lifetimes. And sometimes, it feels impossible. It is not.

I — We — must never give up on this Washington, on this legislature, on our people. Our job this session is to spend every drop of energy we have, plus some, stopping the bad and building the good.

Let's start now."

POINT OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Representative Stokesbary: "Thank you, Madam Speaker, and a happy first day of session to you and to all my colleagues, all our colleagues. It's an honor to stand here today. It is an honor to represent my district, my caucus, and the great state of Washington. And by the way, thank you Justice Yu for your lifetime of service from one Notre Dame law alumnus to another, thank you.

I love this state. I was born here. I was raised here. I spent my entire life trying to make it better. That's why I stand here before you today, Madam Speaker, with hope. Hope for a productive session. Hope that we can find common ground. Hope we can fix this Washington to make it safer and more affordable.

Make no mistake Madam Speaker, this session will be an inflection point for the great state of Washington. When I stood here a year ago, on the first day of the 2025 session, when Joe Biden was still president, I pointed out that essentials like food, fuel, housing, childcare were among the most, Washington was among the most expensive states in the country for those items.

In the last year, we've moved up to second place for the highest gas prices in the country. We still have the fourth highest grocery prices and the seventh most expensive childcare. We've moved down one spot in housing, we're now the fourth most expensive state for housing. We have the third highest cost of living overall.

Madam Speaker, as a free market conservative, I hate tariffs more than anybody. But tariffs don't explain why life in this Washington is more expensive than it is in nearly any other state in the country. Especially with respect to services like childcare, which tariffs, don't affect at all. Nor can the President or tariffs be to blame for problems in this Washington that were evident before this administration took office.

If we want to know why life in this Washington is more expensive than it is in nearly every other state, we need to only look in the mirror. Despite the already high cost of groceries, last session this body enacted costly new food packaging requirements that will only make groceries more expensive. Despite already rising health care costs, this body enacted taxes and other policy changes that will cost hospitals and healthcare providers hundreds of millions of dollars a year which will only push healthcare costs higher for regular Washingtonians.

So that's why I said a minute ago we're at an inflection point. Despite raising taxes by $10 billion last session, we are opening this session with another multi-billion dollar budget deficit. As I've criss-crossed the state with you and other caucus leaders this last month and as you yourself alluded to a moment ago Madam Speaker, it's clear that one of the ideas this body may consider this session is a state income tax. Unfortunately, we've already forfeited the public trust that an income tax would only ever apply to high earners. The capital gains tax passed in 2021 already has a new surcharge. Our state tax has been raised several times and we now have the highest death tax in the country. Document recording fees were introduced at $5 per document and now they're over $300. One year after swapping local levy authority for state tax authority, which represented a modest tax cut for many, this body reverted local levies back to their old limits, which represent a tax increase for everyone.

So if history is prologue, an income tax on millionaires today will be an income tax on people like you and me tomorrow. But regardless of who pays an income tax, the economic data makes it clear that an income tax represents the wrong direction for Washington State. States without an income tax consistently outperform those that do have one. More population growth, stronger economic growth, faster job growth, and greater personal income growth. But the biggest risk is not in amorphous data points. It's that we wreck our progress on so many other issues. We're not Mississippi, Madam Speaker, we're Washington. We have among the highest teacher salaries in the country, the most generous college financial aid package of any state in the country, our Medicaid system covers more people for more maladies than nearly any other state does.

We can afford those things because companies like Boeing and Microsoft and Amazon and Starbucks and Costco and Expedia and Zillow and so many more call Washington home. But if we disrupt our state's economy by upending our tax code, it won't just impact those big businesses and wealthy families. It will threaten the legislature's ability to fund our state's robust social safety net.

We're already seeing dangerous warning signs. Small businesses are closing, leaving, refusing to expand. Washington now has the highest small business failure rate in the country. Major employers are hiring out of state, not in state. We now lose 48 taxpayers every day, while states like Florida and Texas gain 500. Our state's chief economist is now projecting zero job growth in all of 2026.

So that's why I keep saying our state is at an inflection point. If capital leaves our state, our tax base will shrink, deficits will grow, and the cycle will repeat until Washington's economy and our social services fall irretrievably behind.

