

The Senate has 49 members and there are 98 representatives in the House. Representatives are elected to a two-year term and all stand for re-election at the general election held in even-numbered years. Senators are elected for four-year staggered terms with about one half of the membership being up for reelection at general election in even-numbered years. As provided by the State Constitution, each chamber is the judge of the election and qualifications of its own members.