So instead, let's focus on making Washington more affordable for those struggling the most, the 35% of Washington households living paycheck to paycheck. The Governor has asked this legislature to listen to all ideas, no matter where they come from. So here's a few I think we should consider. We should lower the cost of groceries and takeout. Groceries are already costing more here, but now our state has the highest chain restaurant prices in the nation.

The gentlelady from the 14th district has a bill to eliminate the sales tax on prepared food at grocery stores and restaurants just like we already exempt groceries themselves from sales tax. We need to build more housing, that's how we can lower the price of it, and we need to do so quickly. Permit delays and an average of six and a half months to home construction and increase prices by over $30,000 per single family residence.

The gentle lady from the 8th District has a bill to allow qualified architects and engineers to approve permits, so homes are built faster and cheaper. And we need to reduce property crime, which will actually decrease prices. Washington ranks in the top five for property crime, retail theft and motor vehicle theft, which means higher prices for goods, groceries and insurance for everyone.

The gentleman from the 35th district has bills to increase penalties for retail theft and copper theft. So that everyday Washingtonians don't pay more while criminals get a free pass.

That's why Madam Speaker we're at a crossroads. Will we choose prosperity and progress, or will we begin a cycle of poverty? Our former commerce director said a few months ago that if you want to tax the rich, you have to have rich people left to taxes. If you want to protect workers, they have to have jobs to work in. House Republicans are offering serious, balanced solutions that serve the people of Washington state. Solutions focus on lowering costs, creating jobs, reducing crime and building homes.

Let's spend the next 60 days doing exactly that."

(Article II, section 36)

Any returning member or member-elect may prefile a bill with the chief clerk commencing the first Monday in December preceding any regular session or twenty (20) days before any special session. Prefiled bills shall be introduced on the first legislative day.

Bills on the second reading suspension calendar shall not be subject to amendment or substitution except as recommended in the committee report. When a bill is before the house on the suspension calendar, the question shall be to adopt the committee recommendations and advance the bill to third reading. If the question fails to receive a two-thirds vote of the members present, the bill shall be referred to the rules committee for second reading.

(F) HOUSE RESOLUTIONS. House resolutions shall be filed with the chief clerk who shall transmit them to the rules committee. This objection may be raised at any time an amendment is under consideration. The speaker may allow the person raising the objection and the mover of the amendment to provide brief arguments as to the merits of the objection. (Article II, section 38)

(F) NO AMENDMENT BY REFERENCE. No act shall ever be revised or amended without being set forth at full length. (Article II, section 37)

A motion for suspension of the rules shall not be debatable except that the mover of the motion may briefly explain the purpose of the motion and one member may briefly state the opposition to the motion.

(E) MOTION TO ADJOURN. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, except when the house is voting or is working under the call of the house; but this rule shall not authorize any member to move for adjournment when another member has the floor.

Remote Participation and Voting Permitted Upon Authorization

Rule 17. The majority leader and minority leader or their designees may authorize members of their respective caucuses to participate remotely in official house proceedings, including committee meetings and floor sessions, upon the request of a member who is experiencing a medical condition or illness that prevents in-person participation. Once authorized, any member participating remotely shall be considered present for purposes of a quorum and voting. Members participating remotely shall use the computer and virtual background provided by the house during all committee meetings and floor proceedings. The majority leader and minority leader or their designees shall determine when the member's authorization to participate remotely ends.

Members' Right to Debate

Rule 18. The methods by which a member may exercise their right to debate are as follows:

(A) RECOGNITION OF MEMBER. When any member desires to speak in debate or deliver any matter to the house, the member shall rise and respectfully address the speaker and pause until recognized. (B) ORDER OF SPEAKING. When two or more members arise at once, the speaker shall name the one who is to speak.

(C) LIMITATION OF DEBATE. No member shall speak longer than ten (10) minutes without consent of the house: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, section 12 of the state Constitution or concurrent resolution, or on and after the fifth day prior to the day any bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, no member shall speak more than three (3) minutes without the consent of the house. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the house: PROVIDED, That one proponent and one opponent of the question may close debate if it is consistent with Rule 20 (Previous Question).

Rules of Debate

Rule 19. The rules for debate in the house are as follows:

(A) QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE. Any member may rise to a question of privilege and explain a personal matter, by leave of the speaker, but the member shall not discuss any pending question in such explanations.

(B) WITHDRAWAL OF MOTION, BILL, ETC. After a motion is stated by the speaker or a bill, memorial, resolution, petition, or remonstrance is read by the clerk, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the house, but may be withdrawn by consent of the house at any time before decision or amendment.

(C) READING OF A PAPER. When the reading of any paper is called for and is objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the house.

(D) DISTRIBUTION OF MATERIALS. Any materials of any nature distributed to the members' desks on the floor shall be subject to approval by the speaker and shall bear the name of at least one member granted permission for the distribution. Any member participating remotely as provided in Rule 17 who wishes to distribute materials subject to the speaker's approval may do so electronically. All materials approved for distribution shall be provided electronically to members participating remotely to the extent practicable. This shall not apply to materials normally distributed by the chief clerk.

(E) ORDER OF QUESTIONS. All questions, whether in committee or in the house, shall be propounded in the order in which they are named except that in filling blanks, the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

(F) DIVISION OF POINTS OF DEBATE. Any member may call for a division of a question which shall be divided if it embraces subjects so distinct that one being taken away a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the house; but a motion to strike out and to insert shall not be divided. The rejection of a motion to strike out and to insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and to insert a different proposition.

(G) DECORUM OF MEMBERS. While the speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk across or out of the house; nor when a member is speaking shall any member entertain private discourse or pass between the speaking member and the rostrum.

(H) REMARKS CONFINED. A member shall confine all remarks to the question under debate and avoid personalities. No member shall impugn the motive of any member's vote or argument.

(I) EXCEPTION TO WORDS SPOKEN IN DEBATE. If any member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling the member to order shall repeat the words excepted to and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's table. No member shall be held in answer or be subject to the censure of the house for words spoken in debate if any other member has spoken before exception to them shall have been taken.

(J) TRANSGRESSION OF RULES - APPEAL. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgresses the rules of the house the speaker shall, or any member may, call the member to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down unless permitted to explain; and the house shall, if appealed to, decide the case without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the chair shall prevail.

If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, the member shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, and the case shall require it, the member shall be liable to the censure of the house.

Ending of Debate - Previous Question

Rule 20. The previous question shall not be put unless demanded by one-sixth (1/6) of the members present.

The previous question may be ordered by a majority vote of the members present on all recognized motions or amendments which are debatable.

The previous question is not debatable and cannot be amended.

The previous question shall be put in this form: "As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say 'Aye'; as many as are opposed will say 'No'."

The results of the motion are as follows: If determined in the negative, the consideration goes on as if the motion had never been made; if decided in the affirmative it shall have the effect of cutting off all debate and bringing the house to a direct vote upon the motion or amendment on which it has been ordered: PROVIDED HOWEVER, That when a bill is on final passage or when the motion to postpone indefinitely is pending, one proponent and one opponent may have the privilege of closing debate for up to three minutes after the previous question has been ordered.

If an adjournment is had after the previous question is ordered, the motion or proposition on which the previous question was ordered shall be put to the house immediately following the approval of the journal on the next working day, thus making the main question privileged over all other business, whether new or unfinished.

Voting

Rule 21. (A) PUTTING OF QUESTION. The speaker shall put the question in the following form: "The question before the house is (state the question). As many as are in favor say 'Aye'; and after the affirmative vote is expressed, "as many as are opposed say 'No'."

(B) ALL MEMBERS TO VOTE. Except as provided in subsection (G), every member who was in the house or participating remotely in house proceedings as provided in Rule 17 when the question was put shall vote unless, for special reasons, excused by the house.

All motions to excuse a member shall be made before the house divides or before the call for yeas and nays is commenced; and any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief and verbal statement of the reasons for making such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

(C) COUNT OF THE HOUSE. Upon a division and count of the house on the question, only members at their desks within the bar of the house or participating remotely in house proceedings as provided in Rule 17 shall be counted.

(D) CHANGE OF VOTE. When the electric roll call machine is used, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the speaker has locked the roll call machine. When an oral roll call is taken, no member shall be allowed to vote or change a vote after the result has been announced.

(E) PRIVATE INTEREST. No member shall vote on any question which affects that member privately and particularly. A member who has a private interest in any bill or measure proposed or pending before the legislature shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon. (Article II, section 30)

A member who is excused for one or more days of recorded votes may submit a written statement for the journal explaining the reason for their absence. The statement may not exceed 50 words and must be submitted to the chief clerk on the same day the member returns. A member participating remotely in house proceedings as provided in Rule 17 who was unable to vote using the remote voting function, orally, or by telephone may submit a statement for the journal within 48 hours indicating their intent to vote yea or nay.

Rule 22. Notice of a motion for reconsideration on the final passage of bills shall be made on the day the vote to be reconsidered was taken and before the house has voted to transmit the bill to the senate.

Reconsideration of the votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the next working day after such vote was taken: PROVIDED, That on and after the fifth day prior to the day of adjournment sine die of any session, as determined pursuant to Article II, section 12 of the state Constitution, or concurrent resolution, or on and after the third day prior to the day a bill must be reported from the house as established by concurrent resolution, then reconsideration of votes on the final passage of bills must be taken on the same day as the original vote was taken: AND PROVIDED FURTHER, That any member participating remotely in house proceedings as provided in Rule 17 who was unable to vote using the remote voting function, orally, or by telephone may require reconsideration of the vote on the final passage of bills the same day the vote is taken.

A motion to reconsider an amendment may be made at any time the bill remains on second reading.

Any member who voted on the prevailing side may move for reconsideration or give notice thereof.

A motion to reconsider can be decided only once when decided in the negative.

When a motion to reconsider has been carried, its effect shall be to place the original question before the house in the exact position it occupied before it was voted upon.

Call of the House

Rule 23. One-sixth (1/6) of the members present may demand a call of the house at any time before the house has divided or the voting has commenced by yeas and nays.

(B) SERGEANT AT ARMS TO BRING IN THE ABSENTEES. The clerk shall immediately call a roll of the members and note the absentees, whose names shall be read and entered upon the journal in such manner as to show who are excused and who are absent without leave. A member authorized to participate remotely in house proceedings as provided in Rule 17 who is visible at the time of the roll call through the remote floor activity system shall not be considered absent or absent without leave.

The clerk shall furnish the sergeant at arms with a list of those who are absent without leave, and the sergeant at arms shall proceed to bring in such absentees; but arrests of members for absence shall not be made unless ordered by a majority of the members present.

(C) HOUSE UNDER CALL. While the house is under a call, no business shall be transacted except to receive and act on the report of the sergeant at arms; and no other motion shall be in order except a motion to proceed with business under the call of the house, a motion to excuse absentees, or a motion to dispense with the call of the house. Any member convicted of a felony and sentenced therefor under any federal law or the law of any other state shall, as of the time of sentencing, be similarly denied such salary, per diem, expenses, facilities, and assistance if either (a) such crime would also constitute a crime punishable under the laws of Washington by death or by imprisonment in a state penal institution, or (b) the conduct resulting in the conviction and sentencing would also constitute a crime punishable under the laws of Washington by death or by imprisonment in a state penal institution.

(2) At any time, the house may vote by a constitutional majority to restore the salary, per diem, expenses, facilities, and assistance denied a member under subsection (1). If the conviction of a member is reversed, then the salary, per diem, and expense amounts denied the member since sentencing shall be forthwith paid, and the member shall thereafter have the rights and privileges of other members.

Emergency Resolution Authorized

Rule 36. If the executive rules committee determines through a majority vote that physically convening all members and staff in a single location presents a danger to the health or safety of members, staff, and the public or is impractical because of an emergency, disaster, or catastrophic incident under RCW 42.14.010, the house shall adopt a resolution establishing the rules and procedures governing any special or regular legislative session. For purposes of adopting the house resolution required by this rule, some or all members may vote using the remote voting function or other process established by the chief clerk. Members are considered in attendance within the bar of the house when using the remote floor activity system or following the established process, including for purposes of establishing quorum. To the extent practicable, a member participating remotely or otherwise under this rule has the same privileges, rights, and responsibilities under the house rules as if the member were physically present.
